Soviet Premier Waits Until May 9 To Announce Surrender To Russians

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Wednesday, May 9—The Moscow radio, announcing the German capitulation to the Russian people for the first time, said today that unconditional surrender articles had been signed by the Nazi high command at Berlin.

The announcement, made in behalf of Commander-in-Chief Stalin but not by the premier marshal personally, said the surrender was signed yesterday by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel for the German high command, in the presence of Air Chief Marshal Arthur Tedder, American General Carl Spaatz, French General De Lattre Tassigny and Russian Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov.

Festival of Victory

The Moscow radio said that "in honor of the victorious conclusion of the great patriotic war of the Soviet people against the German Fascist invaders and the historic Red Army victory that has been gained and that has been ended by the complete defeat of the German Army which declared unconditional capitulation, May 9 will be a festival of victory."

The proclamation setting aside today as a holiday was signed by chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet Mikhail Kalinin and Presidium Secretary Alexander F. Gorkin.

Announcement of the capitulation ended the Russian warfare on the East front where the conflict with German forces in Czechoslovakia, in Austria and in the resistance pockets of Courland (Latvia) and the Vistula estuary continued up to the last minute.

Ignored Our V-E Day

Moscow had ignored the V-E day observed by Britain, America and the other United Nations after Prime Minister Churchill and President Truman made their formal announcements of the German surrender.

Stalin, in the last hours of victory, issued three orders of the day to Red Army commanders announcing triumphs in southern Germany, Czechoslovakia and Austria.

Following announcement of the text of the surrender agreement and proclamation of today as a national holiday, the Moscow radio broadcast the Soviet, British, American and French national anthems.

All Soviet state institutions have been requested by the council of the peoples commissars to raise the Soviet state flag on their buildings today.

The German Flensburg radio, broadcasting instructions of the German high command, told all German forces in the field shortly before midnight that they must cease hostilities at midnight May 8 "on all fronts against all former enemies of Germany."

Hand Over All Equipment

The act of surrender signed at Berlin, Moscow said, provided that the German high command must immediately order cessation of military operations at 11:01 p. m. central European time (5:01 p. m., cwt) May 8 and order troops to remain stationary, fully disarming and handing over all arms and military equipment to Allied commanders.

The Germans agreed not to destroy any ships, planes or military equipment of any kind.

The Germans also agreed immediately to put forward responsible commanders to ensure fulfilment of all future orders given by the supreme high command of the Red Army and the high command of the Allied Expeditionary forces.

Moscow said the surrender was made simultaneously to the high command of the Allied Expeditionary forces and the supreme high command of the Red Army.

Final Capitulation Articles Signed At Berlin, Shell-Shredded Capital

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Wednesday, May 9—Germany bowed today to the most crushing defeat ever inflicted upon a nation, her abject surrender proclaimed to the world by the United States, Britain and Russia.

The Moscow radio in behalf of Premier Marshal Stalin, whose Red armies broke the armed might of Hitler's Reich on the Eastern front, announced the unconditional surrender to the Russian people at 1:10 a. m. today, ten hours and ten minutes after President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill proclaimed V-E day.

The announcement said the final articles of capitulation were signed yesterday in Berlin, the ruined capital symbolic of the fall of the Third Reich.

Kietel Signs For Germany

Field Marshal Wilhelm Kietel, chief of the German high command, signed the articles in the presence of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, assistant commander of the Red armies; Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, deputy supreme commander in the west; Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, chief of the U. S. Strategic Air forces in Europen, and Lt. Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commander of the French First Army.

For Germany it was a crowning ignominity — von Kietel, whose armies all but mastered Europe, forced to sign in the ashes of Germany's first city the surrender articles which stripped the Reich of its last vestige of military strength.

The guns of Europe, which through five years, eight months and seven days of unexampled war inflicted possibly 40,000,000 casualties, fell silent at one minute past midnight today (6:01 p. m. Tuesday, eastern war time.)

Actually, guns on the Western front were stilled yesterday to prevent further bloodshed as the Allied world celebrated V-E day 11 months and two days after Gen. Eisenhower's armies stormed into France to liberate a Europe in Nazi chains.

The last shot on the Western front was fired in Czechoslovakia by the 80th Infantry division of Gen. Patton's Third Army, the last to remain in action. Patton issued his cease firing order at 8 a. m., today (1 a. m. central war time).

The stubborn Nazis in Czechoslovakia—the last to submit—agreed to the terms of unconditional surrender, and a "cease fire" order was issued in Prague at 12:25 p. m., (central war time).

The final terms were signed at 2:41 a. m., Monday (British double summer time, 7:41 p. m., Sunday, central war time) in a red brick school house in Reims, which for months had been Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters.

The fact of this historic signing had been first reported to the world 24 hours before by Edward

Tempo Steps Up In Pacific; Planes Sink Six Jap Ships

By RAY CRONIN
Associated Press War Editor

Europe was at peace today (Wednesday) but war thundered with relentless fury on widely separated Pacific-Asiatic battle fronts.

Yank doughboys in the southeast Philippines ran into a real fight in the Davao sector while Australian and Dutch forces expanded their gains on Tarakan island, just off Borneo.

Ranging to Korea and Honshu, naval aircraft sank six Japanese ships, including a small freighter-transport, and damaged 13 small ships and fishing vessels yesterday and Monday.

Meantime, battleships and cruisers turned their heavy guns, ranging from 5-inchers to 14 and probably 16-inch rifles, on Japanese positions guarding the southern Okinawa defense line. They destroyed gun emplacements, some artillery weapons and mortars, fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported in today's communique.

Ground Operations Limited

Adverse weather limited ground operations yesterday and there were "no substantial changes" in either the Marine or Army lines.

The collapse of Germany was marked by a mounting roar from Allied nations to hasten victory over Japan. The Japanese were given stern warnings — unconditional surrender or eventual destruction under the weight of military might that will be thrown against them. President Truman explained to the Nippon people the advantages to be gained from unconditional surrender but the heads of the American and British governments emphasized determination to press on to total victory.

On Mindanao island in the Philippines the Japanese finally stiffened around Davao and counterattacked. Strong Nipponese forces punched through thin Yank lines and established battle positions. A few reinforcements were getting through to a partially isolated American battalion in the hills. The Japanese battleline was anchored on Libby airdrome captured by the Yanks some time ago. Japanese artillery pounded the southwest side of the drome.

Advances On Tarakan

On Tarakan, Aussie and Dutch troops were within two miles of the Djeato oil field.

American naval guns and field artillery heralded victory over Germany by firing a simultaneous thunderous barrage at Okinawa at high noon.

The Japanese offered no air opposition as a substantial force of American Superfortresses hit for the 18th time against Japanese air bases on Kyushu from which the Nipponese have mounted suicide plane attacks against Okinawa, 325 miles southward.

Stern Warnings To Nips

Stern warning as to what she now faces went out to Japan from President Truman. He told the Japanese people that "utter destruction" will be visited upon everything that supports Nippon's military activity. "The longer the war lasts" he added "the greater will be the suffering and hardships which the people of Japan will undergo—all in vain.

"Our blows will not cease until the Japanese military and naval forces lay down their arms in unconditional surrender."

Such surrender, the President said, would mean these things to the people of Japan—the end of the war—termination of the influence of military leaders—return of fighting men to families, farms and jobs. He added "unconditional surrender does not mean the extermination or enslavement of the Japanese people."

King George said "in the Far East we have yet to deal with the Japanese, a determined and cruel foe. To this we shall turn with the utmost resolve and with all our resources."

Truman Proclaims Stern Triumph, Serves Grim Notice On Japs Their Doom Sealed

By HOWARD FLIEGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 8—President Truman, in words of stern triumph and dedication, proclaimed defeat of a crushed Germany today and served grim notice on Japan that her doom was sealed.

A nation at war—picking up the que from its President—went on with the matter-of-fact business of making war without breaking stride to celebrate the victory in Europe.

"This is a solemn but glorious hour," said the chief executive in an 8 a. m., central war time radio address as he joined Prime Minister Churchill in announcement of Germany's defeat. Premier Stalin, who had been expected to speak simultaneously, was silent.

Wish Roosevelt Alive

"I only wish that Franklin D. Roosevelt had lived to witness this day," the President said.

Mr. Truman made no mention of a "V-E-Day" celebration and cautioned the nation that its war job is not finished. Later the White House made clear that the omission was intentional — that there is to be no official V-E day of celebration.

Instead the President called upon all Americans to offer "their joyful thanks to God" on Sunday —he termed if fitting that the day is Mother's day—and to pray for complete peace.

The pronouncement closed out for Americans the major combat phase of three years, four months and seven days of European and African war which had cost this nation at least 732,270 Army casualties alone, including 139,498 dead.

Before Guns All Silenced

It came while the guns still rumbled deep in Europe where fanatical Nazi holdouts held pockets in Prague and in Moravia and Bohemia. Americans of General George S. Patton, jr's Third Army were reported still fighting there.

Throughout the President's words, in a brief speech, an official proclamation and less formal remarks to newsmen in the White House beforehand, he treated the day's history-making event as only half a victory. Repeatedly he put it in precise words:

In the speech—"our victory is but half won."

In the proclamation—"The while world must be cleansed of

Navy Boat Blast Is Fatal To 49

CAPE ELIZABETH, Me., May 8. (AP)—Forty-nine died in the frigid waters of the Atlantic ocean only three miles offshore after a terrific explosion split their Navy Eagle boat amidships in New England's worst naval disaster of the war.

Only 13 of the crew of the patrol ship PE-56 survived the mysterious blast that came April 23 during a noon lull in target practice maneuvers.

Many of the men were below decks when the explosion came and few had time to grab lifejackets as, stunned and bewildered, they struggled topside through debris-cluttered passageways.

Many Perish In Water

Many of those who got over the side before the 430-ton vessel sank perished in the frigid water when their numbed hands no longer could retain their hold on boxes, oil drums and shoring that floated in the wreckage.

Those who survived suffered from internal injuries, cuts, shock and immersion and they had many conflicting theories of what caused the blast that sent the vessel to the bottom in but a few minutes.

Some believed they saw a submarine lurking nearby and one was just as positive that it was not a torpedo that struck the ship.

Some thought the explosion sounded like that created by a depth charge or a mine.

Air Of Mystery— Soviet Delay On V-E Day Is Pondered

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

ONE mystifying fact about the end of the war in Europe is that Moscow ignored the Anglo-American proclamations of victory and waited until today (Wednesday) to announce German capitulation.

It had been widely expected that Marshal Stalin would issue a V-E pronouncement simultaneously with the radio speeches yesterday by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill. The Anglo-American announcements were delayed many hours, presumably to permit Stalin to join Truman and Churchill in the victory symposium.

SIMPSON

Why he did not avail himself of the opportunity will puzzle the Allied world until it is explained. Whether he did not consider the German surrender at Reims official until it was confirmed and ratified in the later ceremony at Berlin was not immediately clear.

No Lack of Credit

Certainly there was no lack of full credit by Allied spokesman, civil and military, to Russian armies for their tremendous share in the triumph. General Eisenhower stressed in his first statement for publication after the capitulation papers were signed in Reims that the Russians had given all "necessary cooperation" in bringing it about and achieving the goal of "unconditional surrender." If his use of the word "necessary" had about it some element of qualification reflecting none too intimate Russian-Allied military cooperation, that has not yet appeared in reports from Europe in any other way.

Future Role In Pacific

Since Eisenhower's main concern now must be early release of American, British empire and other parts of his giant military command as quickly as possible for use against Japan, it is possible he had in mind Russia's future role in the Pacific. Certainly there is no longer any military consideration denying Russia full cooperation against Japan if that is her intention.

Any attempt to estimate the time it may take to defeat Japan must reckon with Russia. If Allied leadership, including Eisenhower, has any factual knowledge of Russian purposes in that region, there is no authentic word of it. Nor is there detectable in what is yet known of Anglo-American preparations to move military power against Japan any indication that Russian cooperation is in fact expected on that front.

Staging Base About Set

On the contrary, with the battle of Okinawa approaching its conclusion, it seems clear that the prime staging base for carrying the war into Japan itself will be ready in ample time to accommodate forces transferred from Europe. General MacArthur no doubt already is advised as to just

Thousands Join In Prayers Here

Inhabitants of Lubbock filed solemnly through the doors of their respective churches Tuesday and Tuesday night to thank God for the triumph of right in Europe and to offer prayers for Americans still fighting in the Orient.

Several thousand people participated in the thanksgiving. Ministers of the Lubbock Ministerial alliance expressed their pleasure at the response of their congregations.

President Truman's proclamation of VE day was generally followed in Lubbock by a truly sane and sober reaction.

Most Businesses Closed

The city closed up shop except for a scattering of cafes and service stations, hospitals, the sheriff's office and the police station. The postoffice closed at noon.

Downtown streets were empty most of the day. Conspicuously absent were the uniformed figures of soldiers. With the victory proclamation at 8 a. m., all military personnel at Lubbock Army Air field, except those authorized to live off the post with their families, were ordered restricted to the field for 24 hours.

Church services were similar.

