Allies Solve Friction-Packed Problems Of Food For Berlin

Rotation Of Command Set

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, July 10.—The United States, Britain and Russia, setting up a four-power "kommondature (command post)" for a rotating military government of Berlin, today solved the friction-packed problem of feeding the German capital's 3,000,000 civilians.

The intra-Allied deadlock over Berlin's food and fuel supplies was broken by high Allied military chiefs, who assured that Anglo-American troops would assume immediate and full control of their occupation zones. The way was paved for a harmonious opening of the imminent Big Three meeting.

Conference Of Chiefs

Agreement among the three major Allies was reached in a conference of Soviet Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Lt. Gen. Sir Ronald Weeks, American and British representatives in the Allied Control commission for Germany.

Beaming with evident pleasure over the outcome of the conference, Maj. Gen. Floyd L. Parks, American military commandant of Berlin, announced details of the solution of the food problem and of the new "kommandature" that will rule Berlin.

Berlin's food, it was decided, will be supplied from "contributions from all Allied occupation zones in Germany," and Zhukov, Clay and Weeks took steps to solve the coal problem along the same lines.

Inviting the French to take part in the government of Berlin, the three military chiefs decided that the "kommandature" should comprise four military commandants, each of whom will serve as chief commandant in rotation.

Commanders To Rotate

Each American, British, Russian and French commander will head Berlin's military administration for 15 days, rotating as long as the city is occupied.

The first meeting of the "kommandature" will be held tomorrow and Soviet Col. Gen. Gorbatov will be first chief.

Today's session in effect vindicated the Soviet position on the feeding of Berlin after the same three Allied representatives failed to agree last Saturday night.

It was presumed that American and British transport systems would bring considerable stocks of both food and fuel into their Berlin sectors from the western occupation zones. The Anglo-American demand previously had been that all Berlin should be supplied from its Soviet-held hinterland.

"THE STOMACH" IN ACTION — Pvt. Chester Salvatori likes his vituals, and the more the better he likes 'em. He has eaten an 18-pound turkey at one meal, he said, and a 36th pork chop usually tastes very well. Recently "The Stomach" obtained a Sunday pass from Ft. McPherson hospital and raced downtown "to get a square meal." It cost $9.95, consisting, among other things, of seven orders of fried chicken, ten orders of French-fried potatoes, two quarts of milk. He is shown here in an Atlanta cafe. Doctors have found no physical abnormality to cause the enormous appetite.

Ten Named In 12 Indictments

Twelve bills of indictments were returned at 4:35 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by a 99th district grand jury of which Homer E. Hunt was foreman.

Breakdown of bills showed one each for murder, assault with intent to murder, murder while driving an automobile while intoxicated, sodomy, cattle theft and car theft. There were two bills charging desertion of minor children, four charging forgery and passing.

Two Not Arrested

Two defendants had not been reported arrested. The others either were in jail or under bond, records of Sheriff Grady Harrist showed.

District Attorney Burton S. Burks said 46 witnesses appeared before the grand jury, which was adjourned by Judge Pardue until Oct. 15, subject to call. It had been impaneled Monday morning.

Bills naming those under arrest or bond, and charges:

Jessie Mae Stimpson, 18, negro woman, murder with malice July 7 of Fred Williams, 14, a negro boy, with a knife. Bail was denied by the court.

Heavy Rains Fall In Portions Of Plains

Stormy clouds precipitated widespread rainfall of varying amounts on the South Plains early Tuesday.

Monroe, 12 miles north of Lubbock, reported "three to four inches" of rain. The Slaton area received one-fourth inch of water and some hail.

About 65 per cent of Motley county's crops were washed away, blown out or hailed out, according to Elbert Reeves of the Matador AAA office. At Matador 2.5 inches came in what old timers called "the hardest rain" ever seen there. Inestimable damage was caused by water and wind erosion.

A total of .62 inch rainfall was reported at the Texas Experiment station east of Lubbock while Texas Tech's gauge registered .70 of an inch.

Farmers predicted the light rainfall would help late crops and enable them to plant some feed within the next two days.

Elsewhere over the area, except to the west, the rainfall was heavier with precipitation ranging as much as two inches in the Floydada section.

Crosbyton reported .9 of an inch fairly general over the county. Ralls had .61 inch with the heaviest rain to the south near the Caprock. Post reported an inch and Southland and Pleasant Valley about one and one-fourth inch. Verbana community, east of Post, reported a regular cloudburst bringing about six inches.

Hale Center had about one-quarter inch.

Wolfforth, in southwest Lubbock county, reported three-fourths to an inch, but the fall did not extend very far south, it was said.

Spur reported 1.6 inches and Lockney, in Floyd county, had better than two inches.

The Sudan area had a general rain which averaged from three-fourths to one and one-fourth inches.

Rains received in Scurry county since last Friday ranged from 14.68 inches in the Dunn community to 1.85 inches in the Fluvanna area.

Bill Miller Dies Of Wounds On Okinawa

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Miller, route one, Lubbock, have received a War department telegram notifying them that their son, Pfc. Bill Miller, had died of wounds on Okinawa, May 31, 1945. Pfc. Miller, 18, had entered military service on Sept. 25, 1944. He took his basic training at Camp Hood and after spending a two weeks furlough with his parents was transferred to Ford Ord, Calif. He left for overseas duty on Feb. 12, 1945, and spent a month in Hawaii and a month in the Marianas before sailing for Okinawa on April 26. He had been awarded the Infantry Combat badge and one battle star. He was an automatic rifleman in his squadron. Before entering service, he had attended Ropesville High school and assisted his father in farming. Besides his parents he is survived by three brothers, Pfc. Herschel Miller, Charles, and Dan and three sisters, Mary Etta, Pauline and Joan. Pfc. Herschel Miller is serving in France, having gone overseas on Feb. 10.

Crash Of B-29 Said Caused By Lightning

PUEBLO, Colo., July 10. (AP)—Army authorities were informed yesterday that lightning struck a B-29 Superfortress which blew up and killed 13 crewmen shortly after it took off from its home field here.

There were no survivors. Base authorities identified the dead to include:

Capt. J. R. Simpson, instructor-pilot, El Paso, Tex.

Broad Power Is Urged For U.S. Delegate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 10—Senate leaders made it plain today they think the American delegate to the United Nations should have the right to commit U. S. troops against a potential aggressor.

This position was taken in the Senate Foreign Relations committee by Chairman Connally (D-Tex), Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Minority Leader White (R-Me).

The development in the United Nations charter hearing was precipitated by Senator Millikin (R-Colo). Millikin wanted to know whether it would violate the charter to reserve the use of troops to either Congress or the President, when the security council of the United Nations decides force is needed to keep peace.

Violates Spirit of Charter

Sensing a move to write in a reservation, Connally declared that such an idea would violate "the spirit of the charter."

Vandenberg argued warmly that it would violate the constitution of the United States.

The Michigan senator took the position that the U. S. delegate is the instrument of the President and holds the President's power to call out troops. This doesn't interfere with Congress' right to declare a state of war, he pointed out.

Senator White declared that a reservation on the delegate's authority would "destroy the charter."

Must Know In Advance

Dr. Leo Pasvolsky, State department adviser who is explaining the charter article by article, told Millikin that the security council would have to know in advance what it could count on in the way of troops from the U. S., otherwise the purpose of the whole treaty would be nullified.

He assured Millikin that the U. S. would have a voice in the troop commitment when the issue requiring force is taken up by the security council itself. There, this nation has the right to veto.

Pasvolsky is nearing the end of his detailed explanations.

Subsequently the committee, and then the Senate, are to vote on whether the United States shall join the world organization chartered in the San Francisco conference. Hearings today also brought:

Interests In Accord

Announcement by Chairman Connally that the joint chiefs of staff, in a communication, said the military implications of the charter are in accord with the military interests of the United States.

Assurance by Pasvolsky that the signers of the charter are pledged to respect the traditional American policy outlined in the Monroe Doctrine—no European encroachments in this hemisphere.

Testimony by Pasvolsky that Russia and Poland never were "in a state of war" and that presumably Russia could not deal with Poland under the charter as a "former enemy."

Connally, referring to islands the U. S. forces have seized in the Pacific, declared:

"All we have got to do is to hold on to them 'til we want to let them go."

Millikin concentrated close questioning of Pasvolsky on the section setting up an economic and social council, designed to get at war-breeding conditions. He asked whether it could deal with domestic problems. Pasvolsky said the group could take up any question bearing on international relations but has only recommending powers. Connally interjected:

"And if a nation doesn't agree with what is recommended, it doesn't have to do anything about it."

Discharged Veteran Drafted As Private

ATLANTA, July 10. (AP)—Wounded twice in 14 months overseas and then discharged, former First Lt. William K. Dobson, 27, of Atlanta found himself back in khaki today—drafted as a buck private.

The greetings from his draft board came five months after his discharge last January. In the interim he had married and got his old job back with the U. S. forest service.

He's now a private at Camp Blanding, Fla., the same place he reported to when he enlisted in the Army in May, 1942. He received his commission at the Fort Benning officers' candidate school.

Nips Stay Clear As Blows Rock Islands

Jap Feelers Brushed Off

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 10 — Japan's vague peace feelers were brushed aside today by acting Secretary of State Grew with a sharp reminder that the United States is interested only in the enemy's unconditional surrender.

Grew told of four specific indirect approaches on behalf of the Japanese but said that the United States government never has received a real peace offer from the Japanese government "either through official or unofficial channels."

Copying Germans

The Japanese, Grew said in a statement, are using peace feelers as the Germans did, to stir up trouble in the Allied countries and particularly to try to arouse public discussion on the terms to be applied to Japan.

Grew spoke strongly on the subject and chose an unusual means to emphasize the importance which he attaches to his statement. Instead of releasing it through the regular State department press officer he himself visited the newsroom where a score of reporters were gathered.

Four Feelers Related

The four "alleged peace feelers" which Grew related were these:

1. Persons described in reports to the State department as "leading Japanese industrialists" were represented as wanting to know the best possible conditions of a compromise peace.

2. A neutral diplomat in Tokyo said he had been told by a private Japanese citizen that Japan could not accept unconditional surrender because it would mean loss of face.

3. A Japanese diplomat in a neutral country intimated to an American citizen through a German newspaperman that the United States, because of its "real" interests in the Far East, should abandon unconditional surrender for a negotiated peace.

Relying On Division

4. A person whom Grew described as unidentified approached an American officer with a story that he was authorized (it was not stated by whom) to enlist a neutral government in persuading the Allies to drop unconditional surrender and propose peace terms.

"It should be borne in mind in this connection," Grew said, "that the Japanese, like the Germans before them, rely principally upon the hope that they may be able to divide the Allies and to produce division of opinion within the Allied countries."

Missing Infant Is Restored To Parents

MARION, O., July 10 (AP)—Missing six-day-old Jean Eileen Creviston was restored unharmed to her parents late today after police said a 29-year-old married woman admitted taking the child from her hospital crib.

Police Chief William E. Marks said that a childless woman, registered as Mrs. Phyllis Lenman, 29, admitted she took the daughter of Tech. Sgt. and Mrs. John L. Creviston, removed it to her boarding house, called a physician and tried to convince him and friends that she had given birth to the child.

She was charged with carrying away a child under 12 years of age.

San Angelo Defeats Abolition Of BCD

SAN ANGELO, July 10. (AP)—A proposed charter amendment to abolish the tax-supported Board of City Development was defeated by a vote of 1,429 to 524 in a special election here today.

San Angelo citizens also voted against amendments to abolish the elective chief of police and to elect a mayor and four commissioners in place of the present three-man city commission. An amendment putting the city election and school board election on the same day was carried by a narrow margin.

Over 2,000,000 Tons Of Bombs Pound Axis

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—The Army Air forces figured today its planes have hit the Axis with 2,000,000 tons of bombs since the war began.

It's a form of applied mathematics the enemy understands painfully well.

Those 2,000,000 tons are 4,000,000,000 pounds, each pound capable of death and destruction.

There were some 10,000,000 bombs in all of varying size.

Two Millionth Monday

The 2,000,000th ton was dropped yesterday by the Superfortress "Going Jessie" in the five-day Superfortress attack on industrial cities of the Japanese home island of Honshu. The skipper of the "Going Jessie" was Capt. John D. Fleming of Columbia, Tenn.

It took 34 months to drop the first million tons on Axis targets. The second million was unloaded in nine months.

The tonnage of bombs dropped in June against all Japanese targets by the AAF was five times the 10,503 tons dropped on them in June, 1944.

The Japanese homeland itself was hit by the 100,000th ton of bombs on July 4.

Some other AAF figures:

AAF bombers and fighters flew more than 2,300,000 sorties. This means that the equivalent of about 1,800 aircraft have been put into the air each day since Pearl Harbor.

The planes flew a total of more than 19,700,000 hours and used more than 3,100,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

AAF planes have destroyed more than 40,000 enemy aircraft in all theaters and damaged at least 18,000 others. In the Japanese war alone, AAF planes have sunk a total of more than 2,318,000 tons of shipping.

MACHINEGUNS POW — Pvt. Clarence V. Bertucci of New Orleans, above, continued under examination by Fort Douglas hospital doctors Tuesday as result of his slaying of eight German prisoners of war and wounding of 20 others when he turned a machine gun on them at a Salina, Utah camp. Bertucci has told Army officers he planned the shooting, and was "not sorry" for it.

Nips Refuse Yanks' Dare

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Wednesday, July 11 — The Japanese air force refused to put up anything resembling a real fight over Tokyo Tuesday as more than 1,000 carrier planes of the massive U. S. Third Fleet destroyed or damaged 152 enemy planes on the ground and shot down two snoopers near the fleet, fragmentary reports disclosed today.

Whether Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey's world's largest task force stuck around today for another strike was not made clear but even the first preliminary accounts left no doubt that the enemy air force assigned to defend the homeland was in hiding.

Driven In By Mustangs

It obviously has been driven there by a week of strikes by Iwo-based Army Mustangs, scores of which destroyed or damaged 19 enemy planes yesterday at Honshu's port city of Kobe while the carrier Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers were roaming the Kanto plains around Tokyo to the northeast looking for targets.

Only one of the 19 was bagged in the air by the Mustangs and the first reports of the powerful carrier plane blows at Tokyo did not so much as list a single enemy interceptor shot down.

The air opposition to Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carrier raiders was so weak during the first hours that undoubtedly they returned in repeated strikes to search for camouflaged aircraft and enemy hiding places. What they found remains to be told.

Where Are Nip Planes

Even with the 19 Mustang victims added, for a total Tuesday preliminary bag of 173 aircraft, the biggest question was: Where is the Japanese air force?

While the carrier planes looked around for Tokyo's defenders, the Mustangs over Kobe had to turn to enemy shipping in the inland sea to keep occupied.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who shattered precedence in yesterday's communique by not only saying the carrier attack was going on "at the present time" but also named some of the battleships and carriers, spoke only in the past tense today.

Nimitz said 72 planes were destroyed on the ground and 80 more were damaged during the first hours of the attack.

