Junior Stock Show Is Set For March 5

Plans are now complete for the annual Lynn County Junior Livestock Show which will be held at the Lynn County Fair exhibition hall Saturday, March 7, according to Bill Griffin, county agent.

Tahoka Chamber of Commerce and Tahoka Rotary Club are again cooperating in sponsoring the event, and premiums and bonuses will be paid by Tahoka business institutions.

Dean W. L. Stangel of the Texas Tech Department of Agriculture has been secured this year to judge the baby beef entries. J. K. Adams will judge the fat barrow and fat lamb entries.

Griffin expects this show to be the best ever held in Lynn county, as both FFA and 4-H club boys of the county have a number of the best animals ever raised here.

Boys are urged to bring their stock in Friday, March 6, between the hours of 1 and 5 p. m., but not later than 9 a. m. Saturday.

Funeral services were held at 3:00 p. m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church with Rev. Bill Scantling of the Sweet Street Baptist Chapel officiating. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of Stanley-Jones Funeral Home.

Bobby Willis was born here on April 27, 1941. He had been a cripple since an infant.

He had been ill recently, but was not considered to be critically ill. Tuesday morning, shortly after Mr. Barnett had gone to work and the other children had left for school, little Bobby "passed out." Mrs. Barnett called a neighbor, Mrs. Ted Chaney, and her husband carried him to the Tahoka Hospital, where physicians pronounced him dead on arrival.

Survivors include the parents; two brothers, C. M. of Portsmouth, Maine, and John Frank of Tahoka; and seven sisters, Mrs. Bonnie Pearl Nealen of Gatesville, and Lavonne, Tommy Viola, Linda Joyce, Martha Jo, Billy Ruth, and Mary Ann, all of Tahoka.

Martin, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wilson, received laceration on his head and a jammed knee in a two-car head-on collision with a car driven by a Mexican man on the Clovis highway northwest of Lubbock Tuesday night at about 10 p. m. Martin's injuries were not serious but both cars were badly damaged.

The Mexican man and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Ortiz of Lubbock, also received painful though not serious injuries.

Mrs. M. B. Sikes is a medical patient in Tahoka Hospital.

Snow and Rainfall Total .21 Inches

New Oil Test For Northern Lynn

Announcement was made Wednesday of a new wildcat oil test which will be made in the north-central portion of Lynn county.

Location is said to be two miles south of the Lynn-Lubbock county line and the J. W. Edwards farm 1,980 feet from the north and 660 feet from the west lines of section 418, block 1, B&SE survey, 13.4 miles north of Tahoka. It will be known as the Hassie Hunt Trust Estate of Dallas No. 1 J. W. Edwards.

Located on a 160-acre lease, the well is scheduled to test the Pennsylvanian, and contract is for 10,000 feet.

Nearest production is in the recently completed Hassie Hunt Estate and Dan Auld No. 1 J. A. Timmons canyon reef well west of Petty and south of Lakeview, about twelve miles west and south.

An offset test of the No. 1 Timmons must be started soon, but no announcement has yet been made of such a test.

A rumor is current that another new test will be drilled soon south and west of the Timmons on the Lynn-Terry county line.

Also, the Railroad Commission is scheduled to take its official potential test of the Timmons.

Announcement was also made this week that Roundtop Oil Co. has filed application to plug back its Ellenburger discovery east of Draw in an attempt to secure production from the Mississippi formation.

Its No. 1 Garza Land & Cattle Co. was finalized Nov. 1, 1952, for a 24-hour potential of 396 barrels of 42.2-gravity oil through 64 casing perforation at 9,308-9,325 feet. The well has since become depleted and operators will attempt to make a well topped at 8,935 feet.

This project is in section 431, block 9, EL&RR survey.

Inflation's Okay Here!

One lesson in the Red Cross survival swimming course being taught to servicemen covers improvisation of life-preservers by inflating clothing, as demonstrated here. Red Cross expenditures last year on water safety, first aid, and nursing services totaled $6,398,995.

Scotchlite Tape Will Be Put On Cars By Local Jaycees As Safety Measure

Scotchlite tape for rear bumpers of automobiles and for rear fenders of bicycles will be made available in Tahoka starting this Saturday as a safety project being sponsored by Tahoka Jaycees.

Jaycees and Boy Scouts will be on hand all day Saturday, after 10 a. m., on the public square in Tahoka to apply the reflector tape to vehicles. Cost is only one dollar per car, and the tape will be applied to bicycles free of charge.

Use of such Scotchlite tape on the rear bumpers of vehicles is highly recommended by the Texas State Highway Patrol and other safety experts as a preventive to accidents on the highway at night.

Reflection of the tape can be seen a half-mile away, it is said, appear larger at a distance and small close up. It is not blinding to an approaching motorist, will not wash or blow off, and should remain effective for a full year.

The campaign starts locally on this Saturday, but may be obtained from any Tahoka Jaycee thereafter.

