Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Senator Capper of Kansas says the trend of migration has turned from the city toward the farm and that the situation of the farmers is improving gradually because the farmers have adjusted themselves to low prices and have gone into more diversified types of farming.

And we believe this is true—true as to Wichita Falls and to the country hereabouts. One can drive for miles in the country and not see an empty house. Houses in the country that have been untenanted for years are now occupied while the number of vacant houses in town have increased. There is more land in crops and under cultivation around Wichita Falls than this Talker has seen in 20 years.

And what is true of Wichita Falls must be true of most of the other towns and rural districts. In many of the industrial cities of the country literally thousands of workers have disappeared and the only conclusion that can be reached is that they have found their way back to the farms.

This trek back to the farm has happened during every period of depression hitherto. It was late in getting started in the most recent depression but once it has gotten under way it has proceeded rapidly, if silently. "We have lived in town and economized," said a friend to this Talker the other day, "but we didn't know how little money we could live on until we got out into the country and began to raise a little food, to milk a cow and raise some chickens."

There are millions in our cities who have lived on farms. The smell of freshly plowed earth has never gotten out of their nostrils and never will. When their money runs out in the city and there is no employment the country invites a refuge which many accept.

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce is receiving an encouraging response to its letter calling attention to members of the special train being sponsored to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Lubbock. Already nearly half a hundred have signed up for the trip and with the effort now being made there is confidence the required number will be obtained to assure the train.

This trip will be an inspiration to those who make it, and a big thing for Wichita Falls. It's just the thing that is needed to put some pep and enthusiasm into the old home town, and will do a lot toward restoring Wichita Falls' prestige throughout West Texas. It may require some little sacrifice to make this trip but every firm in Wichita Falls ought to be represented. Phone the chamber of commerce this morning and make your reservation.

This invitation is extended to all the towns in this section. The Fort Worth and Denver will be glad to furnish equipment for two special trains if enough passengers will come forward to fill them.

It's been told a number of times before but on the chance you may not have the information, the tickets will be $18 for upper berths, $22.50 for lower, $30 for compartment space with two in a compartment. This includes railroad and Pullman fares both ways, use of berths for sleeping quarters at Lubbock, registration fee, badges, cane and prorated costs of band. Ring the chamber of commerce for further information. The phone number is 4181.

A grape juice company has paid an extra dividend of 25 cents a share. This is in addition to a regular dividend of the same amount. It is the simple and homely things that are finding a market these days and whose manufacturers are more likely to be paying dividends. Isn't that a hopeful sign in more ways than one?

GOLD AND SILVER CANARY BIRDS

WOULD you pay $75 for a song? If you were buying a genuine Harz Mountain canary you might pay more. These little pets are famous the world over for their song power. Bird breeding is an important household industry in the Harz mountains of Germany. An especially fine songster is often used to train young birds. They are natives of the Canary Islands, being introduced into Italy in the 16th century, and later into Germany. As wild birds they are green or greenish yellow, but the yellow plumage of the tame canary is only produced by special breeding. Rarest of all are the gold and silver spangled singers. Many birds and pets just as rare as these songsters can be bought and sold through the Classified Want-Ad columns of this newspaper. People who read our Want-Ads every day find that unusual opportunities are offered through this section of The Daily Times-Record News.

TWO AIDES OF GUNMAN TAKEN IN HOUR FIGHT

Suspect's Sweetheart And Accused Murderer Held By Police

SCORES SEE FIRING

Machine Guns, Pistols And Rifles Used to Rout Desperadoes

By JOSEPH MULVANEY

NEW YORK, May 7. (US)—In the most spectacular battle ever waged between police and bandits in this city, Two-Gun Crowley was wounded and captured early this evening. With him were captured Rudolph Durniger, also wanted for murder, and Helen Walsh, one of Crowley's sweethearts, who fled with him after he killed Patrolman Frederick Hirsch in North Merrick Tuesday night.

The battle raged for longer than an hour at West End avenue, and Nineteenth street, in a fashionable residential section between Broadway and Riverside Drive. Machine guns planted on housetops and revolvers and rifles fired from windows attracted an immense crowd to the battlefield.

When the last shot had been fired and the fumes of the score of gas bombs raised, Crowley was carried out on a stretcher, with bullet holes in legs and wrist and sped to Knickerbocker hospital in an ambulance.

Confesses Slaying

Durniger, uninjured, was hustled to headquarters, where, according to the police, he confessed that he shot and killed Virginia Brannen, whose body was found inside a hedge in Yonkers a short time ago. Durniger denied he was with Crowley when Patrolman Hirsch was killed.

In the battle, more than 200 shots were fired by the bandits and police. Two hundred and fifty policemen, including eight emergency and machine gun squads, participated.

The battle developed with melodramatic swiftness from a casual suggestion that came to the police about noon and from which little

Wichita Oil Concern Sells Kilgore Lease For Price Of $225,000

The Federated Oil company of Wichita Falls, composed of the United Producers, Bridwell Oil, Petroleum Producers and the O'Donohue-Gibson Drilling companies, Wednesday closed a deal with the Humble Oil and Refining company whereby the latter purchased a lease of 43 acres with two producing wells in the Kilgore pool, Rusk county, East Texas for a consideration of $225,000.

The property purchased by the Humble company is known as the Ben Laird tract in the Isaac Ruddle survey, and approximately 2000 feet north of the pool's discovery well.

The first well on the lease came in Feb. 28 with an estimated production of 23,000 barrels per day but was shut in on account of the lack of pipe line facilities. Until purchased by the Humble company no crude was run from the lease.

Terms of the sale are reported as $175,000 paid in cash with the remaining $50,000 to be paid out of one-fourth of the first oil produced.

SENATE VOTES HOME RULE TO THIRD READING

Beck Resolution Passed 12 to 10 After Two Alterations

DICTATORSHIP SEEN

Parrish Says Legislature Loses Powers Under Terms of Bill

AUSTIN, May 7. (AP)—After holding the legislative spotlight most of the day, the Beck home rule resolution was passed to third reading today by the senate on a vote of 12 to 10. It must receive 21 votes to be submitted to the people.

The senate tacked two amendments to the proposed amendment. One increased the population figure from 60,000 to 75,000 and the second would allow counties adopting the home rule plan to abandon it upon majority vote. Such an election would be ordered by 10 per cent of the qualified voters in the area.

Change Rejected

A third amendment which would have required consent of two thirds of the voters in a consolidated district to create indebtedness or vote funds for refunding bonds, was rejected by the senate.

Senator Woodul of Houston said under the Beck plan, the commissioners court or other persons, might act as the governing body of a home rule division.

He said the sovereign powers of the state would never be endangered, that the resolution carried a protective amendment stating such powers should never be subordinated to the home rule plan.

Dictators Visioned

Senator Moore of Greenville said he saw a bunch of stiff collared, stiff backed, dictators sitting at oak desks excluding the rural populace from a say in the affairs of their government.

Senator Parrish of Lubbock said adoption of the amendment meant "good bye to legislative control over counties."

The house passed a bill proposing creation of a child welfare division under the board of control. The vote was 96 to 20. An amendment limiting the salary of the division chief to $5,000 and the salaries of three assistants to $1,500 a year each, was adopted.

Tax Amendment

The senate passed a proposed constitutional amendment which would require tax payers to render their property for taxation before becoming eligible to vote in bond elections.

A proposed constitutional amendment which would limit counties with a population of 500,000 or less to five representatives and grant them one representative for each additional 100,000, was engrossed by the senate. The vote was 14 to 12.

The senate set the West Texas pink boll worm bill for special order Saturday. The bill asks an appropriation of $300,000 to be used in remunerating farmers in West Texas who observed provisions of a pink boll worm quarantine imposed by the state and the federal governments.

Woman's Defiance Sends Cannon Fund Probe Into New Channels

Second Meeting Called After Witness Faces Contempt Charge in Refusing to Testify

WASHINGTON, May 7. (AP)—Defied by a woman witness, the senate campaign funds committee was halted abruptly today in its inquiry into the disposition of anti-Smith funds by Bishop James Cannon Jr., in the 1928 campaign.

Miss Ada L. Burroughs of Richmond, Va., the treasurer of the Southern Methodist churchmen's anti-Smith organization, left the stand after declining to answer more than a score of questions in the face of a warning of possible prosecution.

Later, Chairman Nye of the committee said "Certainly we will have to cite her to the senate for contempt."

Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, was cited for a refusal to testify before a senate committee. He served four months in jail.

Committee Startled

Senator Nye also said he would call the committee together next week to consider information now before it "which may be found the basis for a report to the senate of a violation of the federal corrupt practices act." During the questioning he said evidence of a violation was available.

Miss Burroughs startled the committee when she said in a mild tone, after reading a prepared statement, that "I most respectfully decline to give any testimony in this investigation."

In her prepared statement Miss Burroughs denied the legality of the senate resolution authorizing the inquiry and challenged the constitutionality of the federal corrupt practice act—which Bishop Cannon is accused of violating.

Bishop Cannon, who sent a similar protest to the committee, sat near Miss Burroughs, resting his chin on one of his crutches as she stood her ground against question-

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 7. (AP)—Augustine Courtauld, young British scientist who was believed to have been lost on the Greenland ice-cap, was found today and is on his way back to the base camp near the Greenland border.

The message said Courtauld was returning to the base of the British arctic air expedition, of which he was a member, with H. G. Watkins, leader of the expedition.

Loaded Truck Plunges Onto Track in Path Of Moving Freight

CHAUFFEUR KILLED

Small Victims Scream In Terror as Locomotive Drags Machine

MERCED, Calif., May 7. (US)—While 40 school children screamed in helpless terror this afternoon the school bus in which they were riding plunged through a wig-wag warning signal directly in the path of a slow moving Santa Fe freight train.

With a crash that was heard for blocks, the heavy locomotive knocked the bus on its side and dragged it 50 feet down the track, in one of the worst grade crossing tragedies in the history of the state.

Four Die Instantly

Four of the children were instantly killed, when the locomotive thrust its iron nose through the steel-and-wood sides of the bus.

The driver of the bus, J. B. Kregger, died at the hospital from his injuries. His wife who was riding in the front seat, was seriously injured.

Six children were injured so seriously that little hope was held out for their recovery, and of the 30 who will survive the accident not one escaped injuries ranging from disfiguring cuts to the probable loss of limbs.

Here is the list of dead:
Jean Ahr, 10.
Robert Fuller, 10.
Dolores Epsen, 8.
Billy Epsen, 8, her twin brother.
J. B. Kregger, bus driver.

Frenzied Rescue

Within a few minutes after the accident ambulances mobilized from every source were carrying the injured to the Merced hospital and physicians and nurses were beginning their task of mercy.

With the work of caring for the injured under way, Merced began four independent investigations into the accident. School authorities, the police officials of the Santa Fe railroad and the coroner, gathered the evidence.

They heard one of the most amazing stories that ever came from such an accident—a story of a grade crossing which was perfectly clear and unobstructed, of a train that many witnesses said was moving only eight miles an hour, of

Abilene Kidnaping Suspect Cites Attack on Wife as Demand Motive

ABILENE, Texas, May 7. (AP)—Melba White's testimony that J. M. Franklin, Abilene business man, had attempted to attack her near San Angelo on March 22, 1930, was offered by defense counsel here today in the trial of Earl White on a charge of kidnaping Franklin for the purpose of extorting money from him. Testimony in the case was completed this afternoon.

Melba White is the defendant's wife.

White testified he returned from Westmoreland, Calif., early in April this year, partially to have a settlement with Franklin. He said his wife previously had told him of the asserted attack and that she told him Franklin was her assailant about six days before they left Westmoreland, with the girl's brother, Goldman Marsh.

Franklin, recalled as a rebuttal witness, denied having attempted to attack the girl or of having taken her riding near San Angelo.

Demand 'Settlement'

White, narrating the story of a meeting between himself, Marsh and Franklin at a tourist camp, said Marsh told Franklin "we have come to make a settlement for what you have done to White's wife and my sister."

