'Double dipping' upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — American taxpayers would continue to spend $300 million a year subsidizing cut-rate grocery stores for military families under a defense spending bill passed by the Senate.

Rejecting a committee report that termed such fringe benefits unjustified, the Senate voted Tuesday to continue the subsidy and to continue allowing retired military personnel to work for the government while still drawing a full pension.

About 140,000 retired military personnel hold civilian federal jobs and receive military pensions in addition to their paychecks. The practice is called "double-dipping."

The votes came as the Senate passed a $111 billion defense appropriations bill, which funds military salaries, weapons procurement and research, testing and development.

The vote sends the measure to a conference committee with the House, which earlier passed a different version.

In the bill, the Senate also agreed to go along with a decision by President Carter and cut from the bill $3.4 billion that had been earmarked for production of the B1 bomber.

Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, assistant Republican leader, led the drive to continue the military fringe benefits, which he described as commitments made by the government to induce enlistments and to persuade soldiers to make military service a career.

But other senators contended more important issues were at stake.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said about $1 billion is paid out each year in pensions to retired military personnel who also accept a federal civilian paycheck.

He and other senators argued that the practice is a costly addition to ballooning pension expenses that threaten to cut into the muscle of military defense.

The appropriations committee attempted to stop another rapidly escalating cost by ending over a three-year period the $300 million subsidy, used to pay salaries of the 26,000 civilian and military personnel who staff military commissaries.

Based on an annual sales volume estimated at $3 billion in fiscal 1977, a 10-per cent price increase in the commissaries would generate enough funds to eliminate the need for a subsidy.

Because commissaries pay no local, state or federal taxes, the committee said that, even without the subsidy, commissary customers still would pay about 13 per cent less than civilians patronizing a neighborhood supermarket. They now pay 23 per cent less.

Customers also realize sales tax savings of between 2 and 8 per cent, depending on locality.

Ezzell to ask House for nursing home vote

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Legislators expected to vote today on bills tightening control of the multi-million dollar nursing home industry, whose reputation was tarred by the beating of an old woman in Lufkin.

Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, planned to ask senators to take up his bill during their morning session.

Rep. Mike Ezzell, D-Snyder, said he would make a similar move in the House this afternoon if printed copies of his version were distributed before lunch.

Both measures, backed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe, make the State Health Department totally responsible for nursing home regulation. They provide two to 10 years in prison for nursing home employees who deliberately injure patients.

They also would enable the health department to shut down a nursing home for up to 10 days if conditions posed an immediate threat to the life or health of a resident.

The House Committee on Health and Welfare voted Ezzell's bill to the floor at 10:40 p.m. Tuesday after working on it all day.

Rep. Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk, failed 6-4 to give the Texas Department of Public Welfare the full responsibility for regulating nursing homes.

Under present law, the health department licenses nursing homes while the welfare department inspects them for adequacy of services and living conditions.

Whitehead said both the Hobby Commission on government economy and the Legislative Budget Board had recommended placing the homes under the welfare department.

"Then we had one Yankee come into Texas and make a whirlwind investigation and misleading allegations. . . . If we continue to stampede because one Yankee came down here a few days, I can't see it," Whitehead said.

He referred to David Holton, chief investigator for the U. S. House Select Committee on Aging, who issued a critical report after the Lufkin beating came to light.

The committee voted 8-1 to instruct the health department to grade nursing homes and require them to post their grades prominently. Those with superior ratings could advertise them.

"In my opinion it is like awarding a Best Western franchise as far as nursing homes are concerned," objected Rep. Buck Florence, D-Hughes Springs.

"We either want to start a program of incentives or keep the mediocre and mundane service we are getting," said Rep. Fred Orr, D-DeSoto, who sponsored the amendment.

Moonies dress nude posters

HOUSTON (AP) — "How would he like it if I painted his church pink?" asked the irate owner of the adult entertainment establishment called Bottoms Up.

"If I had caught him you better bet I wouldn't have kissed him on the nose," Tony Alliman added Tuesday.

Alliman was responding to the artistry of the leader of Houston's Moonies, who decided to put cardboard dresses over the nude advertisements in front of some of the adult entertainment businesses.

Patrick Hickey, Houston director of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, said he pasted the dresses over the sexy pictures.

"Should the store owners again decide to strip them of their clothes, it will at least provide with a day out in the sunshine and an afternoon of work," said Hickey, who attached the dresses with glue.

Several of the owners were not taking the action lightly. Some said they were asking their lawyers to consider filing suit against the Unification Church.

Phil Pesses, manager of one of the businesses, said he is also having his lawyer consider filing suit to pay for damage to his $1,000 sign.

"All I want to do is catch this nut in the process of putting things on the building," he said. "I'd do something to him and then call the police."

Asked why the dresses were such perfect fits, Hickey explained that local Moonies went out and measured all the figures. Then prior to dawn, he went to the seven businesses and pasted the cut outs on the ads.

WHOLLY UNEXPECTED DRENCHING — Rusty Fox, 3, a visitor to the Baptist Temple child development program, received this unexpected surprise from the outdoor fountain. Rusty is the son of John and Linda Fox. Needless to say, Rusty eyed the fountain thoroughly before trying again for his drink.

Slow inflation decline predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans can expect a slow reduction in unemployment next year, but face inflation of at least 6.5 per cent at the same time, congressional budget experts said today.

The Congressional Budget Office said members of Congress, writing a federal budget for the 1978 fiscal year, must conclude that "the realistic outlook is for no more than a slow unwinding of the current rate of inflation."

In testimony prepared for the Senate Budget Committee, budget office director Alice Rivlin said inflation could be held to 6.5 per cent if the hike in food prices does not exceed that figure.

Mrs. Rivlin appeared to minimize the chance of reducing inflation by cutting federal spending.

A spending policy tight enough to cut the inflation rate one percentage point would throw one million Americans out of work and raise the unemployment rate, currently 7.1 per cent of the labor force, by 1.2 percentage points, she said.

The inflation forecast for the last half of 1977 and all of 1978 is high by historical standards because inflation is becoming a way of life, Mrs. Rivlin said.

As the committee began work on writing a budget for the 12 months beginning Oct. 1, Mrs. Rivlin presented these forecasts:

—Growth in the economy, as measured by the Gross National Product: an increase of 5 to 6 per cent from the last quarter of 1976 through the last quarter of 1977, and a rise of 3.6 to 5.1 per cent in 1978.

—Unemployment: 6.6 to 7.2 per cent by the fourth quarter of 1977 and 5.9 to 6.9 per cent by the end of 1978.

—Inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index: up 6 to 7 per cent in 1977 and 4.5 to 6.5 per cent by the end of 1978.

Vietnam recommended for U.N. membership

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council recommended Vietnam for U.N. membership today by unanimous consent without a vote.

The council's action, made possible when the United States ended its opposition to Vietnamese membership, was a prerequisite for final approval of Vietnamese membership at the next session of the General Assembly Sept. 20.

Vietnam and the already recommended African nation of Djibouti will be the 148th and 149th U.N. members.

It had been agreed beforehand that the 15-member council would adopt the Vietnamese membership resolution by consensus, without a vote, thus sparing the United States the choice of either casting a "yes" vote or abstaining.

The United States announced in May that it would no longer veto Vietnam's application for entry into the world body. U.S. officials cited Hanoi's cooperation in tracking down Americans missing in action in the Vietnamese war and said the Carter administration believed in the universality of the United Nations.

The United States had vetoed membership for its former communist enemy on three occasions, twice as North and South Vietnam in 1975 and once as the newly unified Vietnam last year.

Security Council's refusal to consider a South Korean membership application, and later said they would continue vetoing Vietnamese membership until they received cooperation in locating MIAs.

STAT reps selected

Dr. David Rickey, Dave Faulkenberry, and Marianne Simpson have been selected to represent the Start Talking Ambulance Today (STAT) organization at future city-county meetings called to study the feasibility of bringing Emergency Medical Service to Howard County.

Alternate representatives chosen were Bob Hardin, Jim Hone, David Simpson and Diana Weir.

The STAT group is presently preparing case histories on every other county in the Permian Basin which is already actively participating in EMS.

Nursing home source could face jail term

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A spokesman for Atty. Gen. John Hill says the source who released Department of Public Welfare nursing home records detailing nursing home abuses to The Lufkin News could face a two-year jail term.

But the newspaper, in an editorial in today's editions, countered, "Wouldn't it be ironic indeed if the person were arrested for letting the public know what was going on in some of our nursing homes?"

"This is as good a time as any to serve notice that we have no intention of revealing the name — regardless," the editorial added.

C. Robert Heath, chairman of the attorney general's opinion committee, said Tuesday the release of the documents might be a violation of the Texas Open Records Act, which prohibits disclosure of information on public welfare recipients.

Heath added, however, "We are not suggesting that legal action be brought." Such charges would have to be filed by a local prosecutor, he said.

"This is an outrageous situation," Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, charged Tuesday. "A statute designed to protect the privacy of individuals on welfare should not be used to hide abuses and mistreatment in nursing homes."

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Fireworks tickets

Q. On July 4, there were reportedly 47 calls made from people complaining of exploding firecrackers. Were any tickets issued by our police department for such violations or did they get off with reprimands? If none was issued, does it do any good to complain?

A. According to Police Captain Jimmie McCain, police response to the annoyance calls was constant, but more often than not the offenders were gone from the scene when police arrived. He also explained that most offenders were pre-teenage, and were taken home to be reprimanded by their parents.

Offbeat: Sneak thief peaked

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — El Paso police are looking for an armed robber who got away today with $1,000 and the blouse and bra of a gas station attendant.

Police said the robber entered the station this morning and demanded the money. Wielding a snub-nosed revolver, the robber made her open the safe. Then, in an apparent attempt to keep the woman from running for help, he relieved her of blouse and bra.

The bandit's play worked. Investigators arrived at the scene to find the attendant clad in a raincoat.

Teng back in favor?

TOKYO (AP) — Reports from Peking indicate that China's former senior vice premier, Teng Hsiao-ping, has made or is soon to make his long-delayed second comeback. But the disappearance of two wall posters acclaiming his return to power add a touch of mystery to the reports. Japanese correspondents in the Chinese capital said three wall posters welcomed Teng's return. Four days ago a Chinese official told visiting Japanese youths that Teng would, without fail, be restored to power. The disappearance of two wall posters was unexplained, but analysts said they may have been displayed prematurely.

Witness fingers suspect

DEADHORSE, Alaska (AP) — Oil is moving again in the Alaska pipeline after repair crews used a wooden wedge to plug a leak caused when a truck rammed into a section of the line. The shutdown was the third one for the 800-mile line in 16 days. Repair crews drove the wedge into a 1½-inch vent fitting on a valve Tuesday evening to plug the leak. The Interior Department said that more than 200 barrels — 8,400 gallons — had sprayed from the line and cleanup crews were collecting as much of the spilled fuel as possible.

Troubles plague probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is trying to iron out internal problems plaguing its investigation of alleged South Korean influence-buying in Congress. A search is under way for a new chief investigator for the House ethics committee. The panel is attempting to determine the extent to which present and former members of Congress may have accepted gifts and payments from Tongsun Park, a South Korean businessman. But the investigation was dealt a setback last week when chief committee counsel Philip A. Lacovara resigned. House leaders vowed Tuesday that the next chief investigator would be given a written guarantee of independent power.

Carter-Begin talks end

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today ended talks with Prime Minister Menachem Begin by saying the Israeli and Arab positions "will lead to the reconvening of the Geneva conference" on Middle East peace.

Carter said the negotiations "very likely" would start in October, as suggested by Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. He also said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance would travel to Jerusalem and the Arab capitals beginning Aug. 1 to pursue the groundwork for peace negotiations.

Earlier, Carter and Begin appeared to disagree on how quickly terms of any settlement should be implemented. Carter said Tuesday that progress must be made this year, but Begin cautioned "there must be some patience."

After escorting Begin to his limousine outside the White House, Carter told reporters that "we have laid a lot of the groundwork for peace talks."

"We've not found any of the positions taken by Mr. Begin or the Arab states to be so adamant that they are not eager for accommodation."

