Sammy Helmers Begins Work as Ag Agent

Sammy Helmers has begun his work as Collingsworth's new county agricultural agent, and already he has a program of work under way for 4-H Clubs and preliminary plans made for adult meetings.

Helmers comes here from Ballinger, where he was assistant county agent of Runnels County three years.

In that capacity he was in charge of 4-H Club work and developed an outstanding program with major emphasis on livestock projects.

"I'll push 4-H Club work pretty hard here, too," he declared. "It will be the number one project to get back on its feet."

Helmers already has re-organized the 4-H Riding Club and is beginning a series of meetings to reorganize the clubs. One at each of the county's four centers, Wellington, Norwood, Quail and Dodson are on his agenda.

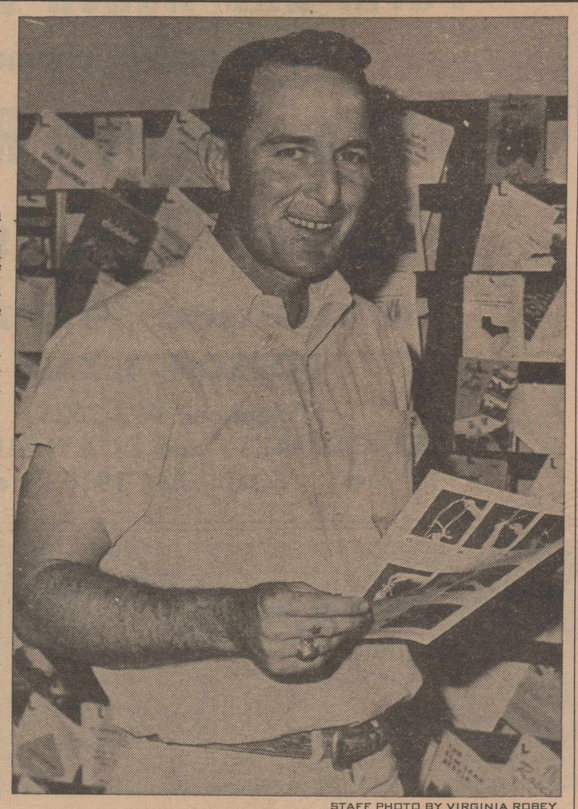

"And as we see the need for more 4-H Clubs, we'll organize more, but we'll start with these four," he commented.

There will be a strong adult program, too, but because part of this is handled through the county program building committee, his announcement concerning adult work will come a little later.

Reared on a ranch at Girvin, Helmers graduated from McCamey high school and received a degree from Texas A&M.

Members of Helmers nine 4-H Clubs in Runnels County have exhibited livestock at Texas' major shows, including the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, Ab-

Twister Dips West, North of Town Tuesday

A small twister dipped down at several points along a line extending from the Buck Creek community to Lillie Tuesday, May 25, during a thunderstorm thtat hit about 5:30 p.m. There were no injuries.

Heaviest amount of damage was reported at the Walter Needham farm at Lillie, where a double car shed and small house over a storm cellar were blown away. The end of a barn was blown out, electric wires were blown down, trees broken, and other damage was done. A lister bottom, with wings and points, was blown through a shed, Lonnie Neeley reported.

This was a twisting wind, Neeley said, but no funnel was seen as it came in behind blowing sand.

At the J. L. Souder farm about six miles west of Wellington, the roof was blown off a shed.

An antenna was blown down at the Bob Barton farm and Zook Thomas said three trailers were overturned at his place.

Wellington received .30 inch of rain at that time.

Jack Kopp of the Rolling Plains Citizens Band Radio Club received a report from Elvis Pitts of Buck Creek, 8 miles west of town, that he received 1.70 inches of rain. This is the heaviest amount reported.

From that area northeastward to Lutie, from one inch to 1.20 inches was reported.

N. E. Childers of Marella told Kopp he got only .30. Thomas told The Leader one inch fell at his farm and Shelton Nunnelley of Cross Roads also reported an inch.

A good rain was reported at Dozier, and Mrs. Bill Hill, 9 miles east of Lutie, said one-half inch fell there.

The rain played out east of Wellington and Dodson had no rain at all.

Crowder Attends Farm Hearings in Washington

Ed Crowder of Dodson is in Washington this week representing the Collingsworth County Farmers Union at hearings before the House Agriculture Committee.

