SUMMER TO BE SHORT

Navy Scientist Sees Decline In Solar Radiation

Prof. A. F. Edwards, Junior college history department and scientist, told The Record News Thursday as an incident in the fact that the cold wave continued to hold Wichita Falls in its grip that if it was correct as national scientists had predicted that a decline in solar radiation is to take place during the 1925-26 cycle, the hardest winter in years is due for the nation.

Elaborating on his statement, Prof. Edwards pointed out that great holes in the sun or sun spots that keep the sun from giving off its heat are responsible for the decrease in solar radiation. The sun spots lower the temperature of the earth and ocean.

These great holes can be seen sometimes with the naked eye by looking through a piece of darkened glass. The largest sun spot is said to be so big that if the earth could be dropped into it, it would be like a football dropped into the crater of Mt. Vesuvius.

To Be Severe Winter.

Sun spots vary in size and appear larger in periods of 11 years. They are larger this year than they were in 1914, and that accounts for the prediction of a severe winter this year.

Not only is a hard winter predicted, but it is declared that next

OIL INDUSTRY APPEALS FROM EXCESS TAXES

Last Year Paid One-Third Of Gross Revenue Of State

Relief of the oil industry from excessive taxation, taxation which has been imposed upon them by reason of the oil man's willingness to accept such as a matter of course and as part of the cost of his collossal gamble, was the prominent topic of yesterday's sessions of the seventh annual convention of the Texas division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association. A dozen or more talks at both the morning and evening meetings put it in a dozen or more different ways, but this was the gist of them all, that the oil industry this last year paid one-third of the gross tax receipts of the state of Texas, that the tax imposed on a barrel of oil at certain times during the year exceeded 50 per cent of the wholesale price of the product of that barrel of crude oil, and that the industry is in a fair way for still other burdens unless it sees fit to step into the limelight and take an active hand in the molding of affairs at Austin and Washington.

The tone of the situation was struck by Barry Miller of Dallas, lieutenant governor of Texas, in a short talk at last night's banquet at the Kemp hotel. 2 OTHERS ARE IMPLICATED IN SERIES OF BIG HOLD-UPS HERE

R. J. (Jack) Russell Gives Detailed Statement To Cops

CAUGHT THRUSDAY

Robbed Drug Store, Pig Stand and Pedestrians

With the arrest Thursday morning of R. J. (Jack) Russell and subsequent full statements he has made, the city police department has rounded up the man they assert has been responsible for practically all of the highway robbery that has gone on here in the past few months. Russell, in a lengthy confession made yesterday to Chief of Police George H. Hodgins and Assistant County Attorney John Humphrey, admitted taking part in six separate hi-jackings here since Oct 15.

A second man, a pressman at a local tailoring establishment, was in jail last night and a third was being hunted by officers for complicity in the hold-ups after Russell's confessions had implicated them. No charges have been filed against them, however, and they have not been questioned at length as yet.

Arrested at Home.

Russell was arrested about 7 o'clock Thursday morning at his home, 1305 Eleventh street. He was taken in custody by Detectives Jimmy Allen and Will Bryan who were assigned to investigations of two hold-ups reported late Wednesday night. They had had advance suspicions of Russell, it was said, and brief descriptions given of the perpetrator of Wednesday's robberies determined them to question him.

The man, who is married and has a nine-months-old baby, was surly and defiant at first. He threatened to "whip the whole police department for lying on him," but in the end he broke down and talked freely.

Chief Gets Statement.

The confession was obtained by Chief Hodgins himself who was closeted with Russell for over two and one-half hours Thursday morning and afternoon. It was after noon before he finally dropped his mask of innocence and told the chief he was ready to talk. When that statement was made, the assistant county attorney was summoned and took his complete confession.

Full text of the statement has not been made public, but its essential details were released by the chief and assistant county attorney. In it Russell admitted holding up the Lamar Avenue pharmacy on the night of Oct. 15. He said that early that evening he met "another fellow," a stranger to him, down town on Seventh street between Indiana and Scott. They went to the Lightsey Drive-It-Yourself stand and rented a Ford touring car in which they drove around town for a time.

"Easy Pickings."

Finally, the statement said, they drove past the pharmacy and noticed only two men in there.

"There's a couple of jelly-beans in there; that's easy pickins, let's stick 'em up," the statement quotes Russell as saying.

Accordingly they tied handkerchiefs over their faces, went in and looted the cash register of $49.50. The statement said they encountered no opposition.

Following the robbery the two drove around town a little while and then wrecked the car by skidding into a curbing. It was raining and the streets were slippery that night, he said, so the accident was unavoidable. They abandoned the machine, went to Russell's home for a few minutes and after splitting the loot got another car somewhere and drove up to Frederick, Okla., by way of Burkburnett.

Russell and his companion, he said, remained there for six days and then came back to Wichita Falls on the afternoon of Oct. 21.

Pig Stand Robbed.

On the night of Oct. 22 the Pig stand No. 2 in the 2100 block Grant street was robbed by Russell and two companions, one of whom is now under arrest.

The three men, the statement said, hired a Ford touring car at the Nelson Rent-A-Ford company about 11:45 on the night of the twenty-second and drove directly to Grant street. Going out that highway, they said, they passed the Pig stand, com-

Alleged Hi-Jacker And Men Who Got Him Thursday

Reading left to right in the picture are Detectives Jimmy Allen and Bill Bryan, Jack Russell, alleged hi-jacker, and Police Chief Hodgins. Detectives Allen and Bryan are responsible for following an unrelenting pursuit of clues and descriptions which ended in the arrest of Russell at his home on Eleventh street. It was Police Chief Hodgins who, after a more than two-hour grill of the alleged stick-up man, secured an elaborate confession to a series of Wichita Falls crimes.

Judaism Not Opposed To Science, Says Local Rabbi; Church Needs It Says Prof.

SAYS PROF. MATHER.

BOSTON, Oct. 29. — (AP)—Christianity "must be interpreted in the light of modern science or it will fail," said Kirtley F. Mather, associate professor of psychography at Harvard university, in an address at the old south meeting house today. He said the real significance of the Scopes evolution trial lay deeper than any question of Old Testament interpretation.

"Back of the modern outery against evolution," he added, "is a real fear that science is slowly but surely driving religion into the discard.

"The fact is that the historic conflicts between scientists and theologians have been occasioned primarily if not solely because the theologians championed an outworn and faulty science against a new and truer science.

"There is such a thing as a religion based on facts and experiences, a religion developed by rigidly scientific methods of thought.

SAYS RABBI PHILLIP.

"Judaism is not opposed to science in the public schools. This attitude was brought out at the Central conference of American rabbis just ended in Cincinnati," said Rabbi Samuel Phillips of Temple Israel here, who returned from the meeting yesterday.

"Liberalism in religion and social conduct is the only basis upon which fellowship and good will may be near a permanent edifice.

Unfortunately the main issue in the Scopes trial was lost in the hysteria of the trial," said Rabbi Phillips.

Rabbi Phillips will speak tonight at Temple Israel at 8 o'clock on the subject: "A Resume of the Doings of the Conference at Cincinnati."

FOLSOM GUILTY OF ATTACK ON HIS 14-YR-OLD DAUGHTER, SAYS JURY IN ASSESSING 25- YEAR PENALTY

Father Takes Verdict Calmly and Weeps Less Than During Trial

A verdict of guilty and a sentence of 25 years in the penitentiary was returned at midnight Thursday by a jury in the case against Frank Folsom, local transfer operator, who has been on trial the past four days on a statutory charge growing out of accusations made by his 14-year-old daughter, Thelma. The jury deliberated exactly one hour and one-half, retiring at 10:20 last night after final arguments of counsel had been concluded in a night session and reporting back in open court at 11:50.

Takes Verdict Calmly.

Folsom took the verdict calmly and wept but slightly as he was taken back to jail in custody of Sheriff Fred Smith. He had cried almost continuously while the case was in progress.

Attorneys for Folsom announced that a new trial would be asked and in event it was overruled they would appeal to the higher courts.

The case was concluded with four hours of argument in which defense attorneys plead for a speedy verdict of acquittal and the state insisted with equal vehemence on a felon's death in the electric chair at Huntsville. County Attorney Wayne Somerville, Special Investigator Sam Spence and Assistant District Attorney George W. Anderson were plain spoken and merciless in the argumentative whip they applied to the defendant in asking the jury to give him the most extreme penalty allowed by law—death.

Charge Enemy Plot.

On the other hand, Folsom's attorneys, Walter Nelson Jr., J. Earl Kuntz and Harry Bunenberg came back with demands no less positive that the defendant be acquitted on grounds that he was guiltless and the victim of a carefully arranged plot concocted by enemies.

This "frame-up" plea was Folsom's principal defense. He made charges concerning it when he took the stand

Relative, a Bank Teller, Hands Him $1,500, Then Traps Him

Gilbert had backed the cashier into the vault and had turned to shut the door when the bank man leaped at him. In the scuffle the pistol held by Gilbert was fired, the bullet grazing the cashier's finger and burning his hand. Citizens came to the cashier's aid.

Gilbert Taylor is charged with robbery with fire arms and theft of over $50. He was born in Bruceville, and has just returned from Oklahoma.

Taylor in his alleged confession says he stole a small coupe, belonging to a city detective from in front of the city hall here and drove to Bruceville in it. Convention Takes Shot At Doherty--"Unqualified To Criticize"

J. D. COLLETT IS RE-ELECTED AS PRESIDENT

W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls Named as Vice President

ELECT DIRECTORS

Convention Takes Definite Stand on A. P. I. Criticism

The Texas division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association took a definite stand in the matter of the criticism that has come up relating to the report of the American Petroleum Institute to President Coolidge regarding the future petroleum supply of the nation at its early morning meeting yesterday. No motion was made and no vote was taken bu the warm applause that greeted President J. D. Collett's direct reference to the criticism of his announcement that he would refuse to dignify it by adoption of resolutions one way or the other, showed plainly the sentiment of the convention.

The American Petroleum Institute report referred to was that presented to President Coolidge a few months ago in which it was stated that the nation had no cause to be alarmed overd a shortage of oil, and that it was the concensus of opinion of more than 200 of the leaders of the oil industry that such information as they had at hand led them to believe that there was plenty of oil still left underground for the future. Press dispatches of recent date have carried considerable criticism of the report, this in the main emanating from Henry L. Doherty and reiterating that an oil famine was in sight.

In commenting on the criticism Mr. Collett said, "The Petroleum Institute's report is the concensus of opinion of more than 200 of the best minds of the oil industry. It was my original intention to ask the convention today for an endorsement of what it propounds, but on second thought I have discarded this idea as lending dignity to unworthy criticism. I have yet to see a criticism of the work of the American Petroleum Institute by a man that was qualified to criticize that group of men. Mr. Collett's comment was warmly applauded.

Elect Officers.

Mr. Collett an independent oil operator of Fort Worth, was re-electd president of the association at a noonday meeting of directors, the term to be Mr. Collett's fourth in that office. Other officers re-elected are: R. S. Hazeltine, Dallas; J. C. Wilson, Beaumont; W. B. Pyron, Houston; W. B. Hamilton, Wichita Falls; W. M. Massie, Fort Worth, all vice presidents, and Joe P. Laney of Dallas, secretary and tresurer. A board of directors composed of more than forty prominent operarors of the state was also elected. The convention adjourned late last night following the annual banquet at the Kemp hotel.

Texas Resources.

In commenting on the vast resources of Texas, Mr. Collett, in his report, quoted from the A. P. I. report to show that of an area of 174,000,000 acres in the state, 151,600,000 acres were sedimentary and potentially oil productive, and that already proven and developed territory included only about 600,000 acres, the rest in the main liable to develop fields at any time.

Mr. Collett took a shot at the taxation of the oil industry and the complacency with which the industry had allowed these taxes to be imposed. Gross production tax, pipe line tax, gasoline tax, and other aside taxes at various periods of the past year have cost the oil industry fifty per cent of the wholesale price of the product of a barrel of crude oil, the president stated. Aggressiveness by the ways and means committee in the imposition of other federal taxes was forecasted by Mr. Collett, who urged every oil man to exert proper pressure on congressional representatives to forestall such.

Seven Years Old.

Mr. Collett briefly reviewed the work of the organization during its seven years of existence. The tendency of the public to shoot at the oil business was being diverted, he said, by reason of the elimination of many of those who had done so much to put it in an unfavorable light, by means of the federal courts. A public realization that the oil industry was a vital part of the nation is the foundation already laid for the established oil industry which is not far away in the future, according to Mr. Collett.

Following the president's address there was a discussion of conservation rules in Texas led by W. B. Hamilton and J. L. McMahon of Wichita Falls. A fault in the appropriation for the oil and gas division of the railroad commission nad consequent inconvenience of the new arrangements in Wichita Falls particularly was the feature of Mr. Hamilton's talk, while J. L. McMahon, superintendent of the Texas Company here, discussed the working of the ruling on the use of vacuum in practically depleted oil fields.

The executive committee met at noon and elected officers, a number of the visitors leaving immediately afterward on a trip to Lake Kemp, and others participating in a golf tournament at the Wichita Golf and Country club.

Directors List.

The annual banquet of the association was held at 7 o'clock in the evening at the Kemp hotel and was featured by addresses by J. Edgar Pew, Barry Miller, C. V. Terrell, Judge John Kay and others. Approximately 175 were in attendance at the sessions of the convention.

The following were elected as directors for the coming year. The list will be amended to include representatives of several other of the larger companies not represented at today's meeting. E. H. Blum, C. C. Cartwright, J. S. Bridwell, W. D. Cline, J. D. Collett, R. A. Crawford, Frank Cullinan, Edgar B. Davis, W. B. Francis, H. P. Gage, Lee Bivins, W. B. Hamilton, Harray Hans, W. M. BEER WAS HAULED IN COUCHES AND CHAIRS

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 29.—(AP)—John Fellinger, a confessed beer runner, has revealed to the federal court here a new use for the family furniture. Testifying against William Liss, on trial charged with conspiracy to unload liquor in this city, Fellinger said the contraband was hauled from Pittsburgh under cover of couches, chairs and other household articles. The new use is rather devastating, Fellinger's testimony indicated, 100 trips sufficing to wear out one set of furniture.

