Miners urged to ratify new agreement

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced Friday night that negotiators have reached agreement to settle the record 81-day coal strike and urged miners to ratify it without delay.

Carter said if the 166,000 striking miners do not vote to accept the negotiated terms, "time will have run out for all of us" and he will take drastic legal action to force an end to the walkout.

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller echoed Carter in urging ratification. The tentative agreement, already approved by the union's bargaining council, goes straight to the coalfields where the union's rank and file has 10 days to vote on it.

The agreement came after a week of mounting White House pressure to end a strike that had caused power shortages and thousands of job layoffs from the Upper Midwest to the Mid-

Atlantic states.

Government sources said the tentative contract follows essentially the agreement worked out earlier this week between the union and the independent Pittsburgh & Midway Coal Mining Co. It would increase miners' wages by $2.40 an hour over the next three years. That will mean an average daily wage of $81.60 for miners who now get an average $62.40 a day.

Total wages and benefits would rise about 37 percent over the life of the agreement.

The government sources said the contract also calls for penalties against leaders and pickets in wildcat strikes, although the industry dropped its demand for fines against UMW members who honor illegal picket lines.

Miller said the tentative contract was better than the P&M agreement on several points, "notably a guaranteed health and retirement plan. This was a major concession on the part of the coal operators."

"I'm delighted we've got an agreement," Miller said. "It was a long, bitter, hard-fought struggle."

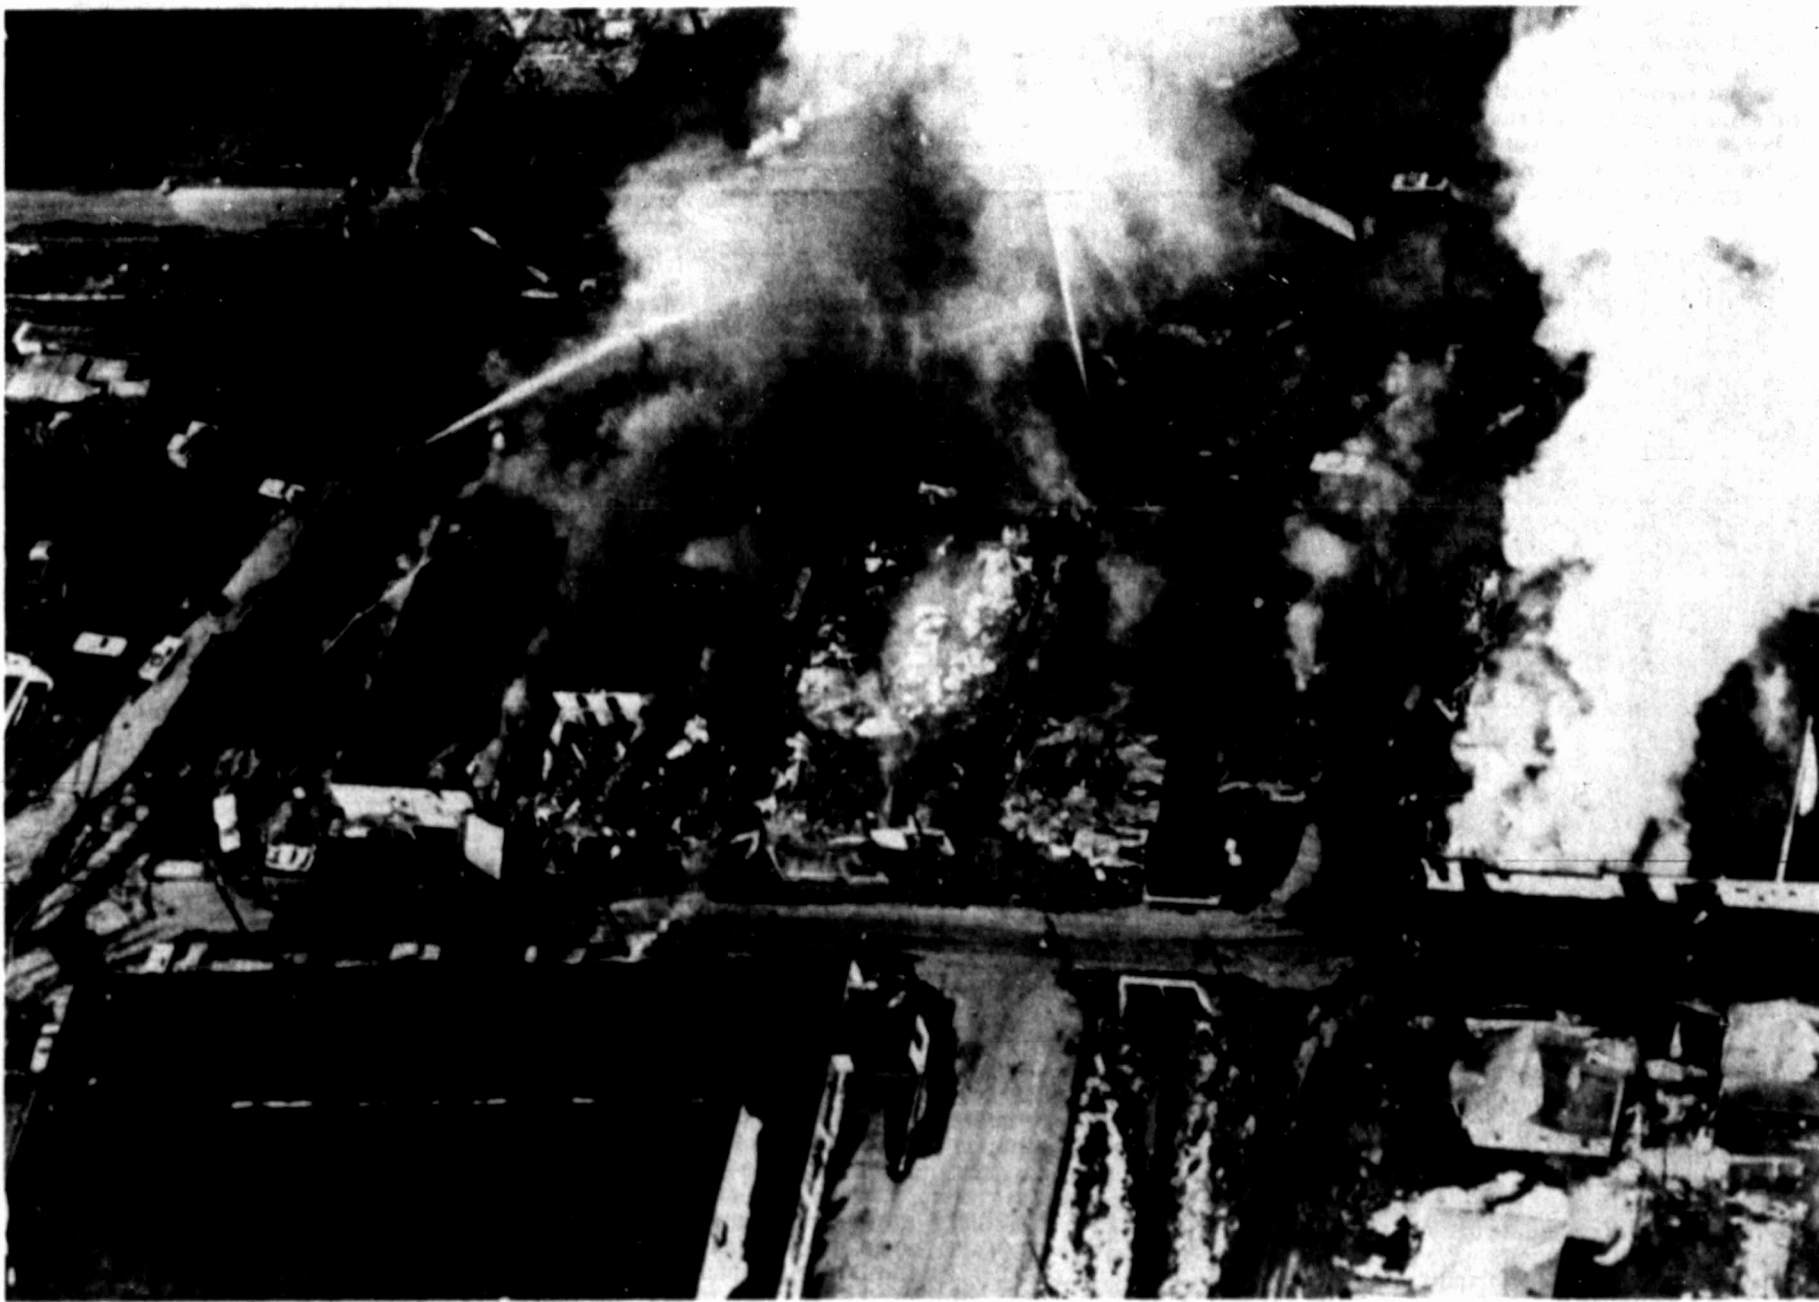

The first reaction in the coalfields to the proposed settlement was mixed. Dennis Scarford, secretary-treasurer of UMW District 31 in West Virginia predicted ratification, saying that "a lot of miners will vote for it because they've been out so long."

But Ray Lindahl, president of UMW

Local 1609 in western Pennsylvania, said the agreement "will never be ratified if it's similar to the P&M agreement. It's taken too much away from us."

Carter made his announcement in the White House press room less than two hours before he was to have appeared on nationwide television to announce what he said would have

By JOHN NOLAN

WAVERLY, Tenn. (AP) — A railroad tanker loaded with liquid propane exploded in the heart of this small town Friday, setting businesses ablaze, injuring up to 100 persons and state officials said at least five were dead. Initial reports were that at least 21 were killed.

