If bill sent to Ford becomes law

Congress could have say in future of Webb AFB

Congress could have a say in the future of Webb Air Force Base if a bill sent to President Ford Thursday becomes law.

A rider to this year's military construction bill would give Congress review authority over Department of Defense base decisions, including the Air Force's March 10 announcement that Webb is a candidate to be closed.

The bill cleared its final Congressional hurdle Thursday afternoon when the U. S. Senate approved the conference report by voice vote.

The measure goes immediately to President Ford, who can either sign it into law or veto it. If he takes no action within 10 days, the bill automatically becomes law.

HOPEFUL SIGN

Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate, chairman of the Legislative Affairs Committee which is leading the fight to save Webb, termed the overwhelming support for the bill a most hopeful sign.

Choate said the bill indicates a changing mood of Congress on defense.

"The mood of Congress may have some effect on the Air Force and possibly on the President," said the mayor. He added that the Legislative Affairs Committee will be watching developments and how they relate to the local strategy on saving Webb.

The vote in the House of Representatives was 375-20 in favor of the military construction bill with the rider which gives Congress a method to study Pentagon decisions of base closings and realignments.

An aide from Senator John Tower's office told the Herald Thursday that to erase any doubt that Webb was included in those which Congress will have the right to review, Sen. Tower insisted that the bases be identified by the bill.

The bill provides that the Pentagon must give a year's notice before any closure or reduction which would affect either 1,000 civilian positions or 50 per cent or more of a base with 500 civilian workers.

The measure gives the Defense Department nine months to complete its environmental impact study and public hearing and to prepare a detailed justification of the base closing decision, said an aide from Senator Lloyd Bentsen's office.

At the end of nine months, the detailed justification for closing a base such as Webb must be submitted to Congress. The Defense Department can take no action for 90 days while Congress reviews the decision, Bentsen's aide said.

Under this timetable, the earliest possible closing of Webb would be on March 10, 1977, a year after the Air Force's original announcement that Webb was a candidate to be closed.

Congressional sources differ on how much power Congress would have to approve or disapprove Pentagon base decisions should the bill become law.

ABILITY TO VETO

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., contended that the new procedure will give Congress the ability to veto base reductions.

Ichord, chairman of the subcommittee on bases and facilities of the House Armed Services Committee, told the House Wednesday in his report back from the Senate-House conference:

"The intended purpose of Section 6.12 (the rider) was to permit Congress to assess each proposal and to exercise its oversight responsibility for base realignment just as it does in authorizing the establishment of new facilities."

Ichord chairs the committee which would make the review in the House of Representatives.

Sen. Tower, who has vowed to fight for Webb "to the last bloody ditch," chairs the subcommittee on military bases and construction in the Senate.

In his report to the House on Wednesday, Ichord said that Congress expects a complete disclosure and analysis of all factors on base realignments.

The Air Force is now preparing an environmental impact statement on the closing of Webb. It was to have been released in mid-June, but an unexplained 30-day delay has moved the release date to mid-July.

A public hearing on the statement will be in Big Spring, probably in late August. Then the Air Force will write a final impact statement and make its final decision on the future of Webb. The decision could come as early as September or as late as December.

If the new Congressional review procedure becomes law, the Pentagon must submit detailed justification on any closing of Webb to Congress by December. Congress would have 90 days to review the Webb decision.

IN MID-APRIL

The rider to the military construction bill first popped up in Congress in mid-April when it was defeated in a House vote.

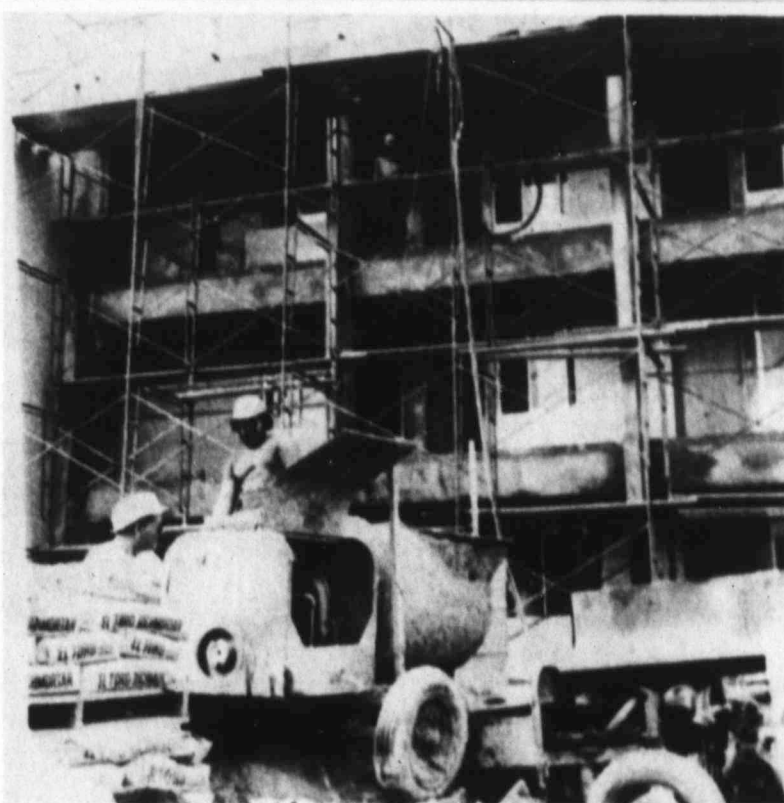

In early May the rider was reintroduced by House Democratic leader Thomas (Tip) O'Neill whose state of Massachusetts suffered heavy base closings two years ago and whose state would lose another 10,000 jobs should the announced plans to close Ft. Devens be carried through.

This time it passed by a wide 299-14 margin.

The Senate then added a similar rider to its version of the military construction bill with Sen. Tower pushing it through committee.

The Senate and House versions had slight differences, but those were resolved by conference committee earlier this week. The House approved the conference version Wednesday, while the Senate gave its okay Thursday afternoon. The bill is now enroute to President Ford.

The bill specifically prohibits 13 base cuts, including Webb, which the Pentagon proposed this spring without Congressional review.

MEANWHILE, WORK GOES ON AT WEBB AFB — News that Webb AFB was on a Department of Defense list for possible closure did not stop work on new construction at the local facility. Contractors are well along on the new permanent-type Bachelor Officers Quarters at Webb. Concrete workers here prepare a mixture for use in the structure.

HAC chairman's post is yielded by Hays

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays, whose relationship with Elizabeth Ray touched off the Capitol Hill payroll sex scandal, said today he is stepping down as chairman of the House Administration Committee.

"The charges which have been made against me and the current state of my health make it impossible for me to devote time necessary to carry out my responsibilities as chairman of the House Administration Committee," Hays said in a letter to the Democratic leadership.

The three-paragraph letter was released by Hays' office shortly after House Speaker Carl Albert announced that Hays had told him he is relinquishing the powerful committee post.

But Hays, who is recovering in a Barnsville, Ohio, hospital from an overdose of sleeping pills, indicated he might try to regain the post later.

"I am confident that I will be vindicated as to any wrongdoing and when that occurs, I shall ask for a re-examination of my position by the (House Democratic) caucus," the letter concluded.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Officer reduction

Q. One hears that the drawing-down of Webb AFB can best be noted by the number of commissioned personnel being transferred to other bases. Have so many officers departed here that enlisted personnel now are being allowed to move into their vacated quarters?

A. Capt. Dick Risk, chief of the Public Information Office at Webb, explained the question this way:

"As previously reported, Webb is undergoing a reduction in its personnel strength because of the phasing out of the undergraduate pilot training program for U. S. Air Force officers. However, it is inaccurate and misleading to say that Webb AFB is "drawing down." The majority of those who have left recently have been officers, many of whom have been occupying military family housing in Webb Village. All officers eligible to live in Webb Village and who have applied have been assigned government quarters. Furthermore, for the predictable future we anticipate that incoming eligible officers who desire government quarters will be assigned them without a waiting period. Air Force policy requires that at least 95 per cent of military family housing be occupied. Therefore, some quarters normally allocated to officers have been designated as enlisted quarters. This has happened at other bases and there is nothing unusual about it. We are simply using all of our assets in a prudent manner and within the guidelines and directives that control the procedures governing military family housing."

Offbeat: Watery grave for cars

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A park ranger who spotted an oil slick in Lake Austin may have uncovered a watery grave for stolen cars.

Dredging operations began Thursday for what law officers believe is two or three presumably stolen autos.

They said a pattern of dumping "hot" autos into the lake seems to be emerging in Travis County.

'Americans by choice'

'Back home' in Big Spring

EDITOR'S NOTE: Most of us are Americans by chance. We live in this country because we were born here. But there are many Americans who came here by choice. In this series of stories, a special Bicentennial feature of the Big Spring Herald, these "Americans by choice" tell their stories and give their reasons why they have chosen to become Americans.

By MARJ CARPENTER

"You can learn more and earn more in my field of work in America. That is why I came."

Rashid Quadri, physical therapist at Malone-Hogan Hospital, is from Pakistan. He stated, "The United States knows more about physical therapy and uses its knowledge. They have the latest methods. It is challenging to work here."

He first came from Karachi, Pakistan, to America and on to Big Spring in 1971. In 1973, he went back home to get married. Big Springers waited in awe when they learned that Rashid had let his family select his bride, and that he would marry her sight unseen.

He came back to Big Spring with Azra, who was truly beautiful. Shortly after they returned, they decided to move to Hillsboro where he had an opportunity to work in a hospital there.

"That was a mistake," Rashid said. "Coming back to Big Spring was like coming home."

He recalled that they moved to five different apartments in two months and "Azra was expecting. It was difficult," Rashid said that "West Texas people are so much friendlier. It was not because we were from Pakistan. That town was very close to each other. They wouldn't have particularly wanted somebody from Big Spring to move there either. They were just close."

When the Quadris returned to Big Spring in 1975 upon the opening of Malone-Hogan Hospital, they were extremely happy. They have two little boys, 13 months apart. And they are "back home."

"I think of Big Spring as home. I am now getting ready to apply for my citizenship since I have lived here long enough. I have been in Texas five years and will go to Abilene to take the citizenship test," Rashid stated.

A devout Moslem, Rashid has solved some of his religious problems here. The local packing company allows him to kill his own animals and face them east when they are killed as is customary in their religion.

"I have never slipped and eaten hamburgers or hotdogs. All of our meat has been pure, according to our religion," Rashid stated.

He added that he appreciated the packing companies, both here and in Hillsboro, who allowed him to do this.

"There is no Moslem Temple in West Texas, but our God can hear us," Rashid said. "And in America, you can have your own religion. This is good."

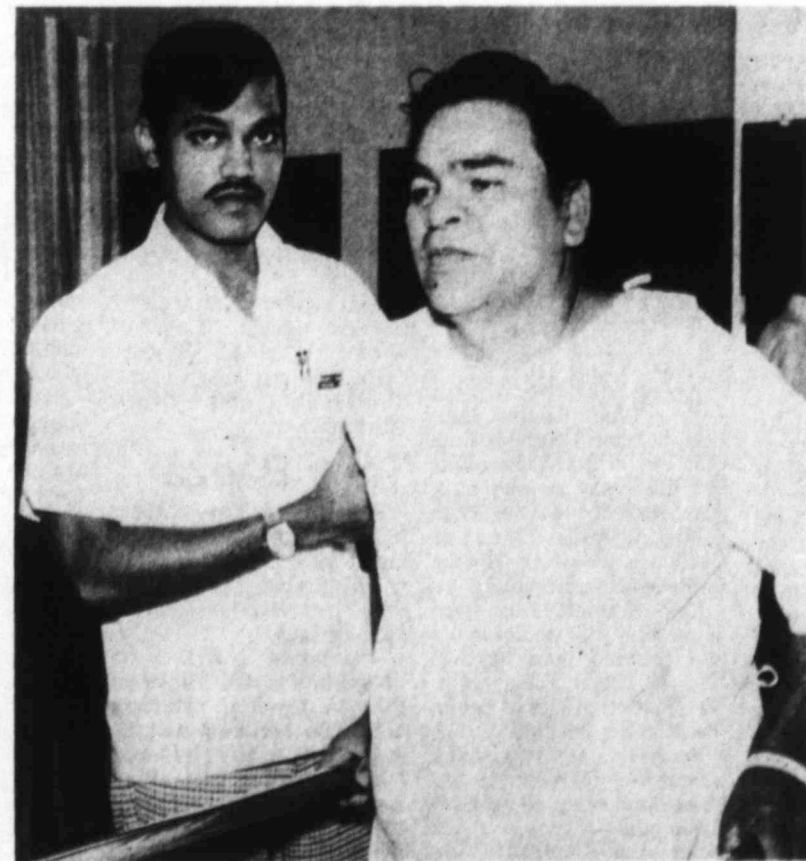

He said that back in his home country, "Times are not too good. When they lost East Pakistan — it hurt." And he said that inflation was worse than in America.

