LAMESA BOY SCOUTS WINNERS AT DISTRICT MEETING HELD IN TAHOKA THURSDAY-FRIDAY

JIMMIE HURST ACCIDENTALLY KILLED FRIDAY

One hundred and fifteen boy scouts of the eight troops in this district were represented at the Scout meet in Tahoka last week. Six of the troops competed in the field meet.

Thursday evening a song, yell and stunt contest was held around a big camp fire. In the song and yell contests troops 21 and 16 of Lamesa took first place and Post and Tahoka took second place. Joe Spikes troop No. 22 won first place in the stunt contest.

Friday morning various contests and Irish base ball were enjoyed and at two o'clock the field meet proper began. There were 16 contestants.

The contest consisted of attendance and inspection, semi-force signaling, general service signaling, fire by friction, fire by flint on steel, knot tying, shuttle flagging, relay and first aid.

Troop 22 was given first place and district championship with 43 points. Troop 21 of Tahoka second place with 30 points and troop 23 of Lamesa third place with 23 points.

Soda pop and bread were furnished by Happy Smith of the bottling works and the Tahoka bakery. All the boys reported a very enjoyable meet.

Those attending were: C. L. Schmidt, J. M. Wood, Jack Keisling, Zac and Frank Davis, Cecil Medlin, Allen and Edwin McClain, Edwin Speck, Elles Glen Irvin, Willard McSpadden, Asil McClintock, Guy Ranson, Clovis Johnson, Kenneth and Jim King, Joe McAllister, Herman Heffernan, John Marr, Travis Simpson, L. J. Donger, Thomas Cole, Joe and Marcus Twedt, Bob Carter, Jack Hastings, Darnin Scott, Ward Pratt, Mr. Jennings, Tom Earhart, Joe Spikes, Morris Shepherd and Marion Key.

Last rites were held here Saturday afternoon for James Hurst, 17, a victim of one 22 rifle bullet. Jimmy, as he was known to his friends, is believed to have been accidentally wounded. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hurst of this city and a linotype operator for the Dow Printing Co.

Rev. Eugene H. Surfer, Presbyterian pastor, conducted the services in the local church with Mrs. A. G. Barnard in charge of the music. The relatives viewed the body at the funeral home of Higginbotham's before it was taken to the church. Following the services, those attending adjourned to the city cemetery where interment followed.

Details of the accident were told by Mrs. Hurst to friends a few moments after it occurred.

"Jimmy had gone to work at the regular time, but came back to the house for something," she said. "He was in his room a few moments before the accident and I was talking with him. I asked him if there was much work for him to do at the printing office and he said there was. Then I asked him if he was going back to work soon and he said 'yes'. He lighted a cigaret and then I walked out of his room into the kitchen. When I got there I heard something that sounded like a box had fallen over but didn't think anything of it until I heard something heavy fall. I rushed back to his room and found him lying on the floor with the rifle by his side."

A doctor arrived just a few moments afterwards, summoned by one of the ladies who were attending Mrs. Hurst. Jimmy passed away about 11:45. The shooting occurred at about 10:30.

FORREST HOME IS SCENE OF LOVELY 42 PARTY

Honoring Superintendent and Mrs. V. Z. Rogers and members of the Lamesa City school board, the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Forrest was the scene of a gay and unique party last Thursday evening when Mrs. Forrest, Mrs. Wm. A. Wilson and Mrs. M. C. Lindsey were hostesses to a large number of Lamesans. As the guests assembled they were greeted by Mrs. Forrest afterward they were ushered by the other hostesses into the dining room where punch was served by Misses Doris Robertson and Selma Huse.

Enacting a Friday afternoon of school, Mrs. W. P. Avriett and Wm. A. Wilson chose sides and Mr. Rogers "gave out" the spelling from an old "blue back" speller. As the contestants matched wits with tilting vowels and syllable cadence, the school board, acting as judges, frequently made rulings according to Webster.

Tally cards were then passed replicas of Webster's Spelling book and the guests engaged in lively games of 42 after which Angel Food squares carrying the colors of Lamesa High School, and strawberry sherbert were served.

The guest list included Messrs. and Mesdames V. Z. Rogers, W. B. Collins, W. K. Crawley, W. D. Arnett, W. H. Bennett, J. R. Flaniken, C. F. Cook, C. M. Roberts, Jack McLaughlin, Ralph Stuart, J. E. Barron, E. R. McClain, A. G. Bearden, W. T. Webb, D. S. Day, J. R. Williams, J. R. Lowrie, Guy Travis, J. S. Manning, E. D. Yates, A. R. Smallin, Ned Robertson, G. E. Goodloe, E. C. Nix, W. P. Avriett, J. E. Garland, O. B. Norman, B. L. King, A. B. Heffernan, R. E. Simpson, Wm. A. Wilson, S. L. Forrest, M. C. Lindsey.