Deep-water port bill approved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The House State Affairs approved a deep-water port bill today after amending it to say the state never could be liable for anything that happens at the port.

The vote, 8-0, sends the Senate bill to the floor of the House for debate.

The bill would provide for financing through state revenue bonds but would prohibit use of state credit. It is a backup measure to be implemented only if private financing cannot be obtained.

The committee chairman, Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City, spent most of Tuesday afternoon in Gov. Dolph Briscoe's office. Briscoe favors the bill.

The bill won swift approval in the Senate Tuesday, 23-4. Uher said he has been reluctant to support the measure. "I just don't like to see the state get into the business of being in business. That's probably a billion-dollar undertaking," he said. Briscoe argued that the bill is needed as a backup to the continued effort to secure private financing for the project, Uher said.

Asked if he had been sitting on the bill, Uher said, "No, we haven't been sitting on it. We've been studying it." Then he broke into laughter and said, "I tried to say it with a straight face."

The Senate approved the bill after a 40-minute speech by its sponsor, Sen. A. R. "Babe" Schwartz, D-Galveston.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, got a laugh when he asked Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, "Mr. President, in order to save time is it possible to have a full reading of the (voluminous) bill?"

Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, suggested defaulting on the bonds would hurt the credit of the state and cause interest rates on other state bonds to go up.

Schwartz disagreed. "In order for there to be a default, senator, it would require every oil company in the gulf area, including Dow Chemical Co., to go broke," he said.

Besides, bond experts say there can be no reflection on the credit of the state when the bonds say on their face they are to be repaid solely with money collected from the use of the facility built with the bonds, he said.

Exxon, Mobil and Gulf have withdrawn from the consortium of oil companies that made up Seadock, the private organization that would operate the deep-water port. According to one witness, they complained the U.S. Justice Department put conditions on the federal license in an effort to control the big oil companies in ways Justice has been unable to accomplish through Congress or the courts.

Coliseum snag looms

"The Dorothy Garrett Coliseum may not be completed by the proposed November date," John Gary, architect, told the board of trustees at their monthly meeting Tuesday at the college.

"The metal across the top inside has finally arrived and this delay is overcome," Gary reported. "There were 35 men inside today working on the project. However, I would hesitate to say that it will be completed by early November."

The contractors are allowed through Jan. 21, 1978 on the project without penalty. Early in the project, the contractor set October as a possible completion date, then November. Gary said, "It may go all the way to the first of the year, but it is to their advantage to finish as soon as possible."

The district meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association is scheduled in the coliseum Nov. 4. Dr. Charles Hays told the board that part of the facility may be used at that time, "or if we're lucky, it will be completed by that date."

There is an alternate plan to use high school and college facilities for the meeting if the coliseum cannot be used.

The preliminary budget shows a total expenditures anticipated at $2,744,995. Dr. Hays pointed out, "This was way up from last year but includes a proposed cost of operating the coliseum, including utilities, and additional custodians. The cost to many other items is also up."

The budget will be finalized at the August meeting with the public hearing to be held at that time.

The board awarded the depository to Security State Bank again this year on a best bid basis. Security offered five per cent on deposits less than $100,000 for 30-89 days; five and one half per cent for 90-179 days and 180 days or more.

Over $100,000 showed six per cent interest with six and one-fourth for 90-179 days and six and one half on 180 days or more. Short term loans showed four per cent interest.

The board accepted the resignation of Tony Ortiz, dean of students, who will be a public school counselor in Roswell, N.M.

It also accepted the resignation of Miss Ann Ward, journalism instructor, who is to marry and move to San Angelo.

It approved the business manager purchasing a NCO bookkeeping machine needed for the college on a five-year lease purchase plan.

Trustees were reminded of the national meeting in Vancouver, Canada, in October. A number of them plan to attend.

Dr. Charles Warren presided. Trustees present included K.H. McGibbon, Jimmy Taylor, Don McKinney, and James Barr. Dr. P.W. Malone was attending a medical meeting and Harold Davis was attending a family funeral.

Lamesa hosts

PBRPC meet

A delegation from Big Spring is in Lamesa today attending the semi-annual membership meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

A luncheon was held in Forest Park Community Center with Judge Leslie Pratt and the Dawson County Commissioners as hosts.

Following the meeting, the board meeting was to be held. Items to come up for approval or disapproval were requests for assistance to a project from the Texas Department of Community Affairs for the Permian Basin, a grant for continuation of Ector County Association for Retarded Citizens, an Odessa Housing Authority request, a Monahan Housing authority request and a request by the West Texas Home Health Agency.

County Judge Bill Tune and Harold Hall, city councilman, are both officers on the board of directors.

Steering panel

land purchase

The Webb Steering Committee will meet this afternoon at 3:30 p.m. on Webb AFB to discuss the purchase of land for an industrial park.

According to Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate, the meeting was called by the Big Spring Industrial Team, and will probably be closed to the public.

Choate said he did not know which sites would be discussed for the park.

Police beat

Bikes, cycles recovered

Officers arrested a juvenile suspect 9 a.m. today after recovering six stolen bicycles and three stolen motorcycles Sunday night at a West Eighth Street residence.

The two-wheelers had been stolen over a long period of time, and included several expensive, ten-speed bikes, according to Lt. Avery Falkner. Though investigators have not reached an exact figure, value of the merchandise has been estimated at around $1,300.

Burglars hit the home of W. B. Estep, 1502 W. 3rd, late Monday night and made off with $285 worth of merchandise.

The intruders broke into the home through a kitchen window. Once inside, they lifted a black and white television set, a 12 gauge antique shotgun and a set of stainless steel tableware. They exited through the same window they had used to enter the home.

Also stolen was a 1969 Chevrolet 350 engine lying in the yard of the residence. The engine was valued at $125.

Renters of a home belonging to Theron Lee, 2404 Merrily, left the residence in less than desirable condition Tuesday, according to police reports.

When the home at 4207 Walnut was inspected 4 p.m. Tuesday it was found that walls and a variety of furniture inside had been scratched or broken. It was also discovered that the two bedroom closet doors were completely missing. Total loss was estimated at $218.

Letha Strickland, Forsan, lost $102 in cash while she worked out at the Big Spring YMCA. According to reports, the cash was lifted from Ms. Strickland's purse while she spent an hour in the Y's apparatus room, Tuesday morning.

Vandals broke a glass window in the door of the Smart and Sassy Shop, 1501 S. Gregg, Monday night. Damage was estimated at $15.

Vandals were also busy at the home of Edith Christian, 1309 Baylor, where they sprayed an obscene word on the side walk in dark brown paint. Cost of the damage is unknown.

Two accidents sent Big Springs for a short stay at Malone-Hogan Hospital early this morning.

A car driven by Dannie Stevens, Gail Route, collided with a parked Farmer's Coop truck from Alabama near the exit ramp of IS 20 onto the south service road. According to reports, Stevens was driving his car without headlights, 12:34 a.m. today.

He was treated and released from Malone-Hogan.

A car driven by Richard Chaverria, 1001 N. Main, collided with a pickup driven by Michael E. Kloss, Route 1, at 400 E. 1st, 8:07 a.m. today. Two passengers in Chaverria car, Connie and Irene Gonzales, were taken to Malone-Hogan where they were treated and released.

Six mishaps were reported Tuesday.

Vehicles driven by Martha H. Fitts, Route 1, and Denton S. Dick, Coahoma, collided on FM 700 near the off ramp to IS 20, 7:22 a.m.

A Chevrolet truck driven by Kenneth M. May, Snyder, hit a slick spot near the Rip Griffin Truck Stop, and turned over, 8:57 a.m. May was unhurt.

Vehicles driven by Howard Smith Jr., 306 N. Scurry, and Vernon L. McWhirter, Garden City, collided at 205 N. W. 3rd, 1:48 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Cynthia J. Caffey, Gail Route, and Leonard Whitton, 1102 E. 6th, collided at Second and Benton, 4:27 p.m.

Vehicles driven by John D. Tettleton, 609 State, and May E. Franklin, 1301 E. 18th, collided at Eighth and Nolan, 4:35 p.m.

Vehicles driven by John J. Moore, Box 1843, and Tommy D. Sullivan, 100 N.E. 9th, collided in the parking lot of the Sonic Drive In, 10:57 p.m.

Lungs collapsed

after beating

A 32-year-old Corpus Christi man, Edward Ronald Slaughter, who was beaten so badly in Midland Monday that his lungs collapsed, has been transferred to the VA Hospital here. His condition was reported as stable.

Robert Jeffery Reimers, 18, who was in a motel room with Slaughter, was stabbed after three men entered the room and forced them into a car at knife point.

Reimers told police that the three drove him and Slaughter around Midland several hours, discussing how they would kill them.

Ultimately, the car was stopped and both Slaughter and Reimers were beaten, stabbed and robbed of about $200. Reimers remained in a Midland hospital.

Brooks joins board

Ralph Brooks, a retired Air Force colonel and president of Blum's Jewelers Inc., was elected to the board of directors of Webb Federal Credit Union Tuesday night during a regular board meeting.

Brooks, who resides at 2908 Hunters Glen, is a native of El Paso. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1948 and attended Hardin-Simmons University prior to entering the Air Force in 1951.

During his tour in the Air Force, Brooks logged over 5000 flying hours and flew with the Thunderbirds for two years. In 1969 he commanded the 421st Tactical Fighter Squadron at DaNang Air Base, Republic of Viet Nam. While in Southeast Asia, he flew 135 combat missions in the F4 Phantom II, including 20 over North Viet Nam.

As a result of his service in Viet Nam, Brooks was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with eleven Oak Leaf clusters, and the Air Force Commendation Medal with one Oak Leaf cluster.

Brooks holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Omaha and a master's degree from George Washington University. Since his retirement from the Air Force, Brooks has been very active in civic clubs and organizations in Big Spring and West Texas. He is currently a member of the Rotary Club and the Texas Education Agency's State Distributive Education Advisory Board.

He has served on the board of directors of the Better Business Bureau of the Permian Basin, the Big

Mrs. Manuela Lerma Nunez, 64, died at 4:08 a.m. today in a local hospital.

Services are tentatively set for Friday at 2 p.m. in the Saint Thomas Catholic Church, with the Rev. Allan Breliz officiating.

She had lived in the Big Spring community since 1940, and was a widow.

She was a member of Saint Thomas Catholic Church, and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Raymond Gonzales of the home; her mother, Mrs. Isabelle Armen Doarez, Big Spring; three brothers, Elias Armendarez, Jose Armendarez, and Blaz Armendarez, all of Big Spring; three sisters, Mrs. Ignacio Escanuelas, and Mrs. Blasa Valdez, of Big Spring; and Mrs. Juan Rodriguez of Levelland.

Arie Hendrick

COLORADO CITY — Mrs. Granderson W. (Arie Wilita) Hendrick, 95, Lorraine, died at 2:20 p.m., Tuesday in a Lorraine nursing home.

Arrangements for services are being completed at the Kiker-Seale Funeral Home here.

Mrs. Hendrick was born Sept. 6, 1881, in Denison. She married Granderson Hendrick Nov. 23, 1904, in Denison. They moved to Lorraine in 1920. She was a member of the Lorraine First United Methodist Church.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Robert E. (Bessie) Miller, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Lillian McDowell, Aspen, Colo. and Cledie E. Hall, Pasadena, Tex.; seven grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

COAHOMA NATIVE IS NEW COMMANDER — Lt. Col. Forrest W. Appleton (right), son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Appleton of Coahoma, has assumed command of the San Antonio Army District Recruiting Command. He's shown here accepting the district's flag from Col. Charles O. Arnecke during a change of command ceremony. Appleton succeeds Col. Tom Howell, who becomes the Aviation Officer for the 5th United States Army. Appleton previously served as commander of the 127th Signal Battalion at Fort Ord, Cal. Appleton is married to the former Jeanette Peterson of South Houston. They have two children, Robert 15, and Joan 14.

Prison fires study

BOSTON (AP) — Sprinkler systems could have saved most if not all the persons killed in three major prison fires in the United States and Canada this summer, says an investigator for the National Fire Prevention Association.

