School sets hearing date on tax increase

By DEE DEE LARAMORE
Staff Writer

A public hearing on the proposed 9 cent increase in the Pampa Independent School District tax rate has been set for 6 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 22, in Carver Center administration building.

School board members set the public hearing during a regular session Thursday night that lasted more than four hours. Budget problems were only a part of the myriad topics covered in the marathon meeting which ended well after 10 p.m.

The 1988-89 proposed budget amounts to $13.9 million, which includes $700,000 for asbestos clean-up costs and the construction of eight new classrooms. An additional $500,000 has been budgeted for these two items in the 1989-90 school year.

School officials recommend an estimated tax rate of 95.8 cents per $100 of appraised value is needed to balance the budget for the coming year. This amount is seven cents below the effective tax rate of approximately $1.03.

Superintendent Dr. Harry Griffith said board members had two choices: adjust the tax rate or "get to the bottom of the fund reserve." The school district's $2.6 million fund reserve will be depleted by more than $300,000 by

Bush picks Quayle as partner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Bush, veteran of the Republican vineyards, reaches his long-sought moment of triumph tonight, receiving the GOP presidential nomination from a convention abuzz with excitement over his running mate, young, conservative Sen. Dan Quayle.

Many delegates admitted that they didn't know much about Bush's choice, but seemed enthusiastic anyway about the selection of the handsome, wealthy, two-term junior senator from Indiana.

"Super, super choice," said John Lindley III, chairman of the Vermont delegation. "A real spark plug for Bush," said North Dakota GOP chairman Layton Freborg. "We need the female vote. He'll do the trick," added Sharon Estrada of Montana. "He's very cute."

Many delegates said Quayle would be a bright lure for baby-boomer votes.

"I think it's a good choice," said Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad. "He's a Midwesterner, he understands agriculture, he is just 41 years old, he is a pro-life conservative."

Savoring the reviews of his running mate, Bush planned to appear with him today at a news conference. Bush's first order of business was to tour the Louisiana Superdome and try out the podium where he will deliver his acceptance speech on Thursday night.

The Quayle choice set off a race among entrepreneurs: to be first on the street with Bush-Quayle political buttons. Within 90 minutes of Bush's announcement, the first buttons — a simple white model with merely the name — had surfaced. Four hours later, buttons with Quayle's picture were on sale for $10 each and "going like hotcakes," said vendor Megan Warlick.

Democratic rival Michael Dukakis' campaign sought to make political capital of Quayle's wealth and status as heir to an Indiana publishing fortune.

"I think they'd make better tennis partners than a presidential ticket," said Mark Gearan, a spokesman for the Democratic nominee. "Or should that be squash partners?"

With the suspense ended about the vice presidential nomination, the Republican National Convention was practically on automatic pilot. Delegates had little to do beyond crowning Bush to lead the battle against Democrat Michael Dukakis and ratifying his choice of Quayle.

Underscoring the importance of Texas and its 29 electoral votes in the fall election, Bush chose Texas Sen. Phil Gramm, a one-time Democrat, to nominate him tonight.

In a night of oratory Tuesday, Bush's long resume of government service — Navy flier, congressman, U.N. ambassador, envoy to China, CIA chief and vice president — was emphasized by convention speakers, part of a GOP strategy to portray him as an experienced candidate who wouldn't need on-the-job training at the White House.

Former President Gerald Ford told the convention Tuesday night that Bush did not deserve to have the Democrats ask: "Where was George?"

Speaking in a hall already vacated by many delegates, Ford said, "I'll be damned if I will stand by and let anyone with a smirk and a sneer discredit the honor, service, accountability and competence of George Bush."

Former television evangelist Pat Robertson, whose army of fundamentalist Christian supporters threw a scare into the Republican establishment during the early primaries and caucuses, urged his supporters to "rally with wholehearted support" behind Bush.

Gov. Thomas Kean of New Jersey, the keynote speaker, said, "Add up the way-out programs of the Democratic Party. What does the name of Dukakis sound like to you?" The delegates shouted back the answer Kean suggested: "More taxes."

Bush originally intended to keep the identity of his running mate a secret until the last minute, but changed his mind.

School cafeterias out to win students over

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

Look out McDonald's, Hardee's and Burger King — the Harry Burger is out to get you!

Last year the Pampa Independent School District introduced the Harry Burger, named after Superintendent Dr. Harry Griffith. This year the district will try to make sure more high school students try one for themselves.

During Tuesday night's school board meeting, Assistant Superintendent Dawson Orr presented statistics showing that about 32,000 lunches are served each month in the district's eight schools. Of those, only about 80 are served each day at the high school.

"We have a lot of students who walk to the end of the hall and pick up their Domino's pizza and bring it back into the lunchroom to eat," Orr said.

He added that many students also go off campus to have lunch.

"We're going to try and get more of them to eat on campus by going to a menu style of choice instead of just the regular Type A lunch," Orr said. The Type A lunch is a standard school cafeteria meal consisting of a meat and two vegetables.

Orr said that this year he is challenging the high school cafeteria staff to be creative in their menu choices.

"We're going to be selling pizza, corn dogs and burritos, that type of thing," Orr said.

While he had no problem with students going off campus to eat, Orr said the decision to move away from a strictly traditional school lunch was an economic decision.

"You have to have a minimum number of staff to run a kitchen. But with that number of staff, we could be serving twice as many students as we currently are. We need to increase that number served to get the best economical use of our staff," Orr said.

The cafeteria staff on all campuses will take a more "homestyle" approach to cooking this year as well. Orr said that the district will save around $7,000 annually by having the cooks make their own bread and barbecue and taco sauces.

"The government gives virtually all the commodities neccesary to bake bread and we have the staff to do it," Orr said.

The cafeteria staff will also begin to use new menus in an effort to cut down waste.

"We are, or have been, throwing food away. These new recipes will stop overages that have been as high as 30-40 percent," Orr said.

He added that the lunch rooms will be run more like a business from now on, a move that the district believes can only save money, while adding appeal to the overall presentation of lunches on all campuses.

Proposed city budget includes personnel assignment changes

By BEAR MILLS
Staff Writer

The proposed city budget for 1988-89 will see several assignment changes in the areas of community services, public works and code enforcement.

Currently director of emergency services, Steve Vaughn said his role will be changed over the next few months and, providing the proposed budget is passed, his new title will be director of community services.

Nathan Hospson, who currently holds that position, will then become director of public works.

Currently Vaughn's duties include code enforcement, animal control and emergency management. If the budget is passed, his new duties will also include overseeing the library, parks and recreation, civic center, and building and grounds.

Vaughn discusses role changes in city.

"I feel like this is a real opportunity to expand my knowledge of city government," Vaughn said.

"We've had a couple of things happen. Elmer Young, health inspector, retired about a week ago; he won't be replaced. The Fire Department will take care of those things now when they do fire inspections."

Vaughn said all health violations will still be handled in the same fashion, with serious problems being turned over to the state health department in Canyon for follow-up.

The Fire Department will also handle code enforcement under the new proposal.

"The more exposure a fireman gets to a structure as it is being built, the more capable he will be to handle any problems that arise down the line," Vaughn said.

He added that all the new Fire Department duties are merely the implementation of a cross-training program that has been going on in the department for some time.

While the new proposals bring greater responsibilities to Vaughn, they also present greater strains on his time.

"Based on the guidelines we got from the commission, we've made some moves to work with the budget. It's never easy to scale back, especially when you're talking about somebody's job," Vaughn said.

In addition to giving Vaughn new responsibilities, the proposed budget eliminates the position of civic center manager and health inspector. Auditorium Manager Danny Parkerson was notified Monday his contract was not being renewed. He will not be replaced.

"This past year we did one other thing to trim the budget some," Vaughn said. "We decided to hire the children's librarian from in-house. It didn't allow us to have the same credentials, but it was a cost savings."

Vaughn also said the decision was a morale booster among library staff.

While Vaughn is positive about the changes in city organizational structures, he said a close eye will be kept on the delivery of services.

"We will evaluate in the next few months if the level of service stays the same for the community in the health department. The same goes for the auditorium and the other areas. Depending on what we find, we'll make the appropriate recommendations for next year's budget," Vaughn said.

He added that the civic center was an area of particular concern, since Parkerson had tried so hard to make it more self-supporting.

"It's a problem I'm grappling with. We need to see that (the civic center) is utilized. A lot of the problem is public apathy. The public just doesn't support a lot of the things that go on," Vaughn said. "I've got to figure out a way to see it's used."

Another area that will challenge Vaughn is the new municipal golf course. He says that the city is trying to hire a greens keeper but is finding that to be a very specialized position.

"We'd like to have that person in place before the sprinkler lines are laid so they will have a working knowledge of how everything is set up."

Vaughn said the city will wait until the course is completed to decide whether to hire a golf pro or look for a greenskeeper and golf pro all in one.

"It's a very specialized position. To be a greenskeeper, you need to know about all kinds of turfs as well as the right fertilizers and various kinds of sprinkler systems. There's just a lot that goes into it," Vaughn said.

The new budget, if passed, will provide for a pay raise for Vaughn as well as Kathy Beck, currently the civic center secretary. Vaughn said that Beck's responsibilities will also be expanding if the new budget is approved.

"What is happening is that several people who are retiring are not being replaced. That, along with what we had to do with Danny, is helping us to not have to have any more layoffs.

"There are only so many things you can do to hold the line on (spending) in a city our size. It's not easy to hold the line on taxes."

School

Aug. 31, causing the 1988-89 school year to open with a fund reserve of $2.3 million.

These funds are used to support the district during the four-month "dry spell" before the district begins receiving state funding and revenue from property taxes.

Should the board accept the proposed tax rate, school officials predict that owners of a $50,000 home can expect to pay $479 for the year in school taxes, compared to $431.25 for 1987-88. Owners of a $25,000 home can expect to pay about half that amount, and owners of a $100,000 home will pay about twice that, he said.

Griffith distributed a comparison of the Pampa ISD proposed tax rate compared with other Panhandle school districts.

Board members approved a budget amendment to the 1987-88 budget which indicated the district was $611,947.74 over budget. Under state law, the district is required to amend the budget periodically so that by the end of the fiscal year it accurately reflects actual spending.

"We fell short for a variety of complicated reasons, most having to do with state funding," Dr. Griffith explained. An additional payment of around $300,000 is expected about Aug. 25, he said, which will lessen the deficit to $310,000 "more or less."

Culberson-Stowers Inc. was awarded low bid on the purchase of a 1988 four-wheel drive pickup for the school's transportation department. Purchase price of the pickup is to be $13,095.

Board member Dr. Keith Teague volunteered to act as the school district's delegate to the Texas Association of School Boards convention Oct. 1 in San Antonio. Sherry McCavit was selected as alternate delegate. School board members will be traveling to the convention Sept. 30.

In other action, board meetings were changed from the third Thursday of the month to the third Tuesday for the 1988-89 year. The school board is to meet at 6 p.m. on these days in the administration room of Carver Center, 321 W. Albert.

