GOVERNOR NEFF TO PLACE TYLER UNDER THE OPEN PORT LAW

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—Tyler, Smith county, will be placed under open port law by order of Governor Neff late today, it was authoritatively stated this morning. This action follows an investigation of the strike situation there by Ranger Captain R. W. Aldrich, who returned here yesterday.

Clayton Hudson, former employe of the Cotton Belt railroad at Tyler, was killed during a disorder there last week.

CHARGE WISCONSIN KLAN HAS ENDORSED REPUBLICAN TICKET

MADISON, WIS., Oct. 13.—The Ku Klux Klan issue entered Wisconsin politics today when the democratic state central committee issued a statement signed by W. D. Carroll, secretary, referring to a reported klan endorsement of republican candidates as "the most dastardly attempt ever made in this state to poison the minds of the voters in a political campaign."

"Rumors for the purpose of this organization were in circulation during the primary campaign," it continued, "but received no serious consideration except from Attorney General William J. Morgan, who was a candidate for governor on the republican ticket against the present governor, J. J. Blaine, who like Governor Blaine, received the endorsement of the organization.

Attorney General Morgan, the statement said, had vigorously repudiated the klan endorsement, declaring he had "no sympathy for any organization, organized to foment prejudice against any race or creed."

An advertisement of the klan, the central committee said, "endorsed the present republican candidates with the exception of the state treasurer and is now being asked whether this endorsement had any bearing on the fact that all of the aspirants for state offices qualify as eligible to the Ku Klux Klan except the treasurer, whose candidacy was forced upon the secret conference held at Madison by influences that could not be denied."

GOVERNOR DECLARES HE IS OPPOSED TO KLAN

MADISON, WIS., Oct. 13.—Governor J. J. Blaine declared today that he was unalterably opposed to the principles and objects of the Ku Klux Klan and through his executive communications and orders had shown his opposition since the first appearance of the organization in Wisconsin.

The executive said in a statement to the Associated Press that he had never received endorsement of the klan as far as he was aware, and asserted that the expressions of the democratic state central committee as far as they referred to him, were without foundation. He said that in numerous speeches throughout his campaign for the republican gubernatorial nomination, he had specifically attacked this society for its activities and its purposes.

CHICAGO BANDITS ESCAPE WITH 500 CASES OF LIQUOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—A score of bandits boldly invaded the Grommes and Ulrich bonded warehouse this morning, a half block from traffic police headquarters, shouldered aside a postman who was being admitted to the building, bound five employés and escaped with 500 cases of liquor loaded on three motor trucks.

At least 20 men were in the band according to police reports, and before the postman and employes could escape to summon police squads the robbers with their motor trucks had vanished.

OHIO FEDERATION OF LABOR TO SUPPORT MOVE TO IMPEACH DAUGHERTY

CANTON, OHIO, Oct. 13.—The Ohio state federation of labor in session here today by an unanimous vote pledged its support to the movement in congress for the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty and asked President Harding to repudiate the attorney general's actions by removing him from the cabinet.

ENFORCEMENT OF NEW LIQUOR BAN MAY BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Prohibition officials said today that enforcement of the new ban against liquor on ships probably will be stayed generally until October 17 as a result of the restraining order returnable on that date issued by Federal Judge Hand of New York.

J. J. Britt, chief counsel of the prohibition unit, declared that although technically the restraining order would halt enforcement of the new ruling only in Judge Hand's district "by implication" the stay would also apply throughout the country generally.

Mr. Britt conferred with Secretary Mellon prior to the meeting of the cabinet today, discussing the draft of the notice to be sent to ship owners and the temporary instructions to custom officers being drawn up for their guidance in clamping down the lid on liquor aboard ships. It was indicated that the subject was one of those to come up for discussion by the cabinet with a view to drafting a general policy.

U. S. SHIPPING BOARD VESSELS TO STAY DRY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Shipping board vessels will remain dry regardless of the outcome of the injunction proceedings brought in New York on behalf of American privately owned ships, it was announced today by Chairman Lasker.

President Harding holds, the chairman said, that government owned vessels are American territory and under Attorney General Daugherty's ruling come under the terms of the Volstead act, regardless of whether the American private ships succeed in remaining wet.

DECLARES OPPOSITION TO MARRIAGE RESULT PLAN TO CHANGE WILL

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Onezima de Bouchelle, who arrived here today, declared that opposition to her marriage to Asa G. Candler Sr., Atlanta capitalist, on the part of Candler's children, was due to the fact that Candler, at the time they were engaged, had planned to change his will so as to leave his entire estate to her.

JENNINGS IS PRESIDENT OF MINING CONGRESS

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—Sidney J. Jennings of New York, was elected president of the American Mining Congress at the annual election held by the board of directors here today. Albert J. Nason of Chicago, W. C. Doering of St. Louis, Daniel B. Wentz of Philadelphia and William Lindsay of Knoxville, Tenn., were chosen directors.

VON HINDENBURG MAY BE CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Field Marshal von Hinderburg has expressed his willingness to offer himself as a candidate for election to the German presidency, the Vossische Zeitung states today.

The field marshal's acceptance, it declares, was at the request of the German national peoples party.

GENERAL RETIREMENT TURKISH TROOPS IN VICINITY OF CHANAK

BEAUMONT PHYSICIAN WILL NOT PROSECUTE MEN WHO ATTACKED HIM

BEAUMONT, Oct. 13.—Dr. Elmer C. Kay, 58, found in his office here last night beaten into insensibility, had regained consciousness this morning and said he will not prosecute his attackers. He said he was beaten by two men who had formerly been his friends after an altercation in his office.

CHANAK, Oct. 13.—A general retirement of the Turkish troops in the immediate vicinity of Chanak is in progress.

A Chanak dispatch Thursday announced an advance of the Turkish forces toward the British line against which the British commander protested as a violation of the armistice agreement. The Turkish commander, replying, declared he had not yet received notification of the armistice but would give orders for retirement as soon as such notice came.

RELEASE OF HAYES TO BE CELEBRATED BY MASS MEETING

SCHNEIDER REPUDIATES CONFESSION IMPLICATING YOUNG MAN.

OFFICERS ADMITTEDLY "UP IN THE AIR" AGAIN

Turn Anew to Clews Pointing to Families of the Slain Couple.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13. While state and county officials sought anxiously today for something tangible on which to proceed in the inquiry into the murder on September 14 of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and the choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, friends of Clifford Hayes went ahead with preparations for a mass meeting tonight to celebrate Hayes' release yesterday.

His release and the collapse of the case of mistaken identity made out by authorities followed the admission by Raymond Schneider that his accusation of Hayes was false. Schneider still was held in the Somerset county jail today, although no new charge had been lodged against him. He was locked up as a material witness some days ago after he had made a statement charging Hayes with killing Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall.

Authorities were admittedly "up in the air" again. They turned anew today to clues pointing to the families of the slain rector and Mrs. Mills and detectives were engaged in running numerous details discarded when officials accepted Schneider's accusation as a solution of the mystery.

The fawn colored coat and scarf which Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the rector, had dyed in Philadelphia a few days after Mr. Hall was murdered, were in the hands of a New Brunswick chemist today for analysis, the action being ordered by Prosecutor Joseph Stricker of Middlesex county.

Detectives thrown off the trail temporarily by Schneider's false accusation, turned again to their original theory that the double slaying was prompted by jealousy and that a woman was one of the participants in the crime.

TO DEMONSTRATE SPEED CREATIONS IN ARMY PLANES

MOUNT CLEMONS, MICH., Oct. 13.—The second day of the national air races at Selfridge field gave spectators their first opportunity to witness the flight of the new speed creations of the army and navy, 14 of which were entered in the Liberty engine builders' trophy race. Two light navy machines were pitted against nine heavy planes carrying the honor of the army.

This was the only race on today's program but thrills aplenty were in prospect in other events, which included a try for a new world's speed record.

Interspersed with the aid exhibitions were addresses on the development and possibilities of aviation by Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby and Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service.

Friday, the 13th, the bane of the superstitious, apparently had no terror for the 165 pilots here. Dread of that date has passed for the service men, according to Major Carl Spatz, commanding officer at Selfridge field.

ARBITRATION TRIBUNAL AWARDS $12,000,000 TO NORWEGIAN GOVERNMENT

By Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 13.—The arbitration tribunal, with the American arbitrator not sitting, has awarded approximately $12,000,000 to the Norwegian government on behalf of 15 Norwegian corporations and individuals known as the Christiana group for claims arising from requisition of ships by the emergency fleet corporation during the war.

Chandler P. Anderson, the American arbitrator, instead of attending, addressed a communication to the secretary general of the tribunal and the agents of both governments, declaring in his opinion the tribunal had violated the terms of submission and had exceeded its jurisdiction as stipulated by the special agreement between Norway and the United States signed June 30, 1921, under which the question was submitted to arbitration.

Immediately the award was rendered William C. Denis, agent of the American government, served formal notice to the tribunal that he reserved for his government all the rights "arising out of the plain and manifest departure of the award from the terms of submission and from the 'essential error' by which it is invalidated."

U. S. GRAND JURY RETURNS TWO SECRET INDICTMENTS IN THE CRONKHITE CASE

TACOMA, WASH., Oct. 13.—The federal grand jury which has been investigating the shooting of Major Alexander Cronkhite at Camp Lewis in 1918, today returned two secret indictments to Judge E. E. Cushan in open court.

STAPLES SEES LITTLE COMPROMISE CHANCE FOR MAYFIELD-PEDDY

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—That there is little opportunity for a compromise to put Earle B. Mayfield's and George Peddy's names on the official election ballot as United States senatorial candidates in view of Attorney General Keeling's rulina on Peddy, was indicated by Secretary of State Staples today.

Staples refused to make known what course he would follow if the matter of a compromise were presented to him, stating that he would merely follow the law and advice of the legal department. The attorney general's ruling held that Peddy's name could not legally be certified as republican senatorial nominee, but did not concern Mayfield's candidacy.

The mandamus action which attorneys for Mayfield announced Wednesday would be filed in the supreme court had not been filed this morning. Mr. Mayfield had not returned to the capital this morning and it could not be learned from his lawyers here when the motion will be filed.

Official notice of postponing the New Orleans hearing from October 16 to October 23 had not been received by state officials. The answer to the petition filed in the federal court at Mobile, Ala., was completed by the attorney general's department today.

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Appeal from the temporary order of District Judge Scarbrough at Corsicana restraining the secretary of state from certifying Earle B. Mayfield as democratic candidate for the United States senate will be heard by the fifth court of civil appeals here on October 17. The court acted late yesterday on motion of Secretary of State Staples and others, who also requested that the case be certified to the supreme court for quick and final action. The motion attacked Judge Scarbrough's order as not being warranted by statute.

Meanwhile federal court at New Orleans postponed from October 16 to October 23 a hearing on a bill of equity filed recently in Mobile, Ala., which seeks to have Secretary of State Staples show cause why the name of George Peddy, independent democrat-republican candidate for the senate, should not be certified for the November ballot. Peddy's name was withheld from the ballot under a ruling by the attorney general that he had not been nominated at a regular primary.

CHAMBERLAIN SAYS WOULD BE CRIMINAL TO BREAK COALITION

BRITISH POLITICAL SITUATION IS DISCUSSED AT BIRMINGHAM.

HAS WORKED IN HARMONY WITH MR. LLOYD GEORGE

Says Present Coalition Must Not Be Broken In View of Labor Menace.

BIRMINGHAM, ENG., Oct. 13.—Austen Chamberlain, the government leader, addressing the Midland conservative club here today, declared it would be criminal to break up the present coalition in view of the labor menace.

"I don't pretent to say when an election will occur," said Mr. Chamberlain. "I expect it is the undoubted right of the prime minister to choose." At another point Mr. Chamberlain said:

"I have worked with Mr. Lloyd-George in perfect harmony. He had told us 'I know not when an election will come.'"

Mr. Chamberlain's speech had been eagerly awaited in the hope he would indicate what the prime minister's political stand would be in the event of a general election and how far the conservatives, of whom Mr. Chamberlain is the leader, would support Mr. Lloyd George.

Mr. Chamberlain's declaration in favor of continuation of the coalition was immediately commented upon by many hearers as meaning that the premier would fight for the coalition and that Mr. Chamberlain would give him support.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that within the last few weeks the threat of direct action had been raised again.

"I do not pretend to say in what circumstances and conditions the cooperation between ourselves and our present allies can best be obtained in a new parliament," he said.

"I do say, with all the earnestness of a great conviction, that union should be the first consideration—union in the face of common foe."

POLITICAL EYES ARE TURNED ON CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Discussion of the political crisis again fills the principal columns of the newspapers this morning. The outstanding feature of the situation is an indication of the hardening of feeling of the conservative opposition to Austen Chamberlain's continuance as leader of the unionist party unless he cuts loose from Prime Minister Lloyd George.

That he will do this is regarded in best informed quarters as altogether unlikely.

It is recalled that he has been in close agreement with Lloyd George on all great political questions since the beginning of their association and he has confessed to friends that he cannot and does not wish to escape his share of the responsibility for the course which has been followed.

Mr. Chamberlain is represented as being convinced that continuance of the coalition is not only desirable, but inevitable, as no party is likely to emerge from an election with an independent majority. Moreover, it is stated that he would in any case refuse to lead the party against his colleagues in the cabinet with whom he has no political disagreement and for whom he cherishes close personal friendship. This being so, conservatives say he must quit his leadership for they have done with Lloyd George and all his policies.

The Morning Post, mouthpiece of the more extreme Tories, cites this view badly in an editorial today. Mr. Chamberlain, it says, is putting loyalty to the premier before loyalty to his party and he cannot continue his adherence to Lloyd George without resigning his leadership.

The newspaper admits that the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain would seriously injure the conservatives, but says the party finds it more and more difficult to coincide in his political integrity.

Transference of the leadership to Lord Derby or Andrew Bonar Law is much discussed. Lord Derby is said to be determined to discontinue his support of the coalition, but declines either to confirm or deny the report. Mr. Bonar Law is also credited with intention to oppose another coalition government.

The key to the whole situation, according to many observers, is Mr. Chamberlain's attitude, and his speech at Birmingham today is awaited with intense interest.

There was considerable speculation in political circles today when King George gave an audience to the prime minister as to whether the latter would raise the question of calling a general election. It was stated in Downing street that Mr. Lloyd-George was reporting on the near eastern situation and would not touch upon domestic politics.

NEW HIGH RECORD FOR SEAT ON CURB EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Harold M. Thomas today purchased the curb exchange seat of Paul A. H. Van Daell for $10,000 a new record high price, which is an advance of $250 over the preceding transfer.

CHARGES RULE WAS INVOKED TO PLEASE 'SHORT' INTERESTS

WITNESS MAKES STATEMENT AT HEARING ON GRAIN TRADING.

ELEVATORS FILLED AND NO STORAGE ROOM LEFT

Commission Hopeful That J. Ogden Armour Will Reply to Questions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—J. Ogden Armour again today refused to give the federal trade commission, which is investigating trading in wheat futures, the figures showing the extent of his grain trading in 1920, 1921 and the early months of 1922. Mr. Armour, on the stand Wednesday, had refused to give details of his grain transactions and was excused until today.

Victor Murdock and other members of the commission tried in vain to shake the decision of the witness. Finally, Mr. Murdock, vice-chairman of the commission, excused Mr. Armour and said the commission would decide later what it might do in the situation.

In hearings in the east as well as thus far in the inquiry conducted here, Mr. Murdock said, the commission had been able to obtain from every witness except Mr. Armour, such information as it sought.

Commissioner John F. Nugent, as well as Vice-Chairman Murdock, took a hand at questioning Mr. Armour.

"Are you alone the only man unwilling to give the commission these figures?" Mr. Nugent asked.

"I must decline to answer," Mr. Armour said.

"Of all the witnesses you are the only man who has refused to answer," Nugent continued. "Shall we report that to the senate?"

"I don't believe I have anything to do with that," the witness replied.

L. L. Winters, who followed Mr. Armour, was questioned concerning fluctuations in wheat prices between January and June of this year. He said "a rising market early in the year was largely due to the speculative demand." The "May squeeze," he said, was not due to any concerted effort on the part of the large interests to squeeze out the bears but because of warehouse crowding which would prevent the shorts from making delivery. The bull movement in May futures, he said, was a legitimate speculation.

CHARGES RULE FAVORED BIG ELEVATOR INTERESTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The federal trade commission in its investigation of the spectacular break in the wheat market last May, looked to J. Ogden Armour today for his answer to questions concerning his transactions in grain since the wartime ban on trading in wheat futures was lifted in July, 1920.

When Mr. Armour, characterizing himself as only a "casual trader" in grain, declined Wednesday to furnish details of his board of trade operations, he told the federal inquiry board he would decide today whether he would disclose the information.

Witnesses yesterday, among them Arthur W. Cutten, one of Chicago's heaviest traders on the grain market, testified that large elevator interests, including the grain company of Armour Grain company and the Rosenbaum company, were "short" of the market last May, were principal beneficiaries of the wheat break from $1.46 to $1.16 and were responsible for the emergency car delivery rule which compelled traders on the "long" end to sell at a loss.

George E. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, who was expected to appear before the commission again today, had testified that the rule permitting the delivery of grain in cars on track instead of in elevators, was invoked because all elevators were filled to overflowing and there was no storage room left.

Mr. Cutten said one thing that convinced him the rule was invoked to please elevator interests that were short, was the fact that there were 7,800 cars of wheat on the tracks in Chicago at the time while there were only about 800 cars of other grains. Between 3,000,000 and 10,000,000 bushels of wheat were on the tracks while other grains were being stored, he said.

STEEL NOT BARRIER TO RADIO WAVES IS PROVEN WITH TEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Steel is not a barrier to radio waves and the testing of receiving radio telephone communications within a moving all-steel railroad car on the Pennsylvania railroad's Broadway limited train was declared a success in a message received at the northwestern regional headquarters of the railroad today from an official of its signal department in advance of the arrival of the train.

Broadcasting from New York and Philadelphia were received clearly, the message stated, and so successful was the test considered that further tests would be carried out in a week or 10 days.

One of the principal points of interest to the signal department, as reported by E. S. Stewart, who sent the message, was that the reception of wireless communications was not interfered with by the high tension overhead wires.

The test was held to establish the success or failure of wireless receiving without external antennae, in a moving all-steel railroad car. The radio outfit was established in a closed compartment of the car with an inside loop in lieu of external aerials. The experiments were made after the train left North Philadelphia late yesterday.

NUMBER "13" FIGURES PROMINENTLY IN DEATH OF MAN IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The number "13" figured prominently in the death this, Friday morning, of Clifford Lennon in an automobile accident. Lennon was riding in 130th street, Brooklyn, at about 12:13 o'clock in a roadster belonging to fire engine company 13 when the car was sideswiped by another and crashed into the curb. He was thrown from the car, landing on his head and was killed almost instantly.

