The third in a series of communications satellites, launched this month, will increase the number of television channels available between the United States and other countries from 36 to 48.

These Intelsat IV commercial satellites represent one of the more instant practical aspects of the space program. They are the only means by which television can be transmitted overseas and thus become at once a valuable communications tool.

But that is not the full extent of their function. Intelsat IV can carry some 5,000 to 6,000 two-way telephone conversations under average conditions, according to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The first Intelsat IV satellite was launched on Jan. 25, 1971, and placed in commercial service on March 26 over the Atlantic Ocean at 24.5 degrees West longitude. The second one was launched last Dec. 19. It is now being checked out and is expected to go into service later this month.

The Communications Satellite Corp., known as "Comsat," is this country's member of the consortium which owns the global commercial communications system. There are 81 other nations represented in the ownership. However, Comsat serves as spacecraft manager for the group and NASA does the launching. It is reimbursed for all costs of the launch services by Intelsat.

The Texas Rangers of the American League, who are now at home at Arlington, will play the Houston Astros of the National League on June 15 in the Houston Astrodome. They plan to set up an exhibition game at Arlington in 1973.

A young business executive in San Francisco is reported to have decided to hitchhike back to his office for another set of keys after locking himself out of his car. As he was standing there on the side of the road in his "Brooks Bros. best," briefcase in hand, thumb aloft, a long-haired individual stuck his head out of a passing Volkswagen bus and shouted, "Why don't cha get a job, you creep!"

STATE OF UNION MESSAGE

President Pleads For Bills Asks More For Defense

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged a Democratic Congress today to reject "the intense pressures of a political year" and enact an array of stalled administration measures, a bigger defense budget and "a new technology program" to foster job-creating research.

In his State of the Union message, on the third anniversary of his inauguration, Nixon asked the Democrats for partnership to make sure that essential programs do not become political hostages.

His nationally televised and radio broadcast address was delivered to a joint session of House and Senate, and Nixon said there were probably more candidates for the White House on hand than at any such occasion in American history.

The President concentrated on a call for approval of programs he already has sent to Congress. He said he would propose later legislation to overhaul the financing of public schools and relieve over-burdened property taxpayers.

He said more than 90 administration proposals, with welfare reform, revenue sharing and government reorganization at the top of the list, still await action in Congress.

The school-financing plan could become a major issue in Congress, and in the White House campaign later in the year. Speculation has centered on a value-added tax, a form of national sales tax, as the most likely Nixon proposal in that area.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, of Pennsylvania, said he doubted there would be action on such a proposal this year, but added it has "a great deal of merit."

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, of Montana, said the property taxpayer usually is a forgotten person, but declared he would oppose a national sales tax as a relief measure.

"Let us have our debates, let us have our honest differences, but let us join in keeping the national interest first," said Nixon, and applause filled the House chamber, crowded with members of Congress, the Cabinet, the entire high command of the government.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, of Michigan, called the Nixon address "statesmanlike, apolitical," and realistic.

The President, an announced candidate for a second term, said he wants a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to encourage research, create jobs and make American industry more competitive abroad.

He promised to unveil later in the year a plan to finance public schools without burdening the property-tax system.

Nixon's delivery of the message coincided with the beginning of his fourth year in office.

Otherwise, Nixon said little about new initiatives but stressed instead that Congress should act on "more than 90 major administration proposals" such as welfare reform, government reorganization and revenue sharing that have been hanging fire for a year or longer.

For the United States to withdraw from international responsibilities "would be to make a dangerous error," he said.

If anyone had doubts the political season is at hand, Nixon erased them at the outset of his speech for the joint session.

THOUGHT TO BE MISSING MRS. GREEN

Body Found In Odessa

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Officers, searching an uninhabitated area within Odessa, came upon a body tentatively identified today as that of Mrs. Gloria Sue Nix Green.

It was the latest chapter involving a series of mysterious slayings of women in this far West Texas area.

The body was found at 3:15 a.m. after Ector County Sheriff A.M. "Slim" Gabrel telephoned shortly after midnight from Aztec, N.M., where he had been questioning Johnny Meadows, 34, formerly of Odessa.

Meadows was being held in Aztec on various charges and was wanted in Odessa and had been questioned in Odessa about the disappearance of Mrs. Green.

Sheriff Gabrel said he will start extradition proceedings against Green.

Mrs. Green, 26, described as "extremely attractive," disappeared from the offices of the O&L Oil Well Service Co. about 2:30 p.m. last June 17.

Mrs. Green left behind her purse and her shoes.

Her disappearance set off a massive search by helicopter, airplane, automobile, horseback and foot because of the previous mysterious disappearances and murders.

Officers searched today from midnight until about 3:15 a.m. when they came upon a mattress at the side of the road. The area had been pinpointed by Sheriff Gabrel in his telephone call.

They removed the mattress and found the skeleton of a woman.

Don Reaves, head of the criminal investigation of the Ector County Sheriff's Department, said, "There is no doubt in my mind that that is the body of Mrs. Green."

However, a pathologist and dentist were called in to pin down the identification.

The ankles of the skeleton were bound with electrical wire such as is used for extension cords. One wrist also had wire around it and indications were that both wrists had been bound. A wire also was around the neck.

With the skeleton were spectacles, a brown dress and a small birthstone ring, all worn by Mrs. Green at the time of her disappearance.

Mrs. Green was 5 feet 2 and weighed about 110 pounds, and had brown hair and brown eyes.

She disappeared 13 days after the remains of a Kermit woman missing 10 months was found near Kermit, about 50 miles west of Odessa. She was Mrs. Nancy Mitchell, 27, who was taken from her home, leaving two sleeping children behind.

Three other Odessa women have been found dead since 1968, two of them strangled with nylon hose and the third stabbed to death.

Sheriff Gabrel had held Meadows for extensive questioning following the slaying of Mrs. Green, a divorcee.

However, Meadows' lawyer, Tom Sneed, filed a writ of habeas corpus, demanding that his client be freed since no charges were filed against him.

At Gainesville, Meadows is charged with theft by bailee of a typewriter He is charged with disposing of mortgaged property in Odessa and with assault with intent to murder in Midland.

Ben Thorpe, Attorney, Dies Here

Ben F. Thorpe, 82, well-known Snyder attorney and former public official, died at 2:55 p.m. Wednesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

A native of Breckenridge, Mr. Thorpe first came to Scurry County in 1912 and had resided in this area continuously since 1918. He was a veteran of World War I, having served with the Headquarters Detachment of the 18th Division.

Mr. Thorpe was a teacher and public school principal for 18 years before he became an attorney.

He was elected County Attorney of Scurry County in 1938 and then was re-elected to that office six consecutive times. Early in 1951 he resigned as County Attorney to accept appointment by Gov. Allan Shivers as the first presiding judge of the 132nd District Court, which was created by the state legislature, effective Fb. 22, 1951. He served through 1952 as district judge, electing not to seek that post in the 1952 election.

A member of the East Side Church of Christ, Mr. Thorpe is survived by his wife; three sisters, Mrs. J.E. Murphy of Ira, Mrs. Leta Lindley of Cisco and Mrs. Zella Lindley of Big Spring; a brother, Lester Thorpe of Cisco.

Funeral service has been set for 10:30 a.m. Friday at the East Side Church of Christ, with Sam Kitching to officiate. Burial will be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

DENIES COMMISSION

Bullock: Orr's Jobs Conflict

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Secretary of State Bob Bullock ruled today there is a conflict of interests between Texas Democratic Party Chairman Roy Orr's political post and his new job as a Dallas County Commissioner.

He said he would not issue Orr's commission as a $27,600-a-year county commissioner until he resigns as party chairman.

"Yesterday, Mr. Orr indicated that he will resign his duties as State Democratic Executive Committee chairman within 30 days. As the legal questions that have been raised will be rendered moot by his resignation, I do not feel it will be necessary at this time to request an attorney general's opinion," Bullock said.

"I will issue the commission as Dallas County Commissioner upon this resignation," he added.

According to Randall Wood, head of the secretary of state's elections division, a county officer cannot legally perform his duties without a commission signed by the governor.

Wood and several others on Bullock's staff have been briefing the law on conflict of interests for several days.

Bullock said the research "indicated that a legal question definitely arises under the common law."

"There is well-grounded common law precedent that no person may legally hold two offices whose duties are incompatible. Both the county commissioner and the State Executive Committee chairman have definite statutory election duties which could prove incompatible in some circumstances," Bullock said.