"Franklin asked what he could do to square the matter and keep it out of court. Goldman told him it would take $10,000. Franklin said he would do whatever he could

HUNDREDS VIEW FIERCE BATTLE

Two-Gun Crowley and Two Pals Captured

was expected. Detectives Dominick Caso and William B. Mara, got word from secret sources that an investigation of the Nineteenth street house might bring forth information concerning Crowley, who was then believed to be bottled up by a police cordon around the East End of Long Island.

They found this note on a doorbell in the hall:

Murray and Red—Don't ring the bell. We have gone out shopping."

Bullets Tell Tale

Cautioning the janitress to keep silent, the detectives engaged the little rear apartment adjoining and entered it to await the girl's return or the coming of their visitors. Meanwhile, they sent word to police headquarters and three detectives arrived to aid them.

But at 3 p. m., after two hours' waiting, the detectives discovered that the adjoining apartment was occupied and that the occupants sensed the police presence. The detectives' discovery came with startling suddenness when bullets began to tear through the partition.

They answered in kind and two of them swung around to the door of the girl's apartment. Bullets ripping through the panels of the door drove them back. Word was sent out for reinforcements, and then the battle began in earnest. Reserves from nearby police stations swarmed up. From headquarters a riot call was sent out, bringing the machine gun squads in armored cars.

Roof Hacked

Police Commissioner Mulrooney and Chief Inspector Sullivan sped uptown to take command of the siege. Under their orders, the entire block was surrounded by uniformed men and even residents were kept back from their homes. Motor and pedestrian traffic was diverted.

With axes, the emergency squad hacked holes in the roof directly over the besieged apartment and flung tear gas bombs and bullets into the room. From the adjoining apartment, detectives climbed out on window ledges, and added bombs and bullets.

But Crowley and Durniger fought until they had emptied five revolvers many times, exhausting their spare ammunition, and the Walsh girl was senseless on the floor. Then when detectives shouted that their lives would be spared if they came into the hall with their hands held high, Crowley and Durninger surrendered.

and asked to come to town," White testified.

He said the three men rode to town in Franklin's car, that Franklin drove, chose his own route, arranged for telephoning his brother and was not detained at any place by White or Marsh.

Arguments Today

Franklin, at this morning's session had testified that after he had been called to the tourist camp by the girl he was confronted by White and Marsh who asked him how much his life was worth, how much money he could raise and told him "we have an affair to settle with you." Franklin said Marsh declared "it should be worth $50,000 to settle this affair with me." White was armed at the time of the conference, Franklin testified.

The $50,000 figure being too high, $10,000 was suggested and when Franklin telephoned his brother to come talk over the proposition with them, the brother called police instead.

Franklin said he met the girl a year or so ago in San Angelo when she was divorced from White and that she had done some work for him.

Arguments in the case will be heard tomorrow morning.

ing by Senator Nye, answering repeatedly "I decline to testify." He later gave a copy of Miss Burroughs' statement to the press.

Admits Aid

"You are aware of the possible consequences attendant upon your action?" inquired Chairman Nye.

"Yes," she said.

Representative Tinkham has accused Bishop Cannon of failing to account for a major portion of the $65,300 given to him as chairman of the anti-Smith committee in Virginia by E. C. Jameson, New York financier.

Only once did Miss Burroughs answer a question. Nye asked her if she prepared the statement which she read to the committee. After declining to answer, she hastily added that she had prepared it, then admitted she had received legal assistance.

Bishop Cannon asked if his protest against the committee's authority would be included in the record. He was told it would.

Senator Nye said if the committee determined to cite Miss Burroughs for contempt it would have to do so to the senate. Congress does not reconvene until December.

The resolution giving the committee authority to inquire into Bishop Cannon's 1928 activities was introduced by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and was adopted unanimously by the senate.

FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN CRASH

School Bus Driver Fails To Heed Crossing Signal

(Cohtinued From Page One)

Confusion Reigns

Confusion reigned at the scene of the wreck and at hospitals where parents struggled to find their injured children and mothers claimed the bodies of their dead. Additional physicians and specialists were summoned from San Francisco.

The only two eyewitnesses of the crash were Mr. and Mrs. Wicklund, who were in an automobile directly behind the bus.

"It was ghastly to see all those children ground to death and hear their screams," Wicklund said.

"I saw the train approaching. It was moving slowly and I didn't think for an instant the bus driver didn't see it. The wig wag was going, a bell was ringing and the train whistled as it approached the crossing and again just before the crash.

Children Scream

"But the driver drove right on the tracks without stopping. We heard the screams of the children as they saw the big locomotive bearing down on them. Then the whistle screamed again and—then everything was blotted out by the horrible noise of the train striking them. The train ground to a stop and the bus fell off to one side and slid into a ditch.

"I distinctly saw one little girl thrown out of the window. I watched the wheels of the locomotive pass over her body. Over the noise of the crunching bus I could still hear the screams of the children.

"After the bus stopped in the ditch my wife and I ran over. Several of the children were still pinned in the wreckage of the bus and we had a terrible time trying to get them out."

YOUTHS GOING BACK TO FARM

Capper Says Trend Has Been Reversed

ST. LOUIS, May 7. (INS)—The old story of the youth who left the farm to seek his fortune in the city is being reversed these days, United States Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas said here today, while stopping off en route to Topeka, Kan.

"The trend was all to the cities a few years ago," Kansas' senior senator declared. "The young people were leaving the farms in great numbers and going to the cities. That is all reversed now. Our young people are leaving the cities and going back to the country. It is a good sign."

Senator Capper said the farm situation was improving gradually and that there was an unusual demand for farms in the Southwest.

"The farm situation is improving gradually," he said. "Our farmers are adjusting themselves to low prices and have gone into more diversified types of farming. There is an unusual demand for farms in this southwest country and the trend form the cities is helpful.

"We are raising too much wheat, it is true," Senator Capper continued. "We are going to have one of the largest wheat crops in Kansas this year that we have ever had. In my opinion, wheat prices will remain stable, however.

"Competition in the wheat market from Russia and the Argentine has been acute. Russia, in particular, has become a dangerous factor in the world wheat market for they are able to raise wheat much more cheaply than we are."

Senator Capper declared that in his belief, there is not the slightest prospect of congress repealing, modifying or amending the 18th amendment, now, or at any time in the future.

Continuing, he said the lineup of the Republican and Democratic national convention in 1932 will probably be the same on the prohibition question as in 1928.

"President Hoover will unquestionably be renominated and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York now appears to be the outstanding leader in the contest for the Democratic nomination," Senator Capper declared.

Mrs. Raskob testified that she was forced to drive to the left of the trolley car by a truck which preceded her car, but did not know that her automobile struck Herbert Alderson, 17, of Arlington, who claimed to have been hit by the Raskob automobile.

Navy Demands Further Tests of Fokker Planes

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Further tests are to be made before the navy accepts one of the big transport type planes of the Fokker factory, it was learned tonight.

The plane was ordered from the Fokker factory 10 months ago. It has not yet been accepted by the navy bureau of aeronautics on the ground that it fails to meet specifications, it was said.

While navy department officials declined to comment upon the situation, it was learned that the plane already had been put through two sets of tests. The plane sells for over $50,000, but under the terms of the contract, it must meet all tests satisfactorily before the purchase price is paid.

Nude Culture Sweeps Germany Like Wave of Religious Fervor

BERLIN, May 7. (US)—Nude culture is sweeping over Germany with hundreds of men and women being converted to the movement weekly. Their fervor is almost equal to that of participants in a religious revival.

More than 18 societies and clubs which believe in doing away with clothing are already in existence.

At the Halensee swimming basin, 500 enthusiastic nudists recently gave a sporting festival before invited newspaper men. Their object was to prove the attractiveness and show the significance of the movement.

More than 1,000 nude men and women took part in a "cultural" spectacle before an invited audience in the Grosses Schauspielhaus, the biggest theater in Europe. Said Professor Von Hauff, prominent leader in the movement:

"Clothes are lies that cover up the truth which the nude body alone reveals.

"When we want to know something about a person's character, the only parts of the body that we can examine are the head and hands. The body, taken as a whole, is of the greatest importance in judging a person. Clothes create a false impression.

"No army takes a man on the looks of his face and hands and the fit of his clothing. Only after his naked body has been thoroughly examined and found to meet the army's requirements is he accepted as a soldier."

Striking Chimney Sitter Awaits Coming of King to Force Demands

TOKYO, May 7. (AP)—A chimney sitter who ascended a smokestack at the Japan Dyeing and Weaving works here several days ago and announced he would not come down until the employes there had won their hunger strike is not meeting with the success that a contemporary had.

Kiyos I. Tanable recently won a strike when his chimney sitting threatened to conflict with a rigid Japanese custom forbidding a subject to take a position higher than that of the emperor. Word spread that the emperor would pass the place where Tanabe was sitting and the company in question conceded to the strikers' demands in order to get Tanabe down before the ruler appeared.

At 7 o'clock tonight the dye works sitter had been up 150 hours which exceeded Tanabe's record, but there was no sign of the strike's end. About 140 strikers remain in a warehouse, eating only bean soup. Sixty of the original 200 hunger strikers have been removed to hospitals. They struck in protest against the discharge of a fellow worker.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription—HEM-ROID — to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Allison's Drug Store says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile misery or money back.—Adv.

Southern Program Observed In Closing Writers Meeting

With wild flowers featured in the decorations, and cotton frocks and garden hats stressed among members and guests, the closing program of the writers department of the Woman's Forum Thursday was unique in setting and interesting in the original program arranged by Mrs. James P. Bowen. Bowls of beautiful varieties of purple and gold and rose wild flowers were gathered and arranged by Mesdames J. Truman Stevens and Ann Barker, while a vase of dainty orchid larkspur brought by Mrs. James P. Bowen matched the morning dress and wide-brimmed hat she wore. Among the members, pretty prints and wide drooping hats answering the "cotton movement" were worn by Dr. Maud Lindsey, Mesdames M. T. Clement, J. E. H. Railey, Grover C. Johnson, W. M. Cason and Mrs. Bowen.

The program began with a clever original editorial by Dr. Maud Lindsey on "Vocations and Avocations." Doctor Lindsey stressed the fact that the unhappiness of the poor as well as the rich was due to the same basic needs and urged education in the art of appreciation of oneself and one's opportunities as a means of solving the problem of unrest.

An original skit written by Mrs. Grover C. Johnson was given by her with the assistance of Mrs. Walter Hugh Caldwell. "A Clubwoman's Impressions at a Convention" was a humorous take-off on the unnecessary feature usually shown at such a meeting. The average club report was burlesqued; the question of objectives taken up and before the conclusion, there was a question as to the real possibility of there being leisure for the average clubwoman to use. The skit, full of humor, was not only cleverly given, but left a seed of thoughtfulness.

In keeping with the southern cotton theme, the two closing numbers were of southern negro life. Mrs. Ann Barker read "Mammy Crosses the Ribber," "Mammy's Mockin' Bird," "De Debbil in de Radio," and "Possum Hunt," a group of rhymes full of negro reasoning. Mrs. W. W. Fraser closed the program with a typical story of an old plantation negro written by her sister, "Liza's Day of Triumph."

Business Meeting

Mrs. M. T. Clements, chairman, presided in the business meeting, when after the minutes the program for the next year was discussed by Mrs. Bowen. Mrs. Newton Maer announced the cooperative market and exchange conducted at Bailey-Moline Hardware store each Saturday morning and urged clubwomen to attend. Announcement was also made that rolls might might be purchased from Mrs. Kirsey, forum hostess, either cooked or ready for the oven.

The opportunity furnished old members to return to the forum will close with the month of May, was again announced. Any member who has ever been a member and paid the initiation fee, may by paying the $5 dues for city members or $3 for out of town members, be reinstated now as a member and will be paid up through the next club year.