Crowder joined Jay Namen, Texas Farmers Union president, and delegates from other state units in Dallas for the flight to the nation's capital.

The group was due to confer Tuesday with delegates from other parts of the nation in the National Farmers Union Washington headquarters, and Wednesday was scheduled to be spent at the hearings, according to Barney Glenn, president of the Collingsworth County Farmers Union.

West to Amarillo

County Goes Into 81st Legislative District

Passage of House Bill 195, which redistricts the Texas legislature takes Collingsworth County out of its traditional Eastern Panhandle agricultural 87th district and joins it to a long narrow district which has its west end Randall County which contains the south part of the city of Amarillo.

This bill was passed Friday, May 21 by the House of Representatives.

This places Collingsworth in the new 81st Legislative District, along with Donley, Armstrong, Carson and Randall Counties. The north part of Randall is considered a metropolitan area.

Grainger McIlhany, who has represented Collingsworth County nine terms, offered a floor amendment to the bill to transfer Collingsworth County back to the new 84th, but it was defeated. Counties in the 84th will be Gray, Hemphill, Lipsomb, Ochiltree, Roberts and Wheeler.

In a letter to Deskins Wells, publisher of The Wellington Leader, McIlhany said:

"Today, I voted against the passage of House Bill 195 which re-districts the Texas Legislature, because I believe that Collingsworth County should have remained with other eastern Panhandle agricultural counties rather than being put in a new district which from a population basis would be dominated by Randall County.

"I have been meeting repeatedly with the re-districting committee, and all plans that they discussed called for Collingsworth County to remain with the other counties of the present 87th District. The final version of House Bill 195 represented a secret last-minute change which set up the new 81st District, which is made up of Armstrong, Carson, Collingsworth, Donley, and Randall Counties. I offered a floor amendment to the bill to transfer Collingsworth County back to the new 84th District, but it was defeated as were all other amendments opposed by the House Administration

"I deeply regret that Collingsworth and Wheeler Counties will not remain in the same legislative district after the completion of this term. It has been a great honor for me to have represented Collingsworth for the past nine terms, and I deeply appreciate the fine cooperation and support always given me.

"I also wish to thank you personally and the staff members of The Wellington Leader for the many courtesies extended me all during this time.

"I am enclosing a copy of House Bill 195.

"Kindest personal regards.

"Sincerely yours,

"Grainger McIlhany."

Value of Individual Cited for Graduates

Samnorwood seniors, graduating Friday night, May 21, were counseled to consider their worth as individuals, for it is what they do as individuals that is important.

The commencement speaker was the Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor of First Methodist Church, Pampa, widely known in West Texas for his counseling of youth. It was after attending one of his counseling sessions that the seniors chose him as their speaker.

Awards were presented high school students for outstanding achievement and diplomas to the 13 graduates.

"We join organizations, hoping that through organizations we can be something," the Rev. Mr. Vanderpool said. "We have great faith in organizations but not in ourselves.

"I am convinced our greatest threat is the belief that what we are and do doesn't matter."

He told the seniors they had a contribution to make because each of them is different from everyone else. "You are an individual, you are unique. God wanted you and made you a little bit different to everyone else."

In closing, he cited two reasons for their being important: "Because of the influence you have on others," and "because you are children of the living God."

Nancy Hill gave the salutatory and Sue Dwight the valedictory.

Loyd Stephens, high school principal, presented the awards.

The Danforth leadership awards went to Sue Dwight and Lloyd Stice.

Outstanding actors recognized were Don Bodine, Ken Baxter and Sue Dwight.

Ken returned to the stage immediately to receive the school's citizenship award.

Nancy Hill received the music award, presented by the Wellington Federated Music Club.

Outstanding athletes chosen were Suzy Bentley and David Kindrick.

The valedictorian and salutatorian awards went to Sue Dwight and Nancy Hill.

Certificates for having no grade during the year lower than a B went also to this group: Billy Wischkaemper, Jo Nell Breeding, Kay Purkey, Johnny Goss, Sue North, Marilyn Colson, Ken Baxter, Jay Wischkaemper, Judy Martindale, Joe Lackey, Sherry Kindrick, Charlotte Conner, Brenda Coleman, Suzy Bentley, Leatrice Adams, Nelson Dwyer and Janice Colson.