Hooper Penuel, head of the state Civil Defense command post in Nashville, said said state Adjutant General Carl Wallace, named by Gov. Ray Blanton to coordinate the disaster operations, had originally provided the figure of 21 dead but that he could not immediately say why Wallace later revised the count downward.

Penuel said a figure of at least 145 injured, given out in early reports, had not been revised.

Earlier, Benton County Sheriff Wayne Davis said he had counted 16 bodies.

Accounts from authorities and reporters said homes and businesses as far as four blocks away from the blast were afire. Firemen said a main water line was ruptured during the blast, forcing them to pump water from nearby Trace Creek.

A second propane-loaded tanker car caught fire, and one official said all firemen could do was keep it hosed down to keep it cool to prevent a second explosion.

"Right now, it's calm," Wallace said at a brief news conference outside City Hall. Other officials said they were not sure of the extent of the destruction or casualties.

The blast occurred while railroad crewmen were transferring propane from two cars that derailed along with 21 others Wednesday night.

H. H. Bixler, a Department of Transportation official, said "We were taking every precaution in the world," during the transfer operation.

He said the responsibility for following prescribed procedure in dealing with propane was that of Civil Defense authorities and that he had direct knowledge they were carried out.

Bixler said residents were evacuated from their homes near the wreckage before the propane transfer began, that it had been determined the cars were structurally sound so as not to pose the threat of leaks, and that natural gas and electricity service was shut off in the area.

"It goes up like an atomic bomb," he said of propane, adding that even a spark from a two-way radio transmission could ignite it.

"We did everything we possibly knew to do. But it happened," Bixler said.

Some of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, Sheriff Davis told reporters. "I'm satisfied they'll still be pulling dead people back there tomorrow."

The blast taxed all available emergency vehicles from surrounding communities. Helicopters were used to transport some of the injured to hospitals as far away as Nashville, 60 miles to the east.

Adjacent buildings set afire included two lumber companies, one of them completely leveled, several restaurants and some residences, according to reports by police and witnesses. The black smoke billowing from the fires could be seen as far away as five miles.

"It looked like a battle scene with people lying all over the place," said Jimmy Caroland of Gallatin, who was driving through Waverly at the time of the blast.

"What happened, we don't know," he said. "Right when they started to transfer the propane," it exploded.

"We are in the process of evacuating everybody who has no business being there," Wallace said.

"What we're trying to do at this point is keep the fire from spreading. Right now the fire is under control around the tanker," Wallace said.

Carter's job rating at 'new low'

By EVANS WITT

NEW YORK (AP) — Buffeted by stalled Middle East peace negotiations and the coal strike, President Carter's job rating by the American public plummeted this month to a new low, an Associated Press-NBC News poll found.

Only 34 percent of those interviewed said Carter has done an "excellent" or "good" job as president. That's down seven points from the rating found by the AP-NBC News poll in January.

Sixty-two percent of those interviewed Tuesday and Wednesday gave Carter "only fair" or "poor" marks. About 3 percent said they were not sure.

These ratings represent the lowest for Carter since he took office. The previous low was in the January poll.

The seven-point slippage in Carter's rankings is the largest drop since last fall. Between August and October last year, NBC News polls found that Americans' ratings of Carter dipped nine points.

This new low in Carter's ratings represents a continuation of the erosion in the people's evaluation of Carter in office. The downward trend has been uninterrupted since last May, when an NBC News poll found that 61 percent gave Carter excellent or good marks. Carter's highest rating in the poll was 63 percent last March.

The weakest part of Carter's performance this month was in foreign affairs, according to the 1,600 adults interviewed by telephone. His foreign policy job rating slipped eight points.

This month, 31 percent said Carter was doing an excellent or good job in foreign affairs versus 39 percent last month. Sixty-three percent gave him only fair or poor ratings. Six percent were not certain.

The January poll came just after Carter had returned from a nine-day swing through seven countries. Also at that point, chances still appeared relatively good for peace negotiations between President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel.

But since that time, peace moves in the Middle East have stalled.

Despite a lack of final action on an energy bill in Congress and the continuing coal strike, the people's evaluation of Carter on handling energy problems remained about the same as six weeks ago.

On handling the economy, there was no change in Carter's rating from the January survey.

On his overall rating, Carter did the worst in the Midwest, where only 29 percent of those questioned gave him excellent or good marks. Sixty-seven percent rated him poor or only fair in that region.

As might be expected, Carter did most poorly among Republicans and best among members of his own party.

Three-quarters of the Republicans gave Carter's job performance only fair or poor ratings, with 23 percent rating him good or excellent. Two percent were not sure.

Among Democrats, 44 percent rated his performance excellent or good versus the 53 percent who rated his work only fair or poor. The remainder were undecided.

The large segment of Americans who call themselves independents — 38 percent in this poll — stood between the GOP and the Democrats in rating the president. Thirty-one percent gave him positive ratings, while 67 percent rated his performance at least slightly negatively.

As with any sample survey, the results of the AP-NBC News polls could differ from the results of interviews with all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For polls with 1,600 interviews, the results should vary no more than three percentage points either way simply because of sample errors. If the same poll were repeated 20 times, the error due to sampling variation would not exceed three points at least 19 times.

Canal treaty opponents discuss possible loss of submarine base

By RICHARD PYLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of the Panama Canal treaties conferred Friday on whether to ask for another secret session to discuss the fate of a key U.S. submarine intelligence monitoring base that would be lost if the waterway is turned over to Panama.

The Galeta Island base, located at the northern end of the canal, is among U.S. installations that would be turned over to Panama by the year 2000. Naval officials are understood to have expressed deep concern about whether the facility could be replaced.

Senators who oppose the treaties discussed whether to ask Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., to hold another session behind closed doors to consider the issue, sources confirmed.

"The decision hasn't been made but it definitely is a possibility," said one source close to the anti-treaty faction.

The Senate earlier this week met in secret for 14 hours to discuss allegations that Panamanian officials, including Gen. Omar Torrijos, were involved in illicit narcotics trafficking.

As the intelligence-gathering issue surfaced, Pentagon sources described Galeta Island as a top-secret Navy base that forms part of the United States' worldwide fleet communications network and also serves as a radio intercept facility for intelligence purposes.

Tracking of Soviet submarines is not part of its mission, the sources said.

Informants said the Galeta Island problem was raised by Adm. James Holloway, chief of naval operations, before the Senate Armed Services Committee. In his prepared testimony for the panel, Holloway made one passing reference to Galeta Island as a U.S. Navy "security group activity."

But heavily censored transcripts of a closed committee session show that Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., asked Holloway to "clarify" one aspect of his testimony, which sources said referred to Galeta Island.

Helms at one point apparently asked Holloway whether the base could be relocated. Holloway's reply was, "My impression is we don't have any relocation plans; we simply would take a degradation in capability."

Asked by Helms whether it would be "enormously expensive" to relocate, the admiral responded:

"It certainly would, and it could be very politically expensive because there is a good chance that in each of these we have a political quid pro quo to pay in moving one of these stations from foreign soil."

Meanwhile, the Senate continued debate on the issue of future canal security — specifically a proposed amendment that would permit a U.S. president to keep military forces in Panama to protect the waterway after the year 2000.

It will be the first substantive question to come to a vote in the treaty debate, but the actual vote will not come until next week.

Phone calls, letters flood Pentagon

By WALTER PINCUS
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — A Pentagon "hot line" has been flooded by 10,000 calls over the past two weeks from former military personnel who took part in U.S. nuclear weapons tests in the South Pacific and Nevada more than 20 years ago, and now are worried about possible effects on their health.

The line was installed after disclosure at congressional hearings of potential medical risks from exposures at the tests. Eight of 2,245 soldiers who participated in one 1957 nuclear test nicknamed Smoky were reported to have developed leukemia, a cancer of the blood.

Last week, when the Defense Department's six toll-free telephone lines got clogged, the department announced that letters would be accepted. Within three days, according to Defense Nuclear Agency officials who are running the program, more than 1,000 pieces of mail had arrived.

Next week the phone system is to be expanded to 20 lines.

Meanwhile, a controversy has developed over a report — by the Boston Globe in conjunction with a physician — that there has been an increase in cancer among workers exposed to low-level radiation at the Navy's Portsmouth Naval Shipyard in New Hampshire where nuclear submarines are repaired.

The Navy on Thursday strongly criticized the Globe findings but has agreed to permit a study of the Portsmouth shipyard health records by the Atlanta-based federal Center for Disease Control. The Navy, along with the Department of Energy, is to make its own study of Portsmouth, using an "independent" contractor, a Navy spokesman said Friday.

It was learned that the Navy — and particularly Adm. Hyman Rickover — initially opposed to the CDC study.

Rickover and others are expected to appear Tuesday before the House Commerce subcommittee on health and environment, which will look into the Portsmouth situation. Headed by Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., the subcommittee last month focused public attention on Smoky and other nuclear tests and pushed the Pentagon to take action.

Of the first 10,000 calls received on the Pentagon "hot line," 140 individuals said they were victims of leukemia or other cancers. An additional 146 reported they suffered from other diseases which they claimed may be related to radiation exposure.

Pentagon officials said they had no way of knowing whether these reports are accurate and thus significant in showing any relationship between the illnesses and radiation.

One of the programs being undertaken by the Pentagon will re-examine data on each nuclear test and with computers determine what the radiation probably was at various distances from the blast. The Pentagon does not know this now.

Vice Adm. Robert R. Monroe, director of the Defense Nuclear Agency, said Friday a full program to "fulfill the government's responsibility to the people involved" in the nuclear tests has just been approved by Defense Under Secretary Charles W. Duncan Jr.