"A county commissioner has numerous responsibilities in setting up and conducting the general election, including the establishment of election precincts, the appointment of election judges and clerks, and the opening and canvassing of elections," he said.

Ships Are Escorted To Island

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)— Two Soviet fishing vessels accused of violating U.S. waters are plowing through Bering Sea pack ice with their Coast Guard escort towards Adak Island and an uncertain reception by federal legal authorities.

Coast Guard spokesmen said Russians aboard the 362-foot factory ship Lamut, flagship of an 80-vessel Soviet herring fleet, and the stern trawler Kolyvan abruptly agreed Wednesday to leave the St. Matthew Island area after more than a day of delay.

Accompanied by the icebreaker Storis, the two Soviet vessels transferred excess crew members to nearby Russian boats and took on water before beginning the 600-mile voyage to the Aleutian Islands naval station, They are due there Friday.

Both were taken into custody late Monday by the Storis about 9½ miles from St. Matthew, some 200 miles west of the Alaska mainland.

Truck Snaps Cable Of Telephone Co.

Police and Sheriff's radio communications were knocked out and telephone service for 258 customers was interrupted when a truck snapped a cable of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in the 1900 block of Twenty-seventh Street at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday.

The police telephone, teletype and radio were out of commission as was the sheriff department's telephone and teletype. However, telephone company officials dispatched work crews to the scene immediately and they began repairs to the line. They worked during the night and still were busy this morning.

The police and sheriff's lines were interrupted for only about 30 minutes when service was restored. Service for the 258 customers had been restored by nine o'clock this morning when temporary repairs had been completed.

Bill Starnes, wire chief for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said 400 circuits had been severed in the accident. He said future permanent repairs will be made, requiring about 90 man-hours of work. However, service will not have to be interrupted for these repairs.

Starnes expressed appreciation to the public "for their understanding" of the problem, and he apologized for any inconvenience that might have been caused.

Included in the telephones were 12 private lines, including the Associated Press wire to the Snyder Daily News and the news and network wires Radio Station KSNY. However, these lines were back in operation this morning.

Police said the line parted when it was hit by the top of a 1970 Model White Western Star truck operated by Harold Edward Robbins, Box 343, Snyder. Merchants Fast Motor Lines of Snyder is owner of the truck.

Robbins had pulled off the parking lot at M&M Electronics Company and was heading west towards Avenue T when the truck struck the line officers said. It also damaged a telephone pole.

Southwestern Bell officials this morning still had not estimated total damage. There was no damage to the truck.

The cost of moving from a dream castle

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Your comment to "Lady Dreamer" reminded me of a cute saying I'd like to share.

"The neurotic BUILDS dream castles. The psychotic LIVES in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."

MRS. L. P.

DEAR MRS. L. P.: A competent psychiatrist doesn't "collect the rent" for anyone's dream castles. Instead he helps his patient to find a dwelling he can actually LIVE in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of moving.

DEAR ABBY: We have a very surly, selfish son in law who is married to our only child.

She is a wonderful girl and we love her very much, but we just can't understand him. He treats our daughter all right as far as we can see, but he treats us terribly.

When we invite the two of them for supper, she usually comes alone. She's embarrassed, but confesses she couldn't get him to come with her. When he does come, he eats fast and wants to run away right after the meal is over.

We have given them a lot of financial help. We bought them a nice little house and are helping them furnish it. We even bought them a second car.

I was in the hospital for two weeks and he never came to see me once. He didn't even send me a card!

Would it be childish for us to treat him like he treats us? I mean stop all financial help? I wouldn't want to hurt my daughter, but someone should teach this fellow a lesson.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Any financial help you gave him was undoubtedly more for your daughter's sake than his. Don't reward his indifference and rudeness with generosity, but be careful how you "teach him a lesson" or your daughter might wind up paying for the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher. The other day another teacher told me in the presence of the school nurse and some office secretaries, that she had seen a woman shoplift a purse in a local store.

I asked her if she reported the incident to anyone, and she said she had not. I then told her that I thought she had an obligation to report it.

A discussion followed. One person agreed with me. Another said, "If that woman was stealing, she must have been very hard up and needed to steal so it would have been unkind to report her."

Another said, "I'd have minded my own business because if I made such an accusation and wasn't able to prove it, I could be sued for slander."

Now I'd like your opinion, Abby. AN EX ANGELENO

DEAR EX: I would have reported it. To quote Edmund Burke [again], "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Tall Boy" who was tired of having people ask him, "How's the weather up there," hit home with me because I, too, was tall in school. Being a girl it was even worse.

When kids would ask me how the weather was up there, I'd give them the answer my Dad suggested: "Why don't you grow up and find out?"

That shut them up. And they respected me more for telling them off instead of pouting. TALL IN MISSOURI

Javits Prefers Gov. Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits says he would prefer Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as a running mate for President Nixon in November's presidential election.

"My views as to Vice President Agnew are well known," the New York Republican told newsmen Wednesday. "I would certainly prefer Rockefeller as vice president.

Blast May Yield Progress

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The controversial nuclear blast deep beneath Alaska's Amchitka Island last November may yield great progress toward predicting and even modifying natural earthquakes, a government study says.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday that recorded earth tremors from the blast have provided the world's earthquake scientists with a new "window" of unsurpassed clarity into the planet's interior.

The department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) said data from the atomic test should help NOAA seismologists "extract significant new information on the causal mechanisms of (earthquake) aftershocks." This, NOAA said, is promising for scientists who are working on prediction and preventing, or modifying earthquakes.

The report said the explosion—packing a wallop equivalent to nearly five million tons of TNT—resulted in a hefty register of 7.0 on the Richter scale.

The jolt temporarily shook Amchitka hard enough to move it 1.5 inches up and down and 2.3 inches from side to side, the report said.

But the big blast, second only in power to a six-megaton underground Soviet test several years ago, apparently triggered no natural earthquakes or tidal waves, the government said.

Environmentalists had expressed fears before the blast that such disasters might occur. They urged it be cancelled, but despite their public battles—including court suits—it was carried out.

GMC Is Compiling Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Motors Corp. says it is pulling together information it says will back up a request for a one-year extension of tough auto-exhaust cleanliness requirements in 1975.

The government Wednesday rejected a request from GM dated Jan. 12 as "legally insufficient" for a decision to be made.

At the same time, Environmental Protection Agency administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said a charge by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, that EPA was keeping the request secret was "a lot of nonsense."

Muskie, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said Tuesday night EPA was withholding from the public what he said was a week-old request. But EPA said it didn't get the letter asking for delay until Monday.

Furthermore, said Ruckelshaus, Muskie's office never contacted EPA before making the statement.

He said GM's letter did not constitute an official request because it didn't contain enough information which the public must have in order to take part in hearings required by law.

Auto manufacturers must reduce by 1975 the amount of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide in car exhausts by 90 per cent. But the law provides that this date can be moved back a year, if manufacturers show they cannot meet the deadline with their best efforts.

Nixon Expected To Ink Reform Bill

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the campaign-spending bill, hailed on and off Capitol Hill as heralding an end to secrecy about giving and taking political cash, meets President Nixon's objectives for reform.

A few hours after Congress sent the bipartisan compromise legislation to the White House Wednesday, deputy presidential press secretary Gerald L. Warren said he expects Nixon will sign it into law expeditiously.

This would mean America would have the first presidential-campaign spending limit in its history, new political-financing disclosure rules covering all federal office seekers, and the most sweeping election reform law in half a century.

It would end "the short, unhappy life of the TV blitz," said Russell Hemenway, head of the reform-seeking National Committee for an Effective Congress, and would be "a crucial first step toward cleansing politics of the secrecy, duplicity and special interest influence which has shown widespread cynicism and doubt among the American people."

Reform advocates on both sides of the House's political aisle rose to applaud the goals of the Senate-approved compromise Wednesday. Then the congressmen passed it 334-19.

Under the bill's media-spending formula, a presidential candidate's radio-TV budget this fall would be restricted to $8.4 million—representing a six-cent broadcast advertising share of each dime that the bill would allow for electronic, newspaper, magazine and outdoor ads and paid telephone campaigns.

The all-media spending ceiling would be 10 cents per potential voter—nationwide for the presidency, statewide for the Senate and districtwide for the House. There would be no over-all limit imposed on a candidate's total campaign spending. The legislation would cover, instead, what are considered to be the most expensive and enforceable categories.

