Answerline

Q. Why didn't both of the city's storm sirens go off during the tornado warning Friday night?

A. The siren at City Hall sounded, but the one at Austin and 18th Streets did not respond to its attempted activation. It was repaired last year, and city officials thought it was in working order. It will now be worked on again.

Rain, hail, tornado hit county

Rock 'em, sock 'em thunderstorms hit Mitchell County with high winds, humongous hail and up to five inches of rain Friday night and early Saturday, clobbering new cotton and swelling the Colorado River to its highest point in almost 20 years.

Insurance agencies were swamped with claims on houses and vehicles Monday morning, and agricultural officials said at least 50 percent of the county's 58,000 cotton acres will probably have to replanted.

Representatives of the United States Geological Survey were in Colorado City Sunday to measure the river at the West Hwy. 80 bridge.

Between 3:30 and 5 p.m., it was 23 feet deep and flowing at 5,750 cubic feet per second south toward Lake Spence in Coke County.

That's 43,000 gallons a second.

USGS spokeswoman Lawanna Kiser of San Angelo said Monday that the river was only flowing at 1.2 cubic feet a second before the rain.

The last time it was at more than 5,000 was on Sept. 29, 1980, when it was 27.81 feet deep and 10,400 cubic feet a second.

Its all-time high is 66,000 cubic feet a second at a depth of 35.9 feet on June 20, 1939 -- exactly one week short of 60 years ago Sunday.

Ms. Kiser said she knew it was an unusual event when people came to the river after church and a large number of law enforcement officers were also viewing the high water.

Rain reports included 5.1 to 5.3 inches in Loraine, 4.5 at Buford, north of C-City, 2.4 at Cuthbert in northwestern Mitchell County, two to 2.5 inches at Westbrook and 2.4 at Renderbrook Spade Ranch south of here.

Downtown C-City's 1999 rain total improved to 9.2 inches, up from 4.77 at this time last year.

Keith Hiser of the Farm Service Agency and Steve Shrode of the Natural Resources Conservation Service toured part of the county Monday, and they said at least half of the newly planted cotton crop was hailed out, blown out or washed out.

Planting deadlines are June 20 to qualify for crop insurance and July 15 for FSA certification.

Hiser, county FSA executive director, said farmers should report crop damages to his office at 728-2651, Extension 2, so that he can request emergency federal funding.

"We lost a lot of cotton," he said. "We're not sure how many acres as of yet. There was some due to high winds and hail, and the rain washed some out. It was silted up in some places -- covered up.

"Some terraces were washed out."

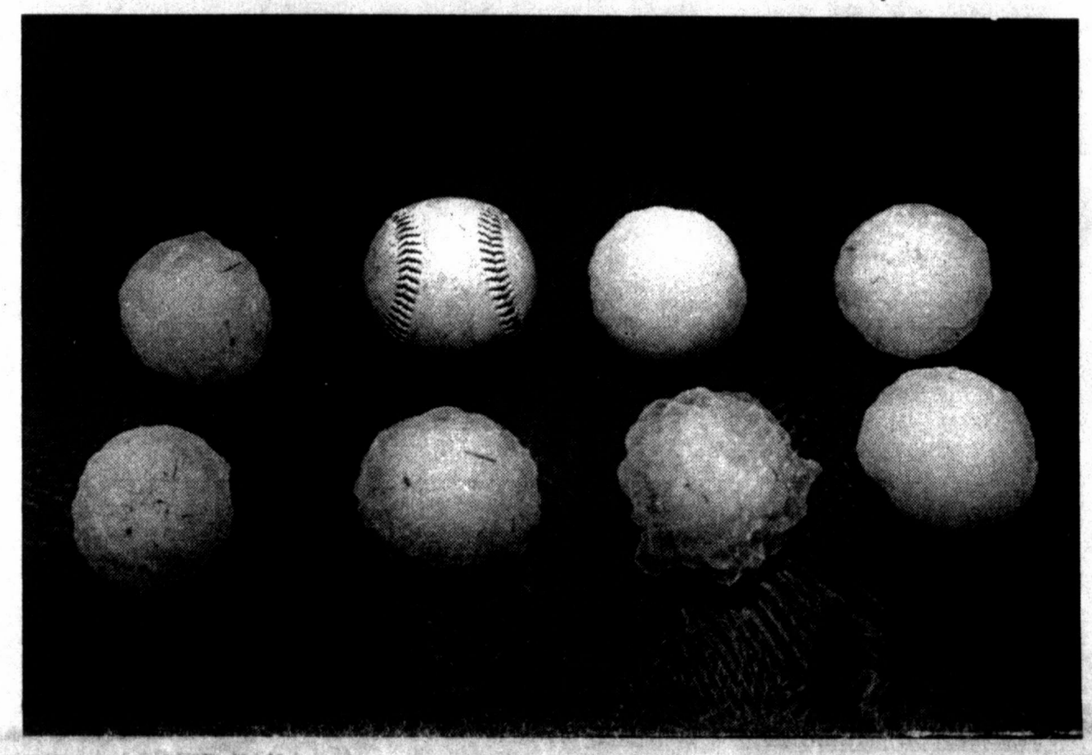

Hiser said farmers were running sandfighter implements Monday in parts of western Mitchell County to combat possible blowing dust in areas that had less than two inches of rain.

North and South Champion Creeks ran fast and deep with water from the Loraine area, raising Champion Creek Reservoir by eight feet and from 17 to 26 percent of its capacity.

Alvin Goodman, manager of TXU Electric & Gas Co.'s Morgan Creek Plant on Lake Colorado City, said Lake C-City rose only four or five inches because little rain fell on its watershed, although Morgan Creek did flow some.

"It's definitely helpful to us," Goodman said, explaining that the company no longer expects Champion to run dry by the end of the summer.

'BASEBALL-SIZE HAIL' was no exaggeration in descriptions of Friday night's hailstorm in Colorado City. The hailstones, some smooth and some rough aggregate, were collected after the storm in the 900 block of 17th Street. They are shown with a standard-size baseball.

TAAS math scores rise

TAAS Test scores among Colorado High School students held up well in reading this year but fell slightly in writing and mathematics, school board members were told Monday night.

However, the testing included most special education students for the first time this year at the high school, middle school and Hutchinson Elementary School.

As newly arrived CHS Principal Mark Smith looked on at the board's regular 7 p.m. meeting, Counselor Cliff Vlasin said the more inclusionary testing had passing rates of 82 percent in reading, 63 percent in math and 80 percent in writing.

The test to qualify for a high school diploma is given to 10th graders, although some juniors who have previously failed retake parts of it.

Excluding special ed students, the 1999 rates are 86 percent in reading, 68 in math and 86 in writing.

The math scores compare favorably with more metropolitan areas of Texas where as few as 15 percent pass the challenging TAAS math test.

Vlasin said previous scores were 88 percent in reading, 76 in math and 87 in writing last year and 86, 72 and 91 in 1997.

As reported by Principals Mark Merrell and Beau Rees, other TAAS scores were as follows, including special ed students this year and excusing them last year:

Eighth grade -- reading, 87 and 90; math, 91 and 83; science, 85 and 87; social studies, 72 and 73; and writing, 89 and 90.

Seventh grade -- reading, 82 and 89, and math, 93 and 90.

Sixth grade -- reading, 88 and 79, and math, 88 and 87.

Surrey rides spice "Evening in Park"

The "Evening In The Park" fundraiser for the Multi-Purpose Prison Chapel at the TDCJ's Wallace and Ware units is set for this Friday, June 18, at Ruddick Park in Colorado City.

The event has become not only a benefit for the prison chapel, but a regional occasion as well.

Music, food booths, surrey rides and a huge silent auction are on the agenda for the evening at Ruddick, which will run from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

As of June 9, money raised by the committee amounted to $188,502.15 toward the estimated price tag of over $300,000 for the building, according to organizer Margaret Bodine.

The building plans call for four 20-by-44 foot classrooms, a chaplain's office, a reception area, four counseling areas, a library, officer's control room, a computer room and a coffee bar with restrooms and much more.

