Thunderbolt Shakes Cuba As Bond Moratorium Is Called On Large Issues

Interest To Be Paid But Principal Not To Be Altered

(By The Associated Press)

HAVANA, April 11.—Cubans and foreigners alike displayed keen anxiety today over possible reactions to the cabinet's declaration of a moratorium on $52,000,000 in bonds held mostly by American investors.

Coming in the midst of a threatening cabinet crisis, the action was like a thunderbolt and whether or not it was designed to draw Cubans' minds from a muddled political situation it had that result.

Provisions Outlined

The moratorium, decided upon during a 12-hour meeting of cabinet men and considered the alternative of not paying national obligations including public employes' wages, provides that nothing be done toward amoritizing five bond issues until Cuba's gross income totals $60,000,000 annually.

Even the most optimistic predicted that the gross income in 1934 would not exceed $40,000,000, and none would venture a guess as to when the holiday would be ended. The only definite time element in the declaration was that the moratorium should run a minimum of two years.

The bonds were floated through

Senate Adopts Emergency Tax On Incomes

Ten Per Cent Levy For Year Gets Approval

Processing Tax On Imported Vegetable Oils Also Given Okay Over The Objections Of President

Veto Threatened

Proposal To Boost Inheritance Taxes To Raise $92,000,000 In Additional Revenue Will Be Voted On Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 11.—In two quick moves, the senate today adopted an emergency one year 10 per cent additional tax on all individual tax returns in 1935 and disregarded President Roosevelt's objections by approving a processing tax on imported vegetable oils.

Democratic leaders spoke of threats of a veto for the revenue bill if the oil tax stayed in.

Reversal Of Decision

The vote for the Couzens amendment levying the 10 per cent added tax on income and surtax returns, estimated to raise another $55,000,000 in revenue, was 43 to 38 and was a reversal of yesterday's 46 to 44 decision against the proposal. A motion by Senator Couzens (R-Mich) to reconsider yesterday's vote carried 40 to 35.

An agreement was reached to vote early tomorrow on a proposal to boost inheritance taxes so as to raise $92,000,000 in additional revenue.

Administration leaders were trunced in their efforts to exempt Philippine coconut oil from the proposed 3 cents a pound processing tax on all imported vegetable oils.

Tempered By Amendment

However, the oil tax section was tempered somewhat by an amendment by Senator Norris (R-Neb) which would refund all taxes collected on the oils to the Philippine government, provided that government grants no subsidies to its coconut growers.

The Couzens amendment would add the 10 per cent to the amount of tax due from individuals next year on this year's income. If a taxpayer owed $100 in taxes he would be required to pay $110.

FDR Rapped For Turning Back On Spiritual Things

FORT WORTH, April 11. (AP)—George J. Mason, of Dallas, state treasurer of the Baptist general convention of Texas, said today he "deplored that the president, in trying to win the war against depression, has turned his back on spiritual things."

"He won't win the fight until he turns back," the Dallas man said in an address before the state Baptist Sunday school convention here. "The president launched the NRA as an act of patriotism but man's greed is so great the NRA may fail."

Referring to the 6,000 bells held over the country recently in commemoration of President Roosevelt's birthday, Mason expressed his opinion it would have been "much better to have had that many gatherings in churches."

"Nero fiddled while Rome burned," Mason commented in discussing dancing and drinking.

D. O. Wiley Signs To Direct; "New Deal" For Tech Outfit

D. O. WILEY, director of the nationally-known Simmons university Cowboy band, has signed a contract to direct Texas Technological college Matador band.

Reports, originating in Abilene, that Wiley had accepted a place here, were confirmed Wednesday night by Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president.

Effective In September

Formal approval of Wiley's contract with Tech will be made by the directors in June. Effective Sept. 1, he will succeed Harry LeMaire, who resigned.

"He and I have ambitions to build up the Tech band a thousand per cent," Doctor Knapp declared. He praised Wiley as "one of the outstanding band directors of this section."

"New Deal" For Band

The Tech president characterized employment of Wiley as "a new deal and development of the band here."

Doctor Knapp and Director Wiley already have discussed plans for an annual summer band school, starting in 1935. The school, the former said, will be similar to annual coaching schools conducted at Tech.

Texas Tech's Matador band had about 90 members at the opening of this academic year. About 45 members played at a recent concert. Chick McElya is student manager of the band.

Heated Party Clash Brings Wirt Charges

Bulwinkle Declares Wirt Was Jailed During War Because Of Pro-German Activities; Denial Is Made

Mrs. Rosevelt Replies To A Statement That Homestead Project Is Communistic By Citing Advantages

By SAM BLEDSOE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 11. — The charge—followed by an immediate denial—that Dr. William A. Wirt was jailed for "pro-German activities" during the war was made today on the house floor after Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had replied to the Gary, Ind., educator's assertions that the Reedsville, W. Va., homestead subsistence project was "communistic."

A heated party clash over Wirt's testimony before a house committee yesterday was climaxed by a declaration from the chairman of the group — Bulwinkle of North Carolina — that Wirt "during the war, because of his pro-German activities, was confined in jail."

Denies Assertions

A few minutes later, Representative McGugin (R-Kas) announced that he had been authorized by James A. Reed, Wirt's attorney, to deny Bulwinkle's assertions.

William F. Hodges, mayor of Gary during the war period, said "Wirt was 100 per cent American during the war."

In reference to Wirt's remarks about the homestead project, Mrs. Roosevelt said at a press conference:

Explains Project

"I do not understand how he considers it communistic to give people a chance to earn their own living and buy their own houses."

James Allred To File Suit On Thursday

Dorenfield And Holliday Will Be Named Defendants; Early Action Sought; Others Are Threatening To Quit

Ruling Is Refused

Carl Estes Promises Expose Of Influences Behind Movement; Claims Reasons Are Purely Political

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 11. — The Texas supreme court will be called on to decide the controversy between two claimants for a place on the Texas relief commission.

Attorney General James V. Allred announced today he would file a quo warranto suit, probably tomorrow, in the supreme court to determine whether R. L. Holliday of El Paso or Colonel Julius Dorenfield, jr., of Amarillo is rightfully entitled to a place on the board. Both Dorenfield and Holliday will be named defendants.

Holliday Removed

The controversy was precipitated when Speaker of the House Coke Stevenson removed Holliday and appointed Dorenfield to his place. Holliday contended his removal was illegal and refused to yield his place. Dorenfield asserted his commission was valid and announced he would serve until the courts ruled him off.

Allred flatly refused to issue an official ruling on which of the two contestants should have the place. It had been requested by the commission.

Matter For Courts

Allred said both Dorenfield and Holliday indicated the opinion would not be binding while Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, ex officio chairman of the commission, had said it was a matter for the courts to thresh out.

"I think the right given state departments to ask for an opinion from the attorney general should carry with it the intention to follow that opinion but in view of the evident intention of some of the interested parties not to abide by my opinion I see nothing to be gained

From The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

MARGARET TURNER

WOMEN entertaining delegates and visitors who are here to attend the Methodist missionary conference could console themselves with one thought during the sand storm Wednesday. The majority of the out-of-town women are from this section of the state and a sand storm is no novelty to them. They realize the difficulty of keeping the sand off of the window sills and the furniture dusted during a West Texas rain.

SPRING CAUSED THIS

A READABLE outburst brought on by the arrival of spring, and a poem written by Miss Addie Benbow Henderson, local case supervisor for the Texas Relief association, were received today. The letter follows:

"Dear Miss Turner: 'Tis spring, and in the spring a youngster's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of picnics'. Would a soliloquy by an old maid be too acrid for your Woman's Angle?

'Tis spring, and anxiously I trip through the busy streets alone and worried. In wild excitement my pupils have started a run to meet our room mother, who is giving us a picnic in the park. I had not anticipated this stampede so visualizing many calamities I hurry along.

At the park, I find a boy has already located a water hose and many of the girls have been deluged. I also find the older boys have appropriated all bicycles and with a girl on every handle bar are doing stunts. With screeching and screaming we finally get everyone to safety and the pupils play a few desultory games with their eyes on the lunch baskets. We rescue the fruit from two young racketeers, who were making a getaway. We decided to feed the children and get that over.

School teachers are born, not made; so with scathing tongue and fiery eye we line the young heathens up and try to divide the rations. If a youngster gets off with five bananas and three oranges, it's ten to one he is not one of the children who really needs extra food, but a coming young monopolist from one of the best families!

The room mother has fixed a clever individual lunch for each child, one for the teacher and one for herself. In her rush of ministering, and in her inexperience she does not notice that her lunch and the teacher's (placed for safety on top of a car) have been appropriated. When she does discover it she has a rather forced, vacant smile as she continues to dip lemonade for the never ending line of paper cups. At last everything has been consumed.

The picknickers start another stampede to chant to the room mother the only rule of etiquette they seem to have assimulated: "I sure enjoyed myself," "Thank you for a nice time," I sure had a good time." They are gone!

The room mother and I realize we have fallen down on our jojb by not having the children clear up the trash but glad in the realization of a responsibility ended with no fatalities. We gather up paper cups and banana peelings, tie up broken shrubbery, pat foot prints from fresh flower beds and then ride home, fatigued but hoping "A good time was had by all for 'tis spring!"

HERE IS THE POEM

A FRIEND submits Miss Henderson's poem which has the title, "Send 'Em Back To The Farm." Here it is:

With half-bowed head the prisoner stood,
Before the judge's stand;
Now, jedge, I want to talk to you,
Jest as a man to man.
I've traveled down a rocky road,
And done the world much harm,
But Sally and the kids are fine,
Won't you send 'em back to the farm?

Refrain

Please send 'em back to the farm, jedge,
Away from the city's harm.
You've sentenced me to prison bars,
Now sentence them to the farm;
They can raise their food and heve a home,
And fuel to keep them warm;
They won't take the trail of their poor old Dad
Ef you'll send 'em back to the farm.

We left the farm and came to town,
When things were getting tight.
The price of crops went down the hill,
And cash went out of sight;
We soon found out we'd made a mistake,
But tools and team were gone.
There was no work in town for me,
And everything went dead wrong.

You've sent me up for twenty long years,
Behind the prison bars.
I'll spend my days in crushing rock,
My nights in gazing at the stars.
It'll take three thousand dollars or more,
To keep me fed and warm.
Please hang me, jedge, and take the dough
To buy Sally and the kids a farm.

Reports Of Various Officers To Mark Conference Program

Meetings Will Continue Here

Dr. Bradford Knapp Is To Be Speaker Tonight; Address Is Given By Mrs. Nat Rollins Wednesday Morning

Delegates and visitors attending the annual sessions of the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference Missionary society will assemble at the First Methodist church this morning to begin the second day's program. About 450 women registered Wednesday.

