Detail problems in the establishment of a County Canning plant here were brought to a close this week when M. P. (Fatty) Watkins gave a five years lease on his building, located one door south of the telephone exchange.

County Allot $150

Mr. Watkins' generous donation closes three weeks of active work on the part of the Kiwanis Club to raise money and secure a location for the cannery. The county has also appropriated $150 to be used for installing tables, sinks and other equipment. The county has also agreed to furnish fuel and lights for the plant, while the city of Wellington will donate water for the cannery.

Miss Katherine Boverie, local administrator, stated that application has been made to the Texas Relief Commission for two projects, one of which will be sinks and tanks; the other, cans, cookers and equipment. Many Features In New Truck Tires

Goodrich Triple Protected Silvertown Is Announced By Dealer

With three new features, a newly developed truck and bus tire known as the Goodrich Triple Protected Silvertown has been placed on the market according to W. E. Hall and Son, dealers for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company located in Wellington.

"This new tire for commercial service has three new protection features, Plyflex, Ply-lock and 100 per cent full floating cords," Mr. Hall says.

"Ply-lock is a new process of locking the continuous plies of the them in place and floating the tapered ply ends in rubber. Its use prevents the plies tearing loose just above the head, a trouble often found in tires using short reinforcement plies, rather than this new construction.

"The new tire has a layer of Plyfler a new, tough, sturdy rubber material protecting the sidewall. This distributes stresses throughout the carcass and prevents local weaknesses. It bears the brunt of the strain caused by the tire flexing several hundred times a minute.

"By using full floating cord fabric every cord in the new tire is entirely surrounded by rubber. This makes the tire run cooler due to the absence of friction causing cross-cords, and thus extends the life of the tire."

Paris In Awe With "Fake Bombs"

PARIS—Terrorists and pranksters who have chiseled in on the "three Judges of hell" bomb-mailing campaign had police and post office clerks tearing their hair this week.

There was no inscription on the explosive, which was found in a postoffice box, while, on the other hand, many fake bombs, filled with emery powder and other substances, have contained crude imitations of the "three Judge" letters.

Every postoffice clerk in Paris is living in terror. It was the injury of three of their number which first called attention to the bomb mailer last week, and now every package which might contain any infernal machine is carefully scrutinized.

While there have been more fake bombs, mailed, police say, by persons whose mental processes are as puzzling as that of the real terrorists, than real ones, every package is regarded as dangerous.

The police have decided tentatively that "Minos, Eaque and Rhanamante," the three Judges, who they believe is one person, has gone into retirement, but postoffice employees and mail clerks in big firms are not so certain.

The municipal laboratory, to which all suspicious packages are turned over, is working overtime, opening them and tryng to find evidence of their source.

One star detective, whose identity was not revealed, has been assigned to the job of actually running down the bomber or bombers. His movements are closely guarded by official secrecy.

Heavy guards continued to protect President Lebrum and other Government officials who were threatened in original communications of the "three Judges."

HOW BIG A LUBRICATING JOB CAN A QUART OF OIL DO?

Five quarts of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricated a motor nearly five thousand miles in a test against five nationally known, widely advertised motor oils . . . .

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Five quarts of each brand of oil were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in.

The car that covered 4,729 miles on five quarts of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

IF YOU are one of the many motorists who believe that a quart of any brand of quality oil is like any other quart, read this story of the "destruction" test made at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the strict supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

Six strictly stock cars of the medium priced class, and six different brands of oil of the same S. A. E. grade were used in this test to prove the motor protection and consumption of each oil. Simultaneously the cars were driven for an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour until the motors refused to operate. On the 4th day, three cars were out of the test, Oil No. 4 had gone 1,713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 had completed 1,764.4 miles and Oil No. 5 had finished 1,815.9 miles. On the 5th day, Oil No. 1 failed, after going 2,266.8 miles.

This left two oils competing. In defiance they ran the 6th, 7th, and 8th days, when Oil No. 3, after totaling 3,318.8 miles, wrecked its motor and crept to a stop. Oil No. 2—New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil piled up a total of 4,729 miles! More than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to go out, and more than 1,400 miles farther than the last oil to fail.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has much greater vitality, or film strength, to withstand great pressures and increased heat of modern automobile motors. It has great resistance to effects of dilution and the minimum of carbon and sludge. It has greater oily penetration called the "Hidden Quart," protecting your cold motor in starting, when most of the wear occurs. This oil is covered by recent United States patents and only Conoco can make it.

It was these superior qualities that carried New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil to a record of 4,729 miles on five quarts.

Here is a record of motor protection and low consumption that conclusively proves how big a lubricating job a quart of oil can do. Drive to a Red Triangle Station, fill and know that you have the highest lubricating value in either miles or dollars that your money can buy.

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. Gassers Win Fifth Consecutive Victory Sunday

Local Team Now Tied For Second Place In League

Victory Over Vernon Nine Places Gassers Near Top Point

Playing on the Wellington diamond, the Collingsworth Gassers Sunday chalked up their fifth straight victory, and climbed into second place with Altus, taking a 6-4 victory over the Vernon nine.

Next Sunday, July 1, the Gassers will meet the Crowell nine on the Wellington diamond. Fans are looking forward to another victory, but Crowell staged a comeback last Sunday, and handed the strong Childress team a drubbing.

Buck Knight with his sensational pitching was one of the high lights of the game. Knight and MeLear also accounted for three base hits, which were real thrillers. Bill Morgan, relief pitcher, also did some nice mound work. Seeds, one of the most promising players on the team, cut off a run at the home plate. Wilson caught a long, high fly. The spectators showed unusual interest in the game and players were in for plenty of "razzing."

The game opened with Vernon batting. The first man hit to Morris and was out. Knight fanned the next batter. Vernon got a single and the next man flew out to Raymond Morgan. Wellington came to bat. Brisbin fanned. Wilson got a single; Seeds got a single, but Wilson was forced out at second. Seeds stole second. MeLear tripled over right field, scoring Seeds. R. Morgan made the third out at first on a hit ball.

In the second stanza, Knight fanned the first Vernon man, the second got a single, next grounded out and Knight fanned the third man. Morris got a single; Brooks fanned out; Neely trippled, scoring Morris; Knight was good for a single, but Neely went out at third; Brisbin singled; Wilson flew out.

Third inning—the first Vernon man hit out to Seeds to MeLear; Knight struck out the next batter and the third man was out on a hot grounder, Morgan to MeLear. Seeds hit out, MeLear walked; Morgan hit out and Morris fanned. Fourth inning—Knight struck out batter; next man flew out to Wilson and Knight struck out the third batter. Neely hit a single, Knight fanned; Brisbin walked; Wilson singled; Seeds singled, scoring Neely; MeLear singled, scoring Brisbin; Wilson was out at home plate.

Fifth inning—Vernon started off with two singles; Knight fanned the next man; the next flew out to Neely and Knight fanned out the next man for the third out. Morgan hit out to second; Horton batting for Brooks, took base after being hit; Neely flew out. Wellington was retired without scoring.

Sixth inning—Vernon started off with three singles, but a man was forced out at second; Knight caught out the next man on a pop fly; Knight over threw first and Vernon scored; Vernon again scored on a single; Knight fanned the next man for the third out. Knight tripled and Brisbin walked; Wilson flew out; Seeds singled; MeLear singled, scoring Knight; Morgan singled and MeLear was forced out at second; Morgan singled and Seeds was out at home plate.

In the seventh Morgan replaced Knight. The first batter flew out to Morris; Morgan fanned the next batter and the next man grounded out. Horton got a single; B. Morgan singled; Horton was out at second; Brisbin singled; Wilson hit, but Brisbin was out.

In the eighth, a Vernon man walked; the next batterhit a double; another man walked and a hit caused the man on third to be out at home plate; the next batter fanned and the next one was out on a hit ball. Seeds flew out; MeLear singled; R. Morgan hit out and Morris flew out.

Vernon's comeback in the ninth was fruitless and the game closed with Wellington winning 6 to 4.