Worth while the latter will spend a week. They were accompanied by Sherwood McClain of that city who rushed to Lamesa with Mary when she learned of the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurst and Jack left Monday for Hale Center to spend a week. Mrs. Jack Hurst of Hale Center, who came to Lamesa to attend the funeral in company with a Mr. Sears of that place, returned Saturday evening with him.

A NEWSPAPER FOR AND BY THE PEOPLE OF DAWSON COUNTY

A PUBLIC LIBRARY

There has been considerable agitation of recent months for the establishment of a public library in this county, and while we would not at this time undertake to set forth a plan by which this library might be started, we are of the opinion that it is important enough to command the attention of the people, to the extent of getting the question before the people in a way that will bring forth good results.

The benefits of a good library can hardly be estimated. It is however, one of the pressing needs of the rural districts and not a bad thing for the people of the city. Two thirds to three-fourths of the country people, we are told, do not have access to a library of any kind. There are many men in the country, and in town whose schooling did not extend beyond grammar school, and yet these men are fairly well educated. How did they get it? Their education has been obtained through the reading of good books, and these books should be made available through the medium of a well selected library of books.

It would be surprising the number of people who read books, if they are placed within their reach.

We would not venture to say just how this should be started, but we have known some libraries started from a very small beginning of a volunteer contribution of books. Many splendid volumes could be secured in this way without the expenditure of a dime. This plan however we would not recommend for Lamesa, for we are of the opinion that the people here are too much interested in the enlightenment of the people, who want to read, to start out in this small way.

While it is very unpopular to suggest new ways in which to spend tax money, we can't help feeling that the county library system with community book centers scattered throughout the county, and possibly book trucks in some cases, supported by taxation, is the best solution to this problem. Any plan that is satisfactory must be one that carries the library to the farm, just as the results of our colleges and experiment stations are carried to farm people by the Extension Service of the Agricultural College. And we think that such a library system might well be financed by the governments of nation, State and county, each contributing to its support.

In Texas, the commissioners' court of any county has the authority under Texas statutes to appropriate money for a county library system. But the movement should be given financial support by the state and nation as well.

Out of 254 counties in Texas, there are only 13 that have established county library systems. These few wide-awake counties are as follows in the order in which their libraries were established: Dallam, Cooke, Harris, Potter, Tarrant, Wilbarger, Lubbock, Midland, McCulloch, Tom Green, McLennan, and Deaf Smith. Just think! Only 13 out of 254. Of all the people in Texas, more than two-thirds are left high and dry so far as being able to get the benefits of a library.

These are merely suggestions, and are given only in the hope that somebody will take the matter in hand and sponsor what we consider an important piece of real construction work. It has been intimated that the business men's luncheon club may take hold of this matter, or the Lions Club, or some organization that will put it over.

LEADERSHIP

We Feel that America is suffering now from the need of great, true, honest leadership. What a funny old world it is anyway. It can produce a wizard like Edison, a financial genius like Mellon, a Croesus like Rothschild and Rockefeller, a Colossus like Ford, but seems utterly unable to prevent the recurrence of periods during which millions of hardworking, intelligent men and women are deprived of the means of earning a livelihood.

What's wrong with a world like that?

The lack of adequate leadership, the right kind of leadership. For the right kind of leadership would not lead to such conditions. Too much dependence upon material things, too little upon the spiritual.

The world by now ought to know that there is no unailing strength in materialism. Like the chaff the wind driveth away, it withers and dies—the best of it. Many grim examples of it in the last year or so. It cannot even insure its own survival, let alone furnish the force to meet such crises as the one through which the world is now passing. Men have thought it could. They have leaned on it, only to find that the finest works of materialism were but broken reeds.

There is too much selfishness, too much unconcern for the other fellow. We've got to give more thought to the power of God as the only power upon which men can safely depend. They have tried everything else. Leadership committed to that One source of inspiration and power is the only kind of leadership that can be adequate, the only kind that will bring order out of chaos and safeguard the world against these tragic messes which its blundering materialistic selfishness keeps leading it into.

