Marines extension is sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, seizing the initiative on a touchy election-year issue, is urging Congress to keep the Marines in Lebanon while Middle East mediator Donald Rumsfeld tries to pry some conciliation from Syria.

But while Reagan told Republican leaders Tuesday that "we've made genuine progress," Rumsfeld described the Syrians as a stubborn obstacle to arranging a government of national unity for Lebanon.

And Reagan, in a letter Monday to two key House Democrats, Lee H. Hamilton of Indiana and Les Aspin of Wisconsin, said Syria and the Soviet Union were complicating U.S. diplomatic efforts.

Reagan wrote the letters and visited Capitol Hill before the newly convened second session of 89th Congress could get started on moves to bring the Marines home.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz was following up today with closed briefings for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and is scheduled to swing over to the House side on Thursday.

Congress initially authorized Reagan to keep the Marines in the Beirut area until the spring of 1985. All the Democratic candidates for the presidential nomination are urging a withdrawal, while Reagan is depending on Republican unity to resist the election-year challenge.

"In Lebanon, the peace progress has been slow and painful, but we've made genuine progress," he told his political allies in the Senate on Tuesday.

But Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said more than half the House Democrats who voted to support the continued presence of the Marines in Lebanon have changed their minds.

"They would vote for the president to move them (1,600 U.S. Marines) and to cut off funds," O'Neill said. "I think the votes are there."

DONOR RECOGNITION — Juanita Buchanan (left) was one of 39 blood donors awarded donor recognition pins during Tuesday's blood drive at the Scurry County Senior Citizen's Center. Her pin signifies donations equaling one-gallon of blood. New record set for blood donations

A repeat performance was reported here Tuesday as Scurry County blood drives continue to set new blood donor records.

For the first drive of 1984, the final count Tuesday was 143 pints, three more than counted at the November effort. In all, 157 persons registered to give blood Tuesday with 15 given temporary medical deferrals.

Tuesday's drive featured the presentation of "gallon-donor" pins to 39 longtime supporters also. These included 23 persons given one-gallon pins; 10 given two-gallon pins; and two each given three, four and five-gallon pins.

Drive sponsors Tuesday extended a special thanks to these consistent supporters. In addition, a special thanks was offered members of the Vernon W. Early family, who contributed Tuesday to show their thanks for the local program which is currently benefitting Early, now an out-patient being treated for sideroblastic anemia.

Donors from the Early family included Joy, Wanda, Bill and Robert Early.

Gratitude was expressed also for Rex Hanson, manager of K-Bobs Restaurant, who brought 14 donors to the drive.

Individuals presented gallon donor pins Tuesday were:

—One-gallon donors: Howard Bigham, Margret Bigham, Sharon Applin, Juanita Buchanan, John Ferris, Glenda Freeman, Albert Garcia, Samuel Garcia, Jim T. Garrett, Don Gressett, Krystal Hunter, Clint Potts, Tommy Johnson, Texa Jones, Kerri Keller, Margie F. Sealy, Betty Sneed, Denyse Stackhouse, Ruth Stanfield, R.H. Fund began here for WTC student

After reading Monday's account in the SDN of Mary Lou Moreno's automotive problems which caused her to hitchhike to Western Texas College in snowy, 15-degree weather Friday, many persons have offered help

A fund in her behalf has been set up by members of the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance. Persons wishing to contribute to the fund may send checks (noted "For the Moreno Fund") to the organization in care of Father Chris Coleman, secretary-treasurer, Rt. 3, Box 135, Snyder, Tx., 79549. WTC enrollment nears 1,300 mark

Registration for the spring semester at Western Texas College had reached 1,288 by Wednesday morning, Dr. Duane Hood, Dean of Student Services, said.

This total includes 1,156 students enrolled for college credit courses this semester, 80 students who attended the mid-winter session and 52 students in vocational nursing and cosmetology.

Although the number falls short of the record enrollment of 1,414 rreached in the 1983 spring semester, it is greater than the 1983 fall enrollment of 1,267 which had been the largest spring figure until the record was broken last year.

The new figure is larger than any previous fall enrollment.

Late registration at WTC will continue through this week, Dr. Hood added. Students beginning registration are to go first to the Administration Building.

Consideration is being given to a short session of classes which could begin in mid-February. These courses would include some which were cancelled for the spring semester and some additional courses which have been requested.

We're glad it's over. The Super Bowl was about as super as watching a chess match. We suspect that the only way to maintain an interest until the final whistle was to have a few grand riding on the outcome.

According to pre-game commentators, the Super Bowl has become the number one single betting event in the sports world. Frankly, we have a hard time getting excited about putting hard-earned coins on guys who do beer commercials in their spare time.

You might get us to bet if the game were being played in waist-high snow in Buffalo, and we had inside information about who was using herbs to keep warm.

For years, folks have claimed that herbs will cure various ills, and one herblist now claims to have the solution for the most mundane condition of all--cold feet.

Even if you don't want to bet on a game, the information might be useful in view of the recent artic-like conditions in Snyder.

A gal in California has come up with a mixture of herbs she markets as WarmFeet, and it has been distributed nationally since August and sells for $8.95 for 28 packets.

Directions recommend that users sprinkle the power in their socks, massage their feet and wait at least 20 minutes before going out in the cold. She contends that the herbs keep capillaries open and warm blood flowing.

She expected her big market to be skiers, hikers and outdoor workers, but her most ardent and vocal fans are football players. Some pro teams are now experimenting with the product.

If we had to line up across some of those 300-pound linemen, we'd have an acute case of cold feet.

Barber Bill Emerson got in a parting shot at Charlie Garner, 37th Street Church of Christ minister, who left Sunday for his new position in Florida.

Emerson, a Baptist, was giving Garner a haircut just a few days before his scheduled departure. The two had played golf together and Emerson knew Charlie's reputation for finding lost balls.

"I'm glad your leaving," Emerson said. "Now maybe some of the rest of us can pick up a few lost balls."

Snyder graduate is new 'Hill Street' character

Barry Tubb, the 1981 graduate of Snyder High School who has already received considerable exposure on network television this season, will debut Thursday as a regular member of the award winning TV series "Hill Street Blues."

The program will air at 9 p.m. on NBC. Tubb will play "Archie," a rookie cop who is transferred to the Hill from another precinct.

In addition, the Snyder native is currently appearing in the movie "Christine," playing in the role of the quarterback on the football team.

Earlier this season Tubb appeared in three episodes of a new series on NBC, "Bay City Blues." He appeared as pitcher Mickey Wagner, a young baseball player caught up in the problems of alcoholism. He has also appeared in a guest role on the CBS series "The Mississippi."

This past weekend, he participated in a Celebrity Ski Tournament in Breckenridge, Colo., an event covered by ESPN (Cable-TV) Sports Channel. The coverage of this event will air Sunday night.

Tubb attended the American Conservatory Theatre School in San Fancisco after graduating from SHS. While in high school, he appeared in several lead roles under the direction of SHS Director Jerry Worsham. These included "A Midsummernight's Dream," "Our Town" and "The Royal Hunt of the Sun."

He was also active in sports, playing for the Tiger baseball team as well as earning honors as a junior rodeo rider.

He is currently studying with acting teachers Stella Adler and Martin Kanzalis in Los Angeles.

Ask Us

Q. — Why is there a difference between the temperature reported on local bank signs and the temperature reported over the SCAT weather channel?

