Cash For Two Ocean Navy Is Recommended

Equipment For An Army Of 2,000,000 Men Is Proposed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The House appropriations committee recommended today the spending of nearly five billion more dollars to start a "two ocean" navy and equip an army which might number 2,000,000 men on combat status.

The huge expenditure — exactly $4,963,151,957 — which President Roosevelt said was necessary to give the nation "total defense," would bring the session's appropriations and contract authorizations for the army and navy to the record-breaking total of $10,040,225,543.

Provide Cash Later

Of the pending bill's total, $2,234,191,957 would be provided in direct appropriations and the balance of $2,728,960,000 in contract authorizations for which Congress would have to provide the cash later.

While the committee emphasized that much of the equipment to be bought with the new money would not be obtainable for months to come, it asserted that approval of the program at this time would enable production and procurement agencies of the government to plan their work efficiently.

"Piecemeal programs mean piecemeal preparation," the committee said, "which is neither sound preparedness in an emergency nor good business procedure."

Need Another Billion

During hearings on the measure, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified that if Congress authorizes immediate mobilization of the national guard and a system of compulsory military training—both of which he said were needed imperatively—an additional $1,000,000,000 would be needed for maintenance of such a force in the current fiscal year.

Specific details as to the number of tanks, guns and other weapons which would be procured under the new program were kept secret but the committee recommended ap-

Threat Of Military Training Has Failed To Stampede The American Male To Marriage

(By The United Press)

The possible imminence of military conscription has failed to stampede the American male into marriage as it did in the spring of 1917, a United Press survey indicated today.

Marriage license bureaus throughout the nation reported few gains in applications either since Jan. 1, or since Congress began considering a conscription bill which would require millions of eligible bachelors between 21 and 31 to report for military training for one year. Married men would be exempt.

But Nothing Unusual

The volume of licenses issued during June this year was the greatest of any month this year in at least 42 states, but license clerks thought that was only because it was June. In some states it was attributed to a desire to avoid newly imposed physical examination requirements for applications.

Registrar James A. Burke of Boston said 115 licenses were issued at his office on July 29 to set a new day's record. It was 13 more than were issued in April, 1917. He said 99 of the men were of draft age and said a few made inquiries about "time allowables" to avoid conscription.

Gain Not Abnormal

New Orleans reported an increase of 85 licenses during July—or since conscription has been debated in Congress—but bureau officials said the gain was not abnormal. Other minor gains this month were noted at San Francisco, in several Iowa counties and Milwaukee, Wis.

The increased demand for licenses at Milwaukee was credited to wide-spread rumor that no licenses would be issued after Sept. 1—a report vigorously denied by all public officials but circulated generally in many midwestern cities the last few weeks.

Most points, however, showed only a normal demand for licenses and several, as Harrisburg, Pa., reported less demand this July than in the same month last year.

Business Boosts Weddings

Improved business conditions were believed to have resulted in more marriages at Portland, Ore., and Columbus, O., officials said. The Hartford, Conn., registrar said increased employment in "war in-

Heat Is Still Bearing Down

(By The Associated Press)

Showers brought a welcome respite from intense heat in scattered sections of the nation today but apparently provided only a temporary check on torrid temperatures.

Forecasters said there was no sign of general relief but predicted more rain for the plains states, great lakes region and upper Mississippi valley.

Temperatures remained far above normal for much of the continent east of the rockies.

Death Toll Climbs

The mercury touched 107 degrees at Waynoka, Okla., yesterday afternoon.

Deaths attributed directly or indirectly to the heat numbered 858 today. They included 448 heat deaths and 410 drownings.

Violent thunderstorms struck the New England coast last night, cutting 22 degrees off temperatures which had reached 94.6 earlier in the day at Boston. Winds up to 45 miles an hour uprooted hundreds of trees, unroofed houses and barns and levelled power and communication lines.

Lightning caused dozens of fires in New England.

Johnston Will Give Up Race

J. B. Johnston, who tied with Newton Stokes, long-time Lubbock county resident, in the race for commissioner of Precinct 4, Lubbock county, has announced his withdrawal from the race. Johnston and Stokes were tied with 372 votes each in Saturday's first Democratic primary.

Johnston, principal at New Deal Rural High school at Monroe, said he believed his withdrawal would be for the best interest of the people of the precinct.

To Eliminate Confusion

"It was necessary that one of us withdraw from the race so there would be a clean-cut choice for the voters in the second primary," Johnston said, "and it fell my lot to be the man. I want to thank every voter who cast his ballot for me in Saturday's primary.

"I believe that my withdrawal from the race will make things easier for all concerned and will eliminate any possibility of confusion among the voters in the approaching election."

V. J. Farris, incumbent, led the field of five candidates in Saturday's primary with 787 votes. E. L. Corley and Claude Denton were other candidates in the race, Corley receiving 345 votes and Denton 257.

Bloodless Sheriff Of New Mexico Is Dead

LAS CRUCES, N. M., July 31 (U.P.)—Jose R. Lucero, the "bloodless sheriff" who enforced the law in this once bloody southwest country without gunplay, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 73.

Lucero and his older brother, Felipe, combined to serve Dona Ana county for more than 30 years and were noted throughout the southwest because they never resorted to gunplay to make their arrests, although they were peace officers during the bloodiest and most hectic period of the county.

Huge Sums Paid To Farmers Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment administration reported today its expenditures, including subsidies paid farmers under crop control programs, totaled $908,468,872 during the fiscal year ended June 30.

Administrative expenses, exclusive of local farmer committees, were $18,005,846.

The bulk of the expenditures went to farmers in the form of price-adjustment and soil conservation payments. Texas led all states with payments and expenses totaling $99,440,488.

Refuge For Austrian Noblemen Is Asked

MEXICO CITY, July 31 (AP)—The office of President Cardenas reported today that Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender of the nonexistent Austrian throne, had asked Mexico to provide refuge for nine Austrian noblemen to keep them from falling into the hands of the Nazi conquerors of France.

Blockades And Bombs Hinted As Substitute

But Many Italian Troops Are Being Moved To Coast

(By The Associated Press)

Italy was told today that England probably will not be invaded until the British people are weakened by bombs and blockade.

Even as Italian troops were reported moving up to the 800-mile German-held continental coastline to join the Nazi blitzkrieg veterans for the projected assault, Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor, cautioned his countrymen not to expect to attack immediately.

Whether his article, which appeared in Il Giornale D'Italia, actually spoke the mind of Premier Mussolini or was intended merely to confuse the British as to prospects for an immediate assault was a matter of speculation.

Invasion Not Simple

Gayda nonetheless repeated what British military spokesmen and statesmen have long contended—that an invasion of the British Isles would not be a simple military advance.

That kind of lightning warfare which Germany demonstrated in Poland, Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg and finally in France is not practical in Britain's case, said Gayda.

Instead, he wrote, the tactics of attrition must be used—constant air attacks to demoralize the population and destroy island defenses; attacks on ships bringing supplies to England, and a strong submarine blockade and a weakening of empire defenses in the Mediterranean.

Communications Suspended

On the other hand belief the blow might be struck at any moment was strengthened by reports from Vichy, France, that postal, telephone and SEASON'S BEST CATCH—Mrs. Dan Dobbins, niece of R. A. McKinney, local realtor, is shown proudly displaying the season's best catch at Buffalo Lake. Mrs. Dobbins, using a cane pole and fishing with worms for catfish and bream, caught the seven-pound bass shown above shortly before 7 o'clock this morning and soon discovered she had caught more than she had bargained for. Mrs. Dobbins was fishing near the mouth of the old swimming pool in the lower lake and the big fish was landed only after he became tangled in moss. The fish was 24 inches long and 16 inches around. Mrs. Dobbins registered the fish at Mallory's store in a fishing contest. Lake officials say it is the largest bass ever caught in the lakes. McKinney, who caught a 'nice bunch of bream,' said 'everything was biting' this morning. Mrs. Dobbins resides with Mr. McKinney at 3707 Twentieth street. (Journal Staff Photo).

Story Of How France's Great Maginot Line Collapsed One That Only Now Is Being Told

BY DANA SCHMIDT
United Press Staff Correspondent

STRASBOURG, July 31 — How France's Maginot line, once believed to be the mightiest fortification in the world, collapsed in a few weeks is one of the stories that remains to be told about this strangest of wars.

With a party of four newspapermen from Berlin, I participated in the first civilians' visit to the line under guidance of Nazi officials since the end of the war in France. The following is what I saw and what I was told by soldiers from both sides during this conducted tour.

Concrete Was Weak

The concrete with which the bunkers were constructed was excellent for sidewalks, but not for resisting a blitzkrieg. Standing on a pontoon bridge in the middle of the Rhine I saw French bunkers that had been reduced to heaps of gray gravel by enemy artillery, while on the other side, almost intact, the German forts showed hardly more than blotched and scratched surfaces.

A German engineer told me that the French concrete was made of coarse gravel and a thin mixture of cement adequate only for non-mili-

Posse Battles Negro Slayer

(By The United Press)

BOISE, Idaho, July 31—A posse of nearly 50 state, city and county police opened fire with machine-guns and high-powered rifles on a cabin in the hills north of here where a negro barricaded himself after shooting and killing a U. S. marshal and his deputy.

The negro was Pearl Royal Hendrickson, 50, who built a cabin on government grazing land. When Marshal George Meffan drove to the shack to serve Hendrickson with a notice to vacate government property he was shot and killed.

Returned For Help

Meffan was accompanied by City Police Captain George Haskins who returned to Boise after the shooting and enlisted Deputy Marshal John Glenn to return to the scene to capture the negro.

Glenn was shot and killed as he approached the cabin.

Haskins again returned to Boise and mobilized a posse that moved on the cabin.

County Coroner Clyde Summers joined the posse to return the bodies of the victims here but he returned and reported he was unable to recover them. "Those officers will have to shoot down that cabin be-

Clovis Man Tells Of Strange Experience In Dodging Death

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, July 31—Glenn Raborn, 25, chief radio engineer and operator for the Clovis, N. M., police department, lay on a hospital bed today and talked about his "death."

He said electrocution is painless, but being revived is something entirely different.

Raborn suffered an accident which at first was thought fatal. On July 19, while repairing a faulty switch in the Clovis police station's equipment, a charge of 1,650 volts carrying 150 amperes—just a trifle less than the lethal electric load used in most electric chairs—hit him.

The charge shot through his body, hurling him to the floor and rendering him unconscious.

"There wasn't any pain," he said today. "There was just a blinding white light that flashed all through my head. Then I didn't know anything for some time. I don't know how long I was unconscious. I was alone and when I recovered consciousness I was still alone in the

U. S. Export Of Aviation Gas Being Banned

Only Nations In This Hemisphere To Get Product

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The administration today banned exports of aviation gasoline to all nations except those of the western hemisphere.

American-owned aviation firms operating outside the hemisphere, however, still will be able to get the fuel.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, told reporters that Colonel R. L. Maxwell, administrator of export control, had recommended and the president had approved this announcement:

Export Is Limited

"In the interests of the national defense, the export of aviation gasoline is being limited to nations of the western hemisphere, except where such gasoline is required elsewhere for the operations of American-owned companies."

Early said he did not know whether the United States had been exporting aviation gasoline to England. The administration recently stopped two oil tankers bound for Spain.

By letting American-owned companies continue to get the fuel, the administration will cooperate with such firms as Pan American Airways, which operates to Portugal and along various Pacific routes.

To Wipe Out Business

The commerce department said the president's order would virtually wipe out the aviation gasoline export business in this country. In the first six months of this year, Europe took 1,076,238 barrels of the 1,164,343 barrels the United States sold throughout the world. Japan and Russia at one time were good customers for these products, but the state department instituted a moral embargo against those countries last year.

Two Rail Divisions To Be Consolidated

BIG SPRING, July 31 (AP)—The Texas & Pacific Railway company today announced consolidation of operations of two divisions from New Orleans to El Paso with headquarters to be in Fort Worth.

The move becomes effective Aug 1.

J. G. Brannon has been made superintendent of the eastern division with territory west of New Orleans and exclusive of Fort Worth. L. L. Oliver has been named superintendent of the western division, with jurisdiction to El Paso and including Fort Worth and the Lancaster yards. A. E. Pistole, for 22 years superintendent of the Rio Grande division with headquarters in Big Spring, has been appointed special representative at Dallas, according to announcement by A. J. Chester, vice president in charge of operations.

Market Association Officers Reelected

E. T. Pope, president, Morris Levine, vice president, and R. D. Shinkle, secretary, were reelected this morning as officials of Western Wholesale Market association, and it was decided to conduct the four-day 21st semi-annual exhibit in Lubbock beginning Oct. 12.

Reelected as directors were O. J. Sexton, Arlie Crites, Paul Davis, Luther Godwin, I. A. Stephens and Sam Rosenthal.

The market will draw from several states and the first five floors of Lubbock hotel will be required for displays, said officials.

A dinner dance will be given, as usual.