Reports remained to be tabulated for later in the day.

By noon Tuesday—seven hours

Nine Primary Factors Cited For Farm Living Betterment

By GEM BOB CALLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

Rural women of 20 counties were told last night to support community projects and prepare for better farm family living, by Miss Maurine Hearn, vice-director for women and state home demonstration agent, in an address to 197 homemakers enrolled for a three-day educational short course at Texas Tech.

Vigorously urging a more cooperative spirit among residents of rural communities, Miss Hearn brought to their attention nine factors which must be kept in mind if "living on the farm" is to be improved. She suggested that all rural residents endorse and support improvements in the following: rural schools, health and nutrition measures, social security plans for rural residents, rural electrification programs, all-weather roads, community recreational facilities, and religious activities.

Simplifies Problems

"These nine conditions make rural life pleasant or undesirable," Miss Hearn said, "and, when they are corrected, through cooperative efforts of farmers, problems of living on a farm are greatly simplified." She recommended that rural residents consult farm agencies and institutions created by the government to assist them with their problems.

Classes for the short course were begun at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, with groups of 25 to 50 women assembled for one-hour lectures pertaining to house plans and furniture, handicrafts, color schemes, textiles, furnishings, and landscaping the rural home. Special instructors were Martye Poindexter, head of the department of applied arts, Edith Coleman, department of applied arts; Dr. Mina Lamb, department of foods and nutrition; Dr. W. W. Yocum, plant industry, all of Tech; and Mary Wilson of Lubbock Public schools.

Analytical discussions on food and clothing situations were given Tuesday afternoon by two

Truman Enjoys His Ocean Trip

ABOARD CRUISER AUGUSTA, July 10.—President Truman sped through placid mid-Atlantic waters today enroute to Potsdam for a Big Three meeting he hopes may speed victory over Japan as well as chart the course for permanent European peace.

A battle-tested warship is carrying the President to the sessions with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin—talks which may help shape the course of history for generations.

Two-Cruiser Task Force

The vessel is part of a two-cruiser task force, under the command of Rear Admiral Allan R. McCann.

The presidential party, includes James F. Byrnes, secretary of state, and Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's chief of staff, will fly from the port of debarkation to the Berlin area. Mr. Truman will use the big C-54 luxury liner in which he traveled to the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

Captain James H. Foskett commands the ship carrying the President. The other crusier is commanded by Captain Robert L. Boller.

(The Augusta was the scene of an historic meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Atlantic waters in August, 1941.

Atlantic Charter

(It was then that they drew up the series of memoranda now known to the world as the Atlantic Charter).

Primarily, the Potsdam meeting will concern the laying of the groundwork for the peace treaty with Germany, including settlement of boundary, reparations, occupational, rehabilitation and other questions.

The President left Washington last Friday night by train, sailing the next day from the Army port of embarkation dock, Newport News, Va., on a journey which may cover in excess of 10,000 miles by the time he returns to the White House.

BONUS PLAN REJECTED

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP) — A proposal for an outright bonus of $1,040 for any honorably discharged serviceman who had been in uniform 90 days or longer was rejected today by the House Veterans committee.

Balikpapan Bay Held By Aussies

MANILA, Wednesday, July 11. (AP)—Balikpapan's broad bay, an anchorage capable of handling unlimited shipping, is completely in the hands of Allied forces, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

At the same time a headquarters spokesman disclosed the Aussies now hold all of the hotly contested Pandansari refinery area just north of Balikpapan town.

The final link in a chain of amphibious hops around the perimeter of Borneo's biggest oil port came Sunday, Maj. Gen. Milford's Australians pushed in small boats from their west-shore Cape Penadjam positions four miles farther north, to Djinabora.

Met No Opposition

They met no opposition. The small landing craft were protected by naval gunfire.

The new landing put the Diggers across narrow straits from Dutch soldiers who seized Cape Telok-tebang the preceding day.

Northeast of captured Manggar airdrome 13 miles northeast of Balikpapan town, Australians smashed two infiltration attacks by the Nipponese Saturday night and advanced a mile beyond Manggar's runways. Another center of enemy resistance developed on the shal-

Texans Get Little Hope Of Meat Shortage Aid From Game And Fish

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, July 10 — Don't count too much on game and fish to augment your short meat rations for the balance of the year. If you do, you may not only be vegetarian, but disappointed.

It all boils, bakes or fries down to less than six pounds per capita in Texas including such rare delicacies as armadillo, raccoon and opossum.

That's hunger, if not starvation, in this man's book.

Considering game alone, things look even leaner.

Statistics compiled by the Game, Fish and Oyster commission indicate that the kill of quail in Texas during the 1944-45 hunting season totaled 1,000,000.

Confront those one million quail with more than six million Texans, rampant on a broad historical background of beefsteak, and simple arithmetic finishes the menu, it's quail smothered with hungry Texans.

The total kill of game during the last season came to 4,756,082 pounds. That may go up a little next season, as restrictions on gasoline and ammunition ease off, but it would still come to less than a pound per person.

Shellfish and other marine food production dropped sharply during the fiscal year 1943-44 below production for the previous year, and there is nothing to indicate a change in the conditions that caused the decrease.

Manpower shortage is the answer. If you hanker for more than two pounds of shrimp during the next fiscal year, if you have one, go out and talk some more people into the attractions of shrimp peeling as a life's work.

Shrimp production was down from 19,022,873 pounds in 1942-43 to 12,935,315 pounds in 1943-44. Total seafood was down from 24,230,520 pounds to 18,445,567 pounds. Some of these post-war sea fish should be whoppers, what with all the time they are getting for growth.

It's just like they say in the funny paper. Come up to my house for a duck dinner. You bring the duck.

Reporters Inspect Nazi Plant For Soap-Making From Human Bodies

By M. S. HANDLER
United Press Staff Writer

GDANSK (Danzig), Poland, July 8 (Delayed)—An experimental laboratory for the manufacture of soap from human bodies was inspected by correspondents today.

This chamber of horrors is one of the few buildings still intact in this ancient Hanseatic city. Still standing in the laboratory are the pressure boilers, the soap residue, tanks of chopped human fat and flesh.

Bones Litter Outside

Outside the laboratory the ground is littered with whitened human skulls and bones — the waste products of this ultimate Nazi atrocity.

There is no doubt about what went on in this one-story, red-shingled gabled house. It is located in the yard behind the buildings of the Anatomical and Pharmacological institute of the Danzig Medical school, at No. 7-A Delbruck street—which the Poles have renamed Curie-Skladowska street, in honor of Mme. Curie.

One assistant who worked at the laboratory has been captured and we were allowed to question the half-demented man. His testimony filled in details of factory.

Finishing Process

The soap was poured out into flat dishes or cylinders resembling ice-cream containers. The final boilers in which the soap was refined are rectangular enamel tanks with a spigot at the lower right hand side.

Alongside one pressure boiler was a bin filled with dried hunks of skin and fat, removed from the human bodies, and ready for the boiler. In one cylinder container there were vestiges of yellow soap and a block of hardened flaky soap was on the table.

In the basement of the anatomical school we saw tanks filled with corpses of Poles and Russians who had been hanged, shot or guillotined and whose bodies were used for laboratory purposes. There were whole bins filled with the heads of guillotined victims.

We questioned Sigmund Mazur, identified as a laboratory assistant, at the state security headquarters here. He appeared half-crazy. He identified the director of the laboratory as one "Professor Spanner."

Mazur, 25, slight, thin-faced and blond, was suffering from a nervous tick but his answers were fairly coherent. He said he began as an ordinary laboratory assistant at 120 marks a month and finally was raised to 169 marks a month.

He said Professor Spanner arrived at the laboratory Feb. 15, 1944, and announced he had a formula for making soap and that production would be started. Human fat, Mazur said, had been accumulating since 1940 at the institute.

Black Market Control

Mazur said with a grin that he didn't sell any of the soap in the black market because he would have been shot if he evaded the rationing regulations.

Asked if the soap was good quality, Mazur said it was. He said that the soap was produced only during the winter months for the use of some 400 students.

MacArthur Cites Need For Allied Defense

MANILA, July 10 (AP) — In a wildly applauded address to a joint session of the Philippines Congress, Gen. Douglas MacArthur asserted today, "No nation, however powerful, may in the future with safety rely exclusively on its own defense potentiality."

Even the greatest of nations, he said, "must resort to international defense in concert with other nations."

The general added:

"Defense no longer is national. It has become international."

The general's 20-minute address was interrupted nearly a dozen times by applause from the 14 senators, 73 representatives and several hundred spectators.

Once MacArthur's voice faltered as he said, "Relations between the American and Filipino people are sanctified by the blood of both, nobly and selflessly shed upon the Philippines soil. From north to south and from east to west, the stark white crosses dot your landscape where we laid our mutual dead to sleep forever."

Stars And Stripes Upholds Camp Shows

LONDON, July 10. (AP) — The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes upheld USO camp shows and the Army's special services today against criticism it attributed to Frank Sinatra, declaring that crooner was "hardly an authority on either the military or the workaday show business."

Sinatra, who has just returned to the United States from Italy, had been quoted by the Army paper as saying in an interview that shows sent overseas underrated the soldiers' intelligence.

In "sounding off" against the performers and the special services that arrange the shows, the Army newspaper declared, Sinatra was "doing an injustice to a group of people who are, for the most part, talented, hard working and sincere."

"There have been, of course, the usual prima donnas who have flown over, had their picture taken with GIs, and got the hell home," Stars and Stripes added.

"And there have been some shiftless special service officers who felt their mission was to pursue beautiful USO girls about the theater with full-throated cries, but these freaks are not typical of either show business or special services."

'Go And Get Them,' General Kenney Says

WITH FIFTH AIR FORCE, Okinawa, July 7. (Delayed) (AP)—Gen. George C. Kenney, visiting the 35th fighter group freshly based on Okinawa, asserted today "you are on Japan's doorstep and no holds are barred now — for everybody's an enemy up there."

Gen. MacArthur's air chief explained that until now, Fifth Air force pilots have been fighting over Japanese-subjugated territory where there was danger of injuring friendly populations. Now, however, he added, "The bars are down—go and get them."

The general warned the fighter group—veterans of New Guinea, Morotai and the Philippines — that although they have thus far met virtually no opposition over Japan, they must keep a sharp lookout for the first time when older Japanese pilots, probably acting now as instructors, will take up air defense of the homeland.

Majority Approves Continued Rationing, Cuts In Food Supplies

Americans Ready To Tighten Own Belts To Feed Europe's Hungry, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—A large majority of the American people give evidence of understanding the seriousness of the European food crisis and indicate a willingness to reduce their own diets to help solve the problem.

A coast-to-coast poll finds that the typical American is not only willing to continue to put up with present shortages to help feed Europe, but also says that, if necessary, he is willing to eat about one-fifth less than he is now eating in order to ship foodstuffs abroad.

GALLUP

Washington officials as well as students of public opinion will find special interest in these facts because they are another indication that the American public is probably more willing to make sacrifices for war than its leaders have supposed.

The survey probed public attitudes on several aspects of the European food problem. The first question was designed to find out how many people think the food shortage in Europe is at all serious.

"Do you think many people in Europe will starve this year unless we send them food?"

|---|---|
| Yes | 70% |
| No | 23 |
| No Opinion | 7 |

Next the survey took up the possibility of feeding Europe without a reduction in home supplies.

"Do you think there is enough food in this country to keep Europeans from starving and still not reduce the amount people eat here?"

The majority think reductions would be necessary.

| | |
|---|---|
| Yes | 35% |
| No | 56 |
| No Opinion | 9 |

The two final questions in the survey dealt with the amount of sacrifice people would be willing to make—how many would accept continuation of present shortages, and how many would go beyond that and accept actual reduction of food supply below present levels.

"Would you be willing to continue to put up with present shortages of butter, sugar, meat and other rationed food products in order to give food to people who need it in Europe?"

|---|---|
| Yes | 85% |
| No | 12 |
| No Opinion | 3 |

"If necessary, would you and your family be willing to eat about one-fifth less than you are now eating in order to send more food to Europe?"

| | |
|---|---|
| Yes | 70% |
| No | 23 |
| No Opinion | 7 |

Reports from Europe indicate that the food situation will be more acute during the next eighteen months than at any time during the Nazi domination. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that 12,000,000 tons of food will be needed for Europe between August, 1945, and August, 1946.

Shreveport Leader Dies Unexpectedly

SHREVEPORT, La., July 10. (U.P.)—A prominent 52-year-old oilman and civic leader, Duncan Allen Brown, died here unexpectedly, it was learned today.

Born in Waco, Tex., Brown came to Shreveport in 1916 and started on the road to prosperity as a sales manager for the Gulf Refining Co. He later became affiliated with the Crystal Oil Refining company and the Brown-Mason Oil company from which position he became vice-president of the Root Petroleum company.

Sinking Of Ship In December Revealed

PARIS, July 10. (U.P.)—Thirteen American soldiers were lost and 20 others were wounded last Dec. 28 when a ship carrying most of the U. S. 15th Army's headquarters staff to France was sunk by a German torpedo or mine in the English channel, it was revealed today.

Maj. Gen. Ray E. Porter, then commander of the headquarters staff, was not aboard the ship, identified as the British-owned Empire Javelin.

The Empire Javelin sailed from Britain on the morning of Dec. 28 with 268 officers and 1,215 enlisted men aboard and had reached mid-channel at 1:30 p. m. when the explosion occurred.

Proposal To Exempt Veterans Rejected

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Citing inflationary dangers, the board of governors of the federal reserve system has repected a proposal to exempt veterans from wartime credit restrictions on installment purchases.

In a letter made public today by Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa), Board Secretary Chester Morrill said such a change might drive prices up and saddle the veterans with debts.

Eberharter had urged veteran exemption from regulation, which requires purchasers of durable goods to make substantial down-payments and complete the purchase terms within a year.

Soap Shortage Harries Nation As Rationing Threat Speeds Buying

(By The United Press)

If the corner grocer is looking more narried than usual of late, it's safe to assume that a shortage of soap, latest item on the list of wartime unobtainables, is to blame.

In virtually every city in the country, supplies of package soaps and the better-known bar soaps have virtually disappeared from the shelves, a United Press survey disclosed today. Less popular brands, however, usually are available in limited quantities.

Texas' Big Scarcity

Texas grocers reported a sharp scarcity of laundry soap.

Retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers—not to mention frenzied housewives — agreed there was a shortage. Many felt that decreased production because of a scarcity of fats and oils was a contributing factor. Others said rumors of rationing actually had created the shortage.

In Chicago, one manufacturer blamed cuts of raw materials allotments and government earmarking of the finished product. Another cited the diversion of normal civilian supplies to military and lend-lease uses. Hoarding, they said, was limited "because there's nothing to hoard."

Oversupply Of Regulations

A Washington soap maker attributed the situation to "a shortage of fats and oil and an oversupply of government regulations."

Cake sales were estimated at one-fourth and those of granulated and flake soaps at one half of last year's in Detroit, where a swollen population put an additional strain on existing supplies. Laundries reported some increased business, because washwomen were telling their customers, "no soap, no clothes."

