

Goodfellow Christmas effort begins

The traditional "gift" of food provided to needy families at Christmas is again planned in Scurry County as the annual Goodfellow effort begins.

Beginning Monday, booths will be set up in the lobbies of Snyder financial institutions seeking donations from local residents.

Operating these booths will be members of the Snyder Senior Center VIVA organization.

Snyder school children are again asked to bring a canned good item to be placed under their school Christmas trees.

These canned good items will then supplement food to be purchased through donations received from individuals here.

Families chosen to receive the basket of food will be selected through applications submitted by the families themselves as well as referrals.

An application form for the Goodfellow gift is printed inside this issue of the SDN and will continue to run through the holiday season. These should be mailed to P.O. Box 661 here in Snyder.

A screening committee will go through these applications and persons will be notified through the mail if they will receive the food items.

The cutoff date to apply for Goodfellows' consideration is Dec. 13.

tion is Dec. 13.

For persons selected, Goodfellows volunteers note that the notification card sent through the mail must be brought to the pre-Christmas pickup.

The food packages will be distributed Dec. 17 — a Saturday — at the ag annex located on the east side of the Scurry County Coliseum. The times will be from 9 a.m. until noon.

This pickup point is a change from previous years. In the past, it has been completed at the East Side Church of Christ.

Organizations traditionally involved with the Goodfellows effort include the Kiwanis Club, all scouting organizations, Jaycettes and student organizations at Snyder schools.

Ask Us

Q. — Was there any reason why Snyder received only one playoff game this year?

A. — Chamber officials say they were contacted by four other team representatives in addition to the Wall and Morton game which was played here. Since such negotiations are fairly informal, exact reasons as to why they did not come to Snyder are hard to pin down. The chamber's executive committee did approve a slightly different approach this year, however. Rather than assume all costs of the playoff games, teams were told the chamber would guarantee the playoff contest would not "cost them anything." Actual expenses related to the game were deducted from gate receipts, then these receipts were split among the two teams. The chamber paid for the game trophy — an expense that cost $160 for the playoff game played here. Other expenses related to that game equaled $1,344 and the gate receipts equaled $3,313. The teams split $1,969.

Soviets schedule conference

MOSCOW (AP) — Three top Kremlin officials, including the military chief of general staff, will hold a news conference Monday about the NATO deployment of U.S. missiles in Western Europe, the Foreign Ministry announced today.

Presiding at the conference will be Marshal Kikolai V. Ogarkov, chief of staff and first deputy defense minister; Georgi M. Kornienko, first deputy foreign minister; and Leonid M. Zamyatin, the top Kremlin spokesman.

It will be the second time the three have faced Western journalists together. On Sept. 9, they met reporters to give Moscow's version of why its jet fighters shot down the Korean jumbo jet with 269 people aboard.

The announcement said the news conference will be "devoted to questions connected with the beginning of the deployment of American missiles in Western Europe."

USDA official shuns ag rep

AUSTIN (AP) — An angry federal official, accusing Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower of "playing partisan politics" during a controversy over the sale of surplus grain to West Texas ranchers, has cut off any further dealings with the state official.

John E. Ford, an assistant deputy to U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block, said Thursday that he informed Hightower's aides he would no longer deal with them because of the Texas commissioner's charges that the USDA had dragged its feet over aid to drought-stricken ranchers in West Texas.

Thursday's executive session followed a special called meeting of the school board to hear the annual outside audit report.

The board went into closed session shortly after 1 p.m. and met some 40 minutes before coming back into open session. Following this, a motion was made by school trustee Mike Reed to set the second special meeting this Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the school administration building.

AFS sets regular meeting

The Snyder Chapter of the American Field Service will have its regularly scheduled Dutch Treat breakfast at 8 a.m. Saturday at the Great Western Restaurant.

Families of past AFS foreign exchange students to Snyder are asked to bring their student's address to the club meeting or to contact Mr. or Mrs. D. V. Merritt, Jr. at 573-5301. At this meeting, friends and club members will be signing Christmas cards to all our previous exchange students.

Estes seeks immunity

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Paroled swindler Billie Sol Estes is seeking immunity from prosecution for information in the mysterious 1961 death of a U.S. Agriculture Department official, The Abilene Reporter-News reported today.

Estes met in Abilene with U.S. Marshal Clint Peoples for two hours Thursday to discuss the unsolved case.

Henry Marshall, 51, of Bryan, a U.S. Agriculture Department employee, was found dead June 3, 1961, on his ranch 13 miles northwest of Franklin in Robertson County. Marshall was found shot five times in the abdomen with a .22-caliber bolt-action rifle.

Marshall's death has been ruled a suicide, but Peoples said Marshall had been beaten and found to have a lethal amount of carbon monoxide in his body.

