La Follette In Texas To Get 35,000

The Vote of John W. Davis Will Depend on the Size of Vote Cast on Election Day Says Fitzgerald.

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

JOHN W. DAVIS' majority in Texas will all depend on the size of the vote cast on election day. Two years ago the republican candidate for governor received 87,000 votes. This year the republican leaders hope to increase the republican vote for Coolidge and Dawes far beyond that cast for their ticket two years ago. Col. Zeke Marvin, until very recently dragon of the klan, has declared his intention of voting for Coolidge and the entire republican ticket but just how many of his followers are klansmen before they are democrats, is impossible for this writer to say. According to Col. Billy Mayfield the Dallas Colonel was a republican when he came from Indiana to Texas. If so then he has returned to his first love.

There are many business men in Texas who favor the Mellon plan for taxation—many who call themselves democrats. If money talks then they will vote for Coolidge and Dawes. If democracy comes first with them they are expected to support Davis and Bryan. One of the wisest politicians in Texas, a man who seldom appears in print, in a heart to heart talk with the writer declared that the LaFollette electors would receive 35,000 votes in Texas as a minimum and that the vote might go to 50,000.

* * *

LA FOLLETTE has never visited Texas. Wheeler started for Dallas and missed the train at El Paso. A dozen minor advocates of the cause have appeared at different points in the state. In railway circles, not among the big wigs but among the wage earners, LaFollette is expected to cut into the democratic and republican vote. The Wisconsin senator is said to be strong in all the railway centers of the commonwealth. He is not strong in the farming districts of the state for reason that the leaders of the farmer-labor organization are democrats and are working within the democratic camps.

They were for William Gibbs McAdoo and in the trade that Tom Love is said to have made with Col. Zeke Marvin it was stipulated that two representatives of the farm-labor organization and one representative of the rail oragnizations should be sent to the New York convention as delegates at large. They were sent, McAdoo was defeated and the farm labor organization backed T. W. Davidson for governor. This over the leaders declared for Mrs. Ferguson in the runoff campaign and those who are close to them say that they will be for Mrs. Ferguson on November election day.

* * *

ORGANIZED labor was handed a body blow in Texas when William P. Hobby was governor. His lawmakers enacted the open port law and this law, the labor leaders and their followers say, is the greatest menace that organized labor has ever had to deal with in any American commonwealth. Governor Neff invoked the law when the rail strike was on and the soldiers and rangers made short work of the strikers in all the railway centers of Texas.

It will be recalled that a republican attorney general, Harry M. Daugherty, had his famous injunction issued while this rail strike was on. And that a republican federal judge, Anderson of Indiana, issued a blanket injunction covering the republic wherever a rail employe was on strike, the most remarkable injunction ever issued in a civilized country. This was known as the shopmen's strike and rail employes in Texas suffered severely.

Striking shopmen who were charged with violating the letter or the spirit of the injunction were shown scant consideration. In Chicago and many other cities they demanded jury trials. They demanded jury trials in the southwest. Their contentions were brushed aside. Now, the supreme court of the United States has ruled that these strikers who were punished were entitled to trial by jury. And everywhere in railway circles, including those in Texas, there is joy in the hearts of these wage workers.

* * *

THEY can thank the democrats for the decision of the supreme court. That court sustained one of the most important provisions of the Clayton Act, which was passed by congress at the insistance of the American federation of labor and signed by president Woodrow Wilson who then warned judges that the act was intended to teach them to safeguard human liberties.

Warren S. Stone is the voice of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of America. Speaking of the high court decision he declared the Clayton law was enacted to curb the injunction evil and prevent the judge from being prosecutor, judge and jury combined. There are 80,000 railway employes in the southwest. Thousands of these are expected to vote for the LaFollette electors but their leaders say they will vote for the democratic nominees for state office as at least six of these nominees had their indorsement prior to either the primary or the run-off campaign. Organized labor was shown no special favors by the thirty-sixth, the thirty-seventh or the thirty-eighth legislatures. Whenever the hour comes they are going to appeal to a governor and the lawmakers of Texas to either repeal or modify the open port law and they are hopeful that hour will come before the final adournment of the thirty-ninth legislature.

"FAIR AND WARMER" AGAIN

Weather Man Gets Back in Step in Wichita Falls

After shivering delightedly for the past week, Wichita Falls got back to normal yesterday and basked in a gleaming sun that sent the thermometer up to 57 degrees. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon it was comparatively hot, 85 degrees being registered by the observation bureau of the Wichita Falls Electric company.

A very slight breeze, and a warm one at that, prevailed throughout the day and drove away visions of a frosty Hallowe'en. The low temperature that has held north Texas in a soothing grip since last Tuesday night all but disappeared, and the familiar weather prediction, "fair and warmer" has come back into its own.

Long Chase Of Fugitive Auto Ended By Shot

Officers Nab Whiskey Laden Machine After Pursuit of Mile

CHARGES ARE FILED

Two Men Held for Possession and Transportation Of Booze

A mile-long chase last Sunday afternoon in which a flying Ford disgorged what the police will charge was 12 half-gallon jars of corn liquor and was finally halted by a shot through its top was revealed yesterday in the filing of charges before U. S. Commissioner Lantz against Ray Spangle and Johnnie Jones. Possession, transportation and destruction of intoxicating liquor was alleged in the government's case and bonds of $750 and $500, respectively, were set for the two. At a late hour yesterday neither had been perfected and the two defendants were still locked in the county jail.

Caught By Deputies

Capture was affected by Joe Perskey and Ollie McDonald, deputy constables from precinct 2. They happened to be in this city and were driving a small roadster on the 1600 block on Elizabeth street when they "jumped" the other machine. A chase was immediately started and led through a number of alleys and side streets in the south part of town. Although unable to overhaul the other car, the officers kept closely on its heels and finally drove it out on the Henrietta road.

Stopped By a Shot

Once in the open country the officers used their guns which they were afraid to draw in the crowded residential districts and a well-directed shot brought the fugitive car to a halt.

With the two men arrested the officers retraced the route of their flight and counted the shattered remains of 12 jars. A puddle of the fluid was soaking up around the glass.

FORD PAID TAX GREATER THAN JNO. D. AND SON

Pierpont Morgan's Return Is the Surprise Of Notables

DAVIS' $84,000

The President Handed Over A Tax Check For $6,643.01

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—While the capital is still in a turmoil over the question of whether income tax figures, made available to the public by a recent law, can be published in the newspapers, a matter which an unrevoked clause in the old law prohibits, notables whose income tax payments for 1923 have already been published, are letting their displeasure be known.

Plainly, some of them are distressed. Not that there is the slightest suspicion that any of them are guilty of having filed a fraudulent return, but because for the first time, an idea of the actual income of many of them has been broadcast. The publicity is enabling business men to revibe their rating of competitors, and it is punching holes in the nice little balloons blown up by press agents about the salaries of public performers.

For one thing, the figures that are available show that, judging by their 1923 incomes, the wealth of Henry Ford and his son is greater than that of John D. Rockefeller and son, and the further fact revealed that John D., Sr., has transferred most of his wealth to his son, Ford, Sr., paid an income tax in 1923 of $2,247,946.10, and his son gave the government $1,984,233.43. The Ford factories paid an income of $14,449,643.04. Since the only owners of the Ford factories are Ford, Sr., his son and Mrs. Ford, the Ford income tax payment can be called $17,000,000. Rockefeller, Sr., handed over only $124,266.47, while his son, John D., Jr., paid the government a total of $7,435,169.41.

Morgan's Return a Surprise.

One of the surprises of the published returns was the fact that J. Pierpont Morgan, head of the international banking house, paid only $98,643 income tax in 1923, only about $8,000 more than Jack Dempsey, pugilist, whose federal assessment was $90,200.

Of the presidential candidates, Davis paid by far the largest amount, $84,000; Coolidge, making his payment at Northampton, Mass., handed over a check for $6,643.01, and La Follette's income tax was $641.40. Coolidge's tax will be larger this year. He did not begin to draw the $75,000 presidential income until August of 1923.

Among the many motion picture notables whose incomes have been variously reported at from $1,000,000 to $10,000,000 and up, Douglas Fairbanks was the only one to pay more than $100,000. The government got a total of $225,749.04 of the profits Doug got from "Robin Hood" and other pictures on which he drew dividends in 1923. His wife, Mary Pickford, paid the surprisingly small total of $2,444.09. She, like Fairbanks, does not get a flat salary in the movies, but draws a share of the profits of the pictures in which she appears.

Not a Barometer.

It should be remembered that income tax figures are not a reliable barometer of wealth, for the reason that many wealthy persons have a large share of their fortunes in non-taxable bonds. Then, too, in 1923, many of these may have sustained losses which reduced their incomes for that year. The federal tax paid on their 1923 income by other film stars were:

Pola Negri, $14,681.38.
Jackie Coogan, $503.85.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Conran, $4,253.45.
William S. Hart, $20,324.36.
Lew Cody, $1,008.30.
Harold Lloyd, $607,662.30.
Tom Mix, $15,356.56.
Rupert Hughes, $11,937.01.
Cecil B. DeMille, $741.55.
Will Rogers, $5,006.01.
Barbara Lamar, $1,854.16.
Antonio Moreno, $15,340.75.
Charles Chaplin, $6,863.05.
Constance Talmadge, $10,450.65.
Thomas Meighan, $31,
Richard Barthelmess, $70,000.
Lillian Gish, $773.
Payments of notables were:
Andrew W. Mellon, treasury secretary, $1,173,987.85.
E. H. Gary, steel man, $473,000.
W. Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum king, $1,154,420.
Eddie Cantor, comedian, $6,300.
William G. McAdoo, $11,150.76.
Mrs. McAdoo, $1,323.12.
Charles G. Dawes, republican vice presidential candidate, $18,269.
Rufus Dawes, brother of Charles G., $3,124.
Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, $16,753.
Al Jolson, $45,000.
Alice Brady, $16,000.
Otis Skinner, $12,000.
Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state, $3,000.
Chauncey M. Depew, $143,000.

If Tulsa Water Dosn't Flow, Engineer's Fee In Tin Can Fails Likewise

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 28.—When President Coolidge touches a button in Washington next Monday to release the waters of Spavinaw Lake, 55 miles northeast of here, into Tulsa's new $7,000,000 water system, the flood will bear to Tulsa through the huge main running to the city a sealed tin can in which will be a check for $15,000, the fee due W. R. Holway, engineer in charge of the project.

That is, the can will arrive in Tulsa if the water does, and, aside from delivering Holway's fee, it will establish the efficiency of a gravity system on which the long pipe line is constructed.

Several attempts had been made to survey a gravity route before Holway announced he had outlined a course and was given the contract to put in the line. But hundreds of doubters remained.

Then Holway proposed to the city auditor that he place a certified check sealed in a tin can in the pipe at the Spavinaw dam when the water is released, the can to be recovered by Holway at Tulsa when it reaches a reservoir in the edge of the city.

The proposal was accepted, and if the can fails to make the trip, Holway's $15,000 will never be collected.

Fuzzy Wuzzy Is Freed After 20 Years in a Cell

Osman Digna, of Whom Kipling Wrote, On Mecca Pilgrimage

Kipling On Fuzzy-Wuzzy

We took our chanst among the Kyber 'Ills
The Boers knocked us silly at a mile
The Burman gave us jungle-devilk,
An' a Zulu impi dished us up in style:
But 'all we ever got from such as they
Was pop to what the Fuzzy Wuzs us

We'old our bloomin' own, the papers say,
But man for man the Fuzzy knocked us

Then 'ere's to you, Fuzzy-Wuzzy, an

Our orders was to break you, an' of

We sloshed you with Martinis, an' it wasn't 'ardly fair;
But for all the odds agsin' you, Fuzzy-
Wuz, you broke square.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(CP)—Osman Digna, "Fuzzy Wuzzy," is free.

It has been learned here that the man who led the terribly brave fighters of the Sudan who inspired Rudyard Kipling's famous poem, has been released after more than 20 years in a cell at Wady Halfa and is now on a pilgrimage to Mecca.

British Death Trap.

About two decades ago the name of Osman Digna was synonomous with terror. As emir and principal lieutenant of the Mahdi, Osman made the Sudan a death trap for thousands of British soldiers.

His origin is not exactly known. He has been reported to be French, to be the son of a Scotch engineer and a Hadendowa woman, and as a Turk.

He first got into trouble with British authorities over the slave trade, in which he was a big factor. After his brother, Ali Digna, was captured by a British gunboat with a 100 slaves in his possession, Osman joined the holy war proclaimed in 1882 by Mohammed Ahmed, and roused the tribesmen along the coast of Sudan. He was made emir by Ahmed, "the Madhi" and launched warfare that for a long time seriously threatened the prestige of the British army.

Faith in Dying.

It is a Mohammedan belief that to die fighting in the service of the faith is a sure and immediate way of entering heaven. Fuzzy Wuzzy fought with such fanatical bravery as to capture the imagination of the world and get him into literature. Hence Kipling's poem.

Osman was not captured until 1900. In 1902 he was sent to an Egyptian prison where he remained in solitary confinement, forgotten in later years until British authorities ordered his release. He is now nearly 100 years old.

KLAN AXE OUT TO GET DAVIS IN GEORGIA?

Atlanta Constitution Quotes The Searchlight's Propaganda

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 28.—"Officials directing the presidential campaign in behalf of Davis and Bryan Tuesday were considerably excited at what appears to be an organized movement of the ku klux klan to lead the vote away from the democratic party nominees," the Atlanta Constitution says in a story that will appear tomorrow morning.