Dealers in Denver, Cleveland, Atlanta, Columbus and Kansas City all reported a stampede to the soap counters in the wake of rumors of rationing to permit increased shipments to Europe. The soap-run eased, they added, when the Office of Price administration announced it had no immediate plans for rationing.

Own Rationing System

A Philadelphia grocer pleaded to his customers to "hold off, listen to reason and there'll be enough to go around." In desperation, he finally started his own system of rationing.

Representatives of Procter and Gamble and the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, the two largest soap-producers, said they were maintaining normal operations despite curtailed allotments and a serious shortage of tallow. They deplored the well-known "vicious circle" which they said started with rumors of rationing, followed by hoarding, and finally the need for rationing.

Liquid soaps were appearing on the market for the first time in many cities, and elsewhere dealers did a record businses in tie-in sales, frowned on by the OPA.

Home-Made Recipe

The Lincoln, Nebr., Journal printed a standard recipe for home-made soap on its women's page and recommended the use of water softener to spread supplies.

In Omaha, Nebr., the wife of a chain store manager postponed her washing a week because she didn't have laundry soap. Other housewives began using less-scarce toilet soap for their laundry and dishes.

Castile and coconut oil soaps generally were considered impossible to get.

Worse off than most, residents of West Frankfort, Ill., were faced with a lack of soap and laundry service. The Champion laundry, to which many soapless homes turned for washday relief, was operating with a reduced staff and accepting only hospital and hotel business.

Top Priority Given To Railroad Labor

DALLAS, July 10. (AP)—Orville W. Erringer, area director of the War Manpower commission, said to priority has been given recruitment of railroad labor to help break bottlenecks in movement of men and arms to the Pacific.

Erringer stated that Amarillo is the most critical bottleneck in the Southwest, with El Paso and Clovis and Belin, N. M., not far behind.

Hamilton formerly was cashier of the Roscoe State bank 16 years and vice president of the Citizens National bank in Abilene for five years before joining the state banking department. During his tenure as examiner he was located in Tyler, Corpus Christi, Abilene and Lubbock, and is widely-acquainted in Central and West Texas. A twin brother, B. L. Hamilton, is assistant vice president of the Dallas National bank and was cashier of the Lamesa National bank prior to going to Dallas. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton are temporarily residing at 2115 Broadway.

Capt. Kuykendall Put On Inactive Status

Here for several days visiting his parents before going to San Antonio to bring his wife back to Lubbock, Capt. Roger Kuykendall has been placed on inactive duty by the Army Air Forces. He was released from active duty on the point system at El Paso the past week-end.

In the Army three and one-half years, Capt Kuykendall spent more than a year overseas with the Eighth Air force in England and returned to the States about a month ago.

His wife, the former Jane Prickett, has been residing with her parents at San Antonio, while Capt. Kuykendall served overseas. They will return to Lubbock next week and Capt. Kuykendall will be associated with his father, Geo. P. Kuykendall, in the automobile business here.

Southwest Textile Mills To Be Speeded

DALLAS, July 10 (AP)—The War Production board is launching a drive to put textile mills of the Dallas district and southwest on a twenty-hour day, seven days a week basis to help meet the critical textile shortage.

'Increase of textile output is the No. 1 production problem of the southwest region," H. E. Emery, regional manager of the WPB production service department, said today.

Emery has just returned from Washington where WPB production officials were instructed by Chairman J. A. Krug to aid in increasing textile production.

Emery said of thirty-one textile mills in the southwest region, eighteen are in the Dallas WPB district and all but two are in Texas.

SLAYING TRIAL OPENS

CAIRO, July 10. (AP)—Mahmoud El Issawi, 26-year-old Egyptian lawyer, went on trial in the supreme military court today on a charge of assassinating Premier Ahmed Maher Pasha. The premier was shot to death as he left the chamber of deputies after announcing Egypt's declaration of war against the Axis last February.

Whether you fly 'em... or make the fuel that flies 'em... you learn something!

The boys who have been filling Tojo's fleet as full of holes as an old tin can will have some interesting stories to tell when they get home.

And Phillips is going to have some interesting things to tell you (and show you) too!

Because a big part of our job the last five years has been to produce the 100-octane Aviation Fuel that has kept the big boys over Berlin and Tokio. And it hasn't always been an easy job.

In some ways it has involved almost as many trials and tribulations as a pilot goes through before he wins his wings. We've built vast new laboratories and staffed them with the wisest and most experienced scientists we could find. We've built new plants and introduced new processes. In short, we've gone "all out"—with every bit of brains and brawn we have—to give our fliers every ounce of precious 100-octane fuel that could be produced!

The result—today Phillips is one of the very biggest producers of 100-octane Aviation Fuel in the country! That's a mighty important fact—and one of which we're very proud.

And it's a significant fact, too—for every man and woman who plans to drive a car after the war. Because you can bet your bottom dollar that all the experience, all the know-how, all the scientific knowledge we've gained in becoming one of the largest producers of 100-octane gasoline—will be packed into the Phillips 66 Gasoline which powers your post-war car!

When you see the Phillips 66 Shield, remember—it stands for fuels for Victory today, and fuels for better driving tomorrow.

ON KEEPING COOL

WHEN old Mister Sun climbs to his highest perch in the sky and as our wet ground dries, the humidity will break a few records here. Would you like a few pointers on taking the swelter and discomfort out of summer?

1. Start the day with a warm shower so that you will feel thoroughly clean and fresh.

2. Put on your coolest, lightest clothes so you will feel immaculate. Light clothes are high in favor because they do not absorb heat as readily as dark hued clothes.

3. Keep vitamin and mineral content high by sipping cooling fruit and vegetable juices.

4. Act and think cool and you will be cooler.

LONG BOB GOES—Hollywood has a new silhouette, which means that every Main street in the country will soon be showing the same outline. It seems that after four years of "letting their hair down," so to speak, Hollywood stars decided it must go up. Actresses were slow in adopting the upswept hairdo because there is a lot to be said in its favor. It may not be neat but, if well kept, it is pretty and flattering to a face that needs a soft frame.

As a matter of fact, the long bob was never very individual. Parted in the center, on the side or worn straight back, it was still a long bob that floated on the shoulders or in the wind. If your face can't take the upswept silhouette, you have another choice. You can wear one of the new, small page boy coiffures, tied at the nape of the neck with a narrow ribbon, making it fan shaped, or one of the new, long, pointed chignons. Colored nets and flowers, twisted in braids or curls are other styles, flattering to almost every woman.

COMICS ENTER FIELD

PREVENTION of a third world war is the theme of a feature to appear in a comics magazine prepared in cooperation with the American Association for the United Nations, which will mark the first time that a comic strip has discussed international affairs.

As you remember, one of the dreams of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was for us to determine that within the lives of our children and our children's children, there will not be a third world war. One of the most graphic ways to get across to the younger ones a plea for world organization to prevent recurring world conflicts is to portray it in those "funny books," children like so much. If you haven't stumbled over several little boys and girls seated at the base of a magazine stand, pouring over the "funnies," then you just don't go around places where magazines and newspapers are sold. The children really are sold on the colored pictures.

If a comic strip can portray the impossible feats of a super-duper man or life imagined in a jungle or under the sea or high in the air, all of which fills the child reader's mind with excitement and wondering, we see no reason why the realities of the functions of the United Nations organization in the fields of security, economic and social welfare and human rights should not be portrayed.

"PROCUREMENT" ACE

CAPT. HARRIS UNDERWOOD, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch S. Underwood of 3107 Nineteenth, won a reputation as a "procurement" ace several months ago in the Pacific area, a title bestowed by grateful enlisted men, Lorin McMullen, sports writer for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, told about it in a recent column.

Negotiating "over and beyond the call of duty," Capt. Underwood, according to McMullin's story, "became the advance man for his group simply because he could go into a newly-invaded island, acquire the use of bulldozers, road-builders, well diggers and such where others couldn't get to first base.

"Underwood did it without putting out a lot in return, too, an attribute not overlooked by his superiors. The Texan always kept his word, though; when he had to promise something in return in the future he delivered. His best stock in trade, however, was a pleasant, straight-forward manner. He could deal with all ranks with equal effectiveness."

WAC Representatives To Be Here Today

Women's Army corps representatives who will be here today to interview women eligible to join the corps will be Lt. Helen Wade and Sgt. Helene Kwraczyk who have headquarters in Fort Worth with the Army Recruiting service.

"The need for women today is even greater, if possible, than it was a year ago," Lt. Wade said. "The fact that a member of the WAC may be released when her husband is discharged and the fact that women over 40 years of age are eligible for discharge upon request accounts for a rapid decrease in the number of our corps."

Lt. Wade and Sgt. Krawczyk will be in Hilton hotel from 8 a. m. until 8:30 p. m. Wednesday in order to see any employed women who could not come through the day. Women must be between the ages of 20 and 38, with a minimum of two years high school and no dependent children under 14 years of age.

Loss Embarrassing To Chief Of Police

WESTOVER HILLS, July 10 (U.P.)—Chief of Police C. Bassham was a very embarrassed officer of the law today.

He reported without comment he has lost his police whistle, the keys to his handcuffs and—the keys to the mayor's office.

It requires, directly and indirectly, 15 to 30 tons of water to produce one pound of beef.

Greek Press Official Denies Allegations

ATHENS, Greece, July 10. (AP)—The Greek press undersecretary, Denis Zakythinos, denied emphatically today allegations by Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia that Greeks and Slavs were fleeing to Yugoslavia from Macedonia.

He said that since Greek authorities were installed in the northern provinces "after suppression of the December rebellion, there has been no emigration to Yugoslavia."

"Before that, elements charged with offenses against ordinary law, or who collaborated with the invaders or even supporters of the Elas may have fled," Zakythinos told a press conference.

Medal Given To Galveston Officer

TEHERAN, Iran, July 10. (U.P.)—The Persian Gulf command announced today the award of the Legon of Merit medal for outstanding service to Lt. Col. Bennett C. Duble of Galveston.

The award to the Texas officer was based on his services at the port of Khorramshahr on the Persian gulf—once a vital link in the supply line to Russia. The citation said Col. Duble had invented methods of adapting American men and material to conditions at the port and had improvised effective methods of discharging cargo from ships which poured into the port.

Bayonets first were made in the town of Bayonne, France, whence came their name. They were introduced in 1671.

Eldon Cole Released From Army Service

Pfc. Eldon W. Cole, son of Mrs. Bertha Cole of Lorenzo, has received an honorable discharge from the Army after serving with the 39th Infantry through the campaigns for North Africa, Sicily, Italy and France. He was released from the Army on the basis of 125 points.

Wounded twice, Pfc. Cole was awarded the Purple Heart for shrapnel wounds received in June, 1944 and an Oak Leaf cluster in lieu of the second Purple Heart for shrapnel wounds in the left leg the following September. Following surgery, he was assigned to an anti-aircraft company when he left the hospital and was with the unit in Germany when the war ended.

Now visiting his wife and son, Eldon Eugene, who was born while his father was overseas, the veteran arrived back in the States June 16 on the Manhattan.

Pfc. Cole was awarded the Silver Star, the Combat Infantryman's badge, Good Conduct medal, and seven battle participation stars to his theater ribbon. Two brothers in service are Pfc. Garland E. Cole, with the Third army in Germany and Pfc. Marlon W. Cole, with the Fourth Marine division in the Pacific.

Faith Needed For Leadership

Dr. Grady Metcalf, pastor of the First Baptist church of Temple, told members of the Lubbock Lions club at the weekly Tuesday luncheon in the Hilton hotel that suspicion is a very poor ingredient to put into any plans for peace and the United States must be a bulwark of faith if this nation is to emerge from the present conflict as a leader of nations.

"We're going to need faith as we've never needed it before," Dr. Metcalf said. "We're going to need faith in ourselves and faith in each other . . . We need to believe we can come out from under the greatest destructive power the world has ever known. . . We need to have faith in other nations as we need for those nations to have faith in us, for when a nation ceases to create faith in monetary values, then it begins to decline as an economic power.

"We need another faith as well," he declared. "We must have faith in God. It has been only through a kind Providence that we have been able to prosper and produce as no other nation has been able to produce.

Two Programs Possible

"We must remember we stand a chance of facing the most serious trouble in the period ahead of us . . We face the problem of choosing between two programs . . . We can continue our program of domination, which we have waged in this terrible war or we can choose a program of permeation.

"I believe the latter offers our only hope for an abiding peace on this earth," he said. "We have a charge to keep . . . We have a way of life to give other nations . . We must choose the way of democracy where every man can develop his own personality and his own business to the extent of his own ability."

Dr. Metcalf was introduced by Dr. C. E. Hereford, pastor of the First Baptist church, who announced the Temple minister was preaching in a revival at the church Dr. Hereford was a guest of Ed Allen, program chairman.

Bean Gives Report

Robt. H. Bean gave a short report on the recent state and district convention of Lions clubs at Abilene in which it was revealed that 40 new Lions clubs had been organized in Texas in the past year, compared to only eight other service clubs.

President R. C. Harvey announced the resignation of Dr. Marshall Harvey as secretary-treasurer of the club and the appointment of Groves Denman as his successor. Dr. Harvey, club secretary the past five years, is to become deputy district governor.

Out-of-town guests at the luncheon included: W. B. DeWitt of Fort Worth, Jack Fanning of Oklahoma City, Russell Bean of Haiti, Carroll Duke of Iowa Park, and Sgt. Bill McKinney of Brownfield.

Exile Of Nazi Staff Officers Proposed

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—A New York Times dispatch from Frankfurt on the Main said today that senior American and British staff officers were discussing a proposal to exile German general staff officers to British crown colonies.

An authoritative source was quoted as saying it is "not expected that many of these officers will be held as war criminals, nor does it seem just to persecute as a war criminal a major or even a general of the general staff who merely worked on plans given to him by a higher echelon."

The bulk of the German general staff was arrested at Flensburg in late May.

W. E. Flenniken Is Back From Overseas

Mrs. Gordon Flenniken of 2211 Fifteenth, received a phone call from her son, W. E. "Dub" Flenniken, ARM 3-c, in San Francisco Monday night informing her that he was enroute home for 30 days leave.

Flenniken has been aboard a carrier in the Pacific theater of war for the past six months and has been a part of several missions over the Japanese home islands.

His brother, Gordon, is due home at any time after serving with the 7th army in Europe. Gordon's wife, Helen, has recently been transferred from Bryan Army Air field to Fort Worth.

Mrs. Flenniken said Tuesday that she plans to leave Lubbock on July 15 to join her husband in Tucumcari, New Mexico, where he has set up a private business.

The family has resided in Lubbock since 1925, moving here at that time from Shreveport, La. Flenniken has been employed by the Connor-Mathis company of Plainview during these years, and has traveled for the firm over New Mexico and West Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Horn have leased the Flenniken home on Fifteenth.