Mexican Vote All In Vain Declares
Popular Candidate Who Will Lose

MEXICO, D. F.,—Most militant of the political leaders opposing Mexico's powerful governing party, General Antonio I. Villarreal, this week bring to a conclusion an eventful presidential campaign which he says can win him no better than second place in the voting Sunday, July 1.

Aided by two prominent politico-intellectual figures, Professor Aurelio Hanrique and Antonio Soto Y. Gama, both magnetic orators and agitators, Vilarreal has several times endangered his life by his vituperative attacks. He claims that his strenuous campaign has brought him considerable popular support throughout the country.

Wins By Declaration

"Despite this," he said, in an interview, "I cannot win because in Mexico there are no free elections. The National Revolutionary Party (P. N. R.) Sunday, July 1, will announce the election of General Lazaro Cardenas as president, but actually he will not have been elected and I doubt that he will ever be president because of popular opposition to him.

"The whole voting machinery is in the hands of the P. N. R. and citizens will not be allowed to vote unless they are members of that party. Nevertheless we have been fighting to get the people to the polls so that they may learn how elections are run."

Four Attacks Made

Villarreal sees the P. N. A. as a "super-government" supported by forced contributions of government employees and towering above the legal government and really running the country.

"For instance," he said, "President Rodriguez ordered that the opposition be given guarantees but the P. N. R. defied him and four times I have been the victim of attacks, which really represent crimes against the popular will."

Says Hot Weather Causes Infantile Paralysis Spread

Germ Is So Small That It Escapes Detection Under Microscopes

AUSTIN, Texas—"Infantile paralysis can be expected to occur more frequently during the next three or four months," declared Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. "This disease is always more frequent during the hot months.

"The germ responsible for infantile paralysis is so small that it escapes detection even with the most powerful microscope. The first symptoms are usually vomiting, headache, fever, stiffness of the neck, pain in the legs, irritability and drowsiness. Complete recovery may follow such an illness. In more severe cases, the germ penetrates the nervous system, resulting in paralysis of nerves controlling one or more groups of muscles. Some remarkable recoveries have been noted.

"Flies or other insects have not been demonstrated to play a part in the spread of this disease. Infection spreads from person to person with the droplets attending coughing and sneezing. Children and grown people that are healthy may be carriers of the germs. When present in epidemic form, about one child in each hundred is apt to suffer an attack.

"Early recognition and diagnosis are essential. The use of immune serum may be a factor in preventing paralysis. A period of complete rest is essential for muscles that are affected. If parents note any symptoms of illness in their children, the family doctor should be consulted at once."

Center Your Table With Flowers

By Annie Mae Donaghey
Home Demonstration Agent

Why wait until you have company to plan a center piece for your dining table? "Just say it with flowers."

Flowers for the dining room table require special attention, since high flower arrangements do interfere with the pleasure of a conversation. For home use low bowls harmonize more with the table since it is necessary to use candles or low bowls to help balance the table when tall flowers are used. Candles give a finishing touch for a more formal affair so let us now select and arrange our low center piece with simplicity as the key note.

Interesting effects result from a careful study of color combinations giving your table more individuality. It may be that you have a contrast in your flowers by combining pink roses with larkspur, orange coreopsis with blue bachelor's buttons or bronze snapdragons with orchid sweet peas. Since you only have pink roses in bloom it may be that you select a blue bowl or a pink bowl for blue bonnets in order to have a more interesting color harmony.

Even if we have planned a beautiful color combination it may be ruined by poor arrangement of flowers. Too [illegible] flower arrangements do not allow the eye to be carried in a natural line from one center of interest to another. The longest stem or heavier and most conspicious mass should be placed in the center of the bowl than the container should be filled with flowers cut of various length of stems in order to make them look like they are growing out of the bowl. By observation nature teaches us not to mass flowers but to secure harmony by having several various interests. The beauty of many boquets is lost because the individuality of a separate flower is lost. Each little blossom should stand apart so as to give its bit of beauty.

Flowers should not have their foliage concealed—sometimes it is even necessary to add fern, baby breath or sweet alyssum in order to give a more pleasing background for the flowers that nature has not blessed with an abundance of foliage.

The ornate brilliant colored vase or bowl should be used for flower arrangement since it demands without flowers. The flowers are our center of interest and the bowl should only be the background container. Naturally low vases are for small short stems and tall ones are for long stem spiked stalks.

Since our personalities are influenced by our environment nature would like to help make you happier and more pleasant by using the real flowers, grasses and berries to center your table.

Associates Give Sam Rayburn Watch

WASHINGTON—As a mark of honor and esteem, members of the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee Saturday presented a gold watch to Representative Sam Rayburn of the Bonham district, their chairman. The presentation was made by Representative Joseph B. Monahan, (Dem.) from Montana.

"In the hearts and minds of members of the committee," he said, "the inscription 'in honor and esteem' fully expresses our thought of our distinguished chairman."

Touched by the remembrance, Rayburn said: "You fellows always have been so good to me." He added: "To me, in all the world companionship and friendship means everything."

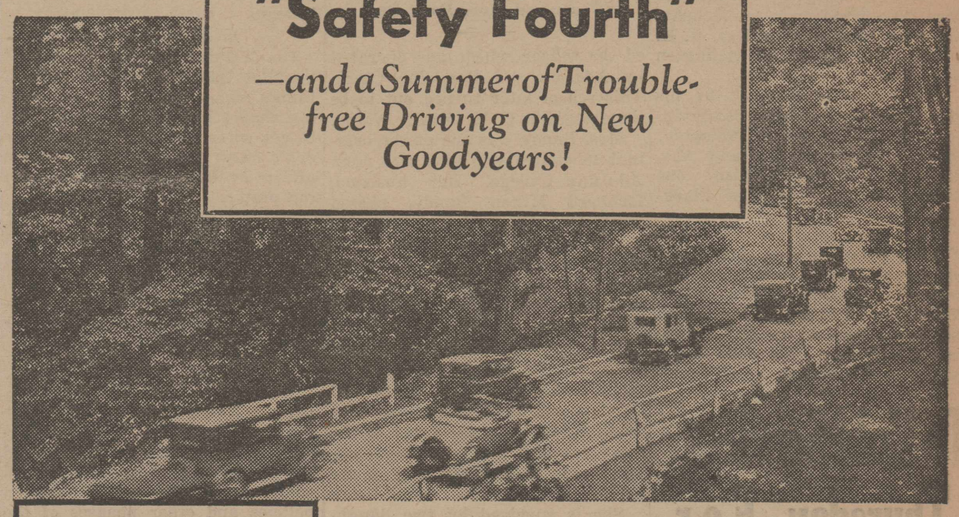

Rayburn now has two watches. The other was presented when a member of the Texas Legislature and serving as its speaker. The timepiece presented by the committee Saturday was placed on exhibition in the House Democratic cloak room.

Jodie Wilson, Pioneer Rancher, Dies At Home In Memphis After 22 Years

Funeral services were held last Tuesday afternoon at Memphis for Jodie J. Wilson 74, pioneer rancher of this section. Mr. Wilson died at his home in Memphis Monday afternoon at 12:50 o'clock, following an illness of more than a year.

Although he has made his home in Memphis, Mr. Wilson was widely known over this county and owned a large ranch in the northwest part of the county near Hedley. Those from Wellington who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Beaird and Mrs. Jack Knight.

Services were held from the First Baptist Church in Memphis and were conducted by Rev. O. K. Webb. Rev. Rouse of Arlington also assisted.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter: Tom and Ed Wilson of Memphis; Frank Wilson of Dallas and Mrs. Earl Allen, Memphis. Also one brother, G. W. Wilson of Blackwell, Texas.

His passing recalls a friendship of many people of this county, especially old timers who knew him back in the days before either Wellington or Memphis had grown into prosperous towns and before agriculture was the chief commodity in this region.

Bill Deatherage Assistant Pastor In Revival Meet

Bill Deatherage, who has been acting pastor of the First Christian Church, is now assisting in a meeting at Dandado, Texas, according to the announcement of his father today.

ed the college which was operated by Addison and Randolph Clark. This school later turned out to be the present T. C. U. in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Bandy was one of the original 13 students to graduate from Add-Ran College. Her husband, Hubbard Milton Bandy, passed away June 12, 1933, and was also a graduate of the college. The couple spent the greater part of their lives in preaching gospel for pioneer Christian Churches in West Texas.

