

Hog Reduction Meets Will Be Held In County

Farmers Urged To Have
Information At Hand
When Meetings Occur

Sign Contracts

Four Meetings Next Week
Will Probably Be Last
Chance To Sign Up

Actual signing of Corn-Hog Reduction contracts, in accordance with the 1934 government plan, will open in this county Monday, February 12, to be followed by a series of meetings at four different communities during the week.

John O. Stovall, county agent, urged that each of the farmers planning to participate in the program should have all information ready at the time of the meetings in their respective communities due to the fact that the meetings would be devoted solely to the signing of contracts and not to the threshing out of details preliminary to the signing of the actual contracts.

The first meeting will be held at Quail Monday and Tuesday, February 12-13, and will be under the supervision of Chas. Depaut and Bert Weaver.

The second meeting will be held at Wellington on Wednesday, February 14 and will be supervised by J. C. Phipps, A. J. Peters, E. L. Howell and F. L. White.

The third meeting will be held at Aberdeen on Thursday, February 15, under the supervision of Jack Lowry and Ralph Willoughby.

The fourth meeting will be held at Dozier on Friday, February 16, and will be under the supervision of Guy Beasley and Frank Coleman.

John Deaver Will Seek Re-Election

John Deaver has authorized The Leader to this week announce his candidacy for re-election to the office of District Attorney of the 100th Judicial District, subject to the action of the democratic primary in July. Mr. Deaver is now serving his first term as District Attorney and bases his campaign upon his record as a public prosecutor.

Mr. Deaver said that he was seeking re-election upon the record made in office—a record that showed he stands for law enforcement. He says he believes his work as District Attorney entitles him to a second term in this important office and if re-elected he promises to conduct the affairs of his office on the same high plane as they have been conducted during his incumbency.

Mr. Deaver also desires to thank the people of Collingsworth County and of the entire district for the splendid support they gave him in the last campaign and asks that they give proper consideration to his desire to succeed himself in office.

Beauty Operator Elected V.-P. Of Texas Association

Announcement has been made of the election of Mrs. Mayme Burnett of Wellington as vice-president of the Texas Association of Accredited Beauty Culturists. Mrs. Burnett was selected for this post at the last meeting of Unit 25, which was held in Memphis on January 27. The next district meeting will be held in Childress on February 12, at the Nave Hotel. The purpose of the Association is to enable the members to study the best methods and to keep abreast of the modern styles of hair dressing. Mrs. Burnett who is a member of the staff of the Percy Wells Beauty Shop, will hold her office during the present

Tax Exempt On Pork Sales To 300 Pounds

Small farmers are given a break in the sale of pork, according to information issued through government bulletins this week.

If a farmer does not sell 1,000 pounds or more of meat, he is exempt from the payment of tax on the first 300 pounds; if he sells less than 300 pounds he is subject to no processing tax at all; if he sells more than 1,000 pounds his exemption on the first 300 pounds is void and tax must be paid on the entire sales.

It is possible, however, for farmers to sell live hogs to another person without payment of a tax and all hogs slaughtered for consumption by his own family or household are also exempt.

Leader Bargain Offer Proves To Be Satisfactory

Publisher Elated As Subscription List Surpasses
Three-Year High Point

With its circulation at a higher point than at any time during the past three years, The Leader Bargain Rate Campaign Closed Thursday, February 1, with more than 200 new subscriptions added to the list and practically every old subscriber paid up for another twelve months.

The fact that The Leader has come to play a definite part in the lives of its regular subscribers was disclosed at regular intervals during the campaign as hundreds of persons stated, “I simply cannot do without my Leader.”

The close of the bargain rate and the loyal support given to the paper this year by the people of Collingsworth County are received with gratitude by the publishers, who feel that they are indeed being well repaid in their efforts to bring the readers of The Leader one of the outstanding weekly newspapers of the United States.

County Singers Elect Officers

Two of Dodsonville's most prominent singers were elected to serve as officers for the Collingsworth County Singing Association, this year, when they met in one of the largest assemblies since the beginning of the organization on last Sunday afternoon in the Nazarene Church in Dodsonville.

Officers elected were Bishop Ricketts of Dodsonville, President; Mr. Brewer of Wellington, vice-president; Virgil Scott of Dodsonville secretary-treasurer.

According to the interest which has been manifested during the past several months this association promises to become most outstanding in the Panhandle. From time to time many singers have attended these meetings and heard the splendid singings.

Johnson To Help Farmers Secure Hog Information

That C. E. Johnson, who bought hogs in this county for the past two years, will be in Wellington, Monday, February 12, was announced today.

Mr. Johnson said that he did not know just where he would be located, but that he was coming here for the purpose of assisting farmers in their Corn-Hog Reduction program and that he would furnish receipts and sworn statements necessary in the reduction campaign.

Community Sale Bids To Be Huge Success Feb. 13

Big Auction Sale To Be Held On Col. Jno. Jackson
Farm Near City

Items Are Listed

Cows, Calves, Yearlings,
Horses, Mules And Farm
Implements Are Listed

Following the designation of scores of items to be sold at the Community Auction Tuesday, February 13, it was announced today that the sale would in all probability, be a success. After the appearance of the announcement last week many farmers have listed all types of farm equipment, livestock and household fixtures to be placed in the sale.

The sale is to be held on the farm of Col. Jno. W. Jackson, auctioneer, beginning at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and will be conducted along lines similar to private auction sales.

Free coffee will be served on the auction ground, Col. Jackson said, and food will also be sold at a nominal charge.

Farm implements have been probably the most numerous listed items in the sale and this heading includes go-devils, harrows, and planters. Twelve head of horses and mules have also been listed—and the list already includes everything from saddles and washing machines down to post augers. Items too numerous to mention will be placed on sale at the auction.

Many persons have already listed their items; those who have not done so are urged to list them at the Leader office or with Col. Jackson as soon as possible. All items are to be brought to Col. Jackson's farm either on Monday afternoon, February 12, immediately preceding the sale on February 13, or else on the morning of the sale. In case livestock is brought out on Monday night free feed will be furnished for them until Tuesday morning and the implements may also be stored overnight.

Report 52,000 Acres Signed Up For Reduction

With 1,044 government cotton reduction contracts ready for submission to the County Control Board, 212 more waiting to be completed in the county agent's office and 100 others still in the hands of farmers over the county, John O. Stovall, county agent, today stated that the amount of cotton to be rented here in accordance with the 1934 campaign would be approximately 52,000 acres.

Upon the completion of contracts, they will be submitted to the county and state control boards for approval and, if approved, will be forwarded to Washington.

Various committees working on the reduction campaign reported almost 100 per cent cooperation from the farmers with whom they came into contact.

Complete Arrangements For Both County Meet And Precinct Tournaments Over This County

With final arrangements complete for the county basketball tournament to be held at the high school gymnasium Friday and Saturday, February 9 and 10, Raymond Powell, athletic director, today listed details for the meet.

Games will start promptly at 5 o'clock and the first round will be completed Friday. Second and third rounds of the meet will be played Saturday, Starting at 10 a. m. Final rounds will begin at 7:30 Saturday night.

Option Checks Are Received Here This Week

Few Checks Still To Be Received With 287 Now
Ready To Be Paid Out

Distribution of $73,666 in option checks to 287 farmers of this county began Wednesday morning, February 7, in the county agent's office.

The allotment was made following the advent of ten cent cotton and the amount represents the four cents over the original six cents which the government had in the cotton. Should cotton prices rise to an even higher peak, farmers will be eligible to receive any additional amount above ten cents, according to the plan.

“If farmers who are to receive the checks are eligible to sign 1934 cotton reduction contracts and have not already done so, this step must be taken before the checks can be handed out. In case proper arrangements cannot be made the checks will be returned,” Mr. Stovall said.

There are still a few checks to send out to those who signed up late, and these checks are expected to arrive in the next shipment.

In addition to the option checks amounting to $73,666, farmers of this county also received more than half a million dollars in direct payment for cotton fields plowed under in the 1933 reduction campaign.

Mrs. C. J. Glenn Is Seriously Ill

Mrs. C. J. Glenn has been suffering for the past week from serious attacks resulting from an ulcerated stomach. Her condition was reported Wednesday morning to be slightly improved.

On Sunday morning she was taken to Mangum, where she went through the clinic and was returned Tuesday, where she is under the care of local physicians.

Foreclosure On Real Estate Is Delayed 30 Days

Where Debtor, Creditor
Agree Foreclosure May Be Executed

Finance Difficult

Temporary Measure To Be Effected Until Decision
Can Be Made

Suspension of advertised foreclosure sales on real estate, scheduled for Wednesday throughout the state, was ordered by the Texas Legislature Monday when it passed a bill authorizing a postponement for 30 days.

The bill carried the emergency clause and became operative immediately when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson signed it shortly after it was sent to her office.

It was the first law passed by the special session of the legislature called by Governor Ferguson to enact statutes designed to help debtors and others harassed by the existing financial depression.

The 30-day moratorium on forced sales was intended to ease the situation until the legislature could consider legislation meant to obtain until the present emergency had passed, providing for courts, after a hearing to order postponement of mortgage foreclosure sales where the debtor has a worthwhile equity in the property affected and shows the proper disposition to care for the obligations against it.

To Conference Committee
The law postponing sales provides that where the debtor and creditor agree that a sale should be consummated it could go on.

The bill, which was first passed last Friday, was referred to a conference committee today, after Representative Joe Greathouse of Fort Worth, its sponsor, discovered an error had been made which was likely to make it invalid. A section provided for the suspension of all statutes of limitation during the thirty-day moratorium period. The bill was amended so that the statutes of limitations would apply only to the subject matter of the bill.

The Senate state affairs committee started a hearing on the general moratorium bills pending before it.

Bowen School Lists Fourteen Honor Students

Listing 14 students, M. A. Barton, principal, this week announced the Bowen School honor roll.

First grade: Chester Harrison and Mavis Anne Harrison.

Second grade: Imogene Light, Thelma Popwell, and Jovela Reeves.

Third grade: Bettye Jo Fuson, Huetta Lowe.

Fifth grade: Olene Fuson.

Sixth grade: Mary Poff, Jimmie Bowen and Laudine Roberson.

Seventh grade: Glenn Dell Dick-ey, and L. P. Lynskey.

In addition to Mr. Barton, Miss Florence Pepper also teaches at the Bowen school.

Yes Indeed, This Weather Is Wonderful

With the mercury standing around the 60 degree mark all this week numerous persons over Collingsworth County marvelled at the warm, spring weather which this section is now enjoying—but very few realize just what wonderful weather we are having.

The Wellington Leader files show the following situation at exactly the same time last year: Monday, February 6, 1933, 67 degrees above; Tuesday, February 7, 1933, 8 degrees below zero; Wednesday, February 8, 1933, 5 degrees below zero. The cold spell accompanied one of the most driving blizzards in the history of this section and several men suffered from frozen ears and toes with no loss of human life, but many cattle perished.

City Delinquent Tax Payment Is Set For March 31

To Receive Bids For Asphalt On City Streets
February 19

Following its regular session Monday night the City Council announced that the penalty and interest would go on all delinquent city taxes which had not been paid by March 31 of 1934. Penalty and interest have already been placed on state and county taxes, and it was the opinion of members of the Council that March 31 would give ample time for every taxpayer to take care of his taxes.

