GARNER TO TAKE LEAD IN FIGHT FOR TAX BILL

Clues Evade Childress Authorities In Mystery Murder Of Cafe Operator

MAN DIES OF BLOW STRUCK BY ASSAILANT

Paul Davis Refuses to Talk Of Assault Before Dying In Hospital

MOTIVE SOUGHT

Police Unable to Obtain Tangible Clues In Attack

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, March 28.—Mystery surrounds the death of Paul Davis Monday morning at 6 o'clock at a local hospital.

Davis and Jesse Cannon conducted a hamburger stand on Commerce street and Sunday morning about 10 o'clock Davis opened up. Shortly after he was seen to stagger from the stand and drop upon the sidewalk. Officers were notified and upon arriving found he had been struck on the head by a heavy instrument, crushing the skullbone on the right side of his head. The body had fallen on the floor inside the counter where there was a large pool of blood. Davis then crawled over the counter and staggered outside. He was rational when carried to the hospital.

He talked over his condition, but when questioned as to who hit him or how his injury happened he refused to talk. Officers do not believe it was robbery, as there was only a small amount of money in the cash register, while he had $17 on his person untouched.

Davis is the son of H. W. Davis of Mangum, Okla., who arrived in Childress three hours after the attack. The father says he does not know of any enemies who could have done the deed, and does not know of any difficulty the boy had been in with other parties.

So far local officers have no clue, although it was stated a woman telephoned the hospital two or three times, asking after Davis' conditions, but refusing to give her name. Efforts are being made to trace the calls.

The murder has wrought considerable interest in the city and local officials are running down every clue, so far without tangible results.

The body will be carried to El Reno, Okla., for burial.

Treasury Ex-Head Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, March 28. (UP)—Leslie M. Shaw, who once sold apples for a living and rose to be secretary of the treasury in President Roosevelt's cabinet, died here today after a five weeks illness of pneumonia.

He entered politics and in 1897 had become so well known that he was selected by the Republican party to be its candidate for governor. Shaw served two terms and then refused to accept a third.

In 1902 President Roosevelt appointed him secretary of the treasury, a post he held until 1907 when he resigned to become president of the Carnegie Trust company of New York.

The following year, Shaw resigned this position and announced himself as a candidate for the presidency against William Howard Taft. His campaign failed and he accepted a high ranking post in Philadelphia.

Electra Girl's Death Described By State In Second Trial Of Page

R. H. Page of Electra went on trial for the second time Monday before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Miss Evelyn Mae Patton in a traffic accident near Electra last Nov. 13. The first trial resulted in a hung jury several weeks ago.

Selection of a jury required almost all of Monday, the introduction of evidence by the state beginning late in the afternoon.

Undertaken on Stand

Page was indicted on the charge that he was driving his car upon a public highway while intoxicated, and the state's case again is based upon that contention. The Patton girl allegedly was standing with her escort, Eschol Holbrook, behind the latter's car beside the highway when she was struck by Page's car and killed almost instantly. The Holbrook car had been stopped beside the road that a punctured tire might be repaired.

J. B. S. Totten, Electra undertaker, took the stand Monday afternoon to describe his recovery of the girl's body at the scene of the accident. She died as she was lifted nto the ambulance, he said.

Eschol Holbrook testified to his having parked beside the highway south of Electra to repair a tire, and of the girl's having stood beside him at the rear wheel as he worked on the tire. When they saw a car approaching from the south at high speed, he said, they stepped behind their car to be out of the way. Holbrook said the car suddenly lurched when about 15 feet from them, and swerved directly into the rear of the parked car, crushing the girl to death.

Holbrook Testifies

The witness also said that the defendant acted "like a drunk man," and made no effort to be of aid in any way.

J. W. Stevens, Electra youth, told of driving past the scene of the accident before it occurred, and of seeing Holbrook engaged in repairing the tire. He said the parked car was well to the right, with its left two wheels possibly on the pavement.

The state will continue the presentation of its case Tuesday morning, when District Attorney Sam B. Spence and his assistant, George W. Anderson, in charge of the prosecution.

Britain to Repay $30,000,000 Today

NEW YORK, March 28. (UP)—With the payment tomorrow of $30,000,000 and $20,000,000 on April 5, the British treasury will complete the repayment on the $200,000,000 loan obtained from American bankers last fall in an unsuccessful attempt to stay on the gold standard.

A payment of $150,000,000 was made on March 21, although the entire was not due until August. While the British treasury will keep the credit line open, it is not thought likely that new credits will be required in view of the world-wide confidence in the British pound.

Funds for the repayment of this credit in advance of maturity were obtained by the British from gold hoards in both England and India and through the sale of sterling in the open market.

Head of Famous Concern Killed by Gun Discharge

EASTON, Pa., March 28. (US)—Percival Chrystie, 66, chairman of the directors of the Taylor-Wharton Iron and Steel company, killed himself with a shotgun today. He was found dead in the Hizhbridge, N. J., powerhouse of the company.

The weapon lay beside him. Associates said he often brought the gun to the plant for target practice. They declared it must have been discharged accidentally. Chrystie had been under medical care. He was the sixth man of his family to direct the operations of the foundry in its 190 years of existence. The company forged cannon balls for the American revolutionists and supplied ammunition for every war in which the country has been engaged since then.

Scott Clark. It was alleged that Day, a wealthy retired farmer, had a bar in the same building in which he meted out justice to those who came before him.

LINDY CONFERS WITH CLERIC

Clergyman Tells of Contact With Kidnapers

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 28. (AP)—On a mission he considered so important he flew nearly 300 miles through storms which had grounded most other planes, the dean of a Norfolk (Va.) church came here today to tell Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of a "contact" made with the kidnapers of the famous flier's son.

After an hour behind closed doors with the colonel, the clergyman, the Very Rev. H. Dobson Peacock, started back home with the statement there probably would be another conference with Lindbergh within three or four days.

He declined to discuss information he had passed on to the father of the child who was stolen 27 days ago from his crib.

"The conference was the result of a contact made with the kidnapers," he said.

"Did Colonel Lindbergh receive your information with optimism?" he was asked.

"I cannot speak for Colonel Lindbergh," he replied. "All I can say is that we are optimistic."

He apparently referred to himself, John H. Curtis, Norfolk boat builder, and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, who have been associated since March 9, in efforts to secure return of the child.

Over the week-end Curtis made a mysterious airplane trip for the purpose of meeting the abductors.

He denied three reports in saying he was not taking back any ransom money, that he had not seen the kidnaped child, and that he had not brought to the Lindbergh home a piece of baby's clothing as proof of the identity of the child held by those with whom the negotiations have been conducted.

He spoke emphatically in denying the kidnapers had allowed him and the other two intermediaries to see the child they held.

He shook his head when asked if any ransom demands had been discussed at the conference.

"We expect some time this week to have the baby either in our hands or in the hands of Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh."

COURT HALTS OPPOSITION TO GAS INCREASE

Utility Ordered to Post Bond Of $7,500 in Munday Rate Controversy

JUDGE HEARS PLEAS

Atwell Deals Leniently With First Offenders In Dry Cases

Judge William H. Atwell Monday granted the Stamford and Western Gas company a temporary injunction restraining the city of Munday from interfering with the company's efforts to collect for domestic gas consumed in Munday a rate higher than that charged heretofore.

Attorneys for the gas company argued that the present rate of 85 cents per 1,000 cubic feet is confiscatory, and said the 1931 business in Munday represented a return of but 1.64 per cent on the investment. Counsel for the city of Munday told the court of the council's refusal to grant a new franchise to the Stamford and Western Gas company carrying an increase in rate. The proposed new rate, it was argued, is $1.50 for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas consumed, and with a reduced scale as monthly consumption increases.

Before Rail Commission

The Texas Railroad commission has been given the case, it was pointed out, but has not yet set a date for a hearing. Judge Atwell ordered the petitioning company to post a bond of $7,500 to protect the 150 patrons of the company's service on the difference between the old rate and the new one in case the new rate be not upheld in a final determination.

Sixteen convictions on pleas of guilty and two convictions on contested cases were obtained by the government Monday afternoon when liquor cases were prosecuted by E. Crippen, assistant federal district attorney. The heaviest penalty was imposed upon Hugh J. Deavers, 20-year-old youth charged with possession of whisky, and possession of equipment for manufacturing liquor, in Archer county. After brief questioning by the court, he was fined $250 and given 60 days in jail.

Leniency was extended generously in other cases. One negro boy, charged with possession of a small amount of liquor, was fined one nickel. He had been in jail 81 days. Another youth, charged with possession of liquor in a first offense case, was fined 10 cents. He

NEW M'LEAN RATES SUSPENDED BY COURT

AUSTIN, March 28. (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission and the town of McLean today were restrained from enforcing an ordinance of McLean reducing the domestic and industrial gas rate, on application of the McLean Gas company.

The temporary injunction restraining enforcement was granted by District Judge C. A. Wheeler. No date was set for hearing the application for permanent injunction and it probably will come up at the May term of 53rd district court.

The city ordinance was upheld by the railroad commission last week. Gas rates for domestic consumers were reduced from 50 to 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet and the industrial rate was reduced to 20 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Threatened

The Washington home of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth and her daughter, Paulina, who are shown above, was guarded by police after Mrs. Longworth was reported to have received a threatening letter demanding $1,500.

VETERANS DENY FIGHT ON W T C C

But Disavowal of Bonus Stand Is Asked

STAMFORD, Texas, March 28. (AP)—Payment of veterans' adjusted service compensation certificates—described as a just debt to the soldier—was pictured as one of the greatest potential single factors in stimulating business by speakers at a meeting here tonight under auspices of West Texas American Legion posts.

Bonus Upheld

Approximately 350 ex-service men, more than 90 per cent of whom signified themselves as taxpayers, attended the session. Although it was called as a result of the recent published stand of the public expenditures and tax committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in opposing payment of the so-called "bonus" at this time, the meeting produced little reference to the regional organization. Chiefly, it brought out a resolution, adopted unanimously, asking the board of directors of the W. T. C. C. to disapprove the action of its tax committee.

