36 people believed killed in plane crash

OSLO, Norway (AP) — A Norwegian airliner crashed Friday night on a domestic flight, killing all 36 people on board, the national NRK broadcasting company reported.

The television station said the plane crashed about 9 miles southwest of its destination, the Norwegian Sea coastal town of Broenneysund, about 375 miles north of Oslo. All those aboard were believed to be Norwegian, it said.

The four-engine Wideroe Airline plane, carrying 33 passengers and three crew members, was flying north from Namsos to Broenneysund, a distance of about 75 miles.

"The control tower at Broenneysund, airport lost contact with the plane about five minutes before its scheduled landing at 8:35 p.m. (2:35 p.m. EDT)," the broadcast said.

Rescue work was coordinated by police and the rescue center in the city of Bodoe just north of the Arctic Circle.

"Rescue personnel and four doctors reaching the crash site by helicopter reported soon after 11 p.m. (5 p.m. EDT) that there was no sign of survivors," Bodoe police chief Olav Soenderland said on the television newscast.

"They reported that there was still fire and small explosions in the severely damaged main fuselage and in debris spread around in rough terrain," Soenderland said.

The plane was a turbo-prop Dash-7. The national NTB news agency reported that the crash site was about 330 feet above sea level near 890-foot-high Torghatten mountain, which is well-known in Norway because it is shaped like a hat and has a hole through the middle section.

Soenderland said there were low clouds and poor visibility in the vicinity of Broenneysund on Friday night.

A representative of the federal Airplane Crash Commission is to fly to the crash site today to begin an investigation.

Ex-hostage says U.S. hostages mistreated

PARIS (AP) — American hostages in Lebanon were brutally mistreated for trying to escape from their Iranian captors, a freed French hostage was quoted as saying Friday.

Journalist Jean-Paul Kauffmann shared a cell recently with American Frank Herbert Reed who was "mistreated to the point of being left prostrate," Kauffmann's sister, Marie-Genevieve Dagin, was quoted as saying.

Reed was director of the Lebanese International School when he was captured Sept. 9, 1986.

Mrs. Dagin's comments were reported by Agence France-Presse one day after Kauffmann and two other Frenchmen arrived in Paris following their release in Lebanon.

Kauffmann and the other Frenchmen, diplomats Marcel Carton and Marcel Fontaine, were released from Val-de-Grace military hospital Friday after receiving medical examinations.

Kauffmann, in his own interview Friday with the French news agency, said the remaining Western hostages in Lebanon were "my main concern. I ask their families to remain patient and stay confident." He was also quoted as saying he read the novel "War and Peace" 21 times during his captivity.

In a separate statement issued after the dispatch quoting his sister, Kauffmann said he intended to comment more about the other hostages next week and did not want anyone relaying his impressions until then.

A woman who answered Mrs. Dagin's telephone in Rennes on Friday said she was out of town and could not be reached.

Mrs. Dagin was quoted by AFP as saying Kauffmann told her the American hostages held by the Iranian Shiite Moslem group Islamic Jihad were "the object of brutality because they tried to escape."

There are 18 foreigners missing in Lebanon, including nine Americans. The hostage held longest is Terry A. Anderson, 40, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press. He was captured March 16, 1985.

The AFP dispatch did not make it clear if Kauffmann specified which hostages were mistreated for attempting to get away.

French officials, meanwhile, defended the circumstances under which the hostages were released. Premier Jacques Chirac condemned those who "try to insinuate" that France made a deal with Iran.

"I say solemnly, I say on my honor, that no negotiation, no compromise, no bargaining, no deal took place with any foreign government, or even less with any terrorist group," he said.

Agence France-Presse, citing unidentified sources it said were close to French negotiators, said France and Iran agreed to resume formal diplomatic relations under a 40-day schedule beginning the day the hostages were freed.

France also has confirmed reports that one-third of a $1 billion loan Iran made to France in 1974 has been paid. Other reports have said the remainder is to be paid in return for freeing Kauffmann, Carton and Fontaine.

The widow of French hostage Michel Seurat said Friday she wanted an official inquiry into her husband's death. Seurat was kidnapped with Kauffmann in May 1985 and died in captivity.

Mary Seurat said Chirac also should demand Seurat's body be returned to France.

Voters to pick trustees, consider school bond

From Staff Reports

Midlanders today are deciding the fate of 23 candidates vying for seven single-member district seats in the first school board election held in three years.

Voters also are considering a proposed $11.8 million school bond and casting ballots in local races for Midland County college and hospital boards, the Midland City Council and the Greenwood Independent School District board of trustees.

In the Midland Independent School District race, a record 23 candidates are competing for seven single-member district school board seats created by U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton's abolishment of at-large elections.

Midlanders haven't voted in a school board election since May 1985 — the year the League of United Latin American Citizens and Black Advisory Council filed suit against the school board charging that the minority vote in Midland was diluted by the MISD's at-large elections.

The school district fought Bunton's two rulings siding with the minority groups in the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, La. However, a five-member judiciary panel agreed with Bunton in both accounts.

Bunton halted school board elections in 1986 and 1987 until the suit was finalized earlier this spring. Consequently, every school board member except Betsy Robinson is serving an expired term.

The slate hopefuls competing for the seven single-member district seats on the new school board are District 1 candidates James Fuller and Edia Hernandez; District 2 candidates Tony Carrillo, Adela Marmolejo and Clarence "Putty" Zachery; District 3 candidates Don Aldridge, Ken Morrison and Price Parker; District 4 candidates Jim Bullita, Joe Chavez and Jackie Hamilton; District 5 candidates Roy Marshall, incumbent Betsy Robinson, George Staley and Robbie Warley; District 6 candidates Dianne Anderson, Mona Craig, incumbent Joe Reed and Bob Rich; and District 7 candidates J. Murphy Horton, John Kennedy, Ken Marks and Connie Reeves.

Today's bond election offers voters a chance to approve or nix $11.8 million in bonds to finance the addition of 87 new classrooms, seven libraries and a 15-classroom primary school.

The district's construction list includes the addition of eight classrooms at Henderson, Pease, Bowie, Burnet, Long and Travis elementary schools, nine classrooms at Jones Elementary, six classrooms at Milam, South and Lamar elementary schools, and 10 classrooms at Crockett and Bonham elementary schools.

New libraries are slated for Bowie, Milam, South, Lamar Crockett, Long and Travis elementary schools.

All of the additions will include new offices, staff workrooms, storage, restrooms and multi-purpose room for physical education, health and fine arts activities.

The construction of a 15-classroom primary school in northwest Midland is proposed to relieve overcrowding at Rusk, Santa Rita and Parker elementary schools.

Map highlights MISD district lines; Polling places listed — 11A

An additional $2.7 million was tacked on to the proposed bond issue to pay for the possible purchase of another tract of land, furniture and architect's fees.

In the other races, three incumbent Midland County Hospital District directors — James Ramsoure, Margaret Purvis and Pat Estes — are running unopposed.

Mayor Carroll Thomas, and council members Robert Rendall and Bob Monaghan, all incumbents, are running unopposed in their quest for two-year terms on the city's ruling body.

Monaghan was sworn in April 26 to fill the seat vacated by former Councilman Kelly Fish, who resigned and retired from public life. The seat was up for re-election this spring.

Incumbents Parker Humes, Gloria Hinojosa and Bill Kleine are running unopposed in the Midland Junior College District race. College board terms are six years long.

In the Greenwood Independent School District election, Glen Evans faces incumbent Don Morgan in the Place 7 race and John Underwood seeks to oust incumbent James Donnell in the Place 6 race.

Three newcomers, Pete Wilkinson, James Mashburn and Johnny Womack, are running in the Place 2 race.

Small plane's landing gear collapses after tire blows out

From Staff Reports

The left main landing gear of a twin-engine Beechcraft Baron executive aircraft piloted by Doug Meshirer of Midland collapsed mid-morning Friday after a tire blew out when the aircraft was landing at Midland International Airport.

No one was injured in the mishap, and no fire broke out.

"He just had a fuel leak is all," said Midland Fire Department Battalion Chief Bob White, "and we took care of that. We covered it (the fuel) with foam to eliminate the fire hazard."

The aircraft was landing to the south on Runway 16-Right when the mishap occurred. After touchdown and collapse of the gear, the aircraft slid off of the runway.

White said the gear failure resulted in "moderate damage" to the left wing, to the left gear strut, and to the left engine.

"Of course, the prop got into the turf," he said, "and that didn't do any good."

Boy may have been imprisoned in bathroom

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston couple was jailed Friday on charges that they kept their 7-year-old emaciated son imprisoned in a bathroom for as long as four years with only two dogs as companions.

Alexander Lizcano Jimenez, 38, and his wife, Charlotte Anne Bishop, 42, appeared before State District Judge Patricia Lykos, who increased the previous bond of $2,000 to $10,000 apiece and appointed attorneys for the couple.

Their child, Bannoy Jimenez, told authorities he escaped by climbing through the bathroom window of the family apartment, then wandered to a service station where the attendant fed him and called police. Houston Police juvenile officer A.G. DeWoody said.

Police are terming the case one of the worst instances of child abuse they've ever seen.

"What you have here is a boy who has been deprived of a childhood," juvenile officer A.G. DeWoody said. "No television, no toys, no love."

The couple, which has three other children, was arrested Thursday night and charged with injury to a child by omission.

"We know very little right now," Randy Holzapple, attorney for the father, said after the court appearance. "I know very little about them, even less about the case."

"Why is one child singled out? That's what's really perplexing everybody. It really breaks your heart."

Holzapple said it was not likely the couple, married for 11 years, would be able to post bond and probably would remain jailed. An arraignment was set for June 1.

"It's not going to be fun," the attorney said of his case. "Hopefully by that time we'll have a lot more. We're going to be very hated people, especially with the prevailing feeling in the community."

"You never know who's telling the truth. They're talking to a child who's never been to school, or the child may be retarded and a slow learner. The files are very skimpy."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Sunny skies in forecast

From Staff and Wire Reports

Sunny skies, unlike Friday night's thunderstorm watch, and a 20 percent chance of rain are in the forecast today, according to the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport. Temperatures are predicted to rise into the upper 80s and drop into the upper 60s with southwesterly winds from 10 to 25 mph.

Sunday, too, will be a good day to head outdoors with fair and sunny skies. Temperatures will remain constant with highs in the upper 80s and lows in the upper 60s. A 20 percent chance of rain and gusty winds are also predicted for Sunday.

Friday's high of 90 was 13 degrees lower than the record high of 103 set on May 6 in 1947. The low of 60 was 18 degrees warmer than the record low of 42 set on May 7 in 1933.

STATE

A cool front and low-pressure trough brought scattered showers and thunderstorms and brisk southerly breezes Friday across Central and North Texas, and forecasters expected more rainfall later.

The front sliced through central New Mexico south of the Texas-Mexico border, just west of El Paso.

Low pressure moved across far West Texas near Wink and through the northeast corner of the Panhandle into Northwest Texas near Wichita Falls.

Rain was falling in the Panhandle, South Plains and North Texas, the National Weather Service said. A severe thunderstorm watch was posted for parts of the area.

NATION

An intensifying storm system moved through Wyoming on Friday, spawning snow, thunderstorms, hail and high winds from Montana and North Dakota into New Mexico.

Snow fell in northern Nevada, where 9 inches had accumulated by noon in Austin, 8 at Jackpot and 4 to 5 at Mountain City. A winter storm watch was issued for Friday night and Saturday in the mountains of central Montana.

Heavy thunderstorms deluged western North Dakota and central Nebraska. Alliance, Neb., received half-inch hail.

Rain or snow, most of the West was buffeted by high winds. A gust of 85 mph was clocked at the Arapahoe Baskin Ski Area in Colorado. Just west of Colorado Springs, wind blew down a major transmission line and cut off power to 9,000 utility customers. Gusts of 63 mph were reported in Montrose and Gunnison, Colo.

Rock Springs and Casper, Wyo., Milford, Utah, and Ruidoso, N.M., clocked gusts of more than 50 mph.

The winds stirred up dust and limited visibility in eastern North Dakota and northeastern South Dakota.

Elsewhere, cool and rainy weather continued in the Middle Atlantic states and southern New England. A flood warning was issued for central and western Maryland, northern Virginia and northeastern West Virginia.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms extending from Arkansas across the upper half of the Mississippi Valley, the northern Plains, the northern Rockies and the intermountain west to northern California and the Pacific Northwest. Snow is predicted for the higher elevations from Montana to Nevada.

FORECAST
Saturday and Sunday expected to be sunny with a 20 percent chance of rain both days. Highs are expected in the upper 80s with lows in the upper 60s. Accompanying the warm temperatures is expected southwesterly winds from 10-25 mph and gusty. The record high for May 6 was set in 1947 at 103 degrees and the all-time low was set in 1933 at 42 degrees.

Refinery blast death toll up to six

NORCO, La. (AP) — Workers wearing protective clothing and carrying oxygen tanks found three bodies in the hot, twisted ruins of a refinery Friday night, raising the death toll from the explosion to six. One person was missing.

"The area is very much in disarray," said plant manager Fred Foster. "There are large pieces of equipment off of foundations and down around the cat cracker. We're inching along. As time goes on, it's going to slow down."

The catalytic cracking unit, used to break crude oil down into usable products such as gasoline, was at the center of the blast early Thursday at the Shell Oil Co. refinery. Forty-two people were injured.

The three bodies found Friday night were so badly burned they could not immediately be identified, officials said. Two bodies were found earlier Friday, and one was recovered shortly after the blast.

Foster said the air is still heavy with fumes and small fires continuing to burn, fed by oil and gas residue in the tangle of pipes and equipment.

Dean Pernicaro, president of the Oil Workers union local at the plant, said Friday that he got a look at the blast area and could barely recognize the site.

"There was an impact to virtually every building in the facility. The area around the cat cracker is really tore up. The fire continues around the cat cracker itself," he said.

"Some of the equipment is still recognizable, but an awful lot of it has just collapsed into charred remains."

Shell spokesman Bill Gibson said Friday: "The plant manager visited the families (of the missing) last night. Afterward, he said there wasn't much hope, but we're still hopeful, of course."

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency sent investigators to the plant Friday to help in the search for the cause of the explosion.

Chemical engineers said they could find no record of an explosion by a catalytic cracker. "There is no historical trend for this event," said Norman Marsolan, professor of chemical engineering at Louisiana Tech University.

Houston Huckabee, chairman of Tech's chemical engineering department, said he checked a list of 100 refinery fires dating back to 1955 and found none of them involved a catalytic cracker.

The 25-year-old, 16-story catalytic cracking unit produced 336,000 gallons of gasoline a day.

Catalytic crackers were developed to support the nation's need for high octane fuel after World War II.

After gasoline is distilled from crude oil, the cracker provides a second chance to get usable products from the remainder. A chemical is mixed with the petroleum under heat to produce butane, propane, more gasoline, heating oil and diesel fuel.

Shell officials refused to speculate on how long the plant might be idle, although Shell's adjacent chemical plant was expected to resume operations quickly. Nor would they estimate the cost of the damage.

It could take as little as 18 months or as long as 27 months to build a new one at a cost as high as $100 million, said Joseph Vasil, chief estimator at a Long Beach, Calif., company which builds catalytic crackers.

The bodies of Joey Polier, 28, of Reserve, and Ernie Carrillo, 44, of Kenner, were found Friday in the control room for the gasoline-processing unit. The body of 20-year-old Shell employee Lloyd Gregoire, 39, of Paulina, was found shortly after the explosion.

WEST TEXAS IN BRIEF

Day-long festivities will celebrate Cinco de Mayo

From Staff Reports

The "Autentica Fiesta Mexicana y Charreada de Cinco de Mayo" is being held here today, commemorating a victory of the Mexican troops over the French in 1862.

The day-long festivities will begin with a 10 a.m. parade beginning at the downtown library and moving to Wall Avenue to Terrell Street.

At 1 p.m. more activities begin at the Llenzo Charro arena, located 2½ miles north of Highway 80 on County Road 1130 North.

The crowing of the 1968 Charro Queen and a rodeo will be held there.

Beginning at 7 p.m., there will be a dance featuring the music of Banderero's De Oscar Chavez, a mariachi band, food and beer.

Tickets will be $3 and children under 12 are free.

and deadline to register is May 15. Checks may be sent to PCRS, Box 11332, Midland, Texas 79701. For information call 684-4230.

Pushmobile contest today

The Chaparral District of the Buffalo Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, will host its ninth annual Cub Scout Pushmobile competition from 1-5 p.m. today at Centennial Plaza.

Pushmobile is the Cub Scout version of a soap box derby, requiring one boy to push and another to steer over an 800-foot course. At the 200-foot interval, a second crew takes over and is replaced on the return trip by the original team.

Loraine Street will be blocked off between Wall and Illinois to provide the race course. Many of the Chaparral District's 33 Cub packs in Midland and Martin counties are expected to participate. The public is invited to attend the event.