TRANSPORT THOMAS BRINGS 74 PASSENGERS AND 187 OF CREW ABOARD "CITY OF HONOLULU"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The task of transferring the passengers and crew of City of Honolulu from the rescue ship West Faralon to the United States army transport Thomas was completed at 7:45 a. m., according to a radio received at army transport headquarters from the Thomas at 11:25 a. m. today.

"All passengers and crew aboard at 7:45 and we are under way for San Francisco," Captain Hall of the Thomas said in his message.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The passengers of the City of Honolulu which burned at sea were transferred to the United States army transport Thomas from the rescue ship West Faralon at dawn today, according to an official message received by the Federal Telegraph company. The Thomas is due in San Francisco tomorrow, but it is expected she will be least a day late.

The message continued that the City of Honolulu was burned beyond repair and that it would be two days at least before any ship would be able to approach her on account of the intense heat. The message indicated that the transfer of the passengers had been effected without any particular incident. It gave the list from the City of Honolulu as 39 women, 35 men and 187 members of the crew.

After having worked continuously for 24 hours, or from the time that the Honolulu SOS was received until some time after the doomed vessel's passengers and crew were safe, Edward P. Orth, wireless operator on the West Faralon "turned in" today for a few hours rest, cutting off the vessel from wireless communication as she has no relief operator, Orth's last message was that he was going to seek rest for a short time, according to Struthers and Barry, agents for the shippers.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The radio, man's bridle on space and that hardly less potent thing, the fellowship of those who go down to the sea in ships, stand responsible today for the safety of 217 persons—the passengers of the steamer City of Honolulu, which burned yesterday.

The readiness with which mariners of half a dozen craft, from pleasure yacht to dreadnought of the Pacific fleet, offered themselves for the rescue of their distressed fellow travelers afloat was but an echo of a story first told so long ago that men have forgotten the time of the telling, but the tale of the radio's part belongs to a more modern generation.

They mingled, this old thing and this new one, to save life.

Early yesterday while she was 670 miles off San Pedro, California, fire broke out in the second class cabins of the steamer, one time pride of the North German Lloyd line and more recently leader of the Los Angeles Steamship company's new Honolulu service. Unaccountably the flames gained so much headway on the fighting crew that, two hours later, it was necessary to abandon ship. But before that time came the radio had cried far and wide the call that means disaster, distress and human extremity on the high seas, "SOS."

Two ships, the Enterprise of the Matson line, and the Thomas, an army transport, eastbound from Hawaii, caught the signal and turned toward the position the operator had given. A millionaire's yacht, the Casiana, pleasure cruising to Honolulu with a party, including Crompton Anderson, brother-in-law of her owner, E. L. Doheny, who is in New York, caught the appeal and turned that way. Los Angeles caught the signals and naval vessels stood by to race with death to the scene of the fire. San Francisco caught the signals, awaited until the radio operator on a distant ship had turned that vessel, too, toward the scene.

Affected the Rescue.

It was this ship, the West Faralon, M. M. Walk, master, that swept down the sea lanes to the City of Honolulu and affected the rescue.

But she did not get there until more than four hours after the flames had forced the captain, his first officer, the chief engineer and the radio operator who had stayed behind to serve to the uttermost the passengers confided to their care, to leave the blazing hulk. The officers stayed to advise, suggest and confer; the radio operator stayed to keep the West Faralon advised, lest she miss the boat loads of passengers floating nearby and the rescue be delayed.

The fire broke out between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning; the passengers were put overside at 8, the captain left the steamer a little after 10, the West Faralon arrived about 2:30 in the afternoon. By a quarter to four the last boat load of castaways had been hauled aboard the West Faralon and that ship, her every corner crowded, lay to a mile from the fire swept vessel and all hands watched her burn. All hands, that is, but the radio operator—he was busy sending messages that told the world the steamer's company was safe and other messages that kept the Thomas steaming southward to provide for the rescued some smoother comfort than the planking of the West Faralon's decks.

Transfer Passengers.

The Thomas' officers planned to transfer the City of Honolulu's passengers early today rather than risk accident in the darkness of the early morning. The Thomas will bring them to San Francisco. They had been bound for Los Angeles.

There, just before the Thomas reached the West Faralon, the story was broken this morning for shore stations ceased communicating with the vessels so that the West Faralon's radio might be used to guide the transport to her. The cessation left much untold—the cause of the fire, the reason it spread with such fierce rapidity, the details of the fight against it and those more gripping details that made up the story of the flight in the life boats and the rescue.

The City of Honolulu is the third former German liner to figure in a mishap while sailing from a Pacific port. The first was the Mount Vernon and the second was the Empress of Australia, formerly the Von Tirpitz.

The mount Vernon, formerly the Krönprinzessin Cecilie, suffered a whole chapter of accidents soon after she came to this coast several years ago. Mysterious breakdowns were frequent while she was engaged in ferrying homeward from Vladivostok with Czecho-Slovakia soldiers of the Siberian expeditionary forces and the Russian orphans marooned there by the soviets' eastern advance.

The Empress of Australia had to put back to port a few days ago when it was found her main shaft was out of line.

AIR IS CROWDED WITH RADIO CALLS FROM SHIPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The United States army transport Thomas, which has the crew and passengers of the burned City of Honolulu aboard, at 1 a. m. today, according to radio messages picked up by the Federal Wireless company. She stood by to transfer them from the West Faralon after daylight.

The air was crowded early today with radio calls from ships within reach of the West Faralon. Shore station radio operators said it seemed as though every ship within calling distance was trying to communicate with the rescue ship. This further complicated the effort to get details of the fire and rescue. It was not until after 5 o'clock, more than four hours after the Thomas reached the West Faralon, that press messages could be cleared from the ship to a shore station telling of the transport's arrival.

The City of Honolulu continued to burn throughout the night, according to a radio message from the West Faralon to the Federal Wireless company here.

FIRE IS ATTRIBUTED TO BAD ELECTRIC WIRING

ON BOARD U. S. ARMY TRANSport Thomas, Oct. 13.—(By wireless to the Associated Press.)—Captain Harry R. Lester of the liner City of Honolulu, and a mate were overcome by smoke and flames in investigating the fire which destroyed their vessel, but quickly recovered, it was revealed on board the Thomas today. Officers of the City of Honolulu attributed the cause of the fire to defective electric wiring in the second cabin.

There were no injuries suffered by any of the fire victims. Every one was in good spirits. Water was pumped into the burning compartment of the Honolulu as long as possible, but the fire gained rapid headway into the super-structure.

The water in the compartment caused a dangerous list to port and the boats were lowered only with great difficulty. Later the Honolulu slowly righted, making the work of abandonment easier.

READY TO TOW HULK OF THE CITY OF HONOLULU

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The freighter West Faralon, which rescued the passengers and crew of the steamer City of Honolulu notified the shipping board today that after transferring the passengers to the transport Thomas, she would tow the hulk of the burned vessel toward Los Angeles until met by tugs. The West Faralon gave her position as approximately 550 miles off Los Angeles.

NEW ORGANIZATION CHARTERS TO FIGHT THE 'KLAN' REGIME

CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Oct. 13.—W. H. Holmes, who maintains an office here for the National Association of Klans, the fraternal organization seeking to wrest control of the Ku Klux Klan from the hands of the Simmons-Clarke regime in Atlanta, announces that a charter for the new organization has been filed and taken to Nashville for record with the secretary of state. The Chattanooga incorporators are: H. C. White, W. H. Holmes, Harry Wann, Phil J. Hayes, Sherman Sanders and J. F. Brown, Knoxville; J. B. Burns, A. Y. Burrows, Charles R. Fearce, A. A. Baker and W. The charter sets forth the purpose to be the organization, operation, maintenance and perpetuation of a patriotic and civic, social, benevolent and fraternal society and fraternity.

The membership, according to this instrument, is limited to white, male persons, citizens of the United States of America or other countries where the order exists.

STANDARD REDUCES PRICE OF GASOLINE

MAYFIELD HAS PUT BURDEN UPON PEDDY IS BELIEF LOCALLY

DEMOCRATS HERE CONSIDER PARTY NOMINEE HAS DECISIVELY SCORED.

TELEGRAMS FROM HERE URGED ACTION TAKEN

"Should Go Out of Business If Can't Elect Nominee," Judge Huff Wires.

Earle B. Mayfield's proposal to use his influence for withdrawal of litigation to keep the name of George E. B. Peddy off the November ballot has put the pressure on the Houston candidate and spiked the latter's guns, in the opinion of local democrats who have been watching the situation with interest.

It is pointed out here that Mayfield's offer effectively knocks out Peddy's hope of securing some action by the United States senate, which, it is reported, would be likely to refuse to seat Mayfield in the event Peddy's name was not on the ticket.

Mayfield's proposal was inspired, in part at least, by telegrams from Wichita Falls Wednesday. G. C. Wood wired him, after reading the reported interview from Peddy, to accept the latter's proposition Judge R. E. Huff sent a similar telegram to Frank Davis, state democratic chairman. Mr. Huff's telegram follows:

"Make Mayfield accept Peddy offer in today's Dallas News, both go on ticket. If democracy cannot elect nominee against a republican nominee, we had better go out of business."

Mr. Davis replied as follows:

"Mayfield consented to Peddy's proposition in today's paper. Peddy, I understand, now disputes the proposition. I have striven from the outset to avoid this wrangle."

The fact that Peddy now repudiates the interview attributed to him cannot materially affect the situation, it is pointed out here, as Mayfield's offer is one that can be accepted or rejected at face value; if accepted, both names can go on the ticket, a procedure to which Peddy could not well object; if rejected, the burden is placed on Peddy and republicans in the United States senate would be disarmed in their effort to prevent Mayfield's being seated.

HOUSE DEMAND IS INCREASING FASTER THAN NEW BUILDING

Houses are getting scarcer and scarcer, and new ones are not being erected at a rate that offers any promise of relief to the housing situation, according to local realty men, who report that every residence offered for rent finds a tenant within a very short time.

The fact that new houses are not being built is explained by realtors as due to the fact that even at existing rental charges, there is no profitable return on the investment. A house costing $5,000, it is pointed out, would rent for probably $60 a month or $720 a year; taxes, insurance and repairs would wipe out about half of that income, lowering the return to a point where it would be more profitable to use the money in other ways.

Another factor in the situation is that home hunters can buy much more cheaply than they can build. Many substantial homes are available at $4,000 to $5,000 at present, representing bigger values than could be obtained by spending that much in putting up a home.

Any further increase in the demand must result in the erection of new homes, it is believed. At present there are 40 to 50 houses being built, most for rental purposes.

CITY BEHAVING ITSELF; NO FINES ASSESSED IN MUNICIPAL COURT TODAY

From all indications in the corporate court Thursday morning this is a city of law abiding individuals. Only one case came to trial; a youth who rides a motorcycle for a local drug store appeared on a speeding charge. Judgment was withheld until Friday morning.

Only two arrests were made the previous day; both were charged with traffic violations.

This unusual occurrence was the cause of some comment in the court Thursday; it has been some time since a session of the city court passed without assessing a penalty of some kind.

WANTED ATTORNEYS TO HELP HIM GET MONEY

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 12.—Local firm of attorneys report a strange call of a would-be client. A nice appearing young man about 18 years old called at the offices of the firm late yesterday afternoon and asked for a member of the firm, and when told he had gone out on some matter the party stated he was looking for a lawyer to help him make some money. He stated that he had tried to get money enough to go to school but having failed had decided he wanted to get in jail and then get a damage suit against the officers who arrest him. He stated that he had in mind some officers in a nearby town that he wanted to pull this on. He refused to give his name unless the attorneys would agree to take the case. He was informed that this was not the kind of business the firm handled, and that he had better seek honest employment. The young man left the office of the attorney. An officer was called but the young man could not be found.

11 BALES COTTON AND TWO BOX CARS BURNED AT WILLOW

The dispatcher of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern was advised Wednesday night that fire destroyed two box cars and eleven bales of cotton at Willow, Okla., early Wednesday night.

The origin of the fire has not been determined.

Mrs. T. E. Warren and daughter, Mrs. S. B. Colye, and two children, all of Dallas, are spending the week with the former's daughter, Mrs. John Roundtree and family, who lives in the southwest part of town.

August Lohoefner of 305 West third street left Tuesday night for Dallas to attend the state fair.

W. D. Auld, the genial assistant at the Oil City News Stand, was a guest at dinner Tuesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ahern, the tailor. Some think the occasion was Mr. Auld's birthday; anyway he says it beats restaurant fare many laps.

The recent rains must have placed many to work for it is noticeable that there are not so many idle men on the streets.

The Burks Motors company, who handle the Hupmobile, Chevrolet and the Willys-Saint Claire autos, have opened a salesroom on Avenue C, where the Majors grocery store formerly was located.

GOVERNOR NEFF TO PLACE TYLER UNDER THE OPEN PORT LAW

AUSTIN, Oct. 13. — Tyler, Smith county, will be placed under open port law by order of Governor Neff late today, it was authoritatively stated this morning. This action follows an investigation of the strike situation there by Ranger Captain R. W. Aldrich, who returned here yesterday.

Clayton Hudson, former employe of the Cotton Belt railroad at Tyler, was killed during a disorder there last week.

CHARGE WISCONSIN KLAN HAS ENDORSED REPUBLICAN TICKET

MADISON, WIS., Oct. 13.—The Ku Klux Klan issue entered Wisconsin politics today when the democratic state central committee issued a statement signed by W. D. Carroll, secretary, referring to a reported klan endorsement of republican candidates as "the most dastardly attempt ever made in this state to poison the minds of the voters in a political campaign."

"Rumors for the purpose of this organization were in circulation during the primary campaign," it continued, "but received no serious consideration except from Attorney General William J. Morgan, who was a candidate for governor on the republican ticket against the present governor, J. J. Blaine, who like Governor Blaine, received the endorsement of the organization.

Attorney General Morgan, the statement said, had vigorously repudiated the klan endorsement, declaring he had "no sympathy for any organization, organized to foment prejudice against any race or creed."

An advertisement of the klan, the central committee said, "endorsed the present republican candidates with the exception of the state treasurer and is now being asked whether this endorsement had any bearing on the fact that all of the aspirants for state offices qualify as eligible to the Ku Klux Klan except the treasurer, whose candidacy was forced upon the secret conference held at Madison by influences that could not be denied."

GOVERNOR DECLARES HE IS OPPOSED TO KLAN

MADISON, WIS. Oct. 13.—Governor J. J. Blaine declared today that he was unalterably opposed to the principles and objects of the Ku Klux Klan and through his executive communications and orders had shown his opposition since the first appearance of the organization in Wisconsin.

The executive said in a statement to the Associated Press that he had never received endorsement of the klan as far as he was aware and asserted that the expressions of the democratic state central committee as far as they referred to him, were without foundation. He said that in numerous speeches throughout his campaign for the republican gubernatorial nomination, he had specifically attacked this society for its activities and its purposes.

ENFORCEMENT OF NEW LIQUOR BAN MAY BE DELAYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Prohibition officials said today that enforcement of the new ban against liquor on ships probably will be stayed generally until October 17 as a result of the restraining order returnable on that date issued by Federal Judge Hand of New York.

J. J. Britt, chief counsel of the prohibition unit, declared that although technically the restraining order would halt enforcement of the new ruling only in Judge Hand's district "by implication" the stay would also apply throughout the country generally.

Mr. Britt conferred with Secretary Mellon prior to the meeting of the cabinet today, discussing the draft of the notice to be sent to ship owners and the temporary instructions to custom officers being drawn up for their guidance in clamping down the lid on liquor aboard ships. It was indicated that the subject was one of those to come up for discussion by the cabinet with a view to drafting a general policy.

U. S. SHIPPING BOARD VESSELS TO STAY DRY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Shipping board vessels will remain dry regardless of the outcome of the injunction proceedings brought in New York on behalf of American privately owned ships, it was announced today by Chairman Lasker.

President Harding holds, the chairman said, that government owned vessels are American territory and under Attorney General Daugherty's ruling come under the terms of the Volstead act, regardless of whether the American private ships succeed in remaining wet.

CHICAGO BANDITS ESCAPE WITH 500 CASES OF LIQUOR

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—A score of bandits boldly invaded the Grommes and Ulrich bonded warehouse this morning, a haf block from traffic police headquarters, shouldered aside a postman who was being admitted to the building, bound five employes and escaped with 500 cases of liquor loaded on three motor trucks.

At least 20 men were in the band according to police reports, and before the postman and employes could escape to summon police squads the robbers with their motor trucks had vanished.

OHIO FEDERATION OF LABOR TO SUPPORT MOVE TO IMPEACH DAUGHERTY

CANTON, OHIO, Oct. 13.—The Ohio state federation of labor in session here today by an unanimous vote pledged its support to the movement in congress for the impeachment of Attorney General Daugherty and asked President Harding to repudiate the attorney general's actions by removing him from the cabinet.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Onesima de Bouchelle, who arrived here today, declared that opposition to her marriage to Asa G. Candler Jr., Atlanta capitalist, on the part of Candler's children, was due to the fact that Candler, at the time they were engaged, had planned to change his will so as to leave his entire estate to her.

GENERAL RETIREMENT TURKISH TROOPS IN VICINITY OF CHANAK

CHANAK, Oct. 13.—A general retirement of the Turkish troops in the immediate vicinity of Chanak is in progress.

The Turkish commander, replying, declared he had not yet received notification of the armistice but would give orders for retirement as soon as such notice came.

RELEASE OF HAYES TO BE CELEBRATED BY MASS MEETING

SCHNEIDER REPUDIATES CONFESSION IMPLICATING YOUNG MAN.

OFFICERS ADMITTEDLY "UP IN THE AIR" AGAIN

Turn Anew to Clews Pointing to Families of the Slain Couple.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 13. While state and county officials sought anxiously today for something tangible on which to proceed in the inquiry into the murder on September 14 of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, and the choir singer, Mrs Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, friends of Clifford Hayes went ahead with preparations for a mass meeting tonight to celebrate Hayes' release yesterday.

His release and the collapse of the case of mistaken identity made out by authorities followed the admission by Raymond Schneider that his accusation of Hayes was false. Schneider still was held in the Somerset county jail today, although no new charge had been lodged against him. He was locked up as a material witness some days ago after he had made a statement charging Hayes with killing Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall.

Authorities were admittedly "up in the air" again. They turned anew today to clues pointing to the families of the slain rector and Mrs. Mills and detectives were engaged in running numerous details discarded when officials accepted Schneider's accusation as a solution of the mystery.