Reports of various chairmen and business meetings will be interspersed with musical selections. Tonight Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college is to bring the main talk on "Peace Through Education."

Wednesday evening Miss Mabel K. Howell teacher at Scarrett college, Nashville, Tenn., spoke. Miss Howell is a former missionary in Japan and is visiting speaker during the conference.

Choir Sings "Elijah"

Preceding Miss Howell's talk, the Rev. J. O. Haymes, pastor of the host church, led a devotional. The choir of First church presented the first part of the chorus, "Elijah," by Menedissohn. Miss Myrdle Dunn directed the choruses with Mrs. Mamie I. Neal at the organ and Charles Pike at the piano. Solo parts were sung by the following: Mrs. W. E. Patty, soprano; Mrs. H. W. Moore, contralto; Edgar Shelton and Mr. Moore, tenor; Gordon Gaines, baritone.

Reports from the nine secretaries of the conference were features of Wednesday afternoon's program. Mrs. J. G. Merritt of Colorado City conference secretary, presided for this meeting. Mrs. R. A. Metcalfe presented children's work and Miss Artie Rodgers sang.

A proposed trip to Texas Technological college was postponed because of the funeral services of C. B. Powell. This trip has been rescheduled for this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Auxiliary Is Hostess

Members of the Mary Helm auxiliary of First Methodist church were hostesses with a musical tea late Wednesday afternoon in the church basement.

Reports of conference officers followed the address of Mrs. Nat G. Rollins, president of the conference, Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Rollins discussed the social attitudes of women toward government and economic changes since the conference sessions last year. She paid a tribute to President Roosevelt as the one who has been mainly responsible for one attitude prevalent today, namely, that every individual is entitled to a living which will allow him the utmost development.

Mrs. Rollins condoned the indifference of church people to their financial pledges in paying church and parsonage debts and contributing to the pastor's salary.

"It is time for us all to realise the condition our organization is in", she said in part. "Further cuts in appropriations mean closing institutions and recalling missionaries in large numbers; yet the need and opportunity were never greater, at home or abroad. Each missionary woman must realise her responsibility for the success of the work, which will result in the extension of the kingdom of God."

Outlines Changes

Proposed changes in handling of finances of the church, which will be brought up at the meeting of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Jackson, Miss., the latter part of the month, were discussed by Mrs. Rollins. A finance committee, created at the 1930 General Conference, is to present a plan, which recommends that finances be under the pastor and the board of stewards of the church.

Mrs. Rollins expressed herself as opposed to one article in the proposed change that states that only with the permission of the pastor and the board of stewards could the women's society raise and direct funds. "If this is as it sounds, she said, "and if it is passed by the General Conference, it would be little short of disastrous to our work, for the society funds would be placed in a general budget to be used for all purposes, regardless of the fact that they had been given specifically for the women's missionary society."

The conference president praised the work of the conference officers during the year and reviewed her itineraries.

Reports from other officers followed her talk. Special music by a double quartet from McMurry college at Abilene preceded a memorial service conducted by Mrs. Morris Randal of Amarillo, vice-president of the conference.

Three Daring Aviators Write A New Illustrious Page In Arctic Endeavor; 62 Saved From Floating Ice

By STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
Associated Press Foreign Staff

MOSCOW, April 11.—Three daring Soviet aviators wrote a new illustrious page in the history of Arctic endeavor today by rescuing, within 24 hours, 62 members of a party of 90 Russians, marooned for two months on a drifting ice floe in the remote Bering sea.

Among those brought to shore was Prof. Otto Schmidt, leader of the scientific expedition to Wrangel island which came near disaster when its vessel, the Cheliuskin, was crushed by ice and sank February 13 on the return trip.

Ordered Into Plane

Despite his protests, Schmidt was ordered into an airplane. He is ill with a bronchial ailment.

While a brief spell of favorable weather lasted, the fliers Kamanin, Molokov and Slepney—the latter in an American plane— brought off 29 more castaways this afternoon, in addition to the 33 rescued last night and early today.

All were landed safely on the mainland at Cape Van Kanem, Siberia, after hazardous flights over hitherto unexplored territory.

28 Remain On Ice

An official announcement, following radio dispatches to Moscow, said only 28 members of the party remain on the floating ice, which apparently accounts for 12 women and children and five men previously taken off.

The fliers have been trying for weeks to reach the party, while ships were also heading to the rescue.

Kaminin and Molokov flew to the icy camp from Cape Van Karem, while Slepnev was already there with a plane which was slightly damaged in landing several days ago.

Position Given

The approximate position of the castaways was 350 miles northwest of Nome, Aluaska, where a Russian air relief expendition departed for Cape Ván Karem last week.

A radio message last Thursday to Moscow gave the position as 68 degrees, 20 minutes north latitude, 173 degrees, .04 minutes west longitude.

When the Cheliuskin was wrecked the stranded party managed to salvage supplies from the ship, including much food and clothing. They constructed a wireless sending set and kept in almost constant touch with the relief commission here.

Picked As "Girls Of The Future"

What will beautiful girls of the future be like? Three famous artists were asked the question—and two of them selected the girls shown above. Howard Chandler Christy said Elise Ford (left), a New York model, most closely approximates his ideal girl of the future. McClelland Barclay picked Babs Shanton (right), a Park avenue girl.

Machine Gun Robbers Smash In Bank And Flee With Loot Of $25,000 And Three Officials As Hostages

STERLING, Colo., April 11 (AP) — Five machine gun bandits who smashed their way into the Security State bank here this morning and fled with about $25,000 loot and three bank officials as hostages were sought over a large area in eastern Colorado and Western Kansas and Nebraska today.

The robbers, all wearing masks, fled in a small coach, which had no license plates, driving in an easterly direction.

About two miles from Sterling they released their prisoners unharmed.

At the request of federal agents at Topeka and Salt Lake City, Sheriff John Johnson at Hugo, Colo., about 125 miles south of Sterling, staged a futile chase Monday after a large sedan occupied by a woman and two men, one of whom was believed to have been John Dillinger, notorious outlaw.

Sheriff Johnson and other eastern Colorado officers have also been asked to watch for Clyde Barrow, hunted slayer-bandit, who was reported driving to this state.

JOHNSON ON TRIAL

VERNON, April 11. (AP)—Twelve hours after his sister, Gladys Johnson, was sentenced to five years on a charge of robbery with firearms, Heber ohnson went on trial on similar charges today in connection with the $1,300 hijacking of John Gilbraith, Paducah truck driver near Oklaunion.

TERRAPLANE 6

There are always two sides to an opinion. There can only be one side to a fact. If you are considering the purchase of a car—weigh these facts about the new Terraplane 6.

1st in BIGNESS
By foot rule, yard stick or tape measure, there can be only ONE car that's BIGGEST. In the low price field today, that's Terraplane—15 feet 10 inches from bumper to bumper!

1st in PERFORMANCE
Performance is just another word until it's proved. The Terraplane proves its performance with facts. The new Terraplane will even outperform the Terraplane 6 that broke official AAA record after record last year.

1st in POWER
Of two different figures—one is either greater or less than another. With 85 horsepower, the Terraplane 6 is the most powerful 6 in the low price field.

1st in STYLE
A car either has a tire carrier or baggage trunk in the rear—or the rear lines are clean. With clean, flowing rear body lines and a front end free of air pockets, the Terraplane 6 is first in fully advanced streamlined style.

1st in ECONOMY
Terraplane economy has been proved in actual owner service—by owners' sworn statements.

Declares Loan A Private One

Government Attorney Seeks To Prove Part Of Contribution Deposited In Two Banks On Which Checks Drawn

WASHINGTON, April 11. (AP)—A witness in the trial of Bishop James Cannon, charged wtih failure to report fully 1928 campaign contributions to the churchman's anti-Smith cause, today told a jury he had been loaned $12,000 by the bishop early in 1929.

The loan, said Ernest H. Cherrington, like Cannon a leader in the prohibition movement, was of a private nature and had no connection with the 1928 campaign.

Manner Described

Defense attorneys agreed with the prosecution that part of the loans were made in the following manner: $2,700 on January 5 and $1,800 on January 17, both drawn from accounts by "James Cannon, Jr., chairman," in the Continental Trust company, Washington; two checks on March 5, for $2,000 and $2,500 on the account of "James Cannon, jr., executor," at the Bank of Crewe, Va.

The government attorney has asserted he would prove that portions of the Jameson contributions were deposited in the two bank accounts. The prosecution tomorrow proposes to place on the stand Charles W. Warden, former president of the Continental Trust.

Occupies Most Of Day

This bit of testimony and the reading into the record of testimony that Edwin C. Jameson, who gave $65,000 to Cannon fer his fight against Alfred E. Smith, also had made extensive contributions to the Republican campaign, occupied most of the day in District of Columbia supreme court.

Cherrington, under the quizzing of the government prosecutor, John J. Wilson, said he contracted Bishop James Cannon early in January of 1929.

"Did he lend you some money?" asked Wilson.

"He did. He loaned me in January 1929, as I recall, $7,500.

"Around the first of March did he lend you some more?"

"$4,500."

Agreement On Length

"Was there any agreement as to the length of time they would run?"

"They were to run for about four months."

"Did these advances have anything to do with the political campaign just closed?" asked Wilson and the witness replied:

"Absolutely not."

Cherrington said that the loan was partly repaid and renewed from time to time and that a total of $4,500 had been repaid to date.

Robert H. McNeill, chief of defense counsel, argued that the private transactions of Cannon were not involved in the indictment returned against the churchman.

The prosecution has charged that Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer of the headquarters committee, anti-Smith Democrats, conspired with Cannon in wilfully failing to report the full Jameson contributions. Wilson put on the stand Miss Mary Jordan, another employe of the American bank, to tell of frequent visits by Miss Burroughs to Cannon's safe deposit box, under authority of a letter from Cannon.

John Yaqui Has A Decidedly Airish House; Is Built Of Bamboo And Dirt

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of three articles on John Yaqui, an average Yaqui Indian, who has been closely studied by members of Texas Technological college's scientific expedition in Sonora, Mexico.

By CHAS. A. GUY
Avalanche Staff Writer

John builds his own house of bamboo fitted around a frame of crotched mesquite or cottonwood logs.

It has a thatched roof of bamboo and a heavy dirt covering. If it has doors they are made of bamboo poles tied together and to one frame of the aperture and fold rather than swing. John has little use for doors or windows, however, since his bamboo construction is decidedly airish and there are many places where the sun and sand sift through.

John has two rooms in his mansion, one for cooking and eating and the other for sleeping. The kitchen quarters take up about three-fifths of the floor space and are separated from the other room by a bamboo wall. The whole house measures about 14 feet by 26 feet and has a roof 7 1-2 feet above the dirt floor. If John's family gets abnormally large he can add a lean-to to the house where some of the kids can sleep.

