Lubbock Doctor Discusses 'Drug Abuse' Misconceptions

An informative program on drug abuse was presented Monday evening in the high school auditorium by Dr. Richard Jones of Lubbock. The meeting was sponsored by the Lamb County Civil Defense Unit.

Dr. Jones, a practicing psychiatrist and member of the Mayor's Council, spoke of the most common misconceptions concerning drug abuse.

Drug abuse, Jones said, is not a new problem but one that has existed for centuries -- beginning with Noah. It seems to be a new problem because it has become so readily available.

"A drug is a drug, is a drug, is a drug" does not hold true, Jones said. He pointed out that drugs are different in composition, effect on the body and mind, potency, availability, legality, practicality and long effect.

Users are just as unlike as drugs, Jones pointed out. "There are possibly 100 different causes for persons becoming users."

Many use drugs for a "kick", he said. Other primary causes include rebellion and peer pressure.

Young people are much more knowledgeable of drugs than their elders, said Jones. He urged parents, "The wisest thing is to get knowledge of the subject."

"The best way to combat drug abuse is to start 10 years ago" Jones said. "Give your children a set of values and attitudes."

Jones, who is also assistant director of the South Plains Guidance Center in Lubbock urged parents to relate to their children before they grow to be teenagers.

Much of the drug abuse today may have come about because of the "pill culture we live in -- with pills to relax, pills to go to sleep, pills to wake up, etc."

The crossing guard arms were down, but the car went around the guard rail on its side of the track and approached the railroad. It hesitated and then pulled onto the track and an hour at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Newman was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace W. A. "Bill" Wilson.

stopped, Fogleston was quoted as having reported.

Dick Gritman, assistant manager of the Buffalo Lake Wildlife Refuge, said he and his wife were returning home from Canyon when he noticed sparks flying from the train.

He remarked to his wife, "That train is dragging something."

He said that Newman came running down the track, waving him down, saying that he wanted an ambulance and that he was unable to find Mrs. Newman.

Mrs. Newman was knocked from her car, Boyter said. She is believed to have been killed instantly. The Newman automobile was dragged about a mile from the crossing.

The officer said the train was traveling about 70 miles

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

President Nixon's nomination of Edward B. Miller of Illinois as new chairman of the National Labor Relations Board is a step towards restoring the fairness that has been absent from that controversial federal agency since its founding. Mr. Miller is a Chicago attorney who in years past has represented management in labor disputes.

The vacancy Mr. Miller will fill, if confirmed by the Senate, occurred when Sam Zagoria's five-year term expired in January. Mr. Zagoria is a liberal Republican, a former assistant to Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey, and one-time reporter for THE WASHINGTON POST and member of the American Newspaper Guild, an AFL-CIO union.

Mr. Zagoria, like other members of the board appointed by Democratic administrations, was strongly sympathetic to unions in disputes before the board. U. S. Rep. Albert Watson (R-SO), in a protest voiced last December, charged that Mr. Zagoria was "an extreme activist on the board who has contributed mightily to the breakdown in labor-management relations because of his participation in decisions which thwart the letter and spirit of labor law enacted by Congress."

Rep. Watson also asserted that "the NLRB was not created to make labor policy, only to help resolve labor-management disputes and enforce labor law. But Mr. Zagoria has served in an era in which we have witnessed untold labor law abuses by the board."

James J. Kilpatrick, the highly respected syndicated columnist, is among the writers who has cited the lack of balance on the NLRB. He recently observed that there is not a single member of the board who "has observed industrial relations from the management side of a table." Obviously, this is an experience gap that is intolerable if fairness is to be a characteristic of the board's work.

American business has never suggested that the NLRB should be devoid of representatives with understanding of the position of unions in industrial disputes. But the unions bitterly resist any nominee to the board who is understanding of management. No sooner was Mr. Miller's nomination announced than George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, declared that his organization will oppose Mr. Miller being seated on the board.

Hopefully, the nomination of Mr. Miller will be approved and that other fair-minded men will be nominated and seated when vacancies occur on the board. The NLRB's obvious bias toward unions deprive American employers of a fair shake when disputes arise. In other words, employers can't obtain justice from the NLRB.

Ideally, of course, the overhaul of the NLRB's membership should be the prelude to a thorough revision of procedures for handling major labor-management disputes. Rep. Watson, cited above, also is the author of a bill that would replace the NLRB with a 15-judge U. S. Labor Court. The judges would be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate. NLRB trial examiners, who wield excessive power, would be replaced by 90 commissioners appointed by the Labor Court.

One reason why the NLRB's functions should be turned over to a court, in Mr. Watson's judgment, is that the board has failed to protect individual union members from coercion by national union leaders.

The Johnson administration bitterly opposed the Labor Court bill, but the Nixon administration presents a new opportunity for thorough overhaul of labor disputes procedures -- especially if Mr. Nixon has a stronger base in Congress after next fall's elections.

