Media Loss Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court soon will hand the news media a crushing defeat in a decision that could revolutionize libel law, ABC News reports. The court is poised to rule that public officials or public figures suing for libel may force journalists to tell what their thoughts, opinions and conclusions were while preparing a news story, the television network said Monday.

Turned To Refugees

JACKSON, Miss (AP)—Record floodwaters poured over sections of the Pearl River levee today, turning more parking lots, front lawns and open fields into lakes and more Jackson residents into refugees.

"All my life I've heard about refugees, but I never believed I'd be one," said Robert C. Travis, a Jackson attorney forced to flee his northeast Jackson home.

Iranians Marching

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—An estimated 20,000 persons staged a march in Tehran today in the third day of demonstrations supporting popular Tehran religious leader, but the demonstration was broken up by militant Islamic youths.

The confrontation underlined a widening split among the various factions that united to drive Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from the throne. The nation, meanwhile, was beset by growing unemployment.

OPEC Expells Egypt

KUWAIT (AP)—The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries expelled Egypt from its membership today and announced an embargo on oil shipments to Egypt.

Chairman Omar Al Montasser, the Libyan minister of heavy industries, announced the decision at the end of a two-day OPEC meeting that was attended by the other nine members of the organization.

Disaster such as the tornadoes which devastated portions of Wichita Falls and Vernon last week attract widespread attention and touch off two major types of reaction among outsiders.

There are the groups, such as Snyder American Legion Post and the Ira Lions Club, that coordinate benevolent forces and contribute to the aid for their fellowmen. Then there are the vultures who descend on the disaster area to seek easy dollars. So, among the stories last week of tragedy and misfortune there were warnings to those who lost their homes to beware of unusual offers for making repairs to property and quick-sell insurance schemes.

Incidentally, one of the first cities to respond with aid to Wichita Falls and Vernon was Lubbock. People there undoubtedly recalled their own plight nine years ago. There were reports that by Friday, contributions from Lubbock had filled an entire building and there was more to come.

Picked up from the mail:

The Texas Office of Traffic Safety says it takes 3,150 feet to stop a freight train of 150 cars traveling 30 miles per hour. They say trying to beat a train to a crossing is like playing Russian roulette with five bullets in the gun.

And, in case you were wondering, it takes a passenger train with eight cars 3,500 feet to stop when making 60 miles per hour. We don't have to worry about that in Snyder.

Glass is one of the most versatile products manufactured by man. It can be made lighter than cork or as massive as cast iron, as strong as steel or as fagile as a spider web, as soft as cotton or as hard as a diamond.

Americans are big on figures. This year, estimates are that management will spend over $130 million to produce more than 50 million copies of annual reports for 15,000 publicly-owned U.S. companies.

The English language contains more words than any other--800,000--but it is doubtful that any individual uses more than 60,000.

To Elect 1st Black Government...

Rhodesians Go To The Polls

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)-Guarded by more than 9,000 troops on the alert for guerrilla attacks, blacks and whites in Rhodesia today went to the polls together for the first time to elect their first black-majority government.

The guerrillas of the Patriotic Front, led by Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, vowed to wreck the election and were busy on the eve of the polling. They set fire to a fuel depot in the southern garrison town of Fort Victoria with rockets, attacked five polling stations and did minor damage to one, and did minor damage to a bus depot in Salisbury with mortar fire.

But with 2.8 million blacks and 100,000 whites estimated eligible to vote, Prime Minister Ian Smith and his three black coleaders of the bi-racial government were hoping for a big turnout that could start a tide of international recognition.

Since Smith declared independence from Britain in 1965 to prevent black rule, Rhodesia has been an international outcast. Only neighboring white-ruled South Africa Maintains diplomatic relations with it, and it is the target of economic and military sanctions.

Smith reversed himself last March, formed a transitional government with moderate black politicians Abel Muzorewa, Ndabaningi Sithole and Jeremiah Chirau, and agreed with them on a new constitution providing for a black majority in Parliament and the country's first black prime minister.

Nkomo and Mugabe have vowed to sabotage the elections and step up their guerrilla war because while the blacks will have the majority, the whites will dominate the future government.

The whites, who make up just 4 percent of the population, will have 28 of the 100 seats in the new House of Assembly, enough to veto any change in the constitution. Constitutional provisions will also keep the armed forces, the civil service, the judiciary and the police under white control for at least the next five years.

Black supporters of the constitution say they agreed to the guarantees to the whites to retain the whites' expertise for black Zimbabwe Rhodesia, as the country is to be renamed, to get the whites to agree to majority rule and, hopefully, to get international recognition.

GOING UP—Sunday School attendance for Easter Sunday hit 4,185 with 45 of 60 churches in Scurry county reporting. April was set aside by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance as "attend the Sunday School of Your Choice" month. The 4,185 attendance figure represents an increase from the 3,900 and 3,547 figures tallied from the two previous Sundays this month. North, Northeast Patrons Want Schools Kept Intact

Do whatever you have to, but leave our schools as they are.

That was the gist of the message Snyder School officials got Monday night at a meeting held in the North Elementary School auditorium to discuss a proposal for "pairing" local elementary schools.

The session took an unexpected turn just prior to adjournment when there were spontaneous calls from the audience for all to make certain that personal property rendition forms are filled out and returned to the school tax office.

"Everything else is going up, and if it is going to cost us more to run our schools, we'll just have to bear down and do it," was one statement heard as the session ended.

One of the objectives of the pairing proposal is economy (administrators have estimated that it would save around $200,000 per year) and some 150 persons attending the session at North appeared to be aware of school financial problems arising from declining oil values.

The saving would be achieved by reducing the elementary faculty by some 14 teachers and 12 teacher aides.

However, comments were almost 100 percent against pairing as a remedy, or partial remedy.

