City's Hospital Problems Like Those Across NM

If Artesia thinks its hospital problems are unique, it should talk with other hospitals in the state, thinks Mgr. Ralph Lennon.

Lennon, who attended the recent convention of New Mexico hospital administrators, said he found administrators all over the state facing problems such as Artesia has had in its two-year operation of Artesia General hospital.

Key problem everywhere, Lennon told city councilmen Wednesday night, is collection of accounts.

He told the council payments to the hospital for charity cases should be arranged from city, county or state funds.

JOHN BOREN poses with Kodiak bear head, which dwarfs him as it reposes in barber chair. Animal was killed on Kodiak island near Alaska last September; head has just been returned by taxidermist.

(Advocate Photo)

Monstrous Kodiak Bear Head Received by Hunter

John Boren, longtime Artesia resident and inveterate hunter, finally has received the proof of the Kodiak bear kill he made Sept. 2, 1953, on Kodiak Island off Alaska.

To Boren this week came the huge bear's head, mounted by a Seattle taxidermist.

Boren also received the huge animal's hide, slightly injured in the tanning process at Seattle.

His original plan called for having the hide and head, still attached, made into a bear skin rug, the likes of which is seldom seen around Artesia.

Boren was notified the skin was received in good condition. However, over-immersion in acids and water used in the process caused fur to be spotted and shortened.

Despite that, the Kodiak's huge head is still a respectable trophy.

Boren bagged the animal on a hunting expedition with Artesia theater owner Ray Bartlett of Artesia and Bartlett's son, Bill, of Carlsbad.

Boren shot the bear Sept. 2, 1953 the day after the season opened. He contented himself for the rest of the expedition—until the Bartletts bagged their bears—with catching the island's big salmon. The salmon, incidentally, are the bear's diet staple.

When Boren saw the animal about 100 yards away from him, the big creature was fishing in a swift-running stream. He fired a shot with his .30-06, the smallest gun permitted to hunt the huge Kodiaks.

The first shot caused theanimal to stand up to its full 12-foot height, looking quizzically around.

Boren snapped five more shots at it. The first four repeatedly knocked the bear down, but each time he arose again, batting the air about him.

On the fifth shot he stayed down. That shot penetrated the animal's heart.

The heart later was found to be the size of a steer's.

The animal's weight was estimated at 1400 to 1600 pounds by guides, probably closer to 1600 they told Boren.

The animal fell at the stream's edge and because of its weight, was skinned on the sight. The meat, which is not considered good eating by anyone, including Eskimoes, was discarded.

Boren proudly posed for colored pictures of himself and the big

Council to Study Proposal on Sale Of Fireworks

A committee to study a proposal that fireworks be sold in Artesia during the Fourth of July season has been appointed by Mayor W. H. Yeager.

The proposal was made at Wednesday night's city council meeting by Bob Howard, distributor for Rocky Mountain Wholesale Co., who submitted a list of fireworks he proposed to sell.

Albert Richards, fire chief, strongly opposed the sale of fireworks in the city.

Any fireworks, Richards said, should be fired in a central place by trained men, as is done annually here on July 4 through a civic project.

Fireworks, Richards declared, are a fire hazard unless stringently supervised.

The special committee, moved

He has always been a farmer in the Artesia area.

Poor Geography Downfall of Hot Check Artist

A hot check passer who didn't know much about Artesia geography is languishing today in an Eddy county jail cell at Carlsbad.

He was arrested at a local liquor store when he attempted to pass a $20 check.

The check was made out to him and supposedly signed by a man with the name Richard Corn. The check was endorsed on the reverse with his name and the address 3024 N. Fifth, Artesia.

Troy Rogers, who waited on the man at Package Liquor Store, called police, when he spied the non-existent address.

City officer Bill Gill and State Patrolman D. A. Bonine went to the store, where they arrested the man, who gave his name as Curly Armstead, 29, of Roswell.

On Armstead's person were found two more checks for $20 and another for $30, drawn similarly to the one he attempted to give Rogers.

Armstead plead guilty to hot check charges and was bound over to district court for action.

Roswell police, learning of his arrest, placed a hold order on him to investigation of three hot check charges in Roswell.

Armstead only a few months ago was released from Huntsville, Texas, state penitentiary, after serving 3 years 7 months of a seven-year sentence for forgery.

Forum on Water Problem Solution Ends Agreeably

A "town-forum" type of meeting on the city's proposed reservoir and water line expansion program resulted in most of those attending being convinced of its soundness, Mayor W. H. Yeager told city council Wednesday night.

The meeting was called at 4 p. m. Wednesday afternoon by Yeager and featured W. F. Turney of Santa Fe, the city's consulting engineer.

Invited to the meeting, were known residents who have not been convinced of the program's soundness.

Turney told the meeting "the city is faced with the prospect of drilling more and more wells or going into a program providing storage."

At city council meeting, Raymond F. Lamb, civic worker and oil firm manager, advanced a proposal that a booster pump be put on the present city standpipe to increase pressure in the low pressure area.

Lamb was told by Turney that while the proposal has merit, it would be expensive and would not be a long-range answer to the city's need.

Turney also pointed out that the city must ultimately increase the size of water mains in the low pressure area, since their capacity is too small to adequately meet demands for water.

Peak use of water in the city now approaches 6000 gallons, the city's water production limit, and will rise in the near future toward 7000 gallons.

"The ultimate answer is storage," Turney said.

He told The Artesia Advocate later, Artesia, to his best recollection, is the only city of appreciable size in the state without a reservoir.

The city's water expansion program now calls for construction of a two-million gallon reservoir, financed by a recently approved $130,000 general obligation bond issue, and replacing of water mains.

City Is Urged To Protect Plant

Scientific equipment to protect the city's recently-built $100,000 sewage plant was recommended by consulting engineer W. F. Turney of Santa Fe this week.

Sulphuric acid believed to have been released by the delinting plant of Artesia Farmers Gin Co-op, Inc., caused extensive damage to concrete of the plant.

Turney Thursday told The Advocate damage will cost between $9000 and $10,000 to repair.

Turney recommended to the city this week purchase of testing equipment costing approximately $1.00. The equipment would detect immediately foreign material in the plant.

Turney said an inspection by a representative from his office revealed damage to the plant came from sulphuric acid dumped into the lines.

Every indication points to the dumping having originated at the delinting plant.

Turney said the state health department should be requested to come to Artesia, make tests, and determine the course of city action in seeking compensation for damages and protecting against future damage.

The plant is working "nicely," Turney said, despite the damage. While the acid's attack on the concrete does not now hinder operation of the plant appreciably, he indicated it will reduce its life.

