SNOOTER KNOWS

A LITTLE ABOUT EVERYTHING
 AND
 NOT MUCH ABOUT ANYTHING

WITH having reached all its war bond quotas so far, and contributed its share to other relief agencies, Martin County has just concluded raising a 400 membership in the Cap Rock Refrigeration plant, an enterprise that will stand in the neighborhood of a $25,000 investment when completed and ready for operation. That's not to be sneezed at.

To land this project, it required no little amount of work on the part of some of our enterprising citizens soliciting memberships, yet when the word got to going the rounds that Martin County was in line for a Freezer-Locker plant, sponsored by the REA, that meant a plant modern in every detail, and operated on a substantial basis, there was little solicitation necessary. . . . they just came to the REA office and voluntarily made application for lockers. In face of the Government's urgent plea for everyone to produce food and conserve it, and with strict rationing regulations, combined with a considerable decrease in crop and food production this year, due to a prolonged drouth, the people realize the vital need of an industry that would help them to save waste and conserve food, hence they combined their resources and landed this valuable food conservation enterprise.

Those merchants who rallied to the cause by having their names listed among the 400 who rented freezer-lockers, are to be commended for being foresighted enough to see the advantage of landing this project not only from the standpoint the enterprise would bring more people to Stanton to trade, but they were assisting in locating a project of most vital importance to the folks living on the farms and ranches of the county. Now, the farmer and the rancher can kill or have killed all the hogs, sheep and cattle he wishes for home consumption and a place to keep it from spoiling. The same can be said their milk, butter, eggs, vegetables and fruits.

If the excuse of not having anything to put in it was valid not taking a freezer-locker, this columnist had it, (had I wanted to duck for cover.) So far I have nothing in sight to put in my locker. If the wife has as good luck with her Victory garden next year as she had this year we may have one radish and a deformed onion to put in the locker. The battle she waged to make this garden blossom into full fruitage would have put her in line for an Oak Leaf Cluster for meritorious service on any battle front. About $3.50 was spent on lumber to enclose the plot of ground maybe 75-cents for cloth to put over the garden, and about the same investment in nice rich dirt as a foundation for the garden. The City came in for about $5 or $6 for furnishing water poured on the garden, not counting the hours of toil put in on the garden. We realized maybe two-bits worth of vegetables I always will think the merchant sold the wife birdseed instead of vegetable seed. But thank goodness we have the ground left to make another attempt at gardening next year. Now we have a freezer-locker, and it's up to you boys who do raise good vegetables, fruits, good butter, eggs, milk, and good beef, to see that this locker doesn't go the Mother Hubbard cupboard route.

Anyhow our little investment will help the fellows that will have loads of something to store in the freezer plant, and sometime I might find their locker door open. I always figure on that which will help the most people in my community will help me in the end.

ACCORDING to the November report of the number bales of cotton ginned in Martin county prior to November 1, sent to the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., by Walter Y. Houston, special agent for the county, the total stood at 12,654 bales, compared with 14,588 bales ginned up to the same time in 1942. The cotton harvest in Martin county is now at the "ragged edge." By a rake and scrape of the cotton fields they will yield possibly another 1,000 bales. So this column's estimate on the cotton yield for the county in 1943 is around 14,000 bales.

A great many of the cotton stalks have been stripped of bolls as the cotton was pulled altogether this year. We have been informed some cotton fields in the north central part of the county are white with cotton and no pickers in them. Most of the pickers have left the county before the harvest was over — either going to fields outside the county that promised better pulling, or because they had their pockets lined with all the cash they wanted and pulled back to their South Texas homes. At best, more labor could have been employed in the cotton fields of the county than was here at the height of the cotton harvest season.

The $1.50 and $2.00 per hundred paid for pulling cotton and hauling it to the gin, considering the average price of 15-cents a pound paid the grower for his bale, and after other deductions had been made, the grower had to look twice to see the change he was handed as profit on his bale.

The cotton farmer is now wondering what he is going to do about raising cotton in 1944. He says the low price offered for the staple and the high price he had to pay to produce it, looks to him as a losing proposition. Unless some remedy is made to correct the condition there is a likelihood many acres that have been devoted to cotton will lay out or be planted to some other product.

In comparison to the high labor wage and the rising cost of foods, the farmer claims the prices offered for his commodities are considerably out of line, he finds himself scratching his head and in a daze as to what he is going to do about farming in 1944.

If the farmer goes down the country will go with him. We cannot live without food, and it's the farmer who provides it. There is little doubt in my mind whatever the high price the farmer would get for his commodities would not be too much, for after all he is the backbone and sinew of the land.

Martin county's 1943 cotton yield compares favorably with the crop yields in 1939 and 1940 when the county produced 14,975 and 14,002 bales, respectively. The crop yields in 1941 and 1942 spoiled us, when these years the bale production was 30,832 and 23,923, respectively.

Impressive Ceremony Presenting Medals of Tech. Sgt. Joe Herzog to Parents At the Midland Army Air Field

COLONEL JOHN P. KENNY, A VETERAN
 16 YEARS SERVICE IN U. S.-PHILIPPINES

COLONEL JOHN P. KENNY

Colonel John P. Kenney, one of the pioneers of aerial bombardment in the Army Air Forces, assumed command of the Midland AAF Bombardier School, in January, 1943, succeeding Brigadier General Isaiah Davies, who was named commanding general of the 34th Flying Training Wing with headquarters in San Angelo.