He learned English in high school and said that in college, "Everything was taught in English. This is one thing that makes a chance to come to America so important. It is the international language."

Rashid said even their textbooks were in English. Then he laughed. "They were in English-English, not Texas English. I had to learn a whole new English accent in West Texas."

Rashid showed off his quarters at the hospital with great pride. "In America there is such good equipment and such a good chance to learn in your profession. I am glad I came," Rashid added with a smile.

A LINE OF WINNERS — Terry Hanson, left, and Larry Willard unveil the portraits of the Chamber of Commerce Community Service Award winners enshrined this morning into the Chamber's Hall of Honor in a brief ceremony.

Eight persons honored in Hall of Honor rite

In dedication ceremonies held this morning, the Chamber of Commerce Hall of Honor was officially made public as portraits of the Chamber's Community Service Award winners were unveiled in a brief observance.

Past honorees whose portraits were enshrined are Clyde McMahon, Jr., 1972; Dr. J. E. Hogan, 1973; Dr. P. W. Malone, 1973; Dorothy Garrett, 1974; Adolph Swartz, 1974; Janell Davis, 1975; Joe Pickle, 1975; and Paul Meek, 1975.

The practice of presenting the Community Service award originated in 1972, and was later increased to two annual awards in 1974.

In opening remarks, J. D. Nelson, president of the Chamber, affirmed that the awards are given to citizens who show "outstanding service to their community."

Nelson stated that the Hall of Honor would "serve as a lasting tribute to the men and women recognized there."

Janell Davis, in speaking of the other honorees, said that "the people honored here today have worked hard, they saw the needs of the community and they went and met those needs."

Mrs. Davis, also an honoree, stated that "because you are saying thank you to us, we are indeed proud."

Joe Pickle, another honoree who spoke on what the award meant to him, jokingly said that he was "grateful for the honor, even though you confuse longevity with achievement," and that he felt "like a donkey at the Kentucky Derby... he didn't belong there but he was appreciative of the company."

In a more serious moment, Pickle stated that the award signified that "some of the things we did weren't entirely in vain."

"Here is a community that does care and appreciate what you do for it," Pickle said, ending his remarks.

Ralph Brooks, vice president of the public affairs council, in relating his views on the significance of the event, stated that the awards ceremony "has great future significance, for the deeds (of the honorees) will serve as standards for others to achieve or better."

John Arrick, vice president of the Organizational Affairs Council, gave recognition to the honorees, and Larry Willard, vice president of Community Development Council and Terry Hanson, Chamber manager, unveiled the portraits to the small but enthused crowd.

The program closed with an invocation by Rev. Steve Birdwell, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

After the ceremony, coffee and doughnuts were served, and the honored guests and citizens visited with one another.

Democrats to pick 32 more delegates

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Democrats, in an apparent unusual harmonious mood, begin a two-day state convention today with their main task the selection of 32 more national convention delegates.

Jimmy Carter was expected to collect most of the new delegates, despite the fact he cancelled previous much-publicized plans to attend a party fund-raising dinner Thursday night in honor of National Democratic Chairman Bob Strauss.

Other big names who also cancelled Thursday night appearances after Carter's victorious last week apparently gave him a clear road to the nomination included Sens. Hubert Humphrey, Edward Kennedy, Frank Church and Morris Udall.

The only past and present candidate making an appearance was California Gov. Jerry Brown, who got a standing ovation.

A telephone call from Carter, who is vacationing in Sea Island, Ga., added a dramatic touch that brightened the "gala" which cost party faithful from $25 to $250 a seat.

Before the pre-convention party, Strauss told a news conference that he was not interested in another four years as national party chairman but would agree to serve if the nominee selected in July asked him to stay aboard.

"I have been thinking about winning strategy and would like for you to stay on as chairman," Carter told Strauss. "I believe we can have a winning team in the fall."

"Thank you, I will be glad to work with you," Strauss answered.

Kennedy and Humphrey also made telephone calls that were relayed to the delegates. Other speakers included Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., Lorne Green, movie and TV star, served as master of ceremonies.

Selection of the 32 delegates actually will be a two-day process. The 3,484 delegates will register their presidential preferences before the 6 p.m. opening of the convention tonight.

This delegate poll will guide the convention body in naming the 32 delegates on Saturday.

Carter had 92 delegates elected in the May 1 primary while Bentsen, as a favorite son candidate backed by Briscoe, got only six. Bentsen quickly released his delegates and at least one survived to the convention. Survivors include his widow, of the home; three sons, Gary V. Engel of Dumas, Tex., Edward L. Engel of Coahoma, and Nicholas B. Engel of San Antonio; one brother, Joe Engel of Marshall, Minn.; two sisters, Mrs. Mayme Dunn of Marshall, Minn., and Mrs. Ella Smith of Redondo Beach, Calif.; and four grandchildren.

Pallbearers include Jack Bennett, B. R. Seidenberger, Bert Andries, Raymond Williams, Jim Reidy and Jim Nelson.

Survivors include her husband, of Odessa; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine Cason, Arlington, Mrs. Corinne Denton, Odessa, and Mrs. Mary Pearl Monaco, San Antonio; a son, J. C. Mittel, Woodland Hills, Calif.; ten grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Pearl Bates Hague, Big Spring.

Another major task of the convention will be to select seven new members of the Democratic National Committee, which governs the national party.

Briscoe, who will lead the Texas delegation to New York in July, will give the keynote speech Friday night.

Pallbearers include Jack Bennett, B. R. Seidenberger, Bert Andries, Raymond Williams, Jim Reidy and Jim Nelson.

Survivors include her husband, of Odessa; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine Cason, Arlington, Mrs. Corinne Denton, Odessa, and Mrs. Mary Pearl Monaco, San Antonio; a son, J. C. Mittel, Woodland Hills, Calif.; ten grandchildren; seven great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Pearl Bates Hague, Big Spring.

CAPTAIN — Mrs. Emily Howell, a 36-year-old native of Denver, became the first woman to ever attain the rank of captain with a commercial airline in the U.S. when Frontier Airlines promoted her June 1. She's shown during a recent passenger stop at the Scottsbluff Municipal Airport. Behind her, an unidentified worker refuels her deHavilland "Otter." The twin-engine prop-jet carries 19 passengers, but no stewardess.

Argentina federal police chief dies in bombing

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A bomb killed federal police chief Brig. Gen. Cesario Cardozo early today as he returned home with his wife, mother and a daughter, police said. The three women were seriously injured. According to police, the 50-year-old Cardozo, named to office after the March 24 military coup against Isabel Peron, had just gone up in the elevator of his fashionable apartment in the residential district of Palermo. He opened a separate entry door from the elevator to his apartment and a blast killed him and wounded the others, police said.

Several officers of his personal guard were believed to be on duty at the time and it was not immediately explained how anyone could have planted the bomb on the upper floor.

Cardozo was the second federal police chief killed by a bomb in the past 2 1/2 years. Chief Alberto Villar was assassinated in November 1974 as he was starting out on a pleasure cruise with his wife.

New housing starts are still far below needs

NEW YORK (AP) — It is difficult to become enthusiastic about the slight increase in housing starts during April since it still brings the annual rate to only 1.4 million units, far below the nation's needs. Still, any increase at all in this measure of our national well being does contain an iota of encouragement, because the price obstacles — down payment, taxes, interest among them — are formidable.

Need cited for exercise

"Lack of exercise may be one of the main causes of heart disease," Bill Hicks, YMCA director told the local Kiwanis Club at their meeting at the Settles Hotel Thursday.

Hicks pointed out that over 15 million people now have heart disease in the United States and the main causes, other than heredity, are high blood pressure, tension and lack of exercise.

He quoted President Eisenhower's former doctor as saying "Exercise might well be the hub around which the life itself revolves."

Hicks told the group about exercise courses available at the "Y" at 7 a.m. and 5-5:15 p.m. daily. The 45-50 minute courses include calisthenics, walking and jogging exercises.

Special guests at Kiwanis Thursday were Robert Morehead and Dr. Charles McCann.

The Kiwanis president, Dub Moore, again reminded the group of the annual barbecue slated for June 23 in Comanche Trail Park, prior to the opening night of the Big Spring rodeo.

The cost of a new single-family house is about twice what it was a decade ago. Interest rates are about 50 per cent higher, taxes 70 per cent, utility bills 80 per cent. Over-all costs have risen far more than incomes.

Transportation costs have added to the bill. Not only does gasoline for the car cost more, but so does public transportation into the city from the more distant sites to which buyers and builders have fled in search of economies.

But the pressure of prices is producing one result that might prove rewarding for both the individual buyer and communities in general.

It is this: Since nobody seems to have an answer to the problem of rising housing costs except to build the product smaller and otherwise less adequately than before, many couples are forced to reconsider existing housing.

Much of this housing is substantial but often it is also run down. Much of it is in communities from which people once used to think they graduated as their incomes rose. Now it is being viewed differently.

Adding to its appeal is that such housing offers conveniences that often take years to develop in new communities, such as existing churches, schools, stores, public transportation, entertainment.

Billions of dollars of such infrastructure lies almost abandoned in some cities as people flee to the suburbs or to smaller towns, even though it remains essentially sound.

The era of the throwaway house therefore could gradually blend into another era, that of the rediscovered older house.

While builders of new homes were going bankrupt in 1975, many real estate salesmen were reporting record high sales because of existing home sales. Some mortgage lenders had one of their biggest years ever, for the same reason.

Owners of some existing houses also reconsidered and changed their plans to sell.

Expenditures for residential additions and alterations on owner-occupied, single family properties averaged less than $6 billion a year from 1971 to 1973, but jumped to $6.4 billion in 1974 and $8.5 billion in 1975.

Some of this increase can be attributed to inflation, but not all. The 31 per cent rise during 1975 suggests that many home owners renovated rather than ran, decided to hold on rather than throw away.

County case load jumps

The county court criminal caseload increased during May.

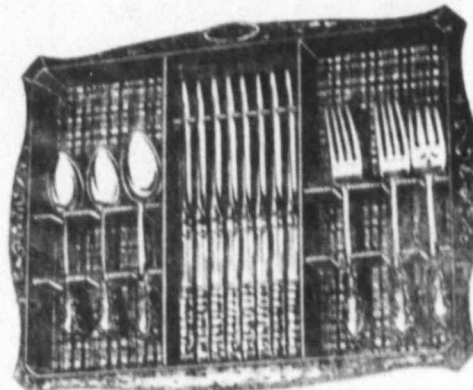

In addition to 42 cases filed by County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eysen Jr., 61 were appealed from lower courts. County Judge Bill Tune heard 36 guilty pleas, dismissed 27 cases and remanded two to lower courts.

While 596 cases were pending May 1, there were 639 in the docket June 1.

In civil action, Judge Tune entered one agreed or default judgment and saw seven new suits filed.

The county clerk's office compiles these monthly statistics for the Texas Judicial Council.

California vote important here

Big Spring citizens had been watching with interest as the unpredictable folk of California held their referendum on nuclear power.

IN CALIFORNIA, any given vote could go in any direction, so even national political observers were uncertain how these West Coast voters would view nuclear power.

The referendum was on "Proposition 13," which could have ground the development of nuclear power in California to a halt. Critics charged it could even have resulted in the dismantling of present nuclear power facilities.