Little Kitchen Equipment

Mrs. Yaqui's cooking and serving equipment consists of a dozen or so native pottery bowls which she has made and which she replaces when any of them are broken. She cooks over a fire place which John has constructed and for which he or she gathers the wood, a cord at a time. She cooks in an iron pot or two or in a stew pan and there are a few knives and forks and a salt-shaker, in which lump salt has been broken. She has a skillet or two, a glass bottle left over from the time John went to Cajeme and bought a quart of tequila, two tin canteens, four cups and a small strainer. She also has a tub, two large black coffee pots and maybe a couple of plates. Her most necessary piece of equipment is a metete, which is a large stone, placed on legs and upon which, with a smaller stone, she grinds the corn and the coffee by hand. She serves her meal upon a small, low table and the family usually stands while eating although Mr. and Mrs. Yaqui may sit on stools.

Dogs and chickens roam the kitchen as well as the bedroom, at will and Mrs. Yaqui is very careful about one thing. She puts the eggshells—whenever they have eggs—high above the reach of the dogs so they won't learn to eat them before she can get to the hen nests. Like the Germans, she uses the egg shells in her coffee pot.

Two Things Essential

Two things one always finds in a Yaqui bedroom. They are the bamboo mats upon which the Yaquis sleep and which are stood upright in the daytime, flat against the wall; and a cradle, made of bamboo and slung upon uprights by rawhide straps so it may be swung. All Yaquis sleep and all Yaquis have babies, hence the necessity for these two articles. The mats are large enough for two persons to sleep upon and since Yaquis sleep in their clothing there is little need for bedclothes. Each member of the family, however, has a light blanket which is used to roll in during the colder hours. Sometimes one will find a crude bedstead, fashioned of wood, upon which John and his wife place their mat for sleeping. However, bedsteads (of course there are no springs) take up a lot of room in the daytime and are not generally used.

There is no decoration in the Yaqui home. There are baskets of different sizes, clothes hung about the walls, a jug here and there and perhaps a calendar a month or so behind the times on the wall. If John has a horse he keeps his high, funny looking saddle, made of leather-covered wood, and his horsehair hackamore and blanket in the bedroom. There, too, he parks his pistol and rifle in a convenient place. John's other furniture consists of a few stools, resembling inverted baskets and made of wood covered with cow or deer-hide.

They Have Medicine Man

Neither John nor the members of his family know or care anything about sanitation. If someone gets sick and continues ill for several days a native medicine man is called in and he administers herbs in various ways. If the indisposed is suffering from a knife, gunshot or other wound, the herbs are used as a balm and if he is otherwise ill they are used as a laxative. If the individual happens to be real healthy, or the illness of little consequence, he gets well, thanks to the medicine man and to the herbs which, like some of our well known remedies, are good for everything from hangnails to leprosy. Otherwise he shuffles off to the happy hunting grounds and everybody for miles around has a good time at the funeral.

All in all, John and his family are most primitive in their habits, their living, their social and religious customs and everything else. There may come a day when civilization picks him up and engulfs him—pouring him into the great human melting pot and remolding him for world citizenship.

That time, however, has not yet arrived and John and the folks live gloriously in the dust and the cactus, having a whale of a time watching sunsets follow sunrises and occasionally breaking the monotony with a fiesta or a bit of promiscuous shooting.

Dr. George Truett Going To England

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP)—Dr. George W. Truett, for 41 years pastor of the First Baptist church, Dallas, Texas, sailed today on the liner Berlin for England, where he is to be the chief speaker at the 100th anniversary celebration of Charles Haddon Spurgeon, British Baptist leader and preacher.

After the mass meeting, at which Ramsay MacDonald is scheduled to introduce the Rev. Mr. Truett, the Dallas minister will give the annual missionary sermon at the convention of British Baptists.

He plans to return to New York May 8.

America In Need Of More Patriots

FORT WORTH, April 11. (AP) — "America today needs patriots and not politicians and the church is in need of more leaders with vision, courage and faith," declared the Rev. Millard A. Jenkens, Abilene, in an address before the Baptist state Sunday school convention today.

"Just as the Isrealites were faced with the problem of choosing who they would follow, America today is at the cross-roads and must choose whom she will follow, not only in governmental and business affairs but also in her religious life," Mr. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist church of Abilene, said.

The total number of registered delegates and visitors neared the 5,000 mark with more than 2,500 from cities outside Tarrant county.

William P. Phillips, Nashville, Tenn., and President Pat M. Neff of Baylor university, Waco, will speak tonight.

Residents of Redwood City, Cal., staged a "disaster call" drill to coordinate the work of the Red Cross and other organizations in case of a major disaster.

"Two things I wanted-

"...and it was all so simple when I found out my trouble. My physician said I had no organic disease, but I did have what is so commonly called a low percentage of hemo-glo-bin in the blood.

"The reasonableness of one of the S.S.S. ads caused me to think that S.S.S. Tonic was just what I needed for my let-down feeling and pimply skin. I wanted more strength and a clear skin.

"It didn't take S.S.S. very long to get my blood back up to normal—and as my strength and energy returned my skin cleared up."

If your condition suggests a tonic of this kind, try S.S.S. It is not just a so-called tonic but a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also having the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood.

S.S.S. value has been proven by generations of use, as well as by modern scientific appraisal. Sold by all drug stores...in two sizes...the larger is more economical.

6 WOMEN WENT SHOPPING

They ALL found what they wanted
IN THE NEW LEONARD

Almost any six women, setting out to look at electric refrigerators, will start in six different directions. Each will have in mind some single feature or quality she wants above all others.

Isn't it interesting that so many such shoppers—each with a different idea of what a good refrigerator really is—find "exactly what they want" in the Leonard Electric? The reason is that the new Leonard is the complete refrigerator. No woman need sacrifice any desirable feature to get others she values more.

See the new Leonard at our showrooms, before you decide on any electric refrigerator. There are 11 beautiful models (5 all-porcelain)—product of 53 years' experience in building household refrigeration to suit all tastes, all needs and all incomes.

ONE WANTED lots of food storage space. She was amazed at the roominess of Leonard's planned food compartment. Wide shelves. Dairy basket for eggs, butter, cheese. Vegetable crisper. Folding shelves—room for bottles.

ONE WANTED convenience, above everything. A score of Leonard features appealed to her. Serving tray to set dishes on while rearranging shelves. Ice tray lifter (no sticking trays). Sliding shelf. Automatic electric light.

ONE WANTED unusual ice capacity. She liked Leonard's 12 freezing speeds, with extra fast freezing for emergencies. Refrigerated shelf and cold chest.

ONE WANTED to save steps. The LEN-A-DOR solved her problem. Approach the Leonard with both hands full of dishes—touch a toe to a convenient pedal, and the door swings open.

ONE WANTED a beautiful cabinet for the kitchen of which she was so proud. She was delighted with the charming, modern lines of the Leonard. Snowy white, non-fading finishes.

ONE WANTED "the best there is"—regardless of price. She found quality all through the new Leonard. One-piece porcelain interior, all-porcelain cooling unit, strong construction, quiet, dependable mechanism.

Otis Clingman Is Winner Classic Grappling Match With Dorry Detton

Amarillo Star Cops Last Two Falls For Win

Hill And Fenton Fight To Draw In Semi-Final; Bauer Wins Over Cazzell; Detton Takes First With Death Lock

Good wrestling matches are coming so regularly now that to say one was better than its predecessors is becoming a trite expression.

Last night's contest between Dorry Detton of Utah and Otis Clingman of Texas, however, must go down on the records as being one of the best of the better wrestling entanglements.

Clingman emerged victorious over the Utah Mormon. He smothered Detton's shoulders to the mat after 20 minutes of beautiful grappling in the third fall. But it doesn't matter so much who won and who lost. It was a sweet setto. Only the most stony-hearted of prejudiced pessimists could say that that particular match was anything but honest, upright and anybody's until the final fall.

A Fitting Farewell

Detton took the first fall with a perfectly timed and executed Indian stake hold, or Indian death lock. It came as a surprise to Clingman, who has been caught in that torturous catch few times indeed. They were down on the floor, Dorry on top. Clingman threw his legs around one of Detton's in an effort to fix a drop toe hold. Suddenly realizing his position, Detton straightened up, and backward, at the same time heaving Clingman to the floor. Otis groaned and screamed, and it was over in 10 minutes, 30 seconds.

The Mormon started his rushing attack in the second fall, butting Clingman hard three times. Otis reversed the remarks and dealt out flying tackles till Dorry was groggy and all but unconscious. All Otis had to do was fall on for a smother. The fall lasted eight minutes.

The third saw some of the neatest grappling offered by professionals. It wasn't so fast and furious, rather slow. But it was smooth and tricky, and the fighters literally wore themselves out with muscle-bending exercises that saw one and then the other gain the advantage.

They were staging their final performance in the Lubbock mat for months to come. Victory meant a lot to the fighters, and they worked all the time, never loafing, never losing time, always dealing out punishment, hard and deadly. Detton almost fixed the death lock again, but never quite got the right angle and Clingman clung to him. They fought desperately, fell out of the ring, but always broke clean and fought clean.

Bauer Gets Rough

The preliminary was just another preliminary, with Joe Bauer, the German funny man, and Bill Cazzell, Amarillo light heavy, going about their work in characteristic form. Cazzell showed considerable improvement over his previous engagement here, and should have won the match. He carried the fight nearly all the way, but had not the stomach to receive Bauer's fists to the midriff. Apparently unaware of what was going on, the referee let Bauer slug the heavier man into submission, finally knocking him senseless with a heavy fist to the tummy and falling on for the fall in 17 minutes. Joe quite obviously was fouling.

The anticipated brawl between Don Hill and Demon Rod Fenton turned out to be a 30-minute fizzle. They stalled and loafed through the time limit duel, with Hill dealing out punishment to make the Canadian terror look silly at times. Maybe they'll go better on a main event where more cash and a better recognition is at stake. Certainly they didn't do much wrestling last night. It was more an effort at showmanship. They clowned around, exchanged holds and never seemed to get very serious about the matter.

A Special Treat

As a "special added attraction," and a performance that stole the show up to the final event, Promoter Allen presented the Clingman team in a no-time limit, no fall, no draw match.

"Bobo" Clingman, five-year-old son of the Amarillo grappler who probably will meet Kallio for the title, clambered through the ropes and calmly took his corner. Clingman, Sr., took the opposite. They went to it, hammer and tongs, the little fellow going through nearly all the professional repertoire, slamming his dad to the mat with head locks and wristlocks, and taking the same in return.

