Jeanice Adams BPW Woman of the Year

Jeanice Adams, who left a highly successful career in California when she moved to Wellington to begin another career in a different field, is the Wellington Business and Professional Club's Woman of the Year.

Announcement of her selection was made by Nancy Janes, president, as the club began its celebration of National Business Women's Week, Oct. 21-27. Mrs. Adams will be at the BPW annual coffee Thursday morning, Oct. 25.

Mrs. Adams, the wife of Sam Adams, is co-owner with him in Adams Carpets, working in sales and bookkeeping and as buyer of carpets and other supplies.

Before she came to Wellington, Mrs. Adams was employed by Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center in Richmond, Calif. and for 5 years she served as consultant for Kaiser Foundation International in Oakland, Calif., (1972-77) and as consultant for Northern California Kaiser.

In this work, Jeanice Adams was assistant administrator and clerical services supervisor. She was responsible for preparing all department budgets (except nursing) annually, hiring of all clerical personnel, and supervising their training. When she came to Wellington 7 years ago, she was supervisor of an out-patient clinic with a staff of 43 physicians with a daily average of 1800 patients.

Kaiser-Permanente Medical Center at Richmond was almost ready to move into a new building, one which Mrs. Adams helped to plan, and on which she worked with the architects and builders.

As consultant for Kaiser Foundation International, she worked with clinic administrators from many nations to enable them to set up clinics in their own countries, patterned on the Kaiser system.

Her eyes sparkle as she talks of these people who came from such diverse areas as Korea and the Carribean.

JEANICE ADAMS

Also in California, she was a member of the Northern California Carnival Glass Club, serving as secretary-treasurer from 1974 to 1976, and was coordinator of volunteers for Contra Costa County Hospital Volunteers for a 10-year period, 1966-76.

In BPW, Jeanice Adams is one of those working to bring young

WHS Homecoming Activities Set

Wellington High School Homecoming will be held Friday, Oct. 26, highlighted by the coronation of the Football Queen and That Skyrocket King and Queen.

The 1984 Football Queen will be presented at the pep rally Friday morning which begins at 9:10 a.m. in the school gymnasium.

Presented along with her will be members of her court.

The football queen is selected by members of the Skyrocket team, and players are also escorts for the queen and her attendants.

That Skyrocket Band King and Queen will be presented in a half-time ceremony during the Skyrocket Memphis Football game, said Frank Aue, bandmaster.

This ceremony will begin at approximately 8:20 p.m.

Candidates for band queen are Dora Salinas, Julie Caldwell and Nicole Keller.

Candidates for That Skyrocket Band King are Jay Anders, Bobby Harper and Wesley Reeves.

The Friday morning pep rally will be "black light" event.

Rockets-Cyclone to Meet Here

The Memphis Cyclone comes to town Friday, Oct. 26, to meet the Skyrockets in the third district game of the 1984 football season.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Powell Field.

Memphis has lost only one game this year, to Childress 12-0.

District wise, the Cyclone opened with victory over Clarendon 9-6; and this last district game, they defeated Shamrock 14-12.

Overall, they have the best record of the district teams at this point in the season.

"They have had a lot of offensive output early in the year, and I think the major part has come from their quarterback, Sam Carter, and also Roy Hendersin, halfback and their fullback Jerry Jenkins," said Rocket coach James Williams.

Probably up front, the leading linemen are Stacey Booth, a senior tackle, 185 pounds; and Gary Davis, junior tackle at 210.

"When they throw the ball, they like to throw it to No. 83, David Davidson, a sophomore end," says Williams. "Throughout the year, they have run out of the I offense and also they run out of what you call the Pro Set. They usually throw or run the option play out of this set.

"They have an exceptionally quick football team, especially out of their backfield, which we are going to contain outside.

"It is a must win for us if we are going to try to gain a playoff spot this year," the coach emphasizes. "At the same time, we are coming into the game a little bit crippled again. But as the scores have indicated the last two weeks, anyone in the district still has an opportunity to make it to the playoffs."

"This is also Skyrocket homecoming weekend for our players and the student body, and I hope they have their mind on the football game, and are thinking more about winning the football game than they are about the rest of the activities."

"We are looking for a real exciting football game as we always have with them, and maybe we can come out the winner."

Wellington is still injury-ridden. James Benton was hit on the leg again last week and it's bothering him a little bit.

Kendall Harris, center and defensive tackle is still out with a broken arm, and will be out for the rest of the season, and Kacy Davis has a deep bruised shoulder.

PRETTY GIRL WITH GOURD

Vanessa Sue Langley 18-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Langley, sits beside a 22-pound gourd grown in the front yard of her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Finley, 301 Bowie Street. The gourd measured three feet 9 inches around and Mrs. Finley ordered the seed from a farm magazine. Vanessa's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Langley.

Testing Continues at Well

Perforation, acidizing and swabbing continues at the Jack Grimm Oil Co., No. 1 Henry Martinez well southwest of Quail, and activity is expected to continue for at least two more days and possibly through the remainder of the week.

Testing is continuing between 3,000 and 4,500 feet, Page said. In the procedure being used, a very mild acid is used to clean the perforations and clean out the formations being tested, looking for a show of oil or gas or both.

Beginning Wednesday, Oct. 24, the well site is closed to visitors, who up to this point have had pretty much a free run of the premises.

Phil Page, geologist for Jack Grimm Oil Company of Abilene, was apologetic.

"What we are doing is quite a bit different than when the well was being drilled," and potentially very dangerous," he said. The danger, he said, can come from high pressure, explosion "or from the unknown."

"It is such a wildcat we have no idea what could happen. Everyone has been very nice and friendly but beginning about Wednesday we have to stop people from coming in.

He cited insurance company and Texas Railroad Commission rules, and that point has been reached. "It is strictly for their (the visitors) personal safety.

"I can certainly understand their interest and I don't want to seem like the guy in the black hat, but we don't want anyone hurt, and it is potentially dangerous," said Page.

"I'll be happy to meet with people at Cherokee or talk with

P.T.O. Halloween Carnival to Be Oct. 27

Tiny ghosts who may be afraid of each other, noisy goblins afraid of no one and a variety of other characters will crowd elementary school halls and rooms Saturday, Oct. 27. School books aren't on their minds for this will be the annual P.T.O. Halloween Carnival. It is an evening of entertainment planned for the children and parents and friends who accompany them.

As part of the carnival, there will be a pumpkin carving contest and a costume contest, according to Debra Belew, P.T.O. president. Dianne Manuel is carnival chairman.

Carnival hours are 6 to 9 p.m. Everyone will enter the carnival area this year through the east door of the cafeteria.

This is the only fund raiser of the year held by P.T.O., and all proceeds go into a fund for projects to benefit the school.

There will be no admission charge, but tickets will be sold for all games, fun rooms and other entertainments, as well as for the food.

Food will be a big carnival item, and will be in the cafeteria. Those attending can eat such snacks as chili dogs, chili pies, home made ice cream, brownies, rice crispie treats. Coffee or soft drinks will be for sale.