But Californians voted 2-1 against Proposition 13. Their vote should say loud and clear that the people believe that this nation must continue to develop nuclear power. The results also mean that people are convinced that nuclear power is reasonably safe.

If there were ever to have been any majority doubts about nuclear power's safety, then earthquake-prone California is the place where they would have surfaced.

This is not to say that California did not have a big chunk of residents who opposed nuclear power. The state did, and they were visible and vocal. That's why the question got on the ballot in the first place.

The clear defeat of Proposition 13 (2.1 million voters against to 1.1 million for) should defuse the efforts to have such a referendum placed on ballots in other states.

The California vote was important to Big Spring and West Texas because of this area's strong ties to the energy business.

Also, there is a proposal before Congress now which would authorize one of the first private uranium enrichment plants somewhere in West Texas, possibly Big Spring.

THIS PROPOSAL, a most important one if the U. S. is to continue to provide energy for the nation's needs, might have been slowed by a negative vote on nuclear power in California.

This authorization would come in the Nuclear Fuel Assurance Act which passed out of committee 15-0 and is expected to have a favorable vote in the House of Representatives at any moment.

Most Americans realize that the energy crisis is not over. It is only hidden by the recession and the free flow of Arab oil.

The energy crisis may never again be over, barring a new technological breakthrough. We will have to learn to live with limited energy resources.

The only question is, how limited? If this nation does not move ahead on energy development and research and provide a free market which is favorable to energy investment, the answer in the next decade may be "most limited."

— J. TOM GRAHAM

Reagan, Rhodesia

William F. Buckley, Jr.

One would think, to judge from the commentary on Ronald Reagan's statement on Rhodesia — disorderly, to be sure — that the new standard of international responsibility for the United States in its role toward lesser countries is to do: nothing. There are minor exceptions, to be sure: we must be antagonistic to Chile, whose one-party leader liberated the land from Allende; and sycophantic towards Mexico, whose one-party leader admires Allende's mentor, Fidel Castro. But these subtle variations apart, one is supposed to say: "The United States should stay out of the way."

RONALD REAGAN was once a Democrat, and during that period he was presumably touched with a generation's litany, stretching from Woodrow Wilson's notion of some sense of community responsibility, to John Kennedy's notion that we would endure any sacrifice to maintain freedom in the world. He has not entirely got over his Democratic background.

Now to the extent Reagan called for using United States troops in Rhodesia, he was in my judgment mistaken: it was the kind of slip Carter made when he found himself talking about "ethnic purity." What Reagan clearly meant was American support for a policy in Rhodesia that would go further than merely turning over Mozambique. It is not an act of chauvinism or of bellicosity to suggest that the United States is concerned for the so-called British Sixth Principle, which would ensure protection to the racial minorities in Rhodesia.

Inasmuch as the record in Africa is not very good on the matter of respecting the rights of racial minorities, bringing up the problem of the whites in Rhodesia is hardly irrelevant. Besides which, if Mr. Kissinger feels free to go to Africa there to express himself on American policy on Rhodesia, why isn't Mr. Reagan, a contender for the Presidency, free to express himself concerning policy towards Rhodesia? Those who answer that the difference is this: that Mr. Kissinger's policy is plainly the right policy, and Mr. Reagan's policy is plainly the wrong policy, should go on to answer the question: Ought there to be an American policy calculated to encourage a biracial society in Rhodesia, with protection for the white minority? Or, do we secretly desire that long night of the knives which would visit on the whites in Rhodesia the same fate suffered by black and Asian minorities in other African states?

RONALD REAGAN would be well advised to consult deeply with Professor John Hutchinson, who conveniently resides for the moment at the University of California at Los Angeles. Although his trade is industrial relations (he is by birth an Englishman, and a Socialist), he is probably the best informed American on the subject of Rhodesia in part because of his distinctive intelligence, in part because of his resolute principle: he disapproves of the government of Ian Smith for the obvious reasons. But he does not believe anybody can responsibly advocate its capitulation in the absence of some kind of guarantee that the British Sixth Principle will last a few weeks longer than most of the Constitutional bombasts that midwife the birth of fresh African republics.

How to do this? Through a black and white peace-keeping force, perhaps even under the sponsorship of the United Nations, to which all major countries and all Rhodesian organizations that touch in any way on Rhodesian policy are pledged.

Teenage meat-hater irks mom

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My 13-year-old son hates meat. We force him to eat a small portion at each meal for two reasons: (1) nutrition and (2) principle. I just don't believe in allowing children to eat only what they enjoy.

He really only likes carrots, baked beans, lettuce and tomatoes. He adores bread and French fries, the only form of potatoes he eats. If he doesn't eat meat, will he truly suffer nutritionally? What can I do? — Mrs. L.L.

The key word is "protein." Meat happens to be about the most convenient form of it in our society because it packs more protein to the ounce. You have to eat a lot more starchy foods to get the same amount of protein you need — almost three to one.

Take meat and your son's beans. A three-ounce serving of steak has between 18 and 20 grams of protein. An eight-ounce serving of beans provides 14 or 15 protein grams. The same general rules apply to meat as compared with most other starchy foods.

Youngsters need protein for growth and glandular development. I doubt, though, that any cajoling or forcing is going to make your son change the way he chooses to get his protein at this time in his life.

How about milk and eggs? Both are fine protein sources. There are a number of other good sources. Check any vegetarian diet book.

I know it can be upsetting for a mother. She prepares a healthful meal of steak and potatoes, then watches a youngster pick through the meat to devour the potatoes. I have experienced this in my own household. (Now fully grown, my "youngsters" devour anything put in front of them.)

Some parents have found a session at a summer camp solves the problem. There they eat what's offered or go hungry.

That would have another advantage. Perhaps your son needs a bit of outdoor living and exercise to "perk up" his appetite — for meat, even. Making a mealtime scene over this issue could be self-defeating.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have tic douloureux (with the face pain). I have heard there is new surgery to help this. If so, what is it and who could be doing it? — Mrs. F.R.

Tic douloureux (DOO-loo-ROO) is a disorder of facial nerves. It causes severe pain in the face and forehead on either side. The pain can be triggered by cold weather, chewing, even by brushing the hair.

Yes, there have been encouraging reports from new surgery, where pressure from an artery lying against the particular facial nerve is involved. A tiny plastic buffer is implanted to raise the artery and relieve pressure on the nerve.

A neurologist (nerve specialist) can tell you which if any doctors are performing this surgery in your area and whether it is feasible for you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 75 years old. My doctor says I have an enlarged prostate gland, but that he would leave it alone. I only get up one to three times a night to urinate.

I ran across this brochure about certain capsules which contain some kind of acid that will clear this up. Have you heard of this? — T.F.

Only from the brochure you sent me. I try to keep on top of developments in this important area.

I notice that the brochure says the material is non-toxic, causes no side effects and is "absolutely safe." But will it work?

I know of only one method for reducing the size of a prostate gland, and that is by surgery.

I note that the back of the brochure carries the admonition to "be sure to consult your physician." I think that is good advice. My personal advice would be to be cautious about any "cures" which carry no specific endorsement by some recognized medical group.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can find out about the causes — and the cures — for this troublesome complaint in Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." To get your copy, write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Energy among friends

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In the grand Washington manner, the development of energy for the future is being shaped largely by friendship and favoritism. The juiciest contracts are going to a corporation with the right friend in the right place.

SELDOM HAVE the stakes been higher. The research contracts will probably determine what forms of energy the nation will use to run its factories and heat its homes. A small contract, therefore, could lead to a big development worth untold billions.

The national effort to make the United States independent of overseas oil began three years ago. But while Project Independence blueprints gather dust and energy czars come and go, two former Pentagon pals have been quietly charting the nation's energy development.

Dr. Robert Seamans, head of the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA), and John Foster, a vice president of TRW, Inc., have been close friends since they served together on an Air Force advisory board in the late 1950s.

Now they have teamed up to plan ERDA's energy research program. If the alliance hasn't always worked to the advantage of the taxpayers, it has worked to the advantage of Foster's firm.

TRW has picked up nearly $24 million in noncompetitive contracts from ERDA. Two of the contracts weren't even solicited but were thrust upon the company, a procedure that is unusual if not unknown in the history of dispensing federal funds.

The contracting system at ERDA works in a unique way. Sources say it sometimes consists of Seamans and Foster chewing the fat and coming up with a project they like. Seamans gives the order, and TRW gets the work.

Foster was heavily involved, for example, in setting up ERDA's most important contract: a study to determine which energy technologies the agency should concentrate upon developing. The profit-motivated TRW and a nonprofit group called Mitre were selected to produce the answers.

TRW has a financial stake in the electrical industry, which is eager to develop nuclear power as the energy of the future. This can be distributed, of course, in the form of electricity over the industry's existing lines.

Not surprisingly, the study that came out of TRW and Mitre put the biggest emphasis on nuclear energy and fossil fuels, while solar and other more experimental technologies were downplayed.

TRW was not content, meanwhile, just to win the ERDA contracts. On at least one occasion, the firm was paid by ERDA to conduct a study, which recommended the construction of an experimental ocean electric plant in Hawaii or Puerto Rico. TRW, it turns out, was part of a consortium then developing an energy research park in Hawaii on the precise site the company had recommended.

IN A TALK with our associate Jack Cloherty, Seamans acknowledged that he and Foster have had a long relationship but denied any impropriety in awarding ERDA contracts to his old friend's firm. He pointed out that TRW is a respected and capable company.

The scene is near the mountains at Ysleta, Tex., by El Paso. The date is Aug. 4, 1880. Gen. J. J. Byrne is writing to his wife. (Some property descriptions and transactions have been deleted here, because of space limitations.)

"My Darling, my beloved wife,

"I have just concluded a postscript to my letter of last night to you, and you may imagine from the cramped and irregular formation of the lines, and incoherence of ideas, that I have been dissipating. I have not my Darling. But if ever human nerves were strung to greatest tension by emotions, too sad for words to tell, mine are at this moment.

"IN THAT LETTER I endeavored to conceal (but indifferently I fear) the great anxiety I feel, lest this betrayal should cause you the distress I know you must experience, were you to know my feeling, at this hour.

"I will leave here tonight to join my party.

"If accident should befall me, this will be my last goodbye, to all I love upon this earth.

"If God's mercy and protecting care, should avert the danger by which I am surrounded, then you will never see these lines and the remainder of my days on Earth will be offered in devotion and praise, — to prove my worthiness of your love and my thankfulness, for his grace in sparing me to share it.

"But if it is my fate to die without again meeting you on Earth, my spirit will be with you as you read these lines and will remain and abide with you forever, if such privilege is granted to our immortal souls, to watch over and protect those they loved on Earth.

"The Indians have crossed over again into Texas and have already commenced their fiendish atrocities. They killed the Stage Driver and one passenger, Saturday night between Ft. Quitman and Eagle Springs, last week they killed in all eight Mexican soldiers — a few days before I passed thro' Baso's Canon, they killed a woman, (Mrs. Sherman) and two men between Eagle Springs and Van Horns Wells, — About two months ago, they killed and mutilated twenty nine, men, women and children, near Corizal, in the Candaria Mountains, their objective point now I am informed, now is the Guadalupe Mountains, the very place that I am going to work.

"I have gone so far in this business that I cannot now back down with either honor or self respect and must go through with it, — but recognizing the presence of great danger, desire to put my affairs in order so you can know what provision has been made for you in the event that anything should befall me.

"The patents, to two sections of land in your name I have deposited.

"Henry Warren of Weatherford has in his safe, patents to all my lands on head of Colorado River, 9 sections, and also, to my interest in lands in Callahan Co. . . .

"THE TOTAL COSTS of my outfit which Morris has paid is $1500.00 in the event that they should be lost or captured by Indians, I agreed to stand 1/2 the loss, but if I am killed I do not think, that he will withhold that money from you, as he can recover the whole amount from the government."

"If an untimely death prevents me complying with my obligations, get Mr. Powell to complete the work and have my 1/2 interest divided up between Powell, Darling and yourself in equal shares.