Marshall was described a year after his death by then Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman as a "key figure" in the investigation of Estes' affairs.

Estes, who was paroled to Abilene last month after spending four months in prison, was convicted of fraud in 1963 in connection with a multi-million dollar fertilizer tank scheme, but stayed out on appeal until 1965.

Peoples, who first talked to Estes about the case four years ago, said Thursday he was "very cooperative."

Peoples said Thursday that Estes, 58, had nothing to do with Marshall's death. But neither Estes nor Peoples would elaborate on what Estes might know or on what charges he would seek immunity.

About a year after the death, Peoples said, the late Col. Homer Garrison, then commander of the Department of Public Safety, "told me to get my teeth into" the case.

The body was exhumed after a grand jury investigation and an autopsy conducted in Bryan by Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk, chief medical examiner for Harris County.

"It's the only big case in my career that's not cleared," Peoples said. "I've got more knowledge on it than any living soul."

Estes said recently that if he ever talked about some things he knew from his wheeler-dealer days in the early 1960s, it would shake the nation, but he had not been specific until Thursday.

Estes served six years of a 15-year sentence, before being paroled to Abilene in 1971. He was convicted of fraud and concealing his assets to avoid paying taxes in July 1979. He was sentenced in August 1979 to 10 years in prison, and his previous parole was revoked.

Estes said his attorneys "at the present are working to seek the extent of immunity that I'd have to have to protect me. Not only would I have to have immunity but other people are going to have to have immunity."

Event honors 4-Hers

4-H awards will be presented Saturday to honor those who in the past year have excelled in various 4-H projects.

Among these will be this year's Scurry County Gold Star winners Matt Cross, Snyder 4-H and son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cross; and Patricia Romero, Hermleigh 4-H and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Romero.

Other awards will honor a 4-H adult leader and the traditional "Friend of 4-H."

The event will be in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Christmas music will be provided by Cindy Hataway and Donna Fowler.

Guest speaker is Sam Jackson, a sophomore at Texas Tech University. Jackson is an animal science major from See BANQUET, page 8

Early culture at Yule event

The Diamond M Museum will celebrate the beginning of the Christmas season Sunday with a reception from 3-5 p.m.

Visitors will have an opportunity to see new exhibits and to help decorate the museum's Christmas tree with "ojo-de-dios," traditional southwest ornaments made by wrapping brightly colored yarns on crossed sticks. Mexican holiday-season refreshments will be served.

The largest of two exhibits to be displayed Sunday is "Sacred Paths," which focuses on the Spanish and Native American religious experience in the southwest. Beginning with the myths of the Pueblo people, the exhibit chronicles the religious coexistence in the area from pre-Hispanic times through the Spanish Colonial period.

Objects that served similar ceremonial functions for the two groups are compared and important myths and legends explored. The exhibit contains original art works, photographs, historic artifacts and maps. It was developed for the Museum of New Mexico with funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The second exhibit is of retablos — pictures of saints painted on tin. Retablos are a folk art form based on prints and book illustrations used by the Spanish missionaries in their teachings in Mexico and the American Southwest. Painted by untrained native artists, each saint is depicted with "attributes" — a costume or set of objects that identify that saint. The exhibit provides additional examples of retablos to supplement those included in the "Sacred Paths" exhibit. These 19th Century examples are from Mexico and are loaned to the Diamond M by the Roswell, N.M. Museum and Art Center.

The Diamond M will be open at the regular time of 1 p.m. on Sunday and will remain open until 5 p.m. There is no admission charge for activities planned.

Snyder ISD's outside audit exception free

A school system operation with more than $15.6 million in assets and a comparative minuscule long term indebtedness was the profile offered Thursday by an outside auditor for the Snyder Independent School District.

The annual report was given by Joe H. Morren, a certified public accountant from Colorado City, who noted that this Snyder school audit was "virtually exception free."

He was referring to the portion of the report where auditor's note "exceptions," or areas of accounting procedure which could be improved upon or require changes.

The general "cash situation" of the school system continues to "hold its own," in Morren's words.

This includes an overall increase in school assets when compared to last year.

This was in part due to a shuffling of budget accounts as required under new state law, he noted — transferring both the athletic and cafeteria accounts into the main or "General Fund" for the school.

Regarding assets, the estimate placed on these at last year's audit report equaled $14.9 million. The figure this year was $15.6 million.

Exact figures for both respectively are $14,999,417 and $15,619,397.

For accounting purposes on the report, subtracted from these total assets are the school's liabilities, calculated by the accounting firm at some $331,000.

Most of these dollars are "accounts payable," however, or monies due for purchase items as of the end of the school year this past Aug. 31.