In response to questions, Supt. Bill J. Hood and Dr. Thomas Scannicchio, assistant superintendent-instruction, said that the primary aim, however, was to strengthen the educational program by providing more sections of each class in each building. Under the pairing proposal, all first, second and third graders in the North and Northeast attendance zones would attend North Elementary, while all fourth, fifth and sixth graders in the two zones would attend Northeast. Each zone would retain its kindergarten sections.

As an example cited in a statistical sheet handed out prior to the meeting, a projected 49 first graders at North which would require three teachers to keep class loads at recommended levels, and a projected 54 first graders at Northeast, also requiring three teachers, could be combined for a total of 103, which would require a total of five teachers with maximum class loads of 21 each. Similar situations in other grades would reduce the number of teachers for the two attendance zones by four.

Questions involved busing schedules, costs of running extra buses, inconveniences to parents and students, how decisions would be made as to which teachers would lose their jobs, the effect on scouting programs, the emotional effect on pupils who are moved to another school.

In response to a question, Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent for administration and personnel, said that the district would follow a "last on, first off" policy in terminating teacher contracts if the pairing proposal should be adopted.

Some said they under-

More Aid Going To Storm Areas

More aid from this area is going to victims of tornadoes last week in North Texas.

Supt. James McLeroy of Borden County Schools at Gail, will take a load of bedding, clothing, food and money to the storm-ravaged area.

The items were collected by the student council, the Beta Club, the Future Farmers of America and Futher Homemakers of America in the Borden schools.

Meanwhile, the North Texas Division of the American Red Cross reported that Red Cross has been on the scene of the disasters in Wichita Falls, Vernon and Lawton since the tornadoes ripped through that area a week ago.

Red Cross disaster equipment and trained personnel from Dallas, Fort Worth, Lubbock, Texarkana, Waco, Longview, Houston, Tulsa and St. Louis were dispatched to the scene immediately following the storms. The organization is seeking donations to its disaster fund to help finance this service, said Michael F. Giard, head of the North Texas Division. Checks should be made payable to the Red Cross Disaster Fund.

Ask Us

Q--Is it true that the last-minute write-in candidate which put a school board race into a runoff will cost the school district $2,500 in runoff election expenses?

A--You have some of the correct numbers, but too many of them. School officials say it will cost about $250 to hold the runoff election.

Chamber Board Meets Tonight

Reports on several activities are on the agenda for a meeting of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce board of directors set for 7 p.m. tonight in the chamber conference room.

The board will be brought up to date on activities in the agri-business, retail merchants and AJRA committees and also on development of the chamber's industrial team.

Supreme Court Refuses To Shut Nuclear Plants

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, sticking to its belief that the nuclear energy issue is better left to Congress and the states, has refused to shut down the atomic power industry.

The justices turned down Monday a Nashville, Tenn., woman's attempt to force the Nuclear Regulatory Commission into "emergency" action - immediately revoking all nuclear power licenses while the effects of nuclear energy on health are studied.

Jeannine Honicker had asked the high court to order the NRC to take such action. Although not accompanied by an explanation, the denial would not have been surprising even without procedural shortcomings pointed out by government lawyers in Ms. Honicker's appeal.

The court has previously been hesitant to insert itself into the nuclear controversy.

A year ago this month, the justices decided that federal courts play only a bit part in protecting the public from any possible dangers of nuclear power plants.

"Nuclear energy may some day be a cheap, safe source of power or it may not," a unanimous court ruled then in a case involving nuclear waste. "Time may prove wrong the decision to develop nuclear energy, but it is Congress or the states ... which must eventually make that judgment."

Ms. Honicker, a 46-year-old businesswoman who last year ran unsuccessfully for Congress, contends that nuclear power plants release "deadly poisons to the biosphere."

It appears to be all over but the accounting in Uganda.

Guerrilla skirmishing may drag on for a time. But if we are to believe reports from the Kampala-Entebbe battle zone, Idi Amin has lost the war he provoked last October. The Conqueror of the British Empire, a title he bestowed upon himself with characteristic modesty after one of his many tiffs with Uganda's former colonial overlord, has been conquered by a ragtag army of neighboring Tanzanians and his own rebellious countrymen.

It couldn't have happened to a more deserving despot. But if Idi Amin and his war are finished, the consequences of this latest ugly little episode in black Africa's continuing effort to progress from independence to a stable political order are not.

Amin may be thoroughly detested by his peers in the Organization of African Unity, the entity that would be the conscience and set the standards for the new Africa. But Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere has not become the hero of the day by accomplishing his overthrow.

While the invasion of Uganda may have been morally and politically justified, it sets a precedent for the overthrow of a country's leadership by outside forces. That's enough to make several other high-handed OAU members, all too aware of running houses constructed to some extent of glass, extremely nervous.

Uganda's future could also become as much of a problem as its recent past. The return of former President Milton Obote, sent packing by Amin in a 1971 coup, would not be universally popular in or out of Uganda. Kenya for one has made it clear that given the unfortunate choice, it would prefer Amin to Obote as a neighbor.

Uganda's economy, crippled by falling coffee prices and a boycott by the United States and other big buyers, is back to the village barter level. And it is not alone. Victorious Tanzania isn't so much better off.

The war by some estimates has been costing it the equivalent of a million dollars a day - and this in a country heavily dependent upon foreign aid for economic necessities. Reserves of foreign exchange are reported to have dropped to something like $25 million, about what Tanzania has been spending for imports every month.

But there you have a basic problem with battlefield solutions to differences among nations. Winners very often also end up as losers.

costs of poverty

Labor Department statisticians have news for a significant segment of the U.S. population.

As of April 1, an urban family of four with an income of less than $6,700 will be categorized as poor. That is an increase of $500 over last year's income standard.