The remainder of the meeting Tuesday centered on reports from various administrators on the status of a number of things happening in the school district.

Teacher inservice training begins at 8 a.m. Aug. 24 in the Heritage Room of M.K. Brown Auditorium. At the morning session, board members are to present service awards for 20 or more years of employment with the school district.

Roger W. Crawford II is scheduled as the afternoon speaker, said Jane Steele, assistant superintendent. "He's a very dynamic and motivational speaker," she said, explaining that Crawford was born with serious physical handicaps. "He's an inspiration to us as teachers as to what students can do."

The remaining days of inservice will be devoted to workshops on a variety of subjects to help prepare teachers for the coming school year, Steele said.

Enrollment day has been set for 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Aug. 29. Buses are to pick up students at the usual time and will leave campuses at 10:30 a.m. to return the students to their homes.

A new teacher's breakfast, sponsored by the school board and the Pampa Area Chamber of Commerce is set for 7 a.m. to 8:15 a.m. Aug. 30 in the M.K. Brown Room of the Pampa Community Center, 200 N. Ballard.

Business Manager Jerry Haralson discussed problems in the food service program with board members.

Current projections show that the 1987-88 food service budget will be over-expended by $50,000 by Aug. 31, Haralson said.

"Our food service program is not budget balanced and we're a little concerned about that," Griffith said.

"This program is big enough not to have a deficit. Our big difference is revenue," he said. Almost $300,000 was budgeted for the 1987-88 state funding, records show. However, only $267,003.96 was actually received from the state, causing a revenue shortfall of $34,192.33.

"We can increase the lunch prices or look at other things," Griffith said. Food service administrators have met with Assistant Superintendent Dawson Orr recently and have come up with several ideas to utilize government commodities and existing equipment in decreasing the food service expenditures. (See related story, Page 1.)

Orr said the school district's cafeteria workers will begin to bake the majority of their own bread products, including hot dog and hamburger buns, as well as making barbecue and taco sauces and spices.

Plastic ware that has been stored has been brought out and will be used in place of paper and styrofoam products, saving the program approximately $10,000.

Griffith presented an update on the school district's participation in "Pampa 2000," along with the city of Pampa, the Industrial Foundation and the chamber of commerce.

School officials have outlined four target areas for the school district's participation: strategic planning, computer/technology, At Risk (potential school dropouts) and leadership.

Oct. 13-15 has been set aside as a weekend retreat for 25 community leaders who will spend the time creating three- to five-year goals for the school district. Board members are to nominate 10 to 15 people from the community to participate in the project.

Board member Lonnie Richardson has been named chairman of the computer/technology task force which will recruit local professionals to help educate students in these fields.

An advisory council will set goals and work with the community in identifying at-risk students and outline programs to help keep them in school. "We've already made the effort," Griffith said. "Let's not drop the ball. This is a chance for the community and the school to sit down and say, 'How's it going?' "

A leadership task force is required by the state, Griffith said. Board Vice President Jim Duggan has agreed to head this group, which will evaluate the leadership program of the school district's administrators, Griffith said.

"By 12 months from now, we'll make significant progress in where we're going (through the Pampa 2000 program,)" Griffith said. "We're opening our arms to the community in no little way."

At 10 p.m., board members closed the meeting to discuss personnel matters. After reconvening, the board accepted the resignation of Laura Stephens, Austin music teacher, and hired Sara Carmichael as Austin fifth-grade teacher and Karolyn Keith as the third Pampa High School counselor. Griffith said Keith's position is paid through federal grant money.

Sanctions drop alien arrests

MCALLEN (AP) — Fewer undocumented workers from Mexico and other countries are trying to cross illegally into Texas because of employer sanctions that have made U.S. jobs harder for aliens to come by, officials say.

Fifty illegal aliens were apprehended at Kingsville Sunday aboard a Houston-bound train, but such arrests have been rare in 1988, Border Patrol officials noted.

Only 5,756 arrests were made along the Rio Grande Valley area in July, compared with 6,994 in July 1987 and 12,253 in July 1986, said agent Fred Rangel of the McAllen sector of the Border Patrol.

"This is with similar methods and manpower all along the border," Border Patrol Assistant Chief Larry Jackson of the McAllen sector told the Houston Chronicle.

"It's affected the job market here. We've given out 20 notices of intent to sanction businesses.

"The biggest fine has been $8,000 against a saloon-type bar. So they (illegals) bypass us en route to the bigger cities where they can get lost in the populace," Jackson said.

Youth injured in truck accident

A Pampa youth remained in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Northwest Texas Hospital early today after suffering massive injuries in a pickup truck roll-over late Tuesday.

Brant Tubb, 16, of 2505 Dogwood was injured at about 10:40 p.m. Tuesday when he was thrown from the bed of a pickup truck that rolled into a ravine off a caliche road 4.5 miles southeast of Pampa, about one mile south of Texas 273.

According to Texas Department of Public Safety reports, the 14-year-old driver of a 1982 Dodge pickup truck apparently lost control of the vehicle which ran off the road and rolled two times before coming to rest on all four tires in a ravine. Tubb, who was riding in the back of the truck, was thrown out when the vehicle started rolling. The truck then rolled over the fallen youth, DPS reports state.

Also injured in the accident was Shyla Brown, 18, 2129 N. Dwight, who was treated for lacerations and admitted to Coronado Hospital outpatient unit for observation of possible abdominal injuries, according to hospital officials.

The 14-year-old driver was treated for a knee injury in the hospital emergency room and released. A third passenger, Larry Kenneth Cornsilk, 16, 1913 N. Zimmers, was reported to have non-incapacitating injuries at the scene, but was not treated at the hospital.

DPS troopers were notified of the accident at 10:49 p.m. All three of the injured were transported to Coronado Hospital by Rural/Metro Ambulance. Tubb was stabilized in the hospital emergency room, and then transported to the Amarillo hospital.

Tubb was not breathing and had no pulse when authorities arrived on the scene, officers said. However, breathing and heart beat was restored.

County to continue budget talks

More discussion on the 1989 budget is planned for a special meeting of the Gray County Commissioner's Court set for 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the county courtroom at Gray County Courthouse.

County commissioners chopped approximately $125,000 from the $1 million shortfall between the $3.7 million in estimated revenue and the $4.7 million 1989 proposed budget at a meeting Aug. 12.

During the all-day meeting, various county office holders appeared before the commission to explain their reasons for increasing their respective budgets. Particular attention was paid to travel expenses and capital expenditures.

Despite the cuts, revenues still are $800,000 to $900,000 less than the proposed budget. County commissioners are thus left with the dilemma of deciding what to sacrifice from the proposed budget, plus find sources to make up the loss in revenues.

Gray County has suffered a $470 million loss in its tax base over the past three years. However, the county commission has kept the tax rate at 26 cents per $100 valuation.

Under current law, commissioners could increase the tax rate to 31 cents per $100 in property values without a public hearing.

However, the commissioners have not yet considered a tax hike as an option and are instead looking at budget cuts and alternate funding, including possibly covering a part of the shortfall with the profit from the sale of Highland General Hospital, as ways to close the $1 million gap between revenue and planned expenditures.

Congressman: Lobbying against ATV bill may have backfired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Congressman Joe Barton says manufacturers of all-terrain vehicles are waging a desperate and slipshod campaign against his bill requiring refunds for three-wheel ATVs.

Barton, an engineer who began studying the off-road vehicles after an 11-year-old Burleson boy was crushed to death by a three-wheel ATV, says the manufacturers' lobbying may backfire on Capitol Hill.

At issue is a massive letter-writing campaign to members of Congress backed by the four big ATV manufacturers in opposition to Barton's legislation.

Eight thousand Mailgram-type letters were sent, including about two dozen to Barton from dealers and other opponents in his district.

But when his office attempted to respond to the senders, they learned that six of the dealers were not aware their names had been used or did not remember giving the senders permission to involve them, Barton's staff said.

"Whoever was responsible for generating the letters did a better job of getting them in the mail than they did of getting the approval of the people whose names were on them," the Ennis Republican said Tuesday.

He said the letter-writing attack reveals "really how desperate the ATV makers are and to what lengths they'd go to defeat my bill."

But, because they did "such a slipshod job," he believes his bill's chances of passage by the House may have improved. The bill could go to the floor next month. It passed the House Energy and Commerce Committee earlier this month.

David Umansky, an official with the public relations firm Burson-Marsteller, which handled the campaign for the manufacturers' trade association, said there was "nothing slipshod about it" and that Barton is the only congressman to complain.

He said the company went to "great lengths" to ensure letters were sent bearing only the names of those who agreed to the message and the use of their names.

But Ted Edwards, owner of a cycle and gun shop in Cleburne, said he's "99 percent positive" he did not send such a Mailgram to Barton or give permission for his name to be used, although Barton's office got a Mailgram from him. Edwards opposes the bill.

Ron Hudson, owner of a Cleburne Honda dealership, said that when he was contacted, he agreed to the use of his name but assumed it would appear on a petition, alongside other dealers. Barton's office received a letter from Hudson, but he does not object and opposes the bill.

Barton said the legislation is intended to help pull the more than 1.5 million three-wheel machines out of circulation because of their safety record.

Owners could seek a refund based on the condition and age of the vehicle, said Barton, who estimates the maximum cost to manufacturers at $500 million.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission says 1,037 deaths and more than 300,000 injuries were caused by three- and four-wheel ATVs between 1982 and late May. Nearly half of the casualties were children under 16.

Sales of the less-stable three-wheel ATVs have been banned since December 30 under an agreement between the federal government and the five ATV makers — Honda, Suzuki, Yamaha, Kawasaki and Polaris Industries.

Under the pact finalized this spring, manufacturers agreed to buy back from dealers any remaining three-wheel ATVs in their inventories.

Melvin Stahl, vice president of government relations for the ATV trade association, the Specialty Vehicle Institute of America, said Burson-Marsteller organized the campaign on behalf of Honda, Suzuki, Kawasaki and Yamaha.

Boulter unveils anti-Bentsen ads

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Republican Senate hopeful Beau Boulter has unveiled his first major television ad campaign, previewing a spot that will lampoon Sen. Lloyd Bentsen for running two races at once.

Using humorous clips from several old movies, the commercial, shown Tuesday, shows actors trying to ride two horses at the same time, holding up a saddle with no horse under it and falling off a horse into a hole.

"We all wish we had two chances to win. But any real Texan will tell you can get hurt riding more than one horse at a time," the narrator says.

Bentsen was chosen last month as vice presidential running mate by Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis. Under Texas' 1959 "Lyndon Law," passed for then-Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Bentsen's name is allowed to appear on the Texas ballot in both that race and his bid for a fourth Senate term.

Bentsen began airing his first round of Senate election commercials last week.

Boulter and his campaign manager, Greg Graves, complained that the Bentsen's Senate and vice presidential campaigns overlap.

