State Capital News

By Vern Sanford

Legislative redistricting reared its ugly head suddenly and formidably for Texas' House of Representatives. A U.S. Supreme Court decision invalidates the carefully-stuck-together reapportionment act of 1965 for representative districts.

This unexpected court action has changed redistricting from a routine cleanup chore into a major task. It could very well mean the end of the political life for some representatives and possible shaking of House unity.

Court found population variance among representative districts up to 26 per cent) too great to meet its one-man-one-vote standard and sent the 1965 districting plan back to Houston federal judges for check.

Representatives had figured all that was necessary this year was elimination of the 11 florid districts criticized by the Houston federal district court. Now, they are faced with wholesale shuffling of lines to equalize population discrepancies statewide.

Speaker Ben Barnes acknowledged "It is a difficult situation."

Big city lawmakers said they would introduce a bill to give Bexar, Dallas and Harris counties one more representative each (high court held they were entitled to that) and adjust other variances.

Sensing that congressional reapportionment also might be trucked down, redistricting acts in this area were introduced by Reps. R. L. Vale and Jack Johnson of San Antonio and Rep. Frank Cahoon of Midland.

LIQUOR BY JIGGER—A bill to legalize sale of liquor by drink in Texas was introduced this week.

Reps. John Field and Dick McEckack, both of Dallas, are house authors. Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso is the Senate sponsor. Highlights of the bill are:

Open saloons (banned by constitution) are defined as places devoted exclusively to sale of liquor for on-premise consumption. Bill would legalize mixed-drink permits for qualified hotels, private clubs, restaurants and lodges—businesses or organizations NOT engaged exclusively in the business of selling liquor.

Measure would authorize mixed drink sales in some 122 counties where on-premise consumption of beer and wine and package store sales already are permitted. Provision is made for local elections in these areas on specific issue of mixed drinks. Failure of election would not affect status of other alcoholic beverages. In other areas, affirmative vote would be required for mixed drinks.

Drinks would be subject to five-cents-an-ounce tax, plus two per cent sales tax. Retail drink permits would cost $1,000 at state level. Cities and counties would assess fees of $500 each. Beverage servers would pay an annual fee of $12. Private clubs in wet areas must operate under the same regulations as retail drink establishments and pay the permit fee. Those in dry areas will pay a special registration fee and a 10 per cent gross receipts tax.

Texas Liquor Control Board would administer permits and enforce the law.

TIME MARCHES ON—Legislators had time on their hands and their minds as House State Affairs Committee conducted the longest hearing of this legislative session on the bill to outflow daylight saving time in Texas.

Committee heard witnesses for nearly seven hours, until after 2 a.m., arguing both sides of the proposed act by Reps. Will Smith of Beaumont and Ralph Wayne of Plainview.

Federal Uniform Time Act of 1966 will place all states on daylight saving time from May to October unless a state's special legislation exempts it.

Lining up in favor of the bill were restaurant and theater owners and the farm bureau.

Opposing it were radio and television stations, investment bankers and some newspapers.

STATE KINDERGARTEN—Sen. Don Kennard of Fort Worth is sponsoring a bill to provide free public education for five-year-olds, with the state sharing the expense with local school districts on a 50-50 basis.

Kennard said the program would cost $34,500,000 for the first two years and that 50 per cent of the five-year-olds would attend classes next year, 60 per cent the second year and as many as 80 per cent by 1970-71.

"A kindergarten program established under rules set up by the Texas Education Agency, is the most vital step Texas should take in improving our school system," the senator said. "There is abundant evidence that six years is too late an age to start children in school."

A. G. OPINIONS—Proposed Medical Assistance Act of 1967 would authorize medical care benefits to inmates of state mental hospitals, under new state-federal "medicaid" program, says Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin. However, inmates will remain ineligible for old age assistance benefits.

In other opinions, Martin concluded that:

A prisoner who received a suspended sentence under the old criminal code may not have his sentence reduced or terminated under provision of the new code.

A bill to provide benefits to survivors of firemen and law enforcement officers killed in line of duty cannot be made retroactive.

It is not within the discretion of a trial court to stay an order of the Department of Public Safety suspending a driver's license or motor vehicle registration.