For a single person, the poverty level goes up from $3,140 to $3,400. Similar increases for statistical purposes were announced for households of other compositions.

It just goes to show you how it is with inflation. It costs more just to be poor.

my turn

by john dunnam

Here it is the middle of April and I've just now got my 1979 almanac. A sad statement from one in the fact finding business.

I was a sucker for one of those TV ads that promised a wall map and an almanac for subscribing to a certain magazine. That was in January and my magazines began arriving right on time along with a bill for double the price promised in the ad.

To adjust these little discrepancies, I dialed the same toll free number I used to place my order and was assured by a yankee accent that I would receive my map and almanac six to eight weeks after they received my remittance. Since I had already sent my money I sat back and waited, but still no goodies--except those silly magazines that were beginning to pile up on top the TV. Then I received a second, third and final notice of the inflated bill. Each, in graduating tones of subtlety, implied that bad associations were being connected to my character and these would be shared with other creditors if I didn't cough up some more money.

I called again about these nasty little notices and was told they meant nothing. "Computer sends them just ignore them," I was told. I did as I was advised and soon even the magazines stopped coming. There was only one thing left to do. Get mad!

I kind of feel sorry for the last guy that answered my call. (It was impossible to talk to the same one everytime.) I said some pretty disgusting things about his family lineage not to mention the intimacies of his personal affairs. Somewhere in there I reiterated again the problems I was experiencing.

I'm still waiting for the map but with a good two thirds of the year left I have the almanac in hand. I figure one out of two ain't bad when dealing with a bunch of them foreigners east of the Mississippi River.

I was beginning to feel like a character in a cartoon I saw. After being trounced by a couple of mafia-type thugs in the employ of a of a loan shark, one said. "Oh by the way, please ignore this warning if your payment is already in the mail.

Isn't the weather great this week. Especially when compared to the sandstorms that blew through last week. I heard one farmer swear it was so windy last Thursday that one of his chickens layed the same egg three times.

thoughts

One of the oldest of Biblical books names the three most beautiful women of that land and time. They were sisters.

"And he called the name of the first, Jemima; and the name of the second, Kezia; and the name of the third, Kerenhappuch. And in all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job..." — Job 42:14-15 at wits end

by erma bombeck

I read somewhere that in 1977, copy machines throughout the world regurgitated 226 billion copies of everything from annual reports to birth announcements.

It seems anything worth saying once can improve if you produce it again, and again.

At first, I thought it was a business-oriented piece of equipment, but when all my friends began getting them for their homes, I realized how much I needed one.

As I told my husband, "A home copier would really save us a lot of money."

"What would you use it for?"

"Are you crazy? I could duplicate all of our birth certificates and our medical records and your discharge from the Army, not to mention a Christmas newsletter to 300 of our intimate friends."

"You need a copier like the Osmonds need a cavity fighter."

"You are saying then that what I do is not worth saving. I've seen your memos and they don't exactly belong in the archives. After all, I like to run my home with the same efficiency as you run your office."

That hit a nerve and by the next week, I was busy at my copier.

The first week along I turned out copies of every check we had ever written, our Social Security cards, driver's licenses, and warranties on all our small appliances. I made 60 copies of a garage sale notice for Mayva, 35 forms to leave for the milkman, and an inner-utility room memo regarding laundry left on the dryer longer than 60 days.

At a dinner party, I wheeled in the copier and turned on the button and asked, "How many of you want a copy of my recipe for Ambrosia Liver?" (They were obviously too stunned that a housewife was that efficient to say anything!)

One night my husband made his way through the pillars of white paper and said, "Aren't you going a little crazy with this thing? The next thing you know you'll go into cloning people."

I looked up from my copier, which was producing instructions for a current diet going through the neighborhood. "You know, I could cross a Dolly Parton, a Barbara Walters and a Carol Burnett that could make test tube productions obsolete!"

opportunities

Mr. Alton Newell, a Texas manufacturer, first wrote what I am going to try to condense.

He wrote it under the caption: "Bad News for Teen-age America."

He says that if you were born 16 years ago, literally and figuratively the world since then has "gone to pot."

Just when you get old enough to drive a car, your country runs out of gas.

City air is too polluted to breathe and country water is too polluted to fish and fish are too contaminated to eat.

Nuclear power plants spew radiation over your generation. Spray cans are destroying the ozone. If cancer doesn't kill you you'll drown when the ice caps melt.

Horsefeathers!

Young Americans--school-age americans--if you can get off the self-pity-pot for a hundred seconds, I'd like to show you a really great place to grow up in if you want to.

You can see it from your own window.

Out there is a country where crime declined three percent last year.

A country where marriage rates are stabilizing and the divorce rate is declining.

Had you been born a hundred years earlier you'd have had a life expectancy of 30 years. Born when you were, and having survived the precarious first years of life, your odds are excellent of living to be a healthy, active hundred.

Some insist your generation will freeze in the dark.

Some of those scaredy-cats are helping a three-inch fish hold up a $100 million power project.

But in spite of the obstructionists, there are more than 50 nuclear power plants operating in the United States--entirely safely.

And we have enough coal for a thousand years, maybe two-thousand.

Such a multiplicity of assorted energies are presently proving themselves that these promise the most exciting opportunities since the Industrial Revolution.

Pollution of air and water, almost everywhere that they are measured, are measurably less than nine years ago.

Historians will not find many, if any, of our nation's 200 years when we have enjoyed less social ferment, less labor strife, less disease and more take-home prosperity than right now.

The horizons for women have been pushed beyond the kitchen window--a rather long way beyond.

Farmers are about to move up from the back of the bus.

Physically, your generation is so improved over any previous that we can't reprint the athletic record books fast enough to keep up with you.

And whatever you see you don't like--change it!

One person can?

Ralph Nader did.