"It has been rumored for some time," the Constitution's story says, "that 'word' had been sent to klan leaders of various counties to 'cut' the democratic presidential nominees and that there is some basis for the report appears to be substantiated by receipt this week of clippings from last Saturday's Search Light, official organ of the ku klux klan, being sent from all parts of the state, indicating that the paper has been broadcast on the eve of the election with a view of injuring the democratic nominee.

"This issue of the paper contains conspicuously on the front page an article charging that in a recent address at Indianapolis, John W. Davis, appealing to the negro vote of that state, declared for 'complete equality regardless of race or creed.'

"The Search Light makes prominent display of the action of the J. R. Donalson klan of Bainbridge which denounced the above alleged utterance."

Butte Is Just A Good Old Country Boy That Plugged

So Say the Home Folks In Stephensville Of GOP Nominee

HE'S BACK FOR VISIT

Gets Royal Reception Tuesday When He Gives Address

By MARTIN ANDERSON. Record-News Staff.

STEPHENSVILLE, Oct. 28.—Dr. George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor, was at home in Erath county this afternoon.

Some 26 years ago Butte dropped into the office of the county clerk here and purchased a marriage license. Then he took his blushing bride and went back to Dublin, a few miles down the road, and was married.

Today, Stephensville and Dublin welcomed George Butte. Many are here who still recall that wedding. These came out today to shake hands with "George," "Smiling George," who hasn't changed much, at that, and to hear him speak.

Proud of Him.

These people are proud of George Butte. Those who knew him in the days of his courtship will tell you how hard this man toiled as a young teacher, and how he finally succeeded; how he gradually went up the ladder, rung by rung, through plugging away year in and year out.

"Why, I'd call him a plugger, just an honest, common-sense plugger," one of the old-timers told this correspondent, who sought the one word that defined Butte's success. "Just a good old country boy with a lot of common sense, who had vision enough to plug along and develop his brain. Did you ever read about that rail splitter, Abe Lincoln? I hear a lot of people comparing George to Woodrow Wilson. Maybe so, but his early struggles were more like those of old Abe Lincoln."

Talks at Comanche.

Dr. Butte addressed a crowd from the rear of the train at Comanche early today. He spoke briefly, presenting the question which has been one of the high lights of his campaign speeches, "Shall we vindicate the constitution or shall we vindicate James E. Ferguson on Nov. 4?"

At Dublin he left the train, was entertained with a dinner and from Dublin the candidate and the five newspapermen following him, motored to Stephensville, where Dr. Butte spoke this afternoon. From here he went to Cleo. Dr. Butte told the crowd here this afternoon of his special interest in Stephensville. "For it was here that 26 years ago I visited the county clerk's office in the county courthouse and contributed to the exchequer of this county the sum of $1.75, in return for which I received a marriage license by which I was bound to the finest woman next to my mother that ever drew breath of life.

Married In Dublin.

"We were married in Dublin, Aug. 31, 1898. She is the sister of Judge O. S. Latimore, associate justice of the criminal appeals court."

And then the candidate entered into a discussion of the campaign, declaring that he still refused, even in this eleventh hour of the fight, to condescend to mud-slinging tactics.

He referred to Ferguson taking the stump as "about the most absurd thing they've done yet." He called attention to a statement attributed to Jed Adams in Tyler, addressed "to my friends of the ku klux klan," and which said: "The democratic party stands for the things you claim to stand for."

The speaker recalled that sixty days ago "they" had referred to Kleberg as "traitors."

He then drew the parallel, declaring that "they" stood for things today that "they" did not stand for sixty days ago.

"Look into the panic-stricken faces of Ferguson and his supporters," the speaker shouted. "At last the mask is off. The people can see who is my real opponent. This is not a democratic and republican fight. It is a fight of the people vs. James E. Ferguson."

He again referred to mud-slinging, and said that he was not going to strike back. "I am not going to answer Mr. Ferguson; public records can do that. It is better to suffer wrong than to do it."

"Twilight Sleep"

Dr. James W. Gwathmey.

Medical science is deeply interested in a new and improved form of "twilight sleep" which has been used at the lying-in hospital here, to bring more than 1,000 babies safely into the world without pain to their mothers.

This new method differs from the old and once favored "twilight sleep" in that the danger of toxic effect on the child is greatly reduced.

Dr. James W. Gwathmey is given credit for this new method. His discovery consists of the use of scopolamin and morphine in a solution of to obtain the same degree of immunity from pain with one-quarter to one-sixth the quantity of scopolamin, thus reducing the possibility of harmful effect on the child.

Unlike the "blue" babies born under the influence of the old "twilight sleep" method, the children brought into the world in the new way are declared lusty and strong, and ready to "yell at once."

Butte Raps Pen System And Silences Heckler In Speech at Eastland

EASTLAND, Texas, Oct. 28.—Politics, not humanity, has ruled the administration of our penitentiary system, Dr. George C. Butte, republican candidate for governor, declared here tonight. In commenting upon the prison survey commission report showing 376 of 3,117 convicts afflicted with disease.

"When we think of the thousands of able bodied convicts who have been pardoned out of the penitentiary through political influence and turned loose upon the people of Texas, isn't it an outrage beyond words, that these poor victims of disease, who have neither friends, money or influence, have been neglected by the politicians until these patriotic physicians brought the facts to light."

"If I am elected governor, I shall urge upon the legislature the careful consideration of the prison survey commissions report."

Heckler Is Busy.

"Butte was heckled—heckled persistently at Stephenville where he spoke to a packed court room of 800. The heckling, however, was carried on by only one member of the audience. "I believe without reservation in the political reservation of the white race," Butte declared. Cheers followed the assertion. "Your party in the north does not believe in that," came this lonely voice from the audience. "But wait my dear friend," Butted replied to the heckler.

"I haven't finished."

And here he picked up a copy of the Ferguson Forum and read where "Goose-Neck" Bill McDonald had bolted Butte's nomination and declared that he was going to enter the Ferguson fold, carrying 75,000 negro votes with him.

The house rocked with applause and it was several moments before Butte could continue.

Out of Joint, He Says, in Modern Living, Thinking

City Pastor Tells University Club of Our Mispro-portions

"Modern civilization is out of joint because emphasis is not equally distributed on the things of equal value, over-emphasis placed on some things, and neglect given to others," Rev. Milo Atkinson, pastor of the First Christian church, said in a brief address to the University club Tuesday at the weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel.

"Life, as I see it, is ofttimes troubled and out of proportion because the emphasis is placed wrong. As the body must be controlled, so must the mind be controlled by right thinking," and the minister explained how right thinking and proper emphasis could be applied.

"Men and women who achieved the marvels in the scientific world are products of this age. Men who have recognized the importance of intellectual development have kept the proper emphasis on the mental, moral and physical philosophies of life."

Announcement was made of a meeting to be held in the directors' room of the Wichita State bank Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock to organize an athletic club. A committee composed of C. A. Rodgers, J. C. Hunt and Mr. Watkins was appointed to represent the club. Dr. J. W. Cantwell and W. J. Townsend both made brief talks and reading, "The Boys," by Miss Mrgaret White, completed the program.

Bridwell-Heydrick South Vernon Well Flows 300-Barrels In Two Hours

Well Takes On Appearance Of Best in Field

Hole Considered Dry Night Before Last Turns Out Better Than 3,000-Barrels

GOING INTO TANK

New Producer Showing Big Gas Pressure from Questionable Formation

Guage on the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 1 Stephens, northwest corner of section 83, H&TRR survey, block 14, South Vernon, Wilbarger county, showed a little better than 300 barrels in the two hours succeeding its being turned into a 5,500 barrel tank at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Estimates on probable production from the initial showing run between 3,300 and 3,000 barrels with no doubt expressed that the well will easily do better than 3,000 barrels.

The well is showing considerable gas, and looks like much the best well ever completed in the field, even surpassing the South Vernon Oil company's No. 1 Stephens, drilled deeper recently for an initial production of more than 2,500 barrels a day.

Thought to Be Dry.

Up until night before last the prospects for the well were considered very bad; casing had been set at 2,020 feet on a supposed lime, with a streaked formation beneath to 2,047 feet with the bottom of the hole in shale. The formation was thought to be streaked and sandy lime and not considered as likely to produce. When the well was bailed down early yesterday morning, however, gas and oil began to show through the mud and a spectacular flow was made before daylight.

The hole was refilled with mud to hold back the oil and gas until a control head could be fastened and lines laid to the 5,500-barrel tank nearby. At about 1:30 yesterday afternoon the swab was started cleaning out the hole and at 3 o'clock the flow had broken through again and was diverted to the tank, where after two hours constant flowing the tank guaged an additional 300 barrels.

Swab Out Now.

Late in the afternoon the control head was opened long enough to allow the swab to be taken from the hole. The oil instantly lifted to the top of the derrick and some difficulty was experienced in getting it back under control.

The well is located directly between the two hitherto largest producers of the field, the Wells-Guiberson No. 1 Wharton and South Vernon Oil company's No. 1 Stephens, and when it was thought to be dry there was a great deal of speculation among operators as to the kind of territory that would yield dry holes so close between two big wells.

Location for the No. 4 Stephens has been made 300 feet south and the derrick and rig will be skidded over in a few days for the new well. No. 2 Stephens to the east is a drilling offset to the gas well in section 84, while No. 3, between the gas well drilling, and the new producer, is rigging up for a deep test.

Mariand Oil company of Texas and Murchison, Fain and Golding have completed their No. 1 Griffin, northeast corner of TE&LCO survey, block 2400, and are placing it on the pump for an estimated 150-barrel well, sand at 1,305-20 feet.

The rig is being skidded a location north for No. 1 Woods in the southeast corner of block 2406.

No. 1 B. Harmel, just south of the discovery well in block 2401, is fishing at about 850 feet, while No. 2B, offsetting Maer and Staniforth to the east, is drilling at about 950 feet.

Further to the west Underwood Drilling company is shut down on No. 1 Rogers at an unreported depth.

Ragle Wells

The Panhandle Refining company and Consolidated Oil Company were drilling in their No's. D-5 and E-1, Ragle last night, both showing up for nice wells.

The D-5 is a south offset to the Davis No. 2. Sand was encountered at a depth of 1,076, and was being drilled into, casing having been set several days ago.

The E-1 is a south offset to the Grisham-Parks-Shaw-Rethek No. 1, Davis, and was being drilled into sand encountered at 1,077 feet and filling up rapidly.

The Ragle B-3, offsetting Humble to the west is drilling below 500 feet.

Sugar Coated Cod Liver Oil Tablets For Thin Wids

Forget the horrible tasting Cod Liver Oil and give the thin, puny, undeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Smith Drug Co., Tipton Drug Co. and all good pharmacists, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets 60c, and children take them like candy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

Court Throws Wichita Oil Co., Into Receivership On Application of Local Men

The appointment of L. E. Ramming as receiver for the Sunshine Consolidated Oil company, formerly the Sunshine State Oil and Refining company, was made yesterday by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court after application was made by F. W. Prechel, L. F. Ramming, William F. Ramming and J. E. Wolfe for judgment on six promissory notes held by them against the Sunshine company. The officers of the company, E. C. Jensen, H. M. Larkum, H. P. Tilden and F. G. In their complaint the petitioners set forth that they own capital stock of the company to the amount of $202,230. The condition of the company, it is further alleged, are in such shape that the creditors are approaching the stockholders for settlement.

Walter Nelson was appointed by the court to act as master in chancery in the case.

This makes the third defiuing well of the Panhandle-Knight-Hines area to the south within the last week, two of Lee Wilson's Beardon wells having failed to make producers in the 1,000-foot sand.

CUTTING DOWN ROAD COSTS

A movement to save Texas taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars each year, and at the same time to expedite the building of permanent roads has been started by the Texas Highway association, and the assistance of the state highway department has been solicited.

The plan, as laid before the highway commission, if put into operation, would bring other highly beneficial results, along with its highly desirable objective.

Texas freight rates on crushed rock and gravel used in road building is 57 per cent higher than the rate for the same distance in Louisiana and Oklahoma, President W. E. Lea of the highway association pointed out. Crushed granite, for which the producers receive 50 cents per cubic yard in the Llano-Burnet district, is assessed a $3 per cubic yard freight rate to Orange, Texas, according to data furnished by Lea. The result of this is that the business of producing road materials is virtually paralyzed, and the roads that are built cost from $1,500 to $3,000 per mile for gravel, and from $5,000 to $10,000 per mile, more than if Texas freight rates were in harmony with those of adjoining states.

At lower freight rates, greater quantities of road materials would move. This would restore a degree of prosperity to those sections, such as Llano, which produce building materials, and would improve business in many other lines, along with the gravel pits and rock crushing plants.

With these materials moving in much greater volume, Texas shortline railroads would benefit. At present, if larger rail systems are able to handle the tonnage in other states for less than half the Texas rate, it seems that Texas people and Texas business interests are not getting the best possible deal.

It is to be hoped the situation will have prompt attention and energetic action on the part of those Texas agencies which have the power to correct what appears to be both a bar to the expansion of the state highway system and an impediment to the prosperity of one principal and numerous interdependent industries.

VAUCLAIN WOULD USE 100 MILLIONS

Senator Robert M. LaFollette is responsible for the Borah investigation of slush funds. Republican leaders admit that they have spent upwards of two millions and expect to spend another million before the 4th day of November. Democratic leaders admit the expenditure of $350,000 and expect to spend $200,000 between this time and the election. LaFollette leaders say that they have spent $300,000 which was all that they could get their hands on.

It was easy work for the republicans. They just touched all the big fellows in the big manufacturing states. Samuel M. Vauclain is president of the Baldwin Locomotive works, the most gigantic of its kind in the world. Mr. Vauclain contributed $6,100 to the republican fund and $10,000 to a fund which he said was designed to protect the railroads from improper legislation.