The only type of "long term" money owed is a bonded indebtedness amount now equaling some $20,000. This is money owed for a bond debt incurred by the now locally consolidated Fluvanna School District.

When it joined with the Snyder system in 1976, a bond debt which financed a gymnasium at the school there was assumed by the Snyder ISD.

Regarding assets, the major item listed is school buildings and facilities. These are now estimated at a some $12.3 million value.

Congressmen vow...

Re-enact vetoed bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats say they will oppose further military aid to El Salvador, perhaps by a Senate filibuster, until they have re-enacted a bill vetoed by President Reagan that would tie assistance to progress on human rights.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also criticized the veto Thursday and predicted that the measure would be revived in the session of Congress that starts Jan. 23.

Percy stopped short of saying what position he would take on the bill in light of the veto, although he noted that he has supported it in the past and said he was disappointed at the president's action.

Most of the reaction to the veto, however, came from Democrats, who said it would encourage right-wing terror squads in the Central American country and cripple diplomatic efforts to bring about more humane treatment of dissidents.

"I would presume that this is going to be perceived as a green light by those involved in the death squads and the security forces who support the death squads," said Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., the original author of the vetoed measure.

Dodd said the administration was telling the Salvadoran regime, "It doesn't matter what you do. You can count on the U.S. for all the military aid that we can convince Congress it should support."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. called the veto a "tragic error" and said the human rights measure "will be at the top of the House leadership's legislative priorities" when Congress reconvenes.

Bierbower, said, "Who knows?" Defense attorneys had called Ms. Lavelle a "scapegoat." Out of all the accusations of political favoritism and conflict of interest swirling around the agency earlier this year, she was the only EPA official to face criminal charges.

The Justice Department investigated others but said it had found insufficient evidence to support prosecution of former EPA Administrator Anne Burford and seven other top-ranking EPA officials.

Asked if Ms. Lavelle was a scapegoat, government prosecutor William Hendricks said, "not at all."

Asked if there might be other indictments, Hendricks said there would be "no further actions."

However, Rep. James Scheuer, D-N.Y., one of a half-dozen congressional committee chairmen who led investigations into the agency, said the EPA case should not be closed.

The four counts for which Ms. Lavelle was convicted involved the date she first learned that her former employer, Aerojet, had dumped wastes at the Stringfellow Acid Pits in California.

The jury acquitted Ms. Lavelle on a charge connected to most of the accusations against her last winter — that the national program to clean up hundreds of hazardous waste dumps had been placed on an "election track" with spending decisions based on helping Republican candidates and hurting others.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Is it heart disease?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am an emergency medical technician so I understand many medical terms and conditions. My problem is a heart arrhythmia called paroxysmal atrial tachycardia, which causes my heart to beat in excess of 250 beats per minute.

I'm a 25-year-old man, 6 feet tall and weigh 160 pounds. I don't drink or smoke and have no other ailments. I have had several electrocardiograms and two echograms, which all have had normal results.

I have had this condition since age 9 and have never been able to get a straight answer as to what the disease is and how serious it is. I have at least five premature contractions a day and approximately one attack of tachycardia every one to three months. My doctor says not to restrict myself in any way and I am not on any medication.

I don't take part in a lot of the activities I'd like to because these attacks scare me.

DEAR READER — A large number of people who have these attacks do not have any underlying heart disease. In these circumstances, the arrhythmia is unpleasant, but not life-threatening.

You may abort an attack by taking a deep breath and holding it. Or you could learn to do massage of the artery in your neck.

Most of these cases are caused by areas of the atria that are electrically active. In some cases, there is an accessory electrical pathway, like an extra electric wire in a circuit, which short-circuits and causes the rapid heart action (WPW syndrome). In some of these cases, the accessory pathway can be removed surgically and will cure the problem.

If the attacks are caused by electrically active spots in the atria (the top part of the heart), a number of medicines can help prevent the attacks, including time-honored quinidine, Norpace and Inderal. But if an accessory pathway is present, the treatment is different.

I am sending you The Health Letter 6-12, Heart Irregularities, Skipped Beats, Tachycardias, for more details on what these conditions are. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You should have an evaluation by a cardiologist. I would hope your condition could be controlled well enough that you would feel comfortable about being normally active.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does drinking small amounts of apple-cider vinegar have any medical benefits, such as helping arthritis and breaking down cholesterol?

DEAR READER — Despite enthusiastic claims: The answer is no. Cider vinegar contains some potassium, about half as much as an equal volume of orange juice. But those who need potassium are more likely to drink a glass of orange juice than two glasses of cider vinegar!

Like other forms of vinegar, it is acid because it contains acetic acid. That makes it a good food preservative and helps to eliminate bacterial growth in food products. But don't count on it to prevent bacteria in your body. The normal stomach produces more acid and is much more effective. And the acid content of the stomach, even if it includes vinegar, is neutralized by alkaline juices in the small intestine.