Mrs. Bandy is the last of the old Thorp family, which has left a definite mark on the progress and development of West Texas. Her death brings to a close one of the most eventful and Christian careers now to be discovered in the entire state.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. R. Lusk of Ballinger and Mrs. J. W. Ricketts of Barvenier; two nieces, Mrs. Walter Mergert of Hereford and Mrs. A. Y. Bell of Wellington, both daughters of her sister, Katherine Thorp Caraway who passed away 25 years ago; also six grandchildren, six great grandchildren and a number of nephews and nieces.

She has been a resident of this county for nine years and is well known over this section, due to her early work with her husband in the spread of the gospel. She was married May 14, 1876, while she and Mr. Bandy were attending Add-Ran College and will be remembered by friends over the entire state, having been active in the spread of religion over this area for the past 50 years.

Among the most thrilling of her pioneer work was a Mexican raid at the Bright Ranch. Her husband also held the honor of being one of the three men who staked out the city of Lubbock.

At the funeral services Mrs. Tom Compbell sang "Somewhere the Sun Is Shining."

Pall bearers were: Julius Haralson, Milus Little, C. E. Coleman, Archie Copeland, Jodie York and Lester Benge.

Large Delegation-

while he has the authority and the responsibility," said Senator Small, "what has he to offer as your governor?"

Senator Small took an open stand against gambling, charging that the wave of gambling which has followed horse racing is tearing down the moral fiber of the state and bringing an economic loss to the people of the state. He said he favored repealing the law which legalized betting on horse races. This declaration brought a burst of applause.

No False Promises

He declared at the outset that he didn't intend to promise a lot of things which are impossible, stating that other candidates do this to get votes, but in so doing they don't know the condition of state affairs or they are not honest with the people.

"Taxes can't be cut," he said, "and all of the departments of government operated on a scale of high efficiency."

He said he thought the ad valorem tax could be reduced 25 per cent in the next two years.

Charges "Tomfoolery"

He said Tom Hunter was promising a lot of "tomfoolery," and that he didn't know what his second initial stood for until he read his platform. If the people want a continuation of present pardon policies and other phaases of the Ferguson administration, they should vote for the candidate Mr. Ferguson is supporting, he said.

Senator Small said he believed the people of Texas want a safe, sane, decent and honest government, one guided by hard work and efficiency, and this he pledged to give if elected.

He reported a "wonderful" support in other sections, outlined what he had striven to do for the Panhandle and West Texas and said, "if I am not elected it will not be because the folks in East Texas fail to vote for me this time."

Introduced by Mayor

Senator Small was introduced by Mayor Ross Rogers of Amarillo. A number of bands here for the Panhandle-wide rally played for an hour on the auditorium grounds preceding the speech.

The rally closed a busy day for the Panhandle senator. Friends and groups from various Panhandle cities swamped him during the day at his headquarters at the Amarillo Hotel.

He appeared at a luncheon given for his various country chairmen at noon and at 6 o'clock was a guest of honor at a banquet for Young Democrats of West Texas, at the Capitol Hotel, where he spoke briefly.

He will speak at a South Plains rally at Lubbock, tonight.

What You Can Expect

"I am not coming before you trying to deceive you," Small said. "I will not make meaningless promises, but I am telling you and the rest of Texas what they may expect if I am elected your governor. Above everything, I want to see Texas have a safe, sane and economical government. One that is efficient; economical and fair to everyone.

"There are no brilliant candidates in this race for governor. They are all just common human beings. I know them all. It is not by proposal to do the impossible. However, I do believe that I know the resources of Texas and what she needs in the way of good, clean government.

About the Schools

When you consider that the schools of Texas costs 35 cents out of every tax dollar, practical sense tells you that to cut costs here you cannot do it except at the risk of future generations becoming unlettered and unlearned. A percapita apportionment of $16 was required for the schools last year and this is again needed as well as aid to rural schools. There needs to be substantial support to the institutions of higher learning of this state. Knowing that Texas wants all this, I come to you to tell you that the cost of education can't be materially reduced.

Must Continue Road Work

We get more for our dollar in the building of roads than in any other public enterprise. I stand for efficiency in the highway department but Texas must continue to build her much needed road. If you stop this you penalize our most useful enterprise. I can promise you no saving in the total amount expended for highways in this state.

The humanitarian responsibility makes reduction of funds allotted to the eleemosynary institutions of the state out of the question, the senator declared. "On the contrary, conditions arising from the depression make it necessary for us to expand these institutions. There are today some 300 unfortunate persons languishing in the jails of Texas who ought to be in institutions for mental defectives simply because these places are full and overflowing. Friends, we've got to make some provision for them at the next session of the legislature. So, when a candidate comes shouting to you about economy, ask him if he's going to economize at the expense of the schools of the state, at the expense of the highway construction, at the expense of the state institutions.

Revise Courts System

The candidate urged a revision of the courts system of Texas, declaring that the litigants in cases before the courts of this state should be required to bear more of the expense to the cost of such suits than present laws require. "The masses of the citizens should not be required to pay the costs for the benefits of a comparatively small number. Let the costs of the courts fall on those who use them. and in this way we save the state government from $350,000 to $400,000 dollars annually."

Regarding Taxes

Other candidates come to you and say that the advalorem tax can be done way with, and I wish it could. I don't want the office bad enough to come before you people and tell you that it can. In that case I would be getting your vote under false pretense and it is not my intention to get votes in that way.

Curb Lawlessness

Senator Small went into the matter of law enforcement at length, declaring that it was the chief issue in this campaign.

The abuse of the pardon power is one f the chief contributory causes of the present lawless of our state, Small thinks. "I promise that the pardon power be removed from the hands of the governor. No governor wants this full power, and no bad governor needs it. The proper use of the pardon power can be a great reclamation force in our state, but that power should be placed in the hands of a pardon board which will not be used for political purposes. Yet the hardened crminals should be locked in just a little tighter. I would like to see a pardon board composed of one member appointed by the Supreme Court, a second appointed by the attorney general and the third appointed by the governor."

Raps Jimmie Allred

Touching upon the lobbying situation in Texas, Small declared that the power to enforce the present lobby laws of the state rested in the hands of the attorney general and not in the office of governor. That he believed if properly enforced the present laws would be wholly adequate to serve the needs of the state.

For the regulation of the utilities of the state, Small proposes a utilities commission to act as an impartial umpire between the utilities companies and the consumers. He feels that the situation could be handled through a properly created fact finding commission to determine the rates which would be equitable and just to the company and to the consumer.

Liquor is flowing freely and gambling is wide open over the entire state; bookmakers are operating in open violation of the law. The pari-muteul betting system on horses has not helped the moral fibre of our people. The merchant and the business man hasn't been helped with wide-open gambling that has been flooding our state.

Still Has the Power

"We once had attorney generals who went out and closed up these lawless places. The power is still in the hands of the attorney general to do the same thing. The governor has nothing to do with this except to call out of the Rangers and put the padlock on these places, and if I am your governor, that's just what will happen.

"No country can gamble its way back to prosperity.

No one who has failed to stop these rampages on the morals of our people has any right to come before you and cry about useless, immaterial issues in this race. There are officers of this state that have the power to close these places, but they don't do it.

In closing his appeal for the home vote, Small said, "I have tried to protect you in every way. Now, if you want to turn an old work horse, tried and proven, who has done his best by you and for you, and catch up a bronc for this important office, then go ahead. I want to give Texas a clean, sensible administration.

"If you elect me your governor I will turn it back to you without stain or dishonor to myself or to those who have been so loyal and faithful to me."

Invite Committee-

with the location of gins in county and those near the line in adjoining countes was presented to show the factors causng the amount of cross-county ginning. The evidence was recognized by Congressman Jones as being of an accurate plan for checking such a matter

Evidence Is Compared

The evidence submitted in the claim made by the committee from Collingsworth County was compared by the Assistant of Mr. Cobb to the records they had on file and reported that the information was accurate, except that the gins in Wellington showed on their records having received more cotton from Childress County than the records submitted by the committee, at this point the committee was advised that it would be necessary to recheck the Wellington gins and re-submit this matter to the Washington office for their consideration. No definite promise was made as to what consideration might be granted, however our claim was recognized as being a litigimate claim and should have additional information collected and submitted to that office to justify an additional allotment, this will be made according to that office to justify an additional allotment, this will be made according to the facts established.