The final presentation was the American Legion's annual Citizenship Award, which Wood Coleman presented to Sue Dwight.

Musical numbers on the program were sung by the girls chorus, directed by Mrs. Don Van Pelt, who also played the processional.

Jim Ray gave the invocation and the Rev. Verrell Leeper the benediction. Robert Dwight, superintendent of schools, introduced the speaker.

Measures for Boll Weevil Control Listed

The following practices are recommended for Rolling Plains counties where the boll weevil is an established pest. By following an integrated program of cultural and chemical control, the producer will realize more effective and economical boll weevil control.

These practices should be carried out on a community or county-wide basis for best results.

A delayed, uniform cotton planting period will aid in boll weevil control by reducing the size of the weevil population.

The normal planting season in many Rolling Plains counties often extends from mid-April to early June. This extended planting season is in part responsible for the development of heavy weevil infestations.

Early plantings attract early emerging weevils by providing food and egg laying sites, while late plantings offer adequate food near the end of the season.

If farmers in weevil infested areas would establish a delayed uniform planting date, many early emerging weevils would die from lack of food.

A planting season of May 20 to 30 has been set for the High Plains boll weevil control zone. Depending on local conditions, a later date may be desirable for some Rolling Plains counties.

Soil Stewardship Week

Is a reminder of our obligation to the land we use and enjoy.

Unless we accept the challenge as stewards of the soil, erosion's greedy hand will reach out and steal the fertility of our land, taking with it the livelihood we enjoy and the future of our children.

This bank urges you to accept this challenge of growth by practicing stewardship of the soil. Put to work the knowledge we have of conservation. In doing this, we assure the future productivity of our land, which is basic to our own prosperity and the prosperity of this community.

As the Farmer's Bank, we are ready to help you work out a program of conservation for your farm or ranch . . . to help you become a better steward of the soil.

Get the facts.
Call Lone Star Gas for a free estimate!

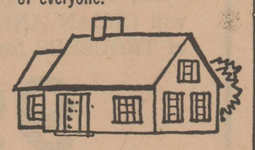

Don't be fooled by "horseback estimates" on costs! Get a bona fide air conditioning price from Lone Star Gas and compare with the price of the same size electric unit. You'll find the little extra per month to buy a gas unit buys you a lot more air conditioning over the years.

There are two types of gas systems for homes: a combination cooling and heating system and an add-on cooling system.

LOW DOWN PAYMENT, AS LITTLE AS $25/MO. FOR 2.8-TON UNIT

This new gas unit for medium-size homes both cools and heats . . . puts the world's finest year-around air conditioning in reach of everyone.

HOW GAS UNITS CAN LAST TWICE AS LONG AS ELECTRIC

Gas cooling for homes has no compressor. A simple gas flame is the heart of the cooling cycle—with few moving parts to wear or need repair. No wonder the life-expectancy of gas air conditioning is double that of compressor types!

IF YOU HAVE CENTRAL GAS HEAT, IT IS LIKELY YOU CAN USE THE SAME DUCTS FOR GAS COOLING

You may have half of a gas central air conditioning system installed in your home! Just add the gas cooling system (takes up no extra floor space) and start enjoying year-around gas comfort and economy!

