ON RODEO PROGRAM — Kenneth Foy and one of the "Golden Chargers" take a bow at a performance such as they will present here during the 30th annual Scurry County Rodeo. The rodeo begins a four-night run Wednesday at the arena west of town.

30th Annual Rodeo To Open Wednesday

The Scurry County Rodeo Association will present its 30th annual rodeo for a four - night run beginning Wednesday.

A performance will be held each evening, beginning at 8 p.m., at the rodeo grounds west of town.

The major preliminary event will be the annual rodeo parade, which will be held in the downtown area at 4 p.m. Wednesday. There will be competition among floats in the parade and cash prizes will be awarded to the top three. First parade prize will be $150, second prize will be $90 and third prize will be $50.

In addition to the floats in competition for prizes there will be scores of riders and riding groups, commerical entries and others to make up a long procession through town.

A top-notch specialty act will be presented during the rodeo performance each evening. This will feature Kenneth Foy and the "Golden Chargers," in a colorful, precision presentation.

Following the rodeo performance each evening, Hoyle Nix and his famous western band will be on hand for a big western dance in the rodeo pavilion.

In the rodeo cowboys will compete in such events as calf roping, steer riding, team tieing, bronc riding, bareback riding and the wild mare race.

Cowgirls will vie in the barrel race each evening and there will be a junior goat sacking event for Scurry County youngsters 12 years old and under, along with a stockholders roping contest.

Admission prices for each performance of the rodeo are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

R. J. (Buddy) Trevey is president of the Scurry County Rodeo Association, while Bill Zimmerman is vice president and Joe V. Robinson is secretary-treasurer. J. N. Eicke is the arena director.

SNYDER AREA OIL

Dalton H. Cobb and John W. Ruwwe of Midland No. 1 Thomas, 2½ miles south of Ira, has been potentialed as a Pennsylvanian lime oil discovery for Scurry County.

From perforations at 6,825-829 feet, it flowed 190 barrels of 40.5-gravity oil daily through a 16-64-inch choke. Gas-oil ratio was 670-1 and surface pressure registered 300 pounds.

Location is 2,173 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 151, block 97, H&TC survey. It is a location north of the same operators No. 1 Taylor, recently completed to open the Cobb-Ruwwe (6,795-foot Pennsylvanian oil) pool.

That venture yielded 193 barrels of 42.5-gravity crude on the 24-hour potential flowing on a 20-64-inch choke from perforations at 6,785-97 feet.

Two locations for wildcat operations have been staked in Kent County.

Deeper of the two projects is Midland Production Corp. of Houston No. 1 A. Wood, a 7,000-foot Canyon reef lime test, 11 miles northwest of Clairemont. It is ½ mile west of the Salt Creek (Strawn) pool and ¾ mile east of the SMS (Canyon sand and reef lime) pool.

The drillsite is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 196, block G, W&NW survey.

Three miles south of Clairemont (Strawn) pool.

Projected to 6,900 feet, it is from west lines of section 6, block 98, H&TC survey.

* * *

Second producing zone — the Canyon sand — has been opened in the Shamrock (Canyon reef lime) area of Fisher County, six miles southeast of Rotan.

Sojourner Drilling Co. of Abilene (Formerly S. Richard Fletcher and J. V. Polk of Abilene) No. 1 Edward B. Burke, was recompleted from Canyon said perforations at 5,100-14 feet which had been washed with 1,000 gallons of mud acid and fractured with an unreported quantity of fluid and propping material, to pump 75 barrels of 40-gravity oil per day.

Location is 1,080 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 7, block 2, H&TC survey.

Sojourner originally potentialed the project in April from Canyon Reef perforations at 5,289-94 feet to pump 11 barrels of 40-gravity crude with gas-oil ratio of 1,800-1.

Total depth is 5,297 feet with 4½-inch casing set at that point. Apparently the reef zone has depleted as the hole now is plugged back to 5,192 feet.

The Shamrock field has five producers from the Canyon reef.

US Intensifies Bombing Of North Viet Depots

Six Missile Sites Hit

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Wave after wave of U.S. planes pounded North Viet Nam Friday with a record 121 missions. They struck at three oil depots to keep up the intensified drive against the Hanoi government's fuel reserves and also attacked six missile sites.

Navy planes from the aircraft carried Ranger evaded 10 Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles fired from a string of sites seven to 45 miles southeast of Hanoi.

In an attack on one of the sites, a Navy A4 Skyhawk jet was shot down by antiaircraft fire, U.S. military headquarters said. The pilot bailed out but heavy flak prevented rescue helicopters from reaching him and he is listed as missing. Loss of the plane had been disclosed earlier.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported heavy losses to a 100-man company of government troops when they were hit by a "maneuvering ambush" of five times as many Viet Cong man force soldiers.

A Vietnamese spokesman said the company was hit Friday on Highway 13 — a favorite Viet Cong ambush route — at a point 18 miles northwest of Saigon.

The company had been assigned to provide security for a military supply convoy. After the last truck passed the company's area, the spokesman said, a Viet Cong force estimated at a reinforced battalion struck from both sides of the road.

Unofficial reports said most of the company was killed or wounded.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, both the U. S. and Vietnamese commands reported only small-scale fighting Friday.

However, two Viet Cong hit-and-run attacks were reported within eight miles of Saigon. In one, the Viet Cong blew up a bridge with mines eight miles south of the captal. In the other, a Viet Cong force of unknown size attacked a national police station eight miles northeast of Saigon. They inflicted light casualties and damaged several vehicles, a Vietnamese spokesman said.

In the North Viet Nam raids, a U. S. spokesman said American planes knocked out at least two of the six missile sites attacked. One was 25 miles northeast of Hanoi and the other about 18 miles southeast of the North Vietnamese capital.

In the strikes against oil depots, Navy planes from the carrier Oriskany plastered 500-pound bombs on a fuel storage area and shipment point two miles southeast of the city of Vinh.

The Navy said a column of heavy smoke rose 2,000 feet and prevented pilots from getting a full damage assessment.

Other Navy planes, from the carrier Ranger, attacked a fuel storage area near Thanh Hoa, apparently with only partial success. Pilots reported their 250-pound bombs and five-inch Zuni rockets heavily damaged two large storage buildings, but saw no fires or explosions to indicate hits on fuel supplies.

Hanoi Hints Release Of Vital Message

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Hanoi seeks world attention Sunday for a message of undefined import. Hinting there will be an important statement, the North Vietnamese station said it will "release a special transmission" at 8:45 a.m. — 9:45 p.m. EDT Saturday.

There was no indication of the topic, though North Viet Nam's threat to try captive American pilots on war crimes charges has been among the chief topics of recent Red transmissions.

Perhaps forerunning another hard-line declaration, the Hanoi newspaper Nhan Dan declared in a broadcast dispatch today that Americans are impudent and stupid for not recognizing that "we are determined to fight, fight hard, fight to the end until the U.S. aggressors are completely defeated."

"Do they want to talk with guns?" Nhan Dan asked rhetorically. "Well, they will be met with guns and bullets."

Speculation that the special broadcast may concern war issues arose against a background that included a revived flurry of peace moves, intensified American air strikes north of the 17th Parallel and rising optimism among U.S. and South Vietnamese officials at the course of the conflict.

President Johnson, whose repeated efforts to get negotiations started have been spurned by the Ho Chi Minh regime, suggested two weeks ago that the Communists "don't really expect a military victory."

Only today Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, winding up a four-day visit to Moscow, said the Soviet Union has refused to make any efforts to arrange peace talks unless Hanoi asks it to do so.

RELIEF FROM HEAT IS EYED

Hop - and - skip showers Saturday gave some hope for relief from torrid temperatures which had prevailed in the Snyder area for more than a week.

The thermometer soared to 90 degrees Friday, but partly cloudy conditions Saturday were expected to keep the reading in the lower 90s.

The hot weather brought on a brisk water business for the city. The treatment plant pumped 4,118,000 gallons Friday, the fourth day in a row that demands had topped the 4-million-gallon mark.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With the weather outlook brightening for their scheduled Monday blastoff, the Gemini 10 astronauts today brushed up on the complex flight plan for their three-day space adventure.

The schedule called for Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins to take the day off. However, space agency officials said the astronauts would spend considerable time in their quarters reviewing the jam - packed flight plan.

In the afternoon, they may run-through exercises in a practice spacecraft.

After concern about tropical storm Celia Friday, weather experts said prospects had improved considerably. The storm's peak winds dropped from 50 to 30 miles an hour.

On the present course, weather experts said the remnants of Celia should pass over the Key West, Fla., area Monday. It is a widespread storm and could produce thundershowers around Cape Kennedy, depending on the ultimate path.

Young and Collins easily passed a four - hour physical exam Friday and were pronounced in perfect health by Dr. D. Owen Coons, astronaut physician.

A mission review board heard reports on all phases of the preparations and Gemini mission director William Schneider gave the go-ahead to proceed toward a Monday launching.

NASA, Air Force and industry crews from the Martin Co., Lockheed Aircraft, McDonnell Aircraft and General Dynamics Convair Division today readied the two rockets and spacecraft involved.

An Atlas is to lift off at 3:41 p.m. (EST) Monday to boost an Agena satellite into orbit as a target for Gemini 10 to chase and link up with it. Young and Collins are to ride a Titan 2 into space at 5:21 p.m. to start the six-hour pursuit.

Guards Enforce Chicago Quiet

By JAMES E. DWYER

CHICAGO (AP) — Flying squads of impressively armed National Guardsmen and police restored relative peace today to the scarred streets of a West Side area ripped since Tuesday by racial violence.

Youthful gangs who had looted, burned and fired sniper-style from rooftops faded away Friday night as guardsmen — told to shoot to kill if fired upon — went on patrol.

Through the streets of a 140-square-block area rolled trucks loaded with soldiers, rifles at the ready, bayonets fixed; jeeps with machine guns mounted; police cars with shotguns poked out windows.

Knots of Negroes lined curbs in some areas, catcalling occasionally, but there were only scattered incidents: one reported sniper shooting, with police returning fire but finding no one; a fire bomb thrown into a street outside a home; a few store windows broken; several fires in houses and stores.

By midnight, police reported, streets were virtually deserted.

The calm contrasted dramatically with Thursday night, when an estimated 5,000 were abroad. Then, two Negroes were killed by gunshot and 30 were injured amid widespread shooting, looting and burning that continued into the day Friday.

Gov. Otto Kerner called up the Guard, 3,000 strong, Friday at the request of Mayor Richard J. Daley. The mayor said he felt police alone could not cope with the rioting, worst in the North since 34 were killed in massive rioting in Los Angeles last August.

Maj. Gen. Francis P. Kane held 1,500 troops in reserve and sent 1,500 into action, operating from a base in a parking lot. They teamed with 1,000 police.

Heat Shows Signs Of Easing Up

By The Associated Press

The fiercely hot, enervating heat wave which has taken a heavy toll of lives shows signs of easing up after a week of maximum temperatures in the 100s.

A mass of cool Canadian air has spilled over the border and is moving southward, touching off turbulent weather along its front.

The Weather Bureau said temperatures should cool off slightly, below the 100-degree mark at least until Wednesday.

At St. Louis, where the total of heat-attributed deaths rose to 145 Friday, residents welcomed 90-degree weather. Tennessee had seven heat fatalities.

More than an inch of rain fell at several Oklahoma points, some of which reported a drop in temperature of 30 degrees in 30 minutes. Oklahoma City soared to a 107 before the rains came. The top in Texas was 106.

Connally Plans Speech

HOUSTON (AP) — Gov. John Connally is expected to make a major address on the state's plan for water quality control at the Texas Air and Water Resources Foundation dinner here Wednesday.

Robert Ives, foundation president, said Connally will talk about the water plan and its relationship to the pilot program now being developed around the four-county Galveston Bay-Houston Ship Channel complex.

Many officials of Harris, Galveston, Chambers and Brazoria counties are to attend.

Wilson Arrives For Talks With Kosygin

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain arrived here today hoping to talk with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin about peace in Viet Nam.

Wilson arrived shortly after Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India went home with the finding that the Russians would do nothing to start Vietnamese peace talks unless Hanoi asked for them.

Threat Against Prisoners Stirs Strong US Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman publicly warned Hanoi today that mistreatment of U.S. captives "will change the whole feeling of the war" which, he said, up to now has not been aimed against the people of North Viet Nam.

In the strongest words yet issued by a Washington official concerning Red threats to try American prisoners as war criminals, Harriman said:

"North Viet Nam still indicates that they believe that the United States will give up, just as France did some years ago, if they hold out.

"Now, if they have there is anything in this at all, one of the surest ways for it to assure that the American public will stick to this thing to the end, no matter how long it takes, would be their mistreatment of our airmen.

"Even though I can't give them any encouragement that we will give up — the President has made it very plain that we will stick to it to the end — it will change the whole feeling of the war.

"So far there has been no bitterness on the part of the American government or the American people against the people of North Viet Nam. But this barbaric act would heighten the temporal feeling and can only react against the interests of the North Vietnamese."

Harriman, speaking in a Voice of America radio interview, noted that President Johnson had offered to let Hanoi participate in Southeast Asian economic development after peace comes to Viet Nam and promised the United States would contribute $1 billion or more.

But mistreatment of U.S. prisoners, he said, "would have a great effect against any future relations between our two countries on the kind of live-and-let-live basis we h... would come about."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who's served with the marine corps in Viet Nam, came home last month. As you can imagine, Don was pretty well tuckered out, so he just sat around the house resting and getting use to civilian life again. He also taught our parakeet how to swear.

Now, fun is fun, but you should hear what he taught that bird to say! What if the preacher drops in one Sunday afternoon?

DON'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Get another parakeet and teach it how to pray for the one that swears.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of parents who have decided to call it quits after 51 years of marriage? They have four married children, thirteen grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. They were never exactly lovebirds, but it never came to a real separation before.

I am the eldest daughter and Mama called me and told me to come and get her as Papa moved to a motel and she wasn't going to stay in the house alone. It's been three days, and Papa is still holed up in the motel.

My oldest brother called Papa and asked what he should tell people. Papa said, "Tell them I've entered my second childhood and I have the measles!" Then he slammed down the telephone. What should we tell people, and how can we get them back together?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Papa's explanation will do. Tell them nothing. "Love" will find a way.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I was born 35 years ago in a midwestern state at a home for unwed mothers. As an infant I was adopted by a wonderful couple, and we moved away. This fall my husband and I are planning a vacation to the midwest and find we will be near the city of my birth. My adoptive parents have both passed away, but my real mother is still living.

I have full information on how to reach her. Being a woman, I am naturally curious. I have not decided whether I would meet her face to face and identify myself, or whether I would arrange to meet her without letting her know who I was. Or should I just forget the whole thing?

I have no intention of intruding on her life or causing her any unhappiness or embarrassment. Perhaps you or one of your readers who have experienced something like this can help me decide.

JUST CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: If you sincerely wish to cause your real mother no unhappiness or embarrassment, I advise you to forget the whole thing. It would hardly be worth the risk to merely satisfy your curiosity.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SEPTEMBER BRIDE: If you are concerned only with what you will get out of the marriage, your marriage will fail. You may never be divorced, but your marriage will fail nevertheless.