Reservations will begin almost immediately, it was announced.

Men Who Look Best In Beards Chosen

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 31 (U.P.)—The five men in the world who look "best in beards" were chosen today by Max Factor, jr., Hollywood makeup specialist.

Factor said George Bernard Shaw, the British writer, has the "finest" whiskers of any man in the world. Next was Errol Flynn, who has been wearing a beard for his part in the "Sea Hawk". The others were Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, Peter the hermit, and Haile Selassie, former king of Ethiopia.

Duke And Duchess To Require Ten Cabins

LISBON, July 31 (U.P.)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor were disclosed today to have booked ten cabins aboard the American export line's S. S. Excalibur, sailing for New York on Thursday.

The duke will go to New York en route to Nassau, where he will be governor of the Bahamas.

Alteration For Military Plan Is Announced

Secretary Stimson Gives His Support To Training Bill

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The Senate military committee amended the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill today to require the registration only of men from 21 to 31 years old, instead of those between 18 to 64.

The Senate group acted while the House military committee was hearing from Secretary of War Stimson testimony that a "prudent trustee" of the nation's defenses must realize that Great Britain might be conquered in 30 days and that Japan is in sympathy with Italy and Germany.

Gives Full Support

Stimson gave his full support to the Burke-Wadsworth bill and also sent word to the Senate committee that the war department endorsed it and that the budget bureau had passed it.

Two senators, Thomas (R-Idaho) and Smathers (D-NJ), emerged from a closed session of the Senate committee to say that the registration age limit amendment was approved unanimously.

Smathers said the change was suggested by Senator Lee (D-Okla) and seconded by Senator Bridges (R-NH). Final committee action on the bill will be taken tomorrow, Smathers said. It was expected to be approved.

To Reduce Number

Supporters of the measure estimated that the alteration would reduce from 42,000,000 to about 12,000,000 the number of men to be registered.

Army officials had said previously that while those from 18 to 64 were to be registered, only men between 21 and 45 would be subject to selective draft for military service. The great majority of those called, these officials had said, would be in the 21 to 31 group.

The youngest and oldest groups were to be used to form home guard units under the original provisions of the bill, but Smathers said this had been eliminated entirely from the measure.

Letter Is Read

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex) was reported to have read a letter from Stimson to a closed committee session.

It said the legislation was endorsed by the department and had

LONDON, July 31—Britain today ordered a blockade extending from the Arctic to Northern Africa, effective at midnight tonight, an order in council giving effect to the policy announced in Commons yesterday by Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare.

In future non-British shipping companies will have to agree always to employ navicerts—a form of passport for ship cargoes—in order to enjoy services such as coaling, drydock and insurance facilities at Britain's worldwide ports.

May Find Difficulty

Ships of offending lines entering British ports may find difficulty even in getting water.

The object of this system is to deter neutral shipping from attempted blockade running.

The ministry of economic warfare said the new system would eliminate control bases such as were established for examination of suspected contraband at the start of

Migrant Farmers Roam Texas Highways But Now They Have Home

Weslaco Unit Opened Today

By J. R. BRISCOE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The 1940 version of the man with the hoe, making his haphazard way—perhaps from crop to crop, has found a home in Texas.

He will still wander—up from the Rio Grande valley into Central Texas, on to the blacklands of North Texas and westward into the cotton country of the Panhandle—but at season's end he'll have a place he can call home.

This man is the migrant farm laborer. The new home is a migratory labor camp near Weslaco in the valley. There he can rent a one-room dwelling, a tent or space for his truck or trailer at 25 cents a day.

Camp Is Opened

Today the Farm Security administration officials for Texas and Oklahoma proudly announced the opening of the Weslaco camp. It is the first of a series the government has been working on a long time. The Weslaco camp can handle up to about 200 families.

The announcement meant much to the men who have long worked at picking the produce of 500,000

Problems Of Unemployment In America Are Said Not Faced

ST. LOUIS, July 31 (AP)—Hinting that one section of the dominant political campaign, John L. Lewis, CIO president, declared both major political parties had failed to face the problems of unemployment and inadequate income for millions of Americans.

Lewis said there were 10,000,000 unemployed in the country, including 2,500,000 young men and women between the ages of 18 and 24, with a national study of 20,000,000 families had shown that 10,000,000 "subsist on a family income of $60 a month."

Income Insufficient

Speaking at the convention of the United Automobile Workers of America, second largest union in the CIO, Lewis said: "Just as vitally as the matter with America—as an intelligent national income to prevent the exploitation of consumers and our own production."

Declaring that the platforms of both major political parties fail to state "what they are going to do about it," the union leader said:

"Some day the people of this country are going to lose confidence in the existing political parties to such a degree that they are going to form their own party.

"That, he added, was "for the future to develop."

The automobile workers general, Lewis said, a 40-minute demonstration, summoning on union and troops with minimum material here and there until they were warned the plants was crashing on the ceiling below the convention hall.

Lewis denounced proposals for universal compulsory military training and demanded that the government "refrain from giving its enemies to concentrate their fire against the rights of labor."

The national defense program, he said, was "making it profitable for industry to be patriotic," but the averted "long-suffering government" workers "have just as much moral compulsion to accept the Wagner labor relations act as they have to observe state laws against stealing automobiles."

$1500 persons who roam Texas highways every year seeking farm work.

Farm camps at Raymondville, Robstown and Marion all in deep South Texas will be farmers open to more migrant farmers and their wives and children. Then other camps must be started at Bastrop, Crystal and West Texas to complete the chain of havens for these people.

Three Prime Objectives

The system of camps has three prime objectives to afford clean, temporary relief for farm-and-ranch agricultural workers, to provide an organized labor market, flexible to help stabilize farming in Texas where agriculture is per force to a great extent in state wide.

When one family on the average has to keep alive and moving at $164 a year FSA says the going obviously is tough. This sum must be stretched over the bare periods between crops and the chance of available labor doesn't make it too easy to get work.

This $164 yearly average in the Texas is California the average income per migrant family is $374, the FSA figures show.

Our typical migrant started out with a small farm in western Oklahoma for instance. Mechanization of cotton farms, consolidation of land and the general trend toward industrialization made his natural efforts were less and less and gainful work he had to sell out and move along.

From Oklahoma he came to Texas looking for the valley and the harvesting of the great citrus crop. When that's through toward the end of winter our man—with wife, children and few belongings—packs up for other and greener fields. He goes to Central Texas say in the great cotton region around Waco. As the cotton crop matures by stages northward the migrants follow going at last sick for West Texas. When that's over back they head for the valley and the next crop. In between there may be small vegetable crops to work on.

The camps are designed to give the traveling workers on the land a place to eat and sleep, to be near at hand when a farm operator wants to hire workers.

Life Is Organized

Life in camp is organized. At Weslaco a road map calls Mayor Hall" is the new way of the railroad tracks" subject to the veto of an FSA supervisor.

Mayor Hall got the job by election around the rest-room shelter he has laid out a flower garden which spells out in green letters "Hail, FSA." The mayor's neighbors take his rule and keep their lawns cool.

Around the camp life begins to move with the sunrise. The women and the older girls get out the washtubs and go into the laundry. The men ride off in trucks to the fields. When the day is done and the evening mess is over the migrant campers can get together like ordinary neighbors.

They have a fine-running community and the FSA wants the migrants consider it one of the greater moments of their day.

The town meeting is an experiment in self-government. At these gatherings is decided who shall have the garbage and when, and who shall do the hundred other community jobs around the place. No one gets paid for serving as an elected official.

The campers are mostly young

Marketing School Is Closed On Tuesday

Between 40 and 50 persons attended a two-day cotton marketing school for employees of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in district 2. The school ended late Tuesday afternoon in Lubbock hotel.

V. L. Cole of Uvalde, member of the state committee, presided. J. Lowe Marsh of College Station, district supervisor, was in charge of the school. An administrative committee, Cole and a member of the county committee. Every one of the 19 counties in the district was represented.

Speakers included Thomas Payne, with the cotton marketing division of the Washington, D. C., office; O. J. Moss of College Station, marketing specialist of the state office; C. E. Motley, College Station, state performance supervisor and Lee C. Cornelius, assistant to Motley.

The two days were given to a discussion of regulations for 1941 and to preparation of forms and reports.

The Washington and College Station men will conduct a two-day meeting today and Thursday at Big Spring and at Perm Friday and Saturday.

people. Out of 87 family heads surveyed, 39 were in their thirties, 19 were between 25 and 30, 21 were less than that, eight were over 50, and only nine over 60.

Twenty-two out of fifty were native Texans. Eighteen out of 50 have cars of a sort.

A great part of the migrant worker's distress and the camps have made a start at solving the problem. Each family entering a camp goes through a clinic. If they are found ill they go into an "isolation camp" away from the main compound. Malnutrition is one the least of the causes of sickness.

It is a small beginning, but the camp at Weslaco may blossom into great things for the lands of dust and misery who once worked a green piece of land but have none now.

FSA officials make one thing clear. The migrant must support himself by the labor he can get through government backing, he may be able to buy his own land and pay it off from the profits.

In the interim the old trucks and cars, rusted with the family and possessions will continue to ply the highways of Texas—but at the end of the road they will find something resembling hope.

All Bids On City Hall Are Refused

Lubbock city commission will negotiate directly with individual contractors in an effort to keep the cost of remodeling of City hall as low as possible, it was decided in a meeting Tuesday afternoon after all proposals to remodel the building's interior were rejected.

The project, however, is to be considered again at the commission's regular meeting, Aug. 6, members decided. Tuesday's meeting was the second in 18 hours on the City hall remodeling proposals.

First bids for the remodeling were opened Monday night. General Building company, inc., proposed to do the work for $20,000 and Robert E. Maxey for $21,000. Both were rejected because they exceeded estimates of cost and would require expenditure of more money than is available, members of the commission said.

To Bid Again

Both bidders, however, accepted invitations to submit new proposals at "cost plus" and "fixed fee" bases at the meeting Tuesday afternoon. J. C. Mytinger jr., of General Building company offered to do the work for cost plus 7 1-2 per cent, or for a fee of $1,816. Maxey's bid was cost plus 7 1-2 per cent, or a fee of $1,800.

The commissioners then asked each bidder what monthly wage would be charged for part-time supervision of the alterations work, with each to supply the necessary equipment. Maxey asked $100 per month. Mytinger $125.

W. C. McMillan, member of the commission, and himself a contractor expressed the opinion that $100 per month would be adequate compensation for such work.

As a consequence, all proposals were rejected and the commission decided to negotiate directly with individual contractors who may be interested in supervising the alterations on a monthly salary basis for the part-time supervision which would be required, with the city paying all the bills.

WAR HELPS ALIMONY

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The war was alimony for Mrs. Emma J. Dees. She told the court that all of her securities were in Germany and even if she were there, she would not be allowed to convert them into cash. The court awarded her $100 monthly for maintenance.

Japan To Refuse To Consider British Protest Against Arrests

Spy Drive Is To Continue

(By The United Press)

TOKYO, July 31—Japan will refuse even to consider any British protest against the arrest of British subjects in connection with an alleged espionage plot, Yakichiro Suma, chief foreign office spokesman, said today.

It was a mistake, he added, to assume that Japan's action was entirely anti-British. Any other persons who "engage in espionage" regardless of nationality would be dealt with relentlessly, he asserted.

Still Being Arrested

In an earlier statement Suma had said that he had reason to believe that Britons were still being arrested. He had said that he did not know the exact number arrested and then, asked whether persons of any other nationality had been arrested, said:

"I do not think so—for the moment."

This apparent hint that other foreigners might later be involved was noted in view of newspaper demands that the government eliminate all foreign "spies" as well as "domestic agencies which they might use."

Suma's second statement was a formal one in which he said:

Unreasonable To Protest

"The recent round-up of British espionage suspects was made for the explicit purpose of eliminating all persons and organizations engaged in espionage of military secrets of the Japanese empire, and it is entirely unreasonable for Britain to make any sort of protest against this country in connection with it.

"Particulars of the conversations at London between Lord Halifax (the British foreign minister) and Ambassador Shigemitsu (Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu) are not available here," Suma said. "But even if Britain should lodge a protest, the Japanese government would give no consideration to it.

"Statements that the recent round-up is not sufficiently backed by evidence is entirely incorrect. Sufficient evidence is in possession of the competent authorities. But as the matter is still under investigation I am not in position to disclose it.

Not Aimed At Britons

"Some people seem to think that the recent arrests are entirely aimed at Britons. This is not true. Whether they be Britons or otherwise all those who attempt to spy on the military secrets of Japan will be dealt with relentlessly. The recent round-up was entirely justified. It was a step taken toward persons who spied on military secrets which vitally concern the existence of the Japanese empire."

Newspapers continued a spy scare.

Nichi Nichi said that the present arrests had exposed a British spy network which was the "largest among powers in the far east and even extended its tentacles to our capital."