Col. Kenney, a veteran of 16 years service at various posts in the United States and the Philippines, has devoted almost all his Army career to the study and instruction of aerial bombardment and has been stationed at the world's largest bombardier school since January 1942. He has served at the Midland Air Field as director of training and as an executive officer.

A native of Roseburg, Oregon, Col. Kenney, was graduated from Oregon State College in 1927. Shortly afterward, he was appointed an aviation cadet and completed his pilot training at March Field, California, and Kelly Field, Texas, receiving his wings in March, 1929.

Col. Kenney entered upon active duty with the 11th Bombardment Squadron and in the years since has been assigned largely to posts in connection with aerial bombardment. His services included a period with the 24th Bombardment Squadron at Nichols Field, Manila. He also executed a mission to Australia during his service in the Pacific and toured many sections of China, Japan, Manchukuo and the Malay Peninsula.

Col. Kenney assisted in the organization and served as assistant director of training of the first Army Air Forces bombardier school at Lowry Field, Colorado, in 1940. Many of the officers who trained under him are now stationed with bombardment groups on the fighting fronts where the Air Forces are engaged. Several of his former students have distinguished themselves with the famed 19th Bombardment Group which recently returned to the United States after exceptionally meritorious service in action in the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies, the Solomons and Australia.

Col. Kenney reported to the world's largest bombardier college from Ellington Field, Houston, where he served as director of the bombardier school.

A well-known polo enthusiast who has competed in cup matches in various sections of the nation, Col. Kenney has earned the admiration of personnel of the bombardier school because of his sincere interest in all phases of activity at the big school. Hardly a day passes but what Col. Kenney spends some time visiting various offices about the field where he gives personal attention to the official and personal problems of both officers and enlisted men.

Col. Kenney is largely responsible for the spectacular growth of the Midland AAF Bombardier School into the world's largest bombardier college, and his recommendations, gained from long experience with bombardment, have been adopted not only here but at other Air Forces bombardier schools established during the past year.

Col. and Mrs. Kenney reside in Midland.

MAJ BURTON ROWDEN NOW LIEUT.-COLONEL

On October 8, 1943, Maj. Burton H. Rowden, executive officer at the Midland Army Air Field, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Colonel Rowden has been stationed at the bombardier school at Midland since October 26, 1941. He was post adjutant until January of this year, when he was named executive officer to succeed Col. John P. Kenney, who is now commanding officer of the field.

The Air Medal and an Oak Leaf Cluster awarded to Technical Sergeant Joe Herzog, of Stanton, were presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Herzog, at an impressive retreat parade ceremonies Friday night by Col. John P. Kenney, commanding officer of Midland Army Air Field.

Sergeant Herzog, to whom the awards were made by direction of the commanding general, Hawaiian theater of operations, is reported "missing in action." A graduate of Stanton High School, he enlisted in the armed forces in November of 1941, and served at Fort Bliss, Jefferson Barracks and Chanute Field, Ill., where he earned the wings of an aerial gunner. In November of 1942, he was assigned to overseas duty, and arrived in Hawaii. His brother, George Herzog, is an airplane mechanic in the Army Air Forces at Los Vegas, N. M.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Herzog to Midland Army Air Field for the presentation ceremonies were their son, Robert Herzog, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kelly, publishers of The Stanton Reporter.

The award of the Air Medal was made to Sergeant Herzog for "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight on December 23, 1942," and the Oak Leaf Cluster for similar meritorious action on January 27, 1942.

Making the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Herzog, Colonel Kenney declared, "Sergeant Herzog is reported missing in action, but it is evident from the award of this Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster that he more than played his part in this war. The fact that he is reported missing in action gives outstanding evidence that Sergeant Herzog knew his job as an American fighting man, and stuck to that job to the limit of his ability. We here at Midland Air Field take great pride in presenting to the father and mother of such a fighting member of the Army Air Forces these well-deserved awards."

After the graduating cadets had passed in review before Colonel Kenney and staff of the reviewing party, he presented awards to outstanding members of the group.

Bombing Olympics trophies to George C. Willis, Leesville, La.; John E. Palich, Steubenville, Ohio; James F. Hedges, Jacksonville, Fla.; Robert J. Champion, Isola, Miss.; Bennie M. Burrows, Muscatine, Ia.; Robert Stoneburner, Peoria, Ill. The physical fitness award went to Richard H. Stackhouse of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Parachute Jump Injures Joe

In October, 1942, Tec. Sgt. Joe Herzog, while in flight training at Sioux City, Neb., engine trouble developed on the four-motored bomber causing Herzog and three other members of a nine-member crew to bail out at a height of 500 feet. The landing severely bruised the ankles of T-Sgt. Herzog. Two of the aviators "staying with the ship" were killed.

In a letter, dated December 1942, to W. Y. Houston of Stanton T-Sgt. Herzog said: "I never want to bail out any more. . . . but that's the beginning. . . . I can take it if anybody else can. . . . all I want is my share of them," alluding to the Japs. Awarded Medal On Wake Raid

The January 15, 1943, issue of The Reporter, carried a part of a letter written by T-Sgt. Herzog to his parents, relative to receiving an Air Medal for his participation in the surprise attack on Wake Island: "It was the most wonderful trip there ever will be. It was a surprise to the yellow devils. We could see them running around without anything on. I was scared for awhile but it was worth it. Now I can feel as if I had done something. As long as I live I will never forget this Christmas and New Year. Today, standing here, I realize I wouldn't trade places with anybody. There wasn't a plane lost nor a person hurt."