GAS ECONOMY PAYS OFF YEAR AFTER YEAR AFTER YEAR

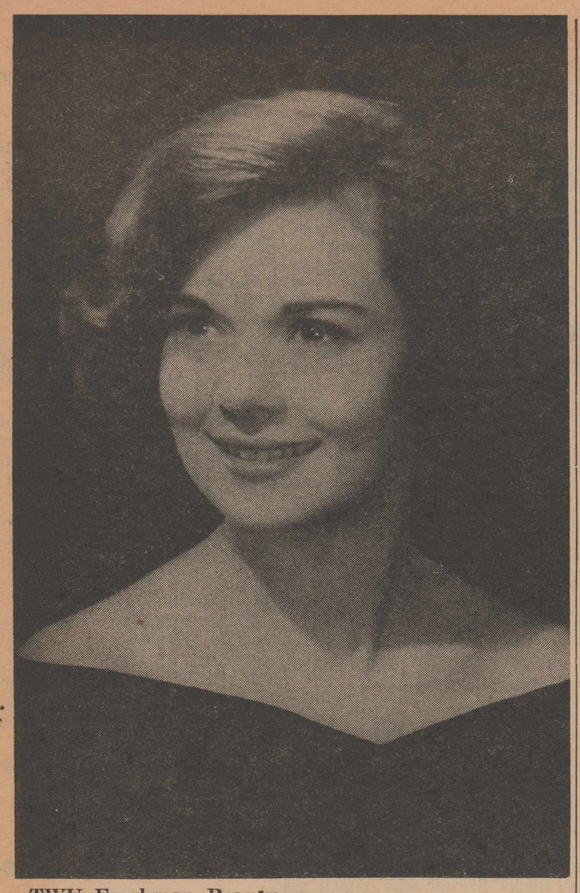

You save in operating efficiency, low maintenance, amazingly long service. The combined heating and cooling costs with gas average about 15% lower than for electric heating and cooling. Add to that the savings in maintenance and replacements and you'll see why gas is your best home air conditioning investment.

Revised Beef Grades, Effective June First, Affects Grower and Buyer

The revised U.S. Department of Agriculture beef grading standards that go into effect June 1 affect not only the rancher who raises the beef, but his wife who serves her family a tasty steak or roast.

The new standards will leave the Prime, Choice, Good and Standard classifications unchanged, but will reduce marbling requirements for beef in those grades, depending on the grade and degree of maturity. The marbling reduction angle will not materially affect the requirement for young cattle.

Frank Orts, Texas Agricultural Extension Service meats specialist at A&M University, says research has shown that too great an increase in marbling has been required to offset increased maturity in cattle 18 to 30 months of age.

Under the revised standards, marbling requirements have been reduced almost one full degree from "Moderate" to "Modest," for carcasses from animals about 28-30 months old. Progressively smaller reductions have been made for carcasses from younger cattle.

"The revised standards will also reduce the number of maturity groups from three to two in the above-mentioned grades and eliminate the consideration of the two degrees of marbling in excess of abundant," the specialist said.

He added that the revision also requires that all beef carcasses offered for grading be "ribbed" to expose the ribeye muscle for marbling determination. A carcass is ribbed by separating the fore and hindquarter between the 12th and 13th rib.

The new cutability standards which are included in the revised standards, are available on an optional basis for the first time. Packers are not compelled to use the system.

"This innovation will reduce the amount of fat deposited on the carcass and increase the size of ribeye, which should entice producers to produce cattle with more desirable carcass from a merchandising standpoint," Orts said.

Degree of finish on fat covering has the greatest influence on estimated yield of the carcasses, he said. Amount of fat which must be trimmed varies widely within the same weight and grade of beef carcasses. The difference can mean as much as $8 to $10 per hundredweight, or on a 600 pound carcass, $48 to $60 per carcass.

"These cutability standards, if employed on a wide scale in the industry, can contribute significantly to improving the meatiness of beef cattle and provide the retail outlet with

Cutability standards establish five classifications ranging from 1 to 5. They are based on fat thickness over the ribeye, size of ribeye, quantity of internal carcass fat, and carcass weight.

The cutability Grade 1 classification will identify the carcass yielding the highest percentage of boneless, closely trimmed steak and roast, and Number 5 will identify those having the lowest percentage.

Carcasses falling into cutability Grade 1 are estimated to yield 53-55 percent of their weight in boneless, closely trimmed steak and roast; cutability Grade 2, 50.8-53 percent; Grade 3, 48.5-50.7 percent; Grade 4, 46.2-48.4 percent; and Grade 5, 46 percent and under. the type of beef consumers prefer," Orts emphasized.

Collard was reported as arrested in the 300 block of Galveston Street.

Many are working on a non-graduate basis, others are interested in earning only a certain number of hours to be transferred to a senior institution, others do not wish to meet all the requirements from a junior college.

City Cars in Races

Two Wellington cars were in Satan's Pit stock car races at Childress Sunday, May 23.

Jack Pruitt, driving No. 44 for Dave and Marshall Peters, was in first position in the trophy-dash with one lap to finish when he went into a spin and climbed a four-foot bank. The car was out for the remainder of the dash.

Pruitt was uninjured, damage to the car was slight and he placed second in the first and second heats and third in the third heat and feature event.