It added, of the death of M. J. Cox, far eastern manager for Reuter's news agency who plunged from a police headquarters window while "under examination:"

Admission Of Guilt

"The suicide of one of those arrested so soon after the arrests must constitute an admission of guilt and of the seriousness of espionage activities."

It was disclosed today that when, after his plunge from the police headquarters, Cox regained consciousness he was unable to talk to his wife or to British Consul R. L. Cowley but made only expressions of pain such as:

"Leave me alone—you are hurting me."

The room from which Cox plunged is an office with white painted walls, a desk and a few chairs. The room where Cox had been confined is a semi-basement one with a small window.

Maginot Line

tary purposes. German bunkers are made of fine gravel and a mixture of cement which has been a German military secret since the World war. In addition, the crushed French pillboxes reveal reinforcements of gnarled steel rods only about one half inch in diameter. German forts are reinforced with steel girders and railway rails.

Rear Wall Thin

Further, the front and side walls of the French bunkers are appropriately 10 feet thick, but the flat rear wall is only a little more than four feet thick. As a result, as soon as the Germans broke one link in the chain of forts, they were able to take the rest of the line from the weakly defended rear.

How the German high command determined what was the weakest point in the line was explained to us by our guides. For a week German artillery maintained a mild uniform fire along the entire line to determine, by detailed statistics, whence came the weakest French response. This turned out to be across from Kaiserstuhl mountain north of the village of Breisach.

Studded With Guns

Swiftly and secretly the Germans studded the forests and hills around Breisach with guns. At ten o'clock on the morning of June 15, when heavy fogs hid the fortresses of chains, German guns suddenly began blasting with concentrated fire. Anti-tank shells ripped holes as big as a man's hand in steel turrets from all angles before the French could recover from their surprise. Exactly 20 minutes later, the first line French bunkers were silent, their guns destroyed, the bunkers heaps of loose grey gravel.

The most important factor of all is the intangible one of the psychological training of troops, the Germans said. French psychology was the psychology of defense. The basis of defense was the bunker. Come hell or high water, the French stayed in their bunkers. The Germans were educated to movement and attack and considered their forts only temporary accessories to be resorted to only when under heaviest fire and in order to give their own artillery time to work up an effective counter fire under which they could go over to attack. It was a contest between old tested warfare and a new and revolutionary warfare. The Maginot line was a symbol of the one which lost.

RISING TENDENCIES BLOCKED

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP) — Irregular price movements among various leaders blocked rising tendencies in the stock market today.

Gains and losses were fairly evenly balanced at the close. Trading was limited to about 550,000 shares.

Commentators expressed the opinion operators were awaiting large-scale operators in the battle of England and, in the meantime, wou'd be content to follow technical lines in their commitments. The public failed to respond to the previous session's rally signals.

The upward impetus of overnight buying orders quickly faded as today's session progressed with steels on the downward side throughout the day.

Aircrafts received something of a lift when the House appropriations committee recommended repeal of the profit restrictions on army and navy airplanes.

On the minus side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Phelps Dodge, Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio and Texas Corp. More resistant were United Aircraft, Eastman, Dupont, Westinghouse, American Telephone, International Paper and Allied Chemical.

SEVEN ARE KILLED

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 31 (AP) — Seven boys and girls en route to a swimming party were killed yesterday by a fast freight train which crushed their automobile at a crossing near here.

There were no survivors. The car was dragged some 1,400 feet.

Military Age To Be Altered

been passed by the bureau.

Some Senate advocates of conscription had been seeking word of budget bureau approval as evidence that President Roosevelt was favorable to the bill. Mr. Roosevelt refrained from giving it any direct outspoken support at his press conference yesterday. He said he had previously expressed his views on the subject of compulsory training.

One such occasion which the president may have had in mind was in his broadcast address accepting the third term nomination when he said that "because of the millions of citizens involved in the conduct of defense, most right thinking persons are agreed that some form of selection by draft is as necessary and fair today as it was in 1917 and 1918."

Stimson told the House committee the only way for the nation to "meet a war situation" is by compulsory military service.

He described the system of voluntary enlistments as "a costly failure."

The war secretary said:

"We've got to reverse very radically our prejudices about our first line of defense.

"A German victory over England would give her a fleet outranking that of the United States and a shipbuilding capacity six times that of this country."

Ban On Gas Exports

At the White House, defense developments included announcement of a ban on aviation gasoline exports, prohibiting them to all nations except those of this hemisphere. The announcement was made by Stephen Early, press secretary, at a conference with reporters.

Discussing what he said was the need for compulsory service, Stimson told the House committee:

"If there is ever a lesson, we've learned it is that the only way to meet a war situation is by a compulsory system of raising our own armies.

Tried Other Systems

"We've tried other systems. We've always had a penchant for volunteering. That system has been a costly failure."

At the start of his testimony, Stimson said he wanted to speak as "a citizen" and as a man who had experience with similar problems in the World war. Smiling, he said he felt a difference between his cabinet responsibilities as a sort of "trustee and one who, until recently, had the unbounded freedom of a private citizen."

Stimson said of the relative merits of the voluntary and compulsory systems of forming armies:

"It would be just as fair to leave to the whim of the individual the question of whether he would render service in time of war as to leave to the whim of the individual the question whether he would pay taxes—and it would be a great deal more dangerous."

Turning to the Burke-Wadsworth bill specifically, the secretary said:

Protection Against Danger

"The underlying purpose is protection against danger whether that danger has landed on our backs or whether we see the danger coming," he said.

"I ask the members of this committee if we are not confronted with a far graver peril today than we were in June 1917. . . .

"Today we are faced with a potential enemy who has not only been using conscription for six years but is also putting it into effect on the victims of Germany and compelling them to furnish to Germany war supplies. . . .

"Our forces in the United States today consist of 220,000 men and officers in the regular army and 243,000 men in the national guard. All of us know that our army is less trained than some of the forces with which we are confronted."

The armed force of Holland was 560,000, he said, and Belgium's was 647,000, and Holland had 1,200 men per mile for boundary defense purposes; Belgium, 510, and the United States, 47.

"I don't think that any of the critics who fear we are lapsing into militarism and running amok with a desire to forget the traditions of the past, need to be worried when we look at these figures," he testified.

Final action on the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill was held up yesterday by the Senate military committee after arguing over Republican demands that President Roosevelt formally disclose his views

Little Opposition Expected

Instead, the committee gave speedy and unanimous clearance to the bill authorizing the chief executive to order the national guard and the officers reserve corps into active training for a year.

Democratic Leader Barkley said he expected little opposition to the national guard measure in the Senate, where it may be taken up late this week.

Mr. Roosevelt declined at his press conference yesterday to discuss the Burke-Wadsworth bill, observing he already had said what he thought about conscription legislation. (He commented recently that some form of conscription might be needed).

The president added that a whole lot of men without machines were not worth much for defense and neither were a lot of machines without men.

Opponents and supporters of the program agreed a proposal by Senator Austin (R-Vt) to limit registration of possible draftees to men between 21 and 45 years old would ameliorate some of the opposition.

The measure now provides for registration of all men between 18 and 64, with those between 21 and 45 being subject to selection for military training.

The bill to call the national guard for training anywhere in the western hemisphere. American possessions and the Philippines received prompt support from the army high command.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, told the Senate military committee yesterday that "paper plans will not suffice in this emergency. In our judgment, the security and safety of this country depend on our having an adequate number of men trained, and there is no other way to do it except by this method (calling out the guard) followed by some form of conscription."

The House military committee continued hearings on the conscription bill. Several dissenting witnesses proposed yesterday that the army make a drive for more voluntary enlistments instead.

New Billions

proval of the budget bureau's request for 14,394 airplanes of various types, of which 4,058 would go to the navy, giving that service approximately 6,000 serviceable planes.

Although the navy's share of the new money would be only $1,058,156,540, the measure would commit the government, through contracts to be filled later, to expenditure of $4,442,500,000 for 200 new fighting ships and accompanying auxiliaries and aircraft for the proposed 70 per cent expansion of the navy.

The committee recommended restoration of the 12 per cent profit limitation on airplane procurement for both the army and navy. Congress reduced that figure to 7 or in some cases 8 per cent last month but government spokesmen said it had seriously interfered with the acquisition of aircraft, chiefly because subcontractors were refusing to take contracts for aviation material.

Except for a $7,000,000 item for a large graving drydock in New York harbor, the subject of pending authorizing legislation, the committee approved the president's requests without change.

Broad Outlines Given

In broad outline, the new funds and contractual authority would be as follows: new ship construction, $230,000,000; alteration and conversion of naval vessels, $75,000,000; aircraft for both army and navy, $2,068,402,304; material for army, navy and marine corps, $2,057,705,017; public works projects for army and navy including housing and storage facilities, $158,352,800; additional production facilities, $335,000,000.

The new production facilities proposed would include 31 additional ordnance plants as well as expansion of shipbuilding facilities at various points. Although specific locations have not been selected for the ordnance plants, officials said they would be built west of the Alleghanies, partly for reasons of inland security.

The bill also carried $3,181,780 to finance the training of 5,000 naval reservists.

From Jail To Sanitarium—Police and Lubbock sanitarium officials said early this afternoon a 30-year-old Lubbock man had been rushed to the sanitarium for treatment of a laceration of the left forearm. The man, said by Harry Lesch, acting city recorder, to have been in city jail on a drunkenness charge, was described as having inflicted the wound with a razor blade, presence of which in the man's cell was not explained definitely. Eight sutures were required to patch the man up, said sanitarium authorities.

Raborn seemingly suffered no ill effects until last Thursday. Then he was stricken suddenly—an attack that doubled him in pain and left him badly shaken.

Doctors said he must receive expert treatment for shock immediately. Heart specialists were needed.

He was rushed 700 miles to Houston, where two of his brothers live, in a special ambulance. An airplane was not available.

A Houston police escort met the ambulance yesterday. Raborn's young wife made the trip at his side. Two drivers alternated at the wheel.

Today Raborn said: "The doctors are talking about a lot of things like cardiagraphs, aortas and such. I don't know what they mean, but I guess it'll be all right, as long as those things don't bite."

British Assault

telegraph communications had been suspended between German-occupied France and that part which is still free.

A plea which some observers took as an implication that Spain will try to stay out of the war was voiced in the Falangist newspaper Arriba of Madrid—a plea for help from the United States to put Spain back on her feet after her civil war.

German bombers continued to pick at the British Isles, but the fierceness of the recent attacks was somewhat abated.

Reports in Switzerland said Adolf Hitler agreed to Premier Mussolini's request that his Italians, seasoned in Ethiopia and Spain, be assigned a direct part in the blow on Britain.

Token Contribution

Italy's contribution was said to be a "token" one, including German-trained parachute troops, light submarines, shipped through the Brenner pass for use in the English channel, and air squadrons.

Reports pictured these as last minute preparations for simultaneous attack on England and her fortress rock Gibraltar:

1—Speeded movements of German troops west through France, masked by closing of rail communications to unoccupied France, and all outlets but one to Switzerland; 2—concentration of Spanish troops at La Linea, back door to Gibraltar, 3—massing of Italian warplanes at Sardinia to join the Spanish in a possible drive to seize Gibraltar.

Spanish reports said five more persons were killed and 15 wounded in bombings of the fortress rock yesterday presumably by Italians.

German raids on England and Wales continued during the night but the British government asserted there was "little damage" and no casualties.

Ports Said Damaged

Germans claimed the bomber raids have damaged many of England's important south and east ports so badly that ships bringing food to the embattled island no longer use them. It was said that much shipping has had to be rerouted to western ports—and even these are accessible targets for German bombers.

Rumania's Foreign Minister Mihail Manoilescu declared his government would drive a hard bargain in negotiating the territorial demands of Bulgaria and Hungary at Germany's order.

Manoilescu said Rumania is determined to keep some of the territory her neighbors demand, and suggested that Bulgaria and Hungary might have to be content with an exchange of population instead of actual large land transfers.

Britain Seeks To Save Fuel

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 31—Government leaders, considering imposing some unusual "economy line" cooking upon the British population, are encouraged by a week-old experiment which has shown that by subscribing one stove for 1,000 stoves a healthful three-course meal can be served for 20 cents.

High sources disclosed last night that government-controlled "assembly line" dining halls may be substituted for home cooking to strengthen the war effort by economizing on both food and fuel. The move is being seriously considered.

The "assembly line" meals would be served to rich and poor alike, and the proposal is welcomed particularly in labor quarters, where criticism has been vented against "luxury dining out" by persons able to pay the price despite the war's stress.

This is how the communal cooking plan has been working in the welfare institute adjoining the D'Algarno estate, where there are 1,000 apartments housing 2,000 adults and 3,000 children:

Volunteer women caterers served 2,300 meals the first week. They were cooked on one large gas stove, and ran up a fuel bill of only $2.20. A surplus of $16.10 was recorded.

Receptions Are Planned; August Brides-Elect Are Honored With Parties

Coffee To Be Held Sunday

Luncheons, coffees and afternoon parties for August brides-elect, receptions and other events are taking the minds of South Plains residents off of the unpleasant weather. Vacations still continue chief topic of conversation in many homes.

