Board Nixes Requests For Colleges

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas College Coordinating Board turned down today requests for immediate approval of new state four-year colleges at San Antonio, Texarkana and the Midland-Odessa area.

The rejection came in the form of unanimous approval of a motion repeating the board's position that no new state schools should be created until the board has adopted its master plan for higher education.

The master plan, through 1990, is to be completed next year.

Board member Tom Sealy of Midland made the motion to repeat the board policy, saying:

"There is nothing I'd rather see than a senior college at Odessa and Midland. I feel that the master plan will show that's where we eventually ought to put one."

George Abell of Midland made a last minute plea for favorable action on the proposed Permian State College in the Midland-Odessa area. He repeated an offer made Sunday of $100,000 for research and planning and development of the school.

Board Chairman John Gray said the board would be happy to accept the funds if it could be assured there were no strings attached. Abell said he was willing with Dr. Jack Williams, state commissioner of higher education, to discuss the matter further.

"Quite candidly, gentlemen, I feel that if we delay any longer on this project, we will lose the enthusiasm, drive, cooperation and generosity of many of the citizens of the Permian Basin," Abell said.

The board's staff submitted studies it had made on the need for the three proposed senior colleges. The San Antonio study said that population, income and other projections indicate the need for a college in Bexar County should be met in the next few years.

The reports on the Texarkana and the Midland-Odessa requests said, however, there was no urgent need for the proposed schools and it would not be in the best interests of the state to create them "at this time."

Troubled Mao Has Advice For Hanoi

By EUGENE LEVIN

TOKYO (AP) — Despite reports of new unrest in Red China's strategic border areas and elsewhere, Mao Tse-tung's supporters turned to foreign policy today and urged Hanoi to stiffen its terms for peace talks.

After weeks in which the Maoist organs virtually ignored Vietnam and other foreign policy questions, except for Moscow-Peking relations, the Peking People's Daily took note of recent moves to bring the United States and North Vietnam to the negotiating table.

"The whole point of the Vietnam problem revolves around the withdrawal of (U.S. and allied) aggressive forces from Vietnamese territory, not on the question of the cessation of U.S. bombing," the People's Daily said.

This implied a rebuke to Hanoi, which last week said it was prepared to talk peace with the United States if the Americans "put an immediate end" to their bombing of North Vietnam. Hanoi did not mention a troop withdrawal as a condition of negotiations.

The People's Daily said the United States and the Soviet Union were trying to blackmail Hanoi. The newspaper added that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's talks in London with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson constituted "proof that the Soviet revisionists are trying to sell out the Vietnamese revolution and are supporting U.S. aggression."

What prompted Communist China's sudden emphasis on foreign policy was not clear. The People's Daily editorial said the Vietnam situation was at "a critical stage," and over the weekend Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi declared that Peking would not change its foreign policy because of the great cultural revolution, Mao's battle to purge President Liu Saho-chi's supporters from the government and the party machinery.

Chen Yi charged that the imperialists; presumably the United States, and the Soviets, were "raising a hue and cry saying that China would change its foreign policy" because of the cultural revolution power struggle.

Peking's move to reassert its foreign policy came after a weekend of fresh signs of trouble for Mao's leadership.

Freeman Sees 'New Game' For Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said today American agriculture has begun a "new ball game" promising greater reward for farmers if they help prevent new price-depressing crop surpluses.

Opening a national farm conference called by the Johnson administration, Freeman said disposal of past surpluses coupled with rising world food demands present agriculture with new opportunities.

But he said "We must work together" so the present system of government programs for stabilization of farm supplies and prices will work. He referred to programs covering wheat, feed grains, cotton, peanuts, tobacco, rice and other commodities subject to government price supports.

The conference brought together more than 100 farm organization leaders and individual farmers. Many held conflicting views on the role of govern-

Scattered Rains Accompany Front

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rains of almost 3 inches in places left portions of East Texas soaking wet today but widespread though light moisture elsewhere failed to crack the state's winter drought.

The showers were part of an unusual pattern of snow, drizzle and dense fog that beset Texas as a cold front moved through the state.

The Panhandle had light snow and readings in the 20s this morning as coastal regions registered some fog and temperatures in the muggy 60s.

A downpour of 2.82 inches drenched Groveton, between Huntsville and Lufkin. Further north, Honey Grove caught 1.25, Négley had 1.12 and Kanawha 1.10.

Other heavy rainfalls included Center 2.29; Chireno 1.60; Valley Junction 1.90; Crockett 1.05; and Midway 1.00.

The pattern of rainfall roughly between the Trinity River and the Louisiana line for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today was between .75 and 1 inch.

Fog blanketed the coastline and made inroads into the Piney Woods of East Texas. Small craft warnings went up along the coast, warning of 25-mile-an-hour winds and thundershowers through the night.

The heaviest rain in Texas Sunday was in the eastern sections of Howard County in West Texas. Some two inches fell in a short time and temperatures at Big Spring slid 20 degrees in 30 minutes Some hail came with the downpour, which flooded U.S. 80 in Big Spring at the height of the storm.

A five-day forecast for the period ending Saturday called for rain across the state, with temperature predicted below seasonal norms for all sections.

The Weather Bureau said the rainfall would end Tuesday with temperatures taking a turn for the cooler.

41 Locals Given Superior Rating

Forty - one students in the Snyder School system won or shared first division ratings at the University Interscholastic League Region IV Solo-Ensemble contest held here Saturday.

The first division rating is indicative of superior achievement. Snyder High School students who won first division ratings are Mina Emerson, Wayne Anderson, Tommy Cox, Carolyn Walton, Deborah Norton, Janet Womack, Ross Gillum, Nancy Miller and Emily Kincaid.

In addition, two ensemble groups from the high school ranked in the top category. They are the boys quartet comprised of Larry Stokes, Ross Gillum, David Lester and Billy Wilson and the mixed quartet composed of Mina Emerson, Emily Kincaid, David Lester and Tommy Cox.

Seven Lamar Junior High School students received two first division medals each: Pam Hartsfield, Barbara Carter, Terry Bell, Alfred Smith, Bill Branson, Bid Cooper and Marilyn Simpson.

Lamar students who won one first division medal each: Judy Tate, Wade Ashley, Arlie Eicke, Dee Peveler, Mitzy Gray, Janice Jordan, Connie Hollis, Connice Knight, Susan Ferrell, Jana Bullard, Cindy Spires, Ricky Golden, Ricky Hanks, Johnny Quiros, Pam Bowlin, Jenifer Godair and Larry Babcock.

Jane Proctor of Travis Junior High School won a second division rating or excellent grade. Nine high school students and 14 Lamar pupils also attained excellent or second division ratings. Two ensembles from the high school also rated in this category.

There were 20 junior and senior high schools competing in the contest. Director of the contest was Jim Casey of Snyder High School.

22 Known Dead In Rio Floods

By JOSEPH NOVITSKI

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — A house and two apartment buildings collapsed like falling dominoes down a hillside in a fashionable Rio suburb Sunday night after 24 hours of rain.

By midmorning today 22 bodies had been recovered from the huge pile of debris, firemen at the scene said, but there was no reliable information on the number of persons missing.

Newspapers and neighbors speculated that as many as 100 persons might have been buried when the buildings crashed down the hillside in a chain reaction.

Authorities estimated from 12 to 15 persons had been rescued from the apartment houses but there was no definite figure.

"I believe there must be tens of others buried in the wreckage," said Dr. Eider Lettieri, the first doctor to reach the disaster scene.

The continuous rains caused the death of at least 13 other persons, most of them in Rio's hillside slums, and left more than 675 homeless throughout the state of Guanabara.

A hundred persons were reported injured in a train derailment between Rio and Sao Paulo.

Gov. Francisco Negrao de Lima said quick action in clearing blocked storm drains helped hold down the death toll. He said the downpour was heavier than the heaviest rains of the four-day deluge of January 1966 which took the lives of 184 Rio residents.

Heavy rains last month caused floods and landslides which killed 600 persons in the mountains west of Rio.

Almost seven inches of rain fell in Rio from midnight Saturday until noon Sunday, and no letup was predicted for today.

Supreme Court Nixes Texas Redistrict Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today a redistricting plan for the Texas House of Representatives.

The plan now goes back to a three-judge federal court in Houston where the state will have a chance to justify variations from the "one man-one vote" standard.

If the state fails to justify the population differences in districts, a new start presumably will have to be made.

The 6-3 decision, announced in an unsigned opinion, said the majority had not been convinced that the range of deviations was necessary under state policy calling for respect of county boundaries wherever possible.

And, the opinion said, the lower federal court did not "articulate any satisfactory grounds for rejecting at least two other plans" which respected county lines but produced substantially smaller deviations from the "one man-one vote" standard.

The high court has permitted minor deviations when justification is shown but it said it did not regard the deviations in the Texas plan as minor.