Winners of the pumpkin carving contest and the costume contest will be announced at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria.

There will be a drawing for a color TV set at 8:30 p.m. Those wanting more information about this portion of the entertainment can contact any member of the P.T.O.

Favorite fun and Halloween games will be featured.

The pumpkin carving contest has become one of the more popular events of the carnival. The finished pumpkins which must be brought to the elementary school by 5:30 p.m. will be on display throughout the evening.

Rules governing the contest are:

-The pumpkin must be carved.

-Paint, hats, hair and any other accessories may be used as decoration in any manner the contestant wishes.

Absentee Voting to Continue Thru Nov. 2

Collingsworth County voters are reminded that absentee voting is still under way and will continue through Friday, Nov. 2, at 5 p.m.

Helen Gollihugh, county-district clerk said that 123 ballots have been cast by personal appearance. A number of other ballots have been mailed to those requesting them, but have not been returned to her office.

"Those who still want to make application for a ballot, can call or write the County Clerk's office and a ballot will be sent," Mrs. Gollihugh said.

and decorated by the person entering it.

-The pumpkin must have the contestant's name on the bottom.

The pumpkins will be judged for originality, amount of time spent on decorating it, and neatness.

There will be 5 divisions in the pumpkin carving contest: two in elementary school, junior high, high school and adults.

Costumes of those entering the costume contest are limited only by the inagination of the wearer, and the contest is open to all students.

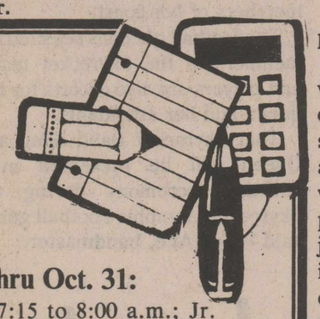

Judging will take place anonymously during the evening as the children participate in the carnival.

women into the club and present its opportunities to them.

"I encourage young women to seek advanced education for future use," she says.

"Get as much education as possible, get as much experience as possible in the work place, be willing to accept transfers to other departments, don't tell other people how to do their jobs; be considerate of other people; accept ideas from them. When receiving a promotion that includes supervising other people, make changes only after working with a them for a while.

What does she see as a woman's place in the business world?

"All positions are available to women at any age within the limits of mental and physical capabilities, she believes. "It all depends on the amount of time and energy one wishes to expend, and the priorities in life. Education, good judgment, recognizing opportunities, effort, and, of course, conduct is the key to success for women or men."

In Wellington, Mrs. Adams' life is filled with volunteer work.

"I fulfill requests to sing at funerals, entertain at Thomas Nursing Center, and senior citizens events, drive the elderly to doctor's appointments and sing with various singing groups at family reunions, club meetings, and civic events.

"I assist some elderly in their bookkeeping, filing insurance forms, income tax preparation (no charge), and I fulfill requests from women's clubs for programs on antique glass collecting."

She has taught elderly widows basic bookkeeping and helped them set up annual books for their income tax needs.

She "listens."

A graduate of Murfreesboro High School, Jeanice Adams graduated from Texarkana Business School in 1946. Eighteen years later, 1964, she graduated from Chapman College, Oakland, Calif., and from Contra Costa College, San Pablo, Calif. in 1966. She attended the University of California at Berkeley.

Just as she has strong beliefs about women in the working world, her belief in the ways a woman can contribute to her community are equally strong: "Find a need and fill it," she says. "Whether it is rearing a family for the future citizens of our community, helping the elderly, promoting industry for jobs or being a good neighbor, one should always give her best. My father taught me that a job worth doing was worth doing well."

them on the phone to answer their questions," he said.

"We have had an awfully lot of spectators, which really isn't bad. We have the same cheering squad out there every evening. We got to know some of them as well as one can in two weeks.

"We're not trying to hide anything, and people have been very, very nice to us and we appreciate it.

"They've been super. I couldn't say enough for the town of Wellington," Page declared.

"We hope we find it (oil or gas) but if we don't find it, it definitely does not mean it isn't there. A move of not more than 200 yards can mean the difference between a dry hole and production," he explained.

A 200 year-old European fashion craze for beaver hats, starting in the 1600s, nearly wiped out North America's beaver population, which once numbered as many as 400 million. After making a slow comeback, more than two million beavers are now thought to be living in the United States.

Christmas Promo Plans Taking Shape

First announcement of plans for Wellington's Christmas business promotion were announced Tuesday, Oct. 23, by Bill Hatch, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas promotion committee. Serving on the committee with him are Mack Saied and Robert Lewis.

The popular Christmas Shopper will appear in The Wellington Leader Thursday, Nov. 22, to promote Wellington as a good place for Christmas shopping and spotlight the abundance of gift and standard merchandise for Christmas.

Close behind will come Santa Claus. His annual Wellington visit will be either Saturday, Nov. 24 or Saturday, Dec. 1, said Hatch.

This year each merchant who participates in the Christmas promotion program will sponsor a series of Christmas drawings in his own store, Hatch said. These will be held weekly on Saturdays Dec. 8, Dec. 15 and Dec. 22. All at 4 p.m.

"This will create a whole group of drawings on the same days.

Each merchant will decide how he wants to handle his drawing, giving a prize gift or gift certificate at each. Customers may register for the drawing each time they are in the store, every day, if they wish.

On Thursday, Dec. 20, merchants participating in the Christmas promotion program will be encouraged to remain open until 9 p.m. to give Wellington trade territory residents who work an opportunity to do their late holiday shopping.

On that night, Dec. 20, troups of entertainers will appear downtown to entertain those who are shopping.

Approximately 600 optometrists from throughout the country attended 12 hours of continuing education courses offered during the symposium.

Some sessions covered the latest developments in the contact lens field, including oxygen-permeable biofocal contact lenses that offer better vision than soft bifocal contacts; oxygen-permeable single vision lenses; and new types of extended-wear soft lenses.

There was also a session on what the future holds for contact lenses and another on practice management to aid the optometrists in serving their patients more efficiently.

Eighth Grade Loses 20-0 to White Deer

Wellington 8th grade Firecrackers lost their Thursday night, Oct. 18, game to White Deer 20-0 on Powell Field.

White Deer lost three 8th graders to eligibility this week and moved three 7th graders up. As this did not leave enough 7th grade boys for a team, only one junior high game was played, at White Deer's request.

Firecrackers lost two players due to grades. They are being tutored and could not report for any of the practices during the week. Instead they reported to study hall. In the Thursday night game, White Deer scored in the first quarter on a blocked punt that rolled to the one yard line. They went ahead and scored but the extra point try failed.

There was no scoring in the 2nd period, which made the score 6-0 White Deer at half time.

White Deer scored again in the third quarter and made the extra point. (0-13 White Deer).

White Deer scored again in the fourth quarter but the try for extra point was no good, and the game ended 20-0 in favor of White Deer.

"Some of our 7th grade played and they played well--extremely well on defense," said Coach Gano Wilson.