TWENTY TWO YEARS AGO

An editorial published in the Chicago Tribune February 7, 1909, has of late been reprinted by several papers. That editorial stoutly denounced alcohol in this language: "Remove alcohol, take it out of reach of people, and humanity will not have lost a single pleasure. Civilized man will not miss it any more than he misses opium. Moments of enjoyment which alcoholic drinks apparently bring to man are short. Consequences they leave behind them, on the other hand, are long and not frequently lasting. By treating a young man to a glass of this 'fire water' one is giving him a ticket, a pass, as it were, to tuberculosis, paralysis, and numerous other sicknesses and afflictions induced by alcoholic drinks. As for the State, in spite of high revenue it receives from sale of alcoholic drinks, it is loser rather than gainer. Millions of human beings are made unhappy by it annually. Millions of their children suffer, and thousands on thousands of criminals and maniacs are made. A German statistician has figured that one alcoholic cost the State 900,000 francs in a period of one hundred years—that is, by misery, sickness, and crime which this alcoholic and his offspring bring into the world."

What a pity the great Chicago Tribune is not publishing the same kind of editorials today! Liquor is no less violent in the human system or in the State now than in 1909. The efforts made these days by the Chicago Tribune to destroy the results of the long fight against alcohol are to be deplored. A dozen or two of the great metropolitan papers could easily change the whole public attitude toward prohibition and secure the enforcement of the Volstead law. They could make prohibition a success more easily than they can destroy it.

TROOP 22 MEETING

The boys who were to take part in first aid stayed inside and reviewed while the others went outside. We sang our troop song, gave our troop yell and were then dismissed.

Mr. Car Owner

Here is what Race Drivers with Life and Victory at Stake have decided about Tires

FOR twenty-one years the Indianapolis two and a half mile circular brick track, surrounded by a concrete wall to keep the cars from dashing off, has been the crucible where at white heat automobiles and tires have been tested. Thousands of men have risked, and some have sacrificed, their lives, and manufacturers have spent millions of dollars to the end of making better automobiles and better tires.

Louis Schneider and mechanic on Saturday won this race in a heavy 8 cylinder car. He made an average speed of 96.629 miles per hour—on the straightaways and in passing cars he touched 140 miles and better. He drove on 6.00-20 Firestone High Speed Tires with racing treads. He had no tire trouble.

He used Firestone Tires because Firestone experts and engineers have through twenty-one years taken this race as a challenge to tire making. From this race they have developed these vital improvements which have given to Firestone Tires the world leadership in safety, mileage and endurance.

1. Gum-Dipping. Tires had to be stronger and able to stand the heat of a hot red-brick track at high speed. Firestone met this by developing and perfecting the dipping of cords through a rubber solution to insulate each fiber of every cord to overcome heat and give the cord greater strength—and 58% greater flexibility. This is the Patented Gum-Dipping Process used in the making of every Firestone Tire.

2. The Balloon Tire was developed by Firestone to permit greater speed with comfort and safety by increasing road grip and absorbin' shocks. It was made possible by the added strength and flexibility given by Gum-Dipping. In the 1925 race, some of the drivers tried the then new Firestone Balloons. The others stuck to high-pressure tires. Peter de Paolo on Firestone Balloons made a world's record. All the prize winners came in on Firestone Balloons—Now the balloon tire is everywhere the standard.

3. Double Cord Breaker. The higher-powered cars and the step-up in speed demanded still more tire toughness. At one hundred miles an hour, the circumference of a tire increases by more than 10%, and this, added to the centrifugal force, tends to throw off the tire treads. Firestone met this by developing the Patented Double Cord Breaker which gives a 56% stronger bond between the tread and the tire body and also gives a 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts.

These are some of the great lessons that Firestone has learned on this racing track. And so the men whose lives and fortunes depend on knowing tires always buy Firestone Patented Gum-Dipped Double Cord Breaker High-Speed Tires.

There were 72 entries. Of these, 40 survived the elimination trials—and every one of them was on Firestone Tires. And every tire was bought and paid for.

We give you the benefit of all the lessons Firestone has learned from these races. You can get from us all the strength and safety in tires that the racing driver has.

POULTRY SCHOOL HELD HERE LAST WEEK

The Poultry Short Course school conducted last week by R. C. Glazene in co-operation with county agents W. W. Evans, and Miss Rozelle McKenney was only being lightly attended, but keen interest was shown by all who attended. Mr. Glazene is recognized as one of the prominent authorities in the state and since Dawson County is one of the leading counties in poultry production, the school was timely and important in helping solve some of the problems that poultry farmers experience.

Miss Inez Walker of Seminole, visited friends in town Thursday.

COLOR is so cheerful in the home

UNTIL you try, you have no idea how a dash of sunny Duco color brightens up a room. Skill is not needed to finish things with Duco. It is delightfully easy to apply; and it dries quickly, so that the danger of wet paint is avoided—but not too quickly for easy brushing. Duco colors are clear and sparkling, with lasting lustre. Try Duco once, and you'll want to Duco everything.