Girl Scout Week March 12 to 18

For those who are about to throw in the sponge and join the cynics who see little hope for the future, the week of March 12 to 18 may come as a reminder that youth, hope and high ideals are ever-present. These seven March days are officially designated as Girl Scout Week. The theme of the Girl Scouts' 55th birthday is: "Values to Hold—Words to Explore." The values are still those instilled by the founder of the Girl Scouts, Juliette Gordon Low. The young ladies of the Scouts now, as then, represent the highest ideals of character, conduct, patriotism and service. The worlds they explore involve the home, community, nation, other cultures and other lands.

In this day when skepticism and materialism are rampant and many young people are rebelling against restraint of any kind, the importance of such organizations as the Girl Scouts takes on a new meaning. The three million Girl Scouts represent a mighty force among American youth—a constructive force that may come up with some meaningful answers to today's problems for all young people.

The Girl Scouts and Girl Scout Week deserve the unqualified endorsement and support of every adult U. S. citizen.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

THE ANGLES

In these modern times, many of us are overly suspicious. If we observe someone performing a good deed, if someone we have known for a long time suddenly appears friendlier than before, we're apt to say, "I wonder what his angle is..."

We even have a few angles of our own. We build false friendships with individuals we feel can help us in business, or in social circles. We aren't as nice as we should be to good friends and acquaintances because we feel they can do nothing for us.

We should examine our thoughts and our actions, each of us, with a view toward eliminating all unnecessary angles. Angles are not nearly so important as we believe them to be.

In truth, we can make more friends, keep our old ones, and probably achieve greater heights of success in all endeavors if the attitude of Christian charity is made our daily approach to living.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Guest Editorial

Reprinted from the Nocona News AND SO, WE PART COMPANY?

The News editor has been a strong supporter for Governor John Connally since the governor's first political race. We have admired his courage to stand for states' rights, for local self-government as opposed to centralized national government, for so many other things that have been good for our state. But now, we part company with the governor. We doubt if he will notice that we are no longer a supporter of his but that is the situation.

Why Governor Connally would take a stand for legalizing liquor by the drink we do not pretend to know. We can understand his statement that the so-called "private clubs" are abusing their privileges and actually flouting the law, but to throw open the sales of mixed drinks to all is hardly the solution to such a problem. That, to us, is like cutting off your nose to spite your face.

Adding to our disappointment is his suggestion that the $15 million in taxes the liquor by the drink is expected to bring is one reason for the move. Surely some things are worth more than money. If we are to let the need for tax money guide us on our legislation with no thought of moral standards or right principles, we might sink to the place of the church during the dark ages when indulgences were sold right and left to anyone who had the money to buy. Of all the reasons, or excuses, for legalizing liquor by the drink, the tax reason is the least logical.

Certainly most of us are aware of the subterfuge under which most private clubs operate. There is no doubt that they circumvent the law and actually sell liquor to "members" who are no more than a casual passer-by. But it seems to us the solution to that problem would be the dissolution of the clubs. There is actually no need of such clubs. They serve no good purpose. If the Legislature would repeal the law permitting the clubs to operate, we would have a solution that would be much more effective than legalizing liquor by the drink.

Statistics compiled by the Texas Alcoholic Narcotic Association reveal these facts:

The sale and use of a product is increased as the number of outlets increases. Consumption of alcohol is about 80 per cent higher in states having liquor by the drink than it is in states with package sales only. These

Save on Food

It may be only pennies you save on each of these items, but those pennies make up dollars over a period of time! Try them.

Save food by refrigerating or freezing promptly. This is particularly applicable to perishables like meat, poultry, fruit and vegetables.

Serve foods properly cooked so they will be eaten. Good recipes, double-checking while preparing the food and timers will all help any homemaker to be a better cook.

Don't buy more than you need. Make your menus, then the market list so you know exactly what you want. Try to do shopping without the youngsters if they incline to impulse buying.

Most people overeat, so serve less on the dinner plate. Those who want more can always have seconds. You can save money on food plate waste.