This noted captain of industry is a man of direct action. He was grilled by a member of the Borah committee and he did not hesitate to say that he thought it would be right to use any amount of money, even if it went to $100,000,000 if that was necessary to reelect President Coolidge

Well if the plain people ever place a president in the White House how will they go about it to raise ten millions or a hundred millions to keep him there? Would the Vauclains of the republic, the men of huge fortunes or the heads of huge interprises be willing to come across when the big men agents of the administration in power saw fit to assess them or their concerns?

Samuel M. Vauclain is one of the foremost manufacturers of America. He made a most shocking admission when he declared that it would be righteous to spend $100,000,000 to retain any administration or any executive in power.

It must be true that money talks. If he did not believe it Vauclain would not have said it.

GOLDEN RULE OF MARRIED LIFE

The Golden Rule of married life is—"bear and forbear." Marriage like government is a series of compromises. One must give and take, refrain and retain, endure and be patient. Of all qualities, good temper is the one that wears and works the best in married life.

Burns, the poet, in speaking of the qualities of a good wife divided them into ten parts. Four of these he gave to good temper, two to good sense, one to wit, one to beauty—such as sweet face, eloquent eyes, a fine person, a graceful carriage; and the other two parts he divided amongst the other qualities belonging to or attending on a wife—such as fortune, connections, education and family blood.

I think there should also be another rule about married life. A rule that should be absolutely enforced. Husband and wife should make a compact not to discuss each other's faults in public. Women are more prone to do this sort of thing than men.

I'll wager if there were fifty women standing on Main street, divided into little groups talking, that sixty per cent of them would bring up the subject of their husband's idiosyncrasies.

And if the person talking left the group and joined another group, the poor husband's faults would be passed from one to another until they made the length of Main street.

More Truth Than Poetry

'TWAS EVER THUS

When smudgy men come down the street
And camp beside our lot,
And build a blazing fire to heat
A pesky iron pot,
The which, when it begins to glow,
They fill with chunks of tar
And broken stones, I know they know
I've polished up my car.

It's not as new as once it was,
That faithful car of mine,
But that's of small account, because
A day's work makes it shine.
But when at eve I drive it out,
As I am wont to do,
From every side upon it spout
Great streams of tarry goo.

Black pebbles tinkle on the cowl,
Like grimy slimy rain;
The hood and running board grow foul
With murky sticky stain,
And, 'ere a half a block I've gone,
The windshield's caked and rough
And all the polish I put on
Is covered with the stuff.

Again the brush and rag I ply
Upon the old machine;
I toil for days, but by and by
I get it fairly clean.
It soon is shining like a star,
To my delight, and then
Those fellows come and melt their tar
And coat our street again!

What Today Means to You

SCORPIO.

Today's planetary aspects are quite adverse, and do not counsel any action outside of usual routine. Any effort of a speculative or hazardous character is doomed to failure. The signs indicate, however, that it is a propitious opportunity for "putting your house in order," for mentally revamping plans and ideas that have been temporarily discarded, and for getting together material for the initiation of a fresh campaign. Self-restraint and self-control must both be exercised in order to avoid the doing or saying of those things which you should not do or say, and which, if done or said, will cause an aftermath of regret.

A child born today will, during infancy, enjoy normal health, and given proper nutrition and wholesome environment, will develop into physical normalcy. Its character will be secretive: its disposition morbid: its mentality, above the average. This child must be persuaded to mingle freely with associates of a similar age, so as to eradicate, as far as possible, its excessive secretiveness and its abnormal morbidness. It must be made to join in childhood's games, and should be given as much outdoor life as is compatible with its circumstances. It will not be a success in any sedentary or studious atmosphere, but will excel in manual, rather than mental, tasks.

If today is your birthday, you are, in your way, fairly successful, but if you are self-made, there is no reason why you should always worship your maker. You are undoubtedly fortunate in your social and family life, but there is no need to take all the credit to yourself for these conditions to which others have so liberally contributed. You never hide your light under a bushel. Rather do you set it on high, so that all the world may see it, and bask in its refulgency from away off.

A salesman can harp too much on the merits of his merchandise, and finally persuade a prospective buyer that goods which require so much verbal commendation are not worth buying. In the same way, you are so prone to advertise yourself as to convince your friends and associates that your appraisal value is subject to a large deduction for depreciation and "wear and tear."

The real, tangible assets of a human being, as well as good will, are apparent to all, and whilst advertising pays, it can become a liability and defeat the very end for which it is employed. Too little self-appreciation is just as harmful as an excessive self-appraisal. True values are to be measured by what you really are, and not by what you say you are. Blowing your own horn to the exclusion of all other instruments in the orchestra, produces noise, but does not necessarily create musical coordination.

Successful people born on this date are; Thomas F. Bayard, statesman, secretary of state under Cleveland; Samuel E. Warren, educator, his textbooks on drawing are standard works; Justus H. Rathbone, founder of the Knights of Pythias; Joe Evans, landscape artist, founder and president of the Art Students league; Dora Read Goodale, poet; Anna Case, singer.

Agriculture Has Lost One of Its Ablest Counselors and Friends and the Nation a Worthy Servant

A BUSINESS GIRL

By MARK ALLERTON

Instead of Radcliffe there approached her another man, infinitely more gracious.

"I must compliment you on your work, Miss Linwood," he said. "Particularly on the promptness of its delivery. We have more for you—a lot more—if you can let us have it with the same promptitude."

And again the object before Barbara took queer shapes, and danced giddily about in the mist. She replied she knew not what, and her voice seemed to come from some one else. She heard the reply.

"We are much obliged. We'll send the boy along with it early tomorrow. Good evening."

He came forward and opened the door for her. In the darkness of the corridor she stood still for a moment. She closed her eyes.

"Oh, thank God! Thank God!" she breathed.

Days of stress followed, busier days than Barbara had known all her life, and happier than she had experienced for long.

Other work than that of the railway company came along, and this time Barbara had learnt her lesson. She did not refuse it, but engaged another typist, and when the three girls could not overtake the work she farmed it out.

These days gave her little time to think. Her work demanded her whole attention, almost her entire time.

On two occasions when she was working late, the light from her office alone showing up in the building, there might have been seen on the opposite pavement the figure of Alan Kennedy, gazing wistfully upward.

He was relentless in the work he poured upon her. He told himself harshly that hard work never did anybody any harm—witness himself—and that the more Barbara had to do the less likely she was to get into mischief.

But he passionately longed to see her to satisfy himself that she was well and happy, and safe from the schemes of Rutland. He longed to have just one glimpse within that office. It was hard that she should not know that his way the influence that sent the work tumbling in upon her.

There was one morning when Barbara found a bulky envelope awaiting her. Within was some manuscript and a letter.

"Dear Miss Linwood," ran the letter, "if you will type this for me there will be plenty more to follow. Do forgive me, and let bygones be bygones. Yours sincerely, Max Rutland."

"Alice," cried Barbara, "please type this: "Miss Linwood regrets that she is unable to undertake the enclosed work." Sign it yourself, and send all this back to Mr. Rutland."

The girl laughed.

"How splendid to be able to do this!" she cried, and obeyed.

Barbara could not deny that it was rather splendid. She was winning and without the help of the man who had plotted her defeat. She felt the better for the opportunity of snubbing him.

It was characteristic of Max Rutland, however, that he was impervious to snubs.

Again and again he told himself that he was a fool to bother any more about the girl. And just as often the hunter in him forced him to return to the attack.

An easy victory over Barbara would have pleased him little. But in all his experience no prey which he had selected had proved so elusive as she. The eyes of the Alan she knew were gay and laughing. The eyes of the man before her were those of one who had torn aside the veil and searched the vistas of the regions beyond.

He had changed—changed terribly. This man would accept her expression of thanks, of sorrow, and—pass on his resolute way.

Below the photograph she read: "Mr. Alan Kennedy, one of the country's most promising young business men."

It was quite true what Rutland had said, then. Alan had soared far beyond her reach.

As she worked on that afternoon she paused with a document from the railway in her hand and looked at it with strange wonderment. Perhaps Alan himself had directed this to be sent to her, mentioning her by name. She longed to hear him mention her name. A crumb for a heart that was hungry for his love!

CHAPTER XX.
Rutland Is Dazed.

Max Rutland's attempt at checkmate had not come off.

His taunts had not had the effect he had intended them to have. He had frightened Barbara, and he did not want to frighten her. He told himself that he would have recovered his advantage had it not been for the unwelcome appearance of this commissionaire.

Still, to mix his own metaphor, Max Rutland flattered himself that he had a trump card yet to play. He would not again risk going to see Barbara Linwood. He rallied on his trump card to bring her to see him.

In the meantime he believed that a brandy and soda would do much to restore his equanimity. To secure that he turned into a speak-easy on Twenty-third street.

He had no sooner entered than he wished he hadn't. Standing at the counter was a short, stout, long-nosed man who hailed him with delight. His pleasure at meeting Rutland was evidently as great as Rutland's dislike at meeting him.

"Hullo, Rutland, my boy! The very man I'm wanting to see. I was thinking about you only this morning. Why haven't you been along to see me lately."

"I've been up to my eyes in it, Reuben," replied Rutland, nervously. "What are you doing in this neighborhood?"

"Just looking up some friends. Let's sit down. I want a word with you."

They carried their glasses to a table apart. Then Rutland's companion leant towards him confidentially.

"Got Kersland's yet?" he asked.

Rutland shook his head. "Not yet. The old fool is as slow as a tortoise. I can't get a decision out of him."

"You must buck him up, see?"

"You are not forgetting, are you, that you told me that he had pledged his word to accept your offer?"

"Oh, you'll get your money all right," growled Rtuland.

"I hope so. I shall make every endeavor. But I should feel more certain if you told me Kersland had come up to the scratch. I don't want to quarrel with you, Rutland, old boy, but I think you've forced me. And I don't like being forced."

"I haven't forced you. You wait a bit, and you'll see."

"I've waited a long time as it is. Now, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll wait till next Wednesday. If, by next Wednesday, you can't tell me that Kersland has accepted your offer I'll wait a bit longer. If not—"

"Well?"

"Well, I'll put you through it. It's my business, my boy. And I'm not in business for my health, am I?"

"You don't give me much time."

"If you can't get Kersland's by next Wednesday, then you'll never get it at all. And I'd like to see the color of my money. Well, so long."

Max Rutland followed the departure of his dear friend with a malevolent stare.

"Confounded shark!" he muttered, after the manner of those who have borrowed money and can't see their way to pay it back. "I must get Kersland to toe the line—today."

He had another Bacardi cocktail. In times of mental stress Max Rutland placed great confidence in this stimulant. Thus fortified, he went back to his office. He found Mr. Kersland at his desk.

"Look here, what about my offer?" he began without ceremony.

There was obvious resentment in Mr. Kersland's glance.

"I have come to no decision yet," he replied curtly.

"Well, you've jolly well got to make up your mind." It was the Bacardi that was speaking.

"I beg your pardon!"

"I said that you've got to make up your mind. You can't expect me to keep my offer open forever. Playing me up, you are!"

"Mr. Rutland, you forget yourself! I don't ask you to keep your offer open at all. I never invited your offer."

"You know you'll not get a better."

"Perhaps not."

Rutland mistook Mr. Kersland's suppressed indignation for nervous apprehension, and launched his ultimatum.

"Very well. I leave it."

In Our Frail Vanity, We Cannot Bear to Be Imperfect in the Eyes of the One We Marry, Which Accounts for the Failure of Self-Improvement Courses in the Home.

Should husbands and wives try to correct each other's faults and improve each other?

It would seem that there could be but one answer to this question. Every human being who possesses a grain of intelligence must desire to progress, to learn, to become better educated and more cultured. This being true, it seems that one of the sacred obligations of matrimony is for the stronger one of a married couple to reach out a helping hand to the weaker one and help lift him or her up to the higher life.

More than that, it would seem that the inferior one of a married couple would be eager to sit at the feet of the superior one and learn all that he or she had to teach and that he or she would feel that no criticism could come so graciously as that which was inspired by love and an ardent desire for his or her own good.

Nothing, however, could be further from the state of the case. Neither husbands nor wives accept with gratitude a few well-intentioned hints about their manners and habits. The minute either a man or a woman attempts to turn matrimony into a mutual improvement society it becomes a scrapping match. Neither a vamp nor the Demon Rum can break up a home so quickly as can a critic on the hearth.

It is a great pity that men and women refuse the gift that their husbands and wives yearn to bestow upon them so often it is the magic talisman that would bring them the success they crave. Sometimes, for instance, a woman comes from a much better family than the man she marries. She is better educated and has had far wider social advantages than he has had.

He has great native ability. He has push and enterprise, all the qualities that enable a man to climb high but he will never reach the top-most rung because he is handicapped by his lack of early advantages. He is shy on grammar and short on pronunciation. He is like a bull in a china shop in a drawing room, and hopelessly befuddled by the silver on a dinner table.

His wife would like to call his attention to his lapses in grammar, and pronunciation and teach him beautiful English. She would like to instruct him in table etiquette and help him to acquire the little niceties of manner that distinguish the gentleman from the boor. But she dares not do it, for at the very first suggestion that he change his ways she sees that she has wounded him to the quick, or else he flies into a rage that makes it impossible ever to reopen the subject unless she is one of those women who are born fighters and enjoy a domestic scrimmage.

Nor are wives any more amenable than husbands to criticism. It is a very common thing for a man to marry out of his class under the fatuous belief that he will have no difficulty at all in making over his wife according to his taste. A man who is cultured in mind, elegant in manner, fastidious in dress, will often choose as a wife a girl whose pretty face has captured his fancy, but who is uneducated, untaught, loud of voice and bold of manner, and who knows neither how to dress or to conduct herself in society.