White Deer was a little bit quicker and had faster running backs," Wilson added.

Wellington 8th and 7th grade teams will play Memphis there Thursday, Oct. 25.

Lowes Travel Rodeo CircuitThisSummer

By Marv Ann Lowe

Bill and I returned Sunday, Sept. 9, from Nebraska and Wyoming where we rode in part of the northern rodeo circuit of the National Old Timers Association Rodeos.

Our daughter and grandson, Susan and Sean Delaney of Williston, N.D., met us in Chadron, Neb. for a four day visit. Chadron was having a county fair, Sean was very impressed with the rabbits and other small animals. I placed 4th in the rodeo.

Then, on to beauitful Wyoming. Jackson Hole is the place everyone always wants to move to, but they have had snow since we left (ice in the mornings while we were there). We stayed a week camping on the fair grounds. There are about 400 rigs (motorhomes, combinations, pickup campers, etc.) I placed 6th here.

In Rock Springs, Wyoming, where the sand blows like the Texas Panhandle, we noticed many dead antelope, especially at the foot of the mountains. They were winter killed. We also saw the famous wild horses. This was an impressive sight. Rock Springs is one of the adoption centers for the wild horses that have been caught. I placed 3rd here.

Lander, Wyoming is a lovely town with lots of trout fishing, and Indians. My horse, Jesse, fell on the second barrell, so I did not place here.

We started back to Nebraska and stopped at Douglas, Wyoming for the night at the fair grounds. The North Platte River runs through the grounds and the fishing was good. It's a beautiful, restful place.

We wound up at Hyannis, Neb., granddaddy of the old timer rodeos. The first Old Timers Rodeo was held here 11 years ago. The population of Hyannis is 336. There were over 500 contestants not counting spouses. I placed 4th here.

Bill's partner, who competes with him in team roping, could not make the trip.

Highest Priority for Farm Credit at FmHA

President Regan's farm credit initiatives will be the highest priority of every employee of the Farmers Home Administration, National Administrator Charles W. Shuman stated.

The President's plan, announced Tuesday as a transitional program, is designed to help farmers caught in the cost-price squeeze who are experiencing severe financial stress and who show promise of success with an extra economic boost.

Under the plan, the Farmers Home Administration will:

--Reschedule up to 25 percent of a qualiying farmer's FmHA loan, to a maximum of $100,000 for as long as five years with no interest payments.

--Guarantee a non-FmHA borrower's farm loan if the lender is willing to write off a minimum of 10 percent of the loan, up to the amount necessary to achieve a positive cash flow for the borrower.

"The part under the control of Farmers Home, the rescheduling, will be the number one priority of everyone in the agency," Shuman said. "The first meetings with staff from across the country was held Friday, September 21, 1984, when all the state directors and farm program chiefs met here."

"Special project managers are being appointed in the National Office to see that all the necessary regulation changes and instructions to FmHA field offices are completed post haste," he said. "We will begin examining loan dockets within a matter of weeks so that this part of the program can be underway by January 1."

Shuman said the necessary steps to implement the guarantee portion will be taken "in ample time to meet the spring lending season."

Borrowers under this plan must meet the general eligibility requirements for FmHA's farm operating and farm ownership loans.

As another part of the President's initiative, FmHA will contract with local farm financial and management experts to help prepare and analyze credit statements and loan applications as part of an effort to speed loan processing.

And, in a limited number of states, contracts will be signed with lending institutions for the servicing of loans themselves.

Extended Coverage

By Betsy Lemons

If you rent your home or apartment, you may not be properly insured. About 80 percent of renters carry no property or liability insurance, perhaps assuming that a landlord's coverage protects them. It doesn't.

In addition to covering the loss of your property in case of fire or theft, renter's insurance may pay for excess living expenses if your home is uninhabitable after the loss, and protect your household while you are on vacation.

Most important, your tenant's policy offers liability protection in case you damage the property of others or cause them injury: if your child's baseball goes through a neighbor's window or a guest slips on a rug.

Certain expensive items--jewelry, furs, silverware, fine art--must be scheduled on a personal articles floater, because standard tenant's policies have limits on these items.

Skyrocket JV Drops Game to White Deer, 20-0

The Skyrocket JV lost a home game to White Deer 20-0 Thursday, Oct. 18.

The Bucks JV scored in the first quarter on a pass to make it 6-0, and that is where it remained until the fourth quarter.

The Buck JV scored twice in that period, once on a pass and the other time on a run.

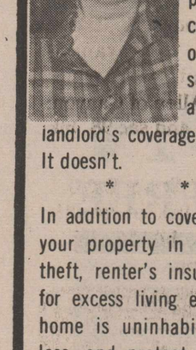

In the third quarter the Rockets got inside the Bucks 5 yard line then fumbled the ball. This was set up by a long pass covering 25-30 yards from Chuck Brown to Brad Long.

"We played pretty good defense, except for the three times when the Bucks scored. They played better than they did the first time we met," said Coach Tommy Johnson.

The Rocket JV travels to Memphis Thursday, Oct. 25.

"They have a good fast team and won 48-34 the last time the two met." Johnson continued. "White Deer beat them 14-0 the week before the Bucks played us.

"We can play good if we don't have any injuries, and we don't have any now."

FARM BUREAU OFFICERS

Emmert Heads Farm Bureau

Lynn Emmert, young farmer with operations southeast of Wellington, was elected without opposition as president of Collingsworth County Farm Bureau during the business meeting Saturday, Oct. 13. He succeeds Benton Wauer.

The convention-business meeting followed the annual barbecue, at which 549 members, their families and FB guests are pit-cooked beef, again prepared under the supervision of Willie Knoll with sauce made by a receipe whose ingredients only he knows.

Other officers, all elected without opposition, were George Barton, 1st vice-president; Don Allred, 2nd vice president; and Richard Sims, secretary.

Directors from the north section of the county are Albert Fulcher, Tommy Coleman and Gary Wright; south, Danny Davis, Eddie Orr and John O'Rear; east: John Barton, Pat Gulley and Mark Fourmentin; and west: Reed Souder, Pat White and Jim Cabbell. The out-going president, Wauer, was elected director-at-large.

Most of these officers and directors are the sons of men who were longtime leaders in Collingsworth County Farm Bureau. Overall, it is perhaps the youngest board to serve the County FB in a number of years.

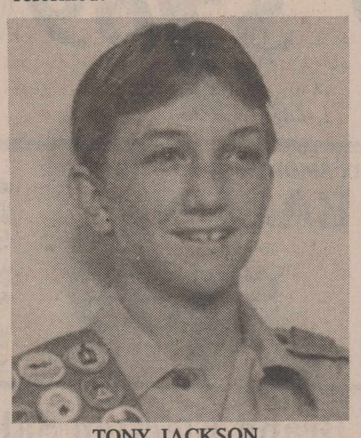

Emmert will serve as a delegate to the state convention later in the year. The county is eligible to send 7 delegates, and others attending will be named later, depending on crop conditions at convention time and who is able to attend.

