Nuclear shutdown urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission recommended on Wednesday shutting down temporarily the eight other nuclear power plants designed by Babcock & Wilcox, builder of the stricken Three Mile Island plant near Harrisburg, Pa.

The five-member commission remained in session, quizzing staff members, as it prepared to decide the issue.

Such a shutdown order would force the closing of four Babcock & Wilcox plants currently in operation — Rancho Seco in California, where the NRC staff says electric reliability would not be greatly harmed, and the three Oconee units in South Carolina, which would reduce generating reserves to an uncomfortably thin margin in the southeast.

In addition to the badly damaged Three Mile Island Unit 2, which may not reopen for two or three years if at all, four other B&W plants have been shut down by their operators for refueling, maintenance or safety review. These shutdowns could be continued by an NRC order.

Harold Denton, NRC director of nuclear reactor regulation, who said Monday he was "leaning" in the direction of shutdowns, told the commission Wednesday, "We believe that these plants should be shut down now."

He said the staff found that the design and equipment of the B&W plants makes them more sensitive to malfunction and harder to control.

"We conclude that we do not now have reasonable assurance that these B&W plants can continue to operate without undue risks," Denton said.

Denton said the plants should be closed temporarily until short-term improvements can be made and further safety analyses can be completed, showing whether additional actions are required.

The four B&W plants currently shut down voluntarily are Arkansas Unit I in Arkansas, David Besse in Ohio, Crystal River in Florida, and Three Mile Island Unit I.

Denton told the commissioners the shutdowns would last at least two months, just "to get some technical answers," and possibly could last much longer.

"It's not a cheerful picture, I must say," Joseph Hendrie, chairman of the NRC, said at one point.

Utility executives have tried to convince key NRC staff members that temporarily closing the eight reactor units is unnecessary and in some cases could cause sporadic blackouts this summer.

Meanwhile, other developments relating to the Three Mile Island accident included:

—The swearing-in of a special 11-member presidential commission to investigate the accident and recommend possible changes which should be made at nuclear power plants. The investigation is expected to cost at least $1.3 million.

—Technicians at the crippled reactor near Harrisburg, Pa., said they expect to achieve the plant's cold shutdown — a stage when the reactor is considered completely inactive and safe — next Wednesday.

—Court officials in Harrisburg said at least five lawsuits already have been filed as a result of the accident and more are expected. None of the class action suits, on behalf of 636,000 residents and merchants, gives specific dollar damage amounts.

Since the Three Mile Island accident March 28, the NRC has been debating what action to take against the eight other Babcock & Wilcox-equipped nuclear plants.

Only four of the reactors, the three Oconee units in South Carolina and the Rancho Seco plant near Sacramento, Calif., are operating. A shutdown order, however, also prevents the other four in Ohio, Florida, Arkansas and Pennsylvania from starting up again on schedule.

Sandbags ready

Hundreds of sandbags lie on pallets on reserve for flood use in East Grand Forks, Minn., Wednesday as workers in background fill more bags. Some 500,000 bags already are in use on dikes as the Red River continues to rise. (AP Photo)

Deluge in Florida adds to flood damage

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

Residents of the Red River Valley waited nervously behind miles of spongy dikes shored up by four million sandbags Wednesday, while a record deluge in Florida flushed out poisonous snakes, washed through posh resorts and flooded homes and highways.

"Catfish are swimming down Andrews Avnue," exclaimed Bob Jones of Fort Lauderdale after a spring rainstorm suddenly ended a three-month Florida drought, the worst since 1971.

It was the heaviest rainfall in Miami's history, with the National Weather Service reporting a 24-hour total of 16.39 inches at 7 a.m.. Fort Lauderdale reported 14.32 inches and Homestead 10.77 with the rain still falling.

Police in Plantation, west of Fort Lauderdale, warned parents to keep children indoors and out of the way of snakes routed from their hideaways. Two snakebites were reported, but it was not known if the snakes were poisonous.

"People don't realize that, second to Texas, Florida has more rattlesnakes than any other part of the country," said Patrolman Vance Currin.

On the brighter side, the Pearl River at Columbia, Miss., while still about 9 feet above flood stage, continued to drop and some of the town's 4,000 residents who had fled were able to return to their homes.

"But I'm afraid all they will find when they get home will be mud and snakes," said Jim Thornhill, Civil Defense director for the county. "I'm sure a lot of people will just sit down and cry."

In the flat and sprawling Red River Valley shared by northern Minnesota and North Dakota, flood waters at record depths have spread as far as 15 miles wide and 25 miles long in some areas, covering a total of 425,000 acres in North Dakota and 274,000 acres in Minnesota.

Entire communities are isolated, including 3,000 persons marooned on The Point in East Grand Forks, Minn.

The Point is a spit of land where stand 1,000 homes, a gas station, a grocery store and a liquor store at the confluence of the Red Lake River and the Red River. The last overland route to the outside world was shut off at noon when Route 220 eroded away. Two bridges were closed earlier.

Residents of The Point, who had worked throughout the night building another 900 feet of clay dikes, ran an old empty sandbag up a flagpole Wednesday and declared themselves an independent nation, called "Isle of de Sandbags."

Floyd Baird, who declared himself minister of foreign affairs, said he hoped to get foreign aid because, "We ain't got the money to support ourselves."

Jokes aside, people of the Point were in a serious predicament, with the only access to the outside either by small boat or helicopter.

Orley Gunderson, director of Civil Defense operations, said 15 trailers of sandbags and sand, plus some food, were trucked in before the road was shut.

"What we have over there is what they're going to have to get along with," Gunderson said.

Indeed, there was little to laugh about in the entire area encompassing East Grand Forks, population 8,400, and Grand Forks, N.D., population 54,000, across the river. With 1,400 persons already driven from their homes and 270 houses flooded, the Red was running at 48.94 feet, almost 21 feet above flood stage, and wasn't expected to crest until Thursday or Friday.

During the Florida rainstorm, an exclusive resort hotel suffered heavy fire damage, a helciopter mission rescued two crewmen aboard an asphalt-laden barge rocked by 22-foot seas, and innumerable cars were stalled across the southern end of the state.

At the Boca Raton Hotel and Club, one of the poshest layouts along the state's Gold Coast, well-heeled guests waded through the lobby barefoot with pants legs rolled up.

Firemen said a wire felled by the storm may have sparked the fire that gutted one three-story building and damaged another at the exclusive Hillsboro Club, a beachside resort in Broward County.

Oil price hikes angering Latin America

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A growing number of Latin American nations, angered by multiple increases in world oil prices, are talking about taking action against the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Only Venezuela and Ecuador, the sole Latin American OPEC members, are favoring the international cartel's price increases.

Twenty-one other nations, including Mexico, complain that higher oil prices are aggravating inflation, unemployment and fuel shortages in a continent of 335 million people already beset by difficult economic problems.

The majority of the nations have had to raise gasoline prices, some as much as 50 percent, and some have combined the rises with subsidies to soften the blow for consumers. Colombia, a nation of 26 million, is suffering an inflation rate of 25 percent this year instead of the projected 15 percent.

A top official of impoverished Honduras, reflecting the anger felt by oil-consuming nations after OPEC's March price increase, privately accused the 13-nation cartel of exercising "ambitions that are bankrupting the world."

In March OPEC raised its average crude oil prices from $13.85 to $14.54 a barrel and authorized surcharges that in some cases raise the price to $19 and $20 a barrel on the "spot" market, where oil not sold under longterm contracts is auctioned to the highest bidder.

Mexico has the world's sixth largest proven oil reserves and is fast becoming a major exporter, but refuses to join OPEC.

It charges $17.10 a barrel for its crude, but refuses to sell on the "spot" market. The state petroleum monopoly, PEMEX, sells only under longterm contracts and negotiates increases with its clients every three months.

To deter some of the inflationary effects its new oil wealth is bringing, Mexico is keeping crude oil production down to 2.5 million barrels a day for the next three years although it says it could produce 4 million barrels a day.

Panel narrowly rejects Carter's gas rationing plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Commerce Committee voted narrowly Wednesday to reject President Carter's standby plan for rationing gasoline by issuing ration checks and coupons to car owners.

Carter publicly appealed to committee members to approve the plan a few hours before the 23-19 vote, but to no avail.

Though the rationing proposal did not die as a result of the committee's action, ultimate congressional approval seems unlikely. The plan will get another chance before the full House, and a vote is scheduled in the Senate Energy Committee on Thursday.

In seeking to rescue the rationing plan, Carter said, "Should serious supply interruptions occur, America's arsenal of available measures must include contingency plans to ration gasoline and to mandate conservation by the American public.

"If these standby plans are not passed by the Congress, the public could rightly ask why their government was not prepared for an emergency, particularly after the warning given by the Iranian supply curtailment," the president said in a statement released by the White House.

Later, Carter told a town meeting in Portsmouth, N.H., that the committee's rejection of the plan was "a very sad mistake." He said that without congressional action it would take six months to begin a rationing program in an emergency.

"I'm willing to take the political consequences" of putting such a plan together, Carter said. "But I need Congress to be courageous enough to give me authority to develop a plan."

As the House panel debated rationing, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger appeared before a joint House-Senate subcommittee to defend another critical element of Carter's energy policies — the lifting of oil price controls.

Graham jail probe sought

By NITA McAFEE

GRAHAM, Texas (Special) — District Attorney Boyd Richie has asked for a special grand jury hearing to examine problems of Graham-Young County Law Enforcement Center.

Request for the hearing resulted from a rash of jail escapes. Last week's escape by a 25-year-old man was the sixth in two years.

"Reason for the hearing is to identify the problems and make recommendations as to how to solve them," the district attorney said. "Residents of Graham and Young County are entitled to a full explanation as to why the facility has proven inadequate."

He said the holding facility at Olney has identical construction problems.

Rules for financing rebuilding differ

By LEON HOOTEN
Business Editor

Residents of the Wichita Falls area whose homes were damaged or destroyed in the April 10 tornado will face a new set of rules and policies when they begin rebuilding plans.

Using a hypothetical case, each mortgage institution was asked about policies in using insurance proceeds to finance reconstruction.

The hypothetical case involved a homeowner with $30,000 in insurance coverage and a mortgage balance of $20,000. In the first case presented, the house was destroyed and was to be rebuilt.

All savings and loan institutions contacted said 110 percent of the insurance proceeds, or a hypothetical $22,000, if the policy permitted would be deposited in an interest-bearing passbook savings account. The remaining $8,000 could be collected immediately by the homeowner, but eventually must be spent toward rebuilding of the structure.

One S&L official said the hypothetical homeowner could take the $8,000 because it might be needed immediately, but that amount would have to be spent on rebuilding before the remaining $22,000 in insurance proceeds could be used.

In all cases, financial officials said the money should be used to rebuild if that is the intent of the owner, and not to pay off the mortgage, because the interest rate on an existing mortgage

County treasurer loses round in long battle over CJD funds

By JIM WEBRE
Staff Writer

The Texas Supreme Court Wednesday ruled there was no reversible error in a Texas Court of Civil Appeals decision concerning repayment of $48,925.15 by Wichita County to Texas Criminal Justice Division.

The appeals court had ruled that the Wichita County treasurer and two Wichita County taxpayers "had no standing to sue" in an attempt to have the 78th District Court in Wichita Falls issue an injunction against a county commissioners court order that the CJD be repaid.

Wednesday's ruling is the latest in a long line of legal actions surrounding the refusal by former Wichita County Treasurer Helen Kollman to pay a warrant for funds CJD claims were misused by Wichita County Family Court Services more than three years ago.

CJD auditors in early 1976 found what they considered to be discrepancies in the way Family Court Services employees were paid from CJD grant funds. CJD placed a hold on grant funds to the county, but later reopened the grant agreements in existence.

County commissioners, after the alleged discrepancies were discovered, ordered then-County Auditor Joe Gowdy to repay the money. However, Gowdy refused, saying the repayment would create a debt against Wichita County. He maintained that the taxpayers should not have to bear the burden for any alleged misuse of funds.

No one ever was accused of using the funds for personal gain or profit.

County Auditor Francis Stover, who took over after Gowdy retired in June 1977, said he would authorize the repayment, but Mrs. Kollman refused to accept the warrant for the funds and the legal battle heated up. Mrs. Kollman did not run for re-election in November 1978, but her deputy, Mary Lynn Welborn, was elected and took the same stand.

Gowdy previously had refused a commissioners court order to repay the funds after the CJD audit. Mrs. Kollman and two Wichita County taxpayers filed suit in 78th District Court asking for an injunction against the county to prevent any repayment of the funds, then the Hear it right!

By GLENN SHELTON

For just once, I'd like to hear it go like this:

"Does you husband prefer potatoes or Stove Top Stuffing?"

"Potatoes."

"Are you absolutely sure your husband prefers potatoes to Stove Top Stuffing?"

"I'm sure."

"Then let's listen in on this closed circuit television and see. Sir, which you do you prefer: mashed potatoes or Stove Top Stuffing?"

"Mashed potatoes!"

Wife: "I oughta know, I've lived with the jerk 11 years!"

Then this one:

"PARDON ME, ma'am, but do you wear dentures?"

"That's none of your business, Buster! Scram or I'll yell for the police!"

Or this:

"Now I'm going to pour this cereal in a bowl. Stop me when you think the vitamin content equals that of Total."

"Stop!"

"Gee, that's right. How did you know?"

"Ma'am, I'm going to trade you this year's supply of detergent for your box of Tide."

"Great! Detergents are all alike!"

"Sir, this Ford runs quieter than a Mercedes, has the same wheelbase as a Mercedes, uses less gasoline than the Mercedes."

'You take the Ford and give me the Mercedes!"

OFF ON A TANGENT — I was wondering where to fritter another week of my vacation until I saw the following in the newsletter of Texas Tourist Development Agency:

"SUMMER starts right now in Texas! The sun sparkles on a thousand lakes and the gentle waves of the gulf lap mile after mile down the world's longest beaches. The tarpon will be running soon. Flowering cactus paint the desert while bluebonnets carpet the rolling plains.

"Green fairways roll to the shores of the lakes where record bass lie waiting. And sure-footed Quarter Horses follow the sunlit trails.

"Meet summer halfway in the big Fun-tier, IN TEXAS!"

I read that and decided Hawaii has nothing on Texas.

SPEAKING of "Your Hit Parade," these songs were among those that remained No. 1 longest: "Buttons and Bows," "Because of You," "Some Enchanted Evening," "A Tree in the Meadow," "Hey, There," "If" and "I'll Be Seeing You."

When the program was over, the entire cast sang, "So long, for a while. . .That's all the songs, for a while. . .So long to Your Hit Parade. . .And the tunes that you picked to be played. . .So long!"

(If you had a favorite old-time radio program, tell me what it was, and maybe I can recall it for you.)

ROGER KING: "Now let's hear how the old Wichita Indians didn't know after 20,000 years that tornadoes would jump their old campgrounds where the auditorium stands." INJUNS HEAP WRONG, ROG!

Daylight when you arise these mornings? Not for long. Sunday we spring forward, that is, set our clocks ahead an hour.

Good Morning!

ack of release forms big problem for cleanup crews

By BRUCE FISHER
Regional Staff Writer

Workers clearing debris from areas struck by the April 10 tornado seem to have a common problem: property owners who haven't signed release forms.

The problem is enhanced in areas like Candlewood Trailer Park near the Windthorst exit on U.S. 287 on the southeast edge of the city because volunteer workers and contractors fear they may find bodies under huge piles of debris.

Jim Collins, a resident of Candlewood, said, "We have all these people here who can move this debris off these lots and everything and many of the owners of the trailer houses that used to be here have not signed release forms so we can start to work on their lots.

"There are a lot of suspicious odors around some of these wrecked trailer houses that haven't been moved, and that even makes it worse. It's a health hazard," Collins said.

Collins and Norman Scott, a sponsor for a volunteer cleanup group of the Mennonite Disaster Service, finally got some help Wednesday.

Scott said the Wichita Falls Fire Department responded to their call for help Wednesday morning. Officials from the fire department authorized and conducted a search of one particular area where several trailer house frames were piled twisted together among dunes of rubble.

"We could tell by the smell that something was under all that mess, but it turned out to be a bunch of rotten hamburger meat with maggots in it," Collins said.

All of the trailer houses in the park were destroyed. Other smells haunt mounds of twisted steel, shattered walls and smashed-up furnishings matted with bits of fiberglass insulation and bound together with coils of electrical wiring.

Scott said about 45 high school students from the Corn, Okla., Bible Academy arrived in Wichita Falls early Wednesday and spent the day clearing debris with the help of a crane and several dump trucks.

"We cleared about eight lots today, but we can't start moving in FDAA (Federal Disaster Assistance Administration) trailer houses until all this mess is cleaned up enough to reconnect all the utilities. And there are lots scattered all through the area where owners haven't signed release forms," Scott said.

"So we can only clean a lot or two here and there, and maybe one key lot that we don't have access to is the one with all the utility connections on it for an entire row of houses," Scott said.

He said his group, which is a satellite unit of the main disaster cleanup crew sent in by the Mennonite organization, is expecting at least two busloads of students from Heston College in Kansas this weekend, which will be at least 85 volunteers to work on the trailer park.

"You wouldn't believe the thieving going on here. At nights, people have been hauling it away in trailer loads. They take anything of value," Scott said.

Collins said some of the former residents of the trailer park have been seen loading up everything of value they can find on or near their lots, no matter who it may have belonged to.

"And what can the police do to stop them? We don't have release forms signed by property owners where we can clear off their lots for them and maybe save some of their property for them," Collins said.

Scott said his cleanup crews are salvaging everything they can. He said loose change and other small amounts of money that are found are deposited in one box and, because there is no way to determine who it belonged to, it will be donated to a charitable organization in Wichita Falls when the cleanup ends.

One girl came up to Scott and counted out about 20 pennies. She said she had picked up about $1.25 just in pennies that day.

"It's not much, but somebody will benefit from it in the end," Scott said.

Collins compiled a list of former residents of the trailer court who have not signed release forms. He asked that they return to the trailer park Thursday or as soon as possible to sign release forms so the park can be cleared for occupancy.

The list of those who have not signed release forms for mobile home sites in Candlewood Park include:

James W. Ritchie, Jerry D. Trent, Royce McWhorter, Mrs. Mable Pappin, James B. Clark, Robert T. Roysden, Joe Wayne Leggett, Vernon Oates, Richard C. Wearth Jr., Larry Kolacek, Dewey Cox, Lawrence Michael Littell, John K. Young and Larry P. McClendon.

Also, T. Daniel Tompkins, George Berschied, Mary Marie Person, Mrs. Elma Dean Mock, Margie Graham, Thomas Trimble, Dale Howard, Michael Richmond, Partick M. Greene, Brent Wolston, Earl Jenkins, Leslie Laranee, Garon Jetton, Mrs. A. Marie Graham, Stanley and Steven D. Kenney.

Five AAA bands win sweepstakes

VERNON, Texas (Special) — Five Class AAA bands from North Texas cities and towns won sweepstakes awards in the North Zone Regional University Interscholastic League Concert and Sight Reading Contest held Wednesday in Wilbarger County Memorial Auditorium.

Sweepstakes award winners received number one ratings — superior — in all three contest categories, including sight reading, concert and marching. The marching competition was held last fall.

Sweepstakes winners include Vernon High School, Burkburnett High School, Mineral Wells High School, Iowa Park High School and Hirschi High School.

Other bands entered in the Class AAA competition and their respective scores in concert and sightreading include Iowa Park High School second band, 3 in concert and 2 in sightreading; Burkburnett High School second band, 2 and 3; Hirschi High School second band, 2 and 2; Mineral Wells High School second band, 1 and 1; and Graham High School band, 2 and 3.

Contests were completed Tuesday in Class AA, Class A and Class B competition.

Class A sweepstakes winners were bands from Archer City High School and Haskell High School.

Other bands and their scores in the Class A competition include Holliday High School, 2 and 1; Knox City High School, 3 and 4; Paducah High School, 4 and 4; Crowell High School, 2 and 2; and Munday High School, 3 and 3.

In Class AA contests, bands and their scores include Seymour High School, sweepstakes; Bowie High School first band, 2 and 2; Bowie High School second band, 3 and 1; Electra High School, 2 and 2; Childress High School, 1 and 3; Henrietta High School, 3 and 3; Jacksboro High School, 2 and 2; and Olney High School, 3 and 3.

Throckmorton High School band was the only entry in Class B competition and it received a 2 and a 2.

The junior high school competition will be Thursday in Class C, Class CC and Class CCC.

The ratings for judging are No. 1, superior; No. 2, excellent; No. 3, good; and No. 4, fair.

commissioners ordered the treasurer to repay the money.

According to Bob Helton, attorney representing Mrs. Welborn and the taxpayers, the treasurer then appealed that order to 78th District Court.

"That appeal has been pending in the 78th District Court awaiting the ultimate determination of the injunction suit (filed in the same court). That same court has not been asked to rule on the appeal from the commissioners court."

Helton said he will file a petition for a rehearing before the Texas Supreme Court.

"When the Texas Supreme Court refuses to grant a writ of error, no reversible error, they find no error on the part of the Court of Civil Appeals.

"What they (the Supreme Court) did is refuse to review the decision of the Court of Civil Appeals."

The Supreme Court has the options of affirming the appeals court ruling, denying the writ of error once again or reviewing the appeals court ruling, Helton said. If the Supreme Court affirms the appeals court's decision that the district court was correct in dismissing the commissioners court appeal, then, Helton said, the Supreme Court will have opened the door to a possible appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Relaxing

Insurance adjusters have been busy since the April 10 Wichita Falls tornado, but Wednesday night they had a chance to relax at a barbecue hosted by Henry D. Mason & Co. About 150 persons participated, including Bob Booker, left, of Crum & Forrester; Jim McGowan, Underwriters Adjusting Co.; Jim McCracken, Beacon National Life Insurance Co.; Frank Jones, president of Henry D. Mason & Co.; and Jim Bollman, GAC Inc. (Photo by John Barwell)

Victims warned not to pay mortgages with insurance

The Small Business Administration recommends that persons who lost their homes in the tornado not use insurance proceeds to repay mortgages on those homes.

"If the first lien is paid off, the most a homeowner can qualify for is $55,000 (in low-interest SBA loans)," said Carlos Flores, chief finance officer with the Dallas SBA office. "If that lien isn't paid off, a homeowner can get up to $105,000 in loans for uninsured losses."

The main purpose of the SBA loans, Flores said, is to replace uninsured disaster losses, primarily for personal property and homes. Under Texas law, if the mortgage on a home destroyed by the tornado is paid off, the SBA has few, if any, means to secure money for low-interest loans.

Flores said since the tornado has caused major or total damage to many homes, "the relocation factor has to come up. Relocation is going to be desired in those instances where rebuilding is difficult.

"The SBA neither encourages nor discourages relocation," he said, but there are stipulations as to how SBA loans may be used in relocation situations.

The SBA breaks down relocation into voluntary and involuntary categories. In the latter, federal laws and regulations prohibit an SBA loan to be used in rebuilding a home in a flood plain unless a building permit has been issued.

In a voluntary relocation situation, the amount of an SBA loan is based on the damaged property. Collateral requirements also are generally more stringent in voluntary relocation, Flores said.

Upgrading residences, Flores said, is not provided for under SBA loans.

Homeowners who want to build back bigger and better won't be able to use SBA loans for this purpose because the money is designed to re-establish pre-disaster conditions.

Flores said the SBA will maintain offices and operations in Wichita Falls for at least the next year and a half. He urged homeowners to visit the disaster relief center at Washington School for assistance in SBA loan applications.

As of Tuesday, the SBA had conducted 5,809 interviews with tornado victims, including 491 small businesses. Flores said the SBA already has approved 38 loans totaling $180,900 and that checks for disbursment of these loans are on order with the Treasury Department in Denver, Colo.

Flores said he has requested the establishment of an on-site Treasury office in Wichita Falls to handle future disbursements. The SBA currently has about 45 of its personnel here to help with disaster relief and loan application and approval.

would be cheaper than a new mortgage.