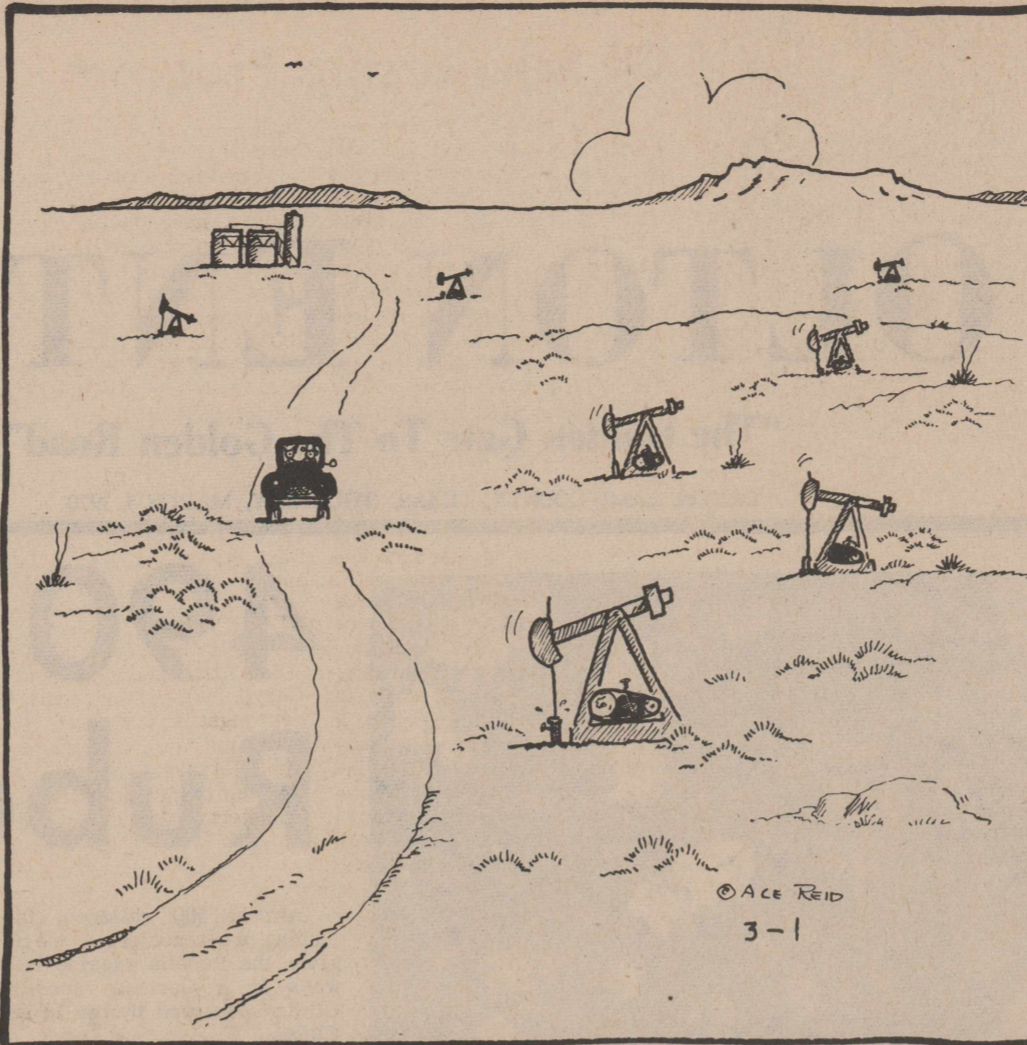

Over the years, many members of Congress have pointed to the prejudiced character of the NLRB. U. S. Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D-SC) is on record as saying of the NLRB: "This board is a disgrace to our people. It should be abolished. We need a labor court to protect both labor and management."

The history of the NLRB since its establishment in 1935 is a chronicle of blatant bias against management in the naming of appropriate collective bargaining units and in the determination of "unfair" employer practices. The NLRB, at the same time has done nothing to protect union members against domination by union bosses, many of them corrupt and violence-prone.

With the opening of a new decade it is time to open a new era in handling of labor-management disputes. The first step should be abolition of the NLRB.

Did He Lose Anything?

(Editor's Note: The following item is reprinted from the Frank Phillips Junior College Newspaper.)

A youth was stopped for a traffic violation. The Public Safety official recognized the odor in the violator's car. The defendant had a few joints with him.

He was convicted of possession, an automatic felony, and received a suspended sentence. DID HE LOSE ANYTHING? All he lost was the right to vote, the right to own a gun and the right to run for public office.

He lost the opportunity of ever being a licensed doctor, dentist, CPA, engineer, lawyer, architect, realtor, osteopath, physical therapist, private detective, pharmacist, school teacher, barber, funeral director, masseur, or stock broker.

He can never get any job where he has to be bonded or licensed.

He can't work for the city, county, or federal governments.

He can enlist in the military service but will not have a choice of service and will possibly be assigned to a labor battalion.

If this happened to you, would you think you had lost anything?

Apply Terraclor Super-X the first time you plant cotton.

Think for a minute what it costs to replant an acre of cotton that doesn't make a stand. There's the cost of seed, fertilizer, herbicides, insecticides, equipment, operators and the precious time. Multiply that by the number of acres you could lose to seed and seedling disease.