SOLDIER KILLED

LAREDO, July 10. (AP)—Cpl Stephen A. Vosper, 25, of Toledo, Ohio, was killed accidentally while hauling airborne armament at Laredo Army Air field Monday, Col. E. M. Day, commanding officer of the field, announced today.

Senate Group Would Keep Eye On Germany

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—A Senate committee proposed today that the U. S. Congress keep an eye on German disarmament for at least 15 years, warning that the defeated nation is in better shape to fight than she was in 1918.

The report, submitted by the military subcommittee which visited European battlefields and conducted hearings, urged:

1—Complete analysis of records of the German government and its industrial setup.

2—For the next three or five years, quarterly reports to Congress by the Allied Control council on the progress of steps to prevent the German war potential from getting a start again. Annual reports for at least 15 years on the same subject.

Cottingham Cites Great Job Done In Pacific And Vast Distances

HOUSTON, July 10 (AP)—That the vastness of the Pacific was overcome by herculean naval efforts under the genius of Admiral Chester W. Nimitz while most American eyes were turned toward the German war, is the comment of Editor George W. Cottingham, editor of the Houston Chronicle, who has returned from a 20,000-mile flight to Guam and Iwo Jima at the invitation of the secretary of the navy.

Writing in the Chronicle, Cottingham said:

It seems almost presumptuous for anyone who has no more of a share in the mounting victory than to witness part of our effort from a sideline, to add any words to those which have been told about our magnificent achievements.

Tribute To Accomplishments

Yet, after a recent visit to the expansive area which lies behind our present battle lines in the Pacific, I feel constrained to contribute a few lines to those already chronicled about the situation out there.

For surely, it cannot be amiss for any observer to pay tribute to work already accomplished by our officers and men, or to reiterate that a great task has been undertaken bravely and carried out effectively.

Nor can it fail to be reassuring to the parents and wives of the fighting men to know that they have brilliant and able leadership.

Well Cared For

That, as far as the decencies of life can be a part of the trying business of fighting a war, the Americans now have them.

That hospital service is of the finest.

That food is good and plentiful.

That recreational facilities are to be found at every stopping point in the great, broad ocean.

That meticulous attention is paid to health and sanitary conditions.

That a great spirit of facing a big job and getting it done seems to be part of the code of every American in the Pacific.

Supplies Going Through

And that, in some fashion, almost miraculous, but certainly sturdily American, the weapons and supplies without which a war cannot be fought are getting to our men.

Everybody knows that the Pacific ocean is big, but does everyone realize that its surface is as large as that of all the land space of the globe, with Africa thrown in over again?

Do many realize that it is 2400 miles from Oakland, Calif., to Pearl Harbor and that when you get to the Hawaiian islands you are just beginning to get acquainted with the ocean?

That from Pearl Harbor to Guam is 4,000 miles and that even at Guam, practically 9,000 miles from Houston, you still are in the area behind the lines of the war as it now is being fought?

Even though the air is being used today for innumerable services which would not have been considered possible even a few years ago, it is obvious that most hauling, both of men and materials, must be done by ships and that, as a matter of pure mathematics, even the fastest of ships will take weeks to get from our Pacific coast, at our farthest western tip, to the great base at Guam.

This, then, is the first and paramount fact about the Pacific: It's size and the tremendous task it has been to overcome that distance.

Number Of Farms In County Show Drop

Total land in farms in Lubbock county increased from 542,662 acres in 1935 to 558,699 acres in 1945 but the number of farms declined from 2,652 in 1935 to 2,122 this year, according to the preliminary 1945 census count, Wilburn S. Patrick, supervisor, reported Tuesday.

There are three more farms in the county now than there was in 1940, the report revealed, indicating a trend toward more farms, Patrick said.

Average size of farms in the county is now 263 acres compared to 240 acres in 1940 and 205 acres in 1935, indicating that increased power farming is allowing the farmer to cultivate more acres.

Patrick also announced that Yoakum county showed an increase from 240 in 1935 and 260 in 1940 to 284 in 1945 in the number of farms. Total land in farms in Yoakum county is 447,005 acres, as compared to 401,670 in 1940 and 439,934 acres in 1935. Average size of farms in Yoakum shown in the preliminary census count was 1,574 acres as compared with 1,545 acres in 1940 and 1,833 acres in 1935.

Reports on the two counties mark the first for this area of the 1945 farm census. In announcing the census totals of farms and land in farms, Supervisor Patrick pointed out that the figures are preliminary and subject to correction. Final tabulations of farm census returns will be made by the Bureau of Census and announced from Washington when completed, Patrick said.

It has been found during search for synthetic fuels that gasoline can be made from any carbohydrate such as wood or potatoes.

Optimist Club Sees Oxygen Exhibit

Members of the Optimist club, at the regular Tuesday luncheon at Lubbock hotel, saw a demonstration of the action of liquid oxygen in quick freezing, acetylene welding and explosives, given by Ray West and Bill Hord of the West Texas Oxygen company.

Liquid oxygen was used at a temperature of 300 degrees below zero, freezing rubber tubing to such a crispness that it could be shattered by a tap on a table top; grapes were frozen, and also a banana, so hard that they fell to pieces when dropped on the floor. The two men ran a steam engine by pouring a little of the liquid air into it and froze mercury so hard that it could be used to drive a nail.

One of their most interesting demonstrations was in welding in which the instantaneous change of temperature from 300 degrees below zero to 3200 degrees above was shown. Dr. W. W. Yocum of the Texas Tech faculty was program leader. Guests for the meeting were Sam Moore of the extension service of Texas A. and M. college, of College Station, S/Sgt. Daniel N. Pope of the USMC recruiting sub-station here, Dr. C. M. Neel, Billy Sams and A. E. Quest, jr.

Delay Said Necessary For Polish Elections

WARSAW, July 10. (AP)—Premier Edward B. Osubka-Morawski of the new Polish provisional government said in an interview last night that the projected Polish national elections must be delayed until nearly 5,000,000 Poles abroad have been given a chance to return home.

The premier emphasized that he desired the elections to be held as soon as possible, but added that "until harvesting, repatriation and resettlement are finished we must not divert attention from these basic tasks."

He said he hoped "practically all" of the Poles away from home would try to return, excluding only those he termed definite Fascist and Nazi elements. He said he considered the government's welcome to embrace members of the Polish army in Great Britain.

Syrians And French Guards Exchange Fire

BEYROUTH, July 10. (AP)—Syrian gendarmes and civilians and French guards exchanged fire for an hour yesterday in Aleppo in a fresh outbreak of Syrian trouble, officials announced here today.

The announcement said both sides ignored British orders to cease fire and one British soldier was killed. Other casualties, if any, were not reported.

The principles of optometry are ancient, we know. Yet for centuries the specific application of optometric principles, common now to our everyday practice, was most elusive.

Only as scientists labored on the obvious and let the star gazer wonder at the intricate, did the good of optometry pass to the everyday usefulness of mankind.

This progress has been most marked in the past few decades. Today vision is even more important and a progressive optometric profession is making it more useful.

Your neighbor's Riversides didn't come on his car; he chose them himself . . . to replace the tires he found on his car as "original equipment"! He is one of the millions who have chosen Riversides deliberately, in preference to the brands that come on new cars . . . in preference to all other well-known makes of tires! Why? For the same reason that makes so many car owners switch to Riversides today:—

Today, Riversides are actually stronger than our pre-war tires! Stronger cords to begin with are chemically-strengthened to stay strong . . . then liquid-dipped ("welded" together) . . . next cushioned in rubber! Finally, the finished plies are cemented before vulcanizing, as an extra precaution against separation . . . to provide greater protection against dangerous blow-outs! Yes,

Big Three Meet Said Urgent Need With France Also In On Session

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press War Analyst

There never has been a more urgent need for a meeting of the Big Three or a more timely need for an extension to include General Charles de Gaulle.

The first phase of United Nations control of conquered Germany has come closer to confusion than even the most pessimistic veterans of German occupation after World war I had predicted; the imminent meeting, certainly within a week or 10 days, near Berlin, of President Truman and Premiers Joseph Stalin and Winston Churchill can alone bring order out of that confusion but not without at least the supporting approval of de Gaulle.

In Occupation Forces

France is an occupying power. French troops—and black troops at that, as though Paris had completely forgotten the political capital Hitler made out of black French forces of occupation in the Rhineland a quarter of a century ago—have reoccupied the Saar which they quit after the plebiscite only 10 years ago. The French have a very definite thesis for occupation: Russian armies on the Oder, French troops on the Rhine, forever, and Germany will be good.

Although provisions are merely for a meeting of the Big Three near Berlin, excluding General de Gaulle, Washington appears to have a much more realistic attitude. Washington dispatches, yesterday, reported that the United States hopes to have its own plan of German occupation adopted by the four powers.

Want Evidence of Faith

That plan foresees a definite five-year "good and tough" occupation followed by an indefinite but "long-term" occupation to last until the Germans themselves show good evidence of being ready to pursue the ways of peace.

In an exclusive interview with the United Press in San Francisco at the end of the conference, M. Maurice DeJean, permanent general secretary of the French foreign office, indicated however that as a consequence of the recent DeJean-Stalin conversations in Moscow, France and Russia are fully agreed on a policy of German occupation.

Stalin told DeJean that the biggest error the Allies could make was to under-estimate Germany's capacity for reconstruction. For that reason, both France and Russia are proceeding on a basis that their occupation will be as permanent as present-day politics permit anything to be permanent.

To Keep Saar Mines

M. DeJean said frankly that France intends, this time, to keep the Saar mines. At the end of World war I, France had access to the mines for a period limited at 15 years, until the plebiscite which occurred in 1935—an overwhelming Nazi victory, as was the foregone conclusion.

That claim is based on France's need of Saar coal. Unlike Ruhr mines, those in the Saar do not produce industrial coal. It does not make good coke. It is of a quality that can best be used for locomotives and other transport, and, in a pinch, for the manufacture of domestic electricity and gas.

France has been without domestic coal and has had very little electricity and household gas for the past two winters. The French have gone cold and hungry. The war has ended in a victory towards which they contributed, and their first desire is the extremely human material wish to be well-fed and warm next winter.

Production Off Now

At the peak of their production, the Saar mines could produce 32,000 tons of coal daily. Under Allied air bombardment just before the Saar was overrun by the American armies, production had fallen to barely 20 per cent of capacity. The mines now produce 8,000 tons a day.

France wants the bulk of that to keep her railways operating and thus distribute her own food resources, but the Saar coal mined under French control will go into a United Nations pool for general distribution on a scale which the war-torn railways will permit. France will get only a share, not all the Saar coal.

The return of France's strapping big black Senegalese troops to the Saar for occupation duties may be explained by the small size of France's armed white continental regiments necessitating the extensive use of her colonial army. But one of the most successful appeals Hitler had with Rhineland Germans was his denunciation of the French for bringing in black Africans over white Europeans.

French Not Squeamish

Having suffered 2½ years of German Army occupation, France is not squeamish over what the Rhineland Germans may think of occupation by black troops. There is a military need of occupying part of the German Rhineland and part of Australia with a corri... linking the two and France is more decided to make that occupation effective than bothered by racial propaganda.

France's effort to make the post-World war I occupation of the Saar gentle brought the concrete results of barely 3 per cent of the votes in the 1935 plebiscite which went 97 per cent for reincorporation into Hitler's Greater Reich.

SUICIDE VERDICT GIVEN

PORT ARTHUR, July 10. (AP) — Justice of the Peace E. L. Canada today returned a verdict of death from shock resulting from self-inflicted razor blade wounds in the death of Mrs. Lotta Vivian Nolen, 34, whose body was found in her apartment here Sunday night.

The Curtiss BF2C-1 was the first plane used for the dual purposes of bombing and fighting.

Tech Graduate Aids In China Project

Capt. D. R. Criswell, 401 West Payne street in Olney, was commander of a company in China which constructed a most "difficult portion of a petroleum lifeline to China and a story of his actions was carried in the Ft. Worth Star-Telegram Sunday.

It was disclosed here Tuesday by Dr. Leroy T. Patton, head of the Geology department at Texas Tech, that Criswell is a 1933 graduate of Tech and of Patton's department.

Criswell's actions in China, where he spanned a river with the pipeline far ahead of schedule and received commendation for his entire company, were not his first acts of resourcefulness according to Dr. Patton.

The Tech professor said that Criswell had always shown himself to be a "hustler" who had methods of accomplishing any task, no matter what the problems faced. Patton cited an instance of returning from a geology field trip and being stranded on the bare plains of this section, some 50 miles from the nearest town, by a breakdown of the automobile in which the group was traveling. Criswell merely went to work and within several minutes had the group rolling toward Lubbock once again.

Patton added that when Criswell finished school here jobs were at a premium. At the depth of the depression work for a geologist was practically nil, according to the Tech professor, so Criswell went to Olney and set up his own business and Patton reports that after a few years of hard labor and harder times the little geology industry flourished.

Criswell was still in Olney when he entered service and has been overseas for 16 months, and wears the Bronze Star.

The Grumman FF-1 is credited with being the first two-man fighter adding a tail gunner.

TELEPHONE WIRE MOVES UP

● U. S. Ninth Army wire team carries drums of wire across the Roer River in western Germany.

This picture now must be repeated thousands of times in the war against Japan.

As our armies build up in the Pacific, a vast network of cable, wire, switchboards, and telephones must go with them. Here at home, telephone factories must keep right on making and shipping that equipment.

The end of the German war brings closer, of course, the day when everyone can get a telephone without delay. But the demands of the Japanese war mean that it will still be many months before that day comes.

District American Legion Playoff To Open Thursday

American Legion junior baseball will take the sports spotlight in Lubbock Thursday afternoon at 6 o'clock when Morton and Hedley tangle in the opening game at Chapman field in the District One playoff.

The following day, Lubbock's junior nine will come back against the two visiting teams, playing Hedley at 4 o'clock, and following up with Morton in the nightcap. Both are seven inning affairs.

The three game round robin series is designed to name the District One champion for 1945, and the team that will carry the district banner into the regional play at a later date.

The winner of the tournament here will face the winner from Wichita Falls (District 2) and San Angelo (District 3) in a regional playoff. The date and site for the regional playoff has not been set.

There will be an admission charge for the games of 25 cents, plus tax, or a total of 30 cents. The three games in the tournament is expected to draw the season's banner crowd for the junior baseball season.

Last season, the Lubbock juniors went to the state tournament at Austin without a contest, but will face plenty of rough travel to reach the state tournament this year.

This season there are seven teams in the same region as Lubbock, with district tournaments scheduled at Wichita Falls and San Angelo. Efforts are being made to bring the regional playoff to Lubbock.

An elaborate pre-game ceremony is planned for Thursday afternoon, and fans are urged to come early.

Senior Golfers End First Round Of Play

First round play in the Lubbock Country club senior golf tournament were reported Tuesday night by Herbert Schroeder, club pro, with all matches in the first and second flights completed.

The matches were close all the way in the first flight, with one match forced to go 20 holes to decide the winner, while the other three were all one up battles.