"The message that I get from his television commercials ... is the people of Texas should elect him to the U.S. Senate and then he will resign," said Boulter, who is attending the GOP National Convention this week.

"Our commercial says that Lloyd Bentsen simply does not want to be the U.S. senator for Texas and that Beau Boulter does," the Amarillo congressman said.

Graves said the ad campaign will begin airing Thursday in seven Texas television markets.

Pilgrims pray, remain at church

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press Writer

LUBBOCK (AP) — After hundreds of people claimed they witnessed miracles during a Mass at St. John Neumann Catholic Church, it's now up to the Catholic hierarchy to investigate the reports, said the church's pastor.

Monsignor Joseph James said Tuesday that Lubbock Bishop Michael Sheehan has the responsibility for starting an investigation into numerous reports of spiritual phenomena at the church following Monday's Feast of the Assumption celebration that drew 12,000 people.

"At this point the whole thing is in his hands," said James, adding that he doesn't know what stand the church will take.

"If what happened (Monday) affects the hearts and the lives of people, whether it's a change of heart and change in the way we live and act toward one another, then we are truly blessed," he said.

Sheehan was out of town Tuesday and unavailable for comment, his office said, but a secretary said he plans to issue a statement on the occurrences at St. John Neumann.

Many worshipers claimed to have seen Jesus and Mary in the clouds during Mass. Some worshipers said the sun appeared to dance in the sky, while dozens reported that the silver beads on their rosaries turned to a gold color.

Others in the crowd, including several priests, said they saw nothing in the sky but the sun and clouds.

James said he saw "what's called the miracle of the sun, being able to look straight into the sun without the eyes being damaged."

While he did not see Mary or Jesus, James said he saw something "like a communion wafer, a host, spinning inside the sun."

Several hundred people remained at the church Tuesday to pray and share accounts of what they claimed to have witnessed.

While about 50 people lined up inside the darkened sanctuary to pray and leave flowers before a small statue of the Virgin Mary, others gathered in small groups in the courtyard outside to talk about what they had seen in the sky when a ray of light burst through the clouds.

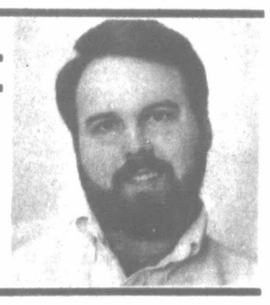

One woman stopped by the fountain to dip her rosary beads in the water.

Lou Shaffner of Eustace was surrounded by about a dozen people as she showed three Polaroid photographs of the sky she had taken Monday.

"I took these in sequence," she said. "The sun looked blue. It kind of danced. It did it three times, like the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

There are jobs for youths, if ...

Off Beat
By Bear Mills

The old saying goes, "Good help is hard to find." A recent trip to Ama ... oops, I almost said the "A" word ... to a neighboring town proved the saying is right.

It was between the lunch and supper rush and my wife and I were enjoying an unhurried meal at one of those places that offer "cookin' the way mom did it." Actually, my mother never tried frying corn on the cob or broccoli so I have some trouble with their basic premise.

However, the food is good and the atmosphere about as ecletic as Ama ... there I go again ... that town will ever get. Lots of people eat there. People in khaki pants and shirts with a duck or horse on the pocket are the basic clientele.

Yuppie city.

As we walked in the door we noticed a "Help Wanted" sign out front. As we ate our fried corn on the cob and broccoli we watched the circus that some would call taking job applications.

The manager was sitting in a booth only a few feet away. One by one the prospective employees came in. The first was a young man in a sleeveless shirt who wore dark sunglasses. During the entire interview he never bothered to take them off. Maybe he thought he was Sonny Crockett. The manager was apparently as unimpressed as I was. The interview lasted all of two minutes.

Next was a girl of maybe 16 who was doing her Cyndi Lauper impersonation. I'm no prude, but coming to a job interview in six layers of underwear and pink hair was a bit much. Once again, short interview.

This bit of late-lunch fare went on for maybe 15 minutes. One after another they came in, young people who needed jobs, all dressed like they were applying for the guest VJ spot on MTV. None were hired.

Finally a young lady came to the table. She wore a summer style dress, dangling earrings and fashionable sandals. Very instep with today's fashions, but not outrageous. You could tell the manager was interested. The young woman smiled and acted truly interested in landing a job.

We watched her get hired on the spot. Why her and not the other 10 or so applicants? The answer seems obvious, but maybe it wasn't to those not chosen.

From talking to several employers here in Pampa, maybe the answer isn't obvious to a whole lot of young people. Employers want employees they can be proud of, not big children who are singing "I Gotta Be Me" in the back of their heads.

When I was in high school, a mere 10 years ago, we talked about how to dress for job interviews. Do they still teach that in school? If they don't, they should.

And what about the parents of these teen-agers? While they are telling their kids to get a job, do they ever tell them how to get one?

Several weeks ago I was in a local car dealership. A young man came in.

"I'm looking for a job."

"What can you do?"

"I graduated from trade school, lady."

"Well, we don't have much right now but I do have some cars that need washed. It would only be two or three days work, but it is something. It pays $4 an hour. How would that be?"

"I don't care, as long as you are gonna pay me." There was a sneer on the young man's face.

"If I wasn't going to pay you, I wouldn't have offered you the job." The woman's patience was wearing thin.

"Well, you never can tell."

That did it. The teen-ager was invited to leave.

After I got over the rudeness of the boy, I felt a certain amount of pity. Whatever they taught him in trade school, manners and how to go through an interview certainly were not part of the curriculum.

It's a pity. There are jobs to be had.

Officials reject cult connection in death

WACO (AP) — There is no connection between the slaying of a Waco businessman two years ago and the recent slayings of several former polygamist cult members, officials say.

Leon County Sheriff Royce Wilson earlier said Houston police were investigating a possible connection between the 1986 death of Waco tire dealer Harold E. "Jack" McCollum and four other people killed on June 27 in Irving and Houston.

"As far as we've been able to determine, there is absolutely no connection at this date," Wilson told the Waco Tribune-Herald after reviewing Houston police reports.

Motorists found McCollum's body on a bank of the Navasota River in Leon County in October of 1986. He had been shot twice in the head.

At the time of his death, McCollum reportedly was married to two women, one in Dallas and one in Waco.

On June 27, Houston residents Mark and Duane Chynoweth and Duane's 8-year-old daughter, and Irving resident Eddie Marston were shot execution-style in the head.

All except for the girl were former members of a polygamist cult, Church of the Lamb of God. The cult allegedly executes members for leaving the organization.

Houston and Irving police are investigating two suspects, Heber LeBaron, 27, and Douglas Barlow, 28, the sons of the late Ervil LeBaron.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. Only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he possesses can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government, and that men have the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property for themselves and others.

Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself, no more, no less. It is, thus, consistent with the coveting commandment.

Behind the smiles lies anti-Semitism

The Kremlin is all smiles to the world today. Behind the forced grins, however, the Soviet Union remains the most anti-Semitic regime on the planet.

We shouldn't be surprised that a communist regime — even one allegedly becoming more "open" — is vehemently anti-Semitic. Karl Marx, though born a Jew, was himself anti-Semitic. In his infamous essay, "On the Jewish Question," the founding guru of communism called for the "emancipation of society from Judaism." Stalin called them "rootless cosmopolitans," turned many of them over to Hitler after the 1939 Soviet-Nazi pact, and was planning his own "final solution" — complete extermination of Soviet Jewry — when he died in 1953.

Under Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet boss from 1964 to 1982, the Kremlin came up with the notorious "Zionism is racism" formula, propounded in the U.N. and elsewhere. Many people in the Third World, and some in the U.S., have been fooled by this switch, but most Americans, at least, recognize a transparent racist attack when they see one.

Under Mikhail Gorbachev, Soviet boss since March 1985, things were supposed to change, especially under his glasnost (openness) program. But for Jews, glasnost has proved to be yet another way to mount the same old attacks on them. Esther Fein of The New York Times notes that "evidence of current anti-Semitism is visible — in Soviet literature and the press, in graveyards where Jewish tombstones have been overturned, and at public meetings where speakers receive anti-Jewish notes from the audience."

Let us note there is a difference between Soviet anti-Semitism and recent anti-Semitic acts perpetrated in free countries, such as the United States. Here, the acts are by fringe groups of crazies, such as the skinhead surf Nazis in California. These neo-Nazi groups desecrate Jewish property, and if found are prosecuted for vandalism.

But the Soviet Union is a closed, tightly controlled, totalitarian society. Virtually any act in the Soviet Union — and certainly all public acts and writings in official publications — receive the communist regime's stamp of approval. And one group, Pamyat, has been given much freedom to propagandize its nationalist message, and is known to have strong supporters in the Kremlin. At a weekly meeting of Pamyat in Leningrad, unharrassed by the KGB, one member called for "the immediate deportation of the Jews."

The Kremlin's propaganda has done a superb job in recent years brainwashing Americans into thinking that the Soviet Union is opening up, that freedom is just around the corner. But the reality behind the facade can be seen in the new vehemence of Soviet anti-Semitism. Yet let's hope there's truth in an old Yiddish proverb: "A nation that persecutes Jews cannot last long."

Good intentions won't do much

James J. Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON - When the Senate gets around to its omnibus drug control bill, Ohio's Sen. Howard Metzenbaum will offer a modest amendment. He would make it a federal crime for any person to sell or transfer a handgun without a seven-day waiting period before delivery.

If adopted, Metzenbaum's amendment would do little good, but it also would do little harm.

As an effective deterrent against violent crime, especially in the drug trade, the proposal is an exercise in futility. As a deterrent against domestic crimes of impulse, it might suppress an occasional homicidal urge.

The amendment is well-intentioned. That is the best that can be said for it.

As you would expect, the National Rifle Association sent around an emissary to testify against the Metzenbaum amendment. James Jay Baker, representing the NRA, made a persuasive case. Sixteen states now require a "cooling off" period as part of their gun control laws. Various scholarly studies have found no evidence that such laws have reduced violent crime at all. At least eight states in recent years have rejected the idea.

Another witness against the proposal, David B. Kopel, a former assistant district attorney in New York, spelled out some self-evident assumptions.

The first of these is that no criminal ever would register his correct name and address with a gun dealer, and then wait for a week while the police had a chance to check his record and thus avert the sale.

Larry Joiner, police chief of Kansas City, Mo., confirmed the objection. At violent levels of the drug trade, everyone has a firearm. One-third of these guns are stolen, another 25 percent or 30 percent have been obtained by swapping drugs for weapons, and the others have been obtained through fictitious identifications given to licensed dealers.

Have existing state laws prevented impulse homicides? No one really knows, for negatives cannot be proved.

George Napper, Atlanta's commissioner of public safety, supports a waiting period. He cited a case this past April involving a woman who was angry at her supervisor and manager. On April 23 she bought a .38 pistol. On April 24 she shot both of them and then killed herself.

Perhaps a week's reflection might have prevented the act. Or perhaps she might have bought a shotgun instead.