It was also announced that bids on asphalt for covering the gravel streets now under construction would be received on February 19. The asphalt will not be put down until after April 1, but due to the rising market on this product, the materials will be bought this month.

Jack Knight, city secretary, reported that city tax payments were being made more promptly and extensively than in recent years.

Hardware Men At Amarillo Meeting

Three local dealers represented Wellington at the Panhandle Hardware and Implement Convention at Amarillo, Monday and Tuesday.

Ernest Lewis, Fred Lederer and Ralph Royal, accompanied by Miss Mittie Lee Royal, attended the session, which marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization.

“Codes and Competition” was the convention theme and nationally known authorities in the hardware business from different states addressed the Amarillo gathering. The convention included guests from Northwest Texas, and the Panhandle of Oklahoma and New Mexico.

School Taxes Can Be Paid As Late As March 1, 1934

Announcement was made today that the Wellington School Board had been forced, through the fact that many persons were seeking to procure government home loans, to extend time for payment of school taxes from February 1 to March 1 without penalty.

R. F. Curry, secretary and school board tax assessor and collector, reported that taxes were coming in better than at any other period since 1930 and definitely stated that the schools would complete the present term.

C. W. A. Projects In This County Employ 466 Men

Car Of Lumber Received
For Culverts On Sam-
norwood Project

$5,000 Payroll

Review Of State Expenditures Presented To Legislature This Week

Civil Works projects continued here this week at top speed with another project approved and the maximum number of workers on the job each day, according to the announcement of Miss Katherine Boverie, administrator.

Receive Car of Lumber

A carload of lumber was received here this week for construction of culverts and small bridges on the Samnorwood road. The road will run northwest from Lutie into the Samnorwood and Dozier communities. This project will employ around 85 men daily and will be one of the biggest projects in the county.

At the present time 436 men are working in this county through C. W. A. projects and 30 more are being employed through federal projects, giving a daily payroll of around 466 men. The weekly C. W. A. payroll in this county is $5,500, Miss Boverie said.

List State Activities
A review of the relief expenditures and needs was presented to the Texas Legislature this week by Director Jack Reed of the Texas Relief Administration.

In a statistical summary of amounts spent and needed in every county and in the State, Reed estimated the Federal Government had spent $37,000,000 in relief funds in Texas in the past 15 months.

Payrolls on Civil Works Administration projects have totaled $20,000,000.

The relief “load” in Texas has ranged from the high of 303,000 persons in March, 1933, to the low of 97,000 in September, 1933. The

Plan To Kill Prairie Dogs

Plans for eliminating prairie dogs in this county were today advanced by John O. Stovall, county agent, who urged interested farmers to get in touch with him concerning the matter.

“The best way to get rid of the dogs is by the placement of poisoned wheat,” Mr. Stovall said. “It might be possible to get the grain and possibly men to place the poison through a C. W. A. project if enough farmers in this county show an interest in the plan. It will be necessary to have enough applications for a comparative extermination of the dogs in this section before we could get the project through, however.”

In case such a project might be worked out the farmers would have to furnish the poison, however.

Work On Shamrock Road Bridge Shows Rapid Progress

With the pile driving and much of the concrete work already completed on the Salt Fork River bridge between here and Shamrock, engineers today stated that work on highway 4, north through this county was progressing rapidly due to favorable weather conditions.

The bridge, which was held up for several weeks due to the fact that they were unable to secure piling, is considered as one of the major projects on this strip of road and its completion will mark a long step toward the termination of work on the project and opening of the road into Shamrock.

Sixty Attend Meeting Of Federation Clubs Feb. 2

By MRS. CLARK ANDERSON

The City Federation of Women's Clubs was entertained on Friday evening, February 2, by the Excelsior and 1924 Study Clubs at the home of Mrs. Fred C. LeDerer. The evening's program, for which Miss Hulsey, Miss Wells, Mrs. Henderson and Mrs. Dobbs were responsible, was highly entertaining to the assembled members and guests. Mrs. W. W. Henderson directed a play in which several members of the Excelsior Club showed considerable histrionic ability. Miss Mildred Hulsey as a too modern business man showed intelligent insight into masculine character. Miss Leach Smith as the nineteen year old son looked her part so well it was difficult to realize she was acting. Mrs. Cecil Leggett portrayed the old fashioned housewife and mother with such success the audience was not surprised at her modern husband's philandering with the scheming chorus girl which Miss Lota Price played unusually well. The serious minded daughter of the family, Miss Opal Bratton, conspiring with the mother and brother to bring Father to his senses by suddenly turning ultra modern was quite as convincing as the exponent of "flaming youth" as she was as the frumpish daughter. Mother, in the swankiest of new gowns pretended to be in the thick of wild night life and made Father suddenly abandon his acquired ideas about freedom and try to rule with a firm hand. The lines were cleverly satirical and the play enjoyed very much.

A Valentine skit with five small girls and one boy was directed by Mrs. Dobbs. Katherine Lynn opened the skit with versions of the tap dance as done in various sections of our country from Harlem to the Rio Grande by way of our langorous but coquettish southern states. Martha Jeanne Henry next appeared as cupid and in no uncertain terms stated his work in the world. Three valentines of red paper and lace standing behind the mischievous little hunter made a charming picture. From one tumbled Billie Voca Brickley in a series of acrobatic stunts, while from another stepped Aaron Hurst, who had been neatly shot by cupid, to tender his stricken heart the last valentine, Zula V. Porter in a quaint old-fashioned dress looking as demurely sweet as a l-fashoned maidens are said to have looked.

A short business meeting followed the program with the Federation president, Mrs. John W. Harper, presiding. Reports were given from the officers and chairmen of permanent committees. The expiration of Mrs. Kern's term as trustee of Federation funds was due at the time and she asked to be released from the responsibility nominating Mrs. J. N. Wallace to fill the vacancy. Mrs. Wallace was duly elected by solid vote. It was also decided to donate some shrubs for the planting of the courthouse lawn in progress at the present time.

At the close of the session the guests were served from a table spread with a cloth of Irish lace centered by a large bowl of red roses. Nappies filled with red heart shaped candies carried a suggestion of valentine. Seated at the two urns were the presidents of the Excelsior and 1924 Study Clubs, Miss Inez Leach and Mrs. E. L. Winn.

Those who registered were: Mesdames W. H. Lynn, Chester Fires, Jimmy Richards, Bob Leggett, R. C. Dryden, W. R. Orr, E. N. Lewis, Deskins Wells, W. O. Richards, J. V. Clark, Esdel Bartlett, G. L. Farrar, L. C. Hill, T. M. Johnston, S. K. Parsons, Cleo Templeton, S. P. Buster, N. R. Cooke, R. H. Ball, Estella Cooke, Joe York, W. C. Starr of Quail, John H. Starr, A. L. Cochran, E. W. Alley, K. MY FAVORITE RECIPE

Doughnuts! One of the oldest recipes in use but few cooks have a good recipe at hand. Mrs. T. T. Fain suggests her recipe as being one of the best she has found. She has had this particular recipe for several years and has given it to The Leader this week as her favorite recipe.

DOUGHNUTS

By Mrs. T. T. Fain

4 1-2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
4 1-2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon flavoring
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
6 tablespoons fat
tablespoons milk.

Cream butter, sugar and eggs. Add salt and flavoring. Stir this into flour and baking powder, sifted together. Add milk, if necessary, to make a dough. Roll dough 1-4 inch thick, cut and fry in hot fat.

Send in your favorite recipe to The Leader. Your neighbors and friends would like a variety. This may be done by exchanging recipes in the paper.

Leader Presents Cottage Cheese Recipes

Cottage cheese, so delicious in itself may be used in a variety of ways that may be unfamiliar to the housewife. It is one of the finest and most healthful foods containing, as it does, the protein part of the milk. For this reason it may substitute for meat or eggs at a luncheon or supper.

Perhaps you have never considered it as a filling for sandwiches, but it may assume a most appetizing aspect, served in this way:

Cottage Cheese Sandwich Filling

1-2 cup cottage cheese
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons pickle relish
1-8 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons salad dressing.
Mix ingredients thoroughly with a fork and spread on buttered slices of bread. Add a lettuce leaf and cover with the other slice.

Cottage Cheese Salad

One package of lemon gelatine, one and two-thirds cups boiling water, one-half cup chopped celery; one-quarter cup chopped pickles; one-third cup cottage cheese, one-half teaspoon salt, four tablespoons salad dressing.

Pour water over gelatine mixture and stir until dissolved. Cool and allow to thicken partially. Fold in rest of ingredients. Pour into a glass mould and chill until set. Cut in squares and serve on lettuce leaves with salad dressing.

Fruit and Cheese Salad

One cup unmixd cottage cheese, two tablespoons thick sweet cream and one cup of fresh berries. Mash cheese and season lightly with salt. Beat in cream and berries. Place on lettuce leaves and serve with whipped cream dressing.

Whipped Cream Dressing

One-half cup whipping cream, one tablespoon powdered sugar, three tablespoons lemon juice. Whip cream and fold in other ingredients, serve immediately.

Tomato and Cheese Salad

Place large tomato slice on lettuce leaves and top with round of mixed cottage cheese, dot with rosettes of cream cheese and cover with garlic dressing. This is made by beating oil and lemon juice in proportions of two-thirds of oil to one-third lemon juice together with salt and pepper in a bowl which has been liberally rubbed with garlic.

Balls of cottage cheese rolled in chopped nuts or minced parsley are delicious served with salads made of pineapple or tomato.

Mrs. Fleet Pruden and A. L. Kelley spent the week end in Eldorado, Oklahoma, visiting with their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stansell of Olton are here this week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. John Forbis and other relatives and friends.

Progressive Dinner Is Given By No Trump Club

Progressive dinner was the feature of entertainment last Friday evening when members of the no Trump Bridge Club entertained their husbands and dates. Cocktails at the home of Mrs. Charles Crews started the series of courses. Mrs. Wade Mahan served the party at her home with the main course which was followed by dessert at the home of Miss Lois Miller. Coffee completed the dinner which was served at the Morrow home by Miss Margaret Morley.

At each of the homes clues were given as to which home they would visit next, such as in a treasure hunt. Each of the guests declared this one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season.

Following the dinner the party attended the Theatre where they saw "Smoky." Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Orval Couch, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crews, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Mahan, Misses Margaret Goforth, Margaret Morley, Patti Lee Lewis, Carrie Nola Campbell, Lois Miller, Julia Slough, Messrs. Bill Leach, Winfred Payne, Harold Hite, Harold Watkins, Elward Lee Pritchard, Bill Wilhelm and Jones Singley.

Excelsior Club Has Program On Jungles Of Africa

Miss Lota Price was hostess to the members of the Excelsior Club last Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Creed Hill on East Ave.

Following a brief business session the following program was rendered: Talk on Africa taken from "Jungle Ways" by Seabrook was given by the leader, Miss Hattie D. Wells.

After the program the guests played several games of bridge with Mrs. C. R. Leggett winning high score and Mrs. J. F. Johnson prize for slams.

Dainty Valentine favors were passed to the guests and Valentine decorations were used on the card tables. Refreshments in keeping with the motif were served to Opal Bratton, Inez Leach, Leah Smith, Callie Curtner, Mildred Hulsey, Effie Lee Richards, Hattie D. Wells, Mrs. Esdel Bartlett, Mrs. J. V. Clark, Mrs. Bill Henderson, Mrs. C. R. Leggett, Mrs. J. F. Johnson, Mrs. W. D. Robinson, Miss Hattie Mounts, Mrs. Iowa O'Hair, Miss Thelma Bradford and Mrs. Creed Hill.