Resolutions were also passed without opposition. On the state level they urge that FB by-laws amendments go directly from county units to the state convention floor without passing a screening committee; and that the term of the commodity committee be increased to four years.

On the naiontal level, the county FB resolved that the National Farm Bureau work to unfreeze the target price on farm commodities, even though Farm Bureau originally worked to get the target price frozen.

They favored a return to the old disaster program; continuation of the haying and grazing of diverted acres; and supported the 1985 Farm Bill.

County FB members also recommended that Congress and the President get the U.S. out of the educational, scientific and cultural program; that the right to work law be continued; that reduced meat imports continue; and that the Davis-Bacon Act relating to federally financed construction be repealed or reformed.

COTTON MARKET

U.S. farmers planted about 11 million acres of cotton this spring, 40 percent more than the 1983 PIK-reduced crop. Acres abandoned due to weather problems, mainly the drought in Texas, are estimated at just under 6 percent.

Use of cotton continues to increase, but this increase is mainly in foreign mills. And because of the strong U.S. dollar abroad, imports of foreign cotton textiles are pouring into the U.S. Thus, with textile exports decreasing and imports increasing, the textile trade deficit continues to widen.

Imported cotton textiles are currently about 37 percent of domestic consumption, which is estimated at 8.1 million bales. Ironically, American cotton farmers who have worked hard to expand cotton usage in this country are losing out to foreign producers.

Looking ahead to 1985 forecasters see some stabilization in cotton production worldwide and increased consumption due to a weak market. But market prices will continue sluggish due to abundant supplies, and U.S. producers will have to continue to worry about high textile imports that are capturing part of their market.

High interest rates and competition from synthetics and foreign cotton textiles will continue to weigh heavily on U.S. Producers.

TRICK 'N TREAT, A NEW TURN

The sight and sounds of children dressed in Halloween costumes for trick or treating through the neighborhood is something we look forward to each year. And for the children, going door-to-door for treats is the high point of Halloween festitivies.

But the traditional "trick or treat" celebration also raises concern about pranks, safe food treats, and street safety.

Parents wishing to preserve Halloween's traditions but insure their children's safety, have become more involved with the supervision of door-to-door trick or treating.

But other parents and communities are working to change the trick or treat tradition itself. The original idea of trick or treating is simple: either you give a "treat" or endure a practical joke on you or your property.

Today we see that this sort of activity can be destructive and could also be viewed as a mild form of blackmail. To emphasize the positive aspects of Halloween, some communities are emphasising the constructive meaning of "trick" as a brief entertainment. So for the favor of being entertained by the child, the adult gives a treat.

Parents can call this activity "trick and treating" or as many children already say, "trick n' treating." For young children, disguises are tricks enough to merit a treat. The child visiting neighbors to ask "Guess who I am?" can both surprise and delight.

For older children simple magic tricks such as palming a coin, are fun and entertaining. Children can learn easy tricks from friends, games or books on magic from the library.

Active tricks like singing a short song, reciting a limerick, juggling or doing an imitation of the character their costume represents, can also be fun for older children.

The traditional treat of candy is also changing in some communities. Neighbors are giving homemade cakes, cookies or doughnuts, fruits, nuts, popcorn and other harvest time foods. Often they'll place an address label on the wrapped treats so parents will know who they came from.

Other people are giving inexpensive nonedible items for treats such as coloring books, crayons, pencils, fast food coupons, baseball cards and novelty items.

Along with changes in tricks and treats, some communities and neighborhoods have publicized guidelines and hours for the activity. These can serve to help all members of the community have a fun, safe, positive trick n' treat celebration.

BPW to Hold Annual Coffee for National Business Women's Week

Wellington Business and Professional Women's Club will celebrate National Business Women's week with the traditional coffee, to be held Thursday, Oct. 25, in the Heritage Room of Wellington State Bank. This year Business Women's Week is October 21-27.

Hours will be 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and the public, especially business men and women, are invited to call, according to Loretta Wright, chairman.

"We want to share with you some of our activities of the year and encouraging those who are interested in becoming a member of the business and professional world.

"We would like to meet you and encourage you to become a member of our unit."

A guest of honor will be the Wellington unit's Woman of the Year, Jeanice Adams.

Final plans for the tea were made in the regular meeting Tuesday, Oct. 23, and between then and the time of the coffee, many businesses will be contacted and both owners and managers and employees will be invited.

The unit this year is spotlighting the younger business women of Wellington--those who will be the organization's leaders of the future. But don't wait for an invitation, stresses Mrs. Wright. "If you are interested in becoming a member, contact any officer or BPW member."

The first Business Women's Week was held in 1928 "to dramatize women's contributions to the economic, social and political life of the community, state, nation and the world."

This year's event will highlight the achievements of working women and their essential place in the U.S. labor force. In the past 40 years, the number of working women in America has tripled, exceeding 47 million. Women have entered all occupations and industries and have made invaluable contributions to the American economy and worklife.

Protect Your Household Electronic Equipment

COLLEGE STATION - Your house doesn't have to be hit by lightning, for your household electronic equipment to be affected in an electrical storm, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economist.

You may have noticed during a thunderstorm that your lights flicker. That means there's been a power surge caused by lightning, says Bonnie L. Piernot. It lasts only an instant, but that surge can damage microchip circuitry in your home computer, telephone answering device, microwave oven or anything else that uses microchips, she says.

The surest way to minimize the threat is to disconnect or at least turn off anything with microchip circuitry during a severe thunderstorm, Piernot advises.

You can also buy a device that plugs into AC outlets and protects microchip circuitry. But the operation of such a device may cause a circuit breaker to trip, so using it on a branch circuit with a freezer or refrigerator is inadvisable, says the home economist.

Although the answering device on your phone is vulnerable, the telephone itself has a reasonable level of protection due to a device on the side of your house, put there by the telephone company. There's less protection if you're using one of the new, inexpensive phones, notes Piernot.

Cable television, if not installed in accordance with the National Electrical Code, can present a major risk of set damage from lightning, she cautions.

The most common damage from a power surge is program upset. For example, your computer equipment may not be harmed but a computer program will do illogical things for no apparent reason, or your answering device will turn itself off.

But major power surges can damage equipment, Piernot says, requiring a service call to replace burned out or damaged components. These service calls can be quite costly since sometimes the entire circuit board must be replaced.

BEAUTY DIGEST

Diane Robbens

By Diane Robbens, editor
Beauty Digest magazine

Exercise dressing

Workout fashion is very in today and actress Randi Brooks told Beauty Digest magazine how she handles it: "When I'm really into a heavy workout, I like to wear a tight leotard so that I can look into the mirror and see which muscles are working and which ones need attention. Even if I'm exercising alone I do take the trouble to wear something nice — perhaps designer sweat pants and a matching shirt. It's important to me personally that I enjoy myself while I'm sweating it out — that helps me keep going."