Don't let leftovers accumulate and spoil. Plan on their use. Stale rolls, muffins and biscuits can be reheated by sprinkling with water, covering and heating in oven, for example.

figures come from the annual statistical review of the Distilled Spirits Industry, in other words the distillers themselves. So if Texas votes to have liquor by the drink, consumption of alcohol can be expected to increase 80 per cent.

Repeated surveys have shown that at least 50 per cent of the fatal highway accidents can be traced to drinking drivers. A Colorado survey of 2,975 fatally injured drivers showed that 61 per cent had been drinking and 58 per cent had blood alcohol levels of 0.05 per cent or higher. In Iowa highway fatalities rose 20 per cent to 30 per cent after liquor by the drink had been legalized.

The crime rate in states with liquor by the drink is higher than package only states by 232.7 crimes per 100,000 population. In Texas this means that liquor by the drink would bring 24,433 more crimes per year. These statistics come from the FBI.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I had my eye on a boy. He said he liked me and I said that I liked him, because I do. Then he started liking someone else. When I found out about it, I asked him and he said that he has always liked me and never would go out on me. The next night was Saturday and I went to a movie. I saw him there with the other girl. I got in a fight with that girl over him. Now he likes both of us. What can I do now?"

OUR REPLY: He has probably always liked both of you. No doubt he is also enjoying things as he sits back and watches two girls fight over him.

If you girls engaged in your little difference of opinion at the movie, you are both foolish and it is likely that the people observing enjoyed your performance more than they did the activity on the movie screen.

The best advice we can give you is to not get too serious with any boy. Don't think that a boy you like is the only one in the world and don't expect him to like you and not like anyone else. And, of course, learn to control your emotions.

If you have a home problem you need to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, Community and Personal News Service, Pampa, Tex.

Two hundred pounds of potato salad and 200 pounds of cole slaw along with fruit, beans and barbecue sauce will be served. Your favorite home-made pies, coffee or iced tea will also be served.

Make a date for Sunday, March 12, at the Columbus Club, Ward and Buckler Streets in Pampa.

Ours seems to be the only nation on earth that asks its teenagers what to do about world affairs, and tells its golden-agers to go out and play.—Julian F. Grow in Worcester, Mass., Gazette Mistakes are only missing the target. Failure is when we stop shooting. We may fall down several times but we are never out until we fail to rise. The first sign that we are going down for the last time is when we say that someone pushed us.

When we get down to the goal post and the Great Scorer puts down the final count, it may not be so important whether we won or lost, but how we played at the game of life. It will be important whether we left the wood pile a little bit higher than we found it.

Coming down the final stretch it won't matter so much how old we are, but rather how we are old. Years may wrinkle the skin but if we still have courage and enthusiasm we will have fought a good fight.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

WHICH HOUSE IS YOUR CASTLE?

Three centuries ago, an English judge proclaimed that "a man's house is his castle."

Almost two centuries ago, the Fourth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution forbade an "unreasonable search" of a private dwelling.

And today, the safety of a person's house from governmental intrusion still ranks as one of the most distinctive hallmarks of a free land.

But which "house" is the law talking about?

Obviously it means a house that you own and live in. And it includes a house or apartment that you occupy as a tenant.

Summer cottage? House trailer? Hotel room? All these, too, since they are places of dwelling, ordinarily share the constitutional guarantee of privacy.

The protection may also reach beyond the house itself. Courts have held it to include a householder's adjacent garage and a farmer's nearby barn. In both cases, the courts felt that the constitutional shelter should cover all areas reasonably within the ambit of family life.

Does this mean that the home is a privileged sanctuary for crime? Not at all. A house may indeed be searched under proper circumstances—for example, if the police first obtain a warrant, or are in the process of making a lawful arrest.

Safety Council Seeking for Hero

Somewhere in rural Texas lives a person who is due a hero's award. He or she, adult or youth, may be a member of your family or one of your neighbors.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council is now seeking that individual and you can tell the council where he or she lives and about the deed performed. The individual being sought may have rescued another person from a burning building, saved a child from drowning or performed an heroic deed of another nature.

Whatever the deed, the council would like to recognize and show their appreciation to the one considered by a selection committee as most typical of the nominees.