Mrs. Percy Wells Attends Style Review In Dallas

February is the month when everyone wants something new. How to go from winter into spring with a certain restraint that means "Not rushing the season" is a problem. Before you plunge into the actual spring pastels you need gay prints, plaids or stripes, according to Mrs. Percy Wells, who has just returned from the spring fashion review in Dallas.

She states that there are heavy-sheer materials, some with a faille weave that is reminiscent of Roshanara crepe. Others are slightly corded and some very dull and flat.

Plaids, stripes and other novelty designs combined with solid harmonies seem to be the thing to do. Coats of almost any length from short jacket to long swaggar are often seen with a solid skirt to match the darker tone in the coat.

High School P. T. A. Holds Meeting Monday

In a business meeting Monday afternoon at the High School P. T. A. Mrs. Chester Fires, Mrs. L. E. Gribble and Mrs. Cleo Templeton were appointed to serve on a nominating committee. They will select the officers for next school year.

Mrs. Chester Fires was in charge of the following program: Choral Club numbers under the direction of Miss Tomazene Dukeminier by the fourth and fifth grade pupils. Mrs. J. B. Hauter talked on "Educating for Leisure." Mrs. Ralph Ball, president of the P. T. A. City Council, gave an account of the "History of Founder's Day" which was followed by Founder's Day Offering.

East Ward P. T. A. Silver Tea Is Postponed

Announcement was made today by Mrs. D. M. Blanton, publicity chairman of the East Ward P. T. A., that the Silver Tea which was to have been on February 9, has been postponed until Friday, March 16.

The tea will be at the home of Mrs. L. E. Gribble. The rhythm band will furnish music for the occasion. Other numbers are under the direction of Mrs. L. A. Manzer, chairman of the program committee. Directors stated that the reason for the postponement was there is so much sickness among the school children.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker Honored At Golden Wedding

Tribute Paid To Couple Thursday

Four generations joined together Thursday, February 1, and celebrated the Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker, pioneer residents of the Lone Mound community.

The celebration of 50 years of married life included a big dinner, attended by 40 guests, followed later in the afternoon by a tea. Rev. W. H. Riley and Rev. Robert Mathews paid glowing tributes to the past and present lives of the couple, who suffered many hardships during pioneer days in this county.

Many nice gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Walker, while two large bouquets of yellow roses decorated the table as a tribute from their grandchildren. Mrs. Bert Starkey, daughter, baked the cake, which was almost two feet square and two feet high, pyramided up in tiers. The cake also contained 50 candles and was one of the outstanding attraction of the celebration. Mrs. Wesley Davis, granddaughter of Miami, Texas, presided over the coffee urn during the afternoon.

The fourth generation at the anniversary was represented by Rue Paula Davis, great-granddaughter. The event was also attended by eleven grandchildren and the following children: Barney Walker of Plymouth; Mrs. Ted Addington of Miami; Mrs. K. A. Beard of Liberty; Mrs. Bert Starkey of Wellington; Mrs. C. C.

Married Fifty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Walker, pictured above, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary at their home in the Lone Mound Community Thursday, February 1, surrounded by four generations of Walkers in addition to many other relatives and friends.

Brothers of Shamrock; Mrs. George Paschel of Dilly, Texas. Elmer Walker of Odessa was the only one of the children unable to attend the celebration.

Mr. Walker, 72, was born in Alabama, September 19, 1862. Mrs. Walker, 68, was born in Arkansas, September 7, 1866. They were married at Brooklin, Oklahoma, February 1, 1884, and came to this county February 9, 1909, where they settled in the Plymouth community. They came to this county by way of the train into Shamrock and relate with considerable humor the fact that one of the typical West Texas sandstorms was raging when they alighted from the train.

Dinner guests for the celebration were: B. H. Walker, Plymouth; Oregon Walker, Addington; Lena Walker Beard, Liberty;

Pretty Boy Floyd Sought In $130,000 Holdup In Jersey

RENNSGROVE, N. J.,—In a swift, daring episode of lawlessness, four bandits swept down on two bank employees this week, grabbed four packages containing $130,000 in cash, and sped off over snow-covered South Jersey highways.

Working with precision and speed which authorities ascribed to experienced robbers, two of the hold-up men trained pistols on the bank teller and messenger outside the Penns Grove National Bank and Trust Company, snatched the packages of money and fled in the car containing the other two men, while fellow-employees, helpless, looked on through windows.

The money, in three registered mail sacks and a mail pouch, was in bills of small denomination. It had been sent Thursday night from the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia to the bank here. The bank employees had just got it at the postoffice.

A local and state officials began their investigation, with Federal authorities pledging co-operation the name of Charles A. (Pretty Boy) Floyd, long-sought Oklahoma desperado, was mentioned as a man the officers were seeking.

Floyd was seen on a bridge over the Delaware River at Trenton, on January 22.

will be served by the Houselog students and patrons.

The Houselog P. T. A. meets Friday evening, February 16. A quartet from Wellington will sing and the question: Resolved, That the Jury System Should Be Abolished, will be debated by four excellent debaters. Declarations and various other short numbers will complete the program.

The junior boys basketball team defeated the fast Dodsonville team Friday by a score of 40-16. Marvin Turner of Houselog was high point man of the game with 16 points to his credit. Maurice Smith was second with a score of 12 points to his credit and Presley Ashton, third, with 10 points. Lloyd Morgan, Kieth Smith and Robert Polk, all played their first year of basketball and did some fast playing. Houselog will play Wellington, Thursday, of this week.

Mr. Dickson, state supervisor, visited school Tuesday of last week and recommended that Houselog receive sufficient rural aid for an eight month school, and that the school be standardized.

Sunday School is held every Sunday at the school house, and preaching is held twice a month.

I SAW

By C. N. C.

Everyone is playing safe and predicting snow or cold rain on Easter, and as the tennis players are taking advantage of this early spring weather, I saw.

Joe Ham and Monty Garrison talking very confidential as they walked down the street—looks like a frame up.

Joe Hardy telling Vivian Stewart that Jack Hurst was speaking in the unknown quality.

Moon Mullins, Luther Williams and Hope Moore riding bicycles through the Saturday afternoon traffic.

Hal Hearn Jr. and the colored porter of the Hotel carrying tables and chairs to the roof for the Human Fly.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Brewer shopping Saturday evening.

Mrs. R. R. Martin, Mrs. Fred LeDerer and Mrs. V. A. Porter admiring the hand painted pictures in LeDerer's window.

Arthur Hudson getting a shoe shine in a local barber shop—getting ready for Sunday.

Mrs. J. K. Porter and her son parked on the highway waiting for their motor to cool—this warm weather doesn't agree with anti-freeze.

A. V. Jones and J. D. Hill discussing county business Saturday afternoon.

Hattie Mounts carrying an arm full of quilts into Mrs. Jimmie Richards' home.

S. R. Pinkston and Roy Horn having some fun at the expense of others with a new device which broadcasts by remote control.

Elizabeth Gillentine and Clover Ryan saying they read this column thoroughly every week looking for their names.

Mrs. T. H. Rainer going down the street looking at some of the newest fashions in a style book.

Sam Koen and A. Parsons trying to decide where a certain party lives.

Ben Hurst and Tip Mooney discussing financial conditions in Collingsworth County.

Mrs. Ethel West trying without success to open a mail box.

Bud Lowrie sitting on a car fender and George Bell on the bumper trying to carry on a conversation.

John Anders carrying a book—looked like a library book, but probably a school book—looking very studious.

(Mrs. B. Hamman window shopping Saturday evening.

Mrs. Jennie Russell and Mrs. T. C. Fuller enjoying talking over pioneer days standing in front of a local dry goods store.

R. L. Gillentine leaving the post office with a huge mail sack on his shoulders.

John W. Jackson trying to tell a local blacksmith how he wanted his car fixed.

John Bonner saying he hoped he didn't run out of checks before he got his bills paid—he didn't seem worried about his money.

B. F. Snell getting some sacks of lima and pinto beans mixed, and having a time separating them.

Dave Jones burning tumble weeds along his fence around his farm north of the river.

Viola Hudson and Ora Lee Glasgow having a friendly visit in a car parked in front of the Pullman Cafe.

ABRA By A. L. Moring

Sid Sloan, who has been in Beach's Hospital in Shamrock, came home Saturday. He is doing as well as can be expected. Friends called throughout Sunday.

Joe Wyly of Graham came for his sister, Mrs. G. V. Moring, Sunday. They left to be at the bedside of their mother, Mrs. Wyly, who is seriously ill. Joe Donald and Paula Verne Moring accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Smith entertained Sunday evening with a singing at their home.

Senate Votes To Extend Time For Payment Of Automobile Licenses

The following press reports were dispatched from Austin Tuesday concerning the payment of auto registration fees:

Extension of time for payment of 1934 automobile registration fees until March 31 and the setting of that date as the final payment date as a permanent policy was voted by the Senate today. Twenty-two affirmative votes, one more than the necessary two-thirds majority to put the bill into immediate effect, was given the plan on final passage. Five Senators opposed it.

The vote was on a substitute offered by Senator Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls to a House bill, which had set May 31 as the final payment date after 1934. The bill will be returned to the House for concurrence in the changes made by the Senate.

Early in the session the Senate defeated a bill to grant a 60-day grace period for payment of automobile fees for this year. By large majorities, however, the House had favored extension of the time for this year and for future years.

Under existing statutes, a 20 per cent penalty became effective January 31 on late payments of registration fees. Operation of cars owners to fines aggregating $400. Enforcement officers had been instructed, however, to use discretion in making arrests.

Court Trial For New York Dogs

CORTLAND, N. Y.—Four dogs, taught by instinct that there is only the law of the fang, will go on trial for their lives at McGraw this week before Justice of the Peace A. P. McGraw. One of the animals will be represented by an attorney retained by the owners.

The defendants are Curley, a shepherd; Pal, a police dog; Jack, a mongrel and Sport, a bulldog. They are charged with biting 6-year-old Joyce Hammond while she was on her way home from school Wednesday so badly that there is danger of her losing her right arm. She is in a hospital.

Arrested by State police, the dogs were ordered confined by their owners until Tuesday's trial.

Joyce may go to court to identify any or all of them. Otherwise, the chief witness against the animals is expected to be Henry S. Ayres, a neighbor whose broom beat off the attacking dogs. Richard McMahon of Scotland will plead Sport's case. The owners themselves were required to be in court.

Curley, Pal, Jack and Sport will pad softly into the courtroom, there to stay while a law greater than that of the fang determines their guilt or innocence. If found guilty they must die in forty-eight hours.

Russia Reports Larger Cotton Crop For 1933

WASHINGTON—Russia's 1933 cotton crop is officially estimated at 1,890,000 bales of 478-pounds net against 1,790,000 bales in 1932, reports the Soviet Government. Of the 1933 crop, 33,000 bales are of Egyptian varieties now being introduced into the Soviet Union. No acreage figures are available but acreage has increased much more than production as yields have decreased steadily since 1927. Efforts are now being concentrated on improving yields.

University Carries On Pioneer Radio Activities Through Campus Station

NORMAN.—With activities centering around WNAD, broadcasting station, the University of Oklahoma is doing pioneering work in supplying professional training for radio work and in presenting educational programs.