JACK RUSSELL, IN DRAMATIC MOVE, SIGNS HIS NAME WHEN IT MAY BRING DEATH PENALTY

Admits His Part in Series Of Daring Robberies Here

mented that it, too, would be "easy pickings" and accordingly stopped their machine in front.

One man remained at the wheel while Russell and the other, with handkerchiefs tied over the lower part of their faces, entered the establishment.

"My gun was empty," the statement quotes Russell, "but I held it on three men in the places and we went through their pockets at first. Then I talked pretty rough to them and herded them back to the rear of the place while the other fellow went into the cash drawer. I took my handkerchief off my face while I was watching them there."

Split the Loot.

No money was obtained from the clothing of the three victims but $51.50 was taken from the cash drawer.

The trio, after robbing the Pig stand, drove back to town, returned the automobile and went home. The next morning the three met at Russell's Eleventh street home and split the loot.

This explanation of Russell's coincided almost identically with stories given by the three victims of the Pig stand robbery. They said the handkerchief mask of the bandit had slipped from his face while he held the gun on them, but Russell said he removed it because he was "talking pretty rough."

From Oct. 22, which was last Thursday night, until Oct. 27, Tuesday night, Russell was inactive. He said he attempted no hold-ups again until Tuesday evening when, at 9 o'clock, he went into action again at Sixth and Burnett. He worked alone this time, he said.

Search Brought Nothing.

His first foray was against a lone pedestrian who happened to be passing the corner and who, though yielding nothing of value, was given a "good scare." Russell said he stuck a gun in the man's ribs and marched him unnoticed from the corner of Sixth and Burnett to the Huff-McGregor park on Sixth street, about a block distant. There, in the black shadows of trees and shrubs he said he searched his victim but found nothing of value.

Russell, of course, was unable to give the identity of the man and officers did not have it either.

With a water-haul on this job, Russell went back to Sixth and Burnettt and entered the Switzer service station. H. C. Switzer, the proprietor, was in the office and Russell ordered him at the point of his gun to come out doors. Switzer did and was searched but the bandit found nothing of value in his pockets.

Robin Hood.

No attempt was made to rob the cash drawer of the station, Russell said. After failing to get anything he left Switzer and ran away and made no further robbery attempts that night.

Wednesday night was his last robbery, and in it he played the role of a Robin Hood by giving a nearpenniless victim 25 cents. Working with a second robber, Russell said they accosted a white man on the library grounds at Thirteenth and Lamar, got him into a dark corner and after searching him found only a nickle and a penny.

"We gave him two-bits and let him go," the statement avers.

That accounted for six separate hold-ups, and the prisoner later told Chief Hodgins he had been responsible for "anyhow as many more." No effort was made to go back further than the Lamar pharmacy hold-up.

After the confession had been made Russell grew adamant again and declined to attach his signature. A state law provides that no person suspected of a crime can be compelled to make and sign any statement concerning the matter in which he is held. It further provides that an officer or attorney taking such a statement must specifically warn the suspect of this fact and tell him that anything he may say can be used against and not for him on the trial of his case.

Wife Implores.

Hodgins and Humphrey gave this warning in due form before Russell began to talk. When he had finished he refused for a moment to sign it—but a little later after his wife had tearfully implored him to "tell the truth, Jack," he gave in.

Mrs. Russell had come to the city hall after her husband's arrest and waited in an ante-room while the man was closeted with the chief. Before signing the statement he asked that his wife be allowed to come in and see him and this was granted.

"Go on 'Jack, tell 'em the truth and get it over with," she sobbed. "The chief has been mighty good to you, why don't you come clean."

"All right, let's go," was his only comment as he took a pen and signed his name.

Readily Identified.

With the confession made, the police began checking up. The night men at the Lightsey and Nelson auto rent concerns were brought to the city hall and both readily identified Russell as having rented cars from them on the nights of which he spoke. He was also identified by victims of the pharmacy and Pig stand robbery, and with that the police regarded their case as complete.

While Russell was making his confession he revealed the names and addresses of the two men who have been associated with him in practically all of the hi-jackings. Officers were immediately dispatched in search of them and they were under arrest before 5 o'clock. At a late hour last night a hunt was under way for the third and while he had not been found, police expressed confidence his capture was only a matter of time.

One Point Puzzles.

Only one point is puzzling officers now and that centers around the hi-jacking late Wednesday night of two negro men on the library grounds at Lamar and Thirteenth. The blacks, reported to the city hall that they had been held-up by two white men and relieved of about $30. Russell, however, denied all knowledge of this, although he admitted having stopped a white man on that corner about the time the negroes were robbed and of giving his intended victim 25 cents when he found only six cents in the man's pockets.

In police circles unstinted credit was also given in the successful "clean-up" of the hi-jacking cases to Night Chief Allen and all his officers, including Belcher, Gardnere, Carmichael, Robertson and Perdue who combed the city night after night with description of the bandit, and produced a large number of tips which aided in thefinal catch.

PETROLEUM AND POLITICS

Oklahoma is the land of petroleum and politicians and cottonseed cattle and corn and many other products which make a state either famous or prosperous. A correspondent of this newspaper in his rambles over the state made the discovery that the Sooners are certain to enjoy another exciting campign the coming year.

Oklahoma is a democratic state when the democrats are not engaged in the throat cutting game. They have been engaged in the throat cutting game since 1920. First Scott Ferris defeated Thomas P. Gore in a senatorial primary and then the Gore people or a great number of them bolted the nomination of Ferris and sent J. W. Harreld, republican to the United States senate.

Then in 1924 Robert L. Owen, democrat, withdrew to private life and Jack Walton defeated for the nominaton other democrats who were ambitious to win and wear a toga. A. B. Pine, republican, overwhelmed Walton at the polls and thus it happens that a democratic state has two republican senators.

Senator Harreld comes up for re-election next year. He has no opposition on the republican side. He will be re-nominated without a fight. Now the democratic leaders are said to be ready to abandon the throat cutting game and are ready to strive to do their best to elect a democrat to the senate.

Elmer Thomas of Lawton is said to have the inside track for the democratic nomination. He is said to have a splendid record. He is said to be a popular and eloquent campaigner. He is said to have few enemies in his own party. There are some democrats who insist that Scott Ferris, their national committee man, may throw his hat into the ring again and endeavor to wipe out the sting of the defeat which Harreld inflicted upon him after he had vanquished Thomas P. Gore in the primary contest of 1919.

Harreld and Pine are very wealthy men. Petroleum had a vast deal to do with making their fortunes. Scott Ferris has dabbled in oil. Just at present he has a magnificient ranch in the Paul's Valley country and is known as a breeder of pedigreed cattle.

There are democrats in Oklahoma who do say that if Farmer Ferris does not go out for the senatorship he may be a democratic candidate for governor as the successor of M. E. Trapp Scott was a popular member of the lowest house of congress during all the years of the Wilson administration. His ambition to go higher led to his defeat and he has been in private life ever since.

Oklahoma republicans have a magnificient organization. They waded in the petroleum tide and that carried them onto fortune. As for Jack Walton, he is a Texan now. He isn't a nightmare to either the democrats or the republicans of Oklahoma and most of them appear to be glad of it.

Less than two years ago he was a page-one celebrity. Now he isn't even a local brevity. Man who cometh roaring like a lion. He goeth out like a bleating lamb. This was the fate of Jack Walton.

YOUR PLEASURES AND MINE

The things that have pleased him—these are what have moulded Man.

He always has thought of progress in termsof pleasure.

Man has never taken to heart Aristotle's admonition that "Not pleasure, but freedom from pain, is what the wise man will aim at."

We are all born, as Schiller says, in Arcadia. In other words, we come into the world full of claims to happiness.

Most of us live for our moments of pleasure.

And in old age, he remembers all of the pleasures he has experienced, and few or none of the pains.

But we must remember that only men of different races, but also men of the same race, and even the same men at different periods of life, have different standards of happiness and pleasure.

Every age has its pleasure, its style of wit, its own way.

Remembering this, we cannot with justice critize the roads other persons travel in pursuit of happiness.

Our standard cannot be every one's.

"Moralists of one class derive moral rules from a supreme political power," Herbert Spencer observed. "Those of another class recognize no other origin or them than the revealed divine will.

"And though men who take social persecution for their guide do not formulate their doctrine, yet the belief frequently betrayed, that conduct which society permits is not blameworthy, implies there are those who think right and wrong can be made such by public opinion.

It ought to be aparent by now, after several thousand years of failure, that men cannot be made moral by law.

Because, as Tacitus long ago remarked, "Things forbidden have a secret charm," forbiden pleasures alone are loved immoderately.

It is a weakness of man that to him what is common and lawful is undesirable; and what is unlawful is very attractive. This explains more than one problem of today.

NEW JERSEY VOTES THIS YEAR

New Jersey elects a governor the first Tuesday in November. Democrats have controled the office eight years. New Jersey is a wet state and in local contest the democrats have been making prohibition the chief issue. Their candidate for governor, A. Harry, is a wet. He is for the modification of the Volstead act.

Senator Arthur Whitney, the republican nominee is running on a dry platform although he says that in principle he is moist. He has the backing of the Anti-Saloon league.

New Jersey gamblers are betting that Moore will be elected. He is the favorite of the talent who say that the wet republicans of New Jersey prefer a wet democrat to an Anti-Saloon league republican.

Senator Whitney is said to be a very able man and a very rich man. He is strong for the Coolidge policies and he hopes to win an election because he is standing for national and not local issues. All this reminds this newspaper that Congress Henry Bowles of Massachusetts is a wet Republican and hails from the Coolidge district.

President Coolidge is for law enforcement. He is for liquor law enforcement and if another hundred million dollars is necessary every year to bring about complete enforcement, congressional leaders say that the money will be appropriated.

No man is more powerful than the law; no commonwealth is more powerful than the republic. In the long run the prohibition lawa will be enforced to the letter. It may cost a billion dollars to bring this about but public opinion is slowly crystalizing and public opinoin in time will get in behind the law.

Uncommon Sense

OTHER PEOPLE'S MORALS

It is the business of the courts and of the clergy to look out for the public morals.

That is fortunate for the average citizen.

The moral censor has an unhappy time of it.

He is so troubled about the behavior of others that he can find no time to think of his own.

And he is really the most miserable person in the world.

If you have lived in a little village you have met these censors, and you have never found a happy or a good natured one.

If you read the newspapers you will finally run across letters from them—ill natured and peevish letters which show that the writers are in no pleasant frame of mind.

You would read far more of these letters if the editors printed all of them that came in.

But one or two now and then are quite enough to reflect public opinion, which of course is the object of every well edited newspaper.

A father and mother should take an interest in in the conduct of their children, for they are responsible for it.

An employer should be interested in the behavior of those who work for him, to the extent of seeing that they keep in condition to do their work.

After that what people do, so long as they commit no cardinal crimes is nothing for the general public to worry about.

I know an estimable woman in a California town who was very much wrought up because the hinese dwelling in her neighborhood insisted in putting their shirts outside their trousers instead of inside.

She organized a little crusade of women who went to the authorities and complained about it.

But it did not good. And the women remained indignant and unhappy for the rest of the time I spent in their village.

When people turn criminal, or violently outrage the proprieties their are constituted authorities which on complaint will look into their cases.

But the over-zealous busybodies who are forever trying to reform the stage and the motion picture screen and the newspaper and literature really need pity and attention, for they make themselves very unhappy.

Even were these people all sent to some country where there were none but those of their own sort, they would soon fall to criticizing one another. They couldn't help it. That is the way they are constructed.

The habit of censorship can be easily cultivated, and soon creeps upon one before he is aware.

Look out for it. If you see that you are beginning to be a fault finder, and to be over sensitive to the conduct of others, you are getting into danger.

If you think about the falures of your fellow men you will have no time to think about your own, and these are your intimate personal concern.

Pity the habitual censors. But don't be one of them. They are really the most miserable people on earth, for they will never be able to make all humanity like themselves.

AN IMPOSSIBLE DREAM

Mussolini, doing with Italy as he pleases in the wilful way of a Caesar, says, possibly defending himself, that "Liberty is a dream."

And who will deny it?

Only savage people enjoy any measure of liberty.

Only the man who lives far out of contact with the best of mankind can ever enjoy Liberty and Freedom.

When he claims the privileges of organized society, the individual is compelled to sacrifice his freedom of will.

He can neither decide nor act according to the imperious demands of his own personality.

He is compelled to merge his own will into the general will of the State.

For a few this is a painful sacrifice, but to the majority it is not.

A man living in the open country apart from the immediate restraints of society is quite distinct from the citizen living within an organized community.

When a man leaves the open country and settles in a city, he submits himself to countless restraints.

He must sacrifice his fredom,

He must sacrifice freedom of judgment,

And he must sacrifice freedom of will.

He cannot dash madly through the crowded street as he would in the open prairie. There are fences walls and policemen to impede his movement.

He may not shout and sing as he may feel inclined to do in the open. There are others not only to be considered but to be protected against noise, disturbance and injury.

In his study, International Society, Professor Philip Marshall Brown observes that "The individual in society makes the great sacrifice of freedom and judgment. He cannot decide even about his own family affairs without running counter at times to the judgment of men about him. The first lesson he must learn in organized society is 'a decent respect for the opinions of mankind.' This he finds to be a basic principle of political society."

One of the wisest things John Milton ever wrote is not to be found in his masterpiece, Paradise Lost, but in a short essay: "License they mean when they cry, Liberty! for who loves that must first be wise and good."

WHEN DOTAGE CLAIMS US

Knowledge education information—all are different.

Knowledge is the most important.