News of approaching marriages is not unexpected at several receptions that have been planned for early August. A number of Lubbock guests will attend a tea Mrs. R. E. Fry is giving at her home in Floydada this afternoon between 4:30 and 7:30 o'clock.

Plan At Home Saturday

Mrs. Solon Clements and her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Whiteside are planning an at home for Saturday afternoon in the residence of the former at 1920 Seventh street.

Mrs. Forrest L. Lindsey, 2429 Twentieth street, is to entertain with a Sunday coffee at the home of Mrs. F. R. Friend, 2005 Broadway.

To continue a party series for Miss Katherine Leidigh, Mesdames Arch L. King, Clyde James and Hollis Ford entertained with a luncheon today in the home of Mrs. King's mother, Mrs. Will McCrummen, 1616 Sixteenth street.

An orange and white color scheme was featured in appointments. The honoree was presented with gifts of lingerie.

Guests were Mesdames R. C. Douglas, jr., Leonard Earnest, M. F. Landwer and L. M. Hargrave. Misses Ruth Craig, Geraldine Clewell, Ethel Green, Dorothy Rylander, Katherine and Mary Leidigh.

Mrs. Dupree Is Hostess

Mrs. George Dupree, 2314 Seventeenth street, complimented Miss Leidigh when she entertained at a coffee this morning from 9:30 until 10:30 o'clock at her home. A gift shower was presented.

Garden flowers were used in decorations.

The guest list included Mesdames J. M. Lewis, S. T. Hodges, A. B. Davis, Mary Ewing, F. R. Friend, R. D. Moxley, Elizabeth Young, R. E. Overstreet, R. S. Rodgers, E. L. Robertson, H. A. Davidson, W. E. Lyle, L. C. Ellis, G. W. McCleary, S. C. Wilson, W. H. Edgett.

Miss Mary Leidigh, sister of the bride-elect, poured coffee.

Turquoise Used

A luncheon given by Miss Arnette Halsey at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at her home, 2208 Seventeenth street, was added to the list of courtesies extended to Miss La Wanda Sherrod, bride-elect of J. Louis Murfee, jr.

The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth and centered with asters in a turquoise Mexican bowl. Placecards were turquoise and white with wedding bell trimming.

The honoree was presented with a shower of personal gifts.

Guests were Misses Sherrod, Carolyn Kinney of Oklahoma City, Pauline Barrier, Willouise Humphries, Jo Bess Goodloe, Marie Barnard, Dorothy Jean Butler, Lorna Faye Lickey, Cora Jean Watson, Reuby Tom Rhodes; Mesdames Bryan Edwards, David Humphries and Shelby Harper of Shreveport, La.

Newlyweds Are Visiting In J. F. Hankins Home

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hankins, 2309 Broadway are their son, Alton Hankins and his bride. The couple was married July 24 in Raton, N. M.

Mrs. Hankins is the former Miss Tommie Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Davenport of Lake View. She received her B. A. degree from Texas Technological college and has been teaching for several years. She was a member of Sans Souci social club at the college.

Mr. Hankins is also a graduate of Tech where he received his B. A. degree. He was graduated from the University of Texas Law school in June and passed the bar examination last February.

Little Flower Club Has Bridge Party Tuesday

Little Flower Bridge club members were the guests of Mrs. E. J. Berryhill when she entertained at 2005 Broadway Tuesday afternoon. Guests were Mrs. Bob Badger of Littlefield, who scored second high, and Mrs. C. W. Ratliff, who scored high. Mrs. R. V. Mullenix won bingo.

Members attending were Mesdames Douglas O'Brien, E. C. Ellison, H. E. Fudge, P. C. Blazi, F. G. Orsak, Roy Grimes, C. J. Quinlan and Granville Dickinson.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Travis Calvin, 2006 Broadway, August 13.

Supper Is Courtesy For Couple To Leave Here

As a farewell courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dietrich who are moving to Plainview, a chicken supper was given Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Tabor, 1511 Twenty-fifth street.

The guests of honor were presented with a gift of crystal.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Hugh Ragland, Estell Hendrix, Arno Boyd, Grady and J. D. Henly, Howard Patterson, Bishop Keeling, Harry Bennett, Sam Ainsworth, R. W. Rucker and Houston Norman.

Pan-American Airways Official Speaker Before American Business Club Session

Within the next two or three years, Europe will be a little more than an overnight plane flight between the United States and the continent. Porter Norris, district traffic manager for Pan-American Airways told the American Business club Tuesday night in a showing of a film about the company's 17,000-mile air trip through the 21 republics of the western hemisphere.

Hawaii would be "seven or eight hours from San Francisco," he predicted, and "Buenos Aires will be 48 hours from Miami instead of four and a half days," as at present.

Plan Larger Planes

Asked later to amplify his statements, Norris said that plans were "now on the board," for larger and more powerful planes that would be able to make the trans-Atlantic flight and other over-water flights in considerably shorter time. The aviation industry is looking ahead to a greater air-travel minded public.

On the South American trip, of 17,000 miles, which now takes eight days to visit the score of republics, there is no night-time flying. The Pan-American is not equipped with facilities for landing on fields or water at night, but it hopes to be able to have these facilities installed and operating within two or three years.

Next step for the company, "as soon as the fighting is over," is for a flight from the United States to North Africa. Later, the service would be extended down to Capetown, on the extreme southern point.

New type planes can make the South American flight with an average speed of 245 miles an hour for day and night flying, he said. The company is looking ahead for its coming expansion program and is now using planes with a passenger capacity of 74 and a crew of 11 persons.

After the showing of the film, Norris, accompanied by Don Schoenburg, of Braniff, left for Amarillo where Norris was to get a plane for Houston.

"I attended the University of Miami four years and played football," he added. "I helped get the Red Raiders down to Miami last year and I am certainly going to be here in Lubbock when they play Miami."

Unofficial reports said Hitler recently indicated his willingness to talk personally with Petain as the "supreme chief of the French state."

Lubbock Guardsmen Going To Louisiana

Advance detail of Lubbock's National Guard units, 20 members of the service battery, 131st Field Artillery under command of Lieut. Elmer Plemons and Lieut. Ross Ayers, left this morning for Cravens, La., where guardsmen from several states will engage in maneuvers with the regular army as a part of their training. Capt. H. H. Griffith is commander of the local batteries.

Movement will be made by truck and the men were the advance detachment, assigned to make preliminary preparations for the remainder of the battery, which is to leave Saturday morning at 2 o'clock. It also will be moved by truck.

Two More Trucks

Captain Griffith said the quartermaster's unit in the state was sending two additional trucks per unit to Lubbock to move the equipment. Captain Griffith has been given a special detail and he is leaving Saturday. A Lieutenant Muldrow, a reserve officer, has been assigned to go with the service battery.

Warrant Officer Norman Snodgrass will be in charge of the regimental band, that will accompany the service battery. It is now a separate unit. There are 64 enlisted men in the service battery.

Capt. J. L. Walton, will command Battery C, which has approximately 80 enlisted men. Officers are Lieutenants Huddleston Wright, John Kershner and L. M. Boren. Lieut. Julian Williamson is also with the service battery. The firing battery will also leave by truck.

Record Vote For Texas Announced

DALLAS, July 31 (AP)—Texas' first Democratic primary brought out a record vote, the Texas Election Bureau announced today.

With approximately 30,000 ballots yet to be reported, the total already has gone to 1,130,326, which is 15,441 ahead of the previous high mark of 1,114,885 set in 1938.

There will not be another total announced until tonight at 6 o'clock.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's vote went to 607,614 before the bureau closed last night, giving him 53.7 per cent of the votes tabulated.

In the railroad commission race, Pierce Brooks had 196,319 to 195,357 for Olin Culberson. They will go into a run-off.

Britain Learns Costly Lessons And Is Forming Mighty Air

Seeking to Meet Demands For Abou 10,000 Planes A Month

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the second of two dispatches dealing with organization of German and British air forces.

BY [illegible] TAVES
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 31—Great Britain has learned the costly lessons of the World war and is approaching the climax of history's greatest aerial struggle with a mighty organized and modern air force.

Whereas in 191[illegible] the nation was unable to meet an urgent call for 120 more fighting planes to reinforce the Royal Flying Corps in France, it is today attempting to meet the demands of air chiefs for 10,000 or more planes a month.

Economy Discarded

In her do[illegible]die effort to challenge German air supremacy, an effort upon which may hinge the outcome of the battle of Britain, the nation finally has discarded the economy which stunted the Royal Air Force's growth in the '20s and '30s.

The R. A. F. is now a healthy, centralized organization working in close cooperation with the army and navy. With its seven commands all under one control, it is the simplest of three organizations.

Other branches of the British commonwealth's air power include the fleet air arm—aircraft and personnel attached to naval vessels—which is responsible only to the admiralty, four foreign air forces subordinate to the air staff and the independent entire air forces.

Story Goes Back To 1916

The story of the R. A. F.'s birth, development and centralization goes back to an afternoon in late November, 1916, when Great Britain's war committee was studying anxiously a letter from the World war commander of British forces in France.

The letter was from Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, and he was demanding immediate reinforcement of the Royal Flying Corps in France by 20 fighting squadrons or 120 planes to meet a German threat to Allied air supremacy.

The new German Albatross and the Halberstadt fighters were outperforming British planes. Adoption by Germany of a centralized system of control for her air force and new defenses foreshadowed aerial warfare such as the world had never dreamed of. But the British government was forced to tell Haig there was no possibility of meeting his request.

Faced Same Problem

Twenty-three years later, as German bombs blasted the semi-defenseless Allied armies out of Norway, Britain again faced the same fundamental problem of supply.

Preparing to repel any invasion, Britain's defense chiefs are now demanding, not 120 planes, but a steady stream of 10,000 or more planes a month—as many as the factories of Britain, Canada and the United States can squeeze into their production schedules.

When U. S. Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., referred to the enormous cost involved in British plans to obtain 3,000 United States planes a month over and above existing contracts, he cited an axiom which finally has been put into practice here—"when dealing with air power, throw all ideas of economy out of the window."

All Important Factors

Centralization of command in air operations, and an organization capable of supervising experimentation, production and distribution of the most powerful fighting machines and of maintaining vast numbers constantly available are the all-important factors in aerial warfare, according to British air experts. And there have been suggestions that, had Britain's air chiefs had the ultimate power of decision in the R. A. F.'s peacetime policies, the battles for Norway and Flanders might have had a different outcome.

Britain's modern air force was born April 1, 1918. Since the inception of the Royal Flying Corps in 1912 the nation's military and naval wings, originally intended to be mutually self-sufficient but under a central control, had drifted apart and become intent upon their own administrative and strategic problems, even to the extent of competing against each other for planes and equipment.

Haig's letter calling attention to the acute supply situation was instrumental in providing centralized World war production control in the form of a second air board, but it was not until the following June that a second incident startled Britain into realization of the fact that centralized production was not in itself sufficient.

London Was Bombed

On June 13, 1917, mass formations of German Gothas, in a daylight raid, dropped four tons of bombs on London. In this foretaste of total warfare, for which Britain was entirely unprepared, 162 persons were killed and 432 were injured.

Only a central command, it became apparent, could enable the air force to provide adequate defense of industrial objectives at home, carry out reprisal raids on Germany and fulfill its major function as "the army's long-range artillery."

In November, 1917, the air board was expanded into an air ministry authorized to effect amalgamation of the air services.

The R. A. F.'s organization is the simplest of the three branches of the armed services. It is divided into seven independent commands under an air chief marshal or air marshal, each of whom is directly responsible to the chief of the air staff, Air Chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall.

Of the seven, the bomber and fighter commands are the senior units. The bomber command is responsible for controlling administration of all home bomber squadrons, forming the striking force of the metropolitan air force, and the fighter command is charged with defense of the home shores from all forms of hostile air attack. The latter works in close liaison with anti-aircraft, searchlight, balloon barrage and observation units.

The coastal command is responsible for reconnaissance over home waters in conjunction with the admiralty. It operates in liaison with naval forces and the fleet air arm, even to the extent of spotting for naval guns, as in the bombardment of Stavanger.

The pre-war training command, now divided into a technical training command and a flying training command, controls all flying armament schools and R. A. F. depots.

The maintenance command governs equipment depots, aircraft storage units, ammunition depots and repair depots.

The last, the balloon command, undertakes administration and training of all barrage crews.

In addition to these commands there are four foreign-based air forces in the near east, far east, Palestine and India, all of which operate independently, although responsible to Newall.

At the outbreak of the present war the air force accompanying the British expeditionary force overseas was divided into two sections—the air component, attached to Viscount Gort's headquarters for army cooperation and reconnaissance, and an advanced striking force, tantamount to a bomber command offshoot based in France.