The need for announcers for the university station led to the organization of a non-credit class in announcing. University officials believe that this was the first course offered in any university on radio announcing.

Playwriting Contest Held
Also begun last year was the radio play contest sponsored by Phantom Mack, radio drama organization at the university. The radio play being a new dramatic form, there is a scarcity of such material for production. The purpose of the play contest was to get dramas written especially for the radio.

Several of the plays were broadcast over the nation-wide chain of the National Broadcasting Company, and others were presented by Phantom Mack over WNAD.

Educational Broadcasts Given
Two radio short courses have been held at the university this year. The first was a course in radio operation for amateur broadcasters and others interested in the technological aspects of radio.

The second dealt with the various forms of radio continuity writing and the radio drama. Lectures were given on sound effects, how to go about writing radio continuity and the peculiar requirements of the radio drama.

WNAD, the university station gives a regular program of educational broadcasts interspersed with entertainment and musical programs. With the cooperation of the state medical society, a series of lectures for laymen was sponsored last year.

Belgium Erects Fortification Lines As Barrier To Neighboring Nations

PARIS—Belgium is following in the wake of France and, mindful of the invasion of 1914 will soon rest more securely behind a formidable wall of concrete and steel facing Germany.

Agitation has been continuous in Belgium for modern fortresses, similar to the almost impassable chain that now protects France, and a definite plan has accepted which is considered the most impregnable in Europe.

Inasmuch as the defenses of both France and Belgium are almost interdependent in the event of invasion of Germany, accords were discussed between the two countries since the termination of the last war.

In 1921, France signed with Belgium, a military defensive pact, and the various treaties and agreements concluded since never have affected the validity of this original pact.

Altho a defensive accord had been drawn up between France and Belgium it was not until 1930 that defensive plans took shape. Then the general staff found itself facing two separate plans.

The first plan was that of General Gallet and bore his name. His plan was in case of war almost immediately to evacuate the three Walloon provinces near the German frontier and retire systematically to Flanders.

The second plan that of General Magline and Hellebaut, called for complete defense of these frontier provinces and for integral protection of all Belgium territory from any direction. The larger plan of not abandoning one third of the country naturally anticipated a close co-operation with the French according to the treaty of 1921.

1931, these two theories were so violently agitating Belgium that one ministry fell and Premier Jaspard retired having tacitly supported Gallet's plan.

The Renkin cabinet which followed voted 210,000,000 francs for defense and abandoned the Gallet plan. This fund was spent in the restoration of the forts of Namur and Liege and in fortifying the right bank of the Meuse. Various defense ministers succeeded each other in the Renkin cabinet until the present minister, Albert Devezze was appointed; then a definite defense policy was crystallized.

His first act was to create a modern fort at Eyben-Eymael on the Albert Canal, east of Liege which today is the most formidable block against any movement of troops from the east. Minister Devezze created a defense committee and it worked out the project for a ring of concrete and steel, which not only would block the path of oncoming Germany to Belgium but would check the invasion of France via Belgium, thereby winning the warmest support of France.

The defense minister, Devezze, also started the fortification of the Plateau of Herve, which serves many railroads and acts as a corridor for passage into Belgium from Cologne and Aix-la-Chapelle.

Girl Hitch-Hiker Turns In Escaped Convict And Auto

AMARILLO, Tex.—Trapped by a girl hitch-hiker whom he picked up in Oklahoma W. H. Bybee, one of the long-term Texas convicts freed at Eastham January 16, was arrested by Amarillo police early last week.

This girl, Evelyn Clark, 22, who said her home was in Los Angeles, sped away in Bybee's car after they had had the machine serviced at Vega, forty miles west of Amarillo. The convict hailed a truck to return to Amarillo and was captured as he entered the city, just a few minutes after the girl had turned the stolen car, with three guns and a quantity of ammunition, over to police.

Bybee, who was sentenced to die for robbery with firearms at Paducah and to life imprisonment for murder at Breckenridge, surrendered without resistance.

Bybee's death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson last year and he also is under a twenty-year sentence for robbery at Albany.

Admitting that "I would rather do anything than return to the penitentiary," Bybee was held in the Potter County jail, awaiting the arrival of penitentiary agents.

Miss Clark said she "thumbed" a ride from Bybee at Vinita, Oklahoma, shortly after noon Monday. After she noticed the guns in the rear seat, she said Bybee admitted he was an escaped convict.

"He asked me to be a pal to him," Miss Clark said. "He said he had been driving for five days and nights and wanted me to relieve him while he slept. He slept most of the time, but he also drank some and practiced shooting with his pistol.

The girl said Bybee went into the service station at Vega to give the attendant a drink when she decided to drive away and leave him.

Officers Find Still Hidden In Hay Stack

FOR SMITH, Ark.—Federal internal revenue collectors had just about given up their search of the premises of Ernest Beeder when one of them stumbled over a rake resting against a hay stack. On moving the rake they found an entrance to the stack. Inside was a 12x12 room containing a fifty-

Crop Loan Bill To Aid Texans

Passage by the Senate of a bill to provide United States crop production loans for farmers again in 1934 was said by Dallas observers Saturday to indicate its probable enactment, with wide benefits to thousands of tenant farmers in Texas who lack collateral for other types of loans. Notice of passage of the bill from Senator Tom Connally of Texas, one of the chief proponents of the measure.

Other types of Federal and private loans are unobtainable by most tenant farmers, who operate more than 60 percent of all farms in Texas, advocates of the proposed law point out. Favorable action also would make probable the continuation of the Dallas Crop Loan office with its staff supervising lending in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

German Interest Transfers Issue Is Agreed Upon

BERLIN—Temporary settlement of the question of German interest transfers have brought a promise of final settlement of the problem raised by special Swiss and Dutch arrangements.

For the next six months, under an agreement between the Reichsbank and foreign creditors' representatives, foreign holders of German securities will receive 76.9 percent of the due payments.

This is in contrast with the 65 percent received under a moratorium order issued last autumn.

The Reichsbank's allowance of 67 percent payment in scrip instead of the 50 percent permitted herebefore, made the additional amount possible.

Survivors Of Ship To Honor Man Who Saved Lives Of 210

KENOSHA, Wis.—A medal emblematic of the gratitude of 210 persons whose lives he saved when the Tuscania, a troop transport ship, was torpedoed off the coast of Ireland February 5, 1918 was awarded here on Monday night to John Newton Jones, of New York.

Jones was a chief petty officer on the British destroyer Pigeon. He will come here to accept the medal at ceremonies in connection with the sixteenth annual reunion of the National Tuscania Survivors' Association, of which Fred A. Scholey, Kenosha, is the national president. The Pigeon, commanded by Capt. John Eddis, was the first of the escorting destroyers on the scene when the Tuscania, carrying a load of more than 2,000 American soldiers, was torpedoed. Jones was ordered to take charge of the Pigeon's lifeboats. Four awards have been made in connection with the rescue, but Jones will be the first receiving a medal from the association survivors.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

On Saturday morning at eleven o'clock, President Roosevelt will address the Boy Scouts of America over a nation-wide hook-up. Local Scouts and anyone else who is interested in scouting will have the opportunity of hearing this at the Ritz Theatre free of charge. A radio will be connected with the loud speaker of the theatre, and anyone who cares to listen to the speech can do so and still have a comfortable seat to sit in. All boys of the Scout age are especially invited to be present, whether they are members of the Boy Scouts or not.

The community auction sale is attracting considerable interest. Although it will be made up of many items from a number of owners, it is probable that it will be one of the largest sales held this year. It is being held in order to give the man who has a few things that he wants to sell, and still doesn't have enough to hold a sale of his own, a chance to dispose of his property.

Bill House brought me a copy of McGuffey's Fifth Eclectic Reader. On the flyleaf was written: Willie B. House Jan. 4, 1890. I have decided to run a few selections from this famous reader. You will find it published on this same page. I have heard so much about McGuffey's Reader that it may be it will be interesting to a number of people who read it in their young and tender years. I have not read all of the book yet, but I am impressed with its qualities. Modern educators may have figured out some reason why the present books are better than McGuffey's when taught by excellent teachers, but McGuffey's is the kind of a reader from which a person can educate himself without the aid of a teacher. Besides containing good literature, this book also gives practical help on oral reading.

I have decided that I am not a lover of books, per se. The reason is that I recently had a talk with S. R. Pinkston, who is a collector of rare books. I analyzed my own reaction, and came to the conclusion mentioned above. I do like what the books contain, but I had just as soon have a reprint of a book as a first edition provided the quality of the binding and printing were equal. Out of print books do have a monetary value, but I don't imagine that is the reason Mr. Pinkston is interested in them. If it is, why does he accuse me of being mercenary. Another thing that is wrong about my idea of books is that I would rather have ten interesting books worth a dollar each than to have one dull book that was worth $10. I guess I lack the artistic touch entirely. Provided they look the same, I had just as soon have a copy of a famous painting as to have the original provided I could not sell the original. Oh well, why continue this longer—of what interest could this be to subscribers like Kinney Godfrey.

C. E. Clark of Childress says that Ripley recently stated over the radio that it actually rained catfish in Wellington. That story was published by The Leader several years ago, and it received broad circulation. It was even published in a paper in France, but the low down is that there is some debate on the matter. The catfish were actually found in the road and fields following a heavy rain in which there was a cyclonic disturbance. There are plenty of witnesses to testify to the fish being found in the strange location, and The Leader said it was possible that they could have been lifted up by the wind and deposited there, which has been known to happen. But a few farmers in the vicinity where the fish were found claim that there was a tank filled with fish about two miles north, and that the dam broke during the heavy rain and that the catfish were washed to the place where they were found.

Down at Seymour they are proud because one span of mules brought $300. Those people ought to move to Wellington where a good span of mules will bring $390. The mules at Seymour must be of poor quality or else the buyers are pretty tight. There have been several instances in Collingsworth county this year in which a span of mules sold for $300 or

Canning Employs And Feeds Many

When the beef canning project of the Federal Emergency Relief administration in eighteen Texas cities was completed recently, $21,487 Texas cattle had been bought for canning at higher than market prices and 7,000 people had been given employment. Here is the plant in operation at Bryan, Texas. More than 3,500,000 cans of roast, stew, hamburgers, hash and soup stock were canned in the Bryan plant and seventeen other plants. The cattle were located by county agents and bought for an average of fifteen dollars per head. Canning was done by home canning methods popularized on thousands of Texas farms through the work of home demonstration agents.

Credit Association Now Ready To Consider Farmer's Loans In County

Final arrangements have been completed on the Producers' Credit Association, Memphis, and L. A. Manzer has been selected to receive applications in Collingsworth County.

Dave Thomas and C. R. Fires have been appointed as inspectors for this county and a board, consisting of A. O. Sweat and A. Y. Bell are members of the district board.

An application fee of 50 cents will be charged to those who make applications for loans and an inspection fee, varying from $2.00 to $5, will be charged, Mr. Bell said.

Any person who is a producer, this includes farmers and cattlemen, will be eligible to receive loans, provided their collateral is sufficient. Applications can be made at any time in the future. Interest charges will be six percent annually.

Ideas On Trapping Wolves, Coyotes

By E. W. Crouch, United States Biological Survey

More suspicious than cunning, the coyote lacks the daring and boldness of the wolf. Both, however, have a keen sense of smell, sharp eyes and are swift of foot. These three qualities, coupled with a little experience, gained by a few easy escapes from crudely-set traps, will make individual wolves or coyotes very difficult to capture.