V. Earl Earp of Sweetwater, state commander of the legion, addressed the meeting. Pointing out that 99 per cent of the Texas posts had gone on record favoring payment of the bonus, he advised legionnaires to discuss the proposition with their local business and civic leaders and send their request for the certificate payment to their congressmen.

"We have no fight with the West

ALLRED SCORES NEW VICTORY IN OIL SUITS

Constitutionality of Texas Anti-Trust Statutes Upheld by Court

TRIAL STARTS SOON

Attorney General Defeats Big Legal Battery For Fourth Time

AUSTIN, March 28. (AP)—Another milestone in the lengthy trial of the state's suit to penalize major oil companies for alleged anti-trust law violations was passed today when Judge J. D. Moore of Travis county district court sustained the validity of the statutes invoked against the defendants.

It was the fourth straight victory for James V. Allred, attorney general, prosecutor of the suit, in which questions of law and constitution were involved.

Big Fines Asked

The defendants contended that the state's anti-trust statutes were rendered unconstitutional when special exemptions were authorized by the Texas legislature in favor of farmers and stock raisers who were authorized to organize cooperative organizations. The oil companies are represented by a brilliant array of leading Texas attorneys.

The state alleges that 15 oil corporations and two petroleum associations entered into a conspiracy to dominate the marketing of gasoline and petroleum products in Texas. Fines aggregating $17,850,000 and cancellation of charters and permits to do business were asked.

Consideration of law questions started last Feb. 2 and have occupied the court's time intermittently since. Special exceptions were brought up after the court handed down its ruling on constitutionality of the anti-trust laws and they were expected to occupy the tribunal's time the rest of this week.

Commission Named

Other law points won by the state were that it had a right to compel attendance of officers of the defendant foreign corporations in Austin to testify in the suit, that defendant foreign oil companies not doing business in Texas either by charter or permit but through subsidiaries were within the jurisdiction of the court and that the state was within its rights in suing all defendants jointly. The defendants had set up pleas in abatement and misjoinder claiming they should have been sued separately.

Attorney General Allred said a date to start the testimony probably would be set soon. The court appointed George E. Shelley, Austin lawyer, a special commissioner to take testimony in the case.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

WAVING YOUR HANDS IS NOT SWIMMING

It ain't a bad idea to tax luxuries.

We hope they tax all of 'em we can't afford.

That's a funny thing about taxes. It's great when they're plastered on the other guy's barn.

But when a tax walks up to you, looks you in the eye, tips its hat and says "Howdy do" it's a hoss from a different garage.

Congress is at the bat swinging wild at everything like the guy who struck out on a throw to first base.

This is the real Moby Dick of congresses. Except that it is further out to sea. And it can't swim.

We've finally realized that taxation without representation ain't any cheaper with representation.

The chickens have come home to roost. And all we'll get are the feathers.

REED PLEDGED MISSOURI VOTE

Demo Convention Instructs For Former Senator

ST. LOUIS, March 28. (AP)—The state Democratic convention tonight instructed Missouri's delegates to the party's national convention to use all "honorable means within their power" to obtain the nomination of former United States Senator James A. Reed as Democratic candidate for president.

The form of instruction apparently was a compromise between Reed's friends and opponents of a "to the last ditch" stand for the former senator.

The convention unqualifiedly endorsed Reed "as Missouri's candidate" for president, but did not bind the delegates to stay with him until personally released, as was done four years ago.

TEXAN RALLIES DEMO FORCES FOR NEW LEVY

Speaker to Make Personal Appeal From Floor For Balanced Budget

INSURGENTS WARNED

Continued Market Declines Blamed on Failure Of House to Act

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP)—A ways and means subcommittee of the house in a four-hour session tonight completed drafting a series of substitutes for the $500,000,000 sales tax. This program will be laid before the full committee and reported to the house tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 28. (UP)—Speaker John N. Garner will resort tomorrow to a personal appeal from the floor of the house in a dramatic effort to restore order to the confused tax bill situation which has brought criticism upon him and his Democratic leadership.

The necessity of a strong guiding hand was further emphasized today when Democrats engaged in an open and bitter party row on the floor over tariff amendments inserted in the revenue bill by Democratic support.

Crisp Sounds Warning

This squabble reached the point where Representative Charles R. Crisp, Democrat, Georgia, the buffeted leader of the tax fight, frankly warned Democrats that they must get together, pointing ominously to the falling New York stock market. This was the first time this business argument had been used publicly to rally Democrats and remind them of their responsibility.

Crisp's warning and word that the Texas speaker, who secluded himself during the sales tax fight, would take the floor in a personal plea for party solidarity behind a program that would balance the budget, served immediately to sober Democratic forces.

Returning to consideration of the mutilated bill, the house promptly voted down amendments which would have changed it still further by broadening exemptions and permitting publicity at district internal revenue offices all over the country of the amount of tax payments.

Representative Fiorello LaGuardia, Republican, New York, one of the leaders in the coalition which wrecked the sales tax, was overwhelmingly bowled over, 123 to 18, on his proposed amendment for income tax publicity.

Insurgents Whipped

With even greater vengeance, the house pounced upon an amendment by Representative Wright Patman, Democrat, Texas, which would have restored present income tax exemptions of $1,500 and $3,500 in place of the $1,000 and $2,500 for single and married persons, respectively, now in the bill. The vote was 94 to 6.

The house also approved today the provision in the bill designed to prevent evasion of income taxes by

Toll of Tornadoes Climbs to Nine As Three States Report Fatalities

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 28. (AP)—Tornado's fury struck again in Alabama, Georgia and Texas yesterday, added nine names to the list of 362 persons it killed last week and scattered buildings over the countryside like so much straw.

The eastern storm killed seven in Alabama, where 298 perished in twisters a week ago tonight; one in Georgia, where 40 were killed last week, and claimed two lives in eastern Texas.

Governor Miller of Alabama telegraphed congressional representatives of that state today, saying local agencies cannot cope with the needs for rehabilitation work.

Relief Workers Busy

American Red Cross workers already were in the field in Georgia and Alabama following last week's storm and they, in cooperation with local agencies, formed groups of relief workers for the newly stricken areas.

Yesterday's storm in Alabama visited some of the communities where lives were lost in last week's twister. Austin Laurence, Perry

Pastor, Seized in Raid on Dance Hall, Says He Was There to 'Save Girls'

CHICAGO, March 28. (UP)—Fifty-six girls giggled in police court today while the Rev. Harry F. Maas blushingly told of what he saw during a "Night in Turkey" at the Clark-Erie Dancing academy before it was raided last Saturday night.

"The more they shake, the more they make," said the Rev. Mr. Maas, indicating the gigglers. Police said they found him and 310 other men watching the girls dance to the exotic tunes of a negro orchestra, members of which were dressed as Arabian shieks.

"The girls were dressed in sh. brassieres, and sh. shorts," said the minister, a graduate of Moody Bible institute and pastor of the Universal church. "I had been in the place three hours before police arrived."

"But why were you in this place?" demanded Attorney Ben Cohn. "For what specific organization were you investigating?"

"I was investigating for God," replied the Rev. Mr. Maas, dressed in black, tail and dignified of mein. "I had been in the place once before and had tried to show the girls the wrongness of their ways. That's what I was doing when the police came. I was just getting ready to call them when they arrived."

Judge McCarthy continued the disorderly conduct charges against the girls and three men until April 19 so that notes of the Rev. Mr. Maas' testimony could be transcribed.

GARNER LEADS BUDGET FIGHT

Speaker to Take Floor Today for Tax Levy

dumping of stocks at depreciated prices on the market at the end of the year.

Under this provision, stock market losses can be charged off only to the amount of gains in the same taxable year. For instance, if losses amount to $100,000 and gains to $10,000, the taxpayer can deduct only $10,000 from his income total. Under the present law, he can deduct $90,000.

The seriousness of the tax bill situation was demonstrated when both Democratic and Republican leaders held separate conferences looking to orderly procedure following adjournment of the house today. The Democratic chieftains met with Speaker Garner, while the Republican conference was held in the office of Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell, New York.

The ways and means subcommittee which is drafting a substitute for the $595,000,000 manufacturers sales tax also worked tonight to complete its program which will be presented to the full committee tomorrow.

This program, designed to fill the gap left by elimination of the sales tax, will be presented to the house, probably tomorrow, and will be taken up immediately.

New Bill Drawn

In his speech to the house Garner will urge support for this program in order to balance the budget.

"It has come to the point now where the worst kind of taxes are better than no taxes at all," the speaker said today in a talk with newspaper men. "The budget must be balanced."

"I advocated the sales tax because I thought it was the easiest way to work the matter out. It was a temporary measure. The house did not care for that kind of a tax. Unless the budget is balanced foreign exchange will be affected and I do not know what would happen. You would find the dollar would be depreciated."

House Democratic Floor Leader Henry T. Rainey, Illinois, served notice on the house today he would move to strike out the amendments to the surtax schedules by Representative Philip Swing, Republican, California, which would increase the maximum to 65 per cent on incomes over $5,000,000.

Muscular-Rheumatic Aches and Pains

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Distressing muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond pleasantly to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant," because it gets action and is not just a salve. Musterole helps bring soreness and pain to the surface, and thus gives natural relief. You can feel how its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy; jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Hicks and Jane Green were killed in Lawley, Ala., and G. M. Stubbs and a man named Pate lost their lives at Pleasant Grove. Two other members of the Laurence family, Ellen K. Laurence and her father, Walker Laurence, also were fatally injured.

The number of injured in Alabama was not estimated, but it was known it will run into the scores.

Negroes Die

In Georgia, Mrs. Harvey Lewis of Buchanan was fatally injured as a tornado destroyed houses in Haralson county. Reports to the Red Cross in Atlanta said 100 were injured in that county alone. The Georgia storm also struck Heard county, injuring three and destroying six houses. The loss in Coweta county, where the damage was less severe, was not estimated in reports to the Red Cross.

In Texas, Coy Herd, a negro farmer, and his baby were killed near the town of Clarksville. Twenty were injured in another tornado near Selman.