First Scotchlite tape was applied to the cars of local officers, School Supt. Otis Spears and Principal Jake Jacobs in a ceremony on the public square last Friday afternoon. Participating was Clay Bednar of Lubbock, district safety officer of the State Highway Patrol; Sheriff Norvell Redwine and Deputy Tom Hale, Police Chief L. N. Bartley, several Boy Scouts, and members of the Jaycees.

Jaycees in charge of the program are President A. V. Barnes, Vice President H. L. McMillan, Jr., and the committee members Granvel Ayer, chairman, Pat Peterson, Geno Jones, Bill Chancy and Charles McClellan.

Citizens are urged to get the tape applied to their cars this Saturday. A strip approximately four feet long is applied to the rear bumper for $1.00.

Nazarene Church Will Have Revival

Evangelist and Mrs. Carl H. Krause, outstanding preacher and evangelist, have been engaged to conduct an evangelistic campaign in the Church of the Nazarene, Grassland, according to Rev. Howard Smith, pastor of the congregation. Beginning March 4 and continuing through March 15 services will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is special meetings.

Rev. and Mrs. Krause have been engaged in full-time evangelism for a number of years. He is an effective preacher, and Mrs. Krause specializes as song evangelist and children's worker, using the Felt-O-Graph method of teaching.

Education Week Will Be Observed City's Schools

National Education Week will be observed by Tahoka schools next week, and the public is invited to cooperate in order to become better acquainted with the educational program.

A special program in keeping with the week is being planned at the High School Tuesday evening, March 3, at 7:30 o'clock. All parents of High School and eighth grade students, or those interest in such students, are invited to come to the school at that time.

Visitors will follow through the school on a class schedule to meet the teachers in their classrooms and to become acquainted with the work the children are doing.

Following this abbreviated schedule, the Student Council, under sponsorship of Mrs. Paul Pittman, will present a program in the auditorium.

Earl Bartley will act as master of ceremonies, and Richard Havens will welcome the visitors.

Betty Romsour and Gwena Lewis will sing a special number, accompanied at the piano by Mariana McGinty. Brief talks will be made by Supt. Otis Spears and High School Principal Jake Jacobs. Betty Jean Galloway will talk on "Early Texas Education," and an eight-piece band will play two numbers.

No special program is being held in the Elementary School, but Principal Archie Sims states these schools are holding open house all week. The Elementary Schools especially invite parents to visit their children's classes on Tuesday, March 3. Parents are also invited to have lunch in the school cafeteria at noon. For this day only, lunches will cost the visitors only 30 cents, Mr. Sims says.

Sometimes the public gets the idea there is too much play in the schools. The sports program and the other extra-curricular activities which attract the public and create entertainment and interest catches the public's eye. But, most of the real work in the educational process is done in the less glamorous classroom. An attempt will be made to show the public something of this work if patrons will only take time to visit the schools this week.

The Masonic Lodge is one of the backers of National Education Week, and the local lodge, headed by H. L. Roddy, W. M., and its National Education Week committee composed of E. R. Edwards, Maurice Small, and Otis Spears, is backing the program. The local Masons are being asked to attend the High School program in a body.

T. M. Barton, 74, Is Death Victim

T. M. Barton, 74, retired farmer of O'Donnell, died at his home in that city Sunday at 1:10 a. m.

Funeral services were held in the O'Donnell First Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. Monday with Rev. H. A. Longino, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Jim H. Sharp, Tahoka Methodist pastor. Burial followed in Tahoka Cemetery under direction of the Stanley-Jones Funeral Home.

Mr. Barton was born in Tennessee, September 13, 1878. He moved to Lynn county in 1940 from Haskell county.

He joined the Presbyterian Church early in life. He was a member of Oddfellow Lodge at Knox City and the Macabee Lodge at Grapevine.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, L. W. and T. B. Barton of O'Donnell, and T. W. Barton of Knox City; three daughters, Mrs. Edith Fulz of O'Donnell, Mrs. Addie Hawkins of Campbell, and Mrs. Lorena Vance of Lubbock; 15 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Adults Invited To New Home Meeting

All adults of the New Home community, both men and women, are invited to attend the regular monthly meeting of New Home Civic Club next Monday night at the school. A dinner will be served at 7:30 p. m. by the Junior Class, preceding the program.

A program of unusual interest has been arranged for the evening.

Dr. Stensland, head of the Adult Education Department of Texas Tech and a native of Sweden, will be the speaker. He will lead a discussion group, sing folk songs, and play the lute.

Those adults who do not have a baby-sitter available, are urged to come anyway and bring their babies, as provision will be made at the school to take care of them during the meeting.

City Buys More Land For Park

Two more half blocks of land have been bought by the City of Tahoka to go with the other two blocks recently purchased a few weeks ago for a swimming pool and park site, according to E. R. Edwards, a member of the City Council.

This will give the City approximately 11 acres for the park site. With the closing of streets and alleys in the area, the site is 850 feet long east and west by 660 feet wide, north and south.

The site is located in south Tahoka, six blocks south and two blocks west of the court house square, and includes all of Blocks 102 and 103 and the north halves of blocks 118 and 119, in the Original Town addition.