Her husband would like to polish his rough diamond, but he attempts to do so at his peril. If he suggests that she try to imitate the quiet charm of manner of some old woman friend of his, she becomes green-eyed with jealousy. If he finds fault with her clothes and tells her that real ladies do not wear flamboyant garments that shriek at the beholder, she goes into hysterics. If he tries to get her to read and study, she weeps that he is tired of her and no longer loves her.

And, after having proven by his failures that no husband can improve his wife, he gives up the hopeless task and settles down to make the best of his bad bargain or else repudiates it, according to the type of man he is.

Certainly it is tragical that a woman cannot tell her husband that he eats his soup audibly, or that he has told the same old stories over and over again until people flee at his approach. For if she could tell him she could save him from being a laughing stock among his acquaintances.

Certainly, it is a tragedy that a man cannot tell his wife that when she paints herself up like a barn door, and dyes her hair the color of strawberry jam, she makes of herself a figure of fun, and that she bores people to death talking about her children. For if she would listen to him it would save her from being ridiculed wherever she went. But neither husband nor wife dare offer a word of honest criticism for fear of bringing on a scene, and being accused of nagging.

Perhaps the reason that husbands and wives are so much more sensitive to criticism from each other than they are from any one else is because their vanity cannot stand the knowledge that they are not perfect in the other one's eyes. Their self-complacency cannot endure the shock of finding out that the other one thinks that they need any improvement.

In the days of courtship the man has told the woman that she was an angel, that she was as far above other women as the stars are above the earth, and that she was the most beautiful and gifted and marvelous being ever created. The woman marries him expecting to listen to this pæan praise the balance of her life, and naturally she doesn't enjoy the douche of cold water she gets when her husband begins telling her of her faults, and suggests remodeling her character, her manners and her habits.

Before marriage the woman has put in many solid working hours kow-towing before the man, and telling him how big and wise and strong and great he is, and he assumed her support for life in order to have ever at his side a competent incense burner. Is it any wonder, then, that he is chagrined when he finds out that his wife considers him a subject for reformation instead of admiration.

All of us know that the world at large has a keen eye for our weaknesses and a dull one for our virtues. The thing we really marry for is to secure for our own the one person who really admires us, and our vanity will not permit us to see that that person also sees our faults. That is why husbands and wives cannot offer each other helpful and constructive criticism.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

WHINERS

Whining children are bad enough. But their parents are more to blame for their whining than are the children.

Nothing can excuse the whining grown-up.

Whether the troubles of which he complains are of his own making—which they usually are, or whether he cannot help them, whining does nothing to relieve them.

All that it does is to irritate everyone around him and to destroy all chance of the sympathy which his misfortunes, if they are genuine, might bring.

The usual whine heard around a business establishment is that of the fellow who says he has no chance.

Other men are promoted over his head through favoritism.

Men, not half so useful to the firm are given credit for ideas that the whiner thought of.

Favorites get holidays, and chances to travel and make good on the road.

But the whiner is kept on the same job, and if he makes any suggestions they are laughed at.

The suggestions that he customarily makes are suggestions he has heard from somebody else, which were adopted long before he ever thought of them.

But he has whined so long that he really believes that he has something to whine about, and he not only carries his talks of woe to his office companion, but he tells them whenever he has an opportunity to his superiors, who soon learn that he is a whiner, and makes arrangements to have some better-spirited man in his place.

There are plenty of troubles in life, abundant cases of injustice, and many real ills and sorrows.

But they are a part of existence.

Some of them can be avoided, others can be mitigated, but only by grit and a grim resolve to go through somehow or other, no matter what happens.

There is nothing which makes a man so many friends—especially among those who are in a position to help him—as cheerfulness.

There is nothing that so proves the mettle of a man as determination to keep his troubles to himself, and to make good in spite of them.

"The man who comes back," out of adversity is made a hero. But if he has the stuff in him to overcome bad luck, he has the kind of stuff that will keep him from being spoiled by adulation.

Whining is an evidence of a particularly malignant kind of egotism—a conviction that one's own affairs are of more importance than everybody's else, and that he is not getting a square deal unless people continually give him "the best of it."

The young man who finds he is inclined to self-pity had better keep it to himself. If he begins pitying himself in public he will find he is classed as a whiner, and that nobody will have anything to do with him.

Life is not all fun and laughter, but cheerfulness can be maintained by any one who has the grit to do it. And as an asset in life it is worth far more than a great inheritance of money or lands or property.

Have You Been Told?

That the LaFollette leaders in the state of New York declare they are going to win many up state republican strongholds including cities and counties that have never before deserted the republican party.

That the Minneapolis Journal says that Senator Thomas J. Walsh and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana have perfected a deal which gives the electors of Montana to LaFollette and the senatorship and all the state offices to the democrats.

That in spite of this formidable alliance republican leaders say they are going to carry Montana for Coolidge, not by any landslide but by a substantial majority.

That a survey of the women voters of the United States approximating twenty-six millions, made by chairman Clem Shaver, demonstrates that a majority of them will support the democratic nominees.

That a survey of the women voters of America by Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler and progressive lady managers, demonstrate that a majority of the women voters of America are favorable to LaFollette and Wheeler.

That a survey made by the women politicians of the republican party demonstrate that a majority of the women voters are wild for the election of Coolidge and Dawes, and that they are going to vote that way in November.

That Governor Albert C. Richie of Maryland says the election will be thrown into the house, John W. Davis is going to win the election at the polls, Maryland and New Jersey will roll up substantial majorities for Davis and Bryan and the Maryland governor don't see why Davis shouldn't carry New York as well with Governor Smith doing the work planned for him.

That the republicans of Colorado have split on the klan issue, National Committeeman Clarence C. Hamlin publisher of the Colorado Springs Gazette, has bolted the klan endorsed nominees of his party and advises republicans that support of Clarence J. Marley and Rice W. Means did not constitute a test of party loyalty.

HOW IT STARTED

CALLING IT "BILLIARDS."

The principle of the game of billiards is described in its name. The word comes from the French and dates back to 1571 to its introduction as an indoor game by the Frenchman De Vigne.

"Billiards" we have from "billard" the French staff or cue, which comes from "bille," a log of wood. Since early in its first form as an outdoor game, billiards was played with the staff or cue, it is quite comprehensible that this should have become its name.

The cue was made, originally, of heavy wood, its end made rough with a file so that chalk might adhere to it and prevent slipping of the ball. This was improved upon, however, with the introduction by a French player, Mangin, of leather tips. These were first used in the United States in 1823, andthrough the subsequent periods of improvement in all materials of the game came further changes in the cut from which it atkes its name.

Art Association Reorganizes For The New Season

Mrs. C. C. Jones Jr., Elected President; Lecture Series Planned

The Wichita Falls Art association has been reorganized in an initial year's meeting at the Junior college.

Mrs. C. C. Jones, Jr., was elected president, Mrs. W. W. Silk vice-president, Miss Jennie Roberson secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Luther Hoffman corresponding secretary.

The board of managers is composed of Mesdames J. A. Kemp, W. P. Killingsworth, Bennie Hyatt Donald, G. L. Shapard and Messrs. Emil Herman and Voyle Armstrong.

The art association, by means of a lowered membership fee and a series of carefully planned educational lectures on art, hopes to greatly increase the membership of the organization, and its usefulness in civic life, according to Mrs. Jones, president. Instead of a small association made up of painters or art fanciers, it is the aim of the organization to broaden the field of contact until the membership includes townspeople who are interested in art even though they do not specialize in its study.

Mrs. Donald has been placed in charge of the membership committee, and dues for the year have been fixed at one dollar.

A program committee composed of Miss Jennie Roberson, Mr. Emil Herman and Mrs. Luther Hoffman will arrange the programs for the monthly meetings of the association, the next to be held November 1 at 8 o'clock.

The programs will include carefully prepared lectures of the highest educational value, and will form an attractive and worthwhile feature of the associational meetings.

The association hopes to bring to Wichita Falls some time in the spring an art exhibit to further their educational work.

Mrs. W. R. Meadows, 1307 Austin street, is out of the city for a few weeks on business.

Soprano Coming Here Interested In Club Activity

Cecil Arden Has Appeared Before Many Such Organizations

Cecil Arden, mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, who will appear in concert at the Wichita theater on October 30 is one of the many artists who appear as entertainers for clubs run by women throughout the country and is one of those artists who are generally interested in the workings of these organizations, realizing that it is these bands of loyal women who form themselves into "Crusaders of Music" in their communities, which have made so much good music possible. Cecil Arden is an artist who has appeared before many of these clubs during the last few seasons and in the following interview she expresses her interest and admiration for the various women's organizations.

"I would like," she said, "to stress one point particularly. I refer to the women's way of presenting and staging concerts, whether as a part of a club curriculum or as independent managers. In other words, the feminine touch! Whenever I am engaged to appear at a concert organized by women, I feel sure that the setting of the concert will be perfect as to detail. It is the women who boldly choose the finest things in music, who support the best among the classicists who fearlessly show their preference for the most splendid things among the moderns.

"So do I find that women best understand, especially in every day life, the meaning of illusions. For even though they may be practical, it is they—women in general—who are the great dreamers. From childhood aren't we women past-master in the art of make-believe?"

Do your feet give out in the afternoon?

PROBABLY there is nothing the matter with your feet, but soon after you put on your shoes, they begin to tire. Why? Nature planned the foot to have three points of contact with the ground—heel, ball and outside arch. But in raising the heel from the ground, the arch is left without a firm support. Your weight bearing down on the unsupported arch strains it.

The Arch Preserver Shoe raises the heel and arch from the ground, thus giving the foot the stylish appearance you desire; but unlike shoes with bending arches, it has a concealed built-in arch-bridge that supports the arch. Though shod in the latest fashion, your feet are free from strain all through the longest, hardest, day when you wear Arch Preserver Shoes.

Nature plans that the foot rest on heel, ball and outside arch.

Civilization demands that heel and arch be raised.

The Arch Preserver Shoe satisfies both Nature and Civilization.

Dirt, Disease and Work

Most housewives spend a great portion of their time in the kitchen, hence it should be kept free from dirt and dust.

Compare the coal heated houses with those who enjoy the advantages of natural gas. Note the dirt against cleanliness. See in your mind's eye the amount of extra work the task of keeping clean calls for in coal heated home. That will cause you to greater appreciate the great advantages of the natural gas service you enjoy.

HOMES TO BE BUILT WITH LEAN PURSES

By the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc.

Nobody starts out to build a small home without first wondering how much he is going to pay for it. Out of thousands upon thousands of letters that come to the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States each month from people living in all sections of the country who are thinking about building small homes, more than half of these letters start out with this question: "How much is my home going to cost?" After they are told what to expect there almost always is disappointment. Then follows a second question. It runs something like this: "What can I do to reduce costs?"

Houses Are Like Automobiles

This is such an important and general question that you may be interested in the answer to it, so that is what that this and succeeding articles are about; namely, how to reduce home building costs.

Now, a house is very much like any other kind of a mechanical device; that is, it can be very simple or very elaborate. You know how many different kinds of automobiles there are. They all do about the same thing—they get you there and take you back—but you know also how differently they cost.

The cost of building homes varies with quality and quantity just as other things do. We are sure that everybody knows this. However, it is hard to get people to see that this rule, which makes us pay full price for everything we get, has to apply to our own new home just as much as it does to the other fellow's home, or any kind of building that is built.

We need not tell you that the times have changed. We hear today about the way prices have gone up—how it was possible in the old days to build so much more of a home for so much less money. We could get along far better with this question if we would consider this just water over the dam and stop thinking about the changes that have taken place, and then try to face the circumstances as they exist. However, there is no doubt that it is the taste of good things at the lower prices of yesterday that is largely responsible for the high cost of building today. Why? Well, because we continue to ask in the face of these greatly increased costs for practically the same kind of thing that we required in the days before the war.

The Risk of Building Homes

Now, if the cost of living had not increased, or if incomes had increased in proportion to all other things, and we had thus been able to save our money in proportion to increased costs, perhaps it would be sound to pay the high costs now demanded for homes. But the plain fact of the matter is that the risk of building homes at such high prices is so overwhelming that most of us decided to go on living in makeshift apartments or other cramped quarters.

Our purpose is not to tell you how you can beat this game, but how you can play a better one. If you will do as we tell you you may land in your own home without the high expense.

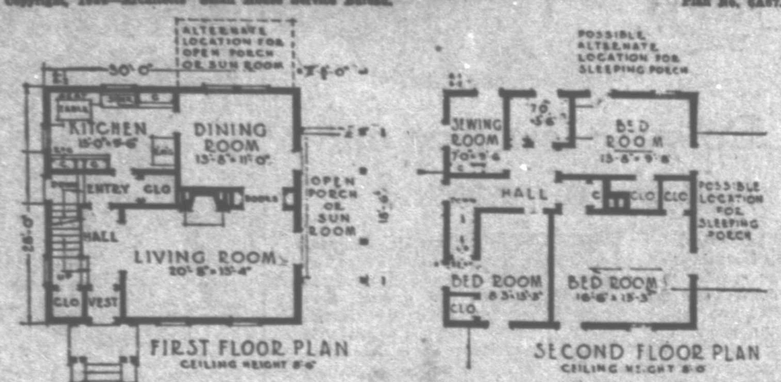

In the next article to appear in this column definite items will be listed which will show where and how savings can be made in home building.

This is the first of four articles on "How to Lower Building Costs."

HANDSOME SIX ROOM COLONIAL HOME

Copyright, 1924—Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Plan No. 6467.

THIS handsome Colonial home may be built of brick veneer or with solid brick walls. It provides a most satisfactory room arrangement. In addition to six good size rooms, such conveniences as a breakfast alcove and a dining room, there is also an attic and six closets.