Three persons were hurt and seven houses were razed at Pattison, Miss., and some damage from wind, rain and hail was felt at Columbus, Grenada and Aberdeen in that state; Chattanooga, Tenn., and Zwolle, La.

DEATH CLAIMS OSAGE CHIEF

Baconrind Despite Riches Clung to Tribe Customs

PAWHUSKA, Okla., March 28. (UP)—Baconrind, 72-year-old Osage Indian chieftain who was one of the last of his tribe to cling to Indian dress and customs despite oil riches, is dead.

An illness of several weeks, believed due, in part, to his grief over the death of his daughter, Louise Baconrind, several months ago, caused the death of the "uncivilized chief of the Osages."

With his death, his tribe lost a valued leader, and Pawhuska lost a colorful figure who had come to be almost a "city institution."

Tall and erect, the old chief never wore the clothing of his white friends. His wardrobe was made up of Indian garments, costly and colorful. His invariable headgear was a cap of glossy otter skin.

Rich From Oil

Oil brought him a huge modern home and an expensive car, yet he preferred his Indian lodge, set up in his yard, and his horse to his car. He knew the English language, but never spoke it. A frequent guest at banquets, he always had with him an interpreter to repeat his speeches, translating them into English.

The chief was born on the Kansas plains, and he grew up a leader of his people. His Indian name was Wah-She-Hah. He became head of his band of Osages, and later would have been principal chief of the tribe had not he incurred the displeasure of a high government official. The Indian department refused to confirm his election to the post.

A great orator among the Indians he was always in demand. No wedding or funeral or tribal dance was complete without an address by Baconrind. In addition, he always participated, until a few years ago, in all Indian dances.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk by Mrs. Oneal

Worldwide respect and admiration for George Washington have been revealed as a result of the bicentennial observance, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, local chairman for the movement, told members of the Kiwanis club at the Wichita club Monday noon.

National brotherhood has been advanced materially through promotion of the Washington bicentennial celebration, Mrs. Oneal said. She told of the activities of the 200 bicentennial committees in Texas, and commented briefly on the fact that all foreign countries are a part of the observance.

Frank Buckingham of Kansas City, now on a tour of the country under DeMolay auspices as a speaker on "Soviet Russia," told of George Washington's influence in other countries. He was introduced by Al Ellis, recorder of Maskat temple.

Miss Harriett Bradley sang several solos, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker, pianist.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for itching, bleeding or protruding piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Allison's Drug store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles no matter how stubborn the case?—Adv.

Legion Urges Bonus Payment

Texas Chamber of Commerce," he said. "My office has received many communications from local chambers of commerce asserting they do not favor the W. T. C. C. tax committee's position. Our work is to make clear our stand on the certificate payment, and enlist in congress support of the Wright Patman bill."

Many Attend

More than a score of legion posts in this area were represented at the meeting. A delegate from each post served on the committee which drew up the resolution. The resolution, asserting the belief that the action of the W. T. C. C. tax committee does not express the sentiment of its contributing members, said:

"The plan as proposed by Congressman Wright Patman . . . for the issuance of two billion dollars in new currency against the adjusted compensation certificate due in 1945 does not in any way increase taxes and would serve as a stmulus to business, in that the putting into circulation of two billion dollars would increase the per capita wealth to the extent of approximately $16."

RAILROAD LOAN IRES SENATE

Bankers Got Half of M. P. Fund, Solons Told

WASHINGTON, March 28. (AP)—A railroad loan "reluctantly" approved by the Interstate Commerce commission stirred up a storm in the senate today and brought charges that pressure had been brought to bear upon the transportation tribunal.

Senators Couzens, Republican, Michigan, and Borah, Republican, Idaho, authors of the accusations, denounced the $12,800,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the Missouri Pacific railroad, $5,850,000 of which was intended for payments on notes held by New York banking houses.

Couzens to Speak

When Couzens, who is chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, said he would speak tomorrow on the results of an inquiry he is making, Senator Johnson, Republican, California, suggested that he discuss "government of, for and by the international bankers." Couzens replied:

"What I have in mind is not so much the international bankers as it is the Van Sweringens and the treasurer of the Republican national committee (J. R. Nutt of Cleveland) who have been more effective in this matter than the international bankers."

Borah brought up the subject, calling attention to the fact that nearly half the loan was to go to the bankers and noting that the commission had said it approved the advance with reluctance and "yielded its views" to those of the reconstruction corporation.

"I am informed that every form of pressure within reason and perhaps decency was used to bring about this decision on the part of the Interstate Commerce commission," Borah said. "I think an effort to control the commission in this way is worthy of note."

Loan Announced

Couzens observed that newspaper stories said at least one member of the Interstate Commerce commission was in conference with the railroad executives and the officers of the Reconstruction Finance corporation before the loan was agreed upon. "Senators may draw their own inference," he added.

The reconstruction corporation formally announced the loan today. In approving it last week the Interstate Commerce commission said the private loan to the railroad was held by the firms of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; and the Guaranty Trust company.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, joined in the discussion to express wonder that the Interstate Commerce committee had apparently disapproved the loan but had actually approved it.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Now what shall we write of on a beautiful Easter morning? Not so long ago, a gentleman, (one by the way whom we had never suspected of noting anything we did), asked "Well how are all the little birds and bees." We understood exactly what he meant, but answered "We know nothing of the bees, but we'd surely like to hear the birds again.

◇ ◇ ◇

This morning we heard a chorus of birds and in a yard in Country Club estates, we saw not only bees, but butterflies, swarming round two beautiful cherry trees laden with bloom. That was at the Fred Gates home on Harrison and we had stopped to see the red bud which brought warmth to our heart. We saw also crabapple trees in bloom and two little lilac bushes that came from Mrs. Gates' grandmother's garden, that were full of bud.

◇ ◇ ◇

Speaking of grandmother's gardens, no one in Wichita Falls seems to know the "sweet betsy"; it's proper botanical name is calycanthus; such a preposterous name for such a shrub! As a child we never hesitated to beg for the little tight brown petalled blossom that we tied in the corner of our hanky and sniffed in ecstasy. We loaned the hanky to others that they might sniff. The shrubs, tall as a lilac bush and with a thick green leaf, stayed a pretty green through the summer, and the little flowers grew early in the spring close along the branches. They might have been little trees from Heaven, and no odor on earth is like that of the "sweet betsy."

◇ ◇ ◇

Then there's the snowdrop. Mrs. James P. Bowen wore a cluster of the beautiful green tipped white bells to a luncheon lately, having plucked them from her own garden borders, and at the luncheon, there was much excitement over them.

◇ ◇ ◇

They grew in early, virginal beauty in the beloved grounds of an old Mississippi home we knew. It seems to us all bulbs and shrubs bloomed there, so many having been lovingly planted and tended by fair hands long since dust. The birds held a choir meeting each morning; but best of all were friends who lived there; friends proved true to the core.

◇ ◇ ◇

It was on a wide porch there that we learned to knit scarfs, proudly using our new needles and khaki wool all the way back to Memphis. Our genius was never developed beyond doing straight scarfs; but we did one for every man we knew overseas and we have often wondered what they did with the things.

◇ ◇ ◇

Bees, of which we have never been brave enough to write, were swarming with butterflies Monday morning round the cherry and the wild plum trees; you could hear the gentle droning of their flight. Butterflies always seem to follow so soon after the Easter season.

◇ ◇ ◇

We wish we knew enough of bees to write of them, but who would do so after having read Maeterlinck's "Life of the Bee"? The book is not only authority in many ways on bee characteristics; a great part of it is pure poetry.

First Presbyterian Women Have Joint Installation

Installation of officers featured the joint meeting of the Woman's Missionary and Lucy Hanseli societies of the First Presbyterian church, which followed the regular business sessions of each group. Miss Dorothy Dragon, educational director of the church, gave the officers their charge, pointing out their responsibility, and urging all to put first things, first—serving Christ, the church and society. She also charged the members, urging support, cooperation and service. Miss Dragon closed her talk with a prayer, after which the assembly sang o. verse of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The meeting was opened with a song, and with Mrs. E. T. Duff, the president, presiding and Mrs. Luke McCrory at the piano. Mrs. J. L. Blankenship of Los Angeles, offered prayer, after which Mrs. Ed Howard, treasurer of the society, gave her report for the year, showing splendid work had been done both in the home and foreign fields. Splendid reports were also given by chairmen of all committees.

Mrs. M. M. Garrett sang "My Jesus I Love Thee," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, after which Mrs. Duff introduced the incoming president, Mrs. B. L. Fain, who expressed her pleasure at being able to serve and outlined work for the coming year.

Officers installed in both societies included for the Woman's Missionary society: President, Mrs. B. L. Fain; first vice president, Mrs. J. D. Maddrey; second vice president, Mrs. E. T. Bicentennial Address Given At Floral Heights W.M.S.

A bicentennial address given by Mrs. Grover C. Johnson was the feature of the meeting of the Floral Heights Methodist Woman's Missionary society when members met at the church in the regular session Monday afternoon. Mrs. Johnson quoted Lincoln's observation of the first president, "Washington is the mightiest name of earth, long since mightiest in the cause of civil liberty; still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name no eulogy is expected."

A beautiful tribute was paid to the mother of George Washington and his boyhood home, now a national shrine, was cleverly described. Mrs. Johnson spoke of the old church at Alexandria where he worshiped. She stated that George Washington had been idealized into an almost godlike stature, but that he was a man who was undoubtedly the greatest personality of his and many succeeding days; that his actions and words and decisions were good, oftener than otherwise.

In an artistic word picture the speaker carried her audience from Wakefield to Mount Vernon; she named reverently Ann Pamela Cunningham, the savior of the shrine. The story of the work of this young girl from Charleston, S. C., was vividly told. Edward Everett was so impressed with her patriotism that he gave the $70,000 proceeds of a lecture to save Mount Vernon when it had been offered for sale by the owner. The last charge of Ann Pamela Cunningham to the members of the Mount Vernon association was that no vandal hand desecrate it with the changes of progress. Mrs. Johnson gave a beautiful description of Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Claypool presented Mrs. G. E. Laskey who gave the lesson topic "Sin and Redemption," stating that from the day of Hosea, until the present time there has been no one except Jesus who has had greater messages concerning redemption than this old prophet.