Gourmet seminar slated

"Food For Thought," a series of one-course workshops with a gourmet meal, will present a program on "Crystals" 2 p.m. May 22. Chala Salcedo of Dallas, a toastmaster, member of Unity Church, the Association for Research and Enlightenment, and the Edgar Cayce Foundation, will present the workshop.

Gourmet chef Lori Lanier Blansett and the chairman Elizabeth White will prepare the meal. Proceeds will benefit the Permain Church of Religious Science.

Cost of the workshop and meal is $25 per person or $40 per couple. The program is limited to 30 participants

Event to benefit Palmer

A "Function at the Junction" will be held at the Junction Apartments, 1902 N. Midland Dr. from 3-6 p.m. today with donations to benefit the Palmer Drug Abuse Center.

Activities will include refreshments, clowns, balloons and a dunk tank.

Mutiny suppressed

The government of India put down a mutiny by Sikh troops on June 9, 1964, who were angered over army infiltration of their holiest shrine, The Golden Temple.

BOY

DeWoody described the boy as resembling a child from a famine-stricken African country. He had shoulder-length hair and his stomach was bloated from malnutrition, he said.

Three other children — a 10-year-old girl and 9-year-old twins, a boy and a girl — were placed in the custody of county child welfare authorities.

Bannoy Jimenez was being treated for severe malnutrition at Houston's Ben Taub Hospital. Preliminary reports indicated the child's malnutrition was not due to a physical abnormality.

Authorities said the boy was fed a cold meal once a day and shared the bathroom with two dogs. Judy Hay, spokeswoman for Harris County Child Protective Services, said the boy also was bruised and complained that his back and ribs hurt.

"Caseworkers here were astounded," Ms. Hay said. "He looks like a very hungry 4-year-old. It's just unbelievable — the idea he's never seen anybody but dogs."

DeWoody said although the boy is 7, he had no concept of time and believed he was 3.

"I don't know how much communication he had with his family," the officer said. "He heard voices through the door and possibly learned some communication like that."

"The mother may have some problems," Holzapple said. "From what I can see, it appears they're placing most of the blame on the mother. The father was gone all of the time. At least, that's what the child told police. He really didn't see the father too much."

Ms. Hay said the child's sisters and brother may have been abused, although not physically. She described them as very upset and refusing to initially talk with authorities.

"Hopefully, they can learn to trust us," she said. Bannoy, however, was speaking freely, she said.

"He instantly had a great rapport with our caseworkers," she said. "It's pretty bizarre — definitely."

Holzapple said a grand jury would consider the case to decide if further charges should be filed. Conviction on

Librarians worried about roles as surrogate babysitters

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Alarmed by the growing number of latchkey children thrust upon them, the nation's public librarians are shelving their normally quiet roles and clamoring for better day care and after-school programs.

"Librarians have to become political animals," says Sue Rosenzweig of the University of North Carolina's Center for Early Adolescence. "We've got to take care of our kids."

Their pleas, along with proposed solutions, recently were presented in a 50-page policy paper at the Public Library Association's national conference.

"We're really the voice of the children," said Jody Stefansson of San Marino, Calif.

The public library's image as a safe, friendly, educational and cost-free haven, has made it hardest hit by the growing number of latchkey children.

Like many children's librarians,

Ms. Stefansson regularly finds herself serving as policeman, caretaker, referee and nurse. Forty to 60 children as young as first-graders descend upon her every weekday afternoon, many of them instructed to do so by their working parents.

"The parents think their children are really reading, and that's the biggest myth," she said during the four-day conference.

The youngsters keep pouring in, despite Ms. Stefansson's successful work with community groups to offer better after-school care. She's even developed a network of babysitters for working parents.

"I don't want to be a surrogate parent," she said.

Noise is up and graffiti is commonplace at many libraries, say leaders of the 6,000-member Public Library Association, a division of the American Library Association.

Skateboards whiz through reference rooms, bicycles clutter the halls, flowers are trampled.

"It's hard for the library to close when the parents don't get there in time to pick up their kids," said Susan Goldberg, president of the Public Library Association.

Artist searches for portrait of his wife

CHICAGO (AP) — Gustav Likan has done portraits of Conrad Hilton and Herbert Hoover, but he hasn't seen his most treasured work in 28 years: a painting of his wife.

So the native Yugoslavian, who lives in Texas, has returned to Chicago to try to find the 30-inch-by-40-inch painting of his wife portrayed in a violet dress with a cat on her lap.

"My wife was so beautiful. The picture really had a lot of charm," Likan said.

The story, reported in a recent Chicago Tribune, began in 1962 when the struggling immigrant couldn't afford to repay the $2,000 he borrowed from his brother-in-law to get his family to the United States.

Likan, now 77, had made a name for himself decades earlier by painting portraits of Yugoslavia's young King Peter and murals for Argentine first lady Eva Peron's schools.

His brother-in-law filed a lawsuit to recover the money, and some of Likan's paintings were auctioned by the Cook County sheriff. The brother-in-law bought the painting of Mrs. Likan for $355, but Likan believes it was then immediately sold.

The brother-in-law and his wife died without children in the mid-1960s, and the two families parted ways after the disagreement, so Likan doesn't know where the painting might be.

"It's a dream to have this picture," Likan said. "Maybe the owner is rich. He doesn't need the painting. It's worth a lot more to me, from an artistic standpoint and for my family."

The painting was valued at $2,000 when it was auctioned, and Likan believes it would be worth $8,000 today.

"It could be anywhere," said Capt. James Zurawski of police department's financial investigation unit. "It's like looking for a needle in a haystack."

"I used to work at the galleries," Zurawski said. "Paintings go for cash usually, and the buyer is usually just an initial."

After he had established himself as a painter, Likan began teaching at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. But one day in 1967, a dean called to say his classes were canceled because he didn't have enough students, he allowed smoking and he never took attendance.

Likan believes the decision had more to do with a television interview he gave, during which he criticized the Picasso sculpture in the Daley Center Plaza.

Anatomist gives thumbs up to human ancestor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A human-like creature that became extinct more than a million years ago was not "all thumbs" after all, a scientist claims in a study published this week.

In fact, says Randall L. Susman of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, the small-brained hominid called Paranthropus robustus had fingers and thumbs that were easily capable of turning bones and rocks into tools during the era almost 2 million years ago that the ancestors of modern humans were evolving the same skills.

Susman, an expert in primate anatomy, said most experts on early humanlike animals believe that only the genus Homo, the ancestors of modern humans, could make tools. But after examining fossils unearthed in South Africa, Susman said he believes that Paranthropus robustus also was a toolmaker and, in fact, could have taught our ancestors this skill.

Paranthropus robustus apparently emerged in Africa about 2.5 million years ago. The species did not evolve further, as did the ancestors of mankind, and became extinct about 1.4 million years ago. Susman said many experts have long believed that one reason this large-toothed creature became extinct was that it could not use tools.

The experts, says Susman, were not giving proper credit to the skills and dexterity of Paranthropus robustus. The proof, he said, is in the thumb.

Fossils dug up at Swartkrans in South Africa and dated from about 1.8 million years ago show that Paranthropus robustus had a very human-like thumb, said Susman.

The Paranthropus thumb, like the human hand, was capable of "precision grasping," and not just the "power grasping" of the lower primates, he said.

"Precision grasping and power grasping require two different types of anatomy," said Susman. Power grasping is the type used when lifting a heavy suitcase or when doing a chin up. The fingers become a hook-like grip and the thumb is just tucked out of the way.

"Precision grasp is the way you would pick up a raisin or the way you would thread a needle," said Susman. "Precision grasp requires pulp to pulp contact between thumb and index finger. Power grasp doesn't. When we look at hand anatomy...we can see that humans have unmistakable hallmarks of precision grasp."

So did Paranthropus, according to Susman.

The fossils show that the Paranthropus thumb was connected to a "saddle joint" that was able to direct the thumb around to touch the pads on each of the finger tips. It is a skill that only humans have.

"A chimpanzee cannot rotate its thumb around," said Susman. "When it picks up a grape, it does it in the same way that we would turn a key in a lock — a pinch of the thumb against the side of the index finger."

Because of this finding, Susman believes the popular belief about Paranthropus robustus — that it died out because it could not make tools — is wrong.

"The explanation why Paranthropus became extinct is probably more subtle and complicated than we think," said Susman. "It is possible that some environmental change took place and the Paranthropus was not able to adapt" as well as the larger-brained Homo genus.

Susman said tools have been found with the fossils of Paranthropus robustus in African digs where there are no remains from the Homo genus.

Labor leader jailed for organizing strike

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — A labor leader in Gdansk was ordered jailed Friday for organizing an illegal strike, and Lech Walesa stirred workers with a speech in the city's strikebound shipyard after a young man tried to jump from a window.

Food and morale both were running low when the Solidarity leader gave his impassioned, impromptu speech to the strikers.

The government took steps to toughen its anti-strike laws one day after police crushed a 10-day-old steelworkers strike at the Nowa Huta mill in southern Poland.

New signs cropped up that the government of Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski was broadening its counterattack against the worst wave of labor upheaval in Poland since a 1981 military crackdown.

"I do not see a possibility for a dialogue with those who propose chaos for Poland and a relapse into the phase of self-destruction," Mieczyslaw Rakowski, a Polish United Workers Party Politburo member, said in a speech reported by state-run television.

At the Lenin shipyard in Gdansk, hundreds of police surrounded the complex while 800 to 1,000 strikers remained inside. They are demanding higher wages and union rights.

Walesa has been in the shipyard since Wednesday. A young striker on Friday suddenly rushed to a window of the big, second-floor cafeteria where most of the strikers have been gathering, smashed the glass and tried to leap out, according to Western reporters at the scene.

Friends grabbed him, pulled him in and took him — his hands and face covered with blood — to the nearby shipyard infirmary. Details about him were not available, and witnesses could not say what prompted his sudden action.

Walesa immediately raced to the dining hall, mounted a chair and gave an emotional, impromptu speech which had an obvious effect in lifting spirits.

Walesa told the strikers, holed up in the shipyard since Monday, "You know that Solidarity is also taking care of the person next to you."

Everyone has a thousand problems: because he loves his wife and he must stay here, another left 500 zlotys ($1.25) to his wife when he left. Suddenly he realizes she has nothing to live on.

"Solidarity must be big here," Reporters, speaking on condition of anonymity, said tension eased and spirits rose after the speech.

With food supplies to the shipyards stopped by police since Thursday morning, the strikers had only sauerkraut soup.

"It seems they are going to use a different scenario than in Nowa Huta," said senior Polish dissident Adam Michnik. "They probably want to take the shipyard by hunger."

Also Friday, a Gdansk court sentenced a union leader who called the Lenin shipyard strike on Monday to three months in prison.

Bogdan Lis, the head of the Gdansk region of the outlawed trade union federation Solidarity, was convicted of calling an illegal strike.

At least five other Solidarity activists were detained Friday, said Zbigniew Romaszewski, a Solidarity spokesman in Warsaw.

The government drafted a bill that would punish organizers of strikes and protests with prison sentences of up to one year.

The draft, obtained by Western news agencies in Warsaw, also would suspend the already limited right to strike.

At the Nowa Huta steelworks in Krakow, where police staged a lightning raid with deafening percussion grenades Thursday while strikers slept, sullen workers emerged after their shifts ended and refused to talk with reporters. Some murmured that all was normal in the plant.

"With outrage we protest the use of force against striking workers and students. We think that the use of force leads to the worst possible social effects," said a statement by Aleksander Koj, rector at the state-run Jagiellonian University in Krakow.

A local Solidarity leader, Stanislaw Wadolowski, said the threat of force ended a one-day strike by bus drivers in the northwestern city of Szczecin. He said riot police were put into position outside bus yards Thursday, six strikers were briefly detained, and the strike ended after 10 hours.

French spy released from island exile

PARIS (AP) — A French spy convicted in the sinking of the Greenpeace ship Rainbow Warrior and the death of a photographer on board was freed from her island exile Friday because she is pregnant, Premier Jacques Chirac said.

Capt. Dominique Prieur's departure from Hao, a French military base, came about five months after the other agent convicted in the incident, Maj. Alain Mafart, was returned to Paris. Mafart had complained of a stomach ailment.

Mrs. Prieur's release also came two days before a presidential election that pits Chirac, a conservative, against Francois Mitterrand, the Socialist incumbent and heavy favorite.

The newspaper Le Monde said: "You can't make us believe that the captain's condition demands that her situation be arranged 48 hours before the elections."

Destruction of the protest ship in July 1985 at its berth in Auckland, New Zealand, was a fiasco for the French secret service. It was a dark hour for the Mitterrand administration but the agents, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter, were heroes at home.

Defense Minister Andre Giraud greeted Mrs. Prieur and her husband Joel when they arrived late Friday night at Villacoublay military airport near Paris. The couple left without making any comment to reporters. Prieur, a Defense Department employee, was posted to Hao after his wife was exiled there.

Mrs. Prieur, 38, and Mafart, 37, were arrested after explosives attached to the hull sank the Rainbow Warrior, which was preparing to sail to the French nuclear test site in the South Pacific. A Greenpeace photographer was killed.

They were sentenced to 10 years each in a New Zealand prison but under an accord reached by the United Nations in 1986 were to remain on Hao for three years.

Prime Minister David Lange of New Zealand said freeing Mrs. Prieur is a "breach of France's obligation under international law."

Chirac told a campaign luncheon in Agen: "Mrs. Prieur is now pregnant, and the accord foresaw that, in this circumstance, she should be returned to Paris. I respect my signature...when I sign an accord, it should be known that I respect it."

A Foreign Ministry spokeswoman said an illness in Mrs. Prieur's family "accelerated" the release.

Louis Maire, Mrs. Prieur's father, is hospitalized with an unspecified illness. He told Monte Carlo radio he had not known of his daughter's return, but "I'm very sick so it will be a pleasure to see her before dying."

Lange said in a statement that her departure from Hao "is not consented to" and he will pursue the matter with France next week.

At the United Nations in New York, French Ambassador Pierre-Louis Blanc met with Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar to discuss the circumstances surrounding Friday's repatriation.

Benedicte Scalabre, a press attache to the French U.N. mission, called it "just an informational meeting." He refused comment on whether pregnancy was a condition for repatriation under the U.N. agreement.

A spokesman for the French Foreign Ministry said the government learned of the pregnancy several days ago.

"The New Zealand government was immediately informed and at the same time invited to proceed with a medical examination," the spokesman said, speaking anonymously in keeping with French practice.

The newspaper Le Monde said Mrs. Prieur's baby is expected early next year.

Lange denounced Mafart's return to France in December and on March 31, at New Zealand's request, a Dutch diplomat was sent to Hao to make sure Mrs. Prieur was still there.

The New Zealand government has tried unsuccessfully to force the return of Mafart, who has completed entrance examinations for a French war college since arriving in France.

KEN MARKS = EXPERIENCE

• EXPERIENCE IN BUSINESS

"There is a major difference in managing a business when you are the owner and your name is on the note. That's a course that is not offered in college" - KEN MARKS

KEN MARKS has owned and operated Commercial Electronic Supply Company in Midland since 1962. He has not only survived, but prospered during the booms and the bust. By making prudent business decisions and treating people fairly and honestly, Ken and his wife Mary Lea have been a credit to the Midland business community. We need this type of experience to manage the budget and personnel of MISD.

• EXPERIENCE IN EDUCATION

"The best experience comes from the mistakes we make and learn not to do again. I hope to give the voters of Midland the benefit of my experience without the cost associated with those mistakes" - KEN MARKS

KEN MARKS has worked as a volunteer in MISD schools for the last 20 years. He has helped his four children through their education by being there. He has been an active supporter of the children, the teachers, the administrators, and the schools through his involvement in PTA, Booster Club and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He has given 20 years of his time and his money because he loves kids - all kids. The only way to get experience in working with our schools is to have done it. Ken has done it.

• EXPERIENCE IN COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

"This community has given so much to me over the years and I have made every attempt to return the favor. Every parent can't or won't get involved. It's our job to help make up the difference" - KEN MARKS

KEN MARKS has paid his dues and wants to continue paying. The only way to judge a person's commitment to a cause is their past performance. Ken has performed well. He is on the Midland Chamber of Commerce Education Committee. He sponsors the teacher of the month award. He is past president and vice-president of the Lee High School Booster Club and still spends many hours each year supporting the school with his time and his money. He served on the PTA Advisory Board and is still active in PTA. He sponsors the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and holds the meetings in his home.

Ken doesn't just say he is concerned - His involvement shows that concern. We need someone with a proven commitment to serve as our trustee.

KEN MARKS IS UNIQUELY QUALIFIED!

Labor Party views win as rejection of Tories

LONDON (AP) — The socialist Labor Party hailed its strong showing in municipal elections Friday as a national rejection of Conservative Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's right-wing program and its shake-up of the welfare system.

"There's a sea change in British politics — there's a direct rejection of what the Tories are doing," Labor leader Neil Kinnock declared, surrounded by jubilant party workers. Labor overtook the Conservatives, but the Tories tightened their hold in the prosperous south. The two major parties captured control of seven councils each where no party previously had overall control.