This is the old Jaycee Park site, plus the two half blocks. Water and sewer mains were laid to the site two or three years ago. Tahoka voters last fall approved a bond issue of $85,000.00 for building a swimming pool and a new city hall building.

As soon as funds from sale of the bonds are received, contracts will be awarded on the two projects.

The City hopes to develop the park with City equipment and using City employees in their spare time.

Next Monday night at 7:30 p. m. the drive "kick-off" dinner for workers will be held at the Legion Hall. Two sergeants from Reese Air Force Base at Lubbock are expected to appear on the program. All drive workers are expected to attend.

Red Cross this year is emphasizing aid to service men in the Korean War area, aid to disaster victims, collecting of blood plasma for use by war wounded, and production gamma globulin for use in prevention of paralysis in polio cases.

Citizens over the county are asked to contribute liberally of their time and money in support of the annual Red Cross drive, as all funds go to worthy causes, and much may go to the relief of our own citizens and kin.

Soils Expert Is Rotary Speaker

I. C. Mowrey, soils survey expert working with the Texas Extension Service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was the speaker at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday of last week. He was introduced by Clint Walker.

Mr. Mowrey explained the soils survey he has been making of Lynn county in recent months. Actual field work is now complete, but several months will be required to compile his data. This will ultimately be published in pamphlet form, and any farmer in the county may secure a copy.

The survey determines the various types of soil on individual farms for the entire county, and by having such knowledge the farmer will know the usage and conservation measures needed to make his soils produce a maximum of crops.

When the data is complete, a copy will be left with the county agent for the farmer to consult until such time as the report can be published in pamphlet form.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

That old, but still unsolved question "Which comes first, the chicken or the egg?" is being argued in Washington.

The question "Shall we cut taxes now, or balance the budget first?"

There are two camps within the republican party. President Eisenhower has told Congress tax cuts must wait until the budget is balanced.

But Congressman Daniel G. W. Harder, (N.Y., GOP) takes the stand the only way to balance the budget is to cut government spending. And the way to cut government spending, is to give government less money to spend.

Popular sentiment appears to be behind Congressman Harder's viewpoint. Not only are campaign promises on tax reductions recalled, but everyone knows whenever income falls, budgets are cut automatically. This is a principle they feel should be applied to government affairs.

The entire question throws into the limelight the big job: reducing Federal employment. No one in Washington today knows whose job, whose salary is justified. A military operation called "Operation Meat Axe" is felt to be the only solution.

Here are hard facts.

Today, the yearly payroll for all the armed forces, including men in Korea, is $9,200,000,000. Yet the yearly payroll for 2,383,400 Federal civil employees is $9,000,000,000 per year. This figure does not include the legislative or judicial branches of the government, or unknown thousands of employees abroad.

© National Federation of Independent Business

The end of controls should reduce this payroll to some extent, but there is a feeling in Washington that more severe pruning could save billions in taxes per year.

But it is a vague sort of a feeling. No one knows just exactly where to start chopping.

In the meantime, independent businessmen are generally heartened by Administration's recognition that present tax laws are unfair to small business.

Independent businessmen generally believe that no business can stand still and survive. A business either grows or perishes. The concern of small businessmen on present taxation is not so much about their present take-home income, but the amount of money left from profits to be put back into business.

At the present time, many independent businessmen can only make progress by heavy borrowing.

Independent businessmen, generally, do not seek a tax advantage which will increase their incomes at the expense of other groups. But in order to continue in business, and to create more employment which will be needed to take up the slack when war industries end, does require a tax revision to permit them to invest more of their earnings into expansion.

Since Korea, many huge corporations were granted a special war emergency tax relief amounting to billions of dollars to build new facilities for use in defense work now, for civilian operations later on.

But independent businessmen feel now is the time to grant tax relief for the coming peacetime emergency. As always, independent business must furnish the majority of the employment if a depression is to be avoided.

VERNON WILLHOIT HOME FROM HOUSTON MEETING

Vernon Willhoit of Tahoka, director of the Tahoka-Post National Farm Loan Association, has recently returned from Houston, where he represented this association at the Eighth Annual Stockholders' meeting of the Federal Land Bank of Houston held on February 19 and 20.

He reports that the bank made the largest volume of farm mortgage loans to Texas farmers and ranchers in 1952 of any year since its organization in 1917, with one exception. This exception was in 1934 during the depression period.

Officers of the bank stated during the meeting that the 1953 volume of loans promises to exceed that of 1952 if the first six weeks of this year can be used as a guide. It is also anticipated that many loans will be made during the year for the purpose of financing the restocking of ranches and stock farms with livestock.

The increased demand for loans has been brought about, according to Mr. Willhoit, for several reasons. The primary reason apparently is the fact that the average net cost of Land Bank loans is probably lower than that of any other mortgage lender in the state. Also, many short-term loans, created by reason of the drought through out much of Texas, are now being refinanced on a long-term basis on account of the opportunity of reducing the rate of interest on these loans which can be repaid at any time without penalty.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston is completely owned by the 141 Texas national farm loan associations. The associations, which are owned by local farmers and ranchers, in turn own all of the capital stock of the bank. Mr. Willhoit feels that inasmuch as the loan services of the bank are handled in the field by these associations, it is having a marked influence on this increase in volume of business with home-owners who understand local conditions and personally know the people with whom they are doing business.