Mrs. Clapool expressed her appreciation for cooperation during this study and a vote of thanks was extended for her splendid leadership.

Mrs. J. O. Presley's circle led in attendance and guests were introduced.

Mrs. T. R. Boone gave the closing prayer.

Emily Post Writes On Girl-Boy Problems

By EMILY POST

Girl and Boy Problems

Of all the subjects that come within the unlimited range of good taste, the ones I like least to write about are the various questions of the properties between girls and boys. In the first place, circumstances differ, the personal equasion enters so much into each of these questions that I am sure I feel more like hedging than any hard-pressed politician ever could. For example here is a letter asking:

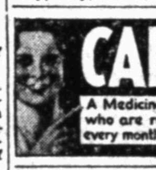

On experiencing an "embarrassing moment" with a young man on a bus (falling against him) is it proper to speak to him the days following?

What am I to say? If I hold up my hands and say, "Certainly not!" I am probably right and possibly you know I am right. But on the other hand, all depending upon you and him, it might be all right. If it is, you know it better than I. I only know what you tell me. I don't know anything about your attitude, or about his, and that is what really matters. Or, let us put it this way, "May stumbling into the arms of a strange young man serve as a proper introduction? The answer is "scarcely." But again, in how many thousands of stories have authors introduced their characters in some such way? And it would be all right if done one way in a hundred and all wrong if done in 99 others. Of these which applies to you?

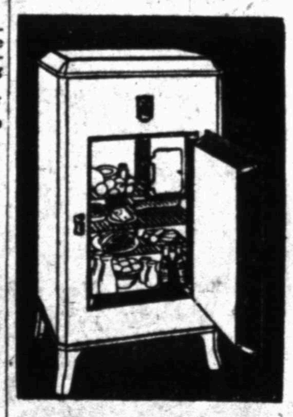

The next letter asks how a girl may suggest to a man visitor that it is time for him to go home.

In this day of candor it should be easy enough: Girl glances at watch or at clock and exclaims "Johnny! Do you know what time it is? It's after (whatever the time is). The chances are that he'll answer, "But that's not late!" And then you say, "It may not be late for you, but it's very, very, late for me!"

GIRL'S DEATH BRINGS PROBE

Coroner Holds to Verdict Of Suicide

EL DORADO, Ark., March 28. (UP)—Investigation of the death of Miss Jackie Ruth Youngblood, 20-year-old student at Magnolia Agricultural and Mechanical college, roused various theories among authorities today.

Irving Eddington, 28, hobo who Saturday confessed to attacking the girl and then throwing her body underneath a moving train, has repudiated his confession. Officers believe Eddington to be deranged. His story differs at each telling.

Officers have found all marks of identification were removed from the girl's clothing, traveling bag and personal effects. This fact, coupled with the revelation she had suddenly changed her plans and left the bus in which she was traveling, caused authorities to believe she removed the identification marks herself.

The engineer of the Missouri Pacific train which killed the girl said she deliberately placed her head upon the rails and awaited death.

Miss Youngblood was killed Friday evening, but her identity was not known until Saturday night. She will be buried today. She was the niece of A. D. Dulaney, state banking commission and a candidate for congress.

SALES CLIMB IN FEBRUARY

KANSAS CITY, March 28. (AP)—The tenth federal reserve district reported in its monthly statement today that February department store sales exceeded those for January, "contrary to the usual trend."

The dollar volume of sales in the district was reported at 16 per cent below that of February last year, "the smallest decrease from the corresponding month a year ago" since last July.

Wholesalers' sales for five representative lines increased 1.7 per cent in February over January.

Livestock prices fluctuated narrowly at low levels. Grains were lower. Eggs finished February at the lowest price in years. Butterfat was somewhat higher.

Heavy runs of hogs, skeep and wheat featured livestock and grain marketing.

MIRACLES OF SCIENCE SHOWN

Researchers Reveal Latest Discoveries at Meet

WEST CHESTER, Pa., March 28. (AP)—Like magicians pulling rabbits from hats, scientists revealed their latest research miracles at the eight annual session of the Pennsylvania Academy of Sciences at West Chester State Teachers college.

Silk said to be stronger than iron, produced from chemicals, and synthetic rubber more elastic than the real were among the exhibits of Dr. Elmer H. Kraemer of the Dupont experimental station at Wilmington, Del.

Dr. Kraemer predicted that chemical pots in that laboratory some day will yield "better and more beautiful plastic materials to supplant wood, metal and ceramic materials" in the making of statues, furniture and other articles.

Flowers grown at higher altitudes are richer and deeper in color than those of the lowlands was the discovery of Dr. John C. Johnson, dean of the science department at the teachers college. He forecast a day when florists will grow their blooms on mountain tops.

Discovery of the elusive chromosome called "X"—the minute mystery that turns an egg into a male or female—was announced by Robert T. Hance of the University of Pittsburgh. He said it has been found in pigeon eggs but that in the present stage of research scientists have to kill the eggs to find the chromosomes.

Dr. Max Trumper of Philadelphia said he has perfected an illuminating gas that would defeat suicide attempts. It is a combination of natural and manufactured gas with no carbon-monoxide, he said, and with greater heating power than the gas now used.

Don't let them count you out

A man is never whipped as long as he is physically fit—

If you don't feel your best when you awake in the morning... eager to eat... ready to go... you may be sure of one thing—the foundation of the "joy of living" is lacking. The reasonable answer is—

Build up your system—gain new strength

"A FEW MONTHS AGO overwork and worry caused me to neglect regular and proper eating... then unfortunately I caught a cold. It was not long that with the least exertion I felt exhausted—some days I was barely able to work—it began to look as if some disease was getting a foothold—I realized the importance of taking prompt precautionary measures.

"I couldn't afford hospital treatment or to go off to a health resort—my position was at stake... my family was dependent upon my earnings.

"I had sense enough to know that a 'lowered' blood count was the cause of my weakness and lack of resistance. Several of my friends had been benefited by taking S.S.S., and had suggested that I try it, too. Fortunately I did.

"Look at me now—I feel fine... my complexion was never better... I sleep like a child... and as for my appetite, I really enjoy my food and digest it with ease."

The reasonable way to health

Of course, it isn't fair to expect one to like work or to enjoy play when handicapped by a "lowered" blood count.

Without plenty of rich, red-blood-cells there could be no strong, sturdy men and healthy, beautiful women. Unquestionably you appreciate the fact that red-blood-cells play a dominant role in maintaining health... and that dangerous consequences often follow the neglect of a lowered blood count.

It is very usual for a lowered red-blood-cell count to symptom itself in pallor of the skin, lessened vitality, boils, pimples, or other skin disorders, and in a general lack of bodily resistance to fatigue or disease.

In times like these you can't afford to be laid up... neither can you afford to be a "flop" at 4 o'clock.

S.S.S. gives New Strength

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—this long established medicine acts by stimulating the secretions of the stomach... reviving the appetite... aiding digestion... regenerating hemoglobin... restoring the red-blood-cells—and builds greater resistance against infection and disease.

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one-half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

A distinctive thing about S.S.S. is that it is made from fresh roots, barks and herbs... it is readily absorbed by the system. Another thing is that its efficiency has been proved by scientific tests and by its use for more than 100 years. It is a safe Tonic to take.

S. S. S. is an economical way to health. Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks' treatment. It may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

Did you ever write a letter to Frederic J. Haskin? You can ask him any question of fact and get the answer in a personal letter. Q.—Is the song "Funiculi, Funicula," from an opera?—A. K.

A.—It is not. It is an old Italian street song.

Q.—When did the United States adopt standard time?—J. M. L.

A.—It was adopted in 1883, on the initiative of the American Railway association. At noon of Nov. 18, 1883, the telegraphic time signals sent out daily from the naval observatory at Washington, D. C., were changed to the new system, according to which the meridians of 75 degrees, 90 degrees, 105 degrees and 120 degrees west from Greenwhich became the time meridians of eastern, central, mountain and Pacific standard time, respectively.

Q.—What part of the money spent at race tracks in Florida goes to the state?—W. E. D.

A.—The state gets 3 per cent of all bets made through pari mutuel machines at dog and horse races, and 15 per cent on admission and license fees. This season it is estimated that the state will net at least $475,000.

Q.—Is there a river which sometimes flows in one direction and at others flows in the opposite direction?—W. A. E.

A.—A stream known as the Cassquiare canal does so. This is a natural waterway which, varying with the rain, flows now into the Orinoco basin, now into that of the Amazon. At the flood tide of the Amazon it flows into the Orinoco, while at the flood tide of the Orinoco it flows into the Amazon.

Q.—What was the War Finance corporation?—P. G. H.

A.—The War Finance corporation, created during the world war, was set up as a war emergency measure. Advances were made out of its $500,000,000 revolving fund to industries classed as essential to the conduct of the war and to producers of food. Interest was negotiated on the basis of each loan. The corporation has been liquidated.

Q.—What became of the redwood stump which was in the grounds of the department of agriculture in Washington, D. C.?—C. A. C.

A.—This is the stump of a giant redwood tree. It has been removed to Arlington Farms, Va. The stump was first exhibited at the Columbian exposition in Chicago.

Q.—What is Italy's plan for giving popular training in the sciences?—G. S.

A.—The institution of a free popular school in Italy desires to popularize the most reliable conclusions of science and make them accessible to those who have not received a special scientific training. Rome and Bologna took up this movement almost contemporaneously. In upper Italy there are four of these institutions in Piedmont and Liguria, seven in Lombardy, five in Venetia, and one in Naples.

Q.—How many of the gasoline filling stations are operated by chains?—N. L. K.

A.—Of the total number 124,000 filling stations, 30,038 are operated by chains, including those chains controlled by oil companies.

Q.—Who built the palace of Versailles?—G. S.

A.—The palace is mostly the work of Louis XIV. It consists of a central block surrounding the three sides of a large court and of two immense wings each enclosing two or more courts. The total length of the building with its dependencies is nearly one-half mile. It houses a picture gallery upon which alone Louis XIV spent five million dollars.