In addition, while there would be no top on what others can contribute to a candidate's campaign, there is a limit set on what a person can spend on his own election drive: $50,000 for the presidency or vice presidency, $35,000 for the Senate and $25,000 for the House.

Allende's Cabinet Resigns

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende's Cabinet resigned en masse today.

The resignations of the 15 Cabinet members in the leftist popular-unity government were submitted to the president to allow him to make promised "readjustments" in the Cabinet.

Although Allende promised last week a change was imminent in the Cabinet, two stunning defeats for government candidates in special congressional elections Sunday were important factors in the shakeup.

A spokesman at the Interior Ministry said the president will probably name a new Cabinet over the weekend or at the beginning of next week.

Allende is expected to keep most of his ministers. They represent all the half-dozen parties and movements in the popular-unity coalition, including Communists and Socialists.

However, there are reports that he will replace the economic team within the Cabinet—the ministers of economy, treasury and mines-to reshape his government's economic programs.

In the 14 months the Allende government has been in power, the economy has been severely strained by programs to "open the door to socialism in Chile." Income has been redistributed to benefit the worker. There has also been increasing government control of the means of production.

There is a severe shortage of beef. Heavy government outlays to import meat and other foodstuffs has drained Chile's foreign exchange reserves. As a result, all but the most necessary imports have been stopped, causing shortages of a wide range of products.

US Asks Info On Airmen

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The United States asked Hanoi today for information about 14 missing American airmen that Washington says are known to have landed or been captured alive in North Vietnam but never officially listed as prisoners.

The deputy American negotiator, Heyward Isham put the list of the 14 men on the table at the 141st session of the Vietnam peace talks. The head of the U.S. delegation, William J. Porter, was in the United States for private reasons and probably also to consult with administration officials in Washington.

Isham accused North Vietnam of violating its "moral and legal obligations" by withholding information on missing American airmen. He referred to the list of 339 prisoners published by North Vietnam in December 1970. He said the United States has evidence that Hanoi is withholding further information it could provide if it wanted to. North Vietnam maintained the list was complete.

S-Viets Launch New Drive

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese paratroopers, rangers and armored troops pushed through rubber plantation country 40 to 50 miles northwest of Saigon today in a new operation.

The South Vietnamese command said 10,000 to 15,000 men were taking part in the drive which began last Saturday several miles south of the Michelin plantation, the country's largest and once a Viet Cong stronghold.

Few North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been encountered. South Vietnamese headquarters said that in the biggest clash to date, a ranger unit killed 10 of the enemy Wednesday evening at a cost of one ranger killed and four wounded.

Military sources said the purpose of the drive is to keep enemy forces off balance and disrupt any plans for an offensive in the area during the Tet celebration of the lunar new year, which begins Feb. 15.

At the northern end of the country, just south of Da Nang, Vietnamese infantrymen killed 10 enemy in an operation launched after a militia outpost was shelled Tuesday. Headquarters said three government troops were killed and five wounded in the clash.

The South Vietnamese reported 22 small-scale enemy attacks in the past 24 hours, continuing a so-called high point of enemy activity into the 11th day.

In the air war, U.S. B52s hit along the western side of South Vietnam's central highlands for the fourth day today, keeping up their campaign to disrupt enemy forces believed to be preparing for an offensive next month.

Stassen To Attend GOP Convention

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Stassen plans to attend the Republican National Convention this summer, but not as a candidate.

Stassen, who unsuccessfully sought the GOP presidential nomination in 1948, 1952, 1964 and 1968, said in a telephone interview Tuesday that he will ask permission to make a presentation to the convention's platform committee.

He said he would support President Nixon for re-election.

Foster Green of Mountain Home, Ark., was charged in county court this morning with driving while intoxicated, first offense. He was released on $1,000 bond. The offense occurred Wednesday night, and he was apprehended by Highway Patrolmen.

HHH To Seek Union Support

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, long a supporter of organized labor, claims he's not disappointed by a half-million-member union's endorsement of Sen. Edmund Muskie for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"While the organization has made its choice," the Minnesota Democrat said Wednesday, "I am happy to say I will go after its membership."

Humphrey was in Detroit meeting with some of Michigan's top labor leaders when the nation's sixth largest union, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, announced its endorsement of Muskie.

Muskie endorsements also were announced by union officials in Detroit; San Francisco; Miami; Milwaukee; New York City; Buffalo and Syracuse, N.Y.; Hartford, Conn.; Springfield, Ill.; and Manchester, N.H.

Muskie also received an endorsement Wednesday from actor Henry Fonda.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., who already has signed affidavits in two states affirming he is not a presidential candidate, told newsmen:

"I can't foresee any circumstances under which I would be a candidate."

Asked if that meant he would not accept a draft, he replied: "No, I would not."

Gov. George Wallace of Alabama said he will enter Democratic primaries in Pennsylvania and Maryland and is considering those in Wisconsin, Indiana, Tennessee and North Carolina.

The Democratic National Committee excluded Wallace from its list of candidates for the party's presidential nomination as party officials handed out hotel space for the national convention in Miami Beach next July.

Front-running Muskie was guaranteed 500 to 550 rooms, and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., who hasn't declared his candidacy, was on the list for 200.

Miller To Appeal For Stay

RICHMOND, Va. Richmond Schools, to fix time element in 1st graf read:

plans to fly to South Carolina Monday to appeal for a stay of a U.S. District Court order consolidating Richmond's schools with those in two neighboring counties.

Jr. had refused to stay his consolidation order Wednesday, Miller announced plans to meet in Greenville with the chief judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Clement F. Haynsworth.

Merhige last week issued the directive for consolidation, one that would merge the 60 per cent black schools of the city with the 90 per cent white schools in Henrico and Chesterfield counties.

Merhige said a delay in implementing his decision would be of negligible harm to the state and counties because the appeals court has handled such cases expeditiously in the past.

But a delay would hurt the black pupils of Richmond "each day in which they are denied an educational opportunity to which the court has concluded they are entitled," the judge said.

He had ordered that the counties begin within 30 days to arrange the consolidation, which would take effect in the fall.

Fires Put Out

City firemen extinguished two grass fires yesterday.

The first call was at 2:02 p.m. at Avenue E and Twenty-fourth Street. The other call was at 5:13 p.m. 15 miles north of town off U.S. 64.

She Was 5 Years Old When Lincoln Was President

By RHODA WEISS
Yonkers Herald Statesman Writer

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Jannie Peppers Carmichael remembers when Abraham Lincoln was president. She was 5 years old then.

Now she is 115 years old but she still remembers the days of slavery when, at the age of 6, she was put in the fields to plow.

"In those early days I used to farm, cut grass, plow with mules and cut tobacco," said Mrs. Carmichael, who moved to Yonkers seven years ago.

"It was hard work but without it I wouldn't be here today," she added. "Seems like I plowed those fields every day of my life.

"And when the snows came up to our knees we didn't really mind it too much cause we could play in it and build big snowmen."

Mrs. Carmichael was born Oct. 3, 1856, in Lumberton, N.C., and she remembers the Civil War with "fires, ruined land, houses torn down and people getting killed all over the countryside."

A smile warmed her face when she spoke of the early railroad days.

"In my day the boys and girls used to stand by the side of the railroad track and as the train was passing by, we would swing onto one of the cars and go for a ride," she said.

When she saw her first automobile, a Model-T in the early 1900's, she thought it was a wagon. "I didn't know where the mule was," she said.

Her husband, "Doc," died "three years before he was 100." Mrs. Carmichael has four children, seven grandchildren, 27 great great grandchildren, 26 great great great and 15 great great great great great grandchildren.

She moved to Yonkers in 1964 to live with her daughter Mrs. Mary Graham. "But I'm always longing to go back to North Carolina and I really like traveling," she said.

Mrs. Carmichael has lived through 23 presidents, the invention of the airplane, automobile, color photography, dynamite, telegraph, zipper, washing machine and electric stove.

"Things aren't anything like they used to be," she said, "but people are just about the same."

Does she have a secret for long life?

"Do right, trust in the Lord, live right and be good to people and appreciate them."

Her age makes her one of the oldest persons living today.

But she is not really old. Evd ery afternoon she walks up and down three flights of stairs to take her daily stroll. In mind and spirit, Mrs. Carmichael is young.

Economist Predict Strong Growth

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday the gross national product will hit $2 trillion by 1980.