Rural Community Progress Urged

FLUVANNA—Reagan Brown, community development specialist, presented his audience at the Fluvanna Community Center Thursday night with a challenge to meet the needs of a competitive society. Organization, he stated, brings community progress.

Sponsored by the Fluvanna Young Farmers and Texas utility companies, Brown held his audience for well over an hour as he discussed the problem of the diminishing small town. The answer, Brown said, is two-fold. The individual must strive for self-improvement, and he must help his friends and neighbors in an all-out effort for group action.

Punctuating his inspirational talk with color slides, anecdotes and rousing enthusiasm, Brown pointed out that apathy and long-time grudges prevent the people in many small towns from working together in badly need clean-up, fix-up and paint-up campaigns.

After the initial recognition that conditions need improving, he pointed out, committees must be formed to outline short-time as well as long-range programs for beautification, cultural opportunity, betterment of housing and living conditions, more productive crops and herds, as well as the opportunity for better community spirit and combined efforts for group recreation and fun. These activities should involve every age group in the community, he said.

Brown said that we build for tomorrow for our children, and he emphasized that people must help themselves and each other to build a town where the young people are proud to return and to live and where some opportunity is available. People don't want to come back to a community that is dirty and where the roadsides are littered with trash, he emphasized.

Brown outlined the combined Utility Company-A&M program which includes an incentive award plan whereby towns around the state compete for cash awards for their efforts in improvement. With these awards, further developments can be scheduled. He illustrated this plan by showing before and after pictures of rural communities in Texas.

An awareness of what the individual wants his community to be is of prime necessity, Brown pointed out. He also said that an awareness of the competitive world of tomorrow at all levels must be stressed.

Better homes on better farms in better communities is one goal of the electric utility companies operating in Texas in cultural Extension Service. Brown is an Extension Sociologist with Texas A & M University.

A former county agent, Brown is an extension teacher with the University of Colorado during the summers. He is also chairman of the Town and Country Program at A & M and travels widely in his work as extension sociologist.

Oil Industry Groups Study Proposed New Incentives

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—Possible incentives to stimulate the nation's lagging search for new oil reserves are being studied by four industry groups.

Proposals suggested range from a healthy, across-the-board increase in crude oil prices to the elimination or reduction of the depletion tax allowance American producers receive on foreign production.

The suggestion being mentioned most frequently, however, involves the possible use of oil imports quotas. A variety of formulas have been suggested for the use of such quotas as incentives for oil operators to search for new petroleum reserves.

Formal consideration of the various suggestions is to begin Wednesday in Dallas, Tex., when a special committee established in May by the Independent Petroleum Association of America holds its first meeting.

Similar special study groups also have been established by the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association and by the National Liaison Committee of Cooperating Organizations, a group that represents state and regional trade groups of independent operators in 21 states.

The staff of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission also has been instructed to make a similar study. A report is to be submitted at the compact's annual meeting in December at Phoenix, Ariz.

No target dates have been set by the three special committees representing independent operators but there has been indication they hope to complete their work by late October. Such timing would coincide with the annual meeting of the 7,000-member national trade group for independents. Also, Interior Department officials probably will be deliberating at that time on the 1967 quotas to be established under the mandatory program to control oil imports.

The Interior Department is known to have given some consideration last year to the granting of imports quotas to operators drilling successful or unsuccessful wildcat wells. Major companies would have been excluded.

Since then, a West Central Texas group of independents has suggested that quotas be granted to all operators—large or small—completing a successful well in previously unexplored areas.

A Kansas group has suggested imports quotas be allocated on the basis of domestic production.

Another Texas suggestion calls for allocations based on total footage drilled for both wildcat and development wells. Major companies now importing oil would be permitted to retain current quota rights or participate in the new drilling quota plan, but not in both.

Cattlemen Hear Expert

FLUVANNA—Four members of the Fluvanna Young Farmers chapter spent a fruitful day Friday at a beef cattle reproduction clinic on the Texas Tech campus at Lubbock.

The event featured an appearance of Dr. Jan Bonsma, head of the animal husbandry department of the University of Pretoria, Pretoria, South Africa. Dr. Bonsma has gained fame for his accuracy in detecting by visual observations alone the fertility and breeding characteristics of cows and bulls.

The clinic was co-sponsored by Texas Tech, the American Hereford Association and the Texas Association. Officers and Associations were present at the clinic.

Dr. Bonsma was a visiting professor at Texas A&M last year and many people witnessed his demonstrations. The American Hereford Association arranged the current tour so that more cattlemen would have an opportunity to meet Dr. Bonsma and observe his work.

5,100 feet to test the Canyon sand as a wildcat in a former 7,085-foot Fisher County failure which bottomed in granite.

It is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 42, block 2, H&TC survey, two miles south of Rotan. The operation originally was drilled by Humble Oil & Refining Co. as No. 1 Sallie Crowley and abandoned in May, 1948.

Morris G. Spencer of Dallas, made the first re-entry of the deep duster when he cleaned out to 5,290 feet and tested an unidentified horizon above that point in 1955. No petroleum was developed and the hole was plugged the second time.

No. 1 Morgan is ⅝ mile northeast of the depleted discovery and lone producer in the Rotan (5,135-foot Canyon sand) pool, which potentialed in June, 1964, for a daily yield of 77 barrels of 43-gravity crude plus 12 per cent water from perforations at 5,134-40 feet.

The third producer and a location north extender for the Reinecke, East (Canyon reef) pool in Borden County, 26 miles southeast of Gail, is in prospect by Tidewater Oil Co. No. 4-B J. B. Davis.

From open hole at 6,803-807 feet, it flowed naturally for 24 hours on a 24-64-inch choke and gauged 57 barrels of oil. Operator is now in the process of installing a pump for completion.

Location is 330 feet from south and 2,173 feet from east lines of section 68, block 25, H&TC survey.

R. H. Siegfried, Inc. of Tulsa staked No. 1 Keller and others as a location southeast offset to his No. 2 McFarland, second Strawn pay opener and a first Strawn producer in the Kiowa Peak, Southeast area of Stonewall County, 16 miles northeast of Aspermont.

Drillsite is 467 feet from the most southerly north line and 3,550 feet from the most easterly east line of E. Howard survey 6, abstract 1702. It is to be a 5,500-foot test.

The Old Glory, Northwest (Tannehill) area of Stonewall gained its seventh producer and a location south and west extension with completion of Homa Oil & Gas Co. of Dallas No. 3 Juanita Windsor, nine miles northeast of Aspermont.

Daily flowing potential was 125 barrels of 37-gravity oil per day with gas-oil ratio of 500-1. Choke size was 18-64-inch and perforations were at 2,802-06 feet. Surface pressure was gauged at 125 pounds.

The project is 1,100 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 31, block D, H&TC survey.

Homa Oil & Gas Co. of Dallas will drill No. 5-A Juanita Windsor as a location north and east stepout to the seven-well Old Glory, Northwest (Tannehill) field of Stonewall, 12 miles northeast of Aspermont.

Contracted for 3,000 feet, it is 3,225 feet from south and 1,750 feet from west lines of section 6, block D, H&TC survey.

OUR VIEW

Many People Share In Your Food Dollar Today

Spokesmen for farmers and ranchers are not ignoring some of the unfavorable, and perhaps unfortunate, publicity concerning producers and food prices.

One of the most significant statements in retaliation to implications that farmers and ranchers were major contributors to rising food costs came from Ben H. Carpenter, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. His statement, made at a board meeting of the organization recently, already has been widely quoted, and The Snyder Daily News is indebted to Harrie Winston, local rancher, for a copy of Carpenter's comments.

At the outset, Carpenter notes that retail food prices are 33 per cent higher than they were in 1947, yet farmers and ranchers received 10 per cent less for their products last year than they did in 1947.

These figures tell an obvious story — that somewhere between farm or ranch and the consumer's table a lot of cost has been added.

Clearly, this is in processing, packaging, transportation, etc., which have become much more sophisticated in recent years. And before anyone begins to take the processors and packagers to task, it should be noted that these services as they exist today are demanded by the consumer, as Carpenter duly points out in his statement. They are an accepted part of the super market era of food merchandising, and it appears highly unlikely that many housewives would accept less these days.

But Carpenter's point is that higher prices to cover modern methods of processing and packaging do not put any extra money in the pocket of the farmer or rancher. Indeed, the statistical evidence indicates that the exact opposite is true.

The food processing and packaging industries represent a substantial economic force, but they are relatively few in number in this area. But we cannot overlook them when we attempt to pinpoint the destination of our retail food dollars.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — Gen. Jose Maria Morelos was quite a man. He was the top military leader of Mexico's war of independence against Spain. And he had a city and a state named for him.

In April, 1813, General Moreles arrived in Acapulco and demanded the Spanish Commander surrender to him.

Morelos had won fame as a brilliant leader in the war of Independence. A few months before, he had taken Oaxaca City with 5,000 men and captured a huge supply of Spanish arms and ammunition.

The fall of Oaxaca was important for the insurgents. It left Acapulco as the only other important city to be taken. (Acapulco, incidentally, comes from the old Aztec name of Acatlpulco which means 'place where the larger and thicker canes grow.")

The Spanish Commander of Acapulco didn't take kindly to Morelos' suggestion. He climbed up to Fort San Diego with his men and they began flinging cannon balls at the insurgents.

And the insurgents got miffed at this belligerent attitude. They laid siege to Acapulco and shot back. But Fort San Diego was heavily fortified. It was loaded with cannon and plenty of supplies.

The siege lasted 135 days. Then one night insurgent Pablo Galeana staged a surprise attack on Roqueta Island, just outside the big bay. He used canoes and small boats. And took Roqueta, a ship and 11 canoes used by the Spaniards to bring in their supplies.

This discouraged the Spaniards and they surrendered.

Mexico's bid for liberty began sort of hurriedly on the evening of September 15, 1810, after the insurgents were betrayed to the Spanish authorities. The organizers had not had time to prepare a campaign nor figure out how they would fight.

The first attack on a port was staged by Father Jose Maria Mercado, who knocked over San Blas without firing a single shot. The Spanish Commander surrendered when he saw the size of the army he had to fight.

Mexican ports were heavily armed with artillery because of attacks from pirates on both coasts. And when San Blas fell, Father Mercado took more than 100 cannons plus large amounts of food and ammunition. Also, six ships including two gunboats.

When the Spaniards discovered the war of Independence was extending throughout the country they reinforced their port installations to insure a steady stream of ammunition and supplies for their armies.

The royalists rushed troops from Veracruz in May, 1811. Three ships with 500 men each were sent north to cut off the insurgent retreat and to fight rebels in Texas.

It was a rough go for a number of years. The Spaniards managed to pick up a few spies and caught some of Mexico's best leaders. And they clobbered some of the troops in a number of battles.

But the war kept on and they gradually were cut off on all sides by the insurgents. Then Acapulco fell after the long siege.

Being a good sport about things, General Morelos let the royalists leave the port and hosted a victory celebration banquet with his foe, the former Spanish Commander as guest of honor. At this banquet, Moralos toasted Spain as "the sister, not the master, of America."

A mighty neighborly thought.

Texans Held In Swindling

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)— Officers charged three Texans Friday with swindling elderly persons by posing as agents of the medicare program.

Charged were Bobby Ray Ricks, 31, Hurst; Terrence Eugene Burkle, 23, Fort Worth, and Philip Michael Snow, 25, Dallas.

Police said the men used false credentials to get several old persons to sign bank drafts.

An alert bank teller tipped police to them when two of the men tried to cash a draft. The teller knew that the depositor whose name appeared on the draft never used bank drafts and called police with the men's auto license number.

Officers spotted the car and made the arrests.

Humphrey Takes Extra Passenger

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — An extra passenger was along Friday night when Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey took off for Minneapolis from Carswell Air Force Base.

After learning he could not catch a commercial flight to his home in Shawano, Wis., Pfc. Thomas Paterick of Ft. Wolters, Tex., went to Carswell searching for a ride.

The vice president said Paterick could ride with him.

Paterick leaves Ft. Wolters for Viet Nam as soon as he comes back from leave.

Jaycees Are Given Report On Events

Snyder Jaycees got a report on the wrestling matches they sponsored last Tuesday and were reminded of a regional meeting coming up soon at their luncheon meeting Friday at the Town House.

Bill Dryden reported on the wrestling matches, and Herb Reed, club president, reminded the group of the regional meeting set for Aug. 5-6-7 at Odessa.

Bobby McMillan was a guest at the luncheon, and the group voted to hold future meetings at Sallie's Cafeteria.

Humphrey Speaks With Optimism

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH (AP) — Vice President Hubert Humphrey coupled what he called 'restrained optimism" with a warning Friday that Communists seriously consider their threat to execute captured American Pilots.

He also humorously rebuked critics who inferred he and other Democrats may have influenced dismissal of an anti-trust suit against the Anheuser-Busch Corp. of St. Louis.

In a whirlwind hippity-hop tour of Fort Worth, Humphrey vowed to "convince aggressors that the price of their aggression comes too high."

Addressing a predominantly youthful crowd at Texas Christian University, he declared:

"I submit that today we have reason for increased confidence and restrained optimism . . not only because of the new purpose and unity throughout Asia, but because of events in Viet Nam itself."

The vice president was asked first at a news conference and then at a Congressional Club dinner—for Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth—to comment on a Hanoi threat to try imprisoned American fliers as war criminals.

"I can't think of anything that would be more dangerous in every way than such a foul act. . .the tourturing or death of our fliers," he told newsmen.

Calling the threat a "very, very serious development," Humphrey declared:

"I don't think it's very wise for the vice president to outline details of what might happen, but I can only say it would set loose in this country, I am sure, emotions that would be very hard to control.

"If the people of Hanoi have any sense at all, they will hesitate to take that step."

Quizzed later on the same topic, he elaborated:

"I think the message transmitted by the President through rather reliable sources to Hanoi that action, such barbarous action as that, would ignite this nation as never before.

"I would imagine that the President would take action as never before."

The Busch-Humphrey remarks developed from a reporter at the Congressional Club meeting asking if the vice president "really flew to St. Louis in August Busch's plane."

"I had no idea Mr. Busch ever had an antitrust case with the government," Humphrey told th interrogator, "any more than I know of a case you might have.

"We never discussed beer, antitrust or government. We discussed baseball . . . and I wound up in the papers looking like a burglar.

"And if you think I'm happy about it, I'm not. I'm not going to give everybody a blood test when they invite me to dinner."

SMU Reports New Applications Increase

Ralph Binnion, director of admissions, said the rate of approval of applications has been running almost 20 per cent over the same time last year.

Would High Court Agree With Texas Court Opinion?

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court gave two reasons Wednesday why some counties may not have to follow the "one man, one vote" doctrine in drawing boundary lines for commissioners precincts:

—The County Commissioners Courts have few legislative functions.

—Rural areas will have no voice if the precinct division is based strictly on population.

It is debatable whether the U.S. Supreme Court would accept either of these reasons.