"If sprinklers had been in there, we might have lost a couple of people, but I'm pretty sure that would have been it," said David Demers, a fire analyst and fire protection engineer who made an on-site inspection of each of the fires.

Demers said because intense heat is needed to set the sprinklers off, they may not be activated in time to save any inmates who start fires in small cells.

He said he believed there would have been no deaths in the July 7 fire at the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., which began in a washroom and claimed five lives, if the prison had been equipped with a sprinkler system.

And because the inmate who allegedly set the June 26 fire at Maury County Jail in Columbia, Tenn., was rescued, Demers said a sprinkler system probably would have saved all 42 victims there.

Demers said "there would possibly have been one death," rather than 21, in the June 21 fire at the St. John, N. Brunswick, City Detention Center if a sprinkler system had been in use.

The Boston-based association, a private clearing house for fire information, did a recent study which concluded that 85 per cent of the fires in prisons were intentionally started by inmates.

The study listed four reasons: suicide, escape attempts, malicious damage and a show of force during riots.

Combustible construction materials had been the main fuel feeding prison fires in the past, but Demers said plastics and foam rubber are the problems today.

Weather Air conditioners running full tilt

By the Associated Press
Heat-plagued Texans kept their air conditioners running full tilt today. What's more, official forecasters offered them no hope for cooler weather any time soon.

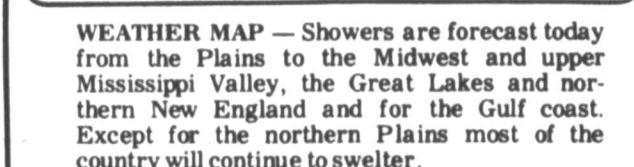

A few thundershowers during the night played out, leaving little moisture. There were isolated sprinkles near dawn in far West Texas, close to Beaumont on the coast and between Bracketville and Cotulla in the south. The skies were clear nearly everywhere else.

Thermometers climbed as high Tuesday as 100 degrees at Childress and 102 at Wichita Falls.

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Generally fair north portion and partly cloudy south tonight and Thursday. Continued very warm in afternoon. Widely scattered afternoon and night showers and thundershowers west of Pecos Valley. Low tonight 64 to 74 except 50s mountain. High Thursday 90 to 105.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Continued very warm and dry through Sunday. Highs in the 90s except near 102 Big Bend Valleys. Low mid 60s to mid 70s except in the 50s mountains.

WEATHER MAP — Showers are forecast today from the Plains to the Midwest and upper Mississippi Valley, the Great Lakes and northern New England and for the Gulf coast. Except for the northern Plains most of the country will continue to swelter.

Stanton adds probation unit

STANTON — Martin County commissioners added a probation office in Stanton when they met last week and will use Guy Talbot, probation officer in Howard County.

Judge Jimmy Mathis said, "The law was going to force us to open a probation office Sept. 1 so we went ahead and set one up."

Judge Mathis said that Mrs. Alta Straub in the treasurer's office would continue to take applications and other matters would be referred to Talbot's office in Big Spring or he would come to Martin County when needed.

The budget for the office is set up so that $100 goes to Mrs. Straub and the other $400 goes to Talbot, including the expenses of his going to Martin County when needed.

Judge Mathis said, "We were glad to be able to work out this arrangement with the probation officer in 118th District. It helps us out enormously."

Farm Safety good investment

AUSTIN — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has proclaimed July 25-31, Texas Farm Safety Week built around the theme "Safety is a Good Investment."

Purpose of the observance is to call attention to methods of preventing the needless accidents on Texas farms and ranches that annually take 200 lives and cause multi-million dollar losses.

Gov. Briscoe pointed out that safety must be a personal commitment and an integral part of everyday living. It's up to each farmer, he said to protect priceless human resources through such practices as:

developing a home fire escape plan, storing clearly marked poisons well out of children's reach, training family and workers to perform tasks safely, and providing and wearing appropriate protective equipment so that accidents aren't given a chance to happen.

Drivers can learn to avoid collisions in the eight-hour National Safety Council Defensive Driving Course. Offered regularly around the state, it can also save graduates 10 per cent on their automobile insurance.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Louder and has been active in FFA work for four years in high school.

He has served as chapter officer in the Stanton FFA, district FFA president in 1974-75, Area II vice president in 1975-76 and Area president in 1976-77.

He will serve in the state office for the coming year. He also holds the State Farmer Degree and has been winner of area public speaking contests and won district public speaking competition. He also competed in UIL debate.

He will attend Texas Tech University in the fall and will help lead the 60,000 plus FFA members in the state. As a state officer, he will attend the national convention in Kansas City in November.

He plans to major in agricultural education in college. While in high school, he was also active in band. In FFA activities, he competed in grass judging, land judging, meats judging, leadership teams and other contest. His projects include feeding of barrows and beef cattle.

Cotton growers pick Bowers

Marion Bowers of Seminole recently was reelected to the executive committee of the Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers Inc., representing District 6 (Howard, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Midland and Martin counties).

Only one new member was named to the committee. He is Jimmie Holder of Holder was named to represent District 4 (Lubbock, Crosby and Dickens counties).

The corporation's board of directors adopted $207,500 budget for the organization's 1977-78 fiscal year.

In other action, the board voted to cease participation in the making and publication of monthly crop estimates during the 1977 growing season, and agreed to sponsor a textile mill tour early this fall.

The corporation's budget covers the cost of such items as agricultural research, advertising and promotion, fiber research and services, market development and legislative activities, all aimed at providing benefits to approximately 20,000 High Plains cotton growers. The 1976-77 budget came to $196,900, but board members were told that the prudent use of funds during the year had saved about $20,000 of that amount.

Earning a spot on the police blotter

Imagining former Big Spring Herald Editor Joe Pickle with a stolen vehicle is a little difficult.

But on the front page of the Snyder Daily News recently, Editor Wacil McNair told his readers a tale about how just such a thing can happen.

Pickle, who serves as secretary of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, almost made a crime story for the Snyder newspaper, McNair wrote.

PICKLE HAD COME to Snyder with R.L. Schooling of the CRMWD's administrative staff to visit Mrs. Schooling, a patient in the Snyder hospital.

While in Snyder, Pickle went into town in Schooling's car and visited at the newspaper. We'll let McNair, who used to work for Pickle in Big Spring, told the story from this point as he wrote it in his column:

PICKLE'S TROUBLES began when he left the Snyder Daily News, he said. He couldn't get Schooling's car to start. Finally, it dawned on him that he was trying to use the wrong key.

But his troubles were merely beginning. He stopped at Hinshaw's to pick up a plant to take to Mrs. Schooling's hospital room.

There was no trouble getting the car started that time because he left the keys in it.

A little later he and Schooling left the hospital, and Pickle handed Schooling the car keys as they headed for the parking lot.

"Those are not my keys," said Schooling.

"They are bound to be. I just drove your car with them," said Pickle, as he opened the car door.

"This isn't my car," said Schooling. Sure enough, it wasn't.

"We had better call the police," said Pickle.

"I don't think we'll have to," said

Schooling as he spied flashing red lights approaching.

The story quickly came together then. There was another customer at Hinshaw's anxiously waiting for word about her "stolen" car. Fortunately, she thought it might have been an innocent mistake, since there was an unclaimed car on the lot at Hinshaw's.

"You were almost sniffing fingerprint powder," the policeman told Pickle.

McNAIR REPORTED in his column that Pickle watched the Snyder newspaper for several days to see if he made the police news.

He didn't. But he did much better with a front page exposure in McNair's column.

Trouble with Tanzania

Evans, Novak

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania — The hazards invited by the Carter administration's attempts to compete with Moscow for the affection of Africa's "progressive" nations become clear in the reaction to Washington's new policy by Julius Nyerere's Tanzania.

President Nyerere's position can be authoritatively described as follows: President Carter's tough stand against white-ruled Rhodesia and South Africa "is a far cry from the Kissinger policy" and warmly appreciated. But U.S. "non-lethal" aid to Zaire during last spring's Communist-backed invasion was a "hangover" from the bad old days, greatly to be deplored. Furthermore, it is noted that the "armed struggle" against Rhodesia is still paid for by Moscow, not Washington.

THE MESSAGE is chilling but clear. To achieve the Soviet Union's status in "progressive" Africa, the United States must abandon its "conservative" friends — particularly, President Mobutu of Zaire — and support a military assault on white-ruled southern Africa. In short, Nyerere wants Washington to duplicate the Kremlin's policy, which was specifically tailored for maximum Soviet influence on the continent.

This does not mean Nyerere is a Soviet agent but does reflect basic incompatibility between U.S. interests in Africa and the "progressive" bloc. Whereas Nyerere is referred to by Ambassador Andrew Young as "my mentor" and is the favorite of touring congressional liberals, his rigid policies, both internal and external, run much closer to traditional Soviet than American models.

This hard reality is partly obscured because Nyerere who earned his master's degree at Edinburgh, can test the intellectual mettle of even Henry Kissinger. U.S. officials enjoy the challenge of dealing with Nyerere and are reassured when he passes slighting remarks, fairly common among leftist African leaders, about the Russians.

BY NYERERE'S record speaks louder than words. He supported the Soviet-backed Cuban intervention in Angola from the start. He intervened with Tanzanian troops when Mozambique's Marxist government was threatened by armed resistance. He was blatantly sympathetic to armed rebellion — traced to Angolan, Cuban and Soviet sources — against Zaire.

As the most prestigious of the "front-line" presidents, Nyerere has grown closer to the Soviet Union as principal supplier and financier of guerrilla warfare against white Rhodesia, no matter what he might say about the Russians in private. His government perceives no ulterior motive by the Kremlin in its bountiful financing of the Rhodesian war. "The Soviets would just like to have a government in Zimbabwe (Rhodesia) that does not hate them," Sammie Mdee, an intimate Nyerere adviser, told us.

The government-owned Daily News recently called for a Zimbabwe government that is not merely black but also socialist and revolutionary — a view, we were assured by high-level sources, that reflects Nyerere's own. Thus, the Tanzanian government is neither interested in preserving Rhodesia's highly developed private enterprise economy nor worried about Soviet influence in Zimbabwe.

Rubella shots protect all

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You have used the terms "rehabilitation" and "physical therapy." Are they not the same? — T. G.

Not exactly. Rehabilitation means to restore a person to a useful, functional life. Physical therapy can be a part of rehabilitation — by such physical means as massage, exercise, hydrotherapy, use of heat, cold, or electrical stimulation of weakened muscles.

Rehabilitation, then, is the broader term. In fact, the slogan used by a fine rehab center I visited recently was "adding life to years." Many hospitals and nursing homes may have the physical therapy tools but may lack the personnel required for total rehabilitation.

As the center's director noted, the total person must be evaluated from both a mental and physical standpoint. This involves the skills of a rehabilitation "team" — psychologists, psychiatrists, physicians, nurses, and therapists specializing in speech, hearing, vision, occupational therapy, and the like. Realistic goals must be set. Determination must replace smoldering self-pity or any other emotional factor.

I witnessed outstanding successes, especially in patients with stroke or severe spinal cord injuries — young and old. The earlier treatment can begin the better. Weakened limbs are treated, speech defects corrected, and the patient gets a simultaneous shot of self-confidence. The center I toured had its own machine shop where devices were custom manufactured to help muscles do their work.

One patient was fitted for a plastic wristband device. It was a simple system of elastic-like bands that allowed him to close his thumb and forefinger at will, enabling him to do precise tasks with his hands. Such devices are called "orthotics."

I saw a young man, paralyzed by a shallow diving accident, drive a car (after he got his license). He could hold a pen to write, feed himself, and generally take care of his basic needs.

The institute even had a college preparatory program for blind persons.

Hone therapy is dovetailed into the formal center therapy.

In short, rehabilitation, within each patient's physical limits, was as complete as possible. A startling fact today is that many doctors are not aware of what a rehabilitation program can do for many patients. Too often the patient or his family is told that nothing can be done, whereas with appropriate care the patient can be restored to some functional level.

Your question really got me going on a subject about which one could write all day. But the important point is that there is a difference between the terms you mention. Most larger cities have rehabilitation centers. Not all may be as complete as the one I visited. But most have facilities and personnel that can make a real difference to disabled patients. Cost may be a factor, but there are several agencies that can help in this respect.