Vinegar has no effect whatsoever on arthritis or on your cholesterol. On the negative side, it may irritate the bowel and cause gas.

Humans have few or no "human rights" in 117 nations including 15 nations in our own hemisphere.

It is equally vain to talk of "restoring democracy" in countries which don't even know the meaning of the word.

It's the week after THE DAY AFTER.

More than a hundred million people watched that movie about nuclear war, but nobody panicked.

Counseling centers had been established in anticipation of a public hysteria which never happened.

Schoolroom discussion is likely the most constructive result.

Here's why: For generations old men have been willing to draft young men to do their fighting for them — out of sight and sound.

The dying was no less agonizing for the dying and the dead were no less dead. But the old men were safe.

And that might have continued every 20 years forever.

But when any next war will surely come home.

When there is no longer a hiding place anywhere.

When we can no longer throw young men on the altar as a periodic sacrifice to Thor!

When warfare is certain to engulf even the old men — and their daughters...

Then — only then — will they learn to settle international differences by more civilized means.

The big-big bomb is not for our destruction — but for our deliverance.

Tigers play in Levelland

LEVELLAND -- Snyder's varsity girls were defeated by Odessa Permian, 72-46 in first-round action of the Levelland Tournament here Thursday. The girls, now 1-1, were scheduled to play Lubbock High at 11:30 this morning. A win would put them back on the court at 4. A loss would knock them out of the tourney. Permian led only 33-29 at halftime, but outscored Snyder 9-0 in the third quarter and 30-17 in the fourth.

Snyder's boys were to take on an undetermined opponent at 3 p.m. here Saturday in the consolation finals of the tournament.

SHS Cats open JV tournament

Snyder was to open play in its own Snyder Junior Varsity Tournament today, hosting Big Spring at for the eighth straight game.

Others entered in the two-day, eight-team tourney include Odessa Permian, Lubbock Dunbar, Sweetwater, Midland, Monterey and San Angelo Central.

Later first-round games pit Permian against Dun-ment. Snyder will play either Levelland junior varsity or Lubbock Roosevelt.

The boys, 0-4, lost their first-round game to Lubbock Monterey, 78-48. Monterey went on to defeat Levelland JV 84-45 Thursday while Levelland varsity popped Roosevelt, 68-50.

The Tigers will stay on the road to play Odessa Permian next Tuesday before hosting the Canyon Reef Tournament on Dec. 8-9-10.

TCU stays unbeaten; Raiders win again

by The Associated Press East Texas State kept unbeaten Texas Christian at bay for 34 minutes with a tenacious stall, but then Tracy Mitchell went to work.

Mitchell, who scored a game-high 20 points, led a Horned-Frog rally that pulled TCU from behind to a 35-26 win Thursday night over the Lions in Fort Worth.

In other games involving Southwest Conference teams, Texas Tech whipped San Diego University 64-53, No. 14 Arkansas routed Southeast Missouri State 98-69 and Texas-San Antonio knocked off Rice 72-56.

In tonight's only game, Baylor is playing in the Iowa Classic.

TCU and Southern Methodist, both 3-0, are the league's only undefeated teams.

With 1:10 remaining, Mitchell deflected an East Texas pass and scored a three-point play to put TCU in the lead to stay, 29-26. Mitchell dropped in four more free throws to pad the Frog lead.

In Houston, Texas-San Antonio's Derrick Gervin scored 21 points and pulled down 14 rebounds as the Roadrunners evened their record at 1-1. Rice fell to 1-2 with the loss.

Rice jumped to a 22-18 lead in the first half, but UTSA responded by outscoring the Owls 13-4 to take a 31-26 halftime lead.

Arkansas, 3-1, led 39-31 at halftime and erupted for 59 points in the second half. Razorback center Joe Kleine scored 19 points and guard Alvin Robertson tossed in 18.

Freethrows decide it...

Westerners fall short, 82-77

Western Texas missed on five freethrow attempts in the final 3:13 here Thursday and that was exactly South Plains' winning margin as the Texans gutted out an 82-77 conference victory.

The loss was WTC's fifth straight and leaves them at 6-5 for the season and 0-2 in WJAC play. The Westerners will play New Mexico Military in Roswell on Monday.

"More than anything, our freethrow shooting was the big factor. When we had the opportunity to snyder at the freethrow line we didn't," said WTC Coach Barry Davis. "You've got to make your freethrows down the stretch."

South Plains led from the outset, running up a 7-0 lead before WTC could retaliate. The Texans lost the advantage only once, when Larry Banks put up a field goal with 5:56 left in the first half. The visitors promptly put an end to that comeback attempt as they outscored Western 13-2 over the next several minutes.