Defense Secretary Harold Brown reportedly disavowed himself from the decision because department lawyers pointed out he might be accused of a conflict of interest since he ran Livermore Laboratories in the 1950s, when it participated in the atomic tests.

According to Monroe the Pentagon plan includes:

—Pulling together for the first time the names of some 200,000 to 300,000 service personnel who are thought to have participated in 190 atmospheric tests between 1946 and 1962, along with their individual radiation exposure records where available. Troops were present at many of the tests, and they conducted maneuvers at 12 of them.

—Seeking to locate "those who have gotten a high level of exposure," starting with recipients of 25 rads, the recognized emergency exposure dose.

—Providing to the CDC all information on Smoky veterans. The center, an arm of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has led the way in trying to determine by scientific study if the radiation exposures at Smoky increased the risk of cancer to participants in the tests.

The DNA is also preparing to turn over to the National Academy of Sciences' National Research Center whatever information it requests. The center is putting together a long-term research project to try to determine in nuclear troop tests other than Smoky whether recorded low-level radiation has increased cancer and other disease risks to the participants.

Monroe said he was not certain what medical follow-up will be made but that the Pentagon was prepared "to do the legal limit."

In many cases, ex-servicemen with medical problems will have to go to the Veterans Administration for assistance. But, said Monroe, the Pentagon effort will make it easier for them to obtain the necessary records. Until now, many test participants have not been able to obtain records to prove they were at a nuclear test.

Monroe said he had 100 people working full time pulling together operation reports that are needed to determine who was at each test.

The Rogers committee last month criticized the Pentagon for not putting more people on the job. For almost a year after the initial disclosure in December 1976 of the possible connection between leukemia and Smoky veterans, the Army had only one major working one-fourth of his time on the matter.

Paul C. Cooper, the Smoky veteran who developed leukemia in 1976 and brought the matter to public attention in 1977, died last month.

Estimate of Cuban soldiers in Somali conflict increases

By EDWARD WALSH
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The White House and the State Department Friday increased their estimate of the number of Cuban troops involved in the fighting between Ethiopia and Somalia and charged that a Soviet army general is directing Ethiopian troops in an important combat area.

At separate news briefings, Zbigniew Brzezinski, the White House national security adviser, and H. R. Haldeman, the chief State Department spokesman, both put the number of Cuban troops now aiding Ethiopia at more than 10,000.

Two weeks ago, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said there were 2,000 Cuban troops involved in a "combat role" in Ethiopia. Last week, the State Department increased that estimate to 5,000 troops.

At the White House, Brzezinski also asserted that Soviet Army Gen. Vasily I. Petrov "is in direct command" of Ethiopian troops, augmented by some Cubans, in the Harar region of the country. He said he did not know how long Petrov has been in Ethiopia.

Brzezinski also said that the Soviet Union has supplied Ethiopia with 400 tanks and MIG fighter planes. The Cubans fighting on the Ethiopian side are organizing themselves into two infantry brigades and one mechanized brigade, he said.

The Soviet Union, formerly allied with Somalia, switched sides last year after the United States cut off military aid to Ethiopia and has since poured in about $800 million in military equipment to the African country.

In recent weeks, the United States has steadily increased its estimates of Soviet and Cuban involvement in the conflict. Two weeks ago, the State Department said there were 1,000 Soviets, including some pilots, in Ethiopia.

Friday's estimates of the number of Cuban troops varied slightly. At the State Department, Carter put it at "8,000 to 10,000 plus," while Brzezinski said there are 10,000 to 11,000 Cuban troops in Ethiopia.

The Harar region, where Petrov is said to be directing Ethiopian military operations, is part of the Ogaden, an area about the size of Oregon inhabited by ethnic Somalis. Last summer, Somali forces captured most of the area from Ethiopia, which with heavy Soviet and Cuban backing is now seeking to regain the territory.

U.S. policy calls for a cease-fire in the region, followed by a negotiated settlement of the territorial dispute, the withdrawal of Somali troops from Ethiopia and the withdrawal of all Cuban and Soviet military personnel from the conflict.

Last week, President Carter publicly warned that the United States would "consider it a very serious breach of peace, endangering even worldwide peace" should Ethiopian troops cross Somalia's border. That warning was followed by an Ethiopian and Soviet pledge not to escalate the war into Somalia.

Brzezinski provided the latest estimate on the number of Cuban troops involved in the conflict while answering questions about the president's planned trip to Latin America and Africa next month. One of Carter's stops will be in Nigeria.

"It is important for important countries such as Nigeria to show concern for what is a significant foreign intrusion (by Cuba) into African affairs," he said.

He said black African nations traditionally have been sensitive to intrusion into the continent's affairs, but that the situation in Ethiopia has been complicated because "the principle of territorial integrity has been violated by Somalia."

Testimony reveals new role

By RONALD J. OSTROW
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Benjamin R. Civiletti, President Carter's nominee as deputy attorney general, testified Friday that he played only a limited role in the controversial replacement of the Republican U.S. attorney in Philadelphia.

But Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., said after the second day of Senate Judiciary Committee hearings on the nomination that Civiletti's claim was "just a statement that has not been probed in any way."

Wallop, a leading Civiletti critic on the committee, indicated he would not allow the claim of limited involvement deter his request to subpoena several White House and Justice Department officials for questioning on the ouster of U.S. Attorney David W. Marston.

Asserting that the hearings should not be viewed as partisan, Wallop said: "There is no purpose here to get Mr. Civiletti or shoot down a presidential nominee."

Walter Olsen

Veteran missionaries to address conference

First Alliance Church, 1610 W. Wall Ave., will be host to two veteran missionaries of the Christian and Missionary Alliance denomination during an annual missionary conference next week.

The visitors, Evelyn Rychner and the Rev. Walter Olsen, will be speaking at services of the missionary conference Sunday through Wednesday. The Sunday services are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., while weeknight events will begin at 7:30, said the Rev. Les Harmon, host pastor. The public is invited to attend any or all of the services.

Olsen, who has been a missionary of the Christian and Missionary Alliance since 1929, was one of the first to work among the Baoule tribe, deep in the bush country of Africa's Ivory Coast. He is a graduate of Nyack College and a former pastor of the Alliance Church in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He is the father of Betty Olsen, the young American missionary nurse captured by Viet Cong forces in Viet Nam in 1968.

Miss Rychner has served her church for 26 years in Ecuador, during which time she has participated in a wide variety of missionary endeavors.

Afternoon installation of new rector scheduled

The Rev. Sam B. Hulsey, who arrived in Midland early this month to become rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, will be officially installed in his new ministry at special ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

The Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton of Lubbock, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas, will preside at the service, scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday in Holy Trinity Church, 1412 W. Illinois Ave. A reception honoring Hulsey and members of his family will follow in the parish hall.

In addition to Bishop Henton, other clergy participants in installation ceremony will include the Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church at Odessa; the Rev. Henry C. Coke III of Dallas; the Rev. William L. Smith of Nashville, Tenn.; and the Rev. Carroll McPherson of Austin, a former interim rector at Holy Trinity parish.

Still other participants will be the Ven. Richard W. Wilson of Lubbock, archdeacon of the Diocese of Northwest Texas; the Rev. J. L. Conside Jr., rector of Midland's St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church; the Rev. P. D. Feterson, headmaster of the Trinity School of Midland; the Rev. Marshall Mason of Midland; and Dr. Ray Riddle of Midland's First Presbyterian Church.

Hulsey, a native of Fort Worth, came to Midland from Nashville, Tenn., where he had served as rector of St. David's Episcopal Church since mid-1973. Before that he served Episcopal parishes in Corsicana, Dallas and Pampa-Perryton. He is a graduate of Washington and Lee University in Virginia and holds a master of divinity degree from Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria.

District's choirs to join

Adult choirs from numerous United Methodist churches within the Big Spring District of the denomination will join in presenting a special musical service at 7 p.m. Sunday in Midland's First United Methodist Church, North Main and Ohio streets.

The service, titled "Great Day of United Methodist Singing," will emphasize Methodism's strong tradition as a "singing" denomination. The "Great Day" service has been an annual event at First Methodist Church here and this year the event is expanded district-wide.

This year, adult choristers from churches within the district will have an afternoon of fellowship and rehearsal, followed by the public worship service.

Mrs. Robert D. Ford of Colorado City heads the district's work area on worship, and she is joined by Charles Parham, organist and choirmaster for First United Methodist Church of Big Spring, and George L. DeHart, organist-choirmaster for Midland's First Church, in planning this year's service.

Ministers participating in the service will include Dr. Lloyd A. Hughes, Big Spring District superintendent; Dr. Charles E. Lutrick, host pastor; the Rev. Royce Womack and Dr. J. Weldon Butler.

Workshop to introduce new administration text

Administrators and education staff members of churches in Midland and surrounding area are invited to attend a special workshop here on March 4.

The workshop, sponsored by the Presbyterian Church's Presbytery of Tres Rios, is planned to introduce the new administrative manuals which have been developed for the "Christian Education: Shared Approaches" program involving a dozen denominations in the U.S. and Canada. The CESA program aids churches in developing needed ministries in such areas as small-church education, black church education, intergenerational learning and curriculum resources.

The March 4 meeting here is one of several being held this winter within the Presbytery of Tres Rios.

Coordinator of the Midland workshop will be Dr. Kenneth McCollough of Oklahoma City, and leaders will include the Rev. Larry Grimm of Midland's First Presbyterian Church; the Rev. J. Rogers Spencer of El Paso; the Rev. Val Fowler of Quanah; and Mrs. Ben T. Horton of San Angelo.