In the same hypothetical case, Ryan Mortgage Co. will place $20,000 in a passbook account and the homeowner may invest the remaining $10,000 in higher yield savings, but eventually it must be used to rebuild the house.

Financial representatives also said that if a huse were underinsured (say it would cost $40,000 to rebuild the house insured for $30,000) Small Business Administration should be consulted for a disaster loan.

Several S&Ls will provide interim financing until the SBA loan is processed. All agreed that above all, persons "should not be in a rush to settle anything while possibly in a state of shock or confusion" and a reputable builder should be used.

The second case presented was the same house with appraised damage of $7,500 covered by insurance.

Most financial institutions contacted said the homeowner should bring in bills as repairs are completed so a check could be issued in payment. If work is done by the owner, the bill for material used should be presented for payment. After repairs are completed, any balance from the insurance proceeds would be paid to the homeowner.

All institutions inspect the repairs to make sure they are adequate, and the homeowner must sign an affidavit stating that all repairs have been completed.

Parker Square Savings & Loan Association requires that the homeowner furnish bids for all repair work to show it can be accomplished for the $7,500.

If a homeowner wants to do the work, George G. Adams, Parker Square S&L president, said this poses complications. Each homeowner should confer on a case-by-case basis, it was recommended.

Financial institutions agreed that money received for repairs would not draw interest since it would be spent on a short-term basis.

Auxiliary power kept station KTRN on air

By STEVE OLAFSON
Staff Writer

You may be a middle-aged soul who deplores "Top 40" music or you may be a hard rock fanatic who curses the "bubble gum" tunes traveling on the AM airwaves, but on the night of April 10 no one was complaining because the only communication outlet in Wichita Falls was KTRN radio, 1290 on your dial.

While the rest of the news organizations in town were wandering around with flashlights and lanterns, KTRN was broadcasting vital information to thousands still staggering from the blow dealt by a vicious tornado that killed 45 persons. KTRN's auxiliary power system, powered by a two-week supply of propane and buried in the ground in a cinderblock wall, was the reason.

As soon as the radio station's power was cut by the twister, the auxiliary system began operating, enabling the station to keep a dazed city informed.

"We were nervous and running around in circles," admitted disc jockey-newsman James Bond. "But at least we were able to stay on the air.

"We here at the radio station, in all due modesty, were literally a lifesaver for many, many people."

Bond was sitting at the controls when the first tornado watch was issued around 2:30 p.m. April 10. Shortly after 5 p.m., the station received a bulletin from the National Weather Service that an imminent storm with possible tornadoes was approaching from the Archer City-Seymour area. And about an hour later the sirens started wailing.

"We immediately broke in with a bulletin," Bond recalled. The station continued playing music along with news bulletins as the Civil Defense, police and others started calling or driving to KTRN to begin the long, involved process of telling thousands of people what had happened and what they needed to do.

"We were busy for a full seven days after the tornado," Bond said. The station slowed down its programming, broadcasting only about 20 commercial spots during the first 48 hours, he said, "and that was just to let the disc jockey go to the bathroom or catch his breath."

After the tornado struck, Bond drove to Southmoor Center and began filing his first reports via two-way radio, but first he checked on his wife and later the family of colleague Jack Scott, who manned KTRN's microphone during the vital hours from 7 p.m. until midnight. As the night wore on, other broadcast and newspaper reporters who were frustrated at their inability to communicate the news began arriving at KTRN's studios to help.

"It was wonderful the cooperation we got from the other media," Bond said. "We must have had 40 or 50 people out here from different media."

In retrospect, news media organizations and city officials alike have come to appreciate KTRN's foresight in having an auxiliary power system ready. The station bought the system in 1962, Bond said.

"Being in 'Tornado Alley' it should be considered a must," he commented.

And the fact that it's buried and surrounded by a cinderblock wall gives greater comfort to disaster-wary broadcasters.

"Anything short of an atomic bomb, I'm sure it would still stand," Bond said.

Sooner election board named

Oklahoma Election Board has appointed new Democratic and Republican board members for most of the state's 77 counties including 10 residents in seven Southwest Oklahoma counties.

Howard Bain, D-Lawton, was appointed from Comanche County, and Cecil Baggs, D-Vinita, was appointed to represent Cotton County.

Jack Cowley, D-Willow, will represent Greer County, and Raymond Jarvis, D-Hollis, and Dennis Deskins, R-Hollis, will represent Harmon County.

Barbara Privett, D-Altus, and L.E. LeVick, R-Blair, were appointed from Jackson County.

In Jefferson County, Joe Chapman, D-Waurika, and Marguerite Cady, R-Ringling, were named by the board.

Elton Rackley, D-Hollister, and Homer Tilley, R-Frederick, will represent Tillman County.

Each county has an election board consisting of three members: a secretary, a Democratic member and a Republican member.

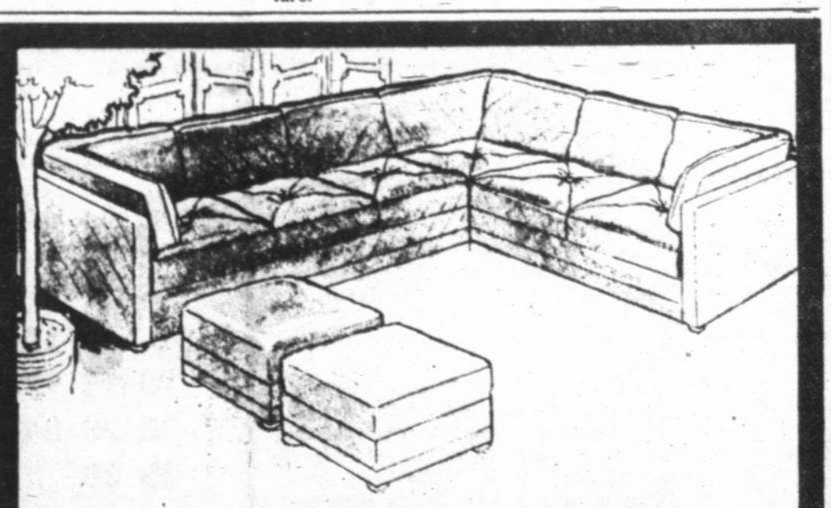

The state board named Democratic members in 58 counties and Republican members in 41 counties. The remaining party members will be named later this month. All party members are appointed to four-year terms.

Zambia seeking illegal refugees

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia police and immigration officials were ordered Wednesday to round up more than 2,000 illegal Angolan refugees from Sikongo and move them to nearby camps in the western province.

Felix Luputa, the province's member of the governing central committee, ordered the resettlement for the refugees who crossed the border during Angola's bloody civil war.

Immigration from China up

HONG KONG (AP) — Legal and illegal immigrants from China in 1978 totaled 94,953, up sharply from 34,361 the year before, the government said Wednesday. The increase was attributed to China's liberalized immigration policy.

Lewis Davis, secretary for security, told the legislative council, Hong Kong's law-making body, that 71,571 persons were legal immigrants and 23,382 were illegal.

The National Weather Service predicts rain Thursday from the upper East Coast to the Great Lakes region. (AP Map)

Texans waiting for water to recede

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeast Texas residents flooded out of their homes played the waiting game Wednesday — waiting for muddy waters of creeks and rivers to recede and to learn if more rain is upcoming.

The weatherman said there was chance of rain Friday and Saturday but not the heavy downpours which inundated the area late last week.

The Neches River at Beaumont dropped about a foot from Tuesday's crest, meaning it was still six feet above flood stage.

Pine Island Bayou, which drove more than 300 families from the Lumberton area of Hardin County, had dropped almost two feet but was still five feet above stage at Sour Lake.

The 78,000 sandbags stacked along the Neches in Jefferson and Hardin Counties held Wednesday.

There was also a slow fall on Village Creek from above Kountz to the confluence with the Neches River, but moderate flooding persisted. The creek was still five feet over flood stage Wednesday.

To the west, the Trinity River fell slowly and was two feet over bankfull at Romayor, where people had to flee earlier this week.

The weather service said major flooding from below Romayor downstream to below Moss Bluff was expected the next several days with a slow fall.

Federal officials in the area to provide assistance pointed out that a "tremendous number of homes" were flooded.

"With what we have seen, there's no doubt there are a tremendous number of homes are flooded," said Roy Smith, Federal Disaster Assistance Administration operations officer. "There's no doubt in anyone's mind that the area needs federal assistance."

L.D. Farrow of the Jefferson County Civil Defense office said that they wouldn't know the extent of damage until the water recedes.

"Lots of people don't even know what kind if shape their homes are in."

Elsewhere in the state, a cold front moved southeastward across West Texas.

Most of the state was sunny under fair skies, although some clouds formed along the front.

Temperatures were mild in the 70s to low 80s, although cooler air moved into the Panhandle behind the front.

Winds were strong and gusty from the north over the High Plains and Panhandle, but elsewhere winds were light and southerly.

Forecasters called for dry conditions with showers limited to the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the Coastal Plain and East Texas.

Mexico telephone workers strike over wage dispute

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Telephone workers walked out Wednesday but supervisors and Communications Ministry personnel took over and restored most service less than an hour later, a ministry spokesman said.

The 25,000-member telephone workers union struck the government-owned telephone system 10 minutes before a 1 p.m. deadline, demanding a 25 percent pay increase.

The government said before the strike it would intervene under a law requiring it to step in when public welfare or the economy might be affected by a strike, Aguirre said.

The Rev. Wade Darnell, pastor of Saint Helen Catholic Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Frederick Cemetery.

Born March 27, 1942, Stapp was employed as a flight instructor at Brantley Hines Helicopter Co. in Frederick. He was a veteran of the Vietnam war and was a member of the Catholic church. He married Marlene Mills in Tucson, Ariz., July 3, 1964.

Survivors include his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stapp of Frederick; a daughter, Diana of the home; two sons, David and Grant, both of the home; a brother, Charles of Noble, Okla.; and a sister, Mrs. Jean Miller of Frederick.

Home rebuilding info available

North Texas Home Builders Association and Wichita Falls Board of Commerce & Industry are co-sponsoring an information booth for owners of damaged or destroyed homes and building contractors.

The booth is on the fourth floor of Memorial Auditorium at 1300 Seventh. Those who lost their homes or had homes damaged may go to the booth and volunteers will help determine details of work needed.

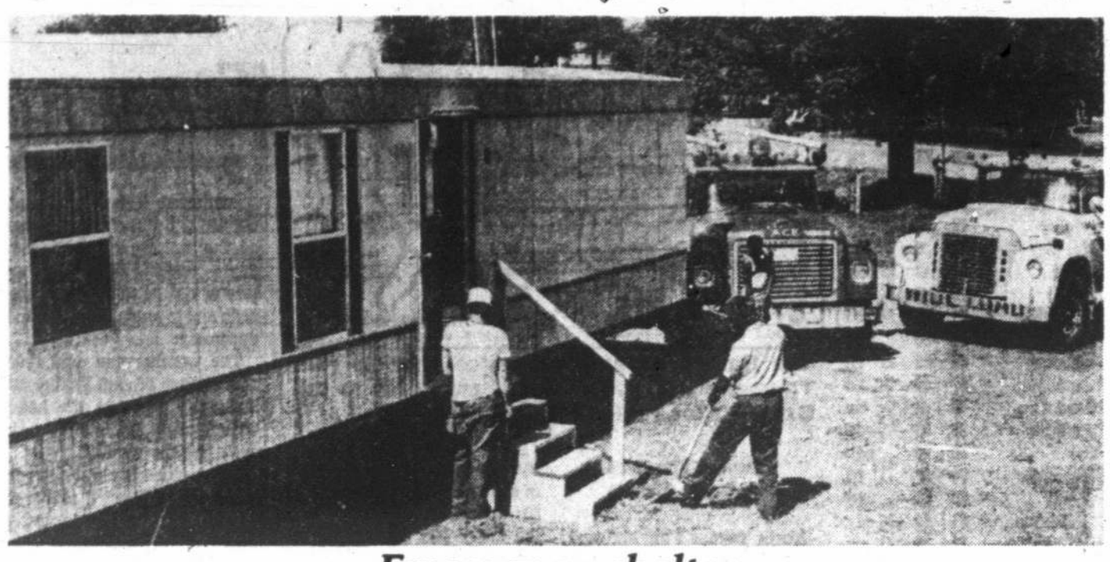

Contractors with licenses and bonds also should go to the booth and register to give volunteers an idea of what type of work each contractor specializes in. The booth will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and bond and license forms are available at the city inspection department.

May Fellowship Day scheduled

Church Women United will sponsor May Fellowship Day May 4 at First United Methodist Church.

Reservations should be made by Friday, according to Mrs. E.B. Compton Jr., spokeswoman for the group. Reservations may be made by calling 855-0433.

Fellowship activities will include registration at 11:30 a.m. Saturday followed by lunch and program at noon.

Guest speaker will be Jim Jones, supervisor of child welfare for Wichita County.

May Fellowship Day was first celebrated in 1933 during the Depression as a sign of hope and life for the community, Mrs. Compton said.

Theme for this year's fellowship day is "Our Children: Our Promise." It will focus on the needs and rights of children as proclaimed by the United Nation's International Year of the Child.

The group also will consider special problems of children of Wichita Falls as a result of the April 10 tornado.

A special offering will be collected for Child Care Inc.

Four Childress teens arrested

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — Plans to ask city officials for a youth curfew in Childress have been canceled by Police Chief Alvis Maddox after four Childress teen-agers were arrested on criminal mischief charges.

Taken into custody by police officers Monday were three juveniles and an 18-year-old.

The four were charged with a rash of vandalism incidents during the weekend. Rocks were thrown through windows at Childress High School, into at least 15 residences and several truck windshields Friday night, causing an estimated $4,000 in damages.

The three juveniles were released to the custody of their parents, and the 18-year-old was arraigned before Justice of the Peace James Smith Monday afternoon. Bond was set at $2,500 and he was being held in Childress County jail Tuesday night in lieu of bond.

The three juveniles will be scheduled for juvenile hearings before County Judge Clarence Darter later, according to police officials.

Defensive driving course offered

A defensive driving course will be offered from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in Tenth and Broad Church of Christ chapel.

Fee is $8.20. For members of the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, the fee is $3.20.

The course has been designed by the National Safety Council. Most automobile insurance companies allow about 10 percent discount on insurance for persons who have taken the course.

For information, call J.F. Maxey at 723-1187.

Scholarship deadline near

Deadline is May 8 for high school seniors to apply for the annual Fitzpatrick Memorial Scholarship at Midwestern State University English department.

The scholarship is given in memory of Father James Fitzpatrick, who was an English instructor at MSU until his death in 1973.

The award is given each year to a freshman entering MSU and interested in a degree in English or humanities, Dr. Jeff H. Campbell, chairman of the Department of English, said.

Other qualifications for the scholarship recipient are a good scholastic record and financial need.

Competition is open to all seniors in the four Wichita Falls high schools. Students may receive an application from the English office in Hardin Building at MSU. Applicants also may call the office and have an application mailed to them.

Campbell said the scholarship has been rotating through the high schools the past five years, but this year includes all seniors in Wichita Falls.

Award recipient

MSU TACT elects officers

Bill Brackeen, assistant professor of engineering drawing at Midwestern State University, was elected president of the university chapter of Texas Association of College Teachers for 1979-80.

Don Flatt, associate professor of physical education and recreation, was elected vice president. Cherry Baker, assistant professor of business administration, was elected secretary-treasurer.

Cashion School reunion slated

Cashion School reunion will be from 10:30 to 4 p.m. Aug. 5 at Burkburnett Community Center.

Barbara McDonnell, reporter, said, "All Cashion students and ex-students are invited to come. Bring a picnic lunch."

Manslaughter hearing set for Sosebee

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) — A June 11 preliminary hearing has been set for a 39-year-old Wichita Falls, Texas, woman charged with first-degree manslaughter for allegedly running over her husband with a Red Cross van near Dickson Friday night.

Carter County District Attorney Ron Worthen said Shirley Sosebee, allegedly hit Glen Milton Sosebee, 50, with the van and dragged him 52 feet.

He died of multiple injuries, including a fractured skull, en route to an Ardmore hospital, Worthen said.

A parttime driver for the Red Cross Blood Bank in Wichita Falls, Mrs. Sosebee was en route to Ardmore after delivering a supply of blood to Tishomingo when the slaying occurred, Worthen said.

Tillman names teacher of year

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Jack B. Killebrew has been named Tillman County Teacher of the Year.

He has been employed by the Tipton School System 25 years, 12 years as teacher, seven as principal and six as counselor.

Killebrew earned his bachelor's degree from Southeastern State College in 1950 and his master's from Southwestern State in 1958. He earned his administration certificate from Western State College in Colorado in 1970.

Killebrew is a member of Oklahoma and National Education Associations, has served as Tipton Chamber of Commerce president two years and was president of Tipton Alumni Association. He is vice president of Altus Barbershop Quartet and is a member of Tipton Home Board of Directors.

"The most rewarding job I can have is that of a teacher," he said. "Teaching gives me the opportunity to see a child grow and develop into a worthwhile citizen."

Hearings slated on 3 nominees

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee plans hearings Monday on Carter administration nominees as inspectors general for three government agencies under its jurisdiction.

The nominees are Frank S. Sato, Transportation Department; Mary Bass, Commerce Department, and Eldon Taylor, NASA.

4-H plans open horse show

By G'ANNA & VERNON SMITH

Open Wichita County 4-H Horse Show will be Saturday at Wichita County Mounted Patrol Arena. It should have a full entry list and maximum participation.

Saturday and Sunday are the dates set for the Grand National Horse Association Spring Roundup in Mangum, Okla.

Saturday also is the date planned for the Southwest Arabian Ride. Class "B" Open and Novice riders will compete at Fort Sill, Okla. Ride secretary is Barbara Bowden, 1823 Village Drive, Duncan, Okla. 73533.

We are not ignoring the fact that we promised results of the Maskat Temple Mounted Patrol Quarter Horse Show, but the secretary, Jerry Ann Bowman of Fort Worth, is the only one with a winners' list. We hope to receive a copy this coming week.

Capulin Mountain Handicap for 3-year-olds and up is Sunday, with $2,200 added for 350 yards. Other upcoming Quarter Horse races include the Raton Pass Handicap May 20 and Top 'O Texas Stakes May 27 with an estimated purse of $73,000.

A few upcoming events next month: May 1 is entry deadline for the Los Alamitos, Calif., Skoal-Dash for Cash Yearling Sale scheduled July 29. This year the nation's top 2-year-old will be earning about $750,000 for less than 20 seconds' of work. Apache Horse Sale will be May 5 in Apache, Okla.; on May 25-26, the world's richest Barrel Race Futurity is planned in Fort Smith, Ark., and the Western Heritage Sale in Houston shares the same dates. Finally, Green Country Horse Sale in Tulsa, Okla., is planned for May 26.

Some interesting Thoroughbred data: Texas has 65,000 registered Thoroughbreds, including 500 stallions standing at an average of three horses per farm; 20-30 active breeding farms in our state see some 7,500 mares bred each year with each stallion averaging 15 mares per year.

8,000 apply for assistance as one aid center is closed

By BRUCE FISHER
Regional Staff Writer

By late Wednesday, more than 8,000 Wichita Falls residents had filed applications for disaster assistance due to damage done by the April 10 tornado, Federal Coordinating Officer Joe Winkle said.

As Federal Disaster Assistance Administration officials prepared to close one of three assistance centers, and to open an applicants service center Thursday, they issued an appeal asking all persons who have moved since visiting an assistance center to come back to one of the centers left in operation and provide new information about their new addresses.

The one-stop assistance center at Notre Dame High School closed at 7 p.m. Wednesday. About 3,190 people applied for assistance at that center.

The remaining one-stop center at the 4-H Center will continue to take applications for aid through 7 p.m. Saturday. About 4,575 people have filed applications there so far.

About 317 storm victims have applied for help at the one-stop center in Vernon. That center closed Saturday.

The new applicants service center will open at 9 a.m. Thursday in Washington School at 700 Flood. It will be open until 7 p.m. Monday through Saturday to help storm victims fill out forms.

Storm victims who have relocated since applying for aid at any of the centers should call the disaster hot line — 855-6910 in Wichita Falls and 552-2528 in Vernon — and give officials information about the storm victims' new addresses.

Winkle said property owners whose property suffered damage in the storm should make an effort to sign releases for debris removal on that property as soon as possible. Failure to authorize contractors to remove debris is holding up the cleanup process in most cleanup areas in varying degrees.

"While May 6 is the cutoff date for signing these authorizations, we hope to have them in hand well before then," Winkle said.

He said that those families who are eligible for a mobile home to be placed on an FDAA-approved private site may be given the option of preparing the site themselves and arranging for utility connections.

Winkle said in most cases federal officials will simply move the mobile home onto the site, block it and tie it down. The applicant who elects to prepare the site himself in order to move into the mobile home as soon as possible, should be prepared to complete water, sewer, gas and electric hook-ups as required by state, federal and local laws.

Eligible applicants who want additional information on the site preparation option may call the FDAA housing inquiry office at 855-4392 or 855-4921, Winkle said.

Six gunmen raid bingo game

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — Brandishing pistols and wearing masks, six gunmen burst into a suburban Detroit bingo game, cut the telephone line and forced people to lie on the floor before escaping with more than $8,000.

Some 250 people, mostly women and senior citizens, were playing bingo Tuesday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Taylor when the holdup occurred, police said. "It was just a wonder no one had a heart attack," said Mary Robleski, 59, of Dearborn Heights.

Vaccinations set

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Hollister United Neighbors Club has tentatively set May 5 as dog vaccination day.

Weddington named McMurry speaker

ABILENE, Texas — Sarah Weddington, special assistant to President Jimmy Carter, will speak at McMurry College spring commencement, said Dr. Thomas K. Kim, McMurry president.

Weddington alwo will be presented an honorary doctorate of laws at the ceremony at 3 p.m. May 13 in McMurry's Radford Auditorium.

W.B. Rushing, Lubbock businessman and former McMurry trustee, will receive an honorary doctorate of humanities at the commencement.

More than 110 McMurry students will be presented bachelors at the graduation exercises.

A 1965 magna cum laude McMurry graduate, Weddington heads the president's Interdepartmental Task Force on Women and advises the president on issues affecting women. She succeeded Midge Costanza in the post last September.

Weddington first came to national prominence when she successfully argued the historic case of Roe vs. Wade in 1972 before the United States Supreme Court which found the Texas abortion law unconstitutional.

On graduation from McMurry, Weddington entered law school at University of Texas. After earning her law degree she was as assistant reporter for an American Bar Association special project to re-evaluate ethical standards. In that capacity she helped write the Code of Professional Responsibility for Lawyers used throughout the United States.

She was assistant city attorney for Fort Worth and then entered private practice in 1971, conducting a general practice in both state and federal courts.

Weddington was elected to three terms in the Texas House of Representatives from Travis County. Texas Monthly magazine named her one of the ten best Texas legislators in 1975.

She left the Texas Legislature in 1977 to become general counsel of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

She was one of 16 young U.S. political leaders who spent two weeks in China in 1977 under sponsorship of the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations.

'Workfare' program due

In nine selected areas of the United States, able-bodied food stamp recipients soon will have to register for employment to qualify for their monthly allotment of stamps under a pilot "workfare" program.

Such a proposal, which has been called for by the right wing for years, probably won't make a substantial dent in the total food stamp program, but it will place welfare recipients on notice that the free ride many have enjoyed for years may be nearing an end.

The pilot "workfare" project was mandated by the Food Stamp Act of 1977. It requires unemployed food stamp recipients age 18-60 to "work off" the value of the food stamps they receive. We won't ask the obvious question of why two years were required to implement a program prescribed by federal law, only comment that it's time an offering to work should be the first step for an able-bodied welfare recipient to continue to qualify.