Music will fill the park thanks to artists from the Prison Choir, Wee Singers, Quartets, Senior Adult Choir, the Oak Women's Quartet, the Bobby Matlock Group, the Mark Piland Group, Gary Sorrells and groups from Abilene, San Angelo and Snyder.

Food booths set up by area churches will add a touch of that good old West Texas flavor to the event as they sell home-cooked goodies to help raise funds for this worthwhile endeavour.

Surrey rides through historic Ruddick Park will be offered for just a couple of bucks behind a mule-powered buggy, which should be a treat for young and old alike.

Texas High School Football Hall of Famer and former University of Texas track star Hollis "Hoss" Gainey will speak at the benefit.

Court okays land purchase to qualify for roadbase

County commissioners Friday approved the purchase of 240 acres of land as part of their agreement to supply rocks for the Col-Tex Refinery cleanup project's roadbase-making enterprise.

Following a 10-minute executive session at 9 a.m., the court voted to spend $60,000 for the tract owned northeast of Loraine by Hollis and Amy Browne of Colorado City.

County Judge Ray Mayo said the commissioners had determined that the land has at least 1.7 tons of rocks, which roadbase contractor Arcadis, Geraghty & Miller of Midland will combine with an emulsion to make hard-packing roadbase.

"We'll get many times the worth of that land back in road material," Judge Mayo said.

The contract calls for the county to receive a ton of asphalt-stabilized base for each three tons of crushed rock and concrete that it provides.

Commissioners got 13,328 tons of the roadbase from a Col-Tex pilot project last year and said it was excellent after using it to pave seven miles of county roads.

In a 30-minute meeting Monday morning, the court set its annual budget workshops for the week of July 12.

After a regular 9 a.m. meeting that day, the commissioners will go into a budget session and then will have workshops at 9 a.m. daily for the rest of the week, they said.

Pct. 1 Commissioner Ed Roach asked County Auditor Susan Buckalew if the effective tax rate and tax rolls will be ready by then. She said they will.

Windi Fuller and Woody Anderson of the County Board of Economic Development attended the Monday meeting to request a $17,411 appropriation to the board's professional services fund.

They said the money is needed to satisfy contractual obligations to Arcadis, Geraghty & Miller for the company's work on the creation of the Mitchell County Groundwater Conservation District.

The district has just been approved by the Texas Legislature. The appropriation was authorized.

Rosanne Jameson, head of the county's 911 emergency calling installation project, asked for permission to apply

July 4th parade, fireworks planned

As the millenium comes to a close at the end of this year, there will be all types of extra special celebrations and events.

This year's July Fourth celebration in Colorado City will be one of those extra special events and promises to begin the close of the twentieth century with a BANG!

The festivities begin July 3 at 9 a.m. as the Chamber of Commerce and High Plains Rodeo combine their efforts for a huge parade – the first time for such a joint venture.

The Independence Day - Rodeo parade will start at Browne Brothers Welding shop, led by the Dyess Air Force Base Color Guard, and continue east down second street all the way to Paris street where it will turn and end up in Ruddick Park.

At Ruddick, cars, trucks, tractors, floats and other parade entries will be displayed on the grounds of the park.

There will also be food, fun and games for all ages at historic Ruddick Park as Chamber of Commerce executive Sendia Blake has arranged for horseshoe games, three-legged races and watermelon-eating contests.

Beginning at twelve noon,

DPS Academy's "super tough"

It's no accident that graduates of the Texas Department of Public Safety Academy in Austin have a lean, hard look.

They have just completed a 26-week school that military veterans say is tougher than any bootcamp.

"They want to bring your body down and then build it back up," said new Trooper Jeremy Usener, who has just joined the Mitchell County law enforcement community.

"They want to see if you're going to be able to keep fighting and survive and not give up."

Trooper Usener, a 24-year-old native of Fredericksburg, played baseball and soccer in high school and was on the Tarleton State University Rodeo Team in Stephenville as a bullrider.

But there is not much you can do to prepare for the DPS Academy because it is unlike anything you have ever done before, he said.

The 100 or so recruits in each class get up at 5 a.m. every day, and sometimes they are awakened at 2 a.m. to participate in martial arts, boxing and free-for-all fighting until dawn.

Many times, medium-sized men like Usener (pronounced Oos-ner) are matched against much bigger men to test their mettle in front of the entire class.

"They just try to wear you down to see what you've got," he said. "They push you and see if you're going to quit.

"They don't want you if you're going to quit."

There are thousands of sit-ups and pushups and tons of running -- as far as eight miles without stopping -- and classes on the more cerebral aspects of serving as a state trooper like doing paperwork and testifying in court.

Trooper Donald Wilks, who will be riding with Trooper Usener for six months, said the DPS Academy "is one of those things you just have to experience to know how it is.

"They want somebody that's going to make the right choice in the heat of the moment and perform."

The department's more than 60 years of tradition are heavily emphasized, and each school is unique because different instructors are brought in for each one -- three sergeants and three corporals.

Trooper Wilks said the instructors tend to reflect the academies they attended.

Trooper Carlos Diaz completed the academy and was assigned to Mitchell County in February, and he is close to finishing his apprenticeship, riding with Trooper Shane Johnson.

Supervised by Sgt. Donald Graham of Sweetwater, the local DPS station has been designated a four-man unit for some time, but this is the first time it has been at full strength.

Trooper Wilks said it is a good assignment because of the teamwork that state, county and city agencies have developed and because all the officers get along well.

Usener earned a bachelor of science degree in criminal justice at Tarleton State in May 1997 and worked at a farm and ranch supply company in Fredericksburg until being accepted to the academy last October as one of 125 candidates.

105 graduated on April 16.

He applied in February last year and underwent physical agility tests, psychological tests, oral interviews and written examinations before being admitted.

"I was interested in the variety of things you do as a highway patrolman, and I wanted to become like other troopers that I know," Usener said.

"I saw that they had something special. It's an elite group, and I wanted to be part of it."

He played intramural softball and flag football in college along with being a member of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

He has given up bullriding because of the possibility of an injury that would hamper him in his work. He is single.

Usener has a sister, Erica, 21, who is a student at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

His dad, Jerrel, works for Kerrville Telephone Business Systems. His mother, Helen, is a fifth grade teacher in Fredericksburg.

TROOPER JEREMY USENER has joined the Texas Department of Public Safety's Mitchell County station, bringing it to its full strength of four officers. He is a former rodeo bullrider.

Rain prompts postponement of TDCJ Day in the Park

Due to an unforeseen, yet welcome drenching rainstorm, the 1999 Day In The Park fun day for Wallace/Ware unit employees and their families was postponed.

Organizer Bob Reily has met with prison officials and decided on a new date for the appreciation day.

The new date for the units' Day In The Park has been set for Saturday, June 26.

Last Saturday, the high-ground close to the pool at Ruddick was just fine for the event, but a swollen Lone Wolf Creek presented a definite hazard.

"The eating and bingo area was O.K.," said Reily, "but you really could not have turned your kids loose with the creek roaring by like it was."

The tug of war competition between the units probably would have been interesting, however, the rope may have had to become a lifeline as the normally-calm creek took on water from a tornado-infested thunderstorm the night before.

STORM

Local citizens dodge Friday funnel cloud

"I'm going to assume that we should be able to make the summer with what we've got now.

"I would expect that Lake Spence is going to come out of this a big winner."

E. V. Spence Reservoir just west of Robert Lee was at its lowest level since the early 1970's, 13.25 percent of capacity, before the rain, said Colorado River Municipal Water District Director John Grant of Big Spring.

It had risen to 13.44 Tuesday morning, Grant said, but water was still flowing from Mitchell and Scurry Counties and it could go up another three or four feet.

He said Lake J. B. Thomas in Scurry County was at only 4.3 percent of capacity and it had risen 17 feet to almost 22 percent.

Lake Champion water is transferred by pipeline to Lake C-City to help maintain the bigger lake's level for plant use.