Diet fruit torte

Dieting is not a time to totally forget your sweet tooth. Here's a great recipe from a major U.S. health spa for fruit torte. Drain the liquid from an 8-ounce can of low-cal fruit cocktail. Add water to the drained syrup to make one cup of liquid. Boil the liquid and add one envelope of lemon-flavored diet gelatin dessert. Next, stir in a cup of ice and water and continue to stir until ice is melted. Refrigerate until the mixture thickens. Now line the bottom of an 8-by-4-inch pan with opened lady fingers. Hand-whip the gelatine until it doubles in volume and blend in a cup of prepared whipped cream (like Dream Whip). Add the fruit cocktail mixture and mix together, then spoon over the lady fingers. Chill. When ready, slice into 12 servings (45 calories per serving).

Potato face

If you have very oily skin, try this wonderful at-home facial mask. Cover your face with thinly sliced potatoes, but keep away from the eye area. If sliced potatoes don't appeal to you, try grinding the potatoes in your food processor until they are finely chopped. Then smooth the potatoes over your face. Either way — sliced or ground — leave on your face five to seven minutes, then rinse with warm water. Because the potato has a slightly acidic exfoliant (the reason to keep them away from your eyes), you'll find a healthy glow as the result of this treatment.

Pick a conditioner

Conditioning your hair is part and parcel of good hair treatment. So it helps to know what type of product you should choose according to your needs. If you have processed hair (permed, straightened or colored), pick a low-oil conditioner because treated hair is porous and will pick up too much oil. Look for one that is high in protein, has detangling emolients and is collagen-enriched. For fine hair, avoid moisturinzing conditioners that will fatten your hair. Check the label for hair-fattening polymers for body building effects. Dry hair needs moisturizing conditioners, as does curly and coarse hair.

Blush up

Blushing up is the most fun of making up. But choosing one isn't as easy as picking a color that appeals to you. If you have dry skin, opt for a cream or liquid blush. However, the cream should be worn over a foundation, while the liquid can be worn alone or over a foundation. For oily skin, powder blush is usually best. They can be worn alone or over a foundation and are usually longer lasting than creams or liquids. Creams and liquids should be dotted on with finger tips and blended in with makeup sponge. Powders need a thick, soft, rounded makeup brush for the best blending affects.

There's Tested Techniques for Motivating Volunteers

An inability to assert yourself allows -- and even invites -- others to take advantage of you or to play upon and increase your fears.

That's what Dorthy Taylor, a family life education specialist, tells people as she travels across Texas presenting informal educational programs that benefit the Texas public.

Taylor, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, says a person who suffers from fear sometimes has a related group of difficulties, called problems with being assertive.

"Lack of assertiveness usually has its roots in 'social fear'--that is, fear of interacting with other people," Taylor explains.

"In addition, the inability to be assertive has unpleasant side effects: lowered self-esteem or lack of confidence, lack of goal achievement and even acceptance of physical abuse," the specialist says.

Don't confuse being assertive with being aggressive, she warns. Few of us like people who are aggressive, since we tend to think them as "bullies," Taylor says.

On the other hand, being assertive is a GOOD thing, she emphasizes.

"Assertiveness means having a positive feeling about yourself. When you have this, you don't have those fears -- fears of interacting with people or fears of not being able to handle a situation," Taylor says.

Here are her suggestions on how to assert yourself:

"First, overcome your fear of people. It's not as hard as it sounds once you know what fear is. Fear is when you don't give yourself credit for the strengths you do have.

"Everyone has strengths, good points, talents, nice qualities that others like.

"Put those things to work. Think about them, and use them."

"Assertiveness, then, is asserting your talents and using them.

"Once you start doing that, this makes you feel good. You get rewarded just by feeling good about it, and that leads you to another experience of using your talents and strengths -- another good experience.

"Finally you get convinced of your own selfworth and you can say 'Hey, I am good enough .'"

Assertiveness is particularly important to career growth, Taylor continues.

Since career growth often

Since career growth often requires us to be able to respond to other people and interact with them it's important that we learn how to be assertive, she says.

"It means we need to do away with some of our old protective barriers of security such as shyness and reluctance to say what we think or how we feel.

"Once we do that, we will find that we have caused some of our untapped strengths to surface. We can draw on those strengths for more strength and reinforcement. We can build up inside ourselves even greater strengths that make us feel even more secure."

Any person seeking control, cooperation or confidence through assertive behavior will need the following skills, all of which take patience and work if you're willing, Taylor says.

Home Delivered Meals Serving 70 Each Day

"The Home Delivered Meals Program has been serving people n Collingsworth since April 1983. During that time approximately 130 different people have been served through the program. This program provided one-third of the daily nutrition needed by individuals to insure a well balanced diet," said Tess Burba.

We have been fortunate to have three people whose job it is to secure volunteer drivers each day to deliver the meals. Willie B. Harwell was our first Volunteer Driver Chairman, followed by Barbara Hicks and then Pauline Masten. The program could not succeed without the efforts of volunteer chairman and the many people who have given their time and cars to deliver the meals each day," she continued.

At the present time the program is serving over 70 people each day. The meals leave the Collingsworth County Community Action Center at 10:45 each day every person has the meal by 11:15.

Puppies often whine and howl at night. A ticking clock next to the puppy's box will often keep it quiet.

Cardwell Briefs Study Club on Current School Reforms

October 18 was the meeting date of GFWC/1924 Study Club with the overall theme, "Be a Winner -- Learn to Work Smarter."

The club president, Mrs. H.L. Jenkins, presided for this regular meeting. Her theme for this club year is "You are a Winner -- A Volunteer," turning the spotlight on the membership, affiliated with the world's oldest and largest organization of women volunteers, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Bill McKinney, club president-elect and chairman of the yearbook committee, presented the day's program chairman, Mrs. Kent Clark, also club education department chairman. For this panel, the members were able to hear from the professional approach by Melvin Cardwell, principal, Wellington Elementary School.

Mrs. Clark spoke on "Public Education in the Eyes of A Mother." Mrs. B.M. Sims, a state university board of regents member, spoke of "Learning Disabilities -- The Invisible Handicap" with a food for thought type blank verse presentation.

Cardwell's briefing on the public education reforms resulting from the 1984 Special Session of the Texas Legislature was informative from his presentation and his fielding of questions. He told of the five unexcused absences concept for students and of the tutorial programs in high school, junior high school, and elementary school which are optional, but encouraged for students not only with failing grades but for students "who would like to strengthen their knowledge in the subjects."

Although not absolutely mandated until next school year, the WISD is trying to include those concepts this year which will make various criteria proceed with a smoother transition for students and faculty next year.

It was noted that interruptions to class break the trend of thought for teachers and students as well as are time consuming overall. Having messages delivered through the Principal's office avoids this hinderance while encouraging and stressing student responsibility. Another guideline is to place a disruptive student "with his assignments in another environment."

Besides the student aspect, Cardwell mentioned the testing for teachers, including the cost to tax payers for administering and scoring those tests; told of the Career Ladder Selection Committee; and listed the special reading program called Chapter I, Chapter I Migrant (having enrichment segments for all students) and Special Education which allows for group and individual support for those qualifying.