The "one man, one vote" rule was established in 1964 by the U.S. Supreme Court for legislative and congressional redistricting. The court based its ruling on the federal constitutional requirement of "equal protection under the laws."

The Texas Supreme Court said last week this does not necessarily apply on the county level. The legislative functions of a County Commissioners Court "are negligible and county government is not otherwise comparable to the legislature of a state or to the federal congress where the 'one man, one vote' principle is asserted in its most exacting and compelling sense," the court said.

Would the U.S. Supreme Court agree that it makes a difference whether the commissioners court's functions are legislative or administrative? If the electoral college had been set up by Congress instead of the Constitution, and if it were mal-apportioned relative to population, would the U.S. Supreme Court say that was all right because the college's only function was to elect the president and vice president and they are administrators, not legislators?

On its second reason, the Texas Supreme Court said: 'The voice of the rural areas will be lost for all practical purposes if the commissioners precincts of counties are apportioned solely on a population basis. Yet, important affairs of the county administered by the Commissioners Court—such as roads, bridges, taxable values of large land areas—disproportionately concern the rural areas."

Opponents of "one man, one vote" argued before the U.S. Supreme Court two years ago that states should be allowed to set up their senates on bases other than population, like the U.S. Senate.

But the court said the U.S. Senate was set up in the federal Constitution, a compact between sovereign states.

In the majority opinion in the legislative redistricting suit, Chief Justice Earl Warren said: "Political subdivisons of states —counties, cities or whatever— never were and never have been considered as sovereign entities. Rather they have been traditionally regarded as subordinate government instrumentalities created by the state to assist in carrying out of state governmental functions."

The Texas Supreme Court said there are other important factors to consider besides population, such as roads, bridges, taxable values of large land areas.

But Warren said: 'Legislators represent people, not trees or acres. Legislators are elected by voters, not farms or cities or economic interests."

It is not inconceivable that the U.S. Supreme Court could use the same paragraph, substituting commissioners for legislators, in extending the 'one man, one vote" rule to counties.

A recent survey by the University of Texas Institute of Public Affairs shows Texas has at least 68 counties in which more than half the population is in only one of the four county commissioners precincts.

Most of these are rural counties, but some have urban centers, including Webb, Victoria, Nueces, Lubbock, Hale, Brazoria Angelina and Midland counties.

More than 95 per cent of the population of Midland County is represented by one commissioner. It was the redistricting of Midland County that the Texas Supreme Court held invalid Wednesday.

But the high court disagreed with the Midland District Court order that the county be redistricted 'substantially" along population lines.

A population-based redistricting may be mandatory in some counties to grant equal political rights and therefore equal protection of the laws, the appellate court said. But in other counties, other factors might have to be considered which would justify 'a rational variance" from "one man, one vote."

How much of a variance is rational? Each of Texas' 254 County Commissioners Courts must decide for itself, with the court looking over its shoulder.

It could mean 254 separate lawsuits to determine in each case if the commissioners came up with a 'rational" variance. One might be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which might make the guidelines more specific or strike them out altogether in favor of "one man, one vote."

To Return For Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —Silas Chester Haddix of Jackson, Ky., will be returned to Marshall, Tex., to stand trial for escaping the Harris County jail there.

Haddix, 22, signed a waiver of removal Friday. He escaped July 10 along with Jesse Kenneth McKinney of South Pittsburg, Tenn., and Joe Charles Nix of Texas. The three were captured in a mountain area of Marion County, Tenn.

Nix and McKinney, who have been convicted on bank-burglary charges, will face U. S. Dist. Judge Charles Neese next month at Winchester, Tenn., on charges of burglarizing the bank at Coalmont, Tenn. They are being held in the Hamilton County jail here.

Haddix was held on theft charges at the time he escaped. McKinney is under sentences totaling 29 years and Nix 17 years.

Railroad Commission Reports Completions

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday that 142 oil wells and 43 gas wells were completed in the state the past week.

That raised the totals for the year to 4,117 oil wells, compared to 3,795 a year ago, and to 1,161 gas wells, compared to 1,614 at this time in 1965.

The commission said 132 wells were plugged including 73 dry holes.

Five wildcat oil wells were drilled—two in Dist. 3 and one each in Dists. 4, 7B and 8A—and 13 wildcat gas wells—6 in Dist. 4, 3 in Dist. 2, 2 in Dist. 8 and one each in Dists. 3 and 9.

Insurance To Exercise Penalty Rates

by KEN SINER
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Texans will be penalized with higher insurance rates, if they get bad driving records in the months ahead, a state official has predicted.

William Hunter McLean said Friday he expects the staff of the State Board of Insurance to present a detailed plan for the penalty rate program, probably within the coming week.

McLean, chairman of the SBI, spoke before a luncheon meeting of the Dallas Association of Insurance Agents. "We'll make the announcement, I would hope, within the next week or 10 days," he said.

He said the other commissioners, Durwood Manford and Ned Price, also favor such a program.

The chairman told the insurance agents that it would be at least a year before the actual rate adjustments become effective. Penalties, he said, would be based on accidents or traffic violations during the year previous to the rate adjustments.

He said good drivers would enjoy a long-range benefit. He explained that careless or inept drivers and lawbreakers would be paying greater penalties and thus a higher proportion of the insurance company take.

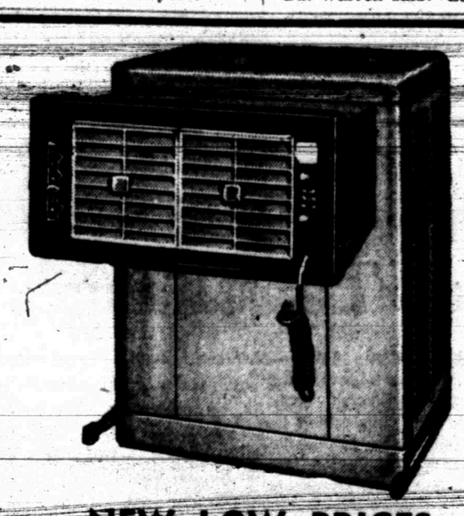

"Texas drivers would be warned of the privisions of the penalty program a year ahead of time," he said.

Tigers Down Oriole Nine

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who says a pitcher's place is on the mound? Not Earl Wilson.

Six hurlers performed for the Detroit Tigers Friday during their 8-5 victory over Baltimore, but only five were to be found in their normal environs in the center of the diamond.

The sixth, Wilson, made his contribution at the plate with a pinch-hit, three-run, 13th-inning, two-out (that about covers it) home run.

Bill Monbouquette, who worked the four final innings perfectly, got the victory, while Stu Miller, who was the last of the mere three pitchers Baltimore used, took the loss. Monbouquette's performance had the added dimension of his twice having faced both Frank and Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell without a mistake.

It was the American League leading Orioles' fourth loss in a row and their second straight to the Tigers who have climbed to within six games of first place. Don Wert sent the game into overtime with a two-run single with two outs in the ninth.

In other American League games, Minnesota edged Washington 5-4, Kansas City came from behind to get New York 5-4, Chicago beat Cleveland 4-2 and California nudged Boston 4-2.

In National League games, Los Angeles beat New York 4-3, San Francisco smashed Philadelphia 8-1, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 5-4 and St. Louis bounced Cincinnati 9-2. Houston and Atlanta were rained out.

Wilson, who like Monbouquette came to Detroit from Boston, added to his modest reputation as a hitter. The home run was his third for the year and he has 10 runs batted in as well as a batting average, .280, that many full-time hitters might envy.

Minnesota's Don Mincher broke open a tie ball game with a run-scoring single in the eighth inning after two were out. Harmon Killebrew, who had singled, scored the decisive run.

Danny Cater's two-run double in the eighth gave Kansas City the runs they needed after New York had scored a pair of unearned runs in the sixth. In the ninth, the A's went into a zany four-outfielder defense that may or may not have meant something. At least the Yanks didn't score.

Tom McCraw cracked a single in the seventh to drive in Chicago's winning run. John Romano had opened the inning with a homer that tied the score. Bruce Howard, after a shaky start, retired the last 20 men he faced.

California moved into third place as George Brunet picked up his 10th victory of the season despite homers by Joe Foy and Rico Petrocelli. Rick Reichert scored one run and drove in another.

'2-1' Is Standard In Texas League

By The Associated Press

The most popular score in the Texas League seems to be 2-1. Friday night was a good example.

Four games were played and every one of them came out 2-1 Three went extra innings.

Amarillo broke a three-game losing streak and edged back into the league lead by trimming Arkansas 2-1 in 10 innings. George Gerberman pitched a four-hitter and Ed Moxey singled in the winning run.

That put Amarillo half a game to the good over Arkansas.

Austin split a doubleheader with El Paso while Albuquerque beat Dallas - Fort Worth 2-1, creating a tie for third place between Austin and Albuquerque.

Dick Crowe's sacrifice fly drove in the winning run in the eighth as Albuquerque bested Dallas-Fort Worth.

The Dodgers got only four hits but two were extra base blasts that led to both runs. Jim Barfield triples in the second and scored on a wild pitch. Willie Crawford's leadoff double set up Crowe's game-winning sacrifice.

Austin and El Paso played two extra-inning games. The first went eight and El Paso won it 2-1 on Jim Spencer's triple. The nightcap struggled 13 frames before Walt Hriniak singled in the winning run for fairs and one 2-0 as the clubs played them close to the chest.

Tom Dukes of Austin had a tough evening. He pitched nine innings and struck out 14 but still failed to get the decision.

The clubs change stands tonight with Albuquerque going to Amarillo, Austin to Dallas-Fort Worth and El Paso to Little Rock to play Arkansas.

an Austin 2-1 triumph.

In the last five games between the two, four have been 2-1 af-

Johnson Out Of All-Star Contest

ASHVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Steve Sloan of Alabama has been picked to quarterback the College All-Stars in their battle with the Green Bay Packers.

The Atlanta Falcons rookie was named to replace another Atlanta hopeful, quarterback Randy Johnson of Texas A&I.

Johnson suffered a cracked rib in last Saturday's Coaches All-America game and doctors in Chicago ruled Friday that the rangy Texan should not play in the All-star game there Aug. 5.

Also released from the game was rookie Falcons end Charlie Casey of Florida, who has a leg injury.

Sloan left the Atlanta training camp Friday night to begin preparations for the all-star event, and Johnson will come back to Ashville to work out with the Falcons.

Although he will skip contact drills, Johnson will be able to work on passing and timing in an attempt to overhaul Dennis Claridge, former Green Bay reserve who now ranks as the Falcons' top quarterback.

Orlando Cepeda Deal Reds Misery With Big Bad Bat

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Orlando Cepeda is in a hitting mood, only the umpires can get him out.

The Cincinnati Reds weren't having much luck with the big St. Louis slugger Friday night until Umpire John Kibler interceded in the seventh inning of the Cardinals' 9-2 victory.

Cepeda was called out on a close play at first base and when he argued over the call, Kibler tossed him out of the ball game.

By then, the damage was done. Cepeda had whacked his 12th and 13th homers of the season and lifted his batting average to .324, fourth best in the National League.

The Cardinal first baseman, who came from San Francisco in the trade for Ray Sadecki, is on an 11-for-20 tear at the plate and seems completely recovered from the eye injury which sidelined him for two weeks last month.

Cepeda was struck by a batting practice line drive June 10. He returned to the line-up June 24, and in the three weeks since thn he's had 25 hits in 73 at bats — a .342 pace.

In addition to costing the Reds the ball game, Cepeda cost Cincinnati pitcher Sammy Ellis $50.

After Cepeda's second homer in the fifth inning, Ellis decked Mike Shannon with a pitch. Plate Umpire Paul Pryor warned Ellis about the duster, and that calls for an automatic $50 fine.

Elsewhere in the National League, ex-Met Dick Stuart beat his former teammates with a pinch single in the 11th inning as Los Angeles edged New York 4-3, Chicago shaded Pittsburgh 5-4 and San Francisco downed Philadelphia 8-1 behind Juan Marichal. Houston and Atlanta were rained out.

In the American League, Detroit defeated Boston 8-5 in 13 innings, Kansas City dropped New York 5-4, Minnesota edged Washington 5-4, Chicago defeated Cleveland 4-2 and California downed Boston 4-2.

Curt Flood led a 15-hit Cardinal attack with four safeties as the St. Louis Cardinals battered five Cincinnati pitchers. Things got so desperate for the Reds' pitching staff that new Manager Dave Bristol brought in Mel Queen, an outfielder, to work the ninth inning.

Queen had more success than his predecessors, setting the Cardinals down in order.

Stuart, who was released by the Mets last month, beat his old team with a soft single to center, scoring Ron Fairly from third. Fairly who had walked, went to third on Jim Lefebvre's double.

John Roseboro smashed a two-run homer for the Dodgers.

Robin Roberts, making his first start for Chicago, dropped the Pirates into second place by scattering eight hits. Ron Santo led the Cubs' attack, with three straight hits, driving in four runs.

The loss ended a five-game Pittsburgh winning streak.

Willie Mays and Jim Hart smashed home runs, backing Marichal's five-hit pitching as the Giants whacked the Phillies.

The homers were No. 21 each for Mays and Hart and gave Willie 526, just eight short of Jimmy Foxx and second place on the all-time homer list.

Marichal struck out nine in gaining his 15th victory. He lost his bid for a fifth shutout in the ninth inning.

Dream Comes True For Mel Queen

CINCINNATI (AP) — Young Mel Queen says his chance to pitch was an outfielder's dream come true — and the former major league hurler's son made the most of his opportunity.

The 24-year-old right-hander pitched a perfect inning of relief Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals routed Cincinnati, 9-2, and the Reds' fans cheered every pitch he threw — less than a dozen in all.

"Almost any outfielder at times would like to be a pitcher, especially when he's not hitting," Queen said later. "And I suppose a pitcher would feel he'd like to be an outfielder when he gets walloped.

"So far I like pitching, but then there's the question of how a fellow would feel with guys on base and then somebody would knock the ball out of the park," he added.

The Cardinals clouted the first four Cincinnati pitchers for a total of 15 hits and then interim manager Dave Bristol — who has promised some changes — sent in Queen who had just reported back to duty after two weeks on the sick list.

Charley Smith hit a little tap near the plate and was thrown out. Dal Maxvill and Julian Javier both struck out to end the ninth.

"We might have found something," said Bristol, who took over the team Thursday after Don Heffner was fired. "It's time to get him out there and see what he'll do."

One of the reasons Queen, son of another Mel Queen who pitched in the 1940s and 1950s, has been playing outfield is because of his strong throwing arm.

Johnson Signs With Houston Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — John Henry Johnson, 12-year National Football League veteran, decided the Houston Oilers of the American Football League "might be a team that could use some help," so he signed with them Friday as a free agent.

"I follow the game pretty closely, and it appeared to me that this could be a team that, with a little help, could go all the way," the 230-pound fullback said after signing with General Manager Don Klosterman here Friday.

Terms were not disclosed. The 35-year-old star played out his option with the Pittsburgh Steelers last year.

Collegians Star In Golf Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament goes into the 36-hole semifinal round today with four collegians going for the title.