"Very encouraging, very encouraging. We got many councils," Mrs. Thatcher told reporters.

The major loser was the centrist Social and Liberal Democratic Party, which lost support to the two big parties as it paid for internal feuding that followed Mrs. Thatcher's third successive victory last June.

It was formed in March to merge the centrist Liberal Party and Social Democratic Party, but a breakup faction remained as a separate party.

With results in from all 211 local authorities contested, Labor gained 104 seats, for a total of 1,898, the British domestic news agency Press Association calculated. The Conservatives had a net gain of five seats, for 1,135. The centrist lost 75 to end up with 365 seats.

David Steel, the centrist party's co-leader, acknowledged, "It is bad, not good."

"But it was not a disaster considering the appalling year it has been for us. I am relieved considering our internal difficulties," he added.

The Conservatives now control 48 of the contested cities and towns, compared with 41 previously; Labor has 93, up from 91, and centrist retained six. The Scottish Nationalists control one district, while the rest belong to independents or have no party with overall control.

Labor retained control of major prizes, including Birmingham, Britain's second largest city, and the Scottish capital, Edinburgh.

But Labor lost control of Bradford, a key northern industrial city, where no party now has an overall majority.

No elections were held this year in London and Northern Ireland.

The local elections were fought on national issues as Mrs. Thatcher presses on with sweeping changes in welfare and education and a controversial new property tax.

The Conservative leader, having tamed labor unions and curbed inflation since winning power in 1979, sees the changes as part of her drive to bury socialism in Britain, increase personal responsibility and end the "dependency culture" of the welfare state.

Critics, including some uneasy Tory rank-and-file legislators, have criticized the changes for bearing unfairly on the poor.

Environment Secretary Nicholas Ridley said the results were a "remarkable achievement" for a government pushing through major changes.

The Conservatives, who lost all but 10 of the 72 Scottish parliamentary seats in last June's election, again failed to dent the deep-rooted hostility to the Thatcher administration north of the border.

Unofficial estimates by the British New Agency show an average voter turnout of about 40 percent. The figure is normal for municipal elections, which always register lower turnouts than general elections.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Poor sanitation, incest blamed on mortality rate

MOSCOW (AP) — A national newspaper on Friday blamed poor sanitation and incest in the Central Asian republics for a high Soviet infant mortality rate.

The labor newspaper Trud said the national average for infant mortality is 25 deaths per 1,000 live births but that the rate went as high as 70 per 1,000 in some areas of Central Asia.

The U.S. rate is 10 infant deaths per 1,000 births, according to 1987 figures.

Women in the Central Asian republics often take their family's drinking water from irrigation ditches, the newspaper said. This leads to intestinal infections, cited as the cause of many of the infant deaths, Trud said.

Some hospitals in the region lack indoor plumbing and running water, the report said, and many women in Central Asia have their children one after another, which can weaken their bodies and produce weak and undernourished offspring.

The tendency of some Central Asian ethnic groups to intermarry also was blamed for raising the infant mortality rate.

An article in the daily Komsomolskaya Pravda last month said incest was the major factor in the Soviet Union's high infant death rate.

Quake hits Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — An earthquake shook southern Nicaragua Friday, damaging buildings and sending frightened residents rushing into the streets. No injuries were reported.

Alejandro Rodriguez, director of the government's Institute of Land Studies, said a local seismograph registered the quake at 8:46 a.m. (10:46 a.m. EDT) and the tremor had a magnitude of 5.9 on the Richter scale.

He said the quake was centered near San Rafael del Sur, 15 miles south of Managua, and there was no cause for alarm. Radio broadcasts called on the public to remain calm.

Friday's quake was felt in northern Costa Rica, but officials there said they had no reports of damages or injuries.

Workers and residents in Managua returned to their daily routines within minutes after the quake. Some said they had not noticed any tremors.

Radio Sandino reported some buildings were damaged in Rivas, 70 miles south of Managua. Landslides were reported in southern Nicaragua near the Asososca lagoon, which provides a significant part of Managua's drinking water.

Managua was devastated by an earthquake in December 1972 that killed at least 10,000 people. The city has not been completely rebuilt and the shells of abandoned concrete buildings remain in what was once the downtown area.

Helicopter crash kills 2

HANOVER, West Germany (AP) — A British military helicopter crashed and burst into flames at an international air show today, killing at least two people and injuring several others, officials said.

Airport officials in Hanover said the crash occurred as the helicopter returned from a short demonstration flight. They said the helicopter hit a loading ramp at the airport with its back rotor.

In early reports, eyewitnesses said the helicopter belonged to the U.S. military, but airport officials later said the aircraft was a U.S.-made Chinook helicopter flown by the British.

The accident occurred at about 6 p.m. (12 noon EDT) shortly after the end of the air show, officials said.

It was not immediately known whether the dead were members of the crew or whether there were fatalities on the ground.

Fire and emergency crews raced to the scene after the crash, pouring foam on the burning wreckage.

Strait swimmer drowns

BELJING (AP) — One swimmer drowned and three were hospitalized after attempting to swim across a 21-mile-wide strait in southern China, a newspaper reported.

Thursday's Wen Hui Bao newspaper said Lo Qingshan drowned about 1,000 yards from shore while trying to swim across the Qiongzhou Strait, between Guangdong province and the island province of Hainan.

The report accused organizers of the May 1 athletic event of negligence.

The newspaper said the 38 swimmers were not given food or drink during the 13-hour swim and that many climbed aboard boats halfway across the strait because of cold and hunger.

Officials from the provincial sports commission said the event was held without their approval and that the organizers had no idea of the dangers involved.

Oilfield-equipment companies help create thousands of new jobs

DALLAS (AP) — Oilfield-equipment companies helped pump thousands of new jobs into the Texas economy in the last year, producing a 7.5 percent April unemployment rate that was the lowest in more than two years, officials said Friday.

The 0.6 percent decline from March was the result of total employment growing to an estimated 7.71 million and a drop in the number of Texans looking for work, according to figures released by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

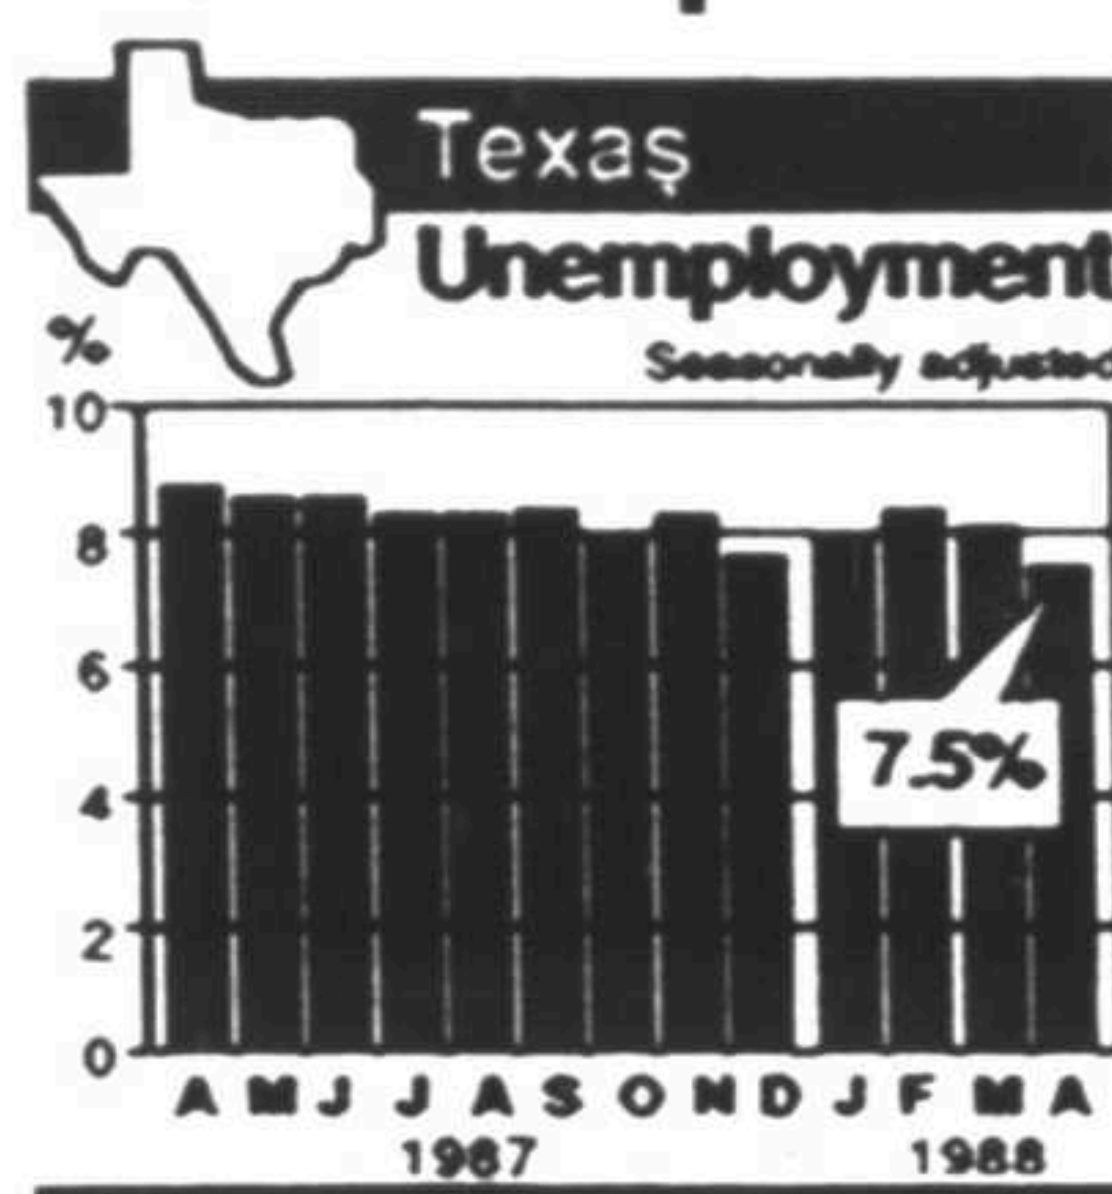

Texas kept the highest rate of the 11 most-populous states, while unemployment nationwide fell to 5.4 percent, the lowest it has been since June 1974.

Nearly 130,000 more Texans were employed in April than in March. The jobless rate was 1.2 percent lower than in April 1967, with 230,000 new jobs added.

"These and other data tend to reinforce the view that the state's economy was in a slow but steadily improving condition," regional BLS commissioner Bryan Richey said.

Unemployment has not been this low since January 1966, just before falling oil prices sent the state's energy-dependent economy into a tailspin.

Manufacturing and service jobs have led the recovery lately, Richey said. He credited exports of aircraft products, machinery and, ironically, oilfield equipment from companies that have seen their Texas business dry up.

"It's turned into a fairly good-sized business in terms of exports," Richey said. "A lot of drilling is going on in the world and we're shipping a lot of equipment out of here."

Employment also has grown sharply in health and business services, he said.

Manufacturing jobs were up 2.4 percent in the year that ended in March, the latest month for which figures were available. The service sector grew 3.5 percent. Both increases are comparable to those in the national economy, Richey said.

But the BLS figures show what he called "relatively unimpressive" job growth among energy producers and in the state's transportation and public utility sector. And other trouble spots remain.

League official says election code 'a mess'

DALLAS (AP) — In Texas, the main political question today may not be who to vote for, but how to vote.

A confusing election code spread over a patchwork of electoral jurisdictions forces Texas voters to jump through more hoops than most U.S. citizens when it comes to exercising their right to vote.

"It's a mess," said Joann Lovelace, executive director of the League of Women Voters of Texas. "The problem is all these constituencies have the right to set their own elections, and they do."

And officials say the situation probably won't improve, as reforms have run up against tradition.

"Things change slowly when you start talking about elections," said state Sen. Chet Edwards D-Duncanville, sponsor of several election-law reforms.

"We looked at unified polling places briefly in 1965," when the election code was rewritten, Edwards said. "It was very complex, and we decided not to get bogged down on that one issue."

Perhaps nowhere is voter confusion more apparent than in Dallas County, where residents in at least a fifth of the 462 precincts will have to go to two or more locations to vote on every issue at stake in Saturday's cavalcade of municipal, school and county elections.

"If you went to two or three places, you could spend half the day voting," said Dallas County Election Administrator Bruce Sherbet.

Said Lovelace: "It adds to confusion and turns off voters."

Voters countywide can weigh an $82.8-million jail bond referendum and a local part-mutual betting option in the same neighborhood precincts where they vote for president.

Most residents of Garland and Richardson, two of the county's largest cities, will have the convenience of voting for local elections at the same time.

The picture gets blurred, however, in many of the smaller suburbs, where municipalities and school districts will set up their own voting booths in fewer and often separate locations. Overlapping school, city and county lines force an almost geometric progression of polling places for suburban voters.

"Most states are not as bad as Texas," said Kim Brace, president of Election Data Services, a Washington political consulting firm. "In most other states, you don't have the multitude of different districts."

The confusion has an impact on voter turnout, said Curtis Gans, director of the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, a non-partisan research group based in Washington. Gans said Texas ranked 46th in voter turnout in the 1966 general election with about 29.5 percent turnout of registered voters. In the 1964 presidential general election, the state was 43rd with 47 percent turnout, he said.

"That's crazy," Gans said of the different polling places for different elections. "That is guaranteed to ensure a low voter turnout."

Tales from the front sometimes sound more like descriptions of complicated road rallies.

"The last time I did a municipal election, I couldn't find my polling place," said Paul Geisel, an urban-affairs professor at the University of Texas at Arlington. "I was trying to be a loyal person here, and I never did find my polling place."

Geisel told the Dallas Times Herald that the election process should be simplified so that voting locations are the same for all elections.

Several regional and statewide efforts at streamlining the process have been doomed by local politics.

Dallas County Judge Lee Jackson said voters would benefit if suburbs accepted county offers to administer their elections at regular precinct polling places.

But he said he hasn't pushed the idea because he sympathizes with local officials who might view county administration of their elections as too costly or as a blow to their autonomy.

Jewish settlers say army operation won't end attacks

By KARIN LAUB

KIBBUTZ KFAR SZOLD, Israel (AP) — Jewish settlers in Israel's embattled northern border cheered the army's incursion into southern Lebanon but said the operation would provide only temporary relief from Arab guerrilla attacks.

"If the Lebanon war didn't do the job, this operation certainly won't," said Moni Levy, 34, secretary of this communal farm about two miles south of the border. Levy was referring to the 1982 Israeli invasion of Lebanon that led to a three-year occupation.

Israeli troops on Monday night launched their largest operation in Lebanon in two years, moving north of Israel's self-designated "security zone" to search for Arab guerrillas.

The incursion followed a week in which Palestinian guerrillas twice penetrated Israel's northern border, killing two Israeli soldiers. Five guerrillas also were killed.

Since then, residents say, life in northern border settlements has become more tense.

"Fewer people leave their homes at night. They jump at every little sound," said Amos Or, secretary of Kibbutz Dafna, another communal farm about one mile from the border.

Or said his children had taken to playing "soldiers and guerrillas" after last week's raids.

"They put rags on their heads and pretended they were guerrillas on a hostage-taking mission," he said.

When the alert was sounded last week indicating a possible guerrilla infiltration, residents of the communal farms went into a practiced routine they have come to know all too well over the years.

Women locked themselves into their small, one-story homes with the children for a nerve-racking vigil until the guerrillas were caught.

The men grabbed weapons they keep in their homes and headed for fences or watchtowers to guard their settlement.

Kibbutzniks, as residents are called, have learned important lessons from past guerrilla attacks.

They remember vividly the night of Nov. 25, 1987, when a lone Palestinian guerrilla landed a hang glider inside the border, made his way to an army post and killed six soldiers before being shot to death.

"During that night, we learned how hard it was for the women in the houses to stay alone without knowing what was going on," Levy said. Since then, he said, the kibbutz has set up a hot line staffed by volunteers and a social worker who people can call when a real alert is on.

Levy described elaborate exercises held jointly with the army every few months, in which a hostage-taking operation is staged at Kfar Szold.

"Every few months the army takes a house, shoots a little bit in the air, then takes a few hostages here," Levy said.

He said each kibbutz in the region had prepared for the worst by training a team of Arabic-speaking residents to negotiate with guerrillas, in case a hostage situation developed before the army arrived.

In other exercises, kibbutzniks practice storming a guerrilla outpost in an area outside the settlement, Levy said.

Similar training exercises have become a part of life in Metulla, a border town of 1,500 overlooking the hills of southern Lebanon.

"Everybody under 65 years of age has a job," said Bialik Belski, owner of the town's Arazim hotel. He said tasks range from transporting the elderly into shelters to standing guard at the edge of town.

Yossi Goldberg, head of Metulla's city council, commended the army's defense of the northern settlements. But he complained the government had not fulfilled its obligations to the town, where "50 percent of our problems are security-related."