In the Legislative Update, the members were reminded of the constitutional amendment, Proposition 2, designed to aid all the colleges in Texas, which will be on the ballot in the General Election. Reference was made to editorial in The Wellington Leader. (September 27)

Mrs. Jenkins announced that the club's American Energy Awareness Week display, October 21-28, is to be at Coleman Office, east side of square. The Conservation Chairman had samplings of the display for members to preview. The president and conservation chairman are contacting other organizations that might want a program on Resource Management. The Kiwanis Club of Wellington is scheduled October 19 for its "Energy Day" emphasis.

In business session conducted by Mrs. Jenkins the members agreed to pay annual dues to GFWC/1734 Society which is supportive of GFWC Women's History and Resource Center, opened May 1, 1984, next to International Headquarters of GFWC in Washington, D.C., with Mrs. Sims as the GFWC Chairman of that new 1982-84 project spotlighting the volunteer.

A report was heard from GFWC/South Central Conference regional meeting held in Denver, October 11-13. Mrs. Sims, delegate from GFWC/1924 Study Club, is vice-president of GFWC/SCC. Briefings were given regarding projects which the club has shown special interest and participation in for 1984-86.

Besides the displays on education and conservation, the exhibit table had available items regarding Girls Town Endowment and Safety Division items such as the safety-spray keyrings which the public may purchase.

In open discussion, mention was made of safety as regards energy and health. It was noted that Dodson has received a grant to enhance that area and that Wellington's municipal water is borderline with certain chemicals that will be discussed in January program, "Watch Your Waste" series.

The next meeting is to be November 15 when the theme of "Be A Winner -- A volunteer" will convey "New Concepts in Free Enterprise, Preserving the Great American Bargain."

A festive refreshment table carried out the educational program theme by providing vivid ways to use the autumn tones in fresh flowers, in delectable snacks using dairy and wheat products, dried fruits and herbs as well as fruit juices. An unusual china pattern color co-ordinated these foods which the hostess, Mrs. Jenkins, had learned about in her travels to other countries, thus giving a learning experience to the palates and eyes of those attending.

Club Women Attend District Fall Board Meeting-Workshop

Collingsworth County was represented at the recent Fall Board Meeting and Workshop for members of GFWC/TFWC Top of Texas District. Lefors Art and Civic Club members hosted this annual event held this time at Girls Town USA, Borger Campus.

Those attending were Mrs. Jerry Nix and Mrs. Johnny Nash of GFWC/1954 Study Club and Mrs. H.L. Jenkins and Mrs. B.M. Sims of GFWC/1924 Study Club. Also attending was Linda Jenkins Warrick of Dalhart, active member in two federated clubs there.

Mrs. Wood Craig, GFWC/Top of Texas District President, presided. She is from Sunray and will be visiting Wellington in December.

The club members numbering about 100 toured the Girls Town campus. The high school age girls were able to attend an educational film which told of the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Seminars conducted in Texas and co-sponsored by GFWC/Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The state and international seminars were held in Dallas during the administration of Mrs. B.M. Sims as GFWC/TFWC President. The then state chairman was Mrs. Harry Youngblood of Lefors, past district president and current district HOBY Seminar chairman. This is for high school sophomore boys and girls selected to attend and sponsored by federated women's clubs. School administrators should receive the application in October.

Prevention of Child Abuse project was selected by the International GFWC and has been the Texas project since 1981. The Amarillo Rape Crises Center provided a speaker who shared a new film for school aged children, especially elementary and junior high, to learn signs of unacceptable conduct by adults towards children.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Myers of the Borger Campus expressed appreciation to this group for forming Girls Town Endowment Fund, which has 501-C3 rating for contributions by individuals and groups. Mrs. Margaret Reed of Stratford is current chairmen. Mrs. Sims is a founding board member.

Currently, for a $1 donation or more to Girls Town, local members have tickets which will allow the purchaser to be eligible in the drawing for a lapis and gold bead necklace. Those interested, please check with Mrs. J.E. Nix, GFWC/1954 Study Club president, or Mrs. H.L. Jenkins, GFWC/1924 Study Club president.

A parliamentary workshop by district president-elect, Mrs. Marion Gamertsfelder of Dalhart, was informative. Mrs. Louise Landers of Higgins, district first vice-president, held a reporting workshop. Mrs. Jacque Naylor of Perryton, district second vice-president, motivated members in the membership emphasis. The district trustee, Mrs. Vester Smith of Higgins, told of the work being done by the TFWC Historical Foundation.

1954 Study Club Observes 30th Anniversary at Luncheon

The 1954 Study Club observed 30 years of service to the community with a diamond anniversary luncheon held Thursday, Oct. 11, when Mrs. Lynn Wright was hostess. She was assisted by Mrs. Fred Cox, Mrs. James Shepard and Mrs. Doug Seal.

The guest speaker was the Top of Texas District president, Mrs. Wood Craig of Sunray.

Using as her theme, "Working together to make our world a better place," she emphasized the importance of today's woman advancing and developing a place in her world.

"In fact, today two woman are making a "first time" contribution-a woman walking in space and the first woman vice-presidential candidate in debate. It is time that we realize that we can grow and make contributions," she stressed, adding that opportunity may come to each and they should be prepared.

There's a need for concern with child abuse, drug and alcohol abuse, she continued. The District will stress using programs throughout the year to create concerned interest and support. This is the Top of Texas District's 25th year.

Mrs. Jerry Nix, president, conducted the business meeting. She reminded the group of the club's support for the Satellite Center during Fair Week.

Excelsior Club Opens Year with Continuing Study of Paintings

Excelsior Club met Wednesday, Oct. 17, in the home of Miss Rose Shadid, with Mrs. Raymond Ross as co-hostess.

This meeting opened the new year for the club.

Miss Shadid also presented the program, discussing the life and paintings of the Italian Renaissance artist Raphael.

"He was a perfecting, not an innovating genius," said Miss Shadid. "In a lifetime of only 37 years he produced a body of work that stands today as the epitome of high Renissance art."

"Raphael, established himself early as a master of draftsmanship, linear composition and psychological insight. To these he added grace and limpidity and a youthful poetic spirit that permeates his treatment of familiar religious subjects with an aura of radiant gentleness."

"His balance of intelligence and sensibility are nowhere more apparent than in the magnificent frescoes decorating Julius IIs Vatican study. There in the "Disputa" and the "School of Athens" are the unsurpassed portraiture and majesty of composition that won for Raphael the name, "divine painter" in his own time and everlasting fame after his premature and much-lamented death," the speaker concluded. She illustrated her talk with 80 plates showing paintings in full color.

Miss Shadid, also the club president, conducted the business session.

A dessert plate was served to Mrs. Melvin Kiker, Miss Hattie D. Wells, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. L.W. Wells, Mrs. Velton Sorgee, Mrs. Robert Barjenbruch, Miss Marie Shadid and the hostess Miss Rose Shadid.