Chamber Directors Seek Road Funds, Utility Control

A stand for measures promoting better highways in New Mexico and economic development of the state was taken by Artesia Chamber of Commerce board of directors this week.

The chamber directors passed resolutions, backing up the recent stand of the New Mexico Chamber of Commerce Managers Assn., which would:

—Seek laws barring diversion of tax funds for highway purposes, probably through constitutional amendment.

—"Explore all possibilities of additional revenue for the state highway department to match federal funds for highway construction."

—Authorize a committee to study the state's set up governing regulation of public utilities.

In the resolution the Artesia Chamber of Commerce directors joined the state C of C managers' group in pointing out the last legislature passed laws diverting highway income funds away from use

Airport Road, Fence Building Proceeding Fast

Construction on the new access road to Artesia Municipal airport is rapidly proceeding, City Supervisor W. D. Fowler announced this week.

A fence enclosing the east end of the airport already has been completed, Fowler said.

Grading has been completed on the road and base put on, the city engineer reported, indicating completion of the road in the near future.

The $15,000 project is being paid for by the federal government and the city of Artesia.

Thrilling Steer Roping Is Slated Sunday

One of the West's most thrilling contests between man and beast will be staged in Artesia Sunday as Kiwanis club sponsors its first annual World Championship Steer Roping Contest.

Roping experts from across the country have been coming into Artesia this week, for the event, according to Ken Aldridge, Kiwanis chairman of planning for the rodeo.

Among them was Ike Rude, who came into Artesia at mid-week, telling Aldridge he'd heard of the Artesia contest and wanted to take part in it.

Nine other contestants, including some of the country's top steer ropers, have signed "for sure" for the contest, Aldridge said.

Starting time is 1 p. m. Sunday at Artesia Roping club arean just west of the city.

Admission will be $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for youngsters, 50 cents for reserved seats.

Signed ropers who will take part in Sunday's contest are Cotton Lee, Fort Sumner, N. M.; Everett Shaw, Stonewall, Okla.; John Dalton, Federal, Wyo.; Buddy Neil, Van Horn, Texas; Toots Mansfield, Big Spring, Texas; Shoat Webster, Lenopah, Okla.; Jim Sniveley, Pawhauska, Okla.; Clark McIntyre, Limestone Gap, Okla.; Carl Arnold, Buckeye, Ariz.

Others are expected to come into Artesia this week because word of the $10,000 prize money has been spread throughout the Southwest and across the nation in roping circles, Aldridge said.

Each roper draws five head of stock for the event.

Steer roping has gained a reputation for unsurpassed roughness and punishment of the cast involved—steer, horse and rider.

Each roper draws fresh stock for the event. Arrangements to bring some stock from Florida have been made by Kiwanis. Other is being sought through the Beutler Bros. stagers of the Elks Rodeo this weekend at Carlsbad.

The roper seeks to rope the animal about its horns, then bring the rope under its tail, causing the steer to fall heavily.

There is a jarring impact when the steer's weight and speed hit the rope, challenging the ability of the horse and of the rider.

Full concession stand services will be sponsored at the event.

Special bleacher sections are being erected by Kiwanis club to accommodate the huge crowd expected.

Local Doctor Discusses Cause Of Headaches

Probably more people complain of headaches than of any other ailment of the body—headaches with all their unpleasant consequences, headaches that leave the body almost powerless. But whatever the type of headache and whether it be acute or chronic, it is important to remember that without a primary cause a headache could not exist.

What is this primary cause? In most cases it is subluxation (misaligned) vertebra which pinches off nerve fibers and so cuts off their normal supply of vital nerve force. Thus, the organ so cut off from this supply cannot function properly and headaches result.

The Chiropractor locates this subluxated vertebra. Then adjusts the subluxation. After the subluxation is removed through the adjustment, all parts of the body again receive the vital life force they need, and the process of health resoration can begin.

If you have been suffering from headaches, no matter for how long, now is the time to see your Chiropractor.

It is not right to say "every thing possible has been done" unless Chiropractic is included.

For further information about Chiropractic, you are invited to consult Dr. Kathryn Behnke, 408 W. Richardson, or phone 861.

Membership Key Discussion Topic At DAV District

Membership, candidates, and plans were principal topics of discussion at the meeting of district 8, Disabled American Veterans, at a meeting held Sunday afternoon in Veterans Memorial building in Artesia.

Chapters from Roswell, Hobbs and Artesia were represented.

District Commander Jess Corn, Roswell, opened the meeting at 2 p. m. with a diiscusion of membership. It was revealed that the three chapters have already signed about 40 per cent of their 1954-55 membership quota for the year beginning July 1. Roswell leads the district with approximately 50 per cent signed.

He reports an attendance of 500 people for the anniversary service and picnic dinner last Sunday.

Among those mentioned as candidates for office at the department convention, scheduled for Albuquerque, June 10-12, were John Simons, Jr., for department commander and Jess Corn as a possible candidate for one of two other department offices.

It was decided the district would hold a caucus at the department convention to attempt to get solid district support for candidates from this district. Substantial delegations from this section are expected to attend the state affair.

Roswell indicated it might invite the DAVs to hold their 1955 convention there. Due to the fact that the recent flood in that city damaged the veterans' Ingall Memorial home, the chapter officials could not extend the invitation until it ascertains whether the damage is covered by insurance.

NuMexers Add Three More Victorie In Drive to Shorten Roswell Lea

Artesia NuMexers added three more victories this week in their battle to reduce Roswell's Longhorn league first-place position.

The NuMexers won 6-2 over Midland Wednesday night, trompled all over Sweetwater 20-6 Tuesday night, downed Midland 5-1 Monday night.

Wednesday's victory was the seventh straight win for veteran hurler Jodie Phipps of the NuMexers, who scattered eight hits in going the route for Artesia.

Artesia scored four points, one the second, three in fourth before Midland caught on with a pair in pair in the sixth.

Bud Hull's two-run homer for Midland in the sixth was the Indian's only score of the game. Hull, now with the Indians, is a former NuMexer.

Artesia scored at will in downing Sweetwater 20-66 Tuesday night.

Meanwhile, rookie Scott Robnett held the Spudders to five hits.

His teammates pounded three Spudder hurlers for 21 hits.

Sweetwater scored first with a pair in the opening stanza, but Artesia countered with one apiece in the second and third, then ran loose with five in the fourth, two in the fifth, seven in the seventh, and four in the eighth.

Sweetwater was charged with five errors in the contest, against two for the NuMexers.

Four Artesia players, Mickey Diaz, Reuben Smartt, Floyd Economides, and Paul Dobkowski, each drove in three runs apiece.