More than a 1,000 persons gathered at the First Baptist church. At the First Methodist, approximately 750 were in attendance. St. Paul's Episcopal church had 103 at the noon service, 80 last night and many who came for meditation during the day. About 250 people came to the First Christian church.

Special Mass Sunday

St. Elizabeth's, a Catholic church, held a service yesterday morning and was open during the day. A special mass of thanksgiving will be held at 8 and 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The program at the First Methodist church was typical. It was of praise and thanksgiving, with the congregation participating in hymns and prayers. A short talk was made by the pastor, Dr. H. I. Robinson.

Lubbock public schools suspended classes for patriotic programs.

Dr. Robinson and G. H. Nelson, Lubbock attorney, spoke to an assembly of High school students. Christianity is the key to future world peace, Nelson declared. Dr. Robinson spoke of the necessity of maintaining our present enthusiasm for harmony among nations.

Pledges To Flags

Herbert Hawkins and David Rowland led, respectively, pledges of allegiance to the U. S. and United Nations flags. Milton Butler, president of the student body, presided.

The A Cappella choir, directed by Mrs. Mary Ware, sang three selections and the choral reading group, directed by H. J. McCabe, read "The Unknown Soldier." C. S. Eskridge directed the high school band in several numbers.

Rev. Cecil Matthews, director of the Wesley Foundation, was principal speaker at the Junior High assembly. Students sang

Molotov To Leave For Moscow Today

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8 — Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov will leave San Francisco tomorrow for Moscow, it was learned today, leaving the Big Three deadlock over Poland unbroken.

Molotov is turning the chairmanship of the Soviet delegation at the United Nations conference over to Ambassador Andrei Gromyko.

Several days ago it was disclosed that Molotov planned to leave shortly. Gromyko was the previous Russian choice for the delegation chairmanship, before President Truman suggested to Marshal Stalin that he send his top foreign affairs man here.

Ambassadors To Go, Too

The United States and British ambassadors to Moscow, W. Averell Harriman and Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, members of the three-power commission with Molotov for reorganization of the Polish provisional government also will leave San Francisco tomorrow.

The Soviet Union has not replied to the American and British request for an explanation of the arrest of 16 Polish underground leaders, it was learned. Nor is a reply, which was made the American and British condition for resumption of negotiations on Poland, yet in sight.

Molotov was host tonight at a mammoth cocktail party in honor of the newly-arrived delegations to the United Nations conference of the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics.

Several hundred persons, including the chiefs of most of the

Hewitt To Join Jap Sneak Quiz

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP) — Admiral Henry K. Hewitt has been assigned by Secretary Forrestal to conduct the secretary's continuing investigation of the Pearl Harbor catastrophe, it was learned today.

Hewitt, whose home is in Hackensack, N. J., until recently was commander of the Eighth fleet and U. S. naval forces in northwest African waters. He has been relieved to take his new post.

No Trial Evidence

Forrestal announced last Dec. 1, that the Navy's formal court of inquiry into the Pearl Harbor disaster had developed no evidence to warrant trial by general court martial of "any person or persons in the naval service."

The secretary said, however, he was not satisfied that the investigation had gone "to the point of exhaustion of all possible evidence."

"Accordingly," the announcement added, "he (the secretary) has decided that his own investigation should be further continued . . . ."

Errors Of Judgment

Forrestal noted "errors of judgment on the part of certain officers in the naval service, both at Pearl Harbor and at Washington."

Prior to his North African assignment in the spring of 1943 Hewitt commanded amphibious forces of the Atlantic fleet. As commander of naval forces in the landings at French Morocco he won the Navy's Distinguished Service Medal and the Army's Distinguished Service Medal.

He was awarded the Gold Star in lieu of a second such medal as commander of the Eighth fleet in the Sicilian and Italian landings. The Army awarded an Oak Leaf cluster in lieu of a second such medal for his services in the invasion of Southern France.

V-E Day Is Observed Quietly In Denison

DENISON, May 8. (AP)—Denison, birthplace of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, observed victory day quietly.

Business houses closed from 11 a.m. to noon and 3,000 persons attended a one-hour service held at the football stadium.

Otherwise, the day was uneventful.

Talkative Nazis Among Best Weapons In Hands Of Allies

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The Army disclosed today that one of its most valuable weapons in Europe was the German soldier's inability to keep his mouth shut.

A War department authority said it now can be told that some of the Allies' most valuable information about the enemy was obtained from the enemy himself.

From the North African invasion on, American commanders were frankly amazed at the willingness of the German soldier to talk about his unit. The Army source said in some cases the information was a vital factor in the operation immediately ahead.

"The only reason we ever could figure out," this officer said, "was this: The German for so long was not permitted to speak freely on any subject in his homeland that when he was captured he spoke out. Apparently that was one thing German high command neglected in the so-called discipline of the German Army."

The American soldier was drilled to give only his name and serial number. He was told by his commanders that any more information than that would endanger the lives of his buddies. The officer said it worked, too, in the case of Americans.

The U. S. commanders also were surprised that such an old soldier as Field Marshal Ferd von Rundstedt would give any information.

Von Rundstedt, the officer said, told the Allied generals a great deal about the German Army system—information which now is being studied for future guidance. In the field marshal's case, however, the information had nothing to do with current military operations which were virtually over when he was captured.

Looting Celebrants Wreak Havoc In Downtown Halifax

HALIFAX, N. S., May 8 (AP) — Looting mobs, growing out of Halifax's boisterous V-E day celebration, raged through the business districts today, smashing store windows, battling police and causing loss unofficially estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Civil authorities clamped an 8 p. m. curfew on this Canadian port city and service police were called in to clear the streets.

The Halifax business district looked as though it had been hit by a storm. Two fires, apparently of incendiary origin, were reported. Power lines were cut at one point and a large section of the city was without lights for more than an hour.

The city began a peaceful victory celebration last night with servicemen and civilians joining in revelry. But as it continued through the night the celebration increased in violence. Window smashing started and toward midnight a mob attacked a street car, bashed its windows and, failing to overturn it, set it on fire. When a patrol wagon reached the scene, it was overturned and fired.

Liquor stores were broken into and their contents distributed among the mob. At dawn the riot began to quiet, then was renewed at midafternoon.

A mob estimated at 500 sailors, servicemen and civilians roamed the main business section, smashing every window. Bursting through a police cordon at a brewery they carried out beer by the case.

Looting began as the stores were broken open. Women and men walked off cooly, their arms loaded with clothing and other merchandise.

Navy shore patrols joined with military police and civilian volunteers in efforts to clear the streets tonight.

Airlines Planes Are Released

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP) — The aviation industry was authorized today to resume the manufacture of transport planes for airlines.

The War Production board stipulated however that production of civilian transports must not be allowed to interfere with military schedules.

Must Fullfill Contracts

This means, in effect, that an aircraft company which can fulfill its military commitments and still make transport planes now is authorized to do so.

"Military requirements for materials, production and development must come first," Chairman J. A. Krug said.

The action probably will result in airlines obtaining their first new planes late in the year or early in 1946.

A recent survey of the airlines indicated that they want about 300 new planes as soon as they can be obtained, with heavy emphasis on four-engine transports.

No New Planes During War

No new transport planes have been made since before this country entered the war. The airlines originally gave up about one-half of their planes to the military services, but they since have received many ships from the Army and Navy and converted them to civilian transports.

In authorizing the resumption of transport production, the WPB officially described this as "a war supporting activity."

Discharge System For Vets To Be Revealed

WASHINGTON, May 8. (AP) — The War department will announce at noon Thursday the system by which it will choose the troops to be given discharges now that the war in Europe is over.

Department said today the system, based on points for longevity of service, dependents, etc., will be announced simultaneously to the troops themselves and to the public.

Many Controls To Remain On Home Front; Some Restrictions Lifted

By JOSEPH LAITIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 8. — The brownout ends with the complete victory in Europe.

The horse racing ban and the midnight curfew on entertainment are expected to be lifted too.

More Gasoline—Maybe

Civilian motorists may be able to get more gasoline within several weeks.

But otherwise the victory in Europe brings no prospect of early relaxation of the home front controls that directly affect individuals.

The food situation in particular remains acute and will be so for many months. It may even get worse before it gets better.

That in brief sums up the picture outlined by government officials. They reminded that the war in the Pacific and the relief needs of Europe still will make enormous demands on home front supplies of goods and manpower.

Former Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes said April 1 that V-E day should bring an end to the brownout, the midnight curfew on pleasure and the ban on horse racing. WPB Chairman J. A. Krug confirmed on May 5 that the brownout would end on V-E day.

Here is the supply outlook in more detail:

Food To Remain Scarce

Food—The food situation will remain tight—and perhaps become tighter as the United States fulfills its commitments to provide relief to the war-torn countries of Europe. The meat shortage will continue and possibly become more acute. Strict sugar rationing will continue throughout the war with Japan. There is no immediate prospect for easing restrictions on processed foods and fats and oils.

Automobiles — cars should be rolling off assembly lines within three or four months after this 100 per cent war industry is given a go-ahead. A decision on that go-ahead still must be made, but automobiles possibly may be back on the market within a year. Distribution controls will remain in force with priorities for essential users.

Other durable goods—War Production board officials expect almost all types — refrigerators, radios, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, alarm clocks and stoves —to be back in retail outlets within 12 months. They expect those items to reach 1939 production levels within one year but believe that the backlog of demand cannot be met in less than two or three years.

Tire Shortage Critical

Tires—there is no prospect that the critical tire shortage will be eased soon. Even a sharp drop in military demands would leave a heavy backlog of unfilled orders for rationed tires and months will pass before that demand is satisfied.

Gasoline—Motorists can expect increased gasoline rations within a few months. Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes a few weeks ago expressed hope for a 50 per cent increase soon after V-E day. Later he hedged on the estimate. OPA officials believed he was too optimistic the first time. However, the OPA expects some military stocks to be released, particularly on the east coast. It foresees a general easing of the gasoline supply situation but is still uncertain about details.

Shoes—one production official said "V-E day doesn't mean a thing" in relieving the shoe shortage and predicted that shoes must be rationed "for a couple of years." Production has lagged far behind demand and stocks have become so depleted that no military cutback could enable the shoe industry to meet civilian demands for months.

Housing—Continued tight supplies of lumber will prevent any sudden upsurge in building.

Formal Opening Of New School Is Set

McWhorter grade school, Lubbock's newest, will be formally opened with Thursday night ceremonies, according to R. W. Matthews, superintendent of schools. Eight o'clock is the time set for ceremonies to begin.

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, chairman of the Lubbock school board, will be in charge of the program. He will introduce the architect and contractor of the building, the superintendent of city schools, the McWhorter principal and other members of the school board.

An address will be made by Owen W. McWhorter, son of the late B. O. McWhorter for whom the school was named.

The Sixth grade will open the program by singing "America the Beautiful" under the direction of Mrs. John Watson. Dr. Hutchinson will present a history of the school.

After the program, teachers will be in their respective rooms and the public is invited to inspect the building.

Farmers Warned On Destructive Weeds

South Plains farmers had best sharpen their hoes or begin checking their seeds before planting, according to Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of Plant Industry at Texas Tech college.

Dr. Young has issued a warning to all agriculturists in this area that several destructive weeds, not native to the Plains, have begun to show signs of taking permanent root. This is due to careless checking of seeds both by the clerks and the consumer, declared Young.

Citing a few of many examples Dr. Young mentioned hedge bindweeds, field bindweeds, chess or cheat and the cocklebur. He stated the great danger of these, among other weeds taking root to equal the johnson grass plague now harrying South Plains farmers.

Dr. Young said that with irrigation farming the danger increases, as does more and more importing of seeds encourage the foreign grasses and weeds.

Mrs. Roosevelt Lauds U. S. War Workers

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, speaking to the soldiers, workers, and civilians of the country in a V-E day broadcast (NBC) today, declared, "I know that my husband would want me to say to you . . . that he is grateful to each and every one of you."

"I think also that he would want to say that we must go on with every power that we have until the war is fully won and that after that we must give all the backing we can to our own president and to the heads of the Allied nations and win through to a permanent peace," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "That was the main object that my husband fought for. That is the goal which we must never lose sight of."

Some POW Happy, Some Sullen As They Hear News Of Nazi Collapse

DALLAS, May 8. (U.P.)—In scattered prisoner-of-war camps throughout the Eighth Service command a proclamation announcing that Germany has surrendered unconditionally was posted today to be received with emotions ranging from a few honest tears of gladness to expressions of suspicion and sullenness by the 107,000 prisoners interned throughout the seven-state area.

A digest of German prisoners' reaction boiled down to three thoughts:

1. When do we go home?
2. What has happened to our families?
3. We're glad the killing has stopped.

At Camp Livingston, in Louisiana, a German chaplain said he was glad it was over. He told his fellow prisoners a week ago, when a false surrender report was issued, that Germany should have surrendered long ago.

At Camp Bowie, Texas, the proclamation was read to the assembled prisonegrs by an officer.

"They cried, most of them did," the officer reported. "They took the news with bowed heads—like a beaten group of men."

At Camp Barkley, Texas, the mood among prisoners was one of deep depression. Some voiced suspicion that the German nation has been betrayed by its leaders.