U.S. Amateur champion Bob Murphy of Florida met medalist Jim Wiechers of Santa Clara, while Bob Dickson of OSU tangled with Bob E. Smith of Sacramento. The 36-hole finals will be played Sunday at Edina Country Club.

Cupit's Success Due To Changes

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Jacky Cupit has been teasing sports writers with talk about changes in his game which he says are responsible for the 11-under par 131 he carried into the third round of the Minnesota Golf Classic today.

It may be that Billy Casper, Cupit's partner in the second round Friday, spilled the beans.

"Jacky has gotten rid of the loop on his back swing," said Casper, the U.S. Open champion who shot a six-under-par 65 for 134.

"Jacky's swing is more orthodox now, more compact," added Casper. "It's a different swing."

Cupit, who tacked a 66 onto his opening round 65 to take a two-stroke lead in the $100,000 tourney, is still playing it sly.

"I still won't talk about how I've changed my game unless and until I win this tournament," said Cupit.

Cupit's success wasn't hard to pinpoint Friday. His [illegible] brilliant. He hit seven birdie putts, includng taps from 25, 22, 18, 15 and 12 feet. Only bogeys on No. 1, which he three-putted after missing a two-footer, and on No. 16, where he missed the green, kept him from building a stronger lead.

Gene Littler came the closest to catching Cupit, netting birdies on five straight holes on the front nine. But he slumped back to an even-par 35 on the back nine and finished with a 67 —good for a 36-hole total of 133 and second place.

Casper and Bobby Nichols were tied for third at 134. Nichols came in whith his second 67, including an eagle on the par-5, 510-yard No. 12. He hit his iron shot within 12 feet of the cup and sank the putt.

In a three-way deadlock at 136 were Al Besselink, 25-year-old Steve Spray of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Eddie Langert of St. Paul.

US Girls Go For Track And Field

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Gals these days find glamor in track and field.

"It's the next best thing to a dishwasher," says 15-year-old Delores Stoneback. "You'll be in condition so you won't get tired doing the dishes."

Charlotte Cook, a pert 18-year old who has smashed the American records in both the 440 and 880, declares, "Track guarantees a good figure."

You wouldn't guess by looking at her that RaNae Bair rates as the best woman javelin thrower in the United States.

For women track stars these days are feminine, not the prototype of the bulgy muscled gals associated with the sport in the past.

Delores, Charlotte and RaNae all compete this weekend in the All American Invitational at the University of California's Edwards Track Stadium, a meet substituted when Poland reneged on commitments to meet the United States team in a dual meet.

Following the lead of Russia, the Poles withdrew with the charge they opposed the U. S. actions in Viet Nam.

"It was unfair," Miss Cook declared. "Unfair to the athletes and to all the sports fans."

Miss Bair doesn't think the athletes in either Russia or Poland actually voted not to come to the United States.

Sixteen events were scheduled in the track meet today and Miss Cook could well set a new American record in the 400-meter race. She goes again in Sunday's 800.

Weighing 121 with a 25-inch waist and standing 5-foot-4½, Charlotte says, "I eat everything because I run six hours a day and burn it up."

Miss Stoneback, who competes against Charlotte in the 400 and also races the 200, started running against boys back in the sixth grade.

"I'd beat 'em too," recalled the 130-pound youngster who stands 5-9.

National Links Title Determined

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A pair of youngsters who haven't won much of anything tangled today for the national public links championship.

They met on the demanding par 35-36—71 Brown Deer course in a scheduled 36-hole showdown for the tournament's 41st title.

Matching shots were Monty Kaser, 24, a payroll timekeeper at a Wichita, Kan., aircraft factory, and Dave Ojala, 21, of Two Harbors, Minn., a pharmacy student at the University of Minnesota.

Ojala is a blond six-footer weighing 190. Kaser is a 5-10, 155-pounder.

"One of my greatest surprises is coming here and getting into the championships," said Kaser.

Ojala said he felt that he was just going along for the ride in making his bid.

"It is hard to believe that I have made it this far," he said.

Kaser, who won the Kansas State Amateur in 1962 and was runnerup this year, moved into the final with a 3 and 2 victory over George Demling of Louisville, Ky. Friday.

They were even after the morning 18, each shooting 74. Kaser took a 3-up lead after 27 holes with a front nine of 35, and that sealed his victory. He was five over par for the entire distance and Demling was seven over.

Unsteady golf also was carded by Ojala, who went 6-up over 17-year-old Don Powers of Litchfield Park, Ariz., in the morning and had little trouble eliminating him 7 and 6. Ojala was 10 over par for his 30 holes. Towers was 17 over.

Marchers Continue Protest Trek

By WALTER GRAY
Associated Press Writer

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) —Marching farm workers, en route to Austin for a Labor Day rally, left this Lower Rio Grande City today on another leg of their long protest trek.

They received a warm welcome Friday in the city park where they were greeted by a crowd of about 300 persons.

Willacy County Commissioner Mark Baughman delivered the principal welcoming speech.

Eight farm workers and three of their leaders began the march in San Juan on July 11. There were 46 single-file marchers Friday as the line reached this last Lower Rio Grande city on their route which now goes through Falfurrias, Corpus Christi, San Antonio and other towns on the long road to the state capitol.

March leaders said they expected the Mexican-American groups in Corpus Christi, San Antonio and Houston to swell their numbers considerably over the weekend.

The march is being staged to dramatize a strike in Starr County of farm workers who are asking $1.25 per hour for seasonal hands. Many received 85 cents per hour before the strike. A court order has enjoined most of the picketing.

Marchers hope another result of the journey, in 100-plus temperatures Friday, will be state or federal legislation to extend the national $1.25 per hour minimum wage to all farm workers.

Schepps Heads TPFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—George Schepps, long-time sports promoter, Saturday was named commissioner of the Texas Professional Football League.

He will direct a six-club circuit that includes Pasadena, Sherman-Denison, Tulsa, Odessa-Midland, Burkburnett and Dallas.

"We will expand to eight or 10 clubs but no more clubs will be taken this year," said Schepps.

Albuquerque, N.M., and Hammond, La., have applied for membership, Schepps added.

Schepps helped organize 11 professional baseball leagues after the Second World War at the behest of George Trautmann, then president of the minor leagues.

He also has owned seven professional clubs, including Dallas of the Texas League, which he sold in the late forties.

Schepps also has coached and managed many athletic teams in his long career.

Don M. Caraway of Pasadena is president of the new league, with Duncan McCauley of Sherman vice-president, Jim Werner of Tulsa treasurer, Bill Crow of Dallas secretary and Darrell Nichols of Burkburnett and John Hatley of Midland members of the board.

The league race starts Aug. 27 when Dallas meets Sherman-Denison at Sherman. The other clubs swing into action the following week. It will be a round-robin, home and home affair with each club playing 10 games. The first and second place clubs clash Dec. 3 for the championship.

Each club will have a minimum of 33 players and a maximum of 40, and Schepps said he would use officials of high-point ranking in the Southwestern Officials Association. National football League playing rules will be used.

"All games will be Saturday night so there will be no confliet with other professional games and college games," said Schepps.

The next meeting of the league will be July 24 when final plans for the coming season will be made and the new commissioner will be introduced.

Mamie To See Husband Pitch

By JAMES BOW
Associated Press Sports Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Mamie Van Doren, one of Hollywood's most durable attractions, breezed into town Friday night on her way to a baseball game.

Miss Van Doren arrived at the Sacramento airport with 19-year old Lee Meyers, her husband of two months who pitches for the Crushers of Lodi.

"I'll see Lee pitch for the first time Saturday night," the new Mrs. Meyers explained. Meyers, a southpaw with a 1-1 record, starts against Reno in the second game of a doubleheader.

Miss Van Doren stepped off the plane in a low-cut pink summer dress and accepted a bouquet of roses from Mrs. Cappy Harada, wife of the Lodi team's Japanese general manager.

"My base of operations is now Lodi," Miss Van Doren said as she and her husband prepared for the drive to Lodi, a grape-growing center of 27,000 about 35 miles south of Sacramento. The Meyers have rented an apartment in nearby Stockton.

Miss Van Doren added that she has given up a summer stock engagement in Ohio and will spend most of the summer traveling the California League circuit with her husband. "I have a picture coming up in Spain I may do," she said, but later added that "I've got a home now."

Miss Van Doren, who admits to 12 years in movies, and Meyers were married at Boise, Idaho, on May 4. "We started dating about six months ago," she said.

Meyers fended off questions Friday about a sizable inheritance he will reportedly receive at 21. "We don't want any publicity on the money deal," he commented. "We married for one reason—because we love each other."

Froehling Defeats Ralston In Milwaukee Tournament

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Come January, Dennis Ralston says he'll either be a student, a businessman or a tennis professional. The one thing he won't be, says Ralston, is a member of the amateur tour.

Ralston reserved the right to change his mind.

"I don't feel the same way I used to feel about tennis," said the nation's top-ranked player after an upset defeat Friday at the hands of eighth-seeded Frank Froehling in the quarterfinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

Froehling, a long, lean scrambler from Coral Gables, Fla., stopped the top-seeded Ralston's bid for a third-straight clay courts crown, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4.

In other men's quarter-finals, No. 2 seed, Cliff Richey, Dallas Tex. to follow up last week's victory in the Western Open, advanced to the semifinals with a 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 victory over Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., No: 7 seed.

Top foreign seed, Tony Roghe of Australia, lost to No. 4-seeded Marty Riessen, Evanston, Ill., 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 8-6. Australian Owen Davidson defeated third-seeded Charles Pasarell Santurce, P.R., 2-6, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5, 10-8.

Ralston, 23 has shed 10 pounds since losing in the finals at Wimbledon two weeks ago. Obviously tired from weeks of uninterrupted touring and play Ralston was off form in matches here.

He said that had nothing to do with his decision.

"This is something I've been thinking about a long time," Ralston said, "I've got to earn a living."

The Bakersfield, Calif., athlete said he would lay off tennis after the clay courts "until I feel like playing again."

Ralston withdrew Friday from the tour's next stop, the Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championships at Haverford. He said he would be available for the Davis Cup zone playoffs with Mexico in August and planned to enter the U.S. Championships at Forest Hills, N.Y., in September.

In semifinal matches today, Froehling was to play Davidson and Richey was to meet Riessen.

In women's singles, No. 2 seed Stephanie De Fina advanced to the semifinals with a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Elena Subirats, Mexico. The Hollywood, Fla., girl was to play Esme Emanuel, South Africa today.

Nancy Richey, Cliff's sister seeking her fourth straight clay courts' title, was against Australia's Kerry Melville in the other semifinal.

PENN OUT TO GET TEXAS

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Texans brag about a lot of things, but perhaps no more than Pennsylvanians about their football.

Letters are coming from all parts of Pennsylvania, boasting of how that state plans to get even for the 26-10 lump Texas put on its head last year in the Big 33 game.

Pennsylvania whipped Texas 12-6 in 1964 but the 26-10 beating Texas doled out in 1965 virtually wiped out a reputation Pennsylvania had in all-star games.

Until Bill Bradley and cohorts demolished the coal miners before a 25,000 standing-room-only crowd last summer, Pennsylvania had not allowed its goal line to be crossed by three All-America teams and one All-Texas team.

But letters reach Texas Big 33 headquarters here every day in which Pennsylvanians claim they will avenge the loss and establish themselves once more as the state that produces the best high school football players in the world.

That's how the Big 33 game got started. When a national magazine said Texas, California and Pennsylvania produced the best football players, Pennsylvania took issue over the fact that it was listed third.

Sponsors of the Big 33 game asked the NCAA to allow Pennsylvania to meet the best players in the land so as to prove they were first rather than third.

The NCAA gave its permission and Pennsylvania didn't allow anyone to cross its goal line in three years. But Pennsylvania soon learned it couldn't prove anything unless it played Texas.

Thus came the Big 33 all-star game between Texas and Pennsylvania.

Conflicting dates made it necessary for Texas to split up its all-stars in the first game, sending some of them to the Texas coaching school game.

Texas gave a good account of itself but the Texans could muster only two field goals, thus allowing Pennsylvania to brag further that no one had crossed its goal line.

Then in 1965, when dates were arranged so Texas could send its best players to Pennsylvania, Texas made a shambles of the Penn goal line, and could have scored again and again had not Bobby Layne, the Texas coach, been so kind.

Pennsylvania fans now claim the selection of their best players wasn't handled properly in 1965, that they have reorganized and are ready to rule the country again.

Many points are in Pennsylvania's favor in 1966. Texas had speed to burn in 1965, with no less than 10 players who ran the 100 in less than 10.0, two of them as fast as 9.5 and 9.6.

But this year finds Texans with only one player that fast—Pat Sheehan of San Antonio Lee at 9.8. All other selections are 10.0 or slower.

1965, Pennsylvania has gone all out for speed. Clippings from Pennsylvania newspapers stir such headlines as "Big 33 Rocketmen to Get Even with Texas; Bill Murray (Duke) to go for Speed."

Murray, the coach Pennsylvania chose for its all-stars after Lefty James (Cornell) was smashed in 1965, has claimed he has the best possible all-star cast in the land.

Murray will have interior linemen averaging 230 pounds and over 6-3 in height. And his backs, contrary to the big Pennsylvania specimen in the past, will be 184 in size and much faster.

Texas' interior linemen are much smaller and unless Layne is able to go airborne with such capable lads as Texarkana's Joe Norwood and San Antonio Highlands' Chuck Hixson, Texas may be in trouble.

Either way, there is enough interest from Pennsylvania by mail to indicate a good, old-fashioned grudge battle.

MISS UNIVERSE STATISTICS

Beauties Reveal Tale Of Tape

By THEODORE A. EDIGER

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The average glamor girl weighs 121, is 5-foot-6, has a 35½-inch bust, 23½-inch waist and 36-inch hips.

That is the tale of the tape among shapely beauties from 58 nations competing for the Miss Universe crown tonight.

Miss Holland and Miss Okinawa come closest to the average. Margo Domen of Den Haas, Holland, is a half-inch shorter and her hips measure a half-inch less. Yoneko Kiyan of Koza, Okinawa, missed only in weight—four pounds above the 121 par figure.

Four of the girls weigh 121. They are Misses Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Holland.

The wispiest, 98-pound Miss Ceylon, Lorraine Roosmalecocq, said this is her formula: "Eat everything you want to. Don't diet."

Miss Norway, Siri Gro Nilsen, is the heaviest, with 138 neatly distributed pounds.

Tallest is 5-foot-9 Lynn Carol de Jager of South Africa. Shortest, 5-2, are Miss Malaysia, Helen Lee Siew Lien, and Miss Free Cuba, Lesbia Murrieta.

The beauty queens of Aruba, Ireland, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Okinawa, Panama, Philippines Scotland and U.S.A. are 5-6.

In what pageant officials call vital statistics Miss Holland and Miss Okinawa are 35½—23½—35½. Other dimensions range from 34-22-34 for the Misses Ecuador, Morocco and Puerto Rico to Miss Venezuela's 39-24-39.

Brunettes predominate. There are 10 blondes. Miss Wales, Christine Evans, has silvery tresses which fall to her shoulders. Nilgun Arslaner of Turkey is the only red-haired contestant.