A. — Where the thermometer sensor is placed makes a difference. The First National Bank temperature sensor is on the sign itself; the West Texas State Bank sensor on the roof of the bank building; and the SCAT sensor on the roof of the cable TV office.

In Brief

White's plane criticized

AUSTIN (AP) — State Republican Chairman George Strake says Democratic Gov. Mark White is buying a "gas-guzzling Cadillac" jet plane when he should have bought a propeller-driven plane for half the price.

"Gov. White has taken us to the cleaners on this airplane purchase," Strake said.

Furthermore, Strake said in a statement Tuesday, White's plane will have $55,000 worth of luxury items plus $100,000 worth of optional equipment normally used on international flights.

White's press aide, Ann Arnold, said, "Strake's idea of economy is a little off-base."

Chagra formally charged

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra remained subdued during a hearing where he was formally charged with the ambush of a federal prosecutor, but loudly termed the proceedings a "joke" when he learned which judge would preside over the case.

Chagra, acquitted of charges he masterminded a federal judge's murder, appeared before a U.S. magistrate Tuesday to hear that he has been charged with plotting and paying for the November 1978 ambush of Assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr.

U.S. Magistrate Robert B. O'Connor detailed the indictment to ensure Chagra, who will enter a plea at a later hearing, understood the charges against him.

Tax changes are possible

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan is likely to propose far-reaching changes in the tax system early next year if he wins re-election, says Treasury Secretary Donald Regan.

In an interview with The New York Times published today, Regan said the changes could include a "simplified" income tax system that would eliminate many deductions and also lower tax rates.

He said the administration also would hope to persuade Congress to bring the rate of spending increases below the rate of the increase of federal revenues, thus lowering the budget deficit over several years. The administration expects the annual deficit to approach $200 billion for several years.

FCC delays access charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission, making good on its promise of last week, voted today to delay the telephone "access charges" that consumers and small businesses were to have started paying in April.

The agency, in a unanimous vote, said it had received no public comments over the past week that would prompt it to change its mind on postponing the imposition of the fees until mid-1985. The FCC had tentatively decided to take that step Jan. 19.

Telephone customers had been scheduled to begin paying the new access fees in April, with residential users paying $2 a month and business customers up to $6 a month to their local phone company. Under today's order, only large businesses — those with more than one line — will begin paying the fees in April.

Ira reports absenteeism

A variety of illnesses, including flu, fever and sore throat, has jumped absenteeism at Ira Independent School to a record high this school year of 44. That figure was recorded on Friday.

The situation began to improve Monday with only 38 students missing school. Tuesday's attendance had increased to 27 and by Wednesday 21 students were reported absent.

According to Beverly Clements, school secretary, the average absenteeism is between "five and six students, sometimes less."

This is the highest rate of absenteeism reported at the school in several years. The last remembered high number of absenteeism was due to the Asian Flu epidemic of several years ago.

Soviets may be willing to talk

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov, responding to President Reagan's call for U.S.-Soviet dialogue, says the United States must first prove its sincerity with "practical deeds", the official news agency Tass reports.

Andropov, in statements released Tuesday, offered no new initiatives in making the first official Soviet response to Reagan's speech of Jan. 16.

The Soviet president's comments came in an interview to be published today in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, and largely repeated previous Soviet positions.

Tass also accused the United States of violating arms treaties and called Reagan's report to Congress that Moscow is cheating on arms control agreements an "odious smear blitz."

Reagan said Monday that the alleged Soviet violations raise serious doubts that Moscow is a reliable negotiating partner.

Andropov repeated the Soviet demand that newly deployed U.S. medium-range missiles in Western Europe must be dismantled before Euromissile reduction talks can be resumed. He said that is an area where the United States can show through "practical deeds" that it was sincere in wanting to be a serious negotiating partner.

Although Reagan's speech was considered conciliatory by omission of strong anti-Soviet rhetoric, the president criticized Soviet intervention in Afghanistan and talked of Soviet violations of arms control agreements.

Reagan also said the United States can best ensure peace if it is militarily strong. "Strength and dialogue go hand-in-hand," he said.

Paul Harvey

Thoreau loved to look at the sky — as do I.

My day begins when the pre-dawn is illumined only by moon and stars. Perhaps because clear mornings are rare in Chicago, I scan those skies with reverential awe.

What better ritual with which to begin a day, for inspiration, for perspective and for the calming reassurance that things are where they belong.

There is a school in suburban Boston where sky watching is part of the curriculum.

If that sounds capricious, wait'll you hear the results!

In Eleanor Franey's geography classroom in Thompson School, Arlington, Mass., a third-grader is likely to jump to his feet, rush to the window and announce that the sky "is changing color."

This the entire class notes, then returns to its geography lesson.

Miss Franey's classes are ever aware of "the sky." A sky college covers one wall, sky paintings are in progress on several easels in the back of the room, children write sky poetry; the sky is interwoven throughout the ongoing core curriculum.

Miss Franey says, "The sky can stimulate all kinds of learning skills ... if you get the child turned on and excited you have a learner for life!"

The project was initiated by the principal, Bill Hurley. He calls himself "a sky person." He says the sky awareness curriculum provides children with a visual diet, a new way of seeing the world.

Third-graders chat excitedly about "cumulonimbus formations on the horizon," about the "prism effect," using words like "atmosphere," "meteorology;" third-graders!

The sky is an ultimately democratic learning tool, available to all. In the most impoverished neighborhood where the world appears 100 percent ugly, a child has but to look up!

And the student sky watchers by day become avid amateur astronomers by night.

But most beneficial, according to proponents of "sky awareness," is the manner in which it can weave together an otherwise disjointed sequence of ten curriculum subjects.

Here is what they have learned so far:

On the state test of basic skills, 54 percent of the Franey class scored in the 90th percentile where the average for third-graders district-wide is only 30 percent.

On the California Achievement Test the entire class scored two years above grade level.

One of the tricks of the trade is to know which low card you should play when following suit. This applies to both declarer and defender.

West opened the king of spades against South's four-heart contract. East followed with the five-spot to show a doubleton. With three or four cards he would follow with his lowest. In this situation the low card asks partner to stop. The high card asks partner to continue.

We watched South drop his jack of spades in a mistaken attempt to cause declarer to shift to some other suit. Unfortunately for South, West merely laughed and continued with the ace and four-spot of spades. East ruffed and, since the ace of diamonds was a sure winner for the defense, another game had gone to Valhalla.

South was victim of his lack of knowledge. The way to encourage a continuation is to play a high card. A low card may discourage a continuation. West had not seen the deuce. Therefore his partner must have held that card or the trey and clearly was showing a doubleton.

Suppose South had made his correct play of the deuce. West might well have played South for holding 3-2, whereupon East's five-spot would not be a come-on. West might lead the diamond ace. East would play the four, and now South could drop the five, concealing the deuce. West might still lead more spades, but he might also play a second diamond. We don't know what he would do, but at least South would have had a chance.

On Crisis Intervention Hotline...

Amitie Club hears Gil Fleer

Dr. Gil Fleer, counselor and organizer of Crisis Intervention Hotline, was guest speaker at Amitie Study Club's Jan. 10 meeting.

Fleer presented his viewpoint of how basic principles applied by Crisis Intervention personnel may be used for handling day-to-day situations.

Program chairman for the meeting was Maria Patterson and hostesses were Carla Price and Janet Spence.

After the program Amitie members conducted a business meeting electing LeaAnn Shields as 1984-85 representative to the Martha Ann Woman's Club board and establishing a nominating committee to submit names for 1984-85 Amitie officers.