Most of the witnesses against the Metzenbaum amendment insisted that any federal legislation on gun control violates the Second Amendment. These arguments are bogus. The amendment says, "A well-regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

The Supreme Court has looked at the Second Amendment only three times in its history. The Cruikshank case of 1876 was a civil rights case from Louisiana. The Presser case of 1886 involved a fellow in Chicago who organized a 400-man "army" to march in parades. Neither case is on point.

But in 1939 the high court decided U.S. v. Miller. That opinion effectively demolishes the NRA's Second Amendment objections to federal gun control. The case involved one Jack Miller who transported a sawed-off shotgun from Claremore, Okla., to Siloam Springs, Ark., in violation of the National Firearms Act of 1934.

The high court, speaking through Justice McReynolds, relied upon the opening phrase of the Second Amendment. A sawed-off shotgun, the court concluded, bears no reasonable relationship "to the preservation or efficiency of a well-regulated militia."

The Constitution guarantees no right to keep and bear such a weapon. The "obvious purpose" of the amendment "is to assure the continuation and effectiveness of the militia."

The same judicial reasoning would apply to objections to Metzenbaum's proposal. Congress plainly has power under the Commerce Clause to legislate upon the interstate transportation of concealable handguns. The Second Amendment simply does not apply.

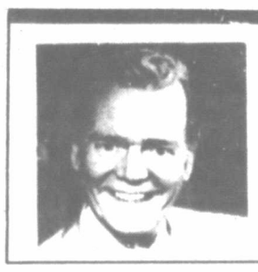

Retired Justice Lewis Powell said as much recently in a speech to the American Bar Association.

A similar "waiting period" provision is pending in the drug control bill the House will take up in September. Judging from the heavy support given to the provision in committee, it seems likely the measure will pass.

If it finally becomes law, it will create a vast deal of useless paperwork for police. It will sorely vex the NRA. It will please the gun control lobby. It will make the members feel good. But let no one assume it will do much about violent crime.

'Experts' still don't know it all

Paul Harvey

Our nation's court system is flawed — and that is perhaps the greatest understatement since Noah said, "It looks like rain."

Chicago's Greylord scandals revealed judges on the take, lawyers conspiring and "justice" for sale. The American Bar Association reports complaints of lawyer misconduct have increased 37.6 percent in one year.

In real life it's not like on TV. If the program L.A. Law can resolve five cases in 47 minutes, in the real world of clogged court calendars and interminable delays a case may remain in litigation for decades.

And now the so-called "expert witness" concept has been challenged.

It has been decisive, in many criminal trials, for the defense to put a psychiatrist or psychologist on the stand to testify in behalf of his client.

These "expert witnesses" are for hire; they are paid a fee for such appearances and sometimes a substantial fee.

And if the psychiatrist testifies that the defendant is no longer a threat to society, can be safely released, frequently he will be.

That psychiatrist's guess about the future behavior of anybody is no better than yours!

Psychology professor David Faust and psychologist Jay Ziskin have been keeping score.

For a recent issue of Science magazine, they reported their finding — that psychiatrists and psychologists do not necessarily qualify as "experts." They found that laymen without any degrees and without any clinical experience are able to make such judgments with equal accuracy. Sometimes with more accuracy!

Study court cases over the last 10 years and tally what the so-called "experts" have predicted and they have been wrong more often than right.

You could flip a coin and do better than that!

Yet in a courtroom, some paid "expert" exuding self-confidence can decisively prejudice a jury.

Our nation's court system is flawed and we should trade it in on a better one — if we can ever find a better one. Certainly it should be modified in the interest of law "by statute" rather than law based on "what some people think."

That brings us to the related subject of a United States Supreme Court that has strayed over recent decades from what the Constitution says to what contemporary jurists believe.

The next president of the United States is likely to replace a third of all nine Supreme Court justices, due to retirements.

President Reagan's appointment of three has brought the court, left and right, back into a semblance of balance. The next president's appointments will tilt the court one way or the other, and thus influence United States history for generations beyond his own administration.

If you can't decide between Bush and Dukakis, perhaps this will help.

Question: Can Bush be a strong leader?

By ROBERT WALTERS

NEW ORLEANS (NEA) — "It looks like George Bush is going to lose the election" because he has failed to embrace a unified set of principles or espouse a coherent philosophy, says one outspoken detractor of the vice president.

"So far, no one has been able to connect any agenda with George Bush," adds that critic. "What does he stand for? What does he want to do as president? What is his vision of America's future?"

The most striking aspect of those derogatory comments is their source. They come not from a Democrat or a liberal but from one of the country's most respected conservative political theoreticians, Paul M. Weyrich, president of the Washington-based Free Congress Foundation.

Weyrich is not the only Republican to characterize Bush as a politician who casts no shadow and leaves no footprints. When Sen. Robert J. Dole, R-Kans., was competing against the vice president earlier this year for the Republican presidential nomination, he addressed this caustic appeal to Bush:

"Tell me what you've done, George. Tell the American people what you've done. Give us some decision you've made that made a difference."

Thus, it should not have been surprising that speakers at last month's Democratic National Convention in Atlanta embraced the theme. "For eight straight years, Bush hasn't displayed the slightest interest in anything we care about," claimed Ann Richards, Texas' state treasurer, in her keynote address.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., denigrated the vice president as a man who "wasn't there... can't recall... never heard... never saw... can't remember... or didn't comprehend." Then Kennedy repeatedly asked: "Where was George?"

For years, one of Bush's presumed assets has been an exceptionally extensive resume that outlined a long career of dedicated public service in a number of important positions.

He was a member of the House of Representatives, from 1966 to 1971; ambassador to the United Nations, from 1971 to 1972; chairman of the Republican National Committee, in 1973 and 1974; chief of the U.S. Liaison Office in the People's Republic of China, from 1974 to 1976; Director of Central Intelligence, in 1976; and he has been vice president since 1980.

But what did he do in those posts? Did he have a single notable achievement?

Or is he the quintessential bureaucrat, anxious to please his bosses and determined not to disrupt the existing order? Did he reach his current station —one step away from the pinnacle of political power — by deftly avoiding the tough decisions those in leadership roles are expected to make?

Bush says he cannot tell us much about his work as vice president during the past 7½ years because that would violate his confidential relationship with President Reagan. Similarly, his tenure as head of the Central Intelligence Agency is shrouded in secrecy because of national security considerations.

But what about a tangible accomplishment during his years at the UN? During her tenure in that post, Jeane J. Kirkpatrick became rightfully famous for having told the world's smaller nations to stop throwing around their nonexistent weight. What is Bush's claim to fame?

The vice president is a thoroughly decent, honorable man. Although still somewhat uncomfortable when speaking on television or before large audiences, he is relaxed, engaging and thoroughly at ease when meeting with smaller groups of people.

He has been wrongly forced to defend himself against the spurious charge that he is a "wimp." Indeed, he has repeatedly proven his toughness, most recently when he firmly rebuffed his opponents in the candidate debates during this year's Republican primaries.

Bush has not, however, conclusively answered the crucial question: Can he provide the strong leadership the nation urgently requires?

Record highs fall Tuesday from Plains to the Ohio Valley

By BART ZIEGLER
Associated Press Writer

Air-conditioned government buildings were opened for the elderly in two states, state fair exhibitors packed livestock in ice and band members sweltered in a scorching stadium as record heat covered much of the nation.

Record highs fell Tuesday from the eastern Plains to the Ohio Valley, but the Northeast got a break.

"It's great," 25-year-old New York City sanitation worker Frank Nahodyil said while sweeping a street.

"We've been sweating like hell the last few weeks. I start at 6 in the morning. I'd be dripping wet by 7 and dying by 10. But now there's a breeze."

The temperature in New York City "only" reached 86 Tuesday, after 32 days of 90-degree and above temperatures.

Temperature records for the date were reached in more than a dozen cities.

Milwaukee broke a 52-year-old record for the most days of triple-digit temperatures in a year — five. The 100-degree reading Tuesday also broke the high for the date of 98, set in 1937.

In Chicago, the temperature hit 100, making the 46th day of 90s or higher this season.

High temperatures today were expected to range from the middle 90s to near 105 degrees from the mid-Atlantic states through the lower Ohio, mid-Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys into the central Plains.

In Kansas City, the heat wilted about 10,000 competitors at the Drum Corps International World Championships. And the artificial turf at Arrowhead Stadium didn't help, with the temperature an estimated 130 degrees on the playing field, said Joe Clark, the stadium's security manager.

"As I was walking off the field, sweat was just pouring into my eyes," said Robert Muller, of the Americanos Drum Corps from Appleton, Wis.

Four chickens at the Indiana State Fair became heat victims when the owners left the contest-bound fowl in their cars with the windows up in the 101-degree heat, said fair spokesman Jeff Fisher.

Livestock exhibitors were taking extra precautions in the fair barns.

"They're packing some (animals) down with ice. They're putting ice in front of fans to blow cool air," Fisher said.

Iowa Gov. Terry Branstad authorized the use of some air-conditioned government buildings for the elderly and others to escape the heat.

"When it's this hot, if elderly people don't have air conditioning, it's really just too hard on their system," said Betty Grandquist, executive director of the Iowa Department of Elder Affairs.

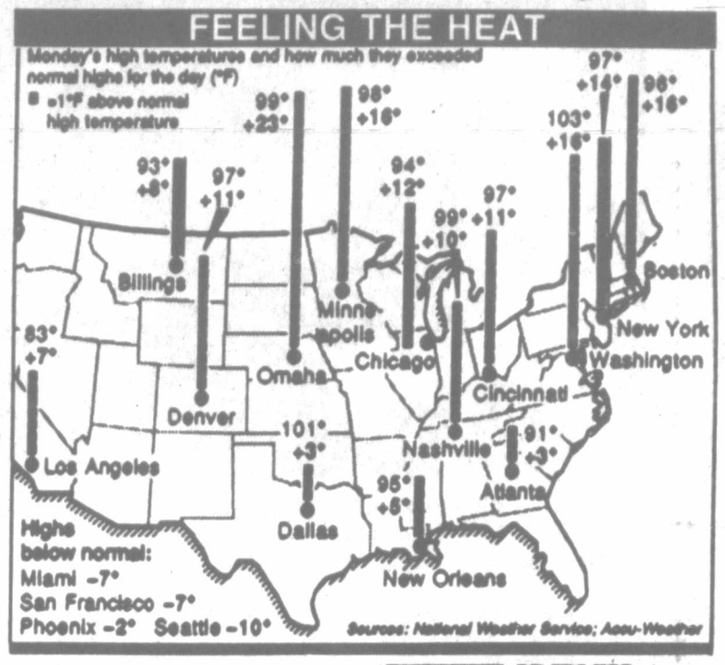

In Wisconsin, Dane County Executive Richard J. Phelps ordered the County Forum exhibition hall opened to senior citizens and others.

Kentucky officials advised those without air conditioning to go to senior citizens centers or malls.