"I would suggest, my Darling wife, that in the event that you should be deprived of my protecting care, that you place these matters in the hands of Frank Ball, and that after all legal matters have been adjusted, that you sell or dispose of all your Texas lands, and seek some other home, where you can pass your days in peace, where you will not likely be reminded of the great griefs you have been called upon to bear — where your true heart and pure soul may find the rest and peace, denied you here.

"The sale and conversion of the property I leave you ought to realize at least, Twenty five Thousand ($25000.00) dollars, a sum sufficient to

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Due to some health problems, I find it much easier to watch a worship service on television Sunday morning rather than attend my own church. Do you think this is wrong? — M. A.

DEAR M. A.: Only you know your real situation and whether or not your health really makes it necessary for you to stay at home. If your health is a serious problem, it might well be that your doctor would advise you to stay at home. However, I hope you will not use this as an excuse if you are actually able to attend your own church.

You see, we all need the fellowship of other Christians, and it is very difficult to get this fellowship simply sitting at home. Pray that God will meet all your expenses, and that the good God will bless you and protect you thro' life, is the last goodbye and loving prayer of your devoted husband. . . .

"My own, my beloved, my darling wife: Sweet companion of my happiest hours on Earth, my hope of everlasting joy in great hereafter, these last few parting words; the offering of a love that's more than earthly, I know will be sacred with you.

"They may be the last on earth, but if the spirits of the dead can hover round and protect the loved ones left behind, mine will be always with you, and will forever breathing thoughts like these into your ear.

"If aught befalls me darling and when your grief has been assuaged by Christian resignation to the inevitable, I want you to calmly consider my last bequest, never having imposed conditions in life, I will not do so now.

"I do not expect you to devote your days to grieving after me. Your years, temperament and perfections of head and heart will crave a kindred companionship, and if you determine to form another earthly tie, I only ask and dying pray that you will counsel your best judgment, to enable you to make a choice, in all things worthy of you. I did not believe that I could ever bring my heart to dictate the words I have written you. If I left you with children I could not.

"BUT AS IT IS, if it should so please you, from spirit land I'll pray and invoke God's choicest blessings on your union. But in death, as when living I will claim your spirit as mine. — as mine was, and is and always will be yours.

"I could also ask that my remains, if they can be found, should be buried beside my darling child, the offspring of our love, and that you will be buried next my heart, when you shall have become tired of your burden, and come to join us.

"Let our ashes return to that great womb of nature, whence they come: mingled together." My soul, even tho' blessed with an abode in paradise, could not be in peace otherwise. I do not desire my darling wife, that you shall expend any unnecessary sum, to comply with this request.

"If my estate is honestly administered you will have enough for all your earthly wants and some to spare for this purpose. I want nothing but the plainest slab to indicate my resting place and that my darling wife and angel child are sleeping with me — again — in peace —

"Goodbye — my darling, — my wife, — my heart is breaking with the thought that I may see you no more. It may be that I have conjured up a horrid dream, but it is too sadly real for that, yet I may be spared to you, and low — for years to come.

"If not Darling, again goodbye, place not your trust in anyone, or anything earthly, "but to thine own self be true" and we will meet, if not on earth, where we will be happier, where there be no more parting.

"I invoke the shades of all good angels, to intercede with God and his Holy Mother for your preservation and eternal salvation and that he will again reunite our hearts and soul — if not on Earth; forevermore in Heaven — God bless You, Your Husband —

People leave jobs, anyway

Guaranteed income no help

SEATTLE (AP) — A guaranteed annual income apparently doesn't prompt people who have jobs to quit them, says the director of a federal pilot project in Seattle.

For the past 4½ years, 2,100 Seattle-area welfare and middle-to low-income families have been participating in a $20-million study aimed at evaluating the economic and social effects of a guaranteed annual income — or negative income tax.

About 20 per cent of the families participating in the Seattle study were on welfare when selected for the program, the project's director, Joe Bell, said. Families get an annual payment of $3,600, $4,800 or $5,600 for a family of four, for a period of three or five years.

Any income a family has is offset on a sliding scale against the guaranteed income.

The data is not complete and figures haven't been compiled, said Bell, an official of the state Department of Social and Health Services, but "there is nothing to suggest that people drop out of the labor market when guaranteed an income."

Larry Orr, director of research for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Income Security Policy in Washington, D.C., concurred.

Based on earlier studies in New Jersey, Iowa and North Carolina, "there is very little outright withdrawal from the labor market," he said.

Bell said the program in Seattle, which ends in November, was designed to answer four or five basic questions:

Do people drop out of the job market? Are there any changes in family mobility and size? Will a family be enhanced in terms of stability? How will the demands for social services, both public and private, be affected?

Bell said there is not enough information in from the Seattle study to answer most of the questions with any certainty.

Second century starts for kin of local man

Mrs. Tillie Crabb of Killeen, grandmother of Cecil G. Ford, 1200 Mulberry in Big Spring, celebrated her 100th birthday June 12. Ford went to Killeen for the celebration along with his wife.

Half as old as the United States, she had a letter from President Gerald Ford, one from Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, one from Gov. Dolph Briscoe and another from the commanding officer at Fort Hood. The tank division at Fort Hood sent a special "Hell on Wheels" award.

The mayor of Killeen and many Chamber of Commerce officials were present. Among her gifts was a beautiful bell to ring on the Fourth of July.

She received any number of Bicentennial-decorated cakes and floral arrangements and hundreds of other gifts. Refreshments were served to 400 guests.

VERY ACTIVE
A real active person, she was presented a beautiful long dress and bonnet to wear for the occasion. "I don't like it because it is too old timey. I never did feel old in my life. I've always been young," she stated.

On her 90th birthday, she took her first plane flight with her great-grandson as the pilot.

Her full name is Rachel Matilda Cox Crabb and she was born in Hay Branch Community near Lake Belton. She has lived in a nursing home since Dec. 26.

Her son, Roy Crabb, 79, of Copperas Cove, said she went willingly to the home. She's the center of attention at Bell Haven. They even gave her a plot of land where she could garden. "I just want some sweet corn," she stated.

Besides her son, Roy, she had a son, Barton Crabb and a daughter, Myrtle Grace Crabb Ford, who are both deceased.

CHURCH MEETING
She told her guests that she met her husband at a Methodist Church Service in Killeen when she was a teenager. "He was the first man to ask me to marry him and I was afraid nobody else would, so I married him," she stated. She married in February 1893 when she was 17. "He was the best man in town," she added.

She believes in exercise and said, "I don't like to see people that are just 50 or 60

Cosden sued over pension

A suit claiming an employee of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co. Inc. for 15 years was denied pension benefits after becoming disabled was filed in Howard County's 118th District Court Thursday afternoon.

Ronald Lewis Richardson is suing Joe A. Moss, Ken W. Perry and E. H. Boullion Jr., who are identified as the Cosden pension committee.

Perry, president of Cosden, and Boullion are residents of Big Spring and Moss lives in Dallas County, the suit states.

Richardson alleges he started work at Cosden before July 1960 and continued as an employee until July 1975 "when he was forced to cease working as a result of an accidental bodily injury." Richardson's disability is said to be total and permanent.

Hearing is set for July 15

The hearing to decide the route of the extension of 11th Place will be held July 15.

The public hearing will be at 7:30 p.m. in the city auditorium. Harry Nagel, city manager, said "If there is a change from the original approved route, it is possible that we might lose state highway funds for the project."

Boyd is promoted

Hal Boyd has been named personnel director at Malone and Hogan Hospital, according to an announcement today by Hospital Administrator Norman Knox. Formerly the business manager at Malone and Hogan, Boyd assumed his duties in May.

He was born and grew up in Lamesa, where he graduated from high school in 1947. He later attended Texas Tech University, but transferred to the University of Oklahoma from which he graduated.

Boyd is a full colonel in the Texas Army Guard, and is currently deputy commander of the organization.

Prior to joining the Malone and Hogan staff in 1973, he was project director for the Permian Basin Neighborhood Youth Clubs.

His wife, Joy, is assistant vice president at State National Bank. Their son, Michael, is also in the banking business, in San Angelo.

The Boyds are members of the First United Methodist Church, where Mr. Boyd serves on the administrative board. He is also chairman of the church ecumenical council.

Labor dispute to end shows

HOUSTON (AP) — A cessation of all rehearsals and performances until further notice has been announced by the Houston Symphony Society as the result of a labor dispute with orchestra musicians.

A spokesman for the society said Wednesday the musicians did not meet their two-day deadline for responding to a Monday proposal by the society for a one year contract extension at a $20 a week salary increase. Current minimum for the musicians is $280 per week.

The musicians have termed the action a lockout and have called the symphony society's two-day deadline "an unwarranted and underhanded tactic."

pilots from Midland, Odessa, Lamesa, Snyder, Sweetwater and Big Spring. Host for the meeting is Darrel E. Charest, Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) air traffic representative for Webb.

Guest speaker is Allan Giacomelli, a pilot for the Colorado River Municipal Water District. He earns his living by seeding some of the thunderstorms that rampage through West Texas. His topic is thunderstorm flying.

Also on the agenda is Ray Raney of the General Aviation District Office from Lubbock who will be the master of ceremonies. He will speak on safety. From Webb, Capt. Ron Tucker of Operations and Lieutenant Haskell of the 2050th Communications Squadron, will speak on local flying and air traffic control procedures.

Mr. Charest said that the pilot meeting is the primary objective in gathering at Webb. All are welcome even though they do not fly in or choose not to attend the planned luncheon. Those who drive are asked to register at the main gate to be provided with a map and schedule of events.

Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, along with all deputy commanders are also invited to attend. Along with the luncheon, tours of the RAPCON will be available. The radar installation is one of the newest and finest in the Air Force according to Lt. Haskell. "We are proud of the facility and would like to explain services available to you

Young readers remain active

Young readers at Howard County Library are participating this summer in the Summer Reading Club, cosponsored by the library and the Texas State Library.

They are among more than 100,000 youngsters from throughout the state who will be spending part of their summer vacations reading for fun this year. They will be keeping records of what they have read in red, white, and blue reading logs.

"Movin' On . . . Then and Now" is the theme for 1976. Children dressed in appropriate costumes are shown in a canoe, horse-drawn trolley, balloon, early train, stagecoach, early automobile, steamboat, biplane, helicopter, and moon rover. These pictures appear on the posters as well as on the reading log-activity books that each participant will receive. Each reading log also includes a cut-out figure that may be used to move across a time line that shows vehicles in their proper place in history.

Public library summer reading programs focus upon reading for enjoyment. Public library collections include a wide range of both informational materials and fiction. In addition to the books they read as participants in the Reading Club, youngsters will also see films, puppet shows, and other programs that will be carried on in the libraries.

Project coordinator is Jan Stephenson.

Order is extended

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A temporary restraining order against a strike by employees of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway has been extended indefinitely, a spokesman for the railroad said Thursday.

The company said the United Transportation Union asked in U.S. District Court at Kansas City for more time to prepare its case, before the court rules on whether to make the temporary restraining order permanent.

The union, which represents about 3,500 train workers, had threatened to strike June 8. It wants the railroad to replace a washroom at the Springfield, Mo., operations office.

Military Kids' summer camp is under way at Webb

Youngsters from Big Spring are taking part this week and next in Camp Mesquiter at Webb AFB. They are children who otherwise have no opportunity to attend a summer camp.

Book donations going to Guam

The Webb AFB base library is helping the typhoon-devastated Andersen AFB on Guam restock its library by sending book donations.

Contributions of any printed material will be well received, said Sylvia J. Sefcik, librarian. They can be brought to the library after 11 a.m. Monday thru Friday and after noon Saturday and Sunday. Call 267-2511, ext. 2701 for further information.

The May 21-22 storm "Pamela" left thousands homeless and destruction estimated in hundreds of millions of dollars. Damage to military facilities alone is expected to run more than $100 million.

B-52 aircraft flew to safety as the storm approached.

The Military Airlift Command (MAC) has been heavily involved in the massive rebuilding task. Toward the end of May MAC had delivered 304 passengers and 831.5 tons of cargo to the island.

portunity to attend a summer camp.