H. H. Holmes went 20 holes to beat Wilkie Talbert, one up. The other matches found Amos Howard winning over Henry McLarty, H. L. Allen beat Dr. D. C. Williams, and A. A. Foster defeated Chick Garland.

In the second flight Dr. R. T. Cannon won over E. R. Howell, one up; Charles Read won over C. F. Anderson, one up; Jimmy Samson won over J. K. Applewhite, 3 and 1, and W. E. McAlister beat Floyd Bowen, 3 up.

Three late matches in the consolation bracket of the Presidents Cup matches were also announced Tuesday night. The championship was won by Morley Jennings.

The late matches reported included T. E. Patterson winning over Henry McLarty, 3 and 1, M. K. Dean winning over R. H. Bean, one up, and Fenner Tubbs winning from Jimmy Samson, one up.

One Legged Star Is Winner Over Dodgers

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP) — The national capital tonight forgot dignity long enough to howl itself hoarse at "Dem Bums" from Brooklyn as Washington's Senators won an inter-league war relief game, 4-3.

Bert Shepard, one-legged war veteran, was the winning pitcher; Ossie Bluege and Leo Durocher, rival managers, both played a couple of innings, and Babe Herman put on his old time field and base-running acts.

Shepard, who lost the lower part of his right leg when shot down over Germany, made his first pitching start for the Senators.

Shallowater To Play At Anton On Sunday

SHALLOWATER, July 10 — Shallowater and Anton baseball teams will tangle again next Sunday at Anton after the two teams staged a "killer-diller" contest here last Sunday.

Robert Sport broke up the game with a home run in the last half of the ninth and Shallowater won the game, 8 to 7. Dean Galey went the route for Shallowater and Bill Woods hurled for Anton.

A large delegation of Shallowater fans will accompany the team to Anton for next Sunday's game.

CHAMP IS WINNER

HOUSTON, July 10. (U.P.)—Texas Lightweight Champion Tony Rios, 134, Sonora, Mexico, decisioned Stanley Cieslik, 132, Detroit, in a 10-round bout here last night. Rios sent the Detroiter down for the count of nine in the eighth round.

ABC Clinches Playoff Berth

Hard hitting American Business club sluggers came from far behind Tuesday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club diamond and scored eight runs in the last two innings to nose out the Rotary club 9 to 8, and clinch a berth in the first half playoffs.

Billy Wylie, ABC maskman, redeemed himself in glowing fashion in the last of the seventh as he drove home Ronnie Kent from second base with the winning run by lining a screaming single over second base with two out and the score tied. Wylie's miscues behind the plate had permitted three Rotary runs earlier in the afternoon, but his single erased all unpleasant memories of this.

Both teams went down scoreless in the first three frames.

Gerald Hise led off with a single to begin the Rotary's fourth inning. Buddy Maher sacrificed him to second, and Whitehead flied out for the second out. Wells got a single, however, and Hise scored. Smith flied out to Strickland to end the frame.

Score Is Tied

ABC began in the fourth frame as Peters reached first safely on an error. Clark walked following two consecutive outs, Peters stole third and scored on a passed ball to tie the count at one-all.

Rotary pulled out in the fifth with a definite lead. Four errors, two walks, and finally a single were bunched for four tallies.

Coming back in the sixth, after putting the ABC's out in short order, the Rotarians bunched four more errors and three walks for their last three runs. The rally was quelled with the score 8-1.

ABC Starts Clicking

Starting slowly in the sixth, the ABC's got a rally started with two out. Sexton, hit by pitcher, was scored on two singles by Strickland and York. Guy and Kent hit consecutive hard grounders and reached first on errors; Strickland and York scoring on the plays. Billy Tatum flied out to end the rally.

Opening the rally in the last half of the seventh, Duane Peters led off with a single, and went to second on an error. He stole third and came home on a passed ball. Clark walked and stole second. Stevens, hitting for Sexton, struck out. Clark went to third as York grounded out to Gerald Hise. Danny Strickland singled, scoring Clark. Guy drew a walk. Ronnie Kent drove a hard grounder to short. Maner, momentarily fumbling the ball, threw to Hise at first, who dropped the peg. Strickland and Guy scored to tie the game; Kent went to second. It was then that Bill Wylie lined a safe blow over second base to break up the game.

Sure Of Playoff

Thus the American Business club clinched at least a tie for first place in the first half. Kiwanis and Optimists, tied for second, each have a game to play this week, making possible a three-way tie for first place.

Should the tie be three ways, the American Business club will play the Optimists Saturday afternoon at Chapman field at 4 p.m. as a preliminary to the Amarillo-Lubbock Legion game scheduled for 6 p.m. The winner will play the Kiwanis nine for the championship Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock prior to the second Amarillo-Lubbock game.

If, however, the tie should be only two ways, the play-off will be held Saturday afternoon at Chapman field.

Red Sox Romp Over Braves In All-Star Tilt Substitute, 8-1

BOSTON, July 10 (AP)—All that remained of baseball's cancelled all-star game—the feature act, a pitching-batting duel between Boston's Dave (Boo) Ferris and Tommy Holmes—thrilled a 22,809 crowd on the original Fenway Park stage today as the Red Sox defeated the Braves, 8-1, in their war fund intra-city exhibition.

Red Socker Ferris, the major's top pitcher, gave but two hits for no runs while right-handing the first three innings. He made Holmes, baseball's best slugger, fly out to center but Tommy, who has hit safely in his last 37 National League engagements, managed to collect his daily safety off Randy Heflin in the sixth inning, much to the delight of the spectators, whose contributions are expected to exceed $70,000.

Among the other highlights of the dream game's substitution were the presence of Baseball Commissioner "Happy" Chandler, a host of Boston baseball immortals and the hit young Jack Tobin of the Red Sox made against older brother Jim of the Braves.

With Mort Cooper, the Tribesmen's top flinger, ailing, Manager Bob Coleman led off with Al Javery, another sore-armer. As a result, the ball game was decided in the second inning, when the Sockers scored their first two runs on a hit and four passes, the last one coming with the bases loaded.

'Jolly Cholly' Helps Cubs Reach Top Spot

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP)—They don't call him Jolly Cholly Grimm for nothing and that may be why the Chicago Cubs are scooting nonchalantly at the head of the National League parade.

You can get knee deep in meaty statistics explaining the Bruin's recent road cakewalk—they won 10 straight and 13 of 16 Eastern starts to climb from fifth to first place—but most close observers think it's the man-behind-the-grin who did the trick.

Getting under a player's skin isn't in C. J. Grimm's book. Rather, he is the loudest rooter for a slumping performer.

It took plenty of wrath-swallowing to give out with Dutch dialect and cheerful exhortations when the faltering Cubs left home two weeks ago for their second Eastern swing in fifth place, five and a half games behind the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers.

But gag-tossing Cholly, always the funny man in the third base coaching box, kept his lads relaxed and they socked the Eastern half of the league loose at the seams. In 16 games they batted .358 as a team, thumping an amazing total of 113 runs and 197 hits.

Grimm, who'll celebrate his 46th birthday on Aug. 20, isn't joining Cub fans in mounting pennant enthusiasm.

"We'll just go along taking them as they come — game by game," he said, as the Cubs squared away for a 23-game home stand opening Thursday with a Boston Brave double-header.

Chisox Figure Ways To Reach Washington

CHICAGO, July 10 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox will be in Washington Thursday night for the opener of a three-game series with the Senators.

Manager Jimmy Dykes said tonight that Traveling Secretary Frank McMahon had solved the transportation difficulty which last night threatened to delay the Sox' arrival in the capitol city.

Nelson Ties For Medalist Honors

DAYTON, O., July 10 (AP)—Byron Nelson, the man with the miseries in his back, made his "last chance" good today and scored a spectacular eagle three on the 17th hole to wind up in a tie with Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., for medalist honors at the 27th annual professional golf tournament.

Nelson, the Toledo umbrella man, blistered the Moraine Country club's course for a 68 as he and Revolta finished the two days of qualifying play with 138 strokes each.

Both Ex-Winners

Revolta, who won the PGA in 1935, had 18-hole rounds of 68-70, just the reverse of Nelson's performance. Nelson won in 1940.

Sgt. E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of Dayton's Wright Field finished a stroke behind with 139 and in the 140 slot were Denny Shute of Akron, O., the first day leader and Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia.

The fireworks, however, came from Nelson, who last night had to take osteopathic treatments to ease the pain of a pulled back muscle.

Moving to the 17th tee, Byron was two strokes behind Revolta. "I said to myself, 'this is my last chance'," Nelson related.

Flashy Comeback

The 17th is a 455-yard, par five affair and Byron, following his drive with a four wood shot, laid on 30 feet from the pin and then rolled in the putt for his eagle three which deadlocked him with Revolta.

On the 430-yard 18th, Byron's second shot was 40 feet from the cup and his putt, which would have sent him out in front of Revolta, stopped inches short of the hole but in a perfect line.

"Man, that one would have gone in if I had just hit it a little harder," Nelson said.

And about that aching back.

"I don't care if I had shot a 65, I don't bee how I played," the husky native Texan reported. "It doesn't seem to affect my play but it really hurts."

He said treatments taken last night failed to relieve any of the pain and he figured he'd just go ahead and suffer out the remainder of the week.

Water Shift Offers Break For Fishermen

AUSTIN, July 10 (AP) — One flood gate in Buchanan dam was open today with prospects that fishing would improve in Inks and Travis lakes, the game department said.

The lower Colorado river authority ordered a Buchanan gate opened to drain off water entering the lake from the San Angelo and Brownwood watersheds. Normally this operation improves fishing in the lower lakes, Travis and Inks.

Water entering Lake Buchanan will raise the level to the maximum safe operating level for the first time in three years, the LCRA said.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY

Committee Cites Seven Objectives

WASHINGTON, July 10 (U.P.)—Rep. Stephen Pace, (D-Ga), today took over chairmanship of the House food committee and announced the group will continue to act as watchdog over the nation's food situation.

The committee was headed by former Rep. Clinton P. Anderson, (D-NM), until he resigned from the House to become secretary of agriculture.

Calls For OPA Action

Pace issued a statement today calling on OPA to institute action to increase the nation's supply of meat. Immediate adoption of the provisions of the so-called Patman amendment which would remove certain quota limits on slaughterers would bring this about, he said.

Pace said the committee will continue its work with these seven objectives in mind:

1. Cooperation with the secretary of agriculture in putting into effect earlier committee recommendations.

2. Better coordination and cooperation among food control agencies.

3. Increased production, aimed at thwarting black markets and hastening the day when supply will equal demand and controls can be removed.

To Probe Black Markets

4. Investigate and combat black markets.

5. Study all cases of waste, spoilage and excess purchases by various federal agencies and make remedial recommendations.

6. Seek to eliminate regulations which discourage production, retard distribution and limit supply.

7. Work toward adoption of the principle that the American people, next to the armed forces, should have first claim on food supplies, except in cases where shipments must be sent abroad "to meet the calls of humanity."

Rains Over Texas

hours, touched scattered areas of Texas Tuesday.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnes of Ogden, Tex., was drowned as she was being carried from a stalled motorbus and was swept away by a flash flood on Buck creek, five miles south of Paducah.

At Royse City, in Rockwall county, Highway 67 on both sides of the town was covered by high water, but highway department trucks were piloting traffic through.

Cottle County Damaged

Rain measuring from two to five inches, soaked Cottle county, severely damaging some new crops and carrying away topsoil.

Joe Brashear, bus driver, gave this version of the child's drowning to Carl Guin, manager of Abilene and Northern Bus lines, when he returned to Abilene today:

Brashear was attempting to start the drowned-out motor when a sheet of water hit the bus, in which only Mrs. Burns, her daughter, another passenger and Brashear were riding. Brashear wrapped the child in his raincoat and got off the bus. The mother fell and pulled the others down into the water with her. The child wriggled out of the raincoat and was washed away.

Three Hold To Fence

The three adults, Brashear said, were washed into a ditch but held to a fence until Kenneth Chapman, who lived nearby, threw them a rope and pulled them to safety.

Rains ranging from a half to three inches fell through most of West Texas yesterday and Monday.

In the Dunn community near Abilene, half the cotton crop was marked off as a total loss following 14.68 inches of rain since last Friday. A two-inch rain there yesterday ruined many cotton terraces and much of the crop was under one to two feet of water.

Snyder, with 5.24 inches of moisture since July 3, added 2.52 inches yesterday. Eastern Borden county received 1.24.

Mitchell County Damage

The month's total rainfall at Colorado City was boosted to 10.43 inches with an additional .90. Ted Roensch, county farm agent, said many earthen dams and terraces were washed away and some replanting will be necessary.

The Jayton-Aspermont area had a heavy rain Monday. Stinking creek north of Aspermont was reported to be running higher than at any time in 40 years.

Rain reports showed 1.06 at Aspermont; Jayton and Peacock 1.65; Swenson 3; and Claremont 2.

Heavy showers were widespread in an area just below the caprock in West Texas. Water flowed into the Aspermont city lake for the first time in seven months following a 1.06 inch fall. Rotan reported 1.25; Baird .75; Stamford 1.45; Rule 1.75; Sweetwater 1.96; Knox City 1.65; Munday 1.26; Coleman .77.

Gainesville Gets Wind

Gainesville reported a seven-hour 1.75 inch rain which had Elm and Pecan creeks straining at their banks. A strong wind accompanied the downpour.

Wheat harvesting, now in its final stages, was halted by heavy rains in the Wichita Falls area, but good tank water and pasture land was assured. Wichita Falls reported 1.29 inches early today. Decatur had 4.30 inches in 48 hours.

A steady, day-long rain at Dallas measured .73 inch. Fort Worth reported .79; Plainview .82; Lubbock .62.

Patrolman Injured In Line Of Duty

KANSAS CITY, July 10 (U.P.)—The call to duty landed Patrolman George Ownes in St. Lukes hospital today in a very serious condition.

Owens motioned a car driven by W. L. Hutchinson, operating without lights, to pull over to the curb. While writing out a ticket, an ice truck driven by Charles Yaeger rammed into the parked car. The impact of the collision hurled Owens 38 feet.

Charges were preferred against Yaeger and he was released on $100 bond. Hutchinson was subpoenaed to appear as a witness against Yaeger.

Americans Nearly Double Bond Quota

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Final figures in the Seventh War loan showed tonight that America piled up the fabulous, all-time record amount of $26,313,000,000, nearly double the $14,000,000,000 quota.

Henry Morgenthau, jr., announced the final results in what he called his "valedictory" speech as secretary of the treasury.

The E-bond goal of $4,000,000,000 was narrowly missed.

Sales of E bonds totaled $3,976,000,000. But this was above any other drive. The previous E bond record was $3,187,000,000 in the Fourth War loan early in 1944.

Sales to individuals were $8,681,000,000, compared with a quota of $7,000,000,000.

Morgenthau, speaking over the radio, thanked all war bond workers for their cooperation throughout seven bond drives and declared:

"I know that your cooperation will be continued with the same devotion and zeal under the able leadership of my successor, Judge Fred Vinson. There is still a titanic task before us."