At least six Kentucky school systems have delayed classes or closed schools this summer because of the heat, said Gordon Nichols, chief spokesman at the state Department of Education.

"If school had started this week, it would have been intolerable for the students," said associate principal Don Tokarski of Rantoul Township High School. "If it looks like this weather will continue, we'll have classes from 7 a.m. until 12:30 p.m."

As people turned air conditioners on to cool off, many utilities reported record electricity consumption.

Dukakis aides see GOP ticket as 'elitist'

BOSTON (AP) — The campaign of Democrat Michael Dukakis seized upon the selection of Sen. Dan Quayle as the Republican vice presidential candidate to characterize the GOP ticket as elitist, with aides referring to Quayle by his full name — J. Danforth Quayle.

Dukakis aides already were fond of referring to George Bush by his full name — George Herbert Walker Bush — and they quickly adopted the same tack in talking about Quayle, heir to an Indiana publishing fortune.

"I think they'd make better tennis partners than a presidential ticket," said Mark Gearan, a spokesman for the Democratic nominee. "Or should that be squash partners?"

Dukakis himself did not attack Quayle directly but was quick to point out the experience of his own running mate, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, and to imply that the 41-year-old Quayle would not be ready to be president should a tragedy befall Bush.

"Sen. Bensten is a mature, thoughtful man, with real stature — somebody who's a real leader in the United States Senate," Dukakis said. "Sen. Bentsen has been seasoned, experienced on issues of foreign policy, defense, space. That's the kind of stature, that's the kind of strength, the kind of maturity I think you want in a vice president — especially when that vice president may be president."

Bentsen, at a rally in Fort Worth, called the selection of Quayle "good news."

"I must say, I'm really looking forward to that one," he told about 400 people gathered in a downtown square at a rally sponsored by House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas.

"I'm looking forward to comparing our lists of accomplishments in the U.S. Senate, and what each of us could do for his running mate if we were elected," he said.

A vice presidential debate is tentatively scheduled for Oct. 11 in Omaha, Neb., and Bentsen said he was ready.

"I've just had a debate with Dan Quayle and it shows again the lack of sensitivity for the concerns and the problems of the average working man and woman in this country" shown by the Republicans, Bentsen said. "That debate was over plant closing, and Dan Quayle and the administration lost that debate and the American working man and woman won it."

President Reagan eventually allowed the legislation, which gives workers 60 days' notice of plant closings, to become law without his signature. But he fought it for a long time, and Quayle was one of the president's allies in the Senate.

Dukakis and several top aides expressed mild surprise at the selection of Quayle and predicted he would not help the GOP ticket except in his traditionally Republican home state of Indiana. Bush aides countered by saying Quayle would help with younger and women voters.

Gearan said he was not very familiar with Quayle's record but then quickly listed a series of issues which he said highlighted the different directions of the Democratic and Republican tickets.

He cited Quayle's support of a freeze on Social Security benefits and his opposition to advance notice of plant closings, drought assistance and civil rights legislation.

"He does not understand the economic problems facing the American family," Gearan said of Quayle. Bentsen supported all of the measures Gearan cited in attacking Quayle.

Soviets gather for testing at U.S. nuke site

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear test explosion conducted in the presence of Soviet scientists will mark a milestone in superpower relations and could ease the way for a nuclear test ban between Moscow and Washington, officials say.

The blast scheduled for today would be the first-ever monitored by Soviet scientists at the super-secret Nevada Test Site.

Diplomats who reached the agreement late last year planned to gather today at a remote control point 30 miles from ground zero, joining scientists who direct the nuclear weapons programs for the United States and Soviet Union.

The nuclear explosive, with a blast nearly 12 times more powerful than the one that devastated Hiroshima, was buried 2,020 feet into the belly of a secluded, picturesque mesa 130 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The weapon set for detonation was encased in a steel canister, painted red, white and blue by workers who planted the device three weeks ago.

The test was designed to measure the ability of each country to monitor the size of the other's nuclear tests, a requisite in preventing cheating on treaties signed in 1974 and 1976 limiting the size of nuclear tests to 150 kilotons.

Both sides have accused each other of exceeding the limits.

President Reagan first suggested such a verification test during a United Nations speech four years ago.

The test, code named Kearsarge, would be the ninth at the site this year and the 684th announced blast at the Nevada site since testing began here in 1951.

Forty-five Soviet nuclear scientists, engineers and diplomats were on hand to witness today's blast. A like number of American scientists will witness a test at the Soviet site at Semipalatinsk next month.

Some of the Soviet scientists were in the nearby town of Mercury when six of the previous U.S. tests were conducted this year, but today's test was the first one in which they were present.

One possible hitch was eliminated Monday when a patrolling Department of Energy helicopter picked up two anti-nuclear protesters in a remote desert canyon. A spokesman for the anti-nuclear American Peace Test said the two had planned to hike to Pahute Mesa to delay today's test.

Shredded cheddar cheese and cottage cheese are combined to make a tasty topping for broccoli. This topping bakes right on the vegetables.

Broccoli dish features its own cheese sauce

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Like cheese sauce with broccoli? Get the cheese flavor you like without making a separate sauce with this cheesy topper that bakes right on the broccoli. Remember this topper for cauliflower, brussels sprouts and asparagus, too.

CHEESY BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

1½ pounds fresh broccoli
2 slightly beaten eggs
¾ cup cottage cheese
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese (2 ounces)
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon margarine or butter, melted

Wash and trim broccoli; cut into spears. Cook broccoli, covered, in a small amount of unsalted boiling water about 10 minutes or until crisp-tender; drain.

Meanwhile, in bowl combine beaten eggs, cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Arrange broccoli in shallow 1½-quart baking dish; spoon cheese mixture on top. Stir together bread crumbs and margarine; sprinkle over cheese mixture. Bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through and egg mixture is set. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 154 cal., 11 g pro., 9 g carb., 9 g fat, 106 mg chol., 372 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 34 percent vit. A, 99 percent vit. C, 15 percent riboflavin, 15 percent calcium.

Dip sugar cubes into orange or lemon juice and add to hot tea for a lovely treat.

Dark raisin bread is a delicious filler to use in apple brown Betty.

Stretch tuna fish salad by adding diced or grated apples and celery.

Freeze leftover waffles; when ready to use them, reheat in a toaster.

Match pasta side dish flavor to entree

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Basil pasta with beef, sage pasta with chicken, curry pasta with pork. With this single recipe you can tailor the taste of a pasta side dish to your entree.

You'll be surprised how easy homemade pasta is to make, even without a pasta machine; it's a fun weekend cooking project. Don't skimp on the kneading or the 10-minute rest. Too little kneading and the pasta will be crumbly and break apart in cooking. Too little resting time and the dough will act like a rubber band, making it difficult to roll.

PICK-A-FLAVOR PASTA

1 and 1/3 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat or rye flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dried basil, crushed; dried marjoram, crushed; dried sage, crushed; or 2 teaspoons curry powder or chili powder
2 beaten eggs
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon cooking oil

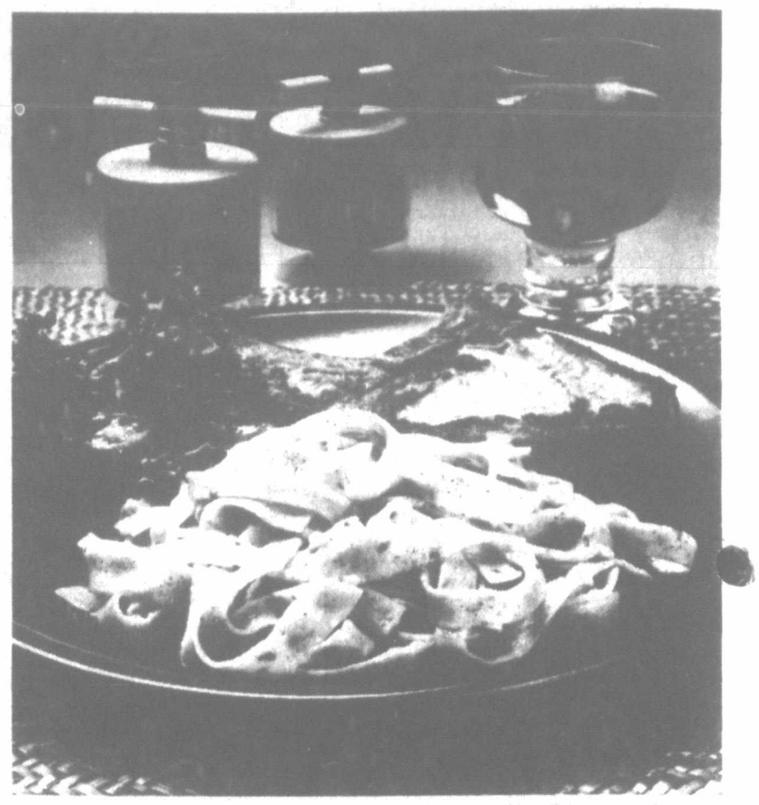

Stir together all-purpose flour, ½ cup of the whole wheat or rye flour, and salt. Stir in desired seasoning. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Combine eggs, water and oil. Add to dry ingredients; mix well. Turn dough out onto surface sprinkled with some of remaining whole wheat or rye flour; knead until smooth and elastic (8 to 10 minutes total), adding flour as needed. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into thirds.

On floured surface roll each portion to a 16- by 12-inch rectangle. Let stand, uncovered, 20 minutes. Roll up loosely. With sharp knife, cut into ½-inch-wide slices; unroll. Cut strips into desired lengths; spread on wire racks. Let dry 2 hours.

To store pasta, place in a moisture- and vaporproof container. Seal, label and freeze. Or, let pasta dry completely and store in airtight container.

To cook, drop pasta into large amount of boiling water, broth or soup. Cook, uncovered, 4 minutes; drain. Makes 3 cups cooked pasta.

Nutrition information per serving: 199 cal., 8 g pro., 35 g carb., 3 g fat, 92 mg chol., 205 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 20 percent thiamine, 11 percent riboflavin, 12 percent niacin, 12 percent iron.

Match the flavor of your pasta with the flavor of your main dish. Curry pasta goes well with pork.

Pick a bell pepper to stuff with corn

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Last week my supermarket had green, red, yellow, orange and purple bell peppers available. I've found the flavors to be similar but slightly different, so sampling each one is a taste adventure. Any of the bell peppers can be used in this recipe.

CORN-STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

2 large green peppers
¼ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons milk
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
Dash pepper
One 12-ounce can whole kernel corn with sweet peppers
One 4-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 small tomato, chopped

Cut green peppers in half lengthwise. Discard seeds and membranes. In a microwave-safe, 8- by 8- by 2-inch baking dish arrange peppers, cut side down. Cover with vented clear plastic wrap. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 5 to 7 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain. Set aside.

For filling, in a 1-quart casserole stir together sour cream and cornstarch. Stir in milk, salt, thyme and pepper. Add undrained corn, drained mushrooms and margarine. Cook, uncovered, on high for 5 to 7 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring every 2 minutes.