The Artesia sweep was achieved without homers.

Monday against Midland big Jim Tugerson tallied up his ninth win of the season, but had his 44-inning scoreless streak snapped.

The run breaking the 44-inning stretch in which Turerson hadn't allowed a score was unearned.

Reuben Smartt's hard-hit ball back at Leonard Piller, new Midland pitcher, incapacitated Piller for a few minutes, so much so three successive hits came off New NuMexer bats.

Artesia scored twice apiece in the fourth and eighth, once in the sixth. Midland scored its lone run in the fourth.

Artesia was charged with three errors, Midland one.

He was hospitalized at St. Mary's hospital in Roswell for a week due to a kidney infection, later receiving a back injury. He is still unable to sit up, due to his back, but Mrs. Bledsoe said their physician did not think it would be necessary to put him in a cast.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Mason are of June for a planning to leave about the middle of June for a vacation trip to Canon City, Colo., Grand Junction and other points of interest. They will visit friends in Colorado and do a lot of sight-seeing. They plan to be gone about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Davenport plan to go to Chandler, Okla., "sometime this summer" according to Mr. Davenport. Both grew up there, moving to Hagerman in 1945. They will visit Mr. Davenports parents who still reside there.

Huk Surrenders

SURRENDER of Luis Taruc (above), Hukbalahap leader, has been announced by the Philippines. (International)

According to an ancient superstition, the entrance to the infernal regions was through a volcanic crater lake near Naples, Italy.

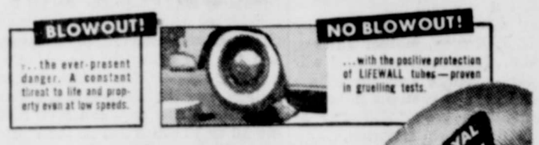

FREE AFTER 55 YEARS IN PRISON

81 YEARS OLD and out of prison after spending 55 of the last 57 years there, Lyman W. Hall (left) said he is confused "by women trying to wear pants like men," and added, "Who the Sam Hill is this fellow McCarthy?" With Hall in Chicago is Salvation Army Brig. Gen. Arvid Hamilton, who helped Hall win freedom to take a job with the organization. Hall got life in 1897 for the slaying of a Joliet, Ill., constable. He escaped in 1925, returned voluntarily two years later hoping for an early parole. (International)

Extra Water Needed To Fight Big Fires

THE CASE of the Cox Motor Co. warehouse fire this past week-end again demonstrated that Artesia firemen need a reserve water suppy when battling blazes away from city water mains.

With 500 gallons carried by the fire truck, firemen quelled the Cox warehouse blaze, using high pressure nozzles. Believing the fire was licked, the firemen took the truck to a city water hydrant for refilling.

By the time they returned, the fire was raging again with new life. Firemen almost exhausted again the 500 gallons supply carried on the truck, this time quenching the blaze thoroughly.

It is not the first time that fires beyond the water mains have gotten out of control through lack of adequate water supply for firemen. There have been cases in which firemen have helplessly watched a fire consume property because water simply was not available.

This lack has been met in some communities through purchase of a tank truck for the fire department. The tanker accompanies regular fire equipment on out-of-town runs only. When water on the pumper is exhausted, the tanker furnishes water.

It might not be necessary for the fire department to purchase such a tanker, although that would be ideal.

Perhaps there is city equipment in other departments which could be fitted to fill the need. To fill the gap until a permanent answer is found, that equipment might do double duty.

There are probably those who live beyond the Artesia city limits that would be willing to go along with the fire department in a campaign to buy a tanker truck.

Whatever the ultimate answer and the methods worked out to solve the need, something must be done.

It was heard at the Cox fire that proper reserve supply of water at the right time would have cut the fire loss a half to two-thirds. That saving alone would pay for a tank truck for the water department.

We are confident the city can, through a study of the situation, work out something which is economical and at the same time an adequate answer to the problem.

Sunday Memorial Day

SUNDAY IS MEMORIAL DAY across the nation.

It is set aside to honor the nation's war dead, having come to include the dead of all our wars.

Memorial Day is specially set aside that those who have died in their nation's armed service may be espeically remembered by the entire nation, focusing intensely national attention and thikning on the memory of men and women who have given their lives.

It is fitting that Memorial Day this year falls on a Sunday, for our thinking and our prayers as we too briefly commemorate the war dead should appropriately be combined with heightened religious attitude toward the problems of war and peace.

With nations of the world today locked in an armaments race like none the earth has ever before witnessed, with armaments more readly and horrible than most imagine, we must study the lessons learned in war, asking the good Lord for his direction in that study.

It is also fitting in paying tribute Sunday we should display the American flag in memory of those who have died that we may live in the richest nation in world history.

It was under that flag our war dead served and fought; it is fitting that in their memory we shoudl fly the banner which symbolizes the cause for which they battled and died.

Steer Roping

ONE OF THE MOST thrilling Western sports will be presented an Artesia audience Sunday afternoon when Kiwanis club stages its World Championship Steer Roping contest here.

Steer roping is a rough sport, a rugged challenge to the skill of roper and horse. Only three such contests such as Kiwanis is sponsoring are held in the U. S. annually.

Ropers will be vieing for a $10,000 purse in the event. The purse is made up of fees put up by the ropers and by the sponsoring Artesia Kiwanis club.

Time for the event is 1 p. m. Sunday, the place Artesia Roping club arena west of the city just off Grand street extended.

Artesians will be missing an attraction vieing with any other sport for excitement, thrill, and skill if they don't attend the steer roping Sunday.

Swimming Classes

REGISTRATION IS continuing this week for swimming classes for people of all ages.

Added this year is a special class in swimming for adults, held daily at 11:30 a. m.

Also available are courses for youngsters of all ages, extending up into junior and senior lifesaving courses for the more advanced swimmers.

Only fee for the course is the 10-cent daily cost of using the pool.

Two well-trained, long-experienced instructors are conducting courses — Mrs. Dee Nutt and Reese Smith.

Swimming offers one of the most wholesome physical recreations available to the Artesia public. It is a top conditioner of all bodily muscles, not achieved in any other sport to such a degree.

Whether you're an experienced or beginning swimmer, or have children in either category, the municipal swimming pool next to Senior high school offers one of the best summertime activities available.

How to Be Robbed

ALTHOUGH BANKS, even with doors and windows open, are pretty hard paces to rob at night, a little story in the Advocate the other day pointed up the seeming carelessness with which Artesia business and professional places are closed at night.

Both the city's banks were found unlocked last week-end—and both together on two different nights. Fortunately, even with windows and doors open, banks are hard to get into.

But the business of open doors and windows has made a man-sized headache for police and store owners alike.