The Midland workshop will take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. in Covenant Presbyterian Church, 5200 W. Illinois Ave., and will be open to all interested persons. The $3.50 registration fee will include lunch at noon. Additional information on the workshop and registration procedures may be obtained from Larry Grimm at 684-7821.

Scientology continues its battles

By RAY KIPP
Copley News Service

It is not a practice of the Church of Scientology to turn the other cheek.

Scientology's tactic is to attack, not ignore, its enemies. The lawsuit has become a primary weapon in its arsenal.

Although it has won and lost suits, relatively few final judgments have been handed down by the courts because decisions are appealed or out-of-court settlements negotiated.

Sometimes the sheer pressure or threat of litigation, backed by substantial financial resources within the church, has been enough to silence opposition.

Late last year, national attention was drawn again to Scientology's wars, as FBI agents in Los Angeles and Washington hammered down the doors of church headquarters in search of allegedly stolen federal documents. Officials filed a $7.8 million suit against the FBI over the raids.

Scientology's creed is based on the religious philosophy of increasing the individual's self-awareness and on the belief that man is basically good. But the church does not shy away from the man who challenges its motives or principles.

Scientology has built a reputation through its battles with the federal government. And in some cases it has brought the Goliath to its knees.

The bulk of an estimated $1 million in Scientology lawsuits involves the U.S. bureaucracy, including a $750 million conspiracy suit against several agencies accused of harassing, infiltrating and discriminating against the church.

With more than 1.5 million followers in the United States and four million worldwide, Scientology is relatively small in comparison with this country's established and traditional religions.

But it has sued the FBI, CIA, Army, Air Force, Treasury, State Department, Labor Department, Postal Service and National Security Agency.

It has been in a running legal battle for years with the Internal Revenue Service over its tax-exempt status and whether Scientology is a religion or a profit-making business.

Church spokesmen say they have filed more than 3,000 requests with federal agencies for information under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA).

But the federal government has not been the only target.

Scientists have sued verbally waged war with dissident members, politicians, authors and local governments.

Its oldest and most vicious battles have been with the medical profession, particularly psychiatry.

It has three lawsuits totaling $8.1 million against the American Medical Association.

The church has also battled newspapers throughout the United States and other countries over stories it viewed as threatening or biased.

It has filed suits from Florida to Canada and from Washington, D. C., to California.

Church of Scientology officials are sensitive to their growing image as "the church that sues" but contend that their methods are essential to their survival.

"We actually tried turning the other cheek, tried to ignore our critics," said the Rev. Vaughn Young, assistant national public relations director for the church. "And then we realized the people pushing so hard were just interested in wiping us out so we had to fight for our survival and right to practice our own philosophy."

Vietnam bars church group because one member Jewish

NEW YORK (AP)—The group of Americans had gone to Southeast Asian countries to try to help out in what they saw as a widely ignored modern tragedy, but they ran into an obstacle because one of them is Jewish.

It seemed a case of the ills of one part of the world throttling efforts to deal with ills in another, but the efforts go on.

Concern of the 14 members of a fact-finding commission of the International Rescue Committee was the "boat people" — those thousands fleeing southern Vietnam in small crafts, desperately seeking some shore where they're allowed to land.

"Of all the horror stories in today's world, the story of the Vietnamese 'boat people' is probably the most horrible," writes Rutgers University sociologist Peter Berger in the New York Times.

In many cases, they've been turned away from coasts of neighboring countries and forced back to sea, generally ignored by passing ships, with uncounted numbers reported perishing.

But the U. S. commission itself ran into a barrier when it tried to enter Malaysia because one member, Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, is Jewish. The Malaysian government denied him entry on grounds he was a "supporter of Israel."

Malaysia's foreign minister reportedly claimed admission of Tanenbaum would be exploited by

The philosophy of Scientology is based on the teachings of L. Ron Hubbard, a science-fiction writer who founded the church in Washington in 1954.

Much of its teachings come from Hubbard's book "Dianetics, The Modern Science of Mental Health." Its major source of income is from fees collected for instructional and counseling courses. This technique contrasts with offerings and tithings of more traditional religions. The goal of Dianetics is to make the individual a "well and happy human being."

Scientology classes may cost from $25 to $3,000 depending on the level of achievement and it is not uncommon for students to act as counselors themselves in return for a course.

A student involved in Scientology could easily spend $5,000 to $10,000 attaining the spiritual level of "clear."

Young describes Scientology as having its roots in the basic concept of the Eastern religion of Buddhism.

Although the church acknowledges the existence of a supreme being, it does not follow a strict pattern of worship at its services and has no restriction against its members belonging to other faiths.

political opponents of the Pan-Malasian Islamic Majority in March 18 local elections in a population 55 per cent Moslem.

With Tanenbaum barred, Christian members of the commission unanimously refused to enter Malaysia, citing a protest to the U. S. State Department that the action subverted the cause of the refugees by invoking the extraneous Middle East conflict.

The commission went on to Indonesia, visiting boat people in refugee camps and conferring with government authorities, also predominantly Moslem.

From Bangkok, Thailand, before the commission returned this week, Tanenbaum, interreligious affairs director of the American Jewish Committee, cabled a statement in which he said efforts to help the boat people fleeing the Communist regime now ruling their country would go on undeterred.

Presbyterian Week observances slated

Presbyterian Week, an annual pre-Easter event sponsored by the Midland Presbyterian Corporate Ministry, is scheduled this year for March 12 through 15.

The Rev. Jack Maxwell, president of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, will be guest speaker for this year's Lenten series, theme of which is to be "Crises in the Kingdom of God." Maxwell was a Midland visitor several months ago when he spoke at First Presbyterian Church. He was minister of a Presbyterian Church in Sewickley, Pa., before becoming president of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He holds degrees from The University of Texas and Princeton Theological Seminary.

Mo-Ranch ministry topic of fellowship

Mo-Ranch, a special ministry of the Presbyterian Church, is the subject of a report to be presented Wednesday night at the midweek fellowship gathering of First Presbyterian Church here. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The speaker will be the Rev. Otis Moore, an ordained Presbyterian minister who serves as president of Mo-Ranch, located near Hunt, in Central Texas.

The Mo-Ranch outreach includes numerous camps and conferences held each year for laity and clergy of the church.

Moore is a former pastor or associate pastor of Presbyterian churches at Big Spring, Austin, Houston, Bellaire and Orlando, Fla.

McCamey visit set by former minister McCAMEY — The congregation of McCamey's First Christian Church will be host to a former minister of the church, the Rev. Alan Lynch, at the Sunday morning worship service.

Lynch now serves as associate minister of First Christian Church in Lubbock. He will preach during the McCamey church's 10:50 a.m. worship service. Special music will be presented by children of the congregation. The service will be open to the public, said the Rev. Weems S. Dykes, host pastor.

Oberammergau script changed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Ever since medieval times, Christians have been putting on "passion plays" — in churches, outdoor arenas, seminaries and public halls — about the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ, some of them sound, others simplistic, distorted and villifying Jews.

But that anti-Semitic twist has been removed, religious leaders say, from the biggest attraction of them all — the passion play produced in the little Bavarian village of Oberammergau, Germany. It has been a kind of world archetype of the genre.

Although drawing thousands from around the world, the play for years has been criticized by many Bible scholars and theologians, both Jews and Christians, as falsifying fact and doctrine by blaming Jews collectively for the crucifixion of Jesus, himself a Jew.

The substantial elimination of that element by the village's recent decision to substitute a different script was praised by U.S. Christian and Jewish representatives as a broadly influential step, setting a truer, fairer pattern for passion plays.

The newly chosen presentation "centers the responsibility for Christ's death where it should be — in the sin of all humanity," says Bible scholar Eugene Fisher, head of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Office of Catholic-Jewish Relations.

He says the change gets rid of an internationally attended portrayal that for years has been a "purveyor of prejudice and injustice." He notes that the classic Christian concept is that believers share in Christ's redemption only as they acknowledge their part in his death.

The Oberammergau play has been presented every 10 years since 1634 when it first was performed to fulfill a vow made during a plague epidemic. Now a tourist attraction, it drew 500,000 from 113 countries in 1970.

Over the more than three centuries, at least five different versions have been used, but for the last 100 years, the script has been one written by a priest named Joseph Alois Daisenberg in 1860, attributing Jesus' death to the Jews.

After drawn-out controversy about it and considerable village ferment, the town council decided Feb. 8 to use for the 1980 production a 1750 text by a Benedictine monk, Ferdinand Rosner, ascribing Jesus' death to universal human sin.

Pancake breakfast to fund projects

The Hollowell United Methodist Church, 400 S. Marshall St., was to begin serving a pancake-and-sausage breakfast at 7 a.m. today, with serving to continue through late morning.

Proceeds from the breakfast will be used to fund various church projects and activities, said the Rev. C. M. Minor, pastor. The event will be open to the public, with donation to be $2 per person.

Showing of film scheduled

"The Jesus Factor," a new motion picture describing the success of Teen Challenge's rehabilitation program for drug-addicted youth, will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Sunday in South Memorial Baptist Church, 1700 W. Carter Ave. The public is invited to attend the screening at no charge.

TWO YOUNG PRONGHORN antelope graze along the side of a shallow draw about 15 miles southeast of Midland. Although not frequently seen from the major Permian Basin highways, this much-sought-after game animal has made a strong comeback in some of the more open pastures to the south of Midland-Odessa. They reportedly once roamed most of

North's bidding indicates at least five spades, since North would open with one club if he had only four spades. When South bids two hearts, therefore, North need not rebid the spades. South would not bother to bid the hearts if he had support for a five-card spade suit.

The bidding restraint is important. North would go down at two spades, but South makes two hearts without much trouble.