Davis' bunch kept coming back, however. Trailing 45-38 at intermission, WTC ignited with baskets from sophomores Robert Mitchell, Richie Fells and Banks to make it 45-44. Once again, South Plains held off the rally, though, scoring six unanswered points of its own.

Chris Cooper, a fine outside shooter, led the second half spread offense put on by the Texans. The 6-2 sophomore had 15 second-half points.

SPC's biggest lead in the period came on a basket by freshman Jon Luedke with 5:07 left, 68-58.

WTC climbed back into the game as officials called a technical on South Plains' standout guard George Kohelem. What could have been a five-point series for the Westerners turned out to be only two, however. Floyd Singled canned a one-and-one but missed the technical shot, and WTC turned the ball over after inbounding it moments later.

WTC was in the game until the end, but could never catch the visitors. Baskets by Singleton and Banks and a freethrow from Jeff Gibson made the score 75-74 with 59 seconds remaining. Western then fouled and Kohelem made his freeshots. Kohelem did the same seconds later after Singleton had cut it back to 77-75.

In a final effort, Fells swished a pair of charity shots with 14 ticks left, 79-77, but South Plains quickly got the ball downcourt to 6-7 Greg Unthank, who was fouled as he scored with six seconds left. His bonus freethrow put the game out of reach.

Cooper had 23 points for the game and Kohelem notched 27 as the Texans shot a blazing 29 of 48 from the field. They were 18 of 24 for the night, led by Kohelem's 9 of 10 performance.

In contrast, WTC was 35 of 76, once again leading in field goals made but coming up short from the freethrow line. The Westerners hit only seven of 14 shots from the stripe.

Fells paced the offense with 18 points. Banks had 16 and Mitchell 12. Freshman Victor Spencer, who had four steals, four assists and five rebounds, scored 8.

Degrate picked All-SWC

DALLAS (AP) - Tony Degrate, 6-4, 280 tackle for the Southwest Conference champion Texas Longhorns, has been named to the All-Southwest Conference Team.

Degrate, a junior from Snyder, was one of three Snyder area players named to the first team from the Longhorns.

Others were defensive backs Fred Acorn, a 5-10, 180 senior from Rotan, and Jerry Gray, a 6-1, 183 junior from Lubbock (Lubbock Estacado). Texas placed nine players on The Associated Press 1983 All-Southwest Conference first team, but Baylor and Southern Methodist, which also had nine honorees, grabbed coveted individual honors in the voting by league coaches.

Grant Teaff, who brought Baylor from a predicted eighth place finish to a third place tie with Texas A&M, was named the SWC Coach of the Year.

The Offensive Player of the Year accolade went to Gerald McNeil, the Bears' 140-pound mighty mite flanker, who caught 62 passes for a school-record 1,034 yards and eight touchdowns.

McNeil, who edged SMU quarterback Lance McIlhenny by one vote, was the first receiver to earn the award since SMU's Jerry LeVias won it back in the 1960s.

McNeil, who made all-conference the last three years, finished his career with 163 receptions for 2,651 yards. HIS 1,034 yards for 1983 is the third best in SWC history behind the 1,131 yards by LeVias in 1968 and Emanuel Tolbert's 1,041 yards in 1978.

Russell Carter, SMU's hard-tackling, ball-hawking free safety, was named Defensive Player of the Year. Carter had seven interceptions.

The Offensive Newcomer of the Year was Texas A&M's sensational freshman, Kevin Murray, and the Defensive Newcomer was Baylor defensive back Aaron Grant.

The Longhorns to land first team berths were guard Doug Dawson; freshman placekicker Jeff Ward, who hit 15 of 16 field goals attempts; linemen Degrate and Eric Holle; linebacker Jeff Leiding; defensive backs Gray, Acorn and Mossy Cade, and punter John Teltschik.

Second-place SMU had nine players on the mythical first team including tackle Brian O'Meara; guard Andrew Campbell; quarterback McIlhenny; running back Reggie Dupard; tight end Rickey Bolden; center Chris Jackson; lineman Michael Carter; and defensive backs Russell Carter and Fred Nichols.

Baylor had four players on the first squad including McNeil, tackle Mark Adickes, running back Alfred Anderson, and lineman Ervin Randle.

Other first team members included flanker James Maness of TCU, lineman Ray Childress of Texas A&M, and linebacker Bert Zinamon, Arkansas.

Western Texas College raced away from South Plains early in the second half here Thursday to win its conference opener, 71-50.

The Dusters played well in spurts offensively, including an eight minute period in the second half when they outscored the Texanns 24-9.