Hail ranging in size from peas to golfballs to baseballs hammered homes and vehicles in northern and northeastern C-City and in Loraine, knocking out windshields and windows and leaving big dents in cars and pickup trucks.

Baseball-size hail slammed all the way through a new roof at a 17th Street home.

There were three storms -- at 10:30 p.m. Friday, when the worst of the hail fell, and at 2 a.m. and 8 a.m. Saturday, when most of the rain was recorded.

The county was under a tornado warning between 10:30 and 11 Friday night with Sheriff Patrick Toombs, Deputy Kevin Frizzell and Chief of Police Pat Taylor watching the storm along North Hwy. 208 between C-City and Buford.

Baseball-size stones broke out Chief Taylor's front and back windshields, shattered Sheriff Toombs' and Deputy Frizzell's front windshields and knocked dents in Frizzell's hood, roof and trunk lid.

Deputy Felix Pantoja was near the city airport eight miles north of town and did not see any appreciable hail, however.

Sheriff Toombs was driving south on FM 2835, northwest of the airport, after 1 a.m. Saturday when he ran into rain so heavy that he had to slow to 10 mph to see the center stripe, he said.

Lightning hit a chimney on the west side of the First Baptist Church at Third and Chestnut Streets, knocked five or six feet of bricks off the chimney top and put the church organ, two of the church's three computers and three of its seven telephone lines out of service, Church Secretary Lana Self reported.

Insurance agents confirmed that northern and northeastern Colorado City and Loraine caught most of the hail.

Mike Ratliff had gotten 50 to 60 claims Monday with an even mixture of houses and motor vehicles while Randy Erwin at Farm Bureau Insurance had 55-60 for houses and 60-70 for vehicles.

Jerry Putman, who had reports for 51 houses and 39 vehicles, said a lot of windows were broken in houses and that vehicles had windshields shattered and knocked out, along with severe dents.

"It was more severe than the other storm," Putman said, referring to an April 13 rain and hailstorm. "It just didn't cover as much territory."

The "hook" echoes that the National Weather Service in Abilene and San Angelo were picking up on radar last Friday night in Mitchell County were apparently legitimate because some of the storm damages are not explainable as the results of normal high winds or hail.

There has been no official confirmation of a tornado on the ground at the height of the alert between 9:30 and 11 p.m.

However, some volunteer firemen reported seeing one in the air northwest of Colorado City, and TXU Electric & Gas Co. and Cap Rock Electric Cooperative Saturday and Sunday repaired utility poles that had been knocked down on both sides of Interstate 20.

The funnel reportedly materialized in the Cuthbert area in northwestern Mitchell County, traveled east-southeast, crossed I-20, where several TXU poles were topped just east of C-City, and damaged Randy Erwin's property east of town on the south side of the interstate.

Erwin said he was watching a basketball game on television when he heard the distinctive noise that is often reported by tornado witnesses.

"I heard that roaring sound for about 30 seconds," he said. "I'd never heard it before. I got kind of nervous.

"It was about 9:45."

Outside, Erwin found his satellite dish toppled with its concrete base pulled out of the ground, his brand-new 1999 Dodge pickup truck heavily dented by hail and its windshield knocked out and peculiar damages to a round 16 by 16-foot, 500-barrel oil storage tank.

"It twisted it and crinkled it down to where it was eight feet tall, just like you stomped on a Coke can," he said.

A heavy steel calf chute in his nearby roping arena had blown onto its side.

Chief of Police Pat Taylor said he had heard an unconfirmed report of a tornado on the ground but had been unable to verify it.

"I think there was enough risk with what the Weather Service reported, with the high winds and hail," Chief Taylor said.

"The streets cleared real fast when the siren went off."

Traditional Fly In scheduled for 4th

The 37th Annual Fly In and Breakfast will be held Saturday, July 3 at Colorado City Airport.

The annual event was started in 1962 to bring attention to the new air strip east of town, but has now moved to the old Webb AFB auxiliary field northwest of town, which is the new Municipal Airport.

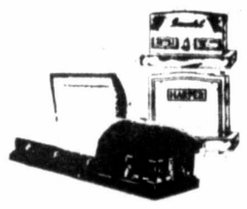

The date for the Fly In is usually July 4, but the fourth fell on Sunday this year, so it was moved back to Saturday.

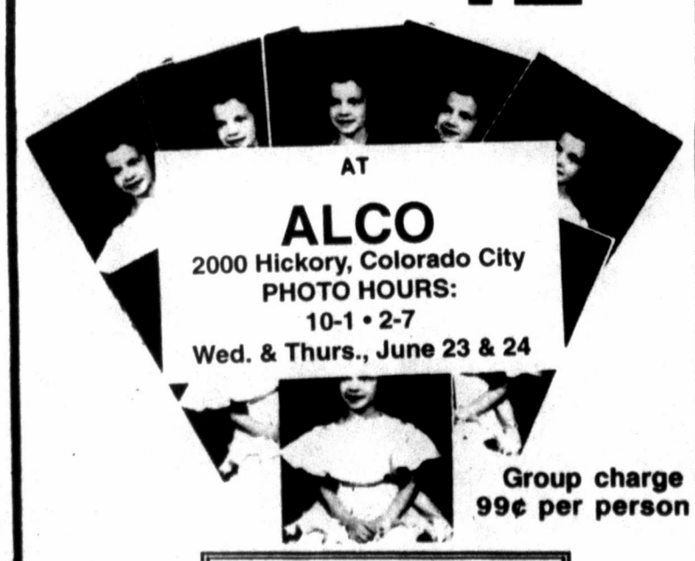

For several years, awards have been given to the oldest pilot, youngest pilot, oldest aircraft, most unusual aircraft and to the aircraft coming from the farthest distance.