There are 30 pairs of brown eyes, with Miss Korea's about the darkest. Ten girls have blue eyes.

Miss Paraguay, Mirtha Martinez, who turned 18 on June 26, is the youngest. Only a few days older are Miss Japan, Atsumi Ikeno, and Miss Turkey.

Trinity Panel Protests Plan

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The Trinity River Authority Friday passed a resolution supporting protest of the Texas Water Development Board plan and asking for a 60-day period in which the two agencies can exchange information.

The TRA claims the plan will decrease the amount of water available to it.

Jack Smyth of Liberty, director of the TRA, said the key word to the entire program is "flexibility."

"I believe that after all the facts are considered," he added, "TRA and the Texas Water Development Board will work out a satisfactory agreement."

The resolution came at a quarterly meeting of the authority's board of directors.

During the meeting, Albert Hall of Huntsville, manager of the Lake Livingston project, told the directors his project is on schedule.

Three Areas Get Renewal Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Housing and Urban Development Department has announced funds for three Texas projects.

The Friday announcement named:

Princeton, Tex., $232,272 loan for construction of 16 low-rent homes.

Mercedes, Tex., $1,158,261 loan for construction of 80 low-rent homes.

Falfurrias, Tex., $9,000 loan for preliminary planning of 45 low-rent homes.

Cotton Plan Is Delayed Until '67

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new farmer-financed promotion and research program for cotton will not be applied until 1967, an undersecretary of agriculture says, because of prior need for hearings and a referendum.

The official, John Schnittker, made the announcement Friday.

He said the need for the referendum and hearings would force a delay until the 1967 crop.

Growers, voting in the referendum, must approve the program.

Legislation authorizing deduction of $1 a bale from grower returns from cotton to finance such a program was signed this week by President Johnson.

Friday, the Senate provided funds in the Agriculture Department's appropriation bill to initiate the program.

Once the appropriation bill becomes law, Schnittker said, the department will hold public hearings to get grower and industry comments.

Some congressmen had urged that efforts be made to have the program cover a portion of the 1966 crop. But Schnittker said:

"If the evidence in the hearings and the other documents support the program, the secretary of agriculture will then announce a referendum among cotton producers.

"The hearings and referendum will take some time and therefore the program cannot become operative in time to cover the 1966 crop."

Brownwood Gets Hospital Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., Friday reported a $1 million grant by the Health Education and Welfare Department to Brownwood, Tex.

The grant is helping construct a $2.5 million, 125-bed county hospital in the Central Texas city.

Soldier From Texas Dies In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) —Army Staff Sgt. William L. Robertson, of Hooks, Tex., has died of non-hostile causes in Viet Nam, the Defense Department said Friday.

He was identified as the husband of Mrs. S. Robertson, Route 1, Hooks.

Line Plans New Route

WASHINGTON (AP) — Central Airlines has been granted permission to serve Independence - Coffeyville - Parsons, Kan., on flights between Dallas and Kansas City, the Civil Aeronautics Board said Friday.

The new authority will enable Central to eliminate two DC3 flights serving the Independence area on a route between Amarillo and Kansas City by way of Borger, Oklahoma City and Bartlesville.

The airline planes to replace DC3s on that route with newer equipment that is too large and too heavy to be used at Independence.

Independence will be served between Ponca City, Okla., and Kansas City on a route that also serves Stillwater and Enid, Okla.

What's Gnu In The World Of Crossword Puzzles?

EDITOR'S NOTE — What's a nine-letter word for fun and games? That's crossword, a puzzler for 30 million Americans. Since the first one in 1913, crossword puzzles have developed a huge, loyal and noisy following.

By SID MOODY

NEW YORK (AP) — There are gnus in the zoo — and emus, too.

But they are more likely found roaming through what may be America's favorite and frustrating pastime, the crossword puzzle.

They are but two of the printable but perplexing four-letter words that regularly pester the more than 30 million Americans who play at crosswords.

The crossword has become a timeless time killer. It has been used in advertising campaigns and for marriage proposals. It sells newspapers, books and magazines by the millions.

It is the great leveler of our time. The office boy and the boss, the commuter and the housewife, the jeune fille — young girl, french, and the old termagant — shrew, all stand equal before the challenge of Daedalus's maze — labyrinth, of the English language.

Crossword cultists live in a world of two-letter words such as oe — a whirlwind of the Faroe Islands, and longer ones McGuffey never put in his readers such as schwa — the upside down 'e' in pronunciation symbols, and aposiopesis — not finishing a sentence or thought. Across or down, puzzlists live for today's "ancient people of Gaul" and tomorrow's answer — remi.

The crossword has raised controversy: the New York Times, in a puzzle featuring examples of figures of speech, once chose as a definition for "anticlimax" the phrase "For God, country and Yale" and heard a lot more than Boola-Boola from some old Elis.

And it has raised moral crises: Margaret Farrar, the Times' crossword editor, once received a call from a girl asking for a few hints on next Sunday's puzzle so she could impress her boy friend who was a whiz at words. Mrs. Farrar was stricken by demur — uncertainty, n., but finally acceded — agreed, to divulge several words.

"I just hope," she said the other day, "I haven't saddled some bright boy with a dumb girl for life."

Mrs. Farrar, one of the genro — elder statesmen, Japan, of the crossword since she took them up in 1920 after graduation from Smith College — "I can see my obit now :'Queen of the crosswords passed out today' — is permissive about giving clues to stumped Sunday puzzlers.

"No use their getting ulcers waiting for the answers next week."

Purists, on the other hand, do puzzles in pen, start at the upper left hand corner and work numerically across and consider dictionary users pariahs — outcasts.

Mrs. Farrar feels dictionaries are mete — allowable. "Puzzles should be fun, not work. Besides the solvers may learn something.'

An editor at Dell Publishing Co. agreed dictionaries are a matter of one's own conscience. And a matter of over 300,000 of its crossword dictionary Dell sells yearly.

Dell also puts out three puzzle magazines — there are over 40 others — the last nine issues of which sold 550,000 copies. Simon & Schuster has printed over 100 crossword books since it put out the first in the Dec. 21, 1913 issue. The first word down was a synonym for "to govern? — u — "and fans have been moving over and down ever since.

In 1924 Richard Simon and Max Schuster began their publishing house. Simon's aunt asked if they wouldn't put out a crossword book because a sick friend of hers liked to do them. S&S took the gamble but printed the book under the name of Plaza Publishing Co. to avoid possible damage to their reputation. They needn't have feared.

The book took off like a simoom — violent desert wind, and the crossword became a fad, nationwide and worldwide. Almost every American paper now has one. During World War II when newsprint shortages cut British papers down to four pages, editors tried to drop the puzzles. Readers waged a minor battle of Britain. The puzzles stayed.

Besides the 30 million solvers the Gallup Poll has estimated are in the United States there are an uncounted number of constructors, or puzzle-makers. They include a lifer at the Ohio State Penitentiary who sold 250 last year. There are so many the price for a daily puzzle in the Times, for instance, is only $10 and $25 and up on Sunday.

"Puzzles are like poetry, low paying," says Mrs. Farrar.

But at least one man makes his living constructing puzzles. He is Jack Luzzato, who wanted to be a cartoonist until he sold a puzzle to the World 40 years ago and thought, "Gee, there may be money in this."

Luzzato, who lives in the Bronx, takes three to five hours to make a 21x21-square puzzle. First he lays out the black squares in a symmetrical pattern. Then he fills in the longer words and finally the shorter ones. Finally he picks out definitions for the completed words.

"When you're constructing, for every word you use you should have 1,000 words you could have used. You need instant and total recall of words."

Luzzato is always on the lookout for new words from the space age or television or politics such as A-OK, gobbledegook, orbit or adman. History also turns up new words or definitions for old ones. "About all we had for essene, a very handy word for constructors, was 'Hebrew ascetic' until they discovered the Dead Sea scrolls," said Mrs. Farrar. "It opened up a whole new field."

A surfer "hangs 10" when he moves to the front of his board and sticks his toes over the nose. If only one foot protrudes, he "hangs five."

To the star-spangled American boss

—And others who deserve it for doing a favor that you might not have thought about

Hats off to the many presidents and managers of companies who helped build the Payroll Savings Plan into what it is today—one of the most popular and easy ways to save money.

These business leaders provided the facilities and manpower necessary to operate the Plan—plus their own enthusiastic endorsement. And never stopped to count hours or pennies.

Thanks to them, over 8 million Americans—their employees—are building security and helping their country through this automatic savings plan.

There are others who have helped other millions of Americans own a share of their country. Volunteers in every walk of life. Folks in radio and TV, movies and the theater. Newspaper and magazine and billboard folks. And Bond "salesmen" in thousands of banks and savings institutions.

Buy Bonds at your bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, and you'll see what a good idea it is.

And the next time you see your boss (who helped make it so easy for you to save)—thank him.

He deserves it—from all 190 million of us.

Book Is Sharply Critical Of Assassination Report

EDITOR's NOTE: Altough it is more than 2½ years since the assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, at least five new books on the subject have been published or are coming out this summer alone. All are critical of the Warren Commission report on the case, and one was written by a Texas newspaper editor, Penn Jones Jr. of Midlothian. Here is a report.

By TOM JOHNSON

MIDLOTHIAN, Tex. (AP)—A Texas newspaper editor predicts that 'more killings are going to be necessary in order to keep this crime quiet."

He is Penn Jones Jr., and "this crime" is the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Jones, editor and publisher of the Midlothian Mirror since 1945, is the only Texas author to join the ranks of writers producing a spate of books this summer critical of the Warren Commission report on the assassination.

This revived interest, coming almost three years after the assassination, has also produced a flood of magazine articles on the subject.

Books already published this summer are "Forgive My Grief" by Jones; "Inquest" by graduate student Edward Jay Epstein of New York; and "Whitewash" by former Senate investigator Harold Weisberg of Washington.

Scheduled for United States publication in September are similarly critical works by New York attorney Mark Lane and French newspaperman Leo Sauvage, who works in this country.

Jones, Epstein and Weisberg do not indulge in spinning unprovable conspiracy theories about the assassination, as did some writers in 1964.

Rather, their efforts rely heavily on the official testimony released by the Warren Commission in September 1964, and on personal investigation.

"It would be presumptuous," Jones writes, "for a weekly newspaper to think it could solve such a heinous crime . . . Our aim is to try to assist history, and to that end we shall continue to work."

The Midlothian editor, not a stranger to controversial causes, further states:

"We expect to work on the assassination for the rest of our lives."

Jones, whose newspaper is only 19 miles from Dallas, says he has spent thousands of hours "knocking on doors, asking questions" about the murders of Kennedy, Dallas Policeman J. D. Tippit and alleged presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

He adds that careful reading of the commission's 26 volumes of evidence and testimony leads him to conclude that "actions were taken by the commission" to obfuscate the evidence.

Jones' major conclusions are that:

—Oswald and Jack Ruby, his killer, very possibly were acquainted before the assassination;

—Kennedy was shot from the front, not from the back; and —At least 13 persons connected innocently or otherwise with the "assassination principals" have been murdered or found dead under strange circumstances since the Nov. 22 weekend.

The Warren Commission, formed by President Johnson to find the truth of the assassination, concluded that:

—Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy with rifle shots from behind;

—Oswald and Ruby did not know each other; and —There was no conspiracy, foreign or domestic, involved.

Jones, Epstein and Weisberg all charge that the commission was unduly selective in its choice of evidence in order to make its single assassin conclusion plausible.

Jones' book, which he subtitles "Volume I," has as a general format the juxtaposition of segments of official commission testimony in such a way as to imply internal contradiction.

Commission testimony also is juxtaposed with results of Jones' own legwork.

He presents a long list of coincidences, culled from the official testimony, which he says should have led commission lawyers time and again to ask "the next most obvious question" of witnesses.

Among these is the fact that Mrs. Earlene Roberts, Oswald's landlady at the time of the assassination, was the sister of a Dallas woman acquainted with Jack Ruby.

Mrs. Roberts, now dead, also testified that a police car pulled up and honked at her rooming house shortly after the assassination, and while Oswald was in his room allegedly changing clothes.

Perhaps the most intriguing of such coincidences put forth by Jones is the one involving two reporters who allegedly visited Ruby's apartment the night of Nov. 24, 1963, after Ruby had shot Oswald and was in police custody.

Jones says he has learned that Jim Koethe, Dallas Times Herald reporter, and Bill Hunter, a native of Dallas but working for a Long Beach, Calif., newspaper at the time, went to the apartment after the visit was set up by a Dallas lawyer. Six persons are said to have been present that night.

What the two newsmen learned there, if anything, is not known. Both are now dead.

Koethe was found in his Dallas apartment, the victim of a blow to the neck or head. His murder is unsolved.

Hunter's death was officially listed as an accident. He was shot by a policeman who said his pistol discharged while he was practicing "fast draw" at the Long Beach police station press room.

Koethe and Hunter died in 1964, some five months apart.

Jones also notes that the first attorney Ruby had after he shot Oswald is also dead, as is the cab driver who drove Oswald to his rooming house immediately after the assassination.

Jones refers to such events as "the string of amazing coincidences."

Epstein's book was submitted as a master's thesis at Cornell University. He said its initial purpose was to investigate how the commission functioned to arrive at its conclusion, rather than to take issue with the conclusion itself.

But a recent review of the Epstein book in Look magazine took the author to task for making the same type of selective-evidence judgments that the commission is accused of having made.

Jones is more free-wheeling in his book, which consists of 25 chapters, most of which were carried previously in his newspaper.

He openly challenges the commission on a number of points and frequently uses the findings of his own investigations to spotlight alleged shortcomings of the Warren report.

Jones believes Oswald was involved in the assassination but is not sure to what extent. He is convinced that Kennedy was cut down in a cross-fire of at least two weapons.

Ex-Nazi Jesuit Priest Campaigns Against Atheism

By GEORGE ARFELD

BONN, Germany (AP) — A frail-looking Jesuit priest who once wore the brown shirt of Adolf Hitler's youth movement is barnstorming across Germany on a crusade against atheism.

Some call the Rev. Johannes Leppich, 50, a showoff and exhibitionist. Others say the priest is battling for his church with the vigor and tactics required by modern times.

After eight years of addressing street rallies in unorthodox fashion, Father Leppich has learned to accept criticism with an awareness that his methods are not everyone's cup of tea. Still he has the support of the church.

"Do you know the difference between a missionary and Padre Leppich?" he asked an audience of thousands that packed the Bonn market square.

"The missionary turns wild men devout," he answered himself and left it up to the crowd to catch on the balancing sentence of the self-deriding joke.

His address was banned for children under 14, "because not everything we say here is suited for their ears."

"I don't use vulgar expressions, but what Christ says I say too," he explains.

Words like "whores," "castrate," "dung," and "sows" crop up again and again.

He castigates the West Germans mercilessly for what he calls their "flirtation with stomach and lower belly atheism.' He speaks of a wave of sexual fixation and blames not the young generation but its parents.

He lashes out against those who "in their hysteric pursuit of well-being insert the topic of God at best while pausing between cigarettes at a party."