The fawn colored coat and scarf which Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the rector, had dyed in Philadelphia a few days after Mr. Hall was murdered, were in the hands of a New Brunswick chemist today for analysis, the action being ordered by Prosecutor Joseph Stricker of Middlesex county.

Detectives thrown off the trail temporarily by Schneider's false accusation, turned again to their original theory that the double slaying was prompted by jealousy and that a woman was one of the participants in the crime.

TO DEMONSTRATE SPEED CREATIONS IN ARMY PLANES

MOUNT CLEMONS, MICH., Oct. 13.—The second day of the national air races at Selfridge field gave spectators their first opportunity to witness the flight of the new speed creations of the army and navy, 11 of which were entered in the Liberty engine builders' trophy race. Two light navy machines were pitted against nine heavy planes carrying the honor of the army.

This was the only race on today's program but thrills aplenty were in prospect in other events, which included a try for a new world's speed record.

Interspersed with the aid exhibitions were addresses on the development and possibilities of aviation by Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby and Major General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the army air service.

Friday, the 13th, the bane of the superstitious, apparently had no terror for the 165 pilots here. Dread of that date has passed for the service men, according to Major Carl Spatz, commanding officer at Selfridge field.

ARBITRATION TRIBUNAL AWARDS $12,000,000 TO NORWEGIAN GOVERNMENT

By Associated Press.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 13.—The arbitration tribunal, with the American arbitrator not sitting, has awarded approximately $12,000,000 to the Norwegian government on behalf of 15 Norwegian corporations and individuals known as the Christiana group for claims arising from requisition of ships by the emergency fleet corporation during the war.

Chandler P. Anderson, the American arbitrator, instead of attending, addressed a communication to the secretary general of the tribunal and the agents of both governments, declaring in his opinion the tribunal had violated the terms of submission and had exceeded its jurisdiction as stipulated by the special agreement between Norway and the United States signed June 30, 1921, under which the question was submitted to arbitration.

Immediately the award was rendered William C. Denis, agent of the American government, served formal notice to the tribunal that he reserved for his government all the rights "arising out of the plain and manifest departure of the award from the terms of submission and from the essential error" by which it is invalidated."

U. S. GRAND JURY RETURNS TWO SECRET INDICTMENTS IN THE CRONKHITE CASE

TACOMA, WASH., Oct. 13.—The federal grand jury which has been investigating the shooting of Major Alexander Cronkhite at Camp Lewis in 1918, today returned two secret indictments to Judge E. E. Cushman in open court.

STAPLES SEES LITTLE COMPROMISE CHANCE FOR MAYFIELD-PEDDY

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—That there is little opportunity for a compromise to put Earle B. Mayfield's and George Peddy's names on the official election ballot as United States senatorial candidates in view of Attorney General Keeling's rulina on Peddy, was indicated by Secretary of State Staples today.

Staples refused to make known what course he would follow if the matter of a compromise were presented to him, stating that he would merely follow the law and advice of the legal department. The attorney general's ruling held that Peddy's name could not legally be certified as republican senatorial nominee, but did not concern Mayfield's candidacy.

The mandamus action which attorneys for Mayfield announced Wednesday would be filed in the supreme court had not been filed this morning. Mr. Mayfield had not returned to the capital this morning and it could not be learned from his lawyers here when the motion will be filed.

Official notice of postponing the New Orleans hearing from October 16 to October 23 had not been received by state officials. The answer to the petition filed in the federal court at Mobile, Ala., was completed by the attorney general's department today.

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Appeal from the temporary order of District Judge Scarbrough at Corsicana restraining the secretary of state from certifying Earle B. Mayfield as democratic candidate for the United States senate will be heard by the fifth court of civil appeals here on October 17. The court acted late yesterday on motion of Secretary of State Staples and others, who also requested that the case be certified to the supreme court for quick and final action. The motion attacked Judge Scarbrough's order as not being warranted by statute.

Meanwhile federal court at New Orleans postponed Friday October 20 to October 23 hearing on a bill of equity filed recently in Mobile, Ala., which seeks to have Secretary of State Staples show cause why the name of George Peddy, independent democrat-republican candidate for the senate, should not be certified for the November ballot. Peddy's name was withheld from the ballot under a ruling by the attorney general that he had not been nominated at a regular primary.

CHAMBERLAIN SAYS WOULD BE CRIMINAL TO BREAK COALITION

BRITISH POLITICAL SITUATION IS DISCUSSED AT BIRMINGHAM.

HAS WORKED IN HARMONY WITH MR. LLOYD GEORGE

Says Present Coalition Must Not Be Broken In View of Labor Menace.

BIRMINGHAM, ENG., Oct. 13.—Austen Chamberlain, the government leader, addressing the Midland conservative club here today, declared it would be criminal to break up the present coalition in view of the labor menace.

"I don't pretent to say when an election will occur," said Mr. Chamberlain. "I expect it is the undoubted right of the prime minister to choose." At another point Mr. Chamberlain said:

"I have worked with Mr. Lloyd-George in perfect harmony. He had told us 'I know not when an election will come.'"

Mr. Chamberlain's speech had been eagerly awaited in the hope he would indicate what the prime minister's political stand would be in the event of a general election and how far the conservatives, of whom Mr. Chamberlain is the leader, would support Mr. Lloyd George. Mr. Chamberlain's declaration in favor of the continuance of the coalition was immediately commented upon by many hearers as meaning that the premier would fight for the coalition and that Mr. Chamberlain would give him support.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that within the last few weeks the threat of direct action had been raised again.

"I do not pretend to say in what circumstances and conditions the cooperation between ourselves and our present allies can best be obtained in a new parliament," he said.

"I do say, with all the earnestness of a great conviction, that union should be the first consideration—union in the face of common foe."

POLITICAL EYES ARE TURNED ON CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Discussion of the political crisis again fills the principal columns of the newspapers this morning. The outstanding feature of the situation is an indication of the hardening of feeling of the conservative opposition to Austen Chamberlain's continuance as leader of the unionist party unless he cuts loose from Prime Minister Lloyd George.

That he will do this is regarded in best informed quarters as altogether unlikely.

It is recalled that he has been in close agreement with Lloyd George on all great political questions since the beginning of their association and he has confessed to friends that he cannot and does not wish to escape his share of the responsibility for the course which has been followed.

Mr. Chamberlain is represented as being convinced that continuance of the coalition is not only desirable, but inevitable, as no party is likely to emerge from an election with an independent majority. Moreover, it is stated that he would in any case refuse to lead the party against his colleagues in the cabinet with whom he has no political disagreement and for whom he cherishes close personal friendship. This being so, conservatives say he must quit his leadership for they have done with Lloyd George and all his policies.

The Morning Post, mouthpiece of the more extreme Tories, cites this view badly in an editorial today. Mr. Chamberlain, it says, is putting loyalty to the premier before loyalty to his party and he cannot continue his adherence to Lloyd George without resigning his leadership.

The newspaper admits that the resignation of Mr. Chamberlain would seriously injure the conservatives, but says the party finds it more and more difficult to coincide in his political integrity.

Transference of the leadership to Lord Derby or Andrew Bonar Law is much discussed. Lord Derby is said to be determined to discontinue his support of the coalition, but declines either to confirm or deny the report. Mr. Bonar Law is also credited with intention to oppose another coalition government.

The key to the whole situation, according to many observers, is Mr. Chamberlain's attitude, and his speech at Birmingham today is awaited with intense interest.

There was considerable speculation in political circles today when King George gave an audience to the prime minister as to whether the latter would raise the question of calling a general election. It was stated in Downing street, that Mr. Lloyd-George was reporting on the near eastern situation and would not touch upon domestic politics.

CHARGES RULE WAS INVOKED TO PLEASE 'SHORT' INTERESTS

WITNESS MAKES STATEMENT AT HEARING ON GRAIN TRADING.

ELEVATORS FILLED AND NO STORAGE ROOM LEFT

Commission Hopeful That J. Ogden Armour Will Reply to Questions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—J. Ogden Armour again today refused to give the federal trade commission, which is investigating trading in wheat futures, the figures showing the extent of his grain trading in 1920, 1921 and the early months of 1922. Mr. Armour, on the stand Wednesday, had refused to give details of his grain transactions and was excused until today.

Victor Murdock and other members of the commission tried in vain to shake the decision of the witness. Finally, Mr. Murdock, vice-chairman of the commission, excused Mr. Armour and said the commission would decide later what it might do in the situation.

In hearings in the east as well as thus far in the inquiry conducted here, Mr. Murdock said, the commission had been able to obtain from every witness except Mr. Armour, such information as it sought.

Commissioner John F. Nugent, as well as Vice-Chairman Murdock, took a hand at questioning Mr. Armour.

"Are you alone the only man unwilling to give the commission these figures?" Mr. Nugent asked.

"I must decline to answer," Mr. Armour said.

"Of all the witnesses you are the only man who has refused to answer," Nugent continued. "Shall we report that to the senate?"

"I don't believe I have anything to do with that," the witness replied.

L. L. Winters, who followed Mr. Armour, was questioned concerning fluctuations in wheat prices between January and June of this year. He said "a rising market early in the year was largely due to the speculative demand." The "May squeeze," he said, was not due to any concerted effort on the part of the large interests to squeeze out the bears but because of warehouse crowding which would prevent the shorts from making delivery. The bull movement in May futures, he said, was a legitimate speculation.

CHARGES RULE FAVORED BIG ELEVATOR INTERESTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The federal trade commission in its investigation of the spectacular break in the wheat market last May, looked to J. Ogden Armour today for his answer to questions concerning his transactions in grain since the wartime ban on trading in wheat futures was lifted in July, 1920.

When Mr. Armour, characterizing himself as only a "casual trader" in grain, declined Wednesday to furnish details of his board of trade operations, he told the federal inquiry board he would decide today whether he would disclose the information.

Witnesses yesterday, among them Arthur W. Cutten, one of Chicago's heaviest traders on the grain market, testified that large elevator interests, including the grain company of Armour Grain company and the Rosenbaum company, were "short" of the market last May, were principal beneficiaries of the wheat break from $1.46 to $1.16 and were responsible for the emergency car delivery rule which compelled traders on the "long" end to sell at a loss.

George E. Marcy, president of the Armour Grain company, who was expected to appear before the commission again today, had testified that the rule permitting the delivery of grain in cars on track instead of in elevators, was invoked because all elevators were filled to overflowing and there was no storage room left.

Mr. Cutten said one thing that convinced him the rule was invoked to please elevator interests that were short, was the fact that there were 7,800 cars of wheat on the tracks in Chicago at the time while there were only about 800 cars of other grains. Between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 bushels of wheat were on the tracks while other grains were being stored, he said.

STEEL NOT BARRIER TO RADIO WAVES IS PROVEN WITH TEST

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Steel is not a barrier to radio waves and the testing of receiving radio telephone communications within a moving all-steel railroad car on the Pennsylvania railroad's Broadway limited train was declared a success in a message received at the northwestern regional headquarters of the railroad today from an official of its signal department in advance of the arrival of the train.

Broadcasting from New York and Philadelphia were received clearly, the message stated, and so successful was the test considered that further tests would be carried out in a week or 10 days.

One of the principal points of interest to the signal department, as reported by E. S. Stewart, who sent the message, was that the reception of wireless communications was not interfered with by the high tension overhead wires.

The test was held to establish the success or failure of wireless receiving without external antennae, in a moving all-steel railroad car. The radio outfit was established in a closed compartment of the car with an inside loop in lieu of external aerials. The experiments were made after the train left North Philadelphia late yesterday.

NUMBER "13" FIGURES PROMINENTLY IN DEATH OF MAN IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The number "13" figured prominently in the death this Friday morning, of Clifford Lennon in an automobile accident. Lennon was riding in 130th street, Brooklyn, at about 12:13 o'clock in a roadster belonging to fire engine company 13 when the car was sideswiped by another and crashed into the curb. He was thrown from the car, landing on his head and was killed almost instantly.

TRANSPORT THOMAS BRINGS 74 PASSENGERS AND 187 OF CREW ABOARD "CITY OF HONOLULU"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The task of transferring the passengers and crew of City of Honolulu from the rescue ship West Faralon to the United States army transport Thomas was completed at 7:45 a. m., according to a radio received at army transport headquarters from the Thomas at 11:25 a. m. today.

"All passengers and crew aboard at 7:45 and we are under way for San Francisco," Captain Hall of the Thomas said in his message.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The passengers of the City of Honolulu which burned at sea were transferred to the United States army transport Thomas from the rescue ship West Faralon at dawn today, according to an official message received by the Federal Telegraph company. The Thomas is due in San Francisco tomorrow, but it is expected she will be least a day late.

The message continued that the City of Honolulu was burned beyond repair and that it would be two days at least before any ship would be able to approach her on account of the intense heat. The message indicated that the transfer of the passengers had been effected without any particular incident. It gave the list from the City of Honolulu as 39 women, 35 men and 187 members of the crew.

After having worked continuously for 24 hours, or from the time that the Honolulu SOS was received until some time after the doomed vessel's passengers and crew were safe, Edward F. Orth, wireless operator on the West Faralon "turned in" today for a few hours rest, cutting off the vessel from wireless communication as she has no relief operator. Orth's last message was that he was going to seek rest for a short time, according to Struthers and Barry, agents for the shippers.

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The radio, man's bridle on space and that hardly less potent thing, the fellowship of those who go down to the sea in ships, stand responsible today for the safety of 217 persons—the passengers of the steamer City of Honolulu, which burned yesterday.

The readiness with which mariners of half a dozen craft, from pleasure yacht to dreadnought of the Pacific fleet, offered themselves for the rescue of their distressed fellow travelers afloat was but an echo of a story first told so long ago that men have forgotten the time of the telling, but the tale of the radio's part belongs to a more modern generation.

They mingled this old thing and this new one, to save life.

Early yesterday while she was 670 miles off San Pedro, California, fire broke out in the second class cabins of the steamer, one time pride of the North German Lloyd line and more recently leader of the Los Angeles Steamship company's new Honolulu service. Unaccountably the flames gained so much headway on the fighting crew that, two hours later, it was necessary to abandon ship. But before that time came the radio had cried far and wide the call that means disaster, distress and human extremity on the high seas, "SOS."

Two ships, the Enterprise of the Matson line, and the Thomas, an army transport, eastbound from Hawaii, caught the signal and turned toward the position the operator had given. A millionaire's yacht, the Casiana, pleasure cruising to Honolulu with a party, including Crompton Anderson, brother-in-law of her owner, E. L. Doheny, who is in New York, caught the appeal and turned that way. Los Angeles caught the signals and naval vessels stood by to race with death to the scene of the fire. San Francisco caught the signals, awaited until the radio operator on a distant ship had turned that vessel, too, toward the scene.

Affected the Rescue.

It was this ship, the West Faralon, M. M. Walk, master, that swept down the sea lanes to the City of Honolulu and affected the rescue.

But she did not get there until more than four hours after the flames had forced the captain, his first officer, the chief engineer and the radio operator who had stayed behind to serve to the uttermost the passengers confided to their care, to leave the blazing hulk. The officers stayed to advise, suggest and confer; the radio operator stayed to keep the West Faralon advised, lest she miss the boat loads of passengers floating nearby and the rescue be delayed.

The fire broke out between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning; the passengers were put overside at 8, the captain left the steamer a little after 10, the West Faralon arrived about 2:30 in the afternoon. By a quarter to four the last boat load of castaways had been hauled aboard the West Faralon and that ship, her every corner crowded, lay to a mile from the fire swept vessel and all hands watched her burn. All hands, that is, but the radio operator—he was busy sending messages that told the world the steamer's company was safe and other messages that kept the Thomas steaming southward to provide for the rescued some smoother comfort than the planking of the West Faralon's decks.

Transfer Passengers.

The Thomas' officers planned to transfer the City of Honolulu's passengers early today rather than risk accident in the darkness of the early morning. The Thomas will bring them to San Francisco. They had been bound for Los Angeles.

There, just before the Thomas reached the West Faralon, the story was broken this morning for shore stations ceased communicating with the vessels so that the West Faralon's radio might be used to guide the transport to her. The cessation left much untold—the cause of the fire, the reason it spread with such fierce rapidity, the details of the fight against it and those more gripping details that made up the story of the flight in the life boats and the rescue.

The City of Honolulu is the third former German liner to figure in a mishap while sailing from a Pacific port. The first was the Mount Vernon and the second was the Empress of Australia, formerly the Von Tirpitz.

The mount Vernon, formerly the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, suffered a whole chapter of accidents soon after she came to this coast several years ago. Mysterious breakdowns were frequent while she was engaged in ferrying homeward from Vladivostok with Czecho-Slovakia soldiers of the Siberian expeditionary forces and the Russian orphans marooned there by the soviets' eastern advance.

The Empress of Australia had to put back to port a few days ago when it was found her main shaft was out of line.

AIR IS CROWDED WITH RADIO CALLS FROM SHIPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The United States army transport Thomas, which has the crew and passengers of the burned City of Honolulu aboard, at 1 a. m. today, according to radio messages picked up by the Federal Wireless company. She stood by to transfer them from the West Faralon after daylight.

The air was crowded early today with radio calls from ships within reach of the West Faralon. Shore station radio operators said it seemed as though every ship within calling distance was trying to communicate with the rescue ship. This further complicated the effort to get details of the fire and rescue. It was not until after 6 o'clock, more than four hours after the Thomas reached the West Faralon, that press messages could be cleared from the ship to a shore station telling of the transport's arrival.

The City of Honolulu continued to burn throughout the night, according to a radio message from the West Faralon to the Federal Wireless company here.

FIRE IS ATTRIBUTED TO BAD ELECTRIC WIRING

ON BOARD U. S. ARMY TRANSport Thomas, Oct. 13.—(By wireless to the Associated Press.)—Captain Harry R. Lester of the liner City of Honolulu, and a mate were overcome by smoke and flames in investigating the fire which destroyed their vessel, but quickly recovered, it was revealed on board the Thomas today. Officers of the City of Honolulu attributed the cause of the fire to defective electric wiring in the second cabin.

There were no injuries sufferes by any of the fire victims. Every one was in good spirits. Water was pumped into the burning compartment of the Honolulu as long as possible, but the fire gained rapid headway into the super-structure.

The water in the compartment caused a dangerous list to port and the boats were lowered only with great difficulty. Later the Honolulu slowly righted, making the work of abandonment easier.

READY TO TOW HULK OF THE CITY OF HONOLULU

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The freighter West Faralon which rescued the passengers and crew of the steamer City of Honolulu notified the shipping board today that after transferring the passengers to the transport Thomas, she would tow the hulk of the burned vessel toward Los Angeles until met by tugs. The West Faralon gave her position as approximately 550 miles off Los Angeles.

OPPOSE PROPOSED NEW CONSTITUTION RESULT OMISSION

DRAFT ILLINOIS DOCUMENT WITHOUT "IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD."