Serving on the committee will be Janet Spence, LeaAnn Shields, Carla Price and Mary Gunnels.

In other action club members began preparations for the upcoming Blue Denim Ball on April 7.

Lyn Lancaster was elected dance chairman for the event and Jan Johnson was appointed head of the band search committee.

Club members also discussed the Jan. 23 deadline for recipes to be entered in the MAWC cookbook.

The next Amitie meeting will be Feb. 14 at MAWC with Mary Gunnels acting as hostess and Janet Spence as program chairman.

SPEAKER—Maria Patterson, Janet Spence and Carla Price welcome Gil Fleer of Crisis Intervention Hotline to the January meeting of Amitie Study Club.

Dear Abby

Unwed Mom Wants Others To Know Their Choices

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I recently found myself pregnant, and like many other young girls in this situation with no marriage in sight, I had a very big decision to make. I was in no position to support myself and a child.

I considered having an abortion, but when the time eame, I couldn't do it; I knew that I had to give that little life a chance.

I then considered adoption, and with my parents' support, I placed my baby for adoption. The unhappiness I suffered was a small sacrifice for the joy I gave a childless couple.

Abby, I want to tell others facing what I faced that there is an alternative to abortion that can make someone happy at the same time.

The pain I suffered was worthwhile in the end: I know that my baby is being raised by parents who really want a child and are able to handle the responsibility of being parents. I couldn't.

NO REGRETS IN MISSOURI

DEAR NO REGRETS: You are to be congratulated for your courage, maturity and unselfishness. Thousands of childless couples are praying for the kind of gift you have made possible. God bless you.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman with two daughters, ages 8 and 11. I have custody of the girls, but their father has them every other weekend.

My "ex" has recently remarried and joined his wife's church (Baptist). Our children were baptized Catholic and have always attended Mass every Sunday with me.

My "ex" now wants to take the girls to Baptist services on the weekends he has them. He says that neither he nor his pastor sees anything wrong with this.

I think consistency in their religious upbringing is very important—that going back and forth between the Catholic church and the Baptist church will confuse them, so my "ex" should take the girls to Catholic services when he has them for the weekend.

He doesn't see this as a workable solution. Your opinion is needed.

CONSCIENTIOUS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I agree that consistency in religious upbringing is essential. The minuet your ex-husband proposes between the Catholic and Baptist churches could get your daughters off on the wrong foot.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You stated that the widow of "John Smith" should call herself "Mrs. John Smith." I don't agree with you. I have a name, and I am a person in my own right. In the wedding ceremony it says, "Till death do you part." Well, if your husband dies, you are no longer married. I don't want to feel like I belong to someone who is dead. I am not his possession.

Of course, I will still use his last name, which became our family name, but if there is no "John Smith," how can there be a "Mrs. John Smith"? It doesn't make any sense at all.

I prefer to use my first name and his last name.

I wonder if anyone else feels the way I do.

JOHN IS DEAD; I AM LIVING IN OHIO

DEAR LIVING: You may call yourself anything you wish, but the rule of etiquette is: A widow is "Mrs. John Smith" until she dies, unless she marries again. A divorcee is "Mrs. Mary Smith."

Hotel razing slated in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A Republican official says that a delegation to the Republican National Convention should encounter little difficulty finding alternate accomodations after they learned the hotel to which they were first assigned will be demolished.

The 600-room Dunfey Hotel, to which the Illinois delegation had been assigned, is scheduled to be torn down to make way for a shopping center.

"I just got the letter today saying we had been assigned to the Dunfey (Hotel)," Chris Atchison, executive director of the state's Republican Party, said. "When I called to get some more information about the hotel I spoke to a very pleasant lady who said, 'Your hotel is being torn down.'

Kohl meets with Shamir over sales

JERUSALEM (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany met with Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir today to discuss Bonn's plans to sell arms to Israel's Arab neighbors and proposals for new Middle East peace talks.

The two leaders emerged smiling from the 90-minute meeting at Shamir's office, the second working session since Kohl arrived Tuesday, but officials on both sides declined to reveal details of their talks.

Kohl later laid a wreath at the monument for Israeli war dead at the door of the Knesset, or parliament, and was greeted there by a police honor guard and three army trumpeters.

He conferred with 10 Israeli lawmakers in an hour-long roundtable discussion, and told them the Knesset visit was "one of the highlights of my trip" because the legislature represented a common system of democracy shared by the two countries.

Security at Shamir's office and the Knesset was extremely tight, and there were no signs of demonstrators. Police stood watch for several blocks around the prime ministry, where West German and Israeli flags fluttered on the gate and roof, and a helicopter circled overhead.

An anonymous bomb threat Tuesday night sent police units to the hotel where Shamir was hosting a state dinner for Kohl. A police spokesman said no bomb was found and the dinner was not disturbed. No information was available on the caller.

The threat came as Kohl ended the first day of a six-day visit. Throughout the day he was trailed by a small but noisy band of concentration camp survivors, veteran guerrilla fighters and young Israelis from the Betar youth movement of Shamir's Herut Party.

At their first meeting, Shamir and Kohl tackled the two thorniest problems on their agenda: Germany's offer to sell sophisticated weapons to Saudi Arabia, and Kohl's support for legalizing a banned veterans' organization of the Waffen SS, an elite unit of the stormtroopers who ran Nazi concentration camps.

Shamir's spokesman, Avi Pazner, said the Israeli leader told Kohl the Saudis either would use the German weapons against Israel or give them to another hostile state.

"Saudi Arabia is not the moderate state that people in Europe think it is," Pazner quoted Shamir as saying.

West German spokesman Peter Boenish did not give Kohl's reply. But Bonn is believed to be committed to providing defensive weapons to Saudi Arabia even though it has scrapped plans to sell it Leopard 2 tanks because of Israeli pressure.

Kohl's visit has been shadowed by the past. His first stop Tuesday was Yad Vashem, the memorial to the 6 million Jews killed in Hitler's death camps.

Guided through the museum housing a pictorial history of the Holocaust, Kohl said: "I can assure you in Germany it will never happen again."

Outside the memorial about 200 demonstrators, some dressed in concentration camp uniforms emblazoned with a yellow Star of David, held placards reading, "We will never forget."

Kohl repeatedly stressed that he represented a new generation that refused "to accept collective guilt" for the Nazi butchery but would not shirk its historic responsibility.

Shamir, who lost his parents and two sisters in the death camps, lamented the victims "annihilated by the Nazi monster."

Israel's welcome for Kohl adhered to protocol but lacked any extra courtesies. In deference to anti-German sentiments, Israel raised the German flag over the buildings Kohl was to visit, but not along Jerusalem streets as customary.

Israeli television and radio stations broadcast live coverage of Kohl's arrival and played the German national anthem to a background of cannon blasting a 19-gun salute.

In 1973 when Willy Brandt became the first Chancellor to visit here, they refused to broadcast the anthem, a symbol to many Israelis of Hitler's regime.

Sieur de Roberval, France's first viceroy in Canada, sailed from La Rochelle for the New World in 1542 with three ships and 200 colonists. De Roberval wintered near Quebec City and explored the St. Lawrence River as far as Montreal Island, seeking the legendary kingdom of the Saguenay. The expedition was a failure and the survivors returned to France, where de Roberval was murdered in 1560.

Blame sloppiness for paper mistake

WASHINGTON (AP) — An openly embarrassed State Department blames "sloppiness" on the part of at least three department officers for allowing secret and highly sensitive data to be shipped by mistake last fall to a prison where it circulated among inmates.