The council will present to the person selected their Rural Heroism Plaque.

Nominees must come from a rural area or from a town of less than 2,500 population. It is easy to make the nomination. Just submit a narrative covering the heroic deed and include the details, such as the full names of all persons involved and news clippings and pictures if they are available.

Mail the entry before March 10 to Rural Heroism Safety Award, c/o Joe Smotina, Safety Director, Texas Farm Bureau, P. O. Box 489, Waco, Texas 76703.

Jim Stevens of Texas Tech, Lubbock, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stevens, over the weekend. Also visiting in the Stevens home Sunday were Mrs. Jack Blaylock and children of Pampa.

FOR THE FAMILY MANAGER

ITEM: The culinary uses of bay leaves are numerous. They impart an excellent flavor to meats, potatoes, stews, soups, sauces and fish, making them a chef's favorite the world over. They are indispensable in pickling, and in the manufacture of vinegar.

ITEM: Keep your house plants away from radiators, but guard them against freezing on cold nights especially if they are near windows.

ITEM: Water-thinned paint products, used as recommended, can be expected to last as long as high-quality oil paints. The ability to be applied to damp surfaces is an advantage of water-thinned coatings. This does not apply, however, to solvent-thinned primers.

ITEM: To get the most for your food dollar, keep alert to what your market is featuring. Buy featured foods in quantity — if you can use them and if storage space allows. But, always plan menus with nutritional needs and family food preferences.

WHEN A BUSINESSMAN TRAVELS

... or when he lunches downtown, for that matter, can he keep his dietetics as efficient as he keeps his business? If not, why not? If so, why?

Let's tackle those questions in order.
The answer to the first one is a definite, as they say in the armed forces, AFFIRMATIVE.
Here's how it can be done.

He may have to skip the two martinis, for the sake of holding down his calories, of which he doesn't need too many while working at a desk, unless he takes the advice of Professor Steinhaus, who suggests, perhaps with tongue in cheek, that the desk worker should run, not walk, to the water cooler and the washroom, and should leap from his chair instead of struggling out of it. Well, anyway, part of the plot is to hold down those calories at lunch time, not only for weight control, but to make it easier to keep awake and up-and-at-em between two and three p.m.

Concentrate On Salads
The next item on the agenda—no businessman can function without an agenda—is what shall he eat? He needs protein and vegetables (for vitamins and minerals), and he doesn't need too much carbohydrate or fat. So the hot sandwiches immersed in gravy, the cream soups, and the french fries need to be handled with discretion. Better to concentrate on salads. Here one encounters the contemptuous brush-off, designating these as rabbit food. Perhaps. But consider the rabbit. It is light on its feet, does not develop a paunch, eludes its enemies with considerable success, and multiplies in geometric progression.

Sceptics have suggested that the rabbit is a sissy who couldn't punch his way out of a paper bag. Maybe so, but he has a terrific wallop in his hind legs, which have sharp claws, as any boy knows who has had rabbits and hasn't learned to keep them from extending their hind legs with force.

Oh, lest we forget, rabbits don't drown their vegetables in high-calorie salad dressings, rich in fats.

Try Open-Faced Sandwiches
The salad, adorned with julienne of ham, turkey and cheese, provides the necessary protein, and makes a tasty and satisfying meal. The open-faced sandwich with meat or cheese, a pickle and a slice of tomato or a dish of cole slaw, makes a nice lunch, too.

Add a glass of milk, whole or skim or butter, depending on your waistline, and you have a nutritious lunch, satisfying and not paralyzing. It lets you work without nodding.

Dessert? Fresh fruit in season or sherbet fills the bill.
Probably few businessmen will read this column, but a wife could call her husband's attention to it—or, could she?

Rattlesnake Derby At Mangum, Okla.

The Mangum, Okla., Chamber of Commerce has announced the second annual Rattlesnake Derby to be held at Mangum on April 7, 8, 9. Plans are underway to operate an Antique Flea Market this year in connection with the rattlesnake hunt. This, together with a program of special features, is planned to provide interest and entertainment for the entire family.