It was the Dusters' 11th win of the season and puts them at 11-3 going into Saturday's non-conference game with Ranger Junior College here. Tipoff is set for 1 p.m. in the coliseum. There will be no admission charge.

As Coach Joe Cushing forecasted, South Plains used every defense in the book.

"Defensively, they gave our nickle offense some problems in the first half.

They were concentrating on Mary Nell (Clayton) and some of our people weren't picking that up. We should have been able to get the ball to somebody else, but we weren't."

The Texanns led only once, 4-3, and lost that to an 11-point outburst by the Dusters. That set the theme for the game as the Dusters eventually gave up most of the advantage, 18-17, but regained it again when Renvy Evans and Karen Kuykendall hit consecutive buckets. The halftime score was WTC 30, SPC 24.

"In the second half, we got some good shots off the baseline early and that opened up their defense. The momentum shifted," said the coach.

Kuykendall, a 6-1 post from Lubbock, led the second half attack as she and Evans hit for six straight points. Debra Scott snared a freethrow for the visitors, but Western rattled off six more before freshman Becky McWhorter finally got SPC's first field goal of the second half with 15:06 remaining.

Both teams then traded points until Evans popped the hoop to put WTC up by 21 with 11:30 still to play. The Texanns eventually whittled it to 14, but never got any closer. With 3:24 to go, Clayton knocked down a couple of freethrows to break the 20-point individual scoring barrier for the ninth straight game. "Defensively, I was real pleased in holding them to 50 points. It showed a lot of character. We had a lot of people play well. They hustled, helped get the ball down the floor, helped with assists and rebounds. It was just an overall team win," said Cushing.

Clayton's 21 led the Dusters, who also got 16 from Clara Campbell and 12 from Kuykendall. Evans scored 8. Kuykendall, in an all-around good night, also had eight rebounds and six steals. Campbell led in rebounds with 9, while Clayton had five rebounds and led in assists with six.

Shanda Vernon, a 5-6 freshman, had 12 points for the Texanns, who fall to 8-4 for the season and 1-1 in conference play. Angela Young scored 8.

Dear Abby

Old Problem Drops In When New Baby Is Born

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my husband and I had our first child, which happens to be my parents' first grandchild. Two months before I was due, my mother called and said she wanted to be with me during the delivery. (She and Dad live 1,200 miles away.) I thanked her and said that I preferred that she wait until the baby was at least 2 weeks old. She pouted, her main concern being, "What will I tell my friends?"

After the baby was born, I called to tell her and Dad that they were grandparents of a healthy girl and to come in about two weeks. The very next day they flew to be with me!

Maybe I had better explain that my mother and I were never close. She is a perfectionist who found something wrong with everything I ever did. I really love her, but we can't get along.

Mom and Dad stayed at our small home for eight days. She tried to take over caring for the baby and made a total wreck of me, so I finally had to ask her to please go home and come back in a few months when things were calmer. All she could say was, "What will my friends think of me flying all that way for only eight days?"

Now she's angry with me. It's been three weeks and she refuses to speak to me. How can I reach her, Abby? This silence is very painful.

NEW MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Write and tell her that you really love her and want to have a good mother-daughter relationship, but she must realize that even though you are her "child," you are a grown, mature woman—and a mother yourself now—and she must treat you like an adult. Counseling (here we go again!) from an objective professional could do wonders for her.

***

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a mother who, when she drives her kids around, never bothers to tell them to buckle their seat belts? When I say something to her about it, she says her children are "covered by prayer"—that if anything did happen to them, it would be "the will of God." I am these children's aunt, and I am ...

WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Inform the woman that seat belts are now mandatory in most states because statistics show that they have saved many lives and prevented serious injuries. And tell her that if she fails to provide her children with seat-belt protection and something were to happen to them, she could attribute it to her negligence—not God's will.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me set my mind straight. Our 20-year-old son and his 19-year-old cousin were always very close. We thought nothing of it until one day they came to us and said they were in love and wanted to marry.

Since there is no insanity in our family that we know of, we thought it was OK, but we soon found out that first cousins are not allowed to marry in the state of Massachusetts.

We talked to a lawyer, and he said about 20 states permit first cousins to marry, so they will go to one of those states to get married.

Here's my question: After the kids get married, will they be living in sin if they live in Massachusetts?

KATHLEEN

DEAR KATHLEEN: No. A valid marriage is valid in every state.

***

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Anna in Ashtabula," who requested a rerun of that poem, "Thank God for Dirty Dishes," if she had as many dirty dishes to wash as we have, she'd thank God for paper plates!

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

West opened his ace of clubs and shifted to the three of diamonds after East had followed with the seven.

The bidding, along with the play to the first two tricks, had drawn a mighty fine picture of the East-West hands for South.