Knowledge must be acquired while the mind possesses a disciplined reason. Education is valuable because it disciplines our reason.

Are you waiting for TOMORROW to improve your condition?

Then consider that your life is daily wasting away and a smaller part of it is left.

Every hour you delay means a smaller enjoyment of whatever fruits you accrue from your higher state of being.

And something even more important must be taken into account.

If a man should live longer it is quite uncertain whether the understanding will continue sufficient for the comprehension of things, and retain the power of contemplation which strives to acquire the important knowledge of the divine and the human.

When man falls into dotage, perspiration and nutrition and imagination and appetite do not fail him, but the power of making use of himself, and filling up the measure of his duty, is extinguished. The disciplined reason is gone.

We must make haste to do our work in this then, not only because we are daily nearer death, but also because the conception of things and th understanding of them may cease first.

Our intellect is confined as well as the strength of our body.

Some men are more robust than others; there are also Hercules with respect to thought.

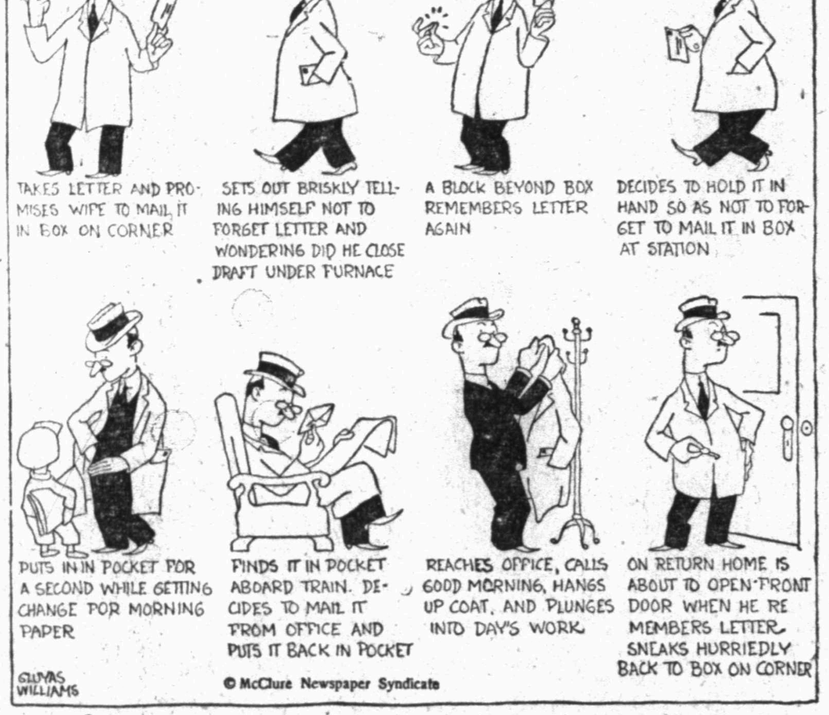

Mental robustness can be acquired, even as bulging muscles.

We must guard our mental health, and preserve our thinking powers, as carefully as we protect our body.

And to enjoy life completely, we must use our mind to the utmost while it is robust and capable of plenty of work.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE,
Scorpio.

Today's planetary aspects are not as favorable as those that prevailed yesterday. They are not, however, adverse, although they do not . gur success for any untried effort. They denote a state of equanimity and a sense of satisfaction, combined with a desire for relaxation and ease. The "daily round" must, of course, r ceive proper attention, but during the prevalence of such "dolce far niente" influence it would be futile to start anything of importance or significance. In the evening, the aspects become a trifle lens kindly, and there are indications that impatience and annoyance will, unless counteracted by deliberation and self-domination, urge you to act unwisely and to speak impulsively.

Children born today will, if boys, give little, or no cause for worry on physical grounds. They promise to go through life without sickness. If girls, they will not be so fortunate, as frequent aliments will assail them in their childhood, and only perfect health conditions will be realized with the responsibilities of maternity. In impecious demands of his own personality. both cases, that is, both boys and girls —will be very similar. They will not be paragons of virtue, although they will be free from all taint of viciousness. They will be daring and courageous; always ready to act, but little disposed to think. They will be full of affection, and never lacking in loyalty. Not intellectually gifted in an yspecial degree, but, notwithstanding their impulsiveness endowed with exceptional common and practical sense.

If today is your birthday, your qualities are negative, rather than positive. You are very careful of your appearance, and are slow to receive new ideas, or solve any problem of life that possesses complications. You are lacking altogether in personality. Subservient to those in a better position than yourself, and rather domineering and patronizing to those in a lower condition of life, or those who are in intimate and daily association with you. Stubbornness is one of your characteristics, and you are not free from foolish prejudice or extreme bigotry. You do not have the ability to think for yourself, but from all your ideas from what others have thought before you. In your home life, you are faithful and loyal. Those however whom you love, would never suspect it from your actions, as you cultivate an air of frigidity and unresponsiveness that does not conduce to marital felicity. You have decided that it is not necessary to chase a car once you have caught it .Keeping your seat, however, is well worth an effort.

POEMS THAT LIVE

On the Grasshopper and Cricket.

The poetry of earth is never dead:
When all the birds are faint with the hot sun
And hide in cooling trees, a voice will run
From hedge to hedge about the new-mown mead.
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead.
In summer luxury—he has never done
With his delights; for, when tired out with fun,
He rests at ease beneath some pleasant weed.
The poetry to earth is ceasing never:
On a lone winter evening, when the frost
Has wrought a silence, from the stove there shrills
The cricket's song, in warmth increasing ever,
And seems, to one in drowsiness half lost,
The grasshopper's among some grassy hills.

HOW IT STARTED

A WOLF IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING

Very often in every day parlance we hear some one who is considered false or a traitor characterized as "a wolf in sheep's clothing." The implication is that he poses as "one of them" and obtains their confidence which he uses to deceive them.

We have the phrase from one of Aesop's fables, those famous little beast tales which have come down through the ages with their page or two of animal stories in which is always concealed a lesson or a moral. Though among the tales known as Aesop's Fables, this is one that is practically derived from the Bible, where it is found in Matt. VII. 15.

According to the story, a wolf that was want to prey upon sheep was having difficulty in getting at the animals because of the special watchfulness of the shepherd and his dogs. One day when he found the skin of a sheep that had been killed and since he was not above any treachery or deceit he disguised himself in the skin and strolled among the sheep. The poor little lamb that was the child of the sheep whose skin the wolf was wearing thought she recognized her parent and followed the wolf who made a meal of the lamb.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore is aboard a yacht in Long Island Sound in company with one Pooch, an utter stranger. It is after midnight. Suddenly they find their craft is being pursued by "revenooers." Connemara was expected to announce her engagement tonight but, instead, garbed as a nun, she stole away from Aunt Celimena's Connecticut home. She accepted a ride from David Lacy, a stranger, crossed the Sound with him on a ferry, and, after driving across Long Island and boarding the yacht, here she is.

"What the hell kind of game is this?" he demanded finally.

"What do you mean?" asked Connemara. "It's no game to me, I assure you."

"Don't get gay with me," Mr. Pooch snapped. "Didn't get a good look at you before in that rig—you ain't Sweetie."

"No, I certainly am not," Connemara admitted. "I—I think there's been some mix-up——"

"Mix-up! And you putting it over on me!" Mr. Pooch exclaimed furiously. Then suddenly he was towering above her. "Come across with that dough!" he commanded.

His right hand was raised—with his left he reached for Connemara's throat.

"McTish! McTish!" She just had time to shriek as Mr. Pooch's fingers closed around her windpipe.

CHAPTER VII

Dorothy Parker

By Dorothy Parker

Mr. David Lacy, of New York, Paris, London, Venice, Petrograd,

"McTish! McTish!" She just had time to shriek.

Monte Carlo, Palm Beach, and sometimes w and y, was not in the full enjoyment of that pool-like placidity of mind which usually characterized him. Indeed, he was aware of a distinct and curiously unpleasant sensation of mental unrest. There were ladies, in various sections of the world, who would have been ingenuously delighted by the news of this condition. In vain had they tried, individually, to bring him to it.

In the first place—and in most of the other places—there were his thoughts on Sister Connemara.

"Sister!" he said bitterly to himself as he stumbled along the ditch in what he gathered to be her wake. "Swell Sister she is."

The comment pleased him, so low was his mental state. He repeated it, though inaudibly, several times. He even went into the matter on a larger scale, and thought, grimly, that she was never going to have any chance at the old but ever popular role of being a sister to him. But he ran right on, along the ditch.

It now seemed to Mr. Lacy that, from the first moment of their meeting, he had grasped that Connemara was no real nun. He felt that he deserved a good, heaping measure of credit for his discernment.

"Thought she fooled me, did she?" he asked himself. He felt it would be not at all unpleasing to explain to the lady, in somewhat full detail, how strikingly little had been his belief in her vocation.

Now, of course, to have a young and low-voiced lady, disturbingly fragrant of mimosa, turn out not to be a nun at all is one thing. It opens up a wide field, gives birth to a series of pleasant plans for the future, and induces a healthy glow of anticipation. But, shortly after this discovery, to become a firm believer in the theory that the same young lady is one of the principal figures in a band of desperadoes, is distinctly something else again. Perhaps she was the Master Mind of the gang; possibly she had worked up to her present fifty-thousand-dollar job by way of a long apprenticeship in holding up cigar stores—maybe her photograph had been displayed in the papers as one of the mighty sisterhood of bobbed-hair bandits. It was a good thing, Mr. Lacy explained to himself, that he had found her out in time. There's no use trying to do anything for those people; they simply drop right back into their old ways again. The best thing to do is leave them alone; sooner or later they are bound to get theirs.

Yet he ran on along the ditch.

And then there was his car, tossed aside like a withered violet in the dust of the road behind him. It would require an experienced worker in mosaic ever to put it together again. The thought further depressed Mr. Lacy. It was not that he did not know where his next Isotta was coming from. It was not the money so much as the principle of the thing. Aside from a justifiable pride in the manner in which the car had come to be his, David had a deep fondness for it. He grieved for the sudden breaking-off of a beautiful relationship.

Still David ran on, into the darkness that had swallowed Connemara and Pooch so greedily. He loved the outdoors and couldn't get on without his exercise, yet the thing was beginning to pall. The sky had clouded thickly; the trees, whispering darkly together like old wives in a sick room, tossed their boughs and showed the under sides of their leaves. Winds sprang up, it seemed to David, from all directions, and not far off, thunder growled savagely. In his ears sounded the complaining of troubled waters. That must be the Sound, somewhere ahead. Well—perhaps the steeplechase would end there.

From behind him, hoarse shoutings punctuated his journey. Backward glances showed him a flashlight, careening like a drunken firefly, as its bearer stumbled along the ditch. The mysterious strangers from the Pierce were evidently going right on through with the thing. Their words were indistinguishable, but their tones indicated that they were calling upon David to stop. Yet, though well brought up, he paid not the slightest attention to the remarks that they addressed to him.

There was a report, from behind, and something whistled shrilly entirely too close to his ear for any real comfort.

"The party," murmured David "is getting rough."

And so was the ditch. David, quickening his speed, came suddenly into close personal contact with the stump of a tree that had apparently died in agony. Simultaneously injuring his shin and his self-respect, he went headlong among its twisted rpots, rolled from them, over and over in the slippery dead leaves of the ditch. With but a few brief words of hasty criticism of the dead tree, David picked himself up, found a footing, and started again on his travels. Again there was a report, decidedly closer this time. Again the screeching whistle troubled his ear.

"Hey, stop, will ya?" bellowed the voice back of him. It added a few words having to do with its owner's wishes for David's future.

"Well," David told himself, "we might as well get this over with." And he stopped and turned to face his pursuers, wearing an expression of courteous surprise.

They came up to him, the first one, who carried the flashlight, swearing glibly but without inspiration. The light revealed him as a heavy, dark man, with more than his legitimate quota of unshaven jaw. He wore badly assembled garments, and affected a lavishly plaided cap. Of the second figure, David could distinguish nothing more personal than that it was considerably shorter than the first.

David watched the light glint along the shining surface of the first man's revolver. The evening's events had taken on the quality of a prolonged dream. He had the curious lack of amazement with which one meets all the outrageous new occurrences of a nightmare.

"Doubtless," he mused, "this stout lad will turn out to be O'Malley of the Royal Mounted."

SUB ROSA BY MIMI

Be Wary About Your Information.

There was a tragic story told the other day about an unfortunate girl who had an idea that she could supply information on any subject to anybody in the world.

She happened to be on a house party where one of the men seemed to be very anxious to learn all about golf. At least from his conversation, one would judge that he knew nothing of the game.

So when he stepped out on the green to try a few practice strokes, Miss Information was right behind him, telling him in a very impressive fashion that he was all wrong.

And she proceeded to show him just how the great game should be played, giving a brief but important lecture on each point.

Two hours later, a kind friend told her quietly that the man she'd been instructing so carefully was none other than B——, the famous golfer.

Miss Information retired from public life for some time after that, and I've no doubt the rest did her good.

She had plenty of time to reflect on her past life, and to realize the danger of knowing too much about any given subject.

The girl who confidently tells the great writer (traveling incognito) that she has read so much she feels it would be almost too easy to write a novel, gets a quiet laugh from the man she's trying to impress—and is exposed to a great deal of humiliation besides.

The misguided maiden who explains to a football hero—too modest to admit who he is and what he has done—that she understands the great college sport much better than anyone else, and proceeds to give him a lot of dope on the subject—lets herself in for a grand raz.

You may think that the moral of this article is to make sure of the man you're talking to—just who he is and what he has accomplished.

Well, that's one very important factor in social success. But the other point to be remembered is that once you get it into your head that you know more about certain things than any other living person, you're sure to land in hot water sooner or later.

If you are convinced about your knowledge of music is far greater than that of anybody else, you're likely to meet, you'll probably spend most of your time informing your friends and neighbors that you're a runner-up to Beethoven.