"Workfare" pilot programs will be tried in Union and Sussex counties, N.J.; Morristown, Tenn.; Muskingum County, Ohio; Rusk County, Wis.; Clay County, S.D.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Brunswick, Maine, and San Diego County, Calif. The locations were selected demographically, not because they have more or fewer unemployed food stamp recipients than other areas.

Whatever its ultimate effect, "workfare" should go a long way toward giving the food stamp program greater acceptance among the general public.

Factors in food costs

Americans take for granted a plentiful food supply. Most of us have never been hungry, and food should continue to be plentiful, although it's bound to increase in price.

Why this is true is easy to figure out. As costs of other products and services are boosted by inflation, why should we expect food to be exempt?

That's only part of the picture, however. The food business is affected by four factors: the farmer, the government, the consumer and the food processing industry.

A year ago, farmers received 38 cents of the food dollar while today they receive 40 cents, according to Harold A. Shaub, president of Campbell Soup Co. But farmers continue to complain, justifiably, that their production costs are outrunning revenues.

The government has been accused of maintaining a cheap food policy. Regulation of the food processing industry, however, continues to have an inflationary effect on prices.

Consumers are a factor because they continue to demand convenience foods. The food industry responds to these demands but must increase prices enough to pay for preparation.

While cost pressures affect each market factor, the result is a continuing supply of food, processed, prepared and packaged to suit the consumer, but at a steadily climbing retail cost to the consumer.

Where it will end is anybody's guess, but a good place for the consumer to start saving would be to purchase unprepared food at cheaper prices and prepare it at home. Convenience is the most important factor in higher food prices.

Fonda and profit motive

By GARRY WILLS

As a movie, "The China Syndrome" has its faults, including a wacky SWAT team acting on no known authority. But critics of the movie have their faults as well, including those who emit what passes for witty rebuttal on the right wing. They say, "Jane Fonda got paid for a movie denouncing greed" and think a case has been made that the movie has no case.

In one sense they are right, self-defeatingly so. They are saying that, in the world of "The China Syndrome," profit is profit. If you take it, don't knock it. But of course there's nothing wrong with profit, just with those who think if you take it you can't knock it. Those who treat profit as good in itself, however gained, are voicing the attitude of the flunkies in the movie who considered any criticism of the nuclear plant an assault on the profit system itself, i.e., on the whole "American way of life."

The movie is not really about nuclear plants, but capitalism; the willingness of the paid to consider themselves the bought, and to stay bought as a matter of principle as well as pay. Most evil is done by those who sacrifice themselves to an apparent good.

Proof of this is found in an area that has nothing to do with nuclear plants. Jerome Wilkenfeld, no doubt an estimable fellow, testified before a House Commerce subcommittee last week, and showed that his estimable qualities were exercised in loyalty to his company on the order of military non-desertion.

Wilkenfeld was "waste supervisor" at Hooker Chemical Corp., an office he must have interpreted to mean one who "overlooks" waste problems to look out for the company. In 1958 he wrote an internal memo on disposal of dangerous wastes in the Niagara Falls area, noting that "the entire area is being used by children as a playground."

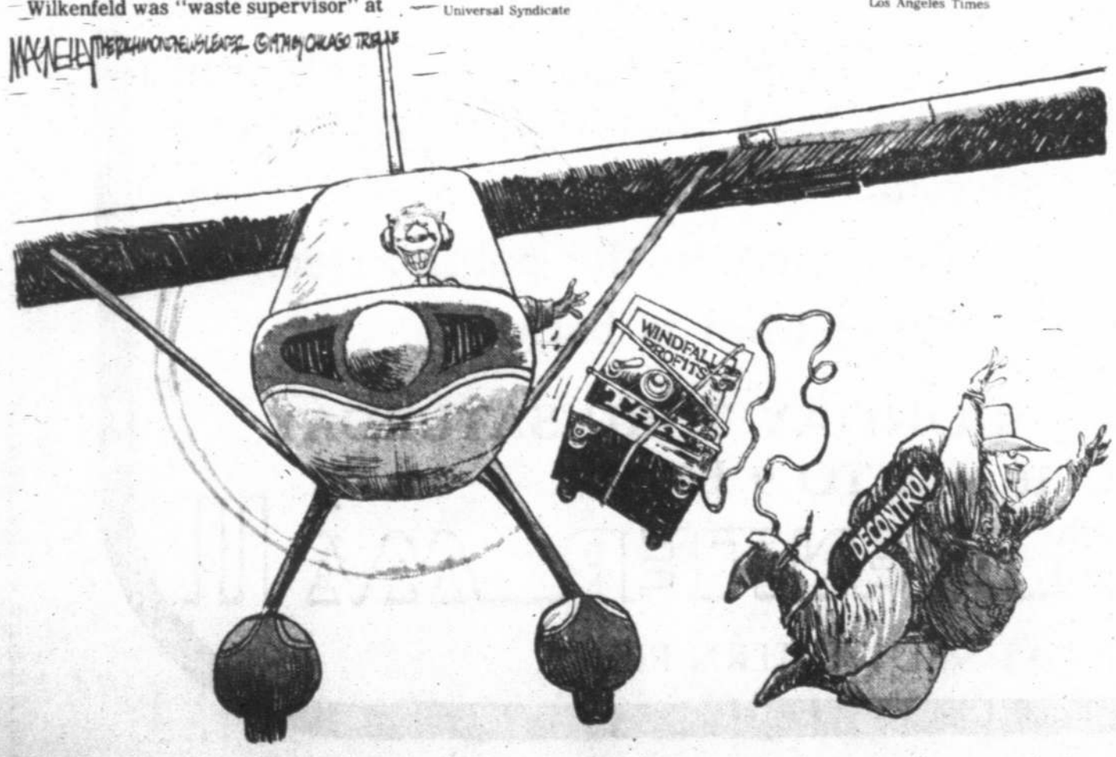

This was the Love Canal area, where buried chemicals have caused sickness and evacuation, though the company knew, 20 years ago, the dangerous quality of the waste it was planting in the ground.

Asked if the company ever warned the people it was endangering, Wilkenfeld, supervisor of these toxic things, answered, "No, we did not. We did not feel we could do it without incurring a substantial legal liability from owners of the property." It is the answer of car and tire executives who risk their customers' lives. It is the answer of the plant technicians in "The China Syndrome." It is the answer of those who think they can squelch criticism with the further answer that Ralph Nader gets paid for books telling people who buy cars that they are in danger.

For them, profit is sacred, no matter how obtains the profit. No one reduces capitalism to absurdity faster than its defenders. But you should not believe me. I am getting paid to write this. That is supposed to preclude my criticizing anything anyone else does for pay.

Profit is wrong only when it is worshipped. That is what "The China Syndrome," and the American way of life, means to capitalism's defenders.

Rhodesia voting problems

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — I have covered some touchy elections in foreign countries in turmoil.

But in Rhodesia, where the nation's first biracial government is trying to be born, I have been playing an unaccustomed role, not reporting, but serving as a member of the American Freedom House observer team monitoring the fairness and honesty of the elections.

One thing I can report: This experience, exciting and fascinating, has been no placid Sunday afternoon picnic. The atmosphere is one of tension and conflict, with considerable insecurity caused by political and military forces of dissident black leaders who have never liked elections in the first place.

There are 73 international observers from seven nations roaming the countryside to watch the balloting in every district embracing 500 polling sites and 250 mobile voting vans serving thinly populated rural and tribal areas.

One of my colleagues, who was an official observer during wartime voting in South Vietnam in 1967, said the security provisions here were tighter than anything he experienced in Vietnam.

They did not seem too much. We began to feel them even before we arrived. Flying into Rhodesia from South Africa, the lights on our plane were shut off to make us less visible as a target. Before we were allowed illumination in our hotel rooms, curtains were drawn as in a World War II London blackout.

Transportation to polling booths outside of Salisbury, which was deemed secure, was by plane and helicopter, since ground travel in many areas would have been riskful.

The need for such measures to protect voters and observers was real. Our own observer team verified the fact that the so-called "Patriotic Front" black leaders, who have been fighting with Cuban and Soviet aid to bring down the transitional government, vowed to wreck the elections by keeping voters from the polls.

One of the official spokesmen of the Patriotic Front said to one of the observers when he was here a year ago, "We are against the elections under all circumstances. We don't want them now, or ever. We intend to gain power at the point of a gun."

Voting has been an act of courage as well as conviction.

It will be several days before the final returns can be counted. What is at stake is only incidentally which candidates capture the 72 black seats in the new parliament. This election in effect is a popular plebiscite on the constitution.

A substantial turnout of the 2.8 million eligible blacks will mean the new biracial government is off to a promising start.

A turnout will signal that most blacks do not like what they have been offered, and more conflict and war could lie ahead.

Spring and shadbush time

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

DELAPLANE, Va. — When Roy left, I walked down the hill below the cabin to where he had bucked the remains of the two red oaks with his chain saw so I could split and load the logs as soon as the earth is dry enough to run my pickup into the woods.

Typically easily distracted from one musing to another, I curved around to the split rock to check the status of the laurel and azalea. The glossy leaves of the laurel have a spring sheen to them, but the azalea buds are barely swelling.

Most of the rest of the under-story beneath the oaks, pines and hickories is dogwood, and some of it is relaxing open in the sunshine, and in another week will be showing off. Every year it is magnificent from above, but from below it is less striking, because here in the deep woods it grows high and straight, reaching its blossoms toward the sun.

Following the contour around the hill, I started up a swale where a vine-covered pinetop was blown down, and remembered that was where I saw a silent great horned owl glide away on a gray snow-covered day two years ago. Just at the moment my terrain recognition computer flashed that memory, he flew out again. He stopped on a snag ahead, moved his head from side to side to focus back on me, then eased away up the draw, his broad brown wings slipping through the pine branches.

No sooner had he disappeared than a crow started cawing after him, and then another. They converged from all directions, together and singly, through the woods and down from the heights of Cobbler Mountain, harassing and threatening him. I suspected they might annoy him into coming back home, so I sat on the wet earth and waited.

They kept cawing. After a while I got impatient and looked for a nest hole, and searched the ground for a pile of upchucked pellets beneath his roost, to tell me what he had been eating. Nothing. As I walked up the draw, he finally moved again and looped back to the northwest behind me, and behind him a string of crows stretched back like a kite's black tail.

Up to my right toward the fence line, a cloud of white seemed to float between a patch of laurel and the dark oaks above. Its only movement was to fuzz around the edges with the light breeze. I pushed into the laurel and walked my hands up to bend the slim trunk supporting the white blossoms until I could pinch off a twig of them.

They grow in clusters, eight or a dozen to a twig, from the same bud as dark red, new leaflets. Each blossom is loosely five-petaled, with a spray of yellow stamens above its center. I should have known them, but I didn't. I took the sprig back and looked it up.

Shadbush. Shadblow. Serviceberry. Amelanchier, in the Latin. It is shadbush here in the East because it blooms at the time of year when the shad run up the streams to spawn. Shadblow gets its second half from the old Anglo-Saxon, blowan, to blossom.

Hal Borland wrote that serviceberry comes from pioneer days in the mountains, when the circuit riding preacher was kept away by the snow so he could not do the last rites for those who died over the winter. On his first arrival in the spring, he would conduct services for all at once. He and the blossoms arrived together, thus serviceberry.

Just after I found this, I read in The Mountain Eagle, the Kentucky weekly, Mabel Kiser's report from Millstone that the "sarviceberry," she spelled it, was in full bloom "and beautiful to see." Why is it, she wondered, "they always grow in 'unaccessable' places?"

Later on the west slope, I realized it had been around me for all my life, and in splitting wood and inspecting owls I had paid it no particular mind, assuming it was a spattering of early dogwood or stray cherry. That slope is not an inaccessible place, unless you are even creakier than I. But it is steep. And it is spotted here and there and down that way with the white haze of shadbush.

I will never look past it again. It is nice sometimes to find out what you have been missing.

Public education problems

By MARTHA ANGLE & ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON — It would be premature to push the panic button, but a danger light is flashing for public education in this country.

For several reasons, some admirable, some not, a growing number of parents coast to coast are choosing to send their children to private schools, even when the decision entails financial sacrifice.

It is happening in the affluent suburbs surrounding New York, where the reputation of the public schools is what originally lured many families to the area in the first place.

It is evident throughout California, where the white exodus that followed last year's Los Angeles busing order merely accelerated the growth in private school enrollment that had been under way for several years.

It is apparent in Washington, where school board members are increasingly worried about the departure of middle class black students for private schools.

"The trend is there, all right, and if not arrested, it would be tragic," said Ernest L. Boyer, U.S. commissioner of education, in testimony at a Senate hearing. "The quality of public education is central to the quality of this nation. If the public schools are forsaken by the people who care most deeply, something vital will be lost."

The trend of which Boyer spoke is difficult to calibrate, for the reason that no reliable statistics exist on private school enrollment nationwide. Many private schools, especially the rapidly growing fundamentalist Christian schools, decline to report enrollment figures to state or federal agencies.

Federal officials estimate that about five million youngsters, or 10.3 percent of total school enrollment, were attending private schools in the fall of 1977. Roman Catholic schools, always the largest segment of private schools, accounted for about two-thirds of the enrollment.

During the decade 1965-75, Roman Catholic school enrollment dropped by more than two million pupils. But in the last year or so, that decline has stopped and enrollment has leveled off. At the same time, other private schools, both religious and independent, have registered small enrollment increases, this at a time when both school age population and public school enrollments have been dropping.

Why the apparent disenchantment with public schools? Again no hard data are available, but public opinion surveys offer useful clues.

The 10th annual Gallup survey of attitudes toward public education last year showed the percentage giving their public schools grades of A or B had dropped from 48 percent in 1974 to 36 percent in 1978. During that same period, those giving the schools either a D or a "failing" mark increased from 11 to 19 percent.

Significantly, people living in large cities showed the least confidence in the public schools, a 21 percent A or B rating compared to a 30 percent D or F. And blacks in the north were unhappiest of all, with 43 percent rating the schools either D or F.

The top five problems perceived by the public were: lack of discipline, use of drugs in the schools, lack of adequate financial support, integration and busing plans and poor standards or curriculum.

Peace on the range

By DON GRAFF

It was touch and go for a time; but it looks as if the sovereign state of Montana and the imperious city of New York have settled their differences without resort to a transcontinental range war.

And a strange conflict that would have been, waged at supermarket checkout counters and travel agencies.

In case you missed any of the preliminaries, it began with a suggestion of New York's consumer affairs authorities that New Yorkers pledge themselves to "beefless Wednesdays" to combat high meat prices.

It is questionable to what extent the populace of the metropolis took note of the call. After all, what's in a particular day when you can't come up with the down payment on a steak to start with. But Gov. Thomas Judge of Montana did. Growers in his major beef producing state, among others, say deliberately curtailed demand is not the way to increase supply and that the moderately effective consumer boycott of the early '70s had a lot to do with the thinning of herds that is a factor in today's short and high priced beef supply.

The governor wasn't smiling when he said New York was drawing a bead on Montana's economy. He fired off a protest to New York's Mayor Edward Koch, warning of retaliation, a tourist boycott of the city. (New Yorkers, to their credit, refrained from making a case that it's not easy always being at their tidiest and most courteous to entertain all those visitors.)

Equally quick on the draw when he spots an economic threat at 40 paces or 2,000 miles, the mayor fired back assurance that he loves meat, indulged throughout the week, wanting to hear no more of boycotts and, anyway, it was all the fault of price-gouging middlemen who come between producers and consumers. And wouldn't the governor please join the mayor for dinner, the menu to feature New York cut steaks?

There the fuss ended. Montana is still producing and selling beef, New York is still buying and eating, and middlemen presumably are still out there gouging. It all goes to show that:

a) Economics can make strange dinner companions;

b) One man's supply is another's demand;

c) When in doubt, kick the middleman;

d) If you can't make both ends meet, try a little public relations on one of them;

e) All of the above.

Fuel For Thought — Some airlines are running short of fuel as a consequence of curtailed Mideast oil production, right?

The Arab countries are the world's leading oil producers for export, right?

So an Arab airline, one would think, should be spared fuel problems. Right?

Wrong. Alia, the Royal Jordanian airline, is delaying inauguration of a new flight linking Amman and Houston because of fuel uncertainty.

Jordan is not an oil producer, but it has been in the forefront of the Arab solidarity movement with its big-time brothers during the Egyptian-Israeli treaty crisis.

The least it might expect would be that the blood of Arab brotherhood would prove thicker than oil, but apparently not.

Books In The News

Author probes 4 news giants

The Powers That Be, by David Halberstam. Knopf, $15.
By John Barkham

For several years the news world has been aware that David Halberstam was engaged in a massive X-ray study of its history, structure and operation that would do for American journalism what he had done for Vietnam in "The Best and the Brightest." This is the book, and it is everything it was cracked up to be, a superb study of four representative institutions of the news media — CBS, Time Inc., the Washington Post and the Los Angeles Times.

It does to them what they do to others but seldom if ever do to themselves. This is the inside story, crammed with facts (creditable and not-so-creditable), character studies of the gray eminences who make the crucial decisions, and a parade of anecdotes that throws a revealing light on "the powers that be."

Halberstam's effort in unearthing facts, feuds and obiter dicta known only in journalism's corridors of power has been awesome. (This reviewer, who worked on Time for five years, learned much he had not previously known about editors for whom he worked.)

As in "The Best and the Brightest," the writing is stern but stimulating. People make news, and Halberstam has built his book on the people who made his four subjects the powers they are.

That television has joined the press in transforming American politics is a fact. As Lyndon Johnson angrily declared to a CBS man after being driven from office: "You guys — all of politics has changed because of you." He was right.

The weak sister in Halberstam's quartet is the Los Angeles Times, which may be remarkably affluent but carries little of the clout the New York Times does. Halberstam acknowledges that the New York Times is the most influential paper in the world, but all it gets in the book is one excellent chapter because, he lamely explains, so much has already been written about it. This is not a convincing reason for omitting the New York Times from a book bearing the title "The Powers That Be."

On CBS and Time Inc. Halberstam is brilliant. These sections read as though Halberstam was present when critical decisions were made, when shots were called, when there was a backing down under pressure. It is not a tale only of glory by any means.

One observes, too, a parallel in the relationship between CBS boss William S. Paley and his crack correspondent Edward R. Murrow and that between Time boss Henry R. Luce and his crack correspondent Theodore H. White. When the chips were down, each relationship was breached — and in each instance the correspondent was proven right. These are two classics of American journalism and it is hard to imagine them told with more authenticity or drama than by Halberstam.

The Washington Post story turns mostly on Katherine Graham and her husband Philip, a charming, astute but increasingly unstable figure who built up the paper, acquired Newsweek magazine for a song and finally went over the edge into suicide.

As for the Los Angeles Times, it is simply a success story of growing prosperity, improved coverage and dominant influence on its community. It functions admirably on its own home stage, whereas CBS, Time and the Washington Post carry national and international clout.

U.S. And You

Congress chewing the fat over Medicare dental gap

By WILLIAM STEIF
NEA Writer

The subject today is teeth, or lack of same if you are getting along in years.

Everyone needs teeth, natural or false. But Congress ignored that need when it stitched Medicare into the Social Security law in the mid-1960s. So Medicare does NOT pay for dental work. Or for dentures.

In 1977 two-thirds of the $41.3 billion health care costs of people 65 or older was paid by government, mostly through Medicare and Medicaid.

Medicare alone paid 74 percent of all hospital bills for these folks and 56 percent of all doctors' bills, a new Social Security study says.

But Medicare paid nothing for dental work. Medicaid, a smaller program for the needy, paid only a dab of the costs.

If you're in your 60s, chances are one in two you've lost all your teeth. A national health survey found that almost two-thirds of people 65 or older had lost all their upper or all their lower teeth.

Result: Poor nutrition, speech difficulties, slower healing of oral wounds, greater risks of infection, psychological problems.

Cost seems to be the reason Medicare, now covering almost an eighth of the U.S. population, doesn't include dental health.

But now Rep. Harold E. Ford, D-Tenn., is gearing up a campaign to include it. He's introduced legislation in Congress so that Medicare would cover dentistry and dentures. Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., who heads the House Select Committee on Aging, supports the idea. So do other well-placed lawmakers.

Let's step back a moment and see what health care spending in 1977 amounted to for each person 65 or older, according to Social Security.

The average was $1,745. Of this, $769 went for hospital care ($679 of that was paid by government). There was also:

— $446 for nursing home care.

— $302 for drugs.

— $51 for "other" health services.

— $13 for eyeglasses and appliances.

— $43.24 for dentistry.

Of that, only $1.96 came from government, mostly from Medicaid. Nothing from Medicare.

So older folks who needed dental care in 1977 reached into their own pockets for it. Their total expenses: About $1 billion.

A lot of people aged 65 and up don't have the money to sink into dental care. If you're living on $300, $400 or $500-a-month Social Security benefits, dental health is a relatively low priority. Although older persons visit doctors on the average of six times a year, they're not likely to visit a dentist once a year.

And they should go more often. A survey done several years ago showed that only one-fifth of elderly people with annual incomes of $5,000 or less see a dentist even once a year.

One elderly person in 10 needs but doesn't have dentures. Almost one-third of elderly persons who have dentures need them refitted or replaced.

That's why Ford says "the people who need Medicare help the most for dental health don't get it."

The situation is the same for eyeglasses and hearing aids. The only way Medicare will pay for eyeglasses is if they're prescribed after cataract surgery. Medicare won't pay for hearing aids at all.

Ford is in a position to prod the House along. He's not only on Pepper's committee but also on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, which initiates Social Security and Medicare legislation.

Ford is shooting for public hearings on the dental problem soon. He thinks the rising pressure for a start on national health insurance may bring some results, even though the chances are not bright this year for Congress moving to cover dental health (or eyeglasses or hearing aids) under Medicare.

If you want to help Ford — and possibly yourself — write him at 1230 Longworth Building, Washington, D.C., 20515. Or write your own congressman or senator and tell him what you think of the dental gap in Medicare coverage.

Electra board OKs sales tax

By LAJUNE LEWIS
Correspondent

ELECTRA (Special) — Electra city commissioners Tuesday night approved the third and final reading of an ordinance to retain the one-cent sales tax from the city's water and electric bills.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office gave cities until May 1 to decide whether to retain the tax.

Mayor Ray B. Dickey sponsored a resolution declaring May cleanup month for Electra. The commissioners approved enforcement of the "junk car" ordinance to have inoperable automobiles removed from streets and yards. Commissioners also discussed hiring a cleanup supervisor to direct a cleanup of the town.

Commissioners asked City Manager Bob Moore to study possibilities of a zoning program for Electra.

Also approved was closing of a portion of Decatur between West Cleveland and Business U.S. 287. The street will be used for parking space to a new store under construction.

Tornado's emotional scars may be difficult to cure

By JODY COX
Staff Writer

The child stirs in her sleep and moans in the throes of yet another nightmare. The dreams have been almost a nightly occurence for two weeks, and they probably won't cease for some time to come.

The child, like so many other children and adults in Wichita Falls, probably won't have an easy time getting over the events of April 10.

When the giant tornado cut its destructive swath across the city on that Tuesday evening, it left more than physical devastation. The emotional and pyschological scars it caused may be a long time in healing.

Representatives from disaster relief agencies, medical and psychiatric facilities and associations and education and social service institutions met Wednesday at Medicenter Psychiatric Hospital to discuss and plan for the emotional and psychological trauma many feel is sure to follow on the heels of the disaster.

They received news that help is on the way.

Dr. Jacob Lindy and the psychological trauma disaster team of University of Cincinnati Medical School will come to Wichita Falls to lend their expertise in dealing with psychological problems resulting from the disaster, Medicenter administrator Mike Bullock said.

"The professionals in this community are going to need some help," Bullock said. "Dr. Lindy has asked that we determine our problems and capabilities, and then they'll be able help us. They can pretty well tell us what's down the road."

Bullock said Lindy and the members of the five-man team are veterans of a variety of disasters; they have gone into areas stricken by floods, tornadoes and hurricanes, both to study and to help with emotional and psychological problems. Through this experience and follow-up research the group performed, Lindy's team knows generally what problems to expect, why they occur and how to deal with them, Bullock said.