The rally lasts about two hours. Father Leppich hammers at his theme: Pay more attention to each other's needs instead of being obsessed by pleasure.

According to Father Leppich his earthy, blunt talks are more effective than everyday preaching because 'professors talk over a crowd's head."

The son of a prison guard, Father Leppich was born in the mining town of Ratibor, in Upper Silesia, a part of Germany now under Polish rule. At 20 he entered the Catholic Church.

"But as a small 'Hitler youth' cub I already dreamed of meeting that great aristocrat, Pope Pius XII," he tells listeners.

"Once I had met this man I made the decision to defend him, even against defamation."

He expresses deep admiration for both John XXIII and Paul VI.

"I thought I was a radical, but after meeting them I knew otherwise," he says.

THE DEVIL'S TWENTY-THIRD PSALMS
Written by a life term inmate of Prison

King Alcohol is my sheperd; I crave and want,
He maketh me to lie down in mud holes;
He leadeth me beside troubled waters;
He dammeth my soul.
He turneth my car over for taste's sake.
Yea, though I ride in the valley of the shadow of hell,
I will hold to the bottle, for the Devil is with me.
His saloon and his beer joint, they becon me.
He preparest an empty table before me in the presence of my family;
He anointest my head with bruises, my pocket book is empty.
Surely evil and misery shall follow me all the days of my life;
And I shall dwell in the house of the devil forever.

Decrease Noted In Insect Count

Insect populations generally decreased in the county during the past week. Some heavy infestations were reported by the insect survey team, but most fields showed less activity. This decrease was due to several factors: insecticide applications in some fields, hard rain showers, and a general decline in favorable climatic conditions.

Fleahoppers continue to dominate the list of insects causing damage to cotton. Moderate to high infestations were found, but fruiting of the cotton increased even in these fields. Control measures have been applied in many fields in the county, and a close watch of these fields must follow to prevent a build-up of other injurious insects.

Bollworms were evident in many fields, however, infestations were not considered high enough to need control at this time. This insect should be observed closely to prevent extensive damage. Bollworms must be controlled when small. Most insecticides have little effect on worms that are ½ inch long or larger.

Billy Roach, County Agent, reported one infestation of the Brown Cotton Leafworm. This infestation was not one of the survey farms. This is the first report of this insect in Scurry County. The brown cotton leafworm is a minor insect of cotton, being reported about 1 in 10-15 years in College Station Area.

The brown cotton leafworm resembles the cabbage looper except for color. The looping action of the worm is noted when the insect crawls. The brown cotton leafworm has the ability to over-winter, this being different from the regular cotton leafworm, which must migrate to this area each year. However, this is a minor insect of cotton and should not present too much of a problem.

Beneficial insects are very abundant in most fields and should be a big help in keeping infestations of damaging insects down. Fields should be examined regularly by producers who must decide when control measures need to be applied.

One overwintered bool weevil was found by the insect survey team during this week's survey.

Mayor Loads Constituents' Garbage

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — His Honor Alexander J. Jaffurs, mayor of suburban Wilkinsburg, is picking up his constituents' garbage today.

Jaffurs and six other borough officials started digging into the community's mounting garbage Friday. The 20 regular refuse collectors went on strike for more money Thursday.

"We were determined to roll a couple of trucks," the mayor said.

After heaving burlap sacks of garbage for 13 hours, Jaffurs, 36, described his first day on the job as: "Distasteful. Yale Law School was never like this."

Tired and dirty, Jaffurs leaned against a garbage truck and moaned: "That's a lot of garbage. I'm tired. A lot of garbage was wet and every time we dumped it into burlap sacks, it would leak onto our clothes."

About the strikers' wage demands, he said: "After today, I'm more disposed to consider their financial request."

Jaffurs, a lawyer, had other troubles making the rounds.

He said one of his clients spotted him and remarked that his practice must be pretty bad.

"I felt like choking the guy," said His Honor.

He added: "One fella thought I was the regular garbageman and accused me of stealing a barbecue grill last week.

"I told him, 'This is my first day on the job.' And he said, 'Okay, kid, but be sure and pick up the rubbish over there.' "

Jaffurs told him to take it up with the mayor.

Short Skirts Prompt Discrimination Charge

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Norman Creamer complains that as a man he is being discriminated against by his employer in this hot weather.

The Armco Steel Corp. has forbidden him to wear shorts to work. Many of the women come attired in the latest short skirts.

"One girl's skirt I saw must have been six inches shorter than my Bermudas," said Creamer indignantly.

His union has filed a grievance for Creamer, who operates a crane and after arriving at work changes into dungarees, work shirt, and hard hat.

New Divorce Suit For Willie McCoveys

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — First baseman Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants has been sued again for divorce by his wife, Karen.

McCovey had sued her for divorce last year and she filed a cross complaint.

The couple made up and the court actions were dismissed last March 3.

Mrs. McCovey filed new papers in Superior Court Friday, accusing her husband of causing her grevious mental suffering.

Brigitte, Husband Begin Honeymoon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — French film star Brigitte Bardot and husband Gunther Sachs, a German industrialist, left Los Angeles early today by jet for a Tahitian honeymoon.

The actress and Sachs were married Thursday in Las Vegas, Nev., after a flight from Paris.

Hot, Dry Weather Puts Moisture Through Wringer

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Rains in Texas have been few and heat literally put available soil moisture through the ringer. The result, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is a growing shortage of moisture for both crops and pastures.

The hot, dry weather in South Texas, he added, really put the "get and go" into the grain sorghum harvest and swamped elevators and brought on a critical shortage of transportation equipment. Ranges in many areas are browning and grass fires are becoming a threat, the director said. Livestock are generally in good condition and grazing is still adequate, however.

Midweek reports from district agents said:

Moisture is very short over most of the Panhandle and many farmers are waiting for rain to plant dryland sorghum.

Irrigation wells on the South Plains are being pumped at near capacity and all crops were making good progress. Cotton is squaring and blooming and sorghum ranges from early bloom stage to emerging heads.

Some moisture improvement was noted in the Rolling Plains (Vernon), but 20 of the 22 counties in the district need more rain. Cotton and sorghum are making fair to good growth.

Cotton and sorghums in far West Texas are making excellent growth. Livestock are in good to excellent condition. Cantaloupes are beginning to ripen. Labor is scarce. Cotton insects are increasing.

Showers in West Central Texas have been scattered and light except in Kerr and Real counties where rains were heavy. Cotton is fruiting well and making good growth. Insects are light. A good supply of high quality peaches is available in the Hill Country.

Moisture in Central Texas is getting short and corn and late sorghum needs rain. Cotton is making good progress but insects are increasing. The peanut crop is in good shape.

Moisture in East Texas is short; very short in Cherokee, Madison, Panola and Tyler counties. Corn needs rain. The lack of rain has cut vegetable production.

Half the counties in Southeast Texas were short on moisture. Cotton is blooming and corn is in all stages. Early rice should be ready for harvest within a week to 10 days.

South Central Texas has adequate moisture. Moisture in the Coastal Bend and the Valley counties in far South Texas also counties in far South Texas also is adequate but the Winter Garden needs rain. The sorghum harvest is moving very fast. Valley grain elevators are nearly full.

LIBRARY NOTES

Health, wealth, and wisdom. Those are the ambitions of almost every American citizen. Did you know that books from your Scurry County Library can help you acquire all these? On its shelves are many books that will help you improve your health, earn a better living, and increase your knowledge.

New books are: "Diet and live" by Joseph I. Goodman. This book is for people who want to lose weight, or less likely-gain it, in a sensible and safe manner. There is no quackery here, nor are there any food fads or any "quick and miraculous" solutions. As many people have learned to their sorrow, such solutions are neither quick nor miraculous. To help the reader succeed in dieting, the author shows how to make a weight-control chart on which to plot weight loss week by week against the guideline.

"To conquer loneliness" by Harold B. Walker. Deep in ble and inescapable fact of loneliness. This condition, the author says, prevails no matter how confident and self-sufficient our outer masks may make us appear. This is a book the reader will turn to again and again for guidance and for comfort. It is a book that pierces through superficiality to the secret heart of all mankind.

"Origin of cultivated plants" by Franz Schwanitz. It has been estimated that if man were still dependent upon hunting and foraging for his food supply, the Earth could not support more than 30 million people. It is the existence of cultivated plants alone that permits a persent world population of 2.5 billion people. Aimed at the non-specialist, this book provides a clear and concise account of the transformation of wild species into cultivated plants.

"Those who came forward" by Curtis Mitchell. Ten years ago Billy Graham opened his first great London crusade. He stood then on the threshold of an unprecedented period of success in world-wide evangelism. The reaction to his sermons was astounding. What have these people who have been converted under Billy Graham's ministry done with their lives since? Here for the first time are the answers, the documented revelations of men and women who have been reborn and found a new life. Here are their actual letters, telling of their feelings about their acceptance of God.

"Wapiti wilderness" by Margaret Murie. This is a family book and a nature book set in the mountainous wilderness of the Grand Tetons of Wyoming, where the Muries lived for thirty-seven years, where they raised their children and where Mr. Murie conducted his famous studies of the American elk, the wapiti.

"D-Day beaches revisited" by Patrice Boussel. This is a handbook for all who took part or were alive during the time of the great European invasion—as well as a sound introduction to those of the new post - war generation who wish to know what the fighting was all about.

Others are: Best seller "Earthly Paradise" by Colette; "Erie Water West" by Ronald E. Shaw; "Houses of God" by Jeannette Mirsky and "Winslow Homer at Prout's Neck" by Philip Beam.

New fiction: "Never Call it Loving" by Dorothy Eden. This is a biographical novel of Katharine O'Shea and Charles Stewart Parnell. Others are: Robert Carson's "Outsiders"; Conrad Richter's "Country of Strangers"; Max Brand's "Ride the Wild Trail" and Wayne C. Lee's "Brand of a Man".

Out From Gloucester For Cod

THAT GREAT PATTILLO. By Joseph E. Garland.

One man's biography is the framework for this story, which really is about seafaring, and especially that legendary center of the fishing industry, Gloucester.

The actual Pattillo, who died in 1887 at the age of 80, dictated his memoirs to a friend— he could barely write — not long before his death. Garland centered his extensive research around that document.

The young Pattillo was a roaring roughneck from Nova Scotia, son of a Scottish pioneer. He went to sea when he was 11 and was master of his own vessel when he was 14½. He was a Hercules in strength, and in accordance with custom in those hard-drinking days, a prodigious brawler when steeped in rum.

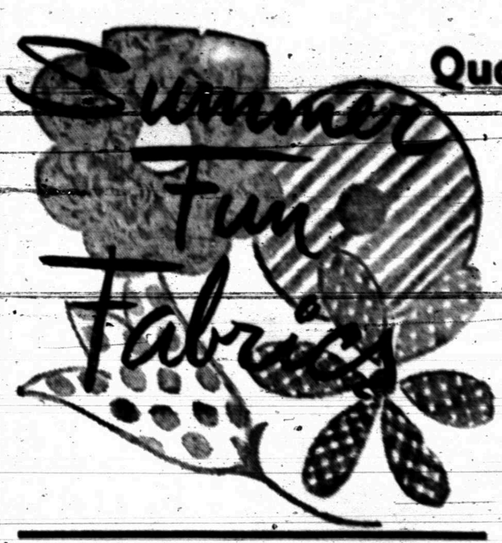

It was his penchant for cracking heads, particularly those of constables and customs officers, that made things too hot for him in his native waters.

So he took off for the United States — the Canadians called it "Rougue's Hole" — and by chance settled at Gloucester in 1834, when he was 27. He soon became an American citizen—"a white - washed Yankee"—partly because citizenship was required in order to have his name on a ship's papers.

The rest of the story is about Pattillo's exploits for 30 years as one of the best masters in the Gloucester fishing fleets, in the days when cod, halibut and mackerel were caught on handlines, and salted right on the deck; the days when gales and storms created terrible havoc among the sailing vessels. Pattillo curbed his brawling when he became a teetotaler, but he never got over his zest for a battle with Canadian officials.

This is a lusty adventure story about the man who went down to the sea in ships.

If you want to preserve the natural wood appearance of the outside of your house, you have to decide between a penetrating - type or a "built - up" finish.

Penetrating finishes are either clear or slightly pigmented. The latter tend to restore the original color of the wood without hiding the grain and include what are generally referred to as shingle stains.

The built-up finish can be spar varnish, marine varnish or any similar product made to produce a surface coating. At one time, this type of finish could be obtained only in the glossy, hard form, which was especially suitable for doors and comparatively small surfaces but sometimes cracked after a period of time when applied to entire houses. Today, certain types of resin - free varnishes are available in both dull and glossy finishes. Not being as hard as spar or marine varnishes, they are less susceptible to cracking during the expansion and contraction periods of wood.

Penetrating finishes, sometimes called sealers, must be applied to raw wood or to wood which previously was treated with a similar type of finish. Some of them contain wood preservatives, of special value where conditions might facilitate the growth of fungus. Some also have touches of color, such as those which deepen the tone of redwood but do not cover the grain.

We often are asked whether it is better to apply paint or a clear finish to the outside of a house. Much depends on what is meant by the word "better." Nothing is better for instance, if it doesn't suit your personal fancy. Nothing is better if it is out of harmony with the neighborhood in which you live that your house takes on a freakish appearance. The first thing to be decided, therefore, is which finish you prefer and which will not be out of harmony with the architecture of the house and those around it.

Once having made that decision, you should keep these facts in mind. Penetrating finishes usually spread father than paint and thus generally are more economical. But paint usually will last longer on the outside of a house, assuming that both products are of good quality. Varnish finishes come in a wide range of prices and also have a shorter exterior life than paint.

An important consideration is the type of finish already on the house. Be very certain to read the directions on the container, before you buy, to determine how much work you will have to do to get the old surface ready. This could make up your mind for you in a hurry.

QUESTION: Some time this summer I expect to build a concrete patio floor at the back of our house. I have done a few concrete jobs in the past, although none as ambitious as this, so I don't expect to have more than the usual amount of trouble. But there is one area in which I need advice. I want the patio floor to have some color in it. I know that it can be painted but a neighbor of mine painted a concrete floor about 10 years ago, only to have it worn off by foot traffic in less than three months. Is there any other way I can color the concrete so that it will last at least a couple of years?

ANSWER: Since the time when your neighbor painted his patio floor, a lot of things have happened in the world of paint. One of them is the introduction of an exterior latex paint formulated for use on masonry. It has great resistance to alkali and retains its color far better than old-time masonry paints. Also, there is a latex deck paint which has the same virtues plus an added resistance to foot traffic. But if you would rather steer clear of paint, there are several other ways to color concrete.

One is with the use of a dry color that is mixed with the cement, sand and aggregate. Another calls for using coloring only in a topping which is applied after the basic slab has been formed. And still another is a kind of dye that is applied to the finished surface and sinks into the pores of the concrete.

Tile Touch Tile Covered Stairways

An interesting new use for ceramic tile is on stairways. Because of the traction provided by the grout lines—the spaces between the tiles, filled with adhesives—tile offers a safer surface than materials that can wear or work loose. This safety factor has spurred use of tile in hallways and other heavy-

Ceramic tile, a material that for generations was used almost exclusively in bathrooms and kitchens, now is rapidly gaining favor on living and dining room walls.