With appointment of Air Vice-Marshal John Francis Barrett as commander-in-chief of the air forces in France, however, the two branches were united under a single command which, though it maintained close liaison with army headquarters, was directly subordinate to the air staff at home.

Others Independent

The empire air forces in Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Kenya and Rhodesia are independent, although in event of their transfer to the United Kingdom they would come under administration of the air staff for war operations.

One branch of Britain's air power is not in the air ministry's jurisdiction. Although the R. A. F. resisted all attempts to restore a measure of dual military and naval control, the fleet air arm constitutes an independent force taking orders from the admiralty alone.

Air circles have explained that the fact fleet aircraft are based on ships—aircraft carriers or cruisers from which they are catapulted—made their operation entirely dependent upon maneuvers of their floating bases.

Thus, while the fleet air arm command and the R. A. F. cooperate on technical matters as well as in conduct of military operations within the range of the R. A. F.'s shore bases, the former maintains its own regulations and individual uniforms.

RUMOR PASSER KILLS SELF

MALDON, Essex, Eng. (U.P.)—A man, conscience stricken because he had repeated an unfounded rumor and dreaded the result, took his own life, Walter Eves, a laborer, passed on a remark he had heard that two well known men in the district were Fascists. No grounds for the rumor could be discovered.

A seven-foot skeleton, believed to be that of a Roman, was unearthed near Hutton, England.

Books On Etiquette To Be Sold By Lions

A campaign to raise funds for work of the Lubbock Boys' club through sale of books on etiquette is being staged by the Lubbock Lions club, under direction of W. H. Evans and G. V. Pardue, group chairmen.

Already, Evans reported at a club luncheon Tuesday, several hundred books have been sold and the campaign is just starting. One man, K. L. Riggs, he said, had sold 200 copies. A. I. Glassman, a team captain, sold 20.

Part Payment Made

"Every Day Manners in a Nutshell," by Sally Bradshaw, is the name of the book. Miss Sally Kline is directing the sale here.

Besides Glassman, other team captains are Dr. C. C. Craig, C. D. Doggett, Huddleston Wright, Vance Apple, Noel Stalnaker, George Zarafonetis and Dr. M. H. Benson.

The downtown district has been divided into sections and a team has been assigned to each section. Proceeds from the sale will be used by the club on its $1,500 underwriting of the new building for the Lubbock Boys' club. A part of the payment by the club has been made.

Sorry He Didn't Try The Gly-Cas Sooner

Able To Enjoy His Meals First Time In Fifteen Years; Relieved Of Dizzy Spells and Heart Palpitation Now

"If I had known of Gly-Cas years before there would not have been the need of all my suffering," said Mr. G. G. Boucher, 324 E. Elm St., Tyler, Texas. "For fifteen years I had hardly been able to eat the foods I wanted because of the terrible distress that would come afterwards. The accumulated intestinal impurities from faulty elimination had caused this miserable digestive disturbance. Bloating, indigestion attacks and heartburn would come after each meal. Gas crowded my heart until it would palpitate and those dizzy spells that attacked me were terrible. Little did I realize constipation could make such a wreck of one's health until I began Gly-Cas and it put me on the road to good health."

MR. G. G. BOUCHER

"For the first time in years I am getting regular bowel action," continued Mr. Boucher. "Those clogged intestinal impurities are being regularly eliminated and now my digestino is fine. I have been relieved of that horrible distress following my meals and even by eating things I dared not touch for years. I can truthfully state I am enjoying the best health I have had in years. It is wonderful that suffering people can get a medicine like Gly-Cas for it seemed to give me results where all else I tried had left off."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.

Triple Header On Tonight

By Collier Parris

TRIPLE SPORTS BILL on for tonight, with the "ladies free" sign hanging out at two places . . . They're at Fox Park, where an important softball program is on tap, and at The Sportarena, where Sled Allen is putting on a double main event, a wrestling show that ought to be good . . . See other spaces on this page for names and addresses.

It isn't "ladies night" out at the Hubber ball park, but they don't need much of a "come on" when the Pampas and the Lubbocks are playing, which is the case tonight . . . There'll be Glover Soto, Lloyd Summers, Dutch Prather and the rest of the gas house gang from Gray county . . . Sure wish Buster Cappa, Joe Pate and a couple of Waco cops were umpiring this series.

Marshall Brown, dynamic basketball personality around Texas Tech and these parts, has been elected assistant coach and instructor of social science at Sterling City High school, we are informed by a letter from O. T. Jones, superintendent . . . At the moment, Brown is rounding out his first season as professional baseball player with the Lamesa Loboes . . . One of the smoothest basketball players ever to hit this section, and one of the better students at the college, as well as one of the most likeable persons you ever met, Brown should go over well as teacher and coach . . . He'll coach basketball, and assist with football and other sports at Sterling City . . . And luck to him.

And speaking of football, Texas Tech probably will be minus the services of a "counted on" wingman this fall . . . Jack Wheelis, regular end last year, has just announced that it has been sometime now since he and Mrs. Wheelis became Mr. and Mrs., and that they aren't going to keep it a secret any longer . . . Participation in athletics, especially football, of married men is frowned upon by the Tech athletic department, so Jack doesn't expect to be tendered a gushing welcome this fall . . . Congratulations to him and best wishes . . . He plans to remain in school and complete work toward a degree . . . There have been several married men on Texas Tech grid teams, most of them secretly married and most of them have done very well . . . One of the most popular, and NOT secretly married, was Larry Priddy, the great center, whose marital status was not only tolerated but well received by the coaches.

They've been doing considerable football talk out at Tech recently, and even some suiting out . . . Line Coach Dutchy Smith, who is to play an important part as instructor and demonstrator in the "world's largest coaching school" starting next Monday at Austin, has been going over a lot of details with some of the boys who'll accompany and assist him.

And Goober Keyes, Lubbock High head coach, hit town yesterday after serving a term as busy inmate at Colorado State college . . . Keyes and Walker Nichols, the Westerners line coach, both have been attending the Colorado school this summer, working on masters degrees . . . "And boy, we've really been working . . . I never studied so hard or did so much library research through the whole four years of ordinary college work than I did altogether this summer," said Keyes . . . Anyway, he looks in the pink, has added a few pounds, and is ready to tear into the work of getting the Westerners ready to defend a state title.

Nichols and his bride did not tarry long in Lubbock, hastening on to San Angelo for a visit before he joins Keyes at Austin next week for the coaching school . . . Keyes goes from there to College Station to act as instructor in the annual Aggie coaching school, then he'll come home for a few days, then go to Wichita Falls where he starts coaching a team of North Texas gridders for their clash in the Oil Bowl classic against the South Texas All-Stars . . . That game is scheduled for September 2, and five of six ex-Westerners will be in Goober's lineup . . . Quick as he gets home, he'll start in strong with the Westerners of 1940, about which you'll be hearing more later.

Lubbock loses one of its better women golfers this week when Mrs. Mabry "Lefty" Heilbecker moves away to Abilene . . . She's going to be missed around here, and so is her old man, J. W. . . . They've been good citizens here, and she has done a lot for women's golf . . . Not so long ago she set a new record on the back nine at Country club with a 37, one over men's par . . . She'll miss the annual Lubbock Women's City Open, starting a week from today . . . Mrs. J. R. Farmer is defending champion.

There'll be some hot baseball over at Seagraves Saturday and Sunday when Snipe Conley brings his Texon Oilers over to play Putsy Gentry's Seagraves outfit . . . Seagraves won the recent invitation tournament here, you remember, and Texon is one of the best semi-pro clubs of West Texas . . . They play at 4:30 Saturday afternoon and 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the Seagraves diamond.

Don't take too lightly the current stories regarding a possible Max Baer-Joe Louis championship fight in New Mexico this fall, under promotion of Pup Thomas, et al . . . The odds against such an arrangement are about 6 to 1, maybe more, but every now and then a guy can draw a pat hand, you know . . . The negotiations so far, we are in a position to know, are "on the level;" Thomas is sincere in his ambitions, Ancil Hoffman, manager of Baer, will listen to reason, and Mike Jacobs, the boxing czar, may do likewise, in view of the fact that high officialdom of New Mexico has told Thomas to carry on with negotiations and see what can be done . . . Pup's tentative offer yesterday of $75,000 for the services of both Louis and Baer, he knew would be turned down; he knows that it will take just about twice that much to line the thing up — and he may get it . . . Stranger things have happened . . . As for Baer demanding fifty grand to get in the same ring with Louis, we don't blame him — but it's probably a gross exaggeration: bet he'd sign up in a minute for $48,000 and a camp at Buffalo Lakes.

American League Race Is Unpredictable

Leaders Tied Fifth Time This Season

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is just no way to make sense out of the American league pennant scramble.

First the Boston Red Sox looked like they were going places. Then the Cleveland Indians went on the warpath. Intermittently the New York Yankees showed signs of awakening. More recently the Detroit Tigers have been setting the pace.

But today for at least the fifth time this season the leaders are in a tie and there positively is no possibility of predicting how the race will wind up.

Indians Win One Again

The Cleveland Indians, who once gained first place by the simple process of losing four games in a row, moved back into a deadlock for the lead last night by the equally unspectacular feat of winning one game in a row.

Bob Feller kept eight hits scattered to beat the Boston Red Sox 2-1. It was his 17th triumph of the year and came at the proper time to capitalize on a three-game losing streak by the Tigers, who were dunked 8-6 by the Yankees.

This lifted New York within 6 1-2 games of the lead and one game out of third place.

The National league issue appeared more cut and dried than ever after the Cincinnati Reds snatched a 6-3 decision over the New York Giants and the Brooklyn Dodgers lost an 8-2 nocturnal tussle to the Pittsburgh Pirates. This set Brooklyn back to eight games behind the Reds.

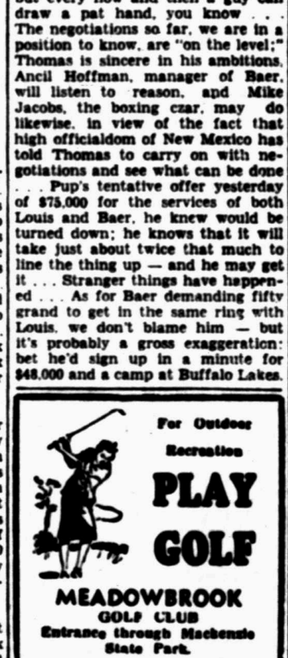

Dodgers Drop Down Lower

The St. Louis Cardinals pounced on the helpless Boston Bees with a 19-hit attack that was good for a 13-5 victory. Johnny Mize hit his 27th and 28th home runs of the year to lead the pack. It was the seventh straight setback for Boston's tail-enders.

The Phillies managed to nose out the Chicago Cubs 7-5 although outhit 16-11.

The Chicago White Sox extended their surge at the expense of the Philadelphia Athletics with a 3-1 victory.

Dutch Leonard shut out the St. Louis Browns 4-0 for Washington in a night game.

Double Dose Of Rough Stuff Is Promised In Wrestling Matches At The Sportarena Tonight; Ladies Night Is Scheduled

A double dose of what the publicity agents like to call "rough stuff"—slugging, hair scalping, eye gouging, in fact, anything not in the books—is billed for entertainment of wrestle fans tonight at the Sportarena.

Promoter Sled Allen has arranged the summer's first, and possibly only, double header grunt and groan card. The first bout will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

Special For Women

In addition to the twin feature, Allen announced that it was "ladies night" and that the women would be admitted for five cents, including federal tax.

Taking the spotlight first will be the appearance of Lightnin' Rod Fenton of Edmonton, Canada. His opponent will be none other than the people's pest No. 1—that is to wrestling enthusiasts—Ray "Big Train" Clements. The match is for one hour time limit or two out of three falls.

Mantell To Referee

Another highlight and personality on the night's program will be Dutch Mantell of Amarillo, usually referred to as the grand old man of the tug and slug profession. The little Dutchman will be the third man in the ring for both main events. He will attempt to keep a semblance of order in the opener and again in the finale pitting popular Dory Detton of Salt Lake City against Chuck Powell, the Birmingham loud mouth who always takes the issue to the paying guests and disagrees regardless of their decisions.

Regular main event rules will govern this latter engagement, two out of three falls or a two hour time limit.

All in all, tonight's promising card seemingly has more potential action available than any arranged this summer.

No Scheduled Games In Twilight League

There will be no regularly scheduled games in Business-Professional twilight play this afternoon.

Tuesday, the Christians and Doctors came through with one-run victories over the Federals and Courthouse crew in the only tilts reported.

Three tallies in the final frame gave the Christians their win, Grady West pitching and G. E. Dawson catching for the winners, while Jack Green and Harris handled duties for the Federals. Green and Pate homered for the losers with O. A. Terry leading the winners' attack with a triple.

Eight runs in the third frame provided the spark for the Doctors' 14 to 13 decision over Courthouse ten. Blake tossed and Merriman caught for the winners, Burton S. Burks and Underwood pitching and catching, respectively, for the Courthouse.