The Record News Offers Booklet, Moths in Upholstered Furniture

Loss due to the infestation of upholstered furniture by moths is widespread and amounts to millions of dollars every year. Most of the losses, say the government experts who prepared this booklet, are due to neglect or lack of information, and if all housewives were well-informed could be prevented.

And the effective time to fight moths is before they get into the expensive tapestries or mohairs of your furniture. After that it becomes a matter of checking damage and eradicating the pests. This booklet, elaborately illustrated, gives full details of preventive and control measures.

Ten cents in coin or stamps to cover handling and postage will bring a copy to any address. Use this coupon.

A Plea for 50,000 Children

THERE are 50,000 school children in America who can't see nearly as well as they should see, according to an announcement made recently by Lewis H. Carris, the managing director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

This figure in itself may not sound so startling. But the fact that only 4,000 of this group are receiving special instruction is appalling. It means that 46,000 boys and girls are sitting in classrooms, trying to compete in a race in which they are handicapped at the start. They are probably being called stupid in a good many instances when their eyes, not their intellects, are at fault.

Children themselves do not always know what is wrong. They have no way of knowing why the boy across the aisle understands exactly where the teacher is pointing when she turns to the colored map that hangs on the wall. To the children with defective eyesight the map is a pink and green blur.

They don't know why other children complete the answers so quickly when the instructor places a list of printed questions in front of the class.

Now and then a child will discover that the blackboard is moving farther and farther away. The words in his textbooks are growing smaller and smaller. When that occurs, he has a strange, startled sense of fright. He is afraid that he is going blind.

But he won't say the hated word out loud. He thinks that if he keeps the secret to himself maybe it won't happen. So he locks it up in a sensitive, misunderstood, little heart.

There are 14 states in the United States that are providing special instruction for children whose eyes are defective. They are placing lamps in the darkness. But in the other 34 states, the handicapped children go stumbling along the same road the others take, faltering, of course, and wondering why they can't keep up.

The amount of added expense required for special instruction in such instances is just a farthing compared to the human anguish that a child with defective eyesight can suffer. Furthermore, his mental and spiritual visions are quite likely to become as blurred as his physical sight, if his "lagging" continues.

Our Income Taxes

ADVOCATES of the sales tax insist that if their plan is not adopted the income tax rates will have to be jacked up very substantially. The inference is that those rates are already about as high as they well can be, and that to raise them much more would be to tax the ordinary citizen out of house and home.

In view of this, a comparison of American income tax rates with the rates in force in other countries is interesting.

In the United States, a married man with one child and an income of $2,000 a year now pays no tax at all. What would he pay elsewhere?

In Germany he would pay $215 a year. In Italy he would pay $218. In France he would pay $104. In England he would pay $63.

How about the higher brackets? An American earning $10,000 a year now pays $123; in England he would pay $1,800. On a $100,000 income, the American pays $16,245; in England he would pay $48,000.

Our rates, apparently, could be a little bit higher.

Trees and Floods

WRITING in the Journal of Forestry, Congressman Scott Leavitt of Montana appeals for a national survey to find out just what a vegetative cover on the drainage area of the nation's streams could do to stop losses from floods and soil erosion. He has introduced in congress a bill providing for such a survey, and it deserves support.

Deforested areas lose their sole much more rapidly than places where there is a good growth of timber—which means a steady depletion of our agricultural resources. Even more important, perhaps, is the fact that much more water drains off of land from which trees have been removed. A thoroughgoing reforestation program in the Mississippi basin, for instance, would undoubtedly help cut down that river's recurrent floods.

It would be a good thing for the nation to find out just what needs to be done to remedy this situation.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE SINGLE-LETTERED CASTLE—The castle, of "O" in the village of "O," about 10 miles from Argentan, France, was formerly the seat of the great Norman family whose name was a single letter, "O." The O made their mark in French history ever since the first crusade. A famous member of this family was the Marquis of O who was finance minister of France under King Henry III. The king appointed O to this position for the singular reason that O was the most dissolute and extravagant man in France.

THE MOST FORTUNATE PARENT—Mr. A. D. Lampson of Ellington, N. Y., age 88, is a most fortunate parent in that he was granted the unusual distinction of having participated in the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of one of his children. The "golden newlyweds" are Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Bacon, and their golden wedding was recently celebrated at Garretsville, Ohio, when five generations of the Lampson family were present. The same clergyman officiated at both functions. The golden bride, who is now 66 years old, was married at the age of 16. Mr. Lampson's unusual privilege almost rivals that of the German duke who celebrated two golden weddings in succession with two successive wives at an interval of 50 years, as featured in the "Believe It or Not" series some time ago.

The Story of an Unemployed Girl

By ETHELDA BEDFORD, Author of "BROADWAY BRIDE"

"Let have a little talk first."

READ THIS FIRST

Lillian Abbott, 18-year-old sub-deb, raised in severe New England atmosphere decides she wants a career and answers an ad in a New York paper calling for girls to be trained for the movies. She secures a personal interview with Thomas Blane, head of the movie school company, at her home in Salem, Mass., and arranges to go with him to New York without notifying her parents and after drawing her savings, $2,000, from the bank. They arrive in New York and Blane takes her to an obscure hotel and enters her room with her.

Lillian removes her coat, hat and gloves, and Blane, seeing a diamond on her finger, takes it for safe keeping.

Then he attempts to give her a drink from his flask. Lillian refuses. From the window she can see the electric signs being turned on in the streets and is wondering where her career will take her when she turns and finds Blane close behind her, his arms outstretched.

He had turned on the radio and together they danced about the room. When they finish Lillian asks him to take her out that she may see Broadway at night, but he evades the question and attempts to make love to her. As he reaches for her she snaps on the light switch.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER 10

They were alone. They were in New York, a place many people in Salem called "the wickedest city in the world."

"Anything can happen in New York," they said. Maybe they were right. Lillian began to tremble.

The little village of Salem, Massachusetts, seemed a million miles from New York right then. For the first time it seemed a desirable place. There no man would have managed to get Lillian Abbott in his hotel room—well, it was Lillian's hotel room, but it still seemed as if it were Thomas Blane's.

There no man would expect you to kiss him the first time you were alone with him—when you were out of earshot of servants, or your parents were not in the same house, anyway.

Lillian had set out for life. Well, if this was life in New York it was different from what she had imagined. It was different from anything that had ever happened to her before.

Blane asked, his voice low and his eyes narrowing: "Aren't you going to kiss me?"

He demanded it, Lillian realized.

When he had asked her that in the twilight, when the melody of the radio was in the room and she tingled from the warmth of his body swaying with hers in their dance—when he had asked her then she wondered if she could resist.

But now, with the lights on, with the excited look in his eyes, all desire left her.

She was afraid of this tall, sleek-haired man. His fingers were like iron hooks on her arms. His breath burned against her face and compelled her to jerk away from his hold.

He followed her. It seemed that where ever she went in that room he need take but one long stride to reach her side.

"Listen, pretty thing," he said, his voice becoming quite smooth with persuasion. "Come here—come here to me—"

"Blane—Blane, go 'way—"

He laughed. His face lost some of its color.

"Why, Lillian, little sweetheart, why you—you're—"

"Please! Blane, don't don't touch me. I—I—"

"Why, girlie. You're being silly."

"Am I? I—I guess I am. . . Oh, I'm all right." She realized she was suddenly pretending a claim she did not feel.

"Certainly you are. Now, look here. Come over here and sit down. You're . . . why, you're a sight!"

Lillian guessed she was. She didn't care. She had to think. What was she to do? She had been in a room with a wild man a few minutes before. Wild! His arms were long and when they were around her she thought they might have crushed her. She would have been powerless. His breath had scorched her face and her neck, where once his lips brushed. His fingers bore into her soft arms.

She turned to the mirror and went through a series of little meaningless gestures, straightening her hair, powdering her nose. She hoped Blane did not notice that her hands shook. He was seated on the side of the bed. He was smoking a cigaret. He laughed a little as their eyes met in the mirror.

"Come over here, pretty thing," he said, patting the counterpane. "Sit by Blane. Want me to tell you something?"

"Wait until I—I freshen up a bit," she said, making an effort to sound unruffled, as if nothing had happened. She was thankful that she thought of going into the bathroom to wash her hands. She said: "Be back in a second," and disappeared through the door.

She was grateful for the noise of the running water in the wash basin. It seemed to drown out the sound of her hammering heart.

"I mustn't be frightened," she repeated again and again to herself. "I've got to think. I've got to do something—what?"

What did a girl do in New York—alone in a hotel room with a man? A nice girl? Lillian tried to recall stories she had read. In stories, and movies, the nice girls usually found a safe way out of the tangles. That was a little consoling. Would she?

Blane interrupted with: "Say—hey there! Are you taking a bath, girlie?"

She turned off the flowing faucet.

"Be right out," she answered. She came out, pressing a small fresh towel to her hands which she had been too frightened and excited to rinse.

He still sat on the bed. He had finished smoking his cigaret and blotted a small charred bit of it on a glass ash tray on the table.

She realized he had not been sitting on the bed all the while she had been in the bathroom, because now he sat at the other end of the bed, leaning against a pillow.

She noticed, too, that his overcoat and hat lay on a chair near the door, and for some reason or other she knew that the chair or the coat and hat had not been there when she had gone out of the room.

"Oh," she said, "are we going out?"

"Well," he answered, "maybe. Wanna go out?"

"Yes—why, yes—"

"All right," he said, making himself more comfortable against the pillow he had been leaning against. "I'll get on my things, then." Lillian said, starting toward the bureau where her hat lay.

"Come over here and talk to me first," Blane said. "Come on, sit here by me, Lillian."

Her heart bounced up in her throat again.

"Oh—I—I thought you said we were going out, now—" she picked up her hat.

"We'll got out, all right. But, let's have a little talk first—don't you think we better have a little talk, Lillian?"

"We can talk—talk after dinner . . . or let's have a nice long talk during dinner—" she tried to sound light.