Exporters Open Series Of Practice Games With Dallas

Willard Signs To Officiate

Former World's Champion To Work Wrestling Matches On Next Wednesday Evening's Show At Auditorium

Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, has been signed by Promoter Sled Allen to referee at the auditorium wrestling arena next week.

The old "man mountain" who knocked out Jack Johnson after 26 bloody rounds to take the heavyweight title, was undisputed in his division for five years. Then he succumbed before the terrific attack of Jack Dempsey at Toledo.

Willard was the "Carnera" of his day, minus some of Primo the Oaf's "pansy-like" qualities." Standing six feet, seven inches and weighing 265 pounds in his boxing trunks, Jess is a vast and impressive figure. And watch closely if one of the rasslers gets rough with Willard.

Promoter Allen has not yet announced his main event for next week.

Four single and double matches are scheduled, according to Coach Polk Robison. "Sloyyp" Smith and Francis Smith, form the Indian doubles unit. William Curry and C. L. Harless play singles exclusively.

Lester Stoeffen Drops Out Of North And South Joust

PINEHURST, N. C., April 11 (AP) —Tired from nine weeks of competition, Lester Stoefen dropped out of singles play in the North and South tournament today, defaulting in the second round to A. L. Bruneau, of Brooklyn.

The tall Californian, seeded third, told the tournament committee he was tired as a result of steady tournament play for the last two months and did not feel he should continue in the singles. He will play in the doubles, however, with Bryan Grant, the tiny Atlantan with whom he won the title here last year.

The other seeded players and Anthony Latonia, of Washington, swept into the quarter-finals with ease although Frank X. Shields, of New York, seeded first, and Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., seeded second, were given good workouts by a pair of collegians, Barney Welsh of Duke, and Walter Levitan, of the University of North Carolina.

McManus Goes To Braves In Dodger Trade

Veteran Campaigner Picked To Replace Rabbit Maranville At Second; Boston Pays Big Price In Deal

(By The Associated Press)

BOSTON, April 11. — Pressing baseball problems were solved today when Martin Joseph McManus, 34-year old veteran of 14 American League campaigns, came to the Boston Braves by purchase from the Brooklyn Dodgers as a second-base replacement for the injured Rabbit Maranville.

First of all, Marty, who was made a free agent last fall after managing the Red Sox for a season and a half, was snatched from the limbo of baseball's forgotten men and given the ideal spot in which to continue his playing career.

Although he has an all-time major league batting average of .290, with the St. Louis Browns and Detroit Tigers before coming to Boston in 1931, the Dodgers were so glutted with younger infielders that he seemed forever doomed to a bench job while he remained with Brooklyn.

Now Stengel Worries

Perhaps the second problem, now settled satisfactorily gave Casey Stengel, new manager of the Dodgers, some concern. McManus is greatly admired by Bob Quinn, former Red Sox owner, who took over the general managership of the Dodgers several months ago. With a player of McManus' wide experience loitering on his bench, Quinn never had to look very far to spot another manager, in the event that Stengel failed to live up to expectations.

Quinn, himself, must have glowed over the McManus transaction, for it was his first financially successful baseball deal in many, many years. He picked Marty up for nothing and sold him for a fat price, which was not revealed. It must have been good, for Quinn demanded Ed "Lefty" Brandt, the Braves' pitching ace when President Emil Fuchs started casting envious glances at Marty.

Losing Colt Is Favorite On Kentucky Derby Future Book

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11 (AP) — For the first time in history a colt that never has won a race is the future book favorite for the Kentucky Derby. He is Sir Thomas, nominee of A. B. Gordon of Louisville, who has high hopes of being the first Louisvillan to own a derby winner since Old Rosebud triumphed for H. C. Applegate 20 years ago.

The favoritism of Sir Thomas is remarkable in that only two "maidens" have won the Kentucky Derby in the 59 years of its history, Sir Barton in 1919 and Broker's Tip last year, but there are substantial reasons for the high esteem in which Sir Thomas is held. One of them is that he was sired by Sir Gallahad III, sire of Gallant Fox, victor in 1930 which still is the derby winner standing highest among the turf world's leading money winners.

ARKANSAS IS HOST

FAYETTEVILLE, April 11 (AP) — Twenty four Arkansas High school track squads and four Oklahoma teams will participate in the annual University of Arkansas invitation meet here Saturday.

Tulsa Central High is the defending champion in track, as well as tennis, and will be represented again this year with a squad of 33 men.

Russellville, Fort Smith, Fayetteville, Van Buren, Rogers and Harrison are the strongest Arkansas teams competing in the meet.

ANNOUNCE REGION MEET

HOUSTON, April 11 (AP) — H. T. Morgan, president of Lon Morris college at Jacksonville, announced here today that the high school regional meet for districts 13, 14, 15 and 16 would be held on the college track and courts April 20 and 21.

The tennis event will start Friday April 20 and any other events in which officials deem it necessary to hold preliminaries will be run Friday. Saturday will bring the finals.

STEERS BEAT CATS

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 11 (AP) —Four runs in the eighth inning allowed the Dallas Steers to come from behind here this afternoon and down their old Texas League rivals, the Fort Worth Cats, 9 to 8.

All four of the Steers runs in this frame resulted from two home runs, one by Norman, and one by Cox with two men aboard. Tavenor and Halley hit homers for Fort Worth. A feature of the game was Tom Holley's five hits out of five times at bat. He collected four singles besides his homer.

MISSIONS PRACTICE

SAN ANTONIO, April 11 (AP) — Lack of hitting in scrub games prompted Hank Severeid to put the Missions through hours of drill in the cage today.

Friday the Missions play in Beeville. Saturday they play the Public Service nine here, and Sunday travel to Luling.

There were no changes in personnel, and the Missions have begun to worry about second base, third base and a catcher.

West Coast Boxer Brings Imposing Record Of Wins

Jack Kirk Is Made Favorite Over J. D. Spann

Jack Kirk, the Los Angeles middleweight who fights J. D. Spann at the Armory Monday night, comes to Lubbock on the wave of a short but commendable national fight record.

Not in the proper sense a veteran, Kirk already has been installed a 10-6 favorite over the young Plainview slugger.

Kirk has an imposing string of victories to his credit on the West Coast, his record marred only by a few draws. Recently he battled to a draw with the middleweight champion of Arizona, Chet Chumway. A few months ago he soundly whipped the famous Shadow Lavel, gave the Shadow a return fight and polished him off again.

Navy Champ Loses

Sailor Jackson, another one of these Navy title-holders, succumbed to the Kirk attack by the knockout route, and Ray Bowen, of Baltimore, lost on points to Kirk at the Los Angeles arena.

In all, Kirk's press-sheet record shows a score or more of kayoes and decisions with nothing more serious in the nature of a reverse than the draws.

ON THE SIDELINES BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Spring and loquaciousness seem to run together in the fight business. Max Baer pops off, Primo Carnera replies heatedly. Tommy Loughran has a say. So it's only fair to listen to a promoter for a moment.

The orator is James Joy Johnston, and the sun has warmed up his 120 pounds so that he's looking for someone he can lick personally.

"I'm convinced," he says, pushing back the derby to get as much of the sun as possible, "that prize fighters most of the time are smarter than prize fight managers. I could start a long way back to prove my point. Instead I'll keep it strictly modern. I will merely discuss Primo Carnera and Max Baer."

Primo Was Right

So:

The huge Italian never did want to fight Tommy Loughran in Miami and he told Johnson and Madison Square Garden that, but his manager laughed at him.

"Why, a little fellow like Loughran!" they said. "You'll knock him out in a couple of rounds. It's a perfect mid-winter tune-up for Baer in the spring. You get a nice vacation in Florida, a nice chunk of fresh money which we all can use, and you keep your name in the papers. Of course we'll fight Loughran."

So Carnera agreed, but he said, and he was dead right:

"Loughran is very clever. Suppose I don't knock him out? I'll look terrible. Everyone will say I'm a bum. It might rain and we won't draw much money. What fun is there for me, a big man, fighting a little man? Who wants to watch that?"

The answer was practically no one, as proved by the gate receipts, and on every other count Carnera was smarter than his managers.

Baer Figures It Out

Now take Baer's case. They took him to Lake Tahoe, up in the mountains of Northern California, to start training for Carnera. It was cold there. So Baer over-ruled his handlers and ordered camp switched to the warmer air of the Sacramento Valley. They wanted to book him in a series of exhibitions on his way East for the fight June 14.

"Yeah," growled Baer, "and if I turned an ankle or cut an eye or something, I lose my big chance against Carnera. You want me to pick up dimes when I've got a shot at hundreds of thousands. Nothing doing."

Ever since last summer, when both turned in headline performances, Baer has been telling his friends: "Carnera is the fellow I want. I'll knock him out sure." There is no question about his meaning it. Similarly Carnera believes absolutely that he will knock out Baer.

"And there," chuckles Johnston, "is where they prove they're still prize fighters. One of them has got to be very wrong."

Wrong or right, their match will resurrect boxing in June, or the sport will be beyond resurrection.

GOLF By Art Krenz

STAR GOLFERS STAND WITH FEET FAIRLY CLOSE

After the beginner understands the proper grip, the next important thing is the proper stance or placement of the feet.

The stance must not be too wide so as to hinder a free hip movement. Leading golfers stand with their feet fairly close together, seldom more than 20 inches apart.

Neither should the golfer stoop too far at address.

"Stand straighter and nearer to the ball," says Glenna Collett Vare, one of the leading feminine exponents of the game. "The position taken in the address should be identical to the position in hitting the ball or at the point of impact. It is impossible to make a clean hit from a stooping position."

Tech Golfers To Play Mustangs At Dallas Today

DALLAS, April 11 (AP) — Southern Methodist university's golfers meet the six-man Texas Tech team tomorrow at the Dallas country club.

The regular four-man Mustang team of Marvin Jones, Bobby Startzell, Jakie Gore and James Wilson, which defeated Trinity university here Monday, will be augmented by Griff Moore and Edward Terry for the Texas Tech series.

The Mustang golfers open their Southwest conference competition at Tustin Saturday against the University of Texas Longhorns.

Hunting For Hawks In Plane Is Newest Sport In Carolina

MORGANTON, N. C., April 11 (AP)—For those bored by commonplace things, Game Warden Jack Starrett recommends hunting hawks in airplanes.

He and Pilot Curtiss Fitts of Charlotte, N. C., were cruising along the other day and overtook a huge hawk high in the sky. The warden opened fire with an automatic shotgun but many shots went wild as the bird dived and swerved like a kite cut loose from its string.

That kept up for some time as the plane roared along at 80 miles an hour. Finally a shot went true.

Here's Rival For Max Baer; Dublin Fighter Is Song Man

LONDON, April 11 (AP) — Jack Doyle, one of England's leading heavyweight boxers, is ready to match his out-of-ring accomplishments against those of Max Baer any day.