Invert cooked pepper halves in dish. Fill with corn mixture. Cook, uncovered, on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until heated through. Sprinkle chopped tomato on top. Makes 4 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 169 calories, 4 g protein, 24 g carbohydrate, 7 g fat, 6 mg cholesterol, 577 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 27 percent vit. A, 134 percent vit. C, 10 percent thiamine, 10 percent niacin, 10 percent iron.

Area Baptist Men to meet in Pampa for annual fish fry

ROBERT E. DIXON

The annual fish fry for Baptist men and boys of the Top O' Texas area is scheduled for Aug. 18 at First Baptist Church of Pampa.

The annual summer event draws Baptist Men's organization members from over a 16-county area of the Panhandle. Men from Texline to Estelline and northeast to Follett are expected to attend.

Baptist boys are welcome to attend; the Royal Ambassador program for boys of local churches is under the direction of the local Baptist Men's organizations.

The fish fry will begin at 6 p.m. and will be catered by Danny's Catering Service of Lubbock, which will prepare the food "on the spot" from their mobile kitchen. Fish will be the main feature, but chicken will also be available.

Baptist Men from across the area will be presented on the program. Dr. Darrel Rains and Baptist Men's President Jim Baker, both of Pampa's First Baptist Church, will welcome the men to the program. Wayne Maddox of Miami, a longtime leader in Baptist Men's work, will preside over the meeting.

Special guest speaker will be Bob Dixon, executive director of Texas Baptist Men. He is administrator of the statewide men's organization responsible for mission education and action in the local churches. He was instrumental in the rebuilding of Saragosa after the killer tornado destroyed the town. Texas Baptist men rebuilt some 30 homes and gave them to the residents who had lost their homes.

Local Baptist men and guests are welcome to attend.

Vacation with grandchildren is no picnic for one grandma

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me what makes some parents think that leaving their children with "Grandma" is a joy to Grandma?

My mother is 65 years old and has been a widow for the last five years. She still works, and is allowed two weeks' vacation a year. I feel that those two weeks should be hers to do with as she pleases. My sisters have a different idea. They think it's a good time for their children to visit Grandma!

Abby, my mother loves her grandchildren, but being in charge of a houseful of kids (whose ages range from 9 to 16) for two weeks is too much for her to handle. I try to help her out by making meals and having them all to my house for supper or a sleep-over, but I have four kids of my own and cannot help her as much as I'd like to.

Poor Mom just can't say no. I'm sure she'd enjoy her grandchildren more if their visits were shorter, or if their parents were around to help with the cleanup, meals and supervision. Mom feels uncomfortable disciplining her grandchildren, so they walk all over her.

Abby, please print this. All my sisters read your column. Maybe it will wake them up.

UPSET IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR UPSET: Your sisters are wide-awake. Your mother is sleeping. If she cannot — or will not — tell her daughters that her idea of a vacation is not looking after their children for two weeks, I doubt if a letter in my column will do the trick. Perhaps you could be more emphatic in convincing your sisters that having all the children for two weeks is an imposition. If that fails, urge your mother to gather the gumption to speak for herself. Otherwise, the meek shall inherit a two-week headache.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed the poem "The Man in the Glass" with "Author Unknown." Abby, that poem has been on display in our real estate office for 15 years, and the author is Dale Wimbrow.

Jim Picci of Novato, Calif., who taught a real estate course in Clearwater, Fla., gave everyone in his class a copy of that poem, and at graduation time he recited it from memory. It was an inspiration to all.

RAY ESTES,
VIRGINIA BEACH, VA.

DEAR RAY: Thanks for enabling me to give credit where credit is due. This letter just surfaced concerning that inspirational poem:

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the poem "The Man in the Glass." The actual title is "The Guy in the Glass." It was written by Dale Wimbrow and copyrighted in 1934.

It was sent to me by Sallydale Wimbrow, the author's daughter. Dale Wimbrow died in Sebastian, Fla., in 1954. I hope this sets the record straight.

PHYLLIS CLARKE,
NEWPORT NEWS, VA.

DEAR PHYLLIS CLARKE: The record is indeed set straight, but I have a neat pile of letters on my desk from many people — all claiming authorship of "The Guy in the Glass." Shattering?

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem concerning our two pet cats. We have had Brandy and Spice for 13 and 14 years. They are now old, and becoming increasingly difficult to care for. They rarely use the kitty litter anymore, and relieve themselves on the bedroom and bathroom rugs. These rugs are very difficult to clean and the mess they make is very unsanitary. We cannot prevent them from doing this.

The whole family agrees that we need to find a new home for these pets. Mom wants to have them put to sleep. Dad wants to find someone to take them. We have put ads in the newspaper, but no one wants to take two old cats who cannot relieve themselves properly.

Would it be inhumane to put them to sleep?

C.B. IN PHOENIX

DEAR C.B.: If you can no longer care for these pets, rather than place them in a home in which they may be mistreated in their declining years, it would be far kinder to have a veterinarian put them to sleep.

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Shredded cheddar cheese and cottage cheese are combined to make a tasty topping for broccoli. This topping bakes right on the vegetables.

Broccoli dish features its own cheese sauce

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Like cheese sauce with broccoli? Get the cheese flavor you like without making a separate sauce with this cheesy topper that bakes right on the broccoli. Remember this topper for cauliflower, brussels sprouts and asparagus, too.

CHEESY BROCCOLI CASSEROLE

1½ pounds fresh broccoli
2 slightly beaten eggs
¾ cup cottage cheese
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese (2 ounces)
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon margarine or butter, melted

Wash and trim broccoli; cut into spears. Cook broccoli, covered, in a small amount of unsalted boiling water about 10 minutes or until crisp-tender; drain.

Meanwhile, in bowl combine beaten eggs, cottage cheese, cheddar cheese, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Arrange broccoli in shallow 1½-quart baking dish; spoon cheese mixture on top. Stir together bread crumbs and margarine; sprinkle over cheese mixture. Bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes or until heated through and egg mixture is set. Makes 6 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 154 cal., 11 g pro., 9 g carb., 9 g fat, 106 mg chol., 372 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 34 percent vit. A, 99 percent vit. C, 15 percent riboflavin, 15 percent calcium.

Dip sugar cubes into orange or lemon juice and add to hot tea for a lovely treat.

Dark raisin bread is a delicious filler to use in apple brown Betty.

Stretch tuna fish salad by adding diced or grated apples and celery.

Freeze leftover waffles; when ready to use them, reheat in a toaster.

Match pasta side dish flavor to entree

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Basil pasta with beef, sage pasta with chicken, curry pasta with pork. With this single recipe you can tailor the taste of a pasta side dish to your entree.

You'll be surprised how easy homemade pasta is to make, even without a pasta machine; it's a fun weekend cooking project. Don't skimp on the kneading or the 10-minute rest. Too little kneading and the pasta will be crumbly and break apart in cooking. Too little resting time and the dough will act like a rubber band, making it difficult to roll.

PICK-A-FLAVOR PASTA

1 and 1/3 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup whole wheat or rye flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dried basil, crushed; dried marjoram, crushed; dried sage, crushed; or 2 teaspoons curry powder or chili powder
2 beaten eggs
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon cooking oil

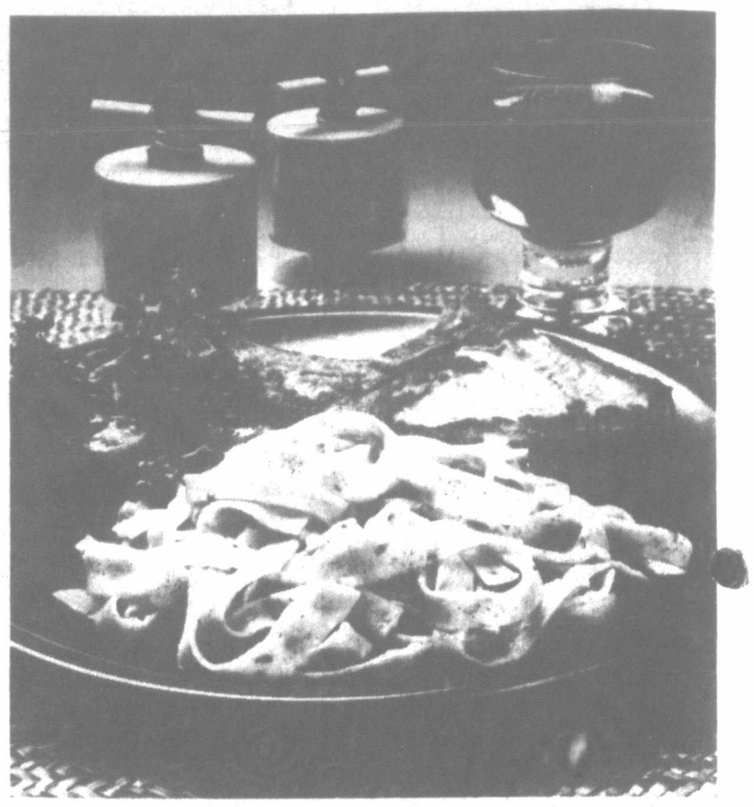

Stir together all-purpose flour, ½ cup of the whole wheat or rye flour, and salt. Stir in desired seasoning. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Combine eggs, water and oil. Add to dry ingredients; mix well. Turn dough out onto surface sprinkled with some of remaining whole wheat or rye flour; knead until smooth and elastic (8 to 10 minutes total), adding flour as needed. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide dough into thirds.

On floured surface roll each portion to a 16- by 12-inch rectangle. Let stand, uncovered, 20 minutes. Roll up loosely. With sharp knife, cut into ½-inch-wide slices; unroll. Cut strips into desired lengths; spread on wire racks. Let dry 2 hours.

To store pasta, place in a moisture- and vaporproof container. Seal, label and freeze. Or, let pasta dry completely and store in airtight container.

To cook, drop pasta into large amount of boiling water, broth or soup. Cook, uncovered, 4 minutes; drain. Makes 3 cups cooked pasta.

Nutrition information per serving: 199 cal., 8 g pro., 35 g carb., 3 g fat, 92 mg chol., 205 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 20 percent thiamine, 11 percent riboflavin, 12 percent niacin, 12 percent iron.

Match the flavor of your pasta with the flavor of your main dish. Curry pasta goes well with pork.

Pick a bell pepper to stuff with corn

By NANCY BYAL
Better Homes and Gardens
Magazine Food Editor

Last week my supermarket had green, red, yellow, orange and purple bell peppers available. I've found the flavors to be similar but slightly different, so sampling each one is a taste adventure. Any of the bell peppers can be used in this recipe.