East obviously held the king of clubs, since this card and favorable vulnerability would explain his raise to two clubs. It was equally obvious that West held both major suit kings for his opening bid. The diamond was surely a singleton, and it looked as if West's distribution was 3-4-1-5. The spade finesse was not going to succeed and South was faced with a spade loser, two club losers and a ruff.

Could he avoid that ruff? He found a way.

The queen of spades was led from dummy, but the ace was played from the South hand. The jack of hearts was led and allowed to ride. A second heart went to dummy's 10 and a club was discarded on the ace. Then the queen of hearts was led and the last club discarded.

West got a heart trick, but never scored either a second club or the hoped-for diamond ruff.

Note that if West had opened his singleton diamond, there would have been no way to keep East from getting the lead with his club king, and South's winning play would not have been available.

The Weeder's Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

It's time again to wonder what to give gardening folk as Christmas gifts.

The choice is wide, ranging from plants to books and tools, as usual. Then there are gift certificates for ornamental shrubs and trees and fruit trees to be delivered in the spring if the ground is already frozen where the recipient resides.

Take a look at the seed catalogs, and you'll find many suggestions. How about seeds? An indoor herb garden? Indoor plant lights and automatic timers? A composting bin, a seed starter kit?

We've seen a garden apron with lots of pockets for holding small hand tools and seed packets. Then there are hanging ivy baskets, with or without ivy; a bonsai plant for the house, and miniature roses.

Brass wind bells, or others made of tinkling glass, wood or stones will be pretty and tuneful hung in or near the garden. A delicate Norfolk pine that graces the indoors and Peter A. grows slowly in the north and can be planted outdoors in the south is decorative. There are prepackaged Dutch amaryllis bulbs in different colors to watch unfold during the holiday season and afterward.

For the more precise gardener there are fertilizer analyzers; plant computers that are moisture and light meters; hygrometers to measure relative humidity, and pH computers, indoor-outdoor thermometers, rain gauges and wind speed indicators.

How about a patio garden bell, bird feeders—some even squirrel proof—or a garden sundial? A cold frame would be welcomed by the avid gardener. As for hoses, there are sprayers and soakers. Garden plant markers are nice, so are plant and newspaper shredders (for mulch) or a portable hothouse and sets of colorful plant pots.

Less spectacular but more useful are trowels, grass clippers, hoes, spade forks, rakes and bulb planters that scoop out holes. Why not knee cushions, especially for the older gardener? Also useful are a garden car on wheels; a self-attaching window shelf that holds small plant pots; garden gloves; watering cans; hose-connected root feeders for your trees and shrubs.

As for books, among some recent good garden titles are: "Country Journal Book of Vegetable Gardening," by Nancy Bubel Norton, which ranges from planning a garden to harvest and storage.

"Field Guide to North American Edible Wild Plants," by Cary Arboretum's Thomas S. Elias and Peter A. Dykeman (Outdoor Life Book Club & Van Nostrand Reinhold). Season-by-season coverage of 200 common wild plants in nature's food store.

And there is the delightful "In and Out of the Garden" desk diary by Sara Midda (Workman), available in many book and stationery stores. Workman also offers a handsome rose calendar with photographs by Murray Alcosser.

CORRECTION:

In a recent column listing garden mulches, a comma inadvertently was inserted between "salt" and "hay." It should have read "salt hay."

(Any queries about gardening problems must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

NASA's media hookup with shuttle fizzles

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — NASA had this great idea, see. To get attention for its program, it announced a live news conference with the men orbiting on Spacelab and invites reporters here and in Europe to take part. This two-continent, out-of-this-world hookup seemed a cinch for an agency that has managed to talk with its spacemen whether they were circling the earth or walking on the moon.

Well, it wasn't. The reporters were in place Thursday, precisely on time. Television from the Spacelab showed four of the six crewmen facing the camera, waiting expectantly. Cable News Network began rolling live as the first question was asked by Al Rossiter Jr., of United Press International.

The spacemen continued to wait expectantly. Rossiter looked puzzled.

A stage manager told Rossiter to ask again. He did.

From space, there was no indication it was heard. Six times, the reporter asked; six times there was no answer. Television viewers probably could recite the question by heart.

It was what the National Aeronautics and Space Administration likes to call an anomaly, a euphemism for "something's mucked up." Several somethings, in this case.

Reporters on the panel with Rossiter began making comments: "Maybe it's your mouthwash, Al," and "Things like this never happen to Clark Kent." Cable News caught every word.

CNN switched to a commercial and to its anchor desk in Atlanta, coming back to Houston whenever it thought the conference might finally start.

NASA officials decided to send the questions via phone to a science control center a block away, where a Spacelab communicator was to relay them to space on the normal radio channel. Rossiter's question finally got off the ground.