The majority said challengers of the plan had presented proof that some districts were overrepresented up to 14.84 per cent said others underrepresented 11.64 per cent.

The high court did affirm the lower court's action in permitting the 1966 election to proceed under the plan. And it affirmed that part of the lower court's judgment which held challengers had not proved their allegations that the legislation was racial or political gerrymandering.

Justice William O. Douglas concurred in the majority opinion. But he contended also that the claim that Negroes were disfranchised should be looked into again.

The three dissenters were Justices Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan and Potter Stewart.

In Austin, Texas House Speaker Ben Barnes said "I'm certainly surprised the Supreme Court overruled the district court. This adds one more critical problem to this session of the legislature.

"I'm going to call a meeting of the congressional and legislative districts committee this afternoon."

Automakers Testify On Pollution

By KIT KINCADE

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's four major automakers today were told "the internal combustion engine can be cleaned up a great deal." They replied that much had been done already along this line.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee on air and water pollution, the automakers said they had done much work to comply with federal standards for air pollution control on 1968 model cars.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the subcommittee, said the purpose of the hearings was to determine whether the automakers would meet the standards for 1968 model cars prescribed by the secretary of health, education and welfare.

Under the Clean Air Act passed in 1963 and amended in 1965 and 1966, the secretary of HEW was given the authority to issue standards prescribing the maximum amounts of pollutants allowable in new cars.

The department of HEW says that for most vehicles the standards mean roughly a 60 per cent reduction in the discharge of hydrocarbons and 50 per cent reduction of carbon monoxide.

Testifying before Muskie's subcommittee today were the vice presidents in charge of engineering or General Motors, Chrysler, Ford, and American Motors Corp.

111 Animals Sold By Young Feeders

The Twenty-third annual Scurry County Junior Livestock Show concluded with a successful sale Saturday in which 111 animals sold from the block at a total of $20,473.57. In addition, 281 other animals sold at a 100-pound weight price of $20.50 for steers, lambs under 100 pounds and hogs. Lambs over 100 pounds went at a floor price of $17.75 per hundredweight.

West Texas State Bank purchased the grand champion Hereford steer of Bob Daugherty, Fluvanna 4-H boy, for $941 or $1 per pound. The reserve calf of Eddie Eicke sold for 70 cents per pound to Snyder National Bank. Total weight was 817 pounds.

Snyder National also purchased Jack Greene's grand champion hog, which weighed 189 pounds, at $1.70 per pound.

Les Francis Chevrolet Co. purchased Joe Belew's grand champion lamb for $2 a pound. The animal weighed in at 106 pounds.

Buyers of other reserve animals: Town and Country Food center, reserve barrow of Emmitt Hataway, $1.30 per pound; C. T. McLaughlin, reserve lamb of Weldon Beck, $1.50 per pound.

The sale was one of the biggest ever held in Scurry County with no calf bringing less than 40 cents per pound, no lamb less than 90 cents per pound, and no hog less than $1.14 per pound.

Auctioneer was Wayne May of Llano.

During the sale, 24 calves sold for $9,516.61, thirty-nine pigs for $6,098.32, and 48 lambs for $4,858.64.

Major buyers included Gooch Packing Co., W. C. Hart, Sweetwater Livestock Auction, Snyder National Bank, West Texas State Bank, George Parks, C. T. McLaughlin and Snyder Co-op Gin.

Three More Bodies Found In Rubble

HAWTHORNE, N.J. (AP) — Three bodies were recovered from the rubble of a chemical plant today bringing the toll of known dead in last Friday's explosion to seven.

They were discovered in debris near a portion of the Morning-Star Division of the International Latex Corp. plant where a railroad car had been blown off the tracks of an adjacent siding.

Highway Dept., City In Agreement

The City of Snyder and the Texas Highway Department had no difficulty whatever in reaching agreement on proposed plans for street improvements in the downtown business area they learned this morning.

George Smith, with the District Highway Engineer's office in Abilene, was the spokesman for the THD at a meeting with the city council this morning when engineering reports compiled by the highway department were presented. The highway department had made studies to support its findings at the request of the city so that compliance with THD standards would be incorporated in downtown improvements plans.

The original tentative plans prepared here will need only slight modification at intersections on the square to comply with the THD recommendations. The city council readily agreed to the slight changes.

The highway department made traffic counts and considered other factors in making its recommendation. Smith said there was only one indefinite factor in projecting traffic patterns, and that was the effect on local traffic that any improvements might have. When asked about possibilities, he said that in most cases the traffic flow had been even greater than anticipated where such improvements were made. Drivers naturally go where it is easier to drive, he explained.

Attorney Says Investigation Will Uncover Conspiracy

By JOHN S. LANG

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A district attorney is keeping secret the details of an investigation he says he is making of the Kennedy assassination, contending federal intervention might only slow him down.

Jim Garrison, betting his investigators can prove a conspiracy in New Orleans led to the death of President John F. Kennedy, spurned a suggestion he give his facts to the U.S. attorney general who could pass it on to President Johnson.

"I am running this investigation, not the President, not the attorney general," said Garrison.

"I'm in charge of the operation and we've made a lot of progress working this way. So I don't propose to make any changes that might result in a slowdown and make us less effective."

Asked what the Federal Bureau of Investigation is doing about Garrison's probe, an FBI spokesman said, "the only thing I can say regarding any questions about that is, 'no comment.'"

After New Orleans newspapers broke the story of his investigation on Friday, Garrison said "irresponsible release of so many details" would delay the arrests he said would be forthcoming.

The release of details and names, he said, "has now created a problem for us in finding witnesses and getting cooperation from other witnesses and in at least one case has endangered the life of a witness — a possible witness — so that whatever timetable we might have had before is somewhat extended now."

Garrison's statement that an assassination plot was conceived in New Orleans, that he will find and arrest the conspirators and that he will obtain convictions caused widespread furore.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Last year my sisters husband was killed in an accident. Since they lived only a few blocks from us, she turned to my husband for help in making all the arrangements, business decisions, etc. One thing led to another and now they are in love.

They have never admitted it, but they don't have to, it is so obvious when they are together. He stops by her house every evening before coming home. My sister is younger than I, and much prettier, and she and her husband hadn't been compatible for a long time before his death. I love my sister, but my husband is my whole life.

I would divorce him but there are many children (and even grandchildren!) to be considered. If they decided to be noble and give each other up, where would that leave me?

I have been trying to think up ways to commit suicide to make it look like an accident to spare the family embarrassment, but that isn't easy. And I'm not sure I could actually do it. However that seems to be the only solution. If you can think of any other way, please answer.

ROPE'S END

DEAR ROPE'S END: This burden is too great for you to carry alone. Confide in your clergyman and ask for his advice. Of one thing I am certain, you can do anything you set your mind to, including living without your husband, if you must, and forgiving him and your sister, if you must. The "solution" you mention is no solution. It's surrender.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who would give his secretary $100 for Christmas and then tell his wife that she shouldn't expect anything because she was "too old" to believe in Santa Claus?

THE WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I would say that his marriage is all Scrooged up.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to the wife of the junk collector that she call the Salvation Army to haul his stuff away proves that you have never lived with a pack-rat. And she wouldn't live long with one either if she followed your advice. He'd murder her!

A pack-rat without the security of his pack is like an addict deprived of his fix. He collects from a psychopathic fear of being without, which stems from a very poor childhood.

A wife must learn to accept this peculiarity in her pack-rat husband, and love him in spite of it. But she should set certain limits and say, "Store your stuff in the basement, or garage; if you need more room, build yourself a shed, but NONE of that junk goes into the other part of the house." ment in agriculture.

President Johnson invited 107 conference delegates to a White House luncheon.

Freeman said the conference was called to get views regarding agriculture's future. In an apparent appeal to foes of government programs, he said "Today there is less government intervention in agricultural affairs than at any time in the past 30 years.

"Today, farmers operating under commodity programs that are largely voluntary possess more freedom of choice than they have had since the early AAA (Agricultural Adjustment Administration) days of the New Deal. Today, the market operates more freely than has been the case for three decades."

Freeman said the twin forces of more people and economic progress give "us a basis for confidence that the foreseeable future worldwide demand would increase for the products of American field and farm."

Observe Tips At Cookins

The barbecue, summer and winter, has become the center of social gatherings, from which warmth and hospitality emanate If you plan to barbecue indoors, here are 10 ways to play safely with fire — a wood charcoal briquet fire, that is.

1. Set up your barbecue in a well ventilated area. The built-in barbecue grill or fireplace provides a natural exhaust system. Portable grills should only be used in the open, on porches or in garages with doors left open.

2. Line the grill with aluminum foil. This reflects heat upward to the food and makes cleaning up easier.

3. Arrange wood charcoal briquets in a conical pile about six inches high in the grill.

4. Sprinkle charcoal lighting fluid over the coals and allow it to penetrate for one minute before lighting.

5. Spread the coals in a single layer about one-half inch apart when a grey ash has formed. This will reduce flame-ups and smoke when you begin to cook.