Police now assign a man full-time to checking doors, and patrol car officers also check doors. The result has been an increase in the number of open doors discovered.

When a business is found unlocked, the officer uses the telephone in the building to call headquarters, then stays on duty until the building's owner or person responsible is phone and comes to properly lock up.

Open doors have been found in jewelry stores, banks, and tire stores, dry goods establishments, dentist's offices, and insurance firms—every type of business.

When police were asking the other day for ideas on how to get business to close up, it was just suggested to let things go along until some night a burglar merely walks in the front door, helps himself.

But pity the poor cops on a deal like that—open doors or not, there'd be a might howl.

The best answer is for the individual businessman to put a reminder on lock-up where he'll see it very night as he goes out the door.

MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

Lower Gasoline Tax, Better Roads for State Inconsistent — Highways Have to Be Paid For

YOU CAN'T HAVE BOTH

The board of directors of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce were recently asked, by the state association of chamber managers, to pass a resolution urging the next Legislature to examine all means of increasing the revenues of the State Highway Department. The need for more state highway money is urgent, the state group pointed out, because the federal government is now making more highway funds available, on a matching basis and if the state is to take advantage of the federal largesse, the state must get hold of more money itself.

Carlsbad's directors pondered the resolution thought they sniffed a proposal to hike the state gasoline tax, and turned it down. They were undoubtedly right about the gasoline taxes. There is only one way for the Highway Department to get more money—higher gasoline taxes.

Maybe the Carlsbad chamber directors were right and maybe they weren't. One thing is certain. To get more and better highways—and everybody seems to be digging the state for them—you've got to spend more money. If the people of New Mexico are content to put up with the somewhat slow improvement of highways as at present, they can demand that the present gas tax level is maintained. If they want a major speed-up in highway construction, more gasoline taxes are the only feasible answer.

The state can't have both. — Carlsbad Current-Argus.

DEAD SKUNKS

Tucumcari and Clayton, in northeastern New Mexico, possibly have cause for alarm in the widespread deaths of skunks. Dist. Game Wadren Elmo Traylor reports "there are dead skunks all over the Clayton country." Even a couple of eagles killed recently had a strong odor of skunk.

The State Game Department and the State Health Department suspect it might be rabies that is killing the skunks. Dr. John Mason, rabies specialist on loan to New Mexico from the U. S. Public Health Service, has asked that the heads of some dead animals be sent in for examination.

Many animals besides dogs can carry rabies, and careful communities will strive for control of rats and skunks. They can be as deadly as mad dogs. — Hobbs News-Sun.

WASHINGTON PLEASE COPY

Political leaders at all levels would do well to study the efforts of both gubernatorial candidates last week when they appeared on the same platform at Santa Fe during sessions of the League of Women Voters.

Alvin Stockton and John Simms discussed issues. Both the Democartic and Republican candidate for the governor's office set forth their views on a good many subjects. They did not (and this is news in the political field these days) resort to diversionary mid-slinging and petty personality clashes.

They set a tone which all candidates for public office in New Mexico and elsewhere would do well to follow, particularly those at the national party levels in Washington.

No one expects Simms or Stockton to agree on everything. But it's immensely refreshing to find two opposing candidates who do not insult the intelligence of their listeners by resorting to the common tactics of the day.

In a period when a number of spokesman of one party have mouthed the word "trattor" in referring to their political opponents. John Simms and Alvin Stockton command the respect of citizens for their straightforward approach to basic issues.

New Mexico's election methods have taken quite a drubbing from many sections of the country during the past two years. If the high level established by Simms and Stockton in the Santa Fe appearance is maintained, perhaps this state will lead the way to far more wholesome political efforts in the future. — El Crepusculo, Taos.

APACHES' CLAIM DESERVES ATTENTION

A recent report by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem proposing to turn 26,000 acres of Fort Stanton land over to federal public domain and give the state some 12,700 acres, appears to completely ignore the claims of Mescalero Apaches under a military-Apache treaty made in 1852.

Wendell Chono, Mescalero tribal council spokesman, on Feb. 19 before a House commitee on public lands, presented maps made in 1852 showing boundary lines of land which was considered "loaned" to the United States to build the For tStanton military post. Chino presented 19 supporting claims to the land.

The Apaches agreed later that the land be used as a tubercular sanitorium for seamen, and Chino said they are now willing to allow the state use of 1,500 acres, including the Fort Stanton hospital.

Historically, treaties with our now god neighbors, the Indians seem to have gone awry or been ignored, or at best, results terribly delayed. The Mescaleros have particularly been an enterprising tribe—despite the faithlessnes of treaties, and even now are willing to negotiate fairly.

The trends toward Indians today are for releasing them from wardship of the federal government and perhaps Gov. Mechem's actions are in line with this policy. However perfidy regarding old agreements, if the Mescalero claims are valid, just and proper, is not a desirable trait to find in a man who aspires to take a seat in the U. S. Senate.—Alamogordo News.

Old age assistance costs in New Mexico are rising at the rate of over 20 per cent a year—100 per cent every five years.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT—

Nowadays, Almost Everything You Want Is Available in Tin Cans

Okra, chloroform, squid, lye, mustard plasters, scrapple, cyanide, hominy, asphalt, horsemeat, deodorants, caulking, fish balls—along with the usual pork and beans—will be among the 1,500 things Americans put into 35 billion cans this year.

The canning business started as a bottling business. In 1795, France desperately needed better food for her soldiers and offered 12,000 francs for anyone who could preserve perishables. Nicolas Appert, a Parisian candymaker, tried for years, ruining edibles liké a bride. Finally he succeeded simply by cooking all enthusiasm out of the food's bacteria. A year later, Englishman Peter Durand began putting food up in "tin canisters."

THE LATE Willa Cather liked quiet, and plenty of it. Marion King writes in The Saturday Review:

When she wanted an apartment and found one on upper Park avenue, she told of sitting alone in it for hours—I feel she said all day and night—to test its quiet before signing the lease. Legend has it that in Bank street she rented the apartment above hers, just to keep it empty, oh enviable luxury.

HERE'S A hotel where it's always late afternoon. Arthur Meeker tells about it in the Chicago Tribune:

At last I have found out where good Americans go when they die—not, as we used to think, to Paris, but to the Huntington hotel in Pasadena. Truly it's impossible to imagine a more perfect resort for the middle-aged to elderly, who are looking for a place in the sun with neither too much nor too little to do. And the middleaged to elderly are here by the hundreds occupying these exquisitely decorated rooms and suites, eating succulent meals in the vast dining hall, listening to mocking birds sing amid the blossoms of fabulous gardens, enjoying their bridge and canasta and miniature golf.