Now think about Terraclor Super-X Soil Fungicide. It could very well eliminate replanting. Here's why: Terraclor Super-X is a combination of two Olin discoveries that effectively control the fungi that cause cotton seedling disease.

How important is this to you? The regional Cotton Disease Council reports that losses average $60,000,000 a year to seedling diseases alone.

Terraclor Super-X is applied while you plant. Your cotton seed is surrounded by protection in the furrow, where it counts. As the seed germinates and the seedling emerges, the fungi that kill unprotected plants are held off by Terraclor Super-X. You get a healthy, vigorous stand from only one planting.

About seed treatments: They are great... as far as they go. But seed treatment protection lasts only until the seed coat opens and the seedling grows into untreated soil. That's when you need Terraclor Super-X in the furrow.

Terraclor Super-X is available from your Olin dealer in three formulations: granular, liquid and dust. A special formulation is available with a quality soil systemic insecticide impregnated in the granules for combination fungus and insect control.

If you don't know your local Olin dealer, write to Terraclor Super-X, P. O. Box 991, Little Rock, Ark. 72203 for his name.

You ought to get to know him. He can help you get a good stand from only one planting. That's one good reason he is known as the rare bird in the business.

High School Juniors Told Of Scholarship Program

High School Juniors -- Within the next year you will be giving very serious thought to your future, and in particular the first step -- a college education. For many of you, finances may be a factor as to which school you are able to attend.

Perhaps the United States Air Force ROTC program can be an assist to you. The Air Force offers a four year scholarship program for selected freshmen. The scholarship consists of full tuition, laboratory and associated fees, an allowance for books, plus a tax-free allowance of $50 a month as long as the scholarship is in effect.

If the college of your choice has the four-year AFROTC program, you may want to consider applying for the scholarship. The training you get while in AFROTC cannot be matched. It will help you develop your leadership potential; create a disciplined personality; and generally prepare you for entrance into the Air Force Officer Profession upon completion of your college work.

The cut-off date for application is normally the 14th of November of the Senior year.

For further details, see your high school counselor. If he doesn't have the detailed information concerning the program, ask him to write or you write directly for it. Address your inquiries to Air Force ROTC (ARTOD), Maxwell AFB, Alabama 36112, and ask for the bulletin on the "Air Force ROTC Scholarship Program".

Make Breakfast More Exciting

How does your family start the day? Do you get them going with a good breakfast? The few extra minutes it takes to prepare and eat breakfast are a worthwhile investment that will pay dividends throughout the day.

There are so many ways to add interest to this often-neglected meal. English muffins, for instance, are a delicious way to provide menu variety. Instead of cereal or toast, serve Thomas' English muffins and watch indifferent appetites improve. Thomas' English muffins are wonderful when they're buttered up, or topped with jam, honey, or apple butter.

For a special treat, try these Vermont Muffins. Split English muffins for toasting by scoring with the tines of a fork and then gently pulling them apart with fingers. Then you'll create hills and valleys which toast to golden perfection. Toast muffin halves lightly; butter. Drizzle on some maple syrup. Broil lightly until syrup bubbles. (NP Features)

Bob Price Writes

Parhandle Congressman Bob Price called tonight for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the principal that government should do only what the people cannot do for themselves.

"We are now reaping the harvest of recent years--years in which the Federal government thought in terms of programs rather than people. Individuality was stifled, Government promised more than it could deliver. We undertook to reform the world while American cities decayed. We regimented private enterprise." Price told Republicans attending a Lincoln Day dinner.

The Congressman read from the 1864 Republican Party platform which Abraham Lincoln helped draft:

"The shape of the future is our paramount concern. Much of today's moral decline and drift--much of the prevailing pre-occupation with physical and material comforts of life--much of today's crass political appeals to the appetites of the citizenry--can be traced to a leadership grown demagogic and materialistic through indifference to the national ideals founded in devoutly held religious faith."

of the national wealth--sometimes with dubious results--at home and abroad. The Government has reached a magnitude where it is taking nearly one dollar out of every three earned by Americans."

"There is much for Government to do...But Government cannot become a substitute for the human spirit, the individual initiative that built America. The strength of this country remains in the productive capacities, energies, and commitment of its people," Price said.

The Republican Congressman noted that the American people should demand that Government take some actions, however, and "stop playing political games with public safety."

"It is not secret that vital crime fighting and narcotics control legislation has been scuttled by the Democratic leadership in Congress. The President's objective is to alleviate the climate of fear and frustration that developed during the 1960's."

"It is not a time for faint-hearted political compromise. It is a time for decision and action. Change carries with it political peril. But we cannot afford to avoid change. It is up to us to reassert our self-respect as Americans, to assume mature responsibility, and to grow," Price said.

Check Labels For Content

Are you conscious of what fibers make up the clothes you buy? Lady Clare Phillips, Lamb County Home Demonstration Agent points out that a garment which needs special care may not be worth it.

Some garments consist of fibers which change drastically under normal cleaning processes. One such fiber is vinyon, a heat sensitive fiber which will stiffen and shrink when exposed to even moderate heat.