The esthetic values of tile—chiefly its striking color potentials and its reassuring sleekness—play an important part in these new installations. In living and dining rooms tile is generally used on one wall, providing a strong accent to the over-all decor.

Development of a wide range of new decorative tiles during recent years has done much to spark this trend. The domestic tile industry now produces tile in more than one thousand different colors and color combinations, as well as a hundred different shapes and sizes and well over five hundred designs. A comparatively new "wrinkle" is a variety of sculptured tiles that add a third dimension of depth.

Tile Helps Solve 'Problem' Window In Room

One of the many ideas that we have borrowed from Nature is the art of camouflage, which is a way of making things seem what they 'ain't.'

Enterprising homemakers have long since latched on to this deceptive device in countless practical ways. For example, badly situated windows—eyesores to many despairing women—can be converted into miniature beauty spots by using the camouflage idea, plus a bit of imagination. You can solve almost any awkward window problem with the use of a wide variety of materials that are available today.

For example, one woman decided that she wanted something more durable than mere curtains and a wood valapee to help her solve her window problem. For a surprisingly small investment the former household eyesore was converted into a conversation piece by simply having it framed with decorative ceramic tile in busy, floral designs.

A tile contractor nailed a six-inch strip of ¼-inch plywood around the entire window, framing both sides and top. To these strips, six-inch-square ceramic tiles were mounted with an epoxy as the adhesive. These expoxies are a new adhesive material that has been thoroughly tested.

Finding Summer Job

By The Associated Press

"What's wrong with me? Why can't I find a job?" asks an 18-year-old high school girl. "Year after year my friends line up good summer jobs early. I'm always the last to click.

"This year, it is no different. I started early, wrote letters and was interviewed. But they say, "We'll let you know," and that's the end of it. I'm nice-looking, well - dressed (I'm told). I'm not shy. But I don't make a good impression."

Why not visit a career counselor and get a frank answer, by request? Also, tell her how you get along on a job once you get it. It may be that you give a bad first impression, something that might be straightened out, if you were clued in. It is true that sometimes your best friend is reluctant to tell you.

One personnel manager says that when a girl can't get a job, 10-to-1 it is her appearance that is against her.

1. Long stringy hair is out for job interviews. Lovely for parties, she says, but put it back in a barrette when you go to be interviewed.

Hair piled high in any theatrical fashion or evening hairdo isn't suitable. A simple, girlish hairdo is best. Your hair should be clean, glossy and neat. "I'd tell a girl to wear a hat as an appearance booster, but if she doesn't have one, I don't think it will be held against her."

Wear stockings. You can go barelegged everywhere but not when looking for work.

Neatness and cleanliness are good grooming assets that stand out. All else should be played down, including voice. Speak sweet and low.

"You'd be surprised what some employers say they do not like. I've had them tell me they don't like girls who wear white nail polish, false eyelashes, the color red, charm bracelets. Spike heels are definitely out with employers who fear for their expensive floor tiles," she explains.

The best outfit is a simple dress or suit — light print or dark cotton or other material, shoes with low heels, a minimum of jewelry — nothing more than pearls, a little chain necklace, wrist watch. In other words, don't choose a snake bracelet or rabbit's foot that could repel the interviewer.

"I think a pair of bright, white cotton gloves is an immaculate touch that goes over big with would-be bosses. It is a symbol of cleanliness. You'd be surprised how few girls ever wear them. But it adds immeasurably to a crisp, efficient look, she points out.

And a prime tip is this one: "Don't job-seek with a friend. You will detract from each other and the upshot will be that neither will be hired, especially if you are gigglers."

Stir together the mayonnaise, mustard, onion; mix with ham, celery, pickle relish, salt and pepper. Arrange on salad greens; garnish with tomatoes, each cut into sixths. Makes 6 servings.

Harris, Hardin-Simmons University Bible professor will officiate at the double ring ceremony to be held at Northside Baptist Church, Snyder, on August 27th, at 7:30 p.m. The bride-elect is a graduate of Snyder High School and Hardin-Simmons University. She is employed at Hendrick Memorial laboratory. The groom graduated from Hawley High School, Hardin-Simmons and is employed by U. S. Time.

Narrative Full Of Symbols

THE GATES OF THE FOREST. By Elie Wiesel.

To combine ancient legend, modern horror and the question of lost faith in one anguished narrative is a remarkable accomplishment.

Wiesel has done it. The result may not appeal to the popular taste, but it is a challenge to the intellect of the cultivated reader.

This novel is about a young Jewish boy named Gregor, in Hungary during World War II. To escape the war pogroms he first takes refuge in a cave. He is shaken by the arrival of a mysterious visitor, Gavriel, who insists that he has seen the Messiah surrendering to death.

Gregor takes another refuge in a village where a Christian woman protects him, but he is caught up in a wild parody of a Judas theme and has to flee again— over the border to Rumania, where an underground band of Jewish partisans seeks to liberate the mysterious visitor from jail.

Unwittingly, Gregor betrays the partisans' leader, his childhood friend, to the Germans. The aftermath, post-war, finds Gregor haunted by his past.

But this is only the narrative framework of a story filled with allegroy, religous questioning, exotic peasant scenes, introspective cravings and startling contrasts.

Wiesel has a driving, often extravagant, prose style. He weaves together a surrealistic narrative filled with rugged, disturbing imageries. He thrusts into the reader's ken a sorrowful, ritualistic chant, a primitive cry from age-old, decadent Europe for relief from man's persecution of man.

Pity The Painter

Painting New York's George Washington Bridge takes 50 men two years and over 12,000 gallons of paint. Luckily for the painters, the long-lasting aluminum paint gives them 10 years between trips to the George Washington and a chance to brighten up the other city bridges.

House Expander

A city house on a small lot often needs the space-making virtues of a wood deck extended into the garden at the level of interior floors. On flat lots, the deck's joists can rest directly on concrete blocks or piers without need of posts. Douglas fir and cedar 2x4s make the best deck boards, should be spaced an eighth - inch apart for rain runoff.

Robbins Portraying Raw Life

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — "I never think of my books as sexy," said Harold Robbins, author of "The Carpetbaggers." "Sex alone never made a best seller."

Here to launch his new book, "The Adventurers," the American author said, "I have nothing in the bank. Of course I'm owed between $5 and $7 million.

"If I see half of it before I die, I'll be lucky."

Urged to talk about himself, Robbins went on:

"I'm a product of the Depression. For any kid who grew up in the Depression, the first thing he does is survive. I've done many, many things. I was a film company vice president making $2,000 a week. I quit to write.

"I lost my wife at the same time. She said, 'You've got to be crazy to give up $2,000 a week.'

"The Carpetbaggers" earned a million dollars plus, said Robbins. "Every penny went to pay off debts. Next year I wrote another million-dollar best seller and kept just under 7 per cent after alimony and taxes. The more I earned to pay off back taxes, the more fresh taxes I incurred."

He paused and then continued:

"I'm now beginning to keep more of what I earn. It's given me freedom — freedom to write my novels at a more leisurely pace."

Camera Angles

MANY AMATEUR photographers sooner or later feel that they produce pictures which are as good — or better — than the ones they see in print in various publications and they wonder how they can sell their photos.

There are many factors that must be taken into account before such a seemingly simple transaction as printing a picture takes place. Actually it's a complicated process to match suitable pictures with editors and deadlines but fortunately there is a handy guidebook for consultation by advanced as well as novice photographers.

"Where and How To Sell Your Pictures" by Arvel W. Ahlers and Paul V. Webb (Amphoto Publ., New York, N.Y. 10010) is a sixth revised edition of a listing that first appeared 14 years ago. Its expanded, up - dated version now includes information on European markets because that's Paul Webb's bailiwick and the authors have been cooperating in across - the - ocean photographic selling for the past few years.

Just as important as the names, addresses and requirements of the photography markets is Ahler's advice and comprehensive survey of what type pictures sell and the importance of an imaginative, fresh approach coupled with top technical quality.

"When you blend craftsmanship and creativity with marketing knowledge," he points out, "you have a practical recipe for selling pictures.

"Happily photography is a medium in which only the results count and money - making opportunities are open to men and women alike, regardless of age, race, religion, background or geographical location. The person who can produce salable pictures can pursue a part-time or full-time career at his own pace."

Besides the well-known publications which are considered the prime targets for picture takers, Ahlers discusses the much larger field of "off-trail" photo markets which enterprising free - lance photographers create for themselves. Often they develop out of other hobbies or interests and the photographer discovers that his pictures of classmates, sports, buildings, celebrities, pets or school productions can be sold to other people. Other hobbyists, craftsmen, artists, amateur thespians, athletes, civic and educational groups, resort owners and real estate agents are just a few of the prospects in every community for ambitious photographers who wish to start free lancing.

Many beginners feel that since color photos pay so much more than black-and-white, that's the medium to concentrate on. There are many reasons why this is a specialized field which should be left to seasoned pros. Color films are more expensive to shoot with, of course, are far more exacting and have less letitude, produce just one original if you use transparancies, take longer to process, have fewer publishing outlets and may not be necessary in a good many cases.

It is far better to concentrate on submitting good black-and-white prints in standard 8 x 10 size on single - weight glossy or luster paper. They should not be toned or printed through textured screens. Care should be taken to see that they are flat and mailed between two cardboards to arrive in good condition. Prints should have your identification, all necessary information in legible caption form and technical data if that is important to the story.

It's a good idea also to include a return address label and sufficient postage so that your photos may be conveniently sent back if they should prove to be unsatisfactory. It's a process you may have to get used to before you "learn the ropes" sufficiently to hit the bullseye.

BABY BANTER — Contance Bannister has sold baby photographs to books for many years. The latest is "It's a Riot To Diet" published by Pocket Books Inc. The caption on this one is: "No, I'm not making a face at you; I'm reducing my chin with isometrics."

When a recipe says to whip evaporated milk, you'll find it simple to do if the undiluted milk is properly chilled and you use this method: first, measure amount of evaporated milk called for in recipe and chill in ice cube tray, until partially frozen. Turn into a bowl and whip until stiff. Add lemon juice (if called for) and whip to blend. You'll find the evaporated milk has tripled in volume and will blend smoothly with the other ingredients.

MRS. GORDON EVERETT SHULTZ

Powell, Shultz Marriage Vows Read In First Methodist Church, Snyder

Miss Brenda Kay Powell, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Powell, became the bride of Mr. Gordon Everett Shultz of Pampa, on July 9th at 7 p.m. in the First Methodist Church of Snyder. Dr. John English officiated at the double ring service.

Mrs. Geraldine Shultz of Pampa is the mother of the groom.

A large spray of white gladiolus and white tapers in branched caldelabras entwined with English ivy formed an arch behind the altar and extended to the sides of the church. Donna Ray and Terri Daniels, nieces of the groom lighted candles.

James Ball was organist, Tom Bennett played the trumpet and Sidney Mac McKinney was soloist.

Ray Powell Jr. gave the bride in marriage. She wore a formal length gown of pure silk organza veiled over white taffeta and combined with imported French lace. The molded bodice featured an overlay of lace at the neck creating a Sabrina neckline. The long fitted sleeves tapered to form petal points over the hands. The sheath skirt featured a detachable chapel length train. A formal length veil of silk English illusion was attached to a caplet of organza petals rimmed in seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of orchids surrounded by gladiolus.

Beverly Jones of Paducah was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lynda Lawrence of Bristol, Tenn., Mrs. Shirley Ray and Mrs. Delbert Daniels, both sisters of the groom. They wore biege crepe formal length dresses with a biege French lace over-blouse, and carried coral gladiolus.

Bill Coberly of Amarillo was best man. Groomsmen were James Anderson of Amarillo, Richard Snider of Seguin, and William Patterson of Lubbock. Ushers included James Weaver of Fort Worth, Gene Cox of Pampa, Rick Reed of Lubbock and Johnny Powell of Snyder, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in Wesley hall. Piano music was presented by Margaret Dell Pilcher. Ann Boyd of Dumas and Judy Bock of Borger presided at the three - tiered wedding cake. Assisting were Mrs. Syble Golden and Mrs. Charlcie Roberson of Snyder. Mary Ann Moffett of Snyder registered guests.

For traveling the bride chose a yellow linen suit and wore the orchid corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make their home at Tech Village, 2902 Third Place, in Lubbock.

The bride is a graduate of Snyder High School and Texas Technological College. The groom is a graduate of Pampa High School, Texas Tech and a member of Phi Mu Alpha Music fraternity and Kappa Kappa Psi.

The rehearsal dinner was held July 8 at the Steak House, hosted by Mrs. Geraldine Shultz.

Out-of-town guests were from Dallas, Beaumont, Houston, Amarillo, Seguin, Fort Worth, Pampa, Dumas, Borger, Paducah, Texas and Bristol, Tenn.

Tile Nicknack Shelves

Recessed spaces in ceramic tile are becoming popular additions to kitchen decor. Smart homemakers have discovered that the extra spaces between wall studs can be utilized by having ceramic tiled spaces built in. One housewife with a flair for decorating had a whole series of recessed areas in decorator tile built into her kitchen wall. The tiled shelves, which looked like built-in bookcases, were then filled in with cookbooks, ceramic nicknacks, jars of nuts and candy, pepper and salt mills, bottles of herbs and condiments and what-have-you, adding a most cheerful note to the kitchen.

Who Says 'Weaker Sex'?

So you think it's a man's world? Take another guess. The cold facts are that women are now buying 89 per cent of all home remodeling materials. They also buy 67 per cent of all the hardware sold in retail stores. And nearly three-quarters of all suburban homes are registered in the name of the woman of the house. In planning bathroom and kitchen renovation most women insist on ceramic tile because of its ease-of-maintenance quality.

A Life Of Adventure

I LAUGHED, I CRIED, I LOVED. By Dorothy Fuldheim.

The ubiquitous Miss Fuldheim's memoir is a hop-skip-and jump account of her adventures over some 30 years as a journalist, broadcaster, news analyst, interviewer, lecturer, editorialist and zestful liver of life.

Few women have been such active observers of the goings-on of modern times, and few women have had the intellect to compete with men in the arena of the public spotlight, as she has.

Her book begins with a chapter on her poverty - stricken origins, follows through with a story about her favorite Aunt Molly, an account both marvious and touching, and then plunges into her experiences as a globe-trotting searcher for news.

Name a country, and she probably has been there, by jet or otherwise. Her remembrances go back to Hamburg, Germany, of 1934, when Hitler's psychotic oratory was catching hold among the Germans; through prewar Italy, where she had to destroy a magazine banned by Mussolini; and an encounter with an idealistic American joining the rebels in the Spanish Civil War. Later, in 1959, she followed Eisenhower around the globe.

But for all these foreign trips to talk with heads of state, as well as cafe waiters, refugees, ballerinas and diplomats, she also has conducted a long series of interviews at her home base in Cleveland. There was a full range of celebrities — from actors and actresses, politicians and humorists to stripteasers, singers, visiting Russians, and Duke of Windsor and labor leaders.