Believe Leaders Lying

"They say they feel now that their leaders were lying to them—that Germany was losing the war all the time," a Camp Barkley officer reported.

And at the port of embarkation prisoner camp at New Orleans, sullenness and disbelief greeted the news of Germany's surrender. One prisoner said he was glad the killing had stopped. Others nodded their approval.

However, most of the Germans said nothing. Some clenched their fists, jutted out their jaws and stood tensely at attention while they heard the Eighth Service command proclamation which said:

Released From Obligation

"The Allied occupying authorities exercise all power in Germany. Members of the German armed forces are released from any obligation entered into with a government which no longer exists . . ."

That last phase—"any obligation . . . with a government that no longer exists"—brought an audible show of relief from some prisoners.

Prisoners turned to their work after hearing the proclamation, some of them stoically, some of them enthusiastically, contemplating their return to Germany and the hope of finding their families.

Restrictions and regulations will not be relaxed in any way throughout the 40 prisoner-of-war camps in the Eighth Service command, an official said. As usual, no fraternization between the Germans and Americans will be allowed.

Body Identified As Hitler's Is Found

WITH THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, May 8. (AP)—Col. Anotoly Pilugin, war correspondent of Tass, official Soviet news agency, has said a Russian general had stated that the body of a man identified as Adolf Hitler had been found in the ruins of Berlin.

The Russian general was not named.

During a meeting two days ago between Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky of the Second White Russian Army, Russian officers asked Pilugin, who is attached to the British Second Army as a war correspondent, whether the British believed Hitler was dead or alive.

Pilugin said he replied there was a mixed opinion, but that the Russian general, whose identity he did not disclose, stated that the Russians had found in Berlin the bullet-torn and battered body of a man identified as Hitler.

Board Of Trades Is Closed Part Of Day

CHICAGO, May 8. (U.P.) — The board of trade closed at noon today because employes in the local exchange and other exchanges took time off to celebrate V-E day.

Exchanges in other cities reported "personnel trouble" mid-morning and the fever spread to the local exchange, one official explained.

"It was impossible to continue the market so we voted to close at noon," the official said.

Mother Of President Beams Over Broadcast

KANSAS CITY, May 8. (U.P.)—President Truman, 30 minutes before he went on the air to broadcast his proclamation on the unconditional surrender of Germany, today phoned the home of his mother in suburban Grandview, Mo., to inquire of her health.

It was 7:30 o'clock (CWT) when the phone rang at the cottage where 92-year-old Mrs. Martha Truman lives with a daughter, Miss Mary Jane Truman. The mother still was in bed and missed the chance to talk to her famous son.

The President inquired of his mother's health, Miss Truman said, and talked of "personal things."

When he went on the radio his mother was up to listen. When he completed his proclamation, Mrs. Truman beamed at her daughter and said:

"Oh, that was just fine, wasn't it!"

Mrs. Truman knew what the end of fighting meant. The president was in France in the last war in front-line action. A grandson, Harry A. Truman, is a corporal with a field artillery unit in the Seventh Army in this war.

"She thinks it was a fine birthday for her son," Miss Truman said. "You know, this is his 61st birthday."

Dallas May Print, Distribute V-Mail

DALLAS, May 8. (U.P.) — Postmaster J. Howard Payne says Dallas soon may become a printing and distribution point for V-mail letters from the Pacific.

Film bearing the letters would be sent to Dallas to be printed photographically, and sent on to their destination.

Payne said the Dallas post office may also be asked to set up facilities to sort mail for APO's distribution overseas.

Municipal Workers Strike At Houston

HOUSTON, May 8 (U.P.)— Some 25 operational engineers of Houston's public works and utilities departments remained away from their jobs today in protest against the city's failure to act on a union demand for a wage increase from 87½ cents an hour to $1.25 cents an hour.

The men, some of whom were reported off the job yesterday as well as today, are operators of motor graders, flushers, air compressors and rollers, and are members of the Operational Engineers union (AFL).

City Manager John N. Edy said that no union representatives had discussed the so-called strike with him and that no conferences for possible settlement of the wage increase demand had been scheduled.

John G. Turney, director of public works, said that more than $600,000 of street work was being held up because of the work stoppage.

The Mountain that became a Gold Mine!

—and the company that has helped build 11,000,000 war-time tires

This pile of discarded automobile tires (the picture was taken in 1936) is as non-existent today as the Big Rock Candy Mountains—where the cigarettes grew on trees and the springs gushed pure lemonade.

Maybe you remember driving past those junk yards where the homeless jalopies used to rust in the rain, and the pile of tires grew mountain-high.

And then, one day in December, 1941, that mountain became a gold mine!

In a few terrible moments, America's access to the raw rubber of the Indies was cut completely.

Throughout America, junk yards, garages, and back yards were scoured for every scrap of precious rubber that could be found. We were on a spot—a bad one.

The fact that we got off the spot is due, to a great extent, to companies such as Phillips. For it was Phillips chemical research ability and Phillips production facilities that produced an important share of the vital butadiene which is so essential to the manufacture of synthetic rubber!

Today, we think we have a well-earned right to stick out our chests—because the Phillips Petroleum Company is one of the largest producers of butadiene in the United States!

With today's ever-increasing emphasis on the chemical production of new and better things from petroleum, let the Phillips 66 Shield remind you that Phillips refineries, in addition to producing gasolines, lubricants, and fuel oils . . . are also gigantic chemical plants pouring out weapons for victory.

WOMEN HELP TO FIGHT LAST MILE

WE have the most profound respect for mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts of the men in the armed services. We think most of them are doing a swell job of keeping things going on the home front and keeping up the morale of those they love who are doing the fighting.

News of victory in Europe has brought exciting moments to many wives who are seeing themselves much in the manner of the young woman pictured here and who are hoping their "Joes" will get a stop-over here en route to the Pacific theater of war. Of course nothing is definite, but they can dream can't they?

GERMANS sneer at American men and women as "soft" and "decadent" but that doesn't bother us because if they believed in Hitler they'd believe anything. We have noted the correspondents are saying German women are still wearing silk hose. Well we don't know over three women who have silk hose in their wardrobes and that's because they have saved them since 1941 or else had a friend who bought them a pair in Mexico or sent them from Panama. The others are wearing these shapeless, harsh-colored, baggy rayons, lisles or cottons or are painting their legs.

The women we know are keeping up their homes, managing the children alone, planting gardens, planning to can again this summer, mowing the lawn, serving at the Red Cross, keeping young mother's children so they may have a breathing spell away from them once in a while, doing all of the housework, making over their clothes and keeping their entertaining on a modest scale. Why we even saw one woman painting the house the other day and another said she had just papered her kitchen!

And what is more, they write letters, letters, letters, keeping them cheerful and filled with the light, gossip their men want to hear.

• • •

IF these women only knew the date of the homecoming of America's men they'd be a lot happier naturally. But, as much as they long to have their men at home once more, they realize the war is not over and they also know these men would not be satisfied to come home as long as their buddies are going to the Pacific.

We like to think of the women we know, and most of them live in Lubbock where we have lived all our life, as being like those pioneer women who marched beside their men in the epic treks of these early days on the Plains, carrying on their work, sustaining their morale, never slacking, never quitting until the generals give the word that victory is ours.

IN THE MAIL

Dear Miss Turner:

Would you be so kind as to inquire through your column if anyone has a wheel chair not in use which our neighbor's invalid husband might use. It will be such a great help to his wife and will be well cared for and returned.

Please telephone 5317 or stop by 3410 Avenue U.

And thank you,
Mrs. Lisemby.

FOR NEEDLE CLUB

Wednesday Needle club will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. C. J. Wagner, 1644 Broadway.

Miss Gordon Is Sorority Head

Alpha Gamma chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority elected officers for 1945-46 and gave a program carrying out the year's theme of "At Home With Our Allies" when they met at Hilton hotel Monday night. Elected were:

Miss Betty Alice Gordon, president; Miss Sue Cocke, recording secretary; Mrs. Brunette Harper, corresponding secretary; Miss Lois Alexander, treasurer. Misses Annie Lee Cone, Lanette Merrell and Lorilla Stephens formed the nominating committee.

Miss Beatrice Spivey discussed Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of South Africa and Miss Merrell reviewed the life of Admiral Chester A. Nimitz.

Sorority Enters Contest

A contest is being conducted by national headquarters whereby a chapter submits its idea for the cover page of "Jonquil," national magazine for the sorority, and the winner's idea will be used for the cover page of the June issue. The committee composed of Misses Gordon and Alexander and Mrs. Roger Clapp, reported they had sent a picture of Miss Ina Bacon reflecting from the center of a cross as their entry. Miss Bacon served as sorority president until she resigned to join the Red Cross and is now a staff assistant serving in England.

Members present were Misses Lois Alexander, Sue Cocke, Betty Alice Gordon, Marguerite Harris, Sarabeth Kimmel, Lanette Merrell, Merle Scoggin, Beatrice Spivey, Annie Lee Cone, Mary McGowan and Beulah Ray Markham, Mesdames Arthur A. Kizer, Roger Clapp, H. M. Klein, R. L. Edwards, Christine Keeney and Henry Lawson.

Medical Auxiliary Has Final Social

Final meeting of the auxiliary to the Lubbock-Crosby county Medical society for the season was a luncheon given Tuesday afternoon in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel. Mrs. Olan Key presided.

Let's Finish the Job!

WITH the fall of Germany, Axis power in Europe ends... and the ultimate fate of Japan is sealed!

●● But the struggle ahead will be hard and long. Your job and ours has just begun.

●● Together, we face a tough, stubborn foe across nine thousand miles of high seas—the longest lines of military communications the world ever has known. With the Allies now preparing to launch their combined power at the heart of Japan, this is no time to ease up on our efforts at home. Rather, it is our duty to support the fighting front more intensively than ever—through the purchase of more War Bonds, the steady production of more war materials and continued conservation of our motor cars and trucks.

●● Today, as never before, ours is a common cause. And while our fighting men face the last strongholds of aggression, we can do no less than invest every dollar we can spare in Victory. We can do no less than work our hardest, forging weapons to finish the job—and bring home our sons, brothers and comrades to the better America toward which we're all working!

Sheep Shearing Finished At Tech With Production Well Above 1944

Shearing has been completed of the sheep at Texas Tech college, according to R. C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry, and a heavier yield of wool was reported than produced by the 1944 flock.

Three breeds of sheep are raised on the college farms furnishing ranchers of this area with data and information as to the best results obtained from each of the flocks. Hampshires, Rambouillet, and Southdown are kept, with the second breed the leader in wool-production and popularity.

Production By Types

Forty head of Hampshire were shorn by herdsmen, yielding 305.5 pounds of wool. With an average of 7.64 pounds per head, and discounting a 50 per cent shrinkage, the wool should bring 48 cents per pound, giving a $3.65 total for each ewe.

The Rambouillet, 46 head were raised this year, totaled 692.4 pounds, an average of 15.05 pounds for each head. At 33 cents a pound some $4.97 should be realized from this flock.

Thirty-one head of Southdown produced 165.6 pounds of wool that will bring 33 cents a pound. With an average of 7.89 pounds per head, $2.60 will be brought by each ewe.

Far Above 1944

These averages total much higher than the 1944 level when the Hampshire herd produced 4.69 pounds of wool per head; the Rambouillet output was at 3.75 pounds per head; and the Southdown averaged 6.41 pounds per each ewe.

Mowery stated that the Hampshire were a popular breed for producing mutton to be mated with ranch-bred ewes for the production of cross-bred market lambs. Such lambs should weigh 100 pounds or better at six months of age.

The Rambouillet, which totals well over 90 per cent of all the sheep in Texas, are especially adapted to short-grass grazing. This breed will average about nine pounds of wool from each ranch ewe, and brings about 45 cents per pound at present wool prices. Mowery said that this price well paid for the keep of the ewe, leaving lambs for the rancher's profit. These lambs weigh about 35 pounds at six months of age.

Southdown Limited

The Southdown sheep, Mowery said, are very limited in Texas although popular among 4-H club and Future Farmer organizations for use at junior stock shows. Their small size, excellent quality and type, plus fattening ability will not weigh more than 105 pounds at one year. This is an ideal weight, Mowery stated, for the boy's club shows.

The fleece will be sent to the Texas Agricultural Experiment station where accurate scouring data will be obtained. The Textile department at the college will receive the fleece at that time with the coarser fleece (Hampshire) to be weaved into woolens suitable for men's clothing. The finer material (Rambouillet) will be used for women's clothing while the shorter wool will be used for experiments in blending with other materials.

News Briefs

Cecil Ayres, assistant professor of agronomy at Texas Tech college, will speak to the Slaton Rotary club Thursday. Ayres will address the group on the subject, "Cotton in the Post-War World."

Experiments are being carried out by Texas Tech college, through the department of Plant Industry, in an attempt to find a method for killing johnson grass and other weeds harmful to crops and lawns. Using materials furnished by the Du Pont company several tests have been made, with the best results thus far being found in eliminating dandelions.