Garments containing vinyon must be cleaned in a special "cold" process. Before you buy, decide if the excess trouble caused by the special cleaning process is worth the garment.

Remember, to find a real bargain, examine the clothing care and content label. If the garment isn't labeled or tagged for fiber content or care, you are taking a chance in buying it, the agent warns.

Don't jump to conclusions about foods you buy, cautions Mrs. Phillips.

A prime example is non-dairy cream substitutes and whipped toppings. Don't assume they are lower in saturated fats than their dairy counterparts.

The products don't make this claim and it is not true. A study of 14 cream substitutes by a Harvard University scientist revealed that substitutes have up to 20 per cent more saturated fatty acids than the dairy creams they replace.

Many of them are made with highly saturated coconut oil. The dairy substitutes are not necessarily lower in calories, either, Mrs. Phillips adds.

Easter Seals Letters Sent

Easter Seal Appeal letters are being delivered this week in Lamb County, according to Joe Montgomery, who is the County Easter Seal Representative for the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

As Representative, Montgomery serves as local contact for disabled persons needing Easter Seal rehabilitation services and also is treasurer of the Easter Seal Appeal in Tulla.

The Easter Seal Society offers physical and occupational therapy, speech and hearing programs, and special equipment loans to enable disabled persons to make the best use of their abilities to overcome handicaps. These services are financed by the Annual Easter Seal Appeal.

The Society also provided for research into the causes and cures of crippling conditions, finances public education programs, and provides scholarships for training of professional personnel to staff rehabilitation centers.

He pointed out that all of these programs are important as Texas is going to continue to provide the best in rehabilitation services for its own disabled citizens.

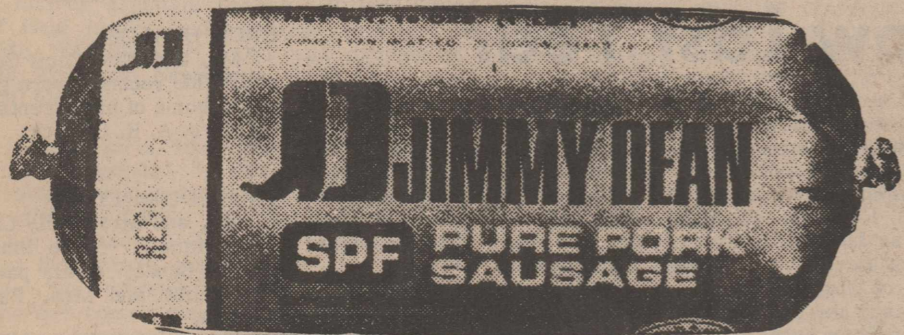

During 1969, the Texas Easter Seal Society helped to provide treatment and services to 20,378 children and adults who were in need of rehabilitation services. These services are available to any disabled person who can benefit from help provided by the Easter Seal Society.

The 1970 Easter Seal Campaign will run through Easter Sunday, March 29. He urged increased support for the Easter Seal Society and its program of services to crippled children and adults.

In discussing the centerpiece, regardless of object to be used, she urged that it not be so elaborate as to detract from the food, which is the focal part of the meal.

Refreshments of brownies, sand tarts, cheese filled wafers, Cokes and coffee were served to the following members, Mmes, Lloyd Blackwell, Bill Pittilo, Lester Kennedy, L. O. Langley, O. T. Crosby, Homer Curry, Ross Carty, Walter Lewis, Z. D. Miller, V. O. Harrod and Miss Ann Warren by the hostess.

Pie Recipe Corrected

Mrs. J. O. Bledsoe's recipe for Banana Party Pie featured in last week's Enterprise was incorrect. The corrected recipe is:

BANANA PARTY PIE

3/4 c. sugar
1/3 c. flour
1/4 tsp. salt
2 c. milk
3 egg yolks slightly beaten
2 T. butter
1 1/2 c. miniature marshmallows
1/2 c. heavy cream whipped or 1 pkg. Cream Whip
3 bananas
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Mix flour, salt, sugar in sauce pan, pour in milk, cook over low heat until real thick. Gradually add beaten egg yolks. Cook a few minutes longer, add butter and vanilla. Cool to room temperature. Add marshmallows and whipped cream. Slice bananas in pie shell. Pour mixture over and chill over night.

Mrs. Bledsoe tells us that she uses one cup sugar even though the recipe calls for 3/4 cup. She says, too, that the cooked mixture should be thoroughly cooled before adding the marshmallows and whipped cream.

Little Theatre Growth Reviewed By Mrs. Holladay

Mrs. Ruth Holladay was guest speaker for Olton Study Club's annual guest night in Woman's Club House Monday, Mar. 2.

Using the theme of the organization of Little Theatre in Olton, as taken from her thesis for Masters Degree, Mrs. Holladay traced drama as an art form to its earliest beginnings.

In describing the erratic growth pattern of this form of entertainment, she pointed out that amateurs performing for the pleasure of doing so, had kept the art alive in many critical periods.

In giving the history of drama in Olton, she cited its beginnings in school programs and patriotic pageants, with high school plays through the years as its continuation.