Officers and directors of the association are: Fred McGinty, president; J. C. Fumigalli, vice president; T. L. Jones, Vernon Willhoit, and O. C. Roberts, directors; Ross Smith, Secretary Treasurer.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank friends for the visits, cards, and flowers while Mr. Tankersley was in the hospital and since going home. —The C. T. Tankersley family.

Rural leaders trained by county Extension personnel last year conducted some 3,500 meetings in their local communities where recreation formed a part of the program. More than 85,000 people attended these meetings.

Girls Basketball Prospects Bright

With the current season now ended, girls at Tahoka High School are looking forward to better girls basketball in the future.

Out of 28 girls participating in the sport this year, the second year Tahoka has officially participated in girls basketball, only one girl will be lost from the squad by graduation.

Tahoka's A team girls ended the season with a pretty fair record, considering their experience. They won eight and lost 11 games. They are coached by Coach Bill Haralson.

The Freshman girls, playing their first year, did not do so well, winning only one out of ten games, but they did get some valuable playing experience. Tracy Brown coaches the Freshmen.

Tahoka Negroes Win District Title

Dunbar High School of Tahoka won both the boys and girls district championship basketball title in the annual Class C Tournament held in Tahoka High gym last Saturday.

Ten boys teams and seven girls teams competed in the tournament.

Crosbyton finished second in both the boys and the girls tournament. Trophies were presented first and second place winners.

Tahoka boys defeated Anton, Brownfield, and Crosbyton to win its championship title, and Tahoka girls won their title with victories over Anton, Olton, and Crosbyton.

In the boys championship finals Saturday night, the Tahoka boys, coached by British C. Daniel, principal of the local Colored school, put on quite a show. Well out in front of Crosbyton, they staged an exhibition of plain and fancy dribbling and just about every possible type of sensational field shot.

Scores in the boys games were: Spur 40, Muleshoe 11. Tahoka 43, Anton 8. Brownfield 61, Olton 9. Crosbyton 34, New Deal 3. Spur 31, Post 5. Crosbyton 25, Spur 18. O'Donnell 14, Spur 6. (Exhibition).

Tahoka 50, Crosbyton 30. Scores in the girls games were: Crosbyton 19, New Deal 9. Tahoka 39, Anton 3. Brownfield 31, Spur 13. Tahoka 19, Olton 11. Crosbyton 26, Brownfield 13. Tahoka 17, Crosbyton 13.

Wednesday night the local Dunbar teams ended their season with the Lamesa Negro high school teams. Tahoka boys won a close 44 to 40 decision over Lamesa, while Lamesa girls won 26 to 20 over Tahoka.

New Home Plans Adult Study Course

In spite of the inclement weather, fifteen people attended the meeting at New Home school Monday night, the first meeting of a proposed adult education class in conversational Spanish.

Since some could not attend the meeting because of the bad weather, it was decided to hold another introductory meeting on next Tuesday night, March 3, according to Supt. James Vaughn.

Dr. A. D. Strekli, head of the Texas Tech Foreign Languages department, and Homer Milliken, director of Extension courses, of Texas Tech, met with the group. They will return next Tuesday night.

All adults of the community interested in learning conversational Spanish are invited and urged to attend this meeting.

Mr. Vaughn says this is only a demonstration meeting to learn something of Spanish sounds, inflections, culture, customs, etc., as an introduction to the course. In the course, the group hopes to acquire the tools for learning to carry on conversation in the native language of the many Mexicans who come to this area.

The course is being sponsored by the New Home Schools and New Home Civic Club.

Rev. Sharp Called Forest, Mississippi

TAHOKA METHODIST WSCS MET MONDAY

The Methodist Woman's Society of Christian Service met at the Monday, February 23, with 15 members present.

Mrs. Longino from O'Donnell, completed our Study on "Toward Understanding the Bible."

Those helping her with the program were: Mesdames Maurice Small, Jim Sharp, and W. H. Eudy.

Mrs. Longino brought to us a sermon, "Christ and the Bible," by J. B. Chapman, for the conclusion of our study. It was an inspiring message that made all present want to go forth and do more for Christ and His cause.

Mrs. Longino gave each one present a copy of this wonderful sermon. As a result of our study, we plan to give little gospels to the Negro Church of Tahoka.

Don't forget our monthly luncheon, Monday, March 2. —Reporter.

THE NEWS

???? ?? QUESTION ?? ???? CAN MAN MAKE RAIN? ANSWER NO EMPHATICALLY NO

Q. Can man make a cloud with chemicals?

A. Again the answer is NO.

Q. Can man with chemicals cause a storm to develop and change the path of that storm as it moves across the country?

A. No, storms develop and move across the country according to NATURE'S immutable laws which have been in existence since the Creation.