They are lapped in luxury, cosseted by a staff of fatherly clerks and brotherly bell boys. Even the waitresses remind you of someone's Aunt Emily. Nothing is permitted to jar; a golden hush broods over this perfectly appointed palace, where it seems to be always 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

THERE CAN never have been a time in the history of the world when men had greater need of wisdom. By wisdom I do not mean technical knowledge. I mean an understanding of man's relationship to his fellow men and the universe. Unless we can foster an understanding of the ethical principles which ought to regulate human conduct, we can now be destroyed by men who are essentially barbarians despite impressive technical proficiency. —Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia university.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

As Furor Grows Against Fort Bliss Land Grab, Chavez Assures 'Everything Under Control'

AS PROTESTS grow against what stockmen describe as a "land grab" by the Army in the White Sands Proving Ground area, Sen. Dennis Chaves steps to the front to declare "everything's under control."

The Army wants the land to extend the Fort Bliss firing range. It plans on taking 438,000 acres of federal land, 143,000 acres of state land, and 66,000 acres of private land.

Everyone involved got hot under the collar when the Army, without prior notification of anyone from Gov. Ed Mechem down, simply announced its intentions.

Sen. Chaves says "for the moment everything is under control."

That apparently means there'll be nothing done until a full hearing is held.

FROM LAS VEGAS come reports of a rich uranium find.

The two prospectors who discovered it say the find "is so obviously rich a core drill examination is not necessary." It has already been inspected by government experts.

A NEW ALTITUDE record for a single stage rocket was set this week when the Viking No. 11 soared 158 miles into the air over White Sands Proving Ground.

That level has been exceeded by a rocket, but it was a two-stage missile. An old German V-2 rocket with a WAC Corporal on its nose was shot off several years ago, the Corporal automatically being shot when the V-2 reached its maximum height.

COFFEE TALK—

Mulcock Revolt, Carlsbad Uprising Could Bring Taut County Demo Meet

SOMETHING OF A revolt against the Democratic leadership in the Artesia precinct took place last week-end in two Demo meetings.

The revolt was against the leadership of J. B. "Buster" Mulcock, who was accused by the younger Demo element of reducing party harmony and effectiveness. The accusation was to the extent of reading a list of specific instances in which old, true hands in Demo politics had been pushed to the sidelines.

The battle began with the precinct meeting last Saturday to elect 31 committeemen. Through some maneuvering, the insurgent element was cut of from making nominations from the floor for committeemen.

When it come to the committee meeting to elect officers Monday afternoon, the insurgents were also hemmed in through parliamentary maneuvering.

Cecil Waldrep was put up by the insurgents as the candidate to rival Buster for the Demo precinct chairman ship. A. J. "Jerry" Losee, and F. F. "Doc" Elvin sought to work for Waldrep, finally secured approval of a secret ballot in the voting for chairman.

heir theory that a secret ballot would allow committeemen to express the anti-Mulcock feeling did not work out. Mulcock was re-elected, 20 to 9.

However, Losee, Elvin, and Waldrep did win a compromise to the extent that an "advisory committee" to work closely with the chairman was appointed.

Four of its five members are pro-Mulcock—T. E. Brown, Sr., Joe Alvarado, Rev. J. H. Horton, and Mrs. H. R. Paton, while the fifth is Losee.

The revolt was keyed in part by the manner in which Mulcock sought to work against F. Ray Zumwalt in the primary campaign for county commission. Losee, incidentally, was Zumwalt's attorney at the recount held in Carlsbad following the primary's close fought commission race.

With the ill-fated revolt in Artesia and the Carlsbad precinct turmoil, Saturday's county Demo meeting in Carlsbad could produce some highly interesting developments.

AS WE TALKED with Mrs. C. R. Blocker the other day about her forthcoming trip to Europe, she handed over, for examination, the passport issued her by the state department for the trip.

Mrs. Blocker had to go through channels to secure proof of her birth, since hers was not recorded. But the state department did issue the passport on receiving proof of her birth.

We couldn't help feeling as we examined the passport that this document which was given so relatively freely to her would be worth many thousands of dollars to people in other lands, who would be willing to sacrifice almost anything to possess it.

RAY BARTLETT is planning to start his annual hunt in mid-August. Last year Ray, his son Bill of Carlsbad, and John Boren went to Kodiak, Alaska, where all three bagged Kodiak bears.

This year Ray will go after Alaskan wildlife of a different sort—"sheep and goats and small bear," he says. He plans to drive to Alaska on the Alcan highway, a trip he has not made despite extensive travels heretofore in the north.

AFTER SEEING a magazine article on the subject, we queried a few store owners as to whether shoplifting is on the increase in their places of business.

The consensus apparently is that shoplifting is not a major problem until cotton-picking season comes around.

The main problem store owners and managers are faced with is the ever-continuing one of hot checks, which cost the stores thousands of dollars every year.

FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

Proof of Communist Beachhead Seen By Shipment of Arms to Guatamala

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman from New Mexico

Communists have established a beachhead in the Western Hemisphere.

To those Americans who have been inclined to view with complacency the activities of the Red aggressors the revelation that 2,000 tons of arms from a Polish-controlled port have been unloaded in Guatemala should prove a startling danger signal.

The fact that this huge supply of war-making equipment, which is enough to upset the entire balance of power in Central America, was transported in a Swedish ship chartered by a British firm adds the disturbing thought that a neutral nation and one of our supposedly close allies were parties to the Communist coup.

That Guatemala is Communist dominated was evident at the recent Caracas conference of North, South and Central American nations. Nicaragua has broken off relations with Gutaemala because of Guatemalan plotting against the Nicaraguan regime, a close adherent to the Inter-American pacts. Honduras is expelling Guatemalan consular personnel who are charged with fomenting a general strike in that country. Guatemalan agents are reported to be engaged in the same activities in Panama.

A considerable part of our American press views this arms shipment as a potential Communist threat to the Panama Canal as well as to Mexico, Guatemala's neighbor to the north. The mere acceptance of more arms than Guatemala possibly could need for keeping internal order denotes complicity by that nation in the Soviet aggression plot.

Suspicion is justified by the mere fact that this arms shipment was unloaded at night under close military guard and the Guatemalan government denied its true nature. The close neighbors of Guatemala are taking action. It is high time we convince our Western Hemisphere allies that we mean business and that the Carcas resolution and Rio Treaty are not mere scraps of paper.

The American people have full justfication for asking what sort of a foreign policy we have — if we really have a clearly-defined one—that causes us to assume the principal burden in defense of far-off lands while the wily Reds build up a potential sneak attack on our own doorstep. We cannot continue to pursue the same policy that is proving its futility at Geneva.