6. Use the charcoal coals, not the fire, to cook the meat. Slow cooking at low temperatures makes for juicier, more tender and better flavored roasts and ribs. High temperatures and fast cooking are the best for steaks and patties.

7. When needed, add coals to the fire by placing them around the edge of the fire until they ignite. Then move them to the center to prolong the cooking temperature.

8. Use asbestos gloves and long-handled cooking tools when handling foods on the grill.

9. Add hickory chips to the charcoal fuel to get that extra flavored barbecue taste.

10. If your grilled food is done before you are ready to serve it, cover the coals with aluminum foil to prevent further cooking. Cover the food loosely with foil to keep it warm.

Communist Losses Soar In Central Coast Battles

By ROBERT D. OHMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers and U.S. Marines reported 864 enemy soldiers killed Sunday in two battles 50 miles apart on South Vietnam's inflamed central coast.

The reported enemy death toll soared to more than 1,300 in five days of coastal fighting in the vicinity of Quang Ngai City, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, and Da Nang.

A government spokesman said that the South Vietnamese paratroopers together with air strikes and artillery barrages killed 746 attacking North Vietnamese regulars in a battle that began Sunday morning and raged until dusk. He said the ground troops killed 346 enemy soldiers and the air and artillery bombardments accounted for 400 more.

The Vietnamese battalion of some 700 men suffered moderate casualties in repulsing attacks by more than 1,200 Communists, the spokesman said.

A multibattalion force of U.S. Marines on Operation Stone, 13 miles south of Dan Nang, also fought a pitched battle with guerrillas Sunday in rolling foothills and reported killing 118 while suffering light casualties.

Light fighting was reported in several other areas, but there was nothing comparable to the battling near Quang Ngai City, where South Vietnamese troops and Korean and U.S. Marines are pushing a giant drive against an estimated regiment of North Vietnamese regulars.

More than 200 U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine planes flew 77 missions over North Vietnam Sunday. Continuing bad weather again limited the number of targets as well as assessment of damage. Most of the raids were against coastal shipping and targets in the southern panhandle. But several Air Force planes bombed highways 70 to 80 miles west of Hanoi.

One flight of F4C Phantom jets reported seeing two Communist MIGs 30 miles west of Hanoi, but the Communist planes fled when the Americans turned toward them, a U.S. spokesman said.

The U.S. destroyer Duncan reported damaging a 60-foot cargo boat in the Gulf of Tonkin 19 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. A spokesman said the Duncan fired illuminating rounds to identify the enemy vessel and then opened fire with its five-inch guns.

U.S. B52s continued their raids on suspected enemy positions in South Vietnam, hitting once Sunday night and three times today.

Two of the raids today were in support of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division's Operation Sam Houston near the Cambodiar border 230 miles northwest of Saigon. It was the 10th B52 raid in that area since Thursday, when the GI's killed 128 infiltrating North Vietnamese.

The third B52 mission was in Phuoc Tuy Province 36 miles southeast of Saigon. The raid Sunday was in northernmost Quang Tri Province.

Three Ammerican Marines were killed and 11 were wounded Sunday when rounds from their own artillery fell into their position by accident. A U.S. spokesman said the Leathernecks, operating about 20 miles south of the demilitarized zone, had received some small-arms fire and called in artillery support to flush out the enemy. An investigation was ordered to determine why the rounds fell short.

Gallery Mum On Price Of Painting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Gallery of Art is giving the silent treatment to reports that it has paid the highest price ever paid by a museum for an art work.

The picture in question is a Leonardo da Vinci small enough to be tucked under an arm.

The gallery has refused to comment on published reports that it has paid $5 million to $6 million to acquire Da Vinci's "Portrait of Ginevra Dei Benci" from a European prince.

If the report is correct, the price is more than double the existing record, $2.3 million paid in 1961 by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York for Rembrandt's "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer."

The National Gallery is part of the Smithsonian Institution, and thus owned by the government, but its major acquisitions are usually paid for by private donors.

Stories reporting the Da Vinci purchase appeared Sunday in the Washington Star and New York Times. Although gallery spokesmen declined to comment on he reports, there were indications they might have a major announcement in a day or two.

The seller identified in the newspaper stories is Prince Franz Josef II of Liechtenstein. The royal family of the tiny principality owns one of the world's most valuable private art collections, although it has been sealing off some of the pieces since World War II.

Miss Cockrell Weds In Georgia Rites

Mrs. Mary Barbara Cockrell of Pampa, Texas and Dr. Charles Ray Cockrell, of Snyder, announce the marriage of their daughter, Susan Cockrell, to Alfred Swann Floyd, son of Mrs. Joseph Nutting, of Atlanta, Georgia, on January 27th in the chapel of St. Mark's Methodist Church of Atlanta, Ga. The Reverend Bevel Jones performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. William Byron Webb of Atlanta. Mrs. Harold Pharris Brown Junior of Atlanta, Ga. was matron of honor.

The bride wore a soft grey silk suit with a matching pillbox hat, white kid gloves, and matching peau de soie shoes. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. The matron of honor wore a burgandy silk suit with matching pillbox hat, white kid gloves and burgandy peau de soie shoes. She carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. Joseph F. Nutting, of Atlanta, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Franklin Hartman Kilgore, and Mr. John Howard Candler, of Atlanta, Ga.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Nutting on 3233 North Wood Valley Road. Mrs. Walker C. Stewart and Mrs. Paul H. Bremer of Atlanta, Ga. assisted in serving.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Barbara Cockrell of Pampa; Texas, Mrs. Mary Bedell, of Pampa, Texas, and Mrs. James Boren of Lubbock, Texas.

The bride is a graduate of Stephens College of Missouri and Texas University. Mr. Floyd is a graduate of Auburn University, Montgomery, Alabama, and is now the Assistant Vice President of the First National Bank of Atlanta, Ga.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans, the couple will be at home at 3030 Old Decatur Road, Apartment 323A, Atlanta, Georgia.

Ira P-TA Hears Report And Amusing Book Review

Ira P-TA met in regular session Thursday at 3:40 p.m. with all officers and 18 members present. Mrs. Pete Sterling, president, called on Mr. Ralston Bruce, fourth grade teacher, to lead the group in prayer.

The section of the by-laws pertaining to the election of officers was read by Mrs. Pete Hester. The unit then elected a moninating committee consisting of three members. They were: chairman, Mrs. J. L. Byars and co-chairman, Mrs. Leon Sterling and Mrs. Corky Kruse.

The unit was reminded that District Spring Conference will be in Abilene in April. The slate of nominees for 18th. District was read and Ira feels very honored to have one of their members, Mrs. Howard Sterling, as a nominee for vice president of 18th district.

To carry out the Founders Day Theme, an attractive poster headed a table which held all the history books of the Ira Unit. Mrs. Billy Calley, Mrs. Tommy Millhollon, Mrs. Leon Huddleston, Mrs. Manley Burrow and Mrs. Tommy Taylor presented a brief history of the Ira Unit. "In 1930 a Mother's Club was organized. These mothers met with the teachers perhaps three times a year — the beginning of school, the Christmas Party and the closing of school. They soon realized that this did not give them time to discuss the mutual problems, so in 1934 a group was formed which joined with the State Teachers Organization. Mrs. George Lewis was the first president of the Mothers Club and Mrs. Amel (Lois) Kruse was elected president in 1934. Those following were Mrs. Perry Echols, Mrs. Lewis Dunn, Mrs. Guy Floyd, Mrs. E. W. Baldwin, Mrs. Elmo Dunn, Mrs. Fred Gullett, Mrs. O. W. Holladay, Mrs. Silas Devenport, Mrs. Jim Brown, Mrs. J. H. Kimbrell, Mrs. Leon Sterling, Mrs. J. L. Byars, and the present president, Mrs. Pete Sterling.

The outstanding project of the unit was the starting of the lunch room at a time when the mothers had to volunteer to plant gardens, can vegetables and to help cook and serve the food themselves. Much of the lunch room equipment was purchased or given by P-TA members and through the years they have continued to buy things that were needed. Playground equipment, public address system, memograph machine, United States and Texas Flags for all rooms, sports equipment and Home Economics and Vocational Agriculture support, are some of the ways P-TA has helped, while continuing to be an organization to bring about a closer and more personal relation between the parents, teachers and the community, so that they can all work together for the youth of our school."

One of the highlights of the year is always the program featuring the "book review" and this one was no exception. "I've Only Got Two Hands, And I'm Wringing Them," a delightful book by Jane Goodsell, was reviewed by Mrs. Howard Sterling. She kept the members smiling as they found situations of the author so fitting those of their homes.

Third grade won room count.