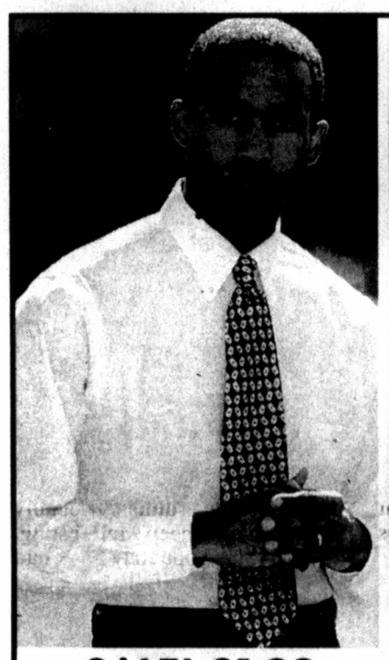

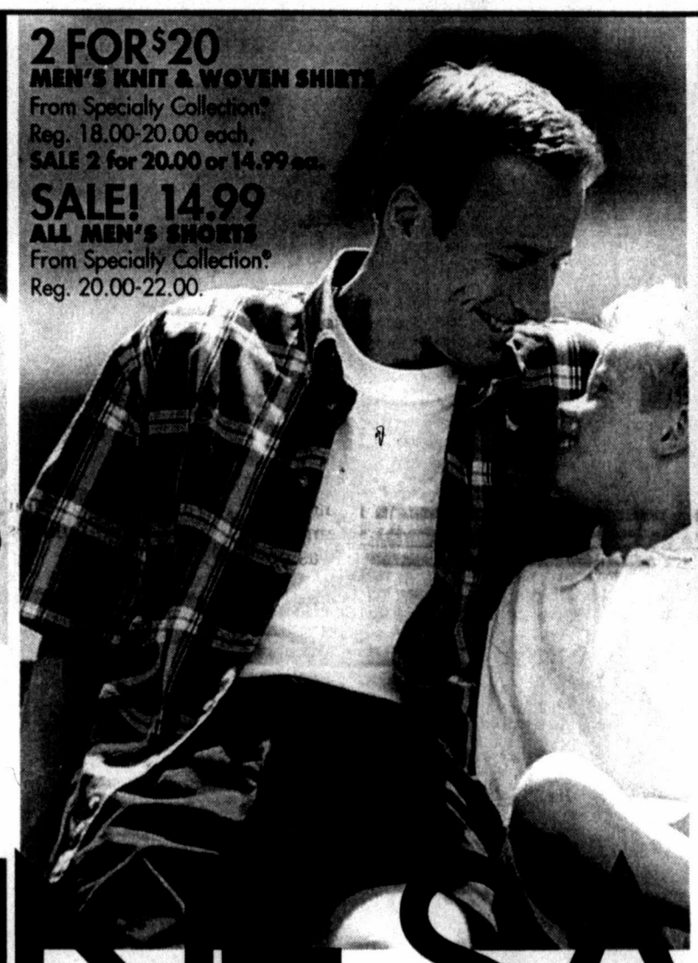

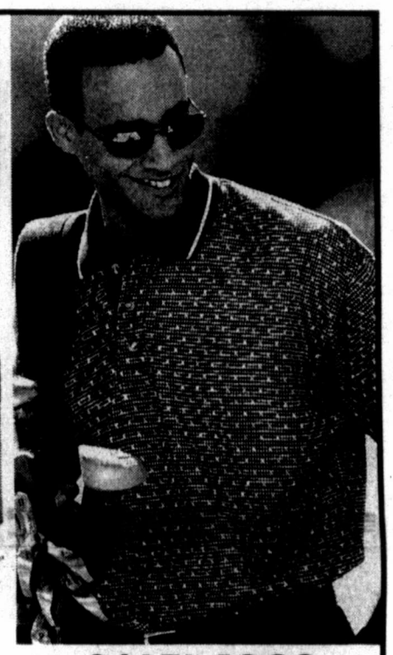

Breakfast will be served from 7 a.m. until everyone is fed, then awards will be presented to the pilots at 9:30.

For years, the City National Bank has cooked and served breakfast at the Fly In. CNB employees usually serve up to three hundred plates and have helped make the affair successful through their generous donation of time and effort.

Also, Nancy Robinson will return to MC the program this year. Robinson, a free-lance columnist who writes a weekly aviation column for the Abilene Reporter news, has worked with the Fly In for years and is another big reason for the success of the event.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

I want to publicly recognize Representative Rob Junell and Senator Troy Fraser for addressing Texas' most pressing health care needs. Health care needs in Mitchell County will be met as a result of legislation passed by the 76th Texas Legislature.

Using the tobacco money to finance the children's Health Insurance Program, to educate young people to the dangers of smoking, to fund new medical research, to provide financial resources for emergency and trauma services and to strengthen the health care infrastructure are the right things to do.

By allocating all of this biennuim's tobacco settlement funds ($1.8 billion) to health care, legislators wisely took full advantage of this opportunity to create a legacy of good health for all Texans. In House Bill 1676, legislators created five permanent endowment funds as repositories for current and future tobacco dollars. The earnings from these funds will be used to finance health care for generations to come. That's an action with long-term vision, and I am proud to say that our legislators did that.

Texas legislators used tobacco settlement dollars to fund fully the state's portion of CHIP, which will make health services available to approximately 471,000 children across the state. By setting the eligibility level at 200 percent of poverty, legislators recognized the cost effectiveness of primary and preventive care, and will make it available to children whose families cannot afford to purchase health insurance but make too much to qualify for Medicaid. Healthy children learn better in school, and education is the key to a healthy, productive workforce for the future.

The state's $15 billion tobacco lawsuit settlement over 25 years provides a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. Investing future tobacco dollars in the permanent funds established this session will create an ongoing source of financial resources to meet health care needs - whether the state's economy is strong or weak. Much as the Permanent University Fund has been an important resource for building a strong foundation for higher education, the tobacco proceeds - invested in permanent funds - can create a legacy of good level of commitment to addressing the health care needs of this state.

Thank you, Representative Junell and Senator Fraser for your leadership and dedication to meeting the health care needs of Texas.

Sincerely,
R.K. Rickard, Administrator

Due to a prior commitment, Don Maynard will not be able to appear at the Mitchell County Evening in the Park on June 18.

Since I am in charge of publicity for the event, I am responsible for the misunderstanding and would like to apologize to Mr. Maynard and everyone who plans to attend the fundraiser for the Prison Chapel.

I hope this has not caused any embarrassment for Mr. Maynard or harmed the great relationship he has had with his hometown.

Mr. Maynard is one of my heroes and I would not intentionally do anything to damage his reputation. I am sorry for any problems this may have caused.

Letter to the editor:

Westbrook ISD is a superior school. It came highly recommended to me when, after I moved to the Westbrook area, I had to find a kindergarten class for my eldest son. Surprisingly, many of the recommendations came from some of the parents from Colorado City, who choose to travel ten miles westward just to have their children schooled there. I soon found out why.

The teachers at this school are of the highest quality. Their knowledge and compassion have no end. Through their teamwork, the transition from one grade goes smoothly to the next. The classes are small, facilitating more time to make sure each individual students has enough help in learning. If there is any learning or behavioral problems found, it is dealt with kindly and promptly. The product of these superior teachers are seen every day.

Instead of the older children victimizing the younger, they help each other in big brother/big sister-like ways. The children show genuine respect to their elders, a habit not found in many schools today. This school does not have the most superior athletic teams, but these children are made to feel they are the winners due to their efforts and abilities to win or lose with grace.

Racism and cliques do not appear to be a problem. This school should be proud that they are the example of what schools should be. My eldest attended kindergarten and the first grade. My second son has just finished kindergarten. The two years were surprisingly fun but unbelievably short. As of this year, my sons are no longer allowed to attend Westbrook ISD.

My household fell into financial difficulties and we lost our home to the company we were buying from. Naturally, wishing to stay in the quiet Westbrook community, we tried to find other housing. We were surprised to find so many empty houses with owners not willing to rent or sell. If any were for sale, the prices were sometimes twice the actual value and required full price up front.

Our only option, at that time, was to move to Colorado City. Because of this move on 4-99, the school taught me an interesting phrase: anglo transfers.

In 1971, a law was passed allowing only a certain percentage of black, white and hispanic children to transfer to out-of-district schools. If this law was not complied with, the receiving schools would not be granted government funding. However, through the years, this law became more and more overlooked, then eventually ignored.

Then, somehow, the school system was "caught" in this infringement. Now, beginning in the early 1998-99 year, no more "anglo transfers" from Colorado City can be made because the quota for white transfers was met. This is a hard fact that I have accepted; eventhough, this will be an even harder lesson for my young "anglo transfers" to learn.

What confuses me about all of this is: if my "anglo transfers" were not accepted, then why did another "anglo transfer" go through after this cut off date? It is documented on the transfer form exactly: Cannot accept anglos at this time. Yet, a couple of months ago, at the school's open house, I was informed by the mother of this "anglo transfer" that their papers had just come through without question or problem. I was told, quite frankly, that "they" wouldn't dare refuse transfer due to the fact that several generations of their family had graduated from this school.

With this knowledge, I am led to wonder if there is a problem with favoratism or quiet "exceptions to the rules". Who makes the decisions of who qualifies and who doesn't? Why were my "anglo transfers" not accepted yet one other was? The irony of it all is I am expected to pay land taxes to the school that will not accept my "anglo transfers".

I refer to the children as "anglo transfers" to make a point. We now are teaching our children that the color of skin has no relevance, Aren't we all equal in the eyes of God? These laws were not made with children in mind.

Why is it my children are being denied another year with the only school, teachers and friends they know, because of the color of their skin and because they have no "pull"? I thought that was what racism and prejudice was considered to be.

I teach and will continue to teach that racism and prejudice is very, very wrong. But after considering all of this, why should my children understand, agree, and comply to these ideas? If anyone has an answer, please tell me, because soon I must attempt to explain what this sad reality is about, and start the process of trying to make them "understand."