You may get away with this modest declaration until you happen on a real musician—perhaps a boy who has studied the art all his life and needs no sweet young curly-head to tell him all about it.

He will be in a position to make you look perfectly ridiculous, and your admiring friends will be the first to laugh at your downfall.

It 's a wise policy to go through the world with the idea that there's always something to be learned about every subject.

If you keep this though firmly fixed in mind you'll never be in danger of looking a fool beside someone more thoroughly informed than yourself.

GENTLEMEN:

It is with a great deal of satisfaction, not unmixed with relief, that we can dictate this letter. We have just received a message from Miami, Florida, stating that "Wild Bill" Cowboy Seeley has arrived at the offices of the Miami Daily News, having traversed a distance of 3,469 miles in 150 hours and 10 minutes without stopping for rest, food, sleep, gasoline or oil.

Seeley was in such bad shape when he drove slowly up in front of the office of this newspaper that they had to rush him to the hospital, but he had completed a record for endurance that breaks all world's records for endurance for either man or machine.

We have received wires from our distributors at Miami that the street was thronged from where the Dixie highway enters the city to the office of the Miami Daily News with thousands of people who cheered this giant cowboy as he slowly dragged his way exhausted by the days and nights he had spent on the road till he reached his final goal.

On the morning of October 16th, Seeley left the city of Indianapolis at 9 o'clock in the morning in a rain storm. He had been shackled to the wheel of our Auburn eight sedan by a police captain with standard police handcuffs. Making his way through rain and fog through the cities of Dayton, Zanesville and Wheeling into Pittsburgh.

From Pittsburgh he went to Cleveland and the fog and rain had delayed him so that when he reached this city he was two hours behind his schedule. P. R. Ward, the head of The Auburn Sales Company, our distributor in Clevelaud, used his influence with the police department and they kindly granted to Seeley the privilege of running with police escort through the city of Cleveland at a speed of thirty-five to forty miles an hour, disregarding all stop signals and traffic regulations, so as he had made an allowance for the traffic delay in Cleveland, he gained one hour on his schedule and sped off on his way to Buffalo.

When he reached Erie, Schriefer, our dealer there, met him on the outskirts of the city and having there also gained the courtesy of the police department, Schriefer saw that he was taken through this city safely.

By the time he reached Erie the strain was beginning to tell on the big fellow and Schriefer writes that he rode through the city holding ice to one eye after the other as they were beginning to swell.

In the city of Erie publicity was given in broad headlines across the front of the Erie papers inviting the public to come and see this cowboy who was makng a world's record as he came through their town.

In Buffalo the A. F. Winegar Company had made all their arrangements and notwithstanding the fact it was late in the evening, police escort was furnished and a tremendous crowd was gathered in that city and the Buffalo Times gave us front page publicity for every day from the time Seeley hit the city of Buffalo until the run was ended.

After leaving Buffalo he was given a grand send-off and dashed on across the state of New York through Batavia and on in to Auburn where Skinner, our local dealer there, met him and saw him on his way.

At Rochester he was met by the Combine Motors and given an ovation and so on into the city of Syracuse, where the Ingerson Motors picked him up and carried him on, although it was 2 o'clock in the morning.

At Albany, Alex. Horton had his gang out and met Seeley at 7 o'clock, seeing that he was in good shape and having his corp of mechanics there, although they were not needed, as the car was running perfectly when they reached Albany.

Down through New York state he went until an escort of 30 cars picked him up at the outskirts of New York City. Here the most phenomenal thing of the entire run took place. Thirty automobiles, under escort of H. W. Walton, who is in charge of our company at New York, met Seeley at 261st street. Seeley was behind time and the New York police were given orders to let him through New York as fast as possible. They ran down Rivrside Drive and Broadway to the New York World office, with sirens going, at a speed of over 60 miles an hour, gaining one hour.

At the New York World pictures were taken and the publicity, covering this stunt was not only taken up by the New York World, with whom the drive had been lined up, but also by the New York Times and the New York American.

The ferry was held and Seeley was put on the ferry, being picked up at Jersey City by a special escort of Jersey City police, rushed through Jersey City to the limits of Newark where Newark police took over the escort and taking him up in front of our dealer's place in Newark, pictures were taken which appeared on the front page of the Newark papers.

Then Seeley began the hardest part of his long grind—into Trenton and Philadelphia. Philadelphia police escorted him through the city and he was on his way to Baltimore.

A short way out of Baltimore another automobile, belonging to a competitor, which had been following him, shoved him into the ditch. It was in the early hours of the morning and nothing could be done as the car sped away in the darkness. The eight came out on its own power, but the delay was so great that Seeley was compelled to pass up the Baltimore stop and dash on to Washington, where he was within 30 minutes of his schedule.

Leaving Washington he went south through Fredericksburg, Virginia, into Richmond, where he was given a tremendous ovation. Then he left the good road and started into the wild country.

The entire state of North Carolina seemed to turn out en masse and the publicity was given front page in Spartansburg and other cities along his route. By this time the cowboy was becoming very tired, but the motor car, according to all reports that we got, was running perfectly.

The big fear we had here was for the awful stretch that goes from the Savannah river through Hartwell and on into Atlanta, and it was with great relief we received a wire that he had reached Atlanta safely, having negotiated what we thought was the worst part of his road. At Atlanta he was 20 minutes behind his schedule.

Then he started onward over bad roads to Macon and Waycross, Georgia, and on into Jacksonville, where he arrived only 20 minutes behind the schedule they had laid out.

From Jacksonville southward our correspondent told us it was absolute torture. Seeley was beginning to feel the effects of the awful grind that he had been put to. He was in a semi-comatose state and everything that he did was mechanical. The car however, was running perfectly, so they negotiated the balance of the journey until they ran into the city of Miami only 10 minutes behind the schedule that had been drawn.

This is to us the greatest feat that has ever been performed by any man or motor car. The Auburn eight sedan that was used in this cross-country test, was an absolute stock sedan taken from regular production without one iota of a change in any unit, owing to the fact that it would be given this test.

The motor was run on the block for two days before it was put into the motor car and outside of this nothing unusual was done to this sedan. It carried standard tires that we use on our stock cars and the wire reports that there was not even a tire changed on the entire trip. Two gas tanks were installed on the motor car, one on the roof, to give Seeley a capacity of 36 instead of 18 gallons. A pipe was run through the hood so that the motor could be lubricated while the car was in motion.

The car was kept in constant motion from the time it started from Indianapolis until the time it stopped before the Miami Daily News, as Seely rocked back and forth going from low into reverse whenever he was compelled to stop at any newspaper office or to take on gasoline or oil.

The stress to which the parts on this automobile were put was tremendous. More stress was put on this clutch than a man would put on it in a hundred thousand miles of ordinary driving. A brand new motor was driven this entire distance without a change of oil, as the only thing done was to pour additional oil into this motor as they progressed on their trip. The same bearings were used throughout that we use in all our standard motor cars.

The thing that we would like all of our dealers to note, is that Auburn dared to give publicity to this test before the test was completed. We think, if you will check up the average cross-country runs that have been made by any motor car, you will find that they gave it publicity after the test had been made and they knew they were successful. We dared to announce to the world that Seeley had chosen an Auburn car to make this test and he was followed through the entire trip by a telegram to leading newspapers in the eastern part of the United States. He had with him an official observer to check him in and he also had checking stations which made possible any delays for repairs without same being known to entire world.

We had firm belief that our motor car would make the trip. Personally, the thing that appealed most to me, as director of sales of this company, was the fact that when Seeley suggested the use of an Auburn car, I took this matter up with Mr. Crawford, our engineer, and Mr. Watson, our superintendent, asking what they thought of us going into this—whether we might dare to announce to the public that we would make such a run—the absolute confidence that these fellows displayed, who are building this motor car of ours, made me ashamed I had even thought of doubting whether or not this car would go through and when on the last day of the test, I was running up and down the office wondering what had happened to Seeley and whether or not he would make it, the coolest men in our organization were Watson, Crawford and Penry, the men who build the merchandise. They never doubted for a minute but what the car would come through with flying colors.

We feel that we have demonstrated to the world the stability and the durability of Auburn. We feel that we have demonstrated to everyone that Auburn is not only beautiful, but that it will also perform because we do not believe that the feat just accomplished has ever been equalled, nor do we believe that any other company will dare to announce publicly that they are going to give their motor car such a test.

There have been different stunts run throughout the country of non-stop driving in the city, but this is a tame thing compared to the test that Seeley has just given Auburn.

V. L. Pope, who promoted this run for the Miami Daily News, has put on altogether in the United States, 66 non-stop drives in cities for five days and nights, but it is interesting to note that when he came to what he claims is the last great stunt of his career, putting a man and an automobile on a cross-conntry drive over hills and mountains, through mud and sand such as an ordinary driver may encounter at any time during the life of his automobile, then he chose an Auburn.

Pope wires us that he has never in his life seen the equal of an Auburn automobile for speed, durability, easy riding, easy handling and every other attribute that goes to make a "wonder" automobile.

We are proud of the achievement we have made. Anyone can build an automobile that will run around city streets for five days and nights, but it takes a "he-man" automobile to stand the beating that was given to our Auburn 8-8S. We hope that you will secure all the publicity possible on this, what we believe is the greatest feat that has ever been put across by any automobile. We hope that you will get over to your owners the fact that Auburn is not only beautiful, but is also a performing, durable motor car one of the greatest values of the American market today.

Very truly yours,
R. H. FAULKNER,
Director of Sales.

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. T. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 day's FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency; and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per months.—Adv.

Never Let a Cold Get a Start

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled.

Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

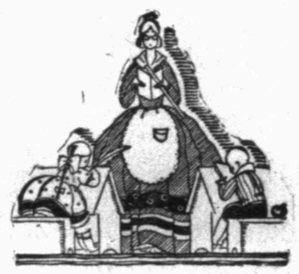

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like "a vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over the throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

Shoes That Fit for Study-Time

Little folks who study must have the nicest kind of shoes. Shoes that fit and feel good, shoes that are nice looking, shoes that stand scuffing and kicking, shoes that will come up shining and smiling after a coat of polish.

IN SCHOOL

We have a shoe lady at our store who knows all about fitting shoes on little children's feet so that they feel exactly right. She knows that if Jane is slim and dainty, she should have a pair of trim patent leathers with champagne kid tops, and if Barbara is plump and tomboyish, she'll have lots of fun with a pair of coffee elk shoes to romp in.

AT THE PARTY

While hob-goblins and witches are dancing, the shoe lady will help you pick out a pretty pair of shoes so that you may be dancing too. If you are invited to a Hallowe'en party you'll be sure to want a new pair of slippers, and we have such lovely ones. Apricot kid, champagne kid and fine calf leathers fashion them in dainty patterns. Our little girl's shoes are priced from

$4 to $6.50

EXCELSIOR BOYS' SHOES

Boy's shoes from Excelsior are fine shoes. They're fine because boys like them. And boys like them because they're good looking and they wear a long, long time. They're neat and they don't hurt a boy's foot no matter how hard he wears them. For dates, and dress-up-wear there are dress boots that just finish off a pair of langies.

HALLOWE'EN IS ABOUT UPON US

Schools Will Frolic The Fall Season's Mysteries

By PEGGY PIEDMONT

HOW many of us have experienced the feeling of loneliness? That of being transported from our old home town to probably a larger one, or for instance to a big city. There is no other sensation quite like it, that of loneliness. At home you knew everybody and everybody's business. Especially if you came from the country or small town.

PERHAPS you were a teacher in the home town, or it may be that you sang in the choir, or you were a leader in your high school, or a favorite in your social set. But when you move into a large town where you know nobody, you're lucky if any one looks at you. It's an awful feeling, just like nobody cares for you in the whole world.

And Wichita Falls is just brimming full of strangers who have moved here from all parts of the United States. Women and men of culture, who were perhaps leaders at home. That is one of the purposes of the Woman's Forum, to reach and draw out the women in a cultural way. Especially the new ones that are not members of smaller clubs, and who would probably live here many years before their talents would be found out.

ONE couple who are recent additions to artistic circles here, are Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Beckhart of Colorado. Mr. Beckhart is trumpet player in the Majestic Theater orchestra, and was formerly with the world famous Innes band and other noted bands and orchestras. He was also a pupil of Earnest Williams, first trumpeter of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra and old Joseph Gustodt, first trumpeter of the St. Louis Symphony orchestra.

MR. BECKHART teaches on several instruments and his ambition to at some future date organize a brass band among the Wichita Fall's school children.

And speaking of school children reminds us of a question which is being discussed among local pupils of the high school both pro and con, that of whether "we shall have mid-term and term exams?" Some say that these most dreaded events in all school life, have been abandoned in the up-to-date schools. Anyway, even the Junior high school pupils have been interested and Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of the Debating club, the question: Resolved, that the Junior high school should abolish mid-term and term examinations, was debated with Joline Woods and Elva Herndon taking the affirmative, and Elizabeth Langford and Bettie Love Rugeley, the negative. The affirmative won.

THIS program was opened with a vocal number by Mrs. Hermoine Vaughn followed with a violin solo by Thelma Norvell who was accompanied at the piano by Marie Albritton.

Well Hallowe'en is almost here, just two more long days—yes, the longest ones in the entire month for the kiddies. For the costumes and masks have all been dug out from last year and the final touches have been added to them for the frolics which will begin tonight and last until after the "real" Hallowe'en, Saturday night. School carnivals will be in evidence at the ward schools tonight, among the largest and most pretentious will be at the Junior high and the Fannin, besides on both nights there will be parties for all departments at the various churches.

Correct weight can be yours

be shapely!

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."

Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?

And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?

Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells by the millions.

You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system.

S.S.S.

It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood. S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

Golf Clubhouse to Be Scene Of Attractive Party

A large crowd is expected Friday night when the Municipal Golf club house is the scene of a Hallowe'en dance and party for members of the club and their friends.