CORN-STUFFED GREEN PEPPERS

2 large green peppers
¼ cup dairy sour cream
1 teaspoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons milk
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon dried thyme, crushed
Dash pepper
One 12-ounce can whole kernel corn with sweet peppers
One 4-ounce can mushroom stems and pieces, drained
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 small tomato, chopped

Cut green peppers in half lengthwise. Discard seeds and membranes. In a microwave-safe, 8- by 8- by 2-inch baking dish arrange peppers, cut side down. Cover with vented clear plastic wrap. Cook on 100 percent power (high) for 5 to 7 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain. Set aside.

For filling, in a 1-quart casserole stir together sour cream and cornstarch. Stir in milk, salt, thyme and pepper. Add undrained corn, drained mushrooms and margarine. Cook, uncovered, on high for 5 to 7 minutes or until thickened and bubbly, stirring every 2 minutes.

Invert cooked pepper halves in dish. Fill with corn mixture. Cook, uncovered, on high for 2 to 3 minutes or until heated through. Sprinkle chopped tomato on top. Makes 4 servings.

Nutrition information per serving: 169 calories, 4 g protein, 24 g carbohydrate, 7 g fat, 6 mg cholesterol, 577 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 27 percent vit. A, 134 percent vit. C, 10 percent thiamine, 10 percent niacin, 10 percent iron.

Area Baptist Men to meet in Pampa for annual fish fry

ROBERT E. DIXON

The annual fish fry for Baptist men and boys of the Top O' Texas area is scheduled for Aug. 18 at First Baptist Church of Pampa.

The annual summer event draws Baptist Men's organization members from over a 16-county area of the Panhandle. Men from Texline to Estelline and northeast to Follett are expected to attend.

Baptist boys are welcome to attend; the Royal Ambassador program for boys of local churches is under the direction of the local Baptist Men's organizations.

The fish fry will begin at 6 p.m. and will be catered by Danny's Catering Service of Lubbock, which will prepare the food "on the spot" from their mobile kitchen. Fish will be the main feature, but chicken will also be available.

Baptist Men from across the area will be presented on the program. Dr. Darrel Rains and Baptist Men's President Jim Baker, both of Pampa's First Baptist Church, will welcome the men to the program. Wayne Maddox of Miami, a longtime leader in Baptist Men's work, will preside over the meeting.

Special guest speaker will be Bob Dixon, executive director of Texas Baptist Men. He is administrator of the statewide men's organization responsible for mission education and action in the local churches. He was instrumental in the rebuilding of Saragosa after the killer tornado destroyed the town. Texas Baptist men rebuilt some 30 homes and gave them to the residents who had lost their homes.

Local Baptist men and guests are welcome to attend.

Vacation with grandchildren is no picnic for one grandma

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me what makes some parents think that leaving their children with "Grandma" is a joy to Grandma?

My mother is 65 years old and has been a widow for the last five years. She still works, and is allowed two weeks' vacation a year. I feel that those two weeks should be hers to do with as she pleases. My sisters have a different idea. They think it's a good time for their children to visit Grandma!

Abby, my mother loves her grandchildren, but being in charge of a houseful of kids (whose ages range from 9 to 16) for two weeks is too much for her to handle. I try to help her out by making meals and having them all to my house for supper or a sleep-over, but I have four kids of my own and cannot help her as much as I'd like to.

Poor Mom just can't say no. I'm sure she'd enjoy her grandchildren more if their visits were shorter, or if their parents were around to help with the cleanup, meals and supervision. Mom feels uncomfortable disciplining her grandchildren, so they walk all over her.

Abby, please print this. All my sisters read your column. Maybe it will wake them up.

UPSET IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR UPSET: Your sisters are wide-awake. Your mother is sleeping. If she cannot — or will not — tell her daughters that her idea of a vacation is not looking after their children for two weeks, I doubt if a letter in my column will do the trick. Perhaps you could be more emphatic in convincing your sisters that having all the children for two weeks is an imposition. If that fails, urge your mother to gather the gumption to speak for herself. Otherwise, the meek shall inherit a two-week headache.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed the poem "The Man in the Glass" with "Author Unknown." Abby, that poem has been on display in our real estate office for 15 years, and the author is Dale Wimbrow.

Jim Picci of Novato, Calif., who taught a real estate course in Clearwater, Fla., gave everyone in his class a copy of that poem, and at graduation time he recited it from memory. It was an inspiration to all.

RAY ESTES,
VIRGINIA BEACH, VA.

DEAR RAY: Thanks for enabling me to give credit where credit is due. This letter just surfaced concerning that inspirational poem:

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the poem "The Man in the Glass." The actual title is "The Guy in the Glass." It was written by Dale Wimbrow and copyrighted in 1934.

It was sent to me by Sallydale Wimbrow, the author's daughter. Dale Wimbrow died in Sebastian, Fla., in 1954. I hope this sets the record straight.

PHYLLIS CLARKE,
NEWPORT NEWS, VA.

DEAR PHYLLIS CLARKE: The record is indeed set straight, but I have a neat pile of letters on my desk from many people — all claiming authorship of "The Guy in the Glass." Shattering?

DEAR ABBY: We have a problem concerning our two pet cats. We have had Brandy and Spice for 13 and 14 years. They are now old, and becoming increasingly difficult to care for. They rarely use the kitty litter anymore, and relieve themselves on the bedroom and bathroom rugs. These rugs are very difficult to clean and the mess they make is very unsanitary. We cannot prevent them from doing this.

The whole family agrees that we need to find a new home for these pets. Mom wants to have them put to sleep. Dad wants to find someone to take them. We have put ads in the newspaper, but no one wants to take two old cats who cannot relieve themselves properly.

Would it be inhumane to put them to sleep?

C.B. IN PHOENIX

DEAR C.B.: If you can no longer care for these pets, rather than place them in a home in which they may be mistreated in their declining years, it would be far kinder to have a veterinarian put them to sleep.

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send your name and address, plus check or money order for $2.89 ($3.39 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Rose Bowl champs could repeat in Big Ten

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

Don't look for a national champion to come out of the Midwest.

The Big Ten hasn't produced one since Ohio State captured the title in 1968. And Michigan coach Bo Schembechler doesn't expect another one soon "because we're too busy beating up on each other."

Notre Dame's last national championship was in 1977. If Lou Holtz's Irish can get through a schedule that begins with Michigan and Michigan State, ends with Penn State and Southern Cal and has Pitt and defending national champion Miami, Fla., thrown in for good measure, Notre Dame would deserve to be No. 1.

It's a longshot, though, especially with the loss of Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown and the unproven status of quarterback Tony Rice.

In the Big Ten, Michigan State has a good chance to defend its conference championship if it can get past its first two league opponents — Iowa and Michigan.

The Rose Bowl champions return eight starters from a defense that led the Big Ten and ranked second nationally.

"It all comes down to the Iowa game," Spartans coach George Perles said. "If we don't beat them, then it will be an uphill battle all year."

Tailback Lorenzo White is gone, but replacement Blake Ezor is a potential 1,000-yard rusher.

The key to the Michigan State offense is quarterback Bobby McAllister, who is a better runner than passer. If McAllister can hook up with standout split end Andre Rison, the Spartans will be hard to beat.

Schembechler, who is entering his 20th season as a Michigan's head coach, thinks his team can win the conference title.

"But we must improve our defense, we must reduce the number of turnovers and we must have better luck with injuries," he said.

Schembechler must also find an effective quarterback, although the Wolverines don't usually rely on their quarterback for big plays. The offensive line should be solid, however, with John Vitale and Mike Husar as the anchors.

Iowa probably will be undefeated when it opens its Big Ten season against Michigan State. The Hawkeyes start the year with a relatively easy schedule against Hawaii, Kansas State, Colorado and Iowa State.

Coach Hayden Fry says Iowa should be "entertaining and explosive. We have the program at a level where we can compete for the Big Ten title every year."

Chuck Hartlieb, who passed for 3,092 yards and 19 touchdowns last season, will be back to direct the Iowa offense. He should get plenty of offensive support from wide receiver Travis Watkins, tight end Marv Cook and fullback David Hudson.

Ohio State and Illinois will have new coaches this season. John Cooper has replaced Earle Bruce at Ohio State, while John Mackovic took over for Mike White at Illinois.

The Buckeyes may not be a contender after losing linebackers Chris Spielman and Eric Kumerow and quarterback-punter Tom Tupa.

Indiana finished 6-2 in the Big Ten last season, tied for second place with Iowa. But Coach Bill Mallory says "the closer you get to the top of the mountain, the tougher the climb."

The Hoosiers lost linebacker Van Waiters, tackle Eric Moore and wide reciever Ernie Jones, who caught 13 touchdown passes. But Mallory has some excellent players returning, including quarterback Dave Schnell, running back Anthony Thompson and kicker Pete Stoyanovich.

Minnesota could be be a darkhorse in the Big Ten, but Illinois, Wisconsin, Purdue and Northwestern are longshots.

Pampa Lady Harvesters capture season opener

Spikes, serves and blocks. Pampa's Lady Harvesters put those three elements together after a slow beginning to defeat Palo Duro 15-10, 8-15 and 15-2 in a high school volleyball opener Tuesday night.

Pampa had to come from behind in the first game after trailing 7-0.

"It took us awhile to get our act together," said Pampa coach Mike Lopez. "I felt like Yolanda Brown played an outstanding game and provided us with the leadership we've been looking for."

Traci Cash, Staci Cash and Candi Winton set up Brown for several spikes while Schivonne Parker and Leslie Bailey provided some blocking power. Brown also joined in blocking several PD shots.

In the rubber match, serving was the cornerstone of the Lady Harvesters' victory.

"The outcome of the game was determined by our serving," Lopez said. "Everyone served well."

Lopez said the Cash twins (Traci and Staci) led the serving attack while Dori Kidwell also scored points with her serves.

Lopez also cited April Thompson for outstanding, all-around floor play.

The Lady Harvesters play at Amarillo High Thursday night before entering the Lubbock Tournament this weekend. Their first-round opponent is Andrews Friday morning. The tournament will be played at the Coronado High School gym.

In JV action last night in the Pampa Middle School gym, Pampa lost to Palo Duro, 15-10, 9-15, 9-15.

Pampa went undefeated in league play last season to win the District 1-4A championship in Lopez' first year as head volleyball coach.

The Lady Harvesters advanced to the bi-district playoffs, losing to Lamesa, 15-12, 15-10. They finished the season with a 20-9 overall record and 12-0 in district play.

The Lady Harvesters will be playing all their home matches at the middle school gym this season because of dangerous asbestos at McNeely Fieldhouse.

Hough pitches Rangers past Royals 5-4

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the night began, Charlie Hough's fluttery, unpredictable knuckleball felt wicked in his hand.

The Kansas City Royals certainly couldn't hit it. And Texas catcher Geno Petralli could hardly catch it. The Royals manufactured their first run on Danny Tartabull's walk and stolen base, Petralli's passed ball and Frank White's sacrifice fly.

But the decisive turn of events finally came with Texas at bat in the seventh. Facing Mark Gubicza, Oddibe McDowell hit an opposite-field double and Curtis Wilkerson and Scott Fletcher slugged opposite-field triples with two out, fueling a three-run rally that carried the Rangers to a 5-4 victory.