For better or worse, Madalyn Murray O'Hair did.

And Howard Jarvis.

So, June Graduate, look out that window.

You have yourself a country that's mostly civilized, an economy still mostly free, a church door that's still open and unwatched, and you have a chance to preserve and protect and defend and improve these things as we did.

I hope you can do better than we did. But you could do worse!

Your Birthday

April 18, 1979

You'll have many opportunities this coming year for making quick gains, but consider partnership arrangements because they could double your luck.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are quick to respond today and you'll have no trouble staying one step ahead of the competition. However, tread lightly when dealing with friends. How to get along with others is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that starts with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Make judgments based on your first reactions today, because you have a tendency to over-analyze things and distort the facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friend may offer some tempting diversions today, but you'd better care for your responsibilities first or you could find yourself in hot water.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take advantage of the little breaks in your routine today to have a little fun. Feeling too tied down will make you fretful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do what needs to be done as each job pops up, and your day will run smooth. Excuses that cause delays will create a mess you didn't bargain for.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You can have fun and enjoy yourself today without spending a bundle. Check out prices before you get involved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're apt to be more generous toward others than toward yourself today. You deserve equal treatment, so don't be hard on yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There is nothing wrong with your ideas today, but your negative attitude might cancel any opportunities you might have to put them to use.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Follow your hunches. Don't let some fast-talking salesman convince you that you need something you don't. Buy only what you desire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to keep things on the light side today. If you take work or even play too seriously you'll try too hard and could become pushy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Those things that come naturally are the ones that should be pursued today. Leave the clever, new ideas to the other guy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Throw out a lot of ideas or possible solutions, but don't actually get involved in another's affairs. You don't need added problems.

The essence of successful rubber bridge play is to go after your contract and to work on overtricks once your contract is safe. Match point duplicate is a different proposition.

A match point player wins the first club and takes a diamond finesse. Should that diamond finessse work, he would be sure of 11 tricks and hoping for 12. The way the cards lie, the diamond finesse loses and the clubs are so located that the defense will add four club tricks to that one diamond trick. He will be down one for a rather average score since other declarers will fall into that same trap.

The rubber bridge player decides he wants to win the rubber. He lets East's jack of clubs hold the first trick and his nine of clubs hold the next one. At trick three he plays a club honor. West can do nothing better than to take his ace for the third defense trick. Later on South loses the diamond finesse, but that is the fourth and last trick for the defense.

Hold Off Brownfield, 3-2

Tigers Eyeing Round One Title

LAMESA--Coach Albert Lewis' Snyder Tigers were in position to wrap up round-one of the District 3-3A baseball battle here today after holding off Brownfield 3-2 Monday afternoon.

The victory over the Cubs gave the Tigers a 4-0 loop record with only two games left; today's 4 p.m. game with the Lamesa Tors and a Saturday contest with Brownfield.

Meanwhile Brownfield drops to 2-2, while Lamesa is 0-4.

Snyder scored a run in the first inning and two in the second to post an early 3-0 lead over the Cubs yesterday. Hurler Mitch Mackey (5-2) held the hosts off for five innings, but Tim Murphy singled to start off the sixth inning and Kelly Reid slammed a buzzing ball out of the park as Brownfield pulled within a point.

Mackey fanned the next four batters insuccession and after one out in the seventh inning walked Bush Lawson. Raul Romero slapped a fly ball to right fielder Ricky Gambol for the second out, but Mackey got into trouble moments later as he walked Ricky Romero and slid a runner into scoring position at second.

Murphy, who had provided the important single in the sixth inning, was up, but the senior left-handed pitcher came up with the edge this time and struck the batter out for the victory.

Bryan Vincent opened the game with a double. Mackey garnered a base-hit in the first inning and Toby Neves added another, but Snyder failed to record an RBI for the entire game. Vincent moved to third and then home on a pair of passed balls - fielding that was to befuddle the Cubs all afternoon.

Sammy Willis drew a walk as first-up in the second stanza. Gambol slapped a shot - a fielder's choice - as the second man up, and Willis was declared safe when shortstop Ricky Romero dropped the ball. Vincent also secured base on a fielder's choice, and in action following, Willis was thrown out in a rundown between third and home, Gambol scored on an error to the catcher and Vincent made the score 3-0 on another passed ball.

Cub pitcher Roy Lee Tealer, relying on 15 strikeouts to do the work his fielder's were having trouble with, slipped to 5-4 on the season. Tealer allowed seven hits and walked two.

Mackey fanned a dozen Brownfield batters, walked six and gave up four hits.

Astros Shut Out Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Now that Ken Forsch has pitched a no-hitter in the major leagues, he admits that he's thinking about pitching a second one.

"Sure, I'm thinking no-hitter," said the 32-year-old Houston right-hander Monday night. "I'm in the habit now. I'm thinking about it from the second inning on."

Forsch made the comments following his third victory without a loss this season, a 4-0 shutout over the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers.

Forsch hurled a no-hitter against Atlanta in his first start of the season April 7. Monday night, he went 4 2-3 innings before allowing the Dodgers' first hit, a single by Dusty Baker. In all, Forsch scattered five hits.

Afterwards, Forsch said he did not have his best stuff, explaining, "I didn't have a fastball until about the seventh inning and I had no curveball at all."

What he did have was an exceptional slider, which was enough to hand Los Angeles its sixth loss in seven games while the Astros, off to an 8-3 start, won their third in a row.

Houston got all the runs it needed against loser Don Sutton, 1-2, in the first inning on a walk, a triple by Jeff Leonard and a run-scoring single by Jose Cruz.

Sutton retired 15 Astros in a row during one stretch but then allowed two more runs in the eighth, driven in by Enos Cabell and Rafael Landestoy.