Out of town guests and new forum members were introduced and several short talks made. Those present included Mesdames R. G. Scheurer, Carl Yeager, J. E. H. Railey, O. T. Gorsline, Otis Nelson, Max Shain, G. A. McWhirter, J. L. Elkin, J. T. Young, W. D. Rowland, D. M. Puckett, J. M. Isbell, Ira L. Cain, T. F. Hunter, P. L. Myers, R. J. Myers, Goss Waggoner, F. H. Williams, Ann Barker, W. S. Langford, M. T. Clements, James P. Bowen, O. W. Harvey, J. Truman Stevens, W. Newton Maer, Grover C. Johnson, Walter H. Caldwell, W. M. Cason, W. W. Fraser, Dr. Maud Lindsey and Mesdames R. Steele Johnston, Paul Donald and Miss Lura D. Moore of Bowie.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

I'm carefully keeping all the letters I receive from men who read my column. A woman just naturally thinks it proper that women should read what she says, but she's usually flattered when men peruse her sentences. For all this talk of equality among the sexes, there's yet a vague idea in the air that men are the more serious—say the more logical thinkers.

Though I was once accused of having a masculine viewpoint (and strutted about it because my ideas are so feminine they almost wear frills)—letters from men please me because I feel they would never write them if they were not acknowledging acquaintance with my thoughts and dreams—my memories and vague, but ever persistent ideals.

One always forms an opinion of a writer. In the middle of the winter when I—or rather my decrepit car—was dragged into a garage, the proprietor, on learning my name, exclaimed, "Well I have wanted to meet you. Do you know I had you figured out as a young woman of about 25?"

How he must have been shocked to find me with one foot practically in the grave. Maybe he has quit reading my column. If not let him take warning—the other foot still keeps time to music.

It is such a pity that our bodies cannot look like our hearts—though I have known cases where it was a pity the hearts could not look like the bodies. But I have such a nice young heart which I try to keep scrubbed of blemishes; which is almost always gentle and broad minded and which loves life and laughter and beauty and goodness. I really believe my heart must be pretty.

I have been granted privilege to say most things I think in this column, with a sort of "be it on your own head" benediction. The head has had some pretty hard blows, but though "bloody, it is still unbowed." A singer gives her audience melody; a poet gives a string of words like pearls—sometimes—(oh, sometimes!), but a columnist is born to step on first one person's toes then on another's.

So, as long as when stepping to the right I pinch Mary's feet and to the left it may be John's, I can't afford to watch my step too carefully. I must consider only my own thoughts.

But today I would speak of only two things, neither of which can offend any person. Texas has bloomed this spring, in our section at least, with a glory unknown to the oldest settlers. And every one has gloried in the wild flowers. But I've found the bravest among the cultivated blossoms.

I followed the trail of a bowl of beautiful pansies round the driveway to the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Howard and found a bed of almost human faces there; pert little yellow pansies with mocking brown eyes and cheeks; great purple velvet blossoms; deep maroon with fluffy double leaves and wee little modest lavender pansy ladies. All sheltered from the north wind by a warm brick wall and with nice fatherly evergreens watching over them at the east and west.

And there's a clean sweet rose garden all swept and garnished and ready for bloom. And there are larkspur and hollyhocks threatening a riot of rose and red and orchid. And in the center, a round concrete pool, where goldfish dart around the lily pads—one lily almost in bloom. Not just plain gold fish, but lion heads and Chinese Moors and golden tails. "Oh a garden is a beauteous thing, God wot!"

Nature and humanity alike are noble. The most beautiful thing I read in Thursday morning's paper was the story of the dying educator, Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university, who smiling in the face of death continued to sign diplomas to be issued to Baylor graduates. I fancy they will be looked on with more affection that the ordinary sheepskin. And one—the last—will be a treasured souvenir of a brave man.

Cermak Orders Probe Of Education Board

CHICAGO, May 7. (INS)—Civil service investigation of the affairs of the board of education will be ordered, Mayor Anton J. Cermak announced today.

"We are going to have a complete investigation and show how pay rolls have been overloaded and how the present board is responsible for the increased cost of government," the mayor said. "I can't be responsible for the administration of the school system unless I am responsible for the board. My principal idea is to be certain that there shall be a board whose members will administer the school system honestly and efficiently."

MINING TOWN CHEERS TROOPS

Strife-Torn City Welcomes Protectors

EVARTS, Ky., May 7. (AP)—Waving American flags and cheering loudly, several hundred residents of the strife-torn Evarts coal mining community greeted 325 national guardsmen as they detrained here this afternoon bearing orders to "protect those who behave themselves and take care of those who do not."

The guardsmen, despatched by Gov. Flem D. Sampson, after a series of outbreaks during the past few months had brought death to five men and large property damages, came from Harlan where they mobilized this morning.

While the troops were alighting from their special trains made up of day coaches, box car and cabooses, Col. Dan. M. Carrell, in command, addressed an assembly of residents and union miners in the little schoolhouse which had been closed because of disorders.

He also told newspaper men he had spent a part of the morning conferring in Harlan with union officials, mine operators and county officers in an effort to find a permanent solution to the economic situation and labor disagreements that have resulted in hundreds of unemployed miners in the county. He said he would report directo to Governor Sampson on the results of his conferences. Addressing the meeting in the schoolhouse Colonel Carrell said, "We are here for the protection of the community with an impartial and unbiased attitude to preserve peace and safety."

He was introduced by Dr. S. E. Crouch, a local physician, and then W. M. Hightower, president of the local United Mine Workers, asked all who would cooperate with the soldiers to hold up their hands. Hands went up throughout the hall to the accompaniment of a rousing cheer. Union leaders are to meet again tomorrow to discuss the situation. Arrangements were made to quarter the approximately 325 guardsmen in the local hotel, in the cars on which they came and wherever room could be found, but it was expected they would pitch camp on the outskirts of town tomorrow.

The mines lie two and three miles away from Evarts and no immediate plans were made for the soldiers to replace the mine guards. The latter remained on duty.

Childress Farm Boys' Clubs Launch County's Most Extensive Program

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, May 7.—With 17 farmer boys clubs organized in Childress county, the members are starting off the year with a program that is one of the largest in the history of boys' work in the county.

In the livestock and poultry division there are 371 entries. This means that number of livestock or poultry will be cared for by the club boys during the year.

In the agricultural division there is even greater interest. Each club boy is expected to cultivate one acre of ground in some crop of his own choosing.

Sour orange is a new variety of feed and quite an interest has been aroused among the farmers, therefore the trials of the boys will have considerable weight among the farmers next season.

To increase an interest in the club work the local chamber of commerce has purchased 1,200 pounds of certified seed which will be distributed among the boys. The plan calls for each boy receiving this seed to give it careful attention so as to produce much seed for next year.

To assist V. E. Hafner, county agent, the commissioners court has employed a county demonstration agent who will take her position the first of June. This agent will have charge of the work among the farm women. The agent is being sent to the county by the extension department of the A. & M. college.

A Banking Dean Dies He Never Talked Much Who Discovered America Divorce Every 2 Minutes

By EMILE GAUVREAU

The "Sphinx of Wall Street," George F. Baker, is dead at 91. Two days' illness carries off the dean of American bankers, veteran head of the First National, and one of the outstanding financial figures of our times. He began his career as a $2-a-week clerk and wound up by giving away $50,000,000 in charities.

This man, whose wealth and influence were fabulous, whose word in financial circles carried greater weight than the word of kings, led a quiet life. Not until recently did he allow himself to be interviewed, like the late Isaac Gimbel. Once he made a public address, only once. And then he said just six words: "Thank you and God bless you."

Mr. Baker's career shows plainly how little "talk" is needed to build up a great enterprise. He stands as the refutation to all our voluble "go-getters" whose end in life seems to be to sell people everything they do not want. Baker spoke so little that he could have been born dumb, and succeeded just as eminently. He used only his mind. He may have sought the advice of others. Generally he followed his own. He knew that the secret of accomplishment was singleness of purpose, devotion to one's work. At 91 he still attended to business. He never put off till tomorrow what he felt ought to be done today.

Like Carnegie, Hill, Gary, Guggenheim Harriman, Morgan, Vanderbilt, Baker was a pioneer. He founded something. His wealth has a greater significance than mere riches. His labors have erected a monument for him. He needs no other. He delivered the goods instead of delivering addresses. Think that over the next time you attend a business men's luncheon.

Who discovered America? Or rather, to whom should the honor of discovering it go? The Scandinavians claim the honor through Leif Ericsson. Spain and Italy claim it through Christopher Columbus. Now the Greeks put forth their claim, rather belatedly.

According to M. Alginites, director of the observatory at Athens, the credit should go to three of his ancient countrymen: Eratosthenes, Strabo and the geographer, Ptolemy, all three of whom aided Columbus, the Greek claims. Eratosthenes suggested the feasibility of such a voyage. Strabo predicted that new worlds might be discovered beyond the Atlantic's horizon. Ptolemy, by underestimating the distance across the Atlantic from Spain, is supposed to have heartened Columbus to take the chance.

The discovery of America will end finally in a conundrum as difficult to solve as "who laid the first egg?"

A divorce every two minutes is the rate at which the holy bonds of matrimony are being dissolved at Reno. The new six weeks' residence clause in the Nevada laws has turned Reno into a world's fair for temperamentally unsuited couples.

If business keeps on booming, they may have to install automats. Then all that one will have to do is to deposit the fee, turn a crank, and go home free. In former days, bad cooking was grounds for divorce. But in Reno you need no grounds at all. Just bask in the sun for six weeks, gamble a little, drink a little, and there you are. The fee is $20, but cut-rate booths will probably soon begin operating.

New York ought to be grateful to Reno for one thing: New York will suddenly become a city wiped clean of adultery. For what fool would seek divorce in New York on a shameful confession, when he can get it in Reno without any reflection on his moral uprightness.

There are usually but two angles to the "eternal triangle," wisely observes the office sage.

Two Points of View

CRITICISM of American institutions from the other side of the ocean is not always worth listening to, European visitors being what they are. But a remark made the other day by G. K. Chesterton, the English author and lecturer, as he returned to England after a long tour through the United States, contains something that we could mull over a bit without hurting ourselves.

"From one end to the other of this magnificent civilization," said Mr. Chesterton, "there is no such thing as a village. When you enter a little town it is simply an eyesore to anybody of European tradition or instincts.

"The first things met are yellow tin advertisements, tin buildings with frameworks of lead and glass, and tin shops—and then, thank God, you are out of the town."

Obviously, the American small town rubbed Mr. Chesterton in the wrong way; and it is quite certain that there is an enormous contrast between the orderly, attractive little rural hamlets of England and the villages of the United States. But are things quite as bad as he says?

Probably not. Yet there is no sense in denying that he had good grounds for his criticism. Every American motorist can remember towns that fall precisely into that classification; towns that come as an acute disappointment to the traveler and that make him want to keep going, as Mr. Chesterton wanted to keep going, in the hope of finding something nicer.

It has been charged, by foreign critics, that Americans as a people are actually hostile to beauty; that they prefer ugliness to charm, and wilfully make their homes and their public buildings displeasing to the eye. Very likely it would be nearer to the truth to say that we are simply careless.

It would be fairly easy to remove most of the unpleasant features from the small town landscape, if a little time and money were spent on the job. But usually nobody takes the trouble to start such a movement. Everybody agrees that this, that or the other thing looks pretty bad—and everybody waits for the other fellow to do something about it.

Some of the trouble, too, is due to the fact that the inhabitant of any town sees more than the visitor. He is used to the place. It is the home town, given a beauty it does not really possess by years of association. He is fond of it, and he treats it as one treats any friend—by turning a blind eye to its bad spots and by seeing loveliness where no stranger can see it.

So the traveler, passing through at 30 miles an hour, looks and says—"What a horrid place!" And the native, coming home after an absence, looks about him, feels a warm glow in his breast at the old, familiar sights, and murmurs that it's the most attractive spot in the country.

Services and Rewards

EVERY so often the daily newspapers, in their news columns, remind us that the income a man receives is not often directly related to the services he performs for society.

The latest reminder of this kind is the news that the late Major General Clarence R. Edwards, war-time commander of the 25th division, left an estate of approximately $153,000.