Her book is an interesting cross - section of modern events, an anecdotal collection of personal impressions of the passing scene.

Tile Coffee Table

If you're in the market for a new coffee table, why not have one surfaced with ceramic tile? A coffee table covered with a bright selection of decorator tiles is bound to catch the eye of any visitor. You can achieve almost any design or pattern you wish. There are now more than a thousand color combinations available from domestic tile manufacturers. Also there is a wide assortment of colors, shapes and designs for your approval. Because it's stainproof and burnproof, real tile can't be damaged by dropped cigarettes or spilled liquids.

WELL, EVERYBODY'S GOT TO START SOMEPLACE!

Red Diehards Threatened By Urge For Competition

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Dogmatic Communists, long in the habit of propounding immutable laws of human development, are discovering that Communist dogma and prosperity do not mix.

Diehard conservatives in Red-ruled lands are on the defensive and losing ground. The greatest peril seems to develop wherever people get a taste of the heady wine of prosperity.

And there are other perils.

There is nature itself, which has brought the dogmatic leaders to their advanced age. Apathy to Communist doctrine grows among the young, and cynicism among intellectuals. There is an urge for competition through private enterprise.

Still other dangers lurk in the facts of economic life in today's world: the need for foreign markets and hard currencies, the influence of tourism and foreign contacts, the pressures from below for economic reforms.

The purge in Yugoslavia uncovered a capsule picture of the troubles besetting old-line conservative Communists who have seen the twilight of Stalinism and lost the power to rule by fear.

Alexander Rankovic, close wartime comrade of President Tito, was fired from his party posts and removed as vice president and heir-apparent to the Tito mantle. Behind this was a struggle between liberals and conservatives, reformers and dogmatists.

Tito at 74 evidently decided to go along with the reformers. He and those who now run the League of Communists with him in Yugoslavia had made it clear they will not tolerate sabotage of economic reforms.

This may indeed be a measure of insurance for the party. Its power and influence have gradually been receding, as in the U.S.S.R.

The Yugoslav party has a million members, but only about 70,000 date to World War II days when Tito rose to power through his resistance to the Nazis.

Yet the percentage of young people in the Yugoslav party is declining, as if youngsters would rather concern themselves with their private affairs. The situation is not peculiar to Yugoslavia in the Communist bloc.

Party conservatives never had to worry about economic reforms until Yugoslavia was cast out of the Communist fold by Stalin in 1948 for questioning his orders. Thereafter, with all Red bloc aid cut off, Yugoslavia experimented with its first reforms, involving such things as workers' councils in industry and decentralization of economic authority.

Yugoslavia over the intervening years became fairly prosperous. With this came questioning, cynicism, pressure for new concessions.

The nation had before it, too the example of the private peasants, by far the majority of Yugoslavia's farmers. Collective farmers lagged. The private farmer had purchasing power. He pressed for the right to invest his money to improve his production. The government, needing him more than he needed the government, bowed to his wishes.

Eventually, Yugoslavia entered a phase of development which gradually, in its turn, brought problems. In recent times, the living standard began receding again for economic reforms brought priority for modernization of industry, new investment policies, less government interference in the economy, freer market relationships and liberalization of domestic and foreign trade.

Do The Old Train Cars Fade Away?

Editor's Note: Ever wonder what happens to the old chair cars, diners and sleeping cars as passenger trains disappear? Are they kept in a pool for emergencies? Or is there some secluded "railroad heaven" where they rest and rust? Associated Press Writer Raymond Holbrook tracked down the "retired" passenger cars.

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS (AP)—Every time a passenger train completes its final run, it's also the end of the line for the creaking and aging coaches, diners and sleeping cars.

The passenger train, once a familiar, important and exciting part of the American scene, is fast disappearing. And the individual cars that made up those trains are like the girls in an equally old, equally nostalgic song—"Once they're gone, they don't come back."

For several decades, old passenger cars have been "retired" at the rate of more than 1,000 a year while only a few hundred new ones have been built to take their place in the nation's steadily dwindling rail passenger traffic.

For most of the old cars, "retirement" means oblivion.

A check of a number of railroads reveals there is no secluded, revered "railroad heaven" where these cars can rust together in peace and dignity.

The obsolete and worn cars no longer have even emergency value in the nation's defense transportation picture. They have no place in any plans the railroads might have for superspeed trains in an effort to recapture at least part of the lost passenger business.

A few of the better cars may be retained by a railroad—either for use on runs that are still being made or for conversion into service cars for construction crews. The rest represent a tax liability which the railroad is eager to get rid of—either by direct sale or to brokers who specialize in railroad rolling stock.

Occasionally, some of the later model cars in good condition will be sold to other railroads in the United States or foreign countries.

Every now and then a well-heeled individual will buy a club car for a hunting or fishing lodge. Organizations of railroad buffs who yearn to preserve a bit of the Golden Age of railroading obtain representative passenger cars—along with the gigantic locomotives that are now obsolete—for Age of Steam museums scattered across the nation.

But the fate of most of the cars is the scrap pile. In the Southwest, many of the old cars meet their death in the seaport city of Houston, where they are reduced to scrap metal.

The disappearance of the passenger train is reflected across Texas. In small cities and towns passenger depots have been boarded up, torn down or converted to other uses. Terminals in the large cities, once bustling transportation centers, have become tomb-like monuments.

Junior Editors Quiz on PERSPECTIVE

QUESTION: How do artists make pictures in three dimensions?

• • •

ANSWER: When young people start to draw, they make objects as if they only went up and down or across. This way of drawing, in two dimensions, is illustrated in our top picture. The dog, boy and house, are as flat as if cut out of paper. But as our artist grows up, he discovers that things go back as well; that there is another dimension, that of depth. He will use perspective, which means that things look smaller when further away, even if they are actually the same size. The five bushes in front of the house may be the same size, but the nearer ones at bottom look much bigger; so do the nearer flagstones. Notice how the boy's left hand overlaps his body. This makes the hand come forward. By turning the house a little and using correct perspective, the artist, at bottom, shows how both the front of a house and the end can be seen at once and made to look real.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: We have mentioned perspective (things looking smaller) and overlapping. Check lower picture to find more examples of these depth principles. 7-16

House With Everything May Lack Charm

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Its time to take the charm quotient of your house.

And don't be fooled by its size. Just because your home "has everything," it doesn't mean you have that essential ingredient, charm.

The swimming pool may be there. The sauna is a big production. There may be specimen trees, flowers, bushes, a lush lawn and an imposing house.

But extravagance in living isn't the answer.

It's an intangible thing, charm, usually acquired (1) by buying a house that has it or (2) having the knack to put it in.

It isn't in "things," the kind of expensive alterations that add to your taxes. The little house up the road that is on a tiny speck of land may have it. Little - house people often look for charm substitutes in lieu of monied things they can't afford.

Here's a check-off that may get you off to a charming summer:

At the front door: Is it just another door? How would it look with a small flower - filled basket hanging from it? Is there a place for a tall urn filled with greens into which you could stick a few bright flowers from time to time?

Are the porch steps rickety, waiting for handyman help? Don't discourage visitors because of it. Line each side with flowering plants.

Is the porch drab? How would plants look hanging from the porch ceiling where the sun would keep them going? Is there a place to put a flower box on the railing?

If the entrance is plain, can the downstairs windows be dressed with window boxes of colorful plants? Red and white petunias and variegated ivy are a lively combination.

Is the front lawn the type that can be fenced in inexpensively so that you can have rambling roses? This makes for one of the warmest (and most romantic) entranceways. A little gate, too, stresses a cozy sense of privacy.

Is there a place on a back lawn for statuary? A sun dial?

Is there a tree around which you can build a circular bench? Even if you don't sit on it, the illusion of solitude will add to the atmosphere.

Is there an oasis near the swimming pool? Not just a place where you change clothes, but a place where you can rest in the shade, something with a light cover or with an overhang of some kind — trees or a lattice frame covered with vines. The most expensive swimming pool can have a hot, sticky look when it isn't is use.

Do the birds seem at home around your place? Little bird houses can add vast amounts of charm and besides their decorative aspects provide a haven for our feathered friends. They'll reward you with songs.

Is there lots of shrubbery? A clump of it? It's an ideal spot for low benches. One answer is a slab of slate over white concrete ends or metal stanchions such as those of old sewing machines that may be renewed by painting each year.

Charm can be in a brick or flagstone walk from the gate entrance to the door. (Plant creeping thyme or grass in between.) It can be in the color of shutters, the red of a barn or lily pads in a pond.

Many persons fail with the charm needle because they think in terms of bigness. Any do-it-yourself operation must be within the scope of the handyman's energies and the time at his disposal. It is much better to have a small lawn and flower border as your show piece, something you can do well, than to spread out everywhere with flowers and ground covers that take masses of time to propogate and weed.

Every home should have pinpoints of charm. Like lace and pailletes on a dress or a savory on the buffet table, a little of it will provide the final fillip that makes the difference between a house and a home.

Stamps In The News

THE 5-CENT Johnny Appleseed commemorative postage stamp, first in the "American Folklore Series," will be issued Sept. 24 at Leominster, Mass. The site is the birthplace of John Chapman (1774-1845), who roamed the growing new America in its formative years and planted apple trees wherever he visited.

The Johnny Appleseed stamp is dominated by a red apple before which Johnny stands, in black and white, spade over his shoulder and seedbag in his left hand. At the top in green is "Johnny Appleseed." The stem of the apple and a leaf are also green.

It is interesting to note that Chapman, kindly referred to as Johnny Appleseed, was considered an eccentric in his day for traveling the western areas and planting apple trees. He went barefoot, even in winter. Sometimes he wore an iron kettle for a hat. But he was a friend of everyone, including the Indians. Collectors desiring first-day cancellations may send addressed envelopes together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Leominster, Mass. 01453. The envelope to the poastmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 5 cent Johnny Appleseed Stamp." Requests must be postmarked no later than Sept. 24, 1966.

Now that the U.S. is involved deeply in Viet Nam, more news about stamps from that country is in demand. The government of South Viet Nam recently issued a new set of three stamps commemorating the generous aid programs undertaken by the free world, led by the United States. The 3 pence is maroon and gray, 4d purple and olive, 6d blue and green. A common design on all three features a global map of the world and a loading crane hook, representing the world's aid shipments to South Viet Nam.

Cyprus has issued a 50-mils stamp in honor of the late General K.S. Thimayya of the Indian Army who was commander of the United Nations Peace Keeping Force in Cyprus. The design depicts a portrait of the general and the emblem of the United Nations.

Creamy Custard Great Cake Partner

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

IT'S A love of a cake, this one. Great for a party! Cut it into 12 portions and it will make a dozen guests blissful.

The donor of this recipe tells me that it was fashioned after a cake sold by a famous candy chain with headquarters in California. We haven't tasted the original, but when this recipe was tried at our house, all our tasters were enthusiastic.

The sponge cake used for the dessert is the moist variety. The filling and topping are made from a comparatively new custard mix that includes egg yolk. The mix is prepaed and then combined with whipped cream. The garnish is a sprinkle of crushed peanut brittle.

CREAMY CUSTARD SPONGE CAKE

1¼ cups sifted cake flour
1¼ teaspoons double - acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
4 large eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2-3 cup boiling water
Creamy Custard
¼ cup crushed peanut brittle

On wax paper, sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Separate eggs, putting egg yolks into medium bowl of electric mixer and egg whites into large bowl of mixer.

Using high speed of mixer, beat egg yolks with lemon rind until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in ½ cup of the sugar.

With clean beater, using high speed, beat egg whites until foamy throughout; beat in remaining ¾ cup of the sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, and the vanilla; continue beating until whites hold straight stiff peak when beater is slowly removed.

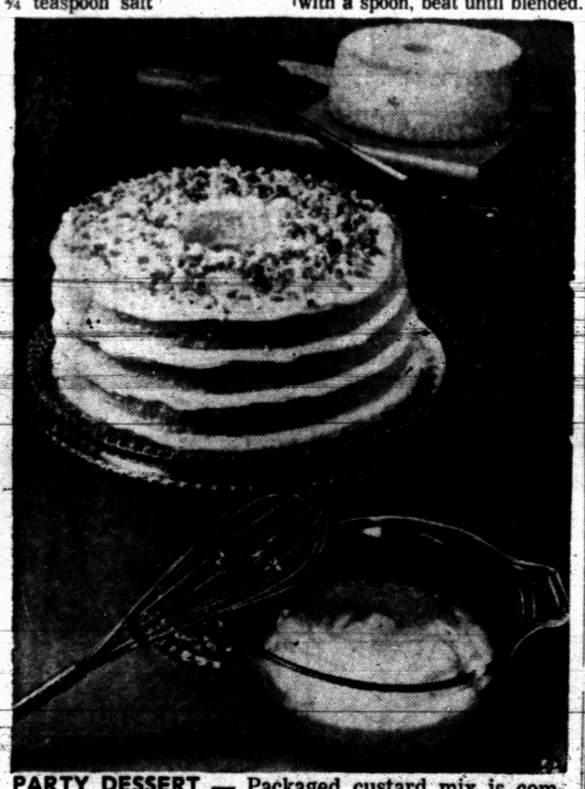

Add boiling water to beaten egg yolks; stir well; add flour with a spoon, beat until blended. Fold into beaten egg whites.

Turn into ungreased 9-inch angelfood cake pan. Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven about 1 hour. Invert pan and cool; loosen cake from sides of pan and ease out. With a long sharp serrated knife, cut cake horizontally into 4 layers. Spread Creamy Custard between layers and over top; chill. Just before serving, sprinkle with crushed peanut brittle. Makes 12 servings.

CREAMY CUSTARD

1 package (4⅛ ounces) golden egg custard mix
2 cups milk
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare custard mix as directed on package for pudding, reducing milk to 2 cups. Chill until thickened. Stir until smooth. Whip cream just until soft peaks form; fold or gently beat into custard with sugar and vanilla. Chill until thick enough to spread between layers and over top of cake.

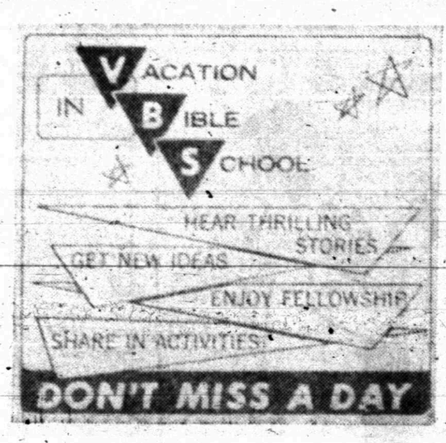

PARTY DESSERT — Packaged custard mix is combined with whipped cream and is used, along with crushed peanut brittle, to embellish layers of cake.

Water On The Knee

There's new relief in sight for surfers who often get painful knee sores as they ride their boards out to the big waves. A Southern California doctor has developed a corrosion - resistant aluminum cap designed to keep the pressure off the knee.

Rainy days during the summer are fine times to bake quick loaves—the kind that are made with fruit and nuts. Store the quick loaves in your freezer and they'll be ready to make into sandwiches (with cream cheese filling; for those picnics.