MUST FINESSE

South should play a low spade from the dummy at the first trick even though he has a singleton spade.

East takes the king of spades and returns a trump. South takes the king of hearts to the ace, drawing two rounds of trumps. He then discards two diamonds on the ace and queen of spades, limiting the loss to two diamonds and one trick in each of the other suits.

If South wins the first trick with the ace of spades and returns a diamond, the defenders will lead trumps to prevent a diamond ruff in the dummy. South will lose no spades but will lose all four diamonds, one trump and one club.

Miami area cracks down on car insurance frauds

By CINDY ROSE

MIAMI (AP) — At 47, Al Shears has a wife, two children, a job, a home and two family-size cars. He has never been in a wreck and never asked an auto insurance company for a dime.

But he got one speeding ticket a year ago for doing 12 miles over the limit. Now he pays $1,098 a year for auto insurance, and he only got it down that low by dropping personal injury protection to $2,000 deductible. Shears said he paid $450 before that. "They're treating me like a criminal," Shears says.

His cry is familiar throughout the nation. In most urban areas, skyrocketing rates are making drivers gulp—or drive without insurance and hope for the best.

But Shears lives in Dade County, and everything that is worrisome about the auto insurance system is worse in the Miami area. Premiums have gone up 85 percent in the last 18 months; some drivers are paying $3,000 and more a year.

Industry and government officials say the rates are high in Miami not because drivers have more accidents or cars or hospitals cost more but because Miami's file more lawsuits.

The suits, often aided and abetted by ambulance-chasing lawyers and profiteering doctors, mean insurance claims inflated enough so everybody gets a share. One attorney even christened his speedboat "Whiplash." He's since been convicted of grand larceny.

Harold Rummel, executive assistant to the Florida insurance commissioner, estimates that at least 30 percent of Miami accident claims are inflated or faked. Some estimates go as high as 60 percent.

"Miami is called the insurance fraud capital of the world," Rummel complains.

Florida has set up the nation's first—and only—special insurance fraud agency. The 25-member fraud squad has been active since April and already is proving to be a deterrent.

"But it's like prostitution. For every con man you pick up, you get another one on the streets," says Bob McKenna, a former FBI agent who heads the Florida Division of Fraudulent Claims here.

McKenna's files show this "typical" case: A 28-year-old male driver stopped at a red light and his car was hit in the rear, causing $100 in damage to both cars. The police report noted that neither driver reported pain or injury.

But the next week, the rear driver's insurance company got notice that the front driver was suing for "pain and suffering," asking $120,000.

The rear driver contacted McKenna's office, which opened an investigation. As soon as the attorney for the claimant learned that McKenna was involved, the claim was reduced to $3,500.

Florida has a no-fault insurance law, but it hasn't greatly affected the claims deluge. A proposal to bar all suits for intangibles like "pain and suffering" failed in the state legislature.

For true success, cheating on insurance claims takes help from the lawyers and doctors who lend themselves happily to claim inflation.

More may be tempted in Miami because the town has an abundance of both—"too many," McKenna thinks. "Too many doctors and lawyers competing for the available business."

McKenna's squad is focusing on doctors and lawyers who inflate claims.

"We don't want the claimant," McKenna says. "We think he's basically an honest citizen who's been led astray. He'll get approached by a runner, who tells him, 'It's just a slight accident and I know you're not hurt. But we'll get $5,000 out of it.'"

Florida has made it a third-degree felony for a runner even to hand out a lawyer's business card at an accident scene.

"Runners listen to police car radios and sometimes get to the accident before police. They even use helicopters," says McKenna.

Another new law gives McKenna's office subpoena power with limited immunity. "That means we can go and get one of the runners, give him some immunity so he squeals, and we can get the lawyers behind him," McKenna says.

The files of lawyer Anthony Capodilupo show he's one of Miami's big-volume, low settlement, no-trial specialists. Each year he makes 200 to 300 clients happy by settling about $1 million in claims, he says. He receives up to 40 percent in each case.

Capodilupo was indicted by a federal grand jury recently along with two doctors and four accused runners on charges of bilking insurance companies by seeking out accident victims and advancing them money to encourage them to press fraudulent or inflated claims.

James A. Davis II received his office's golden goblet award from 1971 through 1975 for grossing more than $1 million in his rapid-fire processing of small bodily injury claims. He was convicted in 1977 on 105 counts of mail fraud along with his office manager, his $150-ahead runner and Dr. M.S. Fox, an osteopath and owner of a small hospital.

In Dade County, studies show that 85 to 90 percent of the claimants hire lawyers.

Newsday

ALBANY, N.Y. — The State Mental Hygiene Department, in a report to Gov. Hugh Carey, has recommended that New York become the first state to do away with the insanity defense.

In its place, the department recommends that the state legislate a "diminished capacity rule", under which a jury could find the accused guilty of a lesser included offense.

Juries no longer could acquit a defendant on the ground that he was insane at the time of the crime, but if they decided his capacity to understand his criminal act was diminished by mental illness, they could find him guilty of manslaughter, for example, instead of murder.

Although 21 other states already use a diminished capacity rule, New York would be the first to have the rule but drop the insanity defense, department counsel William A. Carnahan said.

He is one of the authors of the 157-page report, which was delivered to Carey this week. The report will be referred to Carey's sentencing commission for review and sent to hundreds of judges and district attorneys, Carnahan said. It is not certain that Carey's final proposal will follow the department's recommendation, nor that the Republican-controlled Senate, where a different approach to the problem is under consideration, will go along.

There is general agreement that some measure to change the law on insanity defense will be enacted this year. Such a change would not affect the pre-trial process of determining whether a suspect is competent to stand trial and treating him if he is not. That is a separate issue.

Lawrence C. Kolb, former commissioner of the department, a longtime advocate of abolishing the insanity defense and one of the authors of the report, said the diminished capacity rule would be "a first step ... in the right legal direction."

Under current law, a person found not guilty by reason of insanity is automatically committed to a state mental institution, where he is kept until the department decides he can be released without danger to himself or others. A study by department researcher Henry J. Steadman showed that the average stay in mental hospitals for all those who have been released after insanity acquittals from 1965 to 1976 was 369 days. In one group of 30 discharged men, the study said, 11 subsequently were arrested for different crimes — with an average of three such arrests per person — for offenses ranging from burglary to murder.

In the report, Carnahan wrote: "Historically, the defense was used as a device to spare an obviously deranged accused from the extreme penalty of capital punishment. More recently, it has persisted due in part to a human concern that, if the commission of a crime is somehow related to mental abnormality, treatment should be accorded."

Now that the state has extensive psychiatric facilities in its prisons, there is no reason why such persons cannot be sent to prison and treated there, the report argues. Meanwhile, the patterns of use of the insanity plea have changed and there is considerable dissatisfaction with it.

To begin with, the successful use of the defense has increased drastically — from 53 in 1965-1971, to 225 in 1971-1976.

The study showed that the defense is not uniformly used, geographically or demographically, throughout the state. "The defense has tended to be used as a guilt avoidance device for certain empathetic segments of the population," Carnahan wrote. That means that in many cases, juries acquit those who plead insanity largely because the defendants are members of groups for whom the juries feel empathy, such as mothers who kill their children, police officers, and professionals who are driven to crime by desperation.

In response to a department survey sent to 1,000 judges, lawyers and district attorneys, there were many complaints that the law was too vague and that it requires imprecise and superficial psychiatric testimony. In addition, nearly three-quarters of the respondents felt that the standards for release from mental institutions were too lax.

The insanity defense is rooted in case law going back to 19th century England and has since been codified. Some lawyers have questioned whether elimination of the insanity defense could not required constitutionally to be maintained. It cites a Supreme Court decision in which Justice Hugo Black wrote that the state has "wide freedom to determine the extent to which moral culpability should be a prerequisite to conviction of a crime."

The report maintains: "An insanity defense is

More warrants issued

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Arrest warrants were issued Friday for eight persons, including two South Texas mayors and three already indicted anti-poverty agency officials, in the climax of a two-month court of inquiry into alleged misuse of federal funds.

State District Judge Joe Cisneros, who convened the court of inquiry in January to probe the alleged irregularities in the Hidalgo County programs, issued the warrants against: —Eliseo Sandoval, executive director of the Associated City County Economic Development Corp. (ACCEDCO), 10 counts alleging misapplication of funds. Sandoval, who has asked for a leave of absence from his post, is already under felony theft indictments in neighboring Cameron County.

—Nick Ramirez, on leave of absence as the executive director of the federally-funded Hidalgo County Manpower program, six counts alleging felony theft and one alleging official misconduct. He is also under a felony theft indictment in Cameron County.

—McAllen accountant Ed Romero, an auditor for the ACCEDCO, six counts alleging felony theft. Romero is under felony theft indictment in Cameron County.

—LaJoya Mayor Leo J. Leo, three counts alleging official misconduct.

—Hidalgo Mayor Ed Vela, one count alleging official misconduct and another alleging misapplication of funds.

—Evangelina Vela, wife of the mayor, one count alleging misapplication of funds.

Cisneros, who set bond at $1,000 per count for each person, also issued a warrant alleging official misconduct against Robert Adams, a Hidalgo County Manpower official who went on leave of absence after replacing Ramirez as director of the county program.

Leonel Fernandez, an employee of the Greater South Texas Economic Programs in Hebbronville, a delegate agency of ACCEDCO, was named in one count alleging misapplication of funds.

The trip, Carter's third overseas since taking office, will take him to Venezuela, Brazil and Nigeria. He will also make a brief stop in Liberia along the west African coast on his way back to the United States on April 3.