Dr. Carl H. Madden, in Minneapolis to address a meeting of businessmen, said the remainder of the 1970s will bring "strong growth." He said that with an expected average inflation rate of 3.1 per cent during the first half of the decade and 3 per cent in the second half, much of the growth will be "real."

"New Horizons" Make First Appearance

The "New Horizons," an octet composed of female voices, entertained members of the Art Guild Study club and special guests Tuesday evening. The newly organized octet, under the direction of Dr. Marvin Genuchi, head of the music department at Western Texas College, presented a program of contemporary music. This was the first public appearance for the group.

The 25-minute program of choral music began at 7:30 o'clock and was held in the auditorium of the Martha Ann Woman's club building. Dr. Genuchi introduced numbers and made pertinent comments on each before it was rendered. "This is not a progarm of enlightnment, but one of entertainment," he explained before introducing the first number.

Organized only this year at the beginning of the first semester at the college, the octet demonstrated exceptional ability. The eight-voice group includes Martha Howell of Rankin, Peggy Wedeking of Stamford, Sara Fincher of Abilene, Ann Campbell of Hermleigh, Coleen Palmer of Colorado City, and Ann Yeilding, Evelyn Johnson and Dee Osborne of Snyder. Lou Ellen McCombs, pianist for the group, is also a WTC student and comes from Rotan.

Those attending the special performance of contemporary music were entertained by several numbers from the musical, "Paint Your Wagon," including the very familiar number, "And They Called the Wind Mariah." The group also sang a number made famous by the popular singing group, "The Carpenters." Dr. Genuchi explained, "We're singing this number because we like the Carpenters' sound."

At the conclusion of the choral entertainment, Mrs. M.W. Pilcher, and Art Guild member, gave an inspirational though regarding the value of music to an individual's life.

Following the program, members and guests remained for a social period and refreshments.

Bread Is Economical Source Of Protein

COLLEGE STATION— "Bread rates high as one our most important foods," reminded Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist at Texas A&M University. The average homemaker buys 250 pounds of bread and rolls each year, she noted.

Bread is usually labeled an energy food, but Mrs. Clyatt said that it is also an economical source of protein. "It furnishes significant quantities of iron and three B vitamins when enriched. The proteins in bread are best utilized by the body when eaten with such foods as milk, eggs and meat."

For maximum nutritive value, the specialist suggested choosing bread that is marked "enriched" or "whole grain." Enriched and whole wheat breads also provide iron, thiamine and niacin. Riboflavin levels in enriched bread climb slightly higher.

"The use of milk solids also adds to the nutrient value of bread, especially to the calcium value," Mrs. Clyatt said.

According to the specialist, people often falsely assume that breads differ greatly in calories. White enriched, whole wheat, rye and gluten breads differ only slightly in calories. She explained that it's the thickness of bread slices that affects the calorie content. A slice of white enriched bread from a pound loaf cut into 20 slices contains 60 calories. A thinner slice from a pound loaf cut into 26 slices has 45 calories.

A thinner slice from a pound loaf cut into 26 slices has 45 calories.

When buying bread, Mrs. Clyatt said to choose by weight and not size. "Otherwise, you may spend money for air. A two pound loaf usually costs less per pound than a one-pound loaf. "Pricewise, the standard white loaf is usually the least expensive item on the bread counter," she said. "Prices on specialty breads and rolls climb sharply."

Purpose for use also ranks as an important key in bread selection, Mrs. Clyatt added. Choose soft bread for sandwiches and a compact, firm loaf for toast. "Day-old bread makes an economical choice for stuffings, French toast and bread crumbs," she said.

"When storing bread, use a clean, dry, well-ventilated bread box," the specialist suggested. "Keep the loaf tightly wrapped in its original wrapper, except bread with a crisp crust, which is stored unwrapped to preserve crispness. Storage life is short," she said.

"If you want to keep bread at home for more than a few days, freeze it," she advised. Zero temperatures preserve flavor, freshness and original moisture if the bread is wrapped securely in moisture vapor proof material.

The specialist said that bread may be stored in the refrigerator to retard mold growth, especially during hot weather. "But refrigerator temperatures cause staling and a loaf kept refrigerated one day will stale as much as one left at room temperature for three days."

Third Grader Proud Of Reply

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A third grader worried about pollution asked President Nixon what she could do about it. And she's carrying the President's reply in her pocket—the proudest little girl on her block.

The reply to a letter from Gayle Ann Tucker, a 9-year-old pupil at Bradley Elementary School, came on White House stationery.

It said in part: "Simply in setting a personal example you can help control pollution of our lands. In addition you can join the federal, state and local agencies which are active in the area in environmental quality."

New Doughnut Machine Designed

AUCKLAND (AP) — A New Zealander, T. K. McGuire, has designed a three-speed automatically controlled doughnut machine that can turn them out at the rate of 18, 27, or 36 dozen an hour. The machine works on the basis that a doughnut takes about 90 seconds to fry.

ON TRAINMEN'S CONTRACT

Pay Board's Labor Members Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board's once-solid bloc of labor members has split for the first time, bogging down business members' efforts to approve a trainmen's contract that would ease railroad work rules.

After two days of debate the board failed twice Wednesday to give the contract either full or partial approval, then put off further consideration until next Tuesday.

Each time, the votes of Pay Board members representing either the United Auto Workers or the International Association of Machinists would have provided the margin of victory, sources said.

But representatives of the two unions abstained, reportedly motivated by two factors. First, they are said to be angry at business member Benjamin F. Biaggini, president of the Southern Pacific Co., who helped defeat the two unions' aerospace contracts two weeks ago.

Second, they reportedly feel that should they vote to give special treatment to the trainmen, they would hurt their chances of winning a promised lawsuit for reinstatement of the aerospace pacts. They intend to base the lawsuit in part on alleged inconsistency by the board.

The United Transportation Union has refused to put the tentative contract into effect until the Pay Board approves all its terms, including changes in work rules and 42 per cent in pay raises over a 3½-year period going back to the start of 1970.

The board had been expected to approve most of the contract's terms, as it did earlier for a nearly identical contract covering railroad signalmen.

The board approved all of the signalmen's contract up until next April 1, but retained the right to review the last few raises, totaling roughly 15 per cent, which begin falling due then.

The Machinists' and Auto Workers' representatives were said to be ready to vote for a similar arrangement for the UTU, but a motion to do that was withdrawn when it became obvious it would fail.

Instead, Biaggini moved to proclaim the board's intent to approve the full package, provided only that the union allow the work-rules changes to go into effect as promised. Four business members and three labor members voted for that, but the total was one short of the required eight-vote majority.

New Sailboats Feature Comfort

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Sailboat people are regarded as the best boating men and women around but now they apparently have learned something from those who guide power cruisers.

Some new type sailboats will be among the 500 craft on exhibit at the 62nd National Boat Show on four floors of the New York Coliseum for nine days, Jan. 22-30.

The new boats are for cruising enthusiasts who are willing to sacrifice speed for a few more comforts than on the traditional sailboats. This new breed of boat can be seen in several models under 40 feet.

They are sailing craft with double cabin designs with cockpit amidships and private stateroom aft. Forward cabins include either four or two berths, with a convertible dinette making up the complement of six sleeping stations.

Features include wall-to-wall carpeting, shower facilities and enclosed companionways between cabins. Six-foot-five headroom makes for easy living.

"The new boatman is demanding comfort," says Jim Hunt, chairman of the American Sailing Council. "It is a spinoff from the power cruiser and houseboat market which continuously is upgrading its interior accommodations.

"These cruisers will make a lot of sailors very happy. And there are a lot more cruising enthusiasts than there are racers."

The largest sailboat in the show is a 390 double-cabin sloop spreading 633 square feet of sail. Selling price is $34,385. Don't be scared off. Available for $119 is a six-foot yacht tender of molded plastic. It weighs 55 pounds.

Largest boat is the Pacemaker 48-foot sportfisherman, a fiberglass sedan cruiser for "about $98,000." It is fitted with the two gas turbine engines, the first for pleasure craft, each rated at 450-HP.

Most expensive boat in the show is $104,565. It's a 42-foot Hatteras sedan cruiser with three separate cabin areas and two diesel engines.

New outboard engines are drainless, preventing the discharge of unburned crankcase fuel into the water where people would like to swim and fish. Both Evinrude and Johnson are featuring this type of motor. The former has 13 models ranging from 2-to 125-HP. The latter maker has 28 models with 12 different HP ranges. Chrysler has a drainless line of 53 models from 3.6 to 150-HP, the biggest available.