COMMUNICATION SIGNED BY PROMINENT CITIZENS

Declare They Cannot Conscientiously Vote to Ratify the Instrument.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Oct. 13.—Total omission of the words "in the year of our Lord" from the draft of the proposed new state constitution which is to be voted on by the people December 12, is described as an error vitiating the worth of the entire document in a communication signed today by several state and local officials of Masonic organizations, prominent local clergymen and the district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

"We note with consternation," the communication says, "the omission of the customary words 'in the year of our Lord' in connection with all dates in the draft of this proposed constitution is contrary not only to the world-wide Christian custom for centuries, but also to all American custom from the foundation of our nation.

"With Mohammedism and bolshevism backed by the heathen hordes of hundreds of missions in Asia and Africa at the very gateway of Christendom, outraging Christian women and children, and dragging Christian girls into slavery worse than death, mercilessly massacring Christian men, women and children, we cannot as true Americans consent to strike our colors to enemies of Christianity in the state of Illinois. • • •

"We therefore could not conscientiously vote for the ratification of the constitution without the retention therein of the words 'in the year of our Lord' or the letters 'A. D.' the abbreviation therefor in connection with the dates thereof, in accordance with the requirements of all legal documents from the formation of our nation.

"We believe that millions of our fellow citizens feel as we feel, that to do so now would be virtually to deny our Lord at this crucial time in human history."

CALOMEL SALIVATES EVEN WHEN CAREFUL

Treacherous Drug can not be Trusted and Next Dose may Start Trouble

Calomel is dangerous. It may salivate you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue, and excessive saliva dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel it is mercury; quicksilver.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you will take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Adv

CLEMENCEAU MAKES FINAL PREPARATIONS FOR AMERICAN TRIP

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Former Premier Georges Clemenceau returned from the country today and began final preparations for his second American trip with as much enthusiasm as for his first trip more than fifty years ago.

He will sail on November 11, delivering his first lecture at the Metropolitan opera house, New York, on November 23, after which he will talk in Boston, Chicago,, Kansas City, New Orleans, Washington and possibly Philadelphia.

The "tiger" was in the best of spirits on his arrival. He proceeded to talk in a joking way of the different interpretations that have been placed upon his undertaking, but he refused absolutely to be interviewed as to what his course in America would be. He remarked, however, with a twinkle in his eye, that his trip did not appear to please every one "over here," but that it mattered little, since what he had to say was intended only for the people "over there." Furthermore, in spite of his aversion to interviews he made it clear that his voyage was not connected with the program of any political party, that it was arranged entirely outside any political consideration or affiliation. He was going to the United States, he indicated, to ask for nothing, to suggest nothing and with the sole purpose of stating the French case.

READY TO WELCOME WOUNDED SOLDIERS TO LEGION MEETING

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—Final preparations were being made here today by American legion officials to welcome the wounded soldiers of England, France, Italy, Serbia, Czecho-Slovakia, Belgium and Rumania who arrive here tonight as delegates to the convention of the inter-allied veterans' federation to be held Saturday and Sunday and as guests of the legion during the convention next week.

Prominent among the suggestions to be laid before the inter-allied veterans for action is a proposal to call upon the governments of nations allied against the central powers during the world war to care for the disabled veterans of former wars now living in this country. Thus Italy would agree to care for disabled American veterans now living here, who received their injuries fighting in the Italian army during the world war.

IRWIN CONVICTION UPHELD BY SYNOD OF PRESBYTERIANS

TULSA, OKLA., Oct. 13.—The conviction of the Rev. Thomas J. Irwin of Lawton on charges of conduct unbecoming a minister and his indefinite suspension from the ministry, was upheld early today by the judicial commission of the Presbyterian synod of Oklahoma after a review of the findings of the El Reno Presbytery, before which Mr. Irwin was recently tried.

Counsel for the suspended minister gave notice that the case would be appealed to the general assembly of the Presbyterian church which meets next May in Indianapolis.

The Rev. Irwin was convicted by the El Reno Presbytery on three counts. He was found guilty of having brought disrepute upon the church by marrying a couple in a bathing pool at a summer resort near Lawton. The bride and groom and the minister were bathing suits. The other charges were that he swore to a false affidavit to obtain an injunction in district court to prevent members of his congregation in Lawton from interfering with his conduct of affairs of the church, and that he had disciplined members of the congregation without due process.

BEN LUNA ARRIVES AT LEAVENWORTH TO BEGIN HIS SENTENCE

PRESENTED HIMSELF TO FEDERAL PRISON WARDEN THURSDAY.

NECESSARY TO AWAIT COMMITMENT PAPERS

"I Am Here For My 25 Year Contract With Government," Stated Luna.

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Ben Luna, sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment in Leavenworth, Kan., for participation in a sensational mail robbery here January 14, 1921, is at a Leavenworth hotel today awaiting commitment papers. He presented himself to the federal prison warden yesterday with the statement that "I am here for my 25 year contract with the government." He was told that he could not be admitted until commitment papers arrived. He went to a hotel pending arrival of the document.

The supreme court of the United States refused Monday to review the conviction of Luna and Albert L. Rowan, the latter also having been given 25 years on conviction of participation in the robbery in which seven men took part. Luna, who was at liberty under $35,000 bond, appeared at the United States marshal's office here Tuesday and asked if a mandate for his imprisonment had arrived. Upon being informed that the final order probably would not be received for several days, Luna remarked, "Let me know when you want me," and nothing further was heard from him until last night when news came of his arrival at Leavenworth.

Rowan, also sentenced to 50 years imprisonment in state court for the fatal wounding of a postal clerk during the robbery, is in jail here. Pat Murphy was killed when the bandit automobile was wrecked while escaping from Dallas. Two members of the robber band have not been arrested. George Wheeler and W. S. Scrivner have been found guilty of participation in the holdup. Both are in jail here, Wheeler under death sentence in state court for murder of the postoffice clerk. Sentence has not been passed upon Scrivner, who turned state's witness. The bandits obtained about $7,000 in cash and more than $2,000,000 in cancelled liberty bonds.

GOVERNMENT OF GREAT BRITAIN TO PROTEST DRY RULE

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Unless an injunction is granted the Cunard line the British government will protest formally through the foreign office against the ruling prohibiting liquors on foreign ships in American waters, it was stated in official quarters today. Officials here, however, express the opinion that an injunction will be granted in the American courts.

It is understood that the government takes the attitude of remaining in the background and allowing the private lines to take the lead but that it will intervene in the event of the failure of those efforts.

FIFTH ARTICLE—CZECHOSLOVAKIA

BY JAMES M. COX, EX-GOVERNOR OF OHIO

In many respects, Czecho Slovakia seems to be the most prosperous country in Europe. There was more building going on in Prague than in any other city twice its size. Capital is seeking employment. Some two or three large modern hotels are in process of projection; the industrial situation is good; the crops seem to be above the average; the people are contented with the new order, and a long perior of tranquility is in prospect.

The Bohemian language is being taught and the Slovaks, Moravians and Germans are impressed with the progressive tendencies of the government. Masaryk, the venerable president, is beloved by his countrymen and his very able aide, Minister Benes, is regarded as a real asset to the country. Masaryk is over 70 years old. He is an enthusiastic horseman and his interest in the development of the new country is so well sustained that he keeps abreast of the younger group of statesmen.

The feeling is general that when Masaryk retires, Benes will succeed him as president.

Benes is only 38 years old. His life reads like a romance. The son of a peasant family, his imagination was deeply stirred by the intellectual group which resolved almost a century ago that even in the face of imposed obstacles, the Bohemian traditions would be kept alive. As he put it, the entire system, governmental, industrial, educational and religious, was slowly undergoing a development based upon the objective of creating a German state.

The army officers, the bankers, the entire official force, and the church, for the most part operated together. The intellectual groups preached the gospel of a sustained spiritual resource. The peasants particularly were told that they must not give up hope.

Benes' Rise Due to His Own Efforts

Benes' career was resolved upon when he was in his teens. At the age of 18 he went to Paris, working in a factory, attending night school, contributing articles to those newspapers which remained true to the old Bohemian ideal sm, and when he was 21 received his degree at the university. He spent a year in London studying the English system of government and the same length of time in Berlin and St. Petersburg. Returning to his native country, he associated himself with Masaryk in the university of Prague. He has remained a faithful and useful subordinate ever since.

We lunched together on his desk in the old castle. He is a man not over five feet eight in height, weighs about 150 pounds, keeps himself fit physically with tennis and horseback riding, and in his work combines the qualities of imagination and efficient administration. He has the most comprehensive grasp of the affairs of his country, and realizes not only the opportunities that lie ahead for Czecho Slovakia, but the obstacles as well. He summed up the situation in these words, "We are getting along pretty well, but we have a lot to do."

Recognizing that the solution to the land problems was of vast importance, the government courageously took hold of it. One-third of the land was owned by landlords who parceled out their acreage in small tracts to tenants. When one looks across the narrow strip that is allotted to a single family, because men, women and children work the fields together, he realizes how intensive the effort must be to scrape a bare living out of the soil. The landlord, of course, has profited by the close cultivation of every acre. The land kings have lived in their stone castles, the lords of all they surveyed, and controlled by the idea that if the peasants were given an opportunity to live, the system was equitable all 'round.

Land Monopolies Broken

Under the existing arrangement no one man can own more than 250 hectares or 625 acres. The administration of this law is proceeding slowly and constructively. In splitting up the landed estates the government decrees the price. There is nothing arbitrary about it because the right to appeal is allowed. In some dispositions recently made of land of average fertility, prices ranged as low as $30 an acre. In some instances tracts have been divided with prices running as high as $150 an acre.

One million, six hundred thousand acres were owned by the Hapsburgs, and came to the government. These will be turned over to the tillers of the soil. The payments run over a period of 15 years. All oil rights are retained by the government. The Standard Oil company has recently made contracts with the government covering extensive fields. The result of the new land policy will mean a more widely diffused prosperity in the agricultural sections.

Some very interesting things are found in the new constitution of the country. In fact, here is the very expression of advanced ideals. A new nation dominated by progressive principles has translated its spirit into a charter of government. For that reason great interest centers in the new endeavor.

Every one of the required age is obliged to vote. Exception is made in favor of persons seventy years of age or over, and those who are ill. Whoever, without reasonable grounds, falls to take part in an election is liable to a fine of from 20 to 5000 crowns, or to a term of imprisonment from 24 hours to one month. The various political parties present the lists of candidates. Fourteen days before election there is published in the official journals of the local constituency the lists that are found valid and such information as will be of interest to the electorate.

GOVERNOR COX SAYS:

"In most respects, Czechoslovakia seems to be the most prosperous country in Europe. * * * The people seem contented with the new order, and a long period of tranquility is in prospect.

Under existing arrangement no man can own more than 250 hectares, or 625 acres. In splitting up the landed estates, the government decrees the price. There is nothing arbitrary about it as the right to appeal is allowed.

Everyone of the required age is obliged to vote. Whoever, without reasonable ground, fails to take part in an election is liable to a fine of from 20 to 500 crowns, or to a term of imprisonment.

Local autonomous government is created in counties and districts, thus giving to racial minorities and the communities themselves, control over provincial matters.

The ballots are placed in the hands of the voters at least three days before the election. The cost of printing the ballots is assumed by the government and the political parties. Elections take place on Sundays. Members of the chamber of deputies must be at least 30 years of age, and no voter can participate in the election of these members who is not 21. The members of the senate shall be 45, and the voters participating in the election of this branch must be 26. Men and women are equally eligible to vote and hold office.

Constitutional questions are decided by the constitutional court, appointments to which are made by the president of the republic, the chamber of deputies, the senate, the diet of Roussinia. Four members each are taken from the ranks of the supreme court of justice and the supreme administrative court. The members of the constitutional court serve for a term of ten years.

The question whether a particular law is in conflict with the constitution cannot be considered by the constitutional court except on the motion of the supreme court of justice or the supreme administrative court, the electoral court, the chamber of deputies, the senate or the diet of Roussinia. Resolution to carry such a motion must be based upon a majority of the above mentioned bodies in each case, within three years at least of the date on which the law was promulgated.

Parliament Name President.

The president of the republic convokes, prorogues, terminates and dissolves parliament, but he is compelled to assemble the parliament at least twice a year to regular session. Sessions must be held also on the request of a qualified majority of either branch. The president is now allowed to exercise the right to dissolve parliament during the last six months of his term of office.

The president is chosen by the two chambers of parliament for a term of seven years, and must be at least 25 years of age. His election is valid only if half of all the members of both chambers are present, and if a majority of three-fifths of these present shall be obtained. If two ballots produce no result, a third shall be cast to decide between the two leading candidates. If there is then a tie, the decision is made by lot. No one shall be elected president more than twice in succession, but after a period of seven years he may be reelected. The constitution specifies that these provisions shall not apply to the first president of the republic.

Local autonomous government is created in counties and districts, thus giving to racial minorities and the communities themselves, control over provincial matters. The opening paragraph of the constitutional charter says: "The people are the sole source of all state power in the Czechoslovak republic. This constitutional charter determines through what organs the sovereign people shall express their will in laws, provides for the execution of these laws and guarantees to the people their rights and liberties. Such limitations are imposed upon these organs of government as shall preserve to the people all the rights guaranteed by this charter. The Czechoslovakian state shall be a democratic republic."

There are 300 members of the chamber of deputies; the senate consists of 150 members. Both are elected for a six-year term. Only with consent of the two branches of the parliament shall members become liable to civil or criminal prosecution.

The ministers of the government have the right to participate at any time in the meetings of either chamber or of the committee. Permission must be granted to speak whenever they demand to be heard. Either chamber or a committee can summon a minister before it; otherwise he may be represented by an officer of his department. Any law which involves the expenditure of money must be accompanied by an estimate of the amount involved and a plan for the defraying of the cost.

Speed Provided for New Laws.

The senate shall act on a bill passed by the chamber of deputies within six weeks, and on the budget and army bills within one month. The chamber of deputies shall act on any bill passed by the senate within three months. A measure passed by the chamber of deputies shall become law despite an adverse decision of the senate if the chamber declares by a majority of 50 per cent of all its members that it adheres to its first decision. Should the senate reject a draft bill passed by the chamber of deputies by a majority of all its members, the bill becomes a law provided that the chamber reenacts its decision by a three-fifths majority of all its members. Proposals of the senate shall be referred to the chamber of deputies.

Should the chamber reject a proposal of the senate and if the latter reenacts its bill by a 50 per cent majority of all its members, the bill shall be referred back to the chamber of deputies. If the chamber then rejects the bill for the second time by a majority of 50 per cent of all its members the bill so rejected may not be presented to either chamber until after the lapse of one year. If parliament refuses to pass a bill presented by the government, the latter can proclaim a referendum, but only in the event that the government action is unanimous.

The president shall represent the state in its relation with other states and shall negotiate and ratify international treaties. Commercial treaties and treaties which, for the state or its citizens entail financial or personal burdens, especially military burdens as well as treaties affecting the territories of the state, require the affirmation of parliament.

The president nominates university professors, judges, all state officials and army officers from the sixth class upward. Every motion for a lack of confidence in the government shall be signed by not less than 100 deputies and shall be referred to a committee which must report thereon in ten days. The government itself may bring before the chamber of deputies a proposal for a vote of confidence but this proposal shall not be referred to a committee.

FASHIONS

By LENORE

An interesting example of a smart cloth frock for the fall is shown in the model, sketched at the Worth opening in Paris. It was made of dark blue twill cloth, beautifully embroidered in the rich blues and reds of oriental patterns—the high collar, long tight sleeve and straight narrow silhouette giving the costume that trimness and chic which American women so much like in tailored clothes.

Note that the waistline is somewhat long, the apron tunic is entirely flat, and the back of the skirt is also free of any gathering, an effect which of course only a slender or well-corseted figure can wear.

Eyebrows Betray Character, Says Beauty Parlor Eyebrow Specialist; Says Plucking Destroys Their Beauty

By MARIAN HALE

Paris recently held a contest to find the woman with the most perfect pair of eyebrows.

Mademoiselle Myrtle May won the first prize because of the extraordinary length and slenderness of her brows, while the alluring quality of her dark, oriental ones won second place for Mademoiselle Estelle Gresse.

Thousands of girls were in the contest and thousands were eliminated because they had followed the present fad of plucking or shaving the eyebrows to attain the slender penciled effect.

The artists who judged the beauties said this practice destroyed the natural beauty of the eye, and took away the character from the face.

Mrs. Martha Schaffner, head of the beauty parlor of the Pennsylvania hotel, New York, who studies women from all parts of the country, says that plucking the eyebrows has ceased to be a fad, but has become an established practice.

FEW WOMEN KNEW THE NAMES OF THEIR MEMBER OF CONGRESS

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Jeanette Rankin of Montana, America's first congresswoman, found at one of the "propaganda teas" held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick under the auspices of the women's league of Illinois voters, that only 18 per cent of the large number of women present knew the names of their representatives in congress. She advised the women to first learn who their congressmen were and then get their viewpoints on important questions.

"Make your votes count and know for whom and for what you are balloting," Miss Rankin said.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

TWINS RESCUED! GREEN WIZARD'S MAGIC MAKES 'EM VISIBLE

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

They climbed on Comet-Legs' star and soared away.

Light Fingers and Comet-Legs were after Nancy and Nick; and Nancy and Nick, you must know, were likely to be caught. They were in the Fairy Queen's automobile and were stuck in a muddy ditch beside the road.

But the Green Wizard saw the danger and just as the two bad fairies reached the car he threw an enchanted sheet over the Twins, automobile and all, and they became invisible at once.

"For goodness sake," called Light Fingers, "I must be going blind. Tell me, Comet-Legs, did I or did I not see the magic automobile with the Twins in it?"

"You did!" declared Comet-Legs, "for I saw it myself. But I don't see it now. Something must have happened. Now, what do you suppose it was?"

The two bad fairies wondered and wondered, but that's all the good it did them.

By and by they wandered off, then they climbed on Comet-Legs' star again and sailed away to tell Twelve Toes the bad news.

When they had gone the Green Wizard took off the enchanted sheet and there were Nancy and Nick in plain view again.

"Oh, thank you," said Nancy. "Now we can take the automobile back to the Fairy Queen."

"Not yet," answered the Green Wizard. "You are stuck in magic mud and I don't know any charm that will get you out. I'll have to go to the Chimney Sweep and get some ashes and soot to sprinkle 'round. You stay here until I come back."

So off he strode over the tree-tops to the place the Sweep lived.

Knock, knock, knock, went the Green Wizard on a big chimney, and the Sweep stuck out his head.

"Howdy," said he, "what can I do for you?"