Five Nazi Fanatics Hanged For Slaying

FT. LEAVENWORTH, Kans., July 10. (AP)—Five former members of Rommel's famed Afrika korps were hanged today on a temporary warehouse gallows at the U. S. disciplinary barracks, for the murder of a fellow prisoner.

The executions were the first of foreign prisoners of war ever held in the United States.

Termed "fanatical Nazis" by Army authorities, the men were sentenced to death Jan. 25, 1944, by a general courts-martial at Camp Gruber, Okla. The Germans were charged with fatally beating a fellow countryman, Johannes Kunze, a war prisoner interned at the Tonkawa, Okla., branch compound.

Their only request, that they be allowed to go to the gallows in the uniform of their country, was granted.

Enemy 105-millimeter howitzer positions, trucks, barges and buildings were blown up by a score of 13th Air force Liberators and Mitchells giving continued close support to the ground troops.

Australa's Ninth division patrolled south of the previously occupied Miri oil fields on Borneo's northwest coast without meeting any Japanese, the communique said.

Three enemy freighters were sunk off Kuching off western Borneo as Allied air power continued close support of ground advances. Kuching is the major Borneo airfield nearest Singapore.

A single Japanese plane "ineffectively" raided the Brunei bay area, the communique reported.

Vanishing Husbands Worry Aussie Girls

SYDNEY, Australia, July 10. (AP)—United States Army legal and welfare authorities today were concerned over a new war problem—what to do about Australian girls finding their marriages to American soldiers vanishing along with their husbands.

Reports said a large number of Americans returning to the United States were obtaining divorces not recognized by Australian law. Additionally, authorities were checking cases where husbands were said to have simply disappeared.

For an Australian woman to be recognized as divorced under present Australian law, she must go to the United States at her own expense and this is impossible in many cases.

Church Orders Grave Marker For Truett

DALLAS, July 10 (AP)—A monument eleven feet high and eight feet wide to be placed at the grave of Dr. George W. Truett, Dallas minister and Baptist world leader, has been ordered by officials of the Dallas First Baptist church and is expected to arrive in December.

The stone, a replica of the First Baptist church carved in its center, will be placed in Hillcrest Memorial park, where the body of the late evangelist who served the church 47 years as pastor, has been moved.

after the attacks opened—there had been no determined enemy resistance in the air.

Whole Story Not Told

The Navy made it clear that the achievements were far from chronicled, being based on admittedly "preliminary reports" of the biggest fleet stroke of the war against Nippon.

Nimitz reemphasized that the raiding Third Fleet of Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, which included some of the biggest carriers and at least four battleships, had the advantage of "complete tactical surprise."

At the same time the fleet admiral disclosed that control of Army-based planes in the Ryukyus has passed into the hands of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

That vaults MacArthur's base of air operations within 325 miles of Japan and more than 1,000 miles above Manila.

Carrier and land based planes, totalling more than 1,500—they included a huge force of B-29s—roared over the enemy homeland Tuesday to give the war-battered country its heaviest day of aerial drubbing.

Six Small Craft Sunk

Nimitz reported the fleet search planes, which remain under the admiral's command, sank or damaged six small enemy surface craft Monday off Honshu, main island of Japan, and Korea. MacArthur in his communique had listed 10 enemy vessels sunk or damaged in strikes extending from Formosa to Java.

Fleet Air Wing 18 planes, based in the Okinawa area, have sunk 50,000 tons of enemy shipping and damaged 57,000 tons since beginning operations in April over enemy home waters, Nimitz said. Fourth Marine Air Craft wing planes have sunk 5,000 tons and damaged 50,000.

The admiral reported that on the day of the carrier and Superfort strike at Japan, Liberator bombers of the tactical air force, based on Okinawa, struck Kikai island in the northern Ryukyus.

The day before, "a substantial force" of the Liberators bombed Omura airfield on Kyushu, southern Japan, and started several large fires.

Phosphate Plants Pounded

Search planes bombed two phosphate plants on southern Korea Monday.

The fleet hitting Japan was called the "greatest mobile striking force" of history.

A naval spokesman who described the mighty force in Washington said the attack followed the usual pattern of softening up the Japanese as a prelude to further blows.

He announced the assault was the 53rd large scale attack by fast Pacific fleet carrier task forces on enemy aircraft and shipping installations since Jan. 1, 1944.

Not a single Japanese plane had been sighted by Adm. William F. Halsey's trouble-hunting ships six hours after the carrier planes started their surprise assault.

Tokyo's Account

(Japanese imperial headquarters issued a communique through Tokyo radio saying that from 5 a. m. to 1 p. m. Tuesday—4 p. m. to midnight Monday, U. S. eastern war time—about 800 of the carrier planes had been counted. But there was no hint of counter action.)

The carriers, protected by battleships, cruisers and destroyers, steamed contemptuously close to Japan't mainland island of Honshu, Associated Press correspondent James Lindley reported from one of the vessels.

He said the first planes took off from Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carriers, part of Halsey's fleet, at 4 a. m. and that up to 10 a. m. no Japanese planes or ships had come out to resist the bold attack.

Target Area Clear

Preliminary reports of returning fighter, dive bomber and torpedo bomber pilots indicated the Japanese were not even putting many intercepting planes into the air over the target area.

Lt. Comdr. Cliff McDowell of Turlock, Calif., one of the first aerial observers to return to McCain's flagship, said he saw no enemy fighters in the air.

Some were seen by American fighters escorting his torpedo plane, McDowell told Jack Mann of Mutual Broadcasting company in a radio interview.

Similar reports were made by other fliers, who centered their attacks on Japanese airfields.

Bombing weather over the target area was described as perfect by Lindsley. He said the area, enclosing between 72 and 80 airdromes, extended about 40 by 50 miles northeast and south of Tokyo.

Brownfield Motor Firm Burglarized

Aproximately $500 was taken Monday night in the burglary of Ford Motor company in Brownfield.

The money was taken from an unlocked safe, according to Bill Mabray, chief of detectives, and Texas Ranger Norvell Redwine, who assisted Sheriff Joe Price in the preliminary investigation. Nothing else apparently was taken.

The building was entered through a rear window from which the glass had been broken.

Neutrals Evacuating Port Of Singapore

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10. (AP)—The Japanese-operated Batavia radio said today that Singapore's Swiss community and Arab population were preparing to evacuate the fortress city, which is being readied to resist an expected Allied invasion.

Some 3,000 Arabs will move to towns farther north on the Malay peninsula in August, said the broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications commission.

Rescue Of Soldiers To Be Attempted Soon

NARSARSSUAK, Greenland, July 10. (AP)—Col. Eugene Rice, commander of the Greenland base command, said today a Coast Guard cutter would attempt this month to relieve and evacuate 11 American soldiers trapped in a bleak weather-radio outpost.

The men have been supplied by air since Jan. 8, when a huge snowslide buried their stores, equipment and all but one of their buildings in Skjoldungen, tiny outpost on the east coast of Greenland.

A statement from the command said:

"It is believed that the treacherous pack ice will have broken up sufficiently to permit the sturdy Coast Guard vessel to crash through about the middle or end of July."

The men who will be relieved of their hazardous duty included: T/Sgt. George C. Trout, 35, Greenville, Tex.

Shiploads Of Sugar Ease Texas Situation

DALLAS, July 10. (AP) — Two shiploads of off shore sugar have been brought recently to Texas and Oklahoma, B. E. Trigg, OPA region five rationing officer, said today.

He said OPA district offices had reported there "seems to be some improvement in the supply situation at the moment."

Unless there were last minute changes in plans distribution of the portion of the last shipment for wholesalers and industrial users in Texas was to Houston, Amarillo, Brownsville, San Antonio, Temple, Waco, Corpus Christi, Lufkin, Wichita Falls, Denison, Sherman, and Ranger, Trigg said.

Some of the earlier shipment of 30,469 bags went to Oklahoma, but its principal distribution was to Paris, Tyler, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Beaumont, Denton, Denison, and Brownwood, the rationing officer said.

Bertucci Is Under Mental Observation

SALINA, Utah, July 10. (U.P.)—Pvt. Clarence V. Bertucci was under mental observation today after admitting that he sprayed machinegun bullets on a group of war prisoners while they slept, killing eight and wounding 20, because he "just didn't like Germans."

Col. Arthur J. Ericsson, spokesman for the branch prisoner camp near here, reported that Bertucci had been unable to account for his shooting orgy Sunday night, during which he fired a mounted gun from the guard tower where he was on duty.

Ericsson quoted Bertucci as saying that on several occasions he had been tempted to turn the tower gun on the prisoners and was "not at all sorry" for what he had done.

"He just didn't like Germans," the colonel said.

16 Texas Offices To Aid Veterans Planned

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP)—Sixteen offices are planned for Texas by the Veterans administration, Senator Connally (D-Tex) was informed today.

Offices will be established as soon as space can be occupied and personnel trained. Each will have one contact officer and a clerk-stenographer.

They will be located at Corpus Christi, Sherman, Palestine, Lufkin, Longview, Marshall, Huntsville, Bryan, Brenham, Victoria, Laredo, Del Rio, San Angelo, Odessa, Big Spring and Vernon.

FUNDS FOR ELECTRIC CO-OP

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP) — The Rural Electrification administration has allotted $100,000 for the construction of 66 miles of lines to serve 467 members of the LCRA electric cooperatives in San Marcos, Washington county, Tex., Rep. Lyndon Johnson said today he had been notified.

extension service representatives, Mrs. Dora R. Barnes, clothing specialist, and Edith Lawrence, food preparation specialist.

Mrs. Barnes, who predicted that people will buy more ready-made clothing in the post-war era, told women that clothing has increased in price 41 per cent since 1939 and 14 per cent in the last year. "To cope with this problem of stretching the dollar, one must have a knowledge of fabric quality, construction, design, color, need and care of clothing, and style," she added.

Outlining the reasons for clothing shortages — Mrs. Barnes informed class members they could assist in alleviating this situation by careful selection and buying. "If when women purchased a garment they would inspect the label, make certain of the quality of the fabric, size and construction they would confront fewer clothing problems."

High Nutritional Level

Miss Lawrence told homemakers that "people on the South Plains have as high a nutritional level and as can be found in Texas, but they need to eat more grains cereals and fruit." She based her remarks on studies made by the rural home research division of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station conducted with 400 families in Northwest Texas.

"Science has shown us the amount and kind of food necessary to nourish the human body, but it is dependent on you homemakers to use that knowledge if it is to be valuable in improving the health of your family and the nation in general," Miss Lawrence reminded the class. In discussing recent nutritional findings, Miss Lawrence also referred to investigations among Texas school children which revealed their diets are inadequate in milk, fresh fruits, and vegetables.

Today's Schedule

C. R. Heaton, emergency horticulture assistant of the extension service, is scheduled to speak at 8:30 a. m. today in the agriculture auditorium. He will discuss "Food Production — Vegetables" and at the same hour Dr. W. W. Yocum, department plant industry, will meet with another class, room 224 agriculture building, to discuss "Food Production—Fruits."

Sam Moore, poultry husbandman of the extension service, will speak to a class of homemakers at 11 a. m. in room 115, agriculture building. Moore has been engaged in poultry work since 1932, having joined the extension staff Jan. 17, 1944.

Recognition Service

Recognition services, following a 12:30 luncheon to be held in women's dormitory No. 1, will conclude activities of the short course, given under the auspices of the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. in cooperation with the division of home economics and agriculture at Tech.

Miss Kate Adele Hill, district agent of the extension service and general chairman of the short course, will preside. Margaret W. Weeks, dean of the division of home economics and co-chairman of the course, will discuss "Your College and Your Home."

Huge Nazi U-Boat Finally Surrenders

MAR-DEL-PLATA, Argentina, July 10 (AP)—A 700-ton Nazi U-boat which apparently had cruised the Atlantic for 18 weeks surfaced today inside the Mar-Del-Plata breakwater within sight of a few startled Argentines and surrendered to the commandant of this submarine base.

Her bemedalled young commander, Otto Wermoutt, and his hungry crew of 54 clambered from the submarine to an Argentine tender and handed over a small handbag containing the U-boat's insignia. All were placed under custody.

Youth Is Convinced Crime Doesn't Pay

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 10 (U.P.) — Sixteen-year-old Donald Bates, Olathe, Kan., is a firm believer today that crime doesn't pay.

Caught breaking into a motor car company last night, Bates attempted an escape while his capturer was telephoning the police. Bates dived through an open window ,nearly servering his arm.

Police caught the youth trying to make a break for freedom and today Bates is in the University of Kansas hospital, a much wiser young man.

Governor Predicts More Beef This Fall

AUSTIN, July 10 (U.P.)—Texas' ranchman Governor Coke R. Stevenson predicted today that there will be more beef on tables this fall as a result of changed regulations.

Stevenson endorsed as good common sense the reported plan of U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson to permit unlimited slaughtering.

"Slaughtering has been the bottleneck right along," Stevenson said. "I have received letter after letter from Texas communities complaining that the regulations prevented adequate meat supplies. Many small butchers have quit because of the regulation and thrown an extra demand on others who have been limited by quotas.

"There is no shortage of cattle. If there were, the 'black market' never could have developed to the size it has acquired."

Boy Says He Was Set Afire By Playmate

NEWARK, N. J., July 10. (AP)—Police Inspector Frank O'Neil said today Newark police were investigating the story of five-year-old Frank Tate, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tate, who told his parents last night that a playmate had tied his hands and feet with rope and set him afire with burning paper last March 25.

The child previously had been unable to give a coherent story because of his condition, police said. He has had 11 blood transfusions, six skin graft operations, and numerous penicillin treatments, and doctors say he will remain in city hospital at least nine more months.

Mrs. Tate said last night that the boy had been playing in front of the house and disappeared. She said she heard him scream, and, running to the front window, saw him in the arms of an unidentified man, who told her he found the boy with his coat on fire.

Army Institutes Use Of DDT Insecticide

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 10 (U.P.)—The Army today instituted use of DDT, powerful insecticide, to prevent possible spread of malaria in the middle west through infected troops returning from the tropics.

Post officials reported War department approval of an attack on Missouri river bottomland mosquitoes by air bombardment with the widely heralded chemical.

Spraying by plane over some 1,600 acres of swampy land got underway last week but officers said it was too early to determine results.

They emphasized that while no case of malaria of local origin yet had been reported in the area, the swamp lands constituted ideal breeding places for disease-carrying mosquitoes which would become dangerous on contact with previously infected malaria victims.

Newman Invests Army Savings In War Bonds

FORT WORTH, July 10. (AP)—At a time when he was thought to be dying of diseases contracted in a Jap prison camp, Cpl. James E. Newman put his Army savings into war bonds, his father disclosed here.

"When I went to Santa Fe to see James in the hospital there he had just received $360 of the money which had accumulated for him on the Army payrolls," O. F. Newman said.

"He asked me if I needed it and when I told him I didn't, he said for me to buy war bonds with it because it might help other servicemen that way. I put $15 with it and bought him five $100 bonds."

Corporal Newman was sent home suffering from tuberculosis and malnutrition from which army doctors said he could not recover. Now doctors give him a chance to live.