"Sure—we'll do that. But—come here, Lillian. Sit down here a minute—"

"No—no, I—I don't want to sit down."

Blane thought that amusing. He smiled and raised his brows a trifle. A forefinger and thumb of his right hand found a wisp of his mustache and toyed with it.

"My God!" he said, shaking his head. "What's eating you? Say, you're acting like you're four instead of 14."

Fourteen! He was just being mean. He knew she had told him she was 18.

Well, maybe she was being hicklish. What if she were judging him all wrong. Maybe she was a little nervous, excited about running away from home. That must be it.

She turned to him and smiled.

He lighted another cigaret. She noticed how skillfully he manipulated the match, cupping the flame in his large hand.

"Say, girlie. You think . . . you think a lot of funny things. Better get those out of your head."

Maybe he was right. She put her hat back on the bureau and crossed over to the bed near him. She dropped down beside him. He just looked at her calmly, lowering his lids a little and taking a puff of his cigaret now and then.

Once he blew some smoke right in her face. He did it intentionally and Lillian put her hand to her eyes. It was just as if he had told her she was a green little hick and he had completely lost interest in her. She had acted all wrong.

Lillian couldn't keep back tears. Perhaps he would think they were from the smoke. They really were, weren't they.

But Blane knew better. And to right the wrong he put his arm about her, ever so tenderly.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Interwoven with general debate in the house on the sales tax was a very striking picture of what the ways and means committee went through before it surrendered to the dire necessity of balancing the budget by that way.

Here was a committee composed of 25 house veterans. The aggregate of their house experience totals up something like four centuries. Only two of them, the freshmen of the group, fall below a decade in the house and they have been there respectively six and eight years.

From that they mount up through 10, a dozen, 18, 20, 24, 26 to snowy-headed Henry Rainey's 28 years in congress and his boast in the house that "no living man in the United States has helped draft as many tax bills as I have."

There was nothing those 25 men did not know of political consequences. All have been through a harshly practical school.

All, without exception, entered upon drafting that revenue measure believing themselves relentlessly opposed forever on principle to the sales tax.

"Stubborn Men"

Yet within two months they laid a bill founded upon that theory of a revenue-raising before the house, a solid committee front supporting it, with a single exception, regardless of party lines or political philosophy.

"On this jury, there are 24 stubborn men; that is all," was the way Rainey whimsically referred to that one differing view of the urgency of the case.

What must that committee struggle have been like to have switched these 24 hard-headed house veterans to the sales tax? Hill of Washington described it as "a veritable Gethsemane for eight weeks."

Incidentally, Rainey, talking in that easy, conversational Rainey fashion to a house that listened to him attentively and without interruption for more than an hour, despite the flaming opposition to the sales tax that had developed, delved into those long years of tax bill-making to draw a picture for his colleagues of lobbyists, new and old style.

Time was, Rainey said, back in that dim past when he first came to congress, when lobbyists were welcome visitors on Capitol hill.

"I was glad to see a lobbyist come into my office," he said. "They were men who understood their subject. They presented facts and figures that saved hours of time.

String Pullers

"But that class of intelligent, helpful lobbyist has disappeared. Now invisible lobbyists take their place. You never see them. . . . They sit back in their offices and smile as they pull the strings that make you gentlemen jump. You do not know who is pulling the strings.

With his nearly triple decade of tax and tariff committee service, Henry Rainey probably knows about as much as anybody as to lobbying methods in Washington. His is the voice of experience.

Heath and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"
By DR. FRANK McCOY

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Curing Colitis

Mucous colitis cannot be cured quickly by any known method. However, the proper treatment will always secure a large measure of relief. Any treatment which brings permanent success must be prolonged and you must expect it to bring about a complete cure.

The first step in overcoming this trouble is the use of the short fruit juice fast. The freedom from fibrous foods will give the inflamed colon a chance to rest and heal. The fast will have an additional beneficial effect through the fact that it helps to overcome the tendency to secrete abnormal amounts of mucus. For this purpose, the best fast which I could possibly recommend would be that which I have outlined for use in all catarrhal diseases where unusual amounts of mucus are present. This fasting and dieting regimen will be sent to you in return for a large, self-addressed envelope and a loose two-cent stamp. Ask for the Mucus Cleansing Diet and send me your letters in care of this paper.

Fasting and Enemas

During the fast you are to be very strict about using the enema at least once a day. The enema is invaluable for this trouble and offers immediate relief from the distressing symptoms. In some cases of severe colitis it is helpful to use the two-quart enema with water as hot as can be borne, adding to each quart of water one tablespoonful of baking soda as this has been found soothing to the irritated membrane.

The patient should not exercise while fasting, but should take as much rest as possible, especially where there is tenderness and tenseness through the abdomen. The use of heat in some form, through the hot water bottle, hot towels, or the electric pad, will often prove of value as it causes the cramped muscles to relax and soothes away the soreness.

Diet After the Fast

After the fast the patient must begin on a diet similar to that given in the last of the Cleansing Diet and should avoid bread, milk, potatoes, rice, macaroni and other starchy foods. He may find it necessary to continue with the enema for a time.

In my experience the use of the fast in the beginning of the treatment will remove most of the inflammation and thereafter the patient will find himself able to go on a diet similar to the one I have outlined, with perfect success in every respect. I do not find it necessary to advise the use of pureed, or strained, foods after the fast. By using the fast to clear up the inflammation the patient will generally find that he can handle the fruits and vegetables without being strained or put through a colander. Such a diet as I advise has the added benefit of being helpful in overcoming the constipated condition and in helping to restore normal bowel tone.

Where the patient seems to find it advisable to add any form of bulk to the diet I would suggest that he might temporarily employ agar-agar with benefit. This provides a bland, non-irritating, bulk which does not harm the most sensitive intestine. Patients with colitis should avoid pure bran. These patients should use the utmost care with their food combinations in order to avoid flatulence.

The cultivation of better emotional habits is of great value. Any type of emotional strain retards the cure while every constructive mental effort will help the patient that much farther along the road to recovery.

The above instructions will restore the colon to normal in practically every case. In the majority of cases the cure will take time but will end in making the patient feel even better than he did before he developed the colitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Sunbaths

Question—"Sunkist" asks: "In taking sunbaths, is the benefit greater in hot weather or in the middle of the day when the sun is hottest, or does it make any difference? Also state whether one continues to be benefited after the skin has become quite brown."

Answer—The air of the morning about 10 to 12 o'clock is fresher and has not become so heated by the sun's rays and still there is about as much ultra-violet effect at this time as later on in the day when the heat rays accumulate. You will continue to be benefited from these sunbaths even though the skin becomes brown, although it takes increasingly longer exposures to get the same effect upon the blood.

Any Wonder

Question—Mrs. I. Q. writes: "I am very much overweight and, after eating my dinner at night, I can hardly keep my eyes open and would like to know why this happens. I drink a couple of cups of a warm drink and eat lots of bread and am very fond of sweets, so please let me know what to do about same."

Answer—Try cutting out the beverage, bread and sweets and reduce all of your other foods to about one-third of what you are now using.

Spanish Bayonet

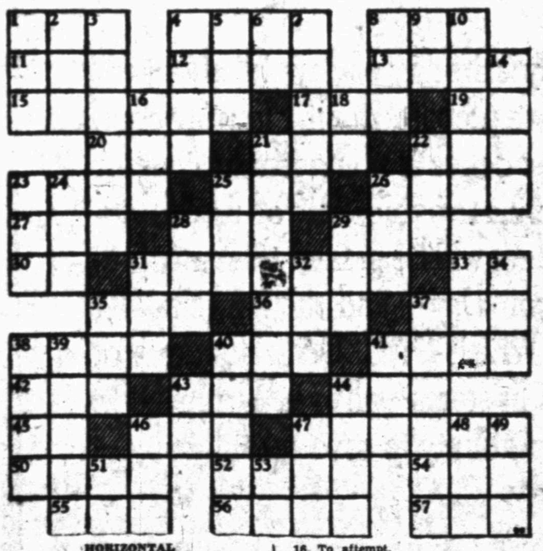

Question—M. M. asks: "Has the Spanish Bayonet so frequently found in our western states any food value?"

Answer—The Indians frequently used the Spanish Bayonet or Yucca for food. The immature flower stalk when baked and dried has a sweetish pleasing flavor. The seed pods while still green may also be cooked in a manner similar to apple recipes.

SQUAD CUT AS SEVEREID SHIFTS ATTENTION TO REGULARS

FIVE ROOKIES ARE RELEASED

'Inside' Baseball Stressed By Skipper

The carnival of ivory entered the last act down at Athletic park Monday, with indications that only the more polished variety will snooze peacefully the next two weeks, confident they will have a job the next day.

Five rookies were released at the conclusion of the first workout in which attention has been paid to "inside" baseball. In thus starting off the week by drilling the regulars in the finer points of the game, Manager Severeid indicated he would devote most of the time from now on to preparing a team suitable to enter the Texas league race on April 13. Previously those players counted on as starters have been in the background, going through routine conditioning, while the younger aspirants received the undivided attention of Manager Severeid.

Levey Released

Those released yesterday were Jerry Levey, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Harry Saller, St. Louis, Mo.; Donald Bass, Long Island, N. Y.; Charles Alfrey, Granite City, Ill.; and Doyle Taylor, Richmond, Calif. All except Levey are pitchers.

Levey, Jim's little brother, is a talented infielder, but as yet lacks many of the qualities necessary to a class A performer. More experience probably would bring the youngster around, but Levey, like many another promising young player, could not be kept on the pay roll owing to the Browns' limited farm system.

Of the pitchers released, all were strangers here except Doyle Taylor, who for the second successive year failed to impress the Spudder powers to the extent of landing a contract.

Columbus Series Doubtful

Owing to a hitch in plans for a three-game series here starting Wednesday with the Columbus Red Wings of the American association, Severeid was uncertain about today's training camp program.

An epidemic of flu and injuries among the Red Wings, who are training at Houston, makes the chances for the Wichita Falls series remote, but efforts are being made to get at least one game. Larry McPhail, president of the Columbus club, told Secretary Airey over long distance telephone Monday morning that five Columbus players were in a Houston hospital with the flu and that two more were injured in a Sunday exhibition game.