As the director told me, rehabilitation involves treating the whole person — "adding life to his years."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please settle this one. If a woman had a Caesarean delivery, will she have to have the same kind of delivery the next time? — Ms. L.B.

Not necessarily. The abnormal position and size of the baby and/or the condition of the birth canal are factors that dictate the type of delivery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter had an upper tooth pulled. Part of the root is still in the jaw. Will that cause any problems? Is it dangerous to have the jaw x-rayed? Our dentist x-rays every year. — Mrs. N. M.

Small root fragments are usually absorbed. Larger ones that project can be easily removed. A large fragment may contain a portion of nerve and could cause infection. This would be detected by X ray. An annual X ray is not considered dangerous. The exposure time is quite brief.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do diabetic women get pregnant as easily as others? — Mrs. A. B.

Yes. Did you know that 80 per cent of stroke victims resume to some degree their former lives? In "Stroke Recovery — Hope and Help," Dr. Thosteson describes the causes and treatment of stroke. For a copy write him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing 25 cents and a long, stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you know if there are any passages of scripture that indicate if there are male and female angels? — K.W.V.

DEAR K.W.V.: No, there is no indication that the angels in heaven are distinguished by sex. In fact, Jesus' statement in Matthew 22:30 teaches that the angels are sexless; he says that in heaven men "neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in Heaven." Some have suggested that the angels in heaven enjoy such close spiritual relationships that they would not need the intimacy of sex.

Always remember several things about angels. First, they are spiritual beings created by God to do His will. I am convinced they are active in human affairs as God's emissaries, and that they especially guard and protect those who belong to God by faith in Jesus Christ. We are often not aware of their ministry, but we should be thankful that God loves us and protects us through His angels. They are not to be worshipped, but they should cause us to worship God more fully.

Also remember that angels also exist to praise God. For example, think of the angels on the right of Jesus' birth who were "praising God, and saying, glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men" (Luke 2:13-14).

Although we are different from angels, they still can teach us many things. By their example they teach us obedience to God's will, because they exist to do His will. And by their praise they should teach us to praise God continually.

After doing some intensive research on the subject of juvenile alcoholism, I have come to the disilluminating conclusion that it is a horrifying fact of life most people would rather keep under covers.

In talking with several local experts on alcohol abuse in juveniles, they gave the impression this was a problem which would, in time, overcome itself. They were, in essence, saying, "Well, we all drink a little at some time or another, and besides, they're just kids."

JUVENILE ALCOHOLISM is dealt with very differently than juvenile drug abuse. Drugs are illegal, and are treated as such. A juvenile commits a crime when either in possession of it or intoxicated with it.

Alcohol is not illegal, and consequently, many adults do not treat it as something which can cause mental and physical illness, and, in many, many instances, death.

A counselor I spoke with questioned the honesty of people with alcohol. Indeed, we as a society who likes to have a good time, use alcohol as a type of magic carpet. When we want to feel good, we drink, and we begin to be swept away into a different state of mind.

Obviously, we are too dependent on alcohol. Automatically as we go into a bar or discotheque, we immediately order a drink. A bar, of course, is designed for that purpose, but at a disco or at the next-door neighbor's party, must we drink to have a good time?

Many questions can be raised on this subject. Unfortunately, not many of them can be answered.

We are showing younger people today the wrong side of alcohol. An occasional drink is fine, but too many times, persons who drink are glorified. On television, a media which is frequently watched, and heeded, by juveniles, "beautiful people" are almost always shown with a drink in their hands.

In reality, we know that is not the case. We are repulsed and horrified when we actually see a drunk delinquent walking the streets of a city. We become angry at the drunk friend who makes a scene at the party we planned for so long.

PERHAPS, ALONG with today's sex education and drug prevention programs in the schools, more emphasis should be placed on alcohol prevention programs.

Juveniles do not always think best because they are not fully grown intellectually. When confronted with alcohol and drugs, they feel experimentation is all right, as long as everybody else is going to do it also.

Young people do not always consider their future when making and doing things. They live for today's fun, today's excitement, today's adventure. Getting drunk today will not necessarily mean they will get drunk tomorrow, but often that becomes the case, unknowingly.

Patterns are being drawn during the teenage years. They begin to develop life-long patterns. If drinking is a part of their world in the teen years, most likely, according to many authorities, it will become a part of their adult life.

Taking all of these considerations in mind, our society must become more serious with the casualness we place on alcohol. Perhaps less exposure is needed. As we did with cigarette commercials on television, we need to remove those which expound the joys and the "good life" we will have in using alcohol.

Still owes U.S.

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — It has been a full decade since Israeli warplanes and torpedo boats struck the communications ship USS Liberty in international waters, leaving 34 Americans dead and 170 wounded.

Yet the full damages have never been paid, and the incident has never been closed. Classified State Department documents show, moreover, that Israel has tried to wash on its public promise to pay for all "material damage."

All the while, the State Department has covered up its difficult dealings with Israel over the Liberty incident. A secret decision was made not to tell Congress nor the public about Israel's refusal to make good on its pledge.

IT WAS THE FORMER ISRAELI government, of course, that balked at compensating the United States for shooting up the ship. A source close to Prime Minister Menachem Begin assured us that the new Israeli leader will want to straighten out any misunderstanding.

The Liberty, with an electronic garden of antenna attuned to the Mediterranean sound waves, was monitoring the 1967 Arab-Israeli fighting when it was attacked. The apologetic Israelis said afterward that they had mistaken the ship for an Egyptian freighter and would make retribution to the families of the dead and wounded.

The Israelis made this formal in a June 10, 1967, message to Secretary of State Dean Rusk; he was assured that Israel would "make amends for the tragic loss of life and material damage." A few months later, Israel laid out $3,323,500 to the families of the 34 men who were killed. But not a farthing was offered to pay the estimated $7 million "material damage."

Indeed, the Israelis secretly notified the United States on Aug. 5, 1968, that "the government of Israel is not liable for the damage" to the ship. This not only contradicted the Israelis' public statements; it also outraged American diplomats in both Tel Aviv and Washington.

From Tel Aviv, the U.S. embassy fired off a classified cable to Rusk declaring that the Israeli position was "disappointing in negativity and obduracy" and could not "be allowed to stand." Rusk shot back a reply so hot that it virtually accused the Israelis of lying.

Rusk instructed the embassy to tell Israel that its attitude was "totally unacceptable." The United States "cannot believe it is (Israel's) final position," declared the incredulous Rusk.

BUT THE STATE Department was not so affronted that it would embarrass the Israelis in public. For the secret cable added slyly: "We have not made either fact or receipt or contents (of the Israeli note) known to public or to Congress."

At first, the Israelis refused to budge; they continued to disclaim financial responsibility for the full damage. This stirred Rusk into drafting a formal note, declaring that the attack was "unprovoked" and that Israel's new position was "incontravention of (its) express assurances." This was harsh diplomatic language accusing Israel of untruthfulness. But the note was never delivered. At the last minute, the United States received signals that Israel was willing to compromise. The embassy, therefore, recommended that the Rusk rebuke not be administered. "This will remove from (the) record any indication of the Government of Israel's disavowal of responsibility," explained the cable from Tel Aviv.

THE ISRAELIS finally got around to settling the injury claim in April, 1969, for $3.3 million. But they continued to stall on the $7 million damage claims. There was an occasional straw in the wind. A confidential cable to Secretary of State William Rogers in August, 1971, reported that the Israeli foreign ministry hoped to offer something positive "within a few days." But to this day, the damage payments have not been made.

The USS Liberty, meanwhile, has long since been retired from the Navy and the talks over paying for its repairs still drag on at the Pentagon.

Footnote: An Israeli embassy spokesman said the attack on the Liberty remained a matter of anguish for the Israeli people. But he added that the damage compensation "is not being pursued. We believe it is settled." The U.S. Navy, on the contrary, said discussions are still going on. And State Department sources told us flatly "no conclusion" has ever been reached.

DEFENSE DOLLARS — In past columns, we have chronicled the battle over the Renegotiations Board, which for years has been a timid watchdog over Pentagon contracts, but which at last is beginning to grow.

THE BOARD'S reluctant regulators have usually dodged their responsibilities to squeeze the excess fat out of military contracts. But President Carter has now appointed several persons to the Board who show signs of taking their assignments more seriously than their predecessors did.

The evening was a delight, even though it terminated the efforts of great community citizens in their unselfish sacrifice of time and money for the betterment of the close community-military relationships that we have enjoyed.

It will be a very sad moment when our senior officers leave Big Spring; however, with their departure will remain the pleasant memories of life in Big Spring and the splendid people they were honored to associate with.

Our personal thanks to the Century Club membership for their warm friendship that has radiated to all Webb AFB personnel throughout the years.

No thanks for tank

BELLEVILLE, Mich. (AP) — Memo to an Indiana truck driver: Your Sherman tank has been recovered.

And Wayne county sheriff's deputies want to know: what do they do with it?

The tank — minus its turret — was parked on a flatbed trailer in the parking lot of Rogelle's lounge just off Interstate 94.

At 1 a.m. today, somebody crawled inside, started it — there are starting instructions on a dashboard placard — and drove it off the trailer, snapping the hold-down chains.

The budding Rommel knocked over a few trees before abandoning the vehicle a mile away, engine still running.

Since they did not know how to disable it, deputies had to guard the tank.

"You tell me what we're going to do with it," one deputy said. "We don't know who the tractor driver is. We don't know if he was going to Indiana with the tank, or coming from there and headed somewhere in Michigan."

The trailer bore Indiana and Ohio plates. But the tractor, the deputy pointed out, could have been from anywhere.

The tank wound up in the parking lot on Monday afternoon when a truck driver came into the lounge.

"He asked me if he could leave his flat-bed trailer in my parking lot," the lounge owner, Barbara Rogelle, said today. "He said he had to take his tractor back to Indiana for repairs but would return as soon as possible for the trailer."

"Trying to be a good neighbor, I said 'sure'."

Mississippi shrimp record

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Statistics show that Mississippi's shrimp harvest this year is setting a record pace, but shrimp fishermen along the Gulf Coast are not entirely pleased with the profits they're making.

On paper, 1977 has been a boom year. As of a few weeks ago, fishermen were running 2 million pounds ahead of the 1976 figure and even farther ahead of 1974 and 1975.

But fishermen complain that the bumper crop has attracted too many boats to the area and has pushed prices down. One captain said 70 per cent of the boats off the coast are from out of state.

Last year a seafood packing company paid $1.15 a pound for shrimp. This year, experts report, shrimp are selling for as little as 79 cents a pound in retail markets.

Abductors arrested

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Police broke into an apartment in midtown Milan early today, freed the kidnapped daughter of a small businessman and arrested three of her alleged abductors.

Police said Patrizia Valisi, 22, was lying blindfolded on a small bed when they burst into the apartment at dawn. Two men and a woman were arrested before they could flee from the apartment, they said.

"I feel fine. I have been treated well," Miss Valisi told police. The daughter of a carpentry shop owner, she had been kidnapped July 5 while driving home on the outskirts of Milan.

Farm workers escort nixed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The state Highway Patrol has turned down a request to provide an escort for a group of Texas Farm Workers marching through Mississippi.

A patrol spokesman said Tuesday that the 35 marchers "are to walk off the road and not on the highway."

The group, mostly members of the Texas Farm Workers Union, is on an 1,800-mile walk to Washington to publicize their efforts to organize migrant workers.

'Lucky he didn't get his head blown off'

McALLEN, Tex. (AP) — A 25-year-old Fort Worth man who allegedly held four persons hostage and fired at a U.S. Customs agent during a three-hour chase was to be arraigned on federal charges here Wednesday.

Justice of the Peace Teresa Palacios set bonds totalling $300,000 Tuesday for Constantino Vasquez Castoreno on two state charges of kidnapping and one of aggravated robbery stemming from the Monday afternoon incident.

A police detective working on the case said Castoreno was "lucky he didn't get his head blown off." The incident began when Castoreno arrived in a Mexican taxi at the International Bridge linking Reynosa, Mexico, with this border city.