Ceremonies Presenting Medals

On March 3, 1943, the Reporter received a brief story of the ceremony held to award medals to those participating in the Wake Island air raid, together with the citation to T-Sgt. Herzog, and a beautiful picture of the event. The citation: . . .

Staff Sgt. J. Herzog was awarded an Air Medal at the ceremony held at Hickam Field, T. H., on New Year's Day.

Medals were presented by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of Pacific Fleet Units; Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, head of Hawaiian Army Forces; Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, Air Force Commander in Mid-Pacific; and Brig. Gen. Robert L. Douglas and Brig. Gen. Howard K. Ramey of the Army Air Forces.

Staff Sergeant Herzog was a member of a bomber crew that raided Jap-held Wake Island December 24, 1942. Because the American planes crossed the International Date Line in attacking Wake, they got back from the raid a day before they made it. They were over Wake on December 24th (Wake Time) but landed back at their home base, December 23rd, (Hawaiian Time.)

An undisclosed number of four-motored bombers made up the striking force, which dumped 76,000 pounds of high explosives and incendiary bombs on Wake. The raid was led by Col. Wm. M. Matheny.

RECEIVE REQUIRED NUMBER SIGNERS FOR FREEZER PLANT

SUPT. O. B. BRYAN
 TO FORT WORTH
 TO HAVE WPB
 FORMS SIGNED

Due to the timely and wholehearted cooperation of Stanton business men and other interested citizens, the required number of members has been secured for the Freezer-Locker plant. However, there are several lockers still available and the Cap Rock Electric will continue to take applications for the balance of the week.

From all reports, no one on the streets of Stanton Saturday was missed in the general subscription drive and of the number contacted, none refused to sign for a locker.

O. B. Bryan, superintendent of REA, left Tuesday night for Fort Worth to have the WPB forms signed which will be presented to the local War Board for acceptance at their regular meeting Saturday afternoon. (continued to back page)

7. Is rationing necessary? ☐	8. How can food prices be kept down? ☐
9. Who wastes the most food? ☐	10. Are American civilian families going to get enough to eat? ☐

Can you score 100 on this Food Quiz?

These are important food questions of the hour. How many can you answer? Give yourself 10 for each one you get right. Check yourself against the facts below . . . facts straight from the War Food Administration.

No. 1: The Answer . . .

We are producing more food than ever before in history.

Despite shortcomings in manpower and machinery and weather handicaps—the American farmer is doing a miraculous job these days.

He broke the U.S. record in 1940 . . . beat that in '41 and beat that too in '42. For 1943 he's topping all records again!

No. 2: The Answer . . .

Despite record food production, we can't have all we want of what we want for the simple reason that THE DEMAND FOR OUR FOOD FAR EXCEEDS THE SUPPLY. That greatly increased demand has been created by (1) the needs of food for direct war purposes, (2) the tremendous boost in civilian purchasing power.

No. 3: The Answer . . .

We American civilians are getting the bulk of our total food production—actually 75% of it for the next twelve months! This is as much food as we had in prewar years. The remainder is divided this way: 13% to the Army and

Navy . . . 10% to our fighting Allies (Lend-Lease, etc.) . . . 2% to our territories (Puerto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska) and to friendly countries to maintain our normal trade relations.

No. 4: The Answer . . .

To be certain that the right food will always be available at the right time, our armed forces require at least a 90-day supply for men quartered in this country . . . a 9-month supply for each man overseas.

No. 5: The Answer . . .

Geographical position of the U.S. assures speedy transportation to battle fronts. Our space and soil enable us to provide what other nations can't.

It would be shortsighted and poor strategy not to send food to our Allies (the English and Russians). It is food they sorely need to give them an extra "fighting edge" . . . to help them knock more of the enemy out of the war.

No. 6: The Answer . . .

When our armies win a victory, there'll be less of some foods at home—not more.

The people we free from the Axis yoke must be fed and helped to feed themselves so that they may become active Allies, fighting side by side with us.

No. 7: The Answer . . .

Rationing is necessary—to see to it that everyone gets an opportunity to obtain his fair share of some of our most popular foods, among them foods that are vital for proper health. Without rationing, it would always be a case of who gets to the store first!

No. 8: The Answer . . .

The ONLY way food prices can be kept down is this way—by your complete and conscientious cooperation.

Your Government has established legal prices on food. The rest is up to you and every other American! Look for official prices posted in your store or Ration Board or published in this newspaper. Learn what these top legal prices are and never pay more!

No. 9: The Answer . . .

WE, THE AMERICAN CIVILIANS annually waste almost enough food to feed our armed forces at home and abroad! The armed forces are working to reduce food waste to an unprecedented low, through better meal planning and education. So can we at home.

No. 10: The Answer . . .

Your Government promises that under no circumstances will the food supply be divided in such a way that American civilians will be deprived of Basic Food Requirements.

YOU have a positive part in the wartime food program. You and the 130,000,000 others who are America. You can insure your share, your family's share and help increase the total supply. YOU can make food fight for freedom . . .

Here's How:

PRODUCE FOOD. Where and when you can. Farmers are urged to meet farm goals. City families are urged to plan a bigger Victory Garden, to help out on a farm or in a food processing plant if possible.