Meanwhile, Forsch permitted only one Dodger past second base as he struck out three and walked just one. He faced only the minimum until Baker got the first hit in the fifth inning. Rick Monday followed with a single, sending Baker to third, but Joe Ferguson popped out to end the only serious Los Angeles threat.

Rodgers Wins Third Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Hometown boy Bill Rodgers, the superstar marathoner with a fiery will to win, has renewed his claim to the elusive title as the world's top runner of the grueling road race.

"I could taste that third win," the 31-year-old former school teacher said Monday after wearing down Japan's Toshihiko Seko to set an American record in winning the 83rd Boston Marathon. "I didn't want someone to take it away."

The 5-foot-9, 128-pounder from Melrose, Mass., ran away from Seko on the famed "Heartbreak Hill" to win his third Boston event in 2 hours, 9 minutes, 27 seconds. It broke the U.S. record he set in 1975, winning his first Boston race in 2:09.55.

The victory Monday, by 45 seconds over Seko, was a near-breeze down the homestretch through cold rain, Rodgers won the 1978 race in 2:10.13 by only two seconds over Jeff Wells of Dallas in the closest 26-mile, 385-yard event on record.

Seko, a 23-year-old college student in Japan, and the winner of the Fukuoka International Marathon in his homeland last December, ran with Rodgers for 20 miles before his legs went numb on the third of a brutal series of hills in Newton, Mass.

Rodgers, who has won the Fukuoka race along with back-to-back victories in New York City's young but prestigious marathon, was beaten by Seko last December.

Hayes Gets Five Years

DALLAS (AP)—Olympic gold medalist and former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Bob Hayes has started serving a five-year prison term following his conviction on a charge of selling cocaine to an undercover officer.

Prosecutors said Hayes, 36, could be free in 10 months on good behavior.

Hayes pleaded guilty last month to selling cocaine in March 1978 to an undercover police officer, and elected to have his sentence set by the judge.

State District Judge Richard Mays sentenced Hayes on March 23 to five years each on two counts of selling cocaine, with sentences to run concurrently. He also sentenced Hayes to seven years deferred probation - to be served after he gets out of prison - for selling methaqualone.

Thompson Decides To Play For SWC

CINCINNATI (AP)—LaSalle Thompson, the 6-foot-10 center who led Cincinnati Withrow High School to the No. 1 ranking among Ohio high schools this year in boys basketball, said he would sign a letter-of-intent today to play for the University of Texas.

However, it was not certain whether Thompson would actually go to Texas. He said he would sign a Southwest Conference letter but was not certain he would sign a National Letter-of-Intent which would bind him to Texas.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association earlier accused the University of Cincinnati of a recruiting violation regarding Thompson because a booster helped Thompson's mother get a loan to buy her son clothes.

Stop Gervin, 76er Problem

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-The primary playoff problem facing Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham tonight is finding someone to measure up - literally - to San Antonio's 6-7 guard George Gervin, winner of consecutive National Basketball Association scoring titles.

Gervin, guarded by 6-1 Henry Bibby in the absence of Philadelphia's injured, high-scoring 6-6 guard Doug Collins, got 31 points Sunday as the Spurs routed the 76ers 119-106 to open their best-of-seven, Eastern Conference semi-final series.

Joe Bryant, a 6-9 forward, also guarded Gervin some in the waning minutes of the game.

Cunningham refused to say for sure Monday, but admitted he might go with a one-guard offense and experiment tonight with 6-9 forward Bobby Jones, a defensive specialist, guarding Gervin. He also indicated Bryant would be used some on Gervin, although Bibby will open the game opposite the explosive guard.

"We've got to stop Gervin or Larry Kenon," said Cunningham. Kenon had 30 points Sunday.

With Collins sidelined the rest of the season with ankle problems, the 76ers start Bibby and 6-1 Maurice Cheeks in the backcourt. The Spurs go with Gervin, who averages nearly 30 points per game, and 6-3 James Silas, who averages 15 points per game. That gives them a decided height and scoring advantage in the backcourt.

Bibby, however, has some different plans for Gervin tonight.

"No one can stop Gervin from getting his shots off, but I want to make him work defensively and get him weary," he said. "If I can get him tired, maybe his shots won't fall."

Pete Rose, now with the Philadelphia Phillies, is still the leader in seven batting categories for the Cincinnati Reds.

Where will the food come from? Well, since they aren't making any more land, farmers will have to produce more from the land they've got. And today's record yields are going to have to be commonplace tomorrow.
The bulk of research into greater soil, crop and animal productivity comes from land grant colleges and testing stations. We need more research. Much more.

Davis Family Goes Many Miles To Sunday School

Editor' Note--This is another in a series of articles prepared by the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance in connection with its Sunday School attendance campaign this month.

MILTON DAVIS

For over 26 years Milton Davis has been the Sunday School superintendent at the First Assembly of God Church in Snyder. He estimates that he and his wife have driven a quarter of a million miles going from their home by Lake J.B. Thomas to and from church and Sunday School in the past 40 years.

When their five children were young the Davis family got up at 5:45 a.m. every Sunday to make it to church on time. "We didn't used to have a paved road all the way and once or twice it would get so muddy that we'd get stuck on the way to Sunday School and didn't quite make it. I remember one time we got there just as church was dismissed."

When they go home after church Sunday they usually make it in for lunch around 1:30 p.m. But often they stay in town all day so they won't have to drive all the way back to church again in the evening.

Davis said that Sunday School is important to him because the Bible tells us to go into all the world, teaching all nations.

"I think we should teach our children," he commented. "We should teach everyone's children."

He added that Sunday School is a very good place for children to learn about the Word of God and he's interested in all children.

His own children were raised with Sunday School and now he has six grandchildren who also attend.