"The committee representing Collingsworth County could not agree that the trouble lay in the records submitted on Wellington gins receiving Childress County cotton. A later date in a discussion with one of the officials, the fact was very apparent that the allotment of cotton allowed Collingsworth County being produced in Collingsworth County and ginned in Wheeler county was less than what the facts showed in the evidence submitted. We have found this to be a very difficult task and feel sure that everyone is of the opinion that we are justified in making a claim for additional cotton, however as the matter stands at this time, additional work gathering evidence of ginning records will have to be done before any actual change will be made by the Washington office.

"In case additional allotment is made the local county organization will be guided by the instructions which might be issued by the Washington office as to handling of the increased allotment, that is to say whether it will be necessary to make supplemental contracts or that the Washington office make the increased allotment to each contract. The committee of four, John O. Stovall, county agent, J. D. Coleman, Willie Knoll and Richard Wischkaemper, arriv-11:45 o'clock and three of us left at 4:45 on Friday, leaving Richard there another day to recontact the committee to see if any consideration would be made at this time. During these three days time we had from one to three meetings with various officials discussing our problems and feel that everyone in Washington knows the situation in Collingsworth County at this time and it is up to the local people to give this committee the support in order to submit additional facts to substantiate what has already been submitted.

SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

Motorists are given some sound advice in recent bulletins issued by the National Safety Council. Among the admonitions given are these:

Beware of carbon monoxide gas by keeping the garage open when you start your car. This gas is deadly, but you can neither see, smell nor taste it.

Have brakes tested frequently, When road is slippery don't apply brakes or step on the gas too suddenly. Take curves slowly. Watch out for car tracks. Be extremely cautious when passing schools, playgrounds, or other places where children are running about.

In short, use head, hands and feet to prevent accidents.

FUTURE GAS WARFARE

It is evident that chemistry will play an important part in any future war. Any program of national preparadness which does not provide adequate means for meeting gas attacks and other forms of chemical warfare is sadly deficient in a branch of military activity which may prove of vital importance.

And inasmuch as the best defense is a vigorous offensive, our forces should be prepared to carry the fight into the enemy's camp.

While the use of poisonous gases is banned by the nations who were parties to the arms reduction conference held in 1922, similar aggreements were in effect before World War, yet they didn't prevent the employment of these destructive agencies when the urge of necessity came. As a matter of fact, all the leading nations are today busy with the development of chemical war equipment, regardless of their pledges not to use it.

Dr. James F. Norris, former president of the American Chemical Society, sounded a note of warning on this subject when he said: "When the final pressure comes a nation will use any means available to save its life." He urged that our army continue to study and develop the means of chemical warfare, with adequate appropriations for the purpose, as other armies are doing.

We do not want to see another war. We did not want to see the last one. But another war may come—is almost certain to come sooner or later. We should make reasonable preparations to meet any emergency by developing ecery phase of modern warfare. To fail in this would be to invite disaster, should war unhappily be forded upon us.

A GREAT PREACHER

One hundred years ago on June 19, there was born at Kelvedon, England, a child who was destined to become one of the greatest and most popular preachers in the history of Christianity, Charles Haddon Spurgeon.

He became pastor of a Baptist church at the age of 18, and at 20 was called to New Park Street Chapel in London. So great were the throngs attracted by his preaching that the chapel had to be enlarged twice in two years. In 1859, when Spurgeon was only 25, the erection of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle was begun. It was finished in 1861, and in this imposing edifice he preached until hs death in 1892.

In 1879, on his silver wedding anniversary, he received a testimonial fund of over $30,000, and on his 50th birthday in 1884, he received another gift of about $25,000, all of which he devoted to benevolent projects. These included an orphanage, a large mission, and a pastor's college, where hundreds of young men were trained for the ministry under Spurgeon's directions.

Spurgeon has been described as a man of thoroughly human sympathies, whose musical boive, clearness, directness and independence, and simplicity of style, combined with humor, common sense and a rich store of anecdote, were the chief factors in his great success.

His sermons were widely printed, averaging about 30,000 copies a week, and many of them were translated into various languages. He was also the author of a score of volumes on religious subjects which had an extensive circulation. In the 58 years of his life he probably reached more people with the Christian message than had been so reached by any other preacher before or during his day.

WHAT MAKES WOMEN BUY

It is well known by all live merchants, and by husbands as well, that practically all buying for the home is either actually done by women or directed by them. For this reason the merchant's greatest problem is to attract the favorable attention of women to his wares.

Women are alert to grasp opportunities to secure merchandise at a bargain and they are more discriminating buyers than men, as a rule. They read advertisements and act upon the information obtained thereby.

In order to determine just what advertising mediums have the greatest influence on women's buying a survey recently made by a Los Angeles advertising club, developed some intersting facts. Replies from 1,000 women of all classes were obtained in answer to a questionaire listing the various advertising mediums and asking what form of advertising influenced them most.

Newspapers were credited with the greatest influence by 36 per cent of these women, magazine advertising 22 per cent, street car advertising by a fraction over 4 per cent, announcement cards and program advertising by less than 4 per cent, while booklets, pamphlets and circular letters influenced less than 2 per cent.

Thus again is demonstrated what every wide-awake merchant must have already observed—that newspaper advertising is the most potent medium for reaching women buyers. And this applies with equal force to men buyers, too.

The Story Of The Bible Told In Pictures

THE BIRTH OF CAIN AND ABEL.—When God had cast out Adam and Eve for their sins, and closed the Garden of Eden to them, they were forced to toil for their food. "Cursed is the ground for thy sake, in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field; in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken; for dust thou art, and unto dust thou return."—Gen. 3:17-19. The later fulfillment of this curse is portrayed by the artist in the background of this picture. The world's first family pictured in the foreground includes Cain and Abel, the two sons of Adam and Eve, whose births are recorded in Gen. 4:1-2. One of a series of Bible pictures by Merian, Seventeenth century engraver.

OUR PAST

By C. C. BISHOP

Prior to the establishment of Fort Worth in 1849, all territory west and northwest was an uninhabited wilderness, save for the roving bands of Indians and herds of buffalo, antelope and other wild animals.

On the afternoon of June 14, 1856 a stranger rode into the village of Fort Worth, and stopped at the blacksmith shop to have a horseshoe replaced.

The visitor inquired as to the number of inhabitants of the village. Sixty-seven, the smith replied, whereupon a lad standing near by stated sixty-eight.

The boy stated that the smith had forgotten to count Doctor Peak's boy that was born last night.

Such is the story of the birth of Howard W. Peek the first boy born in the first house, in what is the present city of Fort Worth. This house was the surgeon's quarters of the military garrison of Camp Worth, later changed to Fort Worth, which was established in 1849.

Mr. Peak has therefore lived to see his native town grow to be a city of approximately 200,000.

The population was only about 5,000 as late as 1873 and it was about this time that the citizens were shocked by the idea advanced by a few of the "moderns," that hogs should not be allowed to run in the streets.

The courthouse was the civic center, here court was held during the day; concerts, lectures, church festivals, dances at night, and church services on Sunday.

Not only that, but the courthouse served as a refuge for homeless hogs. The lower floor of the building was unfurnished and unfloored, except for the justice rooms in the corners. The hogs, which had the freedom of the town, chose this place as their resting place.

The dances were usually sponsored by some club or lodge and were generally given on Saturday nights. After the dance, the young men would remain and replace the benches, so the room might be used for Sunday services.

Picnics and reunions were held at Cold Springs during the spring and summer, and cold weather brought sleighing and ice skating. With our mild winters now, it's hard to imagine that only a little more than 50 years ago ice skating was possible.

The society of Fort Worth was better than was usually found in a new country. The men were generally well informed, shrewd and many of them were cultured and refined. The ladies compared favorably with those of older states, in point of health, beauty, style and culture.