Q. Can man assist Nature with chemicals to induce more rain to fall?

A. Yes, granting the fact that there is a storm already in existence, science has learned how to assist nature in this as in many other fields. Science has produced new drugs from natural sources to combat many of our most deadly diseases. WE ACCEPT THAT. In industry, science has produced synthetic rubber, plastics and many other synthetic products. To do this they first learned with test tube and microscope how the natural product was made and reproduced the natural product with other materials and came up with a synthetic product as good, and many times better than the natural product. WE ACCEPT THAT. Science has learned how to fertilize our soil and increase the yield per acre of the crops we plant. WE ACCEPT THAT. Through science we learned of underground water and built rigs to drill and pumps to pump this water to the surface where NATURE DID NOT PUT IT. WE ACCEPT THAT.

By actual flights into the upper air and with balloons, scientists learned how Nature produces rain and snow. This process has been duplicated using dry ice (carbon dioxide), silver iodide and other chemicals. These chemicals work EXACTLY as nature works to cause snow flakes and rain drops to fall from the clouds. No man has succeeded when he worked contrary to Nature's laws, but when nature does her part and man does his part, many wonderful things have been achieved.

Q. Then cloudseeding or Weather Modification depends on Nature to first produce the cloud or storm system?

A. That is absolutely right. When there is no storm, no amount of silver iodide or any other chemical can "make it rain."

Q. Is cloud-seeding widely practiced?

A. Yes, commercial companies are now doing cloudseeding and research in seventeen (17) Western States in the United States, in England, Australia, Canada, Spain and Central America. A number of other nations are at present negotiating contracts to begin cloudseeding at an early date.

Q. Are Positive results being obtained?

A. Independent scientists from many of our leading Universities and Industries have made evaluation studies of work done in the past three years. These studies confirm increases in rainfall and increases in crop yields within project areas treated with silver iodide.

Q. Who are some of these agencies who have made these studies?

A. The Bonneville Power Administration, Portland, Oregon; General Electric Corp., of Schenectady, N. Y.; the Water Resources Board Sacramento, Calif.; Colorado Weather Control Commission of Denver Colo.; South Dakota State College, Brookings, South Dakota; and The Oregon State College, Corvallis, Oregon. These are a few who have studied this new science of Weather Modification and given favorable reports, urging further study and research to improve methods.

Q. Did you say the Bonneville Power Administration isn't that an agency of the U. S. Government?

A. Yes, the Secretary of the Interior contracted with Dr. Irving P. Krick in September, 1951, to seed the water shed of the Columbia River. The Grand Coulee Dam was nearly dry and electric power generation was drastically curtailed. Ten days after cloudseeding started, water was running through the spillway and the contract was terminated. Also, the U. S. Weather Bureau is now engaged in Southwest Oregon, doing research work to learn more about this new science.

From the above, it can be seen that the Science of Weather Modification is widely recognized and practiced. The Board of Directors of the West Texas Weather Improvement District, Inc., of Lamesa, Texas, commend this program to you and solicit your support to continue this program of cloudseeding with silver iodide in Borden, Dawson, Gaines, Terry, Lynn, and Garza Counties. We are now raising funds for a five year contract and have set March 10, 1953 as the date when we hope to have this fund raised.

History of "Cloud Seeding" Efforts To Produce More Rainfall, Is Told

In the summer and fall of 1952 a major drought has extended from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic seaboard, and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico. This condition has stimulated a growing interest in the cloud-seeding operations conducted by the Water Resources Development Corporation, of Denver, Colorado.

Cloud seeding to increase natural rainfall or snowpack can be likened to the work of the farmer who put chemicals into the soil to increase the yield from his crops. The cloud seed disperses suitable chemicals through a natural cloud system to increase its yield of rainfall. For example, if each storm from which nature produces an inch of rain can be made to yield an extra two-tenths of an inch, ten such storms, when properly seeded, will produce an extra two inches of rain. Thus it is that the effects of cloud seeding, when prolonged month after month, and year after year, develop a cumulative effect of great benefit to all water users. This principle has been demonstrated forcefully during the current drought cycle in the United States. Those cloud seeding projects which have been under operation for the longest periods have suffered the least from the ravaging effects of drought. Such areas include rangelands of northeastern New Mexico and the wheat-growing areas of eastern Oregon and Washington, where record breaking crops were harvested for the last two successive years.

A roundup of results during the year 1952 has indicated a clearly discernible increase in rainfall with in project areas. Also, there has been sufficient water for irrigation to carry areas dependent upon the winter snowpack in the mountains of Utah and Colorado during the searing heat from June through August. The increased flows from cloud-seeding operations in Utah and Colorado to increase winter snowpack were felt in California and Arizona. These areas are fed by waters of the Colorado River and its tributaries. These same operations have sustained the flows in the South Platte and the Arkansas Rivers during the irrigating season. Severe drought in 1950 and 1951 in the areas irrigated by the Rio Grande River were largely alleviated through the flows produced by the heavy winter snowpack in 1952 at its source region in the Colorado Rockies.