But teaching children is not the only reason he feels so strongly about Sunday School. He explained, "I read one time where it said, 'If a man has a soul (and he has) and if that soul can be won alive for Christ (and it can) then the greatest thing in the world is to win that man's soul for the Lord."

Davis calls Sunday School the teaching arm of the church and said that it's a good place to learn the Bible.

He started teaching Sunday School when he was 18 years old. Summing up he said, "I think God's business is the most important business in the world."

Definitely a heart attack

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it possible to have a myocardial infarction and have pain only in the shoulder, side of the neck and arm? Also fluttering and hard beating of the heart without chest pain. It was so diagnosed but my husband has doubts that it was a heart attack because in the seven years since I had this I haven't had another attack. Thank God! I've had a few symptoms that I thought were an erratic heartbeat with hurting around the jaw and neck. My electrocardiogram shows I have an abnormal heartbeat and left ventricular stoppage but I usually feel well for a woman of 71. I take medicine for high blood pressure.

My father suffered a fatal stroke.

DEAR READER — You are right to be thankful that you haven't had any further attacks. Yes, you can very definitely have a heart attack manifested with only pain in the jaw, neck or shoulder or arm region.

In fact, there are many people who have heart attacks who have no significant symptoms at the time the attack occurs. Sometimes they may have mild indigestion or some nonspecific symptom that's so innocuous that they're not aware they're having any real problem. Heart irregularities which you describe as fluttering commonly occur in the presence of heart attacks. Heart pain often is referred to the arm and there may not be any pain in the chest when you have pain in the arm or the jaw.

It's rather interesting that women are more inclined to have angina pain with disease of the coronary arteries than men. It seems like men are a little more inclined to have a clear-cut heart attack with the symptoms we usually ascribe to it and women are more inclined to have transitory chest pains without heart attacks. Of course, that's not a hard and fast rule at all.

To give you more information on what you might expect as a result of disease of the coronary arteries, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-10, Heart Attack, Myocardial Infarction, Angina Pectoris. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's important that you have a regular evaluation of your medical status and that you continue to take medicine to control your high blood pressure. Many people who have had serious heart trouble are able to live normal lives with a normal life span. Such individuals usually improve their life style to enable this outcome.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain the term "atelactasis LLL"? It was on a medical record for an 82-year-old person.

DEAR READER — Atelactasis refers to collapse of the lungs or a lung segment. It can occur in patients with chronic illnesses who are at bed rest or as a complication of a number of illnesses when the person has to be at bed rest. The LLL undoubtedly refers to the left lower lobe so the term as used probably referred to collapse of the left lower lobe of the lung.

Clements Stands Firm On Teacher's Pay Issue

AUSTIN (AP)—Big city school superintendents got no encouragement from Gov. Bill Clements in their quest for higher teacher salaries and didn't even have time to bring up issues of school finance.

Superintendents and administrators from the seven biggest school districts emerged from their 30-minute meeting with Clements on Monday to say he was adamant in his stand on teacher pay.

Clements also said, according to those who were present, he wants diplomas that would tell a prospective employer something of the competency of a high school graduate.

"He wants people to know what level a person was performing at when he graduated from high school," said Dallas Superintendent Linus Wright.

The "Big Seven" school administrators sought the appointment with Clements.

The seven largest school districts are Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, El Paso and Corpus Christi.

Wright said the 30 minutes alotted for the meeting ran out before the school officials could bring up money issues, other than teacher pay.

Each of the seven biggest school districts sent its superintendent and board president to the meeting.

"The only request we made was that he reconsider the salary schedule for teachers. He said he was emphatic on that position," said Wright.

The administrators want 7 percent cost-of-living raises on top of automatic step-ups for teachers. Clements thinks there should be no automatic increases and teachers should receive only the 5.1 percent cost of living raises planned for all state employees.

Wright said he opposed a statewide competency testing program because it would "lower standards" in major districts.

He said, however, he did not expect the big push for competency testing and differentiated diplomas to take place until the 1981 legislative session.

Marvin Griffin, Austin school board president, said Clements "talked about people not being able to fill out a job application form" even though they had high school diplomas.

Griffin described Clements as "very firm" on the salary issue.

"I don't think we can live with that ourselves. ...It means the local districts would have to pick it (larger salary increases) up if the Legislature doesn't," Griffin said.

A Good Provider, But Not With Sex

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and have a year-old girl. Her father liked to sleep with me but didn't like the responsibility of being a father, so he left.

I swore I'd never get involved with another man like him again.

Now I have a man who is just the opposite. He wants the responsibility of being a father but doesn't like to sleep with me.

He's a businessman who says he's got business on his mind constantly and never thinks about making love.

We've been living together for a year and he's slept with me only twice. He told me he doesn't think we will ever sleep together again. He's loyal, stays home most of the time, doesn't drink, and is a good man. We work together in his store.

Do you think we will make it together?

CONFUSED IN MASS.

DEAR CONFUSED: All that's necessary for two people to "make it together" is for each to need the other. If you can live happily without sleeping with him, and he can live happily with things the way they are, there's no reason why you can't make it.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know the correct way to wear my wedding ring set. Which ring goes on first—the engagement ring or the wedding band? And what is the reason for it?

MRS. W.W.

DEAR MRS. W.: The wedding band goes on first. I don't know the reason for it, but I like to think that the wedding ring is closer to the heart.

DEAR ABBY: When Randy first started to date, he'd say: "The girl has no curfew, and I have to be in before SHE does. It's embarrassing."

Randy is our 16-year-old son, and I'd like to know what the parents of teen-age girls are thinking of.

We're not unreasonable, Abby. We ask Randy to leave the girl's house at 10 p.m. on school nights and 1 a.m. on weekends. If he's going to be held up for any reason, all we ask is a phone call.