Not only is Doyle conceded to be fully as handsome as Baer, but he can sing an dance and has a strong following among the fairer fans. He has appeared in several reviews and phonograph records of his tenor voice have enjoyed a big sale.

The Dublin boy, however, isn't in Max's class in the matter of breach-of-promise suits.

BUFFS TRIM TEXAS

AUSTIN, April 11. (AP)—The Houston Buffaloes defeated the University of Texas Longhorns, 14 to 13 here today in a long, drawn-out slugging bee to gain an even break in the two game series. The Steers won the oepning game yesterday, 2 to 1.

Kablitz for the Buffs and Baebel for the Steers poled out home runs.

Pitchers And Swatters From Texas Should Give Tulsa Better Chance In League Race

Hank Thormahlen And Frank Tubbs From Galveston Add Power To Oiler Staff; Easterling Should Add Punch

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TULSA, April 11.—Like the Oklahoma City Indians, the Tulsa Oilers are determined to make their second season in the Texas League successful. The Oilers of 1934 will have several familiar faces along with a number of experienced but new members. Manager Art Griggs carefully selected several new players during the winter trading and buying season.

Henry Thormahlen, chunky Galveston southpaw of 1933, and Frank Tubbs, right-hander from the last year Galveston club, are prominent additions to the pitching staff. Jimmy Walkup, diminutive southpaw curve ball artist from Birmingham, will team with such holdovers as Augustus Johns, southpaw, William Posedel, right-hander, James Bivin, righthander, and Andrew Bednar, right-hander.

These seven hurlers are about all any manager could request for one team. Johns won 17 and lost 14 last season. Victories and losses for others included Posedel, 11-11; Bivin, 11-13; Thormahlin, 16-11; Tubbs 11-10; Walkup 8-13, and Bednar 2-1.

Two New Catchers

Maskmen will be Orace Powers and John Berger. Powers has been with Dallas, Tulsa and Oklahoma City during his Texas League career. He is a splendid receiver, hit .252 last year and fielded .980. Berger caught last season for Memphis, batted .217 and fielded .977.

Griggs has plenty of experienced infield talent. Alex Hooks, a 190-pound youngster will again be at first. Hooks last season batted only .261. He fielded .985 in 142 games last season.

Jimmy Cronin, switch hitter from Kansas City, is slated for second base but also can play shortstop. He batted .283 and fielded .968 last season for the Blues in 123 games. Lamar Newsome, another who bats from either side of the plate, probably will retain his job at shortstop. He finished last season with a .252 swat average and a .939 fielding average.

Veteran At Third

Sammy Hale, veteran hot corner guardian who played consistently for Tulsa last year in 147 games, appears as likely third sacker. Hale batted .271 and fielded .297 last year. Russel Rollings, up from Atlanta where he batted .324 in 127 games, and Pete Monahan, who played last year with Chattanooga, Atlanta and Kansas City, are other infield candidates.

John Stoneham and Charles Hostetler are holdover outfielders. Paul Easterling, former Beaumont home-run hitter, and Herbert Kelly, formerly with Tulsa and Kansas City, are competing for the other outfield post.

The Oilers finished sixth last year, ranked seventh in batting and sixth in fielding. They appear to be a much better team this season.

Tigers Beat Birmingham In Race Track Exhibition, 18-4

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11 (AP) —Leg weary after a day of running the base lines, the Detroit Tigers headed for Chattanooga, Tenn., tonight after beating the Birmingham Barons 18 to 4.

The Tigers used up three Birmingham pitchers while only Hogsett and Fischer worked on the hill for the majors.

RECORDS FOR RAWLS

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP) — Katherine Rawls, 15-year old high school girl from Miami Beach, Fla., and Jack Medica, 19-year old sopohomore at the University of Washington, skimmed over the waters of the Lake Shore Athletic club pool for new world's records tonight as the National Women's A. A. U. indoor swimming championship opened.

Dr. John Mohardt of Chicago, a great Notre Dame halfback just a year or two before the Hour Horsemen era, will help Elmer Ladyen during spring practice at South Bend.

Football Railbirds Must Resort To Something Else; Secret Drill Is Instituted At Tech Gridiron

"It's just like you'd be," explains Coaches Cawthon and Smith, "if you were learning a new game and, like some of the boys, have to have it pounded into you. You wouldn't want any strangers looking on. Then, too, some of the boys are bashful and can't do their best practice when they know somebody's looking."

So secret practice will start today at Texas Tech, where sixty young heavyweights and middleweights are going through the rigors of spring training. Visitors, welcome though they may be from October to Thanksgiving, are kindly asked to refrain from "peeping."

There will be certain days when scrimmages will be staged for the benefit of the sideline experts, and due notification will be coming in plenty of time.

Robertshaw Wins Shortstop Job For Galveston Pirates

GALVESTON, April 11 (AP) — Don Robertshaw, Buccaneer shortstop, found his batting eye today and hit three pitches off as many hurlers out of the park, to set something of a record for spacious Moody stadium. Manager Billy Webb had told Robertshaw at the start of practice that he had won the shortstop job, the remaining doubtful spot in the lineup.

Tomorrow night the Bucx meet the Fort Worth Cats in an exhibition.

Samuel Insull Will Be Started Back To U. S. On Friday 13th

No Difficulty Now Expected

Former Millionaire Examined And Pronounced Fit; Is To Face Fraud Charges On His Arrival In America

ISTANBUL, April 11. (AP)—Samuel Insull, pronounced fit by government doctors who examined him today, will be started back to the United States on Friday, the 13th, to face the fraud charges he has eluded for 18 months.

The finding of the Turkish physicians was diametric to the aged fugitive's long contention that his heart was in bad shape and controverted statement made by Greek doctors after repeated examinations permitted Insull to thwart American extradition attempts.

Is Finger-Printed

The former millionaire and head of the Insull utilities empire, now fallen, was photographed and fingerprinted preliminary to his departure tomorrow for Smyrna and his formal relinquishment to Burton Y. Berry, of the American embassy, aboard the S. S. Exilona Friday.

Ali Riza Bey, vice governor of Istanbul, who announced these plans, said the 74-year old man will be informed officially at noon tomorrow and removed from the Istanbul detention house at about 5 p. m. Thursday in the custody of detectives who will accompany him until he is turned over to Berry.

To Board Ship

From the jail Insull will be taken by automobile direct to the 1,000-ton Marmora sea passenger steamer Adnan, where he will occupy an ordinary cabin during the night voyage to Panderma, where he will entrain for Smyrna.

American authorities expressed confidence they would encounter no further difficulties in ending Insull's fight against return and minimized the significance of last-minute moves by his attorneys to delay the extradition.

May Take Month

The Exilona, which was ordered to return from Makri to Smyrna just to pick up the fugitive, will stop at Sicily, Algiers, Casablanca, Boston, and New York. The trip may take a month. She is an American export ship, of 5,000 tons and has room for 35 passengers.

Insull, advised quickly by his lawyers of the arrangements, was said to have received the news philosophically, feeling that there was little hope.

Mrs. Massie Gets Telegram From Her Divorced Husband

GENOA, Italy, April 11. (AP)—Mrs. Thalia Massie, a patient in a hospital here following a recent attempt at suicide, today received a telegram from her former husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie.

Dr. Sdario Borelli, head of the mental institute where the central figure of the Honolulu "honor slaying" is taking treatment, said that "with no visible signs of joy or nervousness; Mrs. Massie jammed the telegram into her pocket."

She has replied to it, the physician said.

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 11.—Stocks found conflicting currents in the news today and settled into irregularity after a promising start. Bonds, on the other hand, were rather strong, moving ahead to another new average high.

Labor difficulties in sections of the automobile industry appeared to have considerable hesitancy among speculative traders, and the motor issues drooped. Rails perked up a bit, but metals weakened and some steels drifted narrowly lower around closing time. Utilities were quiet. Transactions totaled 1,566,430 shares.

Whatever cheer the market got from the senate banking committee's erasure of margin requirement provisions from the stock exchange bill was no doubt offset by such incidents as rejection by the tool and die employers of wage and hours demands of the union workers who had threatened a walkout, and also reported conflicts over collective bargaining at one Detroit automobile equipment plant. It was readily recalled that the market had rallied yesterday with the removal of one strike threat.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP)—
STOCKS irregular; rails firm.
BONDS firm; industrial loans strong.
CURB firm; metals and specialties higher.
FOREIGN exchanges steady; changes narrow.
COTTON quiet ;local and southern selling; lower cables.
SUGAR higher ;trade covering.
COFFEE higher; steadier Brazilian markets.
CHICAGO—
WHEAT lower; sympathy with rye.
CORN uneven; rural offerings meager.
CATTLE steady to strong; top $7.65 paid freely.
HOGS steady to 10 higher; top $4.15.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 11 (AP) — Cotton prices eased off moderately in a rather quiet market today, the close showing net declines of 4 to 9 points.

The opening was somewhat firmer as Liverpool cables came in slightly better than due.

The market was a trifle more active during the afternoon but prices continued easy, making lows for the day in the late trading with May at 11.90, July at 12.06 and October at 12.19 or 9 to 11 opints down from the highs of the early morning. The close was within a point of the lowest on active months with May showing a net decline of 4 points, July 9 points, and October 8 points. December closed at the bottom with a net loss of 9 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 3 penny points down.

Port receipts 8,578, for week 45,544, for season 6,922,900, last season 7,732,801. Exports 4,383, for week 26,072, for season 6,163,643, last season 6,311,236. Port stock 3,070,748, last year 4,262,519. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans Galveston and Houston 72,813; last year 94,236. Spot sales at southern markets 11,312, last year 15,178.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 11 (AP)—Cotton lost yesterday's gain under realizing or liquidation and scattered selling promoted by the apparent unwillingness of buyers to follow the upward movement and the easier ruling of the grain market. July contracts sold off from 12.17 to 12.06 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 10 to 13 points.

The opening was unchanged to 4 points higher. The comparatively limited demand was supplied at about the initial prices.

There was not a great deal of cotton coming on the market apparently but prices lagged gradually lower and the selling became a little more active in the late trading. May eased off to 11.94 and October to 12.18, and closing quotations were the lowest of the day on all the active positions.

Overnight advices from Washington said the conference committee had agreed to eliminate the six-bale tax free provision in the Bankhead bill, but reports of other differences to be ironed out left the trade still uncertain on the general crop control situation.

The weekly weather report attracted little attention and the report of the New York cotton exchange service estimating domestic consumption for March at 535,000 bales against 498,000 last year was without apparent market effect.