"He (Castoreno) had some pills in his suitcase and a prescription from somebody in Mexico for them, but that prescription doesn't amount to a hill of beans when you cross the river," said McAllen Police Department Chief Investigator Randy Williams.

"We think he probably started getting jumpy when he knew they (U.S. Customs) were going to strip him down and search him. And he had that Colt .38 revolver with him too," Williams said.

Police officers said Castoreno fled from the Mexican taxi, allegedly fired a shot at the U.S. Customs agent, hijacked a car with two women hostages and headed for McAllen.

He allegedly released the hostages "with no physical injuries" and commandeered another automobile in McAllen before ditching the car, fleeing through an orange grove and hiding in a house, holding the occupants hostage.

Swim pool to be used as giant salad bowl

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A swimming pool will be used as a salad bowl to showcase a promotion for New York State vegetables.

The salad will consist of at least 4,500 heads of shredded lettuce, 36,000 cherry tomatoes and 750 pounds of red onions, all grown in New York. The concoction will be topped with 600 pints of dressing from a New York recipe.

A spokesman for the state Department of Agriculture and Markets, which is participating in the promotion, said the ingredients may actually be increased if the salad looks skimpy in the "bowl." The portable pool selected is 24-feet in diameter and four feet deep.

The Guinness Book of World Records has said it will consider the salad as a record candidate, according to the Price Chopper food chain, which is participating in the promotion with the New York Lettuce Growers Association. The latest edition of the book does not list a record size salad.

Amarillo law firm hired

LAMESA — The Amarillo law firm of Perdue, Blair, Shiever and Fielder has been hired by the City of Lamesa to collect delinquent taxes.

State Reg. George '99 per cent sure'

BROWNFIELD — State Rep. Jesse T. George, a Democrat, has indicated he may offer for the seat in the U.S. House of Representatives being vacated by George Mahon.

George said Tuesday he is "99 per cent sure" he will get into the race, adding: "I have put up trial balloons that sound very good." His announcement, if it comes, likely will materialize within about three weeks.

Previously, George Bush Jr., 31, of Midland, became the first person to formally announce he would be a candidate for the position. Bush, son of a former congressman and diplomat, blasted "Federal bureaucracy which, he said, 'is encroaching more and more on our lives.'"

Bush said a Republican had an excellent chance to capture the seat held for over four decades by a conservative Democrat.

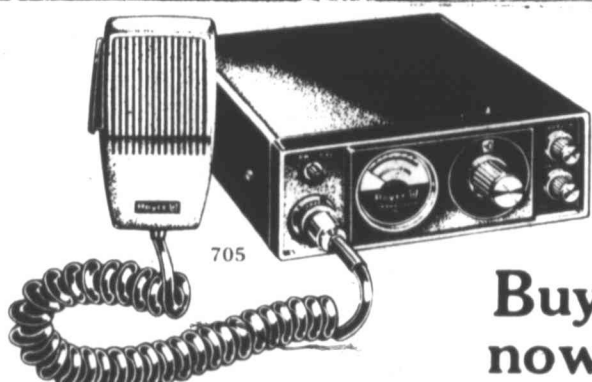

Last year, Republican Jim Reese pulled 45 per cent of the vote in his bid to unseat Mahon.

Kent Hance, state senator from Lubbock, is considered the Democratic front-runner in the race at the present time, although he has not formally announced he will run. Others who have been mentioned as possible candidates include Roy Bass, mayor of Lubbock; Jim Grandberry of Lubbock, former candidate for the governorship of Texas; State Rep. Tom Craddick, Midland; Reese, who is a former Odessa mayor; Delwin Jones, Lubbock, former state representative; State Rep. Joe Robbins, Lubbock; John Green, the controversial Ector County district attorney; Travis Shelton, former Lubbock County district attorney, now president of the Star Bar; Ernest Angelo, mayor of Midland; and John Hoestenbach, Odessa, a state representative.

Tax collector wins praise

LAMESA — The Dawson County tax assessor-collector's office had a collection rate of 98.3 per cent on state taxes, 98.3 per cent on farm-to-market taxes and 98.1 per cent on county taxes the past year. Assessor-collector Leland Miller was applauded by Dawson County commissioners for his efforts.

CLEANING UP — Supervisory personnel, from a Detroit Solid Waste Disposal Unit on Detroit's east side, load garbage into a truck at one of six collection sites where city residents dropped their garbage Tuesday while members of the garbage truck drivers' union walked the picket lines. Late Tuesday the union agreed to return to work for at least seven days while negotiations resumed.

Request for higher power rates slated

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, like their counterparts in the cities the district serves, will be confronted at the next meeting with a request for higher power rates.

Texas Electric Service Company will present a request to the district at the July 26 board meeting in Big Spring for a boost of 28 per cent. Cities have been asked for increases approximating 24 per cent. In 1976 the district's electric energy bill amounted to $1,192,503, which was $291,585 more than for 1975.

Other items on the agenda include a report on the Long Range Planning and Development Committee, which is due to meet prior to the next session of the board, and a report from the Insurance Committee, which will meet at 9 a.m. July 26 to shape a recommendation for consideration of the board on employee hospitalization insurance.

Black preacher announces for lieutenant governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A black Baptist preacher announced for lieutenant governor Tuesday, asserting that he has more in common with the typical Texan than Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

John Westbrook, 29, a pioneer for his race in Southwest Conference football, said the 1978 Democratic primary offers "a choice between a Hobby and a job."

"I have more in common with the rank-and-file Texas citizen than the present lieutenant governor — I know I do," Westbrook told a news conference.

Westbrook played tailback for Baylor in 1966-68, breaking the SWC color barrier after he had made the squad without the benefit of a scholarship.

He graduated with a degree in English and religion and has a master's in English from Southwest Missouri State University.

Westbrook began preaching as a 15-year-old Elgin High School student, he said, but now holds his first pastorate — the True Vine church in Tyler.

He worked as an academic counselor at Florida State University and taught English at Wiley College in Marshall.

Asked if he had any campaign funds, Westbrook replied, "I have a lot of faith in some promises." People have told him, he said, "We'll be glad to help you if you mean business."

35 per cent of all police now on duty are 'really dangerous'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A psychiatrist who has screened and counseled thousands of police officers over the last 13 years says 35 per cent of all police now on duty are "really dangerous."

The conclusion is drawn by Dr. Edward Shev of Sausalito, Calif., author of a newly published book entitled "Good Cops-Bad Cops."

Shev, 57, says that in interviews and consultations with some 6,700 police officers and applicants in 20 California communities have convinced him that "natural cops constitute only 5 per cent of all police, men and women, who know intuitively how to handle both the work and pressures of being a cop."

Shev, who practices in San Francisco and is chief of neurology at Marshall Hale Memorial Hospital here, says 80 per cent of all police are "treatable" in that they perform their duties well most of the time but have a breaking point under pressure.

"But the really dangerous police are the 35 per cent who make up the third category. These are the 'untreatable' men and women — the bad cops. Their personalities are not suited to police work, and they are unable to learn about themselves or accept treatment that would allow them to function adequately as police officers," Shev said.

"We give a man or woman probably the widest discretionary authority to put us in jail, to shoot us, to crowd control us, to take away our liberties — without understanding how stable that individual is," he added.

"My theme is, if we give somebody that much authority in a free society, I want him or her to be the sanest guy or gal that we can find."

Shev began working with police in his own town, across the bay from San Francisco, in 1965. Still at it, he screens prospective policemen, conducts psychological sessions and counsels individual officers. On Shev's psychiatric assessment, the Sausalito council chose its new police chief.

Shev says the nation's next FBI director should have a psychiatric check-up before taking office. He offers himself to President Carter, at a fee, to screen candidates for the post.

Snyder Daily News changes

SNYDER — Bassett Keller, general manager and advertising director of the Snyder Daily News the past five years, has resigned to become publisher of the Cleveland Journal.

A Snyder native, Dan Ellington, will succeed Keller.

Keller moved here from Huntsville, where he had served as publisher of the Huntsville Item. Prior to that, he was associated with the Abilene Reporter-News.

Ellington, 25, graduated from Snyder High School in 1970. His parents still reside in Snyder. Dan returns here from San Marcos, where he has been working for a telephone company. At one time, he was regional editor for the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

Most decorator glasses have lead, expert says

WASHINGTON (AP) — If there is a health problem with decorator glasses leaching excess lead, it goes far beyond a few million handed out by the McDonald's fast food chain.

Glass industry officials say the same process of heat-fusing ceramic designs will be used to make 400 million decorator glasses this year in the United States alone. The process has been used around the world for almost 50 years to produce billions of glasses embellished with floral patterns, cartoon characters, names and other adornments.

The wide distribution of decorator glasses is one reason a federal interagency task force was formed last week to test the drinking containers to see if there is a health risk and to recommend corrective or regulatory action if needed. Meanwhile, McDonald's has stopped distributing its glasses.

In defense of their products, the glass industry says emphatically that the glasses are safe.

"In 48 years of using this method, manufacturers have produced billions of glasses and there has been no problem," said a spokesman for the Libbey glass division of Owens-Illinois, Inc., maker of the McDonald's glasses. "There's never been an incident of anyone being harmed."

The Lead Industries Association and the International Lead Zinc Research Organization, both trade groups, said their tests concluded "that there is absolutely no hazard from the decorated glasses since the lead is tightly bound in the ceramic which is fused to the glass."

Jerome F. Cole, vice president of the research organization, said Massachusetts was wrong in drawing conclusions from tests that showed the total content of lead in the decal.

"The Massachusetts tests looked at the presence of lead, not the lead hazard," Cole said. "If you have lead that's bound up tight, it's there but it's no problem since it doesn't get out."

Garden party given here recently

A lingere garden party was given at 704 Highland Dr. recently for Miss Pam Little, bride elect of Joel Dyer.

Daughter born

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rios announce the birth of a daughter, Rosalinda, on July 4 at 1:45 p.m.

Paternal grandmother is Mrs. Vincenta Rios, Big Spring. Maternal grandparents are CMSgt. Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Purgason, who are currently stationed in Japan.

Maternal great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Earlelec Powell, Carthage, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Purgason, Redsville, N.C. Mrs. Mark Brown, the great-great-grandmother, also resides in Redsville.

Hostesses for the event included Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, Mrs. David Clinkscales, Miss Beverly Pearce and Mrs. Harold Pearce.

Guests were served from a yellow wrought iron table featuring baskets fashioned from watermelons and filled with fresh fruit. Punch was served from a punch bowl also made from a watermelon.

Corsages were presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Jim Bill Little, and grandmother, Mrs. Irene Little.

A swimming party was held later with small butterfly, flower and leaf candles floating in the pool.

The honoree was presented a yellow peignoir as a gift from the hostesses.

Approximately 18 guests attended.

The couple will be married July 22.

Top women advisors opposed

Carter unlikely to drop abortion stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is unlikely to drop his opposition to federal funding of abortions for poor women, despite pressure from within his own administration, a top aide says.

Carter is under attack for his position from women's rights leaders, a number of congressional leaders and many of his top women advisors.

Two women's groups have expressed their disappointment at recent White House meetings, including one session attended Monday afternoon by a coalition of women's rights leaders.

About 40 women who hold posts in the administration met on Friday.

But Margaret "Midge" Costanza, the presidential assistant who presided over both meetings, said at Monday's session she does not think Carter will change his mind.

In Congress, the House has voted to bar Medicaid funds for all abortions, while the Senate passed a more liberal measure that would permit abortions in a number of cases, including when a physician decides that terminating a pregnancy is medically necessary.

Experts say that could encompass virtually any reason for abortion.

House and Senate conferences were expected to meet today to try to resolve their differences.

Sources said the President received no factual information from his Domestic Policy Council on the effects his abortion decision would have on American society. The sources said Carter has received such information in advance of other important decisions, including whether to proceed with production of the B1 bomber.

A group of seven congressmen and women has requested a meeting with Carter this week to express their opposition to his abortion position, said Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo.