They Say It's Not Another Fit But Lubbock Promoter Offers $75,000 For Fight

They say it's not another fit L. D. "Pup" Thomas is having—that offer to "lay $75,000 on the line" for a Joe Louis-Max Baer championship fight "somewhere in New Mexico" in September.

Everybody connected with negotiations for such a match are just as serious as Mike Jacobs ever was concerning the same bout in the East—perhaps more so.

The Lubbock boxing enthusiast and promoter today was awaiting word from Ancil Hoffman, manager of the Maccap, concerning the wire sent yesterday making a flat offer of $75,000 as a "guaranteed gate" for a title meeting between the Larruper and Bomber.

Thomas said that Hoffman had advised him by telephone that, despit recent statements by Baer, "we would be interested in coming to terms with Louis for a championship fight as a feature of New Mexico's Cuarto-Centennial celebration." Thomas called on high officials of the state and of the celebration committee in Albuquerque Sunday and Monday, and said his proposition was met with unanimous approval, that [illegible] urged to continue [illegible]

HOFFMAN WANTS $50,000

SACRAMENTO, July 31 (AP) — Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, today set a price of $50,000 for the ex-champ to meet Joe Louis for the heavyweight boxing crown.

"This is the same guarantee I demanded from Mike Jacobs and it will hold for any promoter who wants to use Max against Louis," declared Hoffman.

Hoffman said he had been contacted by L. D. "Pup" Thomas, Lubbock, Texas, promoter, who offered "to lay $75,000 on the line" for a Louis-Baer fight in New Mexico in September as a feature of New Mexico's Cuarto-Centennial celebration.

Hoffman said he wired Thomas that his price for Baer was $50,000.

Record Chalked Up By Borger Hurler; Wins 12 Straight

Never let it be said of the West Texas-New Mexico league that there's nothing going on. Something is happening every minute, it seems.

While sports writers and league statisticians were checking to confirm Lubbock's record-equalling winning streak, the consecutive hurling triumphs of Robert Crues of Borger were writing a new chapter into the circuit books.

His 12 straight mound victories, which ended Monday night when the Gassers lost in the last of the ninth to Clovis Pioneers on Mel Steiner's home run blast, surpassed any other such performance in the history of the league. His home is Plainview and he started out early this season under the tutelage of Manager Jodie Tate.

While wearing the Lamesa colors, he lost three decisions hand running. Then he defeated Borger, with help from a relief twirler May 30.

Borger decided if Crues could beat the Gassers, they'd be better off with him playing for them. So they took him along after the Lamesa series.

He went the route eight times in winning 11 times in a Gasser uniform. He captured decisions twice while serving in relief roles and once was relieved although getting credit for the win.

Monday night Crues limited the Pioneers to seven safeties while the Gassers were getting 11, but Mel Steiner spoiled his record with a home run smash in the ninth inning.

Crues works minus the first joint of the forefinger on his salary hand. That, however, tends to help him get "stuff" on the ball rather than hampering him.

He has beaten every team in the league, except Lubbock.

Air travel for the month of April, 1940, was approximately 73.91 per cent higher than for the same month in 1939.

Two Spots Left For Five Clubs In Texas

(By The Associated Press)

Thanks to Houston, two spots are left in the Shaughnessy playoff for five teams to fight over in the Texas league race.

Beaumont obligingly dropped three tilts in a row, the last two to Houston, and Oklahoma City moved within three games of the third place Rustlers.

Houston and San Antonio are well out in front, San Antonio by eight and one half games ahead of Beaumont. Houston leads San Antonio by seven.

Houston beat Beaumont, 9-6, last night.

The Dallas Eagles moved into fifth place by defeating Tulsa, 5-3.

San Antonio Gassers (Shreveport ...), Abilene, Oklahoma City (...) collar ... Fort Worth, 4-2.

A proposed air service from the United States to the region known as Australasia, comprising Australia, New Zealand, will shorten ... to 4 1-2 days and will operate one round trip each fortnight.

Lumber Banquet Will Be Staged Tonight

Between 125 and 150 persons are expected to attend a banquet and show at which Cameron Lumber company and Masonite corporation will be hosts at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Hilton hotel.

Lumber dealers, yard managers and others from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico are to attend, said John Crisler, local manager. C. E. Gregory is in charge of arrangements.

A Diesel engine of 1926 weighed 70,500—188 pounds per horsepower; its modern counterpart weighs only 19,000 pounds, or 31 pounds per horsepower.

MORE BECOMES APPRENTICES

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—Apprenticeship is coming back into its own of former days. During one month the number of apprenticeship agreements sanctioned by the California Apprenticeship Council increased from 1,100 to 2,000. San Diego set up the first program in the United States for meat cutting apprenticeships.

CAPT. JACK WALTON, commanding Battery C of the Texas National Guard, was in the other day and he says employers of guardsmen in Lubbock, as elsewhere in the nation, are giving almost 100 per cent co-operation in making it possible for men to attend the training camp this year.

Captain Walton says Lubbock employers always have reacted well to permitting their guardsmen employes to go to camp, but that this year they have outstripped themselves.

He sited numerous instances where operators of small businesses have made sacrifices to permit their employes to go to Cravens, La., for three weeks beginning the last of this week. And he says the guard organizations, from himself and Capt. H. H. Griffith to the rawest rookie, appreciate it very much.

Not only are some employers gladly permitting their employes to go, but they are paying them in full or in part for the time off.

Captain Walton says that's the kind of patriotism that speaks for itself.

Something like 140 enlisted men and five officers will represent Lubbock and its two artillery outfits at the big maneuvers this year.

An advance group was to have gotten away early Wednesday morning and the main detail will pull out at 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

Training this year will be the most intensive in guard history, Captain Walton believes.

THE PLAINSMAN is not an amateur camera bug, but if he were he knows of a shot he'd certainly get before the seasons change.

He would pile out of bed about 5:30 some bright morning and hustle over to the Texas Tech campus and, as the sun shoots across from the east, would take a picture of the college administration building, bathed at the top by Old Sol's first rays.

(In case Byron Dickinson and the other early risers here-abouts are wondering how The Plainsman knows what the Tech building looks like at 6 o'clock in the morning, the writer beheld it last Sunday at that hour when en route home. He hadn't been out frolicking, either — this is for A. B. Davis' benefit—but, instead, had been working on an election day paper!)

* * *

The WPA made a survey which shows that more men beat their wives in July than in any other month.

We have no idea what this information cost, but we know what it's worth.

A RECENT edition of The American Weekly, Sunday magazine section of the Hearst newspapers, was called to The Plainsman's attention by several persons, including Dr. W. F. Fry, who sent us a clipping from it. The clipping was of a story about Dr. Oscar A. Kinchen, Texas Tech professor of history one of the college's most erudite faculty members and, according to all reports, its most forgetful.

The magazine's article was, of course, based upon Doctor Kinchen's widely heralded and discussed absent-mindedness and rehashed many of the yarns long in circulation locally. It told of Doctor Kinchen's sometimes eating two breakfasts and forgetting lunch; of his handing a cigar counter girl a cigar and walking off with the box; of how he drove his car to Amarillo, came home on the bus, remembered his car in Amarillo and went back on the bus to get it after buying a round trip ticket, and so on.

It was a readable article packed with chuckles and was not harmful to Doctor Kinchen. If anything, it left the reader with something akin to a warm liking for this educator who, allegedly, typifies the "absent-minded professor" of song and story.

* * *

Now, The Plainsman has heard all those stories about the good Doctor — and many others, besides.

In fact, Doctor Kinchen has been mentioned along the same line in this column.

But in the writer's humble judgment, Doctor Kinchen is forgetful about inconsequential details only because of his habit of deeply concentrating upon matters of greater importance.

Which to us indicates unusual mental powers.

DOCTOR KINCHEN is one of the most brilliant men on the Tech faculty.

We'll go even further than that and say he is one of the most brilliant we've ever had in the college here.

Friendly, personable, wedded to his work, he has something more to occupy his powerful mind besides how many breakfasts he has eaten, whether or not he has had lunch, or whether he is buying a single cigar or a box of them.

If he overlooks little details it is only because he is deep in thought about other subjects which really matter.

While The Plainsman rarely meets Doctor Kinchen socially, or otherwise, he is one of the No. 1 Kinchen fans hereabouts—and they are legion.

It is impossible to come into contact with the man without a feeling of admiration for his facile mind and his very evident powers of concentration.

The Plainsman frequently has chuckled over the Doctor's eccentricities, but they in no way interfere with our respect for him and his works.

As we see him, he's a humdinger of a professor and one that any college would be proud to have on its faculty.

His store of information on countless subjects is nothing less than remarkable, and in addition to being a top-flight teacher, Doctor Kinchen is one of the best speakers and lecturers ever heard by civic and study clubs here.

The Plainsman thinks the professor is swell — both personally and professionally.

EVER since Vice-President John Nance Garner left Washington 10 days or so ago, there has been much speculation regarding the future plans of Texas' No. 1 national figure.

It has been said that Mr. Garner, miffed at the New Deal and the renomination of President Roosevelt for a third term, will not go back to the capital to finish his job of presiding over the United States Senate.

It has been said, also, that Mr. Garner will go back, but only if requested to return by President Roosevelt.

Mr. Garner, himself, has said nothing except, as he left Washington, that he was "going home to Uvalde to vote."

No confidant of the Vice-President, The Plainsman doesn't pretend to know what is in the Garner mind.

But having had several brief contacts with the Uvalde sage, and being more or less familiar with his record, both public and private, the writer does not believe Mr. Garner will throw up the job to which he was elected and spend the next five months like Sohrab, sulking in his tent.

We believe Mr. Garner will do the right thing by his job and by the American people who elected him to it.

He isn't the type to do otherwise.

THE PLAINSMAN can well understand Mr. Garner's antipathy toward a third term for Mr. Roosevelt, or anyone else.

We can understand his dissatisfaction of the way Mr. Roosevelt handled the third term question and his extended candidacy.

Since Mr. Garner is a real Democrat and a practical man, he naturally is suspicious of a lot of New Deal shenanigans, and the kidnaping of the party name and machinery by the Rooseveltian organization is certain to be distasteful to the Vice-President.

But regardless of his personal opinions, Mr. Garner is too big a man to be swayed from his course of duty and he is too much of a fighter to be run off the Senate dais by the gay young parlor pinks who are always within whispering distance of the President's ear.

The Plainsman, along with millions of others, will be both surprised and disappointed if Mr. Garner fails to finish his job as it should be finished

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ROSSY McAFEE—went to college to play baseball, get an education, and settle a feud.

JUDY TOLLIVAR—daughter of Lincoln College's president.

HANNAH SHRIDER — hillbilly girl who followed Rossy to college.

YESTERDAY: Rossy signs his contract, is sure of a future as a pitcher. When Judy tells him that Dr. Tollivar is responsible for bringing the scout to Lincoln, even for bringing Rossy to school, he kisses her, then rushes away. The next day, Rossy and Dr. Tollivar drive to the hills, stop at the ball diamond. Dr. Tollivar tells Rossy that he was picked to kill Jay McAfee, that he threw the ball that knocked Jay unconscious. "But I did not kill him. He was killed by a blow by a member of your own family."

CHAPTER XII

Rossy McAfee just sat there gasping and gulping and staring at Dr. Tollivar. Tollivar looked at him now, met Rossy's eyes.

"I said that it was not the bean ball I threw that killed your father, although it knocked him unconscious. It was a blow on his head with a bar of iron, just back of this grandstand, that cracked his skull and was the actual cause of death. That was what I said."

"I heerd ye," Rossy said, hoarsely. "But how do you know that when you hulled out? Didn't you turn tail and run after you seen what you had done?"

Dr. Tollivar opened and shut his hands. His face was tight with remembered shame.

"Yes, I did. To my everlasting grief I ran. I plead in defense the fact that it was all I knew to do.

"My branch of the Tollivers were cowards, I suppose—in a physical sense. We were never fighters, had no idea ever of being killers. My father left the mountains because of that. He loved peace, and for myself, I was a scholar. So my legs moved with a fear I couldn't control, and there would have been no point in my staying and getting killed, as surely would have followed if I had not escaped.

"So I left the mountains forever. I went to school, to college. I made a name for myself. Always I had in the back of my head a hunger to come back and do something big for my people. Educate them, lift them out of the ruck of feuding.

"I knew that soon or late Lincoln College would need a new president. I fitted myself for the place, and when the opening came, I returned, went to work, and poured all my soul into making that a big school. I have labored in the north to get funds for scholarships. Every time a feud boy wanted to come to college he always got in.

"I never admitted I was a Tolliver. What would have been the value of that? I kept my mouth shut, and labored to make available education for worthwhile people like you—like Hannah Shrider—or a thousand others. That was the way I saved my soul after killing your faeher.

"But, Rossy, I did not 'bean' your father on purpose. It was just another of those times where one does a thing because he is so terribly afraid he will—and he then can't help it. You were close to it yesterday when we played Southern."

"I know."