Jack Hightower

Jack Hightower deserves our vote in his race for re-election as U.S. Representative.

Hightower has done a good job over the past decade in representing both the economic and philosophical interests of our area in the nation's capital.

His opponent this year has sought to portray Hightower as a liberal big spender. This is simply not the case.

An example is one of Hightower's opponent's television commercials that tries to convince voters that Hightower has spent a great deal of time and money vacationing around the world on Congressional junkets at taxpayers' expense. This is simply not true.

Documentation of Hightower's congressional travel shows that each trip over the past ten years was related either to agricultural trade or to surveying defense installations. Hightower served on the House agriculture committee when he first went to Congress and is now a member of the defense subcommittee of the House appropriations committee.

When congressmen are making decisions about appropriating billions of dollars, we should hope that they have a little first-hand information.

If voters elect more congressmen like Jack Hightower, and they do as good a job as he has done, we should have fewer $500 wrenches and more workable military hardware.

There are many more examples of how Jack Hightower has represented our area well in agricultural, economic and social legislation.

Our vote this November 6 in the race for U.S. Representative should go to the man who has earned our respect and our confidence.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox gigged the Aggies last week, which prompted some Aggies to begin talking about getting another lawyer for the State of Texas.

Mattox, responding to a 1979 sex discrimination lawsuit against Texas A&M University, refused to defend the school because it won't let women march in the Aggie band.

Mattox supports a settlement which would allow women into the band, but some members of the TAMU board of regents and a band alumni group have asked a federal judge to reject the proposal.

They contend that allowing women into the all-male band would either force coed housing, since band members live together, or destroy the esprit de corps that goes back to the turn of the century.

Conspicuously, it puts Mattox on a collision course with regent chairman H. R. "Bum" Bright, also the owner of the Dallas Cowboys. Bright and others feel that Mattox, as the state's lawyer, should defend the university's interest in court. Mattox says that a September federal court ruling gives him the authority to settle a case without the permission of the state agency he is representing.

The attorney general is placing the equal rights provision of the Texas Constitution above Aggie tradition.

The lawsuit was filed in 1979 by a woman student who was not allowed to join the Ross Volunteers, the Corps of Cadets honor guard, because it was an all-male group. Since then, the university has allowed women to join all Corps of Cadets groups, except the band.

Track Gambling Opposed

A bill legalizing horserace gambling in Texas almost made it through the Legislature last session, and its sponsors are hopeful the issue will complete the course in the coming session.

But Gov. Mark White said he would not approve the bill unless several provisions were written into the plan.

He also opposed establishing a state-run lottery, which a number of other state governments use to raise funds.

"I like lotteries least of all," White said, calling it "one of the really consumer frauds that is sponsored by a state."

Revenue Alarms

His voiced opposition stirred anxieties in the minds of supporters of the track-gambling bill. One of the chief arguments for betting is that the state can raise much-needed revenues by taking a share of the gate proceeds.

White answered that any decision about legalized track gambling should be made separate from budget considerations.

Oil Forecast

As these past slim years have underscored so well, oil production in Texas is vital to revenues for state government, but experts indicate the 11-year downward slide in Texas production may be halting.

One University of Texas expert predicts an era of stability by 1990, meaning thousands of jobs and billions in state tax revenues can be saved.

The picture includes oil prices in the $28-to-$30-per-barrel range, with about 1,600 new wells being drilled annually.

The Protecting LIGHT

This lighted tower is a light shining in the darkness to guide sailors and ships through the night. Our Lord is our light who guides us faithfully through life, even though it be as a stormy sea — He knows the way. His word, as proclaimed in His church, will light your way and bring peace, joy and comfort.

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." Psalm 119:105.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

RETIRED TEACHERS

During a visit here, Dr. W.A. Hunt, president of Texas Retired Teachers Association visits with Boyd Williams, retired Shamrock superintendent of schools, and with Vanda Gierhart of Shamrock, Dollie Mae Wilson of Wellington and Marjorie Bain of Turkey, presidents of their county retired reacher associations.

Curb on Health Care Costs Urged by Retired Teacher Head

Calling on retired teachers of Collingsworth, Wheeler and all counties to fight "the unbridled cost in the health care system," Dr. W.A. Hunt of Abilene, president of the Texas Retired Teachers Association, was the luncheon speaker for the Wellington chapter Tuesday, Oct. 9.

In the last 16 years, hospital room costs have gone up 500% and physicians cost 250% declared the former president of McMurry College who was once a Childress resident.

If a curb is not put on health care costs, he predicted that by 1995, Medicare will be $400 million in the red.

Dr. Hunt urged the retired teachers to talk to their legislators and express their concerns frankly.

Turning his attention to AARP (American Association of Retired Persons) he explained that on the national level, AARP was the retired teachers organization. AARP, he pointed out, is an 18 million member organization with 800,000 living in Texas.

There has never been an AARP chapter here, although there are a number of individual members. AARP sponsors legislation benefiting retired persons and legislates for and lobbies for beneficial legislation introduced by others.

"When AARP representatives go to Washington congressmen listen to them," said the speaker. The organization also worked to secure Medicare and Medicaid and the Older Americans Act of 1975, which makes discrimination because of age illegal.

Goals toward which AARP is now working and which Dr. Hunt recommended were:

*Reduce the rate of (health care) cost escalation.

*Save and strengthen Medicare and Medicaid.

*Promote development of an alternate health care system.

*Develop for oneself a healthier life style.

Mrs. Dollie Mae Wilson, president of the Wellington chapter, was in charge of the luncheon, with Florence DeAmrond, Nan Henard and Mayme Lou Denley as hostesses.

Visitors attended from Shamrock and Memphis retired teacher chapters.

Drive Carefully at Halloween, DPS Warns

The last day in October is a special day for some very special little "goblins". Once again hundreds of our children will take to the neighborhoods dressed in scary attire of all description. This is supposed to be a happy event for children but for some of them, trick or treat may well turn into tragedy.

Major V.J. Cawthon, Commander of the Department of Public Safety, Region V, said, "A few extra precautions on the part of motorists, parents and children could prevent tragedies this Halloween". He also mentioned that adequate visibility of our children is of utmost importance, urging the use of retro-reflective material. This is an effective and inexpensive way to make little "monsters" readily seen.

Parents should also provide children with flashlights which serve a dual purpose of lighting their path and also warning motorists or cyclists of their location. A last minute reminder of basic pedestrian safety rules before they start off is also in order. Homeowners can help by providing porch and sidewalk lighting where possible and try to remove any items in your yard which may become a hazard after dark.

As motorists, be on the look out for kids darting into the street from between parked vehicles. Remember, they are excited and pre-occupied with trick or treating so drivers need to be extra alert.

So, let's all be aware of kids on streets, so they can enjoy their

Paschalls Attend Army Division 37th Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. M.W. Paschall returned Monday, Sept. 10, after attending the 37th annual reunion of the 1st Armored Division U.S. Army, in Louisville, Ky. Paschall, commander of the Glynn Moore Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was a member of that unit during World War II.