BURKBURNETT, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—The Salvation Army budget drive starts Monday, Oct. 16. The local advisory committee met at the Shrine hall Wednesday night and perfected plans for the drive which is to raise $4,000. D. G. Hazen, representing Hon. W. F. Ramsey of Dallas, who is directing the entire activities of the state, and "Pa" Burdick made speeches outlining the plan of campaign and the general mission and purposes of the Salvation Army, and it was emphasized that the budget of $4,000 requested of Burkburnett would be spent entirely in promoting the activities of the army at Burkburnett.

The manifold enterprises and work of the army was outlined by the speakers and many persons were surprised to learn of the many educational and charitable institutions that the Salvation Army is maintaining and supporting. It was brought out that the Salvation Army is maintaining and supporting. It was brought out that the home for delinquent girls at San Antonio, Texas, cared for more than 100 girls last year, and that 45 babies born in the home would be cared for and reared under Christian influence and equipped for life. They are also maintaining an industrial home at El Paso, Texas, where youths in their charge are taught manual training.

Most every one is acquainted with the work of the army on the streets and in the slums, but these additional activities are not so generally known to the public. Everyone knows, especially the discharged soldier who served during the war in France, that the army was the most potent factor in administering to the sick and wounded during that trying period.

The executive committee expects to raise the quota of Burkburnett without difficulty, as it is not large, in fact, is very modest, compared with the good that the army is doing in this community, and they expect everyone to contribute something.

Frank Kell of Wichita Falls is chairman of this district which is composed of nine counties, and will make a speech in this city during the campaign, the date to be announced later, but it will probably be next Tuesday night. The local committee is composed of the following: Glen Kincaid, chairman; J. D. Majors, secretary; E. B. Grennell, treasurer, and C. O. Walling, R. D. Laney, H. Lamb, R. S. Ragsdale and W. S. Miller.

It was announced that the drive for contributions would start Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Gas Supply Assured

A plentiful supply of gas for Burkburnett is assured this winter, according to the statement of Clifford Moores, president of the Burkburnett Gas company. He states that he has made arrangements for an adequate supply and that some new lines will be constructed, others enlarged and a better circulation provided which will give good service to consumers connected.

Half Mile Unfinished

Only one half mile of the five-mile strip of paving being done on the Burkburnett-Clara highway remains unfinished. This portion unfinished is located about the middle of the highway and is held up account of shortage of rock shipments which are late in arriving. It is expected that a portion of the highway will in a few days be opened up to traffic as the roads detouring the highway are in bad condition.

Will Serve Banquet

The Burkburnett Rebekahs will serve a banquet Friday night in the Odd Fellows hall where initiatory services will be held by the Odd Fellows. Several candidates are scheduled to take the degree and a large crowd of Odd Fellows will likely be present.

Improving Buildings

W. E. Clark of Wichita Falls, owner of the building occupied by the Unique cafe and the empty room to the south of the cafe, is having both buildings repaired so as to conform nearer to the requirements of the insurance companies for fire protection. He is having a rick tile wall placed in on the south side, and the roof is to be raised to some extent.

The banks were the only places that observed the discovery of America by Columbus, on Oct. 12, by closing for the day Thursday. The postoffice was open as usual.

Work on the large new brick school building being erected in the west part of Burkburnett, near the McMan refinery, is progressing fine these days.

The Burkburnett Star has been equipped with a very neat office room since starting its auto contest.

Rev. John D. White, with his family, of Aantlers, Okla., will come here as pastor of the Central Christian church, and will preach next Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours in the building located on Avenue D and Second street.

Mayor W. D. Adams and wife are attending the State fair in Dallas this week, and it is understood that Mrs. Adams will undergo an operation to have her tonsils removed.

W. A. Roberts and wife took their child to Wichita Falls Thursday to have its tonsils removed.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OBSERVED AT VERNON

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—Fire prevention week was observed in the Vernon schools yesterday. Prof. E. L. Dohoney had Mayor Harry Mason and a number of other speakers to make short addresses in each of the rooms of the high school, and the teachers spoke on fire prevention to the children of the lower grades.

A fire drill was had at east of the school building at a given signal. The results of the drills showed that the buildings could be emptied in from 40 seconds to one minute. This is a very good showing for the first practice of the year. Prof. E. L. Dohoney had fire drills a number of times during last year for the entire school.

Kentucky Lady Tells How She Became Strong and Healthy.—Recommends Cardui to Weak Women

Mount Vernon, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Vanhook, formerly of Stanford, but now residing here, says that after her third child was born, she undertook to resume her housework too soon, "and this caused me a great deal of trouble."

"I began to feel weak and all played out—not myself at all," as Mrs. Vanhook describes her condition. "For about six weeks I was just a nervous wreck. I had to have some one do all my housework.

"My doctor told me my imprudence had caused shock to the nervous system, and the thing to do was to use a tonic to build up my strength.

"He recommended Cardui. Very soon I saw an improvement in my condition. I used three bottles of Cardui and my health was restored.

"I am a strong, healthy woman."

This Kentucky lady adds that she "never fails to recommend Cardui to weak and run-down lady friends."

Thousands of women praise Cardui to their friends.

CITY COUNCILMEN OF BURKBURNETT ANSWER IN CASE

CONTEND THAT COURT DID NOT HAVE JURISDICTION TO GRANT WRIT.

HEARING IN PROGRESS ON CONTEMPT MOTION

Day Is Spent In Argument of Counsel With Reference to Law Questions.

All members of the city council of Burkburnett, the mayor and city attorney and city secretary journeyed to the 78th district court room Friday morning to make answer to the contempt of court proceedings filed against them by J. R. Rose, the deposed city marshal and ex-officio chief of police of that city.

The contention made by counsel for the defendants is that the 78th district court did not have jurisdiction in the matter upon which a mandatory writ of injunction was issued. It is for alleged disobedience to this mandatory writ that the men were cited for contempt.

The entire day up until late Friday afternoon was spent in the argument of counsel on law questions pertinent to the case before the court.

The mandatory writ of injunction issued from the 78th district court by Judge Napier ordered the city council to pay the plaintiff, J. R. Rose, $600 which it was alleged was due him at the time the writ was issued and further instructed the council to pay him regularly his salary of $150 monthly during the term of his office.

The writ also restrained the council from interferring the plaintiff with the discharge of the duties of the office to which he was elected.

The records disclosed that the following day after service was secured on the various defendants with reference to the mandatory writ of injunction the council held a session and preferred incompetency charges against Mr. Rose and later passed a resolution dismissing him from service.

The defendants who were cited in the contempt proceedings include: Mayor W. B. Adams, J. W. McGuire, J. N. Alexander, W. W. Gilbert, A. M. Abbott, W. A. Roberts, J. J. Engleman, R. S. Ragsdale.

FATS WIN FROM SLIMS IN INDOOR BASEBALL GAME

The Fats annexed the world's series Thursday afternoon at the high school grounds, when they marked up some 12 scores to the Slims' six. Both teams are of the Girls' club. Excellent twirling and base running was evident on both sides, and the game was well worth the 10 cents charged as admission.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds of the game is to go to the football blanket fund for which about $12.50 was given.

Missing Chicago Girl in Overalls Doing the Chores

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Margaret Davis, 14, one of three missing Chicago high school girls, for whom a wide search had been made since last Monday, has been found masquerading as a boy under the name of "Dick" Davis and working as chore hand on the farm of Fred Backhaus near Roselle, 23 miles west of Chicago.

With a corn cob pipe and a package of cigarettes still in her overalls pocket, "Dick" awaited the arrival of her parents, frantic for four days with their theories of murder, kidnaping and romance.

Detectives searched rooming house districts today for Ivy Reeves and Frances Reilly, 16 year old high school girls, believed to have run away in search of "careers."

HEARING THE APPEAL OF HEAD OF ORDER OF OWLS FIVE YEARS AND $5000

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Hearing of the appeal of John Talbot of South Bend, Ind., head of the Order of Owls, from conviction under the Mann act, was begun today in the United States circuit court of appeals. Talbot was indicted in November, 1920, by the federal grand jury at Indianapolis on a charge of having transported Miss Pearl Barley from Topeka, Kan., to South Bend for immoral purposes in violation of the Mann act and was fined $5,000 and sentenced by Federal Judge Anderson to Leavenworth prison for five years.

Talbot's counsel, C. C. Shirley of Indianapolis, based his plea today for a reversal on the letters exchanged by Talbot and Miss Bagley prior to her departure from Topeka. There was nothing in these letters to indicate any immoral intent, the lawyer asserted, and the prosecution had failed to prove Talbot had sent the young woman railroad fare.

When Miss Bagley went to South Bend she went directly to Talbot's office, the attorney said. On her second visit to his office, he continued, illicit relations between the two began and continued for some time.

The girl "literally threw herself into Talbot's arms," the attorney said.

"TIMOTHY'S QUEST," SHOWING AT STRAND SPLENDID PICTURE

An irresistible and delightful touch of humor with its pretty pathos, and a convincingness which brings the smiles and tears alike to even the hard bard-boiled movie fan, is making "Timothy's Quest" one of the prettiest and most appealing pictures ever brought to the Strand theatre, where it is showing this week.

The photoplay is based on Kate Douglas Wiggin's story, and presents two of the best child-actors on the screen. The children, who stray through beautiful old New England in an old horse cart looking for somebody to adopt them, win friends all along the way, and finally a home, by their very lovableness. The story makes no attempt to force sentimentality, but is a thoroughly delightful and exceedingly worth-while entertainment.

A girl 17 years of age, a student of the eighth grade in the city of Burkburnett, was granted an annullment of marriage from a man 46 years of age in the 89th district court Friday morning. The testimony showed that immediately after the marriage ceremony was performed that the parents of the girl took her home and would not permit her to see her husband nor him to see her. The testimony also showed that the man had been married before and had three children, one of whom was 14 years of age.

The average amount of electric energy generated in this state is 240,000 kilowatt hours a day. All of this except about 6,000 kilowatt hours is produced by fuel, the small amount being generated by water power. The states of Idaho and Utah produce practically all their electricity by water power. About 40 per cent of the total production of electric energy in the county is produced by water power.

BOOK TELLS OF STORM NEARLY 80 YEARS AGO

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 13.—Christopher Schuchart, 82, who died recently, wrote a book, "A Texas Pioneer," in which he recited the incident of a storm he was in as a boy crossing from Hanover, Germany, nearly 80 years ago. The boat was shipwrecked in Galveston bay, after taking seven weeks in crossing from Bremen.

Queen Victoria of Spain was at one time an enthusiastic amateur actress, and was said to possess dramatic talent of a high order.

WOMEN AND MEDICINE

In Europe, years ago, a woman named Hildegarde wrote a notable book on medicinal plants. In those days the men were too busy bothering about dogmas of religion and medicine, and the study of herbs was thought beneath their notice.

It was the women, however, who mostly conducted the hospitals and cared for the sick, and thus they learned much of great value. They let the men fight out the questions of theories.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, prepared almost fifty years ago by a woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, did then, and does now, relieve the ailments peculiar to women. It is a vegetable compound and of great value for this purpose. This is proven day after day, and in your own neighborhood, by grateful women who have used it.—adv.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it.—Philippians 1:6.

Never mind where your work is. Never mind whether it be visible or not. Never mind whether your name is associated with it. You may never see the issues of your toils. You are working for eternity. If you cannot see results here in the hot working day, the cool evening hours are drawing near, when you may rest from your labors, and then they may follow you.—Alexander McLaren.

HE LIFTS A TON

A phenomenally strong man is discovered working in a steel mill at Youngstown, Ohio. He is Gus Lessis, 22, a Greek.

Gus first attracts attention by absent-mindedly picking up a one-ton steel beam and carrying it up a flight of stairs. This, of course, nearly shuts down the mill.

Crowds gather about Gus. He entertains them by bending an iron bar, three-quarters of an inch in diameter, around his neck like a cork screw, then unwinding it.

Barnum once said, "If you have something worth showing, get it under canvas."

So Gus takes the road and charges admission.

Without straining himself, Gus could pick up a ton of coal, wagon and all. You wonder what he looks like. Well, he weighs only 185.

Compared with size, he is a weakling alongside an ant.

Nevertheless, he is one of the strongest men in the world.

His strength was not acquired in gymnasiums. He says he inherited it. That, however, is only partly correct. When a human body weighing 185 pounds easily lifts 13 times its weight, a good part of that strength is in the will power.

You have had this experience: You try to lift a heavy weight, strain every muscle into action, but cannot budge it.

That makes you mad. Anger arouses the will power. You lift again. The weight rises clear of the ground.

Muscles are like the wires that carry electric current. The real power is in the mind. It is will power. A weakling, suddenly gone insane, could literally tie Gus Lessis in a knot. In asylums, four or more powerful men frequently are required to subdue a frail woman in a maniacal frenzy. Weak muscles, strong will power.

Whether lifting weights, accomplishing hard task or conquering obstacles, will power is your greatest force. It lies dormant in most brains, a sleeping giant waiting to be roused.

Confidence alone can rouse it.

That's why confidence in self is the skeleton key that opens the doors of success. Also why the man of apparently small ability so often "bluffs his way through."

Failure is never more than a temporary setback until the will power retreats in dismay and admits defeat.

WINTER BUSINESS.

Is business going to slow down this winter? Many are wondering. After hard times, prosperity seems too good to be true.

All of the basic signs point to a continuation of the steady industrial revival now under way. Most encouraging of these signs is the big freight traffic being handled by the railroads.

In the two weeks ended Sept. 23 (latest figures available) the number of cars loaded with revenue-producing freight on all railroads compared with the corresponding period of previous years as follows:

1922	1,919,210 cars
1921	1,727,193 cars
1920	1,999,275 cars
1919	1,990,892 cars

You'll observe that 191 cars of freight are moving for each 199 cars in 1919 during the big boom.

Business doesn't haul a lot of freight around the country unless it expects to use it, work it up into manufactured products. That means jobs. The stage is being set to keep every one busy.

A car shortage is developing in some quarters. This is a bad thing for business, but it is also a good thing, for it shows that there is more business than can be handled.

In one recent week the railroads were asked to furnish so many freight cars on sidings that they ran short 36,000 fewer than what the shippers needed.

In the same week there was a shortage of 26,000 coal cars. At other points there was a surplus of 17,614 coal cars, but these couldn't be rushed to where they were needed as fast as they were needed.

All of this feverish activity on the railroads looks mighty comforting to any one who remembers, during depression, how cars stood on side-tracks, accumulating rust.

The old business machine is moving at last and getting into high speed. Sometimes the unexpected happens, so there might be a setback, but nothing in sight makes that seem probable.

If traffic statistics seem dry, here's something along the same line that will penetrate easily to any brain:

E. M. Sheehan, president of the California Grape Growers' Exchange, says that about half of California's 550,000-ton winegrape crop is in danger of destruction as the result of a shortage of cars for shipping the grapes to John Doe's cellar.

ABOUT SPECIAL WEEKS.

These special weeks are coming too fast for us and we have gotten all confused as to whether this is "Better Homes Week" or "National Safety Week" or "National Laugh Week," and we don't know which to concentrate on. Maybe we ought to observe all three weeks simultaneously.

We are kept jumping from one "special" week to another these days and there seems to be real danger that while we are concentrating and cramming up on facts on one week we will crowd out all we absorbed about the preceding week.

These "special" weeks are making life just a little too strenuous for the serious minded citizen and unless something is done to regulate them we are going to suggest the observance of one special week for the observance of nothing special.

Reading dispatches from China is like looking over a directory of radio stations. This morning we read that General Hsu Shu has been driven back by Chinese regulars and a little further along we read that he was a member of the Anfu club.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS LIFE OF OURS.

To him of material mind, life is just a happening, a puzzle without a solution, a dream that seems real but which never does take upon itself form and realization in every-day action.

Whereas to him who is spiritually minded, life exhibits a soul, a purpose, a grand expanse of opportunity through which his life is sieved into an existence that is never-ending though full of change.

Personally, I am indifferent as to my origin. Though I am ready to believe that it is one of vast evolutionary beauty, bathed and cleansed by the thought and desire of a great Creative Mind all through every intricate and interesting step of progress.

I am happy at the thought of being related to the birds of the field and to the moving creatures of the earth. I like to feel that I am a part of one great whole.

The great scientist, Agassiz, taking his stand for spiritual evolution, once put his thought in these words: "To me the fact that the embryonic form of the highest vertebrate recalls in its earlier stage the first representative of its type in geological times and its lowest representatives at the present day, speaks only of an ideal relation, existing not in the things themselves, but in the mind that made them."

What an astounding thought that all the energy which we as human beings possess, has come about at the expense of the sun!

Tyndall says that "in an amorphous drop of water die latent all the marvels of crystalline force." A materialistic fact. But H. M. Tichenor, in his interesting little booklet "Biology and Spiritual Philosophy," says that "to the spiritualist, a living cell is evidence of a soul-source of life, just as a drop of water, containing life, is evidence of an ocean of water."

What we are today, and all that we are, we owe to an early single cell! And our bodies are in themselves masses of millions of cells.

The Yogi of India recognize in these cells of ours a distinct individual intelligence—each cell minding its own business and standing ready to perform its duty at call; in health to carry on the work of the body, and in times of disease to rush to the assistance of those other cells which seek to preserve healthy life—each single cell, however, subservient to the master intelligence of the mind. And in death these happy, useful cells scatter, change, and pass into other forms of plant or animal life—thus to complete the plan of the one Infinite Mind that all is one and one is all!

CREEDS

I care not what his creed may be
Nor what his caste or clan,
He still shall be a friend to me
If he but play the man.

No barrier of creed shall fling
Its prejudices before
The honest man who comes to bring
His friendship to my door.

If he be gentle, brave and true,
And stand with head erect,
This much he is entitled to,
My friendship and respect.

And if he be ill-mannered here,
Selfish and speak the lie,
I shall not hold his conscience clear
Because he prays as I.

I shall not brother with the shame
Of any sinful deed
Or seek to gloss a tarnished name
With lustre of a creed.

I shall not ask his form of prayer
Nor what his church may be,
The good man, kind and just and fair,
Shall find a friend in me.

SMILE A WHILE

By TOM SIMS.

About the hardest thing to cure is injured feelings.

A woman paid a taxi bill with 42,000 pennies. Her children certainly can save pennies.

Every man knows he will accidentally mail a letter in a trash can before he dies.

New airplane has a radio set so friends can be notified when it plans to drop in on them.

Suppose you had as many wives as the sultan of Turkey and were out of work, as he is, with no sultan jobs open.

BRAIN TESTERS.

I am a word of three syllables and represent a woman. Take away five of my letters and I am a man. Take away only four and I am a woman again. But remove only three and once more I'm a man. What's the original word?