German Garrison In Dodecanese Gives Up

CAIRO, Egypt, May 8. (AP)—One of the Germans' most farflung points of isolated resistance disappeared today when Gen. Wagener, commander of 10,000 troops in the Dodecanese islands, surrendered to a British brigadier.

The surrender took place at Simi island. This leaves Crete as the only German outpost in the Mediterranean.

Pacific Vets Hear News With Reserve

AGANA AIR TERMINAL, Guam, May 8 (AP)—Pacific war veterans—sailors in faded blue dungarees and deeply tanned soldiers — heard President Truman proclaim VE day over the radio in this "grand central station" of the Pacific. It was around 11 p. m. here.

When the President started speaking, some who had been playing cards stopped to listen.

There was no cheering when the national anthem came over the radio. The tired men stood at attention until it was finished; then relaxed again.

Navy Lt. Paul F. Stevens of Joplin, Mo., on the way home with the crew of his bombing plane after sinking 30,000 tons of Japanese shipping, said: "The only celebrating we've done thus far is over going home—I hope we get there in time to get in on the celebration." He has spent 33 months in the Pacific.

His crew included Ensign John R. McKinley of Lubbock, Tex.

Coast Guard helicopter pilots have put out fires, rescued stranded persons and flown many mercy flights.

Gradual Oil Supply Reduction Requested

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP)—A gradual rather than a sudden reduction in oil production by the Petroleum Administration for War has been requested by Beauford Jester, member of the state railroad commission.

Jester said one company last month placed in storage 30,000 barrels more than it was able to move and foresaw the possibility that this condition would increase with the cessation of hostilities in Europe.

"The commission anticipates a marked reduction in view of the European situation but does not know when it will come. We hope it will be gradual rather than in a lump cut back and are requesting that the PAW follow this suggestion to avoid disturbing the demand," said Jester.

WOULD STUDY ENGLISH

MEXICO CITY, May 8. (AP)—Generals and colonels of the Mexican Army were urged by the War department today to study English. The department pointed to close cooperation between the United States and Mexican armies, and said language obstacles should be overcome.

Shingles can often be used with unusual effect in finishing the walls of a den.

There are approximately 2000 daily newspapers in the United States.

"When can I get a telephone" ?

That's a frequent question from the 200,000 people who are waiting for us to give them telephone service. The best general answer we know is that it won't be soon.

As long as telephone factories must meet the demand for communications equipment in the war overseas, little equipment can be made for use here at home. Right now the telephone system is serving thousands more telephones than it was designed to serve.

And without a lot of additional equipment, there just isn't room in many telephone cables and central offices to add more telephones.

Even if the war stopped tomorrow, it would still be months before everyone now waiting for new telephone service could get it. For it takes time to make and install telephones, wire, cable, and central office equipment, despite every effort to speed up the job. Thanks for your continued understanding.

Legislature Passes 120th Day As Adjournment Argument Unsettled

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP)—The 49th legislature passed the 120th day of its general session today in disagreement on final adjournment.

The House killed by a vote of 80 to 53 a Senate-approved resolution for sine die adjournment May 10. Killed with the resolution were pending amendments for May 22 and May 25 adjournment, respectively.

The House recently approved and sent to the Senate a resolution intended to allow a recess from May 22 to Sept. 11 but faulty construction of the document omitted the Sept. 11 reconvening date. The Senate has given no indication it will support a recess and Rep. Jo Ed Winfree of Houston, author, said he had been informed only four senators would vote for it.

Would Be Questionable

If the Senate adopts the House-approved resolution in its present faulty form the effect would be questionable since it does not stipulate the legislature adjourn sine die on May 22.

Uncertainty over adjournment is not uncommon at this stage in a general session which the constitution suggests should be 120 days. Beginning tomorrow pay of members drops from $10 to $5.

House debate on the Senate adjournment resolution centered on observations regarding what the session has or has not accomplished and what more it could accomplish.

Much Work Remains

Much work remains to be done although Senate approval of a $25,867,515 appropriation for state-supported colleges moved one important remaining bill toward conference committee. The House approved a $26,517,936 appropriation for this purpose. The difference will be adjusted in free conference committee.

Despite its refusal to select an adjournment date the House passed and sent to the Senate a concurrent resolution requiring that conference reports on major appropriation bills be delivered to House and Senate at least three days prior to adjournment.

Although the session apparently was heading to an end, possibly some time this month, additional legislation was making its way toward already overcrowded calendars.

Permanent Fund Use

The House committee on constitutional amendments reported favorably a resolution submitting a constitutional amendment permitting income from the permanent fund to be pledged for amortization of bonds for construction at the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. college.

The House also gave permission to Rep. W. A. Williamson of San Antonio to introduce a bill compelling lobbyists who collect funds to influence passage or defeat of legislation to register with the secretary of state and give detailed information on their activity.

Heart Attack Claims San Angelo Rancher

SAN ANGELO, May 8. (U.P.)—Final rites were being planned today for a noted San Angelo rancher, H. C. Noelke, sr., 59, who died here yesterday of a heart attack.

He pioneered in the breeding of Corriedale sheep in this sector, being the first to bring the breed to West Texas. He is credited with producing about 150,000 pounds of wool annually and has operated ranches in Terrell, Irion and Pecos counties.

Surviving Noelke are one son, Capt. H. C. Noelke, serving in the European theater, and a daughter and two brothers, all living in San Angelo.

German POW Remain Under U. S. Laws

DALLAS, May 8. (U.P.)—German prisoners of war in American camps within the Eighth service command were told today by a German language proclamation that their country had surrendered, but that they would continue to be subject to American laws.

Following is the text as posted on bulletin boards of the POW camps:

"To all German prisoners of war . . . the organized resistance of German armed forces has ceased. The national socialist government of Germany no longer exists. The Allied occupying authorities exercise all power in Germany. Members of the German armed forces are released from any obligation entered into with a government which no longer exists.

"As prisoners of war you continue to be subject to American laws and regulations and must obey the orders of the persons placed over you. Correct soldierly conduct is expected of you at all times."

Correspondents And SHAEF Argue Over Kennedy's Surrender Scoop

PARIS, May 8. (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower informed correspondents at supreme headquarters today that no action could be taken against a news agency or organization for the act of any individual correspondent or correspondents.

Eisenhower replied by telephone through his deputy chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Sir Frederick E. Morgan, to a letter signed by 54 correspondents at SHAEF which asked that all Associated Press correspondents in this theater be suspended until 24 hours after the official announcement of Germany's surrender.

Surrender Story

The correspondents made the request as a result of what supreme headquarters described as an "unauthorized" transmission of AP correspondent Edward Kennedy's story yesterday of the Reims surrender.

For nearly seven hours yesterday afternoon, after the surrender story was published, all Associated Press filing facilities from the European theater were suspended, but later this was lifted for all the AP staff except Kennedy himself. Kennedy is chief of the AP's Western Front staff.

Brig. Gen. Frank A. Allen, jr., director of supreme headquarters' public relations division, told a meeting summoned by correspondents that the original suspension was imposed at his own order "so that I might check SHAEF communications to determine if there had been any violation by the Associated Press of transmission involving security."

Lifted Suspension

He said he lifted the suspension order on all but Kennedy on recommendation of his investigating committee.

Allen emphasized that "the investigation is being continued. It is not yet complete."

The AP's transmission facilities, he added, "were stopped to investigate, not to punish. There could be no punishment until the investigation is completed."

Kennedy remained under suspension pending outcome of the investigation of any violation of SHAEF censorship or violation of confidence, he said.

In reply to demands that complete suspension be imposed again at once, Allen declared, "it is my firm conviction that I lack the authority to punish the Associated Press as an organization for the act of one correspondent."

Two Refuse To Sign

Two correspondents present refused to sign the letter to Eisenhower on the grounds it was action before investigation had disclosed the facts, and that they were opposed to cutting off news to hundreds of American newspapers and millions of readers. They were Larry Rue of the Chicago Tribune and John O'Connell of the Bangor, Me., News.

Rue asked, "do the correspondents here really want to cut off the news of 1,400 newspapers and still take the position that they do not believe in the suppression of news?"

A motion to send the drafted letter to Eisenhower was made by Kingsbury Smith of the International News Service, and seconded by Helen Kirkpatrick of the Chicago Daily News.

Drew Middleton of the New York Times, facing the meeting, said: "You realize, gentlemen, you have taken the worst beating of your lives. The question is, what are you going to do about it?"

The motion to send the letter was passed without a dissenting vote. Later several correspondents declined to sign it.

The average cost of making a movie film has been estimated at $400,000.

Tech Begins Tests On Alfalfa Grazing

Attempting to solve problems faced by South Plains stockmen in using alfalfa for grazing Texas Tech college began experiments Saturday on the college farms with two main objectives in view —to discover if alfalfa can be grazed safely and to find the capacity in this region.

Experiments being carried on under the supervision of W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry, and E. L. Mader, assistant professor of agronomy and research assistant, will be the first data ever collected as to conditions and results of alfalfa grazing on the plains.

No Proof Found

According to the two supervisors several reports have been made by various stockmen in this area but no definite proof as to results has been made. Stockmen have been faced with the problem of overcoming the death of many head due to bloat, as well as attempting to keep a satisfactory stand under heavy grazing.

Using five yearling heifers on four acres, divided into one-half acre plots, a rotation test will be carried out.

Plot 1 consists of a grazing mixture of alfalfa and brome grass (feported as a remedy for bloat). Plot 2 consists of alfalfa, brome and sweet clover. These two are already in use, placing two and one-half head of cattle on one acre.

It is planned later in the summer to graze alfalfa with a mixture of grasses, including crested wheat, orchard, meadowfescue and perennial rye grass. The fourth plot will mix Bermuda grass with various legumes.

Thus far in the tests no signs of bloat have been found and all phases of feeding are progressing satisfactorily, according to Stangel.

Chapman Field To Be Play Day Site

Chapman field will be the scene of plenty of athletics Friday afternoon, with track, volleyball, softball, folk dancing, jumping rope stunts and ball relay, capped off with the grand finale of the Westerner football training camp, the battle with the Exes.

The big show will start at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, and likely last until dark.

All the final plans were worked out Tuesday afternoon by E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, and everything has been put in readiness for the big show.

Jumping rope stunts and folk dancing will take up the first 15 minutes of the program. The Dancing will include the Schottische and varsovienne, and will be under the direction of Mrs. Oddis Brown. Mrs. Ruth Carter will be in charge of the rope jumping stunts. Both will be on the football field.

The boys track meet will be run on the west straight away, and the girls on the east straight away. The track is scheduled at 1:25 o'clock, and be over at 2:05 o'clock.

The track events for the boys will include 25 and 50-yard dashes, 440-yard relay, chinning bar and high jump. The girls events will include 25 and 50-yard dashes, 25-yard three legged race, high jump and standing broad jump.

Volleyball Is Next

Volleyball, limited to 30 minutes, will start at 2:05 o'clock, with winners of the league play this season meeting the runners-ups of the race. This will pair Dupre Dogies and Hunt Pioneers in the boys, and Hunt Pioneers and Bean Bronchos in the girls.

Softball will start at 2:35 o'clock, and be limited to 50 minutes. The boys will play in the northeast corner of Chapman field and the girls will play in the southwest corner of the field. The pairings in softball are on the same basis as volleyball.

The boys pairings will match the same two teams as in volleyball, Dupre and Hunt, while the Hunt girls play Central Ward's undefeated Spurs in the girls game. Hunt has teams in all four games.

Russel Wimberley and Curtis Barrett have been named as umpires of the boys game, while Marlin Hayhurst and Dixie White will umpire the girls game.

The Westerners will take the field at 3:30 o'clock for a final limbering up, then clash with the Westerners Exes in the grand finale game of the spring grid camp. The Exes start workouts today for the big game.

Leaders Dig In For Home Stand

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)— Can the Giants and White Sox keep it up?

That was baseball's big riddle today as the two surprising league leaders prepared to open their first intersectional series.

Evidence to date was all in favor of the front runners who were digging in at home for a long stand under favorable conditions. In the case of the New York club those surroundings included the ever-helpful short foul lines of the Polio Grounds, home run targets f.. Manager Mel Ott, Ernie Lombardi and Phil Weintraub.

While long distance slugging h.. been the Giants' strong point, consistent pitching and a steady diet of run-producing singles has given the Chicago White Sox the same results.

Ott's pitchers have gone the route only five times in 16 games, not counting Sunday's 1-1 tie with Boston, and reliable Ace Adams has been summoned for relief on nine occasions.

Despite this unstable hurling, Ott has been able to stick to a regular routine of Bill Voiselle, Van Mungo, arry Feldman and Andy Hansen against the Eastern teams. Feldman was slated to go in tonight's postponed game against Cincinnati and probably will be held over for tomorrow.

Hitting was the answer to the Giants' success with a .269 club average including 30 doubles and 17 home runs. The rejuvenation of Lombardi who has socked five times into the stands, beaten out two bunts and even scored from third on a pop fly also was an important factor.

Jimmy Dykes' Sox have shown little tendency to batter down the fences but the club's tidy, .278 average is the best in the majors.