Exports today 4,383 making 6,302,602 so far this season. Port receipts 8,578. U. S. port stocks 3,064,324.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, April 11 (AP) — Fair demand was reported Wednesday for all offerings except wheat on the Fort Worth cash grain market. Wheat is still rather slow.

According to the price committee of the Fort Worth grain and cotton exchange, the following values ruled Wednesday, based on sales made to mid-day and on car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: wheat No. 1 hard 89 1-2@93 1-2 Barley No. 2 nominally 54-56; No. 3 nominally 53-54 Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 110-112; No. 3 milo nominally 108-110. No. 2 kafir nominally 98-100; No. 3 kafir nominally 96-98.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 11 (AP) — Rye pitched downward 2 3-8 cents a bushel today, toppled over by Washington announcement that no anti-dumping duty on rye would be enforced against Poland. The maximum collapse of the rye market exerted a notable unsettling on other grains.

Rye closed nervous, 1 3-4@2 1-8 under yesterday's finish, wheat 1-4@3-8 down, corn 1-4 off to 1-4 up, oats 3-8@5-8 decline, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 10 cents.

Rye traders ignored the all-time record low condition the government crop report showed for the 1934 domestic rye crop, and gave no heed either to unofficial new adverse crop advices today concerning rye

Livestock

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, April 11 (AP)—An active market on fed steers and yearlings featured the cattle trade today. Prices were generally strong to 15 higher. Stewart Donnelly Will Be Brought Back To America

NEW YORK, April 11. (AP)—Two New York detectives will leave for France tonight aboard the S. S. Aquitania to bring back Stewart Donnelly, alleged confidence man of international repute, who soon is to be released from a French prison.

The detectives said Doneley would be questioned about the Lindbergh kidnaping and murder. He was reported at one time to have in his possession some of the money which John F. Condon, "Jaffsie," is reported to have handed over to the alleged kidnapers in a Bronx cemetery.

The warrant on which the detectives will bring the prisoner back, however, charges theft of $16,000 from James R. Kennedy, a steamship man, in a midtown hotel in October, 1931.

In North Dakota. Instead, the outstanding bearish influence was the fact that contrary to widespread expectation Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau appeared to have left no likelihood of a countervailing tariff on foreign rye, the imports of which of late had mounted to millions of bushels. Disappointed holders of rye futures were the chief early sellers, with much of the increased selling later ascribed to eastern sources.

Columns Of Paid Advertising Ready Response To Appeal For Cooperation

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — Columns of paid advertising in newspapers scattered throughout the country was the ready banking response today to Secretary Morgenthau's appeal for cooperation in speeding the exchange of new treasury bonds for a billion in fourth liberties maturing April 15.

The treasury's request for aid in reaching holders of 1,250,000 separate bonds went to 13,800 banks belonging to the Deposit Insurance corporation.

More than 6,000 replies pledging full support have been received. Several score promised to pay for newspaper space to boost the government drive.

Subscriptions to the new 3 1-4 per cent 10-12 year issue are open only to owners of the called 4 1-4 liberties with serial numbers ending in 0, 9 or 1, and to holders of $244,234,600 in 3 per cent notes maturing May 2.

"Bonds should be in the mail not later than midnight Thursday twelfth," Morgenthau wired the bankers. "Please use your good efforts not only in contracting customers but as a public service offer your facilities to your community."

Today, in cities, especially the financial centers, large displays supplemented news-page notices that holders of the called securities had an opportunity to exchange them for a new bond already commanding premiums on the market.

In some cities, the banks advertised individually. In others banks contributed to a single add or clearing house associations acted for the entire group.

The difficulty of reaching many small bond holders was stressed by Morgenthau in pointing out that in the called liberty series, there are 340,000 separate $50 bonds and 400,000 of $100 each.

At the close of business last night exchange subscriptions came to $675,000,000. The offer closes tomorrow night and interest on the outstanding bonds ceases April 15.

Defense Opens Its Case In Slaying Of Canadian Woman

EL RENO, Okla., April 11. (AP)—The defense of Virgil Brown, on trial for beating his Canadian wife to death on a highway near here last October, began today in an attempt to prove that the two were not together at the time the woman was slain.

Several El Reno witnesses testified they believed, after viewing the slain woman's body, she was the woman they saw on the streets of El Reno the day before the body was found, 11 miles west of the city.

Defense counsel said testimony would show Mrs. Brown was in El Reno the afternoon before her body was found and that she left Brown at Amarillo to go on to her home in Windsor, Ont.

The statement said further that testimony would show Brown went to Shawnee alone to visit his mother.

Petitions For Parole For Tom Manion Are Circulated

DALLAS, April 11. (AP)—Petitions for a parole for Tom Manion, sentenced to two years at Leavenworth for aiding Harvey Bailey to escape from jail labor day, were being circulated in Dallas today.

Mrs. Manion was at the federal building with one of them and asked Clyde Hood, assistant U. S. district attorney, to sign it. He declined and said he didn't believe other Dallas employes of the government would sign.

Recalling An Old Custom

EVERY so often events take place on the South Plains which demonstrate the friendliness of the section's people.

Wednesday, a caravan of automobiles from Plainview visited Lubbock, paid a friendly call and extended an invitation to the annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy show to be held in that city next week.

Lubbock makes similar visits to towns over the territory each fall advertising the Panhandle-South Plains Fair.

It used to be the custom on the Plains to "go visitin' " and one family would pick up and go over to another family's home and spend the entire day, sometimes even two or three days.

In the hurry and bustle to change this broad prairie expanse into a great agricultural empire and dot its acres with modern farms, good schools, churches and cities, this custom has slowly fell from grace and "folks just don't visit like they used to."

Wednesday's visitors from Plainview recalled those days gone by and brought friends together again for a visit even if it was only for a few minutes.

There should be more of them, reviving that old Plains' custom of "visitin'."

"EXPECT THE UNEXPECTED"

"Use your horn; that's what it's there for," is the advice of an experienced driver to motorists in an effort to prevent automobile accidents. He urges them not to steal up from behind people without some signal of this kind. They are to use it whenever the slightest occasion demands it.

But they should also be urged to use their heads, and what is supposed to be in them. They should give evidence also of some consideration for the rights of others on the road; they should keep in mind that public highways are not private lanes, and that someone is always likely to drive into their path from some side street or road.

There are many things which motorists must keep in mind if automobile accidents are to be averted. In the speech of the motorist there ought to be no such word as "unexpected." The unexpected is the very thing they ought to be expecting. It ought to be as clear as day and as inevitable as winter's snow to all of us that driving a motor car is no child's play; it ought to be done only by painstaking and responsible persons, able and willing always to give their most serious attention to the business in hand.

WORSE THAN WAR

The people of England are beginning to grow alarmed about automobile traffic fatalities. Last year autos killed 7202 people and injured 216,329 more in the United Kingdom; and someone has discovered that this is a casualty list definitely greater than that rolled up in any single year of the Boer War—which was, as wars go, a pretty bloody and expensive affair.

Figures like that show how alarming the traffic toll really is under modern conditions. Like the United States, England has been complacent under a drain on life and health that would cause an overwhelming outcry if it were due to anything on earth but the automobile.

England's situation parallels our own. In both cases, it is becoming inescapably clear that some drastic new method of handling automobile traffic must be evolved.

A BRITISH NRA?

The British government is on the verge of instituting for the cotton textile industry an experiment in rationalization not unlike the NRA of the United States.

According to a current dispatch in the New York Times, deputations of workers and employers in the cotton industry have petitioned parliament to take such action, and legislation will presently be introduced to embody their wishes.

Manufacturers and workers will agree upon a wage scale, which will be given statutory standing by act of parliament

It is reported in London that if this scheme works, similar action will be taken in such other basic industries as steel and coal; and however much this scheme may differ from the American NRA, it is at least a step in the same general direction.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durne

MAYBE you missed the bugle at GHQ in Washington the other day. It's quite understandable. The bugle's notes didn't follow the old army call, but the order was heard and heeded on some very important fronts.

The Roosevelt administration — as gracefully as possible — is in retreat. No doubt the commanding strategists would prefer to call it a display of elasticity but the fact remains they have yielded ground.

It's becoming apparent here in the front lines that everything dates from the settlement of the automobile controversy.

That engagement is seen as one of those turning-point battles—with organized industry and what used to be called "rugged individualism" putting a decided wedge into the federal position.

When it happened "no one had won the victory." But there is ever-growing evidence that industry then called the administration's biggest bluff and found its hand a pair of deuces.

General Hugh Johnson's frank admission that he wouldn't ask congress to renew the licensing provision of the National Recovery act because of what might happen if the law were re-opened stands as the most significant concession of this retreat. You'll remember that President Roosevelt hinted he'd use the license power—but he said it while the automobile negotiations still were in progress.

He didn't invoke it and here's the reason. Those who should know say Mr. Roosevelt privately—and bluntly—threatened the auto magnates with imposition of federal licenses to operate. And the manufacturers are reported to have blandly told him to go ahead and see what happened.

In other words that last-resort whip made an idle swish instead of cracking.

Bear this in mind, however. President Roosevelt and General Johnson didn't turn tail because they feared the auto industry peruse. The movement to the rear was inspired by very definite knowledge that the auto men were merely a spearhead for big industry as a whole.

It was just a case of being a good general and knowing when to turn aside. The administration could have cracked down all right but it knew industry had decided to stand its ground and see how much of a dent was made.

This would have forced the issue in the grand manner. Unfortunately it would have raised hob with the country generally. It was imperative to apply the old theory of the greatest good for the greatest number.

BORAH: Johnson never did like the licensing provision. He has said repeatedly he hoped never to see it used. It was in the law only as a final club but it turned out a pillow with none too many feathers in it.

One effect of closing the Recovery act to further tinkering at this session is that Senator Borah will have the devil's own job in getting over his proposed amendment to protect the little fellows and restore operation of the anti-trust laws.

Borah thought he'd tie this on as a rider when continuance of the licensing clause was asked. Now it will take tremendous forensic shouting to get the amendment even out of committee.

As a matter of fact Borah is about convinced General Johnson and Senator Pat Harrison are conspiring to keep his pet from seeing the light of day. That will explain his remarks on the subject.

Emboldened by this first success industry and its allies have been marching boldly forward.

Decision to modify the stock market regulation bill still further was an example.

If members of congress didn't hear from their "constituents" on this score, it wasn't the fault of such organizations as the National Association of Manufacturers. Word went out to all members literally to flood congress with protests against the measure. Thanks to this the telegraph companies have been doing a land-office business for days.

OMENS: Another sign of the times: One of the several investigators hired especially by the Black committee to dig into air and ocean mail contracts has confided to friends he expects any minute to lose his job.

This means the investigation is either completed or petering out.

For all the cancelling of air mail contracts there have been no indictments for the fraud and collusion alleged.