The three main stops on the journey, in Venezuela, Brazil and Nigeria, were originally part of a trip Carter planned to take last fall. But when the fall trip had to be postponed because of the congressional energy debates and rescheduled for late last year, the Latin American and African stops were dropped from the itinerary.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the president's national security adviser, said that the trip is "part of our effort to widen the scope of our primary cooperative efforts" with other nations and to "acknowledge the important role" these Third World nations now play in world affairs.

Three sharing golf lead in Jackie Gleason play

Andy Bean reacts to long putt

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Barry Jaekel's 4-under par 68 was the best of the day Friday and gained him a three-way second-round tie for the lead with Andy Bean and Danny Edwards in the $250,000 Jackie Gleason Invitational Classic.

Jaekel, who had a 70 Thursday, and Bean and Edwards, each of whom had 69s the first two days, held a 1-stroke edge over first-day leader Grier Jones, who had an even-par 72, and Dave Eichelberger, who carded a 3-under-par 69 for a 139.

TWO STROKES behind the leaders at 140 were veteran Hale Irwin, Howard Twitty and rookie Pat McGowan, who picked up his first paycheck on the tee, $475, last week in Los Angeles.

Jerry Pate, winner of two tournaments last year and second in the Phoenix Open this year, held 141 by himself, followed by Jim Chaney, Bob Shearer, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Los Angeles winner Gil Morgan at 142, 4 strokes behind the leaders.

J.C. Snead headed a group of seven at 143 while veteran Don January was among another group of seven at even-par 144.

hole which Bean called the hardest hole on the back nine because of the wind. Gilbert put three balls into the water.

Ray Floyd, who didn't make the cut with his 51 Friday, took a 6 on 16 and was fortunate to do so. He put two into the water, barely kept his fifth shot out and then chipped his sixth into the hole.

JAEKEL CREDITED his putting for his round. He needed only 27 putts for the day following his Thursday round in which he putted only 30 times.

MHS, Lee teams are impressive

LUBBOCK — Sixteen Midland and Lee swimmers earned berths in today's finals with impressive Friday afternoon qualifying performances here in the Region IV Swimming and

Abilene tops Eastwood five

ABILENE — The hot-shooting Abilene Eagles gunned down the El Paso Eastwood Troopers, 79-67, here Friday night to move into the Class AAAA regional basketball tourney finals against Fort Worth Dunbar today.

Dunbar eased past Amarillo High, 60-57, in the other semifinal game.

Cisco Smith tallied 21 points for Abilene while teammates David Little and Byron Roberts added 20 each in the balanced Eagle attack. Darren Edwards chipped in with 14 more just for good measure.

Abilene hit 78 per cent from the free throw line and additional 56 per cent from the floor in chalking up its 33rd victory in 37 outings.

Diving Tournament being held at Texas Tech University.

Coach David Whytlaw's Lee team led the way with 10 of those qualifiers — six boys and four girls — plus four relay teams. Midland had three girls and three boys advance to today's finals, which will determine the regional representatives for the state meet next month, and also has three relay teams in today's competition.

All preliminary competition, with the exception of boys diving, was held Friday, and the finals will get underway at 2 p.m. today at the Red Raider pool. The boy's diving preliminaries get underway at 9 a.m.

Leading the way for the Rebel boys team was Bob Franz, who qualified in both his events, the 50 and 100 freestyles. He was timed in 22.49 in the 50, the fastest qualifying time of the day, and earned a berth in the 100 finals with a 59.94 clocking. His teammate, Mike Solari also qualified with a 50.87.

Also qualifying Friday were Mark Solari, with a 5:15.69 in the 500-freestyle; Kurt Ehlman in the 100-backstroke; Cary Carrens with a 1:03.81 in the 100-breaststroke; Kurt Franke with a 1:51.80 in the 200-freestyle; and Lee's 200-medley and 400-free relay teams. The 200-medley unit set a school and regional record in their qualifying heat with a 1:42.46

DEFENDING CHAMPION Jack Nicklaus, the early favorite, carded five birdies but suffered six bogeys and one double bogey to come home 3-over-par for the day and 1-over for the tournament with four others, including Tom Weiskopf.

"I hit the ball better today than yesterday," said Nicklaus who had a 70 Thursday compared to Friday's 75, "but every time I looked up I was in the wrong place."

Eighty players, the highest of the season, made the cut at 149 and will play in the final rounds today and Sunday in an effort to earn the $50,000 first prize.

CBS will carry an hour today beginning at 4 p.m. EST, and two hours Sunday, starting at 4 p.m. EST.

MTC opens 1978 season

The Midland Tennis Club will kick off their 1978 season today with the Hello Men's Singles Tournament, which will be held at the Midland High courts.

The Hello tourney is the first of 30 events on the MTC 78 calendar, which will conclude on December 2-3 with the Scramble Men's Doubles Tournament.

All members of the club are eligible to compete in the tournaments, and all tennis enthusiasts are invited to join the MTC.

Rebels grab lead in Comanche Relays

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
R-T Sports Writer

FORT STOCKTON — The start of the 34th annual Comanche Relays here Friday afternoon produced a standard run-of-the-mill start for the 1978 track season. That is to say the spectacular was absent, but there weren't too many disappointments and even a few surprises.

The finals of the AAAA shot put was the best show of the day, and that event helped stake Midland Lee to a 37-34 lead over Odessa Permian going into today's running finals.

In fact, the shot put was a big event for the Tall City. Lee's Jeff McCowan, a regional berth winner a year ago, had his career best throw with a toss of 54-4, but he had to win the event on his last heave of the day to edge Odessa Permian's Tommy Sager to win it with 54½ after scratching when McCowan produced the pressure on his last throw.

But that was just the start as four other tossers eclipsed the 50-foot barrier. That is the first time in Midland track history that five men wre over 50-feet in the same meet.

Lee sophomore Rodney Taylor had a toss of 52½ for third while Midland High senior Brian Booker was fourth with a 50-3¾. Midland High sophomore David Simmons was a surprise fifth with a 50-8¼ while Lee junior Herb Pearce was sixth with 50-2½. It was quite an event.

Lee's Jody Sessom placed second in the pole vault with a 13-6, his best effort ever, but Permian's Mark Shipman won the event with a 14-0. Midland High's Joe Primera was a surprise fifth with a 12-0.

Lee also picked up points in the long jump when Jerry Moore finished second with a 20-10¼ and Sessom continued to surprise with a 20-1¼ for fourth place.

With only five AAAA teams in the meet, the running preliminaries were mostly a joke, but both Lee and Midland High runners fared as well or better than expected. Lee has 14 runners qualified for today and both relays, while Midland High will have seven individuals and two relays to work with. San Angelo leads the pack with 17 individuals, while Permian has 15 in the finals. Both teams have two relays.

Three Lee runners made the finals in the 440-yard dash as sophomore Phil Carlton led the way in a surprise with a fine early-season 51.6. Jamie Berry had a 52.0, while Gary Butler,

Baseball opens Wednesday

By BOB DILLON

It's play ball on the high school Front Wednesday.

That's the day that the Midland Bulldogs and Robert E. Lee Rebels open the 1978 baseball season in the Tall City against the Snyder Tigers and Hobbs, N.M. Eagles.

Midland, under Coach Larry Peel, will face the Tigers at 4 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium diamond while Lee, under veteran Coach Ernie Johnson, opens against the New Mexico team at the same time on the Lee diamond.

Both Peel and Johnson are much more optimistic than last year at this time. The Bulldogs and Rebels will be improved over last year with Midland returning nine lettermen and Lee 12 letter winners.

Peel is starting his second campaign at the helm of the Purple Pack while Johnson starts his 18th season with the Rebels.

JOHNSON FEELS he will have good pitching and a good hitting team this year and has high hopes to fare well in always-tough District 5-4A.

Peel also is optimistic with nine lettermen back this time around. Actually, he had 12 lettermen, but three of them are no longer on the team.

Midland faces Snyder on Wednesday and then entertains Lubbock Monterey on Friday. Then on Saturday, the Pack tries Lubbock High in a doubleheader in the Tall City to complete the four games in four days.

Lee will travel to Hobbs on Friday for a return match with the Eagles and entertain Lubbock Coronado in a twin bill Saturday on the Lee diamond.

The Rebs will take on Class AAA Pecos next Monday at home and then play Coronado in Lubbock Tuesday in preparation for the big Tournament of Champions next Friday and Saturday at Cubs Stadium.

MIDLAND, MEANWHILE, is idle Monday, but plays at Snyder Tuesday before the Tournament of Champions which will also include Duncanville and Monterey, El Paso Burges.

In Friday's opening round, Lee tries Monterey in the 12:30 p.m. game and then squares off with Midland High in the 5:30 p.m. contest.

Midland opens against Duncanville at 10 a.m. Friday while in the 3 p.m. tilt, Burges battles Duncanville and in the featured 8 p.m. game, Monterey tries Burges.

Johnson is high on his outfield which is blessed with good arms and speed in John White, Pat Moore and Todd Clements.

Lee beat Midland, 7-6, last Tuesday in a scrimmage at the MHS diamond and the two teams will go again today at 1 p.m. at the Lee diamond.

Moore, Clements and White are returning letter winners along with Jeff Hatfield, John Hopkins, Richard Josefy, Don Rasure, Tracey Rogers, Doug Schmidt and Craig Van Horn. Van Horn pitched and played in the infield last year, but this time around will pitch and catch some.

OTHER VARSITY members include Tyler Alcorn, Danny Brenner, Clay Calhoun, Gary Gibson, Steve Pitts, Chris Sapyta and Terry Willis. Bruce Clifton, Mark Denny, Dwayne Holmes, Lee Johnson, B.B. Lankford, Larry Latch and Stuart Lauffer have been moved to the junior varsity and all show good potential to Johnson.