A new entry was Bill Cochran driving No. 2 owned by Robert Owens. Before the trials began, Cochran ran off the track edge and down a 10-foot embankment, then drove back onto the track. He placed fifth in the first heat.

A Ripening Crop Results From Our Stewardship of the Soil

This week as we look across Collingsworth's fields of wheat, ripening grain now showing in a waving green sea, we think to ourselves or say to a companion that it looks like we're going to make a bumper crop.

This is Soil Stewardship Week, and the fine crop we will harvest, barring adverse weather, is the visible result of the care we have given our land, our stewadship of the soil.

Observed nationwide, this week is sponsored locally by the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, an agency that has borne heavy responsibility for the conservation of our land.

There always have been individual farmers and farm families in which this feeling of stewardship was instinctive, who always left their land better than they received it. But it is only in the last third of a century that conservation has become so widely organized. While the work is carried out by the farmers, it is of concern to every segment of life.

When we drive the roads of Salt Fork SCD, we see terraces to hold water, that it may sink into land growing more fertile through care given it. Tall grasses hold down land that otherwise could erode or blow. We catch fish out of farm ponds made possible by man-made dams. These are made possible by our stewardship of the soil, practiced not for this week alone, but for every week of the year, that must be practiced all the weeks to come if our land is to make possible the way of life we know and love.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

The peaceful Dr. Martin Luther King is quoted in the papers as saying he is not obligated to obey any law he didn't help pass, if he don't like it.

Which obviously leaves the Ten Commandments optional with the Rev. Mr. King, on account of even his best friends don't claim he demonstrated to get that batch of rules passed.

My anti-tax neighbor says he hopes this handy principle on law obeyment can be demonstrated into The Great Society, because he don't much like the income tax law, and he wasn't even here to help get it passed.

According to the way the news is filtered down to us, all of the U.S. weaponry supplied free of charge to foreign countries has been strictly "defensive."

My ignorational neighbor says apparently there is some structural difference between a defensive gun and an aggressive gun.

So he thinks, instead of passing laws against U.S. citizens owning personal weapons, the Congress had ought to just law the factories to quit making any but defensive type guns, switchblades, and brass knuckles.

My equalarious neighbor notes that the Supreme Court has ordered reapportionment of State legislative districts, so that each legislator will speak for the same number of people.

He says this is highly democratic and anybody opposed to the idea is obviously a republicist and not entitled to a voice in government anyhow.

But he figures that when this reapportionment gets done, people will just start re-messing it up, unless there is another law passed making it illegal for anybody to move to another district or die or have a baby.

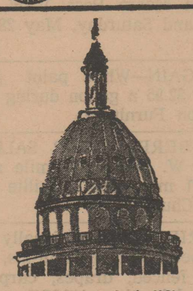

My fuddle-duddy neighbor says this New Math we are hearing about is just a scheme to raise up citizens who can't tell how high their taxes are getting.

And he claims the Illiterate Voter Law is to get ready for a generation taught New Reading, so they can vote anyhow, even if they can't read the names on the ballots.

A little later, he figures, the schools will offer a New Writing, so folks can't bother their Congressmen with letters, and a New Geography so they can't find Washington.

D. E. SCOTT.

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

The first capitol building at Austin was partially built from logs and sawn lumber obtained at Bastrop, in the heart of the Lost Pine area, according to the Texas Forest Service. Today, wood production from the pine-hardwood area furnishes much of the economic life blood of the state.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

BRUSH CONTROL
By Max Manly

Several brush control methods are recommended by the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District for the improvement of rangeland by increasing forage production.

Cattlemen must always remember that rangeland is the basis of their enterprise. They are actually in the grass business rather than the cattle business. This is true because there is a direct relationship between the amount of forage produced per acre and the amount of beef produced per acre. Research by more than one agency has demonstrated that the number of animal units per acre does not normally affect this relationship. That is to say that an increase in animal units per acre, above a reasonable stocking rate, does not necessarily produce more pounds of beef.

Expenses of brush control are closely related to stocking rates and grass management.

Excessive stocking rates increase the frequency with which brush requires controlling. This is true because there is no better or cheaper method for controlling brush than with grass. Grass is basically a more efficient producer of vegetative matter than any other brush species. The tall grasses, which are well suited to most of the rangeland in Collingsworth County, can produce a pound of air dry grass with about 500 pounds of water — while to produce a pound of Shin-Oak or Mesquite requires about 1500 pounds of water. Left alone, grass will out-compete brush for water and control will be automatic.