March meeting will be a night meeting, held in connection with Open House at the School on the 16th.

Tiger Netmen Rap Steers

Snyder's tennis team was impressive in a dual match with Big Spring here Saturday, defeating the Steer in 8 of 12 matches.

Jerry Bell defeated Russ McEwen, 6-0, 6-1, in the No. 1 boys singles match.

Results of other boys singles matches, all won by Snyder boys: Wayne Anderson defeated Mike Warren, 7-5, 6-2; John Phillips defeated Scott Porter, 6-2, 6-2; Jim Gardner defeated Richard Mackline, 6-1, 6-2.

In boy doubles, Bell and Gordon Stokes teamed up to defeat McEwen and Warren, 6-2, 6-4. Jim Spence and Mike Flynn lost to Big Spring's Porter and Mackline, 6-4, 6-4.

Emily Kincaid defeated Carol McCombs, 6-4, 6-2, in the No. 1 girls singles, and Patsy Miller and Linda Miller beat Martha Jordan and Cynthia McNeese, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, in a girls doubles match. Patsy also beat Martha, 6-2, 6-4.

All other Snyder girls lost their matches: D'Anna Alexander lost to Collette Took; 6-4, 6-2; Rose Hartley lost to Cynthia McNeese, 6-1, 6-1.

In girls doubles, Kincaid and Alexander were beaten, 6-4, 6-2, by McCombs and Took.

Max Falls defeated Scott Smith, 6-0, 6-1, and Ronnie Maddux defeated James Knight, 6-0, 6-1, in boys Junior High School singles matches. In doubles play Bill Branson and Neale Starnes defeated Smith and Knight, 6-3, 6-2.

Coach Ken McAllister will take six team members to Tyler Friday and Saturday for competition in the annual Robert E. Lee open tournament. The six are Sandy Wellborn, Emily Kincaid, Gordon Stokes, Jerry Bell, D'Anna Alexander and Patsy Miller.

Aspermont, Tahoka Vie Here Tuesday

An exciting Class A bi-district basketball playoff tilt is on tap at Tiger Gym Tuesday night. Opponents are Aspermont of District 6-A and Tahoka of District 5-A. Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Not much is known about Aspermont, except that it always seems to have a winning team.

Tahoka, with a 20-9 season record and an 8-0 district mark, appears to have the strength to overcome the tradition of their opponents.

Coach Robert Ryan, former mentor at Ira, will guide the Bulldogs. He has listed probable starters, as follows: Mitchell Williams, 6-1, senior; Cliff Thomas, 5-11, junior; Mike Lankford, 6-2 senior; Doyle Schneider, 5-10 junior; and Lewis Hise, 5-9, senior.

Williams is the leading scorer on the club with a 25.5 point average for the season and a 27 point average for each district tilt. A 4-year letterman, he has averaged 19 points during that span. He's one of the postmen.

Only last week, the Bulldogs whacked highly respected Colorado City, 64-57. Tahoka has won its last 10 games.

Owl Nine Begins Play

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest Conference baseball race shoves off today along with other conference sports.

Rice is the first school to swing into baseball action, meeting Houston St. Thomas.

Southern Methodist also begins the baseball race, tackling Austin College at Dallas Friday and playing Austin College at Sherman Saturday.

Texas Christian, Baylor, Texas A&M and Texas tied for the conference title last season. All wait until next week to open the campaign.

A significant track meet comes up Friday when Baylor engage Texas A&M at College Station. Randy Matson, the Aggie shot put king, will be trying to better his world's outdoor record of 70 feet 7¼ inches. It will be his first outdoor meet of the year.

Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Texas will compete in the University of Houston invitation track meet Saturday.

Golf Team In Triumph

Snyder High School's golf team triumphed over Stamford in a dual match here Saturday.

The Snyder team fired for an aggregate of 312, while the Stamford team posted a total of 359. However, two of Stamford's first stringers did not compete, being engaged in music contests at the high school here.

Don Copeland of the Snyder team was the medalist, with a 1-over-par 71. Other Snyder competitors included Mitch Rambin and Alex LeFeuvre, both with 78, and Bennie Ward with 85. For Stamford, High had 83, Grissom 84, Ratliff 91 and Watson 101.

Next action for Coach J. P. Ward's Snyder High team is set for Feb. 27 in the Northeast Invitational Tournament at San Antonio.

BUFFS, BLACKWELL TANGLE IN ROSCOE

FLUVANNA — The Fluvanna Buffaloes, champions of District 70-B, meet bi-district foe Blackwell in a basketball contest, at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday on a neutral Roscoe court.

Coach Geral Greene listed probable starters, as follows: Bobby Hall, Joe Belew, Johnny Dunnam, Victor Contreras and Henry Contreras.

Most prognosticators are giving Blackwell a slight edge, but Fluvanna has shown marked improvement of late and could surprise a few people.

State Seeks Title

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arkansas State goes after its sixth victory tonight against Lamar Tech at Beaumont and if it gets it can come mighty close to clinching the Southland Conference basketball championship.

The unbeaten Indians whirled over Arlington State 99-87 last week to remain unbeaten and boast a two-game lead over second place Trinity, which has only one conference game left —against Arkansas State Feb. 27.

But Arkansas State could have the championship sewed up by then. The Indians play Arlington State at Jonesboro Saturday.

Trinity stayed in the race with a 100-98 victory over Lamar Tech last week.

Lamesa Gains State Basketball Playoffs

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The fight for schoolboy basketball championships begins on the farflung stretches of the Texas Interscholastic League tonight and the field will be cut in half with two nights of bi-district clashes.

There are 170 district champions champing at the bit. Classes AAAA, AAA, AA and A will each furnish four teams for the state tournament at Austin March 2, 3, 4. Class B, which has 74 districts in six regions, will have six teams at the big tournament.

The bi-district pairings in Class AAAA have defending state champion Spring Branch Memorial meeting Houston Waltrip. The other games: El Paso Irvin vs. Abilene, Amarillo vs. Grand Prairie, Fort Worth Paschal vs. Dallas Samuell, Denton vs. Tyler, Port Neches vs. Deer Park, Austin McCallum vs. Corpus Christi Carroll, San Antonio Lee vs. San Antonio Brackenridge.

Class AAA, without a defending champion, pairs them off like this:

Tulia vs. Seminole, Lamesa vs. Brownwood, Mineral Wells vs. McKinney, Nacogdoches vs. Waxahachie, West Orange vs. Conroe, El Campo vs. Clear Creek, Rockdale vs. Refugio, South San Antonio vs. Raymondville.

There may be a regional tournament for the first four districts at Lubbock instead of bi-district playoffs.

Class AA pairs as follows in the bi-districts, with four teams from each region to play in tournaments Friday and Saturday at Lubbock, Denton, College Station and Kingsville:

Phillips vs. Wellington, Dimmitt vs. Post, Colorado City vs. Crane, Granbury vs., Coleman, Bridgeport vs. Alvarado, Plano vs. Mexia, Hooks vs. West Rusk, Winnsboro vs. Van, Giddings vs. Del Valle, Bastrop vs. Klein, Rusk vs. Hemphill, Hardin-Jefferson vs. Anahuac, Needville vs. Yoakum, Kenedy vs. Taft, San Antonio Cole vs. Hondo, Benavides vs. LaFeria.

Class AA has no defending state champion since Lake Worth moved up to Class AAA and failed to win a district title.

Class A has defending champion Gruver in the field and the pairings this week, with bi-district survivors playing in regional tournaments at Lubbock, Denton, Kilgore and Victoria, are as follows:

Gruver vs. Clarendon, Farwell vs. Lorenzo, Tahoka vs. Aspermont, Clint vs. Iraan, Cross Plains vs. Dublin, Archer City vs. Springtown, Itasca vs. Midlothian, Farmersville vs. Wolfe City, Pewitt vs. Brownsboro, White Oak vs. West Sabine, Grapeland vs. Waco Robinson, Cayuga vs. Lexington, Deweyville vs. Magnolia, Eagle Lake vs. Louise, Jourdanton vs. Medina Valley, Yorktown vs. Zapata.

Class B has bi-district games then regional tournaments at Canyon, Stephenville, Sherman, Kilgore, San Marcos and Big Spring. Defending state champion Snook is back.

They pair like this in Class B (by regions):

Darrouzett vs. Allison, Channing vs. Plainview Washington, Amherst vs. Bledsoe, Southland vs. Meadow, Samnorwood vs. Quitaque, McAdoo vs. Rule.

Avoca vs. Olden, Graford vs. Huckaby, Priddy vs. Bangs, Kopperl vs. Jonesboro, Chilton vs. Milford, Forreston vs. Bynum.

Chillicothe vs. Megargel, Forestburg vs. Saint Jo, Krum vs. Godley, Pottsboro vs. Celina, Bland vs. Alba-Golden, Detroit vs. Gober.