The porch may be built either as an open porch or an enclosed sunroom, and may be placed either at the side, opening from the living or dining room, or at the rear, opening from the dining room. A sleeping porch may be built above the porch. The plans provide details for these arrangements.

Few homes of this size contain so generous or inviting a living room. The inside fireplace in the center of interest of this room. In the plaster arch there are built-in bookcases. The handsome open stairway is visible from the living room.

Three bedrooms on the second floor provide cross ventilation of air and cross light.

If this house is built as illustrated it will require a 50 foot lot. With the porch at the rear or omitted, a 40 foot lot will be sufficient.

This home should be reasonable to build if you use simple materials and inexpensive equipment. The cost will depend upon what the house is made of and what you put into it. The cost will also be effected by the locality in which it is built. In certain cities costs are much higher than in others. Simple equipment will decrease the cost, expensive equipment and materials will increase the cost.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The plans for small homes are furnished by the Regional Bureaus of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., an organization made up of the representative practicing architects from leading architectural offices throughout the United States. This bureau is controlled by the American Institute of Architects, and has the indorsement of the Department of Commerce, United States government. It is practically a non-profit making public service, and has as its purpose the furnishing of a very complete and dependable small house plan service, at modest cost. For information regarding the blue prints and specifications, address the Home Building Editor of this paper. The United States Bureau maintains an Information Department to answer home builders' questions at no charge. Enclose stamped addressed envelope.

WHAT YOU MAY WANT TO KNOW ABOUT BUILDING

Questions addressed to the paper will be answered by the Architects' Small House Service Bureau of the United States, Inc., controlled by the American Institute of Architects and indorsed by the department of commerce, United States government. Inclose selfaddressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Q—What is a water softener?

A—The elements that make water hard are mainly compounds of lime and magnesia. When these are taken out the water is soft. They can be neutralized by using soap. The mechanical water softener uses a mineral called "zeolite," through which all the water in the house is filtered. As the water passes through this, the hardening elements are attracted to it, and the water passes on free of these substances. Water softeners must be regenerated from time to time. This is done by flushing with salt water.

Q—Digging our cellar we found quicksand six inches thick about three feet below the grade. Under the quicksand is clay. What kind of a wall will it be possible to build, and can it be made waterproof?

A—Do not build on the quicksand. If there is so much of it that it cannot all be cleaned out, then remove a sufficent portion of it so that the footings at least will rest on the clay. If there is a bend of water we would advise you to waterproof the basement floor and wall with one or more layers of hot tar and felt. The number of layers to be used will depend upon how much water pressure there may be. For exact information in this respect we recommend that you get the advice of one of the waterproofing agencies in your district.

Q—I am having a new addition built as an extension to the kitchen and the second floor. In the contract what grade of lumber, shingles, etc., should be specified?

A—This matter should be taken up in the specifications. Every material to be used and every bit of workmanship desired should be specified. Get a good architect or a reputable contractor to help you write the specifications. Make them very explicit.

Q—I intend to have oak floors laid in my old house. What type do you advise?

A—Well manufactured oak flooring of a grade known as "unselected plain red oak" should give you a good floor. We advise the use of 13-16 inch thickness although three-eighth inch material is used with fairly satisfactory results.

Wires From Fall Used By Defense In Federal Suit

Telegram Ex-Secretary Sent Finnery Brought Out As Evidence

DEFENSE IS OPENED

Claim He Advised A Trade Sanctioned By Denby

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28.—The defense at the trial in the federal court here of the government's suit for cancellation of the $100,000,000 leases and contracts held by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co., in the Elk Hill naval oil reserve today started, through the cross examination of Edward F. Finney, a government witness and the presentation of documentary evidence to lay the basis for its contention that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior played merely a formal and perfunctory part in the granting of the now contested leases and contracts.

Fall in New Mexico.

Through the cross examination of Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior who had been the principal witness for the prosecution since last Friday, Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, brought out that Fall was in Three Rivers, N. M., when bids on the leasing of naval oil lands and the construction of the proposed Pearl Harbor, Hawaii fuel oil storage base, were opened and that the lessee was decided upon not by Fall, but by Admiral J. K. Robison, chief of the navy engineering bureau; A. W. Ambrose, petroleum technologist, and Finney.

Finney also testified that Fall had left no instructions as to whom the award should be given upon his departure for New Mexico in April 1922.

Mr. Hogan then presented in evidence a telegram from Finney to Fall immediately after the bids had been opened, in which he stated:

"In opinion Robison, Ambrose, and myself Pan-American, alternative bid best offered. Should be accepted. x x x x (Denby, former secretary of the navy) desires complete publicity navy department's part in opening navy reserve. x x x x Why not authorize me by wire to make awards and yourself immediately make entire disposition of all navy reserve contracts, with reasons therefor."

Fall Makes Answer.

Fall's answer, presented in evidence yesterday, was read:

"If Admiral Robison and secretary of the navy think best close immediately on basis Pan-American deal and if authorized by Denby proceed immediately award and close contract and make public fullest and completest manner." To further lift from Fall's shoulders the responsibility of negotiating or awarding the contracts and leases in litigation Hogan brought out through Finney's testimony that Admiral Robison recommended that invitations for bids involving the exchange of royalty crude oil for fuel oil for current use of the navy may be recalled and bids for the exchange of crude for storage facilities and fuel oil be solicited. Finney testified that on his own initiative he instructed bidder to defer proposals until further instructions.

NOW AT MAC SWINEY GRAVE.

Sister of Late Lord Mayor Throws "Army Wreath" to Ground.

CORK, Ireland, Oct. 28.—The anniversary of the death of Lord Mayor Mac Swiney was commemorated simultaneously at St. Finn Bar cemetery today by national troops and a republican procession headed by Lord Mayor French.

Reaching the grave the republicans found the troops in possession. The lord mayor requested them to withdraw, but they refused to do so until they had fired volleys over the grave. They retired somewhat, but remained in the cemetery.

Then the lord mayor, addressing the people, asked them to leave without demonstration, and as they moved away a national army officer stepped forward bearing a glass-enclosed wreath. He was confronted by Miss Annie Mac Swiney, a sister of the late lord mayor. She read the inscription and, seizing the wreath, buried it to the ground. The officer made no comment, but withdrew, and Miss Mac Swiney struck at the wreath with her umbrella, while others kicked it to pieces.

Later republicans went to the monument in the city and there deposited wreaths intended for the grave.

Clean-Up Proclamation

Come on, let's put things in order. Our whole city can and should be made as clean and orderly as its cleanest home. Then we will have a safer, happier, healthier city.

Ambition in its highest conception is to dream big dreams and make them come true. The splendid ambition to have a city clean and beautiful is soon to become a reality by the cooperation of all people.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in me as mayor, and with the hearty approval of many far-seeing and zealous citizens, we hereby proclaim the week of Tuesday, Oct. 28 through November 1 as the week of the clean-up campaign.

Away with the rubbish piles. Banish the plague spots. Clean up streets and alleys. Cut the weeds, mow the lawns and trim the hedges.

We need this thorough cleaning. It is the sensible thing to do—for the health, safety, thrift, pride and happiness of our people.

The hotel management immediately tried to communicate with Mrs. Stein by sending a telegram to Chillicothe, but no word had come from her late tonight.

BATTLE ROYAL NOW RAGES FOR SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE TITLE

Logical Aspirant Still a Question—Trio of Conference Games Billed This Week-End

By BLONDY CROSS

The zero hour has arrived and now the most logical aspirant for the conference championship will be produced, nervously mused thousands of Southwest conference gridiron followers Saturday when the Mustangs of Southern Methodist university lined up in battle array for the initial kickoff against the Farmers of Texas A&M college. But the sensational moleskin skirmish which kept 16,000 spectators in thrilling, nerve-tingling suspense for more than two hours sadly failed to fill the bill. There was no zero hour, after all. But instead the conference race is scrambled all the more, thrown into a hectic battle royal now raging among the eight entries all desperately attempting to mar the immaculate slate with which each entered the marathon.

A brilliant eleven was expected to be eliminated when the Aggies and Methodists clashed in Dallas, but the bitterly fought 7-7 draw kept them both in the running. There now are so many possibilities that any prediction would be the purest guesswork.

The sturdy Texas Longhorns, supposedly passed from the race by virtue of the hair-line defeat registered week before last by the Mustangs, aroused themselves in the great intersectional tilt with the powerful and highly rated Florida Alligators, and in furious pigskin warfare fought the vaunted 'Gators also to a 7-7 tie. This unexpected display of ability staged by a sorely crippled fighting machine augurs probable dire disaster for at least one or a pair of the so-far undefeated contenders.

Rice institute and its Heismanic Owls put in a threat for the title in downing the T. C. U. Horned Frogs the past week-end in the Frog stronghold. Critics at present are not prone to give the Owls a very impressive rating, but with the veteran Heisman heading the Houston school's grid destinies there may be more in store for would-be champions as the weeks roll by than is expected.

S. M. U. with the toughest schedule in the history of the Dallas school has yet four conference battles to run through. Although many believe that in coming away from the Texas and Aggie contest unscathed the Mustangs have shown strength enough to carry them the rest of the route undefeated, there is, of course, still margin for a slip-up. Dann's proteges in the Mustang game merely stepped off in the first of a series of battles which would try the toughest of football aggregations ever gathered together in the southwest.

* * * * * * * * *

There's food for thought there. And many a conference fan is trying futilely to digest it.

* * * * * * * * *

Spotlight Turns to Waco.

The conference spotlight turns this week—and to Waco where the Texas Aggies and the Baylor Bears renew the hostilities of 1923 which were left in a deadlock. At first hand A&M seems the logical choice for a victory. But that means little. Florida was supposed to beat Texas; Baylor was doped to wallop Austin college; and so down the line the prognostications have failed to run true to form in many contests. It seems sure that Bridges' men worked just about all the rotten football out of their systems in that dismal affair with the Kangaroos, lost by the Bruins 7-3. From the standpoint of rivalry and sheer fight the Baylor-A&M game is similar to the annual Longhorn-Farmer embroglios. Time after time a mediocre Aggie eleven has locked with a highly touted Longhorn opponent and fought Steer to a standstill. The same may hold true Saturday for Baylor, the under dog, in its bout with the Biblemen. Then, too, the Bears are not a mediocre team. Baylor has carried thus far more or less in the role of an in-and-outer. But Saturday may be Baylor's day of glory. Although A&M is expected to win it would not be surprising for the contest to result in another tie with the bare outside possibility of Baylor slipping over for the larger end of the final tabulation.

S. M. U., confident of victory, will invade the Frog Stadium Saturday, but the Christians are not worried to any extent. In 1923 the Mustangs trampled the Fort Worth eleven under a 40-0 score, and the Mustangs may repeat. But tell that to a T. C. U. supporter and you will put your life in danger. It doesn't seem conceivable that the Frogs stand the ghost of a show, but anything can happen in football. There are no injuries and there is no discouragement in the Christians' camp.

Doc Stewart will present a revamped varsity eleven in the Rice game at Houston Saturday. Regulars who were totally or nearly so out of the affair with Florida will take the field. The Steers as strong as they appeared last week will present a more formidable outfit indeed. Rice, nevertheless, is looking forward to a victory. No over confidence there, but the solemn belief that the victory over T. C. U. as a starter merely portends a successful run of the conference gamut.

* * * * * * * * *

Our hazzard is that when the smoke clears away from the three conference battle fields Saturday S. M. U., A&M, and Texas will be returned the victors????

Duke Trammel, the Potato King.

There is many an unwritten story hidden away in the corners of a prize ring, but there're possibly just as many interesting yarns connected with the fighters themselves when not in the squared circle.

Take the case of Dukey Trammel, for instance, the Fort Worth schoolboy battler who mixes it tomorrow night on the legion card in a return go with Hamp Brown, the Oklahoman. Duke until recently when not fighting and not going to school devoted the greater portion of his time to raising potatoes. Yep, Duke has himself a sweet potato ranch down in Fort Worth. This type of farming accounted for most of the family provisions for a period. The youthful scrapper has learned early the art of saving. After each bout Trammel takes the greater part of his share of the gate receipts and stakes it with his savings account in a Fort Worth bank. You see, Duke has his mother to look after, also younger brother. Instead of "blowing" his coin as many fighters do Trammel stores it away for the day he may become sick or possibly get hurt. Then, too, his potatoes not so long ago took a turn for the worse, and became unmarketable. Duke was forced to check on his savings account to keep the family larder from becoming depleted.

Not all of Trammel's earnings, however, go to the bank. He's becoming a land owner. Already Duke has purchased several small bits of real estate in and near Fort Worth. And not so long ago he decided to shift from the potato growing game to the fruit business. Duke's laying the foundation now, for a peach orchard.

Of course, Mrs. Trammel is proud of her boy. She has a right to be. Some day the erstwhile news urchin, prize fighter, and young fruit grower may be a big man in Fort Worth.

* * * * * * * * *

Not so bad; not bad at all for a youngster, is it?

* * * * * * * * *

"But It's All in Life, So Why Worry?"

Hamp Brown is a character around which reams of copy could be packed out on the old typewriter by some scribe should that writer find sufficient energy to buckle down and get underway.

Brown is training hard for his encounter with Trammel. How a man can set the pace and take the mauling Hamp did in his 12-rounder with Duke last week and then come back just seven days later prepared to speed it more than ever seems inexplainable. It seems hardly possible that any athlete's constitution can stand up to the wear and strain put on it that Brown forced himself to undergo and then return after such a short span of rest for more. But Hamp's been doing this right along for many months. His anatomy especially the facial portion shows it. Battered cheek bones and eyebrows, cut lips and cauliflower ears! That's the picture Hamp presents when he breezes into view. But he has a fighter's heart. He's the most popular boxer in the state of Oklahoma at least. And why? Not because he is one of the best, but because he strives to do his work well. Punish him; brutally pound him, and he comes back for more faster and still harder. Fight fans pay to see him strut his wares. Whether or not he's getting the worst of the melee, Hamp strives to give them that for which those sport enthusiasts laid down their long green. Possibly it doesn't run through his brain while in the ring that they're out there waiting to see him produce. It's doubtful that when in the ring he stops to think about anyone other than the opponent before him. It's either lick or get licked, so Hamp goes to it.