Hough, 10-13 for the year and 14-8 lifetime against Kansas City, faltered finally in the ninth. Texas Manager Bobby Valentine asked him if he was tiring in the muggy heat.

"I told him I had a real fresh arm in the bullpen if he didn't feel he had enough," Valentine said. "He said if he didn't get em 1-2-3, okay."

Kurt Stillwell walked with two out, and Valentine fairly bounced onto the field to summon a fresh arm in the person of hard-throwing lefthander Mitch Williams. He struck out George Brett, who had been dealing with Hough's knuckler all night, on three pitches for his 15th save.

"The fresh arm got in the game and did a heck of a job," Valentine said with a grin.

Higgs holds his own

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It isn't easy being the stand-in for Herschel Walker, but so far, Mark Higgs is holding his own.

In just two exhibition games, Higgs, a rookie from the University of Kentucky, has caught a pass for 41 yards, returned a kickoff for 30 yards and slipped through the Los Angeles Raiders defense for 46 yards in nine carries.

Coach Tom Landry remains upbeat about the 5-foot-7 running back from Owensboro, Ky., even though Higgs had a critical fourth-quarter fumble that cost Dallas its exhibition opener with San Diego.

"We feel pretty good about Higgs," Landry said in an interview with The Courier-Journal. "He played well in college, even though he's short.

"He's like (Joe) Morris in New York," Landry added. "He has a lot of running ability and is built like a 220-pounder."

Higgs gets his chance to shine when Walker has to take an occasional break from the game.

Higgs had idolized Tony Dorsett, the 1976 Heisman Trophy winner from Pittsburgh whom the Cowboys traded to Denver in the off-season.

Higgs was not pleased to learn Dallas had selected him in the eighth round of the 1988 draft.

"I was sick," Higgs said. "Because with Tony, Herschel and Darryl Clack, I didn't think I'd have a chance. But then I thought at least I'd have a chance to meet Tony."

Higgs did have a chance. Dorsett invited him to his going-away party before he left for Denver. Now, Higgs may pick up some of the carries Dorsett left behind.

"A lot of people think because of my height that I'm too short to play," Higgs said. "But I have an advantage over the bigger backs because I can run behind the big linemen and shoot through the holes."

Public Notice

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: HUGHES-PITTS, INC., its Successors and Assigns, O.M. GRIFFITH, but if deceased, the unknown heirs of the said O.M. GRIFFITH and NADYNE W. GRIFFITH, but if deceased, the unknown heirs of the said NADYNE W. GRIFFITH

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable 223rd Judicial District Court in and for Gray County, Texas, at the Courthouse in Pampa, Gray County, Texas at or before 10:00 o'clock a.m. on the Monday next after the expiration of 42 days from August 15, 1988, numbered 26,482 on the docket of said Court, and entitled "Arlene Callison, Danny Rightsell, and Dottie Kimbley vs. Hughes-Pitss, Inc., it Successors and Assigns, O.M. Griffith, but if deceased, the unknown heirs of the said O.M. Griffith, and Nadyne W. Griffith, but if deceased, the unknown heirs of the said Nadyne W. Griffith."

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows:

Suit in trespass to try title, Plaintiffs claiming that they were in open, continuous, peaceable and adverse possession for more than twenty (20) years of the following described property, to-wit:

Lot No. 2, Block No. 6, of the Carr Terrace Addition to the City of Pampa, Gray County, Texas, according to the duly recorded map or plat of said addition on file in the office of the County Clerk of Gray County, Texas. Said property is subject to the restrictive convenants filed in Volume 100, Page 560, of the Deed Records of Gray County, Texas, which provide that the property may be used for residential purposes only.

That on July 1, 1988, Defendants unlawfully entered said premises and dispossessed Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs request judgment for title and possession of the land and for such further relief to which Plaintiffs may be entitled; as is more fully shown by Plaintiffs' petition on file in this suit.

If this citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve it and make due return according to requirements of law, and the mandates of this citation.

ISSUED under my hand and seal of said Court at Pampa, Gray County, Texas, on the 15th day of August, 1988.

19 88 Property Tax Rates in Lefors Independent School District

This notice concerns 19 88 property tax rates for Lefors I.S.D. . It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. Compare it to the tax rate the taxing unit proposes for this year. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Last year's operating taxes | $ 1,009,268.47 | |
| + | Last year's debt taxes | $ | |
| = | Last year's total taxes | $ 1,009,268.47 | |
| ÷ | Last year's tax base | $ 94,324,157.00 | |
| = | Last year's total tax rate | $ 1.070000 | /$100 |

This year's effective tax rate:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors) | $ 1,007,493.72 | |
| ÷ | This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property) | $ 89,206,250.00 | |
| = | This year's effective tax rate | $ 1.129400 | /$100 |
| × | 1.03 | | |
| = | Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings | $ 1.163300 | /$100 |

This year's rollback tax rate:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and taxes to correct appraisal roll errors and adding taxes lost in court suits) | $ 1,007,493.72 | |
| ÷ | This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting taxes on new property) | $ 89,206,250 | |
| = | This year's effective operating rate | $ 1.129400 | /$100 |
| × | 1.08 | | |
| = | This year's maximum operating rate | $ 1.219800 | /$100 |
| + | This year's debt rate | $ | /$100 |
| = | This year's rollback rate | $ 1.219800 | /$100 |

SCHEDULE A: Unencumbered Fund Balances

The following balances will probably be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

| Type of Property Tax Fund | Balance |
|---|---|
| Maintenance & Operating | $508,999.51 |

SCHEDULE B: 19 88 Debts Service

The unit plans to pay the following amounts for long-term debts that are secured by property taxes. These amounts will be paid from property tax revenues (or additional sales tax revenues, if applicable).

| Description of Debt | Principal or Contract Payment to be Paid | Interest to be Paid | Other Amounts to be Paid | Total Payment |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| N/A | -0- | -0- | -0- | -0- |

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| | Total required for 19 88 debt service | -0- |
| – | Amount (if any) paid from funds listed in Schedule A | -0- |
| – | Excess collections last year | -0- |
| = | Total to be paid from taxes in 19 ____ | -0- |
| + | Amount added in anticipation that the unit will collect only ____% of its taxes in 19 ____ | -0- |
| = | Total Debt Service Levy | -0- |

SCHEDULE C: Expected Revenue from Additional Sales Tax

(For counties and cities with additional ½ cent sales tax)

In calculating its effective and rollback tax rates, the unit estimated that it will receive $ -0- in additional sales and use tax revenues.

This notice contains a summary of actual effective and rollback tax rate calculations. You can inspect a copy of the full calculations at Lefors I.S.D. .

Student leaders call for anti-government rallies in Burma

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — About 3,000 people staged an anti-government rally today in Rangoon, an Asian diplomat said. It was the largest such protest reported in the Burmese capital since last week's bloody riots.

The diplomat said protesters rallied in front of Rangoon General Hospital, a gathering spot for demonstrators after security forces allegedly shot doctors and nurses there during last week's unrest.

The diplomat, speaking on condition of anonymity, had no details on the rally. He said the city was otherwise quiet.

Student leaders called for demonstrations today to press for an end to 26 years of authoritarian, one-party rule in the Southeast Asian nation, where economic woes borne of isolationist policies have triggered widespread public resentment.

A Western diplomat said about 1,000 people gathered in front of the hospital Tuesday to hear speeches by student leaders and read anti-government leaflets and posters that demanded the dismantlement of the government and the country's sole political party, the Burma Socialist Program Party.

There were no reports of any attempt by security forces to interfere with the peaceful demonstration, he said.

Student leaders have distributed leaflets and put up posters throughout the city calling for demonstrations to press for further change following the ouster of hard-line leader Sein Lwin.

The Lawyers' Council, in one of the first open signs of protest within the system, also denounced security forces for firing on peaceful demonstrators, including children, last week.

The council's statement, carried Tuesday by two news agencies, said the actions by the security units violated the Burmese constitution and the U.N. Declaration of Human Rights.

Japan's Kyodo and China's Xinhua news agencies reported from Rangoon that the council, an organization under the government's Council of People's Attorneys, submitted its protest Monday to the Council of State. The statement reportedly was signed by 177 lawyers and called for a multi-party system.

State-run Radio Rangoon in the Burmese capital has said at least 95 people were killed and 240 wounded in protests in two dozen cities and towns last week that led to the resignation Friday of President Sein Lwin, a former hard-line general who served just 17 days in office.

Western diplomats believe the casualty toll was much higher.

Radio Rangoon said that of the 1,451 people arrested in Rangoon last week, 51 were released Tuesday from Insein Prison and turned over to parents.

Polish miners defy order against strike

By DEBORAH G. SEWARD
Associated Press Writer

JASTRZEBIE, Poland (AP) — Workers occupying a coal mine in southwestern Poland defied government orders to end their strike and said today they will not give up until their demand for Solidarity's reinstatement is met.

Police ringing the colliery, one of Poland's largest, turned away area residents who tried to bring food to the workers.

Solidarity activists said negotiations between labor and management were under way, but details of the talks were not available.

Adam Kowalczyk, a regional Solidarity leader, said more workers were joining their colleagues inside the July Manifesto mine by leaping over police barricades erected after the strike began Tuesday.

The Solidarity strike committee at the mine issued a communique repeating demands for legalization of the outlawed independent labor federation, along with pay raises and reinstatement of workers fired for trade union activities.

"The mine management is trying to end the strike by hunger," the communique said.

Police surrounded the mine after about 4,000 workers put down their tools on Tuesday.

Witnesses said about 600 officers were outside and about 3,000 strikers inside.

The strike marks the eighth anniversary of the birth of the Solidarity, which Communist authorities crushed in a 1981 military crackdown and banned a year later.

Miners leaving the colliery this morning said wage demands were based on hardships caused by Poland's worsening economy, including 60 percent inflation.

"The economy is in ruins," one told The Associated Press. "Miners cannot live on their salaries because of recent price hikes."

Miners earn nearly twice the average national salary and receive extra benefits because of the vital role they play in the economy.

Poland is the world's fourth largest exporter of coal, and coal is the nation's leading export.

The July Manifesto mine is one of five in the region. The others appeared to be operating normally.

Solidarity adviser Jacek Kuron said there were no reports of violence and police made no attempt to move into the mine, a hotbed of labor activism during the strike wave that spawned Solidarity.

He said the mine was cordoned off and public transportation to the facility was suspended. The mine is 280 miles from Warsaw and employs about 9,000 workers.

The state-run PAP news agency, in a dispatch late Tuesday, said the strike was illegal. PAP said the miners were warned that "they may be held responsible for their illegal actions."

The July Manifesto mine is in Silesia, Poland's industrial heartland.

Eight years ago, a wave of mine strikes in Silesia ended with the signing at July Manifesto of the last of three agreements that established Solidarity across the nation. The pact also won work-free weekends.