In keeping with the tenor of the times, the new outboards are gentle on the ecology. The unburned fuel is recirculated back into the combustion system where it is burned.

Hall Of Fame Men Happy

NEW YORK (AP) — Election to Baseball's Hall of Fame surprised Sandy Koufax, excited Yogi Berra and interrupted Early Wynn's tomato-picking.

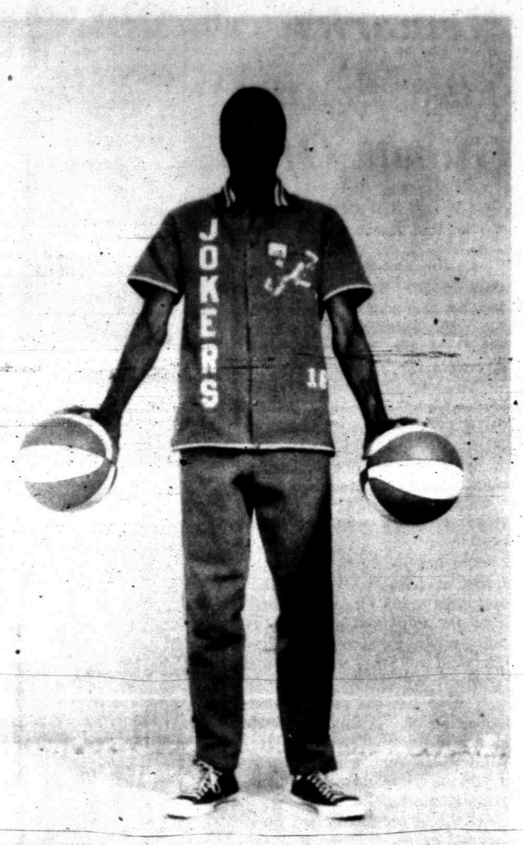
Wynn, a 300-game winner who had failed three times previously to be elected to the shrine that houses the sport's heroes, was notified of his election while picking tomatoes at his home in Nokomis, Fla., near Sarasota.

Wynn was grateful.

"I'd been hoping for it," he said, "but I didn't want to build up my hopes too high. It's like being placed up there on a pedastal, not like getting a gold watch for your longtime efforts. It's recognition I was waiting for for a long time."

But, said Wynn, he would have been happier if the honor had been bestowed when he first became eligible. "I don't think I'm as thrilled as I would have been if I had made it the first time," he said. "Naturally, I'm happy. So is my wife. We have had a long wait. I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just shrugged it off.

"I would have liked to have joined Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Walter Johnson as players who gained the honor the first year they were eligible."



PLAYS FRIDAY NIGHT—Ken (Hot Stuff) McGhee of Bowie State and Gary, Indiana will be in the lineup when the Harlem Jokers basketball team meets the Snyder Police Department at 8 o'clock Friday night in the Scurry County Coliseum. The game is being sponsored by the Snyder Jaycees. Tickets can be purchased at the gate at a rate of $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

Basketball Tilt Slated Friday

There will be a basketball game at 8 o'clock Friday night in the Scurry County Coliseum between the Harlem Jokers and the Snyder Police Department. It is being sponsored by the Snyder Jaycees.

All of the Jokers hail from Gary, Indiana, although the various team members went to different colleges.

Sparking the Jokers attack will be James Knighten (Jumping Jack) (6-6) of Mississippi Valley, and Ken (Hot Stuff) McGhee of Bowie State.

Others on the roster are James (Flash) Whitehead of of Johnson C. Smith University, Howard (Rookie) Rand, Gerald (Apollo) Lockett of Arkansas A.M.&N., and Howard (Rivers) Rand, Sr. of Los Angeles State. The elder Rand is the general manager of the team.

Although the Jokers have a full reportoire of antics designed to please the crowd, they intend to play a "serious game" against the Police Department with the main object being to win.

Chief of Police Bobby Goodwin will coach the police department team.

Tickets can be purchased at the gate tomorrow night at the rate of $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

The police department roster includes Bill Roach, Brian Blair, L.D. Hinson, and Homer Dill. R.D. Lewis of the Sheriff's Department, and David Palmer, game management officer, also will be on the team. The remainder of the squad will be composed of members of the Snyder Jaycees.

Tigers Can Win 1st Half Friday

Snyder's Tigers can wrap up the first half championship in the District 3-AAA basketball race at Sweetwater Friday night. Tipoff is on tap for 8 o'clock following the B team game at 7:30 p.m.

The Tigers are 6-0 in the first half race and have a one-game lead over Lamesa, which is 5-1.

The Mustangs have traditionally been a tough opponent for the Tigers and they could give Coach Bob Moore's crew a few uneasy moments in their own gym. However, that's about all Sweetwater has going for it. They are 1-5 in district and share the ... with Lake View.

Moreover, the Mustangs recently acquired a new Coach. He is Charles Haggard, a former star for the Ranger Junior College team. Haggard replaced Bucky Rodriguez, who resigned to move to Edinburg.

Possible starters for the Mustangs are Morris, Rodriguez, Amos, Zetzman and Hodges.

Coach Moore probably will go with his regular alignment. That would include Kent Horsley and Jerry Brooks at post in the double post attack with Tommy Washington and Dub Preston at wing and Fred Liner at guard.

Capable reserve help will be available in wingmen Jimmy Dyess, David Thompson and Gary Brooks, guards Jackie Murray, Charles Anderson and Mike Hinton and post man Kevin Jones.

The Tigers are 19-2 and are hoping they can win their eighteenth straight victory. They haven't lost since Dec. 3 when they lost to Irving in the Irving Tournament. The other loss was Nov. 26 at Odessa Ector. Since then, however, they've defeated both Irving and Ector.

Coach Jim Bartlett's Bengals are in a 3-way tie with Lamesa and Estacado for the B team championship. The Bengals will be seeking to improve on a 14-6 record. Possible starters include Tim Jones, Darrell Morgan, Richard Gorman, Moell Blalock and Leonard Durst.

'Skins Are Last In NFL Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — George Allen, who wheeled and dealed his Washington Redskins into championship contention this season, also traded them into last place in the National Football League draft.

Allen revamped the 'Skins by exchanging a raft of draft choices for proven talent that paid off with a 9-4-1 record, their best since 1945, and a shot at the Super Bowl before Washington succumbed to San Francisco in the playoffs' first round.

But his philosophy—"the future is now—has also left them with only 10 selections in the 17 round draft of college seniors which begins Feb. 1, the NFL said Wednesday.

On the other end of the scale is New Orleans. The Saints, with six extra picks accumulated in trades—including the one that sent quarterback Billy Kilmer to the 'Skins—have 23 choices, tops among the 26 teams.

Eight other teams also have extra picks-Oakland with 21, Pittsburgh and St. Louis with 20 apiece, Baltimore with 19 and San Diego, San Francisco, Dallas and Cleveland with 18 each.

Buffalo, whose dismal 1-13 record, worst in the league, gave it the dubious honor of selecting first, has 17 choices, as do Chicago, Philadelphia and Miami.

Navy To Play 11-Game Slate

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — For the third straight year Navy will play an 11-game football schedule. The Middies have added William and Mary for a home game here Sept. 16.

Other Navy foes next fall will be Penn State, Boston College, Michigan, Syracuse, Air Force, Duke, Notre Dame, Pitt, Georgia Tech and Army.

Singleton Has Home Run Goal

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Ken Singleton led the New York Mets in bases on balls last season, and now he hopes to lead them in home runs next season.

Singleton is the popular 6-foot-4 Mount Vernon, N.Y., switch hitter who in the final Shea Stadium game of the season blasted two home runs off Cardinal right hander Daryl Patterson. In 27 innings with St. Louis, Patterson gave up only one other homer.

The two round trippers gave Singleton, who turns 25 next June, 13 homers for the season. That's not many but it was a good number in view of Singleton's right field activity. He went to bat only 298 times in 115 games.

Fourteen homers each by Ed Kranepool, Tommy Agee and Cleon Jones tied for the Met lead. Both Kranepool and Agee batted more than 420 times and Jones was up 505 times.

"If I get to play more, I'll probably do all right," says Singleton at the mention of home runs.