Next: "Rainbow Cotton"

USSR Is Raising Six-Color Crop

ALTHOUGH the vagaries of West Texas weather have forced our South Plains cotton empire to take a sort of "production vacation" this year, it never-the-less is of interest to farmers, ginners and business men, alike, that Russia is now producing cotton in six different colors.

That may sound like something for Robert L. "Believe-It-Or-Not" Ripley's drawings, but it is true, just the same.

Cotton fields in the USSR are yielding fiber, dyed by nature, in yellow, brown, green, blue, pink and "smoke," which latter, we assume, will be easier recognized by feminine readers if called "taupe," by male readers labeled "mole gray."

Russia has not yet gone into colored cotton on a big scale, but if current experiments are successful, is likely to do so. Last year the Reds raised 500 tons of varicolored cotton; this year will raise a slightly larger crop of it.

Commenting upon the nature-dyed cotton, "Women's Wear," a New York trade publication, hails the arrival of colored cotton as a blessing. It says technical tests of newly-developed raw colored cottons show that, in addition to saving the cost of dyeing they also produce longer fiber and improved quality yarn. The natural color tends to deepen rather than fade under the action of soap.

If "Women's Wear" is right, and there are widespread domestic and world demands for nature-colored cotton, we here in the U. S. South can do anything the Russians can do —and do it both better and on a larger scale.

Maybe it won't be long before we of the South Plains will be riding through a country which, in the Fall, looks like a re[illegible]tion of the rainbow!

Help From The Philippines

AS A result of the liberation of the Philippines, Americans may begin noticing relief from a few shortages before the end of the year. D. M. Yap, chairman of the board of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce, says shipping for Philippine products will become available this month and a large movement will start from the islands shortly afterward.

Copra and abaca are the two principal products that are ready for export. Copra is dried coconut meat, of which the United States consumes huge quantities. With copra available, shortages in many lines of vegetable oils will be relieved. Abaca is manila hemp fiber and from it rope and cordage are made.

Filipino leaders are eager to restore their sugar plantations as soon as possible, to resume trade with the United States on the largest possible scale. An American commission proposes that this trade be on a free basis for three years. Filipinos counter with a demand for free trade for twenty years.

Whatever the agreement on the length of the free trade period, it should be made as soon as possible.

Completion of such agreement will spur Filipinos to quicker action and result in the U. S. receiving, earlier than otherwise, some relief from war-born shortages.

The Jap Radio "Grows Up"

JAPANESE press and radio comments on the crisis facing the island empire as the American advance continues, and the American air offensive grows in power, have been remarkably candid in recent weeks. Long standing habits of expression have changed notably under the imminent threat of invasion.

Time was when Japanese propagandists were accustomed to try to hide certain realities under euphemisms. The war with China was called an "incident" and the world was told many times that Japan action in China was inspired only by friendship for the Chinese people, Later on, the Japanese resorted to plain falsehoods in reporting the results of battles with American forces. More than once the United States Navy was destroyed, according to the Jap radio, and Japanese defeats were customarily painted as great victories.

But the Tokyo radio no longer hides the peril facing Japan. When American bombers devastate enemy cities, the Japanese grant that industry will have to be dispersed or even transferred to the Asiatic mainland if the threat to war production is to be met.

But there is still plenty of poison mixed with the truth in Japanese outgivings. For example, it is obvious that the war lords would like to convince Americans that it will be necessary to exterminate the Japanese people to bring this war to an end. They are working constantly along that line.

But there are indications that the instinct of preservation is beginning to make itself felt. More Japanese surrendered on Okinawa than in the entire Pacific war before that campaign.

Therefore, it is not outside the realm of imagination that we may force unconditional surrender of Japan sooner than we hoped for a year ago—and, what is more important—without having to pay a blood price which will go along with any major land invasion of the Jap home islands.

XIX

Early in April we still owed the bank $150. Our business had been picking up with spring, but the money had gone out as fast as it had come in. The roof had to be repaired, the tank had to have a new lining. We had all stopped talking about going home.

My father worked very hard and even sent out monthly bills. My mother's smile grew more and more determined. Though they were very polite and very kind to each other, we sensed for the first time in our lives a barrier between them.

That barried concerned Mr. Cutter. Right after my mother had found the oil stove empty, her attitude toward him had changed visibly. She became quite sharp.

"The spittoons, Mr. Cutter. You've forgotten to clean them."

"These chairs look very dusty."

"The telephone! Didn't you hear it?"

When there was pumping to be done, she herself went to get him. What was more, she stayed right in the kitchen while, with each hand wrapped in a handkerchief, he swayed listlessly backward and forward, hardly moving the handle.

One day she noticed that the inkwell had disappeared from the desk in the office. At first she thought that one of us girls had taken it and neglected to put it back.

We hadn't. We couldn't imagine. We would look.

We searched everywhere.

"A thing like that hasn't just dropped from sight," she said when we made our reprot.

"The paperweight did, Mama," I reminded her.

She began to look, too. We followed her from place to place. "Tisn't there." . . . "Tisn't there." At the end of 20 minutes she was ready to give up.

"Never mind," she said shortly. "There's a bottle of ink up in the parlor. Get that."

After that she gave up prodding Mr. Cutter and herself took over the work of the office, sweeping, dusting, winding the clock. No matter where she was when she heard it, she came running to answer the telephone. Once my father found her emptying spittoons. He looked miserable, but he didn't say anything. He was just as kind to Mr. Cutter. Just as considerate.

Mr. Cutter's naps lengthened. His yawns became more frequent. Hi-Ho-Hum! Hi-Ho-Humm! Sometimes, coming out of a clear sky, they sounded fierce and frightening. Now that no one reminded him, he never did a bit of pumping.

We could feel the barrier between my father and my mother rising higher and higher.

Things were building up in the kitchen, too. Mrs. Guptill complained constantly about Ada. "Some days that girl don't even act likely," she declared. "She's about as much good as a last year's crow's nest." She fussed, too, about the stove. Benjamin hadn't been able to change it, for he was away all day, hauling gravel for the road crew. Once in a while she would claim that she could catch the odor of kerosene.

My mother never acknowledged this odor. All houses smelled of kerosene, she said, and would smell of it, too, just as long as there were lamps. But every now and then we would catch her sniffing. Two or three times we came upon her in unexpected places.

"What are you doing, Mama?"

'Oh, just looking for something."

We might have been more curious had not a really exciting event lain in the offing.

Since the beginning of the year the newspapers had been printing stories about a comet which would appear in May.

As the time approached, the papers began to remind us that comets had often portended momentous things. A comet had appeared after the death of Caesar. One had sailed, languid and heavy, through the skies before the London Plague; another, swift and furious, before the Great Fire. This comet was Halley's, king of them all. It had whirled through the heavens before the birth of Christ. It had hung suspended over Rome before the death of Agrippa. It had flamed over the Battle of Chalons, where Attila, the Hun, bowed down before the Roman Actius. It had lighted the battlefield of Hastings. Now, on its twenty-eighth appearance, it would make a transit across the very face of the sun.

The superstitious began to speculate as to what we might have in store. The country was at peace. We had no princes to dethrone, no tyrants to vanquish. Perhaps a great pestilence, someone suggested. ("What kind might it be?" they asked my father. "Weak-mindedness," he told them tersely.) Perhaps it was intended only as a warning, some said. A warning against men who were trying to fly in machines. Or against women who were demanding a right to vote. Some thought it might be a warning against hobble skirts and bloomers.

The magazines, too, had a lot of comet talk. The scientific ones told us that Halley's cycle was approximately 75 years. It would be visible to the naked eye around May 10th in the east, two hours before sunrise. We could see it first at night on May 18th, when it would pass the sun's disk. Munsey's assured us that there was not one chance in a million that any one of us would live to see this happen again. Even Methuselah, the Independent reminded us, had never witnessed what we would witness.

We girls could hardly wait until May.

Firm Purchases 52 Gregg County Wells

TYLER, July 10 (AP)—A $2,000,000 oil deal was announced here last night by P. G. Lake when the firm of F. G. Lake, Inc., purchased 52 wells from the Joe Long Drilling company of Longview.

The wells are situated in the Meredith survey of Gregg county in the eastern part of the field. The purchase gives the Lake firm 112 producing wells, making it one of the largest independents in this area.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

ELINOR LINOYE LEE, 1½ years old, was chosen Queen of New York's Chinatown at the Chinese Community club's annual baby parade and field day last week.

So that she might properly pose for her picture, Elinor's ice cream cone was temporarily taken away from her and a silver loving cup put in her hand for the benefit of photographers.

BRANDEIS

So, with tinsel crown on her head and cup in her hand little Elinor's picture was taken—showing her yelling at the top of her voice for the ice cream cone which meant much more to her than crowns or cups.

David Chung, age five, on the other hand, who had been chosen "king," posed proudly with crown and scepter in his navy-blue sailor suit. And when his three-year-old sister, Betty, who received a doll as the best-dressed girl in the parade, posed for her picture, he beamed with pride—and condescension.

* * *

Often, when I get a bit fed up on the artificialities and shams of life, I go to the children for a return to fundamentals.

Elinor Linoye Lee knew that an ice cream cone tastes mighty good. A loving cup and a crown meant nothing to her. You can't eat a loving cup, you aren't allowed to play with it—so what good is it?

But when you get to be five years old—like little David Chung—you begin to know the importance of symbols, such as scepter and you become aware of the pleasant warmth of the limelight.

I was very much impressed when General Eisenhower said the other day that children have no nationality and that he did not believe German kids should be penalized by hate because their parents did wrong.

* * *

WOULDN'T it be a wonderful thing if children could grow up into adolescence and maturity, acquiring all the benefits of education and experience, yet retaining that wonderful frankness, naturalness and complete lack of artificiality of childhood?

Loving cups and crowns—no good, says little Elinor.

But to us grown-ups, loving cups and crowns mean as much—and social glory and wealth and power and acclaim and publicity and all the other phoneys that made the little Chinese baby yell with disgust and that make us adults shout with joy.

It may be a very good idea for all of us who are so anxious to teach the children and to guide them into our ways of living to learn something from them instead.

So much that is good and fine and real is lost on the journey from the cradle to the gravel

Roosevelt Boys On Spot

Congress To Probe Their Deals

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

DEMOCRATIC leaders on Capitol Hill decided at a recent private conclave to investigate the financial deals of two Roosevelt sons—James as well as Elliot—from the very day their father was elected President of the United States.

Although they hope to show that FDR had no knowledge of his youngsters' apparent attempt to capitalize on his position, they intend to get to the bottom of the whole business.

In addition to Elliott's borrowing of $200,000 from John A. Hartford, head of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, they have heard of other radio, soft drink, oil, insurance and PWA construction transactions reported to have netted more than $2,000,000 to the boys when they were less than 30 years old and comparative amateurs in the field of finance and promotion.

TUCKER

The reaction to these disclosures within the House Ways and Means committee and the Senate Finance committee is one of intense indignation. Prominent administration men refuse to believe that the late President would knowingly permit his family to "use him," and they hope to "use" him, and they hope to demonstrate his utter unawareness of the goings-on about him.

It may be noted here that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who ran against the late Mr. Roosevelt in 1944, had most of this information in his District Attorney files. But he obtained the data as a public prosecutor, and did not believe that he had a right to use it.

Moreover, top GOP strategists thought that the revelations might be regarded as a partisan smear, especially as FDR was then engaged in managing the war and laying the basis for permanent peace.

* * *

SILENT: One member of Congress who cannot be convinced that President Roosevelt knew or approved of the Hartford loan to Elliott is the indirect author of the exciting drama. He is Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, sponsor of the anti-chain store measure aimed at such concerns as the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company.

The Patman bill was drawn by the late Louis Brandeis, then associate justice of the Supreme court, and Justice Robert H. Jackson, then assistant Attorney General and now American prosecutor of Axis war criminals. FDR got a great deal of his social and economic philosophy from them, and the trio were spearheads of legislation designed to restrain Big Business.

Patman conferred at the White House with President Roosevelt about the same time that Elliott obtained his loan from the A. & P. executive. The talk eventually centered on his pending measure. Leaning across his desk, the Chief Executive said in an earnest voice:

"Wright, I am very strong for your bill. It is a healthy measure. If these greedy, piratical chain gangs have their way, and keep on with their killing of small business, there will not be any future in this country for people like your sons and my children."

Until Ways and Means ferrets out all the facts, the only evidence that FDR urged John Hartford to lend $200,000 to the immature Elliott is the word of Caruthers Ewing, A. & P. lawyer. The other participants at the conference where the loan was negotiated, and which FDR is supposed to have approved by telephone from Warm Springs, were Elliott and Mr. Hartford. So far both have remained silent.

Incidentally, congressional leaders do not want to be forced to quiz either Elliott or Mrs. Roosevelt, who, as a mother and a semi-official personage, should have known of these family affairs. But unless they step up and volunteer their testimony, they may be called as witnesses.

* * *

MYSTERY: The most puzzling phase of the Elliott-Hartford transaction to veteran congressmen is why the late Rep. William Irving Sirovich of New York was chosen, allegedly by FDR himself, to dig up money among his rich friends to finance Elliott's radio promotion.

Sirovich was a short and altogether unimpressive individual; he won notice largely by wearing a flower in his lapel every day he attended sessions, which was seldom. He was suave, smooth and overfriendly. Although a physician, he had not practiced for years. He was a political entrepreneur picked up by Tammany Hall. He had a fine flow of oratory, although more flowery than factual.

But he had contacts with the wealthy in New York. His friends say that he enjoyed doing good deeds; they picture him as a political Boy scout. But they add that he always expected some sort of repayment.

Sirovich was, in effect, an innocuous and inconspicuous figure on Capitol Hill None of his friends dreamed that he was an intimate of the White House, despite the undisputed statement that the President asked him to do a $200,000 good deed for Elliott. Here may be a cue, however:

One day, when Wright Patman was attacking chain systems in urging passage of his bill, Sirovich asked the Texan to yield.

"You have assailed 'chains' in this debate," interjected the New Yorker. "Will you please name one 'chain' you have in mind."

"Yes," replied Mr. Patman. "I have in mind the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company."

That may have been a helpful tip—and warning—to John Hartford!

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

IN an apparent attempt to make us show our hand, Tokyo radios and newspapers have been predicting a landing on the China coast as a follow-up to naval attacks on the home island of Sakhalin.

Most commentators assume that eventually such an undertaking will be necessary in order to assemble a huge amphibious force for the invasion of Japan — even as near-by British Isles were the concentration point for the Normandy expedition.

However, Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the 7th Fleet, announces that the Navy does not need bases any farther away from Nippon than those which we now possess. Spokesmen for the Air Forces also report that they have sufficient sites for airfields.

Military experts maintain that such opinions do not rule out the seizure of Chinese ports. Our objectives in the Far East are not only to put the Japanese homeland out of commission through blitz and invasion but also to get the Chinese back on their feet. They can then: 1. Help drive the Japs from Asia. 2. Emerge from the war a strong, friendly power.