This, of course, is a comfortable fortune—but it is small, as rich men's fortunes go these days. Yet General Edwards was one of our most valuable citizens. His division gave an excellent account of itself in France. In war and in peace he exercised a vast influence for good on the men who came in contact with him. If we rewarded men according to the services they render us, he would have been a much richer man when he died.

Sweating but Conforming

ALTHOUGH women's clothes these days are both pleasing to look at and comfortable to wear, men's clothing is still as heavy, stuffy and uncomfortable as the clothing men wore a century ago.

So complains Irvin S. Cobb in the current issue of Harper's Bazaar. He remarks that man's coat is clumsy, that his high collar is an atrocity, that his trousers are stiff and ugly and that, in short, he should throw all of these things into the furnace and start wearing bright-colored smocks and tunics.

This is sound good sense; but will the suggestion be adopted? Not, one fears, while Mr. Cobb, or any of the rest of us, live. Man is a conservative creature, and in matters of dress he seems to be more conservative than in any other field. He will sweat and he will suffer, but he will conform, just as he always has.

It was like a queer, thin dream to Helen, repeating this picnic trip she had made so often with Tommy, on this late February day in leafless woods, and feeling nothing at all.

They reached the little glade, with its nearby outdoor oven. The day was mild. Tommy's luck. He spread a motor rug down and built a fire, and they began to open the cans he had brought, while he talked steadily on.

"You know, Helen," he said, settling down by her with his own paper plate, "after you other girls haven't much flavor. The devoted ones aren't amusing and the amusing ones are darn upstage. That's really"—he eyed her as he spoke—"why I gave Kay the air. Always had to bring your own kneeling cushion when you went after Kay."

"Do you think you did right to break off with her?" Helen asked coolly.

He gave one of his wild bursts of laughter.

"Oh, love, since you force me to the admission, she was painfully willing! You take little affairs of the heart too hard and fast, Helen. At our age one drifts to and fro a lot—as we have. And then we come back to our first loves. Also as we have."

Helen sat quiet and unmoved and only faintly smiling.

He looked full at her, with his queer green-gray eyes, lashed like a woman's. He was consciously exerting his spell on her. "Love me, Helen?" he demanded softly.

"No, Tommy, not a bit. I felt pretty badly when you threw me over before everybody in Kingsway. I had loved you, though it was kid's love. If we had been married then I think I'd have always loved you. I'm fond of you in a way now, just because I was crazy over you once. That was it—" She pondered. "I was crazy over you. I'm not crazy now, I'm sane."

"Helen, I know I did you a dirty trick, but you shouldn't have taken it so hard, for one thing. You should have known"—Tommy actually sounded injured—"that I'd have come back to you if you'd just hung on. But, no, you just took it! And anyway you make too much fuss over little things."

He reached out an arm to pull her close, as he had always done in the old days, but she shook her head, and rose, standing over him, to avoid him.

"Tommy, don't promises mean one thing on earth to you?" she demanded, staring at him.

"As I see it, I fell down on you a little, as any man would with his mother hounding him once a day by letter, and the best-looking girl in a new place doing her bit. And you seem to have had the prayers of the congregation. Everybody, I find, either thought you'd thrown me, or else I was a deep-dyed villain—which wasn't fair, for I'm a decent sort of chap, if I am impulsive," said Tommy with gentle reproach. "But now you've fallen down on me, playing round with Kingsway, as I see it. We're quits. I vote we bucket over to the county seat in a nice quiet way and get tied up, tomorrow, say!"

"Tommy, you are incredible," was all she could find to say.

"Nearly but not quite," he said blithely. "Most real and devoted, my love. And father will be thrilled—you always liked Dad."

He waited, smiling, nearly certain.

"You're talking nonsense," she said briefly, beginning to clear things away and wrap up the debris preparatory to burning it.

"Well, at least you came with me, which proves quite a lot. You wouldn't if you were really so mad over Kingsway," he said conclusively.

She shivered . . . No, she was not going to marry Kingsway . . .

They drove home, earlier than Tommy had planned.

"I'll call you up after dinner. By that time you'll be over your little tantrum," he told her obstinately as she stepped out of his car.

She smiled and faced about. "Not all the king's horses," she repeated.

And then, inside the Nottingham lace of Mrs. Birch's parlor curtains, she saw the outline of a man.

She knew who it was. Only Ethan had that tall grace. Ethan, whom she had lost, Ethan who would always think her bravery shallowness; who had demanded faith and love and loyalty; who had taught her a high code and then refused to believe her capable of following . . . It was dreadful—it was unendurable—she must do something.

"Very well," she said desperately to Tommy. "Call. You may hear of something to your advantage." She managed even to smile and wave her hand to him as she went in. She heard his triumphant voice floating back from the run-about—Ethan could have heard it too—

"I knew you'd give in! See you later—and always!"

She made herself walk into the room. Ethan stood there, waiting for her . . . She shivered, and pulled herself together to face him.

"Helen," he said, "I have come to ask you to forgive me."

"Don't you know where I've been? Where you thought, before. I've been off all day with Tommy. Don't you understand? Tommy Delamater. He wants me to marry him again. He wants me to marry him tomorrow. I—I shall marry Tommy."

She stopped talking and stood facing him, and waited for what he would say.

His voice, close to her. It was passionate, half angry, possessive.

"I don't care," he was saying, "where you've been. I don't care what you've done or what you've promised. I believe in you entirely and absolutely, as you deserve. And you are going to marry me and nobody else, unless you can tell me honestly that you love him better than you do me." He came close to her and put his hands on her shoulders.

"Oh, Ethan—" How long could she stand this? "Don't go through all this again. Haven't I told you. It doesn't matter how much you love me if you don't trust me?"

"I do trust you. Always, entirely. I ask you again to forgive me for distrusting for even a little while."

"You aren't just saying this? Not to get me back?"

"I wouldn't say it, even to get you back—I couldn't—if it weren't true. Didn't you get my note?"

"No, I went off this morning before the mail came. It was later than usual," she said mechanically.

"I wrote to you last night, thank heaven, before I'd been told anything by Ronny," he said.

"Ronny's told you—"

He came close and took her in his arms

"I'll explain everything, but, oh, Helen, I want you in my arms again first, mine—"

They were in each other's arms suddenly, blessedly; as if it had been years since they were parted.

"Oh, is it real?" Helen thought; and heard Ethan say softly.

"I can't believe it's real, darling . . . Helen, let's get married tomorrow!"

Suddenly she laughed and spoke. "Oh, I forgot. I can't marry anybody tomorrow. Not even if more inquiries come."

"Any special engagement?

"It's been a hard week for the Heather girls. My little sister's in trouble again, real trouble, poor baby, and I have to go down and see what I can do to straighten it out."

He put his arms around her again.

"You don't have to straighten out anybody's troubles, dear. I saw them both, and I straightened it all out. Your little sister wired me to break it to you, before she wrote you. They are both very much in love, and it wasn't hard."

"And what about Lester?"

"He was desperate, poor young fellow. But they are starting all over again down there. Jessica is to have a little house—it's quite in the country—and the babies can play on the grass, and the shopping district is 12 miles off. So is Lester's business. So you mustn't have them on your mind any more."

There came a thud on the door, followed by the crash of its opening, and on top of that, Patricia. She made one leap, in her rainbow finery, on Helen. Patricia caught her breath once, and then demanded.

"Is it all right? Helen, are you goin' to marry him? . . . But you are. You're friends . . . Oh, Helen, I'm so glad, even if I do owe Ethan six weeks' allowance! It was worth it."

Helen hugged the child close.

"Of course."

"All right then. And I forgot. Cousin Ada said wouldn't you please come to dinner if it was all right."

It had occurred to them, at the Kingsways' to straighten out the affair of Patricia and the note.

"But didn't she give you anything?" Helen demanded. "I said, 'Take this to Ethan,' and she said she would. It isn't like Patricia—"

"Walk," he said. "I remember now. She did give me—a paperweight!"

"A paper-weight?"

"Why, yes. I thought it was one of her games; you know what mysterious things she has a way of expecting you to share—"

"No—wait—I know! I weighed down the letter. Let me see."

She ran to the table.

"Here's your letter, Ethan!"

He dropped it into the bed of coals smoldering between the brass firedogs.

"So we both told the truth!" she said triumphantly.

"And incidentally, I forgot to tell you that today while I was going mad with impatience I took the edge off some of it," he told her, "by breaking Doris' marriage to her father and aunt."

"Mr. Milliken may, probably will, take Ronald into business with him, if the boy likes."

"And now, Helen, I don't want to be insistent. But I'm afraid of losing you. What about next week, instead of tomorrow?"

"And what about my wedding, that your mother is planning so carefully?"

"Two weeks, then."

She lifted her flushed face, smiling and gracious and generous in the firelight.

"Oh, I suppose I'll do it, Ethan! It's like the motto on your ring, you know

"I've always 'gone the King's Wale'!"

They were quiet for a long moment. Then he kissed her once more.

"Not many more times, then, I shall take you home!" he said happily. "This will be your home, Helen."

"But you must take me home, now! . . ."

(The end).

Borah Plans Tour Through Northwest

WASHINGTON, May 7. (INS)—Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho today disclosed that he is planning to leave in two weeks for an extensive trip through the Northwest during which he will study agricultural and political conditions.

Although he has not made any speaking dates, Senator Borah may take the stump to assail the Hoover administration's farm and tariff policy, and lay the foundation for a progressive fight in the next presidential campaign.

The Idaho senator will make his tour at about the same time the newly-formed agricultural division of the Republican national committee is getting under way with its defense of the administration in the farm belt states.

Shrimp Omelet

Beat six eggs slightly. Add one small can of cleaned, whole shrimp, one-third cupful of blanched, coarsely chopped almonds, six tablespoonfuls water, one teaspoonful each of minced onion and parsley, one-eighth teaspoonful salt, and a dash of pepper. Pour into a frying pan in which one tablespoonful of butter has been melted, tipping the pan to grease the sides. Cook over medium heat until bottom of omelet is set, lift to let uncooked portion run under and continue until omelet is entirely set. Brown the top lightly under broiler heat. Serve with brown sauce. Serves six.

Brown Sauce

Melt two tablespoonfuls butter in a saucepan. Add an equal amount of flour and stir until smooth. Add one cupful cold water, stirring constantly. Bring to a boil, add three tablespoonfuls Chinese soy sauce, and let boil one minute longer.

Olive Canapes

One-half tablespoonful butter.
One-half tablespoonful peanut butter.
Four two-inch circles of bread, toasted.
Four stuffed olives.

Cream butter and peanut butter together and spread on circles of toast. Put a thin slice of olive in the center of each and garnish with a border of the remainder of the olives finely chopped. Serves 4.

Liver and Bacon

One pound beef liver.
Salt.
Pepper.
Two tablespoonfuls milk.
Fine dry bread crumbs.
One-fourth pound bacon.

Slice liver, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dip in milk and then in bread crumbs. Cook bacon, thinly sliced, until crisp and remove to brown paper. Cook liver in the bacon fat from six to eight minutes or until golden brown and cooked through, and remove to a hot platter. Surround with four piles of cooked noodles; between the noodles put mounds of cooked spinach. Pour tomato sauce around the liver. Garnish between piles with strips of bacon.

Noodles With Cheese

One egg yolk.
Two tablespoonfuls cold water.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Three-fourths cupful flour.
Three tablespoonfuls grated cheese.
Two tablespoonfuls butter.

Beat egg yolk with water, add salt and flour, using enough to make a very stiff dough. Knead until smooth, toss on a slightly floured cloth and roll as thin as possible, which may be as thin as paper. Cover with a towel and set aside for 20 minutes. Then cut in fancy shapes, using a sharp knife or French vegetable cutter, or roll like a jelly roll, cut in slices as thin as possible and unroll the pieces. Dry and when needed cook 20 minutes in boiling salted water. Drain and mix with butter and grated cheese. Serves four.

Tomato Sauce

One slice onion.
Three tablespoonfuls bacon fat or butter.
Three tablespoonfuls flour.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.
One and one-half cupfuls canned tomatoes.
Four cloves.
Celery leaves, or seed or salt, or chopped fresh celery.