But a department official said all three officials still hold the positions they occupied last year when the "unique incident" occurred and that no disciplinary action has been taken.

"I'm not sure to what extent anyone is going to be disciplined," said Robert Lamb, assistant secretary of state for manangement.

Lamb refused to give the name or ranks of the people involved. He said a continuing FBI investigation poses the possibility that criminal charges may be filed, apparently under a law that makes gross negligence in the handling of classified data a criminal offense.

Lamb said the department's own investigation has uncovered no harm to national security from the case, in which classified papers were shipped by mistake to the Lorton Correctional Facility, a prison in suburban Virginia where the District of Columbia houses its prisoners. Also with the papers were at least two unerased memory typewriters used to compose secret documents.

However, Lamb said U.S. intelligence agencies still have not concluded a "damage assessment" on the incident.

The classified documents, including nearly three months of secret daily intelligence summaries prepared for the personal use of Secretary of State George P. Shultz, were contained in a file cabinet in a room where a decade of such summaries were being microfilmed to reduce their bulk.

The department said the responsible official failed to look inside the file cabinet before authorizing its removal from the department.

"We would have to call this sloppiness, no question," Lamb said. "We found laxity in our procedures.

"We were certainly embarrassed about it," he said. "The entire department was embarrassed."

He said established safeguards on the transfer of surplus equiment to other federal agencies were not followed, and that the department has "tightened up" on the safeguards.

Both the filing cabinets and the typewriters had been designated surplus when they were sent to a government warehouse which transfered them to the prison in September 1983.

In the case of the typewriters, Lamb said officials of the department's East Asian and Pacific Affairs Bureau had incorrectly believed that all the memory banks of the machines had been erased.

However, an FBI check revealed that an auxilliary memory system still contained classified material, he said.

In any case, the department's report said the machines were not authorized for the recording and storage of such material in the first place, even though it acknowleged that that fact was not made known to the people who used the machines.

Daily 1983 TV viewing tops seven hour mark

NEW YORK (AP) — TV viewers sank a bit deeper into their easy chairs last year. Their eyes may have glazed over more. Maybe the pets got fewer walks. All because daily television viewing hit an all-time high in 1983 — an average seven hours, two minutes per household.

Except for children between ages 2 and 11, viewing increased in every age group in 1983, said the A.C. Nielsen survey of viewing trends which reported the record.

Think about it. A typical day for an American household now divides into three nearly equal parts: eight hours of sleep, seven hours of TV and nine hours of work or school, including getting there and back.

But viewing and seeing may be two different things, said Steven A. Holt, general manager of Television Audience Assessment Inc.

"Viewers are watching TV in a buzzing environment, with all sorts of distractions," Holt said Tuesday. "The number of hours may have increased, the sets are surely on, but people can't possibly be sitting in front of the TV all those hours and getting the dishes washed, fixing the meals and cleaning the house, too."

Holt's company did an April survey saying that audience attentiveness had diminished; the networks countered that the report was biased and unscientific.

In the record-breaking year, cable reached 40 percent penetration and made inroads into the nation's viewing habits, while independent stations continued growing with their network reruns and the networks, which stopped losing viewers for the first time in several years, did a more effective job of first-run programming.

In breaking the 1982 record by 14 minutes of TV per day, 1983 now ranks with other TV-addiction milestones. The five-hour barrier was broken in 1956, the six-hour viewing fixation came in 1971.

Viewing in 1983 was up in 11 months. January and February, the months when TV-watching becomes a warm alternative to the outdoors, had respective consumption levels of 7 hours, 38 minutes and 7 hours, 33 minutes.

Duo charged with abuse of animals

MARLIN, Texas (AP) — A businessman and a Falls County rancher were free on bond today after being charged with cruelty to animals following an investigation into allegations that as many as 2,000 horses died as the result of neglect.

R.D. Plunkett of Marlin, a partner in the now-defunct Horses Unlimited Inc., was charged with two misdemeanor counts, while one misdemeanor count was lodged against rancher Mike Davis, according to Falls County Justice of the Peace Hazel Lewis.

Both were released Tuesday night after posting $1,000 bond on each count, authorities said.

The cruelty charges were the first in the wake of an investigation in this Central Texas county where as many as 2,000 horses have died since Jan. 13. Authorities allege the animals died of neglect or starvation.

Officials said Horses Unlimited Inc. brought horses from across the country to Falls County and sold them to landowners with winter pastures. Officials said contracts called for the horses to be repurchased within 60 to 90 days by the company, which would pay the landowners $1 for every day each horse was grazed. Most of the horses would then be shipped to slaughterhouses.

Earlier this month, principal owner Roland Jones Jr. of Meridian told landowners he could not afford to repurchase the horses. Twelve theft charges were filed against Jones, but were held in abeyance until the grand jury continues its investigation, said Falls County District Attorney Tom Sehon.

The horses began starving after the winter oat crop was destroyed by an unusually hard freeze, authorities said.

Falls County commissioners approved a resolution Monday asking Governor Mark White to declare the county a disaster area because of damage by two hard freezes this winter. County Extension Agent Ronnie Leps said 60 percent of the county's oat crop was killed in the freezes.

Meanwhile, an executive of an animal preservation group said he asked an attorney to come to Marlin today to help him file additional animal abuse complaints and ask for a court injunction that would ban shipment and abuse of the animals.

Jerry Owens, executive vice president of the Fund for Animals, said he asked the chairman of a Washington, D.C.-based animal rights group, Alex Pacheco, to delay filing his own complaints Tuesday against Plunkett and Davis.

Owens, the owner of a Texas ranch for abused animals, said he is looking into accusations that thousands of horses have been allowed to starve to death in Falls County in recent months. He criticized Pacheco for not notifying other conservation groups sooner about the horses' deaths.

But Pacheco, chairman of People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, said he filed complaints with Ms. Lewis Tuesday because of publicity over the collapse of Horses Unlimited.

Pacheco said he had been investigating the alleged abuses in Falls County for 10 weeks and had planned to file complaints in February.

No pluses to alcohol

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read a newspaper article that suggested alcohol was beneficial for some people.

If I have a few cocktails before dinner, invariably I have to take Maalox during the night. If I leave booze alone, I have no problem. I've had several bleeding ulcers in my lifetime.

I believe booze is destructive, not only to the body, but to humanity as a whole. Every year thousands of accidental deaths and injuries result from the use of alcohol. Think of the efforts we use to avoid physical injuries, yet not a single step is taken by our government to outlaw booze. I wish you would comment on this in your column.

DEAR READER — Alcohol to help prevent heart attacks or fatty-cholesterol deposits in arteries should be considered as medicine. Like all medicines, it's not for everyone and it must be used in the right quantity at the right time.

Anyone who has an ulcer or ulcer-related problems should avoid alcohol completely.

In addition, many people complain that alcohol interferes with sleep. Studies have shown that it significantly increases the episodes of arrested breathing — sleep apnea — that can occur and can make sleep restless.

You are absolutely correct about the role of alcohol in accidents. But there are efforts to do something to prevent these — efforts against drunk driving are a step in that direction.