CONSERVE FOOD. Can and preserve food. Cut waste. Stretch your food supply by substituting plentiful for scarce foods. Balance your meals for good nutrition.

SHARE FOOD. Put the war's food demands first. Share the supplies willingly with your armed forces, your Allies, your neighbors.

PLAY SQUARE WITH FOOD. Accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps. Pay no more than top legal prices under any circumstances.

ADVERTISEMENT TIES IN WITH FREEZER-LOCKER

The Reporter is carrying a large advertisement this week contributed by the merchants whose names appear at the bottom, that ties-in with the Cap Rock Refrigeration Plant that the people of Martin County landed this week. The advertisement covers the food conservation problem very minutely. Well, the Cap Rock Refrigeration Plant is a food conservation project. It is an enterprise in which vital food products raised on the farms and ranches can be stored and kept from wasting through spoilage.

Read the advertisement carefully and it wouldn't be a bad idea to clip it out and paste up in the kitchen for reference as to guard against waste. Maybe, you can do something with that heel on the loaf of bread you have been throwing away just because you figure it has a little dirt on it. Many starving people in the war-torn countries would consider that heel of bread an aristocrat's item of food.

Just on general principles it is said each one of us eats a pound of dirt a year, and that's not in West Texas, either. All the added dirt we'd get from eating the heel of a loaf of bread wouldn't hurt.

YOUR GOVERNMENT ASKS YOU TO USE LESS GAS

and Help Keep War Plants Humming

HERE 'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Winterize your home by insulation, weather stripping, caulking and storm windows if possible.
2. Close off all unused rooms.
3. Keep home temperatures as low as possible.
4. Reduce temperatures to 55 degrees at night and when home is not occupied.
5. Do not use range ovens or top burners for room heating.
6. Save gas in other ways which will occur to you.

The natural gas that heats your home and fries your breakfast bacon is used also for many vital war purposes. Pipe lines to transport it are over-taxed. New materials cannot be secured to bring you all that is required for unrestrained consumption.

The conservation of gas is the home-front duty of every man, woman and child, at home or at place of business. Uncle Sam is counting on you to do your part.

LT. ROBT. WINSTRAND
PUB. RELAT. OFFICER

The writer's first time to set foot on the home soil of the "Hell From Heaven Angels" the world's largest bombardier school, Midland, was a little after 6 o'clock last Friday evening, in the company of Mrs. J. E. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herzog, and son Robert. Before admission could be gained to the grounds we had to be vouched for by First Lieutenant Robert M. Winstrand, Public Relations Officer. Tagged by the officer at the gate the party went direct to the Public Relations Office. I never kept my eyes off of every soldier I saw, and there were several hundred of them. Expected a bayonet jab any moment or have a bomb dropped on my head. But my nerves quieted down when I came face to face with Lt. Winstrand in his office. A perfectly harmless looking young man, good looking, and soft spoken.

Besides keeping up with most all that happens on the field, the public relation officer is a sort of guide to show folks around and introduce them to the Generals, Colonels, etc.

I learned from Lt. Winstrand that back in his school days he worked in his father's weekly newspaper office, and he has a hunch when he gets out of the Army he's going to have a newspaper of his own.

First Lieut. Winstrand's home is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and a graduate of Pennsylvania State College. His newspaper work was general reporting and columnist on the Harrisburg Evening News and other papers in the state. He joined the Army Air Forces, July 14, 1941, and was sent to the Public Relations Office at Midland January 14, 1942. He attended Officer's Candidate School at Miami Beach, Florida, and commissioned a second lieutenant September 16, 1942. From there he went to Randolph Field, Texas, where he served as assistant Public Relations Officer. In January, 1943, he was transferred to Midland Army Air Field as Public Relations Officer. April 14, 1943, he was commissioned a First Lieutenant.

Fighting tanks need fighting lubricants —lubricants that will fight heat—keep motor and gears working smoothly despite tough battle conditions. So the U. S. Army uses Sinclair lubricants for many of its tanks, jeeps and other mechanized equipment.

To give your car the same, sure protection, get Sinclair lubricants from your Sinclair Dealer. To protect your engine, for example, he offers Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. This famous oil stands up longer and lubricates better because it is both de-waxed and de-jellied. Use Sinclair Opaline to keep your car rolling.

A LITTLE ABOUT EVERYTHING
AND
NOT MUCH ABOUT ANYTHING

WITH having reached all its war bond quotas so far, and contributed its share to other relief agencies, Martin County has just concluded raising a 400 membership in the Cap Rock Refrigeration plant, an enterprise that will stand in the neighborhood of a $25,000 investment when completed and ready for operation. That's not to be sneezed at.

To land this project, it required no little amount of work on the part of some of our enterprising citizens soliciting memberships, yet when the word got to going the rounds that Martin County was in line for a Freezer-Locker plant, sponsored by the REA, that meant a plant modern in every detail, and operated on a substantial basis, there was little solicitation necessary . . . they just came to the REA office and voluntarily made application for lockers. In face of the Government's urgent plea for everyone to produce food and conserve it, and with strict rationing regulations, combined with a considerable decrease in crop and food production this year, due to a prolonged drouth, the people realize the vital need of an industry that would help them to save waste and conserve food, hence they combined their resources and landed this valuable food conservation enterprise.