Cook onion until yellow in bacon fat in which liver was cooked. Add flour, salt and pepper and cook until brown. Then add canned tomatoes, cloves and celery and cook five minutes. Rub through a strainer and serve hot.

Molded Spinach

One pound spinach.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls butter.
One-fourth teaspoonful salt.
Few gratings nutmeg.

Pick over and wash spinach in about seven waters. Drain, put in a stew pan, cover and cook in its own juices 25 minutes or until tender. Drain thoroughly, reserving the liquid for a soup, and chop fine. Add butter, salt and nutmeg. Pack in oiled individual molds, place in pan of hot water and keep hot. Remove from molds for serving.

Jellied Spring Salad

Dissolve one package of lemon-flavored gelatin in one cupful boiling water. Add one cupful ice water, one teaspoonful salt, and one teaspoonful of vinegar. When slightly thickened, stir in one cupful diced cucumbers, one cupful thinly sliced radishes and one cupful diced tender young onions. (Diced celery might be used instead of the onions). Turn into individual molds or one large mold. Chill until set. Serve garnished with watercress or on crisp lettuce. Serves six.

Peach Cream Sherbet

Three cupfuls mashed, fresh peaches.
One and one-half cupfuls sugar.
Two cupfuls cream.
Maraschino cherries.

Pare, stone and put the peaches through a potato ricer. Measure three cupfuls and cover with the sugar. Let stand for three hours, then add the cream. Freeze, using eight parts ice to one part salt. Garnish when serving with maraschino cherries. Canned peaches may be used in the same manner if the sugar is reduced to one cupful. This recipe makes about two quarts.

Oatmeal Cookies

Two and one-fourth cupfuls flour.
One cupful sugar.
Two eggs.
One-half teaspoonful soda.
One-half teaspoonful nutmeg or cinnamon.
One teaspoonful baking powder.
Two and one-fourth cupfuls uncooked oatmeal.
One cupful butter.
Two tablespoonfuls sour milk.

Cream shortening, add sugar and well beaten eggs and beat. Sift baking powder with flour and add soda to sour milk; (spice should also be sifted with the flour). Add the flour mixture alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Roll, cut and bake in a moderate oven. This makes from 40 to 44 nice sized cookies.

Carrot and Pineapple Salad

Two cupfuls raw carrots, grated.
1 cupful grated pineapple, drained.
Two cupfuls white grapes, cut small.
One pimiento, cut in shreds.
One-half cupful boiled salad dressing.
One-half cupful heavy cream, beaten.

Soak three teaspoonfuls of granulated gelatin in three tablespoonfuls cold water. Then dissolve in one-fourth cupful boiling water, cool and stir into the salad dressing; fold in the stiffly beaten cream. Add other ingredients and chill in individual molds. Serve on crisp lettuce with a teaspoonful of mayonnaise on each serving. Sprinkle paprika on the mayonnaise.

Grapefruit-Prune Pie

With a sharp knife, peel, like an apple, two large grapefruits, removing all of the white, inner skin; then with the knife separate whole sections of fruit from the membrane. Add one cupful of sugar and let stand about 15 minutes. Use one cup of cooked prunes, pitted and cut in slices. Pour off the grapefruit juice and add to the prune juice; there should be one and two-thirds cups in all. Mix three tablespoonfuls of corn starch with two tablespoonfuls of cold water; add the hot juice and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Arrange prunes and grapefruit in a baked pastry shell, then pour the thickened juice over the fruit. Sprinkle with toasted cocoanut. (To toast cocoanut, place in a flat pan in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., and stir often).

Cottage Cheese Patties

One pound cottage cheese.
One-fourth teaspoonful pepper.
Few grains cayenne.
Four tablespoonfuls cream.
One egg.
One cupful fine bread crumbs.

Mash cheese with a fork; add salt, pepper, cayenne and cream. Mix to a smooth paste. Mold into round, flat cakes about the size of a tea biscuit. Let stand until slightly dry; dip in beaten egg, then in fine crumbs. Fry in deep or shallow fat until brown, and crisp. These are delicious to serve with crackers for tea.

LIVER

The old-time favorite of calves' liver and bacon assumed new virtues a few years ago due to the fact that it was discovered that liver contained a wealth of vitamines and mineral salts. It is particularly rich in iron and for this reason is especially valuable in building up the blood and combating anemia. And calves' liver does not alone hold this honor, but beef liver, pig liver, kidneys, chicken liver, calves' heart and beef heart come next in the list.

Calf and chicken livers are very tender and delicate and are therefore preferred by many. They should be cooked quickly either by pan or oven broiling, saute'ing or deep fat frying.

Beef, pork and lamb livers, kidneys and hearts may be made just as appetizing if they are properly prepared and are ordinarily less expensive. Being less tender the latter require one of the longer processes of cooking as in braising, stewing or baking.

Calves' liver need only to be wiped with a damp cloth before using, but the outer skin and large veins should be removed from the heavier livers. Beef, pork and lamb livers are made more tender if marinated for several hours in a mixture of three parts of vinegar and one part of oil before cooking. They may also be improved by allowing them to stand after slicing in boiling water for five minutes.

Braised Liver With Vegetable Soup

One pound calf's liver.
Salt and pepper.
Beef suet or bacon fat.
One onion.
One and one-half cupfuls (1 can) vegetable soup.
One-half cupful water.
Worcestershire sauce.

Wash liver, purchased in a solid piece, in cold water and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cut up a small piece of suet and try out in a small frying pan. Add onion, sliced, and cook for two or three minutes. Turn into a casserole, place liver on top and pour around it the vegetable soup and water. Add a few drops Worcestershire, cover and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about one hour. Garnish with crisp bacon.

Calf's Liver en Casserole

One calf's liver.
Six slices bacon.
One pint brown stock.
One cupful button mushrooms.
Three cupfuls potato balls.

Wash the calf's liver and wipe dry. Put three tablespoonfuls of bacon fat in a pan and place the liver in the hot fat and sear each side thoroughly. Place liver, bacon, brown stock and saute'd mushrooms in a casserole. Cover and cook one and one-half hours in a moderate oven. Just before serving add the potato balls that have been fried in deep fat and thoroughly drained.

Braised Liver With Vegetables

One pound beef liver.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls flour.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.
Two tablespoonfuls melted fat.
One medium onion, sliced.
One-fourth cupful diced celery.
Two carrots, sliced.
Two cupfuls strained tomatoes.
One-half bayleaf.

Cut liver into 2-inch squares, roll in combined flour, salt, and pepper and then brown on all sides in hot melted fat or bacon drippings. Remove meat and arrange in a casserole. Brown onion, celery and carrots slightly in the same fat, then place in the casserole with tomatoes and bayleaf. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for one and one-half to two hours or until liver and vegetables are tender. Serves six.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Liver

Two cupfuls cooked, finely chopped liver.
One cupful cooked rice.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls chopped onion.
Eight medium green peppers.
One and one-half teaspoonfuls salt.
One-eighth teaspoonful pepper.
One-half cupful milk.
Two tablespoonfuls melted butter or margarine.

Seed green peppers after cutting off a slice from the top. Cover with boiling water and simmer gently five minutes; drain. Meanwhile combine finely chopped liver, rice, onion, salt, pepper, milk and melted butter. Slightly salt and pepper the inside of the green peppers, and fill them with the prepared liver stuffing. Bake upright in a baking pan with one cupful boiling water in a moderate oven of 375 degrees F for 30 minutes or until peppers are tender. Serves eight.

Stuffed Liver Rolls

One and one-half pounds thinly sliced calves liver.
Four cupfuls soft bread crumbs.
One and one-half cupfuls drained crushed pineapple.
One and one-half tablespoonfuls minced green pepper.

RCA LICENSES ARE EXTENDED

Temporary Provision Made For Settlement

WASHINGTON, May 7. (INS)—All Radio Corporation of American radio licenses necessary for maintenance of the service of the RCA and its subsidiaries, were extended today on a temporary basis until July 15, pending a hearing relative to the application of section 13 of the radio act of 1927, under which the Federal Radio commission may revoke them.

A hearing was set for Monday, June 15.

The radio commission announced the following method of handling the RCA licenses:

"1. That any renewal of applications filed by RCA or any of its so-called subsidiary companies which are now pending decision before the commission be designated for hearing and if such application request licenses which are necessary for the maintenance of the existing service, that until the conduct of such hearing and the decision of the commission as a result thereof, the existing licenses be extended upon a temporary basis to July 15 at 3 a. m.

"2. That such further renewal applications, if any, as come before the commission prior to its decision in these matters be treated in a similar manner.

"3. That such steps should be taken prior to the hearing date as will be necessary to insure that at least one renewal of each of the above named companies is designated for hearing on that date, and that if necessary to accomplish this result these companies should be directed by the commission to file applications for renewal forthwith and without regard to the expiration date of the existing licenses or the requirements of general order No. 89 with respect to filing applications for renwal of licenses."

Today's action resulted from the supreme court's refusal to grant the RCA a writ of certiorari following the decision of the district and circuit courts that the clause of its patent contract, requiring radio manufacturers to initially equip their receivers with RCA tubes, was in violation of the Clayton act.

EXPERTS SHOW WAY TO KILL GERMS OF "ATHLETE'S FOOT"

Do your toes ever bother you with a general itching condition? Is the skin between them blistered? Or has it become moist and thickened, turning either red or white, or even developing a scaly dryness?

If you have any of these symptoms, you are probably a victim of "Athlete's Foot"—an insidious form of ringworm which has attacked more than 10 million people in the United States today.

So don't gamble with this strange disease—apply ABSORBINE JR. to the infected parts twice a day. It not only helps to curb serious complications, but actually kills the germs wherever it penetrates.

For after thorough tests, bacteriologists of a famous New York laboratory showed that this mild, soothing, yet powerful, antiseptic is especially deadly to the tinea trichophyton germs which cause "Athlete's Foot."

It is wise to use ABSORBINE JR. after every exposure to wet surfaces—in public places—even in your bathroom. For these tiny parasites breed and lurk simply everywhere, and are always ready to attack. At all drug stores, $1.25. W. F. Young, Inc., Springfield, Mass.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lost Cartilage

Question—Mrs. F. K. asks: "Can a missing cartilage be renewed in the knee of a woman over 50 years of age? The condition is due to a long standing case of arthritis, and her body strength has been considerably impaired."

Answer—It is not likely that the cartilage will ever be restored to normal. The best thing to do is to get rid of any rheumatic toxemia now existing and after all soreness has disappeared the knee should be exercised to create as normal a movement as possible.

Almonds

Question—O. G. H. asks: "Will you please tell me if almonds may be recommended for any specific purpose in the diet?

Answer—The almond is a nut containing a large amount of protein and oil, and is a very valuable food. It may be used specifically in place of meat, but there is no particular disorder for which it is indicated."

Red Patch

Question—Mrs. W. B. P. writes: "My husband is troubled with a large red patch around his heart. He claims his heart aches at times. The patch is much deeper in color after he has tired himself out from walking and working hard. After he has rested for a while the red mark goes away. Could you tell me what the trouble is? Is it considered serious?"

Answer—It is not likely that the red patch appearing on the skin has anything directly to do with the heart. The circulation in the skin over the heart does not change because of heart trouble any more than any other part of the body. Your husband may have some heart derangement. If this is true, after resting the circulation becomes more normal, making the red patch disappear, but it is coincidental that the red patch appears near the heart.