Goldberg said Metulla badly needs a medical clinic, because the nearest hospital is an hour's drive away, in the northern town of Zefat. He said Metulla had been promised more psychologists to help residents deal with fears of attack, but none had been provided.

"The government has made a lot of promises it hasn't kept," Goldberg said. "We expect the government to take care of its citizens."

When the army launched its search operation Monday night, residents in Kibbutz Kfar Szold were relieved.

"It can only help if they clean up the place once in a while," Levy said.

Study claims the higher cats are, the easier they fall

Hearst News Service

The higher they are, the easier they fall — sometimes.

In what sounds like a joke from a Gary Larson cartoon, veterinarians are studying how cats can miraculously survive falling off buildings. Oddly, the higher the building, the greater a cat's chance of survival — if the building is at least seven stories high.

Ninety percent of cats survived falls from skyscrapers and open windows in New York City, according to an article in the British journal Nature. In a study of 132 fallen felines, veterinarians W.O. Whitney and C.J. Mehlhoff found the following:

— The worst-cat scenario involved a feline that plummeted 32 floors onto solid concrete. It "was released after two days of observation in the (animal) hospital, having suffered nothing worse than a chipped tooth and mild pneumothorax," a type of lung injury, says physiologist Jared M. Diamond of the University of California-Los Angeles Medical School in the Nature article.

— Seventeen of the cats were euthanized by owners who couldn't afford treatment. Of the remaining 115, 104 survived.

— The higher the building, the greater the rate of deaths and injuries — until the seventh floor, above which the rate declined. In contrast, "few adults survive falls of more than six stories onto concrete," Diamond said in an article reviewing Whitney and Mehlhoff's research.

Why the difference between cats and humans? And why the seventh-story reversal in death rates? Diamond says several factors control how a falling creature hits the ground:

— Its mass and surface area. Falling large animals (such as humans) are more injury-prone than small ones (such as cats). "Even a small drop breaks an elephant's leg," Diamond observes drily, "but falling mice reach terminal velocity in the atmosphere much sooner and at a much lower value than do falling elephants."

— Its speed of descent. A falling cat reaches a maximum, or terminal, velocity of 60 mph after dropping 100 feet, compared to 120 mph for humans.

— Its behavior during descent. Diamond says that on reaching terminal velocity, a cat "may relax and extend the limbs more horizontally in flying-squirrel fashion." This would succeed in "not only reducing the velocity of fall but also absorbing the impact over a greater area of its body."

Falling cats have superb bodily control "and make gyroscopic turns such that all four feet are soon pointing downwards. Hence cats dissipate the impact force over all four limbs." So in cases involving considerable heights (say, higher than seven stories), a cat has more time to relax and spread out.

In contrast, he says, "falling human adults tend to tumble uncontrollably but land most often on two feet, (and) next most often on their heads."

But "falling babies, because their relatively large heads shift their center of gravity toward the head, tend to land head-first with arms reflexly extended to break the fall."

And "small dogs that fall from buildings are prone to more serious injuries than cats."

Cats' high survival rate is a benefit of their evolution, Diamond says.

Bond Election
Midland ISD
May 7, 1988

You have the opportunity to improve education in Midland. This Saturday the public school district is presenting a bond issue to meet 3 crucial needs in our schools.

- Comply with a state mandated teacher-pupil ratio of 1:22 in grades k-4; present facilities cannot meet this mandate, a situation which could jeopardize the district's accreditation and state funding.
- Increasing elementary enrollment; over 600 new elementary students enrolled this year and projections indicate 2,000 more students the next 5 years.
- Enhance learning by providing space for upgraded libraries, counselors' offices, and group instruction activities.

No new taxes to service this bonded indebtedness are necessary. Debt service can remain at $.097 per $100 evaluation.

Cabbie gets rider to riverboat's next port of call

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The days of obliging cabbies chasing a missed train to the next town to get a passenger aboard may be gone, but a recent missed riverboat posed only a bit of a problem for a Little Rock cabdriver.

The cabdriver, Fred Higgins, was hailed by Bruce Robinson of New Haven, Conn., outside the Excelsior Hotel.

Robinson had missed a tour bus that was to take a conference group to Riverfront Park in North Little Rock, where the Spirit, an excursion boat, embarks on a dinner cruise on the Arkansas River.

When Higgins and Robinson reached the park, the boat had already left. "He was real disappointed, so I said, 'Let's try one more time,'" Higgins said.

WE MAKE HOUSE CALLS!

SPRING SALE! NOW IN PROGRESS

Sound old fashioned? Maybe so . . . but that's the way we feel about helping you solve your decorating problems. Here at our Gallery, we think your ideas should have the same kind of warm professional and personal attention folks expected from their family doctor in the good old days.

We're ready to see the problem through your eyes, right in your own home, whether you're looking for a single chair, new draperies or a decorating plan for an entire room or home. If you're uncertain about your choice of a lamp, an area rug, a picture or any other decorative accessory, we'll be glad to make a "house call" . . . happy to come to your home by appointment.

Most old fashioned of all . . . our "house calls" are complimentary. Just ask one of our design experts for the story.

Petti and William McClellan hold their adopted daughter, Kiley Nicole. The McClellans waited three years for an adoption after their daughter, Chelsea, died at the hands of nurse Gene Jones in 1982.

Kerrville couple whose daughter killed by nurse adopt baby girl

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Kerrville couple whose daughter died at the hands of a nurse have adopted a baby after a three-year wait, but they say nothing could replace the loss of their child.

William and Petti McClellan shed tears Thursday as they held 7-month-old Kiley Nicole at the Bexar County Courthouse.

The McClellans' other little girl, 15-month-old Chelsea Ann McClellan, died in September 1982 after being taken for a routine checkup at a Kerrville clinic where nurse Gene Jones worked.

Ms. Jones was convicted in February 1984 of intentionally injecting the baby with a lethal dose of a muscle relaxant and was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Numerous people who were involved in the case against Ms. Jones attended the adoption proceedings Thursday.

"It won't replace what we lost. Nothing ever will," Mrs. McClellan said about the adoption. "But I never thought I'd ever be this happy. I wanted to make sure I was over Chelsea emotionally, and that I was doing this for all the right reasons." The McClellans' adoption was granted by State District Judge Pat Priest, who in October 1984 presided over another trial in which Ms. Jones was convicted of injuring a month-old boy who had been in her care when she worked at Medical Center Hospital in San Antonio.

Kiley was born Oct. 3 and has been with the McClellans since she was 2 days old.

McClellan said he also battled with his emotions last fall when the family drove to San Antonio to pick up the child.

"I wasn't going to get my hopes up until I saw her," he said. "Then it hit me. She was a beautiful baby." The McClellans have two sons, Shay, 15, and Cameron, 9.

Also present at the adoption proceedings Thursday was attorney Nick Rothe, who as a special prosecutor assisted Kerr County authorities in the murder case and helped convict Ms. Jones of the Bexar County charge.

Winning Colors not only Derby lady of importance

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The filly Winning Colors won't be the only lady in the Kentucky Derby today at Churchill Downs.

Back for her 114th Derby appearance will be Lady Luck. "My daddy always said he'd rather be lucky than good," said Jack Van Berg, who won the Derby last year with Alysheba, owned by Midland's Dorothy Scharbauer and daughter Pamela.

Van Berg, who has been good, and lucky, enough to be the only trainer to saddle 5,000 winners, might need a special smile from the Lady today. He will saddle lightly regarded Din's Dancer in a field of 17 3-year-olds for the 1 1/4-mile Derby. If all go to the post at 4:33 p.m. CDT, under scale weight of 126 pounds, the race will be worth $786,200, with $611,200 to the winner.

THE EARLY favorites are Private Terms, who has won all seven of his career starts, and Winning Colors, the filly who thrashed eight male rivals in the 1 1/4-mile Santa Anita Derby April 9.

However, the race generally is considered to be wide open. Asked to handicap the race, Charlie Whittingham, who trains Lively One and who has won more than 500 stakes, said, "Any one of a half dozen could win — maybe a dozen. It just depends on who has the luck."

At the top of the stretch in the 1986 Derby, Bill Shoemaker, riding the Whittingham-trained Ferdinand, and Pat Day, aboard Rampage, gunned their mounts toward the same hole. Ferdinand got there first and won the race.

"If you get in tough luck, like getting cut off, it's tough to come back again," said Charles Taylor of Windfields Farm, a co-owner of Canadian-bred Regal Classic. Windfields won the 1984 Derby with Canadian-bred Northern Dancer.

The luck of the draw appears to have been with Winning Colors and against Private Terms. The filly will start from post 11, while Private Terms will start from No. 16.

The most favorable Derby post-positions are generally believed to be from five through 12. However, Gato Del Sol won from No. 19 in 1963; Swale won from No. 15 in 1964; Ferdinand won from the rail in 1986 and Alysheba won out of the No. 3 last year.

Of course, there are worse things than a bad post position. Stalwars came down with a 102-degree fever Wednesday and wasn't entered. Talking about the fickle fate and seemingly eternal optimism that are integral parts of horse racing, Gary Jones, who trains Stalwars said, "A trainer once told me, 'I want to commit suicide, but I want to wait until Thursday to see how my maiden runs.'"

As usual, the Derby, which will be televised by ABC, is a study in contrasts.

Winning Colors will be the 13th starter for trainer D. Wayne Lukas, who will be seeking his first Derby victory in his eighth consecutive appearance. Lukas' best Derby performance was a third with Partes in 1981.

Lukas raced a filly entry in 1984 when Life's Magic finished eighth and Althes was 19th.

Charles Hadry will be saddling his first Derby starter in Private Terms, who worked three-eighths of a mile Friday in 30 1/5 seconds. Granacus, another Canadian-bred, sizzled the same distance in 35 flat.

Five jockeys will be riding in their first Derby. They are Chris Antley on Private Terms, Julio Pezua on Intensive Command, Pat Johnson on Sea Trek, Shane Romero on Jim's Orbit and Ken Desormeaux on Purdue King.

The 56-year-old Shoemaker will ride Lively One in his 26th Derby in a bid for a record-tying fifth victory. The shoe won with Swaps, 1953; Tomy Lee, 1959; Lucky Debonair, 1965, and Ferdinand. The riders of five Derby winners were Eddie Arcaro and Bill Hartack.

Winning Colors will be the 35th filly to start in the Derby and will be trying to become the third to win. The winners were Regret, 1915, and Genuine Risk, 1980.

KINGPOST WILL be trying to become the eighth gelding to win the Derby and the first since Clyde Van Dusen broke from the No. 20 post to do it in 1929.

Private Terms will be trying to become the fifth unbeaten winner of the Derby, joining Regret, Morvich, 1922; Majestic Prince, 1969; and Seattle Slew, 1977. The last unbeaten Derby starter was Air Forbes Won, who finished seventh in 1982.

Regal Classic or Granacus could become the fifth Derby winner foaled outside the United States. Besides Northern Dancer in 1964, they were Sunny's Halo of Canada, 1969, and two colts foaled in England — Omar Khayyam, 1917, and Tomy Lee, 1959.

There will be two entries in the Derby — the Woody Stephens-trained pair of Claiborne Farm's Forty Niner and Cefis, owned by James P. Ryan and Robert Kirkham, and Thomas J. Curne's Lively One and Intensive Command, who is trained by John Campo.

Only five Derby starters will not race on Butazolidin or Lasix, or both. They are Cefis, Brian's Time, Seeking The Gold, Proper Reality and Private Terms.

Midland Angel second baseman Jim Thomas, left, tags out Wichita runner Mike DeButch to start a first inning double play during Texas League action Friday at Angel Stadium.

Angels rip Wichita again

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

Midland Angel fans may want to catch a peek at Sherm Corbett — because he may not be here much longer.

The former Texas A&M standout again worked over Texas League opponents in the middle-inning relief role, picking up the win in a 16-9 Angel romp over the Wichita Pilots at Angels Stadium Friday.

The Angels jumped out to a big lead for the second straight night to win their third straight game and break a third-place tie with the Pilots in the Texas League-Western Division.

Corbett was used little by Class AAA Edmonton last season and had a rocky start in his second tour at Midland last month, but the big lefthander has caught fire in the current homestand — allowing only two earned runs in his last 18 innings pitched stretching over four appearances.

"The main thing is that I'm getting all three of my pitches (fastball, slider, changeup) over the plate," Corbett said.

He's just recovering from pitching only 57 innings at Edmonton last season after three solid years as a starter in the Angels' system, including Midland in 1986.

"The reason I'm back down here is that I have a chance to pitch. They had veteran relievers in Edmonton that they used when the game was on the line.

"If I'm going to get more innings, I'd rather be down here."

Oliveras said Corbett has certainly established himself as a big league relief prospect.

"The way he's throwing, he may not be here much longer," the skipper said.

Corbett threw 3 1/3 innings of two-hit relief after coming in for a struggling Chris Collins with two out in the fourth inning.

Panel denies Rose's plea

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite his explanation and videotapes, Cincinnati Reds manager Pete Rose managed to get only a three-day break Friday in his 30-day suspension for shoving an umpire.

A three-man review panel upheld the suspension imposed by National League president Bart Giamatti, but Giamatti snipped the length after hearing Rose's plea. It remained the harshest punishment for a manager in 40 years.

"I'm a whole lot disappointed. I thought then and now that the suspension is too long," Rose said. "It was wrong to touch an umpire, especially twice, but he provoked me by touching me in the face."

"I hate to say it, but I'd probably do it again if the same situation came up."

Rose was penalized for twice pushing umpire Dave Pallone in the ninth inning of Saturday night's Mets-Reds game at Riverfront Stadium.

Rose's $10,000 fine was left intact.

"I thought I'd get five or 10 days and a couple thousand dollars," Rose said at a news conference at his hotel after the panel's decision. "It'll all be forgotten when we win the West."

GIAMATTI, WHO imposed the punishment on Monday, counted this week as part of the suspension, which will now end June 1 instead of June 4. Rose has not managed since Sunday because he underwent arthroscopic knee surgery.

"The committee carefully reviewed all of the videotapes of the incident, heard evidence from Mr. Rose and his representative, and heard a full explanation of the reasons for the suspension from Mr. Giamatti," the league's Executive Committee said in a statement. "In view of all of the evidence and testimony heard, and after careful deliberation, the executive committee unanimously upholds the 30-day suspension imposed."

The panel which heard Rose's appeal consisted of Bill Bartholomay, board chairman of the Atlanta Braves; Claude Brochu, president of the Montreal Expos, and Chub Feeney, president of the San Diego Padres and former NL president. Giamatti immediately said he was pleased with the decision and then modified the suspension.

"I have heard Mr. Rose's explanation, and in light of his service to baseball and the remorse expressed, I will count the time he has spent away from the team this week as part of his suspension," he said.

Please see ROSE, Page 2B

Pete Rose, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, doesn't appear to be happy after learning that his plea for a reduction in his 30-day suspension was denied Friday.

Avoiding track disaster by meager one-eighth inch

Earning a state track berth is a bit like living on the edge of the Grand Canyon. You are always hoping that disaster is still a year away.

Midland's three state qualifiers are headed for Austin next weekend, and hopefully, leaving behind some harrowing experiences in Lubbock that almost took their free state tickets away.

First was the case of the quarter-inch spikes for Midland Lee hurdler Jimmy Fennell and Marcus Strambler. Then came the case of the dieting spot put for Midland High's Tracy Parker.

We're talking nit-picking stuff here. Things you don't spend a lot of time thinking of, unless your whole high school track career is riding on one-eighth of an inch or an ounce here or there.

In Friday's preliminaries of the Region I track meet at Texas Tech, Fennell and Strambler didn't look like the hurdlers we have come to love. Both qualified for Saturday's finals with little difficulty, but they struggled with Fennell in the 110 highs and Strambler the 300 intermediates.

Williamson

After those two races, both complained of the surface at R.P. Fuller Stadium.

"It was almost like being on roller skates," said Fennell. "You couldn't get any traction. My feet kept slipping."

Strambler, almost as if he were listening to Fennell, said after the intermediate race, "The track is just too slippery. I couldn't get out of the blocks, my stride was off and I kept slipping. I was confident, but I can't stand a bad start."

Former Lee student trainer Oscar Reyes, who now does those duties for Texas Tech, saw the problem easily. He told Lee track coach Eddie Wolski, "Coach, we use quarter-inch spikes on this track. Those you have are one-eighth inch and much too short."

That was enough to send Wolski on a night-long search for the right spikes. "I got about a hundred quarter-inch spikes from the Denton track coach," Wolski said Saturday morning. "Let's hope this does the trick."

Fennell was the first to test the spikes. He placed second to earn the state berth, but he was planning on winning.

"The spikes made all the difference in the world, but unfortunately, my mind wasn't in the race. I got another horrible start and had to play catch-up. I literally had to high jump the first hurdle when I was trying to over-extend myself in an effort to catch-up. But the spikes made the difference down the stretch."

Usually, one mistake is fatal in the hurdles. Only an athlete with the talent of Fennell could overcome such a bad beginning.