Those merchants who rallied to the cause by having their names listed among the 400 who rented freezer-lockers, are to be commended for being foresighted enough to see the advantage of landing this project not only from the standpoint the enterprise would bring more people to Stanton to trade, but they were assisting in locating a project of most vital importance to the folks living on the farms and ranches of the county. Now, the farmer and the rancher can kill or have killed all the hogs, sheep and cattle he wishes for home consumption and a place to keep it from spoiling. The same can be said their milk, butter, eggs, vegetables and fruits.

If the excuse of not having anything to put in it was valid not taking a freezer-locker, this columnist had it, (had I wanted to duck for cover.) So far I have nothing in sight to put in my locker. If the wife has as good luck with her Victory garden next year as she had this year we may have one radish and a deformed onion to put in the locker. The battle she waged to make this garden blossom into full fruitage would have put her in line for an Oak Leaf Cluster for meritorious service on any battle front. About $3.50 was spent on lumber to enclose the plot of ground, maybe 75-cents for cloth to put over the garden, and about the same investment in nice rich dirt as a foundation for the garden. The City came in for about $5 or $6 for furnishing water poured on the garden, not counting the hours of toil put in on the garden. We realized maybe two-bits worth of vegetables I always will think the merchant sold the wife birdseed instead of vegetable seed. But thank goodness we have the ground left to make another attempt at gardening next year. Now we have a freezer-locker, and it's up to you boys who do raise good vegetables, fruits, good butter, eggs, milk, and good beef, to see that this locker doesn't go the Mother Hubbard cupboard route.

Anyhow our little investment will help the fellows that will have loads of something to store in the freezer plant, and sometime I might find their locker door open. I always figure on that which will help the most people in my community will help me in the end.

ACCORDING to the November report of the number bales of cotton ginned in Martin county prior to November 1, sent to the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., by Walter Y. Houston, special agent for the county, the total stood at 12,654 bales, compared with 14,588 bales ginned up to the same time in 1942. The cotton harvest in Martin county is now at the "ragged edge." By a rake and scrape of the cotton fields they will yield possibly another 1,000 bales. So this column's estimate on the cotton yield for the county in 1943 is around 14,000 bales.

A great many of the cotton stalks have been stripped of bolls as the cotton was pulled altogether this year. We have been informed some cotton fields in the north central part of the county are white with cotton and no pickers in them. Most of the pickers have left the county before the harvest was over — either going to fields outside the county that promised better pulling, or because they had their pockets lined with all the cash they wanted and pulled back to their South Texas homes. At best, more labor could have been employed in the cotton fields of the county than was here at the height of the cotton harvest season.

The $1.50 and $2.00 per hundred paid for pulling cotton and hauling it to the gin, considering the average price of 15-cents a pound paid the grower for his bale, and after other deductions had been made, the grower had to look twice to see the change he was handed as profit on his bale.

The cotton farmer is now wondering what he is going to do about raising cotton in 1944. He says the low price offered for the staple and the high price he had to pay to produce it, looks to him as a losing proposition. Unless some remedy is made to correct the condition there is a likelihood many acres that have been devoted to cotton will lay out or be planted to some other product.

In comparison to the high labor wage and the rising cost of foods, the farmer claims the prices offered for his commodities are considerably out of line, he finds himself scratching his head and in a daze as to what he is going to do about farming in 1944.

If the farmer goes down the country will go with him. We cannot live without food, and it's the farmer who provides it. There is little doubt in my mind whatever the high price the farmer would get for his commodities would not be too much, for after all he is the backbone and sinew of the land.

Martin county's 1943 cotton yield compares favorably with the crop yields in 1939 and 1940 when the county produced 14,975 and 14,002 bales, respectively. The crop yields in 1941 and 1942 spoiled us, when these years the bale production was 30,832 and 23,923, respectively.

Impressive Ceremony Presenting Medals of Tech. Sgt. Joe Herzog to Parents At the Midland Army Air Field

COLONEL JOHN P. KENNY, A VETERAN
16 YEARS SERVICE IN U. S.-PHILIPPINES

COLONEL JOHN P. KENNY

Colonel John P. Kenney, one of the pioneers of aerial bombardment in the Army Air Forces, assumed command of the Midland AAF Bombardier School, in January, 1943, succeeding Brigadier General Isaiah Davies, who was named commanding general of the 34th Flying Training Wing with headquarters in San Angelo.

Col. Kenney, a veteran of 16 years service at various posts in the United States and the Philippines, has devoted almost all his Army career to the study and instruction of aerial bombardment and has been stationed at the world's largest bombardier school since January 1942. He has served at the Midland Air Field as director of training and as an executive officer.

A native of Roseburg, Oregon, Col. Kenney, was graduated from Oregon State College in 1927. Shortly afterward, he was appointed an aviation cadet and completed his pilot training at March Field, California, and Kelly Field, Texas, receiving his wings in March, 1929.

Col. Kenney, entered upon active duty with the 11th Bombardment Squadron and in the years since has been assigned largely to posts in connection with aerial bombardment. His services included a period with the 24th Bombardment Squadron at Nichols Field, Manila. He also executed a mission to Australia during his service in the Pacific and toured many sections of China, Japan, Manchukuo and the Malay Peninsula.