A good example of this can be found on the E. N. Lewis place southwest of Wellington. In this particular place Sand Sage and Shin-Oak are not more than 6 to 8 inches tall, while areas which have been subjected to grazing pressures have been almost completely taken by the brush.

Mother Nature's automatic process for controlling brush is a slower process, which may perhaps take several lifetimes, therefore it is not practical.

Modern brush control methods include aerial spraying or mechanical methods, but one must remember that these practices are only used to accelerate Mother Nature's process. If we do not defer after brush control or if we persist in overstocking we cause this process to be reversed, therefore, generally speaking, brush control methods are not practical unless these other closely related practices are carried out.

Cost share funds are available from the Department of Agriculture through the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District assisted by the Soil Conservation Service. Practices for which cost share is available are: for Shin-Oak, Aerial Spraying or Roller Chopping, Seeding and Spraying; for Sand Sage, Aerial Spraying; for Mesquite, Aerial Spraying or Tree Dozing.

Further information may be had from the Soil Conservation Service Office located in the courthouse in Wellington.

One inch of rain on one acre amounts to 27,143 gallons.

Walter Rogers Presides

Community Antenna TV Hearings Set May 27-28

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman Walter Rogers will preside Thursday and Friday as one of the two subcommittees of which he is chairman opens hearings into problems associated with "community antenna television systems."

Earlier in the week, Congressman Rogers will take part in House of Representatives debates on two important legislative matters: the foreign aid authorization bill and the bill to provide appropriations for the Department of Agriculture in the coming fiscal year. Also scheduled to come before the House during the week are legislative proposals affecting the bonding provisions of the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act; amendments to the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act; and interlocking directorates of U.S. rail carriers.

"The foreign aid bill will, as always, touch off one of the session's most heated discussions," Congressman Rogers said. "No one opposes money spent in the fight against communism. But everyone should oppose the waste of taxpayers' money under the guise of a program that is in effective against communism."

The agricultural appropriations bill includes appropriations of $5,692,537,000, a reduction of approximately $122 million in the department's budget requests and $1.1 billion less than was appropriated by Congress for the current fiscal year.

"I had hoped to travel home to the Panhandle during the week," Congressman Rogers said. "But the scheduling of extremely important legislative matters in committees and on the floor of the House has made it impossible for me to be away at this time."

The two committees on which Congressman Rogers serves, Interstate and Foreign Commerce and Interior and Insular Affairs, will meet. The Commerce committee will continue its discussion of the nomination of General William McKee to be administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, succeeding Najeeb Halaby.

Determining the role of community antenna television systems in relation to television broadcasting is the problem facing the Subcommittee on Communications and Power of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Before the subcommittee for consideration is legislation introduced by Congressman Oren Harris of Arkansas, chairman of the full committee.

Congressman Rogers, who will preside at the hearings, said witnesses will include E. William Henry, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, and Frederick W. Ford, former FCC commissioner and now president of the National Community Television Association.

"This matter is tied broadly to the question of the future of television broadcasting in the United States," Congressman Rogers said. "One of the decisions Congress must make as soon as possible concerns the relationship between broadcasting and CATV systems — systems by which TX broadcast signals are collected and then relayed by cable to homes in U.S. cities and towns."

The CATV hearings will resume in June, Rogers said.

Deck's DIDACTICS

The wheat fields are turning golden and the combines should be rolling by next week. It is surprising to observe how many fields are in wheat in the immediate vicinity of Wellington. When the plants are green about the only wheat you noticed was that growing by the side of the road; but now you can glance across the countryside and see a yellow field shining in a setting of emerald five miles away. The yield in both quantity and quality is expected to be the best grain we have harvested in several years and the money will provide a noticeable stimulus to business.

Mrs. Lloyd Langley phoned from Quail to call attention to the unusual amount and variety of wild flowers along the roads and in the pastures. The route she had in mind is the one going west from 15th Street and on into Quail. The profusion of color may not be as brilliant as it was last week; but the views were beautiful at the time she phoned. Since our rainfall has been moderate since the first of the year, Mrs. Langley is curious to know the cause of the abundance of flowers. I do not know; but if you go back to last September, we have had more rain than you might think.