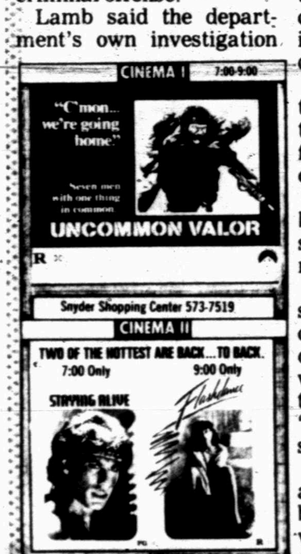

Beyond accidents is the role of alcohol in crime. A high percentage of murders, assaults and other violent crimes are associated with alcohol. After all, alcohol is a drug and improper use can lead to irrational behavior. The prevention of alcohol abuse could have a significant impact upon crime prevention.

As far as the theory of one or two drinks a day to prevent heart attacks, the problem can be better approached with medicines that don't create the same problems as alcohol. You can get the same results through a better lifestyle, including proper diet and exercise.

Changes that occur in blood cholesterol and blood fat from having one or two drinks a day can be achieved through a good exercise program. I'll let you guess which one is better for your health.

The list of the harmful effects of alcohol is almost endless. I've discussed many of them in the Health Letter 14-6, Alcohol Can Be Dangerous to Your Health, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Prices said to increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department economists are sticking to a forecast that 1984 food prices will rise moderately, perhaps as little as 4 percent over the year. They rose only 2.1 percent last year, the smallest annual gain since the 1960s.

Ralph L. Parlett Jr., a food specialist in the department's Economic Research Service, said Tuesday that the official forecast calls for a price rise of 4 percent to 7 percent this year.

But in response to a query, he said it looked as if food prices might average "close to the bottom" of the range.

Food prices in 1983 turned out to be 2.1 percent higher than in 1982, he said, slightly less than had been predicted. That was the smallest annual increase since 1967 when food prices rose 0.9 percent. They went up 4 percent in 1982.

In its calculations, USDA uses an average of food prices spread over the entire calendar year, not the December-to-December comparison favored by some — which shows a 2.7 percent increase.

The USDA analysis followed an earlier report Tuesday by the Labor Department which showed a sharp drop in the nation's inflation rate in 1983, including food prices.

Department economists say there are a number of reasons for predicting higher food prices this year, including greater consumer demand as the economy recovers, higher prices for some farm commodities, and a continued creep upward in costs of transporting, processing and merchandizing food after it leaves the farm.

Assistant Secretary William Lesher, the USDA's senior economist, said that food eaten away from home rose most sharply last year, while the prices of food at grocery stores rose only 1 percent.

"However, I am concerned that much of this reduction in the rate of food price increases is attributable to lower farm prices for most farm commodities," Lesher said in a statement.

But Lesher warned that severe weather so far this winter has been hard on crops and livestock.

"Prices for meats, poultry, eggs and fruits and vegetables have increased since the first of the year as a result of extreme cold weather this winter," he said. "Weight gains of livestock have slowed due to cold weather, and the Christmas freeze destroyed citrus and vegetable crops across the South."

Candidate is seeking surtax

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, winding up his two-day Texas tour, criticized President Reagan for cutting federal programs and former Vice President Walter Mondale, his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, for promising to expand them.

Glenn, D-Ohio, told audiences in Abilene and Fort Worth on Tuesday that a 10 percent federal surtax on personal and corporate incomes is needed to reduce the federal budget deficit.

"That's strong medicine, to ask for a tax increase in an election year," Glenn said. "But it's honest, it's straightforward. It's a lot better than making promises you can't keep."

Speaking in Fort Worth, Glenn said that Mondale "promises everybody everthing and doesn't really worry much about what the bill's going to be in the end."

Earlier Tuesday in Abilene, Glenn said that Mondale promises would add $89 billion to $169 billion annually to the federal budget.

"My campaign promises are on a pay-as-you-go basis," Glenn said.

Youth gets leg braces

TEXAS CITY, Texas (AP) — Wilfredo Alvarenga, who hobbled about his Honduran hometown on all fours after polio left him crippled, now anxiously awaits braces which will allow him to walk.

The 12-year-old has been brought to the Houston area and measured for the metal braces and crutches through the kindness of Margaret Anderson, who worked as a volunteer nurse in Wilfredo's village, La Virtud.

"One day he came up to me and out of the blue asked if I could help him get braces for his legs," Miss Anderson said. "He said he just wanted to be able to walk straight like all the other children."

When she returned home to the Houston area from the Central American country at Thanksgiving, Wilfredo came with her.

Last month, Wilfredo was measured for braces and crutches at the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children in Houston. While waiting for the devices, he's staying with Miss Anderson and her parents in their Texas City home.

"This is a dream come true," said Miss Anderson, who credits her father, the Rev. Allan Anderson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Texas City, and some divine intervention for making it all happen.

"A man in our church named Odbert Myers is a Shriner and he said he would be glad to help out," Anderson said. "The Shriners have underwritten most of the medical costs and the congregation has taken care of things like travel expenses."

Wilfredo said he is baffled by the generosity of the strangers.

RISING SOON IN SNYDER

Investigators viewing film of lost ship

HOUSTON (AP) — The cause of a 25-30 foot gash found in a sunken American drilling ship remains unknown, an official of the ship's owner said.

Divers examining the wreck of the Glomar Java Sea found a large indented fracture which ran from top to bottom of the starboard side, Fred Glander, drilling superintendent for Global Marine Drilling Co., said Tuesday.

The split is three to four feet wide at its broadest point, he told a panel of marine investigators trying to determine the cause of the wreck.

Glander and a diving crew visited the ship about one week after its Oct. 25 sinking to explore and film the wreck, which lies on its side in 320 feet of water.

Glander narrated as investigators viewed a brief portion of the videotape.

The 5,930-ton ship, leased by ARCO China Inc., sank at its drilling site about 60 miles south of China's Hainan Island and 200 miles east of Vietnam when a typhoon in the area brought 75 mph winds and 26-foot waves.

Poor visibility required the divers to film the ship wreck at close range, making its sections almost indistinguishable.

Divers also found broken lifeboat lines, which Glander said indicated that crewman may have launched the ship's two lifeboats. Each lifeboat accommodated up to 64 people.

Other structural damage included broken portholes, which probably burst from ocean bottom pressure, Glander said.

Divers also tried to film through a large broken window in the ship, Glander said, but "it was completely chaos on the inside. Everything was turned over."

The panel expected to hear testimony today from several Global Marine employees, including Bruce Leavitt, the company's vice president of drilling; Dick Johns, vice president of operations support; and safety and training manager Dan Hansen. Also expected to testify were assistant engineers Ken Rice and Charles Iverson.

Earlier testimony Tuesday included Bill Riddle, vice president of drilling for Global Marine, who was the last person to talk to crewmen over the radio. Coast Guard spokesman Lt. John Baker said Riddle testified that crewmen reported they were putting on their life jackets and preparing for the storm, but specified no plans to evacuate.

Asked if he thought Capt. Gustav Swenson, who was in command of the ship when it sank, should have tried to run from the storm, Ledbetter said, "I would have to have been there to be able to answer."

Defendant tried to revive mate, officer testifies

HOUSTON (AP) — The first police officer to arrive at the home of Dr. Charles Latourette has testified he found the former pro football player dead and his hysterical and nude wife giving him artificial respiration.

Patricia Latourette was "disturbed, upset," Kevin Radabaugh testified Tuesday. The officer, a member of the West University Place police force, said Mrs. Latourette was so seriously out of control she had to be handcuffed.

West University Place, where the couple lived, is a fashionable town surrounded by Houston.

Mrs. Latourette, 35, is charged with murder in the Dec. 22, 1982, shooting death of the radiologist and former player for the National Football League St. Louis Cardinals.