Twelve boys spent Monday thru Thursday at the base with a busy schedule that included bowling, swimming, sports at the gym and tours of the base. Next week girls will take part in a similar program.

Besides the usual activities found at other camps, the youths got to view displays of Air Force jets, visited the base fire station and were given physicals, dental checkups and tips on hygiene by the staff of the base hospital.

Yearly, the Webb Junior Officer Council sponsors the camps for the youngsters, ages 8-13. The council holds special events to raise funds to pay for the food and other incidentals.

Special T-shirts with the "Camp Mesquiter" insignia went to each camper this year as identifying badges and keepsakes.

The project officer for Camp Mesquiter, 1st Lt. Andy Wilson gave credit to the volunteers, organizations and people on base who helped make this year's camp a success.

ATC safety award won by Webb's J. C. Clark

SSGT. J. C. Clark of the fuels management branch of Supply at Webb AFB received the Air Training Command (ATC) Individual Ground Safety Award for his "outstanding accident prevention efforts."

He received an engraved desk pen set and a Certificate of Merit from ATC along with letters of citation. Sgt. Clark as the safety supervisor of his branch conducts weekly briefings for those assigned.

The letter of notification to the wing commander was signed by Col. Gerald A. Kutz, director of safety, ATC Inspector General's office. He said, "... Sgt. Clark established and maintained a highly effective safety program. During 1975, fuels management personnel issued approximately 17 million gallons of fuel by tank truck and drove thousands of miles, both on and off base, all without a single accident."

"I am proud of the enviable safety record enjoyed by Webb AFB and Air Training Command," Col. Harry A. Spannaus, wing commander, wrote the sergeant. "It is people like yourself that make safety an integral part of our day-to-day performance on and off the job. Your untiring efforts have contributed directly to this record."

Carrillo gets day in court

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo was to appear in state court here today to show cause why he should not be suspended from office pending the outcome of his trials on felony theft and official misconduct charges.

State Dist. Court Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville ordered Carrillo, the last member of a once politically powerful South Texas family still holding public office, to appear after he was indicted by a Duval County grand jury for the ninth time.

Carrillo, brother of former District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo, faces four indictments for official misconduct and five for felony theft. The latest indictment, returned last month, accuses him of stealing materials from Duval County at a time when he was free on bond on the other charges.

Hester was believed to have been holding up the removal suit, pending the outcome of Carrillo's appeal of his federal conviction. Today's hearing was set immediately after the grand jury turned over the latest indictment to Hester.

Carrillo, who is also a brother of former State Rep. Oscar Carrillo, easily won reelection as county commissioner from the Benavides area of Duval County in a recent Democratic primary runoff election. Carrillo had been county commissioner since 1967 when Atlee Parr, brother of the late George B. Parr, died.

Following today's hearing, Carrillo must appear in federal court at Corpus Christi Monday for a hearing on a government motion to have his $10,000 appeal bond revoked on grounds that he is a danger to his community.

ON CALL — Peter Reilly, who faces a new trial in the slaying of his mother, waits for a call in his new job as an ambulance driver. The 21-year-old Falls Village, Conn., man got the job in April after a judge ruled that the first trial was a "grave injustice." Reilly has been free on bond since the manslaughter conviction in 1974.

Six new natural elements found

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Scientists at Florida State University say they have discovered three and possibly six new natural elements — the first new ones in 51 years.

Using a sophisticated particle accelerator, the team of physicists said Thursday that it found the new elements to be super-heavy, weighing more than uranium.

Elements, such as oxygen, copper and sulfur, constitute the fundamental building blocks which alone or in combination with other elements make up matter. The new elements were found in minute quantities in clumps of mica rock discovered by Dr. Robert Gentry of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, the scientists said.

Dr. Alex Zucker, associate director at Oak Ridge, said it was too soon to confirm the findings.

"From time to time, this hunt looks like it's going to bag something. Usually these hopes turn out to be ephemeral," he said.

However, Dr. J. William Nelson, an FSU physicist on the team, said he was confident new elements had been found because the scientists had been able to photograph the structures using X rays.

"The X rays are the final court of appeal. We have the confidence in our measurements or we wouldn't have released them," he said.

Dr. Thomas C. Cahill, a visiting professor from the University of California at Davis, first announced the discovery Thursday at a scientific meeting in Quebec, Canada, and scheduled a press conference in Tallahassee today.

Cahill said he recognized that more work would have to be done before the scientific community would be convinced of the authenticity of the team's findings.

But when the work is proven, the scientists say, they already have a name picked out for one of the elements — bicentennium.

The last natural element, rhenium, was found in 1925 in Germany.

Since then, scientists have produced man-made elements in the laboratory but these have been unstable.

Fryrear to help ready energy-use statement

D. W. (Bill) Fryrear, location leader at the U. S. Big Spring Experiment Station, is one of ten named to task force developing an energy-use statement for the Soil Conservation Society of America.

"How can we more effectively use our air resources?" is the question Fryrear is to answer.

Carey Cockerell to center post

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Carey Cockerell, assistant superintendent of the Brownwood State Home and School, will become director of the Texas Youth Council Statewide Reception Center at Brownwood on July 1, it was announced Thursday.

All delinquent youth committed to the TYC are sent first to the center, where each child is given psychological and physical examinations and any necessary medical attention.

The test results are used in determining whether the child should be placed in a halfway house or in a TYC training school.

representatives, university researchers and private individuals will be preparing statements on soils, water, plants, fish and wildlife, environmental conservation education, land use planning, erosion, waste management and outdoor recreation.

The "statement should be limited to energy issues and questions directly related to the philosophy and objectives of the society," Chester E. Evans, president of the 22,000-member strong organization, wrote Fryrear.

The statements from each division task force member will be consolidated into "one statement on energy for the society," Evans added.

Youth council given custody

District Judge Ralph W. Caton in his capacity as juvenile court judge Tuesday afternoon ordered two 15-year-old boys placed in the custody of the Texas Youth Council.

Police said the youths were caught burglarizing the Kent Oil Station, 902 Lamesa Highway, June 13.

St. Thomas sets annual festival

St. Thomas Catholic Church will hold their annual summer festival July 8-9. It will be held from 7-12 p.m. at the church each of those two nights.

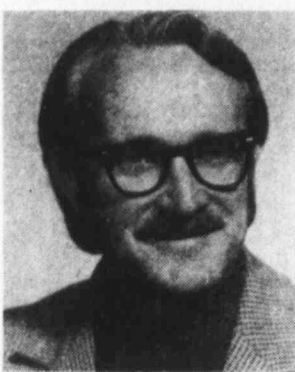

The event will include the crowning of a queen the previous week with one of three candidates to be crowned on July 3. This girl will reign over the festival as queen.

The three candidates include Teresa Lopez, sponsored by the St. Joseph Society; Elizabeth Flores, sponsored by St. Thomas CYO and Melinda Porras, sponsored by the St. Thomas Altar Society.

On the two nights of the festival, July 8-9, there will be games such as bingo, darts, dunk-a-clown and others.

There will also be Mexican food for sale with plates to go and also to eat at the festival. There will be door prizes including one large savings bond, and four $100 bonds and eight $50 bonds.

The public is urged to make plans now to attend one or both nights of the annual summer festival by members of the congregation.

BERT AFFLECK

B. Affleck assigned to El Paso

Dr. Bert Affleck, who is a native of Big Spring, has realized a long-standing ambition when the bishop recently appointed him to two El Paso ministries.

Affleck, who was minister to McMurry College the past 12 years, has grown increasingly interested in religious solutions to problems created by misunderstandings between ethnic groups.

Dr. Affleck has been named pastor of a church whose congregation includes three distinct ethnic groups. He is also now director of the Wesley Foundation at the University of Texas at El Paso.

He is with the St. James United Methodist Church which originally united a black and white congregation. Mexican-American members are now also in the church. Dr. Affleck will also join the UTEP department of religion where he expects to teach courses in religion, ethics and Bible.

Dr. Thomas K. Kim, McMurry president, said, "We shall miss him at McMurry College, but we wish him well in the attainment of this unique opportunity for intercultural ministry for which he has been preparing for many years."

Dr. Affleck was a teacher at the Sunday Night Specials at First United Methodist Church here this year.

Local man is named officer

The Association of Deacons of San Angelo (ADSA) elected Paul J. Klein of Abilene as president during the first formal meeting of that organization.

Also elected were David King, Big Spring, as vice president and Ignacio Cisneros, Odessa, as secretary-treasurer.

ADSA was formed to meet the needs of the permanent deacons expected to be ordained in this diocese in August of this year. Approximately 30 men will be ordained after the two-year training period conducted by Bishop Stephen A. Leven. A second class of candidates for the diaconate is expected to begin in January of next year.

Rock-a-Thon to raise funds for church youth

The youth of the College Baptist Church are in the process of raising money for a mission trip to Ogden, Utah next month. They will be conducting a "Rock-a-thon" in an attempt to raise the additional money needed to make the trip.

Much like a walk-a-thon, the youth will be rocking (in a rocking chair) for a time period of twenty-four hours. Each person rocking has obtained sponsors to give so much money each hour they complete while rocking. According to Gene Jones, minister of education and youth, the "Rock-a-thon" has been scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. today and continue until 6 p.m. Saturday. The youth will have a fifteen-minute break every four hours. Anyone interested in observing the group are welcome to come by the Activities Building located on North Monticello.

Celebration Midway Baptist history told feature set on TV

A July 4th celebration at an area church will be publicized on national television when the National Broadcasting Company runs a sweep of events taking place on that date.

Parker Heights Christian Church, University and Maple, Odessa, is recreating a revolutionary-day worship service with authentic costumes and properties at 7:30 p.m. July 4. This will be the third annual reenactment and is a part of the national Bicentennial Commission celebration as well as the Odessa Bicentennial Commission slate of activities.

The public is invited to join the church in celebrating the 200th birthday of this country's independence. Paul R. Weymouth and Leonard Navarre are ministers. Chairman of this year's planning committee is Gerald Fugit.

One of this year's features will be the simulation of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Colonial costumed churchgoers will be seated in authentic wooden pews and music will be provided by a harpsichord.

"What better way to celebrate this nation's birthday than to thank God for 200 years of religious freedom?" the Parker Heights minister asked. "We invite all Odessa and residents of the Permian Basin to conclude Sunday's July 4th observance by worshipping with us at this special Colonial worship service."

Philley slated to speak Sunday

A former pastor of Big Spring, Rev. D. R. Philley will be the guest speaker at the College Baptist Church this Sunday.

He will be speaking for both services in the absence of Dr. Jimmy Law, pastor, who is attending the Southern Baptist Convention in Norfolk, Va.

Rev. Philley, associate pastor of Sherwood Baptist Church in Odessa, was pastor of the Phillips Memorial Baptist Church in the early 1960s. Since that time he has served on the Home Mission field in Kansas and then to the church in Odessa. He has pastored numerous other Baptist churches in Texas.

Services will be at 10:55 a.m. and 6:55 p.m. Rev. Philley would like to invite any of his old friends to come and visit in the services.

Gospel Wagon music slated

The Gospel Band Wagon will again be on display in the Comanche Trail Park on July 4.

Sig Rogers is again in charge and said the wagon will be near the softball parks starting at 11 a.m. Sunday, July 4.

Gospel and western religious music will be featured. All gospel singing groups who would like to take part are requested to call Rogers at 267-6970.

The Midway Baptist Church is not to be confused with the former school at Midway nor with the Baptist Church group which met there for a time between 1914-1917. This was the Cedar Bluff Baptist Church, whose name was later changed to Robinson's Chapel.

The Midway Baptist Church had its beginning on March 7, 1961, in the home of J. R. Swann when Walter Barbee, Waymon Leopard, Woodrow Robinson and E. L. Sandell were named deacons.

The group attended services at the First Baptist Church in Coahoma the next Sunday, then met in the home of A. W. Rowe on Wednesday night to perfect the organization with 32 persons present.

Sunday school and church services were held in the Midway School gym until a building was purchased and set on a site of two acres which had been given by Walter Robinson. Church organizational services were held May 7, with 48 charter members and the first services were held in the Midway Baptist Church on June 25, 1961, in the wooden building which had been the former home of Westover Baptist Church.