Strambler was next, winning with a near record 37.29.

"I was nervous in the blocks after what happened to me Friday," said Strambler. "But I got a good start and the spikes were holding. When I made up the stagger on the first two runners, I knew I was going to be in there."

MHS' Parker won the shot put with a Region I record 41.4, but she did it without her own shot put.

Parker's shot didn't pass the weigh-in. It was the same shot she used to win the District 45A title two weeks before.

"Our shot lost weight in two weeks," joked Midland High coach Sonja Pittman. The joke wasn't quite as funny for Parker before the event.

"I thought I was in real trouble before we starting throwing," said Parker. "You kind of get used to what you've been using all year."

But Parker borrowed a shot from San Angelo and never skipped a beat on the way to a record performance.

"I love that shot. Now I'm going to have to find another one at home for the state meet."

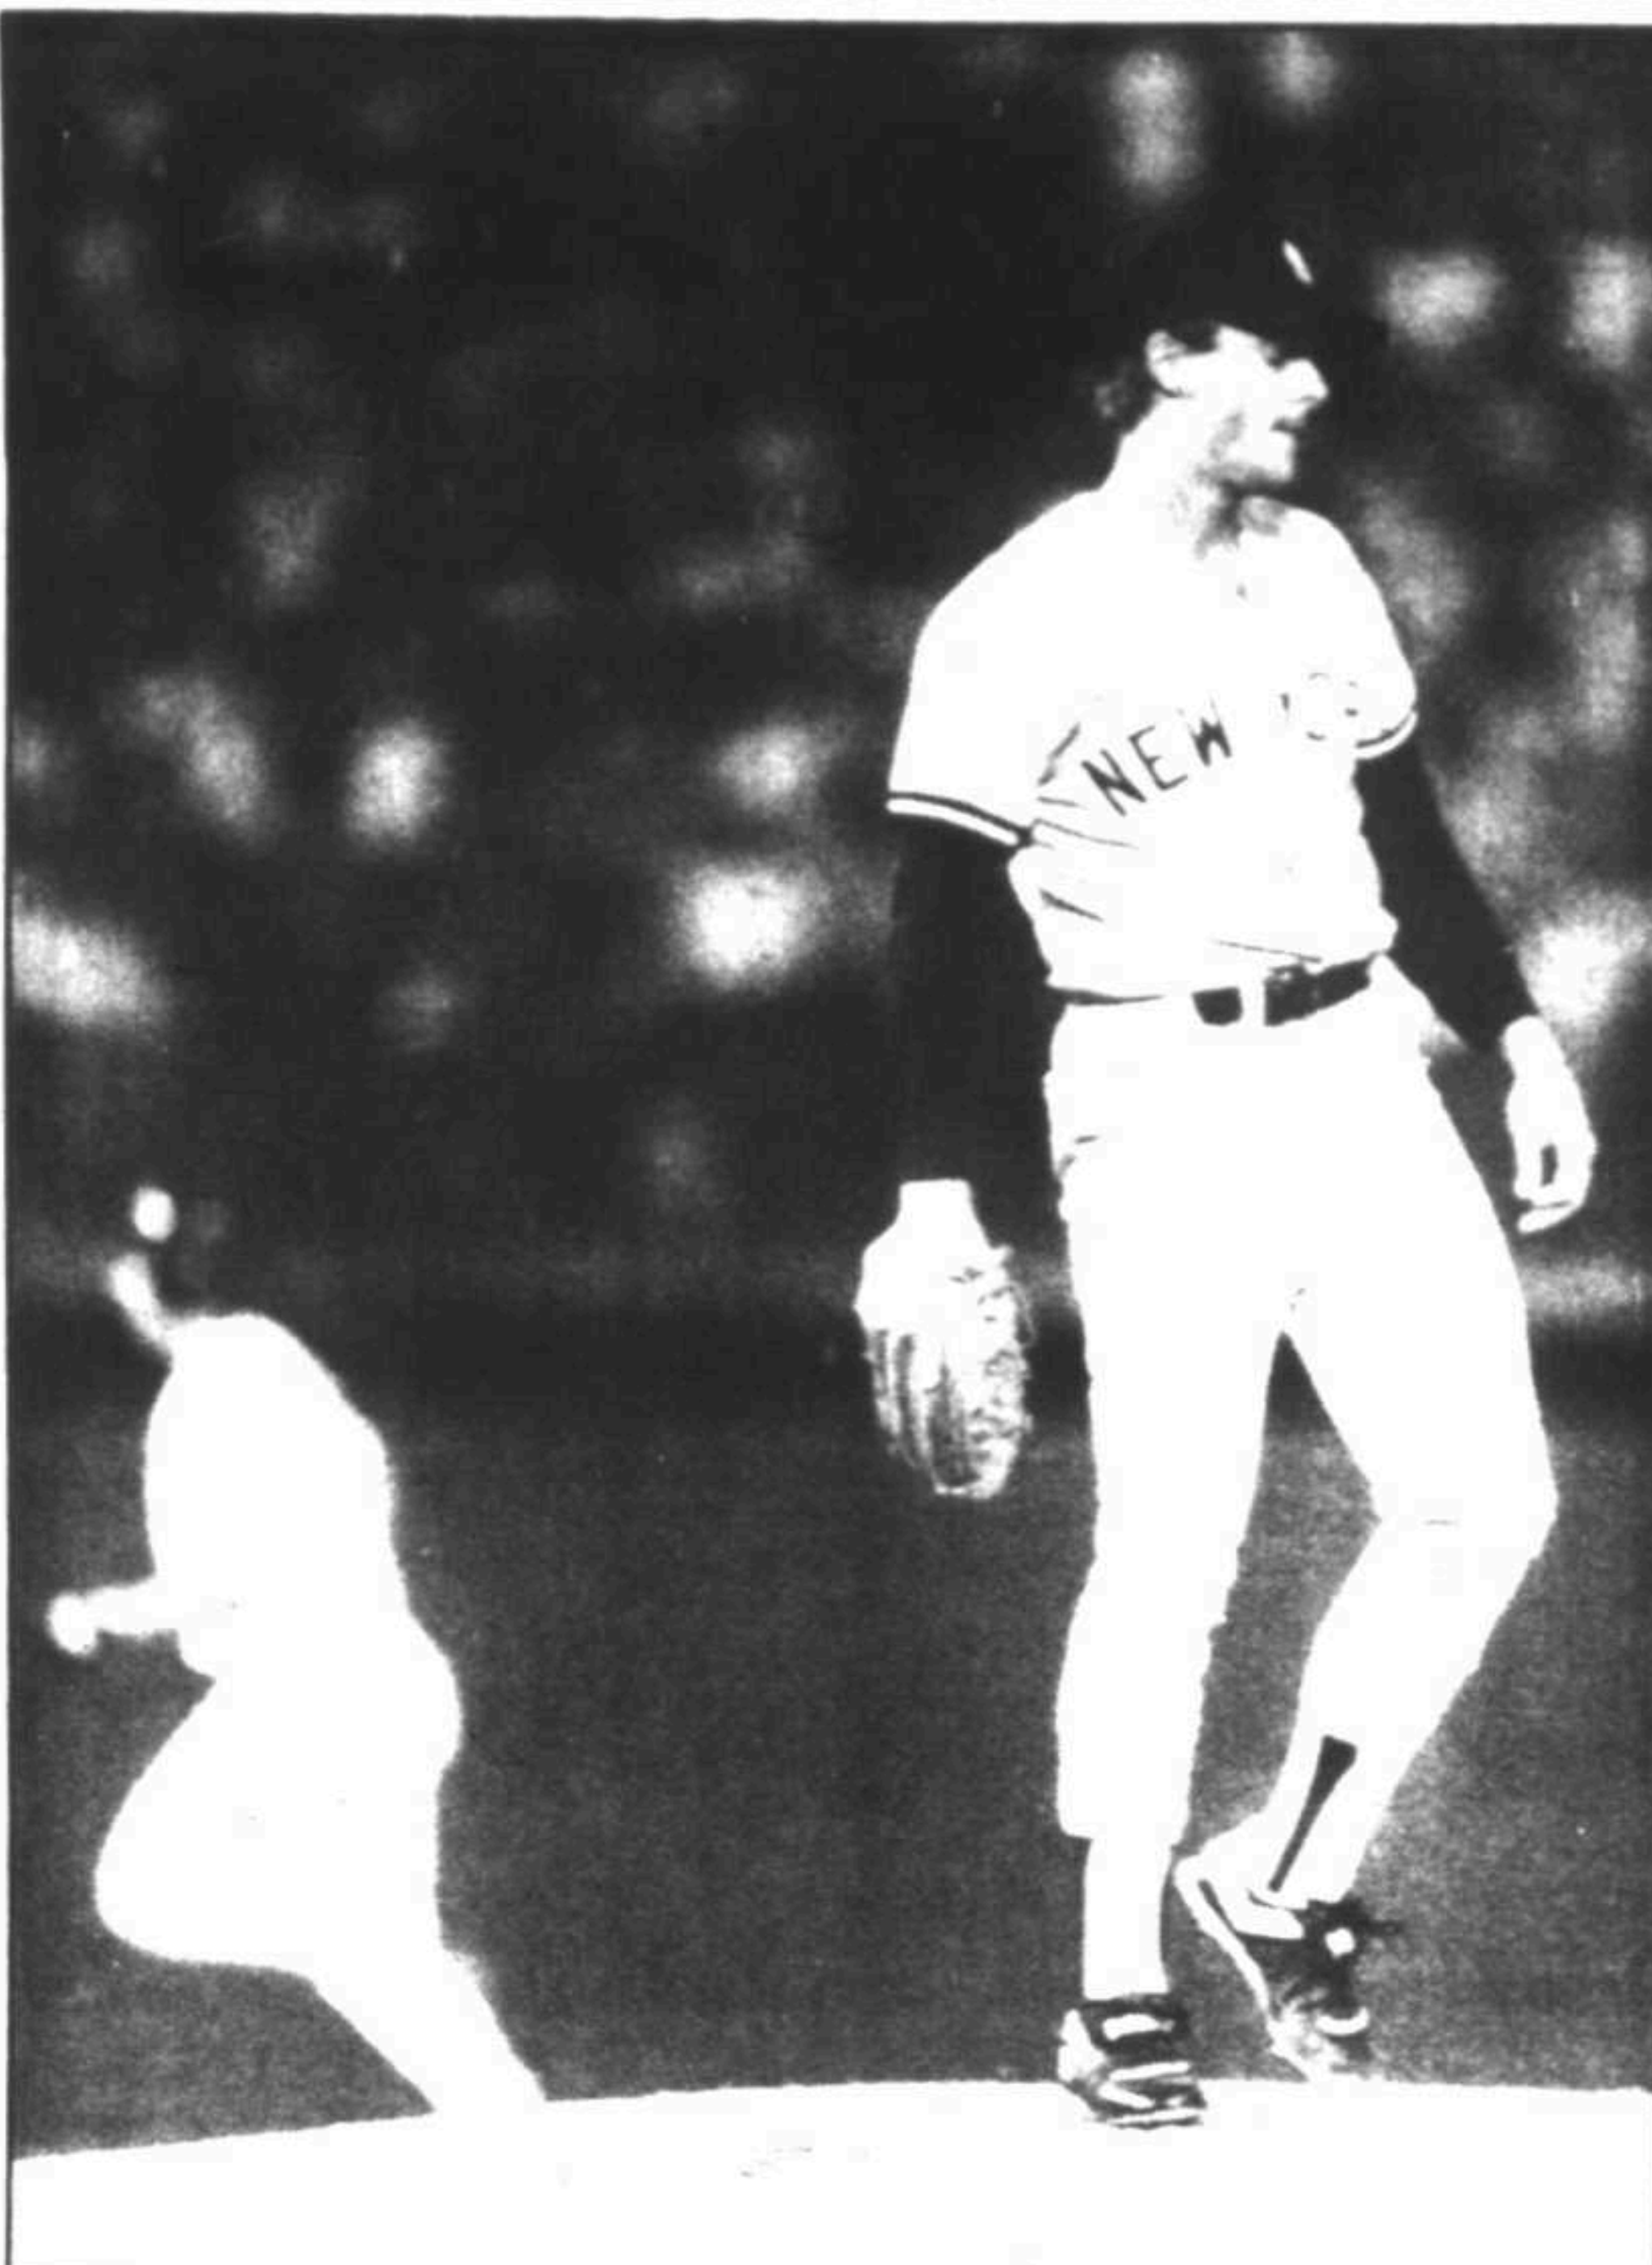

A big assist goes to Denton and San Angelo for three state qualifiers from Midland.

But Man-of-the-Year honors should go to Texas Tech's Clint Ramsey, who was serving as Region I director for the first year. Ramsey ran a clean meet, soothing some high placed feathers of coaches and press that had been ruffled over the past few years.

With Ramsey, the Nazi-like rule of the Tech women's P.E. department appears to be over. No longer is it against the rules to ask questions or get help when needed.

The last several years 5A coaches have expressed interest in moving the meet away from Texas Tech. That movement didn't raise its head this year with Ramsey in control.

Yankee Al Leiter closes his eyes as Texas' Pete Incaviglia rounds the bases after a second inning home run Friday night.

Incaviglia goes wild for Rangers

Associated Press

ARLINGTON (AP) — Pete Incaviglia hit a home run and two doubles, and the Texas Rangers held on for a 7-6 victory over the New York Yankees Friday night.

Trailing 7-1, the Yankees scored five runs in the ninth on two bases-loaded walks, a balk on Jeff Russell, and a two-run single by Don Slaught. Paul Kilgus, 4-2, got the victory, scattering seven hits, striking out three and walking two over seven innings. New York starter Al Leiter, 3-2, lasted only two innings because of flu symptoms. He got the loss because of Incaviglia's 435-foot solo homer to left in the second.

Incaviglia, who went 0-for-18 to start the season, doubled in the fifth and seventh innings, finishing the night 3-for-4 with two RBI and scoring twice.

Steve Buechele's homer to left, after Mike Stanley's walk, improved the Rangers' lead to 3-0 off reliever Tim Lincecum in the fourth inning. Four more Texas runs in the fifth put the game out of reach. Bob Brower doubled to right and moved to third on Scott Fletcher's sacrifice bunt. After Ruben Sierra walked, Incaviglia doubled to left-center for the first run.

Stoddard walked Pete O'Brien intentionally to load the bases, and Larry Parrish responded with a two-run single. Mike Stanley's sacrifice fly scored O'Brien with the fourth run of the inning.

Don Slaught's RBI double gave New York a run in the sixth. Dave Winfield singled but was erased on Gary Ward's grounder. Ward moved to second on Kilgus' wild pitch and scored on Slaught's ground rule double down the left field line.

Dale Mohoric pitched the eighth, and Mitch Williams walked the bases loaded in the ninth. Don Mattingly then struck out and was ejected for arguing balls and strikes with home-plate umpire Tim Welke. Yankees Manager Billy Martin also was ejected after kicking dirt on Welke.

Jose Cecena got the last out for his first save.

Rose met with Giamatti before facing the review board, hoping to persuade him to reduce the suspension to two weeks, the Associated Press learned. Giamatti was said to be amenable to lessening the month-long penalty, but not to 14 days.

Rose will be permitted to be in uniform during the suspension but he cannot be in the dugout during the game.

Rose arrived at league headquarters with videotapes and accompanied by his lawyer, Reuben Katz, and Reds general manager Murray Cook.

"I was given the opportunity to present my case," Rose said. "I thought we had a strong case."

Giamatti previously cited unruly behavior by the fans as one reason for the stiff penalty. The umpires were showered with debris, forcing Pallone to leave the game.

"The garbage came on the field because of that bad call," Rose said, referring to Pallone's delayed call of a play at first base.

Rose said it was five minutes after he left the field before the debris was thrown.

"This was the one appeal we get. It's over and we accept it for that," Katz, Rose's attorney said.

All morning, NL offices were flooded with phone calls from Reds fans who wanted to know if Rose won his appeal.

Rose said Giamatti has never acknowledged that Pallone poked the manager in the face.

Twins 5, Red Sox 0

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota's Frank Viola pitched a seven-hitter for his second straight shutout, and Boston played the game under protest after three balks on Jeff Sellers contributed in two Twins runs.

Viola, 4-1, struck out six and walked none as he completed his second game of the season. He threw a five-hit shutout against the Red Sox last May 1 in a 2-0 victory.

Two balks by Sellers helped Minnesota score two runs in the fourth inning.

Tom Herr walked and Kirby Puckett flied out to center to start the inning. Herr stole second, and Kent Hrbek walked. With Gary Gaetti batting, Sellers was called for a balk, advancing the runners to second and third.

Gaetti followed with a single, scoring Herr. With runners on first and third, third base umpire Dan Morrison called Sellers for his third balk of the game, allowing Hrbek to score.

Red Sox Manager John McNamara argued the call for approximately 10 minutes and announced he was protesting the game. Sellers was also called for a balk in the second inning.