Latourette was found shot through the eye in the bedroom of the couple's luxury condominium. The couple had been married 11 months. Patricia was his third wife.

Visiting District Judge Pete Moore denied a defense attorney's motion for a mistrial after reporters recorded a 25-minute tape played during Monday's testimony. Mrs. Latourette threatened to kill her husband several times during phone conversations which Latourette taped.

Jack Zimmermann said the use of recorders in the courtroom led to a "circus atmosphere."

But Moore declined to hold any of three reporters called to testify in contempt.

Moore, who had forbidden the use of recorders in the courtroom, excused the three, finding they were confused by his original ruling that tapes could be made during the trial.

He also said he saw little difference in a broadcast reporter taping evidence and "a newspaper reporter who can take notes on the trial."

In the obscenity-laced taped conversations, made in October 1982, Mrs. Latourette warned her husband, "Don't come around. I'm gonna kill you. Dead. Dead.

"Don't you dare come home," she told her husband, who was at his office at the time. "You stay out there. I'll shoot you. You have rubbed my nose in it for the last time."

State prosecutors have tried to show the woman had a violent temper. Testimony has indicated that the couple had quarrelled on numerous occasions and sometimes fought physically.

Reagan set to give talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, using his State of the Union speech tonight to raise the curtain on an anticipated re-election campaign, will tell the nation it has moved "from the problems of the '70s to the solutions of the '80s," a senior White House official says.

The president will use the address to endorse a manned space station and budget reform proposals, the official said.

All but the finishing touches were completed on the speech the president will give from the well of the House of Representatives at 9 p.m. EST, before an audience of senators, members of the House, the Cabinet and diplomatic corps, as well as a nationwide television and radio audience.

The president's aides view the address as a key political document and one of the first salvos he will fire in the 1984 presidential campaign. It precedes by four days the five-minute speech he will deliver from the Oval Office Sunday night disclosing his political plans.

Even before the day of the State of the Union speech arrived, Reagan's policies were drawing renewed fire, and not just from Democrats.

Former President Gerald R. Ford urged Reagan on Tuesday to stretch out the defense budget, and impose new taxes as well, to stem what he called the "dark, ominous cloud" of deficits approaching $200 billion for years to come.

In a pre-emptive strike at the president's speech, Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, the House Democratic leader, said that the nation's priorities had grown "cruelly deranged" at the White House, with spiraling military spending draining human resources.

He delivered a virtual campaign platform to reverse Reagan's policies, "to revive the American dream, to renew the American spirit, to rekindle America's faith in our future."

Three arrests here Tuesday

Snyder police logged three arrests Tuesday evening. Two of these resulted after officers followed a DWI suspect a short distance out the Ennis Creek Road Tuesday evening.

The driver of the vehicle which city officers stopped on the Ennis Creek Road was booked for DWI while a passenger in the pickup was arrested and charged with public intoxication and disorderly conduct. Additional felony charges of aggravated assault on a peace officer are pending against the second suspect.

City officers also booked a second suspect for DWI during the evening.

Scientist says drug found in infant's body

GEORGETOWN, Texas (AP) — At the end of a long day of often-numbing scientific testimony, after the defense tried one more time to keep the testimony out, jurors in the nurse Genene Jones murder trial heard the evidence that could help convict Ms. Jones of killing a baby.

The words came from an Austrian-born toxicologist who tested tissues taken from the little girl who allegedly died of a drug injected by the nurse.

"In my opinion, I detected, identified and measured succinylcholine present in a number of the specimens" taken from Chelsea McClellan's body, Dr. Fredric Rieders testified Tuesday.

Prosecutors say it was succinylcholine — a powerful and hard to detect muscle relaxant — that killed Chelsea after a September 1982 visit to a Kerrville pediatrician's office.

Ms. Jones was a nurse at the office, and she gave 15-month-old Chelsea two injections that were supposed to carry routine immunizations.

Rieders, who runs a suburban Philadelphia toxicology lab, did the tissue tests at the Sweden lab of the poison expert who developed the process.

On Monday, State District Judge John Carter turned down a defense motion to bar the testimony. Defense lawyer Jim Brookshire has called the test a "magic wand" technique not accepted by the scientific community.

Late Tuesday afternoon, when Kerr County District Attorney Ron Sutton asked Rieders the key question, defense lawyer Burt Carnes interrupted:

"We'd like to raise our objection again," Carnes said.

But Carter said the jurors could hear from Rieders about the tests, developed by Dr. Bo Holmstedt of Stockholm.

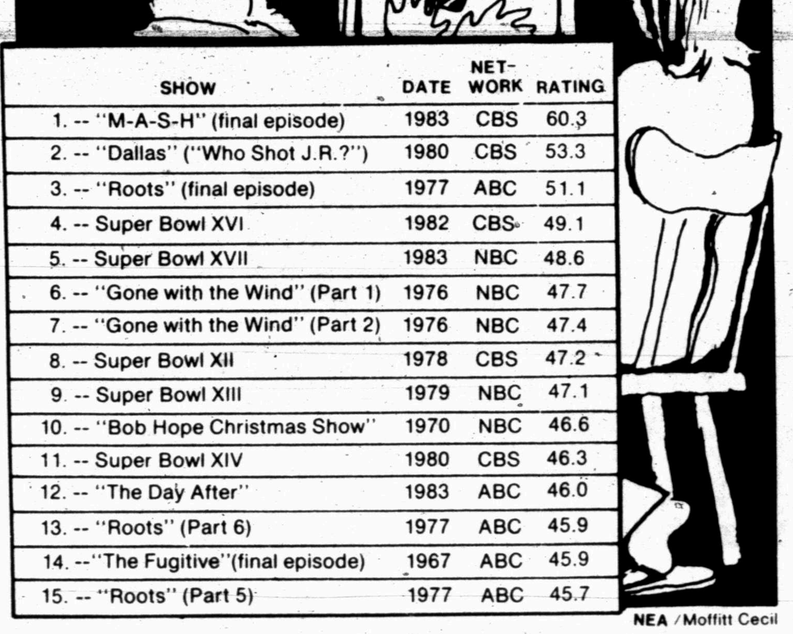

In Tuesday testimony, Holmstedt said succinylcholine can produce "horrifying" effects. The condition he described was similar to Chelsea's reaction, as recounted Monday by Petti McClellan, the girl's mother.

Mrs. McClellan testified Monday that her daughter's eyes looked strange after the injections. Holmstedt said Tuesday that the eyelids are among the first muscles to be affected by succynlcholine.

Mrs. McClellan testified her daughter seemed to stop breathing after the shots.

Judge expected to rule on motion for retrial

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A federal judge delayed overnight her decision on whether to grant the defense a mistrial in the wrongful death suit filed by the widow of a ranch camp foreman shot to death by police officers pursuing a dangerous fugitive.

Defense attorneys asked for a mistrial Tuesday, saying that testimony by a former Department of Public Safety crime lab supervisor was prejudicial and could not be corrected by a judge's instruction to the jury.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson recessed the jury prior to the motion, and asked that jurors return at 9 a.m. today.

On Tuesday, Jack L. Benton testified tests and calculations showed the person shot 6666 Ranch camp foreman James C. Grandstaff was lying prone on the west side of a road and fired just as Grandstaff was bending over.

Amarillo attorney Wayne Sturdivant, whose firm represents the City of Borger and four Borger policeman named in the suit, argued that Benton's testimony was made without sufficient legal grounds and that Benton testified earlier he was not an expert.