SPUDS RALLY IN CLOSING FRAMES TO WHIP INDIANS, 10-8

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

W. C. Rushing of Electra, one of the Rambler's most severe critics, painfully reminds us that we picked the Spudders to wind up in the first division. He writes:

"Dear Rambler:

"I think you were as optimistic as a horse fly riding the spare on a flivver when you picked the Spudders to finish in or about the first division. If the management of the St. Louis Browns doesn't quit giving hit and run signals to the Spudders from the St. Louis office Mr. Gardner is going to have to dig another cellar besides the one that the Sports are in, for the Spuds. Mr. Parker in The Times gave several reasons why the Spudders were not winning ball games and also said the league wasn't hitting, possibly because of the new ball. I guess the raised seams lets the ball go between the infielders' feet, especially the Spudders' infield. Now what they really need is long aprons made of min.ow seines, take their gloves away from them and have them hold the lower corners in their hands that will stop a lot of errors and turn losses into well-pitched games. As I will not see Mr. Williams soon I am going to depend on you to tip him off to my ideas. I know what your guess on me is but when I was small I slept in the attic covered with a crazy quilt and all the play prettys I had was the wheels out of a coo-coo clock. All that and the box scores of the Spudder games are enough to make any one a fit candidate for the east end of Lake Wichita. Here's hoping they have a split season."

Mr. Rushing you robbed me of a whole column. I was just preparing a scathing denunciation of critics who use the raised seams to alibi for their clubs, but you've already hit the nail on the head. There were several changes in baseball this season, in the rules and in the playing equipment, specifically in the ball. The new ball has received all the attention so far, while the one change, that one would think would raise a howl has been touched on lightly. We refer to the abolition of the sacrifice fly, which will considerably lower every player's batting average. Instead of giving the players' ideas on this subject some expression, the sports writers of losing teams have been howling that the new ball is robbing them of ball games, while the sports writers covering winning teams say the raised seams "help their hurlers toss the curve."

The effect of the new ball, it would seem, depends on whether the critic is writing of a winning, or a losing, team.

Looking for War

If the Chillicothe Cubs don't stop advertising their prowess they'll be playing ball far, far into the winter, for one team after another in this section is seeking games with them. The other day it was Tipton, Okla. Now Frank Reid, of Olney, writes:

"Dear Rambler:

"I notice that the Chillicothe Cubs are a fast stepping ball club that is a good ball club.

"Now I want to tell you about another one that is playing in the Triangle league.

"And that is the Turbeville club, which has shown enough to play any sandlot club in Texas or Oklahoma, and that is saying a whole lot.

"And if you can I wish you would arrange up a game with the Cubs or send me the manager's name.

"I want to tell you what we have done since the start of the Triangle league.

"Now I don't want to brag on our club too much but a club with the punch we have should have something to say as well as the Cubs, even if I do play with Turbeville.

"The first game we beat Mankins, 12 to 6. Second game we beat Dad's Corner, 11 to 3. The third game we beat K. M. A. 8 to 6. Fourth game we beat Dundee, 7 to 2. Fifth game we beat Valley View, 13 to 1.

"Robertson got 18 strikeouts against Dundee and 16 against Valley View. Valley View only got one hit.

"So watch this club walk off with the flag in the Triangle league.

"Please let me know what you think about our club.

"I am pulling for the Spudders strong and hope that the next game that they play against Houston they give that Dizzy Dean a headache."

That would certainly be tit for tat, Mr. Dean has certainly given us a headache.

A club with as many victories as yours boasts, and with a pitcher like Robertson is something to take pride in, Mr. Reid. Now if you want a game with the Cubs write Mr. W. L. Boyd, manager of the Chillicothe team, at Chillicothe.

They Done It Again

"A Crowell fan," who plays on the Crowell team, writes another lamentation on the defeat of his team by Mr. Boyd's Cubs. List to his sad words:

"Dear Rambler:

"Well, Mr. Rambler, they done it again. Those mean old Cubs from Chillicothe, they beat us 3 to 4 in 10 innings. It was one of the hottest contested games ever played on the Crowell lot. Rasberry pitched shut-out ball and deserved a shut-out, for the Cubs got nary a earned run, and we earned only two. We took a two-run lead in the third and fourth and held it until the seventh when the Cubs put across three unearned runs. We tied it in the ninth. And after two were out and a man on third they made a wicket between our shortstopper's legs for the winning run. Anyway I said Thalia would beat them and they did, 4 to 0. They didn't send that to The Record News. Fred come up to Chili the 26th and see a good game. I guess you are tired of mediocre baseball as played in the Texas league. Come and see two GOOD teams play. That was a good letter the Cub writer sent you. Tell him thanks."

Mr. Boyd, I'm ashamed of you for not sending us a report of your team's defeat by Thalia. Be square now, and don't give us the news only on the days you win. And Mr. Crowell fan, I'll do my best to come to "Chill" the 26th. If the game is as hot as your abbreviation of the name "Chillicothe" it should be a wow.

Judge Landis Speaking

R. O. Peevey, secretary of the Sunset club of the Brazos Valley league, asks us for information, as follows:

"Is it permissible in baseball for one playing to conceal the ball when it is in play? There is some discussion as to a play made here Sunday. Third baseman made motion to throw the ball to the pitcher and in the same motion hid the ball under his arm and walked off as though the ball was in play. The runner played off and was tagged. The umpire called him safe. Was he right or wrong?

The umpire was right. He could have inflicted even more punishment on the offending third baseman's team by ruling a balk and allowing the runner to score from third unmolested. The balk rule states a balk shall be called when the pitcher takes his position either on or off the rubber and feigns a delivery to the batter, or, whether he makes a motion to pitch or not, if the pitcher takes a legal position on the pitcher's plate without the ball in his possession. Doubtless the pitcher violated one or more of these rules in the case cited, for if he had not taken a legal position in the box the runner on third would not have been fooled into believing the pitcher had the ball.

TRIBE LOSES 5-RUN LEAD

Estell and Carson Routed From Box

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 7. (AP)—Wichita Falls' Spudders overcame a five-run lead to defeat the San Antonio Indians here, 10-8, today.

The Tribe started fast by scoring four runs in the opening round as the result of two timely wallops for extra bases by Orr and Hamilton. In the sixth inning a couple of three baggers counted for three runs for the Spudders.

Tom Estell was sent in to relieve Carson but shared the same fate and Roy Walker finished up. Score:

CATS WIN IN 16TH

GALVESTON, May 7. (AP)—Black Bill Harris weakened in the sixteenth inning today and Fort slipped over two runs to break up the first extra inning game of the season here, 4-2.

Both Dick McCabe and Harris pitched masterful ball, being airtight in the pinches. Harris had himself to blame for not winning by a shutout for in the sixth after Moore walked, Harris threw Dalrymple's sacrifice past first base into deep right field and both tallied. The Cats counted in the sixteenth after Brown and Perry hit and another hit, mixed in with an error, brought them across the plate. Score:

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 7. (AP)—The Steers made it two in a row over the Exporters today with a 4 to 2 victory. Meadows pitched good ball until the seventh, when errors by Higgins and Bennett got him into trouble. Meadows also fired a home run over the right field wall in the third. Mallcky was charged with the defeat, giving up 11 hits in seven innings. Score:

Bankers Slug Out 10-6 Win Over Noble-Little

The Bankers had a rare hitting day Thursday afternoon on Dallas field and slugged out a 10 to 6 victory over the Noble-Little club of the Commercial league. Johnny Reed led the attack with four singles in four trips to the plate for the Bankers. Red Massey walked four times, stole four bases and scored four runs. A league record of 23 stolen bases was registered in the game. Bracken, Hardware company outfielder, was next high among the hitters with three out of four.

A Noble-Little rally threatened in the last two innings of the game, but the lead piled up by the Bankers in the early innings proved more than enough to win the game. Score:

Malone Beauties Add To Lead With 8-2 Win

Malones Beauty shop moved another step away from the rest of the Commercial leaguers Thursday afternoon on Harrison field with an 8 to 2 victory over the Presbyterians. It was the second day in succession that these two clubs had played and the second game registered up as a win for Bonny Ray Walker, Beauty shop ace. Walker let the Churchmen down with six bingles today after shutting them out the day before with only two singles. Walker whiffed eight men in five innings.

Sam Robertson, small Beauty shop manager, led the batting attack for the winners with two singles and a walk in three trips to the plate. John "Babe" Horsley, Presbyterian manager and perhaps one of the greatest hitters in the loop, continued his sensational hitting spree, getting a double and a single in two times at the bat. Score:

Tilden Prepares For Match With Richards

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—William T. Tilden, II, who lists his vacation as journalist and writer, joined the company of fellow authors and actors, today, in preparation for his professional tennis match Saturday night with Vincent Richards.

He will not swing a racquet until he faces his one-time Davis cup partner across the net at Madison Square garden.

"I feel that I've had enough tennis on my tour with Karel Kozeluh," Tilden said, "and do not plan to practice."

Tony Herrera Meets Kid Berg Tonight

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Tony Herrera, a young man of compacted Scotch-Mexican descent whose real name is Campbell, will test the comeback ambitions of Jackie Kid Berg, British lightweight, in Madison Square garden tomorrow night.

Berg, setting out again on the title trail after his surprising knockout by Tony Canzoneri, the 138-pound champion in Chicago recently, is a 7 to 5 favorite to win the decision in 10 rounds despite Herrera's right hand punching ability. Herrera has won two decisions and has fought one draw in recent matches here.

LONGHORNS WIN

AUSTIN, May 7. It was the fifth consecutive victory for the Del Rio boy this season.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Rather nervous and irregular fluctuations, attributed to conflicting features in the weather news and the unsettled ruling of the stock market, were followed by closing advances in cotton today.

July, after selling off from 9.95 to 9.86, closed at 9.96 compared with 9.91 at yesterday's close. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 6 points.

The opening was steady 3 points lower on May but generally 2 to 4 points higher on some overnight buying orders which were evidently brought in by the advance of late yesterday, while May was influenced by a little liquidation incident to the circulation of a few additional notices.

A forecast for warmer weather in the Southwest and renewed weakness in the stock market probably accounted for some of the selling on the early afternoon decline, which carried prices off to 10.22 for October contracts or about 5 to 8 points net lower on the more active positions. The market stiffened up in the last few minutes on a renewal of covering in sympathy with the closing rally in the stock market and probably in expectation of the reduction in the local bank rate.

A private crop report was published during the morning pointing to a decrease of 10.1 per cent in the intended acreage, which was within the range of recent private reports. There was also a report that fertilizer tag sales in the 13 southern states for the five months, December and April showed a falling off of 28.6 per cent as compared with last year's.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying had been supplied by liquidation in that market. May notices issued here this morning were estimated at 800 bales. May closed 82 points under December compared with 79 yesterday.

Exports today 18,992, making 6,123,097 so far this season.

Port receipts 5,459. U. S. port stocks 3,433,259.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 7. (AP)—Cotton was rather erratic today in moderate trading. Prices fluctuated being largely influenced by the course of the stock market, although there was at times fair trade buying and price fixing by the mills. The weather was also an early bullish influence. The market rallied sharply at the end almost to the highs and closed steady at net gains for the day of 2 to 5 points.

A private authority reported that the sales of fertilizers during April decreased 17.2 per cent compared with April last year.

The chairman of the farm board stated that private reports pointed to a decrease in acreage of 12.5 per cent.

Liverpool came 5 to 5 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that the continent bought absorbing local liquidation, Manchester cabled that the cloth demand from South America was maintained and that the home trade was better. Spot closed at 9.97, up 5 points net for the day, and October closing at 10.36, up 2 points net.

Port receipts 5,459; for week 22,936; for season 8,656,655; last season 8,326,655; exports 18,922; for week 77,843; for season 3,647,815; last season 6,191,293. Port stocks 3,494,160. DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Unfinished cotton goods were quiet today. Agents were shading prices steadier, but the demand was light and it was difficult to say what might be done on firm bids for quantities.

Wool goods were selling moderately. Rayon was in fair demand with fall trade occupying most of the current attention. Silk continued weak.

Pressure Resistance Increases Despite Fractional Stock Losses

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 7. (US)—The stock market continued lower today although net declines were limited to fractions, on the average.

Again today, as on previous days this week, many stocks showed an inclination to oppose the downward trend still displayed by Steel common, American Can and other prominent issues.

This increasing show of resistance to selling pressure, or perhaps disclosure of at least temporary completion of liquidation, is the most striking phase of the current market.