It had been planned to split the Columbus squad, and send one team against the Spudders while another played the Cats at Fort Worth the same day.

Airey said Columbus officials were making an effort to give Wichita Falls one of the three games scheduled for Fort Worth. If they are successful, the game will be played here either Wednesday or Friday.

Saturday and Sunday the Spudders meet the Saints of St. Paul here.

Fine Points Stressed

Severeid yesterday passed the word around that his regulars this year will be expected to be alert at catching signals. For the first time since camp opened, the regulars were instructed in batting and baserunning signals and other fine points of the game as the skipper delved into the serious business of getting a Texas league entry in shape. The "inside" stuff was discussed and demonstrated during Monday morning's batting drill. The players ran the bases as in a regulation contest, plays were completed in the orthodox manner, and pitchers were given an opportunity to practice fielding bunts, throwing to the bases, and holding runners on bases.

One of the most promising developments of the day was the improvement noticed in Floyd Isekite's throwing arm. The Washington state southpaw took a turn on the mound during the recent cold spell and has been handicapped by a painfully sore arm ever since. The ailing member has not yet returned to form, but Isekite said Monday it felt a little better and that he hoped to be in shape in a few days. Isekite pitched a short while in yesterday's batting practice, showing far more control than he had previously.

Gilbert Hall, Canadian indoor singles champion. The draw was made this afternoon.

Vines is seeded No. 1 in the tournament; Lott is seeded No. 2, Allison No. 3; Hall No. 4; Junior Coen of Kansas City, No. 5.

Japs to Be Major Contender For Team Championship in Olympics

By MAXWELL STILES

(Copyright, 1932 by Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service, Inc.)

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—Japan, for the first time in the long history of this ancient and honorable nation, this summer will be a major contender for the unofficial team championship. (There is no official team award) in the international Olympic games. Japan will send to Los Angeles not only the biggest foreign contingent of athletes, but probably the greatest number of "rooters," of any competing country.

With plans now definitely completed to bring to Los Angeles approximately 150 athletes, 50 officials and more than 1,000 supporters of Japan's athletes, the extrordinary program scheduled by the Land of the Rising Sun is staggering. Japan is America's foremost rival in swimming, and at this writing there are many experts who predict that Japan will win.

Enter Other Sports

Dr. Ken Nakazawa, enterprising Olympic attache for Japan in Los Angeles, is authority for the statement that in addition to track and field and swimming for both men and women, his native land will compete in the following sports: Rowing, equestrian sports, boxing, catch-as-catch-can wrestling, gymnastics, field hockey, water polo, fine arts.

Despite the strong team that will be entered by the United States, Japan confidently expects to win the unofficial team championship in swimming. Under the unofficial scoring system women's points will be added to those scored by the men, and because of the strength of American feminine natators and divers coaches in this country believe that the United States will be able to amass enough points to defeat Japan.

Former Champ Returns

In Mikado, Oda and Chuhei Nambu the Japanese Olympic team has two men who on their 1931 performances must be favored to win the hop, step and jump and the running broad jump respectively. A third Japanese jumper, Oshima, appears to be headed for second place behind Odo in the hop, step and jump.

Oda won the 1928 Olympic championship with a mark of 49 feet 10 13-16 inches, a mark which he increased in 1931 to a new world record of 51 feet 1¼ inches. Oshima leaped 50 feet 7 4-5 inches in 1931, with Nambu doing 49 feet, 3 inches.

On the same day that saw the creation of a new world standard in the "tri-jump," Hambu, a graduate of Waseda university and, like Oda, a present member of the Naniwa Athletic club at Osaka, catapaulted himself to a new world record of 26 feet, 2⅛ inches for the running broad jump. This was two inches better than the present accepted world mark of Sylvio Cator of Haiti.

Favored Nation

Thus Japan is the favored nation to win the broad jump and the hop, step and jump. Japan also has a fine chance in the 100 and 200 meters, the marathon, the high jump and the pole vault. A Japanese javelin thrower who has bettered 217 feet may place.

All Nippon believe that its national hero, Ryutoku Yoshioka, who ran 100 meters in 10.5 seconds last year, will prove fast enough to defeat Frank Wykoff, Eddie Tolan and company in the Olympic 100 meters. Yoshioka defeated George Simpson, one of the United States' best sprinters, last year.

Seije Takahashi, Kin, Seichiro Tsuda and at least four other Japanese are in the front rank of the world's marathoners.

Japan's women's team was hit a blow with the death of Miss Kinoye Hitomi, rated the best all-around woman athlete in the world. But Japan has other fine women athletes who expect to make a good showing in Los Angeles.

NEARBY TOWNS BACK SPUDDERS

Team Boosters Honored At Banquet Here

Spudderville's neighbors in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma pledged their cooperation in making the 1932 baseball season here a successful one from the standpoint of attendance, and Spudder officials promised to make it a successful one from the standpoint of winning games, at a banquet at the Wichita club last night.

The banquet honored representatives of surrounding towns, and President L. C. McEvoy of the Spudders, and was sponsored by the Support the Spudders campaign committee of the chamber of commerce, in conjunction with the Out-of-Town Attendance committee of the same organization. Dr. Everett Jones, chairman of the first named committee, presided.

Representatives from about 15 towns in this vicinity were present and each was called upon for a brief speech. Each pledged his home town's loyalty to the Spudder cause, claiming the Spudders belonged "to all of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma," and not merely to Wichita Falls. Those towns not represented at the banquet wired their regrets.

President McEvoy, in the principal address of the evening, asserted the Spudders have a winning team at Athletic park right now, made up of excellent young material obtained on the recommendation of competent scouts.

"But should our expectations fail to materialize," Mr. McEvoy said, "fans of this section may rest assured that whatever help is needed will be provided either by the Browns or the Milwaukee Brewers. We are determined to have a winner here this year."

Mr. McEvoy's contention that a winning team is already here was borne out by Ray Cahill, veteran scout of the Browns, who made an entertaining address. In his characteristic manner, Cahill, a former catcher and one of baseball's veterans, "sized up" the talent at Spudder park and compared it with other Texas league teams, with which he is thoroughly familiar as the result of years of scouting in this part of baseball's domain.

Manager Hank Severeid and Guy Airey, club secretary, also made talks. Skipper Hank repeated the assurances of McEvoy and Cahill that Wichita Falls this year will have a "scrapping, hustling" team.

Walter Cline also made a few remarks.

Among those towns represented were Iowa Park, Henrietta, Archer City, Burkburnett, Temple, Okla., Frederick, Okla., Graham, Olney, Seymour, Munday, Vernon, Quanah, Paducah, and several others.

SPUDDER FANS

Munday Ready to Send Its Quota to First Game Here

Special to The Record News.

MUNDAY, Texas, March 28.—Munday will be well represented, vocally and numerically, whenever "our Spudders" pry the lid from the approaching Texas league season at Wichita Falls, if the expressions of a baseball loving populace here are borne out.

It is not an unusual occurrence as the opening of the season nears for engagements to be made here with the provision that they will not be kept if they should conflict with the Texas league season opening in Wichita Falls.

Incidentally, Munday probably might be taken as a typical example of the value of the Spudders as an attraction to Wichita Falls. Some of the fans at a curbstone session here figured that the Spudders derived no fewer than 800 admissions from this one little town last season.

Sooners Deny Waldorf Has Cinch on Grid Job

NORMAN, Okla., March 28. (AP)—The powers that be in Oklahoma university athletic circles hastened today to deny a report that the position of head football coach is in the bag for Lynn Waldorf, Oklahoma A. & M. mentor.

Ben Owen, director of athletics, said "he's being considered but it isn't all cut and dried for him."

WOMEN GOLF LEADERS TIE

Midwesterners Share Medal Honors in Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28. (AP)—Two midwestern stars, Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, and Mrs. Charles R. Harbaugh, Cleveland, kept their shots straight in the face of a driving wind here today and tied at 85 each for the medal in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual women's North and South golf tournament.

These campaigners put together their rounds in identical fashion, 41-44, and were a stroke better than Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., and Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., and two shots better than Margaret Maddox, Atlanta.

After the leaders, three were tied with 88's for sixth place. They were Mrs. Leo Federman, New York; Mrs. E. F. Eaton Jr., Boston; and Mrs. J. D. Chapman, Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth, Oakmont, Pa., had an 89, while bracketed at 90 were Mrs. J. J. Lawlor, New Rochelle, N. Y., and Jeannette Hunter, Pittsburgh, and Betty Abernethy, Pittsburgh.

More than 90 players were entered and five divisions will begin match play tomorrow.

Great Supporting Cast Entered In Track Classic at Churchill Downs

(This is a second story dealing with the outstanding three-year olds of the turf.)

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, March 28. (AP)—With Top Flight and Tick On selected to play the leads in the drama of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 7, eastern horsemen have named five of their most promising three-year olds for the supporting cast.

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Sweeping Light, William Woodward's Faireno, Victor Emanuel's Morfair, Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman's On Post and C. H. Pierce's War Plane feature in the Derby picture on the basis of at least one outstanding 2-year-old races.

Faireno, a 30 to 1 shot in the future books, faces the rich Kentucky stake with a juvenile record only a little less imposing than the two-year old record of Gallant Fox, Woodward's three-year old champion two years ago. Faireno won six of his 16 starts and $17,670, only $3,000 short of the Fox's 2-year-old earnings.

Sweeping Light acted green in the majority of his eight races, but his high turn of speed shown in winning the Champagne stakes at Belmont park and running second to Tick On in the $50,000 hopeful indicated he might prove to be a stayer.

Mairfair, a son of Morvich, was fourth on the juvenile money winning list, accounting for $25,400 in his 11 trips to the post. Racing first for Benjamin Block and then Victor Emanuel, the colt won five of his starts, was second three times and third once.

Morfair's major victory was in the United States hotel stakes at Saratoga—a race in which he led home such good colts as W. R. Coe's Osculator and Tick On. He traveled west for the post and paddock at Arlington Park and gave Burning Blaze a great battle before finishing second. He was third, three lengths behind Top Flight, in the $100,000 Belmont park futurity.