Borger police officers have said they had been exchanging gunfire with Oklahoma fugitive Lonnie Cox in August 1981 when they chased the vehicle involved in the shootings onto ranch property.

Grandstaff was shot by accident because police thought he was the man they had been chasing and believed he was reaching for a weapon, officers said.

Benton said he did not draw any conclusions as to the identity of the man who fired the fatal shot, adding it could have come from any Mini-14 rifle that morning.

Sturdivant asked Robinson to declare the mistrial.

"The underlying facts and data presented by the witness were not sufficient on which to base an opinion," said Sturdivant. "And we believe the testimony was too prejudical as to be incorrectable by instructions by the judge."

Employed until four months ago by the Department of Public Safety at Lubbock as its crime laboratory supervisor, Benton testified that he conducted an investigation into Grandstaff's death last August, which included reconstructing the shooting scene.

Attorneys said most of the conclusions given by Benton, who now runs a private crime lab in Plainview, were based on evidence that the Grandstaff vehicle had been placed on the exact spot when the shooting occurred, two years prior to his crime scene investigation.

Bond reduction denied for suspect in slayings

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — A man accused of killing four men in an aircraft hangar remained in Grayson County jail today after a state district judge refused to lower the capital murder defendant's $400,000 bond.

Judge Ray Grisham on denied a motion Tuesday, rejecting a plea by defense attorney Jerry Buckner of Weatherford to allow Lester Leroy Bower Jr. to work and support his family rather than forcing him on the taxpayers of Grayson County.

Prosecutors argued that Bower, an Arlington salesman, should have been denied bond in the first place because he could try to flee from prosecution.

Buckner said Bower's responsibilities to his wife and children and his job would keep him in the area should he be released on bond.

Bower is accused in four counts of capital murder in connection with the deaths of Grayson County sheriff's deputy Philip Boyce Good, 29; former Sherman police officer Ronald Mayes, 37; Sherman paint contractor Jerry Mac Brown, 51; and Denison builder Bob Tate.

Authorities said the four were shot to death Oct. 8 in a hangar at Tate's B&B Ranch northeast of Sherman.

Good, Brown and Tate were shot twice in the head at close range with a .22-caliber weapon, investigators said. Mayes was shot five times in the head, neck, chest and abdomen with the same type weapon and lay 36 feet away from the others near the hangar entrance.

Investigators said Bower is not a Texas property owner, has lived in the state for only six months and has no real security at his place of employment, Thompson-Hayward Chemical Co. of Dallas. They also told Grisham that Bower has a valid passport.

In a statement Tuesday, Buckner said he still has not "seen or heard anything to show that Les Bower was ever in Grayson County."

Records in State District Judge Tom Cave's office in Fort Worth show that investigators seized 39 pieces of evidence in a search of Bower's Southwest Arlington home Friday night.

The evidence included two black ultralight aircraft wheels that had T-A-T-E — the last name of one of the victims — scratched on the inside, according to the records.

Bower had ordered a quantity of the same type of ammunition that was found at the death scene and also had purchased literature that explained how to alter handguns and make silencers, affidavits filed in Cave's office said.

Tax can be deferred...

Home rules flexible

By Robert Metz
(Fifth of 14 articles)

For the average individual nothing will have as profound an impact as the taxes paid on personal residences. And hear this: There is much room to maneuver for temporary and even permanent avoidance.

If you sold a home in 1983 and replace it within two years with a home costing as much or more, the tax on the profit is deferred. Remember, though, the tax is not forgiven.

You can keep deferring the tax on your gain by buying costlier homes. If you sell out and move to an apartment after you reach age 55, you may permanently avoid capital gains taxes on profits of up to $125,000 — a nest egg for your retirement years.

CUT YOUR OWN TAXES AND SAVE

In broad outline, that is how tax deferral works when you sell your home. How much gain do you have? It depends.

Improvements add to the cost basis of a home and thus reduce the accumulating capital gain. But there is a distinction between improvements and repairs. Repairs maintain a home but do not add to its value. Improvements, on the other hand, add to a home's value, prolong its life or adapt it to new use.

Painting your home, for example, is repairing it. Adding a finished recreation room or a new bathroom is an improvement.

The initial investment plus improvements and fix-up expenses immediately prior to selling is called the "cost basis" of the home.

Because you can recapture such investments at the time of a sale, it is important to keep all receipts and maintain careful records. How long should you keep them? As long as you own your home, whether it be five years or 20 and then for an additional three years to protect you if you are audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

TAX TRAP: This can be a lifelong chore. Each house in the capital gains cycle may be improved and thus will affect cost basis.

There are also subtractions from the selling price.

Selling expenses typically include the realtor's commission on the sale, advertising and legal expenses, escrow fees and charges. When the total of such charges is deducted from the selling price, you have the adjusted sales price, which is the important consideration for tax purposes.

The adjusted sales price minus the cost basis is your actual capital gain.

If you do not buy another home (you're renting an apartment, for example), you would report that capital gain on form 2119 and on line 10, Schedule D. (Only 40 percent of a long-term gain is taxable.)

But now let's say you are buying a replacement home. If you buy a higher priced replacement home, the cost of the new home, minus your deferred gain from your previous home, equals the adjusted cost basis of your new home. It is this figure which will be considered the base line for your gain when you sell this home in the future.

In the future, if you sell this home for more than that, you'll have a capital gain. But the tax on that gain could be deferred again.

A taxpayer aged 55 or older can avoid accumulated capital gains taxes arising out of home ownership of as much as $125,000.

To do this, you must meet the following conditions:

— You must be at least 55 years old before the date of the sale.

— The home being sold must have been owned and occupied as your principal residence for at least three of the five years immediately preceding the sale.

— This is a once-in-a-lifetime privilege. For married couples filing jointly, both spouses must agree to using the privilege. Once they use it, neither can use it again.

TAX TRAP: A serious problem can arise for a home sale by a married couple when only one spouse is 55. The law treats both spouses as qualifying if they own their residence as joint tenants, tenants by entirety, or as community property. But the exclusion does not fully apply if they hold property as tenants in common, a prevailing practice in many states. When a property held by a couple as tenants in common is sold and only one of the spouses is 55 or older, only one-half the gain is subject to the exclusion. The remaining portion of the gain is subject to tax if a new residence is not purchased within two years before the sale or two years after the sale.

The problem could be avoided if the parties convey their title from a tenancy in common to a joint tenancy, or to a tenancy in the entirety. Before making such a transfer, you should seek the advice of competent legal counsel.

TAX TIP: Taxpayers over 54 who are planning to marry should keep the exclusion in mind when they are thinking about where they will live together. If both own homes, they should consider selling both before the marriage to double the exclusion up to $250,000. If one has already used the exclusion, perhaps with a former spouse, the other should consider a sale before marriage because he or she will not be able to claim the exclusion after the marriage.

TAX TRAP: Since the $125,000 exclusion can be used only once in a lifetime, it should be used carefully. For example, a 55-year-old property owner might not be using good judgment in employing the privilege to cancel out a $10,000 profit on a home sale. The remaining $115,000 exclusion possibility would be lost forever. Such a homeowner might be better advised to pay the tax on the $10,000 profit. At a 40 percent capital gains rate, that would only be a tax on an additional $4,000 of income. He should reserve the exclusion for when he might have a larger gain.

2-4A roundup...

Mustangs stun 6th-ranked Maids

It was Lamesa's boys and Sweetwater's girls ringing the victory bell yet another time when games around the loop were completed Tuesday.