Junell petitions employers

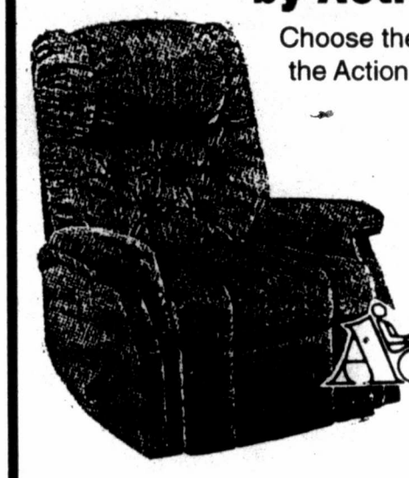

State Representative Rob Junell and the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce are in their fourth year of the "Summer Jobs for Youth" program, designed to help students age 14-21 find summer employment.

While several students have found employment, there are many students willing and able to work.

Over 100 students have placed applications for work with the program, but less than 30 jobs have been made available. This is roughly half of what was available last summer.

Any employer able to hire a student for six weeks, paying at least minimum wage, is encouraged to contact the office of Rep. Rob Junell at 728-8955. The office hours are 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

To date, the program has not found jobs for one 20 year old boy, one 19 year old girl, one 19 year old boy, three 18 year old girls and three 18 year old boys, eleven 17 year old girls and twelve 17 year old boys, ten 16 year old girls and ten 16 year old boys, six 15 year old girls, seven 15 year old boys, nine 14 year old girls and eight 14 year old boys.

God sends rain

By Bob Campbell

Before I decided to become a Christian almost five years ago, I thought I knew what was in the Bible from having read it when I was young and taking a couple of Bible courses in college.

But the fact is, if you don't study it regularly, you don't know what's in it.

For example, it says more than once that God both gives and withholds rain, according to His pleasure or displeasure with the people on the land.

One of the first passages is in Deuteronomy 11:13-15 --

"If you carefully obey all the commands I am giving you today, and if you love the Lord your God with all your heart and soul, and if you worship Him, then he will send the rains in their proper seasons so you can harvest crops of grain, grapes for wine and olives for oil.

"He will give you lush pastureland for your cattle to graze in, and you yourselves will have plenty to eat."

Seneca Lee of Colorado City brought me this quotation last week, and two things particularly stood out -- "rains in their proper seasons" and "lush pasturelands for your cattle to graze in."

Many of us prayed last year and asked God for rain, and now that it's come, we should remember the ingratitude His people often display in the Bible and the consequences they suffer.

Surely, Satan loves to see people ask for the blessings of God, receive them and then fail to acknowledge their source.

On a human scale, it would be like asking your parents or spouse for something extra nice, getting it and never saying "Thanks."

I suppose vanity is the cause of this fatal flaw in human nature, wanting something from someone and knowing we will get it no other way, then accepting it as our due or somehow believing we got it for ourselves after all and going on our way without acknowledging the source -- vain, stupid and insulting.

God knows how to revitalize the land better than the oldest farmer or the smartest meteorologist with the National Weather Service, with half-inch rains three or four days to a week apart, one after another, and then a big one to top it off.

I guess you could say He is the oldest farmer because we had had going on a dozen of these showers since March before last weekend's deluge.

With a tornado evidently having passed within a few hundred yards north and east of town, we should also be grateful that the damages were limited to a small amount of property.

A lot of the cotton will be replanted because of the hail and heavy rain, so we will need a longer growing season this year.

But we got enough rain that the pastures will begin a comeback.

Birds are singing, the wildflowers are out and the countryside is alive again!

I want to give thanks to God and His Son, Jesus Christ, for their munificence and to urge everyone to do the same.

We live and breathe at their pleasure, and we should thank them daily for everything we have, including the rain in Mitchell County.

A Very Large Ship

By Tumbleweed Smith

The world's largest cruise ship is being built in Finland by Royal Caribbean International. It will be the length of three football fields.

Its name is Voyager of the Seas. The huge ship was to begin operations in November of this year, but a fire delayed its inaugural voyage by some six weeks.

The ship was being constructed in secrecy until just recently. "We have incorporated design concepts and facilities never before possible on a cruise ship," says Royal Caribbean CEO Richard Fain. "We believe she will surprise and delight our guests for years and years to come." The ship will offer one of the highest space-per-guest ratios in the market.

The ship features the first rock-climbing wall at sea. The outdoor sports deck has a golf course and driving range and an in-line skating track. The Voyager has an ice skating rink with its own zamboni.

Guests will find an atrium eleven decks high. The Royal Promenade has a wide selection of shops, restaurants and entertainment areas, fronting on a winding street. Through the use of special lighting, coloring, and other theatrical effects, the ambiance will change just as the day changes into night. Street festivities include the Voyager's own version of Mardi Gras.

The three-level main dining room has three separate dining areas named Carmen, LaBoheme and Magic Flute. Cafe Promenade is a place for breakfast or all day pizzas. Windjammer serves breakfast, lunch and dinner. Portofino is an upscale Euro-Italian restaurant which requires dinner reservations. Sprinkles serves ice cream and yogurt around the clock.

La Scala Theater seats 1,350 and is modeled after the famous opera house in Milan. It spans five decks and has state of the art production facilities. Studio B is a 900 seat arena with broadcasting facilities and live high tech shows. The Vault is for late night dancing. Casino Royale is the largest casino on a cruise ship.

Spinners is a revolving gaming arcade with the world's largest roulette wheel. Scoreboard is a sports bar for viewing favorite events past and present. Cleopatra's Needle has continuous entertainment. The Connoisseur Club is a place to savor brandies and cigars. High Notes is a jazz club. The Aquarium Bar features four huge aquariums. The ship has a Wedding Chapel.

Some staterooms on the ship have bay windows facing the Royal Promenade. They are the first on a cruise ship that do not face the ocean. These comprise alsmost ten percent of Voyager's cabins.

Young people can enjoy age-appropriate games ranging from ball pits to computers and the latest virtual games. Families can experience Adventure Beach, an area of swimming pools, water slides and other water play features. The Seaside diner is located nearby.

The ship features the cruise industry's largest conference center with seating for 400 guests, six breakout rooms, an executive board room, a multi media screening room with all the latest technology and even private offices.

Welcome aboard!

Rep deplores GOP budget

WASHINGTON -- Stunned by $100 million in Republican budget cuts, U. S. Rep. Charles Stenholm has voted against an agricultural appropriations bill for the first time in his career.

"This is the first time in my tenure as a House member that I have been forced to oppose an ag appropriations bill," the Abilene Democrat said.

"Not only was over $100 million cut from the bill, but the amount that was cut by the House leadership in no real way gets us any closer to passing all 13 appropriations bills.

"More importantly, no game plan exists to fund programs that are urgently needed, such as the Cotton Step 2 Program."

The Cotton Step 2 Program sought by Congressman Stenholm and the group of conservative Democrats he heads, the Blue Dogs, would provide government certificates to cotton merchants to allow cotton to be bought and sold on American and foreign markets at prevailing world prices.

A Stenholm aide on the House Agriculture Committee, on which the congressman is the ranking Democrat, said Friday that the program is needed this year to counteract cheap Russian and Chinese cotton.

"Although the effects of weather conditions are uncertain in 1999, farmers are facing even lower prices and foreign markets are showing little sign of improvement," Rep. Stenholm said.

"For example, it is expected that cotton prices will further decline from the already low levels faced by producers today, and this will be further exacerbated by the lack of funding for the Cotton Step 2 Program."

The House passed the ag appropriations bill over the objections of Congressman Stenholm and other representatives.

But the Blue Dogs will bark loud and long when a conference committee is convened to work out differences in House and Senate legislation later this month, a Stenholm aide said.

The Senate Ag Appropriations Subcommittee was scheduled to "mark up," or begin discussing, its bill on Tuesday, June 15.

"The Blue Dogs hope to exert influence on the final outcome," the aide said.

"We're not saying we need to break the spending caps, but we need to come up with a better plan."

When adjusted for inflation, Rep. Stenholm said, national farm income is projected to decline by more than 24 percent this year under 1990 levels, from $44.7 billion to $43.6 billion.