All were sociable and agreeable. However, some of these village beauties were suspected of counterfeiting their glow of health by use of a cosmetic stain, a moral issue so great that it brought forth more than one condemnatory observation.

Fort Worth has always been a business center for the Western section of the state. In one year more than 100,000 buffalo hides

A Kingdom Divided Against Itself

Text: I Kings 12:12-17; 26-30

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 1st.

How often the Bible proves that a kingdom divided against itself shall fall! A striking instance of this is displayed in the text taken up here, in which the revolt of Jeroboam against Rehoboam is discussed.

In this discourse, we go from the New Testament back to the Old.

Solomon, with all the prestige and glory of his age of temple building, did not apparently, achieve happiness for his people. As long as he lived he managed to surrounded himself with the tradition of greatness in character, action, and achievement that silenced his foes; but once he had passed away, a strong hand upon Israel had gone.

Immediately, discontent and protest became rife, and a group came to Rehoboam, Solomon's successor, beseeching him to make the burdens of the people lighter.

Rehoboam, according to the store, took two sorts of counsel. The younger men, heady and wilful like himself, advised him not to give in to these malcontents but to make the burdens of the people heavier than ever.

Older counsellors gave better advice, that Rehoboam should lessen the burdens of the people and should consider first of all the welfare of his subjects.

Rehoboam listened to the young and immature. He invited revolt and hatred by the ruthlessness with which he announced his policy. Events soon brought their consequences.

Jeroboam, who apparently for many years had had his eyes on the kingdom, led revolt in which 10 of the 12 tribes broke away from Rehoboam and established the northern kingdom, henceforth to be known as the kingdom of Israel, in comparison with the southern kingdom of Judah.

It was the custom of Scripture writers to see in all these hings the hand of God. Perhaps today we would not be quite so sure that the providence of God is in the matter when one rogue supplants another on a throne.

Whatever may have been the character of Jeroboam, when he succeeded in the revolt and became king in the northern kingdom, he did not prove much better than Rehoboam. The northern kingdom was started out, under his auspices in evil things that ultimately brought disaster upon the people.

Here in our lesson we see Ahijah the prophet giving Jeroboam fair warning. The prophets certainly did not fear to speak out. courage when, with no forces to protect them, they spoke out what they believed to be the truth of God to the very men who had power over them of life and death.

It is refreshing and strengthening to live in the atmosphere of such men, and with this first lesson we are launching into fellowship with these mighty men who spoke for God in days of difficulty, when to speak out meant to imperil their very existence.

What need we have of similar prophets today! Of men who will be neither fearful nor suppliant in their attitude toward the great and strong, but who will seek to see clearly the things of truth and righteousness and to speak honestly as they see and feel!

Hugo Hauter going to town whistling a merry tune regardless of the intense heat of the afternoon.

R. L. Wood and several other farmers discussing local and state politics.

Bob Goodnight hoeing in his garden with the temperature at its highest peak. The garden looking green and fresh in spite of the hot sun.

Clyde Hankins showing Evelyn Joy Burt a fishing reel, telling her of a proposed fishing trip.

C. M. McClure slapping his hands and patting his foot with Charles Slay and Percy Wells looking on—looked like he was trying to demonstrate a new dance step.

W. F. Roberts, C. H. Elliott and A. J. Hill discussing government problems.

C. C. Boyd of Dodsonville examining a display of merchandise in front of a local horware store.

Bill Goforth and son, Firman, leaving town with a fishing pole on top of their car—wonder what they caught.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nipper leaving a local filling station after having their car refueled.

D. D. McDowell sitting on his front porch very interested in reading a letter.

Cal Sugg laying concrete blocks on his new filling station just like a professional brick layer.

Mrs. Eddie Smith shopping and talking of their plans for a vacation in New Mexico in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. H. Daffron shopping and visiting friends Saturday afternoon.

J. D. Thomas talking with a group of farmers wondering what the outcome of the delagation in Washington concerning the cotton acreage will be.

Ed Pryor trying to locate a certain colored man accused of stealing a shirt.

Lee Clifton having to be pushed in his car down El Paso Street—even a filling station operator is sometimes careless of his gasoline gauge.

WELLINGTON

People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gillentine

The best story of this week is a snake story. Stansell Scott says he actually saw the incident happen.

As the story goes, a small snake crawled into the chicken house to partake of some eggs. After swallowing the first egg the snake saw a knot hole at the bottom of the nest. He started through the hole and upon spying some more eggs, stopped and swallowed another one. Since snakes are supposed to swallow eggs whole and then wrap themselves around trees and posts to break the shell, the snake found himself securely pinned to the wall. The first egg fastened him on one side and the second egg fastened him on the other side. Stansell says he found the snake in his daddy's hen-house near Dodsonville.

I don't know much about snakes except that I don't personally like them, but people sure do like to read about them and if anyone else has a good snake story I would like for them to tell me about it.

During the past week I have heard numerous persons remark how beautiful the courthouse lawn is here in Wellington. Public opinion seems to credit the lawn of the Vernon courthouse as second to the one here—and all of the rest pass without consideration. We do have a mighty pretty lawn. About dusk when things begin to cool off, it is really a pleasure to look at the lawn and feel the cool breezes which drift over it; breezes perfumed with the fresh, clean smell of growing grass.

Yes Sir, our lawn is really something to write our friends about and we have a dandy little courthouse, too.

This hot weather seems to be getting on everyone's nerves. Two days last week the mercury hit the 109 mark and last Friday it jumped up to 110 degrees. Of course the heat is hard on all of us, but the worst thing is the fact that some of the town's prettiest gardens are being burned to a crisp. Crops are also suffering in some localities. I know just how hard some of these people have worked on their gardens and their crops and I think the city council did a splendid thing when they lowered the water rate to the extent that people can save their gardens with little cost. Of course we cannot do anything about the crops; that is, nothing except sympathize with the farmers and that won't help much.

As hot as it is now I have been looking toward cooler weather. Joe Litchfield has promised to take me duck hunting next fall. He tells about a place where the farmers will furnish guns and ammunition and pay the hunters at the rate of $2 a day just to kill ducks due to the fact that the ducks are so numerous they are eating up the feed. He also told some more things about them, but if I used it here I would sort of be stealing his stuff so I will just let him tell you.

June is most certainly the month of weddings. All in one week we have an old time couple, a man 56 and a woman 58, getting married; in addition we also have two big church weddings. The first church weddings I can remember happening here in a long, long time. I sure wish them success and happiness, but not a single one of the newlyweds has been by and subscribed to The Leader yet. It looks to me like that would be the very first thing they would do, but I guess they are all too busy getting located or something. I guess they will be around pretty soon.

Little Betty Riggs was a train bearer in the wedding Sunday. I asked her what she was going to do and she said she was going to carry the "choo-choo."

This hot weather makes me feel like using some big words, but I can't think of any off-hand and I know that I am not going to stop and look any up in the dictionary. A man came by here the other day and offered to put the "Siamese Ju-Ju" on our flies. He had some kind of gadget which he said if hung on the wall would absolutely keep out flies and insects. I told him not to worry about the insects, but if he would leave the gadget—and if it kept the flies out that I would pay him 30 cents later on instead of 15 cents now. We never could get together, however, and we still have a few flies.

I have heard of snake charmers, but that is the first time I ever saw a fly charmer.

I have to retract my statement about Dr. Jones' ability as a hunter. He showed me the head of the deer he killed last year and besides that he has another deer head in his office. They are beauties, both of them. I am even inclined to think that Dr. Jones is an excellent hunter. I knew he was a good hunter all of the time, but I just wanted to get things straightened out so he would bring me some vinson next fall. I figure that he hopes to get away on another hunting excursion, and I wanted to be on the safe side.

Blowout Dangers Increased With Summer Driving

Dealer Warns Motorists Of Risks Involved With Thin Tires

Squeezing the last mile out of that badly worn tire is a costly hazardous practice, according to W. E. Hall, Goodyear dealer here.

"Especially is this true in the summer months," Mr. Hall says. "The danger of blowout increases with the rise in road temperatures. Hot roads sap the elasticity and life from the fatigued cords in old tires. Cuts and bruises that have escaped notice are very likely to announce their presence with a loud bang at the most inopportune moment.