Avinger vs. Harleton, Laneville vs. Carlisle, Union Hill vs. Eustace, Frankston vs. Buffalo, Kennard vs. Magnolia, Mauriceville vs. Big Sandy, Woden vs. Broaddus.

Holland vs. Hutton, Evant vs. Kyle, Snook vs. Friendswood, Waelder vs. Smiley, Blanco vs. Leakey, Brackettville vs. Charlotte, Pawnee vs. Laredo United.

Paint Rock vs. Tapa-Centennial, Bronte vs. Mertzon, Blackwell vs. Fluvanna, Sands vs. Grandfalls, Fort Davis vs. Anthony.

SEMINOLE — The Lamesa Golden Tornadoes defeated Levelland, 47-43, in overtime here Saturday night in a District 3-AAA basketball playoff tilt to win the right to represent the district in the state playoffs.

The win gives Lamesa a 29-1 record for the season.

Coach O. W. Follis met with school officials from Tulia, Seminole and Brownwood Sunday and decided to hold a regional tournament in Lubbock beginning Friday.

The Tornadoes tangle with Brownwood of 4-AAA at 7 p.m.; Seminole, the 2-AAA champ, meets Tulia, 1-AAA standard bearer, at 8:30 p.m.

Winners of the first two tilts collide at 4 p.m. Saturday for the championship and advance to the state tourney in Austin, March 2-4.

Ponies Hold 2-Tilt Lead

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Write

The Southwest Conference basketball race has only 12 days to go and is far from a decision although Southern Methodist holds a two-game lead.

That might ordinarily seem a safe margin since there are only four games left to play. But what happened last week gave an inkling of what to expect down the stretch with tempers frayed and upsets in the making.

The race was jarred to its heels when Texas Tech, going nowhere in the title race but in agreement with the maxim that it's the finish that counts, floored confident Southern Methodist 82-74.

That put the whole thing up to last Saturday's games when a loss by Southern Methodist to Texas Christian and a victory by Texas could throw the leadership into a jumble of Mustangs, Horned Frogs and Longhorns.

But Southern Methodist rallied when it meant the most, beat Texas Christian 85-83 while Texas was being slammed hard by Baylor. Thus the race enters its final two weeks with Southern Methodist breathing easier although casting glances backward when somebody mentions upset.

It's possible for Southern Methodist to clinch a title tie Tuesday night, although it seems hardly probable. The Methodists host Arkansas, which languishes in the cellar, and should win this one. If so, and Texas should lose to Texas Tech and Texas Christian to Rice, then SMU would be three games ahead with only three to play.

It doesn't seem likely that both Texas Christian and Texas will lose, however. Texas stands the strongest chance since it must play the upsurging Tech's at Lubbock. Texas Christian is in much better position having Rice at Fort Worth.

Ted Gets Big Chance

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Cat-like Ted Whitfield, the ambitious young puncher from Boston, gets his biggest chance in three years of boxing tonight when he meets world's welterweight champion Curtis Cokes of Dallas in a scheduled 10-round bout.

The title isn't at stake and both fighters are expected to be several pounds over the limit, but it will not only be Whitfield's biggest payday but will be the opportunity for a title shot.

He has been promised a championship fight if he can beat the veteran Cokes, champion only six months and already with one defense to his credit.

Cokes beat Jean Josselin of France, the No. 1 contender, in November, mainly because he had a vast advantage in reach. He won't be in that position against Whitfield, now unranked but only because he took a couple of fights with middleweights just for the money. His record is 24-2. He never has been on the canvass.

Whitfield's trainer, Johnny Dunn, said "this boy has never been in better shape, physically and mentally. He knows this is his big chance. He knows what has to be done and that he can do it. I believe he'll beat Cokes and be back for that title chance."

Each was expected to weigh in at around 148 pounds at noon (CST).

Crown On Line

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Barring a rank upset Howard Payne can clinch the Lone Star Conference basketball championship tonight.

The Yellow Jackets, leading the league by three games with three to go, play East Texas State at Brownwood. By winning, Howard Payne would be at least three games in front with just two left.

Stephen F. Austin and Sam Houston are tied for second with 8-3 records and are the only teams left with a chance to figure in the title.

Howard Payne whipped Texas A&I 86-77 and McMurry 106-69 last week to clinch at least a tie for the title.

Clinches Tie

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Mary's already has a share of the Big State Conference basketball championship in the bag and can take it all this week.

The Rattlers need only to beat second place Southwestern at Georgetown to do it.

St. Mary's clinched a tie for the title by beating East Texas Baptist 76-71 in its lone conference game last week.

This is the final week of the campaign with only two conference games on the schedule, Texas Wesleyan and East Texas Baptist having finished up.

Texas Lutheran plays St. Edward's at Austin Friday and St. Mary's-Southwestern clash Saturday will wind it up.

Figures Reflect Tiger Success

The success of the Snyder High School basketball team is reflected in the statistics.

Tiger shooters outscored their district foes 753 points to 667. As a team, their efficiency rating was .98, compared with .84 for the foes.

The Bengals also pulled down more rebounds than the opposition. In 12 district games, Tiger rebounders grabbed the ball 372 times, compared with 337 for the foes.

Snyder was more accuate at the free throw line, connecting on 61 per cent while the opposition dunked in a 57 per cent average. Opponents held a slight edge in field goals, hitting on 35 per cent, compared with 34 per cent for the Tigers.

District foes also led in another department—they committed more fouls—217 to 214.

Tommy Bullard was the leading scorer for Coach Ned Underwood's crew with 166 points in district play plus 221 in non-league action. Mickey Almond was runnerup with 72 points in non-district play and 169 in the 3-AAA circle.

Both boys return next year along with other veterans, such as Frankie Grimmett, Drake Snyder, Craig Bell, O. L. Cooper and Gus Tovar.

The boys met last week and elected new captains for next season. They are Tommy Bullard and Frankie Grimmett.

Two Astros Unsigned

COCOA, Fla. (AP)—The full Houston Astros squad was due in Cocoa today for spring workouts minus signed contracts from only two regulars, catcher John Bateman and second baseman Joe Morgan.

Bateman returned to the United States from South American winter ball too late to talk contract before training, and manager Grady Hatton said Moran won't be considered a holdout until Wednesday. Management and Morgan were reported far apart on salary terms Sunday.

Protest Disallowed

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Basketball Association denied Philadelphia's protest that the Boston Celtic's used six men against the 76ers for a brief period of time in last Sunday's game.

Philadelphia 76ers Clip Hawks, 123-122

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers proved it's going to take quite a comeback to beat them out of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division title.

The St. Louis Hawks tried it Sunday and failed, and it now appears the same fate awaits the Boston Celtics.

The 76ers blew a 23-point third-quarter lead against St. Louis and still won, 123-122, reestablishing an 8½-game lead over the Celtics after they wilted to 5½ last week.

With only 15 games left for Philadelphia, Boston's chances of regaining the division title they lost to the 76ers last year appear slim. Boston has 18 games remaining.

The 76er victory also discouraged St. Louis's hopes of catching San Francisco in the Western Division as the Hawks fell eight games back in second place.

Baltimore also jumped to a big lead against Detroit, but the Pistons never made a move and the injured Bullets claimed a 131-104 victory in Detroit.

The Chicago Bulls overtook Los Angeles 133-119 in California in the other game.

The Hawks trailed 92-69 late in the third quarter when rookie Lou Hudson, who finished with 38 points, set them afire in the nationally televised contest in St. Louis.

A 46-point final period put the Hawks ahead 122-120 with a minute left, but Wilt Chamberlain stuffed a rebound to tie the count.

When the Hawks missed with 10 seconds remaining, Bill Cunningham grabbed the rebound for the 76ers and was fouled while trying to call time out. He sank only one of three free throws with six seconds left, but it was enough as St. Louis flubbed a try at a final shot.