"Last year's natural disasters, low prices and lost markets resulted in major hardships for American farmers," he said.

"While there was inadequate funding for many much needed programs, I had hoped I would once again be able to support the overall package because there would be a game plan to address these needs in the future.

"After seeing the House leadership's plan to cut over $100 million at the last minute, it became clear that there was no plan."

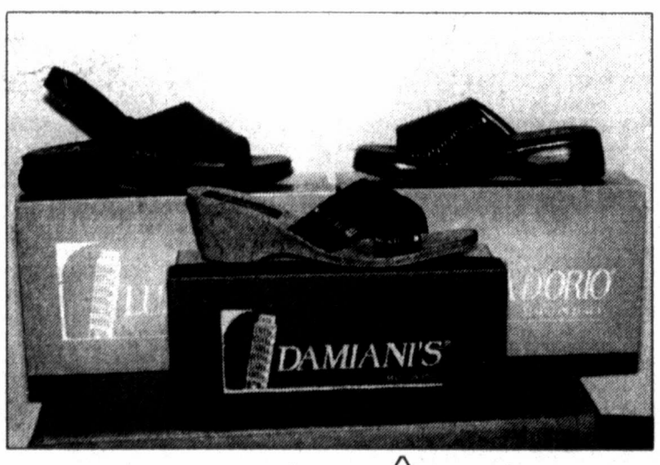

He said the Blue Dogs' budget would have guaranteed the Social Security Trust Fund surplus, paid $88 billion of public debt by using half of the budget surplus, provided a responsible tax cut by using 25 percent of the surplus and improved agriculture, defense, education, health and veterans' funding.

"Agriculture is suffering from the lack of a comprehensive safety net, much like the appropriations process is suffering from the lack of a comprehensive strategy to save Social Security while providing needed investments," he said.

Lung cancer research explored

By Mary McMullen, CEA-FCS
Part 1 in a 3-part series

Cancer is the second leading cause of death among African American women and is surpassed only by heart disease. During 1999 about 63,400 African Americans will die from cancer, of these 29,700 will be women.

Lung cancer is the leading cause of death among black women and will account for approximately 6,000 deaths followed closely by breast cancer claiming the lives of 5,600 black women.

The third leading cause of cancer death for African American women was colorectal cancer, 3,400 deaths and fourth is pancreatic cancer claiming the lives of 1,800 black women.

The first part of this series will look at African-American women and lung cancer.

Lung Cancer

Between 1960-62 and 1990-92, lung cancer mortality rates increased 460% among African American women. A substantial proportion of this increase is thought to be associated with the increase in cigarette smoking.

From 1988 to 1992 lung cancer death rates for African-American women continued to increase at approximately 3% per year, while lung cancer death rates for black men declined during the same period.

Due to low survival rates, trends in lung cancer incidence rates closely parallel mortality rates. Between 1973-1992, incidence of lung cancer increased 132% among African American females. Relative survival rates for lung cancers are very low for all races and all genders.

From 1986-1991, the 5-year survival rate among all African Americans was 11% and the survival rate among all whites was 14%. When lung cancer is found in the localized stage, the survival rate is the highest.

For 1989-1994, the 5-year survival rate for localized lung cancer was 44% among African Americans and 51% for white Americans. However, only 12-15% of lung cancers are detected in the localized stage. The symptoms usually do not appear until the cancer is well advanced and detection is difficult.

Tobacco Use

Tobacco use is the most preventable cause of death in the United States and is responsible for about 30% of all cancer deaths. During the 1970s and 1980s, the number of both African American adults and white adults that smoked had declined, with a leveling off during the 1990s.

In 1993, 26% of black adults and 25% of white adults were cigarette smokers. African American women ages 25-44 were the most likely to use tobacco (24.7% to 31.5%) while African American women ages 18-24 indicated only a 8.2% use of cigarettes.

From 1977-1994, the proportion of all African-American high school seniors of both sexes who smoked on a daily basis decreased from 25% in 1977 to only 5% in 1994. Among white high school seniors, smoking rates remained fairly stable during the same period of time, with 20-25% smoking cigarettes on a daily basis.

Another survey, conducted in 1993, of high school students grades 9-12, found only 4.6% of African American students smoked cigarettes frequently compared to 16.1% of white students. The same survey indicated that as African American grade level increased, the use of cigarettes decreased from 18.6% as freshman to 12.7% as seniors.

White males (26.0%) were nearly six times more likely to use smokeless tobacco when compared to 4.7% of the African American males using smokeless tobacco. This striking decline in the smoking rate of African-American high school seniors was a bright spot in the fight to control lung cancer.

From 1994-1997, the bright spot faded and by 1997, 22.7% of African American students were now smokers. From 1991 to 1997, the rate increased from 14.1% to 28.2% among black male high school students.

The third category added to the list was that of cigar smoking. By 1997, 11% of black female high school students and 28% of black male high school students reported current cigar use. From 1993 to 1997, smokeless tobacco use by young African American females went from 0.6% to 1.3% and dropped in young African American males from 4.7% to 3.2%. Across all races and all genders, the key to reducing the use of tobacco lies with our youth and their education.

JULY 4TH

the chamber will sell burger plates with all the trimmings, chips and a drink for $5 as volunteers work to cook and serve.

Some high-steppin' music will be provided by "Sundown", "Dust Devils" and "The Bill Provance Group" beginning at 11 a.m. and continuing throughout the day.

The fireworks display will be a professional affair with the first "shot" being fired at 6 p.m. The "Flash Salutes" will be fired each half hour to announce the approaching pyrotechnic barrage.

Then, at about 9:10 p.m., the Flash Salutes will come every ten minutes until the opening of the fireworks display, which should really get going around 9:35 to 9:45.

At the designated time, there will be a "simultaneous barrage" of ten Flash Salutes to open the display.

The professional team from Western Enterprises in Oklahoma will then begin the show in earnest, gradually building up to the Grand Finale, a two hundred bomb barrage climaxed by a red, silver and blue "Grand Aerial Finale" followed by a "tremendous golden brocade willow barrage" to close the program.

Local firefighters have been consulted and will be on hand should any sparks get out of hand, but with all the rain we've been having, that shouldn't be a problem.

It is not too late to send in some cash to help pay for the extravaganza, many parents have already sent in money they might have spent on personal fireworks, not wanting to take any chances with themselves or their children with a misfire.

Antique cars, antique trucks and tractors, low-riders, decorated riding lawnmowers, walkers, joggers, clowns, dogs, cats, horses, gorillas, club or business floats are all invited to join in the 1999 Independence Day - Rodeo parade.

The parade committee has already received several entries for the event and ask that you enter as soon as possible. If you need a place to work on your float, Blake has made arrangements for a place for you to do that. Call her at 728-3403 Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 if you have any questions, unusual entries, etc. There is an answering machine for after hours calls.

Basketball tourney set

A ten-team basketball tournament will be held at the Pit on June 18-19 and the proceeds raised will be used to open a "student store" at Colorado Middle School.

They are calling it "CMS Summer Slam '99", and organizers Jeran Gatlin and Bobbie Baker believe in the project for several reasons.

The kids at Colorado Middle School need a student store on campus as a way to teach responsibility, to provide school supplies on-site and give them a place to purchase items dealing with school spirit, holiday gifts and other novelty items.

The benefit tournament, originally conceived by students through a summer school program of responsibility at CMS, is an exercise to teach the kids different ways to start their own business and the work it takes to earn the money necessary for such a venture.

The tournament is slated for this weekend, but as of Sunday, June 14, only four teams had signed up to play.

The tournament format calls for ten teams with ten players on each team with an entry fee of $100 per team, or $10 per player. All players must be eighteen years of age or older to participate.

Organizers will also charge a $1 admission fee and will operate the concession stand to help raise funds for the start-up costs of the student store.

The students envision many items being made available at the store including various school supplies, school spirit items and special gifts for birthdays, holidays and the like.