"The Supertwist cord used in construction of the Goodyear G-3 Airwheel, Pathfinder and Speedway lines, is the best protection against blowouts that has yet been devised. This cord has up to 61 per cent more elasticity than ordinary tire cords and will stand terrific abuse.

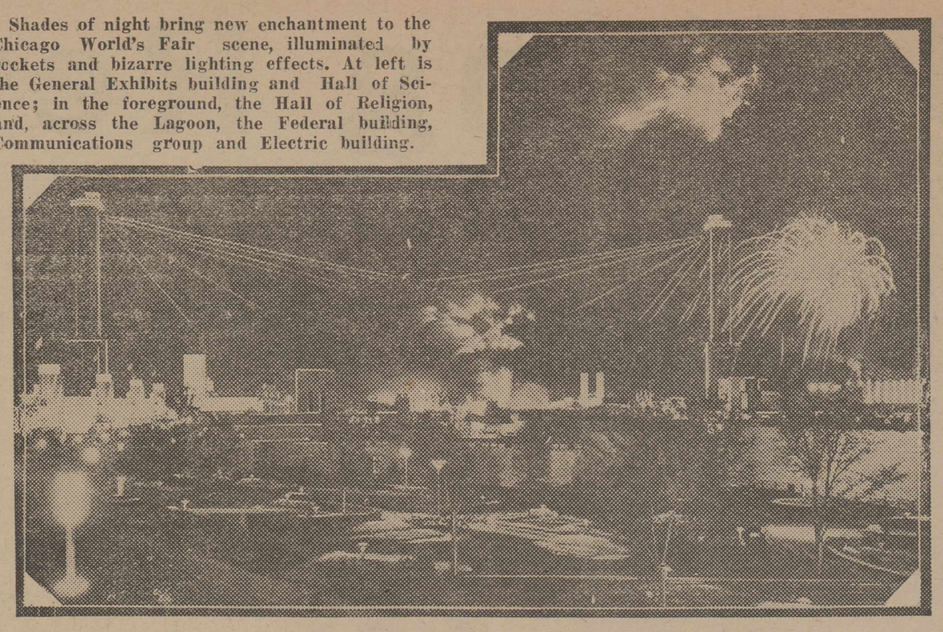

"The tread of a tire must provide traction and protect the cord carcass or body, but it is this cord body that gives protection against blowouts. The tread may appear in excellent condition, but it will not keep a tire from blowing out if the carcass is cut inside or if the cords are badly fatigued from long use.

"Goodyear's new G-3 tire was designed especially to provide long wear for modern high speed automobiles and it has a Supertwist body of the strongest and most elastic tire cords that will give maximum protection against blowouts.

"A set of new tires put on an automobile now will eliminate the probability of tire trouble for the rest of the summer. It is no pleasant job to change tires on a hot dusty road—and that is the mildest consequence of a blowout," says Mr. Hall.

"Touring World In A Day," Outstanding Feature Of 1934 World Fair

Shades of night bring new enchantment to the Chicago World's Fair scene, illuminated by rockets and bizarre lighting effects. At left is the General Exhibits building and Hall of Science; in the foreground, the Hall of Religion, and, across the Lagoon, the Federal building, Communications group and Electric building.

Impossible to tour the world in a day? Not exactly, it is being done at this year's Chicago World's Fair. In several hours visitors may make the rounds, passing through Streets of Paris, Begian Village, Black Forest, and Italian, Irish, Swiss, Dutch, Tunisian, Chinese, Spanish, Old English and the early American villages.

This concentrated "Cook's Tour" is one of the outstanding attractions of the 1934 Century of Progress. But that isn't all. In the Lagoon—last year juts a body of water between the mainland and Northerly Island—"The World's Largest Fountain," two blocks long, spouts a flow of water great enough to serve a city of a million people.

Atop Henry Ford's new museum of transportation each night, a gigantic, 200-foot torch throws its white beam a mile into the Chicago sky. Ford, who did not choose to run an exhibit last year, displays also a collection of vehicles dating from the New Deal almost back to Adam.

The Hall of Science has added some new wonders, and in the Electrical Group such miracles as producing black light and making water run uphill before your eyes are again being performed.

Frank (Bring 'Em Back Alive) Buck has a wild animal show that promises to be a sensation. Hundreds of monkeys scamper about the sides of a smoldering volcanic "Monkey Mountain," while in a miniature jungle at its base, wild beasts prowl through ferny caverns.

A score of new thrill surveyors, such as the Bug Ride, Motordrome, Gravity Coaster, Catapult, and others, that jerk, swing or otherwise manhandle the Fair visitor, have been installed.

Twenty-three million people passed through the World's Fair turnstiles last year. This year an additional $8,000,000 is being invested in the show and predictions have been made that the 1934 attendance will exceed 35,000,000.

There are reasons for those predictions. According to the Fair management, all the worthwhile and popular attractions of last year have been kept and a wealth of new exhibits added.

Little time could be spent on landscaping a year ago, but the place this year will be one delightful garden of entrancing vistas.

Not only is the current Century of Progress claimed to be bigger and better, but also cheaper. While the admission is still 50c most attractions inside of the grounds can be seen at lower prices by 1934 visitors. Better traffic arrangements have been made to handle this year's crowds; and hotel keepers say they are in a position to accommodate more Fair visitors.

All in all, with the experience derived in staging the 1933 Century of Progress, the many new exhibits and the fact that last year, may swell the 1934 Fair's attendance, Chicago is confident it will put on another success.

Forest Fire Out Of Control In Colorado Area

DURANGO, Colo.—A forest fire on Animas mountain, one mile north of Animas City, broke out of control last week as high winds swept the region.

The blaze destroyed pine timber growth on the mountainside and billowed dense smoke across the Animas valley. The flames could be seen plainly from Durango.

The fire was less than four miles from the recent disasterous fire on Junction creek.

Prairie View School Closes Term Friday With Picnic At Elm Valley

The Prairie View school closed a most successful term last Friday with a community picnic on Elm Creek.

The closing school program, which included the graduating exercises for the seventh grade was given at the school Friday night, June 15. The program was featured by an address by Mr. J. D. Wilson. Other outstanding numbers on the program were the valedictory address by Miss Eula Lee Guyton and the salutatory address by Miss Johnnie Mae Morgan. Other members of the graduation class who received diplomas were: Miss Mary Seago, Miss Ora Blandford, Miss Sophie Ambler and Mr. Henry Sanders.

In reviewing the past year, the students and patrons may recall several interesting programs, including a pie supper, sox supper and a three-act play from which funds were secured sufficient to buy athletic equipment, song books and other necessities for the school. Several other programs were presented at appropriate times during the year, including a Christmas tree.

In the county meet the Junior girls wrestled the play ground ball championship from the House Log girls by a very close score. This being the third year these respective schools have played in the finals for the penant. Prairie View having an advantage by winning two of the three contests. The junior girls also carried all first place honors in their division in track. Miss Zcella Dorman took individual honors by winning three first places and running a lap of the relay. The junior boys play ground ball team tied for third place in their divisions.

During the past year several improvements have been made on the school ground, ncluding leveling of the ground which made a more desirable place to play, and the providing of a more adequate water supply.

Cotton Quota In Same Area Half Of 1933 Figure

Writer Estimates That 30 Counties Must Reduce 50 To 74 Per Cent

The following survey on cotton reduction quota was made recently in the Dallas News by Walter B. Moore, agricultural writer.

Texas counties now know how much cotton they may sell in 1934, one to two months before they know how much cotton they will produce for marketing this season. Bale quotas of tax-exempt cotton for Texas counties under the Bankhead act, printed in The News Friday morning, indicate that many counties will be able to market less than half as much tax free cotton this year as was ginned in 1933, while others have larger allotments for 1934 than ginnings last year.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace assigned a total of 2,913,744 bales of tax free cotton to 236 Texas counties Thursday, with an allowance of 10 per cent of the State quota for special adjustments. All cotton produced and sold above three county figures must bear a tax of 50 per cent of the prevailing price, the tax to be not less than 5c per pound.