A disaster of the magnitude Wichita Falls faces in effect eliminates most of the usual methods used to treat most psychological problems, Bullock said, and other means need to be found and made available in tornado-stricken areas of North Texas and Southern Oklahoma.

Persons attending Wednesday's planning meeting generally agreed with Bullock. Hospital social workers said many of the storm's victims who still are hospitalized; haven't yet realized their loss, for many have yet to see their ravaged homes.

Many people haven't had time to think about what has happened to them, a Salvation Army representative said.

"It's like any kind of disaster," a psychiatrist observed. "First they do what they have to, and then they break down."

People will need the catharsis of talking about their experiences, a Red Cross representative noted. "Relatives and friends will tell them 'Be brave; don't cry,' but what they really need is a ventilation of their feelings," he said.

Besides the direct effects of the tornado, other problems will linger for months. Children will be going to new schools after relocation. Families will be living together in cramped quarters, causing added stress and tension.

Much of the counseling and help will come from lay rather than professional sources, others at the meeting observed. Family members, ministers, physicians and teachers likely will bear the brunt of the storm's lingering emotional effects. Beauticians and barbers will hear more than a few tornado stories, as well as of problems people face, in the weeks to come.

Even bartenders should be made aware of people's problems, for as a representative of Texas Commission on Alcoholism said, some with alcohol and drug problems may return to their addiction for relief.

Bullock said the disaster trauma team will be here for several days, conducting workshops for professionals, training seminars for Red Cross, Salvation Army and other volunteer workers and perhaps an informational "conscious-raising" session for the general public.

Plans also were made for television and radio broadcasts for dissemination of information. With the committee's consensus, Bullock tentatively scheduled the team's visit for the second week of May.

Wife questioned in husband's death

LYON, France (AP) — A French woman has confessed she left tranquilizers at her paralyzed husband's bedside so he could take his life, police said Wednesday.

Nicole Dib, 36, was being held for questioning in the death of her husband, Abderrahman, a 35-year-old psychologist who died of a drug overdose, police said.

They reported that Dib, injured in an automobile accident, had recently come home after eight months in hospital where he tried to kill himself twice.

Aid group meets to affirm goals

By STEVE OLAFSON
Staff Writer

With $16,840 already in the bank and another $5,500 on the way, an interdenominational group of Wichita Falls citizens met again Wednesday to hash out the problem of providing relief to tornado-affected Wichitans.

Calling it an "affirmation" of Interfaith Disaster Services' goal, Dr. Bruce Weaver, the group's president, said people from throughout Wichita Falls and the United States are trying to contribute to the group's cause.

"It seems people have responded to what we are doing very positively," he commented.

Although he stressed that the group's efforts do not mean other local parishes need to discontinue their disaster relief, Weaver and other members hope to pool resources from churches throughout the country as well as aid from other individuals and groups.

"I have been amazed at the phone calls I've received from organizations I wouldn't dream would be interested in donating to this," Weaver said.

He added that he hopes as many volunteers as possible will get involved in the service group. Members agreed to negotiate for office space at the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, 1007 Burnett, where the organization hopes to base its operations.

Weaver said donations may be sent to Bruce Reeves, City National Bank, P.O. Drawer 60, Wichita Falls 76307.

Travelers post elects officers

Wichita Falls Post "I" of the Travelers Protective Association elected and installed officers at a family dinner meeting Tuesday night.

Henry "Bob" Holder was installed as president while James B. Burrus was installed as first vice president. Other officers are Jesse R. Hoff, secretary-treasurer; J. Carl Kuehn, board of directors chairman; and board members Charles Box, Eldridge Hankins, James B. Burrus, David Box and Elmo Sampson.

Committee chairmen are Hoff, publicity; Sampson, welfare; Kuehn, child safety; Hankins, community services, chaplain and ritual; and Box, membership.

The group's next meeting will be 7:30 p.m. May 8 in Sikes Senter's community meeting room.

Top U.N. executive to aid in Vietnam-China talks

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim left for Hanoi Thursday morning to "offer my good offices" to Vietnam and China in settling their political differences.

Waldheim told an airport news conference, "You should not expect my visit to achieve immediate results, but it is important for a neutral authority to offer his help. I think my visit is timely, but I still have to find out how willing the governments are to discuss their problems with me."

Asked about the prospects of an international conference on Indochina, Waldheim said, "Personally I dont feel we have reached a point where such a conference can be organized."

Besides Vietnam, Waldheim has penciled in China and North and South Korea on his agenda.

His eight-member official party, accompanied by nine reporters, will travel aboard the personal jet of President Ferdinand E. Marcos, which the Philippine leader made available for the journey.

Waldheim will be making his first visit to Vietnam. He will arrive in a country that is fighting one war while talking with an opponent about how to prevent the continuation of another.

Aides said Waldheim will communicate the deep concern of Southeast Asian countries about Vietnam's involvement in Cambodia and their fears that it may spill into Thailand, if Vietnamese troops choose to pursue the fleeing troops of the ousted Pol Pot government across the border.

One of Waldheim's initial problems is that the U.N. General Assembly recognizes the toppled Pol Pot government and not the Hanoi-backed officials of Heng Samrin.

Waldheim still has not determined how to handle the diplomatic problem of encountering representatives of the current Cambodian government, his aides said.

But he will also try to help nudge along the stalled talks between Vietnam and China, initiated after the cessation of their month-long border war. Both sides have insisted that the dispute be handled bilaterally, but Waldheim aides believe this is the right time to move.

"Vietnam in particular is very suspicious right now," one aide said. "But they have gone through the motion at least of accepting an outside mediator. And China has been relatively enthusiastic about the secretary-general's visit."

Several Asian nations have proposed holding an international conference to discuss Indochina's problems, particularly the Cambodian situation. Waldheim will carry that suggestion with him, but doubts that either Vietnam or China will respond positively at this time.

The U.N. official will also present to the Vietnamese the growing concerns of Malaysia, Thailand, the Philippines and Indonesia over the swelling tide of "boat people" refugees. He will suggest that a more orderly method be followed in allowing the refugees to leave Vietnam.

Waldheim will be making his first visit to the Koreas, although he has been serving quietly as an intermediary between the two countries. He has passed proposals from North Korea to South Korea about resuming the long-stalled negotiations between the two countries.

Haskell County wildcats planned

WEINERT, Texas — Benson Mineral Group Inc. of Denver will drill four wildcats in Haskell County.

No. 1 Davenport-BMG is a planned 1,775-foot test on a 395-acre lease eight miles east of Weinert. It spots 660 feet from north and 5,000 feet from west lines of S. Chance survey 206, A-102.

William E. Harper of Woodson staked No. 2 Harris-Guice with planned depth of 1,150 feet on a 120-acre lease four miles north of Woodson. It spots 150 feet from south and 955 feet from west lines of section 975, TE&L survey.

Ex-Smithsonian volunteer indicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former volunteer at the Smithsonian Institution was indicted on charges of possessing stolen government property — a fish fossil and a fossil shark's tooth taken from the museum two years ago.

A federal grand jury Tuesday charged that Calvin Francis Allison Jr., 25, of New Carrollton, Md., received and kept the items from December 1976 to May 1977, when they were sold to a dealer. The stingray fish fossil and the tooth of an extinct great white shark were valued at more than $100, according to the indictment.

Man 'recreates' movie scene

ROME (AP) — A 30-year-old goldsmith killed himself while "recreating" the Russian roulette scene from the award-winning film "The Deer Hunter," police reported Wednesday.

Police sources said Enrico D'Andrea asked three male employees in his jewelry shop to stay on after work Tuesday for "some excitement." While they watched he put one bullet in a .38-caliber revolver, spun the cylinder, put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger.

Seymour FFA presents awards

By JOE BROWN
Farm Editor

SEYMOUR, Texas — At the Seymour FFA awards banquet Tuesday, Ken Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Knezek, was named star chapter farmer. This is the highest FFA degree given on a chapter level.

Named star greenhand was Lin Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rea Carter. This goes to the outstanding first-year vocational agriculture student.

Receiving Lone Star farmer degrees were Bobby C. Brock, Marti Cowan and Debbie Kennedy.

Beef production — Terry Petit.

Poultry — Jeff Styles.

Swine — Billy Butler.

Horse — Jenni Latham.

Sheep — Randy Coltharp.

Dairy — Tommy Hampton.

Diversified livestock production — Jenni Latham.

Fish and wildlife management — Burke Kennedy.

Turf and landscape — Morris Stone.

Agricultural sales and service — Tommy Holub.

Ag mechanics — Brian Allen.

Outdoor recreating — Kenneth Molin.

Ag electrification — Eddie Snyder.

Crop production — Greg Marak.

Farm and homestead improvement — Tim Knezek.

Soil and water conservation — Mark Stout.

Sooner drillers complete wells

Southern Oklahoma drillers have completed wells in Jefferson and Grady counties and staked seven new locations, including wildcats in Jackson and Greer counties.

Ferguson Oil & Gas found oil and gas at No. 1 Sarasota, C SE NW of 32-4s-4w, a wildcat four miles northwest of the Joiner City field in Jefferson County. Simpson, logged at 7,850 feet, was perforated from 7,850 to 8,100 feet and pumped 65 barrels of 25G oil and showed 650,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Samson Resources Co. completed No. 1 Humphrey Unit, C NE of 34-8n-8w, in the Watonga-Chickasha Trend in Grady County. Initial potential flow was 3,017,000 cubic feet of gas from pay depth of 13,952-991 feet.

NEW LOCATIONS

Jackson and Stephens counties each reported two new wells while Comanche, Cotton and Greer reported one new location each.

Jackson County

Riddle Oil Co. of San Antonio has spotted No. 1-A Wallace, C SE NW of 3-3n-21w, with a depth projection of 4,000 feet. The wildcat is about eight miles northwest of West Alrus field where Quartizitic sand above Arbuckle produces oil from 3,700 feet.

Stephens Operating Inc. of Ardmore, Okla., staked No. 5 Tipton Unit (Moon), NW NW NE NE of 31-1n-19w, in the North Tipton field with planned depth of 3,000 feet.

Stephens County

Gulf Oil Corp. of Oklahoma City staked No. 11-26 C. Quinn, SE SE NE of 26-1s-5w, in the Sho-Vel-Tum field with planned depth of 3,900 feet. Same operator staked No. 1-A C. Quinn, S2 NW SW NE of 26-1s-5w, in the same field with planned depth of 5,700 feet.

Cotton County

James Q. Maguire Inc. of Norman, Okla., staked No. 1 Utah, NE SE SE SW of 14-1s-10w, in the Walters District with planned depth of 1,975 feet.

Comanche County

Robert P. Hendrick of Lawton staked No. 7 School, SE SW SW NW of 33-2n-10w, in the Lawton District with planned depth of 1,050 feet.

Byers FFA and FHA

BYERS, Texas — Byers High School FFA and FHA chapters' annual awards banquet will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday, said Murry Dawson, vocational agriculture teacher.

Bowie junior rodeo

BOWIE, Texas — Bowie rodeo team will host the North Texas High School Rodeo Association rodeo at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Contestants must be members of the organization, but the public is invited to attend as spectators.

More information is available from Sandy Lambert, rodeo team reporter, or Karen Lambert, rodeo secretary, at 872-2875.

Performances are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday.

Horsemen meet

MANGUM, Okla. — Grand National Horseman Association's spring roundup will be Friday through Sunday at Mangum, according to Mrs. Dee Morgan, publicity chairman.

An estimated 200 riders from across Texas and Oklahoma will come to Mangum for the events, which will begin Friday evening with a pony express tournament. The last event will be a cross-country pony express race, which will take all Sunday afternoon with about 100 riders on each team.

Brick cleaning

C.P. Converse, a former vocational agriculture and vo-tech instructor, says homeowners hit by the tornado who are trying to salvage brick should wet the bricks with water.

"The concrete comes off much easier if they will just soak the brick rubble for about 30 minutes with a garden hose," he said.

He said that if they use a metal chisel about 1-1½ inches wide at the blade, the motar will come off much more easily, and with less dust, if it has been soaked with water.

Sikes Senter on the rebound

Open for business

Sikes Senter, hit hard by the April 10 tornado which ripped through southern Wichita Falls, is back in business.

Most stores in the mall are scheduled to reopen Thursday, and others are expected to open soon. Hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The front parking lot has been cleared of debris and is open to the public, according to Sikes officials.

Adding final touches

Getting ready (Photos by Jim Cochran)

Community bulletin board

For as long as it is needed, Wichita Falls Times and Record News as a public service will publish in all of its editions a Community Bulletin Board listing information of a public nature concerning the recovery of Wichita Falls from the April 10 tornado.

Gathering information for the bulletin board will be the responsibility of the community relations department of the newspapers.

The daily listings will be designed to act as a referral service for those affected by the tornado and to keep the general public informed about the city's status as the massive recovery effort continues.

All directors of agencies who have information in the public interest are urged to contact the community relations department of the Times and Record News between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at 767-8341, extension 258, or by coming to Times Square, 1301 Lamar.

Red Cross

Contributions

Wichita Falls Mayor Kenneth Hill has issued a proclamation designating the American Red Cross as the agency all citizens of Wichita Falls should recognize in terms of all contributions toward disaster relief assistance.

Persons may bring their contributions to Red Cross Headquarters at 1809 Fifth. Or contributions may be mailed to:

Disaster Relief Fund
P.O. Box 5166
Wichita Falls, TX. 76307

Service center

Red Cross family assistance centers are now at three locations: MSU Clark Student Center, 4-H Barn and Washington School, 700 Flood. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. for all centers.

The Washington School location is an information center. The others are full service centers. Service at the 4-H Barn will continue until Saturday evening when the Federal Assistance Center there will close permanently.

Disaster victims are urged to come to one of the centers as soon as possible for help.

Rebuilding

North Texas Home Builders Association has established a hotline to provide tornado victims with guidelines for rebuilding and dos and don'ts information. Hours of operation are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Hotline number is 322-8857.

Contractors

Persons desiring information on out-of-city contractors can call a toll-free number, according to the Wichita Falls Board of Commerce and Industry.

South Plains Better Business Bureau has established the number. Persons with a complaint about a contractor should notify the bureau at the same number. Call 1-800-692-4466.

Tetanus Shots

Two cases of tetanus have been reported. Those with wounds acquired in the tornado or in cleanup who have not received a tetnus shot should see their private doctor or obtain the shot from the Wichita City-County Health Unit, 1700 Third.

Federal Centers

The Federal Disaster Center located at the 4-H Barn will remain open until Saturday at 7 p.m. At that time, the center will permanently close.

A Disaster Assistance Service Center is in operation at Washington School, 700 Flood. Hours of operation are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m Monday through Saturday indefinitely.

Purpose of the service center is to provide assistance to applicants in filling out forms or to answer questions regarding applications and to accept new applications.

Baby-sitting

A Saturday baby-sitting service is offered by the Teens of Trinity, at Trinity American Lutheran Church, 3505 Kemp, to assist families who are tornado victims in working on their homes. If you plan to use this service, please call ahead at 692-0094.

Debris Removal

Wichitans who have questions about debris removal in the city may call 322-8841, 322-8842 or 322-8843. In Vernon, call 552-6256. Hours are 8 a.m to 5 p.m. daily.

Faith City Mission, 402 Lamar, 723-5663. Food, clothing, bedding and beds for tornado victims needing shelter, 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Salvation Army

Food and clothing

All services to aid disaster victims will continue as long as there is a need for them at the Salvation Army distribution center located at Harrell Elementary, 3115 5th. Food, clothing and household supplies are available there from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 322-4642 for information.

Regular social services not storm related are being handled at the Salvation Army Welfare Center at 403 7th.

Canteens

Salvation Army canteens providing food for disaster workers and victims are located at the corner of Southwest Parkway and Fairway and in Southmoor at Jacksboro Highway and Cynthia. One mobile canteen is roving the disaster area with food.

Hotlines

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration has established two hotlines to provide information about state and federal disaster aid. Hotline number in Wichita Falls is 855-6910; in Vernon, 552-2528. Sunday hours of operation are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Wichita County Bar Association offers free legal advice to all disaster victims. Call Lawyer Referral at 723-8431. Bar Association strongly advises legal counsel before signing documents or making repair or rebuilding contracts.

Community Action Corp. is offering transportation. Anyone needing transportation should call 723-8186. Persons needing portable cooking equipment should call the same number.

Consumer Protection Division of the Texas attorney general's office in Austin may be contacted at 512-475-3288 by Wichita Falls area residents with complaints involving consumer protection.

Price Gouging

To file a price gouging complaint, it is necessary to go in person to the county attorney's office and sign a complaint before any charges can be filed. County Attorney Tom Schrandt says it will be helpful to have the name of the merchant involved, as well as the name of the business establishment, and the names of any witnesses.

Vinegar

White distilled vinegar is being distributed free to tornado victims. Vinegar is effective in cleaning clothing contaminated by fiber glass.

Those who need vinegar for cleaning may get it at the following locations: Edgemere, Tenth and Broad, and Faith Village Churches of Christ; Red Cross; Salvation Army; Fain Presbyterian Church; or the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Registration

North Texas Home Builders Association and BCI will open an information booth on the fourth floor of Memorial Auditorium Thursday for registering bonded and licensed contractors. Homeowners may also register what work they need to have done. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Texas Electric

Texas Electric Service Co. is seeking information from customers in the disaster area where electricity is needed most. Customers who are planning to live in their homes and make repairs, where possible, will be given high priority, according to Tom Locke, division manager. Others who desire electricity for cleanup operations will be served as facilities are available. TESCO phone number is 766-3331.

Valuables

North Texas Relic Hunters Club is offering free of charge to help tornado victims locate valuable items on their property with metal detectors. People are asked to have property cleared of debris before calling. Service is available in Vernon as well. Call Jerry Eckhart, 322-8413 or Dale Terry, 723-9329.

Library

Kemp Public Library is asking people who had checked out books that were damaged or lost in the tornado to call the library. There will be no charge for the books. The library is clearing the records. Call 322-5611

Rehabilitation

The Texas Rehabilitation Commission, 1000 Brook, can provide help to the handicapped or those who are vocationally handicapped as a result of disaster injuries. Services include helping storm victims and other handicapped to return to work. Call 322-7887.

Housing

Federal Disaster Assistance Administration housing director in Wichita Falls is asking persons who know of any available houses, apartments, or multi-family units to call 855-8400. Ask for David Gelles or Ann-Marie Ladner.

Ann Landers Says

She reads column just for laughs

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column for a long time and have concluded that you think when you print a sad letter you will not only help the person who writes in but others who might have the same problem. (Misery loves company.) My dear woman, you are wasting your time. As my wise old grandmother used to say, "Your pneumonia won't cure my measles."

I don't care to read about misery and grief. Life is sad enough as it is. I turn to Ann Landers strictly for laughs. If I want to cry, I can read my own mail. Friends and relatives have been dumping on me for years.

Mother is crippled with arthritis. My only sister is living with a drunk who beats her regularly. I have a daughter who is very mixed up and into heavy drugs. She dropped out of school and I haven't heard from her in three months. My husband has been seeing a woman at work for six years and tells me, "If you don't like it, you can get out."

So keep it light and funny, Ann, or I'm going to pass you over. — Don't Need More Tears

Dear Don't Need: I hate to lose a reader, but I suggest you skip my column and go straight to the comics. You don't have the foggiest notion of what this column is all about or what I'm trying to do. Goodbye and good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm grossed out over that letter from the screwball who considers herself an authority on overweight women. Instead of suggesting psychiatric help for fat ladies she should go to a psychiatrist and find out why she is so hostile.

You can't pick up a magazine or newspaper anymore without being hit over the head by an article on "why women overeat." They imply (or say straight out) — that overweight people are mentally ill or they feel unloved and turn to food for comfort.

God gave us tastebuds because he wanted us to enjoy food. I am overweight because I love to cook and can eat a meal just tasting. I refuse to apologize for my size and I don't hide in the house. My husband loves me the way I am and has never asked me to go on a diet. I would rather be 20 pounds overweight than ruin my health with pills and end up looking like a starved rat. — Plump In Riverside And Loving It

Dear Riv: Thanks for a good rebuttal. Take that and that and that — all you starved rats!

Dear Ann Landers: I was upset by your response to "All Sales Final." I agree that some people take advantage of merchants and try to return merchandise they have used after they decide they don't want it. But what about a box of candy that is old and dried-out or an aerosol can that quits one-third of the way down? Or nylons with snags? Or a warped record or a deck of cards with only three queens? What then? Any suggestions for the honorable shopper who does not get his money's worth? — No Chiseler

Dear N.C.: The honest shopper can get his money's worth if he does business with reputable firms. I am reminded of Edmund Burke's words of wisdom — "Economy consists not of saving, but in selection."

CONFIDENTIAL to Can't Understand the Speed of Gossip — Can You?: Some people feel they must tell the "hot news" immediately — before they get the facts and learn the dirt isn't true.

Club notes

1935 STUDY CLUB

The 1935 Study Club met Tuesday morning with Mrs. R.E. Lester. Mrs Arnold Morris, vice president, presided.

Mrs. Mark Wesbrooks gave the devotional, "Time Changes Things." Mrs. Vernon Elder presented a program, "The Selling of America."

Members donated a love offering for the Children's Center of Bowie School.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Wesbrooks.

XI XI ALPHA

Xi Xi Alpha of Beta Sigma Phi met in the home of Mrs. Jim Missler with president, Jean Cochran, presiding. She announced the Exemplar Banquet will be at 7 p.m. May 17 at Gateway Inn.

Jan Tuttle announced a party will be held at the home of Mrs. lewis Nell May 5.

The program, "Australia," was presented by Robert Neal, a teacher at Barwise Junior High School, who gave a slide demonstration and told of his teaching in the Australian school system.

Trees on south

Consider planting deciduous trees on the south and west sides of the home, suggests Pat Seaman, housing and home furnishings specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

As they grow, they'll shield the home from the hot summer sun and reduce the demand on air conditioning equipment.

Abortions difficult to get in France despite legalization

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Writer

PARIS (NEA) - Abortions are still difficult to get in France four years after their hard-won legalization.

In fact, a legal abortion is next to impossible to obtain in what feminists term the "scandal of refusal" region, which includes half the nation's political subdivisions (called departments).

Meanwhile, clandestine abortions are flourishing at a rate of 300,000 a year, twice the rate of the legal variety. And doctors at a major Paris hospital report no decrease in the number of emergency cases of infection and hemorrhaging because of the often-primitive unauthorized procedures.

To blame is the restrictive wording of the abortion law as well as the deep-seated opposition to the practice among the nation's predominately Roman Catholic population.

The red tape mandated by the law makes nothing easy for a woman desiring an abortion. She must have the procedure performed before her 10th week of pregnancy. If she is a minor, her parents must give their consent.

Anti-abortion sentiments extend well into the French medical profession.

At the time the law was adopted, 34 percent of the nation's general practitioners declared themselves hostile to abortion. Though doctors at state hospitals are expected to perform abortions that meet the legal requirements, those who will not do so still outnumber those who will.

The critical outlook is typified by a Paris doctor, who comments: "If pregnancy is undesird by a woman, that is her affair, not that of a doctor. I exercise medicine to help and cure people. Pregnancy is not a sickness."

Jeanine, a 25-year-old student, ran up against that attitude when she became pregnant.

She recalls that her gynecologist — and two others she consulted later — gave her no more advice than to contact the abortion-information service at a local hospital. The hospital likewise did not help her.

"Finally, after over three weeks of nerve-racking searching, a friend sent me to a family-planning center," Jeanine reports. "There I found help and my problem was quickly solved."

France has 377 such centers. But that is evidently nowhere near enough to disseminate information about legal abortions.

In the absence of such information, says French Family Planning Movement President Simone Iff, women continue to rely upon the underground grapevine that transmits addresses of abortionists by word of mouth.