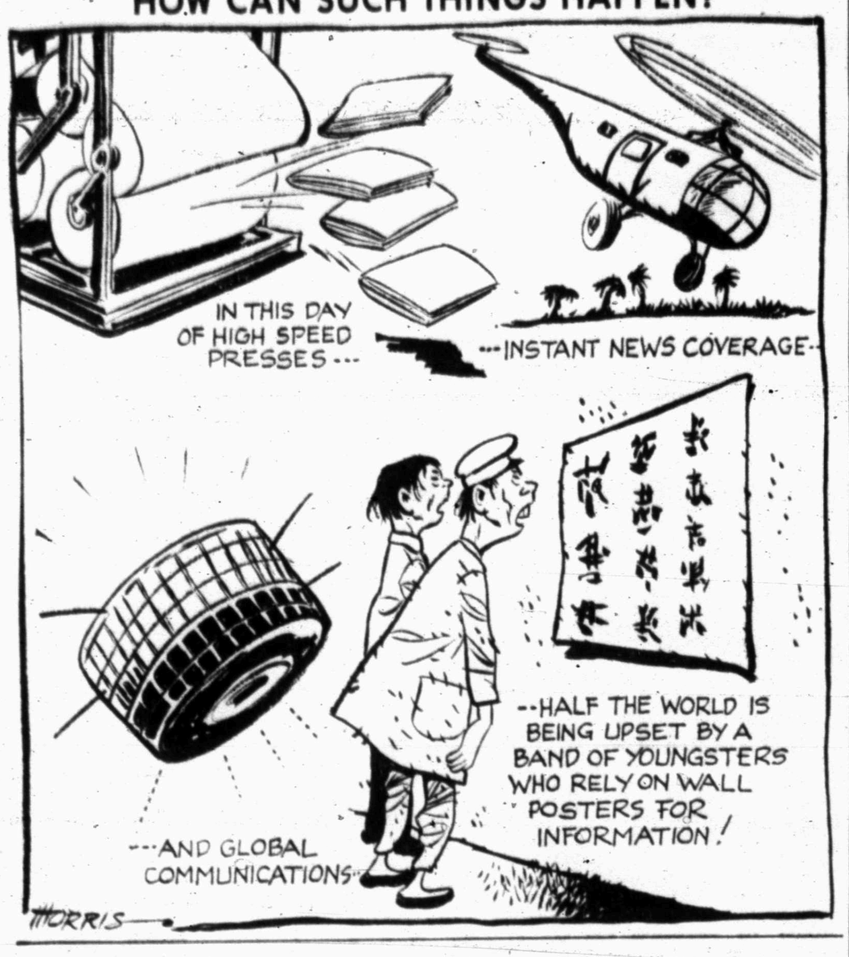
Baltimore took a 17-point first quarter lead and protected it as former Piston Ray Scott had 30 points and Jack Marin and LeRoy Ellis had 26 each. The Bullets were playing without injured Don Ohl, Gus Johnson and Johnny Green.

The Lakers led 63-62 at the half and clung to narrow leads in the final two periods before Don Kojis hit four points for a 94-93 Chicago lead and the Bulls pulted away.

Jerry Sloan finished with 31 points for the Bulls while Jerry West and Elgin Baylor each had 27 for Los Angeles.

In Saturday night's action, New York edged Cincinnati 124-123, Detroit turned back Baltimore 118-113 and San Francisco downed Boston 130-124.

HOW CAN SUCH THINGS HAPPEN?



It's Time For Like Concern For Rights Of The Victim

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's time there was more concern for the victim of a crime and a little less for the accused.

This is the point made by seven members of President Johnson's 19-member crime commission, appointed in 1965, whose 340-page report was made public Sunday.

To get action the seven commissioners, whom the other 12 didn't join, suggest an amendment to the Constitution.

Crime suspects — thanks to a Supreme Court decision last June — now have more protection against police questioning, and therefore against conviction, than at any time in American history.

A wave of criticism has rolled over the court since. Its decision was its interpretation of the Constitution's protection for an individual's rights, no matter who he is, the victim of a crime or the accused.

To combat crime, the crime commission made 200 recommendations which over years would cost billions of dollars and endless effort, thinking, changes and social adjustments.

This comes as the crime rate steadily rises. The seven commissioners in addition think a constitutional amendment is needed to strengthen law enforcement by undoing some of the court's decisions in order to give individuals more protection against criminals.

Summed up, this is what the court said last June in upsetting the conviction of a man charged with rape. Before police question a prisoner they must tell him clearly he does not have to answer, that he is entitled to have a lawyer with him, and that the state will get him a lawyer if he can't afford one.

It is only after he is told all this that a suspect's confession — if he wishes to make one — can be admitted to court, and even then the police will have to show they lived up to the courts requirements about a confession.

This clearly makes police solution of crimes far tougher and often, no doubt, impossible.

The seven commissioners said: "We are passing through a phase in our history of understandable, yet unprecedented, concern with the rights of accused persons. This has been welcomed as long overdue in many areas.

"But the time has come for a like concern for the rights of citizens to be free from criminal molestation of their persons and property.

"In many respects the victims of crime have been the forgotten men of our society — inadequately protected, generally uncompensated, and the object of relatively little attention by the public at large.

"Whatever the reason, the trend of decisions strikingly has been toward strengthening the rights of accused persons and limiting the power of law enforcement."

The constitutional amendment the seven commissioners propose would give the police more time and opportunity to question a crime suspect and make the use of voluntary confessions more possible than they are now.

They quoted an Englishman, Lord Shawcross, who complained about conditions in his own country: "The criminal is living in a golden age." And they said they "know of no other system of criminal justice which subjects law enforcement to limitations as severe and rigid as those we have discussed."

The seven protesting commissioners were Thomas J. Cahill, who is chief of police in San Francisco, California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch and five lawyers: Leon Jaworski, Ross L. Malone, Lewis F. Powell, Jr., Garrett H. Byrne and Robert G. Storey.

Junior Editors Quiz on CASTLES

QUESTION: What were castles like?

• • •

ANSWER: Castles resulted from conditions in medieval times when central governments were too weak to give protection to their people. The feudal lords and barons took their retainers, including knights and fighting men as well as various servants and workers, under their protection and built castles which were something like very small, walled towns. Outside, the castle was ringed with farms worked by peasants who were also the lord's retainers. In times of danger, the peasants joined the others inside the castle walls. For greater protection, a moat or canal often surrounded a castle. Across the moat was a drawbridge which could be opened or closed. The heavy walls had "battlements" from which "merlons" stood up to shelter fighters while they shot arrows and threw stones and spears on an attacking enemy below. We show the plan of a typical castle. The "donjon" or "keep" was the general living place, with retainers often housed on the ground level, while the lord's quarters were above.

Groom Shot At Wedding Reception

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Newlywed James Davis, 37, was shot at his wedding reception Sunday.

Police said reception guests told them the bride, Effie, 29, did the shooting after an argument interrupted the couple's brief period of marital bliss.

Davis, in satisfactory condition at a hospital with wounds in the abdomen and left hand, said he would not press charges, according to the police.

PROPOSALS ON CRIME

Panel Faces Job Of Persuasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive, nationwide job of persuasion lies ahead if the costly, complex proposals of President Johnson's crime commission are to take effect in American streets, police stations, courtrooms and prisons.

Commission officials acknowledged this today and said their effort already is underway.

Two initial steps:

Some 30,000 copies of the blue-bound report, with its more than 200 recommendations, were being sent to governors, mayors, legislators and civic leaders. Most of the proposals seek action by states and cities.

A network of state committees, created at President Johnson's urging and financed in part with federal aid, is due to meet soon to discuss implementation of the crime fighting proposals.

So far, 28 states have set up their own crime commissions, and 11 more are in the process. The conference is expected to be late in March.

The commission staff is drafting a speaking campaign by panel members to seek adoption of the recommendations.

Johnson said the commission report, made public Saturday night, is a call to urgent action for all Americans.

The President already has proposed to Congress a $50-million program of federal aid for efforts to plan improvements in crime fighting and correction.

His program seeks $300 million next year.

The commission said hundreds of millions could be spent each year of the next decade to help overhaul the U.S. system of law enforcement and justice.

One of its members a Columbia University law professor, Herbert Wechsler, said Sunday if the states match the money Johnson proposes, there would be $600 million for improvements in crime prevention, detection and correction.

"That kind of money is feasible, practical and would make a difference," he said.

Executive Director James Vorenberg agreed, but said it is impossible to set a price tag on the steps the commission advocated.

"In terms of what it will take in the next generation, I think it would only be speculaion," Vorenberg said.

Vorenberg and five of the 19 commission members appeared Sunday on the National Broadcasting Co. program "Meet the Press."

In Congress, one commission stand led to swift controversy. A majority of the divided panel held that wiretapping should be carefully limited but not totally banned as a crime-fighing weapon.

Johnson recommended a ban on wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping in all but national security cases. Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, the commission chairman, said he agreed with the President.

But a commission majority advocated "carefully circumscribed authority for electronic surveillance."

Three Fires Are Put Out Sunday

Firemen extinguished three fires Sunday.

The first one occurred about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon when a blaze caused minor damage to a garage at 2305 Twenty - sixth Street.

Fire burned a small building in the 3000 block of Twenty - third at 11:50 p.m. following a grass fire east of Boyd's Lodge about 5:30 p.m.

3 Mishaps Logged Here

City Police investigated three motor vehicle accidents over the weekend.

The first one occurred at 1:06 p.m. Saturday in the 3700 block of Austin.

Involved were the 1966 Model Buick of Cheryl Ann Wilkins, 3602 Avenue U, and the 1964 Model Pontiac of David Cadena, 1911 Twenty - third Street. Damage to the Pontiac was placed at $100, and damage to the other car was set at $10.