The store will be stocked with merchandise purchased mostly from local merchants and will be located somewhere on campus. Teachers will supervise the operation of the store, which will hopefully open this fall.

For more information on the tournament or to sign up to play, call Jeran Gatlin at 728-5754 or Bobbie Baker at 728-2673.

CHS basketball camp works out 26

The first annual Colorado Basketball Camp for boys ages 9 through 15 finished up Friday, June 11, at the Pit.

Twenty-six youngsters went through the grueling week-long session conducted by CHS boys' head coach Barry Kimball and his brother Bruce Kimball, the head coach of the Perryton High School boys' team.

The campers received recognition and prizes for different skills and achievements from several Colorado City merchants.

Awards were provided by the Movie Stop, Showplace Video, Pizza Hut, CC Discount Market and Texas Caps and T-Shirts.

The coaches named Taylor Landman as the "Most Improved" camper for the week.

The "Wolf Camp Award" for attitude and coachability was given to Sam Crockett.

There were two winners, one each from the younger and older age groups, in three different competitions.

In the "Hotshots" competition, Brock Kimball won the younger group award and Cole Ratliff took the older group award.

Landon Hartwick and Anthony Munoz won the "Freethrow" competition.

Hartwick also won the "Layup" competition in the younger division as Rusty Benson was the winner for the old guys.

In "Ball Handling", there were three divisions.

Brock Kimball won the 8-9 year old division, Bryan Proctor won the 10-12 year old division and Anthony Munoz won the 13-15 year old division.

Fifteen campers came back for afternoon sessions and were involved in competitive games in which the "Rockets" won with team members Brick McGuffin, Anthony Munoz, Landon Hartwick and Cole Ratliff.

Coach Kimball plans to have the camp each summer and may add a "shooting clinic" next summer in addition to the basketball camp.

Coach K. wants to remind students who are interested that the CHS gym is open this summer to all kids wanting to hone their skills.

The gym hours are 8-11 a.m. and 5-9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Minor and Major League

Winning teams tournament bound

Colorado City's Little league major and minor league first place teams have both been secured now, and neither team has a whole lot of time to savor their finish, because they have to hit the road to their respective county tournaments.

The Mets took care of business last Friday night as they beat the Steers 10-3 to avoid a playoff for first place with Roscoe's Rattlers in the minor league division.

So off they will go to Abilene Wednesday, June 16, to begin their quest for a championship.

They will play Abilene's Key City team at 6 p.m. at Key City. This will be a tough game for the Mets, as they will be playing on Key City's turf.

If they can catch a "hopefully overconfident" home team napping and beat them, then they will go up against Eula Friday, June 18, at 8 p.m.

This is a single elimination tournament in which one loss will end your season.

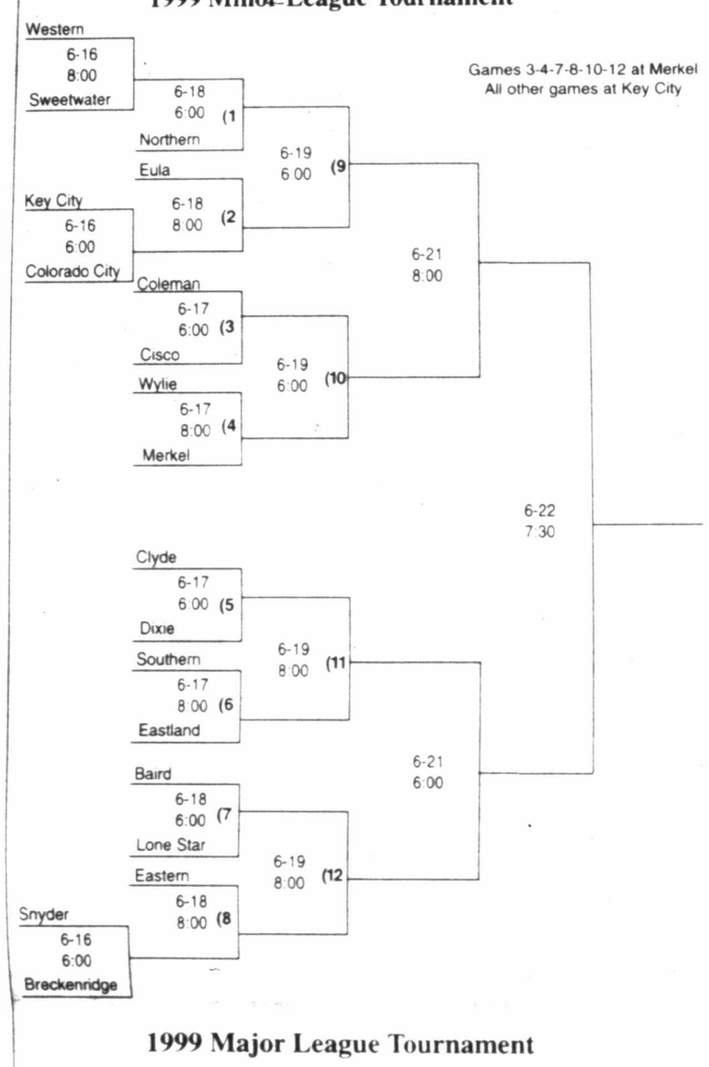

In the major league, the Astros wrapped up first place early with a perfect 15-0 record and will face Merkel Friday, June 18 at 6 p.m. in Snyder at Towle Park.

If the Astros get past Merkel, they will face the winner of Snyder and Rotan at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 19.

Cody Guess makes mark in PRCA

Welcome to rodeo country, where the men are tougher, the bulls are meaner and the horses are smarter!

With the High Plains Junior Rodeo coming up next month, it seemed an appropriate time to introduce a homegrown professional cowboy.

His name is Cody Guess, ranked tenth in the nation in team roping as a heeler, and he's earned over $16,300 this year on the Pro Rodeo circuit.

The 21 year-old Colorado High School graduate travels to so many rodeos his mother Tammy Guess has a hard time keeping up with him.

Cody is heading to Nebraska this week for the Buffalo Bill Rodeo in North Platte, then he is going to Reno June 22 for a non-PRCA event in which all the pro teams attend because it has such a high pay-out.

A member of the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association, Guess makes a fair living while humbly and quietly becoming one of the nation's best team ropers.

There won't be any quotes from this soft-spoken cowboy because he is truly grateful for his talent. He gives all the credit for his success to God.

Cowboys go a long way back in history and are a true American legacy. genuine as baseball, Mom and apple pie.

The PRCA dates back to 1936 when a group of cowboys walked out of a prestigious rodeo in Boston because it wasn't being judged fairly.

Originally called the Cowboys' Turtle Association, the name evolved to Rodeo Cowboys Association in 1945 before becoming the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association in 1975.

Today, the PRCA has nearly 10,000 members, 3300 of them are permit holders, and their cowboys participate in about 800 rodeos per year in forty-six states and 4 Canadian provinces.

And Cody makes as many of 'em as he can. According to his parents he competes in about seventy-five rodeos a year.

When you figure that the average rodeo lasts 2-4 days, some longer, he is actually working in his sport from one hundred fifty to three hundred days a year.

As with any sport, you have to practice. And for Guess, that means working with horses at his home where they have their own arena to work with.

Cowboys have to work very hard to become nationally ranked, and Guess puts in no less than 365 days a year.

Cody Guess has the potential to be one of America's top cowboys.

But don't expect to hear him brag about it cause he is truly a well-raised young man – humble and grateful to a fault.

Look on the internet at prorodeo.com, then follow the prompts to the Crown Royal team roping standings for heelers and you'll find him there, quietly rising on the money list.

You also just might catch the C-City cowboy on ESPN, as the network will cover several rodeos this season, including the Greeley Independence Stampede broadcast on July 16, the California Rodeo on August 13, Pikes Peak or Bust on September 17, the Grand National Rodeo November 18 or the National Finals in Las Vegas to be broadcast in January.

Greetings. You might guess what everyone around town is talking about.