In On Post, Mrs. Kaufman has a worthy running mate for her ace, Tick On. He won the Walden and one other race in four starts. He ran the one and one-sixteenth miles of the Walden in the fast time of 1:45 2-5, only a second slower than the track record at Pimlico. Quoted at 40 to 1, he is the "dark horse" of the derby field.

War Plane was one of the busiest of the 1931 two-year olds, starting in 18 races. He won five of his starts showing speed to burn at Bowie's fall meeting. He is quoted at 50 to 1 in the future books.

Yanks Pick Florida For Spring Training in '33

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28. (UP)—The New York Yankees today closed a contract to return here for training next spring, thus ending rumors that the big gates which exhibition games are reported drawing in California would lure the Yanks away from the spot where they have trained for the last eight seasons.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW
KANSAS CITY, March 28. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle receipts at 11 markets for the opening session of the week approximated 53,500 as compared with 48,456 last Monday and 48,099 for the same day a year ago. Trade on most killing classes was slow at prices unevenly steady to 25c lower, the big end of the decline falling on the better grades of lightweight steers, yearlings and fed heifers. Chicago had a top of $8.15 on heavy steers. The season's first sizeable shipments of Colorado fed steers were received at Kansas City with seven loads of good medium weights selling at $6.25@6.60. Stocker and feeder classes found a fairly active outlet at firm prices. Choice stock steer calves in Omaha reached $7.00 and $6.75 was secured for light yearlings.

Comparatively light supplies stimulated demand for hogs and values were steady to 15c higher than Friday's average. Strong weight butchers sold little better than steady. The day's extreme top of $4.60 was realized at Chicago.

Unevenly higher prices prevailed in the fat lamb market with several points showing upturns of 25 to 50c. Some strength, also, developed on sheep. Better grades of fed wooled lambs cashed from $6.50@7.00 with a $7.40 top in Chicago. Clippers at river markets brought $6@6.50. Total offerings of around 45,000 were 44,000 under a week ago.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, March 28. (AP)—There was a decline of over $1.75 a bale in cotton today under a renewal of last week's selling movement and liquidation, stimulated by the early heaviness of the grain and stock markets, and nervousness over the uncertainties of legislation pertaining to taxes and the budget.

Prices for all positions made new low ground for the movement with May contracts selling off to 6.13, or 37 points net lower and 106 points below the high price touched earlier in the month. That delivery closed at 6.20 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 26@31 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 11@12 points. Owing to continuance of the Easter holiday abroad, there were no Liverpool cables to influence sentiment here and houses with Liverpool and continental connections seemed to have a few buying orders at the start.

The lowest prices were reached in the late trading when October sold at 6.52 with the general list showing net losses of 35@38 points. Closing quotations showed rallies of 7@8 points from the lowest on covering.

Unfavorable features of the weather news and reports of delayed farm work seemed to make very little impression on sentiment, but there may have been some buying in the late trading on an idea that uncertainties in the legislative situation were being over-emphasized and that the decline had been sufficient to improve the market's technical position.

Exports today 23,374, making 6,785,701 so far this season. Port receipts 20,023. U. S. port stocks 4,408,386.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 27 to 29 points:

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, March 28. (AP)—The cotton market was active today and prices moved downward sharply. Liverpool continued closed for the Easter holidays and prices here opened lower on Saturday's decline in stocks and wheat. Later prices eased off further on liquidation and stop loss orders as well as in sympathy with some early weakness in stocks. Uneasiness over the tax problem now before congress was an added bearish influence, and prices dropped to levels 24@25 points below the previous close. After a slight rally in the noon hour prices weakened sharply in the afternoon making lows for the day 36@38 points below the previous close, a loss of nearly $2 a bale. There was a rally of 9@10 points at the end and the market closed steady 27@29 points net down.

The opening of the market was weak. Manchester cabled that trade last week was quieter owing to the decline in raw cotton and fears of labor troubles but nevertheless trade with South America was fair.

Late in the afternoon prices made new lows for the day at 6.14 for May, 6.28 for July and 6.49 for October.

Port receipts 19,704; for week 30,366; for season 9,033,773; last season 8,472,560. Exports 23,053, for week 46,524, for season 6,661,453; last season 5,415,720. Fear Held for Balanced Budget Reacts on Bonds to Lower Price

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, March 28. (US)—Bonds suffered more than stocks today from the increased apprehension of the markets concerning the government's fiscal affairs.

All sections of the bond list, from lowly speculative issues to the United States governments, dropped an average of more than a point. At least one of the government issues showed a net loss of 1.14 points.

The performance of the markets leaves no doubt concerning the major cause of the renewed pessimism: fear that a reckless, leaderless congress will leave unaccomplished the prime desire of the markets, which is a balanced budget.

A rally in stock quotations towards the close was responsible for a rather irregular closing. But at no time were the constructive forces able to muster enough buying to induce more than a stemming of the downward trend.

If the domestic financial situation were not of itself sufficiently indicative of renewed concern in important quarters, the action of foreign exchanges emphasized the world's disappointment over the affairs at Washington. The French franc rose to the "gold export" point, sterling rallied sharply again, and other exchanges likewise moved solidly against the dollar. No gold moved outward today, but the international repercussions of the disgusting Washington tactics will be more visible within the next few days.

Late rally in share prices probably grew out of a temporarily improved techical position. It was helped along by a rumor that the president would summon the leader of the congressional insurgents to a conference seeking an ironing out of conflicting views.

The report, which gained wide circulation just before the market closed, added that the compromise would be effected by a presidential backdown on the question of legalizing beer. At least this was the explanation on the stock exchange for the rally.

Anticipated public announcement tomorrow morning of the new Ford cars served to dampen the entire automobile group on the exchange.

Sluggishness of the auto business this year to date has been largely due to delayed disclosure of Ford's plans, and now the question is still unanswered as to whether the actual offering of the Ford models will further retard the industry.

It is virtually a certainty that introduction of the new Fords will accentuate the price situation. No announcement is being made on prices, but usually well informed market quarters anticipate a price schedule of between $490 and $515 for the standard four-cylinder cars and between $600 and $635 for the eight-cylinder models.

The only bright spot in the stock market was the strength of local tractions. B. M. T. rose more than two points and other issues joined the advance on reported resumption of a higher-fare campaign by the bankers who have been furnishing financial support for the city.

American Telephone also recovered but without much vigor.

The market still hopes that strong leadership will become evident in congress and effect a program of taxation and expenditure-curtailment which will bring about a balanced budget. Pending this accomplishment, the markets continue under the influence of uncertainty and are forced to respond to the discouraging contemporary industrial reports. Definite assurances of a return to sanity in congressional treatment of the budget prospects would probably bring a rally.

Railroad stock averages clumped to a new low. The Missouri Pacific loan arrangement between the private bankers and the Reconstruction Finance corporation promises to come up for congressional investigation. From such an injury may come the true story of the policy being followed by the reconstruction directorate.

New York Cental's railway operating income for February amounted to $2,679,318, representing an increase of $1,118,729 over the same 1931 month.

Commodities were irregular, grains moving modestly higher, while cotton declined.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, March 28. (AP)—For the first time in more than a year, the United States wheat visible supply today showed a decrease as compared with 12 months previous. Largely as a result, grain values averaged higher, nothwithstanding numerous transient setbacks.

Temporary weakness shown by cereals was associated with Washington reports that President Hoover frowned on any attempt to abolish the farm board. Bearish effects also followed word that J. W. T. Duval, head of the grain futures administration, had been in conference with the house subcommittee which was seeking ways and means of raising taxes.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅛@1⅛c higher than Saturday's finish, corn ⅝@⅞c advanced, oats ⅛@½c up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat, regardless of an increase of the corn visible supply.

Provisions reflected an upturn in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 52@52¼c, 54¼@⅞c; July 54@54⅛c, 56⅝@⅞c; Sept. 56⅛@⅜c, 59@59⅛c. Corn—May 35⅝c, 36⅛@⅝c; July 38⅝c, 39⅝c; Sept. 40⅝@½c, 41¼@⅝c.

ROAD RALLY AT JACKSBORO

Five Wichitans to Attend Meeting Today

Five Wichitans plan to attend an organization meeting at Jacksboro Tuesday morning for promotion of state highway No. 66, Chairman J. S. Bridwell of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce highway committee, said Monday afternoon.

Mr. Bridwell will be accompanied by Manager John Boswell of the chamber of commerce, W. B. Hamilton, County Judge John P. Marrs and County Commissioner M. A. Bundy. The local group will take an active part in the organization meeting. The route has recently been designated across the state and goes south from this city through Jacksboro, Mineral Wells, San Antonio to the Mexican border.

Plans leading to improvement of the northern portion of the route and securing of federal designation on the entire international route to Canada will be discussed.

Valley Board to Hear Results of Milk Survey

Routine business will be considered at the regular board meeting of the Valley Development association at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce offices in the Hamilton building, President B. B. Greever said Monday.

A committee, including Tom Reece, W. F. Palmer, Joe Meurer, Dr. J. M. Buckingham Denies Soviet Russia Is Menace to Economic Stability

Declaring Soviet Russia is not as great a world menace as its economic resources would entitle it to be, Frank I. Buckingham of Kansas City closed a series of addresses in Wichita Falls Monday evening in a public appearance at the First Methodist church education building.

The characteristic psychology of the peasant is the great reason holding back Communist plans. Some sort of food is the only thing that matters to the peasant, who has been drained of ambition, intelligence and other higher human characteristics. This attitude must be overcome before Russia can take advantage of its resources to become the Communist power it intends to be, Buckingham said.

The speaker opened his schedule Monday with a talk before high school and college students at the Junior College auditorium at 9:30 a. m. Mr. Buckingham is touring Texas under auspices of the Order of DeMolay reviewing a recent visit to Russia, designed to refute a statement by Bernard Shaw that Russia is an ideal place for the young man to reside. The Russian tour was sponsored by Frank S. Land of Kansas City, organizer of the Order of DeMolay.