The Antique Flea Market will be a "first" for the Southwest Oklahoma-Texas Panhandle areas. Local sponsors have been in contact with dealers from other areas and interest is mounting. More than 75 dealers are expected to be showing. The Flea Market will be held around the town square and will be open to the public. Families are invited to come to browse or to buy.

Cash prizes and trophies will be awarded hunters catching the largest, smallest, most pounds and most snakes. A marked snake, worth $25, will be released in the hunt area this year.

TAX QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Do I add the 6 per cent tax surcharge mentioned by the President in his State of the Union address to what I owe on this year's return?

A—No, the surcharge must be approved by Congress before it becomes law.

Q—I started work on my 1966 tax return and find the new withholding rates have left me greatly overpaid. Is there anything I can do to reduce my withholding?

A—Yes. When the graduated withholding rates were adopted by Congress last year, provision was made to allow additional withholding allowances to taxpayers with large itemized deductions. These allowances take into account the size of the taxpayer's income and deductions as reported on 1966 tax returns as well as income and deductions expected for 1967.

Procedures for claiming these allowances are outlined on Schedule A (Form W-4) available at local IRS offices. This schedule and a corrected W-4 must be filed with the taxpayer's employer who will make necessary withholding adjustments. These allowances cannot be claimed until you file your 1966 return.

Q—I just turned 65. Will my boss stop withholding Social Security taxes from my pay if I go on working?

A—The law requires the employer to withhold Social Security taxes on the first $6,600 in wages paid each employee during the year.
The age of the employee does not change this requirement.

Q—I support my daughter who was recently divorced. Can I claim her baby as a dependent?

A—You probably can if you provide more than half the baby's support. Check the dependency requirements listed on page 4 of the 1040 instruction booklet.

Q—There is one deduction I forgot to claim when I filed my 1965 return. Can I include it when I file this year?

A—No, you cannot. An amended return or claim Form 843 must be filed for 1965 to claim the deduction.

Q—Too much was withheld for Social Security tax as I held several jobs last year. Can I get this refunded or credited to any income tax I owe?

A—Yes, you can. A special line has been added to Form 1040 where you can list excess Social Security tax withheld.

This is Line 19 on Page 1 of the 1040. If you had two or more employers, use it to list amounts in excess of $277.20 withheld for Social Security taxes.

Q—I understand that the first $100 in dividends is not taxable. Does that mean I don't have to list that on my return?

A—All dividends received should be reported on your return. Page 2 of Form 1040 has a line where you may take the exclusion you refer to. Note that this is $100 for dividends of qualifying domestic corporations. On joint returns where husband and wife receive dividends, each may exclude up to $100 of such dividends.

Q—I moved and didn't get my 1040 tax package. What should I do?

A—Copies of forms and instructions are available at any local IRS office as well as at many banks and post offices.

Q—How should I make out my check for the balance of tax I owe?

A—Checks should be made out to the Internal Revenue Service. Never send cash through the mails.
Use a check or money order.

Q—Do you need to have records of your medical bills, contributions and other items when you take the minimum standard deduction?

A—No, you don't. The minimum standard deduction, like the 10% standard deduction, makes it unnecessary for taxpayers to item-ize or substantiate deductions.

Q—How can you tell a "fly-by-night" tax return specialist from one who is reliable and honest?

A—Here are a few things to look for:

1—Avoid the man who "guarantees" you a refund.
2—Be on guard if he suggests that the refund be sent to his address.

3—Never sign a blank tax form.
4—Don't sign a form that has been prepared in pencil; the figures could be easily changed.

5—Ask the advisor to sign the return he has prepared. Remember that when you ask someone to help you prepare a return you are still legally responsible for every item on the return.

Q—My wife and I are filing separate 1040's this year. Which tax table or rate schedule should we use?

A—Use Schedule 1 on page 11 of the 1040 instruction booklet if separate income is $5,000 or more or deductions are itemized. Otherwise, use Tax Table C on page 14.

Q—Does a person have to be a citizen of the U. S. to be claimed as a dependent?

A—No. A non-citizen may qualify if he or she is a resident of the U. S. Canada, Mexico, Canal Zone or the Republic of Panama, or is an alien child adopted by and living with a U. S. citizen abroad.