One of the best methods of catching wolves and coyotes is by trapping. The steel trap has proved its effectiveness through many decades, far and wide, and, in spite of objections occasionally made to its use, a device that is more practical has not thus far been placed on the market. Nos. 3 or 4 traps should be used for coyotes, and No. 14 or 14 1-2 for wolves.

When trapping wolves or coyotes, great care and skill in placing and making the set are essential. If possible, acquire firsthand knowledge of the habits of these animals.

It is pretty well agreed that a crafty old "lone" wolf or a "wise" coyote is a match for the wits and skill of the oldest and most expert trapper. But, remember, no wolf or coyote is smarter than man, and if you keep after either one of these predators with well-made sets, he eventually will make a slip of a foot and lose his life.

Within their habitat, wolves and coyotes have hundreds of established "scent posts" (where they urinate) along their trails and runways. And it is at these spots that traps should be concealed.

One good way to locate a scent post is to look for claw marks on the ground. Inspect the surrounding ground near isolated tufts of grass, low bushes, bleached skeletons, or posts. Time spent looking for scent posts will prove profitable. When none can be found, a number of artificial stations can be made by placing a few drops of scent (described below) on an isolated tuft of grass, low bush or bleached skeleton situated a short distance from the path, trail or runway. The object you scent must be natural in every way, for the animal will pass it by, even though it detects the scent, when it knows something is out of place and wrong. Anything out of place spells danger to a wolf, and it will act accordingly.

Preparing Scent
One method of preparing scent for an artificial station is to place the urine and gall of a wolf or coyote, depending on which is to be trapped, in a bottle, together with the nasal glands, which are located just under the skin on each side of the vent and resemble small pieces of bluish fat. To every three ounces of this mixture add one ounce of glycerine, to give it body, and one grain of corrosive sublimate, to keep it from spoiling. The solution should stand several days, and should be well shaken before using. The farther from the trail the scent post is, the more scent will have to be used. As a rule, four or five drops each will be enough to keep the station "alive."

A good scent for establishing posts is made by grinding fish in a sausage mill, using only oily varieties, sturgeon, sucker or carp, and placing this in a ventilated container until decomposed.

Another good place to conceal traps is near the carcass of an animal that a wolf or coyote has killed, as, in most cases, the predator will revisit the scene. The sets should be placed fifteen or twenty feet from the carcass, near clumps of weeds, bunches of grass or low bushes.

Before setting a trap, all iron odor and human scent should be removed by boiling in water. Smoking also will remove odors, but care must be taken not to overheat the springs, or they will lose their temper.

While making a set, the trapper should stand or kneel on a cloth or hide three feet square. This can be scented effectively by burking it in manure several days.

Concealing the Set
To conceal the set, dig a hole the shape of the trap, put it in place and cover the space inside the jaws with smooth bark, canvas or slicker cloth. Dry dirt to the depth of about an inch is then spread over the trap and the surface of the ground left as before. It is well to have covered surface over the trap lower than the soil around it, because the wolf is then less apt to expose the trap accidentally by scratching; also an animal will tend to throw more weight on the foot that is placed in a depression, and will thus be caught.

If the wolf or coyote is unusually crafty and experienced, it is sometimes wise to conceal two traps close together, so it will spring both and be more firmly held, thus greatly reducing the chances of its escaping.

The place where one animal is caught is ideal for capturing another, because the scent released during its struggles will lead others to investigate.

The skins of wolves and coyotes are usually cased; that is, not slit down the underside. They are dried on a stretcher, and when side out.—Semi-Weekly Farm News

Selections From McGUFFEY'S Fifth Eclectic Reader

DEATH OF FRANKLIN

Franklin is dead. The genius who freed America, and poured a copious stream of knowledge throughout Europe, is returned unto the bosom of the Divinity. The sage to whom two worlds lay claim, the man for whom science and politics are disputing, indisputably enjoyed an elevated rank in human nature.

The cabinets of princes have been long in the habit of notifying the death of those who were great, only in their funeral orations. Long hath the etiquette of courts, proclaimed the mourning of hypocrisy. Nations should wear mourning for none but their benefactors. The representatives of nations should recommend to public homage only those who have been the heroes of humanity.

BONAPARTE
He knew no motive but interest; acknowledged no criterion but success; he worshipped no God but ambition; and with an eastern devotion he knelt at the shrine of idolatry. Subsidiary to this, there was no creed that he did not profess, there was no opinion that he did not promulgate: in the hope of a dynasty, he upheld the crescent; for the sake of a divorce, he bowed before the cross; the orphan of St. Louis, he became the adopted child of the republic; and with a parricidal ingratitude, on the ruins both of the throne and the tribune, he reared the throne of his despotism.

At his touch crowns crumbled; beggars reigned; systems vanished; the wildest theories took the color of his whim; and all that was venerable, and all that was novel, changed places with the rapidity of a drama. Nature had no obstacle that he did not surmount; space, no opposition he did not spurn; and whether amid Alpine rocks,—Arabian sands,—or Polar snows—he seemed proof against peril, and empowered with ubiquity.

HAMLET ON SEEING THE SKULL OF YORICK

Alas, poor Yorick! I knew him, Horatio; a fellow of infinite jest, of most excellent fancy. He hath borne on his back a thousand thorns; and now, how abhorred my imagination is! My gorge rises at it. Here hung those lips that I have kissed, I know not how oft. Where be your gibes, now? your gambols? your songs? your flashes of merriment, that were wont to set the table on a roar? Not one, now, to mock your own grinning? quite chop-fallen! Now get you to my lady's chamber, and tell her, let her paint an inch thick, to this favor she must come; make her laugh at that.

Local Church Will Entertain District Hog Reduction--

That the local Methodist church will entertain the Clarendon District Missionary unit of the Methodist Church here Wednesday, February 14, was announced today by Rev. T. M. Johnston, pastor.

Persons will come here from over the entire Clarendon District for the meeting, Rev. Johnston said and estimated around 150 guests. The meeting will continue throughout the day.

banks, commercial banks, the Retail Credit Men's Association, building and loan associations, organized labor and lumber dealers, expressed opposition to any form of moratorium legislation at the hearing of the committee.

Discussion of any features of the pending bills relating to the equity of redemption provisions, which were modeled after the Minnesota statute, were excluded by the committee after its members had voted to use as a basis of consideration a bill prepared by the sub-committee of the House judiciary committee. That bill, which was outlined by Rep. Sarah T. Hughes, of Dallas, does not include any features of the Minnesota statute.

Legislators were urged "not to change the rules in the middle of the game," by Miles Hart, Durant, Okla., attorney, who represented several New England banks and investors. He wanted also that enactment of any moratorium legislation would further damage Texas' credit, which he said already has been impaired.

This pile of three hundred prairie dogs represents a ninety-nine per cent kill on fifty acres of the farm belonging to W. C. Schaefer, Childress county farmer. Prairie dogs are very detrimental to farm crops, laying waste to large acres if allowed to multiply.

dent of the San Jacinto National Bank there, declared that "even the talk of moratorium has made it very difficult to finance construction," and urged the Texas Legislature "to get in step with the federal government," by not enacting any moratorium legislation.

Business will be retarded rather than increased by a moratorium at this time, Robert Stern of Dallas, director of the Retail Credit Men's Association of Texas declared. He was of the opinion that "the emergency is not near like it was in the spring of 1933."

More than half of the owners of 383 pieces of property foreclosed on last year by the San Antonio Building and Loan Association agreed to surrender possession, Walter W. McAllister, president of the Association, said. It was necessary for the Association to file only five suits, he said.

Would Reduce Jobs
Austin Schultz of Dallas, secretary of the Central Labor Council, declared enactment of the moratorium would curtail employment in the building industry, affecting 5 per cent of the masses, while H. W. Galbraith, of Amarillo, a lumberman, warned that the measure if enacted "would hurt our borrowers more than it would help them."

Proponents of the bill are to be heard by the committee today. The Senate was postponed until today to consider a bill that would fix the time limit for paying minor or vehicle registration fees at March 31, instead of February 1, as a permanent policy. The Senate several days ago defeated a House bill that would have extended 1934 registration payments to March 31.

Senator B. G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls proposed to amend the "permanent policy" bill to provide for suspension of penalties provided in the existing statute for operation of automobiles after February 1 without payment of the 1934 registration fee.

Following the signing of Corn-Hog Reduction contracts the contracts will be submitted to a County and State Control Board, which will function similar to the Cotton Reduction Board of the county.

Many Strong Teams Show Good Work As Tournament Goes To 15 Games

Winning four consecutive games in the Wellington High School invitation tournament here Friday and Saturday, the Dozier team members defeated all teams they played and were awarded a silver trophy as tournament winners.

Playing an unusual brand of basketball the Dozier boys set a rapid pace throughout the tournament and are considered by coaches over the entire county as one of the strongest contenders in the county meet.

Others Look Good

Many of the other entries, who were eliminated in a series of 15 games, also played excellent ball and much credit is due to the Aberdeen team, which fought right on through to the finals of the tournament only to lose the championship game.

The tournament showed some excellent talent as the teams clashed and the tournament, which has come to be an annual affair, was accorded to be an outstanding success.

In the first game of the tournament Coach Logan Cummings' Aberdeen quintet scored a 25 to 10 victory over Coach James C. Cook's Lutie entry. Willingham, Aberdeen forward, was high point man of this game with 12 points to his credit. Aberdeen players were: Willingham, G. Wilder, Wilder, G. Willingham, Calder, Willoughby, Hall, Lutie; Roark, Wischkaemper, Young, Mooney, Willoughby and Hall.

The Vinson boys basketball team won over the Arnette team and took the lead for the Southwestern school championship in Hollis, Thursday night with an overwhelming score.

Before the game the Arnette and Vinson teams were tied for the conference lead; both teams have two more games to play.

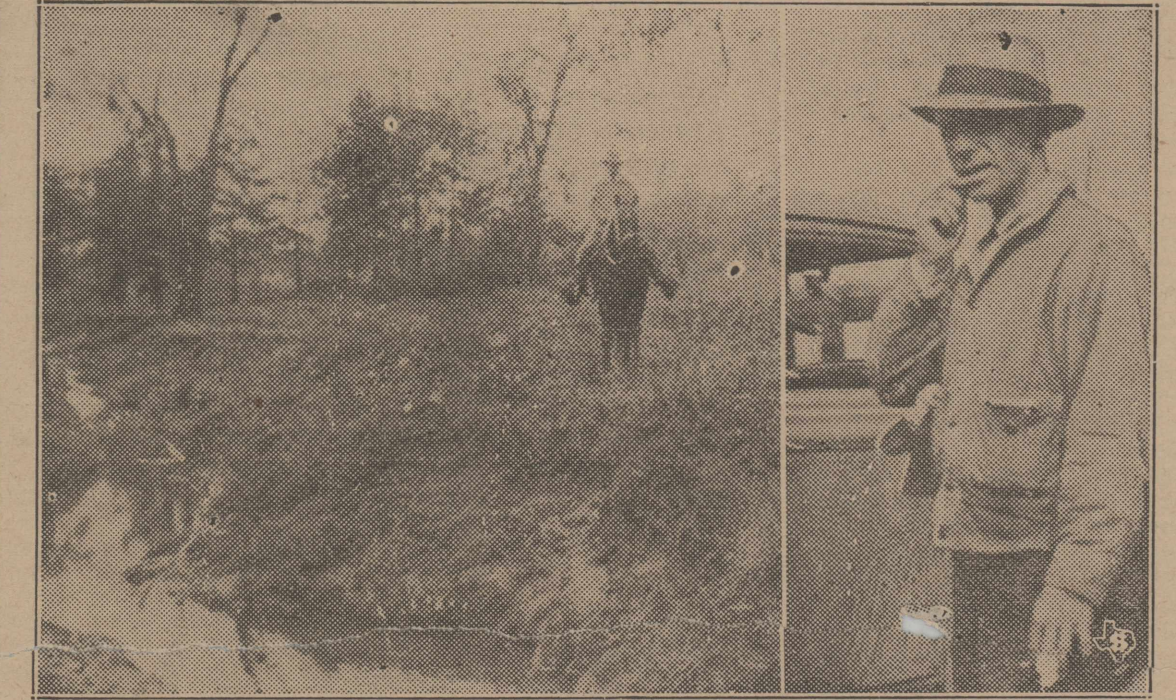

The Vinson girls, who were likewise tied with Arnette for first place, also defeated the Arnette sextet and took the loop lead. The Arnette junior boys, however, took team. The games, played in a victory of the Vinson junior Hollis high school auditorium, were witnessed by a large crowd.