Lee also plays Andrews and Class AAAA Waco University High in non-district games this spring while Midland faces Class AAA Lamesa along with Lubbock, Monterey, Snyder and Coronado in non-loop games.

Steve Cole, a two-year letter winner, heads the nine returning experienced players for Peel.

BESIDES COLE, other lettermen include James Allen, Joe Mowles, Mark Mead, Bud Brigham, Rick Foster, Kevin Cooper, James Zachry and Ricky Goode.

Goode and Cole have been hitting the ball well, according to Peel and sophomore shortstop and pitcher, Tracy Gann has pleased Peel with his work thus far.

The rest of the Bulldog roster includes Sam Driskill, Kelly Lilly, Tommy Munoz, Mike Mowles, Archie Booth, Link Grimes and Blake Feldt. Allen has looked good handling the catching chores and also plays pushing shortstop. Munoz is Allen at the catching slot.

Goode, a 6-3, 230-pound senior, gives the Pack good sock at the plate along with Cole.

Things are looking up on both sides of town as the 1978 season opens on Wednesday.

Nets topple Houston five

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — Kevin Porter set a National Basketball Association record with 29 assists Friday night as the New Jersey Nets beat the Houston Rockets 126-112.

The old record of 28 was set by Bob Cousy of Boston on Feb. 27, 1959, and tied by Guy Rodgers of San Francisco on March 14, 1963.

Porter hit John Williamson with a shovel pass and Williamson converted a jumper to give his teammate the record.

Williamson led the Nets in scoring with 39 points and Bernard King added 35. Porter, who was guarded by Calvin Murphy most of the night, scored 14.

Murphy topped the Rockets with 38 points and Moses Malone had 28.

The Nets led 58-53 at halftime and pulled away in the second half, taking a 91-78 lead into the final period.

expected to start the game for the Red Raiders wearing a special protective mask built by Texas Tech trainers.

The Tech-Texas A&M clash will be televised regionally on the SWC network at 3:30 p.m.

The fifth-place Baylor Bears host sixth-place Southern Methodist in another 3 p.m. TCU-Arkansas clash is at 7:30 p.m. and Rice-Houston is at 8 p.m.

The winners of the first-round games advance to the finals of the tournament, beginning next Thursday in Houston.

The winner of the SMU-Baylor game will play the survivor of the TCU-Arkansas clash at 7 p.m. Thursday. The nightcap will feature the winners of the other two first-round games.

The semifinals are scheduled for Friday night and the survivor of the round-robin meets Texas for the right to play in the NCAA's Midwest Regionals in Lawrence, Kan.

The SWC is expected to receive another NCAA bid for its runner-up team and the National Invitational Tournament, which invited Houston last year, is also eyeing the league because the Cougars made it to the NIT finals, losing narrowly to St. Bonaventure.

There was a move afoot to use three referees once the tournament reaches the Summit.

The SWC experimented all year long without using the jump ball, but will re-instate it for the tournament to condition SWC teams for NCAA tournament play.

The 15,000-seat Summit has already sold more than 11,000 tickets for the three-night finals.

McTear breaks record in 60-yard dash race

NEW YORK (AP) — Explosive Houston McTear blasted out of the blocks with ferocity and broke the men's world indoor record for an automatically timed 60-yard dash with a clocking of 6.04 seconds in the National AAU Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The confident McTear, who has contended all year that he is the world's No. 1 sprinter and backed it up by going unbeaten, charged to his seventh victory in brilliant fashion. And as he crossed the finish line, he raised his right index finger in a victory salute and then shot both hands into the air in exultation.

"I'm in command," McTear has maintained.

AND IN THIS national meet, he was just that in erasing the indoor mark of 6.11 he set last month at the Millrose Games at the Garden.

McTear, who grew up in poverty in Baker, Fla., has turned his career around since coming under the wing of former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali.

Alli, who has formed his own track club in California, helped straighten out McTear by providing him with financial aid last year. He also purchased a home for the hard-driving sprinter and was partly responsible for getting McTear into Cerritos, Calif., Junior College.

McTear has responded by running more consistently than ever in his checkered career. Prior to this year, he was an erratic performer, but now no one has been able to beat him, except a starter's gun. The only meet in which he did not win this year was when he was disqualified for two false starts in the Philadelphia Track Classic.

"The only way I'll get beat is for somebody to come along like I did when I started beating them," said the 20-year-old McTear. "That's what I'm saying now. Somebody has to come up and beat me. Other than that, I'm in command."

Don Merrick of the Central YMCA finished second in 6.13 and 1977 AAU champion Steve Riddick of the Pioneer Club was third in 6.16, edging Steve Williams of Athletic Attic, who had the same time.

THE WOMEN'S 60-yard dash also produced a runaway as Brenda Morehead of Tennessee State University raced to victory in 6.73 seconds. Evelyn Ashford of the Maccabi Union Track Club finished second in 6.80 and Chandra Cheeseborough of Tennessee State was third in 6.86.

Olympian Charles Foster of the Philadelphia Flyers was an easy winner in the men's 60-yard high hurdles, skimming to victory in 7.11 seconds. Unheralded Kenny Lewis of Virginia Tech was second in 7.18, followed by UCLA football star James Owens in 7.21.

Another Olympian, Deby LaPlante of Englewood, N.J., took the women's

King grabs lead in LPGA tourney

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Betsy King shot a 1-under-par 71 Friday and moved into first place with a 141 after the second round of the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association's Bent Tree Golf Classic.

But the Limekiln, Pa., pro faced stiff competition from Nancy Lopez, who almost tied for the lead when she missed making a hole-in-one. Lopez, of Roswell, N.M., was two shots back at 143.

King was the picture of consistency, shooting birdies on the ninth and 18th holes. She faltered only once with a threeputt bogey on the 17th hole of the 6,124-yard Bent Tree Golf and Racquet Club.

Lopez characterized her own round as frustrating.

"A little boy told me he saw the ball land in the cup and bounce off the flagstick," she said of the missed opportunity on the 12th hole. "If I had made the hole-in-one I don't know if I could've continued playing well."

Sandra Palmer of Boca Raton, Fla., shot her second even-par 72 to claim third place with a 144. JoAnne Carner of Lake Worth, Fla., shot Friday's low round of 69 to share fourth place at 145 with Donna White of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Cathy Morse; Marlene Floyd of Palm Springs, Calif.; and Tatsuko Ohsako of Japan.

The winner of the 72-hole tournament will win $15,000.

Skins pick Beathard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Redskins completed the replacement of George Allen on Friday by naming former Miami Dolphins executive Bobby Beathard as general manager.

Beathard, 40, was player personnel director for the Dolphins. Redskins President Edward Bennett Williams said he picked Beathard because of his success in drafting young talent that has helped rebuild the Dolphins.

"We believe the foundation of the Redskins is in the draft," said Williams, pronouncing an end to Allen's "future is now" philosophy of trading draft choices for veteran players.

Beathard said his first task would be to sit down with the Redskins' new coach, Jack Pardee, and not writing off this year's draft. He pointed out that the draft, Allen, now Bobby Mitchell was an eighth round draft choice Rams, had been both 20 years ago and said he expected to strengthen the club with the low round picks available this year.

Williams said his club will be "going on the greatest talent search in the history of the National Football League" in an effort to apart and rebuild to improve the team, which finished 9-5 last year but failed to make the playoffs.

Beathard will have to wait a few years before he can draft on even terms with the rest of the teams in the league. Allen traded away the first seven picks in this year's draft.

Williams said he was

The Redskins have a representative team. We're looking for improvement in the next two years. We'll explore every avenue," said Beathard, referring to agents, trades and picking players from the waiver list.

another sophomore, had a 52.9. Lee will have to score heavily here today.

Lee's Dwight Washington led all qualifiers in the 220 with a fine 22.7, while teammate Doug Guthrie had a 23.6. Midland High's Alvin Price, the meet favorite in this event, had a 23.2 and was beaten by Washington in his qualifying heat.

Washington and Guthrie both qualified for the 100-yard dash as well with 10.2 and 10.3 respectively. Midland High's Jerry Bundage also managed a 10.2, while Permian's Danny King led the qualifiers with a 10.1.

Lee's Wes Wolley qualified in the high hurdles with a 15-8 in the only other qualifying race.

In Division II, Lakeview owns the early lead with 28 points, while Andrews has 23 for second. Andrews' Van Percy had the best opening day by winning the long jump with a leap of 22.5, earning second in the high jump with a 6-2 and followed that with a 9.9 in the 100 prelims.

In Division I, Marfa took the big first day lead with 26½ points after four events, while Kermit is second with 16. Stanton scored only nine points Friday, but qualified nine individuals and two relays for today's finals.

McCauley's B.J. Terry posted the top time in the 100 with a 10.3 and in the 220 with a 24.0. Stanton's Todd Smith had a 52.3 in the 440 for the best effort, and McCauley's Don Trowbridge led the milers with a 4:12.4.

Ashe needed less than an hour to oust South Africa's Frew McMillan 6-3, 6-0, while Masters had his easiest match of the week in beating Tom Leonard of Palo Mesa, Calif., 62-61.

In later quarter-final matches Friday night, top-seeded Jimmy Connors met Nick Saviano and fifth-seeded Stan Smith met fourth-seeded Wojtek Fibak.

Ashe used strong volleys and five second-set aces to keep McMillan out of position to make his smooth two-hand forehand and backhand

Leonard had hit 19 service aces in upsetting Britain's Mark Cox in the second round, but had difficulty with his serve against Masters.