Sweetwater's Lady Mustangs continued to make their move on the frontrunners of the girls' District 2-4A standings race, whipping sixth-ranked San Angelo Lake View this time, 40-23.

The 'Stangs had dropped previously-ranked Andrews last week, 57-54.

Tuesday's win leaves Sweetwater and Andrews tied for second place in the standings with 7-2 records. Andrews defeated Monahans Tuesday, 61-48. Lake View, which fell to 8-1, still leads the standings.

In other girls action, Snyder defeated Lamesa 68-66 in overtime and Pecos popped Fort Stockton, 62-55.

Meanwhile, Lamesa's boys jumped out early on Snyder and carried the lead to a 62-52 win, their 15th straight of the season. The Tors, now 7-0 in district play, are 18-3 for the year.

Andrews kept second place and a 6-1 record by clipping Monahans 59-51. Sweetwater and Pecos both stayed in contention with victories. Sweetwater, now 5-2, ripped winless Lake View 59-32 while Pecos, 4-2, dropped Fort Stockton 59-50.

That Pecos win was cause for celebration in the Eagles' camp. It was the first road victory in District 2-4A history for Pecos' boys while their four loop wins is as many as they have had in the previous four seasons combined.

Pecos goes for another road victory Thursday, when the Eagles visit Snyder in boys' and girls' makeup games.

Tigers can't halt LHS whirlwind

Tenth-ranked Lamesa used a thieving press to run up a quick lead, then carried it the rest of the way to defeat Snyder's Tigers here Tuesday, 62-52.

The quick-handed Tornadoes jumped out to a 10-2 advantage as Snyder struggled with the press in the first quarter. The Tigers managed to overcome the defensive strategy after that, but a cool shooting night would never let them make a run at the visitors, who pushed their season record to 18-3 with the win.

The victory kept Lamesa on top of the District 2-4A standings with a 7-0 mark. Snyder fell to 3-3 in loop play and 7-14 for the season. The Tigers will play again Thursday when they host Pecos in a makeup game at 7:45.

The difference in the contest - other than the quick start by the Tors - came from the field. While Snyder sacked only 32 percent of its field goal efforts in the first half, Lamesa sealed up a sharp 60. Bad went to worse when the Tigers managed to knock down just 24 percent in the second half. Lamesa also dropped, but only to 41.

For the game, Snyder was 20 of 67 for 30 percent; Lamesa hit 27 of 55 for 49 percent.

"We rebounded the ball well and we were 12 of 16 on our freethrows. We did the things you normally think you have to do to win, but we just couldn't make our shots," said Coach Larry Scott, whose Tigers actually outrebounded the visitors 31 to 24.

Snyder committed 13 turnovers, five of them in the first quarter.

Lamesa ran up a 20-9 lead at the end of the first quarter, took a 37-25 advantage into halftime and was ahead 49-38 after the third period as Snyder had scored in succession only twice in the game.

The Tigers made a move early in the fourth as Chad Peterson put in two freethrows to make it a 49-40 score. In a controversial moment, Snyder's Sunny Cobb then leaped in front of Lamesa's Todd Sons to intercept a pass. The Tornado player appeared to grab Cobb from behind but the officials charged the Snyder senior with a foul, then added a technical for "touching the official while protesting a call."

"Sunny raised his hand and when he turned around, he apparently bumped the official. Nobody, not even the Lamesa coaches, could believe the call," said Scott.

That sent Sons to the line and he made two of three shots, effectively halting the Tiger comeback attempt.

Snyder still had chances, however. John Murphy scored to put Snyder back within nine, 51-42, but Jerry Mason answered with four straight points for the Tors and the Tigers were unable to overcome.

Lamesa's hot shooting performance was led by Richard Diaz, who canned nine long-range field goals and was three-for-three from the line for 21 points. Jerry Mason added 19 points and brother Chris Mason had 8. Sons and Mark Murphy put up 6 apiece.

Snyder got 22 points from 6-1 senior John Murphy. Cobb scored 11 while Peterson and Paul Tate put in 6 apiece. Fred Fleming came off the bench to score 3, replacing Willie Greathouse, who scored 4. Greathouse did not see action in the fourth quarter.

"He said his chest was burning when he breathed," said Scott of Greathouse. "Fred was playing well and it was obvious Willie was in pain. We didn't want to play Willie in that condition and maybe hurt the chances of him being able to play Thursday and Friday."

Scott had not seen the 5-9 junior early this morning to update his playing status for Thursday's game.

68-66 in overtime...

Lady Cats whip Tors, 68-66

Karlene Thompson grabbed a rebound and stuck it back up with two seconds to play in overtime here Thursday, giving Snyder girls a 68-66 win over the Golden Tornadoes of Lamesa.

Lamesa had forced the extra period when Jennifer Smith connected on a 12-foot jumper at the final buzzer, tying the score at 62-62.

The Tornadoes then scored the first four points in overtime for a 66-62 advantage. Thompson pinned a couple of freethrows as Snyder pulled within two points, and Pam Gray popped a 10-foot jumper to knot the score again with 50 seconds to go.

Lamesa had a chance to take the lead when Vera Jones was sent to the line at the 0:39 mark, but she missed and Thompson yanked down the rebound. Snyder then worked the ball to 5-9 senior Carmen Rios. Her shot rolled over the rim and fell off. Thompson was there for the rebound however, and she put the ball back up and through the hoop for the winning points.

It was Snyder's first win in four outings, and leaves the Lady Tigers 10-9 on the season and 3-5 in District 2-4A play. The Ladies host Pecos at 6:15 Thursday in a makeup game, and travel to Andrews on Friday.

Snyder actually led 18-7 at one time in the game, but turnovers and fouls plagued the Tigers all night long. The hosts were whistled for 32 infractions, and three girls - Carie Housden, Threasa Ashworth and Wendy Lunsford - all fouled out. Gray, Thompson and Pam Casias ended the game with four fouls apiece. Thompson had been ticketed with four in the first half, but managed to avoid another one the rest of the way.

In all, Lamesa went to the line 43 times, but hit the bullseye on just 18 shots and missed the front end of nine would-be bonus trips. The Tors were two for eight in overtime.

Snyder also suffered from the stripe, hitting only 8 of 20.

It looked as if the Tigers would run away with the contest early. Though Lamesa got a 3-0 lead, Snyder retaliated with 10 straight points and eventually held an 18-9 lead at the end of the first quarter. Lamesa rallied in the second period. Thompson and Housden combined for five points that left the hosts ahead 23-10, but Jones scored once and teammate Angela Hawkins twice to trim the margin back to 23-16.

Snyder went into halftime leading 37-32.

Lamesa took advantage of several Snyder turnovers to take a 40-37 lead in the third period. Thompson and Housden got the advantage back for the hosts, but Jones responded in fashion for the Tors. That set the theme for the third quarter as the lead changed possession seven times and was tied once.

The fourth quarter was almost a blueprint of the third, with Lamesa staying close via the charity stripe. Lamesa shot 13 freethrows in the period, tying the score when Kelly Gillespie bagged two from the line with 20 seconds left, 60-60. Rios scored the go-ahead bucket for Snyder with eight ticks on the clock, but Smith's buzzer shot sent the game into overtime.

Thompson led the Tigers with 26 points and 14 rebounds while Rios had 21 points and 11 boards. Housden, who fouled out with 6:34 to play in the fourth, scored 14 points.

For Lamesa, now 5-16 on the season and 2-7 in district play, Hawkins had 20 points while Gillespie and Jones notched 12 apiece.