The weather and thunderstorms over the weekend are taking center stage. Questions go like this - Did the hail do damage at your place? Did you go to a cellar? Do you realize we received five and 1/8 inches of rain Friday night and Saturday morning?

I hope the lakes get a lot of water. Yes, several had hail damage to roofs, windows, and house paint.

I counted myself extremely fortunate to still have a house standing with any kind of roof left.

We are blessed by good rains. I hope where you live received rain without bad weather.

Before returning to Loraine, the Bowens drove around Breckenridge and enjoyed area sites.

I can't be sure what Billie told the snake mama but she left in a hurry.

TAAS

Fifth grade -- reading, 83 and 82, and math, 97 and 94.

Fourth grade -- reading, 87 and 78; writing, 94 and 87; and math, 91 and 83.

Third grade -- reading, 82 and 89, and math, 82 and 79.

Merrell, the middle school principal, and Hutchinson Elementary Principal Rees, who supervises third through fifth graders, were praised for their students' strong performances in math.

Merrell said his job is made easier because Hutchinson students are well-grounded in math when they reach the middle school.

He said social studies, which includes elements of history and sociology, has become one of Texas public schools' more difficult subjects.

Kitten Arthur, principal of Kelley Elementary, does not administer TAAS Tests, but she reported on results from the Texas Primary Reading Inventory Test in kindergarten through the second grade.

She said kindergartners' listening comprehension scores rose 51 percent and first and second graders' reading comprehension marks improved by seven and 33 percent.

The test reports were approved.

Other business included approval of 1999-2000 teachers and administrators' salary levels, which will include the $3,000 raise recently passed by the Texas Legislature.

A teacher with no experience will now make $24,240 in his or her first year here.

The salary schedule was okayed after an executive session from 7:35 to 8:45 p.m.

Leigh Petty's resignation as a high school English teacher was accepted, and Supt. Buddy Compton said after the two-hour meeting that Ms. Petty has accepted a contract to teach at Highland High School in Nolan County, her alma mater.

Billie Rees of Colorado City was hired to replace her.

Kim Anderson, who had split time as a counselor and reading teacher between the two elementary schools, resigned to become a counselor in Snyder schools.

Linda Mathis resigned her coaching duties at the middle school but will stay on the faculty to teach art.

Board members reviewed bids from City National Bank and the First National Bank and named First National the district's depository institution for the 1999-2000, beginning on Sept 1.

CNB had the 1998-99 contract.

The bids were identical except for the banks' bids for additional interest to be paid on Treasury Bills, which are currently paying 4.51 percent.

First National bid .42 and CNB .39, and Business Manager Geneva Findley recommended accepting the First National offer.

The basic interest is subject to change on a monthly basis, but the additional interest is "locked in" for the length of the contract, First National President Mark Waldrip said.

This is the first time First National has held the district's depository contract.

Supt. Compton reported that Peggy Westbrook, whose contract as Kelley Elementary librarian was not renewed in a cost-cutting move earlier this year, has appealed the board's decision to the Texas Education Agency.

With board member Tony Turner absent, the board agreed after an informal discussion to consider advertising for bids next month for a mobile home to replace the house that transportation supervisor Vince Gaona and his wife live in alongside the district's bus barn compound.

Lunchroom prices were left unchanged for the new school year, $1.45 at Kelley, $1.50 at Hutchinson and $1.55 at the middle school and high school.

Reduced price lunches will still be 40 cents.

The board voted to mail football season ticket options to season ticket holders on Aug. 2 and put season tickets on sale to the general public for $15 on Aug. 16 at the high school.

The ticket package will be good for five home games.

Ms. Findley reported the board's agreement last month with the Mitchell County Hospital District to participate in a Tex Stop Grant application to buy a van had turned out to be superfluous.

Ms. Findley said a similar application by People for Progress Inc. in Sweetwater, to buy a van to transport senior citizens for a fee, had pre-empted the local initiative.

Chinese come to Sweetwater to investigate Trade Alliance

Trade representatives of the People's Republic of China will visit Sweetwater this weekend to investigate a possible relationship with the Texas, Mexico & Asian Trade Corridor Alliance, alliance directors were told last Thursday.

Nolan County members of the alliance said they had arranged for a half-dozen Chinese and possibly some Japanese to visit Sweetwater and tour area counties on Friday and Saturday.

Meeting at 2 p.m. at Cap Rock Electric Cooperative in Colorado City, a dozen board members heard Glen Murphree say he will go to Midland on Friday to pick up the delegation members and drive them to Sweetwater.

They will be taken to dinner and the annual Sweetwater Ranch Rodeo Friday night and be given a tour of parts of the six counties that are involved in the alliance on Saturday.

They will fly to Midland from Los Angeles, Calif., Murphree said.

Mitchell County Judge Ray Mayo, vice chairman of the trade corridor board, said it will be "a get-acquainted visit for them to meet us and us to meet them.

"It will be mainly a social weekend," he said. "There will not be much business conducted.

"We'll go to Snyder on Saturday to see the new Lorber Industries textile plant to show them what can be done in West Texas as far as technology is concerned.

"I think there's definitely some interest there."

The alliance board has 18 members from Mitchell, Howard, Scurry, Nolan, Jones and Fisher Counties.

Other alliance board members who attended Thursday's meeting were Chairman Ricky Fritz of Snyder, the Scurry County judge; Secretary-Treasurer Mike Hatley of Sweetwater, J. B. Cooper of Roscoe, Scurry County Commissioner Ralph Trevey, Windi Fuller of C-City and Roby City Manager Claude Day.

C-City holds own in '99 tax receipts

Colorado City is down by 11 percent in its June state sales tax rebate but is still running ahead of last year's receipts by .7 of a percent.

Loraine and Westbrook also declined in their totals as compared to 1998 receipts.

"The Texas economy continues to grow at a steady pace," said State Comptroller Carole Rylander in Austin after mailing $184 million to 1,097 cities and 118 counties.

"Sales tax collections show that consumer confidence is strong."

June tax rebates include local sales taxes collected in April and reported in May.

C-City got $27,886, down from $31,305 last June, while Loraine had $241 and Westbrook $549 -- declines of 11 and 23 percent.

C-City has $210,443 so far this year, and it had collected $210,279 at this point last year.

Mitchell County received $11,921, down 14 percent from last June, and has gotten $84,144 this year, a seven percent decrease.

Speaker names Junell to national committee

AUSTIN -- Speaker of the House Pete Laney has appointed State Rep. Rob Junell of San Angelo to a national group that oversees state funding issues and intergovernmental relations.

"I appreciate Rep. Junell's willingness to take on the responsibility of serving on this important committee," said Speaker Laney, a Democrat from Hale Center, near Plainview in the Panhandle.

"I know his skills and expertise will be put to good use for Texas."

The group is the Fiscal, Oversight and Intergovernmental Affairs Committee of the Assembly on State Issues of the National Conference of State Legislatures (NCSL).

Rep. Junell, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, will serve through Dec. 31, 2000.

A member of the Texas Legislature since 1989, he represents Mitchell, Coke, Irion, Sterling and Tom Green Counties in the 72nd Representative District.

The NCSL committee is responsible for examining policies that have state fiscal significance and improving working relationships among state, local and tribal governments.

"This includes funding of state-provided services and programs, tax and revenue issues, federal strategies that affect state policies, funding for state mandates, the role of the property tax in the state and local revenue system and local revenue diversification," Speaker Laney said.

"The committee is also responsible for studying legislative oversight, the legislative budget process and state pension issues."

Teachers applaud raise

The president of the Texas Federation of Teachers lauded the state legislature for approving a $3,000 a year raise for teachers and rejecting private school vouchers.

John E. Cole, head of the 32,000-member organization, said in Austin that the 76th Legislature "will go down in history as one of the best education sessions ever."

Cole said the TFT "is also grateful for what the legislature did not do.

"Lawmakers rejected ill-advised attempts to siphon money from public education to voucher programs," he said.

"This rejection says that Texans and their leaders have faith in the public school system and are willing to do what it takes to make schools stronger for all students."