Quota for Texas, with the 10 per cent allowable, is 2,237,530 bales, which would amount to a reduction of 4,220,096 bales, or about 26 per cent. A crop of this size would be the smallest since the 1922 production of 3,221,888 bales.

While the reduction, as compared with last season's crop, would be fairly uniform under the Bankhead act, the largest slash would be in Northwest Texas because of its relatively good crop last year. Some twenty counties from Lubbock eastward to Wichita Falls and south to Anson can market 432,000 bales less cotton, tax free this year than last, and the total reduction for the Northwest to nearly half of that for the entire State.

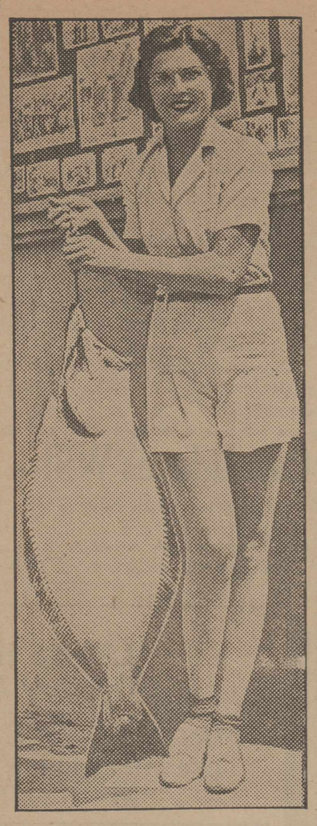

Possible source of trouble in enforcement of the Bankhead act are evident in these quota figures, analysis shows. Quotas for thirty counties, chiefly Northwest Texas, amount to less than half of the number of bales ginned last season. Floyd county, for example, is allotted only 10,536 bales against 34,438 ginned in 1933, Lubbock 37,579 against 80,57 ginned in 1933, Jones 35,821 against 88,443 ginned and Lynn only 26,149 for 1934, against 66,478 in 1933. Should exceptional yields be made this season, still possible although improbable, a large portion of the crop might be subject to tax in such counties, despite the reduced acreage.

Quotas for 1934, on the other hand, exceed the 1933 ginnings in twenty-five counties, of which four are in the 1933 drouth area around Lamesa, seven in Northeast Texas and the remainder in South and West Central. Dawson County is the most notable of these, with a quota of 24,278 bales against 8,538 ginned last year. Unusual conditions prevailed last season both in areas where extreme reductions are called for and where increases can be made and the probability is that quotas will conform fairly closely to production in counties where conditions are about normal.

Dallas' area generally will have to curtail in production less, as compared with 1933, than most other sections. This is partly due to the fact that last year's crop was of moderate size, in contrast with a large crop in portions of Northwest and to the fact that this area has reduced cotton plantings considerably in the last few years, whereas it was consistently heavy producer during the 1928-1932 period upon which allotments are based. Reductions from 1933 ginnings required to conform with the quota in this area are: Dallas 21 per cent, Ellis 25 per cent, Fanin 30, Hunt 24, Lamar 17, Navarro 27, Kaufman 22, Collin 34, Hill 37, Denton 33 and Grayson 46 per cent.

An incidental result of the Bankhead act may be to enable black land counties to regain their first place as cotton producers, after the threat from northwest counties the last two seasons. The ten leading counties in 1934 quotas of bales are Ellis, Nueces, Williamson, Hill, Navarro, McLennan, Collin, Falls, Hunt and Bell, all except Nueces in the black land region. Last season the ten leaders in the order named, were Ellis, Hill, Jones, Nueces, Williamson, Lubbock, San Patricio, Mc Lennan, Navarro and Collin, while the 1932 list read Jones, Lubcock, Ellis, Haskell, Hill, Runnels, Williamson, Collin, Hunt and Knox.

Teachers Protest New Regulations

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas school teachers, their salaries reduced by lean tax collections, last week protested against regulations of the state committee on classified and accredited high schools which would require additional college attendance.

The order, directed by the committee as preparatory to ultimate requirements that every school teacher hold a college degree, would force many teachers to attend college summer sessions, teachers disclosed.

Demands for further study by teachers should be accompanied by increases in salaries, the teachers asserted. Various organizations of teachers had representatives before the committee.

Elimination of "purposeless activities" in public schools was suggested as a means of improving the quality of work. Excessively large classes was termed a greater detriment to the quality of work than lack of college degree teachers.

Second Skeleton Found On Ranch Near Clarendon

A skeleton, the second within the past few weeks, was found a few days ago, by workers on the Chamberlain Ranch, northeast of Clarendon. From all indications, it is that of an adult made, and has found sitting in an upright position in a shallow, open grave.

A few weeks ago, the skeleton of a child, about ten years of age, was found near the same place. It was found when the head was seen protruding from some debris, by employees of the ranch.

Although the frame and skull of the most recently found skeleton, resembles that of the modern man, no clues as to its identity could be found near the scene of discovery. An interesting point noticed in the inspection of the skull, was that the teeth were apparently filed to needle like sharpness. Whether this was done intentionally, such as was the case with several tribes of Indians, years ago, or whether it was developed from the chewing of some hard substance, is a matter of conjecture.

Some time ago, in the same vicinity, a jawbone of what was believed to be some mammoth prehistoric animal was found.—Clarendon News.

LOSE PWA JOBS

WASHINGTON—Senator Nine officials and minor employees of the public works housing division were disclosed authoratively Saturday night to have resigned in the last few days or to have transferred to other work.

In addition to Robert D. Kohn, director, who sent in his resignation on Saturday, the group includes:

Max Dunning, assistant director; R. K. Chase and C. P. Grimes of the legal staff, and J. M. Hamilton, Eugene H. Klaber, A. C. Shire, F. L. Smith and Oliver C. Winston.

Secretary Ickes has been conducting an investigation into what he has called loose business methods and inefficiency. Land values approved in low cost housing projects of limited dividend corporations have been the particular field of inquiry.

Brazil To Improve Quality Of Cotton

NEW YORK.—In an effort to increase the demand for Brazilian cotton in foreign markets, the Brazilian Government has ordered that all ginning machines be registered and inspected annually by the Department of Textile Plants, according to trade reports here. The department will draft a general plan for improving cotton, fix the type and quantity of ginning machines for each district and require compliance with these specifications within eighteen months. The decree prohibits exports of cotton not ginned and packed under supervision of the department.

Prospects that Japan will increase its purchases of Brazilian cotton are seen in announcement that a Japanese steamship line will give a 30 per cent rebate in freight on cotton from Brazil to Japan bringing the delivered price at Kobe, below that of cotton from the United States.

$3,000 Lion Missing With Trailer, Car

HOUSTON, Texas—Police officers scratched their heads last Thursday and wondered just what a thief would do with an African lion. So did Hugo Martini of Galveston, whose act at a Houston theatre is practically worthless without his $3,000 p...

Martini parked his lion, securely fastened in an automobile trailer, in front of the cigar store. When he returned the lion, the car and the trailer all were gone.

They hoped he still was fastened in the trailer.

MEN Risked their lives, STAKED THEIR FORTUNES SMASHED WORLD RECORDS FOR Your Safety!

THE NEW Firestone HIGH SPEED TIRE FOR 1934 Gives You

SAFEST TIRE FIRESTONE EVER BUILT

THE New Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 was built to give you the same dependable service it provided for the 33 drivers who started in the torturous 500-mile grind at Indianapolis May 30.

This new tire has a wider tread of flatter contour, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Besides being Safety Protected on the outside it is Safety Protected on the inside. Eight additional pounds of pure rubber are absorbed by every one hundred pounds of cords.

This additional rubber is so placed that it surrounds every cotton fiber inside every cord in every ply. This is accomplished by soaking the cords in liquid rubber by a Firestone patented process. This patented process, Gum-Dipping, is not used in any other tire built.

Heat caused by internal friction of cotton fibers destroys tires—causes separation and blowouts.

Gum-Dipping counteracts friction and heat—provides greater adhesion and binds the cotton and rubber together into one cohesive unit of greater strength, assuring car owners of the greatest Safety, Protection and Economy that it is possible for human ingenuity to build into a tire.