TEE TIME

Spring finally here

By REX WORRELL

It looks like Spring has finally arrived — or at least the golf season finally came to the Permian Basin anyway this week. The staff at Hogan Park Golf Course reported seeing some people out on the course who haven't held a club in nearly eight weeks.

Another indicator that the golf season is here would be the tee time reservations. As of Friday at 6:30 a.m., all reservations for Saturday were taken and by noon Friday, 31 groups had been turned away.

As you have noticed of late, this column has not reported too many golf accomplishments by the golfers who play at Hogan Park, but with the warmer temperatures, we look for a lot of golfers and some interesting feats to report.

The Hogan Park Women's Golf Association FINALLY held UU and completed a Playday. The event, played Thursday, was low score on par-5's. In the 18-hole division, Cheryl Starcevic was the first flight winner. Jane Wagner the second flight champ, Gloria Dellenback the third flight winner and Maxine Buskirk the fourth flight victory.

In the nine-hole competition, Rita Boe and Frances Stahl were the first place finishers. Bernice Webb was second and Peggy Parkins, Jeanne Allen and Betty Reimers tied for third.

The ladies will hold Trophy Day on March 2, with the following pairings: 18-hole division — Margaret Mills, Golda Morgan and Nell Kimball; March Davis, Maxine Buskirk and Bernice Cox; Pete Minnerly, Jean Elkin and Sandy Wilkerson; Chata Mee, Fern Barnett and Linda Ballard; Jackie Luvisi, Ella Heath and Merla Ketner; Dottie Turk, Alvina Hill and Jane Wagner; Anelle Mack, Wilma Cox and Florence Mailey; Jet Schultz, Charleen Roseberry and Betty Cobb; Gene Velten, Muriel Inman and Dorothy Melzer; Marilyn Philpy, Pauline Simom and Gloria Dellenback.

The nine-hole division will begin at the number 10 tee box with the following pairings: Evelyn Ballard, Peggy Barry and Ernestine Browning; Juanita Evinger, Vera Powers and Margaret Rhea; Mary Davis, Bonnie Waibel and Carol DePaul; Karen Clark, Barbara Larsen and Betty Reimers; Peggy Mattina, Rosa Lee Cook and Dot Pringle; Evelyn Guidry and Romona Show; Patty Frizell, Kim Gentry and Margaret Moore; Marilyn Berry, Leah Sutcliffe and Jeanne Allen; Marjorie Cardwell, Wilma Allenson and Bernice Webb; Pat Kolb, Betty Williams and Keenie Ashland; Rita Boe, Frances Stahl and Peggy Parkins.

MHS golfers in 6th place in Del Rio

DEL RIO—Shooting an opening round 315, the Midland High golf team is in sixth place after the first day of action here in the Del Rio Invitational Golf Tournament.

Sixteen teams are competing in this two-day event, which is being played on two courses, the Laughlin Air Force Base course and Felipe Country Club, and Odessa Permian is in first place with an 18-hole total of 305.

Trailing the Panthers in order Abilene Cooper, 310; San Angelo, 310; Big Spring, 314; San Antonio Marshall, 314; Midland; San Antonio McArthur, 316; and San Antonio Holmes, 316.

Mike Mahan and Richard Minnix had the best rounds of the day on the Laughlin course for Midland, shooting 75's. David Brimberry had a 79, Jeff Ludke a 86 and Mike Young a 87.

The tourney will conclude this afternoon, with all 16 teams utilizing the San Felipe course.

Bucks defeat Chicago Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — Brian Winters scored five of his game-high 25 points in overtime Friday night to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 112-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls.

Winters crippled the Bulls with a 35-footer with 48 seconds remaining and put the game out of reach with a free throw with 8 seconds remaining in the extra session.

The game had been sent into overtime when Chicago's Wilbur Holland hit two free throws with 11 seconds left in regulation time.

Norm Van Lier, playing with the flu, scored the first two Chicago baskets in overtime, but Milwaukee tied the score on baskets by Winters and Dave Meyers. A 15-footer by Meyers gave Milwaukee the lead for good at 107-105.

The game was marred by three technicals on Chicago and the tossing of coins by the crowd. One, a 50-cent piece, struck Chicago player Cazzie Russell above the right eye. Russell left the game, but returned later.

The Bulls roared back from an 89-81 deficit midway through the final quarter and tied the game at 93-93, before Marques Johnson, who had 21 points for the Bucks, led a Milwaukee surge which sent the Bucks back into command.

Artis Gilmore led the Bulls with 23 points. Holland added 22.

Carlos Zarate faces Davila in TV fight

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Carlos Zarate was constantly in trouble as a youngster, constantly fighting and getting thrown out of school, and his older brother, Jorge, decided to teach him a lesson.

Jorge entered young Carlos in a amateur boxing tournament in their hometown of Ramos Millan, just outside Mexico City. Carlos won 10 straight bouts, and that was just the beginning.

The 25-year-old Zarate, who has become boxing's most accomplished knockout artist, reigns as the World Boxing Council bantamweight king, a stature he'll try to maintain today when he defends his title against Alberto Davila.

The bout, beginning at 4 p.m. CST will be nationally televised, marking Zarate's first coast-to-coast exposure in the United States.

Although his record, 49-0 with 48 knockouts, indicates Zarate is pound-for-pound one of the most dynamic fighters in ring history, he is little known outside his native Mexico, but the televised match against Davila could remedy that.

However, Davila, a 23-year-old from Pomona, Calif., with a 25-4 record, says he has a solid chance to upset the champion, adding that his power has been underrated.

"A lot of people thought I was just a boxer," Davila said. "It wasn't until I stopped four of my last six foes that they decided I could hit."

"I've seen Zarate a couple of times and he is a great champion, but I'm not awed by him at all."

He added, however, "I have to be careful because he can really hit."

Davila, listed as 5-foot-2, some six inches shorter than his opponent, will collect $55,000 for the bout, $44,000 above his previous best purse. The champion has been guaranteed $100,000.

The Rebels' Tracy Williams had quite an afternoon Friday as she qualified in three different events. She had the fastest qualifying time, a 2:05.60 in the 200-freestyle, and also earned final berths in the 500-free and the 100-breaststroke (1:16.65).

Joining Williams on the list of multiple qualifiers was Susan Swendig, who qualified in both the 50 and 100 freestyle events.

Susan Murrah will join Williams in the finals of the 200-free after she qualified with a 2:12.09, and Lori Snook rounds out the list of individual qualifiers for Lee. She earned a berth in the 100-butterfly finals with a 1:04.57 showing in preliminaries.

Lee also qualified teams in the 200-medley and 400-free relays.

Midland's Clay Spears and Sid Glenn in the boys competition, and Kelly Dowdle and Brigitte Coon in the girls, all qualified in two events Friday.

Glenn had the fastest qualifying time in the 200-IM prelims with a

Playoff tilt changed

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — The Midwest Region first-round games of the 1978 national collegiate basketball championships scheduled to be at Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., have been moved to Market Square Arena in Indianapolis.

Wayne Duke, the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division I basketball committee chairman, said, "Purdue University is facing serious energy problems and requested the NCAA relieve it of a commitment to host the first-round competition Saturday, March 11."

Duke said since Indianapolis is located close to Lafayette he hoped the fans who bought tickets for the games "won't be severely inconvenienced" by the switch.

Market Square Arena, a municipal arena, also will host the Midwest Region in 1979 and the national championship finals in 1980.

Gerulaitis takes win in Ocean City tennis

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — First-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis rolled over Zeljko Franulovic following a controversial call in the first set tiebreaker, and Ray Moore upset fourth-seeded Roscoe Tanner in the quarterfinals of the $100,000 Ocean City International Tennis Tournament Friday night.

Gerulaitis, the defending champion playing his first match in the 12-man field, defeated Franulovic 7-6, 6-0, winning the first set tiebreaker 7-4 following a controversial call on the eighth point.

A serve by Gerulaitis was ruled an ace when the umpire requested help from a linesman at the opposite end of the court after the nearest linesman was blocked from viewing the play. Franulovic's game collapsed after that as Gerulaitis won the next three points and then lost only one point while scoring three service breaks in the second set.

In today's semifinals, Gerulaitis will face Moore, who defeated Tanner 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, and Balazs Taroczy Hungary will play second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania.

Moore, a South African who has been taking service lessons from Tanner, showed he has been learning well as he defeated his new American doubles partner.

Moore served seven aces, only one less than the hard-serving Tanner, as he defeated the fourth-seeded American in a match devoid of many long rallies.

Tanner had allowed only three points on six previous services before he was broken in the seventh game of the deciding set, after twice avoiding break points. The deciding point was scored when Tanner hit a backhand from the net wide of the line.

Moore scored the only break of the second set in the second game and Tanner won the opening set following a break in game No. 6.

Except for the breaks, Tanner allowed only 15 points at service and five of those came on double faults.

MC netters capture lead in tournament

WACO—The Midland College tennis team jumped out to the first day lead here Friday in the opening rounds of the McLennan Invitational Tennis Tournament being played on the Baylor University campus.

The Chaps, winning every one of their matches in the championship division, accumulated 32 points and lead their nearest opposition, Central Texas College, by almost 20 points.

Rivera won his final match of the day over Van Manning of Sam Houston State, 6-1, 6-0. Manning was the man who won the open singles title last summer in the Midland Highway 80 tournament.

In women's championship singles play, MC's JoAnne Hall, Ann Layman, Bianca Barria, Kathy Bovell and Geraldine Sayers are the recent additions to Coach Brian Gilley's team from Australia.

In today's men's quarterfinals, all of the Midland competitors face a Central Texas opponent, and their success or failure will probably decide the team title here.