Right is Olen Roseman, one of two guards wounded by Barrow and the armed convicts. The lively manhunt for Barrow continues. Hamilton has a life term to serve.

To Set Trees Along Highway In This County

Dunson Back On Job In County Following Several Weeks Of Illness

Following several weeks of illness Riley Dunson, state highway superintendent for this county, will be back on the job and will start setting out trees along the highways across this county.

The movement will be carried out for the beautification of the roadways and the state, Mr. Dunson said, and several plum thickets have already been planted in this county.

The program will include the setting out of native plants, which in this county will be principally cottonwood, elm, hackberry, and salt cedars. Since there is no allotment for the purchase of these plants, Mr. Dunson said that they would have to be secured at as little cost as possible and that he was very anxious to get some walnut and elm trees.

"Any donations in the form of trees and shrubs will be welcomed by the department," Mr. Dunson said. "And if any club would like to take a certain section and beautify it their cooperation will be gladly received by the department."

In addition to beautifying the landscape, trees will also help to preserve the roads. All trees will be set out in a naturalistic effect, with alternating spaces on each side of the road and the desired

Impossible, But Mule Mothers Colt

"It is biologically impossible," says biologists, "for a female mule to bring forth young." But that is what happened last week on the farm of B. J. James, ten miles south of Black, near Hereford.

The colt, a male, is doing well and so is the mother, Mr. Jones says. As a matter of fact, the rare animal is such a fine specimen a neighbor has offered Mr. Jones $100 for it.

Judge C. E. Kerr and L. Baskin drove out to see the animal this week. They intend to let Ripley know about it.—Hereford Brand.

Childress Possum Hides In Engine Of Big Firetruck

The Childress Fire Department brought forth a topic during the week which has furnished ample room for argument.

A question came up concerning the size of the cylinders of a Childress firetruck and resulted in a CWA worker and two fireboys going to the station house and lifting up the hood of the truck. What they saw made them forget all about cylinders—a possum was resting peacefully on the engine, near the rear.

G. W. Newberry stated that he had the truck out that morning, a few hours before the inspection. However, it was believed possible that the animal could have moved to the rear of the engine without getting too hot to remain. Conjectures as to how the animal got

Plymouth To Give Play February 9

Plymouth School will present a play, "Where's Grand Ma?" Friday, February 9, according to the announcement of G. Dallas Waters, principal, today.

In addition to the play music will be furnished between acts through the courtesy of Roy Horn's miniature broadcast arrangement, also before and after the play, Mr. Waters said.

"We are inviting everyone to attend this play for we think that it will be worth your time, the play being well casted. Admission charges of 10 and 15 cents will be made and all benefits will be used for the improvement of the Plymouth School.

The cast includes the following players: Miss Julia Slough, Jack Walker, Merle Walker, Jetta Lee Lowe, Katherine McMinn, Mildred Ballow, Georgia DeBord, Coy Kates and Erma Ray Clement.

Worst Hick Out On Frank Ticket

The rubbed medal for frank political announcements probably will go W. W. (Hick) Halcomb, Dimmitt newspaper man who will make the race for state representative from the 120th district.

"The legislature of Texas is one of the best," W. W. Halcomb shows on earth," Halcomb's announcement read.

"Now what I want is a ringside seat at the show—drawing ten bucks a day of the people's money. I never made that much dough in my whole life.

"Elect me your representative and I will eat, drink and make merry at the expense of the high-powered lobbyists who furnish these things. And will do everything in my power to help Mrs. Ed Halcomb's eldest boy.

"My opponent is a swell fellow—one of the best there is—but there isn't any demand for that kind of folks. I don't know anything. Being ignorant as I am, they may elect me speaker of the house. I am the only candidate who ever ran for office who wasn't raised on a farm, am not farming now, and don't intend to farm if I can help it."

Halcomb said his platform would contain only four words: "ten bucks a day." He will campaign the district of eight counties in a stripped car bought with $10 contributed by a friend.

Horn Offers Free Service To Rural Schools of County

Roy Horn, Toggery manager, this week announced that he had secured a small broadcast station attachment to his automobile and would offer it free of charge to schools and rural community gatherings.

The amplifying unit has a long extension cord by which it can be placed in a school auditorium and music, direct from his car radio or phonograph can be played between acts for plays. Announcements can also be made over the miniature station.

"Schools or community gatherings may use the apparatus without charge," Mr. Horn said, "all they have to do is call me or write me the date of their play or gathering and I will bring the apparatus out."

Mr. Horn will also supply special musical numbers, quartets, etc.

Auditorium For Arlie Approved

The CWA project for building an auditorium for the Arlie school has been approved, according to a telegram received from Austin.

The telegram said, "Arlie project was approved January 12. Order of January 18 only stopped truck hire in this case. $30 of which has since been restored." A $1,500 bond issue was voted by the Arlie school district to build this auditorium and the bonds were sold recently to the state board of education. CWA labor is to be used in the construction of the auditorium.

As submitted by Superintendent C. W. Crosslin, the project called for 80 man days of labor and $30 for truck hire. The order of January 18 referred to in the telegram cut off this $30, but $30 was finally allotted for this purpose.

Belle Of Past

Here is a forgotten old lady in a forgotten Texas town. She is Mrs. Mickey McCormick, known west of St. Louis in the lawless days as "Frenchy," the actress, and her home is a two room 'dobe' in Tascosa, Texas, a Panhandle town that boomed both with guns and prosperity when Amarillo had not a house. She and her Mickey had a gambling joint and knew Billy the Kid, Pat Garrett and other famous Westerners. She is seventy-nine years old, and longs to meet her Mickey at the Happy Hunting Ground.

John Henard Is Recovering From Fall Last Week

Prominent Farmer And Cattleman Badly Bruised In Fall From Horse

John Henard, prominent Collingsworth farmer and stockman, was recovering this week from serious bruises and skinned places which resulted from his falling from his saddle horse Thursday afternoon.

He was rushed to the Wellington Hospital for treatment, but was able to return to his home, northeast of here the same night.

The accident occurred when the horse stepped in a hole and then about to regain his balance, stepped into another hole, falling to the ground with Mr. Henard. Mr. Henard slid along the ground, his face skidding along the surface and receiving the most serious injuries of the accident.

Due to swollen and skinned condition of his face and mouth, Mr. Henard was unable, for some time, to eat solid food and had to be fed through a straw. His condition was extremely painful, but was reported by physicians not to be critical.

H. King Stephens, Former Leader Employee, On Government Payroll

H. King Stephens, former employee of the Wellington Leader, has established an enviable record in Washington, D. C., according to press reports this week which stated that he had been promoted on January 25 to the position of Superintendent of Printing at the world's largest print shops, the Government Printing Office. The position carries with it a salary of $4,600 each year.

As an employee in the Leader mechanical department six years ago, Mr. Stephens is well known to many persons in this county.

Places County With Last Year

Government Report Verifies Few Bales From Last Leader Survey

Texas Increases

Collingsworth For Second Year Leads Neighboring Counties In Cotton

The government cotton report today showed Collingsworth County to have ginned 39,803 bales during the present season prior to January 16, at which date the county ginnings were tabulated. The government figures, made January 16, were issued here today from the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Leader Report Accurate

The report verifies the accuracy of the previous surveys made by the Wellington Leader. During the cotton season, because on January 17, the Leader made a survey and gave the approximate report of 39,732 bales. The slight variation was due to the fact that the totals for two gins had to be estimated as they were unavailable because they were closed.

The government report also showed that this county is only 1,715 bales behind the exact date of a survey made at the same time last year. This situation is considered as unusual by many local cotton men and farmers, due to the fact that this county plowed under over 47,000 acres of cotton land during the summer reduction campaign. At the same date in 1933 this county showed a total of 41,513 bales.

Texas Shows Increase

An astounding fact along this line was that despite the plow up campaign the state of Texas showed an increase in cotton production over last year in the statewide report of January 16. The report this year listed the entire state with 4,191,436 bales as compared with 4,164,269 bales last year, giving the state an increase of 27,166 bales during the present season.

For the second consecutive year Collingsworth County, with 39,803 bales, led neighboring counties.

Three Men Held On Liquor Charge

As county prison labor started on the roads here again last week records in Sheriff George Corry's office showed that 16 prisoners were held in the county jail.

Three men were held on charges of possession of intoxicating liquors, and two others were confined to the jail last week because of an affray which occurred on a side street south of the square. The affray ended in a brick throwing contest, which landed the men in jail.

Several of the number were also held on charges of drunkenness.

He also published the Memphis News in Hall County, where he is also well known.

Mr. Stephens has been employed in the Government Printing Office for three and one-half years, going to Washington from Memphis as proofreader. Two years later, he was promoted to desk man in the office of the Superintendent of Printing. It required an executive order signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to effect his present promotion, due to the Economy Act.

THE REAPER'S HARVEST

Each year sees many notable personages pass from the world's stage to the "great beyond," and 1933 marked the passing of a full quota of eminent characters. Among the hundreds of national and international fame who died were the following, with their ages at the time of death:

Ex-President Calvin Coolidge, 60; Jim Corbett, 66, former heavyweight champion; "Texas" Guinan, 49, night club hostess; "Fatty" Arbuckle, 46, actor; Alexander Legge, 67, former chairman Federal Farm Board; Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, 63, lost on the Naval dirigible Akron; Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, 91, anti-vice crusader; Jack Pickford, 36, actor, brother of Mary Pickford; General Frances de Pinedo, 43, Italian aviator; W. L. (Young) Stribling, 28, heavyweight boxer; Rev. Henry Van Dyke, 80, poet, educator and author; T. J. Walsh, 73, U. S. Senator, who died two days before he was to have become attorney-general of the United States; Major J. W. Bean, 100, oldest retired Army Officer; Miss Mary C. Beard, 80, co-founder Boy Scouts; Major S. H. M. Byers, 94, aide to Sherman in Civil War; A. J. Cermack, 59, mayor of Chicago, shot by assassin attempting to kill President-elect Roosevelt; W. N. Doak, 50, ex-secretary of labor; E. H. Sothorn, 73, Rev. William Mearns, 76, who had married 25,000 couples at Elkton, Md.