"We often have women coming to us after having visited anything from four to six hospitals with no success," says Madame Iff. "And this absence of precise information is grave because the legal delay of 10 weeks is soon reached."

Especially in the small provincial towns without family-planning centers, women often attempt self-induced abortions through such means as huge doses of non-restricted drugs. And in central France, women still consult medicine men or witch doctors to terminate their pregnancies.

Meanwhile, Holland has become the abortion Mecca for women willing to pay the price.

"It is a well-known fact that 24 percent of pregnant women in northern France cross the frontier to have an abortion," says a member of the Lille Planning Center: "That is to say, if they have the money."

So, it often seems that abortion in France has changed little in recent years despite the change in the law. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Homemakers plan home tour

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — The house tour for Homemakers Clubs will be Friday. Mrs. Rose Mary Clifton, Extension economist, will be in charge. Members and guests will meet at 9 a.m. at the Chattanooga home of Mrs. George Goodknight.

Homes to be toured include: Messrs. and Mmes. George Goodknight and Dale Kinder, Chattanooga; Jack Varner and Mrs. Jess Witt, Grandfield; and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelly, Davidson area.

The Dizzy Daisy Club will be hostesses for a sack lunch at noon in Davidson Community Building.

Following lunch they will tour the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gaines, near Davidson; Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Holloman, Messrs. and Mmes. John McCullough and Doug Roberts. The tour will end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Elsener in Tipton.

Bike-A-Thon canceled

The American Diabetes Association Nortex chapter canceled plans for the April 29 Bike-A-Thon because of the recent tornado, Jerry Varelman, secretary, announced.

Shower slated for victims

BYERS, Texas (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Callaway of Wichita Falls, both former residents of Clay County, will be honored with a shower 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the Byers Community Center to replace wedding gifts destroyed along with their home, in the recent tornado.

Hostesses will be Mmes. Janet Zachry, Tally Ford, Patsy Wilcoxen, Betty Aday, Allene Schaffner, Jeanie Elrod, Jay Ann Craig and Lena Belle Davis.

Wiley Callaway of Henrietta and the former Beverly Holmes of Byers were married March 10, in First Baptist Church at Byers.

Thrifty tips for meals

1. Try to map out meals precisely so there are no leftovers.
2. Cook with care so food is palatable plus attractive.
3. Keep a contents listing on the side of the refrigerator so you can use foods before spoilage.
4. Cut down on trips to the grocery by keeping a comprehensive list of what you need as that need arises.
5. Keep milk and butter cold and covered to protect their delicate flavors.
6. Grate dried end pieces of cheese and use to season vegetables, pasta, bread crumbs and casserole toppings.
7. Large amounts of meat loaf, pot roast and turkey may be packaged with vegetables in sectional containers as complete dinner units when only one or two may be needed.

Senior feted

Miss Melissa Bowmer, senior at Wichita Falls High School, was honored Wednesday evening with a dinner party at the Wichita Club. Mrs. Pat O'Neil was hostess.

Eleven guests attended. Spring flowers decorated the table. Special guest was the mother of the honoree, Mrs. Bob Bowmer.

Meeting canceled

The annual Wichita Falls School Board-City Council PTA tea, slated May 1, has been canceled, Mrs. Charles Ramser, hospitality chairman for the council, announces. "The event was canceled because of the tornada damage to the schools and disruption to personnel," Mrs. Ramser said.

Regular council meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 2, at Bonham Elementary School.

Iris society makes plans for show

"A Day With Irises" will be the theme for the Southwest Oklahoma Iris Society Iris Show which opens at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Lawton Public Library.

Mrs. C. L. Waltermire, show chairman, said the show is being held under the rules of the American Iris Society, and exhibition privileges are open to all persons and are not limited to the American Iris Society or the Southwest group. All exhibitors are eligible for winning AIS awards, but only members of SWOIS are eligible for winning the traveling trophies originated by that organization.

Where you can help!

(Editor's Note: Many individuals are concerned with what they can do to help those who have been tornado victims with specific needs, such as doing laundry, transporting people to appointments or providing hot meals and supplies. To offer information on any small, individual aid that can be given, the following column will run daily in the Wichita Falls Times and Record News family pages.)

● Marjorie Booker, district supervisor in charge of the Texas Rehabilitation Commission office at 1000 Brook in Wichita Falls, reports that a client whom the commission placed in employment needs some additional help in repair of his wheelchair, braces and crutches. Call 322-7887.

● The Rev. W. C. Harting, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, where three pickup truck loads of clothing, food and supplies were received from four Lutheran congregations in Dallas, said the clothes have been sorted to size and placed in the church basement.

"Those who suffered loss are welcome to come by between the hours of 8 a.m.-noon and 1-5 p.m. at the church, 11th and Holiday.

"In addition to clothing there also are food, pots and pans, bedding and a few items of furniture," Harting said.

The church and Our Redeemer Lutheran Church of Wichita Falls, both affiliated with the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, also are administering cash assistance sent from the Dallas congregations, as well as the Synod's district, Harting said.

Additional clothing has arrived from Houston, Cypress, Dallas, Little Rock, Ark., and Round Rock, Texas. "From phone calls we have received more clothing and a variety of items are coming in; we are discouraging their sending more clothing because it is in plentiful supply," he said.

Clothing is available in sizes from infants to adults.

● Sandwiches are available at St. Mark's Methodist Church, 4319 McNiel, furnished by Floral Heights United Methodist Church, 2214 10th. Also at Floral Heights Scout Hut across from the church there is clothing, including work clothes, baby diapers and children's clothes, bedding, linens and towels.

● Mrs. John Barker, volunteer services chairman for the American Red Cross, lists two primary needs.

"One of our big needs is for people to help us prepare food that is being distributed in vans by the Red Cross throughout the city, like sandwiches, coffee and this kind of thing.

Another need is skilled clerical help, typists mainly. "We need to see them here at the Red Cross Volunteer Office in the Naval Reserve Building at the corner of Fifth and Denver," she said.

● Peggy Darter, volunteer coordinator for Community Council Voluntary Action Center, said: "We need volunteers willing to transport and assist elderly women with grocery shopping. This need has arisen because the Red Cross car that was previously used in this work is now being used in diaster assistance. Someone or a group with a station wagon would be wonderful, as we could arrange for several from the same neighborhood to go at the same time. One morning per week would be sufficient."

Volunteers should call Mrs. Darter at 723-4194.

Newcomers set supper

The Newcomers Club will hold its potluck supper as scheduled starting at 6:30 p.m. Friday but at a different location. The meeting will be in the party room of North Texas Savings and Loan Association building on Midwestern Parkway, according to Vickie Hamel.

Oil, gambling issues rising, DJI up .60

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil and gambling issues shared star-performer billing Wednesday as the stock market struggled to its fourth straight gain.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials managed a .60 rise to 867.46, extending its advance since last Thursday's close to 12.21 points.

Gainers held a 5-4 edge on losers in the daily tally at the New York Stock exchange.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 31.75 million shares, down from 35.54 million Tuesday.

Winners in the gambling sector included Playboy Enterprises, up 3⅜ at 23 as of the 4 p.m. close in New York; Ramada Inns, up 1¼ at 12⅞; Bally Manufacturing, ahead 3½ at 77¼; and Del E. Webb, up 1⅛ at 20⅜.

Playboy said it completed the formation of a joint venture with Elsinore to operate a hotel-casino in Atlantic City, N.J., slated to open late next year.

Bally said it was preparing to file a registration statement for an offering to its shareholders of about 17 percent of the stock in its Atlantic City subsidiary, Bally's Park Place Inc.

Resorts International, meanwhile, said construction would be finished next month on part of the expansion program at its Atlantic City casino, which opened in May 1978.

The oil stocks continued to benefit from strong first-quarter earnings reports by many companies in the industry.

Amerada Hess gained 2¼ to 35; Texaco ½ to 27¼; Gulf Oil ½ to 27⅝; and Exxon ⅜ to 53½.

Among other big-name companies posting quarterly earnings gains Wednesday, Eastman Kodak added ¼ to 64¼, and Procter and Gamble ⅜ to 80⅛.

Analysts said favorable first-quarter earnings reports have helped the market as a whole in recent sessions.

A new dose of bad inflation news is expected Thursday when the government makes its monthly report on the consumer price index.

But brokers noted that investors have had considerable advance notice that adverse CPI figures are likely at least for the near future.

Texas House adopts amendment to legalize bingo

AUSTIN (AP) — Churches and charities would be able to call out bingo numbers legally subject to local option elections under a measure passed Wednesday by the House.

Representatives adopted the Senate-approved constitutional amendment on a 103-37 vote. Senators will be asked to approve House changes or a conference committee will be appointed to work out the differences.

If approved by the legislature, Texans will vote on legalizing bingo Nov. 4, 1980.

Elderly Texans should be able legally to enjoy bingo at churches and veterans' halls, supporters said.

"Senior citizens have written me saying, 'We have very little else to do in life. We enjoy the time-consuming game of bingo. Please let us do it legally,'" said Rep. Chris Semos, D-Dallas.

The Texas Constitution prohibits bingo as an illegal lottery. Some churches and charitable organizations have ignored the ban and left law enforcement officers in a quandry.

Police and sheriff's deputies are forced to break up church bingo games if they bust organized crime-run operations, the measure's supporters said.

Rep. Robert Bush said he had never voted for bingo previously but had to reconsider after visiting his district for Easter.

"An elderly woman came up to me and asked, 'Why do you always vote against bingo?'" said Bush, D-Sherman. "She said, 'We used proceeds from our bingo game to send to the tornado victims in Wichita Falls.'"

Bush persuaded his colleagues to place "safeguard" provisions in the Senate measure. He said the changes would:

— Allow local option elections to permit bingo within a county, justice of the peace precinct or municipality.

— Require reports to be filed with the state comptoller on revenues from bingo games and how the funds were spent.

— Mandate criminal or civil penalties to enforce the reporting requirement.

If voters approve the constitutional amendment, the Legislature would have to enact a law detailing the enforcement requirements before bingo could be conducted legally.

Opponents assailed the measure as a the first step toward legalizing all gambling.

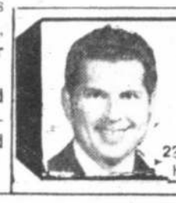

"Is it right to single out one game and say gambling on that one game is legal?" asked Rep. Ed Emmett, D-Kingwood. "I don't think that's a proper public policy."

Restrictions approved by both the House and Senate include requirements that:

— Games be conducted only by churches, synagogues, religious societies, volunteer fire departments, nonprofit veterans organizations, fraternal organizations or groups supporting medical research.

— All proceeds be spent in Texas for charitable purposes.

— Bingo be held in only one location for each group.

IRS defends crackdown on refund fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — IRS Commissioner Jerome Kurtz Wednesday defended his agency's efforts to crack down on fraudulent tax refund schemes that may be costing the government millions of dollars a year.

"We have a pretty good handle on the problem," Kurtz told a House Government Operations Committee's commerce subcommittee, which is investigating the tax frauds.

The schemes involve the filing of returns under fictitious names and using phony W-2 forms that list money never actually withheld.

However, Kurtz conceded that the IRS cannot be sure how many of the 67 million refund checks, totalling $33 billion, that it sends out each year go to fictitious persons.

"Just as we cannot audit every tax return which should be audited...we cannot assure that every fraudulent refund claim is identified," he said. "The sheer volume of refunds makes that impossible."

Kurtz said that since 1977, a special Internal Revenue Service program has identified questionable returns claiming about $9.4 million in tax refunds and that 73 of the perpetrators have been sentenced to prison terms averaging 27 months.

Although refusing to give details of the IRS detection program, Kurtz said it tries to spot phony refund claims by checking for unusual characteristics in the returns and matching W-2 forms against income data from legitimate employers.

However, Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., subcommittee chairman, said serious gaps remain in the IRS program for detecting fraudulent return claims. He criticized Kurtz' testimony as vague.

"Maybe we should put down on our tax returns that we generally made a little less than we did last year which was a little better than the year before," Rosenthal said.

"That would be selected out," countered Kurtz.

"I doubt it," responded Rosenthal.

Kurtz also described the problem of fraudulent tax refund claims as "infinitesimal" compared to other IRS problems, such as trying to detect cheating on the 90 million individual tax returns that it receives each year.

"People that file fraudulent returns are different from those taxpayers who resent having to pay their taxes," Kurtz said.

Suns shining in the West, 108-94

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Guard Paul Westphal snapped a two-game scoring drought with 26 points to boost the Phoenix Suns to a 108-94 victory over the Kansas City Kings Wednesday night and a 3-1 edge in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

The Suns and the Kings meet Friday night in Phoenix for game five of the best-of-seven Western Conference semi-finals. Westphal drilled in 16 of his total in the final half when the Suns, winning their first game in four trips to Kansas City this season, held off a fruitless Kings charge.

Bulletin

The Seattle SuperSonics became the first team to advance to the National Basketball Association conference finals with a 106-100 victory over Los Angeles late Wednesday night. The victory gave Seattle its fourth win in the Western Conference semi-finals best-of-seven series against the Lakers. The SuperSonics will now play the winner of the Phoenix-Kansas City series.

Phoenix bolted to a second period lead it never lost on the strength of 60 percent shooting while the Midwest Division champions managed only four baskets in 18 trys for 22 percent.

With the score tied 25-25 at the end of the opening period, the Suns went on a 12-4 burst in the first four minutes of the second period and Walter Davis' 15-footer with 3:47 left gave them a 47-36 advantage.

Kansas City whittled the margin to 52-45 at halftime and drew within two early in the fourth period.

Down 72-64 late in the third quarter, Kansas City went on a 14-8 surge capped by Bob Nash's layup with 10:11 left that trimmed the Phoenix lead to 80-78. But the Suns rattled off eight unanswered points in the next two minutes, including two by Westphal, to stretch the margin to 10 with 8:04 left, and the Kings were never closer than eight the rest of the way.

Westphal, who had only 12 points in his last two playoff games, had 10 in the final period Wednesday night.

Scott Wedman, with 21 points, paced the Kings while Sam Lacey added 18. Garfield Heard had 20 for the Suns, followed by Davis and Alvan Adams with 17 each.

The Suns fired away from the floor at a 53 percent clip while the Kings, suffering their third cold-shooting game in four outings, hit at just 40 percent.

"Kansas City has a whale of a club and we caught them on a night when the ball didn't drop," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod.

"I thought we moved the ball well. I thought this was the best game we've played as far as moving is concerned and as far as being under control and being able to pass the ball to the open man."

Grubb, Oliver lead Texas, 4-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Pinch-hitter Johnny Grubb singled home Al Oliver in the 10th inning to give the Texas Rangers a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Wednesday night.

Oliver, who drove in the Rangers' other three runs with singles in the third and fifth innings, singled with two out in the 10th and moved to third on Oscar Gamble's single before Grubb delivered.

Sparky Lyle, 2-1, got the win in relief. The loser was Jesse Jefferson, 0-1, who relieved Toronto starter Mark Lemongello.

Texas starter Ferguson Jenkins left with one out in the eighth and a 3-2 lead in his bid to become the major league's first five-game winner.

But the Blue Jays loaded the bases against Jim Kern in both the eighth and ninth innings. Kern got out of the eighth-inning jam but gave way to Lyle with one out in the ninth. Bob Bailor's grounder scored the tying run.

Doubles teams at regional meet

DENTON, Texas — The District 7-AAAA boys' doubles teams of Philip Franklin-Robert Driver of Rider and Kenny Huddleston-David McCright of the Coyotes open Regional II-AAAA action here Thursday morning in a balanced field of 18 teams.

"This is one of the most balanced fields I've seen at regional. Any of 14 teams could win it," Rider coach Jerry Franklin said.

The Rider duo of Franklin and Driver is seeded third in the field behind Bell's Jones-Menard and Richardson's Scanlon-Berg teams. They received a bye in the first round and will not play until 10 a.m. when they face the team of Williams-Bowers from Arlington.

Wichita Falls High's Huddleston and McCright squad will face Stoker-Baker, also from Arlington, at 8:30 a.m. in first-round action.

"I think both teams have a good chance, but it is going to be tough. Every round will have good teams," Franklin added.

FCA retreat starts Friday

With females in attendance for the first time, the Wichita Falls regional chapter of Fellowship of Christian Athletes will host its fourth annual Red River Weekend Retreat beginning Friday at Chaparral Baptist.

Retreat officials are hoping for a turnout of at least 125 participants to the weekend rally which winds up around noon Sunday.

Eleven outstanding athletes from Oklahoma and Texas will be "Huddle Leaders" for the two-day retreat and this includes Midwestern State University basketball standout Kyle Williams.

Four women will be among the leaders, including Oklahoma Female Athlete of the Year Kay Dalke. Other women leaders include Christi Capps of Baylor University, Marsha Brown of Altus and Margaret Frazier of Western Oklahoma State.

In addition to Williams, the male leaders include Marc Pace of Texas Tech, Bobby Giles of the University of Texas, Bobby Nail from Baylor, Kevin Potter from Cameron State, Nelson Morgan of Central (Okla.) State and Altus High School coach David Brown.

Terry Richter, president of the Red River Chapter of FCA, said that more than 30 women have already confirmed reservations for the retreat and he hopes more male and female participants will take advantage of the retreat.

"We want to extend an invitation to all junior high, high school and college athletes in the North Texas and Southern Oklahoma area to attend," Richter said. "We have some wonderful leaders and a great weekend of activity planned."

During the two-day sessions there will be devotionals, huddle meetings, quiet time, buzz sessions and the Dogpatch Olympics, a highlight of FCA gatherings everywhere.

For futher information or to make reservations, contact Richter at 766-5987 or Ron Hardin at 322-2241.

Auerbach sticks with offer, Bird's agent crying 'Woolf'

BOSTON (AP) — The waiting game began Wednesday, with Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach saying he won't budge from the National Basketball Association team's offer to college player-of-the year Larry Bird.

Bob Woolf, the Boston-based agent for Bird, said he'll confer this weekend in Terre Haute with the Indiana State star. Woolf also fired off a letter to the NBA Players Association, protesting Auerbach's abrupt decision Tuesday to break off contract talks.

Using words such as "intimidation," the frustrated agent continued to express surprise at Auerbach's ploy. As for the letter to the players association—of which Bird isn't a member— Woolf conceded, "I didn't know what else to do."

Bird no longer is demanding $1 million per season from the Celtics, but the apparent compromise still is too rich for Auerbach.

The guessing is that Woolf ("I have reduced the request dramatically") has lowered the proposal to $750,000 or $800,000 per year. This still would put the college star near, if not at the top, of the NBA salary ladder. Denver Nugget star David Thompson is said to be the league's highest paid player at $800,000.

Auerbach said Wednesday, "I gave them my best shot... and they said 'no way'."

The Celtics apparently won't sweeten the initial offer of between $500,000 and $600,000 per year for six years.

"I may just sit back and wait for the draft. If I blow it, I blow it," said Auerbach, alluding to the prospect that the gamble could be costly.

Bird was drafted No. 1 by Boston a year ago and if he doesn't sign with the Celtics by the 1979 draft June 25, he's available again for selection. The Los Angeles Lakers have first pick.

"I tried to acquaint (Woolf) with the going (salary) rate, the facts of life," Auerbach said. "This business about negotiations is ridiculous. That's the deal where I offer $200,000 and he comes down to $900,000. Then I offer $300,00 and he comes down to $800,000. Forget it."

There's nothing left for me to do," said Woolf. The agent-lawyer denied he's getting marching orders from a Terre Haute panel of advisers to Bird. The Celtics suggest otherwise.

Auerbach said no NBA teams have approached him about acquiring pre-draft rights to the college star and the Celtics boss is sure Boston has offered more money than Bird could get from any other club.

"If he goes back in the draft, he's got to sign with the team that picks him," Auerbach said. "If he sits out a year, he'll never get back the money he loses. He'll lose endorsements and, who knows, he might never again be the same player."

Bird himself, as usual, was unavailable for comment. Woolf said the player has put his fate in the agent's hands.

Sixers gambling with new lineup

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham, who's been treating his playoff lineup as gambler Amarillo Slim treats a deck of cards, has again shuffled his starters, moving in massive center Darryl Dawkins in a last-ditch effort to blunt San Antonio.

The Central Division champion Spurs hold a commanding 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven, Eastern Conference semifinal series and can wrap it up Thursday night before a sellout crowd of 16,000 already intoxicated with San Antonio's carefree Fiesta Week.

Dawkins, a dominating, 6-foot-11, 260-pounder, has been playing behind slender starter Caldwell Jones, but has gotten an average of nearly 20 points in playing 29 minutes in each game of the National Basketball Association playoff series.

"I want more inside bulk," said Cunningham in announcing the move. "Twenty-five percent of their offense has come off the offensive board."

Cunningham also indicated he would again use some one-guard offense in an attempt to trim the height advantage enjoyed by San Antonio's potent backcourt duo of 6-7 George Gervin and 6-3 James Silas. Gervin and Silas are outscoring the 76ers backcourt of 6-1 Maurice Cheeks and 6-1 Henry Bibby by an average of 51-32.

With the absence of Philadelphia's injured, 6-6 All-Star guard Doug Collins, Cunningham has auditioned just about everybody in an unsuccessful attempt to slow down Gervin.

Gervin, winner of back-to-back NBA scoring titles, is averaging 29 points per game in the series against a variety of defenders, including Bibby, Cheeks, guards Al Skinner and Eric Money and 6-9 forwards Bobby Jones and Joe Bryant.

A fourth-quarter surge by the intimidating Dawkins keyed Philadelphia's only victory in the series, in Game 3 in Philadelphia. San Antonio won 115-112 last Sunday in Philadelphia.

The Spurs rely on finesse and running and feature a 6-10 reserve center, Mike Green, who weighs barely 200 pounds. Only 6-9, 230-pound forward Mark Olberding physicially comes close to the 22-year-old Dawkins and Moe plans to again use Olberding to guard the 76ers center.

Dawkins and Olberding have angrily squared off twice already in the series.

Dawkins, claiming the Spurs were brutalizing him under the basket, promised after Game 4 last Sunday, "I'm going to play nasty Thursday. If someone gets hurt, that's too bad."

"That's ludicrous," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe. "It's got to be the biggest crock. He initiates contact every time he goes to the basket. I haven't seen him make a move to the basket yet. He's trying to dominate physicially.

"Darryl is not dumb, he's smart. But he thinks everyone else is an idiot. What he is saying is meant to intimidate the officials and the players."

Olberding added, "If he (Dawkins) doesn't think he plays physical, he's crazy. I'm going to be just as physical as he is."

Moe said San Antonio's inside players, including the pencil-thin Green, will attempt to simply stand their ground and make Dawkins shoot over them.

"That's all we can do," said Moe. "After that, it's up to the referees."

CART to file suit

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Championship Auto Racing Teams, 19 of whose entries were barred from the Indianapolis 500, will file suit in federal court Thursday against the U.S. Auto Club and the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, the Associated Press was told.

A source close to CART, who asked not to be identified, told the AP on Wednesday, "I'm really not at liberty to say what's going to happen." But when pressed, he said the suit in U.S. District Court here "will be filed tomorrow (Thursday) morning."

CART president Pat Patrick, contacted aboard his airplane en route to Mexico for a fishing trip, said all the dissident group wants "is just to go racing. We want our entries accepted and we fully intend to see that happen."

The suit stems from a USAC ruling last week which barred six CART teams, totaling 19 entries, on the grounds they were "not in good standing" with USAC.

Drivers which could be affected included former Indy 500 winners Al and Bobby Unser, Gordon Johncock and Johnny Rutherford.

CART, which split with USAC late last year in a dispute over control of championship auto racing, asked Speedway President Joe Cloutier last weekend to clarify whether USAC or the Speedway has authority to reject the entries.

NCAA committee reaffirms support for football playoffs

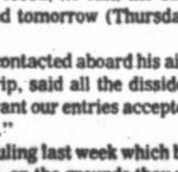

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has reaffirmed its support for establishing an annual college football championship playoff system.