Reviewing the actual organization of "Little Theatre in Olton" she gave vivid account of the limitations overcome by wholehearted cooperation of community effort, and the satisfaction gained through achievement and community enjoyment.

Naming all cities and towns in this area who now have Little Theatre groups functioning, she stated that "Olton is unique in that this is the smallest town on record to have produced such an organization." Her closing remarks urged active support and continuance of this worthwhile endeavor.

The Smiths' "fourth daughter" is the family pet - a Siamese kitten named Sissaket. Wanting to give the kitten a real Siamese name, the Smiths selected Sissaket from a Thailand map. They aren't sure that their pronunciation is authentic but "Sissa-ke-t" seems to fit anyway.

Norma is almost a native of Olton, moving here when she was only three years old. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Lobaugh, now live in Tahlequah, Okla.

Accept Standard Of Sodom?

What is mental health? In a symposium in New York City, reported in Time magazine a few months ago, John Gagnon, sociologist at the State University of New York, made this statement:

"I have a minimum definition of mental health. You don't end up in a psychiatrist's office or in the hands of the police, you stay out of jail, you keep a job, you pay your taxes, and you don't worry people too much. That is called mental health. Nobody ever gets out of it alive. There is no way to succeed."

This was described as "a very bitter definition" by another participant, Dr. Charles Socarides, psychiatrist.

The participants in the symposium had been called together to discuss homosexuality and the problems connected with it.

Bless This Union?

One of the participants, Rev. Robert Weeks, mentioned "an acquaintance of mine, a man who has been 'married' to another homosexual for 15 years."

"Both of them are very happy," the minister said, "and very much in love. They asked me to bless their marriage, and I am going to do it."

He did not state where he found in the Bible the authority to bless such a union.

As to those who have chosen to walk in this way, the Bible says, "The men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another—men with men working that which is unseemly... God gave them over to a reprobate mind."

As the permissiveness of our society continues to increase, there has been mounting pressure for us to regard homosexuality as acceptable behavior.

Clubs have been formed to promote the idea that this sort of immorality should be not only condoned but approved.

W. Dorr Legg, educational director of one such club, has said "I won't be happy until all churches give homosexual dances."

On the New York stage and in the motion picture theaters of the nation "homosexuality is the vogue," according to Time.

As our society edges daily closer to the standards of Sodom—the "anything goes" society—what should be our attitude?

Shall we accept the advice of the "experts" who tell us to welcome homosexuals and overlook their queer way of life?

Some admonish us that Jesus was always loving and compassionate, even to admitted sinners, such as prostitutes. They imply that we should, therefore, accept immoral people and not criticize them for their conduct.

Remedy Available

The truth is that Jesus was never tolerant of sin—but always ready to receive the sinner who wanted to change his way of life and follow the Master.

The remedy for such a person was—and is—just the same as the remedy for the self-righteous Pharisee. The Master's clear, unequivocal statement was, "Ye must be born again."

Psychiatrists say that the homosexual is sick. To this the Bible agrees. The sickness is the sickness of sin.

There is hope for the homosexual who will turn to the Lord for the healing that he needs. There is real mental health available to him.

But there is no hope for the society which will tolerate homosexuality.

The fate of Sodom is eloquent evidence of God's attitude toward such immorality. Do we want to invite the same attitude toward us?

Four Teachers Attend Meet

Four teachers from Olton attended a Cuisenaire Rods follow-up conference Feb. 26 sponsored by the Region XVII Education Service Center.

They include Brenda Giles, Barbara Tollett, Carmaleta Barnett, and Anne Burkhalter. Cuisenaire Rods are a new teaching method which uses rods of various sizes and colors to teach basic mathematical principles to students from preschool to junior high.

The workshop, held at the Holiday Inn Parkway in Lubbock, was for area teachers who were provided with Cuisenaire Rods Kits by the ESC at the first workshop in October.

Sister Alice Hunter, school consultant for the Diocese of Dallas-Ft. Worth and counselor for the Cuisenaire Co., conducted the workshop and gave teachers knowledge for the effective use of the Cuisenaire Rods.

The conference also provided a review of basic procedures in the use of the rods and assistance was given to teachers with specific problems.

Homemaking Class Local Nutrition Survey

A survey of the eating habits of the Olton High School's Homemaking I classes show that only 16 percent of the students eat adequate meals for good nutrition based on the Texas Food Standard—not because of lack of money to buy food, but because of personal eating habits (food likes and dislikes).

All students eat MORE than enough of the energy foods — carbohydrates (sugars and starches) the survey shows. Diets are lowest in foods furnishing minerals and vitamins (fruits and vegetables). The intake of proteins (foods in the meat group) are shown to be inadequate. More than half of the students neither drink the needed milk for strong bones and teeth, nor eat eggs required for good nutrition.

A practical experiment was set up to try to impress students with the fact that one's body is made of food nutrients, either working alone or together. If the nutrients used up in bodily growth, repairs, and maintaining life are not replaced daily by one's diet, the body cannot grow and develop as it should, cannot resist diseases, and does not contribute to a happy life of accomplishments.

Day-old chicks were flown in for the experiment (10 black and 14 yellow ones). Two pens were set up, pen "X" and pen "Y", with 3 black and 3 yellow chicks in each pen.