INCREASE IN funds for the Rio Grande floodway program of the Army engineers from $500,000 to $800,000 for next year has been approved by the senate appropriations committee.

The civil functions bill as passed by the house carried the lesser amount due to the fact that the bureau of the budget had refused to let the Army engineers request more, although need for it was shown in the engineers' report on the project. There is every reason to believe that we can obtain concurrence by the house in the senate committee's action when the bill comes to conference.

The Rio Grande floodway work has been slowed down too greatly in recent years due to insufficient appropriations although the entire program had been previously authorized by the Congress.

New Mexico has seven state supported institutions of higher learning, all offering four-year degrees or higher.

Extra Water Needed To Fight Big Fires

THE CASE of the Cox Motor Co. warehouse fire this past week-end again demonstrated that Artesia firemen need a reserve water suppy when battling blazes away from city water mains.

With 500 gallons carried by the fire truck, firemen quelled the Cox warehouse blaze, using high pressure nozzles. Believing the fire was licked, the firemen took the truck to a city water hydrant for refilling.

By the time they returned, the fire was raging again with new life. Firemen almost exhausted again the 500 gallons supply carried on the truck, this time quenching the blaze thoroughly.

It is not the first time that fires beyond the water mains have gotten out of control through lack of adequate water supply for firemen. There have been cases in which firemen have helplessly watched a fire consume property because water simply was not available.

This lack has been met in some communities through purchase of a tank truck for the fire department. The tanker accompanies regular fire equipment on out-of-town runs only. When water on the pumper is exhausted, the tanker furnishes water.

It might not be necessary for the fire department to purchase such a tanker, although that would be ideal.

Perhaps there is city equipment in other departments which could be fitted to fill the need. To fill the gap until a permanent answer is found, that equipment might do double duty.

There are probably those who live beyond the Artesia city limits that would be willing to go along with the fire department in a campaign to buy a tanker truck.

Whatever the ultimate answer and the methods worked out to solve the need, something must be done.

It was heard at the Cox fire that proper reserve supply of water at the right time would have cut the fire loss a half to two-thirds. That saving alone would pay for a tank truck for the water department.

We are confident the city can, through a study of the situation, work out something which is economical and at the same time an adequate answer to the problem.

Sunday Memorial Day

SUNDAY IS MEMORIAL DAY across the nation.

It is set aside to honor the nation's war dead, having come to include the dead of all our wars.

Memorial Day is specially set aside that those who have died in their nation's armed service may be espeically remembered by the entire nation, focusing intensely national attention and thikning on the memory of men and women who have given their lives.

It is fitting that Memorial Day this year falls on a Sunday, for our thinking and our prayers as we too briefly commemorate the war dead should appropriately be combined with heightened religious attitude toward the problems of war and peace.

With nations of the world today locked in an armaments race like none the earth has ever before witnessed, with armaments more readily and horrible than most imagine, we must study the lessons learned in war, asking the good Lord for his direction in that study.

It is also fitting in paying tribute Sunday we should display the American flag in memory of those who have died that we may live in the richest nation in world history.

It was under that flag our war dead served and fought; it is fitting that in their memory we shoudl fly the banner which symbolizes the cause for which they battled and died.

Steer Roping

ONE OF THE MOST thrilling Western sports will be presented an Artesia audience Sunday afternoon when Kiwanis club stages its World Championship Steer Roping contest here.

Steer roping is a rough sport, a rugged challenge to the skill of roper and horse. Only three such contests such as Kiwanis is sponsoring are held in the U. S. angually.

Ropers will be vieing for a $10,000 purse in the event. The purse is made up of fees put up by the ropers and by the sponsoring Artesia Kiwanis club.

Time for the event is 1 p. m. Sunday, the place Artesia Roping club arena west of the city just off Grand street extended.

Artesians will be missing an attraction vieing with any other sport for excitement, thrill, and skill if they don't attend the steer roping Sunday.

Swimming Classes

REGISTRATION IS continuing this week for swimming classes for people of all ages.

Added this year is a special class in swimming for adults, held daily at 11:30 a. m.

Also available are courses for youngsters of all ages, extending up into junior and senior lifesaving courses for the more advanced swimmers.

Only fee for the course is the 10-cent daily cost of using the pool.

Two well-trained, long-experienced instructors are conducting courses — Mrs. Dee Nutt and Reese Smith.

Swimming offers one of the most wholesome physical recreations available to the Artesia public. It is a top conditioner of all bodily muscles, not achieved in any other sport to such a degree.

Whether you're an experienced or beginning swimmer, or have children in either category, the municipal swimming pool next to Senior high school offers one of the best summertime activities available.

How to Be Robbed

ALTHOUGH BANKS, even with doors and windows open, are pretty hard paces to rob at night, a little story in the Advocate the other day pointed up the seeming carelessness with which Artesia business and professional places are closed at night.

Both the city's banks were found unlocked last week-end—and both together on two different nights. Fortunately, even with windows and doors open, banks are hard to get into.

But the business of open doors and windows has made a man-sized headache for police and store owners alike.

Police now assign a man full-time to checking doors, and patrol car officers also check doors. The result has been an increase in the number of open doors discovered.

When a business is found unlocked, the officer uses the telephone in the building to call headquarters, then stays on duty until the building's owner or person responsible is phone and comes to properly lock up.

Open doors have been found in jewelry stores, banks, and tire stores, dry goods establishments, dentist's offices, and insurance firms—every type of business.

When police were asking the other day for ideas on how to get business to close up, it was just suggested to let things go along until some night a burglar merely walks in the front door, helps himself.

But pity the poor cops on a deal like that—open doors or not, there'd be a might howl.

The best answer is for the individual businessman to put a reminder on lock-up where he'll see it very night as he goes out the door.

THIS LAND OF ENCHANTMENT—

As Furor Grows Against Fort Bliss Land Grab, Chavez Assures 'Everything Under Control'

AS PROTESTS grow against what stockmen describe as a "land grab" by the Army in the White Sands Proving Ground area, Sen. Dennis Chaves steps to the front to declare "everything's under control."

The Army wants the land to extend the Fort Bliss firing range. It plans on taking 438,000 acres of federal land, 143,000 acres of state land, and 66,000 acres of private land.

Everyone involved got hot under the collar when the Army, without prior notification of anyone from Gov. Ed Mechem down, simply announced its intentions.

Sen. Chaves says "for the moment everything is under control."

That apparently means there'll be nothing done until a full hearing is held.

FROM LAS VEGAS come reports of a rich uranium find.