The eight-member Extra Events Committee voted at the NCAA convention in January to submit the proposal to the NCAA's Division I Steering Committee, which will meet in June in New Orleans. If approved, the playoff system proposal then would be put on the agenda of the NCAA Convention next January.

Arkansas athletic director Frank Broyles, a member of the Extra Events Committee, told the Colorado Springs Sun that representatives of the bowls were opposed to the change, "but a lot of people are eager and anxious to have a playoff." Broyles said the committee, meeting in Colorado Springs this week, informally reaffirmed its position on the matter Tuesday.

The plan, which would become effective after the 1980 season, calls for two semifinal games and a championship contest, all to be held after the regular post-season bowl games. The four finalists would be chosen after the bowl games by a selection committee, and the title game would be played on the weekend prior to the National Football League's Super Bowl.

Quanah slow-pitch tourney scheduled

QUANAH, Texas (Special) — The third annual Quanah slow-pitch softball tournament is scheduled this weekend at Homer Biddy Park.

Twenty-four teams are entered in the four-day event, which begins at 6 p.m. Thursday and continues until Sunday afternoon.

Teams from Lubbock, Amarillo, Plainview and Wichita Falls are entered. The two-time defending champions, Wichita Falls Pumpers, are entered again this year.

All proceeds go to Quanah's kid baseball program.

Lady Indians take victory

DENTON, Texas — The Midwestern State University women's tennis team clinched a winning season in dual matches this year as the Lady Indians took a 7-2 victory over Texas Woman's University here Wednesday.

Midwestern finished the season 8-7 in women's dual action with the victory and will journey to the TAIAW state meet in Houston next week.

Against TWU, Midwestern won five singles and two doubles matches for the win. Posting singles victories were Debbie Brown, Cynthia Perez, Joanna Gerlach, Sidney Rasbury and Marsha Proctor. Winning doubles matches were MSU's Gerlach-Perez and S. Rasbury-Proctor teams.

Brown's singles win was her 10th victory of the spring in 13 dual meets.

Singles
Debbie Brown, MSU, def. Sherry Polchinski, TWU, 7-6, 6-2; Susan Collins, TWU, def. Troy Rasbury, MSU, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; Cynthia Perez, MSU, def. Joann Linck, TWU, 6-4, 6-2; Joanna Gerlach, MSU, def. Baseball roundup

Chicago wins battle of hot NL clubs, 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Dennis Lamp scattered five hits and Dave Kingman and Bobby Murcer blasted home runs Wednesday, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Murcer's two-run shot, his first homer of the season, followed Steve Ontiveros' leadoff single in the fifth inning and broke a scoreless tie. Kingman hopped on Vern Ruhle's first pitch of the seventh for his sixth homer.

Phillies 5, Dodgers 4

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Rose's single with two out in the ninth inning scored pinch-runner Lonnie Smith and gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday night and a sweep of the three-game series between last year's National League playoff foes.

The Phillies, trailing 4-3 in the bottom of the ninth, knocked out the Dodgers' rookie relief sensation, Rick Sutcliffe, as they scored twice to pull out the game.

Pirates 3, Reds 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Parker doubled off loser Dave Tomlin to lead off the 11th inning for Pittsburgh, went to third on an infield out and scored on Phil Garner's sacrifice fly to give the Pirates a 3-2 victory Wednesday over the Cincinnati Reds.

Mets 2, Giants 0

NEW YORK (AP) — Craig Swan tossed a two-hitter and John Stearns lined his first home run of the season Wednesday night to pace the New York Mets to a 2-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Swan, 2-2, notched his first complete game of the season, striking out four and walking just one batter. The Giants' only hits were a double by Roger Metzger in the third inning and a single by Marc Hill in the eighth.

Twins 4, Indians 2

CLEVELAND (AP) — A two-run double by John Castino in the ninth inning gave the Minnesota Twins a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday.

Pete Redfern, 1-0, got the victory with 31-3 innings of hitless relief. Sid Monge, 1-1, took the loss in relief of starter Eric Wilkins.

Royals 7, White Sox 6

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Al Cowens singled home Frank White with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Kansas City Royals a 7-6 victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

Expos 9, Padres 6

MONTREAL (AP) — Jerry White's three-run homer capped a five-run first inning that carried the Montreal Expos to an 9-6 victory over the San Diego Padres Wednesday.

White, who replaced Ellis Valentine in the lineup after the Expos right fielder was suspended by National League President Chub Feeney for bumping an umpire in a game in Chicago last Saturday, drove in Tony Perez and Gary Carter, who had reached base with singles.

Who's on first?

New York Mets manager Joe Torre, right of left photo, runs in to separate coach Joe Pignatano and umpire Phil Lospitalier during a disputed call Tuesday night. Who's on first? Don't ask the umps

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The stone wall baseball has erected around substitute umpires who are working during the current contract dispute with the regular umps, is beginning to crumble.

Huge chunks of it came tumbling down at Shea Stadium Tuesday night and National League President Chub Feeney was there to watch, as the replacement umps turned a simple decision into a 28-minute debate.

"We've been told to take it easy on the umps," said Met Manager Joe Torre. "And we have. But this is championshiip play."

The play may be championship, but the officiating sure wasn't.

It was laughable. The scene was right out of a courtroom where the judge hears one side of a case and declares, "You're right." Then he hears the other side and says, "You're right." When an assistant suggests that both sides can't be right, the judge serenely agrees, saying, "You're right, too."

At the middle of the debate was first base umpire Phil Lospitalier, whose major league credentials include 25 years of scholastic officiating. He also worked the 1977 Army-Navy football game and his solution to this dilemma was to hand out offsetting penalties.

The problem started when, with Met runners Richie Hebner on first base and Frank Taveras on third, Lee Mazzilli hit a fly ball to San Francisco right fielder Jack Clark. Lospitalier running toward the play, signalled the catch. Taveras tagged up and scored, and Hebner, halfway to second, began retreating to first. So far, routine.

Then Clark dropped the ball and the trouble began. Hebner reversed direction again and raced to second. Clark recovered the ball and threw to Bill Madlock, who stepped on first and the Giants claimed a double play. But how could there be a double play, argued the Mets, when the ball was dropped?

It took 28 minutes to produce a solution and when the umpires arrived at a conclusion, it was a compromise or, as Torre preferred to call it, "The Camp David Accord." Mazzilli was out because Lospitalier had ruled the catch was completed. But Hebner would return to first base because of the ensuing confusion. Like most compromises, this one satisfied neither side and both protested.

Now, common sense dictates that the umpires had two choices. If Clark caught the ball, it was a double play because Hebner was nowhere near first when Madlock tagged the base. If Clark dropped the ball, then both Mets were safe. The choice was two outs and nobody on base or no outs and two men on base. The umps, however, took a middle road, sort of like choosing one from Column A and one from Column B in a Chinese restaurant.

The astounding part of all this is that Tom Gorman, who worked for 26 years as a NL ump, had the task of explaining and defending the decision. Gorman is serving as a supervisor during his former colleagues' contract dispute but he would have been better off on the field instead of trying to plug the stone wall's holes.

"The ruling was, it was a good catch and no appeal was made at first base to double the runner up," explained Gorman.

"That's ridiculous," said Giant Manager Joe Altobelli. "Madlock ran right to the bag."

Yet, if you buy Gorman's explanation, running to the base isn't enough. The fielder also must make a verbal appeal to the umpire on the play, something Madlock insisted he also did, to second base umpire Merrill Hadry.

"If he says I didn't, then he's a liar," said Madlock.

We'll never know what Hadry said because Gorman did all the talking for the umpires and would not allow newsmen to question them.

Regardless of whether Madlock spoke to the umpire or not, the play seemed thoroughly botched and so did Gorman's explanation, developed after 18 minutes of conference time with the replacement umps.

How many times have you seen the same sequence, result in a double play with nary a word spoken between fielder and umpire? There certainly seemed no need for a verbal appeal when, if you accept the explanation that Clark's catch was legitimate, Hebner was 90 feet away from the base to which he was entitled when Madlock tagged it.

Isn't it an automatic out on that kind of situation, where the runner has been trapped so far away from the base where he belongs?

"In baseball," observed Gorman, "nothing is automatic."

And as for Feeney, he saw nothing wrong with the outcome except the fact that it took his umpires 28 minutes to reach it. He must like Chinese food.

Watson plays down favorite role

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tom Watson, holding the hottest hand in golf, places little value on his position as a solid favorite in the $250,000 New Orleans Open.

"There's probably more beaten favorites in golf than any other sport," Watson said before a practice round on the 7,080-yard, par-72 Lakewood Country Club course, site of the tournament that begins Thursday.

"There are too many good players here to make anyone a favorite," he insists. "Any of them could win it. It's probably the strongest field they've had in New Orleans in years."

And he began to tick them off:

"There's Chi Chi (Rodriguez), coming off a win," in Tallahassee, which broke a six-year victory drought for the popular little Puerto Rican.

"There's (Bruce) Lietzke, coming off a second place finish," Watson continued. "He's very good, strong player, has won a couple of tournaments in the last year.

"There's (Jerry) Pate, also second last week, and Hubert (Green), who can win at any time, and (Lee) Trevino, a former winner here, in fact, won here without making a bogey.

"There's Lonnie (Hinkle, the defending champion), and Andy Bean.

"No, there's too many good players. There'll be a race for the money."

And there's also Tom Watson, with the best record in the game over the last three seasons and currently riding a hot streak. He's won twice, taking the prestige-laden Heritage and Tournament of Champions, and finished second and lost in a playoff at the Masters in his last four starts. In that period, he's collected $181,200, which would be enough to make him the year's leading money-winner.

His total, however, is a bulging $229,966. With the season less than half gone, he has a shot at becoming the first $400,000 single-season money-winner in the game's history.

"The money is important, of course," Watson said, "but with the increased purses it really isn't a measure of a player's performance except against his contemporaries. On a long-term basis, it's things like tournament wins, major tournament wins, scoring average that serve as the yardstick."

And he's in superior shape there, too. He's won Player of the Year honors the last two seasons and appears headed for a third. He's won the coveted Vardon Trophy, for the low stroke average on the tour, for the last two seasons. And he leads again this year, with 70.25.

With all that, however, he could have his work cut out for him in this chase for a $45,000 first prize.

"It's a good driving golf course," he said. "If you drive it in the fairway, you can score. But if you hit it off line, you can have a lot of trouble."

And, Watson said, his driving is suspect.

"My game is good, but my driving isn't all I'd like it to be. I'm hooking it too much. I had trouble with the driver last week (in the Tournament of Champions). My putter saved me there."

The tournament is sponsored by the First National Bank of Commerce.

Loser cleans the apartment

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Former North Carolina stars Walter Davis and Phil Ford are on opposite sides in the NBA playoff between the Phoenix Suns and the Kansas City Kings, and first one out fixes the apartment.

Off the court, Davis and Ford are the closest of friends, and whoever is knocked out of the playoffs first returns to Chapel Hill to decorate the apartment they will share this summer.

The Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel— is it the world's finest economy car, or is it the world's most economical fine car?

Best EPA mileage figures in it class, yet first class finish in side and out. So frugal-minded that a manual shift is standard, yet so Mercedes-Benz that 4-Wheel independent suspension, 4-wheel disc brakes, even a quartz-crystal chronometer are standard, too.

A Mercedes-Benz is engineered like no other car in the world.

WE ALSO HAVE A FINE SELECTION OF PREVIOUSLY OWNED MERCEDES.

EPA ESTIMATED MPG / EPA ESTIMATED HIGHWAY MPG

Remember, Compare these estimates to the "estimated mpg" of other cars. You may get a different mileage, depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and trip length. Also remember that your actual mileage will probably be less than the EPA estimated highway fuel economy. California EPA estimated mpg lower.

Has your Home been Damaged or Destroyed! We suggest the following steps:

1. Do Not pay off your mortgage with the Insurance Fund.
2. Escrow the Insurance Money with Mortgage Company.
3. If your home is only partially damaged, have an Architect or engineer check it. It will be money well spent.
4. GET SEVERAL BIDS. Beware of the unscrupulous firms. Ask for a detailed list of work to be done.
5. Check with SBA for reconstruction or repair loans.
6. Don't Panic — Go slow.

We would like an opportunity to help you solve your rebuilding or reconstruction problems, large or small. We can help you arrange financing, and we will give you a competitive bid. In business since 1963.

The only radio that has an ear for music, a nose for the news, an eye on the weather, and screams its head off when a storm is coming.

You get AM. Broadcasts come in clear and strong, thanks to the unit's long range AM circuit.

You get FM. Whether it's Bach or the Beatles, a separate FM RF amplifier assures you high quality sound.

You get the weather. Up-to-the-minute National Weather Service forecasts are available 24 hours a day. A crystal-controlled, independent weather receiver brings them in from as far out as 40 to 50 miles.

Most important, you get a Storm Alarm. That's right. A loud, built-in alarm that warns you whenever severe weather threatens—night or day. It's triggered by a signal from your local National Weather Service transmitter. A report on the danger follows immediately.

Powered by AC or batteries. Boat and car adaptable. Switch-selectable for all three weather channels. 3" full-fidelity speaker. Tough styrene case and handle. And only 7½ x 4½ x 2¼.

THE STORM ALARM.
THE BEST WAY TO USE OUR NATIONAL WEATHER SERVICE STATION.

The U.S. Government's weather warning system is now in our city. And the product that supports it—The Storm Alarm—is now at our store. The system is designed to protect you from tornadoes and other storms. Especially at night, when your family is asleep and most vulnerable. This is how it works. Any time a danger threatens, the weather station sends out a special signal. The signal sets off the Storm Alarm. (Just like smoke sets off a smoke alarm.) Your family is warned even if sound asleep. After the alarm goes off, a complete report on the emergency and survival instructions are heard. When the conditions are normal, the Storm Alarm picks up the weather station's continuous, up-to-the-minute forecasts. Superior reception from as far out as 40-50 miles. Works on household current. Built-in back-up battery feature if electricity fails. Unit only 3" x 5" x 1¼".

Each year, severe weather injures and kills more and more people in our community. That's why we're one of the few U.S. cities to get a weather transmitter. Take full advantage of it with the Storm Alarm. Get the protection of this low-cost early storm warning system as soon as possible.

COOKING YOUR CATCH...

Fish just seems to taste so much better when you catch and cook it yourself.

With the cost of beef spiraling higher by the day and the trend toward feeling fit and eating lighter foods, fish has taken on new status on dining tables everywhere.

According to a recent survey by the American Fishing Tackle Manufacturers Association, more than 63 million men, women and children fished last year. On a sunny day, the blue skies and running water seem to beckon one and all to partake in the All-American sport of fishing. It's healthy outdoor recreation that fosters family togetherness and an appreciation of our natural resources.

And, the finale to a tranquil, leisurely day of fishing is eating the catch. The sweet, succulent flavor of freshly-caught fish is unsurpassed. So "Fish 'N Feel Free" and enjoy these simple recipes for cooking fish both at home and afield. Enjoy America's great outdoors.

Wanted: these recipes

Jeanne Edgar of Wichita Falls wants a recipe for a salad using Bing cherries, Cool Whip and pineapple. If any of you readers have one, mail it to Reader Recipe Exchange, Wichita Falls Record News, P. O. Box 120, Wichita Falls, Texas 76307 and we'll print it.

Mrs. A. J. Brannon, 2328 14th, Vernon, Texas 76384, wants a recipe which appeared in a 1977 fall issue of Ladies Home Journal using melted chocolate chips with a vanilla wafer crust. Anybody have that one?

FISH 'N FEEL FREE

...Afield

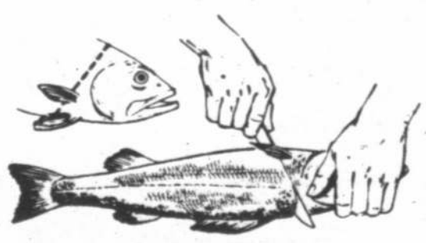

ALUMINUM FOIL BAKING: Place fillets or small, cleaned fish on a piece of aluminum foil. Sprinkle the fish with seasonings of your choice . . . salt, pepper, lemon juice, etc. Add butter or bacon to enhance the flavor. Seal fish and other contents securely in the foil and place the package on coals. In about 20 minutes, test for doneness. Be careful removing the package from the fire, and avoid puncturing the foil.

CAMPFIRE PANFRYING: This method is a simple, classic technique for cooking fish outdoors. If you have a grill, set it flat across and above the flame. If no grill is available, place the pan as flat as possible over the fire using rocks as props to support the pan on a level several inches above the flame. Cast iron pans are best, but aluminum pans will do the job. Because fish flesh is delicate in texture, it needs some protection in the frying process. You can use corn meal, cracker crumbs; flour or fine bread crumbs as a base to which you add seasoning – salt, pepper, and if you like, a pinch of dried basil. Dip the fillets in milk or water, shake off excess and drop them into a plastic bag or brown paper bag containing the seasoned crumbs. Shake well until fillets are coated. Melt butter in pan and when it begins to sizzle, place fillets or small, gutted fish into pan. Flip fish only as often as necessary to assure even doneness. Turning too often can break up the fish. Fish is ready when it flakes easily at the touch of a fork.

...At Home

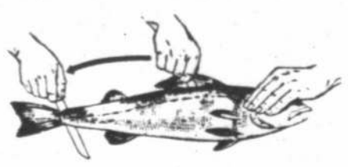

BAKING YOUR CATCH: Take fillets or whole fish, with skin still on, and place in a baking dish. You may wish to fill the fish with your favorite stuffing. This method of cooking should be performed by placing the fish in a 350 to 375-degree oven for 45 minutes or until nicely browned. Leaner fish, if they are to be prepared by baking, should be braised, that is, baked in a boullion or other stock to help retain moisture and flavor.

Hold fish firmly and with sharp knife cut at an angle, just behind the gills, down to, but not severing, the backbone. Note: most fish do not need to be gutted or scaled to fillet. With some species -- mackerel, sea trout, mullet, porgies or fresh-water trout -- you will want to leave on the skin. In this case, it only is necessary to scale before cleaning. Skin is not usually desirable on species such as snook, grouper, and large-mouth bass as it imparts an unpleasant flavor.

Without removing the blade, turn knife and run along backbone; cut at an angle without cutting rib cage to point just beyond vent. Then push knife through, cutting bottom side of fish. Using a slicing motion, with blade flat against backbone, run knife to tail.

Holding free meat carefully, cut away from rib cage and cut through thin stomach skin to free fillet. Turn fish over and repeat for second fillet.

Lay fillet flat, skin side down. Hold tail end firmly against flat surface and cut through meat down to skin with knife held at forward angle. With slicing motion, run knife between skin and meat.

Mexican foods need not be red-hot

Mild Mexican dish

This cauliflower-sausage casserole was inspired by Mexican cooking.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Mexican dishes are challenging those of the Chinese and Italians for the ethnic dining spotlight.

It is interesting to note that myths surrounding Mexican foods are vanishing. All such cooking does not feature the red-hot chilies, for example. In fact, many Mexican dishes are surprisingly bland.

This cauliflower-sausage casserole is subtly seasoned for those who do not savor spicy foods. Serve with cornbread and a pitcher of sangria.

MEXICAN CAULIFLOWER SAUSAGE CASSEROLE

1 pound sweet sausage
4 (10-ounce) packages frozen cauliflower
2 (15-ounce) cans tomato sauce
¼ cup chopped parsley
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup chopped green stuffed olives
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup fine-grated bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter

Remove sausage from casing. Brown in skillet, breaking into small pieces with wooden spoon. Pour off fat.

Cook cauliflower according to package directions until crisp-tender. Drain.

Combine cooked sausage, tomato sauce, parsley, cinnamon and olives. Mix well.

Spread a layer of sauce mixture in botton of 3-quart baking dish. Top with cooked cauliflower. Cover with remaining sauce. Top with cheese and crumbs. Dot with butter.

Bake in 425-degree oven about 25 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

What's on menu for spring?

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Writer

Spring has finally come! That happy thought evokes images of fresh asparagus, strawberries, spring lamb, fresh Northeast salmon, backyard rhubarb, new potatoes and mountains of fresh eggs.

Despite skyrocketing food prices, the spring air may cause you to splurge on one genuine spring dinner.

A fat capon makes a beautiful springtime meal. Try this menu: cream of watercress soup, roast stuffed capon, brandied peaches in syrup, new potatoes, green peas, cold asparagus with vinegarette dressing, vanilla souffle, almond sauce and coffee.

This year turkey is a popular spring meat because of its lower price and higher proportion of meat to bone.

Such a menu might feature: lobster cocktail, roast young turkey, brown gravy, grapefruit conserve, new potatoes whipped in a casserole with cheese topping, fresh asparagus with buttered bread crumbs, celery hearts, pineapple sherbet, macaroons and coffee.

Ham is often used as a spring treat.

Here's a sample menu: hard-cooked egg halves stuffed with chopped dill pickle or chives, baked Virginia ham with fruit garnish, cornmeal spoon bread, baby carrots, fresh green beans with chopped walnuts, fresh strawberry-rhubarb crisscross pie, cheese and coffee.

Of course, spring lamb is the pinup girl of spring meats. But be prepared to pay a lot for it.

Here is the festive — and expensive — spring dinner selected by James Beard, food author and consultant: cold poached salmon with egg garnish, roast spring lamb, fresh asparagus, baked stuffed tomatoes, Bibb lettuce salad, Lady Baltimore cake, homemade strawberry ice cream and demitasse.

Some people do not think meat is necessary for a fine meal.

This menu from the new "A Celebration of Vegetables" (Atheneum, $10.95) by Robert Ackart is designed for spring eating: cream of fresh vegetable soup, mushroom risotto, beet greens, assorted cheese and fresh fruit.

"Peas are the dominant vegetable in the soup — perhaps early peas from your garden," says Ackart. "The risotto from Italy is light, subtle and elegant. Beet greens, admittedly, are not elegant, but they are certainly a season delight. If you cannot find them, use spinach instead."

Here's one more menu from Ackart's book: celeriac remoulade, French potato salad, spinach with sour cream, raspberry mousse and oatmeal cookies.

A false bit of advice needs correcting. It is that you must cut down on the food you eat when spring or early summer arrives. Quite wrong!

When the weather grows milder, people become more active, using more energy. Therefore, the body needs more fuel — from milk, eggs, meat, fish, cheese, vegetables, breads, cereals and fruits. And as always, it needs the varied nutrients that those foods contain.

Oven cookery takes some know-how

When preparing several dishes in the same oven, arrange utensils in the oven so they do not touch each other or the oven walls, and so that no utensil is directly above another one. This allows for free circulation of heat for better cooking success.

A consumer information report from Corning Glass Works includes these oven meal helpful hints:

— It takes two or three times as long to steam vegetables in the oven as on the rangetop.

— Cooking time for vegetables can be lengthened by leaving them whole, or shortened by slicing or dicing them.

— Vegetables which steam well in the oven are green, Italian, and lima beans; beets, carrots, onions, parsnips, squash and turnips.

Here are some helpful oven meal hints:

— When space permits, steam dried fruit, steam or bake extra potatoes, or bake apples while baking other foods. You'll have them on hand for breakfast or other meals the following day.

Generally, meat dishes and vegetables are placed on the lower oven shelf, desserts and quick breads on the top oven shelf.

Oven-cooked meals that can be prepared ahead of time and frozen in glass-ceramic cookware that doubles as serving dishes demand little attention and give today's homemaker many more leisure hours. Busy homemakers can plan entire meals that can be cooked together in the same oven.

Every homemaker, according to the glass works consumer information department, should have an expandable file for use-and-care manuals, which come with most household cookware and appliances. These manuals not only suggest ways to use each product most effectively, they are also handy to have at your fingertips for a quick check when something goes wrong. Generally, the manufacturer has anticipated problems that may occur and provides helpful information covering these possibilities. Also, the guarantee or promise accompanying the product is generally spelled out in the use-and-care booklet.

Hard water mineral accumulations in glass-ceramic cookware, particularly common to coffeemakers, is easy to remove. Just boil a solution of vinegar and water (half and half) in the utensil, then rinse away, using a plastic mesh if necessary.