This girl he has been seeing a lot of lately has just turned 16. She is under no restrictions on dating. Even when nothing special is planned, she asks Randy to come over and just sit around. Needless to say, we are in a constant state of worry. Our son has had a good upbringing, but even nice kids fall in love and get carried away. I'm afraid they're playing with fire. If Randy came to us and said he wanted to get married before he finished his education, we'd be heartsick.

Abby, please, please tell parents of girls to help parents of boys by curbing those dates and long hours! We love our children, and their well-being is the responsibility of both sets of parents. If this is too long to print, maybe you can shorten it and say it better.

RANDY'S WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I couldn't have said it any better, and I'm printing every word.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Interest Rate Rise Checked By Veto Threat

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements shut off legislative efforts Monday to raise mortgage interest rates by threatening to veto higher charges but said a special session may be needed on the subject.

The governor's announcement killed hopes of the savings and loan industry to up the state's usury limit this session from 10 percent to 12 percent.

"Too many Texans now cannot afford home loans, not because money is tight but because interest rates already are too high," Clements told a news conference. "If rates are allowed to go even higher, the number of people able to buy homes will drop accordingly."

If housing starts to decline drastically Clements said he will consider calling a special legislative session on the issue.

After three months of considering both sides the governor apparently rejected arguments by Sen. Bill Meier, a sponsor of 12 percent interest rate legislation.

"I told him I was disappointed, that I thought he made the wrong decision," said Meier, D-Euless, who talked with Clements before the governor's news conference.

Meier said he has scrapped his bill for this session but predicted an emergency will develop soon in the housing industry and prompt a special session.

"But special sessions are kind of risky and you never know how all that would work," Meier said in a phone interview from his Euless office. "I would have preferred that we deal with the economic facts of life in this session."

Both the Meier bill and a House version are pending in subcommittees.

Savings and loan officials have claimed they cannot compete for money on national markets with the state's low usury limit. They have threatened to invest money out of state unless the Legislature allows them to charge higher interest rates.

Clements chastised the industry for demanding higher rates.

IT'S HERE!--A new piano for the Senior Citizens Center was delivered on Monday. Shown above with the piano are Virginia Whitson, seated, who plays the piano for many activities in the Center, and Frances Martin, a member of the Center's Hostesses and Hosts committee.

New Piano Delivered To Senior Citizens Center

A piano purchased with donations from local businesses and individuals arrived at the Senior Citizens Center Monday just in time to be used by Glenn Polk as he presented a program for Senior Citizens preceding the noon meal.

Mrs. Gloria Shaw, director of the Center, has expressed the appreciation of the Senior Center for those whose donations made the purchase of the piano possible. The piano will be used almost every day, she said, and it will be enjoyed by many people.

"We began to think seriously about a new piano when we moved into our larger facility here," Mrs. Shaw continued.

We thought probably it would take quite some time for the money to be raised through donations, but it actually took only about two weeks. We're all so thrilled with it, and I know it will add to the enjoyment of all those who visit the Center."

There are other items needed by the Center which will be purchased through donations, Mrs. Shaw said. Donations to the Center are tax deductible and donations of any amount are welcome. Anyone who would like information about making a donation to the Center may call Mrs. Shaw at 573-0104 or visit her office in the Senior Center.

Donations for the piano fund were received from Ora Wells, Mary Faver, Dean Cochran, Par Producing Company, Owen Miller, Thelma Falls Smith, Frances Martin, Mrs. M.F. Allen, John A. Wiman, Howard G. Sterling, the Crusader Class of the First United Methodist Church, Virginia Whitson, Dr. James E. Tully, Glover's, The Shack, Inc., Jeff W. Stubblefield, Darrell W. Reese, Mildred Lewis, West Texas State Bank, Snyder National Bank, First Federal Savings & Loan, Snyder Savings & Loan, Bell-Seale Funeral Directors, Rosa Tully, Gaylene Harrison, Annie Mae Allen and Snyder Well Servicing.

Accepting the proclamation was Christopher Smardz, 4½, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smardz of Missouri City, near Houston, on behalf of more than 100,000 cancer volunteers.

Clements strolled into the room wearing what he referred to as his "my birthday hat ... my blood letting hat." The governor was 62 Friday.

Marconi's Mark

WASHINGTON (AP)—Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless, was only 21 when he discovered messages could be transmitted without the use of wires.

One of Marconi's life objectives was to create a system of communications capable of operating with complete reliability from any point on earth, according to IPO, Inc.

SCHOOLS

stood that several teachers already had been "fired" because of the pairing proposal. Gorman said this was not true, but that some teachers had been notified by letter that the district could not guarantee them a contract for next year, pending the final decision on pairing.

Some of the questions:

How would pupils at North get to Northeast---how would the buses run?

Isn't there some advantage to having the primary pupils in the same school with older pupils?

What effect will this have on the scouting program?

What will happen if gasoline is rationed?

How are you going to get smaller classes with fewer teachers?

Why don't you pair North with West Elementary instead of Northeast?

If you need to save money, why don't you cut out some counselors, reading specialists and administrators?

Why don't you make up the difference from the oil value loss by reducing the athletic budget?

Why don't you rezone the elementary schools instead of pairing?

Why don't you leave everything just as it is now?

The latter question brought the biggest ovation of the evening.

Bill Seale, newly-elected member of the board, who was attending his first meeting, spoke briefly, noting that he was still learning. He said that it appeared to him that most parents believed that Snyder has one of the best school systems.

"This indicates that the board and the administration have been doing something right, and I for one believe that they will continue to make decisions in the best interest of the pupils."

All board members and administrators stressed that no decision would be made before the series of three public meetings is completed. A similar session is set for 7:30 p.m. tonight at Central elementary for patrons of Central and East, which would be paired under the proposal. A third session for Stanfield and West has been set for Thursday night at West Elementary.