Cars of Charles Arthur Smith, Route 3, and Brenda Kay Ashley, Star Route, Ira, were involved in a mishap on Avenue S south of Twenty - fifth Street at 11:33 p.m. Saturday.

Damage to Smith's car was set at $100, and damage to the other car was estimated at $125.

The 1963 Model Mercury of Euila McIntyre, 316 Thirty - second Street, and the 1951 Model Ford of Frank Luna, General Delivery, were involved in an accident at Noble Drive and Thirty - seventh Street at 11:03 a.m. Sunday.

Damage to McIntyre's car cas was set at $100, and damage to the other car was placed at $25.

Common Market Planned By Western Hemisphere Nations

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Western Hemisphere's presidents probably will meet in mid-April to launch a Latin-American common market following general agreement reached Sunday on an agenda for the summit conference.

The U.S. and Latin-American foreign ministers have been working in rare harmony since Tuesday to lay the groundwork for the first hemisphere summit conference since 1956. President Johnson and 19 Latin-American chiefs of state are expected to meet about April 14 at the Punta del Este, Uruguay.

Tentative agreement on the agenda reportedly was reached in unusual weekend sessions, including some aboard Argentina's presidential yacht. The agenda is expected to include in addition to common market plans, curbing of the Latin-American arms race, outlining a "great society" concept for Latin America and a new spirit of cooperation among the nations.

A final document on plans for the meeting may be submitted today or Tuesday, said Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez, the conference chairman.

The United States, although a prime mover in seeking the summit, has kept in the background during the preliminary spadework and let the Latin nations work out their own solutions. Virtually all agree this has been a productive approach.

"The United States has gotten what it wanted," a top diplomat said, "and gotten it quickly with no squabbling."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, apparently satisfied with the progress, plans to leave for home Tuesday. Ambassador at large Ellsworth Bunker will fill in for him until the conference ends, probably Wednesday.

Can Beady-Eyed Sea Cow Be Man's Best Friend?

By BEN FUNK

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP)—A manatee is a fat, sloppy, beady-eyed character with only faint signs of intelligence, few romantic tendencies, and no apparent ambition in life except to keep his big mouth stuffed full of obnoxious weeds.

But in spite of these poor references, the manatee — commonly known as the sea cow—could be one of man's best friends in the animal world.

His gluttonous appetite makes him a living lawnmower. He has three stomachs. To keep them comfortably filled, he must chomp 100 pounds of weeds a day. Since he lives to be 100 years old, that adds up to a mess of weeds.

On his diet, he grows as long as 15 feet and weighs a ton or more.

In sufficient numbers, he could clear the weed-choked inland waterways of the world, improve navigation, increase water supplies, and save millions of dollars spent every year for less effective methods.

"The manatee has no peer," says Dr. P.L. Sguros of Florida Atlantic University, "as an innocuous, rapid, economical and otherwise feasible means of controlling obnoxious aquatic weeds."

The trouble is that, right now, there aren't enough sea cows—for two main reasons.

The first is that their meat tastes like beefsteak and their hides and blubber are commercially valuable. They have been hunted almost to extinction in the warm waters off Florida, South America, the West Indies and Africa.

The second reason is that they lack a strong biological urge. They don't mate often enough to build their numbers back.

When Sguros placed males and females together in a canal, the guys were interested only in gobbling weeds.

The sea cow has a stupid bovine look and once was believed to have been an elephant-like land creature. In the process of evolution, his hind legs grew together into a flat paddle tail and his forelegs became flippers.

It has been said that sea cows, clutching their young to their breasts, started the myth about mermaids. But nobody who ever saw a sea cow swallows that.

A sailor would have to be away from port a long, long time before he would see in a sea cow the shape of a dame.

The mother has a figure like a huge paper bag overstuffed with groceries. Her skin is a dirty wrinkled gray. Her nose, just two holes in a blunt snout, is covered with wiry hair.

And this flabby frump doesn't embrace her young, either. She just drifts lazily with the tide, eating weeds with a loud, lip-flapping noise, and lets junior grab on the best way he can.

But the sea cow has a benign nature and no natural enemy except the human animal, and he could do a whale of a job around the world if his numbers could be built up into the thousands.

Water hyacinth control in the upper Nile River costs the Egyptian government $1.7 million a year. The Panama Canal would be impassable if five million hyacinths were not removed each year. Millions are spent unclogging waterways all over the world.

Chemical and mechanical weed control methods are effective for only one to three months and chemicals sometimes kill marine life.

But when sea cows, harming nothing and nobody, clean the weeds out of a canal, they do such a thorough job they don't come back for six to eight months.

In 1962, the Central and South Florida Flood Control District put up the money for a study of Sguros on the feasibility of using sea cows to eat the weeds that were impeding the flow of its drainage canals and jamming control structures.

The district was spending $160,000 a year to kill weeds and expects the cost to go to $500,000.

Sguros staked out two test areas in a canal and two groups of sea cows captured in the Atlantic were placed in the water.

They began eating immediately. One group cleared its section of weeds in three weeks and began scouting around for something else to gnaw on. It was calculated that one average sea cow could clear 100 cubic yards of weed-filled water a day.

Two problems developed. After brief cold snaps in the winter months, some cows died, apparently of respiratory ailments.

And, although they showed no fear of man, the manatees for some reason did not reproduce during three years of captivity. It was not determined whether they were bashful around people or just couldn't stand the sight of each other.

Even in the wild, a cow produced only one calf every year or two.

The next step is to find something that will immunize the animals against cold weather and develop a breeding stimulus —some sort of love potion—to encourage reproduction.

Sguros has plans for a huge tank on the campus where manatees can be kept under close observation for experimental purposes and protected from vandals. In the earlier experiment, in a remote area, vandals pumped 100 bullets into the head of one sea cow just for the fun of it.

If the two problems can be solved, Sguros says, sea cows may not only lick the weed problem, but the process of extinction may be reversed and an important new food source developed.

BUSINESS and INDUSTRIAL NEWS

QUALITY FOOD — Leslie E. McBeth, owner of McBeth Egg Farms on the East Highway, has discovered that nourishing, wholesome, tasty eggs always will remain a favorite food despite other changes the time brings.

McBeth Top Egg Producer In Area For Past 15 Years

McBeth Egg Farms, producers of quality cage eggs, owned and operated by Leslie McBeth and family, has enjoyed 15 years of service in the Snyder area.

"Before 1940," said McBeth, "almost every grocery store had a feed department. Every town had several produce and cream buying stations. Almost every farm had a flock of hens. Eggs were brought into town for trade or sale in every type of container and, sometimes, in hopeless condition."

After World War II, farming changed and along with it, people's pace of living also changed. Their way of eating changed and it became a positive fact that people would require a better quality egg than was formerly produced.

Hens began to disappear from the farms and the farmer began to ask for a better egg than he had been producing. Many now will eat nothing but a cage egg.

It also became apparent that people would never tire or get "burnt out" on good eggs because eggs from hens that had been fed a clean diet never get strong and are welcome food for any time or occasion.

McBeth realized that hens in cages would produce the eggs that the particular housewife demanded.

While in the building boom here he purchased acreage east of Snyder with its sandy loam land and abundance of good water with the aim of building an egg farm on it. His building experience is needed there also as it has been a continual expansion since it started and now there are several modern houses for hens and more are under construction.

Years have passed and the jet age and space searching has arrived but the egg industry has progressed as well.

At the McBeth Egg Farms, over 20,000 hens are fed only special feed prepared to produce the most perfect egg food. Eggs roll out on wire shelves where they cool and are picked up to go to the processing room. There, they are graded, candled and washed in a special sterilized water all done through a piece of equipment that is second to none. Following this procedure, they are put in refrigeration at a carefully controlled temperature until they are delivered to your favorite store.

The McBeth Egg Farms serve four towns but no eggs are hauled more than 50 miles and as soon as they are cooled, they are quickly delivered to assure the consumer the ultimate in good eating.

The space age continues to amaze but it is also still a positive fact that good eggs are needed in our daily diet to provide the vitamins and energy necessary to good health.

Astronauts eat eggs before going on their daring space adventures. Good eggs are a tasty and easily prepared food for any meal.

McBeth stated that he would not dare predict what the egg industry will do in the future but he will try to stay with it and give the customer what he demands.

McBeth eggs can be found in Snyder at Piggly Wiggly, Earlys Cash Grocery, Everybodys Market, Jay's Food Market, B& B Parkway Grocery No. 22, B&B Parkway No. 18, Preston's Grocery, Davidson Grocery, Carey's Grocery, Edd's Sunshine Grocery, and Burns Grocery.

Ruby Grocery and Smith Grocery in Fluvanna, and Howard's Grocery in Ira also carry McBeth Eggs.

Dreams For Taming Nile Near Reality For Egypt

By AHMED SHAWKI

ASWAN, Egypt (AP) — Egypt's dreams for taming the Nile and saving the nation from flood and drought are nearing reality.