The homemaker who wants to remove scorched-on food from glass-ceramic cookware has an advantage.

Royal Zucchini Parmesan

Zucchini Parmesan sure to please family

Women love zucchini but the men in their lives—husbands and growing sons—want something that's hearty and filling. Something with a lot more taste like hamburgers and French fries or pizza topped with the works

ROYAL ZUCCHINI PARMESAN

1 pound ground beef
2 medium onions, chopped
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 (10 oz.) can tomatoes and green chilies
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1 (6-oz.) can tomato paste
1 green onion chopped
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
½ teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon garlic salt
4 medium-size zucchini sliced crosswise about ¼-inch thick
½ cup grated parmesan cheese
1 medium-size bell pepper, chopped

Saute ground beef and onion in salad oil until meat is brown and crumbly. Add tomatoes and green chilies, tomato sauce, tomato paste and green pepper. Simmer 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Blend cheese, oregano, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Add zucchini. Simmer another 10 minutes. Put into an ungreased shallow 3-quart casserole and sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Bake at 350 for 45 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

High meat cost cited in adulteration

A state agriculture official says the number of meat adulteration cases in Oklahoma has soared in the past eight months because of higher meat prices and the efforts of some grocers to prolong "shelf life" of beef through illegal additives.

"We've found more meat adulteration cases in the last eight months than we have since the Wholesome Meat Act was passed in 1968," declared Marvin McElrath, program review and compliance supervisor for the state department of agriculture's animal industry division.

He said the sharply higher number of cases reflected both an increase in occurrence and better detection techniques by inspectors.

"We now have a field test which allows us to go into a retail store or restaurant and detect the addition to sulfite in meat without sending a sample back to the laboratory for analysis. This is a big factor in our detection of adulterated meat, but higher beef prices also figure into this," McElrath said.

Most violations involve the addition of readily-available sodium sulfite, which McElrath says restores a bright red color to meat and disguises off odors.

He said violators tend to be smaller, independent grocers rather than chain stores.

"With meat prices the way they are today and hamburger meat over $1 a pound, dealers are reluctant to throw away meat that represents to them a considerable investment, so they doctor it with sodium sulfite or sodium benzoate to restore the bright red bloom and disguise the odor rather than throw it away and lose their investment.

Although sodium sulfite and sodium benzoate are not ordinarily harmful per se, their addition may mask conditions which can lead to food poisoning or illness.

In two of the worst violations, cobalt and ethylene glycol — both potentially health-hazardous and the latter identical to car anti-freeze — were also confirmed as illegal additives, McElrath said. It was the first time in the state that either substance has been discovered as an additive.

Despite indications of increasing abuse, McElrath complained that district attorneys in some counties are reluctant to prosecute the misdemeanor offense, which carries a maximum penalty of up to one year imprisonment and a fine up to $1,000, or both.

"In 13 out of 24 complaints we've taken to district attorneys, they've refused to prosecute or have taken no action, so we're only batting about 50 percent on these complaints," McElrath said.

"I think the public deserves more protection from this kind of fraud than we're able to give at this time," he added.

The Oklahoma Cattlemen's Association has also passed a resolution calling for more vigorous prosecution by district attorneys in meat adulteration cases.

McElrath said difficulties in getting prosecution stemmed primarily either from lack of knowledge on the law regarding meat contamination or a predisposition not to take action against first-time offenders in such cases. The "cut-and-dried" evidence of meat adulteration determined through laboratory analysis is not a factor considered by most D.A.'s.

District Atty. Richard Dugger of Elk City, president of the Oklahoma Association of District Attorneys, admits that "because we deal with so many robberies, murder and criminal cases, it may be that we're not conscious enough about the consuming public's interest."

He said, however, that because of caseloads and the press of business, it was useful for district attorneys to receive information packets on specific areas of the law from the agriculture department and other state agencies with primarily regulatory functions. He said such information should list specific laws applicable to regulations dealing with the state agency's function, common violations and sources to contact for further information within that state agency.

McElrath said the agriculture department had slowed down its investigations, meantime, because of court cases on the docket and anticipated manpower shortages when these cases go to court.

"I'm convinced that if we had the personnel to get out and check, we'd probably be able to turn up three or four cases a week compared to that many a month we've averaged over the last eight months," McElrath said.

Mexican foods will add spice to celebration

The fifth of May isn't just another spring day. To our neighbors in Mexico, it's a major holiday celebrating their gight for independence. On May 5, 1862, a poorly equipped and outnumbered Mexican army defeated invading French forces at Puebla, a small town near Mexico City, proving that the young country could hold its own against European superpowers.

In the United States, Cinco de Mayo (that's Spanish for the Fifth of May) is celebrated as Mexican-American Day. Here, as in Mexico, the celebration includes parades, parties and good eating. It's an appropriate time for Americans to venture into the foods of Mexico, which feature native American treats such as tomatoes, corn and chili peppers. For your own Cinco de Mayo fiesta, home economists have created a complete Mexican meal; ingredients are available in leading supermarkets.

CHICKEN IN MEXICAN MEAT SAUCE

(6 SERVINGS)

1 4-pound chicken
1 small onion, halved
1 clove garlic
2 teaspoons salt
5 peppercorns
3 medium carrots, diced
3 medium zucchini, unpeeled, diced
3 tablespoons cooking oil
½ small onion, minced
1 jar (8 oz.) Mexican sauce
2 cups chicken stock
¼ cup golden raisins
2 tablespoons slivered almonds
3 whole Jalapenos
¾ pound chorizo (Mexican spiced sausage) or hot or sweet Italian sausage, peeled, crumbled and fried
One-third cup cooking oil
12 tostado shells, pulverized in blender or food processor

Place chicken, ½ onion, garlic salt and peppercorns in large Dutch oven; cover with cold water. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, 20 minutes, skimming off froth occasionally. Add carrots; cook 15 minutes more. Add zucchini; cook 10 minutes more. Remove chicken and cut into serving size pieces; keep warm. Strain stock and reserve vegetables; keep warm. asure out 2 cups stock, keeping remainder for another use.

Heat 3 tablespoons oil in large skillet; add minced onion and cook until soft. Add stock and Mexican sauce; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce is reduced by half, about 10 minutes.

Add reserved vegetables, raisins, almonds, jalapenos and fried chorizo to skillet, mixing well. Add chicken pieces, turning to coat with sauce. Cook slowly 10 minutes, stirring often, or until most of liquid has evaporated. Transfer to serving platter and keep warm.

Heat additional one-third cup oil and fry tostado crumbs, stirring, until they begin to brown. Sprinkle over chicken.

BAKED RICE WITH CHILES AND CHEESE

(6 to 8 servings)

1 cup raw rice, cooked according to package directions, cooled
2 cups sour cream
Salt to taste
½ pound grated sharp Cheddar cheese
2 cans (4 oz.) diced green chiles
3 tablespoons butter, diced
¼ cup (approximately) grated Parmesan cheese

Combine rice and sour cream, mixing well. Spread half of rice mixture in buttered 1 ½ quart baking or casserole dish. Sprinkle half the grated cheddar cheese on top; add a layer of green chiles, and top with remaining cheddar. Spread remaining rice on top; dot surface with butter and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. ke in preheated 350 degree oven 30 minutes.

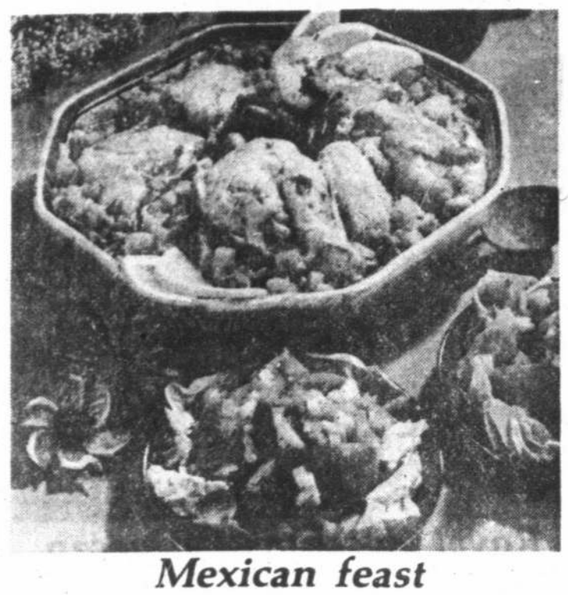

MARINATED TOMATO SALAD

(6-8 SERVINGS)

1 ½ cup salad oil (not olive oil)
1 cup white wine vinegar
¼ cup sugar
1 clove garlic, minced
1 bottle (7 oz.) green taco sauce
½ teaspoon oregano
¼ teaspoon celery seed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
6 green onions, including tops, finely chopped
½ cup diced cucumber
4 small tomatoes, seeded and finely chopped
1 can (4 oz.) diced green chiles, drained
6 tomatoes, cut into wedges
¾ cup minced fresh parsley

Combine oil, vinegar, sugar, garlic, green taco sauce, oregano, celery seed, salt and pepper; stir well or blend in blender. Pour over combined chopped green onions, cucumber and tomatoes (reserve tomato wedges) and green chiles; stir well. Refrigerate, covered, 6 hours or more. At least 2 hours before serving, stir tomato wedges into marinade mixture; cover and refrigerate.

To serve, arrange lettuce leaves on salad plates. Using slotted spoon, top lettuce with tomato mixture. Sprinkle each serving with minced parsley.

Mexican feast

Join the Cinco de Mayo celebration with a Mexican feast. The fiesta menu includes Chicken in Mexican Meat Sauce, Baked Rice with Chiles and Cheese and Marinated Tomato Salad.

This is some fish story!

By JOHN LENGEL
AP Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — You're at the fish counter, buying something for supper. Will it be whiting or hake?

You'd probably take the whiting, says Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-Calif., although they're the same fish.

Clausen wants the Food and Drug Administration to establish whiting as the common name for Pacific hake.

"Changing the common name of hake caught in American waters to whiting would be of economic significance to American fishermen in the North Pacific," says Clausen, who represents some of those fishermen and fish processors along the northern California coast.

"After reviewing a great deal of material on this issue, my conclusion is that both the consumers' taste buds and their pocketbooks would be benefitted," the congressman said in a letter to FDA administrator Donald M. Kennedy.

Americans apparently aren't much on hake, at least when it's labeled as such.

For years, thousands of tons of it were hoisted from the Pacific by Russian, Polish and Japanese trawlers that had unlimited access to American fishing grounds. The ships would return home and find ready buyers for their cargo.

But the creation of a 200-mile American fishing zone two years ago left most of the hake to the Yanks, who didn't really know what to do with it.

And, because most American seafood fanciers refused to eat fish labeled hake, it tended to spoil. Now, however, fishermen and processors have perfected ways to preserve and market the hake, if Americans are ready.

Thus, Clausen's requested name change.

"Modern processing techniques coupled with increased biological understanding will allow us to tap a new high-protein, low-cost food source for American consumers," says Clausen.

All the FDA need do is change the name. It's a matter of federal regulation for the agency, which supervises food labeling and marketing.

But why whiting? Hake is marketed oh the East Coast as whiting, Clausen's staff says.

If the Pacific hake is found to differ substantially from its Atlantic relative, Clausen suggested, the Pacific hake could be called Pacific whiting.

"We have an open mind on this," says Wayne Pines, a spokesman for the FDA, which has tentatively decided to call the fish the North Pacific hake.

But Pines said the FDA will evaluate the comments of Clausen and others before issuing its final decision.

Peanut Brittle sure to be favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Thanks for using my recipe and sending me a copy of it. After having been in two wars, bombed all over the world and shot at on all turns (Southern expression), I have finally got my name in the papers.

Now I'm the one who needs a recipe — a foolproof one for peanut brittle, but not the hard "jawbreaker" kind. I want to use a candy thermometer, know exactly when to put in the soda and have everything come out just right. I have ruined a lot of sugar and peanuts so far. — TEXAS COLONEL

DEAR TEXAS COLONEL: To make peanut brittle that isn't a jawbreaker, we added peanuts to sponge candy. At my house, it was pronounced "the best peanut brittle yet..." Hope it pleases you. — C.B.

PEANUT BRITTLE
(Sponge-candy Style)

½ teaspoon salt
½ cup dark corn syrup
¼ cup water
1½ cups peanuts, see Notes following
1 teaspoon non-lumpy baking soda

Grease a 15½ by 12-inch cookie sheet. In a heavy 1½-quart saucepan stir together sugar, salt, corn syrup and water. Over medium heat, stirring constantly, bring to a boil. Without stirring, boil until a candy thermometer reads 280 degrees (soft crack stage). Stir in peanuts gradually to keep mixture boiling. Stirring often, boil until a candy thermometer reads 300 degrees (hard crack stage). Off heat, quickly but gently stir in baking soda, keeping as many bubbles as possible intact. At once pour onto the middle of the prepared cookie sheet, letting the candy spread itself and retain the bubbles that produce a "sponge" effect. Cool and break into pieces. Makes about 1¼ pounds.

Notes: In cooking this brittle a heavy saucepan is essential to prevent scorching that affects flavor; we used an aluminum one that is as thick as a cast-iron pan and is straight-sided so that the thermometer may be easily clipped inside it. The 1½-quart size allows the thermometer bulb to be fully immersed in the small amount of syrup and yet not touch the bottom of the pan.

We bought raw peanuts to use shelled, home-roasted and skinned. If store-bought, skinned, salted peanuts are used, omit the salt in the recipe.

They're easy to flip over and they brown well.

1 cup fork-stirred all-purpose flour
¼ cup buckwheat flour
2 tablespoons yellow cornmeal
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 large egg
1¼ cups milk
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Stir together the dry ingredients. Beat the egg and milk to blend; add the dry ingredients and the butter; beat gently until barely blended. Drop by scant ¼ cupfuls onto a hot greased griddle; bake until bubbles appear on top; turn and brown other sides. Serve with pats of soft butter and hot maple syrup. Makes 12 to 14.

Food for crowd

Prepare fish chowder made with frozen vegetables for unexpected guests.

Fish Chowder feeds a crowd

Fish-vegetable chowder is the answer to feeding a flock of relatives who drop in unexpectedly during their vacation travels.

Be prepared by buying specials of frozen vegetables each week so you will have a ready supply of ingredients. As for the fish, use frozen fish fillets — or have the family fishermen contribute their catch of the day.

Serve with a hearty bread and a banana-cream pie or cheesecake for dessert.

FISH-VEGETABLE CHOWDER

1½ pounds frozen fish fillets, thawed
2 cups tomato juice
3 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
1 cup frozen chopped onion
½ cup frozen chopped green pepper
1 (1 pound) can tomatoes
1 (9 ounce) package frozen cut green beans
1 (9 ounce) package frozen lima beans
1 (8 ounce) bottle clam juice
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon caraway seeds
Freshly ground black pepper

Put fillets in large saucepot with tomato juice. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer about 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Remove fish and flake, removing any bones. Strain and reserve broth.

Heat oil in saucepot. Saute onion and green pepper until tender and lightly browned. Add reserved broth and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil. Cover and simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Add fish. Makes about 2½ quarts.

'If you can't afford it, don't buy it'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says high-priced beef to a consumer is a little like a high-priced tractor to a farmer: "If you can't afford it, don't buy it."

But Bergland said Tuesday he is opposed to a planned consumer boycott of beef or "meatless days" to protest high prices.

"I think we who consume should buy what we can afford," he said. "There is no way to alleviate a shortage except by price."

Bergland told the annual meeting of the Newspaper Farm Writers of America that beef supplies will not increase until cattle producers finish rebuilding herds two or three years from now.

Until that happens, he said, prices will stay high and the limited amount of beef available will go to those with enough money to buy it.

The Agriculture Department now expects retail prices for all cuts of beef to average more than 20 percent higher this year than last year's record $1.82 a pound.

Bake-Off set with new rules

The 29th Bake-Off contest will be held Feb. 23-25, 1980, in Miami Beach, Fla., with these significant changes in rules:

1) Entries for the first time will be based on special occasion, ethnic and economy recipes.

2) Anyone who has been in the Bake-Off finals three years will be ineligible, as will be their children, parents and members of their households.

3) Any brand can be used in submission of an entry, although specific brands will be used in the judging process.

4) The grand prize will be worth $40,000 instead of $25,000.

Definitions of the recipe groups:

Special occasion recipes—fancy recipes for those very special times such as birthdays, anniversaries and holidays.

Ethnic recipes—those based on foods with cultural origins.

Economy recipes—those using relatively low-cost ingredients.

Entry blanks can be obtained by writing to Bake-Off, P. O. Box 699, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Too timid?

Too timid to try garlic? Just remember that the strongest flavor comes from fresh, uncooked garlic that has been pureed or chopped. Whole garlic cloves or cloves that have been cut in large pieces are milder. For the mildest sweet and nutty flavor, cook garlic for a long time in roasts, stews or soups.

Graham's Vietnamese students

Scott, left, and Willie Brown, seniors at Graham High School selected American names after coming to the United States from Saigon. The youths are seniors and participate in sports and school clubs. But English is the hardest school work, they both agree. (Graham Special)

Youth chosen for med program

BURKBURNETT (Special) — Jonathan Schnitker, son of Mrs. Leila Schnitker of Burkburnett, has been selected as one of 21 participants in the University of Texas System Cancer Center in M. D. Anderson Hospital Summer Program in the Biomedical Sciences.

Schnitker was selected from a competitive field of 178 outstanding students statewide. The program will be held in Houston from June 4 through July 27.

Schnitker ranks in the top five percent of this year's graduating class at Burkburnett High School. He is a member of the National Honor Society and received the chemistry award at the 1978 awards program. During the summer 1978, Schnitker participated in the organic chemistry research at Midwestern State University.

He was named to Who's Who in Science at BHS in February 1979, and participated in the Five Spheres of Science at MSU during the spring 1978.

Graham's Scott, Willie 'American' Vietnamese

By NITA MCAFEE
Correspondent

GRAHAM, Texas (Special) — Scott and Willie Brown are names as American as apple pie and also are adoptive names chosen by two Graham High School Vietnamese seniors.

Scott said the name Brown was chosen for a teacher he had in Broken Bow, Okla., and Scott and Willie are names of American friends.

Scott, whose real name is Tran, Quoc Tuy, and Willie's, Tran Quoc Tuy, changed their names "so our teachers and school acquaintances could pronounce our names."

Their father's name is Tran, Quoc Tuy, and their mother's name is Nhi Thi Do. They also have three sisters and two brothers.

Both youths enjoy science and math, but English is the most difficult for the two.

"I can read English, but it is hard to understand the meaning when it is spoken," Willie said.

Good typists, both are members of the Vocational Industrial Cooperative Association.

Scott, 18, is manager of the spring track team. Willie, 20, ran track, but could not participate in meets because of his age.

After graduation they plan to attend college and major in some phase of engineering.

Scott works evenings at Olney Savings in Graham and Willie at Hexcel and do not get home until about 11:30 p.m.

They say they are not lonely now, but that their parents often long for their native home of Saigon.

"We hope to return for a visit some time...maybe in 10 years it will be safe," they remarked.

The youths' father was a policeman in Saigon. "He feared he would be murdered and was afraid for us," said Willie.

In fall 1975 the family joined the hundreds of other refugees that boarded ships for Guam and eventually flew to the United States. They were stationed at Fort Chaffee, Ark., three months and then sponsored by a company in Broken Bow.

After six months in Oklahoma and through other Vietnamese acquaintances, the family moved to Graham. Willie stayed and worked a year in Broken Bow before joining his family in Graham in 1976.

The group misses visiting with their own nationality but occasionally schedule a trip to Wichita Falls where a large number of people from their country reside.

American food is "not bad," the Graham students said. Scott is enthusiastic about pizza and Willie prefers hot dogs. Once a month the family makes a trip to Fort Worth to purchase their native food, though.

Frederick FFA students earn state awards

EDWARD SCHRICK

JERRY STOLL

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Edward Schrick and Jerry Stoll, Frederick Future Farmers of America, were presented state farmer degrees during the 53rd annual FFA state convention held in Stillwater, Okla.

The degrees are the highest honors given by Oklahoma FFA Association and only three percent of the state's FFA membership are awarded the degrees.

Schrick and Stoll are the first Frederick youths to apply for the awards since 1975.

Schrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schrick, has held reporter, president and vice president offices in the Frederick FFA chapter. His projects have been sheep and beef and wheat and cotton crops.

He has won the salesmanship award, beef production, home and farm improvment and speech awards. At Frederick High School, Schrick has been involved in sports and Math Club and is a member of National Honor Society.

Stoll has been president and treasurer of FFA. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Stoll and has captured sheep production awards. Stoll has exhibited sheep, beef and swine at fairs and livestock shows.

He has been on the high school honor roll four years and is a member of National Honor Society.

The youth plans to attend Oklahoma State University in Stillwater and will continue his study in agriculture, and then will farm and ranch.

Great snack

Pineapple-Chicken Sandwiches score high with snackers.

Pep up chicken salad

Both brown-baggers and home lunchers enjoy their chicken salad sandwiches, but ...

You can vary ingredients or seasonings to pep up this good, healthful sandwich filling.

At the cabin or on a one-day outing, whip up a pineapple-chicken filling using canned chunk-white chicken and canned pineapple. This is an excellent recipe for vacations as well as for after golf, tennis or school. Serve with milk, relishes and fresh fruit or ice cream.

PINEAPPLE-CHICKEN SANDWICHES

1 can (5 ounces) chunk-white chicken
1 tablespoon imitation mayonnaise
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ cup drained, crushed pineapple in pure pineapple juice
3 tablespoons chopped celery
Lettuce leaves
2 slices pumpernickel bread
Pineapple slices (optional)
Green-pepper rings (optional)

Drain chicken, reserving broth.

In bowl, blend mayonnaise and ginger into reserved broth. Toss with chicken, crushed pineapple and celery.

Arrange lettuce on bread. Top with chicken mixture. If desired, garnish with pineapple slices cut in half and green pepper rings. Makes 2 open-face sandwiches.

Food For Thought

Drugs can keep body from using nutrients

By DR. JEAN MAYER
DR. JOHANNA DWYER
Chicago Tribune

We all have heard a number of old sayings regarding eating and illness—things like "feed a cold, starve a fever." Unfortunately, many of these notions are not particularly sound as far as your health is concerned.

While a person may not feel much like eating when sick, very often nourishment is essential for a speedy recovery. The "very light" meals urged for a sick child by a well-meaning aunt or grandmother may be the exact opposite of what the patient really needs. But the story is often more complex—in many instances, drugs can alter the body's ability to utilize nutrients. In some long-term therapy, this may result in malnutrition or vitamin or mineral deficiencies. And there are some foods that affect the body's utilization of certain drugs.

There are a number of ways in which drugs affect nutritional status. For example, some of the drugs used to treat cancer cause nausea or vomiting, or they may alter a patient's sense of taste so that food becomes unpleasant. Others, such as antihistamines or insulin, may increase the appetite.

Some drugs inhibit the synthesis of various nutrients: chemicals which block out ultraviolet light from the skin may decrease the skin's ability to synthesize vitamin D. Some antibiotics may alter the normal bacterial balance in the intestinal tract, thus altering the synthesis of certain preventing their absorption. Other drugs that may cause malabsorption of nutrients include agents such as cholestyramine, which is used to lower cholesterol levels: neomycin, an antibiotic; colchicine, a drug used to treat gout and the various anticonvulsant drugs.

Steroid drugs, such as prednisone or hydrocortisone, may alter the metabolism of carbohydrates, fat and protein. Oral contraceptives may increase the body's need for several vitamins and minerals, particularly folic acid, a B vitamin. Antacids that contain aluminum may inhibit the body's absorption of phosphorus and fluoride and increase the excretion of calcium.

The body's nutritional status also plays an important part in the manner in which drugs are metabolized. For example, the effects of drugs may be increased in persons who are deficient in certain nutrients, such as calcium, zinc, magnesium, or vitamin C, meaning they may be more toxic. All of these nutrients appear to decrease the activity of the enzymes that metabolize or detoxify drugs.