Col. Kenney assisted in the organization and served as assistant director of training of the first Army Air Forces bombardier school at Lowry Field, Colorado, in 1940. Many of the officers who trained under him are now stationed with bombardment groups on the fighting fronts where the Air Forces are engaged. Several of his former students have distinguished themselves with the famed 19th Bombardment Group which recently returned to the United States after exceptionally meritorious service in action in the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies, the Solomons and Australia.

Col. Kenney reported to the world's largest bombardier college from Ellington Field, Houston, where he served as director of the bombardier school.

A well-known polo enthusiast who has competed in cup matches in various sections of the nation, Col. Kenney has earned the admiration of personnel of the bombardier school because of his sincere interest in all phases of activity at the big school. Hardly a day passes but what Col. Kenney spends some time visiting various offices about the field where he gives personal attention to the official and personal problems of both officers and enlisted men.

Col. Kenney is largely responsible for the spectacular growth of the Midland AAF Bombardier School into the world's largest bombardier college, and his recommendations, gained from long experience with bombardment, have been adopted not only here but at other Air Forces bombardier schools established during the past year.

Col. and Mrs. Kenney reside in Midland.

MAJ BURTON ROWDEN NOW LIEUT.-COLONEL

On October 8, 1943, Maj. Burton H. Rowden, executive officer at the Midland Army Air Field, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Colonel Rowden has been stationed at the bombardier school at Midland since October 26, 1941. He was post adjutant until January of this year, when he was named executive officer to succeed Col. John P. Kenney, who is now commanding officer of the field.

The Air Medal and an Oak Leaf Cluster awarded to Technical Sergeant Joe Herzog, of Stanton, were presented to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Herzog, at an impressive retreat parade ceremonies Friday night by Col. John P. Kenney, commanding officer of Midland Army Air Field.

Sergeant Herzog, to whom the awards were made by direction of the commanding general, Hawaiian theater of operations, is reported "missing in action." A graduate of Stanton High School, he enlisted in the armed forces in November of 1941, and served at Fort Bliss, Jefferson Barracks and Chanute Field, Ill., where he earned the wings of an aerial gunner. In November of 1942, he was assigned to overseas duty, and arrived in Hawaii. His brother, George Herzog, is an airplane mechanic in the Army Air Forces at Los Vegas, N. M.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Herzog to Midland Army Air Field for the presentation ceremonies were their son, Robert Herzog, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kelly, publishers of The Stanton Reporter.

The award of the Air Medal was made to Sergeant Herzog for "meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flight on December 23, 1942," and the Oak Leaf Cluster for similar meritorious action on January 27, 1942.

Making the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Herzog, Colonel Kenney declared, "Sergeant Herzog is reported missing in action, but it is evident from the award of this Air Medal and Oak Leaf Cluster that he more than played his part in this war. The fact that he is reported missing in action gives outstanding evidence that Sergeant Herzog knew his job as an American fighting man, and stuck to that job to the limit of his ability. We here at Midland Air Field take great pride in presenting to the father and mother of such a fighting member of the Army Air Forces these well-deserved awards."

After the graduating cadets had passed in review before Colonel Kenney and staff of the reviewing party, he presented awards to outstanding members of the group.

Bombing Olympics trophies to George C. Willis, Leesville, La.; John E. Palich, Steubenville, Ohio; James F. Hedges, Jacksonville, Fla.; Robert J. Champion, Isola, Miss.; Bennie M. Burrows, Muscatine, Ia.; Robert Stoneburner, Peoria, Ill. The physical fitness award went to Richard H. Stackhouse of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Parachute Jump Injures Joe

In October, 1942, Tec. Sgt. Joe Herzog, while in flight training at Sioux City, Neb., engine trouble developed on the four-motored bomber causing Herzog and three other members of a nine-member crew to bail out at a height of 500 feet. The landing severely bruised the ankles of T-Sgt. Herzog. Two of the aviators "staying with the ship" were killed.

In a letter, dated December 1942, to W. Y. Houston of Stanton T-Sgt. Herzog said: "I never want to bail out any more . . . but that's the beginning . . . I can take it if anybody else can . . . all I want is my share of them." alluding to the Japs. Awarded Medal On Wake Raid The January 15, 1943, issue of The Reporter, carried a part of a letter written by T-Sgt. Herzog to his parents, relative to receiving an Air Medal for his participation in the surprise attack on Wake Island: "It was the most wonderful trip there ever will be. It was a surprise to the yellow devils. We could see them running around without anything on. I was scared for awhile but it was worth it. Now I can feel as if I had done something. As long as I live I will never forget this Christmas and New Year. Today, standing here, I realize I wouldn't trade places with anybody. There wasn't a plane lost nor a person hurt."

Ceremonies Presenting Medals

On March 3, 1943, the Reporter received a brief story of the ceremony held to award medals to those participating in the Wake Island air raid, together with the citation to T-Sgt. Herzog, and a beautiful picture of the event. The citation: ,

Stanton Reporter

Stanton, Texas
Staff Sgt. J. Herzog was awarded an Air Medal at the ceremony held at Hickam Field, T. H., on New Year's Day.

Medals were presented by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of Pacific Fleet Units; Lt. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, head of Hawaiian Army Forces; Maj. Gen. Willis H. Hale, Air Force Commander in Mid-Pacific; and Brig. Gen. Robert L. Douglas and Brig. Gen. Howard K. Ramey of the Army Air Forces.