The best road to the club grounds now is out Harrison street to the Valley railroad, then taking the road running west along the south side of the right of way and turning south at the road leading past Downing's swimming pool. A lane turns off to the left just beyond the pool which affords easy access to the club grounds.

Regular routes to the house are closed because of paving.

More Truth Than Poetry

SOOTHING THE SAVAGE BEAST

It is proposed to start general singing in order to suppress the crime wave.

If a bandit should happen to meet you
And ask, with an impolite curse,
That you hand him your watch and your hip flask of Scotch
And the money you have in your purse—
Pull a saxophone out of your pocket,
And he'll suddenly cease to be rough,
And forget about crime while he joins for a time
In a little close harmony stuff.

The worst of 'em fall for the music;
The robber engaged on a raid
Will quit and rejoice in a smooth tenor voice
At the call of the Heavenly maid.
Let a scoundrel engaged upon arson
Hear the notes of a popular song,
And he'll throw down his match till the key he can catch
When they're singing they cannot do wrong.

If a burglar should climb through the window
For the purpose of taking your hoard,
Bid him gently: "Don't shoot," and on banjo or lute
Strike a deep and harmonious chord—
And the tears that will hang on his eyelash
Will show he's been led to the light.
He'll forget why he came, he'll admit his right name—
And sing with you there all the night.

When the power of music is on them,
No evil abides in their hearts,
It acts like a drug on the gunman and thug,
And they gleefully take up their parts.
Let the airs be inspiringly jazzy—
Or let them be solemn and sad,
When the worst of 'em croon any kind of a tune
They do not know how to be bad.

BIG GAMES OF WEEK.

Cornell-Columbia, at Polo Grounds, N. Y.
Brown-Dartmouth, at Providence, R. I.
Chicago-Purdue, at Chicago.
Georgia Tech-Notre Dame, at Atlanta.
Syracuse-Penn State, at Syracuse.
Pennsylvania-Illinois, at Philadelphia.

Texas-S. M. U., at Dallas.
Baylor-Texas Aggies, at Waco.

THE DOPE.

Army beats Yale.
Columbia defeats Cornell.
Dartmouth beats Brown.
Chicago defeats Purdue.
Notre Dame downs Georgia Tech.
Syracuse defeats Penn State.
Pennsylvania beats Illinois.

Texas defeats S. M. U.
Texas Aggies beat Baylor?

And there's another game of much interest in this section, that Vernon-Wichita Falls clash at Vernon Saturday. The dope points to a Vernon victory. Take it or leave it.

There are only two games of the series listed above in which pre-contest calculation leaves a doubt. Gil Dobie's Ithaca Lions may slip up on Cornell. Bridges' Golden Bears, in view of their past startling performances, may rear back and kick over Dana's Farmers. However, the odds certainly favor the Aggies.

* * *

A few of the wise boys have it Morrison's Mustangs will prove entirely too tough a proposition for Stewart's Longhorns to handle, but that's just a matter of opinion, somewhat biased in most cases, for the Steers on pre-game dope rate a decided edge on the Cayuses.

WE SHOULD WORRY.

But its upsets which make football the great game it is. It's upsets which keep the I-told-you-so boys in a good humor, and we wouldn't for all the world attempt to deprive any joy from the lives of these lads, because, after all, they are the closest readers of the sport page, and if the sport page has no readers then there'll be no sport page.

But speaking of that Aggie-Bear tiff, should the field at Waco be wet and the going heavy the chances for a Baylor victory would be greatly enhanced. Bible's speeding backs, Hunt, Maguire, and Barry, would find the milling hard against the heavy Bruin forward defense.

* * *

If it rains in Dallas, Doc Stewart won't care, points out the Austin American sports editor, for the varsity mentor has two or three reliable punters to fall back on and his passing game will be under the same handicap the Mustangs will work under whereas for straight line plunging he has Rufus King, Saxon, Estes and Fred Thompson, four dependable backers.

NEW FIGHT QUARTERS.

The legion's new boxing quarters located in the 800 block, Scott Street, is not as spacious as the Majestic Theater in which bouts were staged for a period this winter, but it has its advantages in that all the fans will be seated closer to the ring, thereby getting a better view of activities. The new fight hall when completed will be as up-to-date as could be asked for. The walls are white and Matchmaker Wofford declares the building will be kept immaculate. Ventilation is exceptionally good.

Of interest to the boxers themselves, the quarters are being remodeled and showers being put in so the cauliflower gentry will have first class training quarters, a feature promoters have overlooked in the past. Any fighter performing on future cards will be in no position to say he was not in condition due to lack of training facilities, an alibi which has been broadcast here several times in the past.

Knights of the tin ear worked out Thursday in the new sector amid the clang of carpenters' tools. All principals of next week's program are on hand with exception of Sammy Riley, the Altus boy who meets Jack Ercanbrack in a six-round semi-final.

CLAMOR FOR TICKETS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 29.—(AP) So great was the crush to obtain football tickets today for the Pennsylvania-Illinois game at Franklin field Saturday that a detail of police was summoned to quiet the milling crowd that stormed the office of the athletic council.

JOHNSON BEATS WESTBROOK.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 29.—(AP)—William M. Johnston today eliminated Walter Westbrook of Los Angeles from the men's singles play in the Mexican national tennis championship, 7—5, 6—2, and 6—0.

Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., defeated Sinsabaugh of Mexico City, 6—2, 6—4, and 6—1.

Ray Casey defeated Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, 5—7, 6—2, 6—4, and 6—2.

JUNIOR SQUAD FACES HEAVY ODDS AT PARK

Brewster's Outfit, However, May Enter Affray Crippled

Wichita Falls' Coyote Pups and Iowa Park's Hawks clash in the one game of interest to this section scheduled today Contest is to start at 3:30 o'clock on the Iowa Park gridiron.

Wichita Falls Coach Montgomery, after a week's hard work with his youngsters is sending a determined team to Brewster's stronghold to combat a club which on the face of it, if you would listen to the dope forthcoming from comparative scores, should take the home crew to a snappy sort of cleaning.

However, the Pups will enter the game in full force whereas the Hawks are expected to be weakend by the loss of several star players who were injured Monday in contest with Devol.

Speaking of Devol, it will be recalled the Pups lost to this team last week, 19 to 0, while the Hawks defeated the Oklahomans Monday, 24 to 7. However, it is reasonable to surmise Coach Johnson's club was not in the best of condition for the Hawk game considering the team had battled the Wichita Falls lads but two days before.

The Pups did not take any outdoor drill Thursday, but indulged in a heavy skull session at which team all the inside dope on their plays were mulled over.

Deunny and Fitzgerald, Hawk guards, are not expected to be in the game because of injuries. Enloe, quarter; Beasly, half, and Burney, full, also may not participate, according to Coach Brewster.

Probable starting lineups:

Position:	Iowa Park:	Wichita Falls:
Left End.	A. Smith	Anderson
Left Tackle.	Fields	Nichols
Left Guard.	Thompson or Wiggley	Davenport
Center.	Tanner	Herndon
Right Guard.	Morehead	Powell
Right Tackle.	Douglas	Bains
Right End.	Wiley or Estes	Barry
Quarterback.	Penn	Fly
Left Half.	Cheeves	George
Right Half.	Beasley or Lennon	Dulaney
Fullback.	C. Smith	Carter

REDSKINS TAKE LIGHT WORKOUT.

The Junior college Indians worked only a short time Thursday, but they worked hard while they were at it. Coach Mosley reviewed all signals given this year and kept his men continually on the job.

Captain John Clary worked only a short period, retiring because of a nose injury.

Steve West, plunging halfback, has been moved into the line at center where he probably will be found in the game Saturday with the North Texas Aggies.

The Tribe will have only one man missing from the game, it is present indication. This is Clary, and should he be able to give the Aggies a hard battle for the game.

Deems, Stephenson, Datson and Beatty probably will be the starting backfield and the men on whom the college will pin their hopes for a victory. These four men have been working smoothly in the backfield of late, and are expected to come through with colors flying.

FIGHT! FIGHT! PACK WAR CRY.

The Coyotes engaged in the meanest practice of the year. They worked on the field until darkness drove them to cover. After that they retired to the Junior college gym and drilled some more.

The club is steadily looking better and may upset the dope in the Vernon tilt Saturday. Wilks Dobson was in the workout Thursday and slacked up much better than was expected. This lineman has been out with a bad ankle.

Captain Rowdy Curtin expressed his opinion on the Vernon club and the strength of the Lions, telling his teammates the Lions are only boys like the high school here, maybe with a little better name backing them. They can be tackled and stopped, he said.

Coach McCallum declared he would put a team in the field that will fight or get out. Any one loafing in the Vernon game probably will be told to turn in his uniform, said the coach.

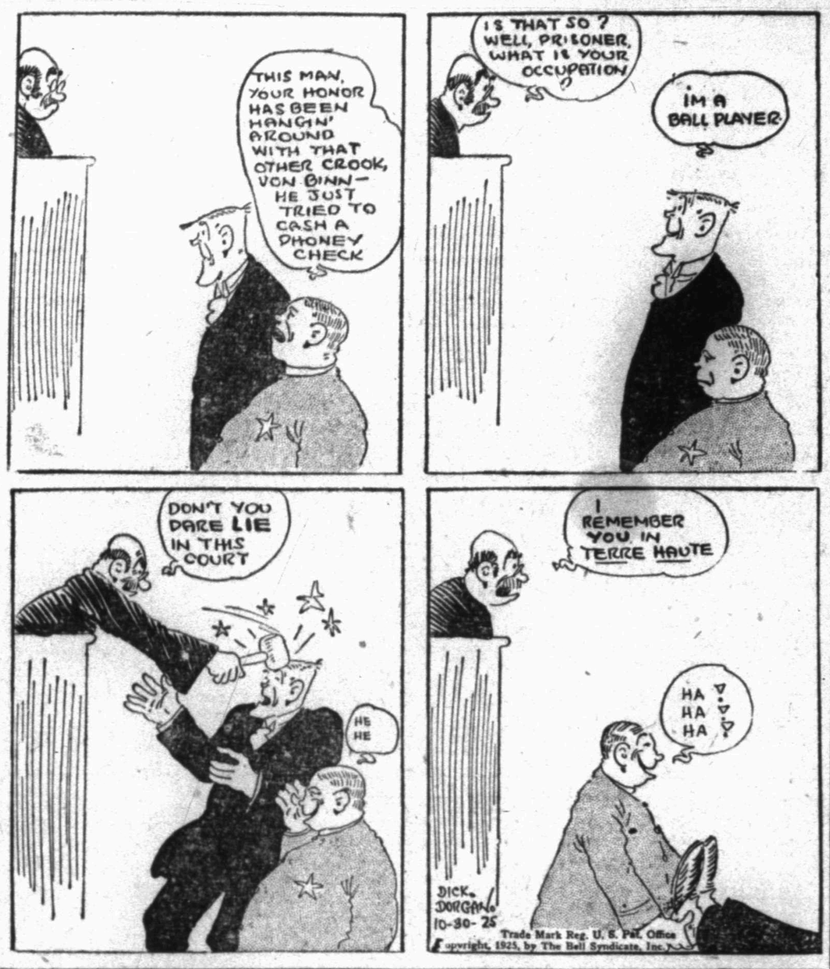

TIGERS READY FOR QUANAH.

The Electra Tigers are all set for the Quanah invasion this afternoon. The Tigers have two regulars on the injured list, Willis Carnahan, first string center, and Captain Sanderlift, star end, who is indefinately out with a knocked down shoulder. Roy Coolidge and Oren Sargent probably will hold down Carnahan's center, with Coolidge the best bet for opening the game. Ralph Turner will be at Sanderlin's end with Louis Kent likely to see action either on one end or in the backfield. John Louie Wright and Landon Smith have been showing up well in the backfield and may start in place of Vincent Trammill and Dell Coolidge who has been shifted to Turner's tackle.

The coaches sent them through a hard scrimmage Wednesday afternoon despite the cold weather. Johnie Lebus, Johnie Wright and Landon Smith showed up well in this scrimmage with numerous long gains. Vincent Trammill saw action a few minutes and showed form in reeling off gains around the second team ends. Trever Bell was the start on defense, breaking through the first team line and throwing his man for a loss on many occasions. Jesse Weaver and Gerald Gillum also showed up well on the defense. Bell will likely see action in the backfield in the Friday setto. Weaver is also apt to see action, but Gillum is on the ineligible list.

No lineup has been announced, but the starter likely will be: Brown and Turner, ends; D. Coolidge and Aver, tackle; Buzz Smith and Gilger, guards; R. Coloidge, center; Wright, full; L. Smith, or Moore, Kent or Trammill, halves and Lebus, quarter back.

The PASSING HOUR
~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

THE DIFFERENCE

Along the road that leads to fame one travels day by day,
The brambles can not block the path, nor thorns may serve to stay
When youth is sweeping to the crest, it brushes them away.

One sings along the road to fame—theres' sunshine on the track—
And trouble's but a lightsome load one has no fear to pack—
But oh! How different it is, when one is coming back!

FOUR undefeated teams in the conference race—only one conference eleven. Texas A. and M., actually undefeated in any class—that is the grist of southwestern football with the last week end in October still remaining for consideration. A momentous date, too, for the four with no stain on conference chances clash when Texas meets SMU at Dallas and the Texas Aggies play Baylor at Waco.

Week-end results rather ran true to dope as far as the conference games were concerned.

Texas 27; Rice 6.

DOUBTLESS no one was more surprised at the final outcome of the Texas-Rice encounter than Dr. E. L. Stewart, and yet the result was much of a return for the value of his week of preaching that the Longhorns, if overconfident, would succumb to the Rice overhead attack. They did trail the game for a few moments as theresult not of a fumbled punt, but of a touchdown one which permitted the Rice recovery within striking distance, and they saw the Rice overhead score a touchdown. But thereafter they were proof against the Owls' aerial and the hard work of the coaches in insisting on defense against the pass attack was evident.