He received a 20 year pin during the convention, having attended 20 of the 37 reunions.

On Friday, Sept. 7, the convention visitors toured Fort Knox, where memorial services were held at Brook Field Flag Pole.

At General George Patton Museum, Paschall found that one of the displays was a picture of the Co. D, 13th A.R., 1st Armored Division, made just before the unit went overseas in World War II. Paschall found himself in it.

More than 200,000 people visit this museum annually, coming from the 50 states and many foreign countries.

The 983 convention visitors saw the permanent display of World War II tanks, and other vehicles from the American, German and Russian armies.

They also saw the latest in tanks and other equipment used by the U.S. Army.

The Paschalls also attended the Blue Grass Festival of USA featuring Bill Monroe and his band.

White Deer Slips By Skyrockets, 14-8

BY DICKIE JOHNSON

In a game where fumbles, pass interceptions and bad snaps on punting downs told the tale, the Wellington Skyrockets were defeated by the White Deer Bucks 14-8 at White Deer Friday, Oct. 19.

The Skyrockets received the opening kickoff and started from their own 20 yard line. A strong White Deer defensive line held the Skyrockets and Wellington was forced to punt.

The Bucks started their first possession from their own 42 yard line but on the first play a jarring tackle forced a fumble and a Skyrocket recovery. The Skyrockets had excellent field position on the Buck 47.

Wellington moved the ball well and picked up a couple of 1st downs to the White Deer 18. A White Deer pass interception thwarted the drive and the Bucks took over on their 32 yard line.

Neither team could sustain any drive because of equally strong defenses. After 3 more ball exchanges the Skyrockets had the ball and were backed up against the goal line. A costly fumble gave the Bucks the ball on the Rocket 6. With 0:15 left in the first quarter White Deer took advantage of the turnover and scored on a sweep left. The extra point was good, the Bucks led 7 - 0.

The Skyrockets started their next series from their own 15, but again a strong White Deer defense forced a punt. White Deer took over with excellent field position on the Skyrocket 38. On the second play from scrimmage, the Bucks went to the air and connected on a 35-yard touchdown pass. The extra point was good and the Bucks increased their lead to 14 - 0.

The remainder of the first half was a defensive standoff with neither team gaining much ground. The Buck defensive line with their size and quickness shut down the Skyrockets running game. The Skyrockets also played excellent defense and held the Bucks to less than 100 yards on the ground. After 3 more exchanges of possession, the half ended with White Deer leading 14 - 0.

White Deer took the kickoff to begin the second half and returned the ball out to the 37 yard line. The Skyrockets held the Bucks and after the punt took over on their own 36 yard line. However, a Skyrocket fumble gave the ball right back to White Deer on the Wellington 40 yard line.

The Skyrocket defense held the Bucks again on 3 downs and White Deer punted the ball inside the 5 yard line. The Skyrockets drove the ball back down to the Buck 30 yard line before an interception ended the drive. The Bucks again were stopped and punted the ball back to the Skyrockets as the third quarter ended with the score remaining 14 - 0.

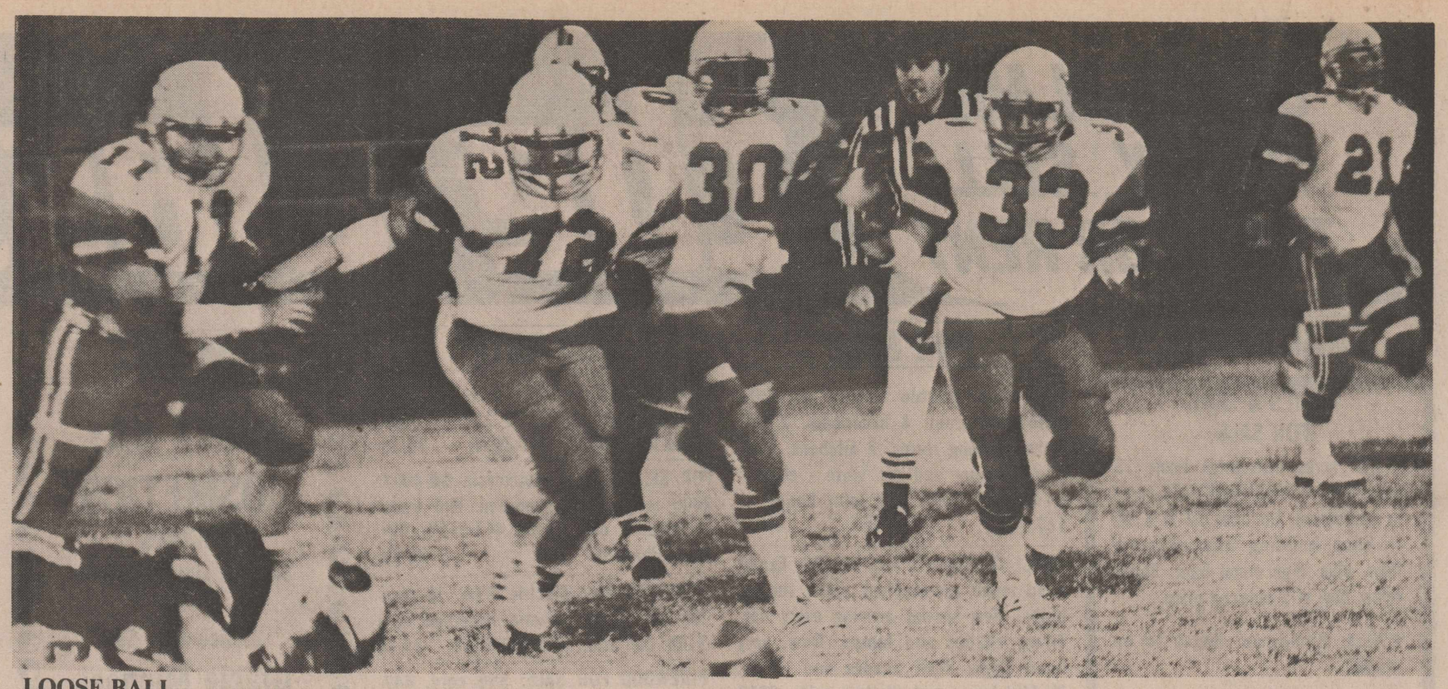

After a swap in possessions, White Deer was again in punt formation but a bad snap over the punter's head gave the Skyrockets the ball on the Buck's 25 yard line. The Skyrockets pounded out a 1st down inside the 10 yard line and then with 7:21 remaining in the game Michael Mackey went into the end zone for the touchdown. Michael Souder hit Jamie McKay for the 2 point conversion and the score stood at 14 - 8.

On the Bucks next series of downs history almost repeated itself. A poor snap again on 4th down gave the Skyrockets the ball on the White Deer 43 yard line. The Skyrockets drove the ball inside the 5 yard line and had a 1st down and goal on the 3 yard line. The Buck defense tightened up and stopped the Skyrockets on 4 downs. White Deer took over and ran the clock out for the final score of 14 - 8.