Dykes has his mound staff in excellent shape, starters requiring relief only three times in 12 contests and Thornton Lee and Joe Haynes each hurling all the way three times. Haynes' success in notching three victories in succession, one a one-hitter against Detroit, appeared to have made the staff despite the absence of injured Bill Dietrich.

Roy Schalk has been driving home the big runs and the outfield trio of Johnny Dickshot, Wally Moses and Oris Hockett boast impressive averages. Play of shortstop Cass Michaels and the veteran Tony Cuccinello, leading the league at .395, are other highlights.

PITCHER SIGNS

BROOKLYN, May 8 (AP)—Pitcher Ernest Ruddolph, 32-year-old holdout pitcher, signed his 1945 contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers today and was enroute to Ebbets field from his Black River Falls, Wis., home.

George Washington Case, Washington Senator outfielder, has stolen 286 bases in 949 games in the last eight seasons.

White Sox Veteran Tops A. L. Hitters

CHICAGO, May 8 (AP)—He isn't listed in this season's Who's Who in baseball, but 37-year-old Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox is leading American League hitters with a zestful .395.

The veteran third-sacker, tabbed in spring practice as merely utility timber, has thumped 15 hits in 38 trips, missing only one of the 12 games played by the pace-setting Pale Hose.

"Cooch" holds a six-point margin over shortstop Vernon Stephens of the St. Louis Browns, who has a second-place .389.

Official statistics for games played through Sunday credit the fast-stepping White Sox with three hitters among the top men. Outfielder Johnny Dickshot is seventh with .326, while outfielder Oris Hockett is tied with second-baseman Irv Hall of the Philadelphia A's for ninth with .313.

Other leaders: Ed Mayo, Detroit, .352; George Case, Washington, and Nick Etten, New York, .339; George Stirnweiss, New York, .333; and Ben Steiner, Boston, .328.

Case and Russ Derry, Yankee outfielder, set the pace in specialized play. The fleet Washington fly-chaser leads in stolen bases with 10; most hits with 21; and most runs with 14; while Derry's four home runs and 15 runs batted in lead those branches. Wally Moses of the White Sox and Dick Siebert of the Athletics lead in doubles with seven each, while nine players are tied in three-baggers with two apiece.

Al Benton, Detroit's ex-sailor, and Hank Borowy of the Yankees top the pitching column with four wins without defeat. Strikeout leader is Hal Newhouser of the Tigers with 23.

Pressure Eased On Pro Athletes

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—A development today that was favorable to sports was the War department's indefinite suspension of a regulation requiring review of all cases of professional athletes rejected in the draft. This was learned today amid swift developments affecting sports as the aftermath of Germany's unconditional surrender.

There also was word from the Army that the athletic branch of the service forces has begun immediate preparations for Allied championships in many sports in Europe and that plans are being made for widescale competition in the Pacific theater of war.

The War department's temporary action on 4-F professional athletes came as the result of protests by Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.) that some of these men were being inducted although they could not meet physical requirements.

Under Secretary of War Patterson ordered an ihvestigation based on Price's complaints of discrimination.

"Any case of a professional athlete now before the War department for review will be held in abeyance," an aide to Price said he had been advised.

Another development in the picture was the racing ban may be lifted tomorrow.

The White House announced that War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson will hold a news conference at 11 a. m. tomorrow, and that it was certain that the racing question would be brought up.

Trackmen felt confident that Vinson would carry out a suggestion made by James F. Byrnes, former war mobilizer, that racing be allowed to resume after V-E day.

Olmo Takes Batting Lead In One Big Day

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP) — One afternoon of slugging hoisted Luis Olmo up by his bootstraps from a .286 average to a National League-leading .409 mark on eight hits for Brooklyn in nine at bats against the Phillies.

Although Manager Leo Durocher had the Puerto Rican riding the Brooklyn bench for 10 days while he experimented with Augie Galan, Morrie Aderholt and Red Durrett in the left field spot, Olmo won himself a regular job yesterday with his big day at Shibe park.

Olmo's sensational surge, characteristic of early season averages, sent him past Boston's Butch Nieman at .400 despite the terrific long-distance hitting of the Braves' flychaser.

Tommy O'Brien of Pittsburgh, in and out of the Pirate lineup last year, continued the fine form that won the right field job from Frank Colman with a .377 pace.

Vance Dinges, one of the least publicized rookies of the season, clubbed his way into the No. 5 spot in the averages with his .369 mark for the last-place Phillies.

Giants monopolized most of the individual honors with Ernie Lombardi showing the way in runs batted in with 20 and home runs. Johnny Rucker, who boasted a consecutive game hitting streak of 17, had a total of 27 hits, high in the circuit. Ott scored most runs, 20, and Bill Voiselle was tied with Paul Derringer of Chicago for pitching honors with a 4-0 mark.

Whitey Kurowski of St. Louis and Nieman tied with six doubles and Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh had most triples, two.

With the help of three stolen bases in one game, Frank McCormick of Cincinnati was first in that department with 5, one more than Pittsburgh Johnny Barrett, last year's champ.

First Homer Of Year Sends Tribe To Win Over Chisox

CHICAGO, May 8 (AP)—Sparked by their first homer of the season, the tail-end Cleveland Indians trimmed the first-place Chicago White Sox, 7 to 1, before a paid crowd of 4,969 at Comiskey park today. The Tribe was blanked until the sixth when husky Felix Mackiewicz hammered a two-run circuit clout.

BROWNS WIN

ST. LOUIS, May 8 (AP) — With veteran Nelson Potter pitching three-hit ball, the American League Champion St. Louis Browns defeated the Washington Senators, 7 to 1, tonight in the first of a four game series.

The Brownies clubbed former teammate Johnny Niggeling for five hits including four for extra bases in the first three innings and scored six runs.

George Case, Washington lead-off man, singled in the first inning and then Potter kept the Senators hitless until Rick Ferrell opened the ninth with a single. Pinchhitter Joe Ventura followed with the third hit, another single.

Sports To Find Out War Still Goes On

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 8—The morning sun gazed blearily through the haze to add an errie touch to the May snowstorm manufactured in Rockefeller Center towers. The folks were making a brave effort to show the enthusiasm expected of them in the Nazi surrender, but somehow there was something synthetic about it all.

For one thing, the day had been creeping up so long and so obviously that the final capitulation, great triumph that it was, was just another bit of the victory pie.

And, as should be, the folks realized too well that the fight goes on; that the game is only in the fifth inning. Too many of them have sons, and brothers, and sweethearts on Pacific isles where the guns still spit death and the fight is long and bloody.

It was only the beginning of a long, long ending, and we couldn't help but feel that any misguided fans who visioned a quick pickup in sports were due for a rude awakening. The boys—those athletes whose names we associate with big-time sport—won't be home tomorrow, or the next day.

The baseball teams will continue to struggle along with what they have, picking up a few of the old guard as they go along as the discharges include a percentage of stars. The boys won't be hurried through their service because the was is over in Europe.

There's still a war on.

The college football players whose names were just beginning to mean something when they left for the service won't be playing on college teams this year. They'll be over helping police Europe or eradicating Japs on the other side of the world.

There's still a war on.

Sports, both amateur and professional, have done a great job of carrying on under the difficulties engendered by shortage of manpower, transportation troubles, and other adverse conditions natural to the times. They will continue to do so, but don't expect a quick pickup because of cessation of European hostilities.

There's still a war on.

Major Clubs Bolster For Pennant Drive

PHILADELPHIA, May 8. (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies announced today that Buster Adams, regular left fielder, has been traded to the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals for two players.

The Phils said they will get in exchange John Antonelli, third baseman, and Glenn Crawford, who played shortstop for Columbus in 1944.

BRAVES BUY PITCHER

BOSTON, May 8. (AP) — The Boston Braves tonight announced the purchase of Bob Logan, 35-year-old left handed pitcher, from the Indianapolis American Association club in a deal involving cash and four players.

PIRATES GET INFIELDER

PITTSBURGH, May 8. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced purchase of infielder Jack Saltzgaver from Kansas City of the American Association. Saltzgaver, a utility infielder for the New York Yankees from 1932 to 1937, is 37. He batted .348 for Kansas City last year.

GREAT LAKES WINS

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 8 (AP)—Great Lakes' baseball team, with Walker Cooper, former St. Louis Cardinals player behind the plate in his first appearance with the Navy team, today defeated the University of Illinois nine, 7 to 3.

Midget Baseball Is Opened At Boys Club

Lubbock's kid baseball goes now beyond the junior baseball stage with the Lubbock Boys club opening play in the midget baseball league, play for younger boys in the 10 to 12 years of age bracket.

Five of these teams have been organized and play each afternoon at the Boys club diamonds, starting at 4:30 o'clock. Two games have been played this week, resulting in an 18 to 17 victory for the Youngs over the Carpenters, and a 13 to 2 win for the Clicks over the Sextons. Wednesday's game will pair the Scotts and Carpenters.

PHILS PLAN CAMP

PHILADELPHIA, May 8. (AP)—General Manager Herb Pennock said today the Phillies may train next spring in Venezuela, possibly Caracas, if the travel ban is relaxed and if arrangements can be made.

Guns Stilled On European Front

Kennedy, chief of the Associated Press staff on the Western front.

In a ringing order of the day, Eisenhower told his armies that "the crusade on which we embarked in the early summer of 1944 has reached its glorious conclusion.

"It is my especial privilege in the name of all nations represented in this theater of war to commend each of you for valient performance of duty," he said.

"Though these words are feeble, they come from the bottom of a heart overflowing with pride in your loyal service and admiration for you as warriors. Your accomplishments at sea, in the air, on the ground and in the field of supply have astonished the world."

To Speed Prisoners Return

In a special message to Allied prisoners of war, Eisenhower said they must remain where they were for the present but "your return home will be organized as speedily as feasible."

German forces which once held nearly all Europe in their iron grip thus knuckled to the "unconditional surrender" formula dictated by Churchill and the late President Roosevelt at Casablanca.

Under the stern formula Germany's guns are at rest, her air fleets are yielded, and her warships, U-boats and merchantmen at sea are headed toward Allied ports to give up.

Jodl Signs For Doenitz

Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, German chief of staff, signed the surrender document for Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, successor as head of the prostrate Reich to the dead or missing Hitler.

With the stroke of a pen which Eisenhower long had saved for the occasion, Jodl surrendered unconditionally to "the supreme commander, Allied Expeditionary force, and simultaneously to the Soviet high command all forces on land, sea and in the air who are at this date under German control."

The signature of this former Hitler favorite was witnessed for Eisenhower by Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, his chief of staff, Gen. Ivan Susloparov for the Soviet high command and Gen. Francois Sevez for the French.

It was this act which Churchill said would be ratified in Berlin by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, assistant commander of the Red armies, British Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder Smith, deputy supreme commander in the west, Lt. Gen. Jean De Lattre De Tassigny, commander of the French First Army and Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command.

Sealed Fate Of Japs

This act sealed the fate of Japan which one day will be forced to sign a similarly harsh surrender, for now the full power of the United States and Britain will be loosed against the island empire.

Eisenhower's commanders already on this official victory day were turning their attention toward the Pacific.

"The war in Europe is won, but the war in the Pacific is still before us," said Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of U. S. naval forces in Europe.

"Like Germany, Japan must be completely and irretrievably beaten. Now we stand at the great noontide of our objective. We cannot—we dare not—rest until the task before us is completed."

Tedder stated the same inexorable purpose, declaring "the same evil power under a different name still remains in eastern seas" and must be "as completely exterminated."

May Face Russia, Too

Japan not only must face the victorious Western Allies, but perhaps Russia as well.

Because of Japan, surrender in Europe cannot have the meaning it might have for the 4,000,000 U. S. soldiers in Europe who helped to win the great victory.

For most of them the war will only change scenery. For others victory in Europe means a job of occupying the torn and humbled Reich, shot with hate, hunger and disease.

Even for the soldiers who may go home there will be weeks, even months of waiting because of the drain of transport to feed men, guns, tanks and supplies into the intensified war on Japan.

The precise fate of beaten Germany was not included in the surrender terms and it perhaps is possible that her conquerors do not yet know what they will be.

To Be Superseded

"This act of military surrender," said the capitulation document, "is without prejudice to and will be superseded by any general instrument imposed by or on behalf of the United Nations . . ."

And it ended with this stern warning:

"In the event of the German high command or any of the forces under their control failing to act in accordance with this act of surrender, the supreme commander . . . and the Soviet high command will take such punitive or other action as they deem appropriate."

The fixing of the four signatures to four copies of the surrender articles required four minutes.

When the signing was completed, Germany in the person of Jodl made a plea for mercy, and was answered with silence.

"General," said Jodl addressing Smith, "with this signature the German people and the German armed forces are, for better or worse, delivered into the victors' hands . . .

"In this hour, I can only express the hope that the victor will treat them with generosity."

Greeted Coldly By Ike

Jodl and other members of the German delegation were ushered from this room of silence into the office of Eisenhower who eyed them coldly and asked them sternly if they understood the terms and their responsibility. They said yes.

This was the crowning act five years, eight months and six days after Germany marched into Poland Sept. 1, 1939, touching off the second World war.

Hitler's legions were masters of western Europe and stood on guard behind what they though was the impregnable Atlantic wall of fortress Europe when Eisenhower's armies landed on the beaches of Normandy June 6, 1944.