At the time of the organization, Darrell Robinson was pastor, Mrs. Woodrow Robinson was elected church clerk, and Tommy Gilmore was hired as educational and music director.

Pastors who have served Midway Baptist Church are Darrell Robinson, Dan Oglesby, Charles Sheffield, Bartless Mills, and Rufus Wilson, who was pastor until the winter of 1975-76.

By the end of the first year, there were 120 church members with 150 enrolled in Sunday school in 15 classes

EXHIBIT HALL FOR WESTERN ART — The historic Renderbrook-Spade Bunkhouse will be the scene June 30 of a western art exhibit and sale benefiting the Ranching Heritage Center and Ranch Headquarters Association at Spade work in more than one medium, and the art exhibit and sale will include sculpture, oils, watercolors and even the well-known pencil work of Wayne Baize of Baird.

Historic Mitchell Ranch scene of gala evening

COLORADO CITY — A festive evening of the fabulous Charros, Spanish and country music, dancing and western art will take place at the historic Renderbrook-Spade Ranch near Colorado City June 30.

The benefit for the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University and the Ranch Headquarters Association, which supports the center, will feature an art exhibit and sale of the works of a dozen Texas cowboy artists, a rondalla, the International Association of Charros, a "Pickin' and Sangin'" group from Texas Tech and a chuckwagon supper.

Reservations for the benefit are $10 per person, and a special bus will leave The Museum at Texas Tech at 3:30 p.m. June 30 to take Lubbock area participants to the party.

Several hundred are expected to attend. The 12-acre Ranching Heritage Center has a score of historic ranch buildings authentically restored, furnished, and landscaped to depict the development of ranching in the American West. Mrs. Lyndon Johnson will dedicate the center July 2, beginning four days of formal opening festivities.

The symbolic Texas Tech Bicentennial Longhorn Trail Drive, June 27-July 2, from San Antonio to the Ranching Heritage Center will precede the July 2-5 opening.

SCULPTURE, OILS
Many of the artists showing at the Renderbrook-Spade work in more than one medium, and the art exhibit and sale will include sculpture, oils, watercolors and even the well-known pencil work of Wayne Baize of Baird.

In addition, artists who will participate are Tom Warren of Plainview, Jim Thomas of Amarillo, Clay Dahlbert, Hunt, and Terry Gilbreth, Clyde, all known for their sculpture; George Kovach, Stephenville, Bob Moline, Joshua, G. Harvey Jones, Austin, Jack Bryant Azle, and J. Robert Miller, Abilene, noted particularly for their oils; and watercolorists Ronald Thomason of Weatherford, Jodie Boren of Abilene and Miller.

Manuel y Los Amigos will perform in a Rondalla of six guitars. The group includes Paul Castro, Paul Navarro, Fred Escobedo, Cruz Navez, Ernest Perez and Manuel Jurado Herrera.

Norma Castro, San Antonio Charro queen, will dance a zapatiado, "El Sone de la Negra," and the San Angelo Charros will parade and demonstrate trick roping. Guests also will see the San Antonio Escaramusa Guadalupana — a girls' drill team. The women ride side saddle and perform feats of trick riding.

From Tech's music department Prof. Don Turner and student Lanny Fiel will sing a historical parade of country music, performing also on the guitar and fiddle.

INCORPORATED
The chuckwagon supper will be held at Renderbrook Spring, named shortly after the Civil War when, legend says, a Capt. Renderbrook of Fort Concho was killed during an Indian attack at the spring. The spring was incorporated in the Renderbrook Ranch owned by J. Taylor Barr in the 1870s when buffalo and cattle shared the same rangeland.

D. Hand J. W. Snyder bought the ranch from Barr in 1882 and began building the headquarters, known now as the historic White House, in the same year. A bunkhouse was started in 1883, and it is in this building that the June 30 art show and sale will be held.

In 1889 Col. Isaac L. Ellwood, the co-inventor and manufacturer of barbed wire, bought the 130,000-acre Renderbrook Ranch. Two years later he added the Spade Ranch — 128,000 acres in Hale, Hockley, Lamb and Lubbock counties. The spread was expanded by his son, W. L. Ellwood, making it one of the largest Texas ranches. Great-grandchildren of Col. Ellwood, Frank H. Chappell Jr. and Mrs. B. D. Bassham now are co-owners of the Renderbrook-Spade.

There is standing at the Ranching Heritage Center of The Museum of Texas Tech University a blacksmith shop which once served the Renderbrook-Spade near Colorado City, and Texas Tech's Southwest Collection also has been given several hundred thousand leaves of Ellwood family material dating back to 1860.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Northcutt are the hosts for the June 30 evening. Northcutt is manager of the Renderbrook-Spade.

The governor personally inspected Thursday the areas damaged by floods caused by rains up to 13 inches Tuesday and Wednesday and then sent a telegram to the White House.

In the giant Texas Medical Center, where basements in virtually every institution in the complex were flooded, damage was estimated at $10 million.

Briscoe said he was told there also is at least $700,000 worth of damage to the Houston Contemporary Arts Museum which also suffered basement flooding.

Letter bomb recognized by woman

HOUSTON (AP) — An FBI spokesman says the wife of an Exxon USA executive may have averted near tragedy when she recognized that a letter forwarded to her new address contained a terrorist letter bomb.

Marjorie Dennstedt, wife of Frederick Dennstedt, Exxon vice president for refining, found the envelope Thursday in the noon mail along with other letters, authorities said.

Houston bomb squad officer J. C. Ashby, who disarmed the letter bomb, said the hand-cancelled envelope had been sent June 11, but was forwarded because the Dennstedts had moved and it was mailed to their old address.

He said she recognized the letter because she had been warned by her husband to be on the watch for suspicious mail. She immediately put the envelope back in the mail box and called her husband, who notified authorities.

"She was very lucky," said John Reilly, assistant special agent in charge of the FBI here. "The bomb was fully active and if opened would have detonated and probably caused a great deal of damage."

Reilly said the letter, later described by bomb squad officials as about nine inches by 12 inches and postmarked Texarkana, Tex., would be forwarded to the Washington FBI lab.

The FBI said the letter bomb appeared to be similar to those which have showed up previously in various parts of the country in what has been described as an extortion plot.

"There is no question about it being a disaster area," Briscoe said after a helicopter tour. "The disaster teams are to be congratulated on the fine job they've done."

Cotton insect control program is under way

The Howard County Cotton Insect Control program got under way recently with the hiring of John Echols, Coahoma, and Bert Wristen, Lamesa.

These men will be the insect survey team for Howard County. Both men are being paid with funds contributed by county cotton producers.

The scout team will be making complete insect counts on approximately 40 fields that were selected by the board of directors of the Howard County Cotton Producers Association. On the selected fields, the team will be making aphid, thrip, plant bug, boll weevil, beneficial insect, bollworm egg and larvae counts.

In addition, the team will monitor the small square set, and damage caused by boll weevils and bollworms. The information collected from these fields will be tabulated and analyzed by James T. Lee, county extension entomologist.

The information will also be forwarded to Texas A&M to be used by their computers in designing an expected cotton insect model for this area. Besides the complete insect counts, the team will be making spot checks in fields at random for boll weevils.

Another important part of the program that the team will be conducting is an overwintering boll weevil survey. There are 29 boll weevil lure traps placed in the county. These traps attract overwintered boll weevils with a synthetic lure.

Boll weevil counts from these traps will give some indication of the size of the spring boll weevil emergence and will indicate generally the area the boll weevils are overwintering.

To date, the most boll weevils have been trapped about four miles southeast of Coahoma. Fifty-eight boll weevils were caught in one trap there last week.

Boll weevils were also trapped four miles east of Brown. The majority of the traps will give some indication of the size of the spring boll weevil emergence and will indicate generally the area the boll weevils are overwintering.

Meanwhile, scientists identified the chemical as orthochloro-benzylidene-maleonitrile, a military riot control agent.

Dr. Richard Caprioli, professor of biochemistry at the University of Texas Medical School, said tests showed "it came from a batch that is ultimately pure."

Reinette Cottingham, with the American Red Cross, said about 2,215 families suffered loss or damage in the flooding which also was directly or indirectly responsible for the deaths of at least eight persons.

"So far we've fed more than 1,000 persons," she said.

In last year's flooding the Red Cross spent $172,000. This year, she said, the agency projects a cost of more than $200,000.

In McBride campaign

Agents, crowds missing

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Roger MacBride's presidential campaign lacks the Secret Service agents who accompany most major candidates — but the crowds are sometimes missing, too.

At a campaign stop in Cheyenne Thursday, the Libertarian party's candidate for president emerged from his red, white and blue twin-engine plane and walked alone in the rain from the airport apron to the terminal.

He looked for a familiar face in the almost empty terminal. Then a group of supporters in the airport coffee shop spotted him and came running — all six of them.

MacBride admits his lack of aides and Secret Service agents and his small number of supporters inspire "a certain quizzicality" among observers at first.

But he said the jostling stops when he begins outlining the Libertarian party platform, which he said is based on the idea that "government intervention" is ruining the lives of Americans.

The burly 46-year-old's accomplishments range from being the cocreator of a primetime television series, "Little House on the Prairie," to practicing law with a large New York firm.

He said he believes government should be reduced by a "top to bottom miniaturization program" which would "cut and slash" bureaucracy at the federal, state and local levels.

MacBride, whose campaign is funded by donations to the party, said he would refuse matching federal campaign funds and the accompanying Secret Service protection — even if eligible — because both services are contrary to the party philosophy of reducing the role of government.

"The other candidates are like birds on a telephone line who need to spend gigantic sums of money to differentiate themselves from one another," he said.

The Libertarian party was founded five years ago in Colorado and now has chapters in every state. It favors elimination of personal income taxes, protection of First Amendment rights and legalization of marijuana. It opposes gun controls.

MacBride and vice-presidential running mate

David Bergland, an ex-fireman and attorney from Newport Beach, Calif., have been barnstorming the country since they were nominated at the party convention last September.

Four die Social Security checks will be boosted July 3

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A federal security agent and three persons identified as members of an urban guerrilla group were killed in a police raid in Culiacan, officials said today.

Police said the guerrillas were members of the "23rd of September Communist League," blamed for a recent rash of assassinations and kidnappings in Mexico.

Residents of the coastal town about 400 miles southwest of the U.S. border and 660 miles northwest of Mexico City said federal security agents raided the house Thursday evening and were met with a hail of bullets from the occupants.

Municipal police said they went to the house in response to an anonymous phone call. They said they found two bodies in a pool of blood and two persons critically wounded.

Police said one of the wounded was Froila Rendon Estrada, known as "El Cubanito" and a member of the guerrilla group, and the other was the security agent.

Social Security beneficiaries will notice a 6.4 per cent increase on checks starting with those delivered July 3, said Don Minyard, branch manager for the Social Security Administration.

The average recipient in the seven-county area which the Big Spring branch serves will see his check amount increase $9.60 to $160 per month.

The local office is responsible for serving 14,000 beneficiaries in Howard, Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin, Mitchell and Scurry Counties, Minyard said. In Howard County, he estimated 4,700 receive Social Security payments.

The increase totals approximately $50,000, pushing total monthly benefits received here to $820,000, Minyard said.

Cost of living increases are computed and added to Social Security checks every June, Minyard said.

Last June, the same percentage, 6.4 per cent, was applied, he said.

Yanks leaving Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Some Americans were expected to leave Beirut today with a British convoy for Damascus, but no mass exodus of the 1,400 U.S. citizens still in the Lebanese capital was anticipated. President Ford ordered the American Embassy today to organize convoys to evacuate any Americans wanting to leave following the slaying Wednesday of U.S. Ambassador Francis E. Meloy Jr., his economic counselor, Robert O. Waring, and their Lebanese driver.

Calm restored to Soweto

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police restored calm today in the black township of Soweto after a bloody two-day uprising that left at least 58 persons dead and 788 wounded. But the rioting spread to other black centers in South Africa. Trouble was reported at the black University of Zululand, at Ngoye on the east coast; at the Alexandra township just north of Johannesburg and at the Vosloorus township, about 15 miles southeast of Johannesburg.