"Those five weeks I spent with Ralph Kiner at St. Petersburg, Fla., after the season ended figure to help me. Ralph tried to eliminate most of the early motion in my swing. He made me feel more compact."

The Mets have been looking for a home run hitter but Gen. Mgr. Bob Scheffing refused to be pressured at the recent winter meetings. Such names as Orlando Cepeda, Richie Allen and Ron Santo were being mentioned as likely sluggers to give the Mets more power to challenge Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

The Mets just couldn't make a trade for any of those sluggers. "We would have to give up too much," says Scheffing.

Ever since his freshman days at Hofstra University at Hempstead, N.Y., the Mets have been high on Singleton. They made him their No. 1 draft choice five years ago and brought him along slowly in the farm system.

He made stops at Winter Haven, Fla., Raleigh-Durham in the Carolina League, Visalia in the California League, Memphis in the Texas League and Jacksonville and Tidewater, Va., in the International League.

It was at Tidewater in 1970 that the Mets knew Singleton was ready for the big leagues. He was only 23 then and was hitting a home run every 13 trips to the plate. In 64 games he had 17 homers and was batting .388 when the Mets brought him up.

Ken played in 69 games with the Mets during the last half, hit five homers and batted .263. He hit only .245 last year but slugged .393.

The chances are he will become a regular because he hits well for average against southpaws and hits for good distance against right handers. After his instructional league lessons with former home run champion Kiner, Kenneth Wayne Singleton may be the home run hitter the Mets have been seeking.

He drew 61 walks last season and if Manager Gil Hodges decides to move him nearer the top in the batting order it might just help the Met attack.

Trevino Is Top Athlete

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Oh, man! So many good things have been happening to me that I just can't believe it!".

Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican from a poverty background, who added a dash of fresh color and a new dimension of pro golf, was talking about his selection as The Associated Press Athlete of the Year for 1971.

The 32-year-old Trevino, who made that lightning, unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles, was named Wednesday in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

He amassed 118 votes to win by a wide margin over baseball's Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals and Roberto Clemente of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, who got 31 votes apiece, and Kareem Abdul Jabbar of basketball's champion Milwaukee Bucks, who was fourth with 24.

"You've got to be thrilled any time something like this happens to you, particularly when it comes from an outfit like this, where so many people all over the country are voting for you," Trevino said before today's first round in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open, in which he is a heavy favorite.

"I called my wife and told her, 'Honey, so many things are happening to me I just don't believe it.'"

Yanks List Dates

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees will play 18 of their 33 spring exhibition games in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., starting Saturday, March 4 when the Texas Rangers, nee Washington Senators, will be met. On March 3 the Yankees travel to nearby Pompano Beach to take on the Dallas-Fort Worth representative.

The Yankees break camp Sunday, April 2 after playing the Boston Red Sox. On the way home they will meet the New York Mets at Kinston, N.C., Monday night, April 3 and at Norfolk, Va., April 4, also at night.

Yankee pitchers and catchers will report to camp Feb. 18.

Water Safety Act Changes

There have been some recent changes in the Texas Water Safety Act, according to an announcement by David Palmer, game management official.

He said all motor boats must be registered under the new law. Also, all boats, regardless of type, must have a U.S. Coast Guard approved life saving device for each person on board.

Children 12 years of age or younger must wear a U.S. Coast Guard approved jacket suitable for their size any time they are in a boat that is in operation.

Americans Losing Own Market To Foreigners

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Implementation of the new foreign economic policy, of which currency realignment is the chief feature, led many people to believe that American trade disadvantages were largely at an end.

More likely only the beginning has been made. Inequities exist. The United States is still sharing its markets with nations which makes it difficult for the United States to sell in theirs.

This is the situation, of course, that provoked the Nixon administration into acting. And it was the loss of large segments of the domestic markets in textiles, steel and footwear that provided evidence.

Now comes the electronics industry with figures that will seem incredible to many. In that industry, claims the brand new Electronic Industry Committee For Fair International Trade, 121,000 jobs were lost in the 1965-1970 period because of foreign competition.

This is the extent to which the country shares it market with foreign manufacturers: televisions 37 per cent, phonographs 63, radios 92, tape recorders 96, desktop calculators 71.

"The U.S. trade deficit in consumer electronic products and components in 1970 alone," the committee states in a position paper, "exceeded $1 billion and could rise to more than $3.5 billion by 1976."

Those figures and the forecast provide devastating evidence, but of what? A failure of American management, a falloff in worker productivity, a deterioration of the qualify of domestic goods?

If you searched, it is likely that you could find evidence of all three defects. But certainly none of these can explain how powerful American manufacturers lost 96 per cent of their own market to foreigners.

The answer lies in unfair competition, claims the committee, formed by the heads of companies such as Zenith, Sylvania, Magnavox, and Corning. And who is the chief offender? Japan, it answers.

"The principal source of the rising tide of imports of electronic products and components and resulting trade balance deficit, decline in employment and flight of capital investment is, of course, Japan."

This is the charge:

"Japanese duties on major categories of U.S. electronic products, adjusted to give effect to the imposition of border taxes, remission of internal taxes and the use of similar trade barriers, average 23.3 per cent."

By contrast:

"U.S. tariffs on Japanese consumer electronic products average only approximately 5 per cent. Moreover, Japan imposes various additional nontariff barriers to imports from the U.S. ..." The committee has named Robert Murphy, honorary chairman of Corning International, to head its efforts to gather finances, evidence and impact with Washington.

Junior Editors Quiz on POSTAL SERVICE

QUESTION: When and where was the first postal service started?

• • •

ANSWER: In the ancient world, there was a form of postal service in Persia and Rome. It was concerned with conducting government business. In the Middle Ages, there was a messenger service carried on by the guilds and universities, but this was used for the members and not for the general public.

In the 16th century, the governments became interested in postal service. They saw a chance to raise revenue and also to examine suspicious correspondence. Henry the VIII had a government postal service in England and this was enlarged by later rulers. In 1840, stamps were introduced and rates made uniform for all distances within the country. The rates were determined by the weight of the mail or package. All other countries designed their postal systems after that of Great Britain. In 1775, Benjamin Franklin was appointed the first Postmaster General under the Continental Congress. In 1789, Samuel Osgood was appointed the first Postmaster General under the United States Constitution. In 1794, Congress passed a law establishing the Post Office Department as a branch of the United States government. The department recently became a corporation under the name of the National Postal Service.

Remarks That Send Guests Off

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that make guests leave a cocktail party early:

"Everybody think up something clever. Now we're going to play charades."

"If the government had only listened to me 25 years ago, today we'd be ..."

"You look like someone I met somewhere before, buddy. Have you ever been in jail in Milwaukee?"

"We've run out of gin. Can't I make you one with vodka?"

"We've run out of vodka. Can't I make you one with gin?"

"I'm not really blonde, silly. I just decided to dye my hair and have more fun out of life."

"I get so mixed up at cocktail parties. Look out the window and tell me whether it's dawn or twilight."

"I'm in the insurance game myself. Not to mix business with pleasure, tell me frankly: What would your wife be worth if you suddenly cashed in your chips right this minute?"

"If the government had only listened to me 20 years ago, we could have given Korea back to the Indians. After all, every country belongs to its own natives."

"I think you've made a conquest of our dog Fifi. I've never seen her take to anyone so quickly. If she does anything in your lap, don't pay any attention. It only makes her more nervous."

"Why should I go into the kitchen with you, baldy? Only maids get kissed in kitchens."

"Hey, everybody, here's some nice news! Good old Jim just phoned and said he'd be here on the next flying carpet. There's nobody that can do card tricks like Jim."

"Oh, good grief! If I had to spill something all over you, why did it have to be a Bloody Mary?"

"I'm not little Red Riding Hood, Mr. Wolfe. Would you mind trying to warm your paws on some other girl for a change beginning, say, right now?"

"What do I think the government should do right now? Well, all I can say is that if the government wants any more free advice from me, they'll have to pay through the nose for it."

Manager Should Live In City

FORT WORTH (AP) — Home is where the heart is, and the general manager of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce should live in the city, says City Councilman Pat Reece.

Reece said recently he was "appalled" to learn that Charles Hetrick, the chamber's new general manager, moved into a house in Arlington.

"If he's hired to sell the city and doesn't believe enough in the city to buy a home here, I don't know if he can do a very good job of selling the city," Reece said.

"My feeling," Hetrick said in response, "is that as long as I do a professionally good job for the chamber, it's important that I have a freedom of choice where I live."