Brown declares that there is no athlete living he likes better than Duke. It didn't seem that way last Thursday.

"I hope Duke whips everybody but me." That's the point. Hamp expresses it himself. And when they're in the ring it's business, friendship forgotten.

Brown has fought Duke two times. He believes he should have had the decision on both occasions. That's an example of a fighter's outstanding trait.

"But it's all in life, so why worry?" avers Hamp, and continues his training exercises preparatory to his next bout.

* * * * * * * * *

He may lose and he may win this time. "But it's all in life," and Hamp will move on unemotionally to the scene of his next conflict.

LAFAYETTE NOW LEOPARDS

Pennsylvania School Joins Ranks of "Animal" Teams.

EASTON, P., Oct. 28.—Lafayette has finally taken its place as one of the "animal" teams in collegiate football ranks. To the Pitt Panthers, Princeton Tigers, Yale Bull Dogs, Cornell Bears and others can now be added the Lafayette Leopards.

The student council at a meeting officially adopted the leopard as the symbol of the Lafayette football team.

The leopard, with its cunning and physical strength combined with the fact that it is irresistible when aroused seemed to the Lafayette student council as typical of the Lafayette team.

Baylor Coach Preparing Defense to Match Aggie Style

"UNDER COVER" BUNK

Bears Better Team Than Shown In Austin Game

By JINX TUCKER

WACO, Oct. 28.—Every member of the Baylor squad was out for practice Monday afternoon in splendid physical condition save George Morris, who has been out since the game with Denton normal with a dislocated shoulder and Jack Sisco, who suffered a badly bruised hand in the Austin college game. Morris will hardly be able to play Saturday, but may be able to get in the game against Texas. Sisco, it is believed will start the game against the Farmers Saturday despite his injured hand.

Sam Coates, who did not appear in the Baylor line-up against Austin college due to injuries, will be ready to go Saturday.

It is evidently the intention of the Baylor coach to endeavor to play the Aggies as he did last year. He hopes to match Bible's unyielding defense with a defense just as well-knit. Much of yesterday afternoon was spent in perfecting a defense against the running plays Bible used against S. M. U. last Saturday, but whether Mit Dansby, Kishi, Berry and the most powerful of all the speedy, 185 pound Fay Wilson can be stopped without a touchdown is a question that will take the game of Saturday to answer.

Bridges has three kickers of merit, Pittman, Connally and Strickland, and he is endeavoring to build a number of running plays around these stars. Bridges hopes to flash a better drive and more power than was shown by the Bears against Austin college last week. The Baylor mentor is also emphasizing the necessity of the wings getting own under Pittman's high spirals, for Bob Berry of the Aggies is dangerous once he gets a running start. He, however, also is very erratic in handling punts, and a recovered kick may offer the deciding break of the game.

Baylor Passing Is Poor

The passing of the Bears against Austin college was so poor that it is not likely that Bridges will make any further endeavors along this line. The Bears' best passer is Collier, and it is hardly likely that he will get into the game for as much as a period Despite the miserable showing of Bill Coffey last Saturday against Austin college, when he turned in the poorest game of his intercollegiate career according to the fans present, it is likely that he will be started in the game Saturday in preference to George Fall, former Waco high star. Fall, however, may see some service in this highly important contest.

It was dark when the boys came in from practice yesterday, and it will be dark each day this week before the daily practice session is brought to an end. The Baylor team has played the football of which it is really capable in only one game this season. That was in the game against Arkansas, the only conference game of the year.

'Under Cover' Bunk

This "under cover" stuff as promulgated by some of the most ardent Baylor supporters is purely bunk. Baylor should have beaten Austin college Saturday. Baylor has a better team than Austin college, and demonstrated that fact even in defeat, but for the day Austin college had but for the day Austin had the smarter club. The Kangaroos took advantage of the Bear mental lapse and turned in the victory despite the more powerful physical resources of the Bruins.

The Baylor team is not consistent. It has not been consistent all season, and unless there is a strang contrast in the playing of the Bears Saturday an Aggie victory is almost certain, and it is now beginning to look like a stampede for the Longhorns on Nov. 8. There are some real football stars on the Baylor team, many of whom should be playing better football than they are now playing, but if an all-conference team were to be picked today, the inconsistency of Baylor's leading lights, would prevent the placing of one Baylor man on this mythical club by the neutral critic.

Feather Title Tournament To Open Nov. 21

Six Contenders to Appear In Three Ten-Round Bouts

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The opening round of an elimination tournament to determine a successor to Johnny Dundee as world's feather weight champion, will be held at Madison Square Garden November 21 with six contenders appearing in three ten round bouts, the state athletic commission announced today.

The six contenders are Louis "Kid" Kaplan of Meriden, Conn.; Bobby Garcia of Camp Holabird, Md.; Lou Paluso, of Salt Lake City; Mike Dundee of Rock Island, Ill.; Danny Kramer of Philadelphia, and Jose Lombardo of Panama.

IOWA CITY, Oct. 28.—Minus his best lineman, Fieckenstein, Coach Ingwersen started Monday to round out a team capable of stopping Illinois and the great "Red" Grange.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—Ohio State engages in a scrimmage before the next game with Indiana the following week. Some rest was scheduled for the week following the gruelling game with Stagg's Maroons.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—Minnesota will adopt different tactics against Michigan than those used against Iowa, it was indicated as coaches ordered initial practice for Michigan on the blackboard.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 28.—Halfback Henry Scott of the Yale varsity will probably be out of the line-up the rest of the season from an injury to his arm he received in Saturday's game with Brown.

Illinois, Grange, and Mates Sitting Atop Gridiron World

URBANA, Oct. 28.—Illinois university is sitting on the top of the football world these days. The most pessimistic adherents of the Illini see nothing ahead but more glorious victories on the grid this season—victories that will make this year the greatest of the 29 in the life of the Big Ten conference for Illinois, was one of the original seven schools to organize the western conference Jan. 11 1895.

Of course "Red" Grange is the primal cause of this great joy and these halcyon days. His wonderful running with the ball overshadows all other elements of the team's play. But Coach Zuppke and close followers of football know that Grange's teammates form an important element in his success.

For instance there are his fellow backers, Earl Britton and McIllwain and Capt. Rokusek, star end.

Britain and McIllwain give Grange the interference that he needs at the start of his dashes for touchdowns. They have played with him last season. The three form a perfect machine, with Grange as the mainspring. The passing of McIllwain and Britton to Grange has been marvelous.

Capt. Rokusek, at end, plays an important part through his work on the receiving and passing end of forward passes and in carrying out the interference for Grange. His defensive play also has brought the ball to Illinois at crucial moments and paved the way for another drive toward the opponent's goal.

Grange himself is frank in his admiration of the work of Britton, Rokusek, McIllwain and all the other members of the team. The stonewall defense the Illinois tackles set up against Michigan prevented the Wolverine linemen from breaking through and getting to Grange before he started his spectacular runs for touchdowns against the Yostmen.

The spirit shown by every member of the Illinois team typifies the college spirit and makes intercollegiate football what it is. Sentiment, loyalty and sportsmanship are played above all other material desire or longing for personal glory.

Bluege Picked to Shine Brightly for Nats In '25

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Unless all signs fail Oswald Bluege, young infielder with the world's champion Washington team, will step into the front ranks of the infielders before the closing weeks of the next baseball campaign roll around.

It may be as third baseman or it may be as shortstop—and successor to the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh. Next year will tell the tale. If "Doc" Prothro shows that another year in the minors has made him a better hitter and improved his fielding, Bluege may be shifted to Peck's job. If the Nat bosses decide not to depend upon Prothro efforts will be made to land an experienced shortstop to replace Roger and Bluege will be kept at short. He has shown emphatically that he can deliver at either berth.

Last spring this lad Oswald was battling it out with Prothro for the third basing job. For a time, then, he was moved to short, then back to third when Peckinpaugh had recovered from a brief illness and Prothro had weakened.

Then came the closing weeks of the 1924 melee. Bluege played third with a steady cool-headed manner.

In the world's series he carried himself in masterly fashion through the seven thrilling games. When the injury to Peck forced Harris to shift his lineup, Bluege moved to short and played a good game there.

He contributed five singles to the offensive play and accepted 35 chances afield with but three boots.

Bluege is a Chicago youngster—a fellow townsman of Freddy Lindstrom, the 19-year-old infielder who starred equally as brilliantly with the Giants in the fall classic.

Bluege's first real experience as a player was with the St. Mark's Lutheran team in a church league in his home town. Then the Logan Squares, famous semi-pro outfit, game him a trial.

In 1920 scouts for the Peoria, Ill., team looked Bluege over and decided he had the makings. Bluege was ordered to report to Manager Bill Jackson.

"Ossie" reported. Played two games. But he was lonesome. So the second night in Peoria he decided to kiss baseball goodbye and go home. He was headed for the depot when Jackson ran into him and led him back to the hotel—and what proved to be stardom.

The Senators bought him the next year, farmed him out to Minneapolis in 1922 and then recalled him for spring tutoring in 1923. He has been with the club ever since.

Sports Done By Brown

Little Rutgers once more is making its presence known again on the gridiron. Benkert, fleet-footed halfback, for instance, has been leading the eastern backfield men in scoring. In the first four games of the season he collected 58 points for his team, scoring against every team. One of his touchdowns was made against Cornell.

* * *

One reason for the remarkable success of Knute Rockne in coaching Notre Dame's grid teams in his system of coaching what really are two distinct elevens each fall. One is the varsity. The other is a real team of "comers." This second group is instructed in the fine points of the game with the same care that the first one is. It is on this "comer" team that Rockne banks for his stars the following season to refill vacancies. These men are given more intensive training every spring.

* * *

Walter Johnson is still considering offers awaiting him to assume control of a Pacific coast league team. It is said in some circles that Champion Jack Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, are anxious to go in with Johnson on the purchase of the Salt Lake outfit.

Dempsey and Kearns probably have the necessary money. It is doubtful, however, whether or not Johnson would consider joining forces with men whose main interests in sport lie outside baseball. Dempsey is still a fighter. He also has motion picture interests which are demanding even more attention than his boxing future.

And while Johnson considers all propositions and possibilities there lingers in his heart the urge to pitch for Washington and Clark Griffith just one more season.

Johnson would not need to take his regular turn in the box next season. He would be a big drawing card, however, when he was booked to work. And he would be of real service as coach of Manager Harris' young pitchers between appearances.

So Walter probably is taking his own sweet time to decide which step to take.

* * *

This bids fair to be another busy winter for placing Eddie Collins in the managerial ranks as the big leagues. Of late years Collins has been mentioned for more jobs as pilot than any other notable in the game. And he is still a private in the ranks.

His nearest approach to a managerial game last spring when the late Frank Chance was taken ill. Collins, Johnny Evers and Ed Walsh formed a managerial board for several weeks while the team was in training at Winter Haven, Fla. Evers was head of the board, however, and eventually became manager, succeeding Chance.

Collins has been "traded" and "sold" to the New York Yankees several times to become Miller Huggins' successor but Hug is still piloting the Big Town team and unless he decides to step out that berth is closed to Edward Trowbridge another year.

There may be one or two other opportunities before the end of the 1925 season, however, according to rumors already afloat. In this case Collins may again be considered. And after the chance comes it is still a question whether or not the White Sox bosses would let him go. Keyes is finding the strain a telling one. His sickness last summer followed by his operation for the removal of his appendix has not left him a well man. The logical managerial berth for Collins is in Chicago—with the team to which he has given the late years of his baseball life. Comiskey and his advisers know this. They will keep Collins as long as they can.

Indians Still No Game This Week

No game yet for the week. That's the status of the Junior college Indians. However, Coach Mosley is still attempting to match a contest. The Indian's mentor is negotiating with Burkburnett high school officials, and hopes to line up a game possibly for Friday.

The squad worked but lightly yesterday, devoting most of the time to running signals.

A series of relay races, squad for squad, was run with McCallum's Coyotes, the Juniors coming off first in two out of three

Columbia Eleven To Carry On In Grid Campaign

All University Plunged Into Mourning Over Death Of Coach

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Columbia will close her gridiron ranks and carry on the 1924 football campaign in sympathy of the stunning and unexpected blow sustained by the death of Head Coach Percy D. Houghton. This was decided today by the university athletic authorities, who announced that the game at Ithica next Saturday with Cornell as well as those with New York university, army and Syracuse will be played as scheduled.

At the same time Dr. Paul C. Withington, former Harvard pupil of Houghton and first assistant to his at Columbia, was appointed head coach for the rest of the season.

The entire university today was plunged into mourning by the loss of Haughton just as it seemed that the blue and white, reaching heights it has not known in years by crushing Williams last Saturday, was about to lead Columbia out of the gridiron wilderness.

Those closest to Houghton expressed their, belief that he would want the game carried on and the team as a unit voiced a desire to finish the season as their best means of paying tribute to Haughton's achievements.

While thousands of messages of condolence reached the university today, plans were made for fitting memorial tribute to the man who transplanted the famous "Harvard system" into Morningside Heights. A memorial mass meeting will be held tomorrow.

The casket bearing Houghton's body was sent to Boston by train tonight and arrangements have been made for funeral services at St Paul's chapel, Boston, on Thursday. Simultaneously services will be held in the Columbia university chapel.