Prosecutor demands 'death'

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — To cries of "Death!" from courtroom spectators, a government prosecutor demanded the firing squad for 13 white mercenaries captured in the Angola civil war. The 13 defendants, 10 of them British and three of them Americans, "invaded our territory in uniform with weapons for money. Where did he money come from? From the coffers of imperialism," People's Prosecutor Rui Monteiro declared in a three-hour summation Thursday. Monteiro denounced Britain, the United States, "decadent Western society" and Henry A. Mud unties Twins-Tigers

By The Associated Press
The Detroit Tigers were fit to be tied... but the umpires said the playing field wasn't. "It was solid mud," said umpire-in-chief Jerry Neudecker, explaining why he called off a 4-4 game between the Tigers and the Minnesota Twins in the bottom of the sixth inning Thursday night. "Sure, you could put sand on the field, but you can't put it all over the infield."
Unfortunately for the Tigers, they scored their four runs in the top of the sixth. So when the proceedings were washed out with one out and two Minnesota runners aboard in the bottom of the inning, the score reverted back to the end of the fifth and a 4-0 triumph for the Twins.
The umpires' decision, after two delays totaling 94 minutes, sent Manager Ralph Houk into a shirt-throwing rage in the Detroit clubhouse.
"I don't want to talk to any (censored) body," he ranted. "Go talk to the (censored) umpires. They're the ones that (censored) up the game. I've played in much worse (censored) weather than this many (censored) times before. I'm going to report those (censored) umpires to the (censored) league. I've already gone in and told those (censored) myself."
"I can't blame him," Neudecker said, sympathizing with Houk but standing by his decision. "I can understand his point."

Kingman raps knuckleball to end 14-inning duel

By The Associated Press
One hit doesn't end a slump, but in the case of Dave Kingman, it usually ends a ballgame.

Kingman either strikes out or hits it out — and Thursday night, it was the latter.

"I'm still swinging at bad pitches, I'm still in a slump," Kingman insisted despite a 14th-inning home run that led the New York Mets to a 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kingman's homer was his 23rd of the season, but only his first at home since May 28. He prefers hitting on the road, obviously.

"I feel less pressure on the road," said Kingman, who hit his last seven shots away from Shea Stadium. "These last few days, I've been wishing we'd been on the road."

Despite leading the major leagues in home runs and despite a healthy RBI figure of 50, Kingman is not happy with his season. He had hoped for more consistency than just a .240 batting average, as well as fewer strikeouts.

"I have a good day and then I have a bad day," Kingman said. "I would rather be mediocre. I have been having some rather bad days lately."

Los Angeles reliever Charlie Hough will remember Thursday night's blast for a while.

"It was a bad pitch, right in the zone where he wanted it," said the knuckleballer. "It had no spin on it and it was straight. It was a knuckler."

In the only other National League game, the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the San Francisco Giants 3-2.

Kingman's eighth game-winning hit of the season came with one out in the 14th inning and landed in the left field bullpen. Skip Lockwood, 3-2, was the winner in relief of Craig Swan. For Hough, it was his second loss against seven victories.

Swan pitched the first 10 innings for New York, allowing only three base runners on three singles, the total of Dodger hits for the evening. He struck out eight. Don Sutton, the Los Angeles starter, worked the first nine innings, permitting six hits and walking two.

Phillies 3, Giants 2
Dave Cash's bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the ninth inning carried Philadelphia over San Francisco. Cash's game-winning RBI scored Garry Maddox with the winning run for relief pitcher Gene Garber, 1-1.

Women tennis at its peak?

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — From the top all the way into the ranks of the lesser-known youngsters, Chris Evert and Virginia Wade feel the quality of women's tennis is at its peak.

Chris, of course, is considered the top, the No. 1-ranked woman in the world and the top seed both for the grass tournament here and again next week at Wimbledon.

She has been saying for several days that her tennis is at a new and higher level, crediting team tennis with her improvement.

She had to be close to top form Thursday to get by Betty Stove of The Netherlands 7-5, 6-4 and reach today's semifinals against Russia's Olga Morozova, a 6-3, 6-4 winner over Rosie Casals of San Francisco.

Miss Wade, second-seeded here and the defending champion, followed with praise for the higher playing level of the entire women's circuit.

Big-name scramblers were legion. Defending champion Lou Graham and Arnold Palmer had 75. Jack Nicklaus, without a birdie, and Johnny Miller had 74. Tom Weiskopf doublebogeyed the 17th and three-putted the 18th and stalked from the course in a rage after shooting 75.

The Atlanta AC, here in the land where the late Bob Jones is legend, was buzzing with complaints from the players by the time young Reid got ready to tee off in the late afternoon — fourth from last of the threesomes.

"I heard a lot of negative talk in the locker room," Reid explained afterward. "I heard them saying the grass on the fairways was too high, the greens wouldn't hold and the pins were on knolls."

"I didn't know what was going to happen to me. I decided just to go out and try to do my best."

Briles contended he struck out Grich not once but twice but that the umpire was stricken by a severe case of blindness.

"Those last two balls to Grich were strikes and that cost me the game," he grouched.

It was the sixth straight victory for Wayne Garland, who surrendered but four hits before bowing to reliever Dave Pagan at the start of the Rangers' eighth.

the gang mowers and the grass in the fairway wasn't properly cut. This made almost everybody mad, especially Arnold Palmer. A sprinkler broke and the 18th fairway was saturated overnight. This made others unhappy.

The U.S. Golf Association formally apologized. The apology failed to soothe some ruffled feathers.

Only young Reid wasn't distressed and he seemed uncomfortable — if secretly happy — sitting up there three shots ahead of five toughened pros — Masters champion Ray Floyd, Al Geiberger, Rod Funseth, Rick Massengale and John Mahaffey, all tied at even par 70 — with the rest of the 149-man field strung out all the

Nobody bit him

Amateur leads Open

DULUTH, Ga. (AP) — The skinny kid with the close-cut haircut and high-pitched voice was almost apologetic.

"I had toothpicks in my eyes," said 21-year-old Mike Reid, an amateur out of Brigham Young University, an army brat whose young life reads like a travel poster.

"I kept looking at the leader board. It's neat to see your name on the leader board. I went out expecting to shoot an 80. Every minute I expected something to come up and bite me."

Nothing did, so the youngster finished in the gathering dusk at the Atlanta Athletic Club with a three-under-par 67 that gave him the first-round lead by three shots over a field of the world's best professionals in the 76th U.S. Open Golf Championship.

Nobody else broke par.

Instead, the opening round of golf's most prestigious event saw most of the game's elite fuming and fussing over playing conditions. It was a day of bogeys and double bogeys, complete frustration for the players and blushing embarrassment for the course superintendent and the tournament brass.

Jackson lowers the boom, Baltimore drums Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Unwanted by Charles Finley and booed in his new surroundings, Reggie Jackson returned Thursday night to the friendly confines of Arlington Stadium and scuttled his favorite target, the Texas Rangers.

Jackson, the volatile slugger traded by Oakland to Baltimore, unloaded a soaring three-run homer in the eighth inning that lifted the Orioles to a 4-1 victory.

"It's not really this park," Jackson said. "It just doesn't matter to me. People complain about the wind. ... I'm lucky to be stronger than most guys and I feel I'm capable of hitting the ball through the wind."

"If it doesn't blow, that's a bonus," Jackson, who has a history of success against the Rangers, said he feels he's shaking out of a hitting slump that has dogged him since his stormy, delayed arrival at Baltimore.

Despite recent booing from Baltimore fans, Jackson said, "I want to give the Baltimore fans their money's worth. ... It's taken a while to make the adjustment, but I'm beginning to bat a little better each day."

"I hope I can get it going and help this club. Of course, I want to be paid what I'm worth. I put people in a ball park. And I've helped a championship team before."

A two-base error by Mike Hargrove at first put Al Bumby on second base, and then loser Nelson Briles, 3-6, walked Bob Grich to set the stage for Jackson's homer, his fifth.

Briles contended he struck out Grich not once but twice but that the umpire was stricken by a severe case of blindness.

"Those last two balls to Grich were strikes and that cost me the game," he grouched.

It was the sixth straight victory for Wayne Garland, who surrendered but four hits before bowing to reliever Dave Pagan at the start of the Rangers' eighth.

Sun Devils meet Arizona eighth time in semi-finals

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Arizona and Arizona State will try again tonight to decide who plays Eastern Michigan for the title in the 30th College World Series.

Rain forced postponement Thursday night of the fifth-round matchup of the two Arizona schools. The winner of the intra-state battle will meet Eastern Michigan, 46-15, for the series crown Saturday night.

Arizona, 54-17, and top-rated Arizona State, 65-9, were first-round foes in the series with Arizona State rallying for a 7-6 victory in 10 innings. The Sun Devils have beaten Arizona in all seven meetings this year.

"Rain sure doesn't help us any," said Eastern Coach Ron Oestrike. "Our pitcher (Bob Welch) was rested anyway. It could help the Arizona-Arizona State survivors because it will give their pitcher that much more rest."

Eastern Michigan, which came to the series third-ranked behind Arizona State and Arizona, received a bye into the finals by winning its first three series games.

Arizona is expected to pitch senior right-hander Steve Powers, 10-4, against Arizona State. Don Hanna, 15-0, including one series victory, will be Arizona State's pitcher.

The rainout was the first in the eight-team, double-elimination series that began June 11.

TOP PROSPECT — Floyd Bannister of Arizona State takes command of the pitcher's mound at the College World Series. Scouts pulled cited Bannister as the top prospect among series players.

Daughters trapped by elderly Mother

DEAR ABBY: My mother is 88 and lives with my sister. Every time my sister wants to take a trip, my mother insists that I stay with her. The problem is that it is not always convenient for me, but she absolutely refuses to have a "sitter," as she calls them.

Mother has over half a million dollars in the bank and investments that pay her a very handsome steady income, so she can well afford a live-in companion.

When we (her daughters) were growing up, she was far from a loving mother. She used to abuse us, physically and verbally, so we have very little love for her. (How could we have?)

My husband resents the fact that we are not free to make plans. We are both retired and have ample income, so Mama's inheritance means nothing to us. We just want to live our own lives. Please help.

TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Why are you trapped? If you feel that your mother's demands are unreasonable, tell her so. And if she disobeys you, she disobeys you! There is no price tag on your independence, unless you yourself place one there.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and now planning my wedding. I have three older sisters who are all married. The eldest is 27. My problem is that I can't afford to have more than four attendants.

Everyone in my family (especially my mother) has been pressuring me to have my sisters in the wedding party, or at least to have my oldest sister as my matron of honor.

I love my sisters very much, and don't want to hurt them, but I think a wedding is the time to show friends how much you think of them. My sisters already know how much I care for them.

Also, my friends are much prettier and can add more class to my wedding than my sisters can. Is there anything wrong with my feeling this way?

WEDDING PROBLEMS

DEAR PROBLEMS: If you really want to show "class," ask your eldest sister to be your matron of honor and your other two sisters to be bridesmaids. And select one friend to show her how much you care for her.

DEAR ABBY: IOWAN wrote: "The man who wanted to sue his parents for having circumcised him as an infant is lucky he wasn't living in the 18th century. In those days they castrated young males to combine the power of the adult male singer with the high range of the female alto or soprano."

You replied, "That's news to me."

Abby, in my teens, I heard one such singer. He was called a "castrato," and it was common knowledge how the effect was created.

I have been singing for about 75 years, but when I was a lad in my teens and had just started taking voice lessons, the Vatican choir came to my town on tour. One of its members was a portly man in his middle years who sang with a pure soprano voice and again, everybody knew how he could do so.

I was told that he was one of the last to have had the castration operation before it was outlawed.

RAIN INTERRUPTS ACTIVITIES — People try to move autos from a service road in Houston Tuesday following a heavy rainfall which hit the city. The Astros-Pittsburgh baseball game at the Astrodome was postponed due to the rain. The dome did not flood, but all streets leading to the area were under water. Members of the Big Spring Assembly of Rainbows were in Houston at the time of the rains. The Astrodome can be seen in the far right corner of the photo.