The group of administration women and the coalition of women's rights leaders, the Ad Hoc Committee on Women's Health and Reproduction, have drawn up questions to present to Carter, including:

—Is it moral to force a 15-year-old girl on welfare to give birth and give her child up for adoption if she cannot be responsible for it?

—Does the United States, which advocates human rights and liberty abroad, deprive the weakest members in its own society of the same rights?

—What about a poor woman who if she knows in advance her baby will be deformed?

The women's rights group asked Carter to commission an impartial study of the effects of his abortion decision on society.

At a news conference last week, Carter expanded his exceptions to include cases involving incest or rape.

The controversy over abortion was triggered by two Supreme Court decisions earlier this year opening the way for states and federal government to cut off Medicaid funds used to finance abortions last year for about 300,000 poor women.

ST. LOUIS MOM

DEAR MOM: There's no excuse for rudeness on the phone, or calling at unreasonable hours, but please don't spoil it for all the boys in St. Louis. Some boys LIKE girls to call them.

DEAR ABBY: I publish the Towers Club newsletter in which I feature a monthly quote. In searching for a quote I came upon your life-saving advice in Marquis' WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. Following your bio-profile were these classic Dear Abby words:

"I have learned the art of enlightened selfishness. If one permits others to waste his time, he will forever be fighting deadlines and working under pressure. When I learned how to say 'no' graciously, life became immeasurably more productive."

After using that quote in my newsletter it occurred to me that you should share that advice with your readers. I'm a faithful reader and I've never seen it in your column.

Thank you, Abby.

JERRY BUCHANAN

DEAR JERRY: Well, now you've seen it. You're welcome, Jerry.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 11 years and have one child, age 9. My husband seems to think all he has to do is pay the bills, go to work, and his obligation as a husband and father is paid in full.

He goes off every weekend and we have no idea where he is. When I ask him, he says it's none of my business. It sounds like he has a woman somewhere.

I went to a marriage counselor and he said, "If you had the trouble most married women have, you'd think you were in heaven. As long as he supports you and your child, doesn't drink, use drugs or hit you, disappearing every weekend is a minor fault. Get yourself a boyfriend, and don't complain."

Abby, I don't want a boyfriend. I want my husband home weekends. Am I expecting too much? I'm 29 and he is 33, and this weekend disappearing act has been going on for nearly three years.

Can you help me?

SICK OF IT

DEAR SICK: First, find yourself another counselor. I see nothing wrong with putting a "full-time husband" high on your list of priorities. Your husband's weekends ARE your business.

Torture charges persist

OLDEST DEALERSHIP — L. E. Ames, Moline, Kan., claims to have the oldest Chevrolet dealership in the nation. His father added automobile sales to his livery stable operations in 1915. The first Chevrolets were sold in 1911, seven years before General Motors took over the company.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Sami Kaddar, a Palestinian college student, lay in a hospital bed, a large bruise across his back and his upper right arm a rainbow of dark colors. Kaddar, 19, claimed he had been beaten by police during an anti-Israeli demonstration in Ramallah on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River last March. Israeli authorities said the youth's allegation might be true.

Barkowsky new principal

LAMESA — Eugene Barkowsky, a former science teacher, has been named Lamesa High School principal. Mrs. Barkowsky, whose given name is Joy, will serve as a teacher in Lamesa's Middle School.

Barkowsky has been principal at Stanton Junior High School. He has a total of 21 years in the educational field, five of them in the Lamesa system. He was assistant principal at Hereford four years. He also spent five years at Spearman High School. Prior to 1959, he was with the Flower Grove school system. He graduated from Texas Tech.

Kaddar told a reporter he also was insulted, made to drink water that had been used to wash floors, forced to curse his mother and Allah, and kicked in the groin. The Israelis said these charges were lies.

"It sometimes happens that things get out of hand, especially when the demonstrators are throwing rocks," a source in the Israeli military occupation government said. "But we would have no reason to do those other things."

Sami Kaddar's complaint, as far as is known, was never investigated, but his story illustrates a dilemma for Israel. Allegations of brutality and torture by Israeli prison wardens, riot police and intelligence interrogators have stung the conscience of the nation.

Israelis claim that they run the most benevolent occupation in history, and are trying to introduce democracy to a people who always lived under absolute rulers.

At the same time, the Israelis say, they must defend themselves against organized terrorists who operate in secret.

How Israel handles this delicate situation is coming under increasing scrutiny and dispute.

The most damaging charges came in a four-page article by the London Sunday Times last month. It cited at length three cases of Arabs who claimed they were beaten, sexually assaulted, given electrical shocks or put in darkened cells the size of broom closets for long periods to obtain confessions.

In an unusual step for a government which often shrugs off attacks by the press, the Foreign Ministry published what it called a case-by-case rebuttal, and accused the Sunday Times of printing half-truths and distortions.

Midland city editor named

MIDLAND — Tom Nickell, 36, has been named city editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Nickell previously had worked on papers in San Antonio and Odessa. He joined the Reporter-Telegram in January as copy editor. He is a native of Eunice, N.M., who attended public schools in Odessa. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1962.

He left the newspaper business for two years in 1974 to operate a sporting goods store in San Antonio.

CONGRATULATIONS TO MORGAN — National League's Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds is congratulated by third base coach Tom Lasorda, manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, after hitting a home run in first inning of the 48th All-Star Game at Yankee Stadium in New York Tuesday night.

'We're better'--Nationals

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League's mastery of the American in All-Star competition is no mystery to Joe Morgan.

"We've got the better players," said the second

Barnett steps down at WTSU

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — J.D. Barnett, West Texas State University assistant basketball coach for four years, has resigned, WTSU Athletic Director Dick Dietl said Tuesday.

Barnett's immediate plans were not revealed, although he said in a statement, "My future plans are fairly definite."

Ron Ekker, head basketball coach, said he hoped to have a replacement named by mid or late August.

Barnett played basketball at Winona State College in Minnesota while Ekker was an assistant coach there. He was also head coach at Rhine College in Hickory, N.C., and at High Point, N.C., College.

baseman of the Cincinnati Reds. "It's that simple."

Morgan made his point perfectly clear Tuesday night by starting out the 48th All-Star game with a home run off Jim Palmer. The bombarding continued and didn't let up until the Nationals had a 7-5 victory, their sixth straight and 14th in the last 15 games.

"The score wasn't that indicative of the closeness of the game," said Morgan. "I mean, one would think that a 7-5 game was close but, they never really were in the game. An error, a few hits here and there and they finally ended up 7-5. But they were playing catch-up to the whole game and never really caught up." Reflecting a view held by many of the National Leaguers, Morgan underscored the older league's top-to-bottom superiority.

"Our lineup is just awesome," said Morgan. "After me, I look up and down the lineup and say, 'There's just no way the American League can beat us.'" night. Traditionally, it has been that way as far back as Morgan can remember.

A quick start helped the National Leaguers Tuesday

"To be in Yankee Stadium, with all you hear about it, is like being in a World Series for me," said Luzinski. "It was a big thrill to be able to hit a home run in my first time at bat in this stadium."

LCC signs ex-Hawk

(Special to Herald)

LUBBOCK — "That's the best news I've had in a long time," Lubbock Christian College basketball coach Darrell Price admitted Tuesday, when he announced the signing of 6-7, 200-pound Lowell Walker.

"We'd recruited him hard a couple of months ago, but then it seemed to cool off," Price said of his efforts to land the Howard College product.

"He called me today and said he was coming," Price continued. "I just can't believe it. We were needing a big forward and now we've got one. I'm extremely happy to get him. He's a good outside shooter and should be a tremendous asset to our program."

The Tulsa native lettered two years at Howard, playing on teams that compiled 22-8 and 19-14 records. Walker started the first half of his sophomore season, averaging 14 points a game, but saw little action over the second half of the campaign.

Walker is the 10th cager signed by Price this year.

Play it again Sam...this time for Billy

NEW YORK (AP) — "What took you so long?" Jim Palmer sighed ... and Billy Martin could do nothing more than give Baltimore's ace pitcher a shrug and the hook.

Palmer wasn't out there all that long Tuesday night, but it must have seemed more like a sentence than an honor. It didn't take the National League more than a few flicks of the wrist to turn him and the rest of the American League into losers once again with a 7-5 All-Star game triumph.

According to the box score, Palmer lasted two full innings of the carnage at Yankee Stadium that gave the Nationals their sixth straight victory and 14th in the last 15 of these midseason classics. But officially he made it into the third inning before Martin, the manager of the New York Yankees and the American League stars, trudged to the mound and mercifully removed Palmer.

That was only moments after Steve Garvey of Los Angeles unloaded a mammoth home run into the American League bullpen in left-center field to give the Nationals a 5-0 lead ... which was two innings after Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski bashed a two-run homer to right field to make it 4-0 in the first frame ... which was a minute or two after Dave Parker of Pittsburgh and George Foster of Cincinnati doubled for the inning's second run ... which was two batters after leadoff batter Joe Morgan of Cincinnati started it all with a towering homer into the right field seats.

Needless to say, the rest of the game was almost anticlimactic. Oh, the Americans did make some noises. Richie Zisk of the Chicago White Sox (and a National Leaguer until this year of the Free Agent) doubled home two runs off Cincinnati's Tom Seaver in the sixth inning, Willie Randolph of the Yanks singled for another run off him in the seventh and George Scott hit a two-run homer in the ninth.

That first-inning outburst, Parker's homer in the third and what turned out to be a game-winning two-run single by San Diego's Dave Winfield off Yankee reliever Sparky Lyle made Don Sutton of Los Angeles a winner of the game and of the game's Most Valuable Player Award.

"Making the All-Star team is a thrill, to put it simply," the Dodgers' ace right-hander said after silencing the AL bats on just one hit and striking out four batters in his three-inning starting stint. "It's something you can't control, being named a member of the All-Star team. I was overjoyed when it happened.

"Then, when Sparky (Anderson, the manager of the world champion Reds and the National League stars) sent word along that I would be the starter—and in Yankee Stadium—I almost didn't believe it."

For his part, Palmer was the master of the understatement. "I guess you can say I didn't pitch very well," he observed after the five-run raking, the first time he'd been scored upon following eight shutout innings of three-hit All-Star hurling.

Morgan, who started it all with his homer about a half-dozen rows into the right-field seats, seemed to be saying it wouldn't have mattered if Cy Young himself had been out there pitching for the Americans.

Both he and Luzinski, who punched his homer a little deeper into those stands beyond Reggie Jackson's reach, said Palmer's inability to get the curve ball working was the deciding factor.

Seaver, making his first appearance in New York since being traded to Cincinnati by the New York Mets barely a month ago, received a tumultuous ovation when he was introduced, a thunderous greeting far exceeding even those for two of New York's other superheroes, Willie Mays and Joe DiMaggio.

When someone wondered if he was disappointed in the way he pitched in his big comeback appearance, Seaver let loose with one of his familiar cackles and said: "What was wrong with the way I pitched? Nobody got hurt, did they?"

No...although Seaver himself nearly became a casualty during his two-inning, four-hit, three-run appearance.

After Minnesota's Rod Carew buzzed a pitcher's hip for a leadoff single in the sixth, Randolph sent another screamer back to the mound. Seaver managed to knock this down with his glove and wrist. "I couldn't get the first one and the second one darn near killed me," he joked.

Seaver was the only NL pitcher roughed up by the Americans. Sutton, San Francisco's Gary Lavelle, Chicago's Rick Reuschel and Pittsburgh's Rich Gossage each gave up one hit.

While Cleveland's Jim Kern and Dennis Eckersley, Dave LaRoche of California and Boston's Bill Campbell all silenced the Nationals, Palmer (five hits and five runs) and Lyle (three hits and two runs) absorbed virtually all the punishment the senior circuit had to offer.

STEAL ATTEMPT FAILS — National League's Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds is tagged out at third by American League's third baseman George Brett of the Kansas City Royals as he tried to steal third in second inning of All-Star Game at Yankee Stadium in New York Tuesday night. Umpire is Dick Stello. National League won, 7-5.

American Leaguers 'a little depressed'

NEW YORK (AP) — As usual, the American League had the wrong game plan.