"Now we have a couple of things to attend to, and afterward I hope we'll have a big square dance. I haven't enjoyed a big dance for years and years. Let's go back down to Leverage's."

* * *

They were back at Judge Jesse's in 30 minutes. The room had been cleared and chairs placed. It was not long before men, Tollivers and McAfees, were gathering. To Rossy's amazement Hannah Shrider appeared, accompanying Judy Tollivar. Rossy's mother came on horseback.

Steve Hogg came with his mother. Constable came with his mother. Constable Sneed brought them. There was no appearance of handicuffs, or the heavy hand of the law.

Soon the small room was packed and Judge Jesse was clearing his throat getting ready for one of his typical courts that were not officially courts, but mountain justice. The last to appear was Scout Ike Hill, with Coach Hurd. Leverage pounded the table for order in court, and said:

"Folks, we are gathered together to settle something what's been hanging fire for night a generation, namely, to-wit, who killed Rossy McAfee's paw, and how come. Now, I allus have said to let sleeping dogs lie. But this pup wants wakening. Dr. Tollivar, will you stand."

"Yes, sir, Judge," Dr. Tollivar said, and got up.

"Was you the Tolliver boy what pitched that Fourth of July game when McAfee was beaned?"

"Yes, sir, Judge, I was. But it was an accident. Not for the world would I have done it. I've tried to atone for it to Rossy McAfee. But I was the one." He sat down.

Rossy, sitting between Judy and Hannah, felt Hannah nudge him viciously with her elbow. "And he more than done it, too, fool. Pity he wasn't your paw. You'd be riding a pacing hoss."

"Shut up!" Rossy whispered.

"Stand up, Ike Hill."

The scout stood at the court's order. "Yes, sir, Judge."

"Was you, as this letter of yours I have before me, present at that same game, scouting?"

"Yes, sir, Judge, I was. I'd heard of this Tolliver boy and wanted to see him in action. If he was as good

WHO WOULD DO THE POLICING?

Self-control of the oil industry, as proposed by the Independent Petroleum Association of America, unquestionably would be the best method of solving the multitudinous problems of that industry.

The catch in the proposal is: Would the industry practice self-control if given the opportunity? Past experience seems conclusive evidence that it would not.

It is because the oil industry has failed to keep its own house in order that today it is regulated severely in practically everything that it does. It is for that reason that it is threatened with still further regulation under proposed federal law. It is because the industry failed to behave itself that the regulations forced upon it have become over-regulation. It has only itself to blame because there are regulatory bodies at every hand which are operated at great expense, which have increased the cost of gasoline and petroleum products to everyone who uses them, which has impaired the efficiency of very operation within the industry.

Possibly the industry may have learned lessons from its experiences. It is to be hoped, for the sake of economy to everyone, that the time will come when the oil industry can be trusted to run its own business as it should be run. But if independence is to be returned to the industry, it must be a gradual process. The industry must prove itself step by step before it ever can hope to enjoy any real independence again.

They're In The Army Now—At Rate Of 6,000 Rookies Every Week

Youth Of U. S. Now Flocking To The Colors

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 31—Contrary to what you've been hearing, the U. S. Army is not having a lot of trouble getting a big batch of recruits.

Enlistments right now are coming in at 6000 a week, and the drive to reach a total enlisted strength of 280,000 by he end of August is approximately two weeks ahead of schedule. Rate of recruitments has been increasing steadily for the past two or three months.

Catton

As soon as it reaches the 280,000 level, the army has to begin a new campaign, taking on 95,000 more men so as to reach the authorized maximum of 375,000. Schedule calls for completion of this job by the end of the year, and present indications are that the goal will be reached.

CCC Brings Complaints

Reports about the leg seem to have originated in the second corps area, centering around New York City. It's true that few (comparatively) are signing up there, but that's nothing new; for some reason New York never has been a good hunting ground.

Best places to get recruits are the third corps area, comprising Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, the fourth, which takes in the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee; the fifth, which includes Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky, and the eighth, which is made up of Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona. These areas more than make up for New York.

Some army officers have complained that the CCC camps offer too much competition, in that they take young men form the same general age levels, offer them six-month enrollments (which can be broken off whenever the enrollee lands a job) and pay them $30 a month as compared with the army's $21. The recruiting branch denies this competition hurts; besides, it contacts the CCC lads when their terms are about to expire, and signs up a lot of them anyhow.

Navy Still Holds Appeal

Some of the army's recruiters are getting to be good salesmen. Classic story, just relayed here, has to do with a recruiting sergeant in Kentucky. Salesman for a correspondence school dropped in on him to try to sell him a course in advertising, figuring that would come in handy in connection with the enlistment drive. The salesman did his stuff, and then the sergeant did his. Result: salesman joined the Army.

Only real trouble is that the average civilian doesn't think the army has much glamor. Movie companies are helping remedy this by making plenty of newsreel shorts; also, in recent weeks the mechanized outfits seem to have taken on an air of romance, and recruits for that branch aren't hard t oget. But the navy still has the edge in the matter of popular appeal.

One thing is certain: the average rookie is a different sort of specimen these days than a generation ago. Recruiting officials here recently picked up several hundred recruits' cards and fed them into one of those trick sorting machines, to see what the average recruit is like. Here's the picture:

He's 21, native-born, 5 feet 8 1-2 inches tall and weighing 145 pounds. He wears 8-E shoes, a 7 1-8 hat, has a 32-inch waist and can wear a regular 36 coat. He has blue eyes and light brown hair, has a high school education, has had some mechanical, clerical or occupational training—and comes from a rural district.

as they said, he must be a house afire."

"Then you seen the actual beaning—that right?"

"Yes, along with a lot of people here. I saw what appeared to be a strange accident."

"You think it was an accident?"

"Yes, I do. I've seen nervous pitchers throw games away in strange ways, but never like that. But I feel sure it was an accident, and I am equally sure that, but for something else, McAfee would have been over it in 30 minutes. I've seen a good many men knocked out, and it's rare indeed that one is really killed."

"Will you finish up the rest of your tale?"

"Gladly. When the beaning happened, I saw this was no place for me. I didn't want to get messed up in a fight, and I saw this was going to be a royal one. I saw Tollivar strike for the tall and uncut." This brought a laugh from all over the room.

"The second shadow everybody thought was Tolliver's trying to keep up with him, was me. We disappeared about the same time, but that was because I took the short cut.

"I dropped through a hole in the bandstand just as they brought McAfee around and laid him in the shade. One man went for water and the other for something else. Then I saw a big overgrown fellow drop with an iron bar in his hand and hit the unconscious man with the iron. It all happened in the wink of an eye.

"I never came back to mess up with the matter. It was none of my affair, I figured. Not till lately have I ever told what I really saw. Now I am here to say it under oath, if necessary."

"Would you know that feller if you seen him?"

"I think so."

"Look around. Is he here?"

Hill looked all around, and then back at Leverage. "He is here."

"Sit down," Judge Jesse said. "One more point. There was a dispute about the McAfee lands and timber after he was accidentally killed. Seems McAfee was trying to keep neighborhood peace and not lose out in law by transferring his property to his half sister. Some men put their property now in their wife's names. But after he died the property was held back and kept.

"Steve Hogg. You here? Will you stand up?"

His face drawn and hard, Steve Hogg got up, holding to the chair ahead of him to steady himself.

"Steve, how'd you feel about giving back that land and timber to Rossy McAfee and his maw?"

"I—I think it could be arranged," Steve said thickly.

"I'm all for letting feuds and [illegible] like sleep in thar graves." Leverage went on thoughtfully. "TVA and cyars should make thar sleep peaceful. Just the same, murder is murder, and I reckon, Constable, you mout as wellst take your prisoner along. He'll feel better in other company."

When Steve Hogg went out with the officer, joining the sheriff waiting outside, there was a mofent of odd depression.

Judge Jesse cleared the atmosphere.

"Now would thar be a gal and boy here who mout want to git married or something?" He beamed all around. "I feel it coming on me—the marriage ceremony. I could hitch anybody up in good law, recollect; and hit would make a powerful fine occasion to celebrate, so's we could have a square dance tonight, after a big barbecue supper. Of course, we aim to have the supper anyhow; but the dance—well, now, we ain't got no rightful excuse for the dance—"

He continued to beam, and the beam seemed to focus on Rossy McAfee, sitting between Hannah and Judy.

"You needn't look at me, Rossy!" Hannah said. "I'm not even thinking about marrying, not you nor anybody else! Life's beginning with me at 20, and I aim to get a college education and enjoy it before I get hitched up!"

"Who was looking at you?" Rossy growled. "I5m looking at Judy. How about it, Judy?"

Judy blushed furiously, and then dimpled. "Well, my mother took a chance on another wild Hell-n-Damnation baseball pitcher, and won her game; I see no reason why I shouldn't do as well. If you want, Rossy, I'll take the chances with you!"

"Okay. There's the plate and the umps an dall we need do is go to bat."

They moved up and stood before Judge Jesse Leverage, who yelled, "Play ball!—I mean, do you take this here woman—"

Bodies Buried In Fire Ruins

(By The Associated Press)

CAMDEN, N. J., July 31—Blinding heat blocked today an immediate search for bodies of the missing dead after fire and explosions destroyed a million-dollar factory and at least 67 homes in a four-block area of midtown Camden.

Mrs. Mary W. Kobus, director of public safety, expressed fear the death toll might exceed the number indicated in still incomplete checks. She said insurance underwriters thought "probably seven persons" were dead, "but I am not so hopeful."

Reports On Losses

Unofficial reports on the $2,000,000 disaster—worst in Camden's history, showed:

Two women dead.

Four women and a man definitely missing.

Possibly four or five more unaccounted for—subjects of inquiries at hospitals and relief stations, but not given up.

Upwards of 200 injured or affected by heat or smoke, many treated at the scene.

Of those in the hospitals, attendants said four were in critical condition.

Scores Are Homeless

An army of volunteers undertook the task of caring for scores of families made temporarily homeless. Most of these—about 200—were sheltered in dormitories of Camden's naval militia armory. The Salvation Army, nearby hotels and the Red Cross housed others. A soup company supplied food.

Four hours after the first explosion yesterday at the R. M. Hollingshead Paint company plant, which set off the fires that quickly grew and spread, a state of emergency was declared in the area.

It was near dusk before the fire was brought under control. Smoke still overhung the blackened scene today.

While officials of the company, which manufactures automobile paints and polish, were inclined to ridicule any suggestions of sabotage, Mrs. Kobus said the idea would not be dismissed. She would not amplify that comment.

Scores Of Persons In Texas Said Aiding Foreign Powers

(By The Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, July 31—Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the committee investigating un-American activities, says scores of persons in Texas are in the employ of foreign governments for subversive purposes.

He declared in a speech at an Americanism rally here last night that a university professor in the state was teaching "rank Marxism" and that agents of the foreign powers included farmers, physicians, lawyers, newspaper photographers, writers, barbers, brick-layers, hotel operators and teachers.

He called them termites of foreign governments, working to change our form of government for dictatorship which will destroy the right of every man to worship his own God, think as he pleases and enjoy the freedom won for him by his forefathers.

Dies planned toda to begin subpoenaing persons whose names were mentioned in state Communist party records obtained at Houston.

A hearing before the committee will not be resumed until next week, he said.

It was announced yesterday by a committee staff member that records of the party had been obtained and that the membership list included "more than a dozen" teachers.

A unit of the party is at the University of Texas, the staff member said the records further revealed.

The announcement said the records were voluntarily turned over to the committee by a "patriotic Houston couple" who had access to them.

Brief Bits Of News . . . .

Charged With Forgery — W. W. Roberts, 38, this morning was in county jail under charge of forgery of a $310 check signed Roy Cox. The complaint was on file in the court of J. T. Inmon, justice of peace.

Goes To Camp — Capt. Frank A. Pettit will leave next week to attend the National Guard training camp in Louisiana, just across the Texas line. The officer, commander of the Texas Technological college senior engineering unit of the R. O. T. C., will observe the military training of guardsmen from several states during the camp.

To Hold Convention — Lubbock county Republicans will hold their convention at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in county courtroom, said Mrs. J. Wright Kerr, chairman. A chairman will be selected and two delegates chosen to the state convention in Beaumont, Aug. 13. Five precincts of the county have Republican organizations.

Littlefield Program Planned—The newly-formed Littlefield Lions club will hold charter night program Aug. 12 in the First Methodist church there, said A. B. Chapman, an officer, who visited here Tuesday. Billy Hall is president. H. C. Pender, deputy district governor, of Lubbock, will be principal speaker. Ladies night also will be observed.

To Enter Runoff — Candidates for state representative in the district in which Midland is located will be James H. Goodman of Midland, former Lubbock attorney, who received 6,248 votes, and Taylor White of Odessa, former Tahoka vocational agriculture teacher who received 6,034. Third man received 3,943.