Brewers 4, Royals 0

KANSAS CITY — Chris Bosio shut down Kansas City on five hits, outdueling Floyd Bannister and pitching Milwaukee to its seventh straight victory.

Bosio, 5-2, had two walks and three strikeouts and raised his career record to 3-0 against the Royals, who have lost three in a row. The complete game was Bosio's fifth of the season, and the shutout his first.

Bannister, 4-2, carried a one-hitter into the fifth inning. But he gave up an RBI single to Dale Sveum in the fifth, a sacrifice fly to Glenn Braggs for an unearned run in the sixth and two more runs with two out in the eighth.

me pushing the umpire," said Rose, who earlier this week displayed a red mark on his cheek he said was put there by Pallone's finger.

Pallone says the argument was so heated he does not know if he did poke Rose.

"I have no idea whether or not I touched him with my finger. I have seen film clips, still photographs and slow-motion stills and I still have not seen any evidence whether I touched him on the cheek," Pallone said.

The umpire made his first public comment on the episode to David Raymond, the Philly Phanatic mascot for Phillies' home games and a radio reporter for WDEL in Wilmington, Del.

The comments appeared in Rich Ashburn's column in the Philadelphia Daily News.

"I would never say that Pete just made this up," Pallone said of Rose's claim that the umpire had poked him, "but I can't honestly say whether I did or didn't."

Rose's penalty is the longest suspension for a manager for on-the-field behavior, and the most severe since 1947 when Brooklyn Dodgers manager Leo Durocher was suspended for conduct detrimental to baseball, details of which Happy Chandler, then the commissioner never spelled out.

It reportedly included association with unsavory characters, including gamblers, heated run-ins with baseball people and a violent disagreement with Larry MacPhail, then part owner of the New York Yankees.

Raines' single nips Astros in 11th

Dodgers extend West lead with rout of Cardinals

Associated Press

MONTREAL — Tim Raines singled home Jeff Reed with one out in the 11th inning to give the Montreal Expos a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Reed led off the 11th with a double off Ernie Camacho, 0-2, and Herman Winningham then walked. One out later, Mitch Webster walked to load the bases before Raines singled to score Reed.

Bob McClure, 1-1, pitched one inning for the victory.

With one out in the ninth, Alan Ashby homered off Montreal reliever Tim Burke to tie the score 5-5. Reed had tripled home Andres Galaraga in the eighth inning to give the Expos the lead.

The Astros tied the score 4-4 in the top of the eighth on Glenn Davis' run-scoring grounder. Neal Heaton worked six-plus innings for Montreal, allowing five hits, including two homers to Kevin Bass. Mike Scott allowed eight hits and four runs in 5½ innings. He struck out six and walked two.

Trailing 2-1, Hubie Brooks led off the Expos' sixth with a single and Tim Wallach doubled him to third. Galaraga's single scored Brooks, but Wallach was caught in a rundown play when Reed hit a fielder's choice that left runners on second and third.

After Winningham was walked intentionally to load the bases, reliever Juan Agosto balked Galaraga home. Tom Foley then hit a sacrifice fly to score Reed for a 4-2 lead.

Bass led off the seventh with his third homer to make it 4-3.

Bass homered in the second to put the Astros ahead 1-0 and Davis made it 2-0 with a sacrifice fly in the fourth.

Montreal got one back when Foley hit the third consecutive single of the fifth inning to drive in Reed from third. It was the first earned run the Expos have scored off Scott in 33½ innings dating back to last year.

Dodgers 10, Cardinals 2

ST. LOUIS — Fernando Valenzuela threw a five-hitter and Mike Marshall hit his third home run in as many games as the Los Angeles Dodgers won their fourth straight victory.

Valenzuela, 3-3, struck out two and walked four en route to his second complete game. He was backed by a 14-hit attack to win a rematch against Randy O'Neal, 2-2.

O'Neal had a shutout for 8½ innings April 30 as St. Louis won 5-2 in Los Angeles, but allowed eight hits and seven runs in 4½ innings Friday.

Marshall's fourth home run, a two-run shot, keyed Los Angeles' three-run third.

Alfredo Griffin added a bases-loaded triple in the fifth, and scored when shortstop Ozzie Smith's relay throw bounded into the Dodgers' dugout.

Cubs 3, Giants 2

CHICAGO — Ryne Sandberg and Jim Sundberg hit solo home runs to lead Chicago to its fourth straight victory.

Sandberg's homer, his fifth, came off loser Mike LaCoss, 1-3, with one out in the fifth inning and snapped a 1-1 tie. Sundberg hit his first of the season in the sixth inning off reliever Altee Hamaker.

Mike Maddux, 5-2, allowed one run on seven hits in 7½ innings. He walked one and struck out seven before being relieved by Frank DiPino with one out and runners on first and second in the eighth inning. DiPino got pinch-hitter Joel Youngblood to hit into a fielder's choice, but walked Will Clark to load the bases.

Les Lancaster then came on and struck out Kevin Mitchell and Rich Gossage pitched the ninth for his fourth save, allowing the Giants' final run on Jeffrey Leonard's single, a grounder, a balk and Candy Maldonado's RBI grounder.

Phillies 7, Braves 3

ATLANTA — Shane Rawley allowed six hits in 7½ innings for his first victory of the season and Juan Samuel drove in three runs.

Rawley, 1-5, walked three and struck out two en route to his first victory since last Aug. 31. The left-hander had lost 10 straight since last season.

The victory snapped the Phillies' three-game losing streak and dropped the Braves' record at home to 1-12.

The Phillies scored four runs in the first inning off Tom Glavine, 1-4. Bob Dernier led off the game with the first of his four consecutive singles and Phil Bradley and Samuel followed with singles for one run.

Pirates 4, Padres 1

PITTSBURGH — Sid Bream hit a three-run homer with two outs in the 12th inning, sending San Diego to its sixth consecutive defeat.

Mark Davis, 1-1, the Padres' third pitcher, retired the first two batters in the 12th to run his scoreless streak to 20½ innings, before Andy Van Slyke singled and Bobby Bonilla walked.

Bream, who had popped out in his previous two at-bats with runners in scoring position, then hit a 0-1 pitch over the right-field fence for his second home run of the season. Bream had singled in the Pirates' first run in the first inning.

Barry Jones, 1-0, pitched the 12th for the victory and remained unscathed in 11 innings this season.

Mets 4, Reds 3

NEW YORK — Darryl Strawberry hit a two-run homer off Cincinnati reliever John Franco with two outs in the 10th inning.

Chris Sabo had given the Reds a 3-2 lead in the top of the 10th with a home run off Randy Myers, 2-0.

Franco, 0-2, retired the first two batters in the 10th but then walked Keith Hernandez. Strawberry hit Franco's next pitch deep over the right field fence for his ninth home run of the season. It was the first earned runs Franco had allowed in 18 innings this season.

Celtics wash away Knicks

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Larry Bird scored 10 of his 28 points in the fourth quarter Friday night, leading the Boston Celtics to a 102-94 victory over the New York Knicks and a 3-1 win in their first-round NBA playoff series.

The final period had eight lead changes, the last one on a basket by Dennis Johnson that gave the Celtics an 87-85 edge with 3:38 remaining.

New York, behind rookie guard Mark Jackson, outscored the Celtics 27-11 to take a six-point lead in the fourth quarter, but Bird and Johnson led the way as the Celtics finished the game with a 25-11 run.

NBA

Johnson had nine of his 19 points and Bird added six in the final 6:09. Jackson, averaging less than 10 points in the first three games of the series, led New York with 28 points, 21 of them in the second half. Johnny Newman scored 25 points, Gerald Wilkins 18 and Patrick Ewing grabbed 20 rebounds for the Knicks.

Kevin McHale scored 20 points and Robert Parish had 18 points and 12 rebounds for Boston.

The Celtics, who led by as many as 13 points in the first quarter, saw the Knicks close within four five times before an 8-2 run, capped by Bird's 3-pointer, gave Boston a 66-56 lead with 5:10 left in the third period.

But the Knicks held Boston to five points the rest of the period, cutting the deficit to 71-70. Wilkins then hit the first basket of the fourth period, giving New York its first lead since 2-0.

Bucks 105, Hawks 99
MILWAUKEE — Terry Cummings and Jack Sikma led a fourth-quarter rally as the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Atlanta Hawks to even their first-round NBA playoff series at 2-2.

The fifth and deciding game will be played Sunday in Atlanta. Cummings scored 30 points for the second straight game, including nine in the fourth quarter while Sikma had eight of his 23 in the final period.

The Bucks trailed by four points in the fourth quarter, but Sidney Moncrief, Sikma and Cummings brought Milwaukee back in an 11-2 run before a frenzied crowd at the Milwaukee Arena.

Atlanta's Dominique Wilkins on the way to a dunk.

Atlanta took an 83-79 lead on two free throws by Kevin Willis and Glenn Rivers' steal and dunk. But Paul Pressey made two free throws for the Bucks and Moncrief took an inbound pass and fired in a 3-point shot to give Milwaukee an 84-83 lead with 7:03 remaining. The Bucks led the rest of the way.

Sikma hit on a jumper from the free throw line and drove around the Hawks defense for a layup to complete an 11-2 run that gave the Bucks a 90-85 lead with 4:52 to go.

Cummings worked through three defenders for a layup after the Hawks had cut the lead to two points. Dominique Wilkins' basket with 2:30 to go brought the Hawks to 95-92, but Sikma hit four free throws and Cummings made two baskets and two free throws in the final 2:11 to cut off the Atlanta rally.

Wilkins led the Hawks with 31 points, including 12 in the fourth quarter. Rivers added 22 for the Hawks.

Wacker, Foret to visit Midland

From Staff Reports

"Reaching New Heights," the theme for Texas Christian University's 1988 football season, will be discussed by coach Jim Wacker at a May 18 gathering at No. 5 Ashlin Drive in Midland.

The event is sponsored by the TCU Permian Basin Association, headed by Mike Bradford of Midland. The event will include a 7 p.m. reception followed by dinner at 8 p.m.

Also on the program will be Midland High graduate Allan Foret, a TCU junior who is a wide receiver for the Horned Frogs.

Wacker is now in his sixth season as the Horned Frogs' head football coach.

Due by May 16, the $10-per-person reservations can be made by check, payable to TCU and sent to David H. Harrison, P.O. Box 1799, Midland, 79702.

Rockets now begin NBA guessing game

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets have played their final match of a controversy-packed NBA season, and now another game begins — a guessing game over the team's and Coach Bill Fitch's future.

The Rockets two years ago were tagged as the next super team after they battled into the NBA finals against Boston with the Twin Towers, Ralph Sampson and Akeem Olajuwon.

But they traded Sampson this season, struggled into the playoffs with the sixth-best regular-season record and were eliminated in the first round 3-1.

Fitch has taken heavy player and fan criticism for the Rockets' disappointing season, and Thursday night, a fan distributed "Ditch Fitch" bumper stickers at the end of the season-ending 107-97 loss to the Dallas Mavericks.

Sampson blasted Fitch after he was traded to Golden State for Sleepy Floyd and Joe Barry Carroll, and later in the season, Olajuwon too criticized Fitch's strategy.

But Fitch says, "Yeah, I expect to be coaching in Houston next season."

Olajuwon hoisted the Rockets into the playoffs, where he scored an NBA record 150 points in the four-game series. It wasn't enough, but Olajuwon didn't blame Fitch this time.

"That is for the management to decide — they should know what to do," Olajuwon said.

But Olajuwon says he does know one thing: He can't carry all the burden.

"If they want to win the championship, we have to get a complete team," Olajuwon said. "We need guys who will not just play, but will get in there and fight."

He did all the fighting against the Mavericks.

While Mark Aguirre was hitting a club-record 27 of his 38 points in the third quarter of Thursday night's finale, Olajuwon was left alone to try to thwart the avalanche of points.

Olajuwon hit six of eight shots in the quarter and finished the game with 40 points and 15 rebounds. Houston guards hit 10 of 35 shots in the game.

Rockets owner Charlie Thomas promised a full evaluation at the end of the playoffs, but he had a "no comment" to questions following Thursday night's game.

General Manager Ray Patterson was unavailable after the game. He left The Summit before the game ended.

Goodbye Halo, center, with jockey Pat Day aboard, crosses the finish line to win the Kentucky Oaks race Friday.

Goodbye Halo wins Kentucky Oaks crown

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Goodbye Halo took the lead from her pacesetter stablemate, Jeanne Jones, with a little more than a sixteenth of a mile remaining and won the $241,000 Kentucky Oaks Friday on Kentucky Derby eve at Churchill Downs.

Pat Day sent Goodbye Halo past Jeanne Jones and Bill Shoemaker on the outside for a 3/4-length victory in 1:50 2/5 for 1 1/4 miles.

Day will ride Forty Niner in the Derby while Shoemaker will be aboard Lively One.

The Goodbye Halo-Jeanne Jones entry is trained by Charlie Whittingham, who also trains Lively One.

Willa On The Move finished third, 1 1/4 lengths behind Jeanne Jones and had a five-race winning streak snapped.

Colonial Waters finished fourth, three lengths back of Willa On The Move, and was followed by Lost Kitty, Lucky Lydia, Most Likely, Joe's Tammie, On To Royalty and Fulbright Scholar. All carried 121 pounds.

It was the third victory in four starts this year for Goodbye Halo, who beat Winning Colors on Feb. 20 at Santa Anita. Winning Colors, trained by D. Wayne Lukas, is the only filly in the 17-horse Kentucky Derby field and is one of the favorites.

The entry paid $3.80, $3.80 and $2.60. Willa On The Move, ridden by Chris McCarron and owned by Lorraine R. Quinichett, returned $2.60 to show.

Goodbye Halo, owned by Arthur B. Hancock III and Alex Campbell Jr., earned $150,715.

Jeanne Jones and the Lukas-trained entry of Lost Kitty and Fulbright Scholar broke on top. When they passed under the wire the first time with a mile to go, Jeanne Jones led with Lost Kitty second and Fulbright Scholar third. Willa On The Move was fourth at that time.

ANGELS— 'Dogs please McCutchen

Only a fifth-inning solo home run by Mike DeBurch marred the lefty's performance, but by then the Angels had built an ample lead.

All nine Midland batters hit safely, led by C.L. Penigar, Jim Thomas and Lee Stevens with three hits each. Penigar extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a three-run homer that barely cleared the left-center fence to cap a seven-run first inning — his first homer since 1985.

Midland's Tom Alfredson cracked a two-run homer in the second. The Angels then scored one in the fourth, two in the fifth and four in the eighth to hold off the Pilots, who had 11 hits of their own.

Wichita strung together six hits for five runs in the third and knocked Collins out with a three-run homer by Jim Tatum in the fifth that cut the Angel lead to 10-8.

Corbett then took over to boost his record to 3-1. Vinicio Cedenio pitched the ninth for Midland, but the Angels were too far ahead for the Dominican to pick up the save.

Oliveras said the Angels are benefiting this week from an end to the lineup juggling that characterized the first month of the season.

"At the beginning, we were trying to find out who to play in certain spots, but now we have an established lineup."

Alfredson, who along with Penigar collected four runs batted in for Midland, said the Angels' teamwork has improved.

"I think we're starting to play together a lot better," he said. "Everybody's picking each other up."

The Angels will wrap up the current homestand with Shane Young, 0-0, taking his first start on the mound for the Angels after 11 relief appearances.

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

Despite missing his top three quarterbacks, Midland High football coach Doug McCutchen is pleased with the first week of spring workouts.

The Bulldogs began spring ball Monday and are using the full eight weekly hours allotted to them under University Interscholastic League regulations. The 'Dogs spring season will culminate in the annual Bill Mims spring scrimmage on May 21.

McCutchen emphasized that the Bulldog spring offense has a young flavor because quarterbacks Russell Page, Patrick Mowles and Jason Stone are members of the playoff-bound Bulldog baseball team. Other MHS gridders playing baseball include running back Dwane Roberts, wide receiver Shaun Savas, safety Kevin Ry-chell and Will Sowders.

"Right now, we're a little rusty," McCutchen said. "We're not executing as well as we need to."

"We look real young and inexperienced right now," he added. "But our top three quarterbacks are playing baseball and we lost our starting linebackers (to graduation)."

McCutchen is pleased with how the Bulldogs are responding to the challenge, however.

"I think the most encouraging thing is the kids' enthusiasm and willingness to work. We feel like we've made great strides."

Junior-to-be Eric Hemphill is working at quarterback along with sopho-to-be Jesse Arenivas and Greg Boyt.

Defensively, the Bulldogs are working on basic formations.

"We just need to improve our alignment and technique," McCutchen said.

The coach has been especially pleased with some of his veteran offensive linemen, including center Brad Fortune, guard Thomas Brown and tackle Tim Monaco. Also, running backs Sowders, Olan Burnett and Greg Millios have been working out well.

Defensive standouts have included ends Jeff Rashell and Ronnie Forrest, linebacker Ernest Carrasco, and backs Roman Duran, Michael Savas and Julius Bowers.