The most amazing proof of this extra strength, safety and dependability is the fact that everyone of the 33 drivers at Indianapolis chose and bought Firestone High Speed Tires Race drivers KNOW tire construction—they will not risk their lives or chance of victory on any other than Firestone.

When the gruelling race started, motors roared, crowds cheered, speeds increased to 105 miles an hour—yes, to 150 miles on the straightaways.

At these terrific speeds the cars plunge into the treacherous turns—tires are braced against the scorching brick track—so hot the tires fairly smoke at times—they give—yield and stretch—every conceivable force works to tear the tire to pieces, yet Firestone High Speed Tires "come back" on the straightaways. Not once during the entire race did a tire fail—not one of the 132 tires on the cars gave way to endanger the lives of the drivers.

Surely this is the most amazing proof ever known of Extra Strength, SAFETY and dependability. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store nearest you TODAY. Equip your car with New Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934.

MAKE THIS TEST YOURSELF

Note how the rubber in a Firestone Tire clings to the high stretch Gum-Dipped cords. This greater adhesion and strength is made possible by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, which saturates and insulates every fiber with live, liquid rubber.

Note how rubber pulls away from cords not Gum-Dipped. Regardless of number of cord plies in tires not built with Gum-Dipped cords, friction develops intense heat, separating plies—often causing blowouts. Firestone Tires are protected by Gum-Dipping.

Your Firestone Dealer is prepared to let you make, for yourself, the amazing test illustrated above.

Due to an act of generosity on the part of a local citizen, the county canning plant will soon be a reality. M. P. Watkins has given the county a five year lease, without charge, on his building located just south of the telephone building. All other details had been worked out, but the matter of securing a building was holding up the project, until "Fatty" learned of the cause of the delay and tendered the use of his building. Farmers and their wives who hope to make good use of the canning plant can remember that Fatty Watkins changed the plans and hopes into a reality. As a matter of fact he has done hundreds of things of this sort in past years, but he puts out no information about them. R. L. Gillentine told me about this or I would never have known it, for Fatty is as sensitive about his tender heartedness as a mother about a crippled child. He is deathly afraid that somebody will find it out.

The representatives from Collingsworth County have returned from Washington and they are confident that this county will eventually secure an increase in its cotton allotment. Additional figures will have to be submitted before the matter is finally settled. The report that they were very courteously received, and that they received every consideration possible at the hands of the officials in Washington. Every person in this county should be grateful for the effort that has been put out in an effort to get the basic figure raised.

Late in July, The Leader will issue a Silver Anniversary edition. It is going to be a most complete paper. Judge R. C. Crane, president of the West Texas Historical Association, has already sent me a remarkable article tracing the history of Collingsworth County before it was organized. Olin Hinkle, editor of the Pampa News and an official of the Panhandle Plains Historical Society, has already sent me a most interesting article on another feature of the history of this section. A number of others have promised to write stories. In addition we are preparing in this office many many stories concerning Collingsworth County since it was organized. I want to extend a personal invitation to the old settlers to send in reminiscences. These can be either long or short just as long as they deal with some old time incident. They should be sent in early as there is a possibility we may be crowded for room toward the last.

Red Williams To Meet Negro Here In Comeback As Fighter

Series Of Bouts Listed On Card At Texan Theatre Thursday

Fans will have the opportunity of seeing boxing matches next Thursday night, June 28, at 8 o'clock, at the Texan Theatre.

Red Williams, 164, vs. "Kid" Theodore, negro, 166 pounds; J. N. Cook, 140 pounds, vs. Speedy (Blondy) Pratt, 137 pounds; Freeman Moore, 131, vs. Richard Carter, 140 pounds; John Templeton, 148 pounds, vs. Gene Glenn, 149 pounds; Denzil Wright, 135 pounds vs. Young Chappel, 135 pounds; J. L. Anderson, 155 pounds vs. Dan Henard, 165 pounds. The events will open with a "battle royal" between five negroes.

The main bout on the card will be a fight between Red Williams of this city and Kid Theodore, negro.

The fight will mark Williams' debut to Wellington fans and it should prove a highly interesting match. Since his arrival here more than a year ago stories have drifted around that Williams holds an unusual boxing record. This will be his first real appearance, however, and the fans are due to see a real boxing treat.

Williams has featured in some of the best cards the Pacific coast had to offer and his fight here Thursday will be his first step toward a comeback into the pugalistic world. In addition to his other feats, Williams boxed the main bouts in San Francisco and Oakland fights and trained for more than six months in the Max Baer stables. He recently completed a series of six fights, four of which he won. After a few more battles here he plans to return to the Pacific coast and take up fighting where he left off in 1931.

Newspapers and sport scribes of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Oakland herald Williams as a coming youngster. He is now 23 years of age and expects to resume connections in California with Scaler, his former manager.

Williams started his boxing career in Childress under Eddie Murdock and later went to Dallas, Ft. Worth and other larger Texas cities, where he made such an outstanding record that he was placed in the Pacific Coast matches.

Red boxed in the big Carnera fight out in Californnia and Herb Walters, Jr., of the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune, announced the fight with the following comment:

"When the thousands and thousands of fight fans pack the ball park for the Carnera fight Monday, they will see two other good boys in the person of our own Red Williams and Young Dempsey. Leave it to Scaler to get the boys in on something big. Both boys are on the up and up and will go over big on the Carnera card if they give their usual "scrap."

Living up to the prediction, Red won the bout with a decision.

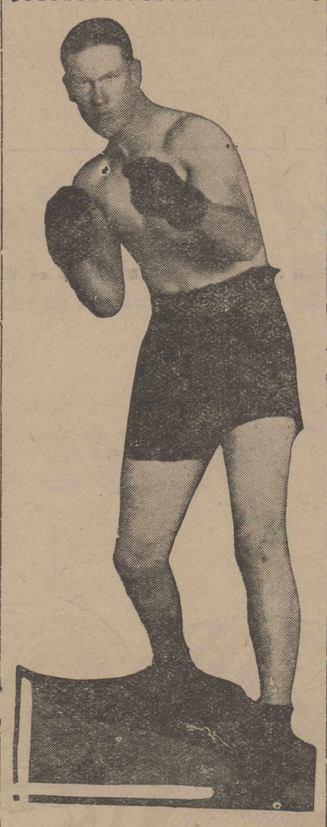

Williams was everywhere accepted as a favorite by the fans and newspapers. August 26, 1930, he met Frankie Tucker, former amateur light-heavy weight champion of California, the following comment was made concerning him in the San Francisco Examiner:

"Frankie Tucker will have a fight on his hands when he meets Red Williams in a ten-round bout at the Oakland Auditorium. Williams is a tough, rugged battler who fights best after he has been knocked down a few times and reports from Santa Rosa, where he has been training tell of Red knocking his sparring mates all over the ring."

Red now weighs 164. He is starting his training for the comeback on the coast. He is only 23 years of age and after having been picked by so many sports fans and scribes as a comer is considered as one of the best little fighters in the game.

Despite the fact that Kid Theodore is considered a tought assignment, Red says he is going to win; that he has to win, because he has to step on up and make a new record for himself in preparation for his return on the coast.

To Comeback

Red Williams, 164 pounds, who will fight Thursday night at the Texan as the first of a series of fights through which he hopes to "comeback" and again take his place among the leading pugalists on the Pacific coast.

Kiwanis Club Active

The movement for a County Canning Plant was started here upon the arrival of Miss Annie Mae Donaghey, home demonstration agent, by the Wellington Kiwanis Club. John Bonner, president, and R. L. Gillentine, chairman of the agriculture committee, have been active in pushing the project to completion.

No answer has yet been received from the Relief Commission. but it is understood that they will have to circulate bids for equipment before the local cannery can be put in operation.

As previously stated, all products will be canned on a percentage basis at the plant with certain allotments to be made to the cannery on different types of products. A woman will be named to supervise the work and Miss Donaghey will act as general supervisor over the project.

Mr. Campbell said that it was his best saddle horse and that he valued him at $150, while the bull was probably worth $8 at the most. The fact that the animal remained on his feet and kept going after he was mortally wounded, in all probability accounts for Mr. Campbell's safe condition following the encounter.