The floods, which once demolished townships and destroyed houses and crops, now ironically hold promise of prosperity.

The huge, Soviet-financed Aswan Dam, which is considered the backbone of the Egyptian national economy and one of President Gamal babdel Nasser's top achievements, is in the final stages of construction.

Seven years have elapsed since the work began and the dam today controls most of Egypt's vital water. It will soon generate electric power.

According to official statements 80 per cent of the work on the dam has been finished. The dam now is 14 times higher than Giza's great Pyramids. When completed, the dam will be 17 times higher.

The work already completed includes the excavation of canals, construction of tunnels and the concrete structure of the power plant. The largest man-made lake in the world is rising behind the dam.

Most of the work is now concentrated on the water-tight joint between the dam core and the rock bed of the Nile. Simultaneously work on the power plant is moving rapidly ahead.

The first turbine has been installed and is scheduled to generate electric power in two months time. Two other turbines will be installed during this year along with transmission lines and substations.

The power station will have 12 turbines, each with a capacity of 175,000 kilowatts. The installation of all turbines is scheduled to be completed before 1970.

As the work on the dam approaches its end, the total number of workers and experts has dropped from 35,000 to 25,000. Officials say the number of Soviet technicians also has dropped from 1,800 when work on the dam started to 600 at present. They will be further reduced to 300 next year, officials say.

"We will keep no more than three Soviet experts to run the work in the powerhouse when the dam is finished," said Ibrahim Zaki, deputy minister for the dam.

Though the dam will guarantee for Egypt water needed for agricultural expansion and electric energy for industries, the wild growth of Egypt's population causes concern about the future.

Some experts estimate that the population, which jumps in Egypt by one million persons per year, already has outdistanced the agricultural yield to be expected from new lands which will be cultivated as a result of the dam.

To help curb the increase, Egyptian officials are energetically pushing a birth control campaign. But this takes time and there often is a traditional resentment to government interference in this area.

Nevertheless, the campaign goes on.

Boys Ranch Founder's Service Set

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Cal Farley, founder of Boys Ranch, died Sunday after he was stricken by a cerebral hemmorhage in the ranch chapel.

The 71-year-old former professional wrestler and Amarillo businessman was dead on arrival at an Amarillo hospital.

Farley founded Boys Ranch at Old Tascosa, 40 miles northwest of Amarillo, in 1939. Thousands of orphaned, needy and wayward boys found refuge and direction there in the following years.

The ranch now houses about 350 boys a year.

The superintendent of Boys Ranch, Garland Ratland, said Sunday that Farley had shown no signs of illness before he was stricken.

Farley's ranch had only six boys when he started it shortly before the United States's entry into World War II, using the abandoned courthouse at Old Tascosa.

Modern dorms, mess halls, schools and recreation areas now dot the ranch. Friends said the founder never drew any pay from operation of the haven for youths

Funeral services tentatively were scheduled to be held Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. in Amarillo's Tascosa High School. Burial plans were not immediately announced.

Survivors include the widow, Mimi, a daughter, Mrs. Sharman Harriman, Amarillo; two brothers, Joe Farley of Minneapolis and Dave Farley of Edgar, Mont.; three sisters, Mrs. Zaida McClay, Pasadena, Calif.; Mrs. Margaret Gardner of Glendora, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Kelley of Milpitas, Calif.

Veteran Home To Celebrate Christmas

BROOKVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Marine Cpl. Frank Ferraro Jr., 19, came home from Vietnam in the middle of February and got a Christmas welcome — his mother kept up the Christmas tree.

"I was really surprised to see the tree," said Ferraro. 'Mom said she's try to keep it up until I got home, but I wasn't sure."

His mother, Mrs. Frank Ferraro Sr. of Brookville said: "I watered the tree every four days. I was determined to have it for Frank when he got home. Now, I can celebrate Christmas, New Year's and my birthday all at the same time now that he's home."

Ferraro had served in Vietnam 12 months.

Mel McGaha, former Cleveland and Kansas City manager, will pilot Oklahoma City in the Pacific Coast League next season.

May Force Rollback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is considering trying to force a rollback in gasoline prices by allowing more imports of gasoline or crude oil, say Interior Department sources.

Meetings last week between Interior Department officials and representatives from eight companies which boosted prices have so far not brought a reduction.

The penny-a-gallon increase to consumers could total $750 million a year across the country, say department officials.

Officials said the first weapon could be reallocation of an idle import quota now assigned to the Defense Department.

Commonwealth Oil Co. has an application pending to ship gasoline from its Puerto Rico refinery and Hess Oil Co. has filed a bid to import gasoline from its new Virgin Islands refinery.

Marine Academy Puts On Muscle

By GARY GARRISON
Associated Press Writer

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — The year-and-a-half old Marine Military Academy is putting on a lot of muscle fast, with a big assist from the "Esprit de Corps" of leathernecks and former gyrenes around the world.

Gen. Holland M. (Howlin' Mad) Smith, who died recently, specific in his will that approximately $100,000 of his estate go to the non-profit military prep school, the first in the nation to be based on Marine Corps customs and traditions.

Part of the money will go for a Holland M. Smith Merit Scholarship in memory of the famous World War — commander of the Marines in the Pacific.

The 84-year-old general had been on the school's advisory board and as a frequent visitor had watched the academy, which opened with only 59 boys in September, 1965, grow into a corps of 145 cadets whose natty uniforms and precision marching delighted the old Marine.

"We want this to be the greatest and largest academy of its type," says the school's superintendent, Brig. Gen. John F. Dobbin, USMC Ret., 54, who flew fighter planes in World War II, transports in Korea and helicopters in Vietnam.

"After all, the Marine Corps has never been associated with anything that is second-rate," he says.

For approximately $80,000 the school obtained 140 acres and 31 buildings including dormitories capable of housing 900 cadets, five air-conditioned classroom buildings, recreation center and a chapel. The facilities had cost over $3 million originally.

Donations from all sources to date total $319,000. The academy has operated with a sizable deficit since it opened but Gen. Dobbin says that when an enrollment of 250 is reached —a figure they hope to have by next year—the school will have a much smaller figure in the red.

The deficit for the current year is about $200,000 but he said this amount was paid by the trustees for the school.

"If we get 250 cadets, we can operate with a deficit of less than $50,000," the superintendent says. "The trustees said if we can do that, they will be glad to put up the rest."

The Marine Corps influence is strong among the students and the faculty and staff.

More than half of the 145 cadets — from 29 states and seven foreign countries—are the sons, brothers, or nephews of Marines or former Marines.

Of the 30 members of the faculty and staff, 14 are former Marines and three were in the Navy.

The school, which has been accredited by the Texas Education Agency, puts strong stress on academic excellency in its four-year high school course, but it also keeps the cadets busy with drills, military training and inspections.

Although the school has no official Marine Corps connection, it was the first and so far the onl military academy in the United States to be designated as a four-year Marine Corps Junior R.O.T.C. unit. In impressive ceremonies on the campus just before Christmas, the cadet corps received its R.O.T.C. colors from Gen. Wallace M. Greene Jr., commandant of the Marine Corps.

The snappy cadet corps in their Marine dress blues and the 21-member drum and bugle corps expect to have an added attraction for future ceremonial parades

The famous King Ranch recently presented the school with four matched quarter horses and as soon as the cadets perfect their horsemanship the academy will have a mounted color guard.

Flea Act Wins Crown In Chinatown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marilyn Lew, high school senior, will reign as Miss Chinatown USA during the Chinese New Year festivites in San Francisco.

The prankish, attractive 17-year-old from San Francisco received the Miss Chinatown honor later Saturday night. Her beauty, 36-25-36 figure and her act won the judges' favor.

"I was just an innocent little flea trainer," she says.

She pretended to have four fleas which were lost among the folds of her cheongsam, one of those sexy Chinese dresses with the slits up the sides. Her imaginary itch produced the action.

"I started to do a strip," she says. "But I didn't really take off anything but a scarf. Then I sort of waved it around."

Marilyn weighs 122 pounds, stands 5-foot-6 and attends Washington High School. She is the daughter of Helen Lew Chen. After high school she wants to go to San Francisco State College and then to the University of Hawaii. She'd eventually like to become an airline stewardess.

The 18 beautiful girls of Chinese ancestry came from as far as New York and Honolulu to compete. For the first time the pageant included a swimsuit contest and the 2,300 persons in the audience seemed to approve.

Runnerup was Cynthia Fong, 21, of San Francisco, named Miss Chinatown, San Francisco. No other places were announced.

According to the Chinese calendar, the year of the Ram, 4665, started Feb. 9. The new year festivities continue here until Feb. 25 when the traditional New Year's parade snakes its way through downtown San Francisco and into Chinatown.

Marilyn wins a trip to the Orient for herself and her mother.