The Bulldogs have been relatively injury-free during the first week, with only Michael Savas and David Worley missing workout time due to minor injuries.

MHS scrimmaged Friday and McCutchen plans another scrimmage for sometime next week, though the Bulldog staff had not determined an exact date.

BULLDOG NOTES: The MHS gridders will not play Bulldog graduating seniors, as had been done in past years.

"Two or three kids got injured last year, and we don't want to take a chance on anyone getting hurt because we're not sure about the insurance," McCutchen said.

Also, linebacker Cliff Coleman recently announced his intentions to play at Texas A&I. The 6-foot-2, 195-pound Coleman joins linebacker Clyde Govan (West Texas State) and quarterback Jeff Somers (Air Force) as Bulldogs who plan to continue their grid careers beyond high school.

Bruins strike fast to bury Devils

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ray Bourque set up scores by Ken Linseman, Bob Joyce and Lyndon Byers in a 73-second span, triggering a five-goal second period that carried the Boston Bruins to a 6-1 victory over the New Jersey Devils in Game 3 of the Wales Conference finals Friday night.

The victory gave the Bruins a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, and was the Devils' third straight playoff loss at the Brendan Byrne Arena, where Game 4 is scheduled for Sunday night.

The loss also marked the first time in three playoff series that New Jersey has trailed after three games.

Neither team scored in the opening 20 minutes. But penalties against New Jersey's Pat Verbeek and Kirk Muller of the Devils with 30 seconds to go in the period gave Boston a power play for the opening 3:30 of the second period.

That was all the Bruins needed to solve Devils' rookie goaltender Sean Burke, who stopped 39 shots in Game 2 and made several good stops in the opening period.

Linseman, who had two goals and two assists, got Boston on the board at 1:05, one-timing a pass from Bourque in the faceoff circle to the left of Burke past the rookie's glove hand on the short side.

Joyce scored 58 seconds later, also on a power play, tipping Gord Kluzak's shot from the point past Burke after Bourque started the play.

Nichols in slim Seniors lead

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Bobby Nichols, taking advantage of the scoring possibilities on the four par-5 holes of the Dominion Country Club, shot a 4-under-par 68 on Friday to take a one-stroke lead after the opening round of the $250,000 Vantage at the Dominion Senior PGA tournament.

Nichols, taking the advice of his caddy-son, Rick, followed his drive on No. 9 with a nine-iron approach to within 12 feet of the cup. "He knows my game pretty well and he got me to hit with my nine-iron and it worked out well," Nichols said. "That wind is howling pretty good. The course is playing shorter than I would guess, mostly because of the winds, but also because of the hardness of the course."

Nichols said the par-5's on the 6,649-yard course makes it possible to trim some shots from par. "Maybe No. 18's not reachable, but with the other three, that's three or four places that you can count on having a good shot at birdie," he said.

Zembriski, who joined the senior tour three years ago after playing nine years on the Florida mini-tour, said he was happy with his consistent play.

"I like my position and we'll just have to take it one day at a time," the 53-year-old Zembriski said.

Nichols said that trouble lurks for the golfers trying to win the $37,500 first prize.

Shipman guns for first LPGA tourney victory

SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — Winless fourth-year pro Kim Shipman shot a career-best 7-under-par 65 Friday to open a three-shot lead after the first round of the LPGA's Crestar Classic.

Shipman, who needed only 27 putts to complete her round, was on track to tie the course record of 64, but bogeyed her final hole on the 6,215-yard Portsmouth Sleepy Hole Golf Course.

"I've been hitting it this way for quite a while," said the 25-year-old Shipman, who flew in from her Dallas home Wednesday night after receiving a two-day putting lesson from one of her instructors. "The only difference today was in making the putts."

Her closest competitors were Sherri Turner, who lost in a playoff at last week's Sara Lee Classic, and Missie Bertotti. Both carded 68s.

At 69 were Betsy King, Colleen Walker, Kathy Postlewait and defending Crestar Classic champion Jody Rosenthal.

Eleven golfers shot 2-under 70s, and a large group at 71 included Amy Alcott, the leading money-winner on the Tour this year. Shipman's previous best was a 67 at the 1985 MasterCard International Pro-Am, where she tied for second, her best finish as a pro. Her top showing this season was a fourth-place tie last month at Los Angeles.

Shipman had missed the cut in all three of her previous appearances here.

"I really like the course," she said. "It just always felt at a bad time in my playing."

Playing in the morning and starting on the back nine, Shipman sank birdie putts of 18, 15 and 21 feet to make the turn in 33. She sank another 18-foot birdie putt on the par-4 first hole, then added birdie putts on the third through fifth holes to move to 7-under.

Lohr leads wind-plagued Las Vegas tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bob Lohr retained the lead and only Curt Byrum could make a run at him Friday in the day-late completion of the second round in the $1,500,000 Las Vegas Invitational golf tournament.

Lohr finished a second round 70 for a 136 total Thursday before high winds forced an overnight delay for 71 players.

Byrum was among the group that returned in wind and cold Friday morning to finish second round play. He dropped a 35-foot birdie putt on his final hole at the Desert Inn to match par 72 and move within one stroke of the leader at 137 with two rounds to go in the shortened tournament.

The original format called for the 156 pros to play one round on each of three resort courses, each day with a different set of four amateurs. The field was to be cut after Friday's third round with the last 36 holes to be played at the Las Vegas Country Club.

But winds gusting to 55 miles per hour — the players at Spanish Trail said they were much stronger — caused the overnight delay in the second round and reduced the tournament to 72 holes.

The third round will be played Saturday. After 54 holes are completed, the 624 amateurs drop out and the professional field will be cut to the low 70 scorers for Sunday's final round of the chase for a $250,000 first prize.

Byrum was tied at seven under par with Peter Jacobsen. Ben Crenshaw and Keith Clearwater were next at 138.

Of the five leaders, only Byrum had to finish second round play Friday.

And of the top five, Lohr, Jacobsen, Byrum and Crenshaw all will play their third round at Spanish Trail, by far the most difficult of the three courses and the one that took the brunt of the damaging winds.

"Unfortunately, anyone who played at Spanish Trail Thursday afternoon is pretty much out of the tournament," said Greg Norman, who was among that group that played in the worst of the wind.

Norman, a former winner of this title who finished first and second in his last two starts, returned Friday to complete a 75 that put him at 143 through two rounds.

Bird named NBA's best

CHICAGO (AP) — The NBA's best player is Boston Celtic Larry Bird by a slim margin over Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls, according to a new statistical system of rating basketball players.

"I know I'm not going to make many friends in Chicago," says Rich Share, whose Rate Your Game is catching on with area coaches.

"Jordan may more spectacular to watch and he's ahead in scoring and steals," Share admits as he fires up that often debated issue of who's the best player in the league. "But Bird has more rebounds and has a decisive advantage with the 3-point shot."

When it comes to good plays per game, Jordan has the edge, with 35.2, to 34.9 for Bird, says Share. Charles Barkley of the Philadelphia 76ers is third with 33.8.

But Bird plays an average of 1 1/4 minutes less a game than the Chicago guard, so on a per minute ratio, he makes an average of .90 good plays to Jordan's .87, Share said. Akeem Olajuwon of the Houston Rockets is third with a .86 average.

So Bird is the better player, says Share.

He says his system is ideal for coaches at the high school, college or pro level for evaluating their players or potential recruits.

"It has a lot of merit," says Ray Meyer, the former DePaul coach, who has given the system to his successor at the Blue Demons' helm, son Joey.

"It's a good idea, because it rates a player on balance rather than just scoring," says Harvey Hartenstein, coach of Marshall High School's 1963 city championship team.

With Rate Your Game, a player gets 1 point for each 2 point field goal, rebound, assist, steal and blocked shot. A made free throw is worth half a point, a 3-point goal is 1 1/2 points.

There is a special calculation for field goal shooting percentage. If a player shoots more than 50 percent, he earns a point. If he shoots under 50 percent, he loses a point.

There is a similar calculation for free throw accuracy. If a player hits more than 70 percent, he earns a point. Under that, he loses a point.

A player also gets a point knocked off his total if he has a turnover, said Share, who works in a Montgomery Ward's auto center.

Church hosts adolescence workshops

Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave., is hosting two workshops for parents and fifth and sixth grade youth dealing with adolescence and sexuality.

The workshops, "In the Beginning God Created..." are being presented by Christian Life Enrichment Resources, Inc., a non-profit organization in Midland.

The purpose of the workshops is, a news release from CLER says, "to impart God's original plan for his creation in regard to human sexuality; to teach the correct names and the functions of each part of the male and female reproductive anatomy; to prepare children for the changes that will take place in their bodies during adolescence; to alleviate fears and destroy myths that are perpetuated about sexuality; to provide children with an open and loving atmosphere in which to ask questions about their sexuality and related issues; to enable parent/child communication in the area of human sexuality; and to provide information and resources to help parents be good sexuality educators for their children."

A 2-hour and 30 minute workshop for fifth and sixth grade boys and their parents will be held from 4 to 6:30 p.m. May 15, and a 3-hour workshop for fifth and sixth grade girls and their parents will be held from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. May 22. Both will be conducted at Trinity Presbyterian Church.

For more information or to register, call Linda Goddard, 697-5078.

Looking out for Jonah

Rehearsing for their parts in the play, "Oh, Jonah!" are angels, from left, Alicia Robertson, 11; Sarah Innerarity, 10; and Marcie Watson, 11. The musical, by Allen Pote and Carole McCann, will be presented by the Children's Choirs of First Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m. Sunday. The musical, which deals with the prophet Jonah and is a tale involving responsibility, repentance and listening for the word of God, will be presented by 78 children ranging in age from four to 13. The public is invited to attend.

Gospel singer, athlete speaks at church women's banquet

Betsy Brown, a native Midlander, gospel singer and athlete, was the guest speaker and entertainer Tuesday for First Presbyterian Church's Women's Spring Mother/Daughter Banquet. Her topic was "The Narrow Road."

An installation of Presbyterian Women officers for the 1988-89 year was made at the luncheon. The Pickwick Players, Midland Community Theatre's youth performing troupe, provided entertainment for the younger girls.

Officers are Anne Myers, president; Joy Eyer, vice president; Sharon Webb, secretary; Barbara Sponberg, treasurer; Jeri McCaslin, historian; Elizabeth Buchanan, Search Committee chairman; Robin Hightower, Topic Committee coordinator; Pam Barrett, Publicity and Bulletin Board chairman; Jane Riddle and Ruth Cole, Year Book coordinators.

Also, Kaye Franklin, Personal Faith and Family Life chairman; Kathy Nobles, Library coordinator; Margaret Cowden, Trinity Towers and Manor Park ministry coordinator; Dorothy Basil, Christian Community Action chairman.

Also, Paige Innerarity, Battered Women coordinator; Tammy Smith, Layette coordinator; Kathy Faris, Meals on Wheels coordinator; Kathie Wetzel, Salvation Army Dress-A-Doll coordinator; Allegra Boone, Bible Moderator chairman; and Marilyn Hooper, Hospitality chairman.

Miss Brown also spoke to the women of the church Tuesday.

Miss Brown is a graduate of Hardin Simmons University, where she played in the concert band and with the Abilene Philharmonic Symphony. Upon graduation, she taught elementary school at Eagle Nest, N.M.

"It was there that Betsy accepted God's call to leave teaching and begin a faith walk in gospel singing," says a news release from Heartsong Ministries, Inc.

In 1984, Heartsong Ministries, Inc., was formed as a support organization for her ministry.

"It was at a board meeting that the dream of sharing Jesus in pioneer churches, cafes, parks and along the road became reality as Backroads America Glory Ride began," the release says. BAGR began in June of 1986 in Providence, R.I.

Miss Brown, with the help of her van driver, Cindy Andrews, rode her bicycle the 2,800 miles from Providence to Newport, Ore.

As a result of this experience, Miss Brown and Miss Andrews were interviewed on James Dobson's Focus on the family radio program.

On that program, Miss Brown said, "It was more than a ride across America; it was a journey deep inside my heart...a journey where I had to be willing to be uncomfortable for God to use me. The trip was my gift to America...no really...it was God's gift of Jesus...I just got to be the peddler."

She has been interviewed by the

Betsy Brown

Armed Forces Network broadcasts in Europe, where she has performed for American military personnel.

She has been part of mission efforts to England, Australia, Brazil and Yugoslavia and has sung in almost every state in America for Christian Women's Clubs, national conferences for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, National Prayer Breakfasts for military officers.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Male music group to present concert

The Singing Men of West Texas will present a concert of sacred music at 7 p.m. Thursday at Crestview Baptist Church, 3300 Thomas at Midkiff St.

The 50-voice group, directed by Ty Morris Jr., Crestview's minister of music, is composed of Southern Baptist Church music directors throughout the region and is a branch of the combined Singing Men of Texas, sponsored by Texas Baptist General Convention.

Each of the five region choirs will present annual concert seasons and will come together (250 voices) to sing for special events such as the State Evangelism Conference and Southern Baptist Convention.

Thursday's concert, originally scheduled to be in Lubbock, will be recorded by Fitzco Sound Inc., of Midland. From the tape master an album will be released this summer. The concert, which includes a variety of music ranging from Russian Classical to Southern Gospel, is the final event for this season and marks the completion of eight years for Morris as director.

Accompanist is Dr. John Campbell, a member of the music faculty at Hardin Simmons University, Abilene.

'Gathering' to be varied

ARLINGTON — Plenary worship at the May 21-25 "Gathering of Christians" will be a richly diverse "smor-gasbord, not a bland diet," according to the National Council of Churches staff member the Rev. Dr. Eileen Lindner.

"There is a tendency in ecumenical worship to use the lowest common denominator and that very tendency purges everyone's tradition of its uniqueness," Ms. Lindner says.

"What we've tried to do is quite the opposite, more along the lines of a smorgasbord, where the pasta tastes like pasta and the seafood tastes like seafood and the idea is to tap on the richness of diversity rather than getting a sort of bland diet that will be offensive to no one."

Worship will be led by a 10-member Worship Leadership Team composed to represent the diversity of the gathering participants — Roman Catholic, Mainline Protestant, Orthodox, Historic Black and Evangelical — and will include recognizable elements of those traditions, Ms. Lindner says.

For more information on "Gathering of Christians," set for the Arlington Convention Center, call the National Council of Churches, 1-212-870-2227.

Film series scheduled

A new film series by Dr. Larry Crabb entitled "Inside Out: How to Develop the Real You" is being presented by the Family Ministry of Golf Course Road Church of Christ, 3500 E. Golf Course Road.

The series, which began May 4, is being shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays in the church's Family Center.

"The films deal with self-exploration to heal, restore and fulfill the inner self to release it to its fullest potential," says a news release from the church.

The second in the series, which will be shown Wednesday, entitled "I Don't Want to Admit It, but I Know Something's Wrong," deals with reflecting on one's inadequacies and coming to terms with one's imperfections.

Crabb is chairman of the Biblical Counseling Department at Grace Theological Seminary. A clinical psychologist, he is the author of five books including "Marriage Builders."

The films are being presented as a community service and no offerings will be taken. Classes for children are provided at the same time.

For more information call Tim Walker, 694-8836.

Unity service planned

LUBBOCK — The Southwest Ministers Fellowship is sponsoring a special Unity service with churches from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico at 7:30 p.m. May 15 at the Lubbock Civic Center Theater.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Carlton Pearson, pastor of Higher Dimensions, Tulsa, Okla.

Pearson is a graduate of Oral Roberts University where he sang with the World Action Singers and founded the school's contemporary gospel soul choir — Soul's A Fire.

"In 1977, Pearson founded Higher Dimensions which is a multi-faceted church sending out missionaries, evangelists and ministers of many kinds," says a news release from SMF.

The church has grown in membership from 75 to 3,000. Members of Higher Dimensions include gospel artists Carmen and Vanessa Bell Armstrong of the "Amen" TV Show and James Watt, former Secretary of the Interior.

Pearson has appeared on, among others, TBN Network and the Rich and Roberts Show.

Music workshop slated

The Inspirational Choir of Macedonia Baptist Church will host a "Gospel Music Workshop" Thursday, Friday and May 14.

Conducting the workshop will be Charles and Linda Mitchell, a Christian husband and wife music team from Dallas.

Mrs. Mitchell holds a bachelor of arts degree in music education from The University of Texas at Austin. Mitchell holds a bachelor of arts in pre-law and a master's in business from Southern Methodist University. Both are affiliated with the Dallas Chapter of the Gospel Music Workshop of America and the Texas Mass Choir.

Registration begins at 6:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday. The workshop choir will perform at 7:30 p.m. May 14. A donation of $5 is asked of all participants.

For more information call Gloria Robinson, 684-4990.

The pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church, located at 201 S. Carter St., is the Rev. O.J. Archie.

Church finalizes trip

First Baptist Church has finalized its plans for the October 3 through 14 trip to Canada.

Cost of the trip is $1,300, due in full by August 1. At this time, 33 are signed up for the trip which can accommodate 40. Organizer for the trip is Charles Elliott, who may be reached at 682-7668.