While many of the leaders, so called, continue heavy, however, sentiment is depressed and it is difficult to win a following for most stocks. Continuation of quietness, however, with a show of firmness in quotations probably will encourage more aggressive group activities in various stocks, although such a development will be desired by the best friends of the market.

Reduction in the federal reserve bank of New York rediscount rate to 1½ per cent, lowest for any central banking institution in financial history, was announced after the market closed, but had been thoroughly forecast.

Woolworth dominated the market from the bullish side. The stock attained a new high for this year and closed up more than three points net for the day.

Buying of the stock continued for the account of the same powerful interests whose initial acquisitions were disclosed here.

It was reported that in addition to their buying, substantial buying has been taking place for English interests who are aware of the success of the Woolworth company in England and in Germany.

As a matter of fact, hope that this foreign development will encourage directors to make a special distribution to stockholders has been one of the prime factors in the strength of the stock.

Steel common was in supply again, dipping below 110, and American Can likewise established a new low for this year under 105.

Selling of Can, while generally attributed to bearish professionals, has been so persistent as to suggest that more important selling has been under way. Estimates of the company's earnings for 1931 have been drastically revised downward of late.

Railroad stocks as a group were only fractionally lower, but Canadian Pacific, on the largest volume in months, slumped to a new low off nearly three points net.

The declaration of an "interim dividend of 31¼ cents, generally interpreted as inauguration of a $1.25 annual basis on the present stock, was more drastic a reduction than had been anticipated. The stock formerly received $2.50 annually since the four-for-one split.

Buying of the railroad shares is very modest in size and usually only on a scale downward in price, since it is recognized that additional adjustments will be necessary if the systems are to show any earnings for their stocks, unless traffic picks up materially.

Columbia Gas and Western Union were under heavy pressure on dividend worry. Western Union broke more than seven points to a new low. A good deal of the selling was attributed to a powerful bear taking advantage of the dividend uneasiness.

United Corporation sold off fractionally in sympathy with Columbia's weakness. United owns more than 20 per cent of the Columbia stock. Public Utilities generally slightly lower.

Short covering continued and the general attitude was to attribute such buying to knowledge of the impending federal reserve rate cut. Actually, the covering by the most intelligent bears has been in recognition of the possibility that the market will continue in an exceedingly dull area with minimum trading and limited price fluctuations. During such a period whatever further price corrections may still be necessary can be accomplished with a minimum influence upon the main body of the list.

Establishment of a lower reserve bank rate serves mainly to emphasize the enormity of the current surplus of funds but it also marks a further step in the gradual redistribution of this surplus throughout the world.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—Forced down by bearish effects of Canadian showers and predicted further moisture in drouth regions northwest, grain went lower most of the time today. Spread trading in which corn was bought and wheat sold gave only transient strength to corn. Surprise over bushels was a contributing source of weakness.

Wheat closed irregular, 1⅛c down to ⅛c advance, corn at ⅝@1⅜c decline, oats unchanged to ⅜@½c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

The lowest prices of the day were reached in wheat during the final transactions. Earlier, the downward trend had been retarded by spring wheat summaries stressing the need of widespread frequent heavy rains, whereas only scattered downpours had been received.

Corn showed at one stage more activity and also much more strength than wheat did. Recent speculative sellers of corn were extremely nervous, and were free buyers on upturns in prices. Traders short of corn to fill July contracts appeared especially anxious over the circumstances that track deliveries in that month were not permissible here except the last three days of the month, and then only of country run grain.

Oats chiefly followed corn.

Provisions advanced owing to absence of selling pressure, meats in particular.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 60⅞@61c. 62½@62¾c; Sept. 60⅝@60¾c. 62¾@62½c; Dec. 64⅛@65¼c. Corn, July, 58, 59¾@59¾c; Sept. 57⅜@57½c, 58⅜@58¾c; Dec. 50⅛@51⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May (US)—The government crop report due to be issued to the grain trade at the close tomorrow had little or no influence on the wheat market today. It is so generally expected as to be conceded that the report will show a prospective winter wheat harvest sufficient for a year's domestic requirements, or more than 650,000,000 bushels.

As the government report is considered discounted, market action tomorrow will continue to hinge on weather conditions.

A better eastern demand for corn in northwest market should remove fears of large consignments from those terminals on local advances in prices.

Oats and rye again showed effects of extremely low price levels today, being the steadiest of the grains. There is unquestionably an increase in trading interest in these markets.

CLINIC OUSTS FAMILY DOCTOR

Group Medical Practice Spreads in U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 7. (US)—The private group clinic, relatively a new thing in American medical practice, most of them having been established since the world war, is taking the place of the old family doctor.

The private group clinic is an organization in which a number of physicians pool their resources, incomes and special knowledge to cut down overhead expenses and give what they believe to be more complete service to the patient. They include specialists.

The patient may consult several physicians under the same roof until his ailment is diagnosed and treatment prescribed. For this he pays a single fee, just as he might have done had he consulted the general practitioner of long ago, who made his rounds with a horse and buggy, or his more modern successor who uses an automobile but still ministers to every human ill.

The transformation of the old-fashioned family doctor into a member of a "private group clinic" is described by Dr. C. Rufus Rorem, in a study made for the committee on the costs of medical care, of which Secretary of the Interior Wilbur is chairman, made public today.

Dr. Rorem estimates there are now about 150 of them in the United States and that their staffs include between 1,500 and 2,000 physicians. The largest private clinic in the country, at Rochester, Minn., has a staff of 300 physicians. Other clinics range from three to 40, with 11 as a medium number.

The clinics are rarely found in the eastern states but are common in the Middle West, especially in Minnesota. They also have been tried successfully on the Pacific coast.

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 7.—The board of the United Charities called a special meeting this week for the purpose of determining whether to go ahead with the United Charity work or turn it over to the city and county.

Memphis and surrounding territories were well represented at this meeting and various plans were discussed at length. After many talks concerning the work done in the past and work to be done in the future it was decided to put on another drive for funds, asking the city council to match the funds raised and let the city council have complete charge and control of the work. E. T. Taylor was elected to serve as chairman of this board.

Some 64 families are reported to be receiving help from the United Charities and more are expected before Hall county can get relief from present conditions.

AIR LOTTERIES FACING DOOM

Commission Finds Way To Halt Schemes

WASHINGTON, May 7. (INS)—Action was taken by the Federal Radio commission today to stop the broadcasting of information relative to lotteries.

The commission has no power of censorship over radio programs but it may refuse to renew the application of a station which is not operated "in the public interest, convenience or necessity."

"Upon frequent occasions there has been brought to the attention of the commission complaints against radio stations broadcasting fortune telling, lotteries, games of chance, gift enterprises, or similar schemes offering prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance," said a statement issued today.

"On that subject the commission has to say:

"There exists a doubt that such broadcasts are in the public interest. Complaints from a substantial number of listeners against any broadcasting station representing such programs will result in the station's application for renewal of licenses being set for hearing."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 7. (AP)—Rather nervous and irregular fluctuations, attributed to conflicting features in the weather news and the unsettled ruling of the stock market, were followed by closing advances in cotton today.

July, after selling off from 9.95 to 9.86, closed at 9.93 compared with 9.91 at yesterday's close. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 6 points.

The opening was steady 3 points lower on May but generally 2 to 4 points higher on some overnight buying orders which were evidently brought in by the advance of late yesterday, while May was influenced by a little liquidation incident to the circulation of a few additional notices.

A forecast for warmer weather in the Southwest and renewed weakness in the stock market probably accounted for some of the selling on the early afternoon decline, which carried prices off to 10.22 for October contracts or about 5 to 8 points net lower on the more active positions. The market stiffened up in the last few minutes on a renewal of covering in sympathy with the closing rally in the stock market and probably in expectation of the reduction in the local bank rate.

A private crop report was published during the morning pointing to a decrease of 10.1 per cent in the intended acreage, which was within the range of recent private reports. There was also a report that fertilizer tag sales in the 13 southern states for the five months, December and April showed a falling off of 28.6 per cent as compared with last year's.

Liverpool cables said that continental buying had been supplied by liquidation in that market. May notices issued here this morning were estimated at 800 bales. May closed 82 points under December compared with 79 yesterday.

Exports today 18,992, making 6,123,097 so far this season.

Port receipts 5,459. U. S. port stocks 3,433,258.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 7. (AP)—Cotton was rather erratic today in moderate trading. Prices fluctuated being largely influenced by the course of the stock market, although there was at times fair trade buying and price fixing by the mills. The weather was also an early bullish influence. The market rallied sharply at the end almost to the highs and closed steady at net gains for the day of 2 to 5 points.

A private authority reported that the sales of fertilizers during April decreased 17.3 per cent compared with April last year.

The chairman of the farm board stated that private reports pointed to a decrease in acreage of 12.5 per cent.

Liverpool came in 4 to 5 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that the continent bought absorbing local liquidation, Manchester cabled that the cloth demand from South America was maintained and that the home trade was better. July closed at 9.97, up 5 points net for the day, and October closing at 10.30, up 2 points net.

Pressure Resistance Increases Despite Fractional Stock Losses

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 7. (US)—The stock market continued lower today although net declines were limited to fractions, on the average.

Again today, as on previous days this week, many stocks showed an inclination to oppose the downward trend still displayed by Steel common, American Can and other prominent issues.

This increasing show of resistance to selling pressure, or perhaps disclosure of at least temporary completion of liquidation, is the most striking phase of the current market.

While many of the leaders, so called, continue heavy, however, sentiment is depressed and it is difficult to win a following for most stocks. Continuation of quietness, however, with a show of firmness in quotations probably will encourage more aggressive group activities in various stocks, although such a development will be desired by the best friends of the market.

Reduction in the federal reserve bank of New York rediscount rate to 1½ per cent, lowest for any central banking institution in financial history, was announced after the market closed, but had been thoroughly forecast.

Woolworth dominated the market from the bullish side. The stock attained a new high for this year and closed up more than three points net for the day.

Buying of the stock continued for the account of the same powerful interests whose initial acquisitions were disclosed here.

It was reported that in addition to their buying, substantial buying has been taking place for English interests who are aware of the success of the Woolworth company in England and in Germany.

As a matter of fact, hope that this foreign development will encourage directors to make a special distribution to stockholders has been one of the prime factors in the strength of the stock.

Steel common was in supply again, dipping below 110, and American Can likewise established a new low for this year under 105.

Selling of Can, while generally attributed to bearish professionals, has been so persistent as to suggest that more important selling has been under way. Estimates of the company's earnings for 1931 have been drastically revised downward of late.

Railroad stocks as a group were only fractionally lower, but Canadian Pacific, on the largest volume in months, slumped to a new low off nearly three points net.

The declaration of an "interim dividend of 31¼ cents, generally interpreted as inauguration of a $1.25 annual basis on the present stock, was more drastic a reduction than had been anticipated. The stock formerly received $2.50 annually since the four-for-one split.

Buying of the railroad shares is very modest in size and usually only on a scale downward in price, since it is recognized that additional adjustments will be necessary if the systems are to show any earnings for their stocks, unless traffic picks up materially.

Columbia Gas and Western Union were under heavy pressure on dividend worry. Western Union broke more than seven points to a new low. A good deal of the selling was attributed to a powerful bear taking advantage of the dividend uneasiness.

United Corporation sold off fractionally in sympathy with Columbia's weakness. United owns more than 20 per cent of the Columbia stock. Public Utilities generally slightly lower.

Short covering continued and the general attitude was to attribute such buying to knowledge of the impending federal reserve rate cut. Actually, the covering by the most intelligent bears has been in recognition of the possibility that the market will continue in an exceedingly dull area with minimum trading and limited price fluctuations.

During such a period whatever further price corrections may still be necessary can be accomplished with a minimum influence upon the main body of the list.

Establishment of a lower reserve bank rate serves mainly to emphasize the enormity of the current surplus of funds but it also marks a further step in the gradual redistribution of this surplus throughout the world.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 7. (AP)—Forced down by bearish effects of Canadian showers and predicted further moisture in drouth regions northwest, grain went lower most of the time today. Spread trading in which corn was bought and wheat sold gave only transient strength to corn. Surprise over bushels was a contributing source of weakness.