Anyhow, we need to map out some scenic beauty trails for people to travel in the Wellington area—one for the spring and another for the fall.

While the residents battle floods on the Trinity, Brazos, Guadalupe and other Texas rivers, the main trouble with much of the country is dry weather. Here is a copy of the Winston County Journal at Louisville, Mississippi. They have not had rain since early April and the cotton, which is well advanced, is suffering. In New York City they have passed an ordinance levying a $50 fine on any restaurant or hotel that serves a glass of water unless the customer asked for it first. Their reservoirs contain less than half the amount of water they should have on hand at this time of the year.

People who paid out their money to see the Clay-Liston fiasco Tuesday night deserve to be took; but even so it seems that something could be done about obtaining money under false pretenses. Boxing has sunk to such a low level both as a sport and a business enterprise that it is nothing more than a racket run by gangsters. It should be banned until it can be cleaned up.

The 3¢ increase in taxes on cigarettes the Legislature voted this week is not bothering me in the least. I doubt if it will cause anyone to stop smoking although it may create a small amount of discreet bootlegging across the lines of our neighboring states. It takes more than money to induce a confirmed smoker to give up the habit.

be worked out for three-month periods.

Present for the re-organization meeting were 24 boys and girls and 21 parents. Helmers said at least double this number was expected.

He explained that the purpose of the club is to teach skill in riding, responsibility in care of horses, develop leadership, initiative, self-reliance, sportsmanship and other qualities that lead to better citizenship.

Later, a riding unit to participate in parades and other special events is planned. A money-raising event will be necessary to cover the cost of the light bills at the arena.

All boys and girls 9 to 19 years of age are eligible to belong, if they have a horse or a family-owned horse they can ride.

Dodson Veterans

will place a poppy wreath on each of the graves.

"Wear a Poppy to show that you remember!" This will be the appeal of American Legion Auxiliary Poppy Day Volunteers to the people of Dodson on Poppy Day, May 29, states Mrs. Duard Luck, the Auxiliary Poppy Chairman.

"Some of the finest young men of our city give their lives in America's defense during the three wars of the past half century. We should not lose the inspiration of their service and sacrifice, but should keep their memory bright. We owe today's free America to them and all the others like them who stood between America and the enemy in time of war. Wearing a poppy on Poppy Day is the individual act of tribute to the nation's war dead. Pinning on a poppy is very little to do, but it is a significant gesture, showing that we remember and are grateful," Mrs. Luck continued.

Poppies will be distributed throughout Dodson by members of Unit 535 of the American Legion Auxiliary, working as volunteers under the leadership of Mrs. Luck. The little flowers are replicas of the wild poppies of France and Belgium which bloomed so brightly on the battlefields and cemeteries of World War I. They have been made by disabled war veterans working in hospitals throughout the country.

Greenbelt Men Painfully Hurt

Two employees of Greenbelt Electric Co-operative, Inc., were painfully hurt Thursday, May 20 when their pickup and another vehicle came around a shinnery clump in a pasture and hit head-on.

The accident occurred Thursday, May 20 at 2 p.m. eight miles east of Shamrock and about 400 yards off Highway 66, according to George Henry, Greenbelt manager. The road through the shinnery-filled pasture was a single set of tracks.

Lonnie Roark received a slight concussion, and the driver, Dick Pendleton, had a bruised heart, Henry reported. Both were given emergency treatment at Shamrock and later Roark was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital here. He was released Monday morning. Pendleton returned to his job Monday.

The driver of the other pickup was identified as Henry Robert Hise, believed to be from Shamrock, who was more seriously hurt, the Greenbelt manager said. He was admitted to Shamrock General Hospital.

Henry reported that damage to the Greenbelt pickup amounted to between $500 and $600 and included damage to the front fender, grill, hood and windshield.

Seniors Unhurt As Bus Is Hit

There were no injuries to seniors riding in a school bus which was hit from behind while it was stopped at a railroad crossing at Acme Friday, May 21, according to E. W. Clement, high school principal.

The accident occurred as the class was en route to Six Flags for senior day.

A truck, driven by a Fort Worth man, passed the Clement car and second bus in which seniors were riding, then hit the rear of the Morgan car, the principal said. The drivers of the car and truck also escaped injury, he said.