Yesterday's answer:
The verse is:
It is nineteen tennis sets,
Nine in tents in tints intense.
Ten sent in inserts in sets,
See it, test it, it is sense.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

By LEE PAPE

Me and pop was taking a walk before supper, me asking questions and pop answering some of them, and we came to a cigar store, pop saying, O, that reminds me, I haven't a thing to smoke.

And we went in, pop saying to the man, Let me have a half duzzen Queen Billie cigars.

Queen Billie, certainly, surely, but by the way, I'd like to show you a remarkable value I have hear, special for today, the man sed. Being a fat man with thin hair, and he took out a box of cigars and opened it saying, Lord Hamberg, 4 for 25 for today ony, look at them, arent they bewtiffil?

Yes, they remind me of the Grand Canyon of Colorado in some ways, the only trubble with them is, Ive tried them allreddy and theyre terrible, how about those Queen Billies? pop sed.

O yes, perhaps you'd be intristed in a few Count de Peedmonts, the man sed.

Yes, the fewer the better, wat I came in heer for, if youll excuse me for mentioning it, was half a duzzen Queen Billies, pop sed.

Half a duzzen? the man sed. And he started to look erround saying, The Duke of Nantucket makes a nice smoak.

So does bytuminous coal, have you eny Queen Billies in stock or havent you? pop sed.

Well to tell the truth I haven't at the present moment, would you care to look at a fresh box of King Max perfectos? the man sed.

On the contrary, pop sed. And he wawked out, me following him saying, I guess he wunted to sell you so, I'm sure, pop sed.

I don't know wat makes you think so, I'm sure, pop sed.

HEREAFTER

More than a million soldiers fought for the south during the Civil war. All except 75,066 of them are dead, reports General Julian S. Carr, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

News like this startlingly reminds us that we are all traveling to the cemetery. If everybody kept this grim fact in mind, and acted accordingly, there would be less mischief and brazen deviltry. Our stopover on earth is brief, yet many of us are as ruthless as if we were here for all eternity.

FORD

In Detroit, consumers pay $15 a ton retail for coke. The price is $8 a ton to men working for Henry Ford. He makes his own coke and sells it wholesale to his employes.

This is as good as a wage bonus.

Large employers will find a highly profitable field in co-operative buying for those on their payrolls. Helping the employe get more for his dollar is the next best thing to giving him more dollars.

AUTO

Paris is excited by successful tests of an auto, invented by a Frenchman, which runs on crude oil instead of gasoline.

Don't expect too much.

If all autos begin using crude oil, gasoline will become cheap, crude oil expensive. You cannot get away from the system. Price is regulated by supply and demand—usually a third by supply, two-thirds by demand.

DOUG

Who shot the arrow that hit Abraham Seligman in the chest while standing at the rear window of his New York fur shop?

Doug Fairbanks doubts that it was his arrow, but admits that he had been fooling on a nearby roof with bow-and-arrow used in his film, "Robin Hood."

This is about zero in happenings. Still, it gets attention and millions are more interested in it than in Mustapha Kemal. It may be just as important, too, a few hundred years from now.

PETE

Pete, the raccoon in Boston zoo, likes bread. By accident he drops a chunk of dry bread in his water tank, and finds it so pleasing to his taste that now Pete soaks all his bread in water.

Is this intelligence? To remember the soaking process requires memory. To know that what made one piece of bread tasty will have the same effect on another piece involves reasoning.

All life is "intelligent" to some degree—even vegetable life. Otherwise, how does a climbing vine know enough to follow a trellis built for it?

A Private War

When State Trooper Stormont rode up to Clinch's with Eve Strayer lying in his arms, Mike Clinch strode out of the motley crowd around the tavern, laid his rifle against a tree, and stretched forth his powerful hands to receive his stepchild.

He held her, cradled, looking down at her in silence as the men clustered around.

The girl opened her sky-blue eyes. "I'm all right, dad, . . . just tired. . . . I've got your parcel . . . safe . . ."

"To hell with the gol-dinged parcel," he almost sobbed: "—did Quintana harm you?"

"No, dad."

As he carried her to the veranda the packet fell from her cramped fingers. Clinch kicked it under a chair and continued on into the house and up the stairs to Eve's bedroom.

Flat on the bed, the girl opened her drowsy eyes again, unsmiling.

"Did that dirty louse misuse you?" demanded Clinch unsteadily. "G'wan tell me girlie."

"He knocked me down. . . . He went away to get fire to make me talk. I cut up the blanket they gave me and made a rope. Then I went over the cliff into the big pine below. That was all, dad."

Clinch filled a tin basin and washed the girl's torn feet. When he had dried them he kissed them. She felt his unshaven lips trembling, heard him whimper for the first time in his life.

"Why the hell didn't you give Quintana the packet?" he demanded. "What does that count for—what does any damn thing count for against you, girlie?"

She looked up at him out of heavy-lidded eyes: "You told me to take good care of it."

"It's only a little truck I'd laid by for you," he retorted unsteadily, "—a few trifles for to make a grand lady of you when the time's ripe. 'Tain't worth a thorn in your little foot to me. . . . The hull gol-dinged world full o' money ain't worth that there store-bruise onto them little white feet o' yourn, Eve.

"Look at you now—my God, look at you there, all peaked an' scairt an' bleedin'—plum tuckered out, 'n' all ragged 'n' dirty—"

A blaze of fury flared in his small pale eyes: "—And he hit you, too, did he?—that skunk! Quintana done that to my little girlie, did he?"

"I don't know if it was Quintana. I don't know who he was, dad," she murmured drowsily.

"Masked, wa'nt he?"

"Yes."

Clinch's iron visage twitched and quivered. He gnawed his thin lips into control:

"Girlie, I gotta go out a spell. But I ain't a-leavin' you alone here. I'll git somebody to set up with you. You just lie snug and don't think about nothin' till I come back."

"Yes, dad," she sighed, closing her eyes.

Clinch stood looking at her for a moment, then he went downstairs heavily, and out to the veranda where State Trooper Stormont still sat his saddle, talking to Hal Smith. On the porch a sullen crowd of back-woods riff-raff lounged in silence, awaiting events.

Clinch called across to Smith. "Hey, Hal, g'wan up and set with Eve a spell while she's nappin.' Take a gun."

Smith said to Stormont in a low voice: "Do me a favor, Jack?"

"You bet."

"That girl of Clinch's is in real danger if left here alone. But I've got another job on my hands. Can you keep a watch on her till I return?"

"Can't you tell me a little more, Jim?"

"I will, late. Do you mind helping me out now?"

"All right."

Trooper Stormont swung out of his saddle and led his horse away toward the stable.

Hal Smith went into the bar where Clinch stood oiling a rifle.

"I'm going after Quintana with you, Mike."

"B'gosh, you aint. You're a-goin' to keep watch here."

"No. Trooper Stormont has promised to stay with Eve. You'll need every man today, Mike. This isn't a deer drive."

Clinch let his rifle sag across the hollow of his left arm.

"Did you beef to that trooper?" he demanded in his pleasant, misleading way.

"Do you think I'm crazy?" retorted Smith.

"Well, what the hell—"

"They all know that some man used your girl roughly. That's all I said to him—keep an eye on Eve until we can get back.' And I tell you, Mike, if we drive Star Peak we won't be back till long after sundown."

Clinch growled: "I ain't never asked no favors of no state trooper—"

"Rats an' Deer," He Said Pleasantly

"He did you a favor, didn't he? He brought your daughter in."

"Yes, 'n' he'd jail us all if he got anything on us."

"Yes; and he'll shoot to kill if any of Quintana's people come here and try to break in."

Clinch grunted, peeled off his coat and got into a leather vest bristling with cartridge loops.

Trooper Stormont came in the back door, carrying his rifle.

"Some rough fellow been bothering your daughter, Clinch?" he inquired. "The child was hearly all in when she met me out by Owl Marsh—clothes half torn off her back, bare-foot and bleeding. She's a plucky youngster. I'll say so Clinch. If you think the fellow may come here to annoy her I'll keep an eye on her till you return."

Clinch went up to Stormont, put his powerful hands on the young fellow's shoulders.

After a moment's glaring silence: "You look clean. I guess you be, too. I wanta tell you I'll cut the guts outa any guy that lays the heft of a single finger onto Eve."

"I'd do so, too, if I were you," said Stormont.

"Would ye? Well, I guess you're a real man, too, even if you're a state trooper," growled Clinch. "G'wan up. She's a-nappin'. If she wakes up you kinda talk pleasant to her. You act kind, pleasant and cosy. She ain't had no ma. You tell her to set snug and ca'm. Then you cook her a egg if she wants it. There's pie, too. I ca'late to be back by sundown."

"Nearer morning," remarked Smith.

Stormont shrugged. "I'll stay until you show up, Clinch."

The latter took another rifle from the corner and handed it to Smith with a loop of ammunition.

"Come on," he grunted.

On the veranda he strode up to the group of sullen, armed men who regarded his advent in expressionless silence.

Sid Hone was there, and Harvey Chase, and the Hastings boys, and Cornelius Bloomers.

"You fellas comin'?" inquired Clinch.

"Where?" drawled Sid Hone.

"Me an' Hal Smith is cal'kalatin' to drive Star Peak. It ain't deer, neither."

There ensued a grim interval. Clinch's wintry smile began to glimmer.

"Booze agents or game protectors? Which?" asked Byron Hastings. "They both look like deer—if a man gits mad enough."

Clinch's smile became terrifying. "I shall out five hundred dollars for every deer that's dropped on Star Peak today," he said. "And I hope there won't be no accidents and no mistakin' no stranger for a deer," he added, wagging his great square head.

"Them accidents is liable to happen," remarked Hone, reflectively.

After another pause: "Where's Jake Kloon?" inquired Smith.

Nobody seemed to know.

"He was here when Mike called me into the bar," insisted Smith. "Where'd he go?"

Then, of a sudden, Clinch recollected the packet which he had kicked under a veranda chair. It was no longer there.

"Any o' you fellas seen a package here on the pyazza?" demanded Clinch harshly.

"Jake Kloon, he had somethin'," drawled Chase. "I suppose it was his lunch. Mebbe 'twas, too."

In the intense stillness Clinch glared into one face after another.

"Boys," he said in his softly modulated voice, "I kinda guess there's a rat amongst us. I wouldn't like for to be that there rat—no, not for a billion hundred dollars. No, I wouldn't. Becus that there rat has bit my little girlie, Eve—like that there deer bit her up onto Star Peak. . . . No, I wouldn't like for to be that there rat. For he's a-goin' to die like a rat, same's that there deer is a-goin' to die like a deer. . . . Anyone seen which way Jake Kloon went?"

"Now you speak of it," said Byron Hastings, "seems like I noticed Jake and Earl Leverett down by the woods near the pond. I kinda disremembered when you asked, but I guess I seen them."

Clinch tossed his rifle across his left shoulder.

"Rats an' deer," he said pleasantly. "Them's the articles we're lookin' for. Only for God's sake be careful you don't mistake a man for 'em in the woods."

One or two men laughed.

HUMOR'S SOBER SIDE

Ring Lardner Tells About It in Eighth Interview of Series on "How Humorists Get That Way"

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
NEA Service Staff Writer

RING LARDNER

Back in 1914 there was, as things go, a world series. Stories on the world series were written by various well-known ball players and published in the newspapers. Then somebody began kicking up a little trouble.

"Those stories aren't written by ball players at all," he said, "somebody else writes them and then the ball player signs his name."

A young sport writer who was working on the Chicago Tribune got an idea. "It mightn't go bad," he reflected, "if I'd write up these games the way a busher'd really write them up."

Which was the way that Ring Lardner became a humorist.

Lardner endeavored to tell about it on the fourth day of the world series recently completed. The place was that retreat immediately beneath the grand stand where newspaper men congregate to tell how it all might have been avoided and to eat—principally to eat.

Lardner, whose countenance, if not sad, at least suggests a deeply introspective turn of mind, sat down upon the chair which three waiters proffered him.

"There's really nothing—" he began.

"Some chicken salad, sir?"

Lardner waved the man away gently. "There's nothing to it, you see, you just stand around and listen to the ball players talk—"

The waiter hopped from one foot to the other. "Some cold Virginia baked ham, sir, or some sliced chicken? A little celery now—"

Lardner gazed at the man kindly. "No thank you," he said. "I've just had breakfast." The waiter went away dubiously.

"You see you just stand around and listen to the ball players talk. That's the way I got to cailing it the world serieds. Then you pick up a few other expressions like a—"

Another waiter flurried by. "A biscuit Tortoni, sir?"

Lardner expressed interest. "A what?"

"A biscuit Tortoni, sir."

Lardner relapsed into melancholy. "Oh," he murmured. "I thought you said a whiskey Tortoni. You just pick up some expressions," he continued, "like 'a 1-2 wit,' or 'this monking around' or 'why and the dickens' or—"

A joyful screech came from somewhere on the side lines. "Oh, it's Mister Lardner, oo-hoo, hello, Mr. Lardner."

Lardner arose and tipped his hat punctiliously. Then he sat down again. "You pick up a few expressions like that, and then maybe you see a letter where 'especially' is written 'a specially' and 'corps' is spelled 'corpse' and pretty soon, if you bear it all in mind, the thing's done for you. Nothing hard, you know, just—"

From somewhere in the offing came a rich buttery voice.

"Batteries for today will be—"

Lardner struggled to his feet. "My most quoted line? Well, I suppose it's 'You know Me, Al,' but it doesn't mean a thing, you know, it doesn't."

Keep your fingers crossed—

Look out for ladders and spilled salt—

And run if you see a black cat.

For today is Friday the 13th, the star Jonah combination of them all.

That is, if you're superstitious.

But if you're inclined to scoff at the Friday jinx idea, here are a few arguments in your favor:

Columbus' expedition which discovered America set sail on Friday and landed on Friday.

Richard Henry Lee introduced the Declaration of Independence on a Friday.

Cornwallis surrendered on Friday:

And to argue against the 13 superstitution:

There were 13 original United States.

There are 13 stripes in our flag, and, originally, it contained 13 stars.

President Wilson considered 13 as his lucky number—and he was right about it—California's 13 electoral college votes re-elected him.

As for Friday the 13th:

General Pershing was born on Friday 13.

The Yanks won at St. Mihiel on Friday, Sept. 13, 1918.

Where the Friday 13 idea came from is still in doubt. The most probable explanation is that the Crucifixion gave rise to the Friday part, and that 13 part from the fact that the Hebrew words for "death" and for "thirteen" were identical.

FISH.

Roger Dolan, fishing in Portage lake, Ontario, catches a dore—wall-eyed-pike-perch, generally and incorrectly called Canadian pickerel.

Dolan kills the four pound fish with a club, throws it in his canoe. Half hour later, on shore, he cleans the dore, tears its insides out. Two hours afterward, he happens to notice the "cleanings"—and finds the heart beating normally and vigorously as if in the fish. Life still was present.

No one can explain it. But this much is probable: If the dore had the human ability to worry, its heart would have stopped in the canoe or when the insides were torn out. Worry is a sure killer.

JEFF DAVIS' OLD COACHMAN SIGHS

BOYD

By NEA Service.

HANDSBORO, MISS., Oct. 11.—Legion are the men who served Abraham Lincoln, but Anderson Boyd's claim to fame is entirely opposite.

Boyd was coachman for Jefferson Davis, when the president of the confederacy lived at Beauvoir, Miss.

One of the fast disappearing type of old southern darkey, Boyd sighs for "the good old days."

"Ain't many more gentlemen like Marse Davis," he sighs. "World's sure going to fiddlesticks.

"I'd like just once more to be driving down the street with my old high hat on, a yellow ribbon in the middle of my whip, and those high steppers of Marse Davis trotting proud. And then I'd sure teach a lesson to those trifling blacks that leans back in the cushions and scoots white folks around in their automobiles.

"When they'd come along behind me, honking for me to get out of their road, I'd just crack my whip at them and make them stay a respectful distance from a white gentleman."

A faded print of the confederate president is Anderson's prize possession.

ALL THE NEWS OF ALL THE SPORTS ALL THE TIME

Simmons Will Enter T.C.U. Game Saturday In Excellent Condition

Profiting by his experience with two of the strongest teams in this part of the football world, Coach Hays turned all his attention and time last week to the working out of the flaws and defects in the Cowboy machine and expects to have a formidable aggregation to put on the field against the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs Saturday when the two rivals meet on the gridiron at Athletic park.

Even at this late hour the relative strength of the two teams cannot be determined since the Cowboys were met and defeated by one of the strongest teams in the state last Saturday when they clashed with the Baylor Bears, while the Horned Frogs appeared against one of the weaker teams, Dallas university, and failed to pile up the large score that was expected, emerging with only a 21 to 6 victory.

The Cowboys emerged from last week's difficult battle with only a few minor injuries and despite the heavy score against them are in good spirits and will start Saturday with a determination to begin the T. I. A. A. schedule off right by chalking up another defeat against T. C. U. They have been "hitting it" unusually hard on Parramore field this week and are understood to have approached mid-season form for the Horned Frog game.

Camp, who played quarter last Saturday, sustained a broken nose in the game, but stayed in practically the entire game and lead his team in tackling. He will be able to play Saturday, but since he is an all-around backfield man, having been the Cowboys' mainstay at fullback last year, will probably be shifted to another position. No injuries of note were suffered.

The defeat at the hands of the Baylor Bears came as no surprise to Coach Hays, as the Bears are reckoned as probable winners of the Southwestern conference championship this year. Coach Bridges' "wonder team" was exactly the lineup that was sent against the Boston college eleven at Dallas fair last year, and strengthened by an endless line of substitutes that might make any of the leading teams of the state, is a team that will probably not meet defeat during the entire season. Numerous substitutes got into the game Saturday, and although failing to score in the first quarter, wore down the Cowboy defense near the middle of the second period and then touchdowns came thick and fast.

The T. C. U. and Howard-Payne games are looked forward to as the most important on the Cowboy schedule, and will determine whether Simmons has a chance in the T. I. A. A. race. Should they come out with the long end of the score against the Horned Frogs Saturday, fairly easy sailing is expected until the Thanksgiving clash with the Yellow Jackets.

The regular lineup will be ready for the contest Saturday. The backfield is expected to be in the best form, and with Yeager, Camp, Kimbrough, Adams and Johnson ready for action, a good exhibition of football is assured. The line will be practically unchanged from the games of the past and will be almost the same that proved impregnable to T. C. U. last season. Six of the men, Barfield and Gibson, ends; Brarshear at tackle; Howerton and Taylor, guards; McHaney, center, are members of last year's squad, Jackson at right tackle being the only new addition.

The Cowboys will be lead by Captain Jack Barfield, end. Barfield has a thorough knowledge of the game, having held down a tackle position on the Simmons eleven last year. He also had two years of football at Wesley college.

The other end position will be filled by Gibson or Treadway. Gibson is the fastest man on the team. This is his second year of football at Simmons. Treadway is also a fast man and is showing up unusually well at the end position.