"We thought that if we held them close early we'd have a good chance to win," said Boston's Carlton Fisk, the AL's starting catcher in Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

Either Fisk was calling for the wrong pitches or starting pitcher Jim Palmer of Baltimore was throwing the wrong ones. Cincinnati's Joe Morgan, the game's first hitter, lofted Palmer's sixth pitch into Yankee Stadium's right-field seats.

After Steve Garvey of Los Angeles struck out, Pittsburgh's Dave Parker singled, Cincinnati's George Foster doubled him home and Philadelphia's Greg Luzinski hit a two-run homer. Before they ever came to bat, the American Leaguers were behind 4-0.

"It was a little depressing," said Boston outfielder Fred Lynn, "but we had a lot of good players. We knew we could come back and score some runs."

Not enough, however. Garvey made up for his first-inning strikeout with a booming home run to lead off the third that kayoed Palmer. The AL didn't get started until a two-run double by Chicago's Richie Zisk in the sixth. Willie Randolph of New York singled a run across in the seventh but San Diego's Dave Winfield delivered a two-run single in the NL eighth that proved decisive when Boston's George Scott slammed a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth.

The 7-5 triumph was the National League's sixth in a row and 14th in the last 15 All-Star Games for a 29-18-1 lead in the series. And they never really gave the American League a chance to get started.

"It was quick, wasn't it?" Boston outfielder Carl Yastrzemski said of the NL's fast getaway.

"You'd like to be able to manage, to do something," said AL pilot Billy Martin of the New York Yankees, "but after that first inning I didn't have the opportunity. When you're down 5-0 and their first baseman plays well off the bag with a fast runner on base, does that tell you something?"

"Palmer was throwing well but Jeff (batting practice catcher Jeff Torborg) said he didn't have a good slider. We thought he was going to be all right, but he hung two sliders for home runs in the first inning."

"Obviously you don't like to get your club off to a bad start," said Palmer, a three-time Cy Young Award winner who had not allowed a run in eight previous innings of All-Star competition. "I wish I could have kept it closer. I pitched badly. Give credit to them, because I didn't make very many good pitches."

Desire to 'compete' essential

One comment that Tech assistant Jess Stiles made last Friday night that hits close to home is "All you can ask for is an opportunity to compete. That doesn't mean you're gonna win every time you line up."

Can the Big Spring Steers compete in District 5-4A football this year? That is the big question that is on everyone's mind in local sports. Can they actually share the field with schools more than twice the size?

Competition, like suicide sometimes, is in the mind of the beholder. If the Bovines feel they can actually compete with member schools and have a shot at winning a game or two, then they will.

If, on the other hand, they consider the coming conference wars as a gridiron form of suicide, then look forward to a long season.

Personally, I feel that a few junior and senior vets, and a whole lot of enthusiastic sophomores are going to offer some very surprising competition this season.

 The All-Star game on TV last night was not nearly as good as it would have been if Mark "The Bird" Fidrych had been doing his number.

A few stories that are reputed to be valid are currently circulating about the ace Tiger hurler.

Arriving in New York for the first time to be involved in a Tiger-Yankee stand Mark excitedly yelled "New York Stadium, yeah!" It's Yankee Stadium, always has been.

One day a man from a chewing gum company handed him a white envelope. Inside it were two color photos of "The Bird" that the company had determined it could not use on its baseball trading cards, and for a very good reason.

Fidrych had posed as a left-handed pitcher instead of as the righthanded hurler that he is.

"You didn't get away with it," said the gum man. "We spotted it. You weren't the first. Lew Burdette tried that 20 years ago."

"I was just having fun," said The Bird. In the two years that Mark has been with the Tigers, manager Ralph Houk has only had to take him out of the game two times.

One of those times, when Houk went to the hill to take Fidrych out against the Red Sox after a couple of home runs, he is supposed to have said to his manager, "Did you see how far those guys hit the ball?"

In the year of the over-paid big leaguer, a real competitor like The Bird is making a solid $55,000 a year, up from $19,000 last season. Funny, Tom Seaver Doesn't seem five times better than Mark Fidrych.

 What makes Rod Carew so good with a piece of wood in his hands? It's obviously his eyes and a bit of fantastic hand-eye coordination.

It's common knowledge that Ted Williams, the last major leaguer to hit 400, had the best pair of eyes ever in the Naval cadet program.

Minnesota manager Gene Mauch feels that his hitting superstar has eyes like Williams.

"The great similarity between him and Williams is this: They hit the ball hard, often. Now Rodney can get hits on balls that Williams couldn't because of Rodney's great speed," said Mauch.

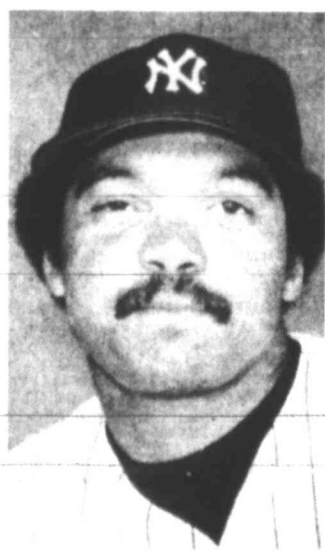

"I played with Williams the year he hit .388 and was 30 years old and they still used that shift on him."

"So I think it balances out, the leg hits, Rodney gets, and the gift hits they gave Williams by overshifting on him. I know this much: if they gave Rodney half the diamond to hit at, he would hit .400. He'd .500."

American All-Stars, Lamesa advance

BOY ACCUSES JACKSON OF ASSAULT — Reggie Jackson, above, star outfielder for the New York Yankees, bats Tuesday night during the All-Star Game in New York. The commander of the city police detail at Yankee Stadium Tuesday night said a 13-year-old boy filed a complaint accusing Reggie Jackson of assault.

However, of the 14 Texas All-Stars who found their cleats dug into bags, 13 of them were left on-base, and three of those were stranded on third.

Strong defense was thwarting the Americans as well. Seven of the eight men to reach base were also left on the canvas. Not until the last inning did the contest develop into a winner-loser posture.

Marty Rodriguez led off the frame for the American All-Stars with a solid single. He then stole second on a passed ball to Scott Richardson. Richardson then lined a grounder that looked like an easy out at

Tuesday night in the District III tournament.

The coaches, the parents, the fans ... everyone. That is, everyone but American All-Star pitcher Tom Cudd and Texas All-Star moundmaster Tony Ontiveros.

If a game could ever be won by both teams, those two were the ones to do it. Ontiveros whiffed 11 batters and only gave up two hits. His foe, Cudd, only relinquished three hits himself, while sending nine batters to the dugout with a big "K" written in smoke on their bats.

For a brief time Tuesday night, it looked as if no one was going to win the playoff game. The Texas leaguers were frustrated at every turn. Even though they only scratched for three hits, the Texas team placed 11 other men on the bags by virtue of walks, errors, fielders choice and one hit batter.

However, of the 14 Texas All-Stars who found their cleats dug into bags, 13 of them were left on-base, and three of those were stranded on third.

Strong defense was thwarting the Americans as well. Seven of the eight men to reach base were also left on the canvas. Not until the last inning did the contest develop into a winner-loser posture.

Marty Rodriguez led off the frame for the American All-Stars with a solid single. He then stole second on a passed ball to Scott Richardson. Richardson then lined a grounder that looked like an easy out at first.

The Texas fielder, however, overthrew first base, and Rodriguez, already making the dust fly at third base, made the swing and dove into home, ending the game in the American All-Stars' favor, 1-0.

Peter Carrillo and Tony Ontiveros blasted the singles for the Texas League. Carrillo had two. Tony Shortes and Marty Rodriguez had the two hits for the winners.

The victory advances the American All-Stars into a Thursday night meeting with the Midland Northern squad at 8 o'clock on the National League field.

In Tuesday's other game, the Lamesa All-Stars battered the Midland Western team 17-1 to gain a Thursday evening date with the Midland Tower All-Stars, 8 o'clock at the American League Park.

Lamesa hurler Lasaro Arrendondo held the hapless Midland batters to only two hits, and was supported by 12 hits from his teammates.

Jose Carrasco and David McMillan garnered the two hits for Midland, while Ben Morales (2), Wes Addison (3), Steve Teague, Rodriguez belted the hits for Lamesa. Steve Spence also hit a round-tripper for Lamesa.

Tonight, the action continues in the District tourney as the Big Spring National All-Stars meet Midland Central at the American League Park at 8 p.m., and Midland Southern and Midland North Central square off at the same time on the National League diamond. The eight teams still in contention are vying for a spot in the bi-district tourney to be held in San Angelo during the week beginning Aug. 1.

Nye's still a question mark

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Remember when Dallas Cowboys veteran All-Pro offensive guard Blaine Nye asked to be traded last January?

Nye, who is due to report to training camp here Friday, hopes the Cowboys haven't forgotten — exactly nothing in the situation has changed since January.

"I haven't heard from anyone so obviously I haven't been traded," Nye said Tuesday. "The only thing different about my situation is that instead of six months, it's now three days until I'm supposed to report."

Head Coach Tom Landry, who does not exactly approach the subject with unbridled enthusiasm, pointed out, "It's very difficult to trade now. Everyone's optimistic with rookies coming in and with free agents to work with."

"They (coaches) are thinking this guy is this-and-that but when it comes down to who's going to win for you this season, those players don't look the same. Then, it's easier to trade."

Nye, a nine-year veteran from Stanford, makes his home in California. He has told the Cowboys he wants a swap with a California club, preferably San Francisco.

Nye's selective thinking makes it more difficult to trade him, said Landry.

"If we went for a trade, we'd have to get a first line player," Landry said. "You can't give up an All-Pro guy for a secondstringer. If you can't do that, you have to go with draft choices."

"That's the last thing we really want because it doesn't help us this year. But if that's what it takes to satisfy the situation, then I'm sure we'd do it. If it was attractive enough."

The Cowboys don't have to trade Nye. But the danger comes if he elects to retire, leaving the club with nothing. It's a gamble, but one the Cowboys, at least for the moment, appear willing to take.

"As for Blaine, I'd like to see him play," said Landry. "And I'd like to see him play for us."

BOUTON'S BACK — Jim Bouton, one-time New York Yankees star and a successful author, is back on a pitching mound. But this time it's a Class A minor league club he's pitching for in his first appearance with the Portland Mavericks Tuesday night.

Bethea to break rule

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers defensive end Elvin Bethea is no more dismayed by the new National Football League rule against the defensive head slap than he is by an opposing offensive lineman.

"It's just a new rule and rules are made to be broken," the mammoth Bethea said. "I think it will be like the holding rule. They said holding was out but it just gets better and better every year and the referees get worse and worse."

Bethea referred to a new rule passed during the off season that prohibits a defensive lineman from delivering a well-placed blow to an offensive lineman's head to throw him off balance.

Bethea, who will report to the Oilers' new training site Thursday at Stephen F.

Austin University, said the new rule will only modify what defensive linemen can do.

"I can still use the slap but it will have to be delivered to the shoulder instead of the head," said Bethea. "I guess they'll outlaw that sooner or later too, but I'll keep doing it till I get caught."

Although Bethea speaks derisively of offensive linemen who hold, he says the rule is a good one and in fact, it's necessary to be a good offensive lineman in the NFL.

"I don't think we'd have too many quarterbacks left if there was no holding rule," said Bethea, a former offensive lineman. "It's a part of the game that has to be there."

"But in order for good offensive linemen to play in the NFL, he has to learn how to hold. I was an offensive lineman once and I know the most difficult thing was trying to keep a lineman out with just a college block.

"A guy comes at you weighing 260 pounds and he's coming full force, well, you've got to do something."

Bethea, never one to hide his feelings, hopes the Oilers will be able to improve on their disappointing 5-9 season but he's not making predictions this time around.

"I made predictions last year and it went the other way, so no more predicting," said Bethea, who has played in five consecutive Pro Bowls.

Nicklaus pinpoints concentration woes

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, a disappointed runner-up in his last two starts, needs a little mental adjustment coming into the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

"I'm really playing very well. I've played well all year. Right now, I just need to screw my concentration down tight," Nicklaus said, pressing and twisting his thumb on a table for emphasis.

"Last week I made a double bogey and didn't even get mad."