Some Of Major Tasks

From D-day to V-day, these armies:

Landed at a point where Hitler boasted invasion was foredoomed.

Drove 700 miles across Europe.

Liberated France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway and overran most of Germany, much of Austria and part of Czechoslovakia.

Shattered the Atlantic wall and the Siegfried line.

Crossed the Rhine and trapped more than 300,000 German troops in the Ruhr in the greatest double envelopment in military history.

Closed up to the Elbe river, crossed it and joined with the Russians who had beaten back 1,400 miles from Stalingrad and captured Berlin, the world's fourth city and greatest metropolis ever taken by storm.

Mastery Of Skies

The warplanes of five air forces gained complete mastery of the skies by driving the once-dreaded German air force out of existence.

The cost of these successes was high in human blood and suffering.

American ground forces on the Western front alone suffered 79,795 killed, 334,919 wounded and 58,501 missing, a total of 473,215 casualties.

In his order of the day, Eisenhower said his armies of the west had put 6,000,000 of the enemy "permanently out of the war" and had "taken in stride military tasks so difficult as to be be classed by many doubters as impossible."

PEACE STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Peace stocks continued to celebrate the fall of Germany with further good advances in today's market although war-benefitted issues generally resumed the retreat.

Transfers of 1,580,000 shares compared with 1,500,000 Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .1 of a point at 65.1. Of 848 issues appearing, 391 were down, 341 up and 213 unchanged.

At peaks for the year or longer with gains running to 2 points were J. I. Case, Oliver Corp., Hudson Motors, American Smelting, International Nickel, Certain-Teed, Burroughs Adding and Hayes Mfg.

Losers included Bethlehem, Santa Fe, International Telephone, American, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Douglas Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Goodyear, Goodrich and Chrysler.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—Persistent commission house liquidation and southern hedging pressure developed a reactionary trend in the cotton futures market today. Declines were off as much as 75 cents a bale early in the session and closing prices were only slightly above the lows for the day to show losses of 35 to 60 cents a bale.

Failure of the market to rally sharply following the end of the European war and the fact that values had risen to new seasonal highs encouraged considerable profit taking in the new crop months. Near positions were supported by aggressive mill buying and covering on the scale-down.

With a continued heavy demand for cotton textiles assured, traders turned increasing attention to pending price control legislation and developments on the cotton purchase program which is due to expire June 30 this year.

At LAAF, both Protestant and Catholic services were held.

There was read a congratulatory message from Maj. Gen. Walter F. Kraus, commander of the Central Flying Training command. The communication pointed to the field's record of contributing 7,008 pilots to help fell the Reich.

Law Breaking About Routine

Law enforcement officers, who had been on the alert for excessive celebration, reported no more offenses than usual. Police jailed two drunks and a man for allegedly creating a disturbance in a cafe for the day's only arrests. Not a single inebriate was booked at the county jail.

Extra military police had been put on duty Monday night after the unofficial victory news. But few service men misbehaved, most of them well aware that their army duty was far from terminated.

the evil from which half the world has been freed."

A statement, issued at the news conference but not read on the air, emphasized the same point with an implied call to the Japanese people to follow the Nazis in surrender before it is too late.

"The longer the war lasts," the statement said, "the greater will be the suffering which the people of Japan will undergo—all in vain."

The President emphasized the benefits of freedom from the domination of tyrannical leaders and from "present agony and suffering" which the Japanese would gain from laying down their arms. He asserted that "unconditional surrender does not mean the extermination or enslavement of the Japanese people."

The President's word throughout were read carefully, solemnly, without oratorical flourishes.

Prominent Winters, Ballinger Men Buried

SAN ANGELO, May 8. (AP) — Funeral services for C. P. Shepherd, 71, mayor of Ballinger, and Dr. W. E. Sanders, former mayor of Winters, were held in the respective towns today.

Shepherd, former city attorney, county attorney and publisher of the Ballinger Ledger, died late yesterday. Dr. Sanders, practicing physician at Winters since 1905, died earlier in the day.

World Conference

46 delegations here, passed through a receiving line, shaking hands with Molotov, Dmitry Manuilsky and Kuzma Kisilev, foreign commissars and chairman of the delegations of the Ukraine and White Russia.

Secretary of State Stettinius, Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain and Field Marshal Smuts of South Africa were among those who attended the party.

High diplomatic sources said there was no immediate prospect of resuming negotiations for a new Polish government. These were broken off after Molotov informed Stettinius and Eden of the arrest of sixteen Polish leaders, some of whom had been suggested by the Americans and British as possible members of a broadened Warsaw regime.

May Just Not Reply

One possibility arose that the Russians would simply fail to reply to the American and British request for an explanation, leaving the negotiations in a deadlock and permitting the present Soviet-recognized provisional Warsaw government to remain indefinitely in power.

The return of Harriman and Clark-Kerr to Moscow with Molotov, however, made it possible that negotiations would be resumed on the basis of the Big Three agreements at Yalta, if the Russians did provide a satisfactory explanation of the Polish arrests.

The conference, pausing only for a moment's meditation on victory in Europe, kept a wary eye today on Latin American maneuvering for a peace-keeping system in the western hemisphere able to act on its own.

There was rejoicing over the end of war in Europe, but it was restrained. There were V-E day speeches and statements in plenty. There was talk of a Truman-Churchill-Stalin meeting to tackle some of the immediate problems arising from defeat of the Nazis.

But as committees went through routine sessions, trying to erect some of the framework of a new world charter to assure lasting peace, delegates of Latin American nations were organizing on the sidelines behind a movement to gain recognition in a world organization for the distinct inter-American security system embodied in the Act of Chapultepec at Mexico City.

Bloc Of 20 Votes

Representatives of 16 of them met last night and more meetings were held today. Delegates came out of them bespeaking a firm determination against compromising on what they consider the right of American republics to settle disputes in their own hemisphere without waiting for a world organization to give clearance. Even without the United States, whose delegation is split on the issue, they have a bloc of twenty votes in the conference.

On the question of voting procedure, the conference steering committee approved a plan whereby all matters except procedural ones shall be settled by a two-thirds vote. This is subject to formal approval of the full conference later.

Voting Procedure

Here's how the committee decided to handle voting procedure:

"1. Each delegation shall have one vote in each body of the conference on which it is represented.

"2. Any question of procedure put to the vote shall be decided by a majority of the votes of the delegations present and voting. All other questions put to the vote shall be decided by two-thirds of the votes of the delegations present and voting.

"3. If there is a substantial degree of uncertainty prior to a vote on any given question as to whether that question is or is not one of procedure, the presiding officer of the body concerned shall submit the question to the executive committee, which shall decide.

"4. The conference shall normally vote by a show of hands except that any delegation in any body of the conference may request a roll call, which shall then be taken by countries in English alphabetical order."

Houston Plant Lays Off Men In Change

HOUSTON, May 8 (U.P.) — Production of medium artillery at the Dickson gun plant here has been cancelled and the plant now will concentrate on the manufacture of 8-inch howitzers to be used in the final blows against Japan, it was announced today.

Maj. V. L. Packard, commanding officer of army ordnance at the plant, said the production shift—to begin immediately—will mean a personnel reduction of about 20 per cent of the some 2,000 Dickson employes.

The gun plant, operated by Hughes Tool company, has been engaged in turning out centrifugal castings for medium-sized field guns as well as some of the big howitzers. Under the switch-over, however, only the 8-inch howitzers will be produced at the plant.

Some of the workers affected by the medium artillery cancellation will be shifted to howitzer production activities, and others will be given an opportunity to transfer to other Hughes plants, officials said.

A Capella Chorus To Sing Tonight

An hour of sacred music will be presented by the A Cappella Chorus of Abilene Christian college beginning at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Broadway Church of Christ.

Under the direction of Leonard Burford, head of the department of music at the Abilene college, the chorus will sing some of the great hymns and songs of all time.

High Speed Transport Planes Are Forecast

CHICAGO, May 8. (AP)—An air line executive predicted tonight transport airplanes will be operating on schedule at speeds up to 400 miles an hour within five years.

William Littlewood, vice president, engineering, American Airlines, Inc., made his forecast in an address prepared for delivery to the Chicago forum on aviation.

Brief And Solemn Ceremonies Mark V-E Day At LAAF

Civilian and military personnel at Lubbock Army Air field observed V-E Day with solemn thanksgiving in brief, quiet ceremonies, "then resumed regular duties as personnel dedicated themselves toward the job yet ahead.

A few minutes after President Truman's proclamation heralding the end of the war in Europe was read over the radio, enlisted men, officers and civilian workers at the big west base conducted brief meetings for showing of special films, talks and prayer. After the meetings, the field settled back to a near normal work-day.

War Bond Sales Boosted

During the day, however, various athletic and entertainment events for those persons not on duty were conducted, all quiet and somewhat subdued. Civilian workers on the post marked the day by adding another $2,887.50 in War Bond purchases to their Seventh War Loan campaign total, a $1,000 purchase by Mrs. Pauline Love of 2302 Fourteenth Street, helping boost the total.

Lieut. Col. Warren A. Polking, temporary commanding officer in the absence of Col. Howell M. Estes, Jr., commanding, spoke briefly at the early morning meetings. A congratulatory message from Maj. Gen. Walter F. Kraus, commanding general of the AAF Central Flying Training Command, was read, lauding the local field for the part it has contributed toward the victory in Europe. LAAF has graduated 7,008 pilots who helped in the mighty aerial offensive against the Reich.

Religious Services Conducted

Special religious services were conducted at the field Tuesday night, and the chapel was open throughout the day.

Athletic Events

Athletic events, a baseball game and other special programs in the enlisted men's lounges headlined the on the post activities.

All military personnel, except those specifically authorized to live off the post with their families were restricted to the field for 24 hours.

As at all CFTC fields, all flying was called off for a limited period, but today LAAF and all other military installations will continue their intensive round the clock training program in an effort to complete the job in the Pacific as speedily as possible.

Mindoro, seventh in size of the Philippine islands, has remained one of the least developed of the larger islands of the group.

Tempo In Pacific

British empire peoples still under Japanese control that "the time of your liberation is at hand. . . Lift up your hearts, for we are coming."

American commanders in the Pacific looked for no quick end of the Japanese war. They spoke of the tough fight ahead but felt that the great power to be thrown against Nippon eventually will bring her to her knees.

China's national Kuomintang congress, meeting in Chungking, approved a proposal to send a message to the Japanese people advising a speedy offer of unconditional Nippon surrender.

Meanwhile a Chungking rumor was to the effect that Prince Konoye, former premier of Japan, and influential members of the nobility are secretly in favor of peace and intend to say so publicly at an opportune time.

The people of Japan were told by radio of the unconditional German surrender. Almost simultaneously Nippon's munitions minister issued a "now or never" appeal to the empire for increased plane production.

The Nippon Times said Germany was defeated because her soldiers were unwilling to stand and fight "to the last man." It boasted that Japanese troops have "no taste for a thing called capitulation or surrender."

Happy Nazi Escapee Taken At Floydada

An escaped German prisoner of war, who was obviously happy that the war in Europe had ended, was captured Tuesday in Floydada by Floyd County Sheriff Lee Howard.

The escapee from a camp at Chickasha, Okla., was brought to Lubbock and confined in the branch German prison camp at Lubbock Army Air field.

The same thing applies to the Allied commander in Southeast Asia, Admiral Louis Mountbatten. The same situation in northern Borneo can be foreseen at an early date, implying a three-way Allied drive in the making in the Pacific theater that does not rely on potential Russian help.

Yet there is no question that such Russian cooperation would help mightily and shorten the war. It may not be "necessary," to use the Eisenhower phrase, but it is desirable.

BUT don't let up yet

It's not over yet. We still face a dangerous and determined foe, well entrenched over a half-million square miles, and imbued with the courage of a fanatic. He has sworn to fight a thousand years, and lose millions of men; if necessary, he will destroy himself in order to destroy us. Will we let him?

Reddy Kilowatt is proud he could help us win. Electric power played a large part in turning out the pilots, guns and ammunition to beat Hitler. However, Reddy isn't quitting now. With his belt hitched up and his jaws set, he's ready to go after the third gang. Can we do less?

Two down—one to go. Good! But the game isn't over until the last gun barks. Only the final score pays off. It's up to the home front no less than the fighting front. Now is the time to dig in and WIN.

Inflation Line Cracks

Stabilizer Davis Slackens Reins

IN view of his previous record as chairman of the War Labor board, it is not surprising to find Economic Stabilization Director William Davis easing up on the wage curbs established by his predecessor, Fred M. Vinson. Mr. Vinson held the anti-inflation line with a grim zeal, aware that every individual concession weakened the stabilization structure. Mr. Davis, remembering his trials and tribulations on the WLB, has begun by being considerably more lenient.

His first important action has been to grant the WLB more freedom than it has had in the past to grant so-called "fringe" wage increases. This does not affect basic wage rates, to be sure, which remain where they were under Mr. Vinson. But the new latitude granted to the WLB can lead, if unwisely used, to a serious weakening of the barriers against inflation.