A touch of irony is seen in the fact that Major Charles Bradley, who founded the "last man club" of the Rainbow Division, A. E. F., and who doubtless hoped to be the "last man" of that division, died last year, at Seattle when only 50 years old.

FEBRUARY BIRTHDAYS

Although it is the shortest month, February perhaps holds the birth anniversaries of more famous Americans than any other. Among these, Washington and Lincoln are pre-eminent, but two other presidents, William Henry Harrison and Millard Fillmore, were also born in February.

This month also marks the birthdays of David Porter, naval officer of the War of 1812; Zebulon M. Pike, soldier and explorer for whom Pike's Peak was named; General W. T. Sherman of Civil War fame; Horace Greely and Henry Waterson, noted editors; Henry W. Longfellow and Sidney Lanier, poets; Mary Hopkins, the great educator who was president of Williams College for 36 years; Roger Williams, pioneer of religious liberty and founder of Rhode Island; Richard Watson Gilder, poet, editor and civic reformer; Dwight L. Morrow, evangelist; Peter Cooper and George Peabody, philanthropists; Joseph Jefferson, actor; Cyrus H. McCormick, inventor of the reaper; Thomas A. Edison and William F. Cody, the colorful "Buffalo Bill."

The February list also includes several famous American women, among them being Susan B. Anthony, pioneer suffragist, and two noted women educators, Mary Lyon, founder of Mount Holyoke Seminary, and Alice Freeman Palmer, former president of Wellesley College.

Among living Americans born in February, the most famous are Elihu Root and Charles A. Lindbergh.

A GEORGIA MOTHER

While she probably has not broken any world record, the achievement of Mrs. M. F. Smith of Atlanta, who recently bore her 18th child at the age of 38, is worthy of more than passing notice. She was married at 13, and her eldest daughter is 23.

There were no twins or triplets in the family, and of the nine boys and nine girls 15 are living, and there are four grandchildren.

Mrs. Smith's record would have delighted the late President Roosevelt, staunch believer in big families, and might well be viewed with dismay by Mrs. Margaret Sanger, militant advocate of birth control.

TY COBB THE GREATEST

Picking the greatest figures in various lines of activity is a mild but often interesting sport, and a jury of twelve old timers some time ago indulged in the pastime of selecting the outstanding baseball players of history.

An average of the ratings given by the individual jurors lists the heroes of the diamond in this order: Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, Babe Ruth, Nap Lajoie, Eddie Collins, Willie Keeler, Al Simmons and Tris Speaker.

Seven of the twelve judges picked Ty Cobb as the greatest baseball player of all time. The opinion of Cobb's admirers was well expressed by Connie Mack, one of the judges, who said:

"Picking the greatest player that ever lived is easy, I think. I pick Ty Cobb. He was a good fielder, the greatest base runner in the game's history, the fastest thinker, and the most consistent hitter. How can you name anyone else?"

Obituaries often refer to an indulgent husband and father. In many cases "indulgent" would be the more appropriate word.

An Arizona girl shot her father "at the command of a ouija board." Every gangster's family should be supplied with a ouija board.

A Canadian prison inspector, recently sentenced for crime, will have the opportunity to perfect himself in his profession.

At last it seems, Uncle Sam will build his Navy up to the strength designated by the "disarmament" conference.

OUR PAST

North Carolina—her fore fathers were composed of a sturdy pioneer stock that lived on venison and potatoes and paid their debts with tobacco.

It was on her soil that the first English colony was planted and here the first white child in America was born, Virginia Dare.

North Carolina knows the horrors of English governors, Indian Wars, Civil Wars and wars abroad. She was separated from South Carolina in 1729.

It is here that Polk was born, the first man to be elected President of the United States that the first postage stamps were issued during President Polk's administration.

Andrew Johnson, the son of a poor sexton, was born in Raleigh, December 29, 1808.

He never attended school a day in his life and yet he became the 17th President of the United States, April 15, 1865 at the death of President Lincoln.

President Johnson was fatherless at three and at the age of ten was bound out to a tailor to help support his mother.

At 18 he established his own tailor business, as he worked, his wife read to him and at the end of the day taught him to read and write.

North Carolina manufactures much of our cotton in to clothing and you will find at Durham, Wilkes tobacco factories in the world, stone-Salem and Reidville the large.

One of the original thirteen states, she has played in many fields the heroic role of the pioneer. This state's greatness has been achieved by her own native sons and daughters, with little aid from without.

Typographic errors can cause many laugh-provoking monstrosities. A circular distributed here the first of the week, described a very "heart dendering" event—in last week's enterprise, before it was proofread, occurred the paragraph, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doe had a surprise shower Saturday for Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, who were "decently" married.—Turkey Enterprise.

News is scarce these days. Most of the old thrills have been worn out, death is common, life is cheap, there's always a war somewhere, the gamut of human emotions has been run so many times that tragedies excite hardly a yawn. Americans see so many staggering figures that no mortality totals are apt to shock them. Real grief is limited in most cases to the nearest relatives involved in any death. Personally, we read, is "that which one leaves with another." So, if anyone gives you a pain, just call it personality and forget it.—Olin Hinkle, Pampa News.

Our chief concern in connection with crime should be a firm hand to see that it does not become rooted in this region. Criminal operations should be cleaned up as fast as they are discovered, and offenders should be put away for sufficient time to break up their organizations. Crime is organized now. That is what makes it so difficult to handle. Peace officers are handicapped and poorly equipped. Criminals have a hand in many places. Crooked politics is their refuge and their protection. Our cities of this region must keep a tight hold on law enforcements.—Jack Hull, in Clovis News-Journal.

In February we are to have an eclipse of the Sun which will be over before it starts. It will begin February 14, cross the International Date Line where it will end on February 13. That reminds this editor of a trip he made on the train, in which he left Farwell and landed in Clovis, New Mexico thirty minutes before he left Farwell. We left at 12 noon and landed in Clovis at 12:30 A. M., just thirty minutes before we left Farwell. Farwell is where mountain time sets in, therefore there is a difference of one hour at Clovis and Farwell.—Claude News.

times with it in the last two weeks and after a few hours in bed, I am up and out again. I've tried every remedy that has been recommended to me except a 45, and I'm not going to use that except as a last resort. I've used kerosene, sulphur and molasses, cough medicines, laxatives, quinine pills, capsules and hot baths.—Archibald in The Abernethy Review.

WELLINGTON

People . . . Places . . . Philosophy

By Jimmie Gillentine

Next Monday, February 12, will be the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, who we commemorate as one of the greatest Americans in the history of this nation.

Best Story Of The Week

Few persons, however, have fully evaluated the wit of this great American, who was born 125 years ago. Lincoln had enemies who were at all times anxious to trap him. Once a fellow, seeking to ridicule Lincoln's skinny personage and long legs, asked him how long a man's legs should be.

"Long enough," replied the great man, "to reach from his body to the ground."

Upon another instance enemies of one of Lincoln's successful generals sought to have the man removed. The enemy asked Lincoln if he knew that the general had consumed a barrel of whiskey during one of his campaigns. Without hesitation Lincoln told the man to find out what brand of whiskey the general drank.

The man, somewhat puzzled, returned with the information—and Lincoln told him to send a barrel of that same whiskey to every general in the army, because if it made them all fight like it did the one in question the war would soon be won.

There are also numerous other phrases of this great man which show us his human side of life. In many ways his wit resembles that of Will Rogers, but in most instances Lincoln's sagacity carried with it the answer to an issue—and ridiculed his enemies. We can certainly pay Abraham Lincoln no higher tribute than to remember him this year not as a great leader, but as a citizen who lived a life of service to this nation.

Some More Philosophy

Not long ago John Forbis advanced some philosophy and facts which I believe will be interesting to most of us. The average life of man has been extended about 15 years within the past three decades. Yet the average business man lives no longer and possibly not as long as formerly, according to statistics. Surveys have shown that a man shortens his life by working so constantly that he has little time for recreation and pleasure. The reason for average increased length of life is attributed to the fact that infant mortality has been decreased to a large extent, according to Dr. Henry P. Leford.

One of the principal points in the situation is that fact that many persons will not even take the time to eat properly. Anyhow, it is something to think about.

Farming Is A Good Life

Nearly every day of my life I have good reason to wish that I had chosen farming as a profession. The longer I live, the more reason I have to envy the average farmer. I know that farming is hard work, but I believe that the advantages of the farmer more than offset the liabilities. The farmer has everything in his favor, that is, almost everything. I know that the probability of crop failure is a bad hazard, but the first hazard a business man runs is the failure of the farmer—and if the farmer succeeds, he still has the possibility of a failure in his own business, just as a business man and not as a community. Too, he has the satisfaction of creating things. It even does me good to just look at the wonderful crops over the county—and one time when I planted a row or two of radishes and onions (and they really did grow nicely) I believe that I was happier than on any other occasion in my entire life.

With a few seed and a little work I had produced something; something really worthwhile. I was just a little kid, and a pretty mean one, too, but I would have even traded my kite or my skates before I would have relinquished my two rows of vegetables. I do believe that through their contact with nature West Texas farmers live closer to God than most any other class or profession.

Conoco Broadcast To Aid Tourist Business In City

General business in Wellington should benefit this year from an increase in tourist traffic which is expected to result from a series of unusual radio broadcasts by Continental Oil Company, sponsor of the Conoco Travel Bureau, beginning Wednesday night, February 14.

Figures just released show that the Conoco Travel Bureau during 1932 routed a total of 48,775 tourist groups to and through Texas, of whom were visitors in programs this some comedy of music, both instrumental, will feature scenic and pleasure resorts throughout America. Towns visited by these radio motorists are described, thereby receiving valuable tourist publicity, as the broadcast will go out over 27 N. B. C. stations.

The February 14 program, 8:30 to 9 p. m., Mountain Standard Time; 9:30 to 10, Central Standard Time, and 10:30 to 11, Eastern Standard Time, will enact a thrilling trip from Wichita, Kansas, to the Southern Colorado Rockies, and will also include a talk by Tony Sarg, internationally famous artist who created the Conoco Bronze Gasoline advertisements now appearing in this paper.

In promoting vacation travel the Conoco Travel Bureau is making a definite contribution to improvement of general business conditions. This is proved by a survey just completed, showing that the average Conoco Travel Bureau vacation tourist spends $250 and travels 3,400 miles, and that the sum he spends is placed out in towns along his route in this manner: Miscellaneous retail purchases, 25 per cent; restaurants, 21 per cent; hotels and cottage camps, 20 per cent; transportation, 20 per cent; amusements, 8 per cent; confectionery, 6 per cent.

Influenza Causes Alarm Over State

AUSTIN, Texas.—Influenza, while not of such prevalence as last year, is still occurring frequently enough to cause alarm, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State health officer.

In its present form, its symptoms may range from a common cold to high fever, backache, and prostration. However, pneumonia as a complication represents the real danger. And, as is well known, pneumonia is an exceedingly dangerous foe. The remedy is bed upon the first appearance of a cold, and remaining there until advised by the physician that one can safely get out of it.

Everyone should realize that in its mildest form influenza can easily become a very serious matter. Of course, prevention is better than cure. While influenza seems to be no respecter of persons, the careful observance of a few common sense rules will materially strengthen one's resistance to an attack. Some of these rules are:

Insofar as possible, avoid intimate contact with members of the family who have colds or influenza. Keep the feet dry. Wash the hands thoroughly before meals.