Chamber President Tom Law said the executive committee felt it would be better if Hetrick lived in Fort Worth "but it wasn't a condition of his employment."

Voting Rights Hearing Set

HOUSTON (AP) — Prairie View A&M students may find out Feb. 3 if their voting rights case will be heard in federal or state courts.

That's the tentative date U.S. Dist. Judge James Noel has set to determine where the case will be heard.

The state has argued the remedy is in the state district court but the plaintiffs want the case decided in the federal courts.

Seven Prairie View students, the Young Democratic Clubs of the State of Texas and the Texas Student Legal Defense and Education Fund, Inc. filed the suit against Waller County tax assessor Leroy E. Symm.

The suit claims Symm wrongly requires more proof of permanent residence of students than other citizens.

Gimmick Policies Have Poor Batting Averages

Editor's Note: So-called "gimmick" life insurance policies cost far more than the usual policy. Is the extra cost worth it? This, the third in a series of four dispatches, produces answers from State Insurance Board records. The board will hold a hearing on the matter Jan. 27.

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — High premiums, big promises and low returns—that's the history of most "gimmick" life insurance policies, according to State Insurance Board experts.

"Gimmick" is board chairman Larry Teaver's term for the "certain participating policies" outlawed by the board Dec. 1.

The policies are sold through "limited enrollment" schemes in which customers are told they will share part of a company's profits as part of a special class of policyholders.

"This type of policy has a very poor batting average over the years... I'm talking about the companies that offer it and the policyholders being dissatisfied," said Ted Becker, managing actuary of the insurance department's life division.

Premiums tend to be far in excess of normal for an ordinary whole life policy, which is all Teaver says the "gimmick" policies really are.

One company's Approved Policy form specifies a premium of $900 a year for $7,500 worth of coverage for a 35-year-old man.

That's $120 per $1,000. If you knock off the $155 charged for an "endowment" feature, the rate still would be $100 per $1,000.

Board actuaries say a 35-year-old should be able to get a whole life policy for $17.87 per $1,000.

Does a man who pays $900 a year for a policy in hopes of making a profit get his money's worth?

"I don't think there is any question they have," said the firm's vice president and general counsel.

He refused to discuss rates, however, because every company's policies are different and he wasn't sure he would be "comparing apples to apples and oranges to oranges."

Another company charges 35-year-olds $42.59 per $1,000, well above what acturial tables say is justified.

An elderly couple said they paid $600 apiece for a year's premium on a $20,000 policy for each of their three grandchildren, aged 3, 13 and 15.

John Stephenson, head of the insurance board's life policy approval division, said a $900 premium for a 35-year-old man was "pretty typical" of "gimmick" policies.

"They justify that, saying you are going to get big dividends. But the dividends are all in the future, all in their imagination right now. These companies are operating in the red, and so far they haven't paid any dividends. That's typical. That's the majority of them," Stephenson said.

Chances of earning large dividends, he added, "are pretty slim."

"Policies at those rates cannot be sold unless there is misrepresentation, because the price is too great," Teaver said.

Unlike its power to set rates for car and house insurance, the board has no authority to tell a company how much it can charge for a life insurance policy.

The idea, said Stephenson, is that competition will hold the rates down.

Failure to pay dividends is a frequent source of complaints to the insurance board about "gimmick" policies.

An Ohio-based company sells policies accompanied by "certificates of participation" promising to divide 25 per cent of its profits among holders of "fully participating policies" when it has sold 25,000 such policies.

But the firm's 1970 financial statement to the insurance board flatly declared that all profits are destined for the pockets of stockholders, not policyholders.

The company did pay some dividends to Texans in 1970. It collected $319,047 in premiums on $16.9 million of life insurance in force. It paid $5,033 in dividends, mostly applying them to renewal premiums.

Another company collected $2.2 million in premiums last year and reported paying $31,207 in direct dividends—just over one per cent of premiums. Its after-taxes profits totaled $208,000.

Asked about his company's dividend prospects, an executive of the firm replied that the insurance board prohibited such predictions.

Teaver warned in an interview that agents' dazzling predictions of profits often blind prospective policyholders to the fine print.

A California resident recently complained because a policy he bought in 1963 had paid no dividends. According to the prospectus given him by an agent, dividends should have built the value of his policy to about $1,000. But the company said it was worth only $571.

No dividends ever were declared, the company told him, and besides, "the proposal also stated at the bottom of the page that the dividends are estimates and are not guaranteed by your policy."

Birthday Party Tab $250,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Millionaire art dealer Reese Palley is off to Paris with 735 invited friends and customers aboard two chartered jumbo jets for a four-day weekend of good living and culture to celebrate his 50th birthday.

"It will cost me about $250,000," Palley told newsmen at Kennedy airport Wednesday night as his guests boarded two Pan American 747 jetliners for the transatlantic flight.

Palley said he started out with plans to invite 30 people and "all of a sudden" the guest list totaled 735. "This has gone way beyond what we expected," he said.

Arrangements for the trip included Palley's name and face on the fuselage of each plane, two giant birthday cakes and masks of Palley's features for the guests.

"I am not unflamboyant," Palley remarked.

Palley, who owns galleries in Atlantic City, N.J., San Francisco and New York, originally invited his customers to join the flight, saying they could accept delivery of $650 lithographs by Salvadore Dali in Paris at no additional cost. But he said more than half the guests were not under that arrangement.

The tab for the trip includes the price of 370 rooms at the Intercontinental Hotel in Paris, plus dinners in such exclusive restaurants as Lasserre, La Tour d'Argent and the Ritz.

Palley said use of the two jets alone cost him $125,000. A Pan Am spokesman said no individual had ever chartered one jumbo jet before, much less two.

Palley, whose birthday is Jan. 26, was candid about the reason for the trip.

"I don't do anything that doesn't pay," he declared. "It will certainly obviously pay for itself in publicity alone, though that wasn't the intention."

Troops Invade Camp

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — More than 1,000 troops and police swooped down on Long Kesh internment camp near Belfast early today, reportedly to foil a mass escape.

The camp, surrounded by barbed wire and guards, holds several hundred men interned without trial as suspected members of the Irish Republican Army.

Army spokesmen refused to reveal the reason for the descent on the camp, but one said: "An extensive check is going on."

All roads to the camp were blocked, and visits to the inmates were banned for 24 hours.

One unconfirmed report said the security forces were seeking materials assembled inside the fence in preparation for a breakout.

No internee has escaped from Long Kesh, but there have been several breakouts by IRA suspects from Belfast's Crumlin Road jail, and on Monday night seven men slipped through a porthole on the prison ship Maidstone in Belfast harbor.

NO 'CHILI' IN ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—Under this bulky sombrero is Jill Marie Pinner, 3, whose action tell us something about the St. Pete weather this season. Its so nice a person just wants to take his clothes off and take a ride, preferably in an open-air vehicle. Or perhaps Jill is pedaling to Mexico, although there's no need to go further south when we've got such balmy atmosphere right here. In Tijuana, you know, it's chili. (AP Wirephoto)

Sagging Economy Has Put Skilled On Welfare

Editor's note: A sagging economy is driving home the facts of life on welfare to a new class of recipients, skilled, middle-class craftsmen and professionals. where, in the fourth of a series on the welfare crisis, the AP Special Assignment Team looks at some faces on the dole.

By AUSTIN SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — William J., onetime $33,000-a-year executive, peers intently into California's lush San Fernando Valley. He stands beside the backyard swimming pool of his $65,000, mountainside home.

In the distance is the Los Angeles County office that now supplies his only income, $398 a month in welfare benefits and food stamps.

Two years without work, his $15,000 savings gone, his confidence shattered, William J. is depressed about prospects for himself, his wife and his four children. "I've thought sometimes that if I still had my life insurance, I might have done away with myself," he said.

William J. represents a small but growing minority on welfare—executives, engineers, scientists and skilled craftsmen severed from their jobs by a sagging economy.

Some $10 billion has been spent in the last year on 14.3 million welfare recipients, twice the people and three times the expenditures of 1960.

The important statistic for William J., like everyone on welfare, is the money he doesn't have.

William J. rose quickly through Eastern corporation ranks after graduation from an Ivy League college two decades ago. He came West as executive vice president of a Los Angeles firm. Soon after he arrived, the company folded.

Since then he has looked unsuccessfully for another executive position. He'll take any work he can get. But employers have turned him down for such jobs as sales clerk. He is overqualified, they say, and would leave as soon as a better job comes along.