A simple calculation indicates that farmers and ranchers paid only a fraction of a cent for each inch of rain per acre obtained from their cloud-seeding projects. These costs are lower than pumping water out of the ground or spreading water from rivers onto crop lands. An analysis of operational data from all project areas indicates that results were cumulative and in direct proportion to the number of cloud-seeding operations. A cloud-seeding opportunity is defined as a natural storm passage in which a major portion of the cloud mass lies above the freezing levels, in the atmosphere. At present operations to increase natural rainfall can be conducted only during storms of this character. The gain in rainfall from such operations is proportional to the number of opportunities to work. For example, in project areas of North Dakota which were seeded during June and July, there were 11 opportunities to work. The gain in rainfall within these projects was between 2 and 2½ inches, when compared to the rainfall in an adjacent, un-affected area. On the other hand, in project areas of South Dakota, operated on 26 occasions during the period May through August, a gain of 4 to 9 inches occurred. At Gettysburg, South Dakota, within the project area, the rainfall exceeded the normal for the period May through August, by about 3½ inches. At Aberdeen, South Dakota, just to the east and outside of the project area the rainfall was deficient by 5½ inches.

The relative conditions between areas under weather modification and those lying outside of these projects, is clearly indicated by the differences in the crop yields. An outstanding example occurred around Lamesa, located in west Texas. Inside the project area a cotton crop from 25 per cent to 70 per cent of normal was harvested, except in the extreme south and east part of the project where 25 per cent to near complete crop failures occurred. Outside the influence of this operation complete crop failures were experienced to the west, south and east. Impartial observers throughout the country confirm these results. During the months of operation, from April to October, rainfall was from 5 to 6 inches below normal in the extreme southeast part of the project, near 1 inch of normal rainfall over the central part of the project, and near normal rainfall over the northern part of the project.

fall over the northern part of the project.

An interesting article by A. R. Lowrey, Section Director of the U.S. Weather Bureau, in the Rocky Mountain News-Wyoming Section, October 10, 1952, points up effects in eastern Wyoming. In this article Mr. Lowrey pointed out that in the Lusk area of the Wyoming border (Water Resources Development Corporation Project), there was above normal precipitation through the summer months in spite of marked deficiencies in the regions north and south of it.

In South Dakota, North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming, the results of the weather modification operations during 1952 have been confirmed by impartial observers at the South Dakota State College at Brookings, under the leadership of Dean Eberle.

The results of operations to increase snowpack in Colorado during the winter of 1950-51 and 1951-52 have been confirmed by the State's Weather Modification Control Commission in a report submitted by the State Engineer in July, 1952.

Similar studies showing the relative gains in streamflow within a target area have been released by the Bonneville Power Administration in connection with weather modification operations conducted in the U. S. portion of the Columbia River Basin during the fall of 1951.

From all these indications it would seem that the increases in rainfall within cloud-seeding projects have been of tremendous value in the drought areas of the United States during 1952. With fall moisture lacking in winter wheat areas and generally throughout the country, such operations will be more significant than ever next year. Farmers and ranchers will be completely dependent upon spring rainfall for the development of their crops and range grasses. Snowpack operations in the western mountain areas, to augment irrigation water supplies which have dwindled to dangerously low values, will be more important than ever this year. Depleted reservoirs and the continued demand for additional water throughout the major portion of the country serves to emphasize this need.

The supplies of water throughout the nation are becoming inadequate. Even in normal rainfall years some parts of our country, where the population is rapidly increasing, are without sufficient water. Elsewhere because of the increased per capita consumption of water, the same deficiencies are developing. Therefore, it becomes imperative to seek new sources of water. Weather modification offers one of the most promising and economically feasible means of augmenting our dwindling water resources. For this reason, these projects should not be regarded as a shot in the arm during periods of drought, but as a long-term program. The cumulative effects thus gained offer the greatest promise for improving our water resources at a cost within reach.

Sidelights From Washington

By George Mahon

My work has thrown me into occasional close contact with General Eisenhower through the years, but not until last week did I have an opportunity to observe him at close range in his new role as President.

On Monday I joined 16 other Members of Congress at the White House where we had lunch with the President, later in the day I shook his hand at a Congressional Reception, and on Thursday I accompanied twenty-four Members of the House and Senate to the President's office for a top-level discussion of the world situation. It is evident that the President is seeking to establish good relations with both the Republicans and Democrats in the House and Senate. This is good business, because he can do little as President without the support and confidence of Members of Congress.

The President is, the same Eisenhower that he formerly was, friendly, understanding, a man of irresistible good will, particularly at close range.

The Thursday meeting at the President's office lasted 95 minutes, and it was all business. No body told a humorous story, and if anybody even smiled, I failed to observe it. We had an over all report involving our national debt, our tax burden, the Korean War and the international situation generally. Much of the information presented was secret in nature. Allen Dulles, Chief of our Central Intelligence Agency General Omar Bradley, Chairman of the Joint Chief of Staff, and Joseph M. Dodge, Director of the Bureau of the Budget, participated in the meeting.