Board members Bill Eiland, Vera McSpadden, Jerry Rice and Bill Clayton, all emphasized that they had not made any decision as to how they would vote on the pairing proposal and they assured the group that the input from citizens attending the public meetings would definitely have an effect on the ultimate decision.

"That's why we are having these meetings," said Clayton, vice president of the board, who presided over the meeting.

One of the last questions was an inquiry as to when the board would take a formal vote on pairing. Hood said that it is possible that there will be no vote. He said the board could say "forget it" at the conclusion of the third public meeting.

More Shocks Shake Earth

DUBROVNIK, Ygoslavia (AP)—Rains and more earth shocks added to the misery today of an estimated 80,000 Yugoslavs who spent their second night in the open on south Yugoslavia's earthquake-devastated Montenegro coast. Foreign tourists fled from the area.

Plans Begin For Annual Celebration

Plans for the annual Independence Day celebration were discussed Monday night at a meeting of the chamber of commerce July 4th committee.

It was announced that the fireworks contract has signed, with the price increased by five percent.

Also, a major feature of the celebration in Towle Memorial Park will be the crafts show in the National Guard Armory. This event attracted widespread attention last year, and exhibitors this year will come by invitation only. Ernest Sears is the chairman for this division.

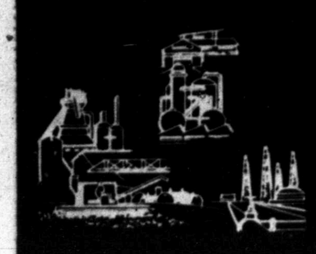

The tractor pull committee, headed by Milton Stephens, has scheduled a planning session for April 30. Meanwhile, plans for other traditional events are making progress, it was reported.

Bill Wilson III is the general chairman of the July 4th committee this year.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL NEWS

Adams Laundry Is Dedicated To Making Washday Chores Easier

Doing the family wash is not always a favorite household task, but the staff at Don Adams Maytag Laundry is dedicated to the task of making this job easier.

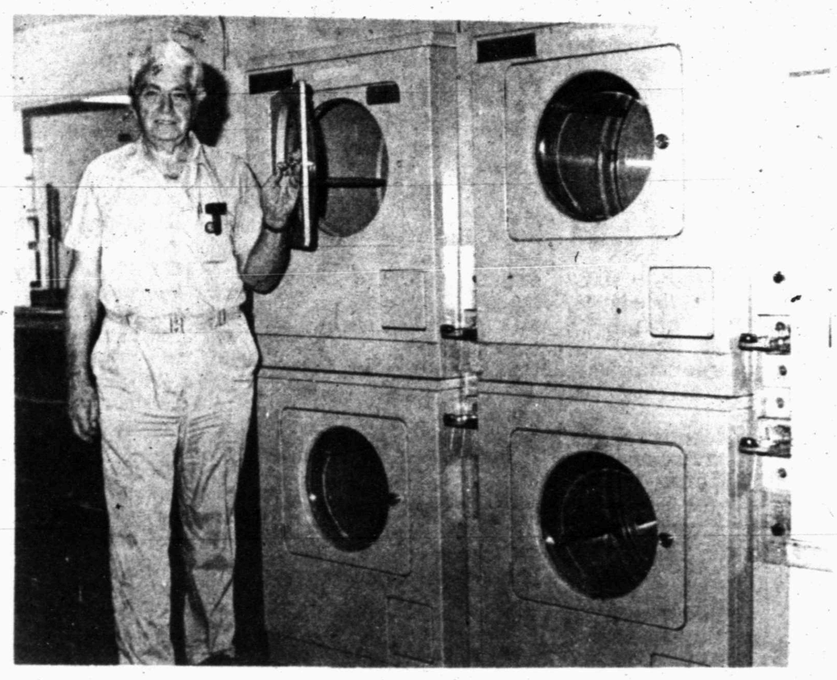

In fact, every service offered by Adams Maytag Laundry is designed to achieve maximum customer satisfaction. Owner Don Adams, a native of Snyder, operates the automatic laundry and is there each day to see that customer needs are met.

"We get lots of compliments about the cleanliness of the laundry," Adams said. "We constantly strive to keep both the washers and the laundry itself clean so that our customers can enjoy a necessary job such as doing the laundry.

Adams Maytag Laundry is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. "We have a lot of people who work various shifts in Snyder," so we stay open around the clock for their convenience."

An attendant is on duty from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and an attendant checks in at the laundry several times during the day on Sunday.

In addition, customers are provided several other conveniences. This includes a dollar bill changer, a soap dispenser with a choice of a detergent, soil remover, bleach or fabric softener.

SPECIAL DRYERS--Don Adams, owner of Adams Maytag Laundry, points out special dryers available at his business for delicate knits and for permanent press fabrics. Adams Maytag Laundry is located at the intersection of 26th St. and Ave. X, just one block south of the Lamesa Highway.

Adams Maytag Laundry also provides a pay public telephone for the convenience of customers. A new addition to the laundry is an adjoining room complete with tables and rolling clothes hampers for folding and hanging of clothing fresh out of the dryer.

The heart of the laundry, of course, is the 60 washers. A total of 52 of them are commercial-duty Maytag top-load washers. The laundry also has 8 big front-load washers available for larger loads.

The firm also features 28 dryers which includes four special dryers for delicate and permanent press fabrics.

Another item of interest in an oilfield economy is the availability of cleaning fluid for oil field clothes.

Adams has owned the laundry for 2½ years, and he has constantly upgraded the facility. There are other plans on the drawing board, Adams said, all aimed at making wash day more pleasant for his customers.

The laundry is located at the corner of 26th and Ave. X—just one block south of the Lamesa Highway. Don Adams invites you to come in and try out the many services available.