Meanwhile, a technician decided the cord was too short to pass the phone down the line of six reporters and replaced it. In doing so, he cut the line to the science control room.

The technician dialed the control center number and reached the NASA personnel office.

The technician dialed again and got a busy signal. Finally the telephone communications were restored.

The astronauts were getting impatient. A NASA stage manager said time was getting short. The 20 minutes allotted for the news conference were extended.

The phone was passed quickly down the line to Morton Dean of CBS, Roy Neal of NBC, Howard Benedict of The Associated Press, Gary Schwitzer of CNN and Lynn Sherr of ABC.

Everyone hurried a question and the astronauts hurried answers.

May extend mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Spacelab's astronauts focused cameras on the heavens and Earth and ran through a mixed bag of experiments today while awaiting NASA's decision on whether they will stay in orbit an extra day. The six orbiters were in agreement — they'd like their journey extended from 9 to 10 days. That would bring the space shuttle Columbia and its Spacelab cargo back to a landing in California on Dec. 8. "That sounds good to me," mission specialist Owen Garriott said. Mission Control told the crew Thursday that no decision on the extension would be made for a day or two until experts review the supplies on board and study weather forecasts for the new landing date. But "everything looks good" for another day in space, officials said. One factor will be a large number of Columbia maneuvers planned in the next two days as commander John Young and pilot Brewster Shaw twist and turn the shuttle to permit Spacelab's four scientists to aim their instruments at Earth and outer space. These maneuvers burn fuel, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration wants to be sure there is an adequate margin for an additional day. Round-the-clock experiments were continued today by mission specialists Garriott and Bob Parker and payload specialists Byron Lichtenberg and West German Ulf Merbold. Spacelab carries the largest and heaviest astronomy instruments ever taken into space, and the astronauts were using their unique platform above the obscuring veil of Earth's atmosphere to observe the sun, stars and mysterious energy and radio sources such as quasars and pulsars.

Four now facing prison sentences

Four individuals now face prison sentences after action in 132nd District Court this week. Martha Evans Poindexter, age 48 of Snyder, was sentenced to five years in the Texas Department of Corrections after entering a guilty plea to aggravated assault charges. Poindexter had been indicted in connection with the stabbing of a local man at an east Snyder motel. Thomas Benjamin Brown, 26, serving a 10-year probation sentence for possession of cocaine since 1977, had his probation revoked and the sentence reduced to six years in the TDC after he was linked to an alleged burglary last February in Parker County. Also having felony probation revoked was Roger William Ryback, 24, who had been serving a three year probation term for forgery by passing. Ryback's probation for the bad check writing offense was revoked due to a subsequent DWI arrest in Mitchell County. He now faces a three-year prison term. Also entering a guilty plea before the court was Glendell Lee Treat, 24, who pleaded guilty to a charge of felony DWI. He was sentenced to two years in the Scurry County Jail for the offense.

Arrest surprises woman

DALLAS (AP) — Toby Loughney had no idea where the bestsellers "Looking out for No. 1" and "I'm OK, You're OK" would get her when she checked them out from a suburban library, but they did her little good last week. Three years after she failed to return the books to the Farmers Branch library, she was arrested, handcuffed, fingerprinted and had her car impounded. She was released after paying $55 in bail and $32.50 for the release of her car," she said, adding "that was a little too much." Miss Loughney said she remembers checking out the books but doesn't know where they are. Among the books she checked out were best sellers from the 1970s, including "Games People Play," "I'm OK, You're OK," "Passages," and "Looking out for No. 1." "I have my stuff together now," she said. Miss Loughney was taken to jail last Friday after police stopped her for an alleged speeding violation in Richardson, a Dallas suburb. A routine check of computerized police records showed she had an outstanding warrant from Farmers Branch, where she lived before moving to Dallas. Nancy Schram, public affairs officer for the Richardson police, said the officer was following standard procedure for any person arrested on a warrant from another city. Farmers Branch has issued hundreds of similar warrants since the ordinance was adopted in 1973. Lt. George Campbell said at least 238 other library patrons are subject to arrest on outstanding warrants. Police started enforcing the law about four years ago because librarians noticed more and more books leaving but not returning to the library, said Betty Kelley, director of the Farmers Branch Public Library. Miss Loughney said she never got notices from the library. "I've moved from apartment to apartment ... but always with forwarding addresses," she said.

Jobless lowest in two years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's civilian unemployment rate fell to 8.4 percent in November, the lowest in two years, as a record number of Americans held jobs, the government reported today. The seasonally adjusted jobless rate fell 0.4 of a percentage point from October's 8.8 percent level, and the government's survey of U.S. households showed that approximately 743,000 people found work. The number of those Americans officially categorized as unemployed shrank by 520,000 last month, to 9.4 million.