When we left the meeting, press and radio reporters met us in the President's waiting room and asked for details of the conference. But no one could properly make public the details. Speaker Joe Martin commented briefly that the picture looked grim and Senator Taft commented that no new crisis was discussed at the meeting. I believe in freedom of the press, but I think some Americans in recent years by unnecessary loose talk have given the enemies of our Country entirely too much information which is of no value to the American public, but of very great value to our enemies. To give the enemies of our country our secret military data and a play-by-play report of what we plan to do would greatly weaken our world position.

The job of the President is almost unbearably difficult. President Eisenhower looks exceptionally fit. I hope he can remain so. He is entitled to every possible assistance from Congress and the American people. It is our own best interest as Americans to work together in seeking the answers to the problems which beset us, putting the welfare of the country above party and political consideration.

As distasteful as the truth is, there is no one in Washington who knows the quick and easy answers to our problems. I have the feeling that in the old days before the press and radio became such dominant factors in our lives, we had a tendency to feel that our leaders knew all the answers, and we relaxed in complacency. The modern generation has learned that there is no such thing as infallibility of leadership. We are finding it difficult to adjust ourselves to this new situation. Yet, there is no reason to despair. Scepticism and distrust do not provide the answer to the problem. They aggravate it. The better approach consists in a little patience, faith in each other and faith in God. This approach will not provide the quick and easy answers, but it will provide us with the strength and character which the times demand, enabling us, I believe, to avoid major mistakes.

Spring Training Is Started Here

Immediately on the close of the basketball season, Coach Jake Jacobs started Spring basketball practice at Tahoka High School for next year's prospects. Seven boys will be lost from the squad by graduation this year.

About twenty boys are now working out daily, and from this group next winter's team will be selected.

Some of the likely prospects are: J. B. Ables, Garland Huddleston, Duane McMillan, Roy Gene Sherrod, Donald Paris, Gainerd McNeely, Gordon Smith, Castleberry, Junior Fitts, and Carleton Bell.

However, there are number of other boys who are developing and there will be a contest for both A and B team positions.

Those graduating from the team this year will be Richard Havens, Steve Slover, Morgan Howle, Joe Brooks, John Foster, Charles Hyles, and Max Dodson.

Last week, the team elected Howle, Havens and Slover to the honor of co-captains for the year.

The Bulldogs were District 9AAA champions in basketball last year, and finished second behind Spur this year, with Post trailing in third and Slaton in fourth.

Next year, Floydada and Abernathy are being added to this district in both football and basketball.

Wilson Planning Religious Survey

The Wilson community will conduct a religious survey on the afternoon of Sunday, March 1. The survey will attempt to find out the religious affiliation of each person within the Wilson School District and in some cases including small additional areas.

The survey will be led by the four pastors: Rev. John Martin, of the First Baptist Church, Rev. Paul Meckmann of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Rev. Douglass Gossett of the First Methodist Church, and Rev. C. C. Ehler of St. John's Lutheran Church. Volunteers from each church will participate.

"It has been many years since a survey like this has been taken in the Wilson community and we hope that each family will make a special effort to remain at home Sunday afternoon and cooperate with canvassers in giving them the desired information," stated the pastors. This survey will seek only information—no other requests will be made of the people.

Protection Against Polio Paralysis

A little girl is inoculated with gamma globulin to immunize her against the paralyzing effects of polio. Tests with the blood plasma derivative last summer showed that one dose protects a child for about one month. Part of the blood collected by the Red Cross is now going into the production of gamma globulin for use in polio epidemics.

The Dark Can Kill You

America's millionth traffic victim has been dead a year. Yet auto wrecks go right on changing our country crossroads into killer corners.

Where's the villain?

Some say "more cars on the road these days." Some point to "reckless youths" ... "lax laws" ... "drunken driving" ... "speeding."

But something else may be more to blame for auto accidents than any of these. Darkness. Plain old darkness.

Look at one case. In a Connecticut area 182 pedestrians were killed at night in two years—179 on poorly lighted streets.

Busy traffic centers are waking up fast, lighting their death-trap streets. Salt Lake City cut night deaths 92% in one area, Grand Rapids 78%, Bridgeport 93%.

Some small communities have been first to pick up the newest in lighting equipment. Oakwood, Ohio, has the largest installation of fluorescent street lamps in the country. And there's a broad-daylight look in Lyndonville, Vermont, even late at night. Fluorescent lighting as developed by General Electric has now been extended to street lighting.

Good street lighting has been a pet project of ours for years. General Electric engineers work with local officials on other community problems, too—traffic control, water shortage, waste disposal, farm and home modernization—wherever electricity can help progress. For progress is our most important product. General Electric Company, Department 2-123, Schenectady, N. Y.

a glance that if a state could nullify a mere tariff law it could also nullify any law pertaining to slavery that it did not like. Closely related to the doctrine of "Nullification" was also the right of secession. Those who advocated the doctrine of Nullification—and others—asserted the right of a state to secede from the Union whenever it might deem the provocation sufficient. And that stirred up the people to an even higher pitch of excitement, especially when President Andrew Jackson warned South Carolina—that the tariff law would be enforced and immediately took steps to enforce it. A compromise on tariff rates was agreed upon and South Carolina repealed the Nullification resolution which it had passed. But this doctrine of Nullification and the allied doctrine of Secession precipitated a great debate in the United States Senate two years later between Senator Daniel Webster of Massachusetts and Senator Robert Y. Hayne of South Carolina. And the slavery issue in both the North and the South became more bitter.