A number of foods also interact with drugs to produce altered effects. A recent study, for example, found that charcoal-broiled beef speeded up the metabolism of phenacetin, a pain killer. Many people are familiar with the interaction of monoamine oxidase, or MAO inhibitors — drugs used to treat depression — and foods high in the amino acid tyramine. These include aged Cheddar cheese, Chianti wine, and nuts. Mixing the drugs and these foods may bring on a hypertensive crisis — a sudden, dangerous rise in blood pressure.

Finally, there are food-drug combinations that reduce the drug's effectiveness. Examples of this include taking foods high in calcium, magnesium, iron or aluminum salts with tetracycline. This is why your doctor may caution you not to take this particular antibiotic with yogurt, milk or antacids.

What do these various food-drug interactions mean to you? Most important, they mean that you should not use large amounts of drugs — including over-the-counter items such as aspirin or vitamins (which act as drugs at doses far above those needed by a healthy body) — without consulting your doctor.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON
Thursday, April 26

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your dependability in crises wins you promotion. You show increasing love of romance, travel and new adventures. Members of opposite sex hold you in high esteem. Co-workers tend to take advantage of you. Recovering money you lend is not likely. You find it easier to earn money than save it. Your argumentative nature could harm your health if you don't check it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Today's events have an extra sparkle. Romance is in air. Make the most of your opportunities. Emphasize originality and independence. Tip from old friend could result in increased income.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The need to spend money and time in home, domestic situation is likely. You are cheered at lunch by good news. Relationship with member of opposite sex becomes more interesting.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Put today's events in perspective before acting. Fight off depression by keeping busy. You may need to get in touch with your own feelings. Check legalities affecting partnership.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Extra responsibilities may tax your patience, energy. Rewards are certain, however. Seize opportunity to show others your ability to work under pressure. Money matters likely to take upward turn.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Make concentrated effort to win over influential people. You can afford to take calculated risks to increase profits. You can be lucky in love, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Great business day for anyone engaged in overseas operations. Extra profits are likely. Influential people will seek your services. Correct minor health problem before it becomes major.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Business trends should be in your favor. Influential people are enthusiastic. Your earning power will be increased in weeks ahead, but don't act impulsively about finances today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 2): Push hard to promote creative ventures. New-found happiness in personal relationships are likely. Married couples will draw closer together than in recent past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may be depressed because of delays in connection with business project. Keep faith. Time is on your side. Someone who is confined to home, hospital, needs your attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be more aware of your potential. Don't let critics destroy your enthusiasm. If you are a writer, reporter or involved in book publishing you may be near edge of real success.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Play waiting game and you should get desired results. Applies to romance as well as business. Family member is well intentioned, but may be fly in ointment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may feel more alive now then you have recently. Emphasis is on relationships that can become permanent. Home, personal environment have happy effect on what you do.

The recent death of Howard Schenken at the age of 75 was the second of the extremely durable Four Aces team who dominated bridge from its formation in 1933 until broken up when Oswald Jacoby quit bridge to join the Navy right after Pearl Harbor. Dave Bruce died in 1965. Mike Gottlieb and Jacoby are still around and playing bridge.

Howard is regarded by many as the greatest bridge player of all time and certainly ranks among the top three or four.

Here is a hand from the Life Master's pairs of 1943 which Howard won. The contract was just four spades, but Howard made six for a near top score.

East took dummy's queen of clubs with the ace and returned the suit to dummy's king. Howard cashed dummy's ace of hearts, played two rounds of trumps, noted the fall of East's jack and proceeded to make the rest of the tricks.

He cashed his king and queen of hearts to get rid of dummy's last clubs. Then he made the key play. He ruffed his last heart.

Dummy's ace and king of diamonds came next, followed by the ruff of a diamond. West could do nothing except discard a club. Howard ruffed his last club and was home. If he had ruffed the club first, West could have chucked his last heart and been able to ruff Howard's last heart with the nine of trumps.

Childress drive raises over $600

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — A fund-raising drive for tornado victims has netted more than $600 to date, according to Mrs. Doris Teague, executive secretary of the Childress chapter of American Red Cross.

Mrs. Teague said funds are set up at both First State Bank and First National Bank of Childress, and donations also are being received at the Childress Red Cross office.

In addition, Childress residents have contributed clothing, food and household items to six families in Wichita Falls and Vernon whose possessions and homes were lost in the storms. The donations have been made through relatives of the families, with Childress residents delivering the goods to the stricken persons.

The figures are now complete for the recent annual Red Cross drive in Childress, Mrs. Teague said, and the quota of $5,015 was surpassed. John Lott, chairman of the drive, said more than $5,100 was contributed by Childress residents and merchants during the yearly drive.

Altus hospital near completion

ALTUS, Okla. (Special) — The new $7,110,000 hospital facility at Altus Air Force Base is scheduled for completion by Aug. 16, according to U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Prime contractor for the facility, reportedly 76 percent complete, is BFW Construction Co., Temple, Texas.

The two-story structure covers 100,000 square feet and will consist of 40 beds. The structure will house ambulance services as well as flight surgeon, gynecology, immunizations, laboratory, obstetrics, optometry radiology, pediatrics, pharmacy, physical examinations and physical therapy. The entire first floor is designed to house clinics.

Schieffer suits 'Morning' news

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There may have been some concern at first that CBS' remodeled "Morning" news program would join that drift toward entertainment-slash-information encouraged by the competition — NBC's "Today" and "Good Morning America" on ABC.

"I think we made a mistake when we told people we were going to be more informal," says Bob Schieffer, the former White House correspondent for CBS who's been the "Morning" anchorman since the program's premiere in January.

"To some people, informality meant features on how to cook your Easter ham and so on. What we meant was that we would be more flexible, give more time if necessary to the big story, take the time to talk about things that might interest the viewer.

"The new format gave us the chance," says Schieffer, "to sit down in a relaxed way, as reporters do after they've covered a story, and just talk about what's happened. It's fun, and sometimes you get the best stories that way."

The program is produced separately from "Sunday Morning," the 90-minute news and news feature program begun at the same time. Charles Kuralt, CBS' "On the Road" man, anchors "Sunday Morning."

The hour-long weekday newscast — 7-8 a.m. and called "Monday Morning," "Tuesday Morning" and so on through Friday — barely resembles its predecessor, "The CBS Morning News." That show was cut in the style of the networks' evening news — cover as much as possible with a generally hard edge to each story.

"People are in a different frame of mind in the morning, at least they are around our house," says Schieffer, 42 and the father of two daughters. "And I think the information goes down easier they way we do it.

"It's no less a hard news program," he says, "but we've tried to develop a more relaxed approach. I think some people felt we were twice as long as the 'Evening News,' so we ought to do twice as many stories.

"Well, sometimes we should, and sometimes we shouldn't."

BOB SCHIEFFER

Given all those conditions, Bob Schieffer was an inspired choice for the anchorman's job.

He has all the credentials — anchorman for a big station, WBAP in Dallas; a reporter with a wide range of experience: Vietnam, the political conventions, the White House; anchorman since 1976 for the Saturday edition of "The CBS Evening News."

Further, he embodies that personable, relaxed style that "Morning" sought; he speaks in the comfortable manner of his native Texas.

And if Bob Schieffer suits CBS, "Morning" suits Bob Schieffer.

"It's really a lot of fun," the anchorman says, "exciting as well as intellectually challenging.

"We got permission not to have any rules, and if that meant covering four stories in the hour, we would do that. We've been spending CBS' money like it is going out of style, and I think it makes a difference it what we give the viewer every day.

Scharf's job: rivet audience

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walter Scharf's job, as he sees it, is to keep your attention on the screen.

He does it with music. Scharf composed the music for more than 250 motion pictures, the Jacques Cousteau and National Geographic TV specials and NBC's "From Here to Eternity" miniseries. He is now at work on the score for the miniseries based on John Dean's "Blind Ambition," for CBS.

You may not always be aware of the music, which often is subliminal. But you cannot escape its effect. It makes you happy, it makes you sad, it excites you, and may, in the middle of a love scene, remind you that jeopardy lurks nearby.

"A man gets on an airplane to visit his dying father," said Scharf, a big man with a shock of white hair. "The camera is on him constantly. His eyes are closed, he's upset. After 10 seconds of this you start to lose interest.

"My job is to keep you glued to the screen. After 15 seconds, I will sneak in music that tells the story. I'm constantly providing little hooks to keep people interested."

He not only composes the music, but arranges it and conducts the orchestra.

TV's miniseries are keeping composers like Scharf busy, but he said that after back-to-back projects he feels worn out. "I feel like I'm being squeezed through a revolving door," he said.

For the eight-hour "Blind Ambition" program, which begins May 20, Scharf must compose music for the equivalent of four motion pictures.

"Normally, you take 8 to 10 weeks for each film," he said. "We're doing this in seven weeks. It's a fallacy that you can use the same music throughout. It has to be dramatized for each sequence.

"Even though it's the same music, it serves many purposes. It's really tougher to tailor music for different scenes than to write new music."

The music for the opening chapter of "Blind Ambition" is largely a love theme — for the romance of John and Maureen Dean.

"An awful lot of scenes are between the two of them," Scharf said. "In the rest of the series, I've skeletonized the music because the incidents and performances hold up by themselves. It's a wise man who said it's not what you put in, but what you leave out."

In all, he said he is writing one hour and 45 minutes of music for the series. Most of the show will be without music, or will have other source music, as from radios.

When he gets an assignment, Scharf said, "I have to see it three, four, five times to digest it. I discuss it with the director to see where music might add another dimension or help certain sequences. I make a graph of the overall picture.

"First, you determine the attitude of the film. Then you plot to that attitude. Then you compose the music. The notes are the last thing you do."

Asked if he composes at a piano, Scharf smiled and said, "I don't need a piano. I've written on my boat, on an airplane. Notes are like the letters of the alphabet. It's elementary. Most important is the dramatic or comedic values the music supports."

He works from a black and white copy of the film on a Movieola in his office. "I think video cassettes will be the next thing," he said, "but they're not set up quite right yet. We work in frames and seconds. We deal in sprockets, actually."

Scharf said he believes the public is more aware of composers and movie music. "The proof is that our sound track albums sell like crazy."

He said he particularly enjoyed doing the music for the Cousteau and National Geographic specials. "I felt I could express myself musically," he said. "I had something to say and this was the opportunity. The Geographic specials were filmed all over the world, so it gave me a lot of things to talk about musically."

Ellen Burstyn exhilarated with movie

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actors often say they have feelings of exhilaration and sadness when they come to the end of making a movie.

Ellen Burstyn was feeling both emotions the day she finished "Resurrection." She had returned from the final location scenes in the mobile home she had occupied for three months. It was driven through the gate of University Studios and parked on the back lot, where she served champagne to her immediate four-women crew of co-workers and talked with a visitor.

"My last day," reflected the actress. "At least I didn't have to face the sad partings. I'll do that when we have the 'wrap' party Monday." (Wrap: Hollywood phrase for end of filming, signaled by "It's a wrap.")

Burstyn admitted the wrench of saying goodbye to the "Resurrection" famly. The cast is remarkable: The great Eva Le Gallienne, making her third film at 80; Sam Shepard, who recently won the Pulitzer Prize for drama, following his film debut in "Days of Heaven;" Richard Farnsworth, stuntman turned Academy nominee actor in "Comes a Horseman."

"Everyone was inspired, first of all by the script," Burstyn observed. "It was a difficult thing to do, and I believe we all were pressed to perform better than we thought we could."

"Resurrection" comes from an original screenplay by Lewis John Carlino. It concerns a woman who loses her husband and almost her life in an auto accident, returns to her Kansas roots to recover and finds she has the power to heal other people. Burstyn said she was attracted by the intention of producers Renee Missel and Howard Rosenman "to bring to public consciousness the image of a female spiritual character." She observed that films have touched such a theme only in rare instances: "The Song of Bernadette" and "A Nun's Story."

"I had a liking for the figure of Aimee Semple McPherson," said the actress, "and I almost did a movie about her. I was more interested in the power that she wielded (as a Los Angeles evangelist) than the commercial parody that she became.

"She had a radio station, a huge church, a welfare program. She was a real leader, and I was interested in that side of her character."

The Edna McCauley that Burstyn portrays does not claim her healing power comes from Jesus Christ and she resists any church affiliations. "She is unexploitable because she is a pure being. But of course, the world reacts to unusual power; for every force there is an answering force."

As with "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore," which won her the Oscar as the best actress of 1975, Burstyn entered the preparation of "Resurrection" in its early stages.

"My work is acting," she remarked, "But in the past few years, I have tried to create the kind of work that I want to do. I believe Jane Fonda has done the same thing. It's just a question of bringing everything together and trying to make it work."

The next project she has helped bring together is "Silence of the North," a real-life story of a woman who homesteaded in the Canadian wilds. She plans to start the film at the end of September. "After that, I don't expect to be as eager to act," she said.

Hitchcock highlights actress' career

By JEAN-CLAUDE BOUIS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For Veronica Cartwright, who had her first film role at 9 and chose acting as a career when she was 12, the highlight of her early movie days was a birthday party Alfred Hitchcock gave her on the set of "The Birds."

Ms. Cartwright, 30, stars in "Invasion of the Body Snatchers" and "Alien," another science fiction chiller to be released this month.

She said Hitchcock is described in some articles she's read as hating children, "but I felt I got along with him really well.

"I used to take him tea every afternoon at 4:30," she recalled in an interview.

"He used to sit there and tell me all the best wine cellars to go to. And he'd tell dirty jokes, and I'd laugh because I didn't know what he was talking about. He thought that was great."

Hitchcock may have been misunderstood by some because of his "mischievous sense of humor," said Ms. Cartwright, who was born in Bristol, England, which also is the famed director's birthplace. She said she celebrated her 13th birthday during the filming of the 1963 thriller, "The Birds."

Hitchcock "came to the party and left to just let us all celebrate. And then I got home and there was the most gigantic bouquet I had ever seen in my life — irises and lilacs. It filled up my entire dresser."

When shooting was over, she said, Hitchcock gave her a picture on which he wrote, "To the woman I love: Veronica," and drew his face on the back.

The life of a child actress was not all irises and lilacs for Ms. Cartwright, whose family emigrated to Canada and then to California. She remembers working for director William Wyler, whom she described as a taskmaster.

Having made her first film appearance in the 1958 movie "In Love and War," she went on to nine screen tests for three different parts when she was 12, including one for Wyler.

"During the screen test he had somebody shoot a gun in the middle of the thing, and I just incorporated it into the scene.

"And I just thought, 'Well, I don't know, it must be part of the scene,' so I kept it in. I thought that was pretty good for 12."

She spoke of one particularly trying incident during the shooting of a scene for Wyler's "The Children's Hour." The film, starring Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine, was a remake of Wyler's 1936 movie, "These Three," which is about two teachers, and deals with lesbianism.

"There's this scene when I have a breakdown, and I've told a lie about having seen the two teachers together because I'm being blackmailed by the bad girl, Mary," Ms. Cartwright said.

After Wyler had her go through the scene twice, she said, he told her that she was ready for a real take. Thinking the cameras were rolling, she put extra effort into an emotional scene.

"Then he turned to the director of photography and said, 'Now we'll shoot.' And I cracked. I couldn't stop crying for 20 minutes.

"But this is when I decided that what I really wanted to do was to act."

Duke's condition 'target of bribes'

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Actor John Wayne, home from Hoag Memorial Hospital after a week's stay, on Wednesday accused news reporters of "trying to bribe people" to talk about his condition.

The movie veteran was not specific in the written statement about what reporters were involved in the alleged incident. He said there were attempts to bribe people to "say something that won't coincide with the official report."

The hospital — where a spokeswoman said she was not aware of any such incident — said it had treated Wayne for bronchitis, and that he went home with no fanfare earlier Wednesday.

"I haven't lied to the press about anything, but they will not take our reports as truthful," Wayne said in a written statement released by Marcy Mobley of his office.

Rubin warns of nuke threat

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — Former anti-war activist Jerry Rubin says the threat of nuclear power is "laying the foundation for a 1980s revolution."

"When the outburst comes, we'll see the best of both worlds," Rubin said Tuesday at the University of New Hampshire.

"People will fight with a sense of solidarity they learned from the 60s, and with an honesty and awareness they learned from the 70s. People will join in a community of self-awareness ... and realize they must take a responsiblity for their planning."

Rubin, now 40, delivered his lecture, "Twenty Years of Change," to more than 600 people. It was his first visit to the university since 1970, when he spoke in defiance of a court order during a student strike.

Press livid over scoop of Brown-Ronstadt trip

By LIZ SMITH
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

Entertainment

A scoop is always most popular to the person who gets it, said David Frost.

If you saw Newsweek's beautiful color cover of Gov. Jerry Brown with Linda Ronstadt, you might have wondered how come Newsweek was the only magazine to print such a picture in the middle of the couple's being so in the news. Well, other publications are well aware of the situation — and livid!

It seems all the press color film taken by Time, People, Look, the wire services, etc., somehow got stuck away in a corner in Nairobi and only Newsweek's film got out of Africa to the home office. Competition, competition! And everybody is bitter, bitter about it.

LETTING IT ALL HANG OUT! Onlookers speculate that some of Johnny Carson's fed-up bad temper with his network could have been aggravated recently by events having to do with his magnificent Malibu house at Carbon Beach.

Johnny wanted to have his deck extended farther out over the sand, and for this one needs permission from Malibu neighbors under a law laid down by the California Coastal Commission. So, even though construction had already begun, one of Johnny's neighbors refused permission and the whole extension now is being torn apart. That could make a person touchy.

NOT OUR BOBBY: Robert Redford was not the one involved in those fisticuffs on the set of his new movie "Brubaker," filming in Columbus, Ohio. The star carefully kept out of the fracas; he wants to do the movie, is committed, and that's that.

It was hot-tempered director Bob Rafelson who was removed from the helm after almost strangling 20th Century-Fox executive Richard Berger. Rafelson is the talented man who made "Five Easy Pieces," "The King of Marvin Gardens" and "Stay Hungry."

No new director has been named. Insiders say the movie was already over-schedule and 20th didn't feel the rushes were all that great. But this movie will be made!

HOT FLASH: Paramount bought Betty Ford's autobiography for the movies and Hollywood is awash with wisecracks about who will play the former First Lady. There'll be two actresses, say the quipsters, one for Betty before the face-lift and one for Betty after.

HOT FLASH II: Goldie Hawn's very first movie since having her baby girl will reunite her with former co-star Chevy Chase. They hope to follow up their success in his debut film "Foul Play."

They've got a good shot at it since the yet untitled screenplay is by none other than America's most successful and busiest dialogue writer, Neil Simon.

THE WESTERNER: Louis L'Amour, the he-man writer with the wonderfully fancy name, is real happy with NBC's mini-series of "The Sacketts." (It's only one of the books which make Louis the no. 1 best-selling Western novelist of our time — he has 90 million copies in print.) Well, after Louis saw the show airing May 15-16 with Glenn Ford, Ben Johnson, Jack Elam, Slim Pickens, Gilbert Roland and Mercedes McCambridge, he decided to write a new book about the three Sackett brothers so that Sam Elliott, Jeff Osterhage and Tom Sellack can reprise and continue their roles.

My funny about Louis L'Amour is that this original Marlboro man usually spends his holidays out backpacking the plains and wilderness looking for new terrain and plot ideas. But he spent Easter weekend with his family in the plush confines of the Beverly Hills Hotel calling for room service.

FANS of English rock star David Essex, who made such a hit portraying Che Guevera in the musical Evita, will be interested to know that he'll make a new movie about car racing with Beau Bridges to be filmed in England. The title is "Silver Dream Racer". ... Money maven Sylvia Porter is mad as heck at Delacorte because she feels that their Jane Bryant Quinn offering, "Everyone's Money Book," is too close to her own famous and classic "Money Book" published by Doubleday. She's threatening to sue. Funny bit is that Doubleday owns Delacorte. . .We had lots of questions about whether or not Treat Williams' glorious tresses in "Hair" were his own. Sorry to say they were not; he had to wear a wig to play the character Berger because of the GI haircut in the end.

REEL ESTATE: Mike Silverman was the first smartie to put up his house-for-sale signs in Southern California in Persian, Arabic and Japanese. Now he has sold Rita Hayworth's house for more than a million bucks, and for the first time since the movie "Gilda" in which they co-starred, Rita's next-door-neighbor Glenn Ford will have to suffer civilians by his side. (In show biz, a civilian is anyone not in show biz.)

ENDQUOTE: Pittsburgh reporter Linda Tosch asked Sally Field is she is going to marry Burt Reynolds. Sally said, "Not right this second." (Got that?)

Miss Mangum pageant Friday

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — The annual Miss Mangum pageant will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Sponsored by the Mangum High School Council, "Monday Night Football" is the theme of the pageant to be held in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Tom Cummings is pageant director.

Ten young women have entered the pageant, according to Mrs. Cummings. They are Lisa Lovett, Betty Haynes, Starla Snow, Jennifer Houck, Linda Vinson, Cathy Spence, Mia MacRobert, Dorthery Barron, Jeri Hulsey and Marci Bull.

Mark Boone of Mangum will entertain with piano and vocal selections.

Also appearing on the program will be Terry Smith Hamilton, Miss Mangum 1974; Fran Bryan Smith, Miss Greer County 1975; Darla Bock, Miss Greer County 1976; and Kheva Warner, Miss Greer County 1978. Miss Warner will crown the new Miss Mangum.

The contestants will be judged on formal wear, talent and youth fitness.

BOSTON (AP) — Ticknor & Fields, publishers of New England's great Victorian writers, is being revived to look for 20th century talent. Ticknor & Fields will be a subsidiary of Houghton Mifflin Co., a Boston publishing house that acquired the financially troubled remains of the firm in the last century.

Are food shoppers doing what they can to save on their food bills?

To find out, the U. S. Department of Agriculture conducted three national surveys of major food shoppers in about 1,400 U. S. households, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, from 1976 to 1978. About 85 percent of the shoppers were female.

"Half or more of the main food shoppers are fighting food price inflation," said department social science analyst Evelyn Kaitz, who studied survey results. "They do it by always or almost always comparing prices, checking food ads and making out a food list before shopping and reading ingredients on labels before purchasing a food product for the first time."

More than 60 percent of major food shoppers said they always or almost always compared prices when shopping. Only about 15 percent said they seldom or never did. Proportionally more females than males admitted to comparing prices. The surveys showed the likelihood increased with household size, Kaitz said, but decreased with higher income. The 1978 survey showed shoppers aged 35-49 were likely to compare prices than those over 64.

"Significantly, in the 1976 survey, shoppers in the North Central Region were more likely than those from the Northeast or South to say they always or almost always compared food prices. In the 1977 survey, shoppers employed part time compared prices more than fulltime workers did."

About 60 percent of the shoppers responding said they always or almost always made out a food shopping list. Shoppers who were not employed prepared lists more often than those employed. Female and better educated shoppers used lists most, Kaitz said.

Again, about 60 percent of shoppers responding to the 1977 and 1978 surveys said when food items were lower priced, they bought an extra quantity to store at home, Kaitz said.

"Volume buying increased with family size and was more likely among respondents 35-64 than those 65 or older. According to the 1977 survey the probability increased among female shoppers but decreased among apartment dwellers, perhaps because of lack of storage space."

Southern shoppers were less likely to buy more when the price was lower than those of the North Central and Northeast area, two surveys showed.

Just over half the respondents checked food ads before shopping, the 1976 and 1977 surveys showed, with the number declining between the 1976 and 1978 surveys.

Reading food ads increased with family size and the age of the shopper. In the 1976 and 1978 surveys, food shoppers not employed used food ads more than their business counterparts. Generally, females used food ads more than males. But use of food ads dropped with increased income and education.

"The 1976 and 1977 surveys showed only about half the shoppers always or almost always read the labels for ingredients the first time they purchased a food product."