Avoid unnecessary fatigue. See that your alimentary system is regular and active.

Broken Hearted C. C. C. Boys

Tune "Twenty-One Years"
By URANUS BOYD
(Wellington C. C. C. Boy)
I'm writing this letter,
With tears in my eyes;
Among the mosquitos, chigger
and flies,
Three weeks have gone by,
And twenty-one days
I miss you, little sweetheart, in so many ways.

My heart is like lead
The camp is so still.
I think, when I get paid,
I'll go over the hill,
I am a fool
A fool like you said,
I'm in the C. C. C. you know
And I wish I were dead.

Get up in the morning,
Ten minutes 'til four,
I'm on K. P., love,
Scrubbing the floor.
A cool breeze is blowing,
The clouds are in sight;
My name is on billboard,
I'll stand guard tonight.

It's raining, it's hailing,
I'm standing night guard,
My raincoat is leaking,
Why take life so hard?
So take a fair warning
And take it to heart,
For I can't see my mother
And my darling sweetheart.

Texas Births Show Increase For 1933

According to figures filed with the State Bureau of Vital Statistics there were 113,620 births in the State in 1933, an increase of more than 2000 over the previous year. Deaths in 1933 were 63,155, an average of 192 per day.

The records show a gain in population of 50,464, through excess of births over deaths.

"A Builder In Collingsworth County"

Holding this paper you see one of the more than 1900 buying heads of families in Collingsworth County who can be reached each week by use of The Wellington Leader. (You can say what you want to about the man being the head of the house, the woman buys most of the supplies just the same.) This woman and her 1900 sisters spend hundreds of thousands worth of dollars for dry goods and groceries every year. Theirs is the choice that selects furniture, kitchen utensils, drug store items, etc. and she has a lot more to do with selecting the make of the family car than the average man will really admit.

This woman is one of those who is inclined to trade in Wellington. It is her convenient trading point. The merchandise, on the whole, is the kind that she wants provided she knew it was awaiting her approval. All that is required is an invitation, and the cheapest method of inviting her is by the use of an advertisement in The Leader.

With the advent of paved roads to within six miles of our home town, large retail firms in another town are making an open faced and aggressive bid for this woman's trade. They are making no bones about the fact that they want her to trade in their stores. Their merchandise is no better than she can buy in Wellington and their prices are not always as good, but their invitation is much more regular than is that of similar merchants in Wellington. She is one of 1900 who had rather trade in Wellington, because it is more convenient but she would like to know that her business is wanted. Business goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated.

The Leader is able to offer its customers an advertising service that will compare favorably with the service that can be obtained in much larger towns than Wellington. Both the Meyer Both and the Chicago Tribune advertising services are available to provide attractive illustrations and two experienced advertising men are ready to adapt these to your particular business.

We are anxious to keep the business of Wellington's trade territory coming to Wellington, and will be glad to help you work out your advertising problems to a satisfactory conclusion. The main competition of a number of Wellington merchants is not across the street, but is in another town. That competition can be more than counterbalanced, and The Leader is prepared to help you do it. A phone call to 16 will bring an advertising man to your store.

Community House Innovation In West Texas

The co-operative effort of the people of Pecon county resulted in the financing of this rock county community house, pictured under construction at Fort Stockton, Texas. The house was planned with the help of the county agent and home demonstration agent, and when completed will be valued at twenty thousand dollars. It will provide an excellent place for the discussion of farming problems, dinners, games and county canning operations.

Mexico May Return Alamo Battle Flag In Museum For Past 97 Years

Mr. Holman who represents an organization which includes fifty-two of the leading cooperative milk producers' associations in the United States, said it was essential that consumption of bottled, or fluid milk as it is known in the dairy trade, be increased if drastic measures to reduce production are to be avoided.

"During the last four years, there has been a steady increase in the total production and for the last three years there has been a decrease in consumption, due to employment," Mr. Holman said. "Warehouses are full of cheese, butter, evaporated milk and powdered milk and the price of these products is lower than in years."

"The result of this under-consumption and over-production is that prices have been forced down below anything like a decent income for the farmer. Yet this surplus could easily be overcome by a slight per capita increase in cities and towns."

"An extra glass of milk a day for each person would quickly wipe out the present surplus and improve the health of those who drink it. The cost to the consumer would be negligible, but the economic effect on the dairy farmers who receive one-fourth of the income of agriculture would be of tremendous importance. The farmers' increased purchasing power would stimulate and improve business generally."

AUSTIN.—A movement is under way for return of the Texas battle flag captured at the Alamo 97 years ago, and which now reposes in a glass case in the national museum in Mexico. Mexican officials who have been approached on the subject have expressed willingness but agree that before any definite steps are taken it will be necessary for a resolution to be passed by the Mexican Congress and a promise has been made that this too will be looked after.

The Alamo flag was discovered but recently by W. A. Keeling, of Austin, former Attorney General, while on a visit to Mexico City, and his first thought was to get that flag back to Texas. Two former Governors, Moody and Sterling, became interested in plans for restoration, not only writing to the Mexican President, but sending Dale Miller, of Dallas to Mexico. Miller found President Ortiz Rubio agreeable, but unable to assist until Congress acted. There the matter has rested for some time, but within the last few weeks Ernest Thompson, of Amarillo, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, went to Mexico and resumed negotiations for the flag.

As it happens, he and Miguel Cardenas, high in Mexican officialdom, are old friends, former classmates at the University of Texas, and Cardenas said he will see to it that the Mexican Congress, when it next meets shall adopt a resolution authorizing return of the captured emblem.

The flag was made in 1836 by a group of Texas girls and presented to the New Orleans Grays, an outfit that came to Texas to help in its battle for freedom. In large letters on the flag appeared the words: "First Company of Texas Volunteers. God and Liberty. From New Orleans."

Historians had lost all trace of this flag and in fact histories and paintings of the famous Alamo battle show that the Texans carried the 1824 flag instead, and yet there is nothing in the archives to prove there was an 1824 flag at the Alamo. The latter was adopted by Texas and the State of Coahuila as representing officials joining in a movement to cement friendly relations.

And since the separation of Texas from Mexico resulted in California, New Mexico and Arizona becoming part of the United States it is expected that the Governors of those States will be asked to participate, along with the Mayor of New Orleans.

Mexico, by the way, has always felt a friendlier interest in Texas than with the Federal Government because Texans, understanding Mexico, have always got along harmoniously with it in all dealings.

Moreover, there are plenty of high Mexican officials who criticize the methods used by Santa Anna at the Alamo, and General Torrea was severely critical, calling the affair unjustified butchery. Santa Anna, not the Mexican Government, is held to blame. The Texas archives possess Santa Anna's flag, captured by Sam Houston in the Battle of San Jacinto, and this now reposes in the old land office building here, where the Daughters of the Republic maintain relics and souvenirs of the early days.

Until the Mexican Congress acts it is unlikely that definite plans for an international program will be carried out, but nevertheless tentative plans are being discussed.

When Houston was President of the Texas Republic and first efforts toward annexation to the United States failed, he and his colleagues began plans to build an empire that would take in most of the west, extending to the Pacific, which could have been done, for in its sparsely settled condition it was favorable to Texas. Houston even drew up a map showing the vast empire. But when the second effort for annexation came up several years later it went overboard. Texas losing its chance to become one of the great nations of the world, and the rest of the Western States falling in line and desiring annexation.

University Has
Big Collection
Of Old Papers

AUSTIN—Although few of the papers in the newspaper library at the University of Texas date prior to the American Revolution, it is possible to read in their columns all wars, political changes, and other important events in the United States since then. Copies of the United States Gazette published in June, 1789, in New York tells the story of the meeting of the first Congress. Many of the files begin about 1800. Papers published in Mississippi and Kentucky when those states were frontiers give facts of pioneer life about the beginning of the nineteenth century. Philadelphia, Boston, New York and Richmond publications cover the War of 1812. The stories of the Texas Revolution in 1836 and the War with Mexico in 1846 are told in southern newspapers of that time. The library contains several anti-slavery and pro-slavery publications, among them the Liberator, favoring the abolition of slavery, which was published in Massachusetts in 1832 by Mr. Lundy. During the Civil War, most southern newspapers were suppressed; only papers from New York, Boston, Richmond and Philadelphia give stories of that period. Ample information for study of the Spanish-American War and the World War is available.

The collection of southern newspapers is probably the largest in the country. E. R. Dabney, newspaper librarian said. The file of the Dallas Morning News is complete from the first number. The Dallas Herald, which was first published in 1849, when there were only twenty families in Dallas, was absorbed by the Dallas News in 1885. There are copies of the Galveston News from 1842 to 1873. The Austin Statesman was begun by legislators opposed to carpet-bagging in 1871 and has continued ever since. The Telegraph and Register began publication in Columbia in 1832. On one occasion when the Mexicans were approaching the town, the press, which was set to run the next issue, was thrown into the river. Later the paper continued publication in Houston until 1877.

The library, established in 1915, is used mostly by students doing research work in southern and southwestern history, but it is expected to become more useful to the general student body when it is moved from its present quarters in Sutton Hall to the new library building.

At present the collection is increasing at the rate of about one thousand volumes a year. Newspapers are received from most large countries, four dailies from England, three from France, four from Germany, and one from Spain. Many volumes of old newspapers are donated to the library as memorials to their editors. Others are purchased from private collections. Some volumes are valued as high as $200 apiece, Mr. Dabney said.

School is going again here being dismissed a week on account of so much sickness among the school children. Quite a large percent of the children have had the measles and a few cases of diphtheria.

The school and community were saddened by the death of little Neva Blandford week before last.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reewe are visiting their daughter and family of Wellington this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Keesee and children are all ill with the measles this week.

(Mrs. G. K. Peters and Miss Mary Sorter visited E. H. Yarbrough and family Sunday afternoon.

Aubrey Yarbrough is on the sick list with the measles at this time.

Nearly 1,200,000 farms in this country have been growing a total of approximately 840,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, according to the Department of Agriculture.

The Missouri game and fish department plans to plan 12,000 quail in "shot-out" areas and also to produce 9,000 wild turkeys annually.

Miss Helen Jacobs of California whose startling victory over Helen Wills Moody last September again gave here the women's tennis championship of the United States, recently confided to her friends that it is her desire to become a novelist.

In conclusion he related the story of an immigrant lad, uneducated, who came to America from the old country. In his youth this lad sought the post of sexton in a church and being of commendable character was about to be employed until the committee learned that he could neither read nor write. Since he was not employed he sought a friend who operated a small cigar store and received a box of cigars, which he sold out at a profit. He bought more cigars and finally saved enough to buy a small cigar store; then spread to a chain of stores and finally bought a building.

One day rushing into the bank, he told the cashier he must borrow $100,000 in cash at once. The cashier, surprised, informed him that he had a deposit of more than $250,000. Such a balance naturally caused him to feel extremely good and in the course of conversation the banker congratulated him upon his success and asked, "How far do you suppose you might have gone if you had only had an education—if you could even read or write?"

"Well," was the reply, "I suppose I would have been a sexton." In addition to his other remarks, Mr. Dickson also stressed the necessity of schools over this county as a stimulant to the business in Wellington, and suggested that more high school centers might be created over this county within the next few years.