In one respect the Texas team was very lucky—that is, that the intermittent rain was only a light sprinkle and that the field did not become a quagmire, in which the Orange versatility would have been submerged.

Granting that the loss of Underwood and Herring in the third quarter seriously handicapped Rice, at the same time it must be kept in mind that the Texas offensive in that quarter, which won the game was composed largely of substitute strength. The performance of Joe King at quarter and of Thompson as a passer indicates very thoroughly that the Texas squad has something to fall back on, even with the triple threat of Wright out of the game.

It is quite probable, however, as Heisman contended, that the Rice overhead was badly off form and that other conference teams may find it dangerous. But the most glaring error apparent for the Owls was defensive inability to gauge the Texas play. This year, however, this is justifiable. That many-sided attack will worry and defense.

Oklahoma Aggies 22; TCU 7.

BY A score very similar to the Austin game, Matty Bell's valiant Christians took the hard-luck defeat that is counted against them in conference standing, even though Oklahoma A. and M. is no longer a member of the conference. This is in deference to an agreement made when the Stillwater school withdrew, as without this game TCU would not have four conference tilts.

The lighter Christians, outweathered as well as outweighed, were borne down by the formidable Maulbetsch line and their successful air attack developed far too late to make a material difference in the score.

TCU, a game, frail eleven, may dent the hopes of some conference team later on a dry field the chances are that the Frogs will end the year without a victory.

Oklahoma 9; S. M. U. 0.

THE MUSTANGS, minus the services of Magness, Cortemeglia and Key, can hardly be judged as adequately representing either themselves or the conference in their loss to Oklahoma at Dallas. They probably missed Cortemeglia most, as Magness at best is only a fair lineman and Key has been a disappointment this year.

The most interesting feature of the game, from the viewpoint of the coming Saturday's competition, is that Oklahoma worked its air attack successfully and SMU did not. The big point of interest in the SMU game all year has been whether the Mustangs, with a powerful heavy team, would be as good in the air as the light, smart eleven of 1923 and 1924. The Longhorns, who face SMU next, probably regret that Oklahoma tested the air defense so thoroughly, however.

Oklahoma started its victory with the field goal, a noticeably lacking offensive feature of this year's conference games.

Aggies 77; Sam Houston 0.

THE AGGIES got a loafing game they did not want and while they endeavored to keep in trim by marching up and down the field through Sam Houston, met little opposition and lost a strenuous workout they would have preferred in advance of the Baylor contest.

However, they came through without injury, and D. X. Bible, who scouted the Saturday game at Austin, declared then that he expected his entire roster, except Wisht, would be available for the Bear battle.

Baylor 20; Howard Payne 4.

FRANK BRIDGES, up to his old tricks, presented Howard Payne with ten scalps. These points were all a matter of eleven, always one of the best in the TIAA, could score, and the final result probably indicates as per forecast that Baylor is under way for its No-number assault. If you are a wagering man, it would be wise to forget anything that has happened to Baylor prior to October 24 and merely consider the two touchdowns and Jones' two long field goals that won Saturday's contest.

Baylor undefeated by a conference team, is a championship contender unless the Aggies defeat them this week. When they will be trouble dealers for champagne.

Arkansas 45; Phillips 0.

A MUDDY field and a weak opponent militated against Arkansas having a severe test, but Francies Schmidt, evidently upset by the Rice defeat, put a few of his touted stars on the sidelines and tried eager youngsters with good results. It is frequently a good curative.

DANDY DICK MINGLES MITTENS WITH LEW AVERY IN LEGION'S FEATURE EMBROGLIO THURSDAY

Dandy Dick Griffin, the popular little Fort Worth featherweight, swaps punches with Lew Avery, slugging New York Russian Hebrew youngster, in the 10-round main event of the next legion fistic card slated for this coming Thursday evening in the new fight quarters at 812½ Scott, announced Matchmaker Wofford yesterday.

Both boys are on hand training daily for the engagement. Each already appears to be in good condition.

The card is complete with exception of one bout, said Wofford. Jack Ercanbrack, Houston welter, is to hook up with Sammy Riley of Altus, old time Wichita Falls ring favorite, in a 6-round semi-final.

Battling Lencho, a Mexican welterweight, mixes with Bozo Kennen. The other match is to be lined up today.

Hawk Cagers Start Season With Victory

The Iowa Park basketeers opened their practice season Thursday night on the home court by defeating the Holliday five, 22 to 12. The Hawks had the best of the visitors in weight, but the Holliday team showed a great brand of floorwork and team play throughout.

Mahon, of Holliday was one of the outstanding stars of the game both on the defense and offense. Barbour, of Iowa Park, was the high point man with four field goals to his credit for eight points.

The line-ups:

Iowa Park (22)	Position	Holliday (12)
Hall	RF.	Mahon
Troutman	LF.	Dawson
Dodson	C.	Fuletpiuer
Barbour	RG.	Parker
Donley	LG.	Holloway

PENN PLAYERS REST AT ABSECON.

ABSECON, N. J., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Seeking seclusion and sea breezes to relieve the nervous strain on his players, Coach Lou Young brought the University of Pennsylvania football squad here today for a rest before the clash with Illinois at Franklin Field Saturday. Talk of the great "Red" Grange and how much a victory means, together with requests from friends for tickets were said to have wrought mental havoc with some of the men.

Frederick Drills For Game With Mangum Friday

FREDERICK, Oct. 29.—Spurred by their decisive 31 to 0 victory over the Sayre aggregation at Frederick last Friday, Coach Clifford Keen's high school Bear Cats are training hard this week to face the Mangum eleven in another conference tilt on the local gridiron Friday.

Hyde, quarterback and triple threat man of the Frederick aggregation, emerged from the tilt with the Sayre eleven unhurt, although several of his teammates suffered injuries. Most of them are expected to be ready to go in again by Friday, however.

Bowman, a fleet half, plans to wear a leather jacket over a broken thumb, which he sustained Friday when he hit McAnerny, Sayre half, in one of the hardest tackles ever seen on the local field. Johnson, with several bruises and a Charley horse, is the object of much attention and he promises to start again Friday.

Pope, all-state sensation last year, and one of the mainstays of the Frederick backfield, is suffering minor injuries from Friday's fray, but will probably be ready to go by game time Friday. Sims, who sustained a crushed ankle three weeks ago, is again able to report for practice.

Frederick now has five victories to her back and the goal line yet uncrossed. But three lonely points have been scored aginst the locals, and that by Carnegie on a placement kick.

28 Longhorns Go To Dallas Today

AUSTIN, Oct. 29. — (AP)—Twent-eight Texas university Longhorns will leave here at 11 o'clock Friday where they will engage the Southern Methodist university Mustangs in their second southwestern conference game of the season. Arriving at Dallas shortly after 4 o'clock they will work out a short time at a country club.

Coach Doc Stewart refused to predict the outcome of the game, but said, "we'll have a good team in 1926." It was indicated, however, that the Longhorns expect one of the hardest games of the year.

The Longhorns are without injury except Olle, an end, who probably will not be used in the initial quarter.

Probable lineup is:

Penny and Baldwin, ends; Thompson and Higgins, tackles; Sewell and Homan, guards; Pfannuche, center; Wright, quarter; Saxon and Stalliter, halfbacks; and R. King, fullback.

Friday night a special train of sixteen cars will convey approximately 900 students to the game, while others will go on other trains and by motor.

TRINITY VS. KANGAROOS.

SHERMAN, Oct. 29.—One of the largest crowds of the season are expected to attend the football game between Trinity Tigers ad Austin college Kangaroos at Cassbion Field here Friday afternoon.

HOGS TO SHREVEPORT.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 29.—Arkansas university's Razorbacks are getting ready to leave for Shreveport where they meet the Louisiana Tigers Saturday. The Razorbacks' chances for a victory are eyed by reason of their decisive win over Phillips last week.

BUY MEXICO RUBBER LAND.

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Further expansion of American rubber manufacturers into the production field became known yesterday when Harvey S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, announced the leasing of 35,000 acres of rubber plantation lands in the state of Tobasco, Mexico.

DEBT BOARD DELAYED.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The departure of the Roumanian debt funding commission to the United States has again been postponed.

NO MEAT FOR TWO WEEKS, SO CORNELL LICKS ITS CHOPS WAITING FOR COLUMBIA TIFF

Cornell, Gil Dobie's Numidian lion, is pacing back and forth in its Ithaca den, waiting for a choice morsel to be fed to it next Saturday, Oct. 31, in the form of 11 men from Columbia.

The Sad One, as Dobie is most aptly described, has been starving his proteges ever since the game with Rutgers over a week ago. No game was scheduled for October 24, the day bound to be marked by the downfall of at least four of the unbeaten teams of the east.

The Cornell-Columbia fracas looms doubly important because of the unbeaten record of the Cornell squad to date. This despite the fact that Columbia's strength was discounted momentarily at least by the surprise defeat at the hands of Ohio State's team at Columbus.

Columbia started out in a threatening manner. Against John Hopkins Chuck Crowley's boys ran up a total of 47 points and baffled all attempts of the medical students to score.

The following week Wesleyan fell a victim to the driving power and stonewall defense of Columbia to the tune of 64 and 0.

Unbeknown to Columbia, meanwhile, Ohio State was developing what will probably be ranked late in November as the best team Jack Wilce has had since the halcyon days of Harley, Stinchcomb and the Workman boys. It may be that Crowley took the game a bit lightly. As it was the dashing play of the Ohioans resulted in but one touchdown. The final score was 9 to 0.

Cornell, previous to the annihilating of Rutgers (oh, what the latter team would give for Hazell) had enowed under Susquehanna, Niagara and Williams. The latter team seemed sadly in need of Percy Wendell.

Cornell hasn't its Fiann this year, but Capt. Frank Kearney, tackle, is demanding a place in the All-eastern and All-American sun. He ranks as one of the best defensive players in the east.

George Pease, captain and halfback of the Columbia team is oft referred to as a second Koppisch. He is one of the fastest men in eastern football.

Owls In Shape For Big Game

HOUSTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Indications today were the football squad of Rice Institute would be in good condition for the game with Southwestern university Saturday one or two men, hurt, are still nursing bruises sustained during the Rice-Texas game last week.

The Rice coaches say they are not worried as much now over the fight and cooperation of the eleven. Beginning with the second half of the Arkansas game two weeks ago, the Owls have not let up for once in their fight, while the team play has been very evident. This is very gratifying to the coaching staff for when a team learns to work together and fight together, then half the coaching job is done.

The flock, woefully lacking in these two essentials earlier in the year will probably make up for the deficiencies of past days by showing an abundance of spirited play in the closing games of the season. Following the Southwestern game, Rice meets L. S. U. Texas Aggies and Baylor in succession, and it is opinion that the owls will give such rivals a great fight when they meet. Any material advantage in way of fight and team co-operation that Rice can show in these contests will surely be instrumental in whatever success the team has.

GIRLS IN VOLLY BALL BILL.

The Iowa Park and Burkburnett volley ball girls will hook up this evening at 8 o'clock at the Iowa Park high school in a double bill. The seniors and juniors of both schools will meet.

Junior Colleges Clash At Mexia

MEXIA, Texas, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The principal Junior college conference football tilt of the week will take place in Mexia Friday, between the John Tarleton Aggies of Stephenville and Westminster college of Mexia.

The Aggies are credited with being of undisputed championship class in the western district, having won all conference games of the season with top-heavy scores.

Westminster last week defeated Wesley college of Greenville, 1924 state junior college champions, 23 to 13, and has not been champions by any Junior college this year. The team has four "horsemen" in Shires, Potts, Cox and Captain Hobbs, who have established records this season, especially in passing and punting. Shires punting average is better than 40 yards.

Doc Says Baylor Will Beat Aggies

AUSTIN, Oct. 29.—Coach E. J. "Doc" Stewart of the Texas Longhorns, has the greatest respect for the Baylor Bears the team that gave him such a trimming last year. This is why he has predicted that Baylor will defeat the Texas Aggies Saturday at Waco by the score of 10 to 3.

A HUNTING COAT—should be as near water and wind proof as fabric can be made, it should have the right number of pockets in the right places, it should be reinforced at points which receive the greatest strain, it should be built large in the shoulders and arms to give freedom of movement when worn over heavy clothing—it should be a strong, rugged garment, built to stand hard usage in rough weather and still fit loosely and comfortably.

Our experience in handling equipment for sportsmen over a period of years has taught us what equipment is best adapted to his needs—service apt to be overlooked by merchants handling general lines—Whether you want a coat, a pair of boots, some decoys, a gun or ammunition, you will find us prepared with a carefully selected stock of

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The cotton market was decidedly active today but the price trend was downward from the start and although there were frequent rallies during the day they were short lived and unimportant. After opening eight to 13 points down notwithstanding a comparatively steady Liverpool and freezing weather over the northern division of the belt, the market continued to ease off on expectation of warmer weather. The decline was increased by the reported switching from the near positions into the more distant and by a rumor that some spot houses were calling in their buyers.

Around noon the market showed net losses of 23 to 24 points, but in the early afternoon again weakened under hedge selling and stop loss orders were uncovered. As a result of the selling the active near positions broke through the 19 cent line and at the lowest of the day showed losses of 37 to 39 points compared with yesterday's close. There was a slight rally near the end and the close was at net loses for the day of 33 to 37 points.

When prices broke through the 19 cent line in the afternoon, December traded down to 18.94. The May and July positions reached 19.00 but did not go below, being supported by buying of the distant months against sales of the near positions. There was a slight rally from the lows right at the end.

The failure of a member of the exchange was announced from the rostrum during the afternoon owing to inability to meet obligations to fellow members. The failure was said to be an unimportant one. The member has ten days in which to settle his indebtedness and apply for reinstatement.

Exports for the day totaled 17,824 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Cotton futures closed barely steady at net decline of 24 to 38 points.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The cotton market was lower today under renewed liquidation and southern selling. Prices for all months made new low ground for the movement. January contracts sold off to 19.12 or 37 points net lower and about 10 points under the lowest price touched on bureau day and closed at 19.13. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 34 to 41 points.