The chicks put in pen "X" were fed a complete diet for good nutrition. The chicks put in pen "Y" were fed a diet comparable to a diet 84 percent of the students showed they live on—inadequate in complete proteins, too much sugar and starch, deficient in minerals and vitamins.

Pen "X" chicks were fed milk, oats, eggs, whole grain cereals; Pen "Y" chicks were fed Cokes, sweet rolls, potato chips, and oats at night.

It was shown that many students do not eat any breakfast; some may have a sweet roll or maybe a Coke, or both. The school lunches which are balanced, nutritious meals, are usually "picked" over, to be supplemented by visits to the nearby drive-in snack bar for cold drinks, candy bars, and chips. The evening meal at home is the one meal that must furnish the needed nutrients, and because often both parents work, or the family's schedule is so very crowded, the evening meal may result in a meal of "quickies" or snacks. Therefore, oats was included in the last meal for chicks in "Y" to make it comparable to students' evening meals.

The students suspected that pen "Y" would result in sick chicks, so on the sly, at the end of the first day, the chicks in the two pens were exchanged. However, on the morning of the second day, the students found when they came in for their first period class, that pen "X" had all black chicks and pen "Y" had all yellow. This really shook the students!

It was observed that all the chicks ate daily until their craws were bulging. The chicks in pen "Y" seemed to enjoy their food as much as the chicks in pen "X". However, as the days progressed, it was noted that those in pen "Y" did not seem to be growing as large as those in pen "X". Also, those in pen "Y" seemed to be sleeping less and less, were more nervous—pecking at the sides of the pen, darting here and darting there, and cheeping all the time. Their feathers came in looking rough and dull, and their eyes seemed to droop, with the cheeps getting louder and louder, almost to the point of annoying the classes. The chicks in pen "X", on the other hand, ate, drank, and slept, making little if any sounds except happy little singing cheeps as they ate. This routine was repeated over and over all day every day.

It finally got to the point that some of the students began to sulk and accuse the teacher, Mrs. J. H. Baumgardner, of deliberately trying to murder helpless little chickens, saying that they were surely disappointed in her. Her only comment was that she was doing no more to chickens than they were doing to themselves. Chickens are shorter lived than people and the results of poor eating habits are quickly apparent in chickens.

She also told the girls that she had no intention of "murdering" helpless little chickens, but would take them home and put them on a balanced diet before it was too late. The sad thing was that she knew she could not rescue those students who put themselves in pen "Y" for life.

The experiment had to be brought to a close on the 12th day. It can be added that all chicks lived to fatter size; however, those in pen "Y" even though fed properly the rest of the time, never attained the size of the chicks in pen "X".

The President's Committee on Food and Nutrition has found to be true about the same thing as the class survey showed—that poor nutrition in America is not due in the main to lack of food for all, but lack of knowledge as to what are the right foods for good nutrition coupled with poor eating habits.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

Drugs! How many times have you heard the word?

Abuse! Just what does it mean?

Taken together "drug abuse" is probably one of the most talked-about topics in Texas and the nation today. The topic is attacked from various sides—law enforcement, morality, punishment. It is also attacked from another side—education.

It's this attack which has been launched by the Texas State Department of Health's Division of Public Health Education. The Department has long felt a very real concern about this growing menace to the total population because of its direct implications to public health.

About two years ago the Department became aware that a serious deficiency existed in the area of public health education concerning drug abuse. As the deficiency became increasingly apparent, and because of the Department's existing activity in registering wholesale drug outlets, the Division of Public Health Education began to accept requests for its participation in drug abuse programs in schools, teacher training programs, civic organizations, etc.

During this two year period, the Division has had instructors traveling to various parts of the state presenting an educational concept of drug abuse control.

To date, more than 500 such classes have been held with an audience of some 50,000 students.

The actual course consists of showing one of several films—ordinarily the film entitled "Marihuana", a "no preaching, tell-it-like-it-is" film. The film depicts a "pot party" being raided by the police. As each person is taken from the party to awaiting patrol cars, each expresses his or her thoughts about smoking marihuana and defends the use of it.

As the film progresses, however, each of these defenses is refuted with sound, proven evidence.

After the film has been shown, the program is opened to student participation through a question-and-answer period, and drug literature is distributed.

Although the course covers all drugs, marihuana and LSD seem uppermost in the minds of the students.

The whole idea of the education approach is to make the students think about the danger of drugs.

The State Legislature has now charged the Texas Education Agency with the responsibility of establishing a comprehensive drug abuse program for students in grades five through 12, assuring student exposure to the subject. The State Health Department now is shifting its emphasis to adult groups.

Thoughts Of Mother

Lucy McNamara Hagan

A mother is a maker, a mender, a moderator.

She makes boxer pants and chocolate pudding, law and sometimes order, castles, threats, promises and lion suits. She makes horses' heads from paper bags, little suits from big ones, new skirts from old ones, sun suits from kitchen curtains, small balloons from popped ones, stew from nothing whatever. She makes Mercurochrome faces, peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwiches, and peace when possible.