Staff Sergeant Herzog was a member of a bomber crew that raided Jap-held Wake Island December 24, 1942. Because the American planes crossed the International Date Line in attacking Wake, they got back from the raid a day before they made it. They were over Wake on December 24th (Wake Time) but landed back at their home base, December 23rd, (Hawaiian Time.)

An undisclosed number of four-motored bombers made up the striking force, which dumped 76,000 pounds of high explosives and incendiary bombs on Wake. The raid was led by Col. Wm. M. Matthey.

Can you score 100 on this Food Quiz?

These are important food questions of the hour. How many can you answer? Give yourself 10 for each one you get right. Check yourself against the facts below... facts straight from the War Food Administration.

Answer...

We are producing more food than ever before in history.

Despite shortcomings in manpower and machinery and weather handicaps—the American farmer is doing a miraculous job these days.

He broke the U.S. record in 1940... beat that in '41 and beat that too in '42. For 1943 he's topping all records again!

No. 2: The Answer...

Despite record food production, we can't have all we want of what we want for the simple reason that THE DEMAND FOR OUR FOOD FAR EXCEEDS THE SUPPLY. That greatly increased demand has been created by (1) the needs of food for direct war purposes, (2) the tremendous boost in civilian purchasing power.

No. 3: The Answer...

We American civilians are getting the bulk of our total food production—actually 75% of it for the next twelve months! This is as much food as we had in prewar years. The remainder is divided this way: 13% to the Army and

Navy... 10% to our fighting Allies (Lend-Lease, etc.)... 2% to our territories (Puerto Rico, the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska) and to friendly countries to maintain a normal trade relations.

No. 4: The Answer...

To be certain that the right food will always be available at the right time, our armed forces require at least a 90-day supply for men quartered in this country... a 9-month supply for each man overseas.

No. 5: The Answer...

Geographical position of the U.S. assures speedy transportation to battle fronts. Our space and soil enable us to provide what other nations can't.

It would be shortsighted and poor strategy not to send food to our Allies (the English and Russians). It is food they sorely need to give them an extra "fighting edge"... to help them knock more of the enemy out of the war.

No. 6: The Answer...

When our armies win a victory, there'll be less of some foods at home—not more.

The people we free from the Axis yoke must be fed and helped to feed themselves so that they may become active Allies, fighting side by side with us.

No. 7: The Answer...

Rationing is necessary—to see to it that everyone gets an opportunity to obtain his fair share of some of our most popular foods, among them foods that are vital for proper health. Without rationing, it would always be a case of who gets to the store first!

No. 8: The Answer...

THE ONLY way food prices can be kept down is this way—by your complete and conscientious cooperation.

Your Government has established legal prices on food. The rest is up to you and every other American! Look for official prices posted in your store or Ration Board or published in this newspaper. Learn what these top legal prices are and never pay more!

No. 9: The Answer...

WE, THE AMERICAN CIVILIANS annually waste almost enough food to feed our armed forces at home and abroad! The armed forces are working to reduce food waste to an unprecedented low, through better meal planning and education. So can we at home.

No. 10: The Answer...

Your Government promises that under no circumstances will the food supply be divided in such a way that American civilians will be deprived of Basic Food Requirements.

YOU have a positive part in the wartime food program. You and the 130,000,000 others who are America. You can insure your share, your family's share and help increase the total supply. YOU can make food fight for freedom...

Here's How:

PRODUCE FOOD, where and when you can. Farmers are urged to meet farm goals. City families are urged to plan a bigger Victory Garden, to help out on a farm or in a food processing plant if possible.

CONSERVE FOOD. Can and preserve food. Cut waste. Stretch your food supply by substituting plentiful for scarce foods. Balance your meals for good nutrition.

SHARE FOOD. Put the war's food demands first. Share the supplies willingly with your armed forces, your Allies, your neighbors.

PLAY SQUARE WITH FOOD. Accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps. Pay no more than top legal prices under any circumstances.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. B. F. Smith, at which time Mrs. J. E. Kelly will review the Chinese novel, "The Bridge of Heaven" by S. I. Hau-

PARENTS AND FRIENDS
MEET BOYS AT TRAIN

Parents and friends of Fred Holder 5 2/c and Bob Hittson 5 2/c, received a joyous surprise last week when a troop train on which these two "gobs" were riding, stopped here briefly. They have finished "boot camp" and were enroute to Norman, Oklahoma, for further training. Their fellow sailors all appeared delighted at stopping in these boys' home town.

From the tone of Fred's and Bob's letters, they enjoyed their brief stop in Stanton, and plan to be home for Christmas.

Enjoys Reading Reporter

Pvt. Beryl Clinton dropped a postcard to the Reporter this week from somewhere in the "Desert Training Center" in California, ordering a change of address. He said: "Am enjoying the Reporter immensely."

Mrs. A. C. Bassett and her son, Don, left Saturday for Yuma, Arizona, to make their home near Captain Bassett's station. They were accompanied as far as El Paso by Mrs. Bassett's mother, Mrs. G. B. Slaton, and was met there by the captain. — Colorado City Record.

Capt. Bassett is the son of Mrs. John Bassett of Stanton.

In the Navy
Mrs. C. E. Crow is sending the Reporter this week to her son, Harold Crow who is in the Navy Reserve, stationed at San Diego, California.