The opening was barely steady at a decline of two to 11 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and overnight selling orders from the south. Apparently slight buying on reports of frost in the northeast sections of the belt and continued low temperatures in the southwest was readily supplied and the mid-day market showed increasing weakness.

The near month weakness was accompanied by rumors of an easier spot basis in the south and reports that some selling was against cotton to be tendered for delivery. March sold off to 19.35 or 39 points net lower and active months generally showed net losses of 37 to 41 points during the afternoon. Rallies of several points followed on covering, but hedging was renewed in the late trading and last prices were within two or three points of the lowest on most positions.

Exports today 17,824, making 2,149,719 so far this season.

Port receipts 54,263. U. S. port stock 1,339,556 bales.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Selling orders for both accounts, thrown into the stock market in large volume just before the close unsettled prices today after early period of strength which was featured by another rapid advance in the motors and specialties. Closing prices displayed considerable irregularity, a long list of gains ranging from one to six points being offset by an equally long list of losses ranging from one to nearly 4½ points.

Bullish news was again plentiful. It included the decision of the stock exchange governors to propose the sale of 25 additional seats in order to take care of the unprecedented volume of business. The publication of unusually favorable earnings statements by the General Motors, Chrysler, Simmons and other corporations; announcement of increased dividends on the stocks of the American Metal, U. S. Hoffman Machinery and Pennock Oil company; oversubscription of three large stock issues and continuation of record breaking car loadings.

Much of the selling is believed to have originated with professional traders, apparently acting on the theory that the advance had been too rapid and that at least a technical reaction was in order.

Chief speculative interest again centered in the motors and accessories, a dozen of which mounted to new high levels for the, with total sales in that group comprising more than one-third of the day's entire volume of business. Chrysler was the sensational feature soaring nearly 11 points to a new high record at 241¾ on publication of reports showing net earnings in the third quarter equivalent to $9.86 a share on the common stock, and then breaking to 234.

General Motors crossed 140 to a new top and then broke to 136⅝ for a loss of over two points on the day. Stromberg touched a new high at 67 on total sales in excess of 170,000 shares and yielded to 65⅝ for a net gain of nearly two points.

Hudson, Pierce Arrow common and preferred, Packard, Fisher Body and Timken Roller Bearing also reached new high ground.

High priced specialties again received strong buying support. General Railway Signal jumped over 10 points to a new record at 395 on the announcement of a large volume of new business. National Lead was run up nine points to a new high record at 169. Foundation company and International Business Machines attained new tops at 168⅝ and 172¾, respectively.

Standard industrials were reactionary. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 128 after having sold as high at 129¾. American Can showed a net loss of over two points at 251½ and Baldwin yielded fractionally to 122¾.

Buying of the rails was one of a selective character. Atlantic Coast Line was the outstanding feature, climbing over six points to a record high for all time at 203. Southern Railway, Nickel Plate and Western Pacific preferred also reached new high ground, but Chicago and Northwestern, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson and Missouri Pacific preferred were reactionary.

Call money held steady at 4½ per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

With the exception of demand sterling, which was slightly lower around $4.84 5-16, most of the foreign exchanges displayed a firmer tone in quiet trading. French francs ruled about seven points higher around 4.23½ cents and Italian lire advanced nearly four points to around 3.98 cents.

IRRIGATION

PROJECT TELEPHONE SYSTEM.

Practically all irrigation projects of any size have their own telephone systems. During the irrigation season such a system is in constant use by the ditch riders and water masters in controlling and regulating the delivery of water.

A telephone at hand in the case of a canal break will often prevent it becoming serious and will often save many thousands of dollars in damage to canals and farmers crops.

Very elaborate systems of water control through the use of telephones are sometimes worked out. Phones are installed at intervals along the canal and equipped with loud ringing gongs which serve to summon ditch riders even though they be at a considerable distance.

Often telephones are placed in every ditch riders house so that he can be summoned by the manager at any time of the night in case of a serious emergency arising.

A telephone system on a project may be connected up with automatic devices in the canals so that a rise or fall in the water level above or below predetermined limits will at once send in an alarm.

A project telephone system does not need to cost nearly so much as a standard line. For by four timbers twenty feet long, make admirable poles except at road crossings. In fact many times the lines can be run right along on the fence posts and very satisfactory services secured.

We do not have a project telephone system as yet.

Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Selling operations on a big scale and ascribed chiefly to the northwest and east had a depressing effect on the wheat market today. Rains in Australia together with Russian government measures to increase export clearances were among the principal bearish factors. Wheat prices closed weak, 1½ to 2c net lower, December $1.47⅞ to $1.47⅞ and May $1.44⅝ to $1.44½, with corn unchanged to ⅝c up, oats at c off to a shade advance and provisions irregular, varying from 15c decline to 05c advance.

Corn prices had an upward trend as a result of wintry weather that hastened heavy feeding of hogs and cattle. There were prospects, too, of liberal shipments of corn out of Chicago this week. Oats were upheld by corn strength.

Provisions averaged higher, responding to the action both of corn values and of hogs.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 29.—Salesmen priced their cattle higher Thursday but most of the run actually sold at an advance. Cows were 10 to 15c higher and beef steers brought values that indicated a slightly better trend. Other classes of cattle, calves included, were disposed of at fully steady rates. Approximately 3,000 head of cattle and 2,200 calves were here.

Buyers were unwilling to make steer purchases at an advance, but the market displayed a little strength, and trading was more active than on most days recently. Two cars brought $6.60. Other deals were around $5 to $5.

Cows were in strong request, packers and other buyers being in the competition. Sales averaged 10 to 15c higher on all kinds, and buyers filled the general market around 25c better than on Monday, the low day this week. The top was $5.25 for one car. Fairly desirable cows went at $4.00 to $4.25. Canners and cutters cleared within a range of $1.85 to $3.60.

Heifers and yearlings did not show a decline early in the week when cow prices were lowered, and the market has not developed any strength, but the call continues satisfactory, and a small supply brought steady rates Thursday. Ordinary heifers sold at $5 to $5.75.

Bulls were available in package lots, only. The trade was active. Heavy bulls brought $4 to $4.15 and the medium to good kinds went at $3.50 to $3.85.

Calf trading was active. Advances were asked, but seldom obtained, the general market showing strength, only. One car of vealers, much better than anything else here this week, was taken at $9. Other sales on light calves were from $8 to $8.50. As a rule $7.50 stopped the most desirable weighty calves.

Not a great many stockers and feeders arrived. The demand was broad, and when sales were made they looked fully steady. Steer yearlings are making $7 to $7.85 and good aged steers are clearing at $6 to $6.75.

Uneven prices were paid for hogs, but the market averaged around steady. Odd lots brought $12 and carloads went to a shipper at $11.75 and $11.90, but the big packers did not pay more than $11.70. Receipts reached only 600 head. Some packing sows made $10.50.

A scarcity of sheep developed, receipts measuring around 300 head. Some wooled wethers bringing $8.75, were bought for a feed lot. The market was called steady.

Market Gossip

R. E. Flowerree and Co., brokers, basement Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Fenner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

Cotton was on the down grade again today in the face of freezing temperatures over the northern third of the belt and many damage reports and broke below 19 cents for the first time in years.

Traders were inclined to disregard cold weather and damage reports owing to belief that the supply in prospect is ample even if the crop in the northwest is badly damaged.

Increased hedging, much of it coming from small spot holders, decreased demand for contracts and spots from spinners and liquidation in December New York were the influencing factors. All of these tended to stimulate selling on the part of the average traders and to discourage buying for a rise.

Bearish sentiment is in the ascendancy and talk and predictions of much lower prices are heard on nearly all sides.

GRAINS.

Wheat: Rains in Australia have weakened the foreign market, thus leaving the domestic situation the one sustaining factor. Our market rather quiet but meeting commission house selling in rallies, but not having sufficient demand at any time. Export trade inactive, very little business reported. We are inclined to believe that the very indifferent foreign demand will result in a moderate downturning in prices, although the close adjustment between world's requirements and supply, together with the uncertainties of southern hemisphere growth are a warning against over enthusiasm in anticipation of a lower range of prices.

The market seems to offer good trading opportunities around this level.

Coarse grains: Prospects of a cleaning up of elevator accumulations of corn in Chicago promoted considerable demand from previous sellers of the December, outside of this character of demand, the market has been lifeless. Old corn is in good demand, with premiums about one cent higher today. There is so little interest in market that it will take its color from wheat, but we think it inadvisable to expect a sufficiently large movement from country to weaken the situation to any extent.

STOCKS.

The stock market opened active at generally higher prices. New high records were again made, notably in Chrysler and Woolworth. The bulk of the trading again took place in the motors in which group Studebaker showed greater activity and strength than for some time past on the report that a stock dividend would be voted in addition to the cash common dividend.

Automobile accessories showed considerable activity, particularly Timken, in which stock a new high was made. Steels were bought in large blocks, with Gulf States again the leading feature.

The oil group was without any particular feature with the exception of Pan-American which was quite strong.

Gas stocks were conspicuous with Brooklyn Union Gas following up its display of strength of yesterday. A sudden burst of strength took place in Pierce Arrow only to be followed with a setback. Metal shares came in for more attention influenced by improvement in foreign sentiment reflected so far especially in improvement in price of tin.

Little doing in rails. Final tone of market irregular.

REVERSE STORK TALE.

School Children Bring Injured Fowl to Life and Adopt Him.

VIETZ-IN-UCKERMARK, Germany, Oct. 29.—(AP)—The children of this village have adopted a stork that, like Mary's little lamb, follows them to school each day. Flying south with the first autumn cold the stork had to make a forced landing and was picked up in a field near the village.

Nursed back to strength, the bird became tamed and would not leave the children even when they went to school.

75,000 MILES OF RAIL LINES MAY BE LOST

So Says Senaor Cummins In Plea For Consolidation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Consolidation of railroads was urged as "absolutely necessary" by Senator Cummins, republican, of Iowa, after a visit to the White House today. Otherwise, he said, between 75,000 and 80,000 miles of lines would be abandoned.

Railroads on the whole, he said, are in good financial condition, but some roads are earning too much money while weaker roads are earning too little.

FOLSOM

in his own defense yesterday; and in it he named City Officer Sam Wood, J. M. Wood, a man named Galbraith and several of his neighbors as persons who were seeking to bring about his ruination.

To Sam Wood, the officer who arrested him and who testified to having seen him attacking his daughter in their bed room he imputed a hatred aroused because his (Folsom's) cow had caused some damage around Wood's property which is located near the Folsom home on Filmore Street. The officer, Folsom declared, resented this and also, he thought, wanted to convict him because of the prestige it would give him at the city hall.

Galbraith, Folsom testified, wished to see him convicted so that he, Galbraith, might get revenge for a $72 bill Folsom owed him. J. N. Wood, who also testified to having seen acts of illicit relationship between Folsom and his daughter, joined with other neighbors in disliking him because he had chastised his children occasionally, he said.

In Tearful Denial.

The defendant tearfully denied ever having had improper relations with his daughter. He admitted she had slept with him a few times after the death of his wife because, as he said, the girl was "afraid." On the stand, Wednesday, however, the youthful prosecutrix denied she had ever been afraid to sleep by herself and went to her father's bed on his demands.

"I never even touched her while she was in bed with me," he declared.

The defense, in addition to using the defendant, brought three character witnesses from Estelline, Texas, Folsom's former home; six from this city and four or five others who have known the family and who were classed as fact witnesses. A part of the defense was based on testimony of a physician who made an examination of the girl after the alleged attacks and who said that her physical condition as he found her would indicate that she might have been assaulted but that he would not declare positively at this late date that she had been.

The Judge's Charge.

Judge H. R. Wilson's charge to the jury defined rape as it is regarded as an offense by the criminal statutes. The defense asked a number of special charges applicable to the case but only one of these were allowed by the court.

Evidence was concluded about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and arguments began at 4:30. In an effort to wind the thing up Thursday night Judge Wilson ordered a night session and the concluding remarks of attorneys were made after the dinner hour.

County Attorney Wayne Sommerville opened for the state and was followed by Walter Nelson Jr., for the defense. J. Earl Kuntz spoke next for the defense and was followed by Sam Spence for the state. Harry Bunnenberg closed for the defense and Assistant District Attorney George Anderson for the state.

SOL HAS

summer will be the shortest and chilliest since 1816.

One of the experts taking a definite stand to this effect is Commander George F. Brandt, U. S. navy hydrographer. Commander Brandt believes that the temperature of the sea influences local climatic changes and that these are modified by changes in the sun's heat.

Solar Radiation Below Normal.

Solar radiation in 1922, 1923 and 1924 was below normal and, as the heat in these years determined the oceanic temperatures for the years 1925, 1926 and 1927, the climates in those years will be correspondingly modified.

Householders without their usual supplies of coal, bankers, brokers and bootleggers arranging the schedules of their Florida and California outings, farmers considering their next year's crops, are all wondering if the long-distance weather prophets are to be relied on. In the present state of science no one can answer with assurance.

Nevertheless, it is well established that variations in normal weather constancy are not mere matters of chance and that there is a cyclic movement originating in the cosmos beyond our planet.

History Fails to Repeat.

Contrary to popular belief, the past weather histories of days, weeks, months and years is of no value for predicting future conditions, weathermen say. The accurate consideration of future weather conditions must depend upon an exact study of atmospheric pressures over great areas phenomena which are responsible for the abnormalities in the earth's atmospheric changes.

What is needed to promote accurate forecasts, they say, is a world-encircling chain of observation stations to show the durnal changes in the barometric isobars, or lines on the map which connect all points of the barometric readings corrected for the height of the observer above the sea level, and the direction of the winds, the moisture of the air, cloudiness and similar data.

Air Currents Important

In the northern hemisphere, it is explained, the weather conditions normally result from reactions caused by the collisions of two air streams flowing from the equator to the north pole and from the pole to the equator.