The Post Office frankly is hoping congress will rush through permanent air mail legislation by April 20 so it won't have to make temporary contracts under conditions now being criticized loudly by the political opposition.

Poor old Col. Britten threw himself on the mercy of the Senate and went to jail for ten days for contempt.

Unless Col. MacCracken loses out on appeal to the courts and has to do likewise it looks very much at this minute as if Britten were all the red meat the senate is going to get.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE Treasury's April 15 long-term refunding bond issue at 3 1-4 per cent—predicted recently in this column—left the banks gasping for breath. It's likely to have far-reaching effects on the credit expansion program.

When Secretary Morgenthau failed to increase government borrowings on March 15 the big banks sort of winked at each other. They felt it was a smart stunt to sharpen their appetites for a big issue in April when the treasury would surely need more cash. That was O.K. with them so they sat tight on their record reserves and prepared to subscribe this month in a lavish way.

You could have pushed them over with a palm-leaf when the issue was again confined to refunding purposes. That billion and a half dollars of excess funds craving employment looms bigger than Mount Everest now. They've never before had so much money earning nothing.

RESULTS: Experts say this move by the treasury will have four major results.

1. It assures completely successful conversion of the 4th Liberties. Even owners of the called issue who want cash would be foolish not to make the exchange and then sell their new bonds at a premium. Demand is such that a premium is certain.

2. It will strengthen the bond market tremendously—industrials as well as governments. If the banks can't employ their surplus cash to buy federal obligations they'll have to turn elsewhere because they simply can't afford to keep their funds idle. They'll turn first to bonds.

3. This in turn will stimulate interest in new and refunding issues to meet corporate requirements. It's possible the appetite will be keen enough to solve this urgent problem without further government aid—which would be a load off the administration's chest and might also prove that the Securities Act isn't so unworkable after all.

4. Eventually it will stimulate commercial credit—which has been a primary government aim all along. There will be a time-lag before this effect becomes apparent as this type of credit is traditionally to develop. It would com faster if the House of Representatives could make up its mind to pass the bill extending temporary deposit insurance for a year. The banks remain nervous while that measure hangs fire.

A MIRACLE OF RECOVERY

Bradley Burson's recovery after he was shot through the head in an accident, the bullet passing behind both eyes, has been termed a miracle and a "one in a million" cases by the attending physicians. The accident was the result of somebody "playfully" aiming a gun at Bradley's head, a practice that cannot be sufficiently warned against. Although brain fibers were pressed into Bradley's blood by the impact of the bullet, the eyeballs were not shattered and, except for blindness in one eye, he is in perfect physical condition.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

© 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTALING and DERECK BLISS, but while Lila lives in luxury Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income.

After Gypsy's son is born her days become a dreary round of caring for him and caring for the home. Tom is frequently away from home evenings and Gypsy suspects he is interested in VERA GRAY, who works in the same office.

Lila confesses to Gypsy that she intends to divorce Derek and marry MARKO BROUGHTON, richer and older.

Gypsy's father is seriously injured in a motor accident, but recovers. Gypsy is so relieved she resolves to forget her jealousy of Vera. However, Vera continues to pursue Tom.

Gypsy's friend, SUE CANAVAN startles her by declaring that HUNT GIBSON, an engineer, is in love with Gypsy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

"I don't know what you mean," Gypsy repeated but her heart was beating very fast. Sue's blazing eyes, in a white face, accused her.

"I never should have thought it of you," Sue went on in a low shaking tone. "Flirting around. You with a nice husband of your own . . . a baby."

"Sue! Why, I've never in the world. . . ." Gypsy was hot, angry, mutinous. Hunt had been a friend; that was all. It was horrid of Sue. Her illness must be affecting her mind . . .

To Gypsy's amazement and discomfiture, the other girl put her handkerchief to her eyes and began to weep. Gypsy glanced around in consternation. There were only a few people at the tables now. An old lady in black sat in the corner, enjoying a solitary tea. There were two or three absorbed couples. No one was noticing.

"Sue, you mustn't—not here!"

The other girl gulped, swallowed, put her handkerchief away. "I'm terribly sorry," she apologized. "I'm—not myself, you can see that. I didn't mean all I said. Forget it. You can see how it is with me . . ."

Gypsy saw. Sue, in love with Hunt, desperate, jealous. And yet the accusation rankled. Was there any justice in what Sue had said? Had she, Gypsy, sought surcease from her own pain in Hunt's attentions? She winced at the thought.

Impulsively she leaned across and patted Sue's hand. "I'm sorry if you've misunderstood, she said softly. "Hunt's awfully fond of you. See him before you go away."

Sue raised her head proudly, "I'll not run after him," she said quickly. "I'll not run after any man. It was only—well, you see, while he was away he used to write to me. Marvelous letters. I got—sentimental about him then. And when he got back, so tall and distinguished and interesting, I sort of—fell for him, I guess. It was silly of me. But he seemed to like me a lot. Until this winter. Then I began not to see so much of him. And he got in with that Village crowd, Ronny's . . ."

"I know," Gypsy interrupted to say, with a little spasm of guilt.

"Well, then Elspeth drove me crazy, telling me he was in love with you—that he followed you around every place that he wouldn't go to a party unless he heard you were to be there . . . I've cried myself sick over it."

"Elspeth!" Gypsy said with fine scorn. "And you listened to her."

"Well, she's a mischief maker, I know that, but some of it was true. He did see lots of you and whenever I met him it was always you he talked about. . . ."

"Nonsense," Gypsy's color was high.

"You don't know what a relief it's been to talk it out." Sue said, on a long sigh. "To hear you say there's nothing in it—to know you wouldn't lie to me . . ."

"Of course, I wouldn't lie to you." Gypsy said proudly. "Besides, what about Tom? What did you think I was planning? You should have known better than this."

"I'd tell myself, 'there's absolutely nothing in it'," Sue went on. "I'd try to forget about it. And then I wouldn't hear from Hunt for weeks. I'd be sick to death listening for the sound of the phone. No matter who else called I couldn't be bothered. You know how it is." She appealed to the other woman.

"I know," Gypsy told her soberly.

"I got awfully run down," Sue confessed. "I haven't been eating much. I don't sleep. The doctor tells me I'll crack up unless I go away and have a rest. And yet—it's killing me to leave him. To think some other girl will be playing with him while I'm hundreds of miles away . . ."

Gypsy signalled the waiter, hovering in the background with a check. The two girls strolled out into the sunshine. "Come back to the apartment with me," Gypsy said. "Let's talk this thing out. I can't bear to think of your going away off there with nothing settled . . ."

In the back of her mind there hovered the ghost of a plan. If Hunt could be made to see . . . if his eyes were opened there might be no need of Sue's long journey.

The trouble was, Gypsy thought ruefully, putting down the receiver, she just didn't know how to say "no" to people. When Lila called, announcing her return and asking Gypsy to a dinner she was giving the following night, she had accepted without thinking. And Tom was behaving very oddly about it. He simply said he couldn't go. Gypsy knew he didn't approve of Lila, but that wasn't it entirely. He was too modern to stand aside and judge his wife's friends, no matter what they might do.

"But I said we would," she told him, puzzled. "We don't often go places together these days. I thought you might not mind. Or rather, I didn't think at all. I just

Capitol Chatter

AUSTIN, April 12. (AP)—Recent hunts for desperate characters have caused Capt. R. W. Aldrich of the headquarters company of the Texas Rangers to get out his trusted weapons and prepare them for action.

Aldrich, one of the oldest veterans in point of service in the Ranger force and participant in many combats during the chaotic days along the Texas border when ability to ride hard and shoot straight were prime requisites of peace officials, is stationed in Austion as Ranger office chief.

Supervises Operations

Only on extraordinary occasions would Aldrich be called upon to take the field. His duty is mainly to supervise operations and coordinate reports from men already in action.

"But you never can tell," Aldrich said as he fondled a much battered and vicious appearing single action .45 revolver and patted a snub nosed rifle that lay in its scabbard. "If action is needed I'd rather have these guns than any of the new fangled ones around here."

The weapons, Aldrich said, went with him through his border service and he is both fond and proud of them. They are carried in the same holster and scabbard and hooked to the same gun belt that he wore on the border.

Weren't Such Good Rangers

Several weeks ago when the capital was aroused over the hunt for the robbers of the Coleman bank, a report was circulated that all persons holding special ranger commissions might be pressed into service as active members of a posse to scoue the rugged hills.

It was believed at first that the bank had been robbed by Clyde Barrow, the Southwest's bad man, and his henchman Raymond Hamilton.

Many persons acquire the Ranger commissions merely as souvenirs. When informed they might be called into active duty to hunt some bad men a few of them rushed to the capitol to surrender their commissions.

BLACK-DRAUGHT

"Such a Good Laxative," Says Nurse

Writing from her home in Festus, Mo., Mrs. Anna LaPlante says: "I am a practical nurse and I recommend to some of my patients that they take Black-Draught, for it is such a good laxative. I took it for constipation, headache and a dull feeling that I had so much. A few doses of Black-Draught—and I felt just fine."

Because so many people know from having used it that Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, millions of packages of it are sold every year.

THE SON OF TARZAN, No. 64

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Meriem never went with Bwana's guests upon a hunt. She could find no pleasure in killing for mere sport. On these occasions she would accompany the riders across the plains, then ride into the jungle, and there take to the trees. For hours she would revel in the unalloyed pleasures of a return to the wild, free existence of her earlier years, leaping and swinging through the trees, or stretching comfortably upon a branch, dreaming.

Today the Hon. Morison Baynes, returning toward evening from the hunt, saw Meriem's horse tethered near the jungle's edge. He galloped to the animal's side, dismounted and on foot entered the trail. He had gone but a short distance when he heard a great jabbering in a nearby tree. Coming closer he saw a band of baboons and to his amazement he also saw a girl swing ape-like into the tree below the beasts who were quarreling over some cloth.

He was about to put a bullet through the nearest baboon that seemed about to leap upon her when he heard the girl speak. Then he almost dropped his rifle in surprise; he recognized Meriem. A strange jabbering identical with that of the apes broke from her lips. The baboons were evidently equally surprised for they stopped their snarling and slowly one approached and gave her back the articles they had stolen while she dreamed.

For several more minutes the girl carried on what could be nothing less than a conversation. The baboons chattered to her and she chattered back. The Hon Morison Baynes mopped his perspiring brow and made his way back to his horse. When Meriem emerged from the jungle a few minutes later she found him there, looking at her with wide eyes in which were both wonder and terror. They were half way home before either spoke.

Hooten Gives His Platform

More Business And Less Politics Advocated By Shallowater Man In His Race For County Superintendent

"With more business and less politics, I believe one capable person well can handle" the county superintendent's job, R. L. Hooten of Shallowater, a candidate for the superintendent's place, declared yesterday.