For "fringe" increases can cover a multitude of wage raises that may add up to the same thing as an upward change in basic rates. Under the guise of shift differentials, vacation pay, job classifications and pay for travel time, the WLB can grant increases that virtually ignore wage ceilings.

Every American sincerely hopes that the time will come soon when industry may be completely freed of these government restrictions. Nobody likes a system which puts a limit on what an employer must pay and what a worker may receive. But if controls are still necessary, it would be more honest to stick to the ceilings set or change them openly than to whittle them away around the fringes.

A Neighborly Gesture

TO promote "greater understanding and closer relations between military personnel" of the United States and Mexico, officers and non-commissioned officers of all Eastern Defense command units stationed along the Mexican border have been ordered by their commander, Lt. Gen. George Grunert, to become proficient in conversational Spanish.

The Eastern Defense command includes what previously was the Southern Defense command, the latter having been absorbed January 1. As a result of General Grunert's order, courses of instruction already have been begun at units in San Antonio, Laredo and El Paso. The courses also are open to enlisted men.

Citizens of every nation like to have residents of other countries show an appreciation of their language, and there is no better way of demonstrating this appreciation than by learning the language. This alone makes for better relations between the inhabitants of two different countries. From a knowledge of a foreign language, there follows an appreciation of the culture of the nation speaking that particular language.

Millions of residents of foreign nations have studied English and have dipped into English and American literature. Americans have been on the whole much slower to learn languages spoken in other nations. A policy similar to that announced by General Grunert should be inaugurated in areas where American troops are in contact with troops and civilians of other nations of the Western Hemisphere.

We Texans know the idea is a good one for our border troops.

Just "B29 Concussion!"

THE Japanese propaganda machine, if anything so lacking in apparent direction can be called a machine, at least can be relied on for some astonishing contrasts.

On one day the Tokyo radio announces that bombings by American Superfortresses are systematically destroying the Japanese race and that "nothing now seems possible to stop this vicious enemy." The next day the Domei news agency quotes Dr. Hiroshi Shimomura, Japan's propaganda chief, as saying that American Superfortress raids are lifting a heavy burden from the minds of Japanese whose homes they destroy.

"Shimomura said," according to Domei, "that ten people out of ten with whom he has come in contact have expressed the view that they felt lighthearted and that a heavy burden has been taken off their minds because prior to their misfortune they had to worry about their property and belongings."

What those two statements seem to convey is that despite the fact that his race is being bombed out of existence, the Jap is happy only when homeless.

They seem also to suggest that perhaps the Japanese propaganda machine slipped somewhat out of gear in not being able to distinguish between light-hearted and light-headed.

Maybe the concussion of those B-29 bombs has something to do with it at that!

The One Minute Sermon

THE STORY: Nick Trent, Army pilot, has been buzzbombed out of the war. On the boat home a mysterious stranger named Booker makes him a vague money-proposition which he turns down. Pat Hudson and Charley Strand, old friends, greet him at the dock. While Nick is waiting for Charley later that afternoon in the lobby of the Parker House, Booker reappears, introduces him to to exotic Magda Calavestri. On parting, Calavestri presses a valuable diamond amulet into his hand and whispers "Tonight." Nick has dinned with the Hudsons. The doorbell rings and Pat says she expects Eric.

ERIC WOOLF

IV

Ever since I had known Eric Woolf, I had been convinced that he never made a move without calculating precisely where it would land him on the scale of his own personal aggrandizement.

As he entered the room, I saw that his close-cropped blond hair had been bleached almost white by the sun. He was smiling, but his eyes were the palest and coldest of blues.

"Well, Trent." Woolf put out his hand. "How are you?"

"I'm all right," I said.

"You had a lovely lady worried." He rubbed his hands and glanced at Pat.

"He's not supposed to know that," answered Pat dryly.

"But, of course." Woolf helped himself to a cigaret from the box on the table. "You know, you were in all the papers, Trent."

"Was I?"

"Um-hm-headlines, too. Boston aviator wounded. Former Harvard athlete, hero of 30 missions over Germany, hit by rocket-bomb." He laughed lightly. "Quite a disturbance."

"It was not very funny," I said.

"Really?" He was still smiling. "Then they are quite effective—the robots?"

"One of them, well placed," I said, "can kill at least a hundred women and children."

"The women and children," Eric said, "that is regrettable. But in total war—that happens."

"There's nothing like viewing a thing with Olympian detachment," I said.

Eric sat there, immaculate and fit in his Oxford gray suit with the pencil stripe.

"How is your father, Miss Pat?" he asked.

"Grumpy," said Pat. "He thinks the world is going to pot."

• • •

"What is it," asked Eric, "the war or his health?"

"Neither," Pat replied bluntly. "It's money."

"Is there something possibly I could do?" Eric asked.

"Heavens, no!" Pat laughed. "Thank you, Eric, but it's not so bad as that."

Pat flushed. She glanced at me and I turned to look at Eric curiously. Was he really wealthy? I said:

"What are you doing now, Eric?"

"Nothing," he replied. "However, I am dickering with the O. W. I. for a place on their foreign language broadcasts. I have an idea for a program calculated to regain the confidence of the German people in us."

"Have you any idea as to how we can regain confidence in the German people?" I said.

"Did you go to the game this afternoon, Eric?" Pat asked, apparently determined to keep the conversation light and harmless.

"No, Miss Pat, I find football dull. I took a walk along the waterfront." Eric's eyes grew speculative. "They have removed all restrictions. One can go practically anywhere."

"Things have changed considerably in the past two years," I said.

"Yes," he admitted. "They would not believe me in Germany if I told them that there is not a single barrage balloon over Boston or New York harbors."

• • •

"Don't tell them." Pat laughed lightly. Woolf glanced at her. There was a silence. Then Eric said to me:

"You have a discharge button?" His eyes ran over the lapel of my coat.

"Not yet."

"You'd better have one. It may save you embarrassment." He took out a cigaret. "By the way, what was the trouble?"

"Trouble?" I asked evenly.

"Yes." He lit a cigaret and blew the smoke through his nostrils. "The reason for your discharge."

He was wounded, Eric," Pat said. "By the rocket bomb. Don't you remember?"

He looks pretty fit to me," Eric said.

I got up.

"At a more appropriate time," I said, "I'll take the liberty of working off my resentment for that remark."

"Nick," Pat said. "Eric—please."

"I think I'll run along, Pat," I said.

"Really, old man," Eric said. "I meant nothing by the remark."

"Possibly. I'll see you tomorrow," I said to Pat.

Her lips were curved in an uncertain smile. Eric came up and laid his hand on my arm.

"I can see now the remark was offensive," he said. "I'm sorry for our little argument tonight."

"I'll bear up under it," I said. But I had the feeling that if I stayed any longer something unpleasantly virile might follow. Pat read my eyes.

"I'll get your coat," she said.

Eric was frowning.

"Have you your old rooms at the Esplanade?" he asked.

"I'm staying with Charley Strand," I replied.

That innocent little question of Woolf's came back to me later. But it was not until the very grim business of what had started out like a quiet Saturday night was over.

NEWS BAN LIFTS

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—The first transatlantic airplane whose departure could be made public, under security regulations, since 1941, left LaGuardia field today for Foynes, Ireland.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

THE English being our allies it may not be considered exactly the gentlemanly thing to say anything against them right now.

But when I read about J. B. Priestley, the British novelist, telling his countrymen that it made his blood boil to see them go to American movies—well, it made my blood boil.

He called American films "drivel" and "trash that was never meant for Englishmen but for school children in the middle west."

BRANDEIS

According to my information, the English are simply crazy about American films and can't get enough of them; and, also according to my information, they are much crazier over American films than they are over Priestley's novels, although he is unquestionably one of their most prolific and profit-making writers.

You and I have seen English films and French films and Spanish films, and there simply isn't any comparison.

In production, in technique, in acting, in stagecraft, our movies are so far ahead of theirs that—well, that the English themselves would much rather see one of ours than their own.

But the thing that always gets me mad is that supercilious superiority of Europeans. To them we are still a nation of half-civilized Indians, crude, uneducated, naive and completely lacking in culture.

Let us thank God for our nativete. Let us thank God for our youth.

• • •

There is too much of a tendency in Europe to mistake decay for culture, to consider junk and antiques as synonymous, to call stagnation refinement.

It seems a terrible thing to say, but sometimes I think that the one blessing of this war is that it has done away with a lot of things whose only merit lay in their age.

England will never be young again, but the next best thing to youth is rejuvenation.

My wife tells me—by experience—that there are lots of cracks in old houses and cracks attract dirt and dust and dirt and dust breed moths and spiders and there is liable to be dankness and dampness.

• • •

THERE have been too many moths and spiders in Europe—the moths and spiders of false pride and of conceit and phoney traditions and inhibitions and intolerance.

I hope that the new buildings that are being erected will be made crack-proof and pride-proof and fool-proof.

And I hope that Mr. Priestley and some of his colleagues will come over here, before the rebuilding, and learn something about youth and enterprise and tradition-breaking from our "school children in the middle west."

(Come to think of it the present President of the United States was a school child in the middle west.)

Gold Supply Dwindles

U. S. Position Cause For Worry

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE billions in gold buried in "that hole at Fort Knox" have provided material for movie and vaudeville comedians for several years. Now they will have to think up some newer and funnier jokes.

The nation's inadequate supply of precious metal for the uncertain days ahead causes grave concern to government financiers and orthodox bankers. The dwindling store and our unfavorable world trade position, as well as the reasons therefor, are among the best kept secrets at Washington.

These worried gentlemen face the grim realization that for the moment the United States is deeply in debt and digging deeper every minute of the day. We are no longer a creditor people, because of the fearful war costs and our key role in financing the anti-Axis world.

TUCKER

Treasury and Federal Reserve statisticians paint a pretty picture by including questionable lend-lease assets. Recent Commerce department statements have tried to conceal the facts. Morgenthau-Eccles pleaders, in urging Congress to reduce from 40 to 25 per cent the proportion of gold required to back the currency and other federal obligations, presented the proposal as a mere bookkeeping deal.

But the hidden truth is that we are getting dangerously short of the yellow stuff. We are hard up against the gold limit, and must re-rig the banking setup or raise the price of the ore higher than $35 an ounce if we are to remain internationally solvent.

• • •

BALANCES: Our gold supply has been dropping steadily since it became obvious to the original owners that the Allies would crush the thieving dictators. It totaled almost 23 billion dollars late in 1941 and early in 1942, when Hitler was trampling on western Europe and the Japs were sweeping southward with hardly any opposition.

Frightened money sought safe refuge on this side of the Atlantic. There was not enough space in the ordinary vaults, and the Kentucky repository was built. Now the stock has fallen to 20 billion or less, and will soon be insufficient to cover federal issues of notes and currency. Former monthly imports totaling 75 million have changed to exports averaging about ten million every thirty days.

South American countries have piled up about six billion in trade and dollar balances here. Whereas we shipped them material under the lend-lease gratuity, we paid hard cash for the goods we bought from them.

If they should suddenly insist on payment in the basic monetary metal, we would not have enough to satisfy them. Uncle Sam's good name and credit would suffer at this critical moment in our relations with those sensitive peoples. We cannot now ship them goods in place of bullion because of the war's demand on our factories.

• • •

SPENDING: The situation worsens every day. The government aggravates conditions by deficit financing and constant borrowing from the banks.

For the past two years our foreign trade balances have fallen into the red by a billion and a half dollars annually. We bought that much more abroad than we sold in 1944 and 1943.

Foreign countries are accumulating new and large dollar balances here as a result of our soldiers' free spending and will soon transfer them to New York, making fresh demands on our financial resources. We will recoup only an extremely small portion of our lend-lease advances in the final liquidation.

The situation has reached such a stage that even the conservative Sen. Bob. Taft of Ohio argued in favor of the Treasury request for a reduction in the legal gold reserve. It passed the upper chamber, but some influential members in the house are bucking.

• • •

RELIEF: They figure that favorable action may be construed as an approval of continued outpouring of federal funds on a large scale. Refusal to expand the golden authority, they believe, would force a halt in government expenditures, and usher in a reign of economy at the very start of the Truman administration, in line with the budget slashes made by the President last week.

Henry Morgenthau has them in a cleft stick, however. Even the dullest legislator can understand the meaning of these three sets of facts and fiugres: Annual war and civilian outlay, 100 billion dollars; annual tax receipts, 45 billion; annual deficit, 55 billion.

The only practical alternative would be to boost taxes, and no politicians will reach for that remedy. Moreover, Uncle Sam has hit the bottom of the tax barrel, unless he chooses to resort to virtual confiscation at the very moment when folks feel that Germany's defeat should permit pocketbook relief.

WINNING THE WAR

By Albert Leman

THE news from Europe has influenced many to assume that the job is practically over on the continent, except for military policing, and that henceforth the Japanese war and reconversion will be our only major problems.

"This just isn't so," bluntly declare important New York economists. "We still have heavy European commitments to carry out if we are to prevent chaos which will delay our own return to normalcy."

They insist that the Old World is headed for an economic crackup of incalculable magnitude unless strong measures are taken promptly to provide fuel; otherwise public utilities, industries and transportation essential for rehabilitation can barely creep along.