The two prospectors who discovered it say the find "is so obviously rich a core drill examination is not necessary." It has already been inspected by government experts.

A NEW ALTITUDE record for a single stage rocket was set this week when the Viking No. 11 soared 158 miles into the air over White Sands Proving Ground.

That level has been exceeded by a rocket, but it was a two-stage missile. An old German V-2 rocket with a WAC Corporal on its nose was shot off several years ago, the Corporal automatically being shot when the V-2 reached its maximum height.

OVER AT TRUTH or Consequences, the city's four dry cleaning establishments offer a timely and welcome service: t

As T or C residents prepare for Memorial Day Sunday, the dry-cleaners are offering to clean flags, free of charge.

AT LaLUZ last week, says the Alamogordo News, a former Holloman airman and his family were blown out of their home.

The house was built just recently of adobe by the ex-airman, now a cook.

The wood and tarpaper roof bolted into eight-inch adobe walls was tossed off into the yard about 25 feet from the house.

Heavy rain came with what the man described as a "small twister."

IN GALLUP a former city policeman is being held for shooting a carpenter and wounding his wife.

The incident was reported by the ex-cop's wife, whose hand was injured.

Their stories conflicted. The Gallup police chief, however, has declined to comment on their statements pending further investigation.

Lower Gasoline Tax, Better Roads for State Inconsistent — Highways Have to Be Paid For

YOU CAN'T HAVE BOTH

The board of directors of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce were recently asked, by the state association of chamber managers, to pass a resolution urging the next Legislature to examine all means of increasing the revenues of the State Highway Department. The need for more state highway money is urgent, the state group pointed out, because the federal government is now making more highway funds available, on a matching basis and if the state is to take advantage of the federal largesse, the state must get hold of more money itself.

Carlsbad's directors pondered the resolution thought they sniffed a proposal to hike the state gasoline tax, and turned it down. They were undoubtedly right about the gasoline taxes. There is only one way for the Highway Department to get more money—higher gasoline taxes.

Maybe the Carlsbad chamber directors were right and maybe they weren't. One thing is certain. To get more and better highways—and everybody seems to be digging the state for them — you've got to spend more money. If the people of New Mexico are content to put up with the somewhat slow improvement of highways as at present, they can demand that the present gas tax level is maintained. If they want a major speed-up in highway construction, more gasoline taxes are the only feasible answer.

The state can't have both. — Carlsbad Current-Argus.

DEAD SKUNKS

Tucumcari and Clayton, in northeastern New Mexico, possibly have cause for alarm in the widespread deaths of skunks. Dist. Game Wadren Elmo Traylor reports "there are dead skunks all over the Clayton country." Even a couple of eagles killed recently had a strong odor of skunk.

The State Game Department and the State Health Department suspect it might be rabies that is killing the skunks. Dr. John Mason, rabies specialist on loan to New Mexico from the U. S. Public Health Service, has asked that the heads of some dead animals be sent in for examination.

Many animals besides dogs can carry rabies, and careful communities will strive for control of rats and skunks. They tan be as deadly as mad dogs. — Hobbs News-Sun.

WASHINGTON PLEASE COPY

Political leaders at all levels would do well to study the efforts of both gubernatorial candidates last week when they appeared on the same platform at Santa Fe during sessions of the League of Women Voters.

Alvin Stockton and John Simms discussed issues. Both the Democartic and Republican candidate for the governor's office set forth their views on a good many subjects. They did not (and this is news in the political field these days) resort to diversionary mid-slinging and petty personality clashes.

They set a tone which all candidates for public office in New Mexico and elsewhere would do well to follow, particularly those at the national party levels in Washington.

No one expects Simms or Stockton to agree on everything. But it's immensely refreshing to find two opposing candidates who do not insult the intelligence of their listeners by resorting to the common tactics of the day.

In a period when a number of spokesman of one party have mouthed the word "trattor" in referring to their political opponents, John Simms and Alvin Stockton command the respect of citizens for their straightforward approach to basic issues.

New Mexico's election methods have taken quite a drubbing from many sections of the country during the past two years. If the high level established by Simms and Stockton in the Santa Fe appearance is maintained, perhaps this state will lead the way to far more wholesome political efforts in the future. — El Crepusculo, Taos.

APACHES' CLAIM DESERVES ATTENTION

A recent report by Gov. Edwin L. Mechem proposing to turn 26,000 acres of Fort Stanton land over to federal public domain and give the state some 12,700 acres, appears to completely ignore the claims of Mescalero Apaches under a military-Apache treaty made in 1852.

Wendell Chono, Mescalero tribal council spokesman, on Feb. 19 before a House commitee on public lands, presented maps made in 1852 showing boundary lines of land which was considered "loaned" to the United States to build the For tStanton military post. Chino presented 19 supporting claims to the land.

The Apaches agreed later that the land be used as a tubercular sanitorium for seamen, and Chino said they are now willing to allow the state use of 1,500 acres, including the Fort Stanton hospital.

Historically, treaties with our now god neighbors, the Indians seem to have gone awry or been ignored, or at best, results terribly delayed. The Mescaleros have particularly been an enterprising tribe—despite the faithlessnes of treaties, and even now are willing to negotiate fairly.

The trends toward Indians today are for releasing them from wardship of the federal government and perhaps Gov. Mechem's actions are in line with this policy. However perfidy regarding old agreements, if the Mescalero claims are valid, just and proper, is not a desirable trait to find in a man who aspires to take a seat in the U. S. Senate.—Alamogordo News.

Old age assistance costs in New Mexico are rising at the rate of over 20 per cent a year—100 per cent every five years.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT—

Nowadays, Almost Everything You Want Is Available in Tin Cans

Okra, chloroform, squid, lye, mustard plasters, scrapple, cyanide, hominy, asphalt, horsemeat, deodorants, caulking, fish balls—along with the usual pork and beans—will be among the 1,500 things Americans put into 35 billion cans this year.

The canning business started as a bottling business. In 1795, France desperately needed better food for her soldiers and offered 12,000 francs for anyone who could preserve perishables. Nicolas Appert, a Parisian candy-maker, tried for years, ruining edibles like a bride. Finally he succeeded simply by cooking all enthusiasm out of the food's bacteria. A year later, Englishman Peter Durand began putting food up in "tin canisters."

THE LATE Willa Cather liked quiet, and plenty of it. Marion King writes in The Saturday Review:

When she wanted an apartment and found one on upper Park avenue, she told of sitting alone in it for hours—I feel she said all day and night—to test its quiet before signing the lease. Legend has it that in Bank street she rented the apartment above hers, just to keep it empty, oh enviable luxury.