"Now that's bad."

And it has cost him.

"Two weeks in a row I break the record—two weeks in a row I finish second," he mused. In each of that last two events, the British Open and the Pleasant Valley Classic, Nicklaus broke the tournament record. And he was beaten by one shot each time, by Tom Watson in the British Open, by Ray Floyd last week when Nicklaus admitted to being in a let-down.

But the letdown is over and he has a couple of extra inducements going for him in the 68th Canadian national championship that begins Thursday.

First, he designed the 7,129-yard, par-72 Glen Abbey Golf Club course, a

Big Apple fans forgive Seaver

NEW YORK (AP) — The thundering, three-minute ovation from more than 50,000 throats was music to the ears of Tom Seaver, the prodigal son who came home for just a night.

The sound drowned out the crackling bats of the rival American Leaguers, who almost turned the fairy tale into disaster.

"It was beautiful," said the million-dollar New York Mets discard, basking in the warmth of a 7-5 National League All-Star victory in which his greatest contribution was for the other side. "I really appreciated it. The only thing I could do was to stand there and enjoy it."

Baseball may be the great national pastime but it writes a lousy script. You don't have to be out of Hollywood to know that the story of the 48th baseball All-Star game could have had a mellow ending for the handsome pitching hero now of the Cincinnati Reds, who is better known as "Tom Terrific."

Seaver pitched 10 years and change for the Mets, winning more than 180 games, capturing three Cy Young Awards and establishing himself as the recognized No. 1 pitcher in the game.

Then he crossed swords with the Mets' management, particularly Chairman of the Board M. Donald Grant. An ugly name-calling scene ensued.

In June, he was dealt to the Cincinnati Reds in a deal that rocked the sport's delicate foundations.

The 48th All-Star Game marked his first appearance before a New York audience in the red and white uniform of the world champion Reds.

It was a strange sight. But when the players were introduced individually before the start of the game at Yankee Stadium, the

Bouton back on mound

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Fourteen years ago, Jim Bouton was on the mound in Cleveland, pitching in the All-Star game.

Tuesday night, 2,800 miles from Yankee Stadium and at the other end of the professional baseball spectrum, Bouton was hurling knuckleballs for the Portland Mavericks of the Class A Northwest League, a team with a reputation as enigmatic and unorthodox as Bouton's own.

There were 3,904 people in rickety Civic Stadium and the opponents were the Grays Harbor, Wash., Loggers. Most of the players were barely walking when Bouton signed his first pro contract.

What is a 38-year-old man who has written a bestseller, starred in a television series and worked as a sportscaster for two of New York's largest television stations doing drawing a $400 monthly salary and pitching against the likes of Salem, Walla Walla and Bellingham?

"Thirty-eight is just a number," he shrugged after going nine innings and scattering eight hits for a 6-5 victory in his Tuesday night debut.

Bouton created and starred in a television series based on his controversial bestseller about baseball "Ball Four." After the series was canceled following a brief run on CBS last fall, Bouton rejected an offer to return to WCBS as a sportscaster.

The dawn-to-dusk schedule of the television show left him drained. "I didn't see the sun for about a year," he said.

Besides, he said, sportscasting was not his favorite pastime.

So he left the lucrative job for a return to the summer game that had led to banner seasons with the perennial world champions, the New York Yankees. The career peaked when Bouton had a 21-7 record in 1963.

He finally left baseball, wrote the controversial "Ball Four" and took a job as a sportscaster at WABC in New York. Later, he shifted to WCBS. But he always wanted to return to baseball. He did briefly, in 1975, when he came to Portland and had a 4-1 record in a month's action.

To finance his latest comeback try, Bouton said, he's selling his $125,000 house in Englewood, N.J., and purchasing a more modest $75,000 home for his wife and three children.

His vehicle back to the big time, he hopes, will be the knuckleball, that mysterious, spinless pitch that bobs and weaves to the plate with no one-batter, catcher or pitcher—knowing exactly where it is going.

But his age has foiled his attempts so far. This spring, he was cut by the White Sox Knoxville farm team in the Class AA Southern League to make room for younger players. Then he was dropped by Durango in the Class AAA Mexican League.

So he called Bing Russell, the actor-writer from southern California who owns the Mavericks, a motley crew of hustling youngsters who are paid $400 per month during the summer and have no affiliation with a major league team.

Fryar's rodeo efforts win funds for Tarleton

STEPHENVILLE — As a result of the efforts of Steve Fryar in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association finals held last month in Bozeman, Mont., Tarleton State University will receive $1,600 in scholarship funds from U.S. Tobacco.

Fryar, a May graduate at Tarleton from Big Spring, won the steer wrestling event at the national finals and also placed first in the nation in final NIRA standings. The national standings are based on scores from the regular rodeo season plus scores at the national finals. Fryar collected 768 points in bulldogging to easily outdistance William Ayre of Dawson College in Montana who scored 405 points for second place.

Fryar was regional champion at Tarleton in NIRA steer wrestling in 1976 and 1977. He was also an NIRA director from Tarleton.

A spokesman for U.S. Tobacco, sponsor of the Copenhagen-Skoal Scholarships Awards Program, notified TSU president Dr. W. O. Trogon this week that Tarleton would receive the $1,600 scholarship money with the stipulation that the "scholarship funds shall be awarded to the respective colleges and universities in the respective winners' name on the condition that these funds be used exclusively for the education of a participant or participants in the college or university's rodeo program."

U.S. Tobacco awarded $74,000 in scholarships at the NIRA finals.

Dr. Trogon said the scholarship money will be used to enhance the new TSU rodeo scholarship program.

Six starving waifs found

NEW YORK (AP) — Six naked and starving children — the youngest 4 weeks old, the oldest 6 years — have been found huddled in bed in a filthy apartment in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn.

The youngsters were suffering from dehydration and exposure, according to a spokesman at Kings County Hospital.

Police said the apartment was overrun by cockroaches and the children were coated with their own body wastes.

DAV members discuss film

Mrs. Ruth Banks, Commander of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary in Snyder, was welcomed to the regular meeting of the Big Spring DAV Auxiliary Monday night. Mrs. Fannie Clark presided at the meeting in absence of Unit Commander Mrs. Katie Spivey. New business discussed involved a film to be shown in the near future.

Mrs. Linda Luna, Mrs. Clara Lewis, and Mrs. Nelda Burkhardt reported having served 90 patients cake and coffee at the Big Spring Veteran's Hospital.

Due to the absence of officers, no other business was discussed. The next meeting of the DAV Auxiliary will be August 15, at 7:30 p.m. in VFW Hall.

So I then proceeded to talk about my vacation and tell a bear story. Lots of people claimed they like it, so I hope you will be equally forgiving if I tell about a story about my trip last week to the east coast.

Only this is a story of the tide. Now, I've been around beaches every year of my life, having been raised in the Lower Rio Grande Valley near the Gulf Coast.

So I know all about tides. I know how far from the edge of the water to sit at various times of day and when the tide comes in. But apparently, the Atlantic Ocean is different.

My daughter, Carolyn and I first visited a perfectly beautiful little beach with clear water, soft sand and few people on the Gulf side of Florida. I'm not even going to say where it is, since I was delighted that there were so few people.

But then we went up to Savannah, Ga. and back down to St. Augustine, Fla. and went to a beach on the Atlantic side.

I was ready for an afternoon of fun in the sun. I had a beach umbrella, a quilt, and a book and planned to run in the Atlantic and get wet and then sit on the quilt and read while my daughter swam as long as she wanted to.

I picked a spot way back from the water. Any self respecting South Texan knew that it would be at least an hour before the tide got anywhere near my quilt.

My daughter saw a scene she wanted to take a picture of and came in out of the ocean and left with her camera. I was deeply engrossed in my book.

Clouds had come up and the winds were blowing across the Atlantic and I thought how nice and cool it was. Two little boys about four and six came running over to show me their star fish.

My daughter says that small children spot me a mile away and know that I really like them. That is a fault of mine. Anyway, I discussed the value of star fish and told them to lay them on the sand to dry. They asked me to watch the star fish. I went back to my book.

The wind blew and the waves flapped and I was deep in the story when suddenly, "whoosh" and water hit that blanket, and went over the top of me. I grabbed first for the flash unit of Carolyn's camera. Then I grabbed my shoes which were floating off with the car keys inside. I ran up to dry land and flopped those down and ran back to try to catch the shorts, a shirt, the quilt, the book, and a light ice box, all floating off.

My daughter came running screaming, "Get the camera. Get the keys. Why didn't you see it coming? The quilt's all wet."

I thought ugly thoughts and rushed around gathering up everything trying not to talk in deleted expletives.

About that time, the two little boys came up and screamed, "Where are our star fish? You said you'd watch our star fish."

Muttering to myself, I hurried through the shallow water to rescue the star fish, who fortunately had come to rest on a Coke can.

"Take them to dry land," I ordered and pointed up the beach. They ran off with their durn fish.

Carolyn was taking down the beach umbrella. I was trying to wash the sand off the quilt. I gathered up some of the stuff and ran for the car. It began to rain. While running to the car, the tide came back up, the quilt got covered with sand again.

I said an ugly word and rolled the quilt up and threw it on the floorboard of the car. Carolyn was using worse language. The umbrella had stuck. She couldn't get the post apart and it was too long to go in the car. We stood in pouring down rain pulling apart a beach umbrella. I was laughing. I couldn't help it. I was all so ridiculous.

We got in the car. The rain stopped. The tide went back out. The wind calmed. We went back to the motel where we took in wet books, wet shoes, wet clothes and the sandiest, soggiest quilt I have ever seen.

I thought, "Oh well. It will make a good Ridin' Fence."

'I'm from Oklahoma'

WATONGA, Okla. (AP) — It apparently pays to be from Oklahoma, at least when you're trying to bid on a Watonga water project.

Watonga is expanding its water system, and a 500,000-gallon storage tank is going to be part of the program.

Tuesday evening the Watonga Public Works Authority met to open the two bids it had received on the project.

But the bids turned out to be identical, one coming from Ponca Tank, Inc., of Ponca City and the other from Cooper-Scott, Inc., of Lubbock, Tex.

While the authority members were debating what to do, Ben Dritch of Ponca City, representing Ponca Tank, shouted out, "I'm from Oklahoma."

After the laughter subsided, the authority told Dritch that barring objections from the Farmers Home Administration, which is helping finance the expansion, his firm would get the contract.

The representative of Cooper-Scott did not comment on the deal.

OSHA whacks paperwork

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is freeing millions of small businesses from the requirements of time-consuming paperwork that cost an estimated $100 million a year.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, whipping boy of business since its formation, announced Tuesday it no longer will require 3.4 million small businesses to comply with record-keeping and reporting requirements of the federal job, health and safety law.

For 1.5 million larger firms, paperwork requirements will be cut in half, Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said at a news conference.

Marshall said that in addition to saving millions of dollars, the changes "will mean a lot to the thousands of small businessmen who face a mountain of federal paperwork."

The National Federation of Independent Business praised the government's announcement as "a giant step."

"We need much more of this in the federal government," said James D. McKeever, a spokesman for the organization. He said a typical small business now spends an average of one-half to one day a week filling out federal forms.

Despite the praise from one organization, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which represents mostly larger firms, said the changes don't go far enough. "We're disappointed because the changes still leave a lot of paperwork," a spokesman said.

Since Congress created OSHA in 1971, the agency's regulations have been criticized bitterly by the business community as costly, time-consuming, ineffective and harassing.

Marshall said the reduction of paperwork is in keeping with President Carter's goal to simplify government regulations without going back on an administration commitment to preserve the health and safety of American workers.

Marshall said that beginning in 1978 the country's business firms with 10 or fewer employees no longer will have to maintain complicated accident and illness records. However, he emphasized that they still are subject to the job health and safety law.

For the larger firms, the new procedures will replace three forms that now must be filled out with a single form which would use a "simple check-off procedure" for keeping a record of injuries and illnesses. The total number of entries would be reduced from 80 to 19.

The number of firms required to take part in the Labor Department's annual survey of occupational illnesses and injuries would be reduced to 332,000 from the 1972 sampling of 650,000.