Recent lend-lease orders appear to be the tip-off that the United States intends to strike directly at the continent. Contracts call for an especially large amount of railroad equipment. This seems to mean that we are aiming at ports which are also rail terminals.

* * *

CANTON: As this is the typhoon season, a great offensive would be handicapped by rough seas off landing beaches. Even in favorable weather, certain other factors may limit us to a few likely invasion spots.

The interior of China has always been relatively inaccessible to commerce; that is why the country is so backward in many ways.

Her good harbors, except Shanghai, are ringed by mountains. Traffic is chiefly by river sampans or coastal junks. Silk, lacquers and lichee nuts can be moved over narrow trails but howitzers cannot be trundled west by wheelbarrows or GIs by sedan chairs, the present modes of conveyance.

To really help Chiang's armies we must obtain deep harbors connected by tracks to the interior. Shanghai probably would be ideal. It is near enough to Hirohito's homeland to be a key concentration area and is linked to the interior by rivers, rail and dirt roads. But the Japs lately have been strengthening their garrisons there.

A Jap high official urges the Jap people to count their blessings. And they'd better hurry, while they still have a few left.

Side Glances --- By Galbraith

"Some of the women in the club like to boast—if they start comparing how many war bonds they have, just say we've got them stacked all over the house!"

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—What is going to be done with the nation's great war plants?

This has become the most challenging question of the day as production of war implements begins to slacken, as workers lose their jobs, as returned soldiers return looking for work.

An outstanding symbol is the giant bombing plant at Willow Run, near Detroit, operated by Henry Ford, because it was the biggest and most expensive of aviation plants—it cost $90,000,000 — and because it now has ceased production. The last bomber rolled out a few days ago.

STOKES

At the peak 40,000 persons were employed at Willow Run. Now there only between 3,000 and 4,000 engaged in repairing bombers.

Eleven thousand workers from that plant are in the Army. They can't come back to their old jobs, for the old jobs are not there.

Willow Run is only one of such plants. There are scores of others all over the country which are slowing down and eventually will be idle.

* * *

Plants Must Be Utilized

The public has a stake in these plants. Twenty billion dollars was invested in new plants and expansion of existing plants for war. Of this, about three-fourths was government money, that is, money that is, money which came from the public in taxes.

The Truman administration has taken the position that these plants must not get into the hands of big monopolies to make them bigger, nor be acquired by big interests merely to be put out of operation with the object of limiting production and controlling prices. There are reports that some big business interest have such objectives.

The plans must be utilized if everybody is to have a job who needs or wants one.

* * *

LABOR is keenly interested in the use of these plants. It is interesting and perhaps significant, that while government seems to have no clear-cut policy, and business is worrying, labor has come forth with a concrete program for immediate use of war plants as a means of making a start.

It is interesting, too, that it comes from Willow Run, itself.

This is the plan, already announced, for setting up two government corporations similar to TVA. One would supervise manufacture of household equipment, the other, railroad equipment, at war plants which otherwise would remain idle.

The sponsor of this program is Bomber Local 50, United Automobile Workers of CIO, of Willow Run. The union, now virtually a phantom union with its members scattered far and wide, had $50,000 in War bonds in its treasury. It voted to use this to promote utilization of Willow Run. Its first project was publication of a pamphlet embodying its proposal which was prepared by Walter Reuther, a vice-president of the union.

* * *

Plan Is Worthwhile

Walter Reuther may be remembered as author of the highly controversial "Reuther plan" for conversion of automobile plants to war production back before Pearl Harbor. It provoked widespread debate and helped pave the way for eventual action.

This new proposal will be just as controversial, but it should at least serve to stir up public thinking and debate on this problem which is beginning to hang heavy over the country. It is a challenge to industry and government. Mr. Reuther and Bomber Local 50 deserve credit for bringing this issue to the attention of the country.

* * *

THE PAMPHLET goes into detail on the need to use these plants to provide jobs, sets out a comprehensive plan for starting and financing the program, and contains up-to-the-minute statistics on these plants, their locations, the investments in them, and points to the ready market for both household and railroad equipment.

The proposed government corporations would be authorized to lease the plants to private manufacturers for operation, operate them directly for the government, or lease them to producer cooperatives.

The title of the pamphlet "Are War Plants Expendable?" was inspired by a remark of Henry Ford grandson of the auto manufacturer, that Willow Run is a casualty of war, "expendable as a battleship." It is interesting and provocative reading, and should start something.

Tokyo Newspaperman Criticizes Officials

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10. (U.P.)—A prominent Tokyo newspaperman today criticized Japanese officials for minimizing the loss of Okinawa and other Pacific islands, Tokyo radio reported.

The enemy broadcast, recorded by United Press, was a lengthy resume of an article which appeared in today's Mainichi Shimbun. It was written by Soho Tokutomi, whom Tokyo called the dean of Japanese journalists.

Tokutomi, according to the broadcast, admitted the loss of Okinawa was a "serious blow to Japan." He said that despite the losses suffered by the Americans and a consequent disruption of Pacific strategy, the U. S. learned a lesson "which is bound to prove valauble in future operations against Japanese forces."

"To be frank, we must admit losses as losses and blows as blows and then muster up our courage and strength to find a way to overcome the present crisis," Tokutomi was quoted as saying.

Russell Bean Visits From Haiti On First Trip In Five Years

Back in the States on his first vacation in five years is Russell Bean, who has been employed on a sisal plantation in Haiti the past 12 years. He is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Bean, 1614 Nineteenth, and other member of his family who reside in Lubbock.

Frozen on his job back in 1941 when sisal fiber was placed on a priority just below rubber after Pearl Harbor, young Bean has been away from his post as field superintendent at the plantation for no more than two consecutive days since that time. He is employed by La Plantacion Dauphin, S. A., an American corporation.

Went There In 1933

Young Bean went to Haiti in September, 1933, after his graduation from the agricultural division at Texas Technological college.

The South Plains of Texas is a far cry from the tropical climate of the island but only a matter of hours by air, Bean having flown to Houston on his return this trip. Going on to Corpus Christi, he came to Lubbock by bus.

Natives of Haiti scracely know there's a war on and care less, Bean says. The majority of the people of the island are negroes and the war has had little effect on the drousy natives of the tiny republic with the exception of increased activity on the coffee, sugar and sisal plantations. A gigantic government project on the development of the cryptostegia plant for rubber production which cost approximately $13,000,000 also increased the wealth of the natives, the majority of whom are small farmers.

Little rubber production was gained through development of the milk-weed type plant, Bean said.

Coffee A Major Crop

Coffee is the major crop of the island and thus Haiti has the disadvantage of a one-crop country; national and coffee trade prosperity are almost one.

Sisal plants are somewhat like century plants, Bean says. They resemble the bargrass on the South Plains except the leaves weigh approximately 20 pounds instead of only several ounces as is the case here. It takes three years cultivation to bring a plant to the harvest stage.

The raw fiber is shipped to the U. S. for production into rope, binding twine, matting, rugs, etc.

Bean works with eight other employes on the plantation and all the labor is done by the natives. Three of the boys are from Texas, but one, a former Marine from Houston, is now on his first visit here since 1928. He has even acquired a native wife and children and cares little about ever returning to the States.

Asked how long he intended remaining there, Bean merely shrugged his shouders and said it "would be a dirty trick now to leave with all the work there is to do." Since his employment there, he has acquired considerable Lubbock county farm land and eventually plans to return to make his home.

The plantation on which he is superintendent is near Cap Haitien, on the north coast of the island near the border of the Dominican Republic. Average rainfall for the area is 45 inches annually but it may rain as much as 80 inches one year and 15 the next, Bean said.

Most any day of the year the temperature is in the 80s and 90s, he said.

Removal Of Reich War Capacity Urged

WASHINGTON, July 10. (U.P.)—A Senate subcommittee warned today that Germany is now "better prepared to implement her plot for world conquest" than after World war I, and recommended ruthless elimination of the Reich's capacity to wage war.

At the same time two of the subcommittee's members suggested that special Allied observers keep close watch on the Germans to see that they don't build up a new war machine. A "watchful eye" policy, they said, would eliminate the need for a prolonged military occupation.

Based On Investigations

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Harley M. Kilgore, D., W. Va., based its report on on-the-spot investigations in Germany and testimony of government officials at open hearings here.

The report said Germany is trying to hoodwink the world into thinking she is "completely crushed." But in reality, it said, German industry, far from being knocked out, could readily attain and surpass their previous war production level" if given a short period for repair.

Despite wartime destructon, the senators said, Germany probably would have had her synthetic oil industries rebuilt if the war had lasted six months longer, and would have been sending V-bombs to smash New York.

TO CONTEST WILL

LONDON, July 10. (AP)—Maj. Richard Lloyd George, eldest son and successor as Earl of Dwyfor to the late David Lloyd George, filed notice today to halt probate of his father's will, in which he was left without legacy.

BUYING BUOYS STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Investment cash continued to buoy the stock market today although many recently bulging leaders were stalled by light selling.

Selected rails, steels, utilities and pivotal industrials were in front from the start. Best gains running to a point or more were reduced in the majority of cases at the close. Transfers of 940,000 shares compared with 800,000 Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .3 of a point at 66.9, its third successive comeback.

American Telephone dropped two points net after touching another eight-year peak. At highs for the move were American Water Works and United Fruit. Sears Roebuck was up ¼ and, after the final gong, it was announced shareholders would be asked to vote on a proposed 4-for-1 splitup of the stock. Ahead were Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Western Union "A," Armour, Westinghouse, General Electric, International Harvester, American Car and Foundry, Philip Morris, Boeing and U. S. Gypsum.

Losers included North American, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Standard Oil (NJ), United Aircraft, Pan-American Airways and Montgomery Ward.

Bonds improved but ended well under the day's tops.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, July 10 (AP)—Cotton futures rallied into new seasonal high ground today under demand stimulated by the low government cotton acreage report issued today.

Mill buying was aggressive in the near months with New Orleans and commission house demand centered in the later positions. The July 1945 position, which has been nearly liquidated, moved counter to the general market as a few selling orders met an absence of support.

After reacting 80 cents a bale July closed 5 cents a bale higher with the balance of the list 70 to 80 cents a bale higher.

Early Invasion Unlikely Despite Terrific Battering Of Japanese

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

A few weeks hence any such concentrated air blasting of Japan as that which now headlines the war news would be an almost certain sign that American invasion was close at hand.

Both the scope of the raids, involving an estimated 2,000 Army and Navy planes of all types, the targets picked, enemy airfields, and the sustained fury of the attack would point that way.

SIMPSON

There is every reason to doubt, however, that American redeployment from Europe has yet reached a point where major amphibious operations could be undertaken or will do so for some time. Nor are weather conditions now suitable for attempting any long overseas jump by ground forces, and weather probabilities will be an all-important factor in the timing of invasion moves whether against Japan direct or in China.

Take Weather Break

Early reports from the massive air attack by teamed up Army-Navy craft indicate it may have been launched to take advantage of a foreseen weather break. That it was calculated to knock Japanese home air power out of action as a cover for some other impending move to intensify the blockade encirclement of Japan appeared wholly probable.

Pending that, it seems possible that the great air raid was a preliminary to a further stepping-stone advance on Japan in the Ryukyu chain. Recently Tokyo broadcasts were full of reports that American air and naval forces were feeling out defenses in the Amami group north of Okinawa.

"Peace Feeler" Effort

There are other possible objectives. At the moment that attack was the big news from the Pacific theater, for example, acting Secretary Grew of the State department was releasing his statement that "purported (Japanese) peace feelers" have been used in an effort to stir policy dissension in this country and between the Allied nations.

The statement came as President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Stalin of Russia were about to get together for their Big Three conference.

If the question of Russia's ultimate role in the war in Asia comes up there, the fact of that 2,000-plane preliminary to the utter air blasting of Japan could be important.

De Gaulle Said Not To Be Candidate

PARIS, July 10. (AP)—Two government officials, who claim to know Gen. De Gaulle's intentions, said today that he would not be a candidate for the new national assembly which the French will select at a general election Oct. 14 and expressed doubt whether he would align himself with any party.

Political circles considered it likely, however, that the new assembly would exercise its power to "draft" De Gaulle, the president of the present provisional government, for office.

The fate of the bi-cameral system of government is expected to be at stake in the general election, the first in France since before the war, when the voters decide whether they wish to discard the constitution of 1875, under which the third republic was established.

Disagreement May Delay Aviation Bill

WASHINGTON, July 10. (AP) — A $500,000,000 federal aid airport construction bill stood in the middle today of a Senate quarrel over which committee should handle aviation legislation.

As a result, the measure for which many states and municipalities are pressing may face a delay of several weeks. Senate leaders already have decided that it should not be brought up until after action on the United Nations charter and the Bretton Woods monetary agreements.

The quarrel is between the Interstate Commerce committee, headed by Senators Wheeler (D-Mont), and the commerce committee of which Senator Bailey (D-NC) is chairman. Each contends it should handle legislation dealing with domestic aviation.

Lewis E. Pierson Is President Of M-K-T

DALLAS, July 10 —Lewis E. Pierson of New York is the new president and director of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad company of Texas, it was announced today.

Pierson — who already was chairman of the board of hte parent company, the MKT railroad—was chosen at a special meeting of the Texas line's board of directors late yesterday, it was disclosed.

He succeeds the late Matthew S. Sloan.

Pierson arrived in Dallas on an inspection tour after stops at Denison and Wichita Falls yesterday.

Hlm. Warden, newly-appointed vice-president and general manager, was elected a director to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the late F. W. Grace.

Texas GI Helps Solve Ice Shortage At Base

WASHINGTON, July 10 (U.P.)—The War department saluted a Texas GI today for his part in solving the ice shortage at a tropical base in the Philippines with a jeep engine and some scrap lumber.

The soldier is Pfc. Roy W. Sewell of Coleman, a refrigeration man before the war.

He and two other GI's, the War department's bureau of public relations said, made an ice plant out of a four-cylinder jeep engine and scrap material.

The ice plant is making life worthwhile for members of the air transport command's Southwest Pacific wing base unit in the Philippines.

Shortage Of Ice In Shreveport Acute

SHREVEPORT, July 10. (U.P.)—The ice shortage in Shreveport, is more acute than in the summer of 1944, city officials announced today.

Mayor Sam S. Caldwell said the city refuses to sell water to ice plants that ship their output out of the city.

Although householders are already complaining of loss of food because of being unable to find ice, one plant has notified customers that a rationing plan of 25 pounds to a customer will go into effect immediately.

Bill Presented For Unemployment Aids

WASHINGTON, July 10 (AP)—Legislation to authorize postwar unemployment benefits up to $25 weekly was introduced today by Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House ways and means committee.

Passage of such legislation was requested recently by President Truman as an aid to the reconversion from war to peace.

Doughton told newsmen he was introducing the legislation "by request." He said the committee would meet Wednesday and consider whether to hold hearings.

It has been reported, contrary to popular belief, that the mortality rates among whites in many of the southern states is very close to or even below, the national mortality average.