Previous to the war much of Europe's coal came from the Reich. The Anglo-American advance smashed mine installations and coal cars.

LEMAN

Even meeting minimum requirements for two years will be impossible unless effective aid is given. New machinery from the U.S.A. is almost mandatory but American, Soviet, French and Belgian mines are competing for whatever equipment may be available for German pits.

• • •

Next to fuel, food is the worst headache. Except in the rural areas of liberated countries it will remain scarce.

Our deadly military attacks so decimated the Reich that one of the world's foremost authorities on relief warns that within 60 days—just as soon as pantry shelves are emptied—a large part of Germany will be in the grip of a severe famine.

One may retort, "Serves them right; let them starve." But retribution is not the solution. Unfortunately, the hunger belt is the section occupied by General Eisenhower's men, except perhaps the farm districts of Bavaria. The Anglo-Americans captured the Ruhr, the Saar and other thickly populated industrial centers; the Russians took the eastern bread basket, including the Balkan granaries.

This unbalance could cause alarming political and social repercussions if Germans living under the American flag famish and those under the hammer and sickle fare well. Disillusioned Nazis might be convinced that Communism is better than democracy.

• • •

DYNAMITE: A third problem is trade; this, too, is fraught with political dynamite. We shall depend to a large extent on exports to maintain mass production and employment here. But it will not be simple for our businessmen to sell to the continent.

The free enterprise system will no longer operate in central and eastern Europe. The Communist sphere of influence now embraces 15 European nations. Some, like Latvia, are part of the U.S.S.R. Others, like Italy, merely have Red regimes which lean to radical economic policies.

In this bloc will be the eastern part of conquered Germany. Export and import trade will be conducted by agencies.

Stokes Scores "Hangers-On" At Conference

Senate Junketeers Muddy Waters

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, — Since the Senate, as well as the House, is represented on the American delegation at this United Nations conference, it is difficult to see any good reason for the intrusion of recurring visiting delegations of senators from Washington.

STOKES

It seems a peculiarly ill-advised show of poor taste and judgment, and is causing some surprise and resentment here.

It may have harmful results, both by way of meddling interruption to no good purpose with the work of the conference, and by way of creating suspicion among representatives of other countries who already have a congenial suspicion of the Senate from the experience after the last war.

The late President Roosevelt was very conscious of the power of the Senate in foreign affairs. He was, in fact, fearful of it. That's why he and former Secretary of State Hull kept Senate leaders of both parties constantly advised of every step leading to this conference and that's why he included representatives to this conference both from the Senate, which must ratify the World Security Organization plan drafted here, and the House, which must pass enabling legislation of various sorts. He was careful to avoid the mistake of Woodrow Wilson in not including Senate representation to the Versailles Peace conference after the last war.

• • •

Connally, Vandenberg Busy

It will be testified by any one who has watched this conference closely that the two Senate representatives—Senators Connally (D., Tex.) Foreign Relations committee chairman, and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), ranking Republican on that committee—have kept the Senate constantly in mind in every step they have taken here, in every decision. As veterans of the Senate they are thoroughly familiar with reactions and cross-currents in that body. Also they have kept closely in touch with President Truman who likewise is very conscious of Senate psychology from his long service in that body. The State department naturally could not afford to interpose any objection to the visits of senators and has co-operated in their visits.

The senatorial intrusion here seems a reflection on all the care and solicitude for the Senate shown both by the previous and present administration, if it is not a reflection on the two Senate representatives who are working here day and night with other members of the American delegation.

THIS is a difficult and delicate task. It is progressing very satisfactorily—much ahead of expectations—despite the irritating bobbing up of such side issues as the Polish question. The latter, as a matter of fact, has nothing to do with the principal objective here, though it tends to create unfortunate tensions from time to time. It will not be allowed to interfere with the success of the conference.

Nor should other outside influences, particularly visiting senators, and especially if they have nothing to offer.

It was discovered that the first Senate delegation which showed up here, now suceeded by another, was unfamiliar with some of the objectives here. That delegation, which paid a rush, week-end visit, comprised three members of the Senate Naval committee—Senators Byrd (D., Va.), Eastland (D., Miss.) and Tobey (R.,N.H.)—and Capehart (R.,Ind.), whose purpose in taking the ride was somewhat of a mystery.

• • •

Have Wrong Impression

There are apparently an impression among these senators that this conference is to deal specifically with the trusteeship of islands captured from the enemy, which is not the case at all. It is only working out a formula for later assignment after the peace conference. There was also the impression among them that the Pacific islands captured from the Japs, formerly under League of Nations mandate, were all to be under a general trusteeship of the United Nations, which is not the case.

These islands will be fitted into the general Pacific defense picture. The United States will get as bases such as are required in its part of the defense plans.

• • •

VISITING senators must be entertained. That takes time of officials here, both Americans and those of other nations, and there is not time for such diversions. A bad impression has been created also by the buzzing of visiting senators into ears of some of the foreign leaders and delegates about matters on which they are uninformed.

They are hardly making a contribution to the serious work of this conference.

San Angelo Man Is Named On Authority

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP) — H. G. Ragsdale of San Angelo today was appointed to the board of the upper Colorado river authority for a term expiring Jan. 1, 1951, by Gov. Stevenson.

Ragsdale succeeds the late Culberson Deal of San Angelo.

The governor also named T. W. Whitehurst of Beaumont to a term on the state prison board expiring Feb. 2, 1949. He succeeds the late George Sealey of Galveston.

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

THANKS
FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

IRRIGATION FARM FOR SALE CLOSE IN AND A BARGAIN

160 acres of fine land, located about 7½ miles out of Lubbock on pavement. A very fine irrigation well, fair improvements. This is a real investment. All mineral rights go. 60 acres produced 92 bales of cotton in 1944, and the feed crop was equally as good. The owner received over $3,000.00 in rents. Considering the distance from town, the possibilities of oil and the fine land, this is a bargain at $140.00 per acre. Mr. Investor, this is your chance to own a close-in farm.

Cost Of War In Lives And Money Several Times Over World War I

By CHILES COLEMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 8 — The victory in Europe cost the United States about 800,000 casualties and more than $185,000,000,000 (B).

These are the best conservative estimates available now. It will be a long time before the final figures are worked out.

A United Press survey showed today that this country's share of the cost of crushing the Nazi bid for world domination will exceed by three or four times the cost of World war I and its aftermath—whether the measuring standard is casualties or dollars.

Heavy Cost to Continue

The cost in money will be increased in future years by many billions of dollars through interest on government borrowings and benefits to veterans. The cost in broken lives, too, will be paid over a long period.

Most of the government experts consulted in the survey believed that at least two-thirds of the dollar outlay since defense preparations began in 1940 went directly or indirectly into the war against Germany and Italy. This is based on the allocation of men to the two major spheres of combat. On the basis of the best available information, two U. S. fighting men were sent to Europe for each one sent to the Pacific.

Many Items Included

The cost estimate includes not only guns, bullets, planes and tanks, plus the plants to make them, but also such items as lend-lease expenditures, training costs, merchant ships, transportation, subsistence and literally thousands of articles and services that never appeared on the field of battle but were vital to victory.

Here are the results of the survey:

Cost in Money—defense and war expenditures total more than $27,600,000,000 (B) since July 1, 1940. Assigning two-thirds of this to the European war gives a figure of $185,066,000,000 (B). This compares with the $55,345,000,000 (B) cost of the last war. The figure for that war includes continuing expenses for many years after the war and unpaid war debts. The figure for this war is just the cost up to now.

800,000 Casualties

Cost in casualties—approximately 800,000 men killed, wounded, missing and prisoners. This is a projected figure because the official casualty compilations are far behind.

Army casualties compiled here by theaters as of March 31 showed a total of 685,247 for the European, Mediterranean, Middle East and Caribbean theaters—all part of the European war. The figures included 133,284 killed, 431,965 wounded, 67,008 missing and 52,990 prisoners.

But these figures actually included only casualties suffered until early March. Much severe fighting was not covered by these reports, and it will be months before final casualty data of the war against Germany is available. Best estimates are that the European theater alone will report a final casualty total exceeding 600,000.

Navy Figures Unavailable

The Navy has never broken down its casualties by war theaters so it is impossible to determine accurately now what part of Navy casualties were incurred against Germany. But an informed source said that through last July, a period which included the toughest phase of the battle of the Atlantic as well as the landing operations in North Africa, Italy and Normandy, slightly less than 25 per cent of Navy casualties were suffered in the war against Germany.

At the end of last July, the Navy had suffered 52,000 war casualties throughout the world. It may be estimated that naval casualties in the war on Germany totaled between 13,000 and 14,000. No breakdown of this figure into killed, wounded and missing is available now.

In World war I, the final casualty total for all the armed services was 259,735. This included 53,878 killed, 201,377 wounded and 4,480 prisoners.

Merchant Marine Highest

Relatively speaking, the Merchant Marine suffered the highest death ratio of any of the services engaged in the war against Germany. Althouh its casualties by theaters are not available, an estimated 5,000 out of more than 6,000 casualties to date occurred in the Atlantic and adjacent waters. A large portion of these are dead or missing, mostly as a result of the German U-boat campaign in the first 18 months of the war.

Men involved—probably between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 out of the Army's 5,200,000 men overseas have been involved in the war on Germany and its satellites. The Army has not announced allocation of its men by theaters, but some 70 divisions have been identified in the war against Germany. These divisions would total roughly 1,250,000 men, but to them must be added the tremendous American air force and the great numbers of supply and maintenance men behind the lines.

High School Student Leaders Recognized

Eighty of Lubbock's high school students were recognized for outstanding achievements during the past year with the annual recognition service held at the high school auditorium Monday morning at 9 o'clock, according to Floyd Honey, principal.

Special awards were presented to students by the United Daughters of Confederacy, Lubbock Shakespearean club and American Legion. Sylvia Whitaker was presented the Sidney Lanier essay contest award by the UDC; Giles Carter received the complete works of Shakespeare from the Shakespearean club for outstanding Work; Joe Arrington and Jo Ann Bailey, who were elected by the student body as the best boy and girl citizens, received the American Legion citizenship award.

Bill Slagle was presented with the Basch-Lomb science award which entitles him to take an examination for a scholarship award amounting to $2,000.

Joyce Yocum, editor of the annual, The Westerner, announced the publication this year was dedicated to Floyd Honey because of his outstanding school and community work. Theme of the annual portrays the schools as a part of the community.

Mrs. Dick Cozby, director of publications, said she had been informed that the annuals would arrive from the publishers today.

Two Here To Explain Benefits To Veterans

Two representatives of the Veteran's administration will be here today and tomorrow to interview ex-servicemen who are interested in receiving educational benefits.

Eldon F. Fuller, training officer of vocational rehabilitation and education in the Veteran's administration will be at the county service office at the American Legion home Wednesday and at the registrar's office at Texas Tech Thursday. He is particularly interested in talking to veterans with service-connected disabilities, but any veteran is eligible for educational benefits.

F. H. Robinson, with the agricultural training office of the administration, will be in Dean A. H. Leidigh's office at Texas Tech today to talk with veterans interested in the agricultural education program.

Charge To Be Filed In Market Burglary

A 37-year-old man is to be charged this morning with burglary according to a Tuesday announcement by the police. Charges come as a result of alleged breaking into Virgil Reagor's markets, 1212 Ave. G, on Monday night.

Aubrey Fawver, captain of detectives, said Glynn Hudgens, city-county health department official, had surprised the man in an attempted burglary of Flanagan Oil and Tire station at 1601 Ave. H, and that a .22 rifle and 46 pennies taken from the meat market had been recovered. The rifle was given to investigators by the clerk of a small hotel where the suspect lives, the pennies in the suspect's room, Fawver said.

The man told investigators he had gone to the penitentiary twice—in 1933 from Palo Pinto for burglary, in 1944 from Fort Worth for theft over $50. He said he now is on parole to Fort Worth.

The upper part of the body is built around a bony cage called the thorax—the walls of which are the ribs.

Resolution Permits Ferguson Memorial

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP)—A resolution to permit erection of a memorial at the grave of former Gov. James A. Ferguson in the state cemetery was adopted by the Texas house today.

By Rep. J. E. Winfree, Houston, the resolution gives permission to the Ferguson memorial foundation to erect the memorial to which the state will hold title.

Benham To Direct Carthage Program

AUSTIN, May 8. (AP)—Beauford Jester, railroad commission member, announced yesterday that C. E. Benham, engineer with the oil and gas division of Kilgore, has been placed in charge of the Carthage gas field conservation program.

Jester said Benham was placed in charge of the field to prevent such waste as had occurred in some fields at the beginning of gas production.

Stock Market Has Period Of Prayer

NEW YORK, May 8. (AP)—The stock market opened at 9:02 CWT today for trading after a two-minute period of silent prayer for V-E day.

Dealings were orderly. Prices held in a narrow range with volume moderate. Bonds held steady.

Other major markets followed the custom of the big board in a late opening. All markets planned to remain open for the day, but cautiously announced that this operation would depend on circumstances.

Cotton futures opened 2 points lower to 2 points higher.