Brashear and Jackson are both towers of strength at the tackle positions. Brashear was on the Cowboy line last year and was recognized as one of the best tackles in the state. He had two years of experience at Sweetwater High before coming to Simmons. This is Jackson's first year on the Cowboy squad but the big tackle has had two years experience on an army team and two years on the Stanford Legion team.

With Howerton and Taylor, two veterans at guard, little is to be feared from that source. Howerton has been playing football for the past four years, having played one year with Abilene High and three with Simmons. Taylor presents enough beef so that no opponent finds it easy to get around. "Big Four" is only seventeen years old but this is his second year with the Cowboys.

McHaney is entering his second year at center and has played a consistent game at all times. He had two years of football at San Marcos Academy before coming to Simmons.

In the back field Yeager and Kimbrough are both good bets at quarter as is Camp. Yeager is the sensational little quarter of last year and star of many frays. He arrived late for training this year and has played but very little this season. He played for a short time in the Baylor game for the first time in actual battle this year. He has had eight years of experience in football, two in Wesley before coming to Simmons last year and five in High school before entering Wesley. Kimbrough hails from Haskell High where he had three years and is making a splendid start in college football, having played in every game at Simmons this season.

Johnson, Camp and Thompson are all good bets at half back. This is Johnson's second year with the Cowboys and he had two years of experience with the Portales High eleven before entering college. His ability to boot the ball makes him a valuable asset. Camp is an all-around backfield man. He played fullback last year, but has been used both at half and quarter this year. He had two years experience at John Tarleton. This is Thompson's first year with the Simmons eleven but he has had two years on an army team and has all the qualifications for a backfield man.

Adams came from Tarleton where he had two years on the gridiron, to join the Cowboys this year and seems to have walked into his position which he made secure at once. He was under Coach Hays before he came to Simmons and the latter rates him as one of the best fullbacks he has ever had.

THAT IS WHAT NEW RULE MEANS TO THE PLAYERS OF FOOTBALL

By BILLY EVANS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Baseball numbers among its enthusiasts many football stars of other days.

Even though football is crowding baseball slowly but surely from the sport map the world series proved a magnet that overcame the lure of the gridiron.

At the opening game of the series I saw a score of famous former football stars. Some were players who have been out of the game only a few years. All of them seemed perfectly willing to put aside their fondness for the gridiron game until after the world series.

Stars Not Enthusiastic.

Several of these old stars saw the first grid games of the year, in which the big teams of the east took part. None of them seemed to enthuse over the new rule which gives the team making a touchdown the right to make one play from scrimmage.

Most of the old stars feel that the new play will not produce the thrills that were expected of it.

In the opening games practically every eleven elected to try for goals from the field after scoring a touchdown. That is, on all scrimmage plays after touchdowns, the team having the ball tried to score the extra point either by a drop kick or goal from placement.

Studying Drop Kick.

I dropped over to the Harvard stadium while in Boston to look over the Crimson squad.

The one thing that interested me most was the number of players practicing drop kicking. At least 20 were taking instruction in the art of kicking goals from the field.

Coach Bill Roper at Princeton has a dozen kickers out every day an hour before regular practice. These players do nothing but drop kick or attempt goals from placement.

Evidently Roper and Fisher feel that the best way to try to score after making a touchdown is to attempt field goals.

When the new rule was made it was hoped it would bring about much new strategy in football. It seems that it will merely narrow down to a kicking feature.

May Wholly Fail.

It wouldn't be surprising if the rule failed of its purpose.

Many of the football men I talked with seemed to think it as much of a joke as the goal after touchdown.

The impression that prevailed was that next year a touchdown would be no try for a point after the making of a touchdown.

Football experts feel that a touchdown, as a rule, is far more difficult to negotiate than two field goals. That is why they insist a touchdown should count seven points.

With field goals counting three points it would take three such kicks to overcome a touchdown.

PLAY YOUR GAME

HOLLO CHER.

If there could be such a thing as a duplicate of Honus Wagner, then Charley Hollocher of the Chicago Cubs fills the bill.

At least, such is the opinion of veteran players and critics who saw the "Flying Dutchman" gobble in grounders at shortstop and who had followed Hollocher as the Cubs' shortstopper.

Hollocher, like Wagner, seems to be in perpetual motion. Instead of digging the spikes into the dirt, he swerves and sways as the pitcher is delivering the ball, and allows himself to get a running start on all balls hit in his direction.

The difference between Hollocher and Wagner is feund only in physical figures.

Honus was a ponderous athlete; broad shoulders, a chest the size of a heavyweight wrestler, and a pair of hands that would have fitted more comfortably in a ham skin than a pair of gloves.

Hollocher reaches but five feet eight inches and weighs in the neighborhood of 150—but he's all muscles and steel.

Hollocher has improved probably more than any player in the National league this season, and those on the inside say that Bill Killefer, manager of the Cubs, is responsible for the change in his shortstopper.

Hollocher was a mighty good shortstop before Killefer took over the management of the Cubs. Under Killefer he has played remarkable ball. Killefer has handled him differently from any other Cub manager.

Didn't Like Nagging.

Hollocher is of the temperament that doesn't thrive on nagging. That was his menu under a certain Cub regime. Another Cub leader tried to change his batting style and also offered many suggestions as to his fielding. Hollocher tried to follow some of them and his play suffered.

Killefer had played on the same teams with Hollocher and when he became manager, his advice to his shortstop was short and sweet.

"You know more about playing shortstop than any one else on this club. Don't take instructions from anybody. Simply play your game and do it naturally."

"Play your game" was the best bit of advice ever slipped to Hollocher. From a .275 hitter he is batting well over .300 and is regarded as the most brilliant fielder in the National league.

BONUS OFFERED FOR WELL NORTH OF PEASE RIVER

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—Quite a bit of excitement was caused here when the drilling crew on the Dickey Bell Oil company's well, about seven miles north of town, sent a request to the chamber of commerce to know what bonus would be given should they bring in a well north of Pease river. The chamber of commerce met and have offered a substantial bonus.

The well has been drilled about 2500 feet. On account of setting casing a part of the hole was filled with mud and cavings. The company is setting casing around 2365 feet. The report here is that the well is full of water, but is giving off gas and showings of oil. The company is very hopeful of getting a well.

BAYLOR VETERANS TO GET INTO RICE GAME

Bears Hope to Repeat Victory Of 1921 Over Owls Saturday.

WACO, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—With a week of hard training behind them the Baylor Bears left here today for Houston where they will clash with the Rice Owls Saturday. This will be the first conference game of the season for both elevens, although both Rice and Baylor have won their early season games.

Last year with the Owls on their own lot the Bears trounced their Houston opponents by a close score of 17 to 14, but not until after a hard struggle in which every inch of ground was vigorously contested. With the Bears in the Owl layout this year followers of both teams are expecting a battle well worth seeing.

During the past week the Bridgmen have been working out behind closed gates, but word has leaked out that the Bears have been going through hard scrimmages and signal drills. Other reports are that the Bruins are in the best of physical condition, with the exception of the ones who are out on account of internal injuries.

For the first time this season Coach Bridges will be able to put into the line-up all of his veteran stars. Wethers, B. J. Fittman, Strickland, Tanner and Anderson, who are first string men, will be ready to start against the Owls. These, together with the new men that have been starring, should give Baylor a very formidable machine.

With all the first string men in, the Bruins from end to end will average near the 200 pound mark. Weathers and Blallock come well over this mark while the rest of the athletes come near it. George Kirk, the Bears' brilliant center, will be pitted against Captain Boettcher of Rice, and no doubt the fight that these men will put up will be of considerable interest to the fans. Houston fans will get to witness Wesley Bradshaw, all-southwestern quarter and Bears captain, for their first time. Tanner, Weathers and Blallock are other all-southwestern stars that will battle the Rice lads.

Coach Bridges will probably start the following: Ends, Burch and Crossby; tackles, Williamson and Blallock; guards, Weathers and Anderson; center, Kirk; quarter, Bradshaw (captain); halves, Strickland or R. Putman and B. J. Pittman; fullback, Tanner.

JUNIOR HIGH DEFEATED ON THURSDAY AFTERNOON

The stubborn defense put up by the Junior high school eleven in the first half weakened Thursday afternoon at Athletic park and Coach Jones', third string men romped home a winner 13 to 6. Until the latter part of the third period the Juniors had things their own way, principally due to the work of Palmer Herrod and "Buck" Steed. A 40-yard run through the line by Herrod gave the Juniors their only touchdown. On the defense Herrod was equally effective and stopped several scores with his deadly tackling.

S. M. U. GETS THEIR FIRST REAL TEST IN SATURDAY'S GAME

DALLAS, Oct. 13.—Southern Methodist university's new eleven, largely recruited from the undefeated freshmen of 1921, and touted as the most brilliant the university has ever had, will meet its first real football test at Fair pairk stadium tomorrow when it hoks up with the Tigers from Baton Rouge—the Louisiana State university's team.

Possessing for the first time in years a back field punch in the wealth of versatile backs at the disposal of Coaches Morrison and Freeland, S. M. U. has no fears for its offensive game. The real test tomorrow will come in the showing of the largely new line against the veteran forwards of the Tiger team. The Mustangs have plenty of line reserves but this part of the machine has not been tried against real competition as the Denton Normal failed to make the going hard in the only collegiate game of the year. Considering that the line brings over from last season the best part of the team that, while an offensive failure, was terribly hard to score upon, the college rooters have decided faith in its ability.

In advance, the Mustangs figure on an open game as the Louisiana line has been a stone wall for two years and the Loyola team, largely made up of old stars, could not ram it even on a muddy field. The running and passing game built around the accuracy of Rowson, Ingram, Huff and Stollerwerck, may be flashed on Coach Pray's defense. If there is anything in precedent, the overhead attack should decide the fortunes of the game, as the southwest's victories in evenly matched games so far this year have been on passes.

L. S. U. however has been an end running and passing team for two seasons and the Mustangs are being drilled on defense to oppose the same sort of game.

Tomorrow's game will be played in the huge stadium, seating 15,000 spectators where every seat commands a clear view of the field. For the benefit of grid fans out of Dallas arrangements have been made for tation agents on all interurban p a to purchase on request tickets for delivery at local points.

ORIOLES NEED ONE MORE VICTORY FOR AA TITLE

ST. PAUL, MINN., Oct. 13.—Today was an open date in the little world series between St. Paul, American association champions, and the Baltimore Internationals.

The rest was welcomed by the Saints, now on the short end of a four game to one count, as three of their men are on the hospital list. Berghammer, second baseman, broke a finger on his right hand yesterday. Hendryx, outfielder, has foot trouble and Christensen, left fielder, is ill at home.

The series will be resumed Saturday with Baltimore needing but one more win to make the minor league championship.

"Goat Title" of Series Must Be Conferred On Yank Team Collectively

Who is the goat of the world series?

There has been such a scramble among the Yankees for that honor that it is utterly impossible to point the finger of scorn at any one individual.

The "goat title" must be conferred on the Yankees collectively. Never in the history of the world series has a pennant-winning ball club displayed such an immense crop of costly ivory.

The Yankees started doing the wrong thing in the first game of the series and never let up.

Here is the crop of ivory, domestic and imported, as harvested game by game:

First Game.

One of the fundamental theories of baseball is that if you are one or more runs behind in the ninth inning, you first play for a tie, and having tied the game, set out to win it.

In the ninth inning of the first game the Yankees found themselves trailing 3 to 2. Pipp, the first man up, hit safely. Obviously the correct thing to do was try to tie the score.

Proper baseball on the part of Bob Meusel called for him to bunt. Instead he flashed the hit and run, sent a line fly to Frisch and Pipp was easily doubled off first base. The Yanks' last chance was erased by bad baseball.

In the same game Wally Schang's failure to slide laid himself open to censure.

With two out and Schang on second, Bush hit a slow roller down the third base line. Groh handled the bal just in front of the bag. Realizing he had little chance to get Bush at first and knowing Schang was on his way to third, he made a blind swing backward with the ball and touched Schang out about six inches from the bag.

Correct play called for Schang to slide. Had he done so there would have been no chance to make a play on him and the Yanks would have had runners on first and third instead of the side retired.

Joe Bush, after pitching perfectly for seven innings, had a bad eighth inning in which the Giants made three runs. With a knowledge that the Giants are fast ball hitters, he grooved his fast ball, instead of working the corners as he did throughout the rest of the game. The Giants made three hits on three pitched balls.

Second Game.

Irish Meusel of the Giants is known as a batter with a weakness on a curve ball, low and on the outside.

Bob Shawkey, after fooling Meusel badly on two low curves, happened to get a curve high and on the inside. Meusel pulled it into the left field bleachers for a home run. Two were on at the time.

That error, which was physical rather than mental, kept Shawkey from scoring a shutout. He had to be content with a 10-inning tie.

Third Game.

Witt, after reaching first base, allowed Catcher Smith of the Giants to snap a throw to first and get him flat-footed. It was a demoralizing play. In the next inning the Giants made a couple of runs.

Pitchers as a rule are weak hitters. Despite this, it has long been an accepted rule in baseball, that a pitcher should never throw a slow ball to another pitcher at bat.

Walte Hoyt, who usually pitches carefully and most intelligently, threw a floater to Pitcher Scott of the Giants. He singled to center and started a rally that gave the Giants two runs and the game.

In this same inning, with Scott on third and Bancroft on first, Groh tapped to Hoyt, who forced Scott back to third. Dugan on receiving the ball gave chase to Scott and before he was touched out the other runners had moved to second and third and were in a position to score. It was a replica of Heine Zimmerman's play on Eddie Collins, except that Dugan got his man. The costly part of it was the allowing of the base runners to advance the limit. Both scored.

Fourth Game.

One thing every ball player is expected to do is run out his hit. The failure of Bob Meusel to do that little thing was one of the most costly boots of the series.

Meusel hit sharply to Groh, and when he saw him handle the ball cleanly, stopped almost dead. Groh made a very bad throw which eluded First Baseman Kelly. Meusel made a fresh start but lost a close decision. He would have beaten the play 10 feet had he run it out. Ward followed with a home run that would have tied the score.

In the first and ninth innings of the fourth game, the Yankees made the same mistake and each time it proved very costly.

With a runner on first, Pipp in the first inning and Schang in the ninth, hit safely to center, sending the runner to third. In each case with the play in front of them they elected to try for second and were easy outs. Each move cost at least one run, just the margin the Yanks lost by.

In the ninth inning Pipp led off with a double. The Yankees were trailing by a run. Proper baseball calling for a sacrifice by Meusel, getting Pipp to third where he would be in a position to score. Meusel first tried to bunt that went foul. He hit the next ball sharply on the ground to Groh. It would have been wisdom to have remained at second, but Pipp started for third and was retired, while Meusel only reached first.

Fifth Game.

With the score a tie at 2 to 2, and runners on first and second, Bush singled to right center, Ward, who was on second, easily scored on the play, putting the Yanks in front.

Scott, who went from first to third, overran the bag, and Bancroft, who took the throw from the outfield, caught him off third by a fast throw. He tried to score but was out at the plate.

Instead of having runners on first and third and only one out, the Yanks had a man on second only, Bush having reached there while Scott was being retired, and two men out. Stupid baserunning again ruined the Yanks' golden chance.

Because of his failure to hit, "Babe" Ruth naturally gets into the goat class. He was the big disappointment of the series.

However, the goat title of the 1922 series belongs to the Yankees collectively. It would be unfair to single out any individual for that unenviable distinction.

ELECTRA HI SWAMPS MUNDAY BY 102 TO 0

Game With Henrietta Declared Off —Second String Men Used Thursday.

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—The Electra high football team trimmed the eleven from Munday high school on the local grounds yesterday by a score of 102 to 0. For the most part straight football was resorted to by Coach Edens' men. Gibson, of the second team, scored a drop kick from the 30-yard line and Herschel Johnson duplicated the feat, while the locals counted once on a safety.

Munday's team was brought here to take the place of Henrietta, with whom a game was scheduled for today. The Clay county boys, however, declined to play because some of their men were badly used up in the game last week with Wichita Falls. Yesterday's victory gives the local high school five victories.

Second team men were used for the most part as Coach Edens' took no chances of having his regulars out of uniform when the local eleven meets Wichita Falls a week from Saturday. If Electra can win that game it will give them a clear field for going into the semi-finals in the interscholastic district contests.

WICHITANS TO TAKE PART IN MOVE FOR BETTER TAX BASIS

Participation by Wichita Falls in the Texas Tax League to secure a more equitable basis of taxation in Texas was decided upon Friday morning at a meeting of a number of business men, who were addressed by J. B. Carrington of San Antonio, head of the movement.

A committee consisting of W. M. Priddy, chairman; C. H. Clark, N. H. Martin, J. H. Jones, N. B. Chenault, R. M. Waggoner, and J. J. Perkins was named to perfect the local organization.

Present inequalities in tax assessments in Texas counties, it was pointed out at the meeting, result in Wichita county paying the state $1,26,981.55 in state taxes in one year, getting back $7,840 in the form of aid for rural schools, while Hopkins county, as the result of a lower assessment basis, paid the state only $17,529 and got back $78,194 in state aid.

The Tax League's purpose is to make the basis such as not to work hardship on more thickly settled counties.

Takes Pan In Hand To Write Recipe

This Mgrane, Commander of American Legion auxiliaries of New York state and former stage star, cooking her favorite dish.

When asked to write out the recipe for her favorite dish, Miss Magrane said, "I'll take my pan in hand instead of my pen. I can cook it better than I can write about it."

Thereupon Miss Magrane, whom you might remember as a former star in "Everywoman" and "The Spendthrift," showed us how to prepare rice, Spanish style, in her own manner.

First she boils the rice in a double boiler, from 15 to 20 minutes. The rice is then taken out of the boiler before it is completely cooked, and steamed in a colander until the kernels dry out and become fluffy. This is the sign which tells the cook that the rice is thoroughly done.

While the rice is boiling, Miss Magrane prepares the sauce as follows: Cut onions and green peppers in fine pieces. Fry the onions and peppers for about five minutes in vegetable fat over a slow fire. Vegetable fats are particularly good for frying, as they create no smoke or odor, and can also be used several times. Then put the sauce in a frying pan with the boiled rice and dry until the rice kernels start to turn brown. Miss Magrane serves rice, Spanish style, with crisp slices of bacon.

Scalloped Apples

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

One quart soft, stale bread crumbs, one-half cup butter, one quart sliced apples, one cup seedless raisins, one-half cup brown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup cold water.

Melt butter, add crumbs and mix thoroughly. In a baking dish, well buttered, put a layer of crumbs, then a layer of apples and sprinkle with sugar mixed with cinnamon and salt.

Repeat until apples, sugar and crumbs are all used. Have a layer of crumbs on top.