A mother mends broken saucers and broken hearts, trouser knees, hurt noses and hurt feelings, trouser knees, overalls and trouser seams. She mends old sheets, old rosebushes, old baby dolls and brand-new trouser knees.

She is a moderator in times of war-civil war, verbal war, insurrection, minor skirmishes, attacks from the enemy; in times of strife, in times of injustice, in times of temper, in times of hair pulling.

A mother counts calories and blessings and children's heads in the car. Never sheep!

She stoops and crawls and bends and stretches. She folds over and under and backward-and-retrieves the baby from under the bed.

She is immune to surprise. The glass of water in the desk drawer, the cat in the bookcase drawer, the lizard on the electric train, the split foreheads, chins, infinitives.

A mother leads nine lives, each teeming so with life that she has no time to read the article "Make Yourself Feel Needed."

There are times when she reaches despair. The plumbing stops up and torrents pour through the dining-room ceiling again. Two-year-old bites the cat's tail and breaks

The toddler drinks fountain-pen ink and eats the last of the label just as the doctor says, "Read me the contents!" The current infant screams on with colic--soothing medications must be halted while mother sprints to a relentless doorbell. There stand two neighborhood children to report, "Your baby is crying." Seven-year-old, after forty-five minutes, cannot spell "what." Fingerprints all over the house loom suddenly vivid. The ragged edge of the rug seems suddenly dreadful. The dog won't go out. The toddler won't come in. The gelatin won't jell. The sun won't shine. The diapers won't dry. The stew sticks and cocoa boils over while the phone rings on and on. And with it, and above it, and through it all comes, "Mamma, do dis...Mamma, do dis...Mamma, do dis" incessantly, monotonously, unendingly, from four-year-old.

Mother leans chin on mop handle and mutters, "Next time I'll raise chickens, Lord, Children are too much."

Then ten-year-old slips in--rough and ready, all boy, fifth-grade football player--to confide, "At the Cub Scout meeting we had to list the five things most precious to us, and I did: One - God; two - love; three - peace; four - America; five - Strauss waltzes."

Suddenly the baby's eyes seem very blue, six-year-old's hair looks as if it might curl, fingerprints retreat again, daddy walks in. Really, life could not be richer. It is a glory never to be bartered.

"Lord, keep the chickens, I'll carry on for now. And thank You-from the bottom of my heart."

Ceremony Marks Official Opening Of District Office For 1970 Census

At a ceremony today Mayor Stroud cut a length of computer tape, officially opening the district office in Amarillo from which the 1970 Census of Population and Housing will be directed in this area. R. L. Butler, Manager of the district office, explained that computer tape is symbolic of the Census Bureau's modern electronic equipment that will process the data collected in the census. Others attending the ceremony were: Rep. Walter Knapp, Rep. Hudson Moyer, Rep. Tom Christian, Postmaster C. T. Davis, Judge E. H. Foster, City Mgr. John Stiff, and other city and county officials.

This district office will be headquarters for census operations in 30 counties in the Panhandle area, including Lamb, Castro and Swisher.

With the official opening today, the active phase of the census gets under way in this census district. About 480 crew leaders and census takers will be selected and trained. Detailed arrangements will be made to enumerate people in institutions, jails, hospitals, colleges, and places other than in homes, all in preparation for April 1 when the actual enumeration begins.

Beginning four days before April 1, mail carriers will leave census questionnaires at each residential mailbox. Each family will be asked to fill out its questionnaire and hold it for the census taker. The enumeration of the district is expected to be completed in about five weeks after the census takers begin making calls on April 1.

There are 180 other census districts throughout the country where this method of enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 40 percent of the U. S. population live in these districts.

There are 212 other census districts in which the remaining 60 percent of the population live. These districts, for the most part, include the large cities and their suburbs. Households in these districts will also receive census questionnaires in the mail to fill out, but they will be asked to mail them back to the census office in a postage-free envelope that will accompany the questionnaire. No census taker will call at these households from which completely filled out questionnaires are returned.

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home for several days give the family time to assemble information about each member of the household, thus speeding up the census and providing accurate statistics.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

BY MAZELLE TROTTER

I'm not paid by the Chamber of Commerce to promote my town - I'm doing it because I happen to know it's the best town in Texas - better still, it's the best anywhere.

I came across this article a few weeks back and clipped it out to keep company with my "Collection". Seems like it must have been written for an Olton merchant instead of Windsor, Mo. where it was first printed.

"A businessman is the chump who pays all kinds of state and federal taxes, levies and fees, and is even forced to do the government's book-keeping, otherwise referred to as red tape - of which there are miles and miles.

"A businessman is the guy who doesn't have a sufficient quantity of, sizes of or kinds of anything that the public may want (except at inventory time).

"He overcharges his customers and underpays his help (a standard allegation) and the fact that his own wages figure out to about 73 cents an hour is never mentioned.

"A businessman, at one time or another, contributes to the support of a broad spectrum of the community; windows, underprivileged kids, organizations of all kinds, groups, lodges, clubs, tramps, sots and shysters.