INDEPENDENT GRID TEAMS BATTLE IN NEWTOWN SUNDAY

Manager P. M. Lawrence's Thrift Terrors are scheduled to clash with the Breckenridge independent eleven next Sunday at Newtown. The Breckenridge outfit is considered as one of the strongest semi-pro teams in the state, and Thrift is looking for a tough battle.

Breckenridge has played six games so far this year, defeating the Howard Payne second team, 13 to 6, tying with Simmons college regulars 0 to 0; beating Abilene American Legion team of Abilene, 14 to 0; nosing out the strong Breckenridge high school squad, 6 to 0; then losing to Simmons at Abilene, 12 to 0, and in their last game, defeated the Terrors, 7 to 6, at Breckenridge.

The terrors have also played six games. The scores are as follows: Terrors 6, Hastings 0 at Hastings; Terrors 6, Hastings 0, at Newtown; Terrors 7, Oklahoma All-Stars 6, at Newtown; Terrors 6, Childress Ironman 0; Terrors 6, Breckenridge 7, at Breckenridge, last Sunday Terrors 13, Temple Indians 0, at Newtown.

BEARS MAY BALL 'EM UP

Baylor Holds Center of Stage With A & M, Texas and S. M. U. in Row.

S. M. U. has held the center of the football stage for the last two weeks as it entertained Texas university and Texas A. and M. in rotation. Now Baylor will hold the spotlight of attention as it plays Texas A. and M., Texas university and S. M. U. in order. If the Bears can win two out of these three games, the season will be a huge success, and two victories in the three contests may scramble the situation to such an extent that no title will be awarded.

Fighting Micks Show Signs Of Wear and Tear

Notre Dame Lacked Usual Dash In Princeton Contest

ROCKNE PLAYING SAFE

Some Weaker Eleven Due To Catch Nomads Off Color

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Playing as they did against West Point and Princeton the Nomads of Notre Dame probably could have beaten any other eleven in the east or middle west with the possible exception of Illinois. Coupled to an almost irresistible attack, featuring rare speed and power, the roving Indianas showed a defense of outstanding merit and won because they consistently and comprehensively outplayed their eastern opponents.

If the Hoosiers could be depended upon to hold their present pace throughout the season it would be easy enough to picture them with a strong and valid claim a title of some description. But Rockne's great machine already is showing unmistakable signs of slowing up. Its parts are beginning to show the effects of a long and ambitious schedule and are likely to go stale after another game or two.

Saving His Regulars.

That coach Knute Rockne is fearful of this is evidenced by the fact that he no longer sends his regulars into action at the start of the first period. He uses his second eleven to start a game and holds his regulars in reserve until the second period. By this time they have gained a pretty fair line on their opponent's strength and methods without having burned up their own speed and energy.

Even so, the Nomads are beginning to act tired. They were utterly exhausted at the close of their game at Princeton and at no time during the engagement did they develop the fiery dash and drive that characterized their offense in the Army game.

The ultimate result will be that some eleven, potentially less formidable, will catch the Nomads after they have slipped over the fine edge of physical fitness and hand them just such a lacing as Nebraska inflicted last fall.

May Meet Penn. U. Next Year.

So far as contemplated now, there will be no meeting next year between Princeton and Notre Dame football teams, Coach Knute Rockne said here before taking his squad back to South Bend.

Plans are now under way, Rockne said, to send Notre Dame against Pennsylvania in Philadelphia next year and Pennsylvania probably will play at South Bend the following year.

Rockne said his team was in good shape for its game next Saturday with Georgia Tech. Harry Stuhldreher was injured in the closing minutes of play against Princeton and—may be out for some time.

PASSED GRANGE FOR LEAD

Captain Baker of Northwestern Heads "Big Ten" Scoring.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—While the famous "Red" Grange of Illinois took a day off, Captain Baker of Northwestern passed him by one point in the list of dueling point scorers of the "big ten," by kicking two field goals, which gave his team victory over Michigan Aggies.

Gallivan, Grange's teammate, went into third behind "Red," scoring three touchdowns, a place kick and a point after touchdown against the helpless De Pauw eleven.

The list of the conference high point scorers, their total, touchdowns, points after touchdown and field goals, follows:

Negotiations For Graham Contest Still Unfinished

Officials Fail to Agree On Where Tilt Will Be Staged

DAY HINGES ON PLACE

Coyote Pups Buckle Down To Hard Daily Drill

Negotiations between coaches of the Wichita Falls Junior high and Graham high elevens for the class B interscholastic league clash to be played this week by the two teams was still at a deadlock last night. Officials of the two schools were not able to agree yesterday as to the scene of the conflict. Graham desires to stage the game in Graham, whereas Coach Montgomery of the Juniors wants to hold the contest in Wichita Falls.

The game if played in Graham, will be run off Friday, if in Wichita Falls, Saturday, said Coach Montgomery. This much the rival mentors have agreed on. According to Montgomery, Graham wants to come to Wichita Falls for certain cash remuneration. The Wichita Falls coach balked, but declared he would be willing to bring his team to Graham for the same amount. There Graham drew the line.

Forward pass warming up exercises, signal drill, and a stiff scrimmage constituted the Tuesday practice for the Coyote Pups. Most of the scrimmage period was devoted to defense work for the first string forwards with the regular backfield carrying the ball on offense for the second team.

The backs tore through the line numerous times for substantial gains. The work of Horten, Walker and Francis stood out brightly. Ferris, Martin and Herndon in the line waged a fairly good brand of ball, but the rest of the forwards failed to play up to the necessary standard.

Coach Montgomery witnessed the Graham victory over Strawn the past week-end, and although not confident in the least, doesn't exactly fear for his charges. One point which impressed the coach was the work of the Graham line. Should the Juniors forwards not be on their toes every second of the way during the game the Graham line will make it pretty tough for the local eleven to obtain so much as an even break much less a victory.

The same routine drill, scrimmage, and passing work is scheduled for the Juniors this afternoon.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 28.—Forsberg, veteran Navy back, who has been out of the line-up for two weeks will get back with the squad this week, thus brightening Navy's hopes against Penn State next Saturday. None of the regulars were injured in Saturday's game.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Stubby and Button were captured yesterday and Snub and Nick said they were going to shut them up in a chicken coop. At that minute they came to a chicken coop and Snub raised it up and pushed Button under. When in Button hunched his back and spit at Stub in the fiercest manner, while Snub, standing outside with his hand on his hips, laughed at him.

Now the parts they had to play were these: Button was to be a lady's pet cat and be fondled and held on her lap while he lover talked to her and played with Button's tail and pinched his ears. These were two things Button did not enjoy, and what he liked still less was to be hugged and kissed on the tip of his nose by any lady.

"I've a good mind to spit in her face who she kisses me on the tip of my nose, and to scratch and bite her lover when he pinches my ears. Yes, I am going to do it! Then I guess they will get another cat to play my part. I heard them say they wanted me because I was such a beauty and also because I am twice as large as any other cat they can get. But they will be glad to get another after I'm through with them at the next performance, I can tell you!"

"Stubby! Stubby!" mewed Button. "Where are you?"

"I am over here in this old barrel," barked Stubby.

"We are in a pretty kettle of fish, aren't we?" mewed Button. "But we will soon be out of it for I am going to scratch and bite like the dickens when they try to put me through my part. You do the same, and then we can run away again. I wonder if Billy is inside the animal house."

"I don't believe so, or there would have been a commotion in there before now. Let's howl and bark and make a terrible fuss so he can hear us and if he is there, he will answer. For the next few minutes you never heard such a terrible howling and mewing and barking as went on. They only stopped when Nick threw a cover over the barrel Stubby was in and Snub threw a pail of water on Button.

"There, take that, you crazy cat," called Snub as he threw the water.

Presently they were both given a good breakfast, and while they were eating a much befrilled and beribboned lady walked toward them, a gentleman with her.

"I bet that woman is one of the movie actresses, the way she is gotten up in all those fussy, gaudy clothes, yellow wig and enough paint on her face to fall off," 'though Button.

(Perhaps we will see tomorrow if Stubby and Button were made to act for the picture.)

Color Cut-Outs

"Bang! Bang!" pounded the hammers as Billy Cut-out and his friend Dix worked busily in the Cut-out's basement, putting up the booth for the fortune teller, who would have wonderful fortunes for all the boys and girls at the Hallowe'en party Betty Cut-out was giving.

"Where's Betty?" asked Dix.

"She's upstairs making some hats she's going to give as favors at the party," answered Billy. "Now that we've got the booth put up maybe we can make hats. That'd be more fun, anyway, than building things in the basement." So the two boys ran away to find Betty.

Dix is wearing dark blue overalls, a tan hat, and a tan shirt.

I have, on a high closet shelf, a series of holiday boxes which simplify the problem of decorations appropriate to the ever-recurring festive occasions throughout the seasons. One box is marked "Easter" and is stocked with bunnies, painted eggshells, cards, etc. Another is "Fourth of July and Washington's Birthday," with tiny flags, hunting and other such articles. Then there are "Valentine's Day," "Hallowe'en," and crowning the year, "Christmas." These collections are added to from year to year, so that we always have on hand a large supply of decorations for the holidays.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—The cotton market after advancing 52 to 54 points during the morning on overnight buying orders resulting from yesterday's sharp upturn and due to a broader demand for contracts as a result of favorable European news large exports and expectations that tomorrow's weekly weather and crop summary will prove bullish, lost practically all the gain during the afternoon. The reaction was due partly to the general impression that the damage that might have been done by the frosts has been fully discounted.

As Liverpool was just a shade lower than due at the time of the opening here first trades showed losses of 3 to 4 points but the market rallied right after the call and continued to advance during the greater part of the morning until showed gains over the previous close of 52 to 54 points.

In the late trading prices slumped badly under the pressure of profit taking and liquidation. The near months rallied slightly in the last few minutes of the session but the more distant months closed at the lowest. The close showed net gains of four points on December and two on January and net losses of five to eight points on the latter months.

The large imports proved one of the main stimulating features of the day. They reached 74,924 bales and the exports for the week so far totalled 136,480 bales.

New Orleans Survey

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—Trade and overnight buying orders were responsible for another 54 point advance during the early trading. Rumors of large spot purchases by a couple of leading spot houses and talk of over 100,000 bales being booked for export to Russia in the near future and expectation of a bullish weekly and large exports kept bullish enthusiasm well sustained most of the day.

Denial from good authorities in Texas that the two houses referred to were large buyers of spots coupled with reports of freer offerings and some easier basis which became current in the afternoon session seemed to check buying and later brought on a realizing movement that wiped out most of the early advance.

The probabilities are that the weekly review will be unfavorable enough owing to recent frost to stimulate bullish sentiment and may even show enough damage in the northern sections to modify crop ideas considerably.

The disposition of trade interests to buy on dips and of the public to come into the market on reactions indicates a well sustained if not higher market. We believe the buying side on dips is the best.

The map gives evidence of bad weather in the near future.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A further advance in the cotton market was checked by realizing today and after selling up to 24.00, or 50 points net higher, January just about lost the gain, closing at 23.53. The general market closed barely steady, net five points higher to 2 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 8 points to an advance of 4 points. Some realizing was absorbed on slight recessions owing to the steadiness of Liverpool cables and reports of further trade buying, and the market soon firmed up. Buying was less active than yesterday but offerings were comparatively light and prices worked steadily upward at mid-day until December sold at 23.88 and March at 24.25, or about 40 to 50 points net higher and into new high ground for the present movement.

At these prices the market showed an advance of about 175 to 180 points from the low level of last Saturday, and the extent of the advance evidently encouraged talk of a reaction. At any rate, realizing became more active, while there also appeared to be a little more southern selling late in the afternoon and prices eased back to about yesterday's closing quotations.

The mid-day advance was accompanied by rumors that large cotton exporters were buying spots at a firm basis in the southwest and buying was probably encouraged by expectations of continued large exports during the balance of this month and the first half of November. Some traders, however, anticipated a falling off in spot demand after October engagements are completed and this may have been responsible for some of the late selling, although the feature most generally mentioned in connection with the reaction was the rapidity of the recent advance.

Exports today 72,924, making 1,751,686 so far this season. Port receipts 88,629. U. S. port stocks 1,095,577.

Spot News

DALLAS, Oct. 28.—Middling cotton 22.65; Houston 23.55; Galveston 23.55.

DALLAS, Oct. 28.—Basis 10 to 15 points lower. Buyers bidding 100 off December New York, sellers asking 85 off. Moderate trade around 90 off. There was more cotton offerings last night than for some days. With October commitments out of the way shippers are displaying considerable indifference and apparently awaiting lower basis. We expect to see 25 to 40 decline in immediate fuutre.

Southern Mississippi wires basis some easier, offerings more freely on the advance. Basis about 85 to 100 off December New York.

Fenner and Beane to Flowerree and Co.

Houston steady, middling 23.55. Sales on the spot 870; to arrive 11,498. New York 24.20; New Orleans 23.45, sales 795, to arrive 878; Little Rock 23 cents, sales 4,670; Dallas 2265, sales 10,485; Waco 22.65; Fort Worth 22.70, sales 7,569; Memphis 23c, sales 3,200.

Wichita Spots

Spot cotton offerings are becoming more plentiful since the sharp advance of Monday, but the basis is inclined to lag, buyers Tuesday bidding 80 to 100 off December New York, or 22.70 to 22.90, for northwest Texas delivery points, with considerable of the staple change hands at about 90 off December New York.

The frost of last week, while damaging any prospect there might have been for a top crop, has caused matured fruit to open rapidly, and producers who are fortunate enough to have sufficient pickers gather their cotton are making rapid progress in the harvesting of their crop.

Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Wheat underwent a material set back in price today after an early advance. Demand which at first had been active, was inadequate to absorb the offerings later despite estimates that new export business totalled 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels. The wheat market finished weak ⅝ to 2¼c net lower, December 1.42¼ to 1.42½ and May 1.47⅝ to 1.47¾, with corn at ⅛ to 1c advance, oats ¼ to ⅜c off, and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 27c.

Corn owed its strength mainly to widespread poor returns from husking and to price upturns in foreign markets. Oats were relatively easy on account of the large available supply.

In the provision market, the effect of lower prices on hogs was more or less counter-balanced by the ascent of corn.

MONEY AT WORK

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

If a retailer owns his own store has he an advantage over one who must rent a site?

Some store owners say, "I rent my own store and have no rent to pay." It is true that such a merchant does not have to hand over a hundred dollars each month to a landlord, but a rental expense must be levied against his business just the same. If he were not occupying the store he could rent it and derive an income from it. In figuring up his profits he should not forget to deduct the amount he would have received as rent if some other man were occupying his store.

Accountants often carry accounts on the books which charge expenses against the business equivalent to rent. Some items of expense incurred by owning a store are taxes, depreciation, repairs, insurance, and interest on capital invested in the building and land.

Total sales 709,700 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Stock prices displayed an improved tone in today's market despite the recurrent weakness in some of the sugar and motor shares. Buying, however, was of a selective and cautious character, the day's sales only slightly exceeding 700,000 shares.

U. S. Steel common closed ⅛ higher at 108¼. Total earnings of $30,718,415 for the third quarter, made public after the market closed, were somewhat smaller than expected and failed, by a small margin, to cover the full dividend requirements for that period, although the surplus for the first nine months, after payment of all dividends, taxes and charges, is in excess of $25,000,000. A regular dividend of $1.25 and an extra of 50c on the common were declared for the fourth successive time.

Revival of speculative interest in the railroad shares followed the publication of another series of unusually favorable September earnings statements and the announcement that freight car loadings for the week ended October 18 had established a new high record for all time. Rock Island, which had the best September in its history advanced about a point to 34⅝, but was unable to maintain all of its gain.

Merchandising issues continued to give a good demonstration of group strength. Sears Roebuck common crossed 116 to the highest price in four years on the announcement that the directors would retire the preferred stock, which also advanced 4½ points to a new top at 125½. Woolworth climbed more than two points to 109⅝.

Higher prices for non-ferrous metals were reflected in the strength of American Smelting and Refining, which sold above 80 for the first time since 1919. New 1924 highs were established by the commercial solvents issues, Simmons company, Maxwell Motors "A," and all American cables. Despite the announcement that Moon Motors had earned its full dividend requirements in the first nine months, the stock broke to a new low for the year at 17½ but rallied later to 19¼ where it was off ⅛ on the day.

Weakness of American Sugar Refining which established a new minimum price at 36¼, was attributed to the omission of the common dividend on federal sugar refining.

Call money renewed at 2½ per cent and then advanced to 3. Time money and commercial paper were unchanged. The American acceptance council advanced the rate on call loans secured by acceptances from 2 to 2¼ per cent.

Foreign exchanges held relatively steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.50 and French francs around 5.22 cents. Danish kroner which has been heavy lately, rebounded 15 points to 17.30 cents.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Cotton goods were firmer today and some advances were asked on print cloths and sheetings. Yarns have been marked from one half cent to one cent a pound higher. Reports in this market state Montana wool was being bought on the sheep's back at 42c a pound, the price for the current clip, and foreign wool markets have turnd firm. Raw silk was 10 cents a pound easier in the local markets but unchanged abroad. Burlap markets held firm.

WATER

What Kind of Crops to Grow Here so That Lake Kemp Water Will Not Hurt Them

A gentleman here asks us to tell him what kind of crops to plant on a tract of land he has just purchased on the irrigation project. He explains that he wants to plant only such crops as will not be injured by the waters of Lake Kemp.

We are unable to assist him. We could not think of a single crop that can be grown in this climate or on these soils which would be injured in the slightest by Lake Kemp water.

The idea that only certain kinds of crops can be grown here, on account of anything that may exist in the water, is entirely erroneous.

The minerals which exist in our irrigation water are largely beneficial to the soil and to any plants that may be planted here.

We have many limiting factors here on growing crops of certain kinds, such as hot weather, hot winds, high winds, and soil conditions, but our water cannot be considered as a limiting factor.

There is another idea that is more or less prevalent, which is that in a few years the water will ruin the land. This idea is also falacious. There may be land here ruined by excessive water; no doubt there will be unless something is done, but any kind of water would act the same way, whether it had alkali in it or not.

Waterlogging will ruin any land, and water hogs exist on every irrigation project. Water hogs will do more injury to this project and to these lands than all the alkali that will ever come down the Wichita river.

Lake Kemp water is good irrigation water; in fact is its very good.

Find It In Quartz Of Archean Age In Brazil

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Drops of water preserved in quartz since an age before life began to appear on earth will be exhibited in the Field museum here.

The water was obtained in South America by O. C. Farrington, head of the museum's department of geology, who found it imprisoned in crystal quartz taken from rock formations at Bon Jesus dos Meiras, Bahi, Brazil. The estimate of its age was based on the fact that the rock formations were of the Archean age, asserted by some scientists to have existed 50,000,000 years ago.

New Gas May Be Death Trap For Motor Car User

Experiments With High Power Fuel Puts 17 In a Hospital

ITS USE BARRED

Health Experts Demand Full Probe Before It Goes On Market

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Discussing the deaths by gas poisoning of three workers employed in the research laboratory of the Bayway plant of the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey, Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, health commissioner of New York City, said tonight that the New York health department for some past has been making experiments with certain materials used in gasoline mixtures to increase the power of automobiles. If it is discovered, he asserted, that there is anything in these compounds which endangers life, their sale no longer will be permitted by the department.

The workers' health bureau tonight received the following telegram from Dr. Yandell Henderson, professor applied physiology at Yale university:

"The sale to the public of gasoline containing lead is now reported in New Jersey, Maryland, the middle-western states and elsewhere. It should be stopped immediately and prohibited until the subject is fully investigated by scientific experts. Otherwise there is great danger of widespread poisoning among men at gas filling stations, garages, repair shops and even among the general public. Public health authorities everywhere should take immediate action."

Seventeen employes of the Bayway plant are still in reconstruction hospital here tonight in varying stages of the ailment produced by the gas. Two of them, Herbert Fuson and William Kreuzer, both of Elizabeth, N. J., are said to be in a critical condition.

Question Mark Is Prominent on Eve Of British Votes

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The people of Great Britain will provide themselves tomorrow with their third parliament within two years. What kind of a parliament it will be after the votes of the nation are counted, no prominent politician or political observer has been audacious to predict publicly. That the labor government will go the way of all governments seems, however, to be the opinion held almost everywhere, but some of the laborites still appear confident that their party will be given a mandate to remain in office.

Whether the conservatives can recoup their losses of a year ago and return to the house of commons with a majority over all other parties, and thereby put themselves into office without the assistance of the others, is a question no one has any means of determining, or even reasonably forecasting until the returns come in.

The whole pre-election political situation was made utterly uncertain by the eleventh hour bursting of the "Russian bombshell" with an effect on the country that cannot be gauged at all. Until this "red letter" gave the campaign orators a real live topic to talk about the electorate were an apathetic air and it was rather the general expectation that the three parties would return to Westminster in the same relative positions they held numerically when the last parliament's life ended—the conservatives first, labor second and the liberals third—with the conservatives lacking a clear majority.

The Old Home Town

No marriage licenses were issued Tuesday by the county clerk.

Frank Kell is in Chicago on a business trip. He is expected back Thursday.

Twenty-seven persons have thus far taken advantage of the absentee voting law and cast ballots for the Nov. 4 election with the county clerk. The twenty-seventh was marked yesterday afternoon.

A Hallowe'en party and box supper is being planned for next Friday night by the local Odd Fellows lodge, according to an announcement from its officials. The affair will be held at the lodge hall and the public is cordially invited. A program appropriate to the occasion is being arranged.

The noisy solicitation of patronage in the vicinity of the union station by service car agents and hotel porters has drawn a vigorous complaint from business men in that territory and resulted in a police warning to the boisterous ones. Arrests and fines have been promised if the rough-neck tactics persist.

A meeting of the directors of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association will be held today at which time plans for the 1925 exposition will be discussed. A number of important matters are scheduled to come up for attention, according to advance indications.

A Chevrolet automobile, stolen Monday night from R. H. McCord, 1407½ Lamar avenue, was recovered Tuesday afternoon by officers Bryan and Rocker. It was parked out on the eastern edge of town and was undamaged when found. Officers said it had probably been taken by joy riders.

John Sayo, deputy U. S. marshall for this district of Texas returned yesterday from Chickasha, Okla., where he delivered Monte McCarty, arrested recently in Archer county, to Oklahoma officials. McCarty was wanted there on charges of violation of the Dyer act. He is alleged to have stolen an automobile in Ardmore, Okla., and to have driven it into Texas.

Wiley Robertson, J. M. Prothro and C. E. McCutcheon were named yesterday by Mayor Frank Collier to act as an investigating committee in the death of W. D. Vernon and make recommendations to the city council as to the settlement the city should make with Vernon's family. Vernon was killed about a month ago when a city sewer trench in which he was working caved in on him.

ADD HOME

Construction of picnic grounds on the land given recently by Fred Weeks for a city park is going ahead full blast now. The city park department has put a number of workmen in the territory who are building tables, benches and fireplaces. The picnic facilities will be provided before work is started on the golf course which it is proposed to build on the ground.

A large map showing the location of the new city park, ground for which has been given the city by W. F. and H. C. Weeks is on display in Tipton drug store window and has been attracting considerable attention. The map shows not only the boundary of the park, the lagoons and other features, but also gives the route of the proposed new concrete road to be built from Holliday street out to an intersection point with the lake road. The map was presented by Montgomery and Ward, a local engineering firm, and is being shown through their courtesy.

Calles Invites "Big Business" To Help Mexico

Mexican Pres.-Elect In Address Before Trade Body At New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—"Well intentioned" capitalists were invited to help develop Mexico's resources, and were given permission of legal protections, friendly cooperation and a cordial welcome by General Plutarco Elias Calle, president-elect of Mexico speaking here tonight at a dinner given in his honor by the board of trade and the manufacturer's association.

The president-elect, who is making a brief stay here prior to departing for his inaugural ceremonies at home asserted that his government will omit "no sacrifice or effort to achieve the betterment of the working classes, and I invite the well intentioned industrialists and capitalists—not aggressive and practical capitalism—to join with me in this task of the reconstruction and development of the people."

General Calles said he thought big business enterprises were becoming more humanitarian and less utilitarian. This growing idealism, he said, was one of the causes of the improvement in the relations between the United States and Mexico.

Hi-Jacking, Robbery And Mann Act Charges Facing Pair Caught By Bishop

An array of federal and state charges ranging from violation of the Mann act and robbery with firearms to burglary and shop lifting have been worked up and may be filed soon against two youths now in jail in Wellington, Texas, as a result of investigations conducted recently by Harry D. Bishop, U. S. department of justice agent in Wichita Falls. The operations of the men, one of whom is 22 and the other 21 years of age, have spread over most of north Texas and southern Oklahoma. They are wanted in Anadarko, Chickasha and Waurika, Oklahoma, and Amarillo, Weinert, Wichita Falls and Stamford, Texas.

Two girls, one 13 and one 14 years of age, figured in the escapades with the pair, Bishop learned, and it was through the stories they related that he was able to trace down the men. The four lived together in Oklahoma for a time, they revealed, and later were involved in the robbery of automobile accessory houses in Weinert and other places. They robbed a railroad man of a $10 check in Stamford and cashed it later at a store in Wichita Falls.

The men will probably be turned over to Stamford officials for prosecution.

The motion for a new trial of J. S. Phillips, under a two-year penitentiary sentence for extortion, will be argued this morning before Judge P. A. Martin of the 50th district court. Attorneys for Phillips will allege misconduct of the jury as a basis for their plea.

URGES SUPPORT OF BOB

Speaker at Dallas Says Vote For Cal Means More Public Crimes

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 28.—Support of the LaFollette-Wheeler national ticket was asked by Benjamin C. Marsh of Washington, D. C., managing director of the farmers' national council, in an address here tonight.

"This is not a three cornered fight," Mr. Marsh declared. "A vote for either John W. Davis or Calvin Coolidge is a vote for the continuation of the crimes in public office that have prevailed under democratic and republican rule. A vote for LaFollette and Wheeler is a vote for the cessation of such crimes, a vote for the good of the people and the country at large.

G. O. P. EXECUTIVE DIES

Harold Sewell of Maine Expires in New York Hospital.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Harold M. Sewell of Bath, Maine, republican national committeeman from that state, died in a hospital here today after a minor operation.

Mr. Sewell was the son of the late Arthur Sewell, democratic vice presidential candidate with William Jennings Bryan in 1896 and head of the well known ship building family.

Of all glad words that signs can say, the gladdest are these three: "Park all day."

If it is of platinum and set in diamonds, who cares a whoop whether or not it keeps time.

It seems strange that the Bore family never heard that great army slogan, "Let's go."

FOLKS SHUDDER AT "BROKEN OUT" FACES

Folks simply can't help showing that pimply, blotchy or rough faces are unpleasant for them to look at, much less associate and become intimate with people who are so careless about their appearance as to let these skin blemishes rule their destiny. No wonder it seems like "cold chills" run down their backs as they pass by.

Black and White Ointment, and Soap, by healing the skin tissue, remove such skin disfigurers, and the way they quickly get rid of them is responsible for their popularity and tremendous sale of more than two million packages a year. Your dealer has them both. They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Black and White Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size.—Adv.