These streams flow continuously, day and night, in a regular circle, and meet in places along a shifting front in the temperate zones and give rise to our weather changes. The polar air is cold and that from the equator is warm. The warm air promotes this gigantic and powerful circulatory current and is the most important of our basic weather factors.

6 INDICTED IN BANK ROBBERY AT HOLLAND

Yancy Story, W. A. Martin And Another Are Accused

BELTON, Texas, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Six indictments growing out of recent bank robberies in Holland have been returned by the Bell county grand jury, it was announced today. Yancey Story, W. A. Martin and Cal Wilkirson, all of Denton county, were billed on burglary charges in connection with the robbery of the First State bank of Holland on March 19, when $40 in pennies was taken. Robbery with firearms is charged in indictments returned against R. G. Collier, Jess Sewell and Cal Wilkirson of Denton in connection with the robber yof the Holland First National bank, when $1,855 was taken in a daylight hold-up on July 15.

KILGORE TELLS ROTARY CLUB OF BAR WORK

Says Salary Scale For Judges Is Far Too Low

"The primary purpose of the National Bar association is to furnish members opportunity to get acquainted and to cope with problems that come to them," John Kilgore, local attorney, said in address to the Rotary club, Thursday at noon.

"When the country was first founded there were certain judicial tribunals provided for, and a judge to preside over them, and a scale to pay the judges. The scale was munificent then, but the salary is now grossly inadequate. It takes an amendment to the constitution to alter it, and a majority of the voters are against changing the constitution, because they do not believe in changing the work of men done a hundred years ago."

J. Edgar Pew of Dallas, head of the American Petroleum Institute, was introduced by Walter D. Cline. Mr. Pugh said that there were many predictions that there would be no more oil in a few more years, but he assured members of the Rotary club that they need not sell their automobiles and engines because of that, for oil in abundance may be had for many years. C. A. Rogers presided at the meeting.

ARMED CAR IS ROBBED OF $93,000 CASH

Driver of Bank Automobile Dead, Two Others Are Injured

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Desperate gunmen today swooped down upon an armored bank automobile, killed the driver, wounded a guard and a messenger and escaped with $93,000 in cash.

Witnesses told the police that one of the gunmen resembled photographs of Harry Harris, alias Garfield, who skipped his bail in Detroit after having been arrested there charged with participation in several Buffalo payroll robberies.

Charles W. Clifford, driver of the car, was shot and instantly killed. Lewis M. Yarrington, a bank guard, and John H. Meyers, messenger, were seriously wounded.

The bank car contained about $117,000 which was being transferred from the federal reserve bank to the Bank of Buffalo, three blocks away.

OIL INDUSTRY

assessments were more evenly distributed. Support of legitimate lobbying at Austin and pressure upon representatives in the legislature there were prescribed by the lieutenant governor as the best means at hand of accomplishing this purpose.

J. D. Parnell of Wichita Falls, senatorial representative from this district in the legislature, carried a similar thought in his address. "Too heavily taxed, but with the excessive burden due largely to their own complacency," was the gist of the senator's talk.

Warns of U. S. Danger.

The dangers from federal sources were pointed out by Harry Smith of Tulsa, secretary of the Mid-Continent association. Mr. Smith told of a statement by the chairman of the ways and means committee of congress at Washington which forecasted an effort in that committee to eliminate "discovery value depletion" in an operator's income tax deductions. Such an action, Smith pointed out, would be unjust in the extreme to an industry where all that can be really counted upon is settled production, and where the flush productions in four figures or more does more harm in upsetting the market than it does good in bringing in the commensurate dollars.

Despite an apparent disinclination on the part of the president of the association, J. D. Collett, to call for resolutions commending the work of the American Petroleum Institute on the available supply of petroleum in the United States, such resolutions were presented by Walter Cline, past president of the association, at last night's meeting and passed unanimously. The work of the institute committee was characterized in the resolution as the only complete authoritative work on the American petroleum industry. The vote of confidence was made by the convention in the presence of Edgar Pew of Dallas, president of the American Petroleum Institute and under whose direction the work of that organization in the report mentioned was largely done.

Little Politics.

Politics had little part in any of the sessions of the convention. An occasional crack at various aspects of the state's affairs, such as that of Judge John C. Kay who told the men last night that they were overlooking a large market—that considerable lubricating oil was needed now to remove the friction between the people of Texas and the highway commission, proved the incentive for laughter but not for serious discussion of matters political.

The convention formally adjourned for another year at the close of last night's banquet, the assembly singing "Auld Lang Syne," led by Mayor R. E. Shepherd. It was in the words of J. D. Collett, entering his fourth year as president of the organization, the association's most successful meeting, both in point of attendance and in things promised from the discussions which had taken place.

There were plates for 230 at last night's banquet.

"BOBBEB HAIR" PREVOST'S BEST

Wichita Falls In Midst of Theatre Deluge

Never have Wichita Falls theater patrons been offered the pick of shows as billboards evidence at present. To begin with consider "Bobbed Hair." Ambition, enthusiasm, tenacity and beauty; such is the combination that makes do Marie Prevost, Warner Bros., star who is now playing the leading role in "Bobbed Hair," at the Strand theatre.

Ruskin once remarked that "ambition without enthusiasm accomplishes nothing," but Hollywood could answer him by offering a thousand cases that "ambition coupled with tenacity could and has got more results." And Marie Prevost proves just how far an actress can go when she fills Ruskin,s requirements. Miss Prevost got her first taste of the movies as an extra and decided she would become a star. She has—using ambition, enthusiasm, tenacity and beauty—and is today one of the most popular that grace that chosen position.

Childhood Ambitions.

Originally, when a youngster in pigtails attending school in Alameda, Calif., she was eager to be a circus rider, one of those gorgeous ladies, who wear pink tights and jump through paper hoops while riding a big white horse. That seemed to her the acme of attainment. When her family moved to Denver she had the same visions until she met by accident the leading lady of a local stock company. It was then that the footlights won over the sawdust ring. However, she did not get an opportunity to try either one, for, in 1918, the Prevosts came to Los Angeles.

More out of curiosity than anything else, Marie and another girl went to visit the Mack Sennett Studios, where her friend Schew Ford Sterling who in turn introduced them to Mr. Sennett. A few more girls were needed on the set and they were offered a job in the movies, a part of theatricals which had never entered Maries head. So with a bathing suit, and at three dollars a day, she became part ofa company that included Gloria Swanson, Vera Reynolds, Wallace Beery, Phyllis Haver, Ben Turpin and many others now at the top.

But the "easy job" lasted only three days and an endless wait of six months for another followed. She rose early every morning for six months solil, ambled down to the Mack Sennett log and sat there all day; she was going to get a job if it took the rest of her natural life.

Signed by Sennett.

Such tenacity could not go unrewarded and at the beginning of the seventh month, she was signed by Sennett and guaranteed four days' work a week at the usual three dollars per. She was now a full fledged member of a stock company and her first part was as a colored maid.

Then she appeared in "Down on the Farm" with Ben Turpin, and in "Yankee Doodle in Berlin." At the conclusion of three years, with her apprenticeship served, she decided that if given an opportunity she could do more dramatic parts. With the expiration of her contract, she went to Universal and it was there her romance with Kenneth Harlan began. While playing in "Married Flappers" they fell in love, and were recently married.

Her Starring Contract.

Miss Prevost made six pictures for Universal and one of these, seen by Warners, resulted in their signing her for the leading role in "Brass." Then she appeared in "The Beautiful and Damned," opposite Mr. Harlan again. Upon the completion of these two pictures, Warners signed her to a long term contract which is still in effect.

They recognized her ability, and gave her her first big roles, so that with each new production she has been stamped a finer actress. She claims as her first favorite "The Marriage Circle," and was again selected by Lubitsch for "Kiss Me Again."

In "Bobbed Hair," Marie Prevost has a role which affords her excellent opportunities for both light and serious character delineation. This adventurous and romantic tale by twenty authors shows Marie at her best as Connemara Moore, a charming and headstrong heroine.

Lon Chaney's Picture As "The Phantom" Forbidden In Papers By The Star

Discovered!

The first motion picture star who doesn't want his picture in the papers!

He's Lon Chaney, star of Universal's spectacular mystery-romance, "The Phantom of the Opera," opening at the Olympic Saturday.

At no time while the production was being made was his picture, in the make-up of this weird character made public. In the photographs in which he appears his face was blanked out, similar in manner to censored material during the war. It is considered the most grotesque make up he has yet devised. He spent three months experimenting before obtaining this result. John Held, Jr., the noted cartoonist, obtained the attacked result in less time than that, however.

Chaney is the foremost delineator of strange characters. He is a close student of anatomy of the face and bases his make-ups on scientific facts with startling results. He made the stipulation about the boardcasting of his pictures because he believed that no surprise would be left for the audience.

Erik, the phantom, in Gaston Leroux's widely read story, is a mysterious ghost like creature who haunts the cellars of the historic Paris opera house. He is the master mind of a series of sinister events that take place in this dark fastness where, during the rule of the Second Commune in France, were built priests and torture chambers. The story is based partly on actual happenings and the history of the opera house proves that such a character did exist.

RADIO TO SAVE TRAINS

Special Safety Device Is Given Successful Test.

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—(AP)—A radio-operated safety device that checks speeding locomotives automatically when danger looms ahead was given a successful demonstration over a 10 mile stretch of Perre Marquette railroad tracks yesterday. The test was in the presence of officials of the Perre Marquette, the Michigan Central and Thomas E. Clark of Detroit, inventor of the device.

TWO IN AUTO JAILED.

Arrest Follows Smashup; Were Drunk, Police Charge.

Two men were in jail Thursday night as a result of a traffic smash about 3 o'clock in the afternoon in front of 1009 Seventh street. Charges of intoxication were lodged against them.

The pair in a car of their own smashed into a machine parked by the curbing, according to the report by officers. Both cars were considerably damaged.

MOOERS IS STATE AGENT.

Wichita Falls Man Is Head of Company to Do Business in Texas.

Associated Press dispatches from Austin yesterday indicated that a permit had been granted the Burkburnett Gas company, chartered under the laws of Delaware, home office at Dover, with a capital stock of 200 shares, no par value, to do business in Texas. Clifford Mooers of Wichita Falls is named as state agent

PLAN ROTARY SCHOOL.

Albert Miles, chairman of the educational committee of the Rotary school, announced yesterday at the noon meeting of Rotary that four meetings would be held beginning Nov. 17 in the Kemp ball room. The speakers will be A. G. Deatherage, Theo Beck, W. S. Curlee, George Fox and Fred Couper.

GUESTS AT NEW FILM.

Wichita Falls Women See "Classified" as Record News Guests.

A large throng enjoyed the theatre party Thursday morning when they were guests of The Record News-Strand theatre at the Strand, when they saw "Classified," Edna Ferber's novel on the screen, in a pre-viewing given at the request of Corinne Griffith, film actress, who is starred in the story.

The guests gathered at The Record News office Thursday morning and as they left for the theatre, moving pictures were made of them. They expressed appreciation of the picture which will be released here November 2.

MAY GO IN HOODLUM.

De Molays Can Use Police Patrol for Electra Trip If Necessary.

A few of Wichita Falls' De Molays may attend the fall ceremonial in Electra tonight in the police partol wagon, it was learned last night. It was found in planning for transportation for members of the local order that enough cars were not provided for. Mayor R. E. Shepherd told the boys that if it became necessary the police patrol wagon might be pressed into service.

All About Junior College

Mildred Mays, Gladys Faye Johnson and Bertha Hays were elected to membership in the Blue Curtain club of Junior college in a final tryout held at the college Wednesday night.

Maroon and gold crepe paper streamers for car decorations are being distributed at the Junior college by members of the pep squad. They report brisk sales.

A parade of decorated cars, fire trucks and novelty features will be featured Saturday afternoon preceding the Aggie-Indian football team, according to announcement by the committee in charge. Gladys Faye Johnson, Marjorie Jones and Marie Beatty. The cars will meet at the campus at 1:30 o'clock and go through town to Spudder park. A prize is being offered for the best decorated and largest car.

Enthusiastic plans are laid by De Molays for the trip to Electra Friday, according to plans made at a meeting Wednesday night. A delegation from Electra was present and announced the program for the fall ceremonial. Twenty petitions for membership in the order were accepted and will receive degrees Friday night.

Mayor R. E. Shepherd delivered an inspiring talk on the "Virtue of Honesty and Square Dealing," concluding his address by saying he was wholeheartedly behind the DeMolay movement and would support it in every way possible.

He offered the use of one of the Texas-Oklahoma fair advertising Fords and said in case of necessity the police patrol wagon might be pressed into service.

The study hall of Junior college was made gay with maroon and gold trimmings yesterday due to the interest and enthusiasm over the football games Saturday.

Alma Williand Elva Killingsworth leave Friday for Dallas where they will see the Texas-S. M. U. football game, and attend the collegiate dance at the Adolphus. They will then go to Waco where they will represent Wichita Falls as Dutchesses in the Cotton Palace.

John and Eli Willis and Jonks Smith will drive to Dallas Friday to attend the Texas-S. M. U. football game. They will also go to Waco to see the Cotton Palace.

The "Wichitan" will be distributed Friday at the college and Junior high schools. The publication was due Wednesday but was late because of unavoidable delay.

13 AT SCOUT MEET.

Training School Opens at First Christian Church.

Thirteen scoutmasters of Wichita Falls were present for the opening of the Scoutmaster's Training school which opened last night at the First Christian church for a period of lessons to be given each Thursday night for eight weeks. I. H. Roberts, president of the local council of Boy Scouts, spoke briefly. Frank B. Creighton, scout executive and J. H. Allison, scout commissioner, also spoke. A patrol was formed with the leaders, Bill McClure of the Red Devil Troop; John Tevis of the Pirate Troop, and James C. Gallagher of the Lone Star troop.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germs growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and others forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.