HERE'S A hotel where it's always late afternoon. Arthur Meeker tells about it in the Chicago Tribune:

At last I have found out where good Americans go when they die—not, as we used to think, to Paris, but to the Huntington hotel in Pasadena. Truly it's impossible to imagine a more perfect resort for the middle-aged to elderly, who are looking for a place in the sun with neither too much nor too little to do. And the middleaged to elderly are here by the hundreds occupying these exquisitely decorated rooms and suites, eating succulent meals in the vast dining hall, listening to mocking birds sing amid the blossoms of fabulous gardens, enjoying their bridge and canasta and miniature golf.

They are lapped in luxury, cosseted by a staff of fatherly clerks and brotherly bell boys. Even the waitresses remind you of someone's Aunt Emily. Nothing is permitted to jar; a golden hush broods over this perfectly appointed palace, where it seems to be always 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

THERE CAN never have been a time in the history of the world when men had greater need of wisdom. By wisdom I do not mean technical knowledge. I mean an understanding of man's relationship to his fellow men and the universe. Unless we can foster an understanding of the ethical principles which ought to regulate human conduct, we can now be destroyed by men who are essentially barbarians despite impressive technical proficiency. —Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia university.

COFFEE TALK—

Mulcock Revolt, Carlsbad Uprising Could Bring Taut County Demo Meet

SOMETHING OF a revolt against the Democratic leadership in the Artesia precinct took place last week-end in two Demo meetings.

The revolt was against the leadership of J. B. "Buster" Mulcock, who was accused by the younger Demo element of reducing party harmony and effectiveness. The accusation was to the extent of reading a list of specific instances in which old, true hands in Demo politics had been pushed to the sidelines.

The battle began with the precinct meeting last Saturday to elect 31 committeemen. Through some maneuvering, the insurgent element was cut of from making nominations from the floor for committeemen.

When it come to the committee meeting to elect officers Monday afternoon, the insurgents were also hemmed in through parliamentary maneuvering.

Cecil Waldrep was put up by the insurgents as the candidate to rival Buster for the Demo precinct chairman ship. A. J. "Jerry" Losee, and F. F. "Doc" Elvin sought to work for Waldrep, finally secured approval of a secret ballot in the voting for chairman.

heir theory that a secret ballot would allow committeemen to express the anti-Mulcock feeling did not work out. Mulcock was re-elected, 20 to 9.

However, Losee, Elvin, and Waldrep did win a compromise to the extent that an "advisory committee" to work closely with the chairman was appointed.

Four of its five members are pro-Mulcock—T. E. Brown, Sr., Joe Alvarado, Rev. J. H. Horton, and Mrs. H. R. Paton, while the fifth is Losee.

The revolt was keyed in part by the manner in which Mulcock sought to work against F. Ray Zumwalt in the primary campaign for county commission. Losee, incidentally, was Zumwalt's attorney at the recount held in Carlsbad following the primary's close fought commission race.

With the ill-fated revolt in Artesia and the Carlsbad precinct turmoil, Saturday's county Demo meeting in Carlsbad could produce some highly interesting developments.

AS WE TALKED with Mrs. C. R. Blocker the other day about her forthcoming trip to Europe, she handed over, for examination, the passport issued her by the state department for the trip.

Mrs. Blocker had to go through channels to secure proof of her birth, since hers was not recorded. But the state department did issue the passport on receiving proof of her birth.

We couldn't help feeling as we examined the passport that this document which was given so relatively freely to her would be worth many thousands of dollars to people in other lands, who would be willing to sacrifice almost anything to possess it.

RAY BARTLETT is planning to start his annual hunt in mid-August. Last year Ray, his son Bill of Carlsbad, and John Boren went to Kodiak, Alaska, where all three bagged Kodiak bears.

This year Ray will go after Alaskan wildlife of a different sort—"sheep and goats and small bear," he says. He plans to drive to Alaska on the Alcan highway, a trip he has not made despite extensive travels heretofore in the north.

AFTER SEEING a magazine article on the subject, we queried a few store owners as to whether shoplifting is on the increase in their places of business.

The consensus apparently is that shoplifting is not a major problem until cotton-picking season comes around.

The main problem store owners and managers are faced with is the ever-continuing one of hot checks, which cost the stores thousands of dollars every year.

FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

Proof of Communist Beachhead Seen By Shipment of Arms to Guatamala

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman from New Mexico

Communists have established a beachhead in the Western Hemisphere.

To those Americans who have been inclined to view with complacency the activities of the Red aggressors the revelation that 2,000 tons of arms from a Polish-controlled port have been unloaded in Guatemala should prove a startling danger signal.

The fact that this huge supply of war-making equipment, which is enough to upset the entire balance of power in Central America, was transported in a Swedish ship chartered by a British firm adds the disturbing thought that a neutral nation and one of our supposedly close allies were parties to the Communist coup.

That Guatemala is Communist dominated was evident at the recent Caracas conference of North, South and Central American nations. Nicaragua has broken off relations with Gutaemala because of Guatemalan plotting against the Nicaraguan regime, a close adherent to the Inter-American pacts. Honduras is expelling Guatemalan consular personnel who are charged with fomenting a general strike in that country. Guatemalan agents are reported to be engaged in the same activities in Panama.

A considerable part of our American press views this arms shipment as a potential Communist threat to the Panama Canal as well as to Mexico, Guatemala's neighbor to the north. The mere acceptance of more arms than Guatemala possibly could need for keeping internal order denotes complicity by that nation in the Soviet aggression plot.

Suspicion is justified by the mere fact that this arms shipment was unloaded at night under close military guard and the Guatemalan government denied its true nature. The close neighbors of Guatemala are taking action. It is high time we convince our Western Hemisphere allies that we mean business and that the Carcas resolution and Rio Treaty are not mere scraps of paper.

The American people have full justfication for asking what sort of a foreign policy we have — if we really have a clearly-defined one—that causes us to assume the principal burden in defense of far-off lands while the wily Reds build up a potential sneak attack on our own doorstep. We cannot continue to pursue the same policy that is proving its futility at Geneva.

INCREASE IN funds for the Rio Grande floodway program of the Army engineers from $500,000 to $800,000 for next year has been approved by the senate appropriations committee.

The civil functions bill as passed by the house carried the lesser amount due to the fact that the bureau of the budget had refused to let the Army engineers request more, although need for it was shown in the engineers' report on the project. There is every reason to believe that we can obtain concurrence by the house in the senate committee's action when the bill comes to conference.

The Rio Grande floodway work has been slowed down too greatly in recent years due to insufficient appropriations although the entire program had been previously authorized by the Congress.

New Mexico has seven state supported institutions of higher learning, all offering four-year degrees or higher.