"A businessman is the first one contacted for a donation to help get industry. He sponsors students clubs, sports teams and groups of every kind; he is expected to donate to all causes, worthy and otherwise; and not one charity misses him when the annual campaign rolls around.

"His donations help publish cook books, catalogues, calendars and school annuals.

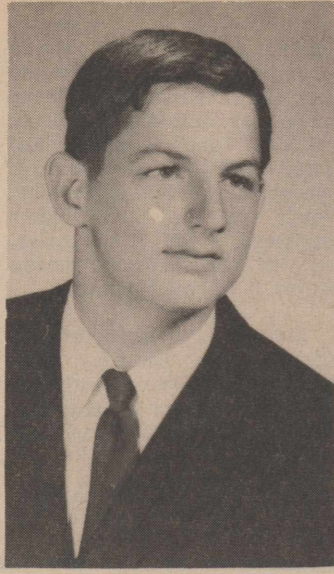

"A businessman is expected to look the other way when a civic organization sells something in direct competition with him. He might even be asked to help in the sales campaign or provide the goods or items at cost.

"After all this, a businessman is expected to show a profit so he can contribute to the welfare of his own family, his mother-in-law, his church and himself."

Truth or fiction??

YEAST-RAISED BUN-NIES ARE EASTER TREAT

The Easter Bunny, beloved of children everywhere, came to us from Germany where the Easter Hare brings holiday eggs. The youngsters prepare nests of moss for the Hare who fills them with decorated eggs, candies and little gifts. In America, the hare became a rabbit or bunny, an error for which candy-makers were probably responsible.

Bunny-shaped sweet rolls are a popular Easter treat in homes where there are young children. The buns are fashioned from a simple sweet dough shaped into three balls: a large ball for the head with two smaller ones for ears. Raisin "eyes" and spaghetti "whiskers" decorate the bunnies. Serve them nestled in an Easter basket to delight the youngsters.

The yeast dough for Easter Bun-nies is prepared by the Rapidmix Method developed by the makers of Fleischmann's Yeast. By treating the yeast as a dry ingredient, Rapidmix takes the guesswork out of bread-baking. Instead of the old-fashioned step of dissolving yeast in warm water, Rapidmix adds the undissolved yeast to the dry ingredients (part of the flour, sugar and salt). In addition, initial beating is done with an electric mixer which not only facilitates blending the ingredients, but makes doughs lighter and easier to handle.

Shown here nestled in an Easter basket are Easter Bun-nies—yeast-raised sweet rolls shaped like bunny heads and decorated with raisin "eyes" and spaghetti "whiskers."

EASTER BUN-NIES

- 4 to 5 cups unsifted flour
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 package Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup water

- 2 teaspoons almond extract
- 1/4 cup (1/2 stick) Fleischmann's Margarine
- 1 egg (at room temperature)
- 3/4 cup chopped candied cherries
- Raisins
- Spaghetti

In a large bowl thoroughly mix 1-1/4 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast.

Combine milk, water, almond extract and Fleischmann's Margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are warm. (Margarine does not need to melt.) Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add egg and 3/4 cup flour, or enough flour to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead in chopped candied cherries. Take three-fourths of the dough and divide into 12 equal pieces. Shape into smooth balls to form heads. Place on greased baking sheets. Divide remaining one-fourth of dough into 24 pieces and shape into ears; attach to heads.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Place raisins in place for eyes.

Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 minutes, or until done. Remove from baking sheets and place on wire racks to cool. Insert short pieces of spaghetti for whiskers. Makes 12 bunnies.

Lloyd Bentsen Proposes Plan For Small Cities

Lloyd Bentsen, Democratic Candidate for the U. S. Senate, has proposed that the National Government offer special tax credits to industries which will locate in smaller cities and towns.

"Municipal and County governments and Chambers of Commerce are already doing all they can to encourage industrial development in these smaller cities," Bentsen said. "Why shouldn't the national government join in the same effort to decentralize industry and revitalize these smaller cities?"

"The dispersal of population is a worthwhile national goal. Let's use some imagination to keep rural areas from dying... to keep small towns from stagnating... to keep big cities from bursting at the seams with people who can't get good jobs elsewhere.

"I think we should speak in the broader context of population problems... The great migrations of the past 30 years, the crowding of our major cities at the expense of rural areas, the mobility of people and yet the restrictions imposed upon them by transportation tangles on the land and in the air, "When we talk of decentralizing the United States, we should not just talk about decentralizing the government. Why not try to decentralize some of our problems?"

"Perhaps then we can cope with them more effectively. President Nixon has proposed that the federal government by 1976 should be funneling five billion dollars in its revenues back into the states and local communities in block grants.

"I am for this approach... it's been backed by both Democrats and Republicans as a promising way to get state and local government to work on more problems which they can handle better than the federal government," Bentsen said.

ELECTRIC SERVICE

The Public Service Company of Colorado observed that a survey by the Edison Electric Institute of 11 products or services that consumers feel they receive the most or least value for their money, placed electricity in number one position. Of those surveyed, 62 per cent indicated electricity as the product that they receive the most value for their money. Only five per cent felt they received the least value in electrical service for their money. Placing second and third in the survey were telephone service and life insurance.