ADVERTISEMENT TIES IN WITH FREEZER-LOCKER

The Reporter is carrying a large advertisement this week contributed by the merchants whose names appear at the bottom, that ties-in with the Cap Rock Refrigeration Plant that the people of Martin County landed this week. The advertisement covers the food conservation problem very minutely. Well, the Cap Rock Refrigeration Plant is a food conservation project. It is an enterprise in which vital food products raised on the farms and ranches can be stored and kept from wasting through spoilage.

Read the advertisement carefully and it wouldn't be a bad idea to clip it out and paste up in the kitchen for reference as to guard against waste. Maybe, you can do something with that heel on the loaf of bread you have been throwing away just because you figure it has a little dirt on it. Many starving people in the war-torn countries would consider that heel of bread an aristocrat's item of food.

Just on general principles it is said each one of us eats a pound of dirt a year, and that's not in West Texas, either. All the added dirt we get from eating the heel of a loaf of bread wouldn't hurt.

CARD OF THANKS

We want to take this method of thanking each and every one, in regard to the burning of our home. In the donation of boxes and money by every one. God bless you all.

EPLEY-HOUGH MARRIAGE IN BIG SPRING

Miss Augustine Hough of Big Spring became the bride of James Claire Epley of Stanton in a ceremony in the pastor's study of the First Christian Church, Saturday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock with the Rev. J. E. McCoy, presiding.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reid of Abilene and Henry Houston of Stanton.

The bride was attractively attired in a steel blue suit with brown accessories and wore a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Reid, the matron of honor, wore a wine colored suit with black accessories. She wore a gardenia. — Big Spring Daily Herald.

Mr. Epley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Epley, pioneer ranch couple of Martin county. The couple will make their home on the ranch of his parents northwest of Stanton.

YOUR GOVERNMENT ASKS YOU TO USE LESS GAS

and Help Keep War Plants Humming

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP

1. Winterize your home by insulation, weather stripping, caulking and storm windows if possible.
2. Close off all unused rooms.
3. Keep home temperatures as low as possible.
4. Reduce temperatures to 55 degrees at night and when home is not occupied.
5. Do not use range ovens or top burners for room heating.
6. Save gas in other ways which will occur to you.

The natural gas that heats your home and fries your breakfast bacon is used also for many vital war purposes. Pipe lines to transport it are over-taxed. New materials cannot be secured to bring you all that is required for unrestrained consumption.

The conservation of gas is the home-front duty of every man, woman and child, at home or at place of business. Uncle Sam is counting on you to do your part.

In 1939 he reverted to civilian life, but in 1941, re-entered the service on an active basis and was assigned to the Air Corps and stationed at Camp Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas. He later was sent to Ellington Field, Houston, where he was assistant post adjutant. He attended an adjutant general's school in Washington, D. C., in the fall of 1941. He was commissioned a major, July 19, 1942.

LT. ROBT. WINSTRAND
PUB. RELAT. OFFICER

The writer's first time to set foot on the home soil of the "Hell From Heaven Angels" the world's largest bombardier school, Midland, was a little after 6 o'clock last Friday evening, in the company of Mrs. J. E. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Herzog, and son Robert. Before admission could be gained to the grounds we had to be vouched for by First Lieutenant Robert M. Winstrand, Public Relations Officer. Tagged by the officer at the gate the party went direct to the Public Relations Office. I never kept my eyes off of every soldier I saw, and there were several hundred of them. Expected a bayonet jab any moment or have a bomb dropped on my head. But my nerves quieted down when I came face to face with Lt. Winstrand in his office. A perfectly harmless looking young man, good looking, and soft spoken.

Besides keeping up with most all that happens on the field, the public relation officer is a sort of guide to show folks around and introduce them to the Generals, Colonels, etc.

I learned from Lt. Winstrand that back in his school days he worked in his father's weekly newspaper office, and he has a hunch when he gets out of the Army he's going to have a newspaper of his own.

First Lieut. Winstrand's home is Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and a graduate of Pennsylvania State College. His newspaper work was general reporting and columnist on the Harrisburg Evening News and other papers in the state. He joined the Army Air Forces, July 14, 1941, and was sent to the Public Relations Office at Midland January 14, 1942. He attended Officer's Candidate School at Miami Beach, Florida, and commissioned a second lieutenant September 16, 1942. From there he went to Randolph Field, Texas, where he served as assistant Public Relations Officer. In January, 1943, he was transferred to Midland Army Air Field as Public Relations Officer. April 14, 1943, he was commissioned a First Lieutenant.

Reporter Sent As Birthday Gift

Mrs. Forgy Atchison has subscribed for the Reporter to be sent to her nephew, Pvt. Hugh L. White who is somewhere overseas, as a birthday present Nov. 27. Hugh will be 20 years old. He is a 1941 graduate of Stanton High School, and won the award for being the outstanding student. After enlisting in the Marines he has won two medals, one for expert rifleman and one in bayoneting.

A TIP FROM A TANK

Fighting tanks need fighting lubricants —lubricants that will fight heat—keep motor and gears working smoothly despite tough battle conditions. So the U. S. Army uses Sinclair lubricants for many of its tanks, jeeps and other mechanized equipment.

To give your car the same, sure protection, get Sinclair lubricants from your Sinclair Dealer. To protect your engine, for example, he offers Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. This famous oil stands up longer and lubricates better because it is both de-waxed and de-jellied. Use Sinclair Opaline to keep your car rolling.