Mr. Hooten advocated elimination of the position of assistant county superintendent. "Give this $140 per month of the children's money to the schools, which so badly need it," he said.

Statement Given

His statement follows:

"For the past few years it has been necessary for school boards all over this county to cut salaries to the minimum. The teachers have taken the cuts cheerfully and have worked heroically at their task to give the rural boys and girls the best that is humanly possible. While the teachers and school boards have been so careful in hedging expenditures and many schools have been forced to shorten their terms for lack of finances, there has never been one item of reduction of expenditures brought about in county administration.

"We have now and have had through these most perilous times just passed an assistant county superintendent and a county superintendent drawing full time wages with no reduction whatever. If it has been right for the superintendents and teachers of our rural schools to have their salaries reduced from 25 to 40 per cent—and I believe it has been necessary—I believe it is just and right that the county administration expenditures be cut accordingly.

Would Cut Office

"I am for eliminating entirely the office of assistant county superintendent. Give this $140 per month of the children's money to the schools, which so badly need it. With more business and less politics, I believe one capable person well can handle this job.

"I am not for consolidation of our rural schools. I believe Lubbock county can well afford to maintain her present twenty-two rural schools. The distribution over the county is good. As the population increases many of them will become much stronger. Good buildings are maintained in each communnity now.

For Standardization

"I have long advocated the standardization of our rural schools, and have lent my best efforts to the cause for the past several years. It is a great injustice to pass a pupil up the promotion lane who has not had adequate instruction, along with necessary equipment and a full school term. Give the smaller school all the school it is able to maintain, after that give the state the privilege of transporting him to a higher school.

"Believing it is the obligation of the state to educate its citizens, I favor full cooperation with the state department of education in securing our just part of rural state aid, vocational aid, high school tuition, and transportation. I am for the state health programs and the Four-H club organizations one hundred per cent."

years ago and has been its leader since.

Under his direction, the Cowboys have made many long concert tours, including a European pilgrimage in 1930 and a trip to Washington and New York as official band for the Texas delegation on the Hoover special train in 1929.

Appearances Abroad

While abroad, the Cowboys played for a week each in London, Birmingham and New Castle, England, and at the Hague and in Rotterdam and Amsterdam, Holland. They also spent several days in Paris.

Playing in competition with other West Texas bands, the Wileymen in 1928 won the title of official band for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the annual convention in Fort Worth. This distinction they held for two years. They also played for the Texas state fair at Dallas, in 1929 and 1930. Among their earlier concert tours was a trip to Tampa, Fla., where they played for a week in 1926.

Pioneer In Instruction

As a pioneer in summer band instruction, Wiley has conducted schools at Simmons for the past three summers, attended by both band teachers and players.

Wiley is a native of West Texas, born at Dublin and reared at Graham, where he was educated in the public school. He received his musical training at the American Conservatory of Music, Chicago.

Mrs. Wiley is also a West Texan, having been reared at Breckenridge. The couple have three children, Norman, 12; Charles A., nine, and Janelle, six. The family expect to move to Lubbock in August, Mr. Wiley said tonight.

Cuban Bonds

Speyer and company and J. P. Morgan company, both of New York.

Financial experts said that while the Speyer and Morgan firms may hold some of these bonds, the bulk is held by American investors. These obligations, it was pointed out, should not be confused with the public works indebtedness, which is owed largely to the Chase National bank.

The latter obligations have been in default for some time, and the Cuban government is now investigating the loans to determine their legality. Former President Grau San Martin told bank officials that these loans were "illegitimate" because they were contracted by the deposed President Gerardo Machado, without the approval of the Cuban people.

Officials emphasized that interest on the Speyer-Morgan bonds will be paid but the principal will not be altered.

Joaquin Martinez Saenz, secretary of the treasury, said the moratorium "will be effective until a time when Cuba can sustain the burden without danger to its economic structure."

Moore, Jack Reaves, state highway patrolman, and the woman. Moore remained at the still, which was dismantled yesterday afternoon and placed in basement of the county jail building.

Six large galvanized iron tanks and one iron barrel were filled with mash. The still, of copper and estimated to hold 150 gallons, was filled with mash being cooked. Eighteen and a half gallons of whisky, recently distilled, were found in a barrel connected with the still.

Grain Confiscated

A half-sack of wheat was described as rye, a sack of wheat shorts, and about 85 pounds of sugar also were confiscated. The mash was poured out. A case of oak chips also was found.

The still was in a back room of a four-room frame house. The tank was heated with a gasoline flame.

The woman appeared before the grand jury yesterday afternoon.

The man arrested here as a result of the raid has a court record in liquor cases. The brothers formerly lived in Lamb county.

Wirt Charges

bers of the "brain trust" contemplated revolution said he considered the Reedsville project "a communistic effort."

Conduct Criticised

McGugin, a member of the committee, which heard Wirt testify, began the exchange in the house by charging the conduct of the inquiry was a "shameful spectacle of misadministration of justice."

McGugin also asserted the Democrats had placed "humiliating restrictions" on Reed, Wirt's counsel who is a former senator from Missouri.

No Persecution

Bulwinkle replied: "We are not prosecuting or persecuting Dr. Wirt, and he needed no attorney. We simply wanted him to name the people who told him brain trusters were plotting revolution."

"If we had been prosecuting him," Bulwinkle added, "the fact that the school superintendent had been put in jail would have been brought out."

One Republican senator, Robinson of Indiana, told reporters, he believed Wirt's testimony had justified the belief that a plot existed among "brain trusters" to overturn the government.

Whether Vice President Garner's action yesterday in asking the representatives to submit to him names of men they recommended for supervisory jobs in state park CCC camps would be discussed could not be ascertained definitely.

Agreement Is Reached On Bankhead Control Measure

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP) — An agreement was reached today on the Bankhead cotton control bill which, conferees said, restored the measure to a form closely paralelling the measure that passed the house.

The conferees refused to disclose all details pending a final session tomorrow but it was understood the fifty per cent ad valorem tax in the house bill was agreed upon. Two conferees were absent today and announcement of the agreement was withheld for that reason.

The senate bill would have taxed all cotton above the 10,000,000 bales allotment in the measure 75 per cent of its value at the time of ginning.

by this department to pass on the question," Allred stated.

"The orderly administration of relief work in this state is of paramount importance x x x and any uncertainty with reference to the legality of the acts of the present commission ought to be settled at once," Allred said.

Dismissal of Adam Johnson as state relief director by a majority of the commission was caustically criticized today by Carl Estes of Tyler, member of the board who was absent when Johnson was discharged. Estes also challenged Holliday's removal and promised an expose of the "influences" behind the movement.

Estes said he would resign immediately if the court holds "a member can be jerked from the commission at a whim of the person who apointed him."

"I know the exact reason for dismissal of Holliday and Johnson Estes said. "They are purely political. When Adam Johnson kept his pledge to sweep politics out of the relief organization and dismissed a number of walking delegates for a certain gubernatorial candidate they went out to get him. The only way they would remove him was to oust Holliday, Houston Harte or myself. They chose Holliday."

Fort Worth Man Is Shot To Death By Police In Home

Scout Patrolmen J. B. Hefner and Wiley Henderson were sent to Miles' home after several women complained that a man was disturbing the peace.

was in town. There were just a few people coming in. Yes, of course she remembered Mr. Gibson and it was sweet of him to come, so informally. Marko was there and two or three young men and their bird-like, beautifully caparisoned young women. Peg. Van. Norrie. Lila always introduced her guests thus, casually.

The table was a long, gleaming black surface with little white islands upon it. Lace runners. Glass birds. A foam of white flowers in a crystal bowl. Although the night was hot Lila's apartment seemed cool, high above the city.

Hunt seemed to fit in with this crowd. Gypsy thought, eyeing him critically. His manner with Marko was exactly right, a blend of deference and camaraderie. He didn't call him "sir" as Tom had. Tom hadn't liked Marko and had been consequently brusque with him. Gypsy had a momentary twinge when she thought of Tom, toiling away with a tiresome old client tonight while she was enjoying herself in her fine feathers.

Kong had disappeared and in his place was an impassive elderly maid. The food was delicious and the glasses were filled over and over again. Champagne. Lila explained lightly, which Marko had sent. Although there had been no open announcement of the state of affairs between her and Marko everyone seemed to understand. And there was possessiveness in every line of Marko's portly, well-fed body; in the rich, unctuous curve of his voice when he spoke to Lila. It all made Gypsy uncomfortable. She told herself that this was what she got for being a bit of a Sybarite; for liking Lila's parties so well she hated to refuse an invitation to one of them. But the atmosphere of the place rather got on her nerves. Lila was different. There was something brittle and artificial about her loveliness now. She wasn't in the least like the girl Gypsy had known.

They were still at table. The tall ivory candles were guttering in their silver sticks. The white flowers were wilting in their crystal bowl when the maid came in and whispered something to Lila.

Lila looked annoyed. Then she laughed lightly and disagreeably. "Why, bring him in, Davies," she said carelessly. She looked around at the company.

"Derek has dropped around, people," she told them. "Derek's come to be the ghost at the feast."

Something twanged at Gypsy's tautened nerves. What was going to happen? There was thunder in the air.

New Chevrolet Standard Six To Be Displayed Here Within Few Days; Is Improved Model

The world's lowest priced six cylinder car—the new improved 1934 Chevrolet standard six—is on its way to Lubbock and will be on display here in a few days, it was announced today by R. S. Mays sales manager of the Kuykendall Chevrolet company.

The new line of cars, amplifying the master six models for 1934, will be offered in both open and closed body styles, it was stated.

Although no national anouncement of the new improved Chevrolet standard cars has been made, a few of them have been received in this city within the past week and are now ready for display upon formal announcement. The coming shipment, Mr. Mays explained, will provide stock sufficient to meet the demand which the new low price is expected to create.

"The new car is typically Chevrolet, in quality—value—dependability—ruggedness and streamlining," he said. "In styling, performance, riding comfort and driving ease as well as in real big-car roominess and especially in the important matter of economy, it is a further development of the popular-priced and marked operating economy, will bring within reach of additional thousands the enjoyment of those qualities which have kept Chevrolet in the lead year after year."

accepted, like an idiot, without thinking.

"I'm sorry, darling. I'll undoubtedly be tied up with Strathmore tomorrow night. Got to go up to Tarrytown to see him. Get out of it."

But when Gypsy called back to tell Lila all this the latter was gaily adamant. Nonsense. she would get another man. How about that nice, bronzed engineer chap—Gibson? She had met him at parties last winter and at Gypsy's tea. She'd give him a ring. He could pick Gypsy up . . .