Now William J. is thinking of lying about his background, and the anxiety gnaws at his stomach.

"It's an effort just to keep mentally alert," he said. " I haunt the library reading all kinds of books on religion and metaphysics to find out what I'm doing wrong."

He also reads to forget the bills: $7,000 overdue on his charge accounts; delinquent utility accounts; the soon-to-expire bank moratorium on his $500-a-month home mortgage.

And he reads to forget the shame that prevents him from telling his children, his friends, and his relatives that he is on relief.

"We don't shop in neighborhood supermarkets because of the food stamps," he said. "We go to stores several miles away where we won't be recognized."

The monthly household budget alone for the J. family used to be $1,000. Now, with $398 for everything, they don't go out to eat or see movies; they've stopped drinking; they buy no clothes.

"We eat a lot of hamburger and chicken," said Mrs. J. "I can stretch that."

For people on welfare, things that once were minor irritations assume gigantic proportions. "Every little thing seems to go out," said Mr. J. "the TV, the washer. And I can't afford to fix them. I now understand people who choose to feed their children rather than painting their house because I have had to make the same choice."

Mr. J. has begun to wear old clothes and stop shaving when he goes to the welfare office "so it looks like I deserve it."

Making ends meet is the continual struggle on welfare, whether the recipient be William J. or Raymond Duclos.

Duclos, unemployed because of chronic illness, supports his wife and six children in Providence, R.I., on a monthly relief check of $385. He supplements the check by selling his blood for transfusion.

Not all the extra money goes for food or shelter. Some of it goes for pride; for keeping up appearances to hide the shame of living on welfare.

Duclos said he kept his 15-year-old daughter out of school for two weeks "until I gave blood to get her a coat."

"She wants to look as good as the rest of the kids, you know. Kids ridicule people on welfare."

William J., the out-of-work executive, knows the feeling. "I've stopped functioning as a human being," he said. "I just hide."

Roberts Digs Rock Opera

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evangelist Oral Roberts says he saw a production of the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" when it played in his hometown of Tulsa, Okla., and "I dug about 70 per cent of it."

"I don't often dig that much of a church service," the radio preacher said.

5 Killed In Week's Action

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were reported killed in action and 26 were reported wounded in the Indochina war during the second week of 1972, the U.S. Command said today in its weekly casualty summary. Eight Americans died from nonhostile causes.

The number of killed was about the weekly average for the past three months, and the number of wounded was about half the weekly average.

However, the number of South Vietnamese reported killed last week was the highest in a month, while the number of wounded was the highest in three months. Both increases apparently were due to a sharp increase in enemy attacks in the past 10 days.

The South Vietnamese command said 390 of its troops were killed and 819 were wounded.

The allied commands reported killing 1,034 enemy during the week, up from 800 the previous week.

The number of Americans missing or captured remained at 1,492.

The allied commands have now reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,637 killed in action, 302,519 wounded, 10,047 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—138,476 killed in action, 299,728 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—791,509 killed.

Crash Victims Hospitalized

DALLAS (AP) — Two men from the Houston area remain hospitalized today following the crash of their light plane while attempting to land at Love Field here.

Hospital spokesmen said the pilot Robert Southworth, 39, of Houston, suffered a compound fracture of the left ankle and was in serious condition. His companion, Mike Crampton, 24, of Sealy, was listed in fair condition with undetermined injuries.

A fire department spokesman said the 1960 model single engine, Beech Bonanza was attempting a landing on a crosswind runway at the north end of the field.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the plane apparently ran out of gas and attempted a wheels up landing. It missed the pavement and slammed into the earth, damaging the left wing, propeller and engine cowling.

Chi Elevated

TOKYO (AP) — Chi Peng-fei is Red China's new foreign minister, succeeding the late Chen Ye.

Chi's elevation was disclosed today in a New China News Agency broadcast. He had been acting foreign minister since April.

Films Scheduled By WTC Art Dept.

The Art Department of Western Texas College will present two free films for public viewing at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the WTC Fine Arts Center, according to C. Warren Cullar, assistant professor of art.

The first film will be "The Louvre - A Golden Prison." This film runs for 30 minutes, and it traces the evolution of the Louvre in terms of the historical and clutural growth of France from the Renaissance. The film, narrated by Charles Boyer, provides close-ups of paintings and sculptures in the museum which was once the residence of French Kings.

The second film will also run for 30 minutes and the title is "Art and Architecture, What is it? And Why is it?" It deals with man's preoccupation with art and its various facets through the ages and is discussed by John Canaday.

The films are for the pleasure and enjoyment of the Snyder community and are being sponsored by the WTC Art Dept. and the Artisian Club.

Mujib Won't Go To Moscow

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — The Soviet government has invited Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman of Bangladesh to Moscow, a newspaper close to the Pakistani Foreign Office reported today.

The New Times said the Russians would invite Pakistani President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto after they met with Sheik Mujib. But the paper said Mujib would not visit the Soviet Union until the Russians recognize his government.

Diplomatic sources said Moscow apparently is trying to mediate among Pakistan, Bangladesh and India. The diplomats said Moscow has relayed a proposal from the Indians to the Pakistanis to begin peace talks. But the Indians said they wouldn't talk until Pakistan recognizes the independence of Bangladesh.

A dispatch from New Delhi reported that a delegation of Indian economic experts went to Dacca today to discuss what the infant state needs immediately to restart its shattered industries.

The Indian government signed an agreement with the Bangladesh government Monday providing for a gift of $33 million worth of commodities and services and a $12.5 million loan.

The Soviet Red Cross announced today it is sending a planeload of medicine, food and cloth to Dacca for refugees returning from India.

In New Delhi, President V. V. Giri of India called today for universal recognition of the Bangladesh government because "the sooner this is done the better for the peace and stability of the subcontinent."

Queen's Pay Hike Approved

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons has given final approval to a big pay hike for Queen Elizabeth II.

The bill approved Wednesday night boosts her annual allowance from the state from $1.24 million to $2.55 million. A Labor party move to cut the allowance to $1.04 million was rejected.

During debate, Laborite Richard Crossman charged that the Queen showed "indecent arrogance" by refusing to tell Parliament how much her private assets are worth. Buckingham Palace would say only that reports she is worth $130 million were wildly exaggerated.

Labeling Of Salt Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is ordering salt manufacturers to indicate on the label the iodide content of all table salts.

Currently, idozed salt must be labeled as such, but non-iodized salt need not carry any reference to the chemical.

Iodide combats goiter and has been added to about half the nation's marketed salt for that purpose. In Canada, salt is required to contain the chemical.

The new regulation will take effect in 18 months and will require that any salt not treated with iodide be labeled:

"This salt does not supply iodide, a necessary nutrient."

The Salt Institute, whose members produce 90 per cent of the nation's salt, had urged a consumer survey of the labeling idea, but FDA decided against it.

The administration did modify an earlier proposal on the regulation by reducing the print size and exempting from the rule packages of less than half an ounce or more than 2½ pounds.

The institute said the small portions, used mainly in restaurants, are already iodized. Larger packages, it said, are bought primarily for use in home pickling and canning, where iodide would produce a cloudy look.

Jackie To Withdraw Claim

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for Jacqueline Onassis says she intends to withdraw her claim for monetary damages from free-lance photographer Ronald Galella.

Galella, who has made something of a career of photographing the former first lady and her two children, sued Mrs. Onassis for $1.3 million charging he was harassed by Secret Service agents who broke his camera.

Mrs. Onassis filed a $1.5 million countersuit, claiming that Galella was the harasser. The suit, on four grounds, would total $8 million damages.

Simon H. Rifkind, Mrs. Onassis' lawyer, told a U.S. District Court hearing Wednesday that she "intends to withdraw her counterclaim for monetary damages." He did not elaborate.

The hearing was held before Judge Irving Ben Cooper to arrange for action on pretrial motions and the setting of a trial date. He indicated the case could come to trial in February.

Galella is under orders from Cooper to stay at least 100 yards from Mrs. Onassis' Fifth Avenue apartment and 50 yards from the family when they leave the building.

Earl Warren's Weight Down

SOLANO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren's weight is down to 198 pounds, a reduction of 13, and he credits swimming, walking and gym work.

"No handball," the 80-year-old Warren told pupils at Earl Warren Junior High School.

"That used to be great exercise for me, but no more."