In the meantime immigrants had been coming from the red clay hills of Alabama and Georgia, from the mountain areas of North Carolina and Tennessee, and even from some of the Northeastern states to Texas, whose rich black lands and alluvial river-bottom soils offered unusual opportunities for the raising of cotton, corn, and other field products; and in 1836 came the inevitable clash between the liberty-loving farmers of Anglo-Saxon and Teutonic descent and the easy-loving but power-mad descendants of the Spaniard and the Indian. The Abolitionists of the North could see in the Rebellion of Texas against Mexico nothing but a conspiracy to increase the slave territory of the United States. While there was probably little basis for their charges, yet the conflict stirred up more agitation of the slavery issue, and after Texas had won her independence, there was much opposition to her admission into the Union as a state; and when this action precipitated a war between the United States and Mexico, there was another up-surge of bitterness and animosity on the part of the Abolitionists. They were sure enough becoming hot.

By the terms of the Treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo signed on Feb. 2, 1848, a territory consisting of about 525,000 square miles was ceded to the United States, from which territory the states of California, Nevada, and Utah, the most of Arizona, the western part of New Mexico, and portions of the states of Colorado and Wyoming were carved. The Abolitionists should have been elated instead of peeved, for the Missouri Compromise was still in effect and it prohibited slavery north of N. latitude 36 degrees 20' and most of the newly acquired territory except Texas lay north of this line. So, as a result of the Mexican War and the Treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo, the anti-slavery faction had won far more territory than the pro-slavery faction had won. The gain of this vast expanse of additional territory became all the more apparent the very next year, for gold was discovered in California in 1849.

But still neither faction was entirely satisfied; and in 1850 a series of compromise measures was passed whereby concessions were made by each faction to the other. California was admitted into the Union as a free state; Texas was paid $10,000,000 for its claim to a part of New Mexico; New Mexico (including Arizona) and Utah were to be organized into Territories without regard to the question of slavery; and fugitive slave laws enacted by the states were to be honored and observed by the United States Government. These compromise measures had the support of Daniel Webster of Massachusetts, John C. Calhoun of South Carolina, and Henry Clay of Kentucky and a majority of the members of both Houses of Congress.

But a Northern Democrat, Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois, was still not satisfied. He was the proponent of the doctrine of "Squatter Sovereignty," and in 1854 he introduced a bill in the United States Senate known as the Kansas-Nebraska bill providing for their organization as separate territories and giving the people of the two territories respectively the right to determine whether they should be admitted into the Union as free or slave states. He also introduced a bill specifically repealing the compromise measures which had been adopted in 1850. His bills finally passed, making it possible for many territories to enter the Union as slave states; and when he came up for re-election as Senator from Illinois he found himself facing rugged Abraham Lincoln as his Republican opponent. Lincoln was fighting the extension of slavery, and seeking its early and complete abolition.

The two candidates held a series of debates throughout Illinois that attracted the attention of the whole United States. Douglas won re-election to the Senate but lost every chance he had ever had to become President of the United States. That plum was plucked by Abraham Lincoln two years later and Douglas died and passed forever from the field

Spot Checks Made Of State's Markets

AUSTIN.—Spot checks of meat markets by the State Health Department meat-inspectors insure Texas housewives that when they buy a pound of hamburger they are getting a product whose contents have been carefully defined by state law, declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

In revealing that more than 1,000 meat samples were collected last year for laboratory analysis from all sections of the state, Dr. Cox says that the food and drug inspectors have been ordered to increase the frequency of their inspections of community butcher shops in an effort to curb the sale of horsemeat as hamburger.

By state law, hamburger is defined as "chopped or ground fresh beef, with or without the addition of beef fat as such, and with or without seasoning, and shall contain not more than 30 per cent fat."

That definition, health officials say, make it unlawful to add chemical preservatives or fillers such as cereals or skim milk.

It prevents unsuspecting housewives from paying ground beef prices for a high-fat content product, or one which has been doctored with inexpensive cereals.

New we have used up all our space for this week, and will have to wait until next week to tell you something about some of the outstanding Negro characters who have risen among us during the past one hundred years.

It protects the consuming public against a spoiled or adulterated product which could be hazardous to health.

More than 95 per cent of the meat products analyzed in state laboratories last year were hamburger. State law makes no distinction between hamburger and ground beef.

The 30 per cent maximum fat content of hamburger is a standard set by the Bureau of Animal Industry, and except for one or two exceptions is adhered to by all states. A similar maximum has been established for moisture content.

Twenty-six meat inspectors work under the jurisdiction of the Texas Health Department's bureau of food and drugs. More than one errant meat dealer can testify to their diligence.