Bullock Nominated — Nominated for state representative from his district was A. A. (Pat) Bullock of Snyder, well known school man and former Scurry county superintendent, who received 6,978 votes to 2,836 for his opponent, T. J. Teter. Bullock several years ago was a candidate for state superintendent of public instruction against L. A. Woods and Bullock carried every county in his vicinity, including Garza, Dickens, Borden and Stonewall.

Hazlewood Here — Calvin Hazlewood, employed by the Star Engraving company and stationed in Galveston, is visiting here. He left for Galveston several weeks ago after resigning as secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association of Texas Technological college.

Smiths Have Daughter—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith of Floydada are parents of a daughter born at 7:02 o'clock Tuesday night in West Texas hospital. The baby weighed 6 pounds 4 ounces. Smith is a farmer.

Birth Reported—A son weighing 6 pounds 11 ounces was born to Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Goepfert of 911 Sanders street at 8:50 o'clock Tuesday night in West Texas hospital. The father is employed by a motor company here.

Funeral Conducted—Last rites for Basil Mathis, 23, of near Levelland were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Southland Methodist church, with Rev. H. B. Coggin, pastor, officiating. Rix Funeral home announced burial would be in Southland cemetery. The young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Mathis, died early Monday night at the home of a relative in Amarillo.

Arm Is Broken—Mrs. J. T. Morrison, 1922 Avenue Q, is recuperating from a broken left arm received when she fell Monday at her residence.

Bain Transferred — Transfer of L. F. Bain, who has been Agricultural Adjustment administration executive in Comanche county, to Swisher county at Tulia has been reported by J. Lynn Mauk, field supervisor of the district. He succeeds Vernon Martin, who has been transferred to Lamesa.

Naval Recruits Expected — A total of 104 naval recruits en route from Houston to San Diego, Calif., are expected to pass through Lubbock Saturday afternoon on the California-Gulf Santa Fe passenger train.

To Attend Meeting — A three-day meeting with county representatives and others will be attended in San Angelo by V. L. Cade of Union, member of the state Agricultural Adjustment administration committee, who left Tuesday night for San Angelo.

Chappelle Leaves—Ray L. Chappelle, head professor of agricultural education at Texas Technological college, left this morning for Kerrville to attend a vocational agriculture staff meeting preceding the state convention of teacher trainers and supervisors to be held at Texas A. & M. college Aug. 7-10. O. T. Ryan, area supervisor, and T. L. Leach, itinerant teacher trainer, both with headquarters at Tech, will leave for Kerrville Thursday morning.

Army Gets Many Men — A total of 250 men and six flying cadets had been enlisted in the U. S. army through the Lubbock district recruiting office for July up through today, Sgt. E. O. Slater, chief clerk in the office, said this morning.

Contract To Be Let — Bids on the completion of the Levelland Methodist church are to be taken by the board of stewards Thursday night in a meeting at Levelland. A number of contractors have taken plans and will submit bids, it was said. Haynes & Strange are the architects.

Sight Not Damaged—An attending physician said this morning eyesight of Arthur Couch, farmer of near Anton, had not been damaged as result of an injury suffered Monday. A piece of steel was removed by use of a giant magnet Tuesday from his right eye. The fragment became lodged in his eye when it flew from a hammer he was using.

Mr. and Mrs. Erle Thompson and Thompson's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thompson of Hillsboro, will go to Amarillo Thursday. The Hillsboro couple has been visiting here a week.

Britain Is Ready To Meet Any Emergency

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—Ronald H. Cross, minister of shipping, said in a broadcast to the empire today that Britain was prepared to meet emergencies arising from destruction of her ports by German planes.

"Enemy action might at any time make sudden changes in our port arrangements," he said, "and we have made plans to meet such emergencies."

Dr. Goebbels, Nazi Minister of Propaganda, lives next door to the United States Embassy in Berlin.

Four Teams To Play Softball Tonight In Fox Park Program

Softball enthusiasts are in for a treat the remainder of the week.

Tonight, four tems will parade their wares at Fox Park; Thursday night, the city league takes off in favor of the amateurs; Friday night, three games are on the docket, and Saturday night, an inter-city duel featuring Amarillo's classy Clowns and the Dalby Freighters top off the card.

It's "Ladies Night"

The management will be host to the ladies tonight, all women to be admitted to the double header free.

In the curtain raiser, Lubbock Poultry and Egg takes on Good Eats, a class A contest due to get under way at 8 o'clock. Hemphill-Wells plays Corcoran Tailors in the finale.

Last night, the circuit resumed competition with Central Labor upsetting the Freighters, 7 to 5, McIlhaney downing Sears, 16 to 4, and Borden's edging out Sash and Door, 11 to 9.

E. J. McKnight's three-hit pitching went to waste last night, his wildness in the first inning giving Central Labor three runs and erratic fielding in the fifth adding four more. For Dalby, Charley Presley's home run in the second was the big blow. Earl Ince, jr., homered in the fifth for Central Labor.

Chapman Paces Hitting

Four-run innings in the first and seventh provided the impetus for Borden's to whip Sash and Door in the windup. Roy Chapman paced the hitting for the winners with a double and single closely followed by Charley Herring and Johnnie Deaton, with two onebaggers each.

Sash and Door led momentarily after scoring three runs in the sixth, but Borden's got back ahead in the first half of the seventh. The Doormen threw away a chance to get back in the contest in the final frame with a bit of ill-advised baserunning that ended the game when A. Lynn was caught off third.

The line scores:

SEARS ..... 210 01— 4 5 7
McILHANEY ..... 534 22—16 10 2
Fielding, Kyle and Wardwell; Deering and Allison.

DALBY ..... 021 000 2—5 5 1
CENTRAL LABOR 300 040 x—7 3 3
McKnight and Hilliard; Branch, Sullivan and B. Pigg.

BORDEN'S .... 403 000 4—11 13 6
SASH & DOOR 240 003 0— 9 12 5
Herring and Deaton; Graham and Pharr.

Marriage Rush

dustries" boosted weddings.

Marriage license officials at most large cities said they expected "big business" during August. Chief Clerk Michael Flynn, at Chicago, said "it probably will be the biggest August in our history," and he ordered the office kept open extra hours after Aug. 1. Julius Brosen, clerk in charge at New York, said he looked for a "sharp" increase.

The county clerk at Phoenix, Ariz., reported 222 applications for licenses during July compared with 167 for the same month last year. There were 298 applications during June, 1940. He said that the demand for applications had started slowly this month but that there had been a "noticeable increase" in the number during the last seven days.

Rush Is Recalled

Old employes in many bureaus recalled the rush for licenses in the spring of 1917, just after the United States went into the war against Germany. The registrar at New Orleans said the applicants stood in a line a block long for weeks during April, 1917. Omaha, Neb., clerks remembered a heavy demand in 1917, but said there was "the greatest rush we've known" in 1919, when the expeditionary forces returned from Europe.

At Oklahoma City, the bureau said young couples had rushed in for marriage permits during the four days after the German invasion of the low countries in April "and they'll come in flocks if we get conscription."

That was the opinion of clerks throughout the nation.

Willkie Happy At Smith Aid

(By The Associated Press)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 31—Wendell L. Willkie is "greatly pleased" by the promise of Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic standard bearer in 1928, to campaign actively in his behalf.

The brown-derbied "Happy Warrior" and Samuel Seabury, former investigator of New York City's government, both declared for the Republican nominee late yesterday.

Pleased By Action

"I am greatly pleased that one of Governor Smith's public standing and reputation should support me," Willkie said after learning of the New Yorker's declaration.

He referred to President Roosevelt's recent comment that some prominent Democrats who had offered their support to Willkie thought more of money than humanity, and remarked:

"I hope that is not said of Governor Smith. The man started from the sidewalks of New York. He was a great liberal governor of New York.

"As a matter of fact, his liberal principles were those adopted by his two successors, Franklin Roosevelt and Governor Herbert Lehman."

Took Walk In 1936

Smith, who took a walk out of his party's 1936 convention, said in a statement that "Willkie's nomination at Philadelphia was brought about in a Democratic and American way in contrast to the subservient and boss-controlled New Deal bloc who had the nerve to style themselves a Democratic convention. . . .

"I and millions of other genuine Democrats throughout the United States will continue to protect and defend true Democratic principles and will in no way, willingly or silently, tolerate any foreign bloc, call them New Dealers, or what not, that attempt to prostitute these principles and substitute therefor any isms of their own."

Lubbock Young Man Is In Tientsin

A Lubbock boy is doing his part in protecting the interests of Americans in China.

At Tientsin, one of the treaty cities where several foreign governments have a right by international law to station troops between their embassies at Peking, the Chinese capital, and the sea, Jack C. Hornsby, son of Mrs. Florence Hornsby of 2118 Seventh street, lives in the American barracks, formerly the German concession.

He joined the marine detachment there only recently. His enrollment in the corps was Sept. 20, 1938.

As a Leatherneck in search of adventure and globe-trotting, Hornsby is getting an eye-full. He will be on duty in China two or three years and have opportunity to acquaint himself with the Chinese, Japanese, Russian, French, Italian and German languages and people. He will visit the ancient temples and pagodas of Peking, spend two weeks in Chinwangtao, a city 200 miles east of Tientsin, where he will engage in machine gun target practice at the U. S. naval reservation, and make a trip to Shanhaikuan, where the Great Wall of China meets the Yellow sea.

United States marines have been in North China since 1900, the time of the Boxer rebellion.

Armor For Britain's Soldiers Considered

LONDON, July 31 (AP)—The British war inventions committee is seriously considering the possibility of outfitting British troops with armor, authorized sources said today.

It is sitting with doctors and military technical experts. A new type of reinforced plastic is among the materials under consideration.

Main attention is being given to some sort of a breastplate and a visor.

Inventors are not optimistic about a practical armor against bullets, but they intend principally to afford some protection against the deadly shell splinters.

INDIAN EXECUTED

LONDON, July 31 (AP) — Udham Singh, alias Mahomed Singh Azad, 37-year-old Indian engineer, was executed at Pentonville prison today for the murder March 13 of Sir Michael O'Dwyer, retired lieutenant-governor of Punjab.

Discovery Of Wartime Minerals In Two Counties Of Texas Is Being Revealed

AUSTIN, July 31 (AP)—Discovery of undetermined quantities of wartime minerals in a serpentine mass stretching across Blanco and Gillespie counties was reported by University of Texas geologists today.

Dr. E. P. Sellards, director of the university's bureau of economic geology, said deposits of chromium, magnetite and nickel, which might assume major importance should sources elsewhere be shut off from the United States, were lodged in crystallized rock.

Investigations conducted by the university at one place in Gillespie county showed a content of almost 50 per cent of chromium oxide, used in the preparation of a special type of hard steel.

"Insufficient chromite is in sight here to warrant prospecting during normal times," Dr. V. E. Barnes, bureau geologist in charge of the survey reported.

Could Start Drilling

"However, chromite has a tendency to be aggregated in masses which might not be exposed at the surface, and if chromite were to become unavailable from other sources, it would be advisable to conduct a drilling campaign to locate any masses that might be present," he said.

The Blanco and Gillespie survey is part of a geological index being compiled by the university bureau of the state's 254 counties, 24 of which have now been mapped, Dr. Sellards stated.

He advised immediate prospecting of the nickel deposit since most of this country's supply is at present imported. The magnetite is deposited in the form of an oxide from which iron ore could be extracted, he said.

Rural Supervisor In County Is Selected

Appointment of John Keys, graduate of Texas Technological college and Farm Security administration employe several months, as rural rehabilitation supervisor for Lubbock county was announced Tuesday by Earl Wise, district supervisor.

Keye will succeed Marvin C. Wilson, who will become a district supervisor Thursday.

Keys has been acting supervisor at Memphis for Hall county. He will come here as soon as possible, Wise said. His home is in Lamar county.

Walter Johnson, who has been water facilities supervisor for Lubbock and Hockley counties, will continue in that capacity. A probable increased program for water facilities in the two counties is expected and it was decided to continue Johnson in the work.

Goodwill Trip Will Be Made To City

A goodwill trip to Lubbock will be sponsored by the Scurry County Rodeo Association, Inc., a party visiting here at 9:40 o'clock Monday morning with entertainers and a "sound stage."

The annual rodeo will be Aug. 9 and 10, announced Robert G. Dillard, manager of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

"We will have a large motorcade and be in position to furnish you some entertainment and several novel features," Dillard wrote, "and we would appreciate a large audience."

Calotabs

For Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Nausea, and Sick Headache, due to Constipation.

I despise COLIC

"When I eat the wrong kind of food, or when my stomach turns sour, I often have the most colic pains. And do I yell! But my mama is a smart mama and she gives me Teethina, because Teethina is a mild, gentle laxative. It cleanses my tiny bowels of irritating waste. This relieves my pain and relaxes me too, and I'm all set to go back to sleep. Teethina tastes good and you get twelve powders for only 25c. All little babies like me also get Teethina for temporary constipation and for home hazards caused by a fussy diet." Give Teethina according to the directions in each package.