Gently pour in the water. Bake in a moderate oven one hour, or until apples are soft. Serve with cream or hard sauce.

Peaches may be used in place of apples, and nutmeg instead of cinnamon.

BROWNIES.

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

One-fourth cup butter, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, one-eighth teaspoon soda, one egg, one cup flour, one cup pecan meats.

Cream together butter and sugar. Add molasses, egg (well beaten) and flour sifted with soda. Add nut meats cut in small pieces.

Turn mixture into buttered small tins, place a pecan meat on top of each and bake in a hot oven 12 minutes.

By "hot oven" is meant one hot enough to send cakes to top of pan in three or four minutes. Then reduce heat and finish baking.

Bread-Peach Pudding

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

Six slices or 12 small pieces of soft, stale bread, one and one-half cups milk, three eggs, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon vanilla, eight fresh or one can peaches.

Butter a tin mold, as is used for steamed puddings.

Beat eggs slightly, add to milk with sugar, salt and vanilla. Dip bread in the milk and line the mold with these pieces, placing a layer on the bottom of mold.

Over this place peaches, cut in quarters or eighths, adding sugar if peaches are not sweet.

Continue until material is used. Pour over all the remainder of egg and milk. Steam until custard is set.

Turn from mold and serve with any good liquid sauce or with plain or beaten cream.

APPLE CUSTARD

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

Two eggs, two egg yolks, one-fourth cup sugar, one cup milk, one-half cup cream, one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Beat eggs and egg yolks slightly. Add sugar, a few grains of salt milk, cream and vanilla.

Strain over the apples. Bake in a slow oven 25 minutes.

HOW TO MAKE TIMBALES

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

Any kind of cooked fish may be used for making timbales. Timbales are really a custard with meat, fish or vegetable pulp added. They are baked by placing the molds or mold in hot water. When firm they are turned from the molds and served with a sauce and often changing the usual cream sauce by adding different seasonings, a small amount of left-over peas or asparagus and sometimes cheese.

Try this recipe for halibut timbales with cheese and pimento sauce:

One cup cooked halibut, one and one-half cups milk, two tablespoons butter, one-half cup soft bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt, few drops onion juice if liked, two eggs.

Cook milk, butter, and bread crumbs together five minutes. Add fish and seasonings and eggs slightly beaten. Turn into buttered molds, set molds in a pan of hot water and bake 15 minutes, or until firm.

When ready to serve, loosen the custard around the top, invert and allow them to stand for a few moments; they will then be in good shape and hot.

To make the cheese and pimento sauce:

One and one-half cups milk, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons (level) flour, two pimentos rubbed through a sieve, one-half cup soft cheese.

Melt butter, add flour and seasonings. When smooth, add milk and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add cheese and pimentos and cook until cheese is melted.

Custard cups are good to use for the timbales.

Tomato pulp, one-half cup, may be used instead of the pimentos.

A Meat Substitute

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
Of Columbia University.

Occasionally one wishes to make a dish for supper or luncheon and finds that she has not meat or fish with which to make a croquette or timbale.

The following recipe will make a good timbale which will turn out, and by adding cheese to the sauce the fuel value of the dish will be considerable.

This quantity will make four timbales, measuring one-half cupful or six measuring one-third cupful:

One and one-half cups soft, stale bread crumbs, three tablespoons butter or bacon fat, two tablespoons chopped onion, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon celery salt, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon fine cut parsley, two eggs.

Cook the onion in the butter or bacon fat until yellow. Add bread crumbs and cook one minute. Add milk and cook until a paste is formed.

Then add seasonings and eggs slightly beaten. Turn in well-buttered molds and set molds in a pan half filled with hot water.

Bake in a moderate oven until firm, or until when a sharp-pointed knife is run into the center fo the timbales none of the mixture clings to knife.

Serve with the following sauce:

Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one cup milk, one tablespoon catsup, one-half teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon lemon juice, one tablespoon chopped pickle.

Make as usual, by melting butter, adding flour, and when thoroughly blended adding milk and seasonings. Cook until thick and smooth.

If cheese is desired use one-half cup grated cheese.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The cotton market was influenced by relatively firm cables and continued reports of activity in the cotton goods market at their opening today. There was probably scattered buying to replace cotton sold before the holiday, with houses with Liverpool and other foreign connection among the early buyers and after opening firm at an advance of 10 to 17 points the market soon showed net advances of 15 to 18 points, with December selling at 21.82, or into new high ground for the movement. There was considerable realizing and southern selling but domestic trade interests were reported buyers to fix prices.

The market showed continued firmness during the middle of the afternoon with December selling up to 22.30 or 38 to 42 points net higher on the general list.

Southern selling and heavy realizing attributed chiefly to Wall street and western interests caused reactions of some eight to 10 points during the first hour. These offerings appeared to have been well absorbed toward midday, however, and the market showed increasing firmness, selling up to 22.19 for December and 22.01 for January or about 29 to 30 points net higher. Trade interests were reported good buyers, presumably to fix prices for spinners and early sellers covered on the midday advance.

Cotton closed very steady.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13.—The disturbance reported by the weather bureau to be in tropical waters and apparently headed for the gulf of Mexico combined with the effect of better cables than due put cotton higher on the opening today. In the first hour of trading prices were lifted 17 to 22 points, December being carried up to 21.47.

Extremely heavy buying appeared and absorbed heavy offerings of contracts from traders on the long side who were satisfied to take profits. Some of this buying was due to the storm warning and some of it to reports over private wires from Fall River that sales of print cloths there this week amounted to the large total of 300,000 pieces. In the trading up to noon prices were sent 37 to 44 points higher than yesterday's close to 21.69 for December.

Much realising appeared on the long side, especially after the weekly statistics were posted and placed mill taking at 276,000 bales against 219,000 this week last year, but offerings were absorbed with only small recessions and every now and then spurted into new ground. Around 1:30 o'clock prices were 47 to 52 points up with December at 21.77.

Cotton closed very steady at a net advance of 42 to 51 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Higher prices for wheat here resulted this morning from a rise in Liverpool quotations and from continued transportation difficulties on this side of the Atlantic preventing any general accumulation of wheat supplies and creating an urgent demand for prompt shipment of other grains, especially corn. Demand was also proportionately greater for nearby deliveries of wheat. Most of the selling appeared to be of a profit taking character. The opening which ranged from 1c to 2c higher with December $1.09¾@1.09¾ and May $1.10¾@1.11, was followed by a slight reaction and then a fresh upturn.

Subsequently, gossip that 1,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and some United States wheat had been taken for Europe tended to uphold values. The close was firm, 1c to 1c higher, with December $1.09¾@1.09 and May $1.10¾@1.10¾.

Corn and oats displayed independent strength from the outset with May and July corn scoring new price records for the season. After opening 1c to 1¼c higher, December 63¾@64c, the corn market held near to the initial range.

An estimate that Argentina has only 20,000,000 bushels left for export was construed as bullish. The market closed firm 1c to 1¼c net higher, with December 64@64¼c.

Oats started 1c to 1c up, December 39¾c, and after a little sag, made a further advance.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Strength of standard railroad and Mexican oil shares and weakness of the Standard Oil group featured today's irregular opening of the stock market. The advance in rails was led by Chicago and Northwestern and Missouri Pacific, each of which were up a point while Mexican Petroleum up four, and the Pan-American issues, up 1¼ to 2, stood out in the oil group. The sharp break in Standard Oil of New Jersey, 2500 shares of which were sold at 236 to 230, as compared with the final rate of 236¼ on Wednesday, reflected speculative disappointment over the fact that the 400 per cent stock dividend involved no increase in the present rate of cash payments. It yielded later to 225¾. Standard Oil of California dropped 1¼ in the first half hour. Sugar stocks were strong in response to increased prices. American and Manati sugars each graining a point. American Radiator broke 2¼ and weakness also was noted in Famous Players, International Paper, National Lead, Baldwin and Union Pacific. National Biscuit, United States Alcohol and Studebaker were strong.

Prices took a downward course after mid-day, a further drop in Standard Oil gave way five points. Standard Oil of California three and Pacific Oil and General Asphalt two points. American Radio dropped 2¾ while American Express sold seven points under its high figure of the morning. National Biscuit receded from 211 to 208 but again mounted to 213.

The closing was strong. Sales approximated 1,050,000 shares.

CALLED TO ANSWER LIST OF QUESTIONS

Questions Propounded As to What Amount If Any They Gave Towards Campaign.

Depositions of sixteen local business and professional men were being taken Friday at the court house in connection with the case filed in the district court at Corsicana against Earle B. Mayfield, in which it is alleged that the democratic nominee for United States senator spent more than the amount allowed under the statute in conducting his campaign.

Renne Allred, Jr., reporter of the 20th district court, is swearing the witnesses, propounding the long list of questions and transcribing the answers given by the local men.

Another question also involves the matter whether they belong to any organization that donated towards the campaign of Earle B. Mayfield and in what amounts the subscriptions wede made and paid, if any.

Other questions propounded refer to conversations had with the democratic nominee for United States senator or with any member of his campaign committee.

Those who were summoned by subpoena to appear before Mr. Allred include: J. M. Bland, E. H. Gipson, Oral Jones, J. B. Fitts, W. J. Townsend, J. W. Akin, J. T. Montgomery, Charles I. JUDGE ORDERS NAME OF LEE ON BALLOTS IN HASKELL COUNTY

HASKELL, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—As a result of application for a writ of injunction seeking to restrain the county chairman and county clerk of Haskell county from putting the name of James P. Kinnard on the democratic ticket and commanding that the name of R. E. Lee be placed on the ticket, District Judge W. R. Chapman has rendered a decision granting the injunction and ordering that Lee's name be placed on the ticket for the November election.

In the runoff election in August, Lee defeated Kinnard by 25 votes. Kinnard filed a contest with the county executive committee and the committee threw out two small boxes for the reason that the presiding officer holding the election had not signed his name across the back of the ballot, and declared Kinnard to be the nominee by a majority of eight votes. R. E. Lee gave notice of appeal from the decision of District Judge W. R. Chapman of Anson. The judge called the case October 5 at Haskell and held that he had no jurisdiction in determining a primary election contest in vacation.

Lee applied for a temporary writ of injunction to restrain the county chairman and county clerk from putting Kinnard's name on the ticket, and commanding them to put Lee's name on the ticket as the nominee. The temporary injunction was granted Monday by Judge Chapman at Aspermont, where he was holding court. Kinnard gave notice of appeal to the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth.

OVERRULE MOTION OF FIVE UNION LEADERS AND THREE STRIKERS

EL PASO, Oct. 13.—Federal Judge W. R. Smith today overruled a motion of defense counsel to compel the prosecution in the case of five union leaders and three striking railroad employes charged with conspiracy to disrupt railroad service, to return to the owners letters, mercury and photographs seized by federal agents. The articles which the defendants wanted returned were seized by agents of the department of justice to be used as evidence tending to show that the defendants conspired to damage train service of the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio railroad by putting mercury in boilers of locomotives.

Judge Smith also overruled a motion of the defense for a bill of particulars requiring the prosecution to outline more completely the allegations in the indictments.

A TRUE RAT STORY

Auburntown, 9-22-22.
Stearns Electric Paste Co.,
Dear Sirs: Mr. Robert T. Donnell of Auburntown, came in our store the other day and wanted something to kill rats, so I sold him a box Stearns Rat Paste. And he put some paste on six biscuits that night and the next morning he found fifty-four big rats. And the second night he put out four more biscuits with paste on them, and the second morning he found seventeen more rats, making a total of seventy-one rats in two nights, and there were lots more that he did not find.
This is some big rat tale, but, nevertheless, it is so. Just thought would write to let you know that your rat paste is good.
Respectfully, KENNEDY BROTHERS.

Home Roasted Coffee cost more than good coffee does today

Perhaps you remember the days when coffee was purchased green and roasted at home. A few handfuls placed in a hot oven and stirred around for a short time until brown, perhaps burnt a little for good measure, was the usual thing. Although in all probability it was a low grade of Rio sold at a fancy price, one can look back with pleasure on the mornings when coffee, on account of its scarcity and high price, was a big addition to the meal.

Coffee roasting and packing today is not the simple thing of forty or fifty years ago, for the insistent demand for quality has made coffee preparation an exceedingly difficult and important operation.

The half century endeavor of Hills Bros. toward one aim—highest coffee quality—has developed processes of blending, roasting, grinding and packing that are distinctly individual. These methods, a little more skill and knowledge here and there, make a difference in taste and flavor which accounts for the fact that Hills Bros. Coffee leads all other brands in volume of sales.

PAID $3000 FOR LEASE THAT WAS CHIEF ITEM $2,500,000 OIL TRADE

The 160-acre lease in south Electra which was the principal item in the $2,500,000 purchase by the Magnolia company this week, sold in January of this year, ten months ago, for $3,000, it was learned Friday.

It was sold to Harvey, Cullum et al by Jerome S. Stone for that amount, so that the sale to the Magnolia represents probably the biggest profit ever realized in a tract in this section. Mr. Stone had obtained the lease from the H. & T. C. railroad, to which it had been originally granted by the state.

Although the properties involved in the Magnolia deal were carried in the names of Harvey and Cullum, J. J. Perkins and Frank Kell of this city were also interested, each having a fourth interest, and each realizing $625,000 from the trade. While the income taxes will reduce the profits materially, the fact that the syndicate's developments included some discovery wells will reduce the amounts due the government.

11 ARRESTS MADE, 9 OF THEM FOR TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

If you have been negligent in observing traffic rules and think you are going to get by with it, for your own benefit go to the city hall and let your optics fall upon the police docket for Thursday, October 12. Of the eleven arrests made on that date nine were charged with traffic violation. Reckless driving, speeding, driving without tail lights, defective mufflers and various other charges were booked against violators of traffic rules. Two charges of drunkenness were also filed. A fine of $10 was assessed on a speeding charge; the others were passed over until the next appearance day.

T. C. U. EX-STUDENTS PLAN BANQUET FOR MEMBERS OF TEAM

T. C. U. football team and the rooters who will accompany them to this city will be entertained with a banquet given by the T. C. U. ex-students association of this city. This decision was made at a pep meeting and rally held at the First Christian church Thursday night. All arrangements were made for the banquet and plans were made to cheer T. C. U. on to victory in the game with Simmons college Saturday.

All ex-students of T. C. U. or Add-Ran college sympathizers of the team, and friends of the church are invited to be present at the banquet and take part in an old time pep meeting to foster school spirit. W. R. Ferguson, president of the local ex-students association will be toastmaster for the occasion. The banquet will be given in the basement of the church and will be served by the ladies of the church under the direction of Mrs. Delbert Lewis and Mrs. J. A. Raley Jr.

Reservations should be made before 7:30 Friday evening at First Christian church, Wichita state bank, North Texas Furniture company or by phoning W. F. Willis at his residence.

HASKELL INTERESTS TO DRILL 30 WELLS ON WAGGONER RANCH

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—The Haskell interests of Oklahoma have contracted to drill some 30 wells on the Waggoner ranch in Wilbarger county. This is one of the largest drilling contracts ever entered into to drill for oil in this county. The same parties have taken oven the producing wells on the Sigler lease south of Vernon 14 miles. Some of this oil will be used for fuel for the drilling of the new wells. A small refinery will be erected on the Sigler lease and a portion of the oil from the producing wells will be refined and sold in Vernon.

HAVE OPENED A CAFE AT THE VERNON HOTEL

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—Mrs. J. N. Grimes, who has had charge of the Hill Crest Country club for more than a year, has opened up the Vernon cafe at the Vernon hotel. Mrs. Grimes has had many years of experience in her line of work, and the many visitors who have enjoyed her meals at the Hill Crest Country club, will be glad to know of her new enterprise. She will be assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Ward.

Mrs. Grimes and her son, John, who is about 14 year old now, traveled through a number of the western states by automobile in the summer of 1921. They spent most of the time out in the open and went to the hotels only when required to do so on account of bad weather.

A fish, found in Brazil, has neither a tail fin for propulsion nor a back fin for balancing; it swims at great speed by means of a rippling movement of its large lower fin.

LITTLE GIRL RUN OVER, AUTOMOBILE DITCHED, NONE HURT

Gladys B. Hester, aged 6 years, a student at the Bacon school, was run over by an automobile near the school house Thursday morning. The driver of the car that struck the girl made a desperate effort to miss the child and in so doing ran his car over a six foot embankment.

After the excitement cleared away, it was discovered that the little girl was not injured and that the automobile was not damaged. Not a bruise was found on the child and the car was driven away after getting it back on the road.

The little girl had just stepped from another automobile and started to run across the road to the school house when the second car came along. The man driving the car that struck the girl gave his name as Moody.

HALF PRICE FOR THE SCHOOL CHILDREN TO SEE "GRANDMA'S BOY"

The school children will have another opportunity to see one of their favorites at half price Saturday morning when the Olympic theatre will present its second school children's Saturday morning matinee of the season tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. All school children under 14 will be admitted for five cents to see Harold Lloyd in his latest five reel comedy "Grandma's Boy."

The comedy has drawn record breaking crowds the opening two days, the second night beating the first by over 200 paid admissions. It is easily the best thing this popular comedian has done and when it is said there is not a dull minute in the entire five reels it is saying something for comedy production. The picture will be shown the rest of the week.

WIND SWITCHES TO SOUTH AND BRINGS IN CLOUDED SKIES

During the night the wind made a complete turn. The norther that was headed this way, having struck Woodward on the Northwestern early Thursday morning, blew itself out shortly after sunset Thursday, and the direction for several hours was from the east. Before morning, however, the weather vane pointed south.

Long strips of narrow clouds that covered the sky early Friday morning apparently assumed more density towards noon, but the horison at that time gave evidence that the clouds were breaking up.

During the afternoon Thursday the thermometer reached the maximum height of 86 degrees and during the night receded to the 65 degree point.

VERNON COUNTY COURT BUSY THE PAST WEEK

VERNON, TEXAS, Oct. 13.—The county court is in its second week of the present term and a number of cases are being disposed of by Judge E. L. McHugh.

The case of Gerald Lawrence was called for trial Tuesday and the case dismissed because of a defective indictment. Lawrence was charged with carrying a pistol.

Ernest Kennan, who was tried for wife desertion, was found guilty and his fine assessed at $100. Also the cast of Fred Steen, a negro, has been tried. Steen was charged with reckless driving. He was fined $25.

The will of H. C. Dooley, formerly of the Odell community, has been filed for probate. The case will be called Monday, Oct. 16, at which time the court will hear evidence. The property has been left to Mrs. H. C. Dooley, his wife, and their children. The estate is estimated at $25,000.

Princess Yolanda, the oldest daughter of the king of Italy, is declared to be the most accomplished horsewoman among all the women of European royalty.