Houston rains shorten stay for Big Spring Rainbows

By CAROL HART

The heavy rains which plagued Houston this past week caught a group of West Texas residents in the midst of rising water.

Rainbow assemblies from Big Spring and Midland traveled to Houston to attend the annual state convention which was to run from Sunday through Wednesday. According to Phyllis Hart, Worthy Associate Advisor for the Rainbows, the convention was shortened by the rain.

According to Miss Hart, the delegates arrived in Houston Sunday afternoon. The group stayed in the Holiday Inn located in the Astroworld hotel complex, across the street from the Astrodome. The bulk of the convention was held in the Sam Houston Convention Center.

The girls toured Astroworld Sunday evening. Monday morning the convention officially got under way.

Tuesday, many of the girls were in their hotel when the rain began to fall.

The skies were overcast Tuesday morning when the girls went to various sessions. The rain was falling hard when the girls broke for lunch at 12:30.

According to Phyllis, the girls noticed the heavy flooding during supper in the motel. "The street between Astroworld and the hotel complex started flooding. The lights went out. All electricity was shut off until early the next morning," she said.

"We had to feel our way up the stairs and down hallways in the hotel. There was still daylight coming in windows, but some areas were very dark."

From the hotel, the group watched Astroworld visitors fighting the water. "The water had risen waist-deep in the road in front of the hotel. We watched people making their way back from Astroworld toward the hotel complex. Many of the people coming to the hotels did not have rooms there. They were just coming for shelter," said Miss Hart.

The group watched cars flood on the road. Several cars tried to make it down the road, and looked like boats in the water, Miss Hart said.

People were lined up at the hotel phones trying to make calls, said Miss Hart. The kitchen of the Astroworld Hotel ran out of food for those stopping during the rain.

When the rain stopped later that evening, several girls went out to view the results of the rain. Miss Hart said her group found a candle in the water in the parking lot. That candle was used later to guide the group in the darkness of the unit hotel.

One family making their way in the waist deep water toward the hotel noticed the sign welcoming the Rainbow girls to the convention. The mother of the group had been a Past Grand Charity in the organization. She contacted one of the Big Spring sponsors, Mrs. Mary Ben Wright, who arranged for the family to share lodging with several of the girls. The mother and her daughters shared rooms with Big Spring delegates, while the boys slept out in the hotel hallways.

Not all areas of Houston flooded, but the Sam Houston Coliseum was one that did. The convention was shortened, and the Big Spring group headed for home Wednesday. They arrived around 11:30 that night.

Sponsors attending from Big Spring were Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Edie Fryar and Mrs. Pat Parmenter. Rainbow girls attending from Big Spring were Robin von Rosenberg, Pam Parmenter, Phyllis Hart, Cheryl Welander, Jean Alice Knox, Cappy Tatom, Susan Thomas and Cindy Roberts.

Memorial services held for deceased members

Members of the Rebekah chapter 284 received news at their recent meeting that Mrs. Alma Blain, El Paso, had died recently.

Memorial services were conducted at the Rebekah's meeting for members of Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges that have died recently. The draping of the charter is to be conducted in Mrs. Blain's memory at the June 22 meeting.

Mrs. Marian Saville read a poem entitled "Tribute to Father's Day."

Ms. Shirley Christie will be initiated into the chapter at the June 22 meeting. A salad supper will also be held at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson reported on their recent trip to Corsicana. They brought back observations on the degree work done by members of Theta Rho, the future youth of Oddfellow and Rebekah lodges.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 19, 1976

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to stick to what has proven to be advantageous and successful in the past. The unknown has some unpleasant aspects to contend with. A new project needs more study to be successful.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Visit congenials and have a good time at recreations you mutually enjoy. Take no chances when in motion tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Try to cooperate more with kin and make better plans for the future. Personal affairs are best handled with the aid of others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Plan your time wisely so you can accomplish a great deal today. Allow time to engage in your favorite hobby later in the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You need to handle an important financial matter early in the day. Study your surroundings and make needed repairs.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): A good day to stay at home and organize your personal affairs, so all runs smoothly in the days ahead. Do some entertaining tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): You may have a new interest in mind, but this is not for you, so forget it. Await a better day for this. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): An associate could be quite demanding but use tact and avoid a confrontation. Make plans to have more abundance in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Make sure to keep calm when handling an important duty early in the day. Take the health and beauty treatments you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Engage in recreations you enjoy with congenials. Persevere in a goal you have and achieve success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Strive for more harmony at home. Not a good day to entertain, so spend time reading and watching TV.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You could be letting your imagination run away with you today, so calm down and be more practical. Check reports for possible errors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Consult a business expert and make long range plans for the future. Take time for inexpensive recreation later in the day.

Researchers turn trash to fuel?

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Researchers at Texas A&M University think they may be able to convert trash from food and fiber into energy on a broad scale.

Their study was discussed in a recent newsletter published by A&M's Center for Energy and Mineral Resources.

Texas is one of the top three agricultural states, with more than 20 million acres of cotton, wheat, grain sorghum and corn planted last year. Large quantities of crop residues are produced, the publication noted.

"There are already a few cotton gins which are using cotton trash for energy, primarily through capturing heat from incinerators and using the heat for drying the cotton lint," said Dr. Wayne LePort.

LePort, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, said three to four million bales of cotton are produced in Texas each year, with up to four billion pounds of trash collected at the gins.

Since a single pound of cotton trash has 7,000 to 8,000 Btu's (British thermal units) of theoretical heat value, the total energy value would amount to more than 30 trillion Btu's, he said. This is three-fourths of the total annual energy requirement of all of Texas' state agencies and state-financed colleges.

If, in addition, cotton trash was picked up from the fields, cotton trash could provide the agencies' and colleges' full energy requirement.

"Grain sorghum also has possibilities as an energy source," the publication stated. Sugar cane grown in the Lower Rio Grande Valley has "enormous energy potential."

The questions, researchers say, "can these wastes be collected into useable forms of energy in an economical matter?"

Midlander named TRC president

Headed by Mike Love, Love's Mountain Burger of Midland, as president, a new slate of officers and directors takes over the reins in July of the Permian Basin Restaurant Association for 1976-77.

The transition officially comes with the close of the 39th Annual Texas Restaurant Association Convention being held June 21-24 in San Antonio.

New officers for the Permian Basin Chapter of TRA, in addition to Love, are Tim Green, The Barn Door, Odessa, senior vice president; H. H. Blankenship, H. H. Blankenship Restaurant, vice president, and Roy S. Fields, Field's Restaurant, secretary-treasurer, both of Midland.

Regular directors include Richard Townsend, Coker's Restaurant, Big Spring; and James A. Sturgill, Sonic Drive-In, Lamesa.

Associate directors include Charles S. Lusk, Texas Electric Service Co., Big Spring.

Desegregation order issued

MIDLAND — A federal district court has ordered the Midland Independent School District to submit "alternate methods of achieving desegregation" for five of the district's elementary schools.

Ridin' fence

No time for farewell

with Marj Carpenter

It's getting kind of scary out here. I'm afraid they're going to start charging fees to go through the gates while I'm out riding fence.

After all, the city slipped through a 50-cent fee on using Moss Creek Lake Park while we were all asleep at the switch Tuesday.

It was one of the few free facilities left for John Q. Public. And it's really a shame to charge cars to get in the gate out there.

Of course, at this moment (before they hold an emergency session and start charging for that) you can still drive through Comanche Trail Park.

The real shame of the matter was in calling the proposal an emergency, simply to slip it by the public fast. The public made a lot of noise several years ago when the fee was brought up. The proposal was approved by the parks and recreation board, a study committee and the council, however, in a unanimous vote.

I can't believe they were really thinking the matter over clearly that morning. An emergency, according to good old Webster, is "a sudden, urgent, usually unforeseen occurrence requiring immediate action."

There was nothing sudden, urgent or unforeseen about that fee.

There have been several occasions when I was a little bit blue, or a little bit tired, or a little bit discouraged when I drove out to Moss Creek and looked at the water and came home. It was a sanctuary for me. Some of those occasions were when I was being attacked rather loudly for support of the city.

And I do support the city on almost every occasion because I have found them to be a progressive group that usually has the best interests of the public at heart.

But I never automatically endorse everything of anybody. I never took a picnic lunch out there, or dropped a hook in the water, but there have been times I sat and looked at Signal Peak, stared at the water, and drove back to town. Scratch that. It's the principle of the thing. I probably won't go back unless to a special event. They shouldn't need the fee. Even though the state and county are putting in an expensive new bridge.

I guess I can still drive

I REMEMBER THIS ... before the fee through Comanche Trail Park, or get out and walk down the hike and bike trail. I hope they don't put a toll on that trail, or charge us a quarter to use the picnic tables, and 10 cent to stop and smell the roses.

If somebody decides it's necessary, I hope they at least allow two readings and don't call it an emergency. I am trying to say that I understand that the city pays a caretaker and has expenses at the lake.

The city also pays street workers and has "mucho expenses" on the streets, but I hope they don't put up toll stations. But they might, on all four corners by the Big Spring Herald. The best things in life aren't always free anymore.

Sorry to disappoint the readers today, but I was upset because they just closed off one of my fences. And they did it so fast that I didn't even get one last look at the creek, while out ridin' fence.

Purported will of Hughes filed
HOUSTON (AP) — A purported will of the late mystery billionaire Howard Hughes was filed for probate here today.

Lawyers for former top Hughes aide Noah Dietrich of Los Angeles said they would file the document in the probate court of Judge Pat Gregory.

The document also has been filed for probate in Las Vegas, where it was delivered after being found April 17 in the Mormon Church headquarters in Salt Lake City.

Retirement plans
NEW YORK (AP) — The Institute of Life Insurance says some 50 million persons are enrolled in retirement plans other than Social Security.

It says, "This includes nearly half of all workers in commerce and industry in the United States and three quarters of local, state and federal government civilian personnel."

WTU, Snyder seeking water discharge changes

Applications to amend wastewater discharge permits held by the West Texas Utilities Company of Abilene and the City of Snyder, and a request for a new permit to discharge treated domestic sewage effluent from a Comanche County subdivision treatment plant will be considered by a Texas Water Quality Board hearing commission meeting June 30 at 10:00 a.m. in the Abilene City Hall Council Chamber.

The West Texas Utilities Company, operating the Paint Creek Steam Electric Station at the northeast end of Lake Stamford in Haskell County, is seeking a permit amendment to recognize the commingling of boiler blowdown with once-through cooling water as an acceptable method of pH control, thereby eliminating the present permit requirement of an evaporation pond for the boiler blowdown. The proposed permit change also establishes pollutant limitations for boiler blowdown and metal cleaning wastewater, not found in the existing permit.

The facility has an average flow, not to exceed 253,800,000 gallons per day of industrial wastewater effluent, and discharges into Lake Stamford, Paint Creek, Clear Fork of the Brazos River, and the Brazos River.

An amendment for the City of Snyder water treatment plant is to provide for an increase in the permitted average daily flow of treatment plant wastes, and discharge will be to Deep Creek, Big Sulphur Creek, and the Colorado River.

FAR Village of De Leon is making application to discharge treated domestic sewage effluent from a subdivision treatment plant located approximately five miles northeast of Comanche on State Highway 16 and three miles east on FM Road 2861. The effluent will be used for irrigation on a 100-acre coastal bermuda grass pasture.

Residents in the area are now using septic tanks.

Shorthorn tour set June 26

A Big Country Shorthorn Tour is slated June 26.

Participants in the event, sponsored by the Big Country Shorthorn Association, will meet at the Howard County Fair Barns at 9:30 a.m.

From here, they will go to Parmenter Parish, where Henry Parmenter, association secretary-treasurer, will show 25 cows headed by the performance-tested bull.

After a barbecue beef lunch, plans for a spring sale will be made, and the fall show program will be discussed.

Then, they will visit the Tumbleweed Farm. There, Lester and Joyce Adams will exhibit a herd of show cattle.

The Wilbour Bingham farm is next. At Alex and Poly Arthurs place, a herd of Thieman Shorthorns will be seen.

At 7 p.m., the group will eat at Manuels in Odessa.