Wheat closed irregular, 1⅝c down to ¼c advance, corn at ⅝@1¾c decline, oats unchanged to ⅜@½c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 25c.

The lowest prices of the day were reached in wheat during the final transactions. Earlier, the downward trend had been retarded by spring wheat summaries stressing the need of widespread frequent heavy rains, whereas only scattered downpours had been received.

Corn showed at one stage more activity and also much more strength than wheat did. Recent speculative sellers of corn were extremely nervous, and were free buyers on upturns in prices. Traders short of corn to fill July contracts appeared especially anxious over the circumstances that track deliveries in that month were not permissible here except the last three days of the month, and then only of country run grain.

Oats chiefly followed corn.

Provisions advanced owing to absence of selling pressure, meats in particular.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 60⅞@61c, 62½@62⅝c; Sept. 60⅜@60½c. 62¾@62½c; Dec. 64⅛@65⅛c. Corn, July, 58, 59⅛@59¼c; Sept. 57⅝@57½c, 58⅜@58⅝c; Dec. 50⅛@51⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, May (US)—The government crop report due to be issued to the grain trade at the close tomorrow had little or no influence on the wheat market today. It is so generally expected as to be conceded that the report will show a prospective winter wheat harvest sufficient for a year's domestic requirements, or more than 650,000,000 bushels.

As the government report is considered discounted, market action tomorrow will continue to hinge on weather conditions.

A better eastern demand for corn in northwest market should remove fears of large consignments from those terminals on local advances in prices.

Oats and rye again showed effects of extremely low price levels today, being the steadiest of the grains. There is unquestionably an increase in trading interest in these markets.

CLINIC OUSTS FAMILY DOCTOR

Group Medical Practice Spreads in U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 7. (US)—The private group clinic, relatively a new thing in American medical practice, most of them having been established since the world war, is taking the place of the old family doctor.

The private group clinic is an organization in which a number of physicians pool their resources, incomes and special knowledge to cut down overhead expenses and give what they believe to be more complete service to the patient. They include specialists.

The patient may consult several physicians under the same roof until his ailment is diagnosed and treatment prescribed. For this he pays a single fee, just as he might have done had he consulted the general practitioner of long ago, who made his rounds with a horse and buggy, or his more modern successor who uses an automobile but still ministers to every human ill.

The transformation of the old-fashioned family doctor into a member of a "private group clinic" is described by Dr. C. Rufus Rorem, in a study made for the committee on the costs of medical care, of which Secretary of the Interior Wilbur is chairman, made public today.

Dr. Rorem estimates there are now about 150 of them in the United States and that their staffs include between 1,500 and 2,000 physicians. The largest private clinic in the country, at Rochester, Minn., has a staff of 300 physicians. Other clinics range from three to 40, with 11 as a medium number.

The clinics are rarely found in the eastern states but are common in the Middle West, especially in Minnesota. They also have been tried successfully on the Pacific coast.

Hall County Maps Plans for Relief

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 7.—The board of the United Charities called a special meeting this week for the purpose of determining whether to go ahead with the United Charity work or turn it over to the city and county.

Memphis and surrounding territories were well represented at this meeting and various plans were discussed at length. After many talks concerning the work done in the past and work to be done in the future it was decided to put on another drive for funds, asking the city council to match the funds raised and let the city council have complete charge and control of the work. E. T. Taylor was elected to serve as chairman of this board.

Some 64 families are reported to be receiving help from the United Charities and more are expected before Hall county can get relief from present conditions.

AIR LOTTERIES FACING DOOM

Commission Finds Way To Halt Schemes

WASHINGTON, May 7. (INS)—Action was taken by the Federal Radio commission today to stop the broadcasting of information relative to lotteries.

The commission has no power of censorship over radio programs but it may refuse to renew the application of a station which is not operated "in the public interest, convenience or necessity."

"Upon frequent occasions there has been brought to the attention of the commission complaints against radio stations broadcasting fortune telling, lotteries, games of chance, gift enterprises, or similar schemes offering prizes dependent in whole or in part upon lot or chance," said a statement issued today.

"On that subject the commission has to say:

"There exists a doubt that such broadcasts are in the public interest. Complaints from a substantial number of listeners against any broadcasting station representing such programs will result in the station's application for renewal of licenses being set for hearing."

SCHOOL SUIT ARGUED TODAY

Court to Act in Fairview Ouster Plea

Lines were being drawn by both sides Thursday afternoon in preparation for the preliminary hearing before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Friday morning at 9 o'clock of the petition filed recently seeking to remove four members of the school board in the Fairview independent school district, near Burkburnett on allegations of incompetency.

The four members whose removal is asked in the petition to be heard Friday morning are John C. Wells, Will Teel, J. M. Morrison and M. A. Walker. Plaintiffs in the case are 10 men who state in their petition that they are property owners in the Fairview school district, and patrons of that school. Temporary suspension of the members is asked in the preliminary hearing.

The suit was filed last Saturday, and was followed on Monday afternoon with the filing of another petition asking that the recent school election in the Fairview district be declared void because of alleged lack of qualifications on the part of certain election officials. This action was withdrawn Tuesday afternoon, however, by the plaintiffs' counsel.

Additional witnesses were being subpoenaed Thursday by parties to the action in preparation for its hearing Friday morning.

O. E. Nelson and Luther Hoffman, attorneys, represent the plaintiffs.

Chiefest of the virtues attached to "Abraham Lincoln" is the fact that the martyred president is taken out of the dull pages of history and presented in graphic reality. That should mean a lot to school children, especially.

It is a pity that there had to be one outstanding historical error to mar the perfection of the story. Tad Lincoln died in the White House before the death of his father. It would have been all right to have left out the death of the child in the picture—there was enough of the sad element without it—but they erred in showing a father-son scene with Tad just before Lincoln went to Ford's theater on the fatal night of April 14.

In any other respect, it is as near perfection as has been any other picture. Two things are outstanding—Walter Huston and the photography. Since Wallace Beery was hardly the Lincoln type, it can be said that D. W. Griffith chose the best actor appropriate and available.

His change from boy to old man and his capable handling of the deep emotional scenes—notably the wild hysteria following the death of Ann Rutledge—stamp him as an unusual type. It has become increasingly difficult in the past few years to show a love scene or one of these deathbed passages without getting a few snickers from the cynical audience, but Huston showed that it could be done.

Thursday and Friday are big days in the theaters of Wichita Falls, with "Abraham Lincoln, "City Lights" and "Trader Horn" offered—all three among the best yet produced.

"Trader Horn," opening Friday at the Strand for a week, promises plenty of excitement with fights between beasts of the jungle, both among themselves and with humans. Edwina Booth, as "The White Goddess," is said to have been endangered by the ferocious lions or baboons several times during the photographing of the picture.

AIRPORT WORK TO BE PLANNED

C-C Committee to Discuss Improvements

Improvements for Kell field, the municipal airport here, will be discussed in the near future when a special group of the chamber of commerce aviation committee meets with members of the city council, it was announced Thursday following a meeting of the aviation committee.

Improvements are planned in anticipation of the inaugurstion of air mail service through Wichita Falls July 1, Judge W. N. Bonner, chairman, said. The special committee will be appointed by Judge Bonner within the next few days.

It was reported at Thursday's meeting that the port needed few improvements, but that improvements that were needed are urgent. The committee voted to extend its fullest cooperation to the city, operators of the port and air line operators in bringing Kell field into first class condition immediately.

Representatives of the National Air Reliability tour, it was announced, will arrive in Wichita Falls within the next few days to make arrangements for the fleet of ships to be through here in July. Representatives are Ray Collins, tour manager, and Lieut. James H. Doolittle, noted ex-navy pilot, and Jack Story, of the Ford Motor company. A special meeting of the aviation committee will be held, with the airmen on their arrival here.

The tour is sponsored by the Detroit Aviation society. It is commonly known as the Ford Reliability tour, in that competition mainly is for the Edsel B. Ford trophy.

In connection with the appearance here, it is planned to stage an airplane model contest among the boys of Wichita Falls. The contest will be judged by William B. Stout, designer of the Ford tri-motor ships, and chief engineer of the Ford Motor company's aviation division.

Cooperative Prosperity Campaign Planned for Wichita Falls Firms

Preliminary arrangements are now being made by M. M. Cherry of Dallas to open a six months' educational and cooperative prosperity campaign in which all the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in Wichita Falls will participate, it was announced by Mr. Cherry Thursday. The campaign will open Monday, it was said.

The campaign is based on the idea of finding out what Wichita Falls needs in the way of manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing and then establishing those plants here in order that Wichita Falls money may be kept at home, Mr. Cherry pointed out.

The first two weeks of the campaign will be spent in organizing "prosperity clubs" among the boys and girls in the schools and churches of the city, Mr. Cherry said in briefly outlining the campaign plans.

"The idea of the whole thing," Mr. Cherry pointed out, "is to stretch the consumer's dollar. In mapping out this campaign the common traits of human nature play a paramount part. Those traits are selfishness, love of contest and fun and amusement."

The movement is nation-wide and is built on the theory of changing the trend to one of "spending" after the country's seige of "saving" during the past months. Every merchant, wholesaler and retailer will be invited to join the ranks in the campaign, Cherry said.

A decision was reached that the Junior chamber will sponsor the opening of Lakeside park Saturday night. Definite plans for the organization's participation in the opening were not decided.

Frank Wolf was re-elected to represent the Junior chamber as a director of the Wichita County Fair association.

It was voted to hold the three next regular meetings of the board at the Wichita club during the noon hour.

An invitation to Mrs. R. R. Fisk, winner of the women's state golf tournament at San Antonio last week, and to Mrs. F. C. Rochon, quarterfinalist, to attend the next membership luncheon, May 15, was authorized.

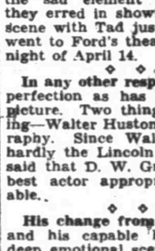
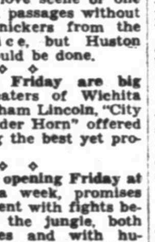
CRUEL NEURITIS PUT TO FLIGHT
Follow in the Footsteps of Those Who Have Found Konjola the Medicine Needed


Mrs. W. C. Akard
Have you indigestion, constipation, neuritis, rheumatism, nervousness . . . do liver and kidneys bother you. Then seek relief in Konjola, the medicine of 29 ingredients.
Consider what Konjola did for Mrs. W. C. Akard, 2713 S. Ervay street, Dallas, who says: "I had neuritis pains throughout my body, and tried many medicines without a bit of relief. Then I was forced to remain in bed. Then Konjola worked like magic in my case. In a week I was out of bed, and I haven't an ache nor pain."
Next read what Konjola did for Mr. Richard L. Graves, 2214 E. Terrell street, Fort Worth. He declares: "Everything I ate caused gas pains, and I was so nervous that the least noise upset me. I was run down and tired out all the time. But right from the start Konjola helped me, and now I can eat whatever I like. I feel better in every way."


Mr. Richard L. Graves
"Two years I had neuritis in my arms," says Mrs. A. S. Foster, 5434 Willis avenue, Dallas. "The pain was so severe I lost much sleep. I took five bottles of Konjola, and obtained great relief. I shall continue to take Konjola, and certainly recommend it to any one suffering from neuritis."

Mrs. A. S. Foster
Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients. Konjola, for the aged or the infant, is sold by all best druggists everywhere. Konjola works swiftly, yet a treatment of from six to eight bottles is advised.—Adv.

MILK IMPROVES the HEALTH
About a pint of milk a day should be taken for each adult and about a quart for each child. Supply that much, even if you have to save on other foods. The daily amount of milk needed naturally varies with every individual. Speaking generally, however, the safe plan is to drink plenty of milk and use it freely in cooking.
The Dairy Industry in the Wichita Falls territory is a valuable and an important one to everybody. It is also an efficient one, because it delivers a necessary and healthful product to your very doorstep at a minimum of cost.
Help yourself and the Dairy Industry in this general territory by using plenty of good rich milk.