The trip was originally thought to cost $1,200, and those who have already paid their $45 deposit who are unwilling to pay the additional $100 for the trip may receive a refund by calling Elliott.

Cost of the trip includes air, train and motorcoach fares, accommodations, tours and some meals. For more information call Elliott.

Musical to be May 15

"For Heaven's Sake!", a two-act musical, will be presented at 7 p.m. May 15 by the Grace Presbyterian Youth Fellowship in the church Fellowship Hall, 2801 N. Garfield St.

"The revue communicates the meaning of the Gospel in a most contemporary light through satire, contradictions and paradoxes," says news release from the church.

A discussion period following the production will allow interested parties to probe into the message being communicated.

All individuals and youth groups are invited.

Week-long revival set

The Ranchland Heights Baptist Church, County Road 1211 South, will hold a week-long revival May 15-22.

The Rev. Bill Penland, pastor of Midland's Wilshire Park Baptist Church, will preach. Music will be led by John Mason.

Services begin at 7 p.m. The church is located a mile south of I-20 and a block west of South Midkiff Road.

The public is invited to attend. For more information call the church's pastor, the Rev. D.G. "Rocky" Denton at 697-4471.

Ascension celebrated

The Ascension of the Lord will be celebrated in a special vespers service at Grace Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Susan Branch will be at the pipe organ. The church's pastor, the Rev. Ray Johansen, will deliver the message. The public is invited to attend.

'Single Celebration' set

First Baptist Church, Louisiana Avenue and Garfield Street, is hosting a "Single Celebration" Sunday.

Beginning at 9:30 a.m. and lasting until 10:45 a.m., the church's new singles minister, the Rev. Bob Gardner, will lead singles in fellowship, singing and Bible study. Refreshments will be served.

All single adults are invited to attend and stay for Sunday morning worship at 11 a.m.

For more information call the church office, 682-1646.

Church under construction

The Mt. Carmel Baptist Church's new building is nearing completion, and the congregation will meet there Sunday for Mother's Day programs and services.

Sunday School will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the special service at 11 a.m. "Cost of construction is running over budget and the congregation is seeking donations of some few items by open house day, tentatively scheduled for May 29," says a news release from the church.

Mt. Carmel, located at 1308 E. Pecan St., is Midland's first black Southern Baptist congregation.

The church's pastor, the Rev. John Mitchell, invites the public to the Mother's Day services.

Contributions or donations may be mailed to P.O. Box 11025, Midland, Texas 79702.

More than 15,000 attend conference

More than 15,000 residents, visitors and delegates met during the 1988 Biennial World Conference of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in April in Independence, Mo.

About 2,800 delegates, representing the 238,159 world membership, took action to approve a $33,650,000 two-year budget, sustain the assignments of various world church officers and consider other legislation including items dealing with social issues and church organization.

Task forces were ordered by the delegates to study the issues of prejudice and racism; ministry to persons with AIDS/ARC and to those involved in addictive lifestyles.

An item dealing with holding the World Conference in a nation other than the United States, at least once in each decade, was referred to the church committee to be reviewed and reported on at the next World Conference. A travel fund was established to defray costs of those delegates, particularly in world missions, who are financially unable to attend the World Conference.

Funding for the $60 million Temple Building Project was officially launched at the Conference. It was announced that over $22 million has been committed by world church ministers, employees and the Temple Project Committee. Delegates agreed to designate $10.1 million of existing funds towards the Temple with the remaining $28 million to be raised from the general membership. Gyo Obata, principal design architect, and Charles Hook, Temple project director for HOK, Inc., St. Louis, were introduced to the assembly at the closing service.

Alan Tyree, a member of the First Presidency since 1982, said he could not remember a world conference that was more supportive of the church leadership.

The conference was held at the RLDS Auditorium, World Headquarters Building. Members and delegates from the Odessa, Midland and Stanton branches of the church attended.

Reverend offers seminar on new book

The Rev. Dr. William B. Oglesby Jr. will present a seminar on his recent book, "Biblical Themes in Pastoral Care," from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Friday at the Best Western Airport Hotel at Midland International Airport.

The seminar is sponsored by the Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas, 202 Pilot Road, Air Terminal.

Oglesby served as Marthina DeFriece Professor of Pastoral Counseling, Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., from 1962 to 1964 and has been professor emeritus since 1965.

A graduate of Austin College in Sherman, Union Theological Seminary, and the University of Chicago, Oglesby is an ordained Presbyterian minister. He is a diplomate in the American Association of Pastoral Counselors and recipient of the Distinguished Contributions Award in 1983.

He is the author of five books including "With Wings as Eagles," "Referral in Pastoral Care" and "Care for the Dying."

"Dr. Oglesby is a pioneer in the field of pastoral care and counseling," says a Samaritan Counseling Center news release. "He is an animated, insightful speaker and an articulate spokesman for pastoral care in the context of the Christian faith. He is one of the most knowledgeable persons in America on the biblical basis for pastoral care."

The seminar is designed for clergy and laity. Cost is $25 per person. Interested parties need to call the SCC, 563-4144, or send the fee to Samaritan Counseling Center, P.O. Box 6312, Midland, Texas 79711.

SUNDAY, MAY 8, 1988

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Concentrate on what is good for you personally. Your friends will bring you good luck when you need it most. A man-woman relationship takes a 180-degree turn. Past doubts fly out the window. Traveling overseas will bring unexpected career benefits later on.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: 33rd President Harry S. Truman, actor Stephen Furst, comic Don Rickles, actress Melissa Gilbert, singer Toni Tennille, author Peter Benchley, Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, boxer Sonny Liston, singer Rick Nelson.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): An excellent day for trips and social engagements. Mate or partner is in a playful mood. An older relative asks an important question. Your answer should be direct and honest. Avoid evasions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Use your spare time constructively, catching up on household chores. Offer to help out a new neighbor. Do not let the memory of an old heartache overwhelm you. Look to the future.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Make certain of the facts before relating a story to others. A last-minute invitation holds special appeal. Lost belongings surface in peculiar places. Do not ask embarrassing questions. Safeguard your valuables.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Question a puzzling request. A stranger's motives deserve close scrutiny. Find out exactly what others are trying to do in your behalf. A marriage's success hinges on your ability to compromise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Face the hard facts about a strained relationship. An elderly person requires immediate loving attention. Seek cooperation from brothers and sisters. Financial matters need to be settled without further delay.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Put your family's welfare before personal pleasure. New understanding helps you deal with personality conflicts. Children have some good advice to offer. Listen closely. You admit more than you should reveal.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make plans to do more entertaining at home, but first smooth out family members' differences. A loved one makes a concession in order to restore domestic tranquility. Be appreciative. Do not gloat.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Facing reality is painful but necessary. The future beckons brightly. Let relatives know as gently as you can that you must live your own life. Avoid taking chances with money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Important changes lie just ahead. Move with the times. Your personal appeal is at an all-time high. You enjoy the spotlight at social gatherings. Share more responsibilities with others. Teamwork is great!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Take care not to overdo today. Children need more of your time and attention. Romance takes a turn for the better when you open up. Plan a special dinner for two!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A close friend asks for a favor. Grant it if doing so will not strain the family budget. Real estate transactions are favored. Visitors from afar should be treated royally. Entertain at home.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Joint financial ventures are best avoided. Satisfy someone's craving to see new sights. An interesting stranger could become a good friend. Break out of your shell and socialize. Forget about being shy.

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

Nixon reviews architectural drawings for proposed library

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon returned to the estate that was his Western White House more than a decade ago to review architectural drawings of his proposed presidential library.

Nixon, 75, met at Casa Pacifica on Thursday with about a dozen members of the Richard Nixon Presidential Archives Foundation.

It was the first time Nixon had seen the plans, said library board member Gavin Herbert, who now owns Nixon's old estate in this seaside community.

The $25 million library is to be built on a six-acre site adjacent to the small farm house Nixon's father built in nearby Yorba Linda, where Nixon was born.

The library was originally to be built in San Clemente on a 16.7-acre blufftop parcel overlooking Casa Pacifica.

But foundation organizers sought a new site after the San Clemente project was stalled for four years amid controversy over a proposed commercial and residential development tied to the library.

The library is to include Nixon's private diaries and White House papers, vice presidential papers, personal papers from his post-White House days and manuscripts from his seven books.

al law by painting a portrait of his girlfriend on a historic lighthouse in Holland, Mich. The charges were dropped, but Heckman got a lot of publicity. Since then, Heckman has plastered seven billboards around the city — some serious, some not, but almost all of them self-promotions.

Heckman said he had planned his latest effort for more than a year; renting the space will cost him about $2,500 for about a month.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Oh no! Has Alice's Restaurant gone yuppie?

Well, the restaurant Arlo Guthrie made famous in his talking anti-war song "Alice's Restaurant" has been reborn as a fancy delicatessen, and it does feature such fare as red potatoes stuffed with caviar.

But Joey Wheaton and Bernie Mallon bristled Friday at the suggestion that their restaurant seemed to be a yuppie version of the eating spot that had been a symbol of the hippie days of the 1960s.

"We haven't made that much money yet," said Wheaton. "We're still driving a secondhand station wagon."

They said that since they opened La Fete Chez Vous last month there have been only a few visits by people in search of the folksy spot Alice Brock ran in the 1960s.

"Some people will ask 'Didn't Alice's Restaurant used to be in Stockbridge, and we'll tell them, 'You're sitting in it,'" said Wheaton.

Guthrie's song chronicled a 1965 arrest that kept the narrator out of the Vietnam War-era draft after his conviction for littering when he dumped the remains of a Thanksgiving dinner he had eaten at Ms. Brock's home.

Mallon worked for Ms. Brock before she left the restaurant. She now works in a restaurant in Provincetown, on Cape Cod.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A convicted fraud artist, who filed in such a hurry he left behind his photo, bilked Time Inc. out of $3,000 by posing as the son of the magazine's chief executive officer, authorities said.

An all points bulletin was issued Thursday for David Lee Geiken, 30, the district attorney's office said.

"A lot of research went into this unusual scam," said district attorney chief investigator John Majka.

A worker at Time Inc. in San Francisco received a call April 29, supposedly from a Time executive in New York, Majka said. The caller said a son of Time chief executive officer Dick Munro was in Los Angeles and needed help.

The Time employee was told the son had been aboard the Aloha Airlines plane in Hawaii last week when the top part of the cabin was ripped off. He needed a ticket to San Francisco, a hotel room and $400.

The con artist was met by a limousine when he arrived in San Francisco and later used the vehicle to go to lunch on the other side of the Golden Gate Bridge, authorities said.

The "son" called the Time office again on Sunday and asked for $500 more, the investigator said. He called later Sunday but a long-distance operator broke in, saying there was an urgent call from Time in New York.

The man hung up and vanished, said Majka. He left behind his briefcase containing his identification and picture, as well as names and private phone numbers of some of the nation's top corporate executives.

Christy Stevenson, from left, Daniel Ferguson and Doss Ward review the musical "Friends Forever." The work will have its West Texas premiere Sunday at Bellview Baptist Church.

Youth musical to premiere at Bellview

The youth musical "Friends Forever" will have its West Texas premiere at 6:40 p.m. Sunday at Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St.

The Bellview Youth Choir prepared the premiere.

"The music and dialogue has been written for teenagers and is on target for teen relationships," says Troy Stevenson, minister of music and youth at Bellview.

The musical was inspired by Michael W. Smith's song "Friends." From this song a musical was developed by Nan Gunley, Jim Weber and Billy Sprague. The drama takes place in the classroom and deals with trust, parent/teen relationships, finding a friend and best friends.

Soloists include Mark Jacobs, Kristi Mires, Blandi McNeil, John Beasley, Chris Beasley, Doss Ward, Daniel Ferguson, Shelia Lancaster, Tracey Stevenson, Christy Stevenson, Linda Arrington and Christy Butler. Jan Stevenson will direct the drama portion.

The word friend comes from two Old English words — freon meaning to love and free meaning free.

"These two original thoughts give truth about a friend — someone we love and someone we are 'free' to be ourselves with," the news release says.

The public is invited to attend.

Priest ousted three times for literal sermon

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — In his preaching from the Bible, a Roman Catholic priest goes literally by the book, telling parishioners they must sell all worldly possessions and give their money to the poor.

For this literal interpretation of the Gospel, the Rev. Michael Collins has been forced to leave three northern Illinois parishes.

"It's scary for me but as much as I would like to tell people what they want to hear, I've got a God who tells me to tell people what they've got to hear," said the 28-year-old priest.

He currently is at St. Ann's Catholic Church in Crest Hill near Joliet, but has no regular congregation and no assignment at least until June.

Until then, leaders of the Diocese of Joliet want him to write a book outlining his beliefs so they can check it against Catholic doctrine.

"Christianity means living like Christ lived, giving like Christ gave and forgiving like Christ forgave. Nothing less. Jesus didn't say 'Make a truce with me,' He said 'surrender,'" Collins said.

He isn't ready to make a truce. "My message is scary," he said in a recent interview. "It says when you've got nothing left but the Lord, you've got all you need."

Collins, lanky and bearded with long hair, said his message was hard for some to swallow. "The Gospel should bring comfort to the discomfortable and discomfort to the comfortable," he said.

'CROP Walk for Hungry' planned

A 10-kilometer "CROP Walk for the Hungry" is scheduled for 9 a.m. May 21 at the Midland College circle.

"Millions of people in the world must walk for their daily needs and tasks," says walk spokesman the Rev. Jonathan Holmer, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church. "Many Midlanders will, in a limited way, share that experience as they join in the walk to fight world and local hunger."

Christian Rural Overseas Program is a division of Church World Service, which raises money for world-wide hunger through community walkathons. Area churches are sponsoring the event.

Of the funds raised, Holmer says, 75 percent will go to worldwide relief and development work of Church World Service and the remaining 25 percent will go to the Permian Basin Food Bank. Sponsors may designate that their donations go to Church World Service or to other specific church relief agencies.

The Permian Basin Food Bank distributes to local social service and relief agencies. For every dollar raised, 90 cents goes directly to people in need.

"Walkers are urged to ask individuals, corporations and organizations to sponsor them for this event," says a news release for CROP.

Babysitters will be available during the walk. Sponsor envelopes are available at area churches, including St. Ann's Catholic Church office, 204 N. M St.

For more information call walk coordinator Sue Holmer, 685-1830, or Marge Hellinghausen, 682-6783.

President upset by Regan's attack on Mrs. Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan expressed irritation Friday about an upcoming book by former chief of staff Donald T. Regan, saying "he's chosen to attack my wife and I don't look kindly upon that at all."

Regan's book, scheduled to be published this month, is said to reveal that Mrs. Reagan used astrology to determine the timing of the president's speeches and travel.

The president has denied that any of his decisions have been influenced by astrology, in which the position of the sun, moon and stars are studied in the belief that they influence human affairs.

During a photo session at the start of a Cabinet meeting, reporters asked Regan whether he felt betrayed or angered by Regan's book.

"Well, I will say this, that I would have preferred it if he'd decided to attack me, and apparently from what we hear he's chosen to attack my wife, and I don't look kindly upon that at all," the president replied.

Regan in the past has reacted sharply to criticism of his wife or suggestions that she interferes or has too great a role in administration decision-making.

Regan was frequently at odds with the first lady before being forced out of his job early last year, and Mrs. Reagan's opposition was widely believed to have been a factor in his ouster.

Strobe Talbott, Washington bureau chief of Time magazine, which will publish excerpts of the book, said Friday that Regan's book

"paints an absolutely devastating picture of the Reagan administration."

"It characterizes the kind of inside scene there to be a little bit like the court of the Medici...with a little bit of Lady Macbeth and maybe the Keystone Cops."

Talbott, in comments on the syndicated discussion show "Inside Washington" scheduled for broadcast today, said the book portrays an unidentified San Francisco astrologist friend of Mrs. Reagan as "a kind of absentee presence almost at the Cabinet table or at least right outside the Oval Office, working first through Mrs. Reagan."

An excerpt from Talbott's appearance on the show was aired Friday by WUSA-TV.

The president said he did not expect his former top staff aide and treasury secretary to send him a copy of his book, which is being published by Harcourt, Brace Jovanovich.

"I don't think he's going to send one unless I'm prepared to send a check in return," the president said.

Tom Dawson, a Regan spokesman, said Regan "has had and will have no comments regarding his book until it is published." He said the book, "For the Record: From Wall Street to Washington," is expected to be in bookstores beginning Monday.

The president has previously made disparaging comments about so-called "kiss-and-tell" books by former aides.

Last month, for example, he was asked his opinion of a book by former White House spokesman Larry Speakes, in which Speakes revealed that on two occasions he made up quotes and attributed them to the president.

Regan said last month he was not aware of Speakes' actions at the time and added: "I can tell you right now that I have no affection for these kiss-and-tell books that are being written and I find it entirely fiction."

On Friday, Regan was again asked his opinion on such books.

"Well, I've tried to avoid commenting on all the kiss-and-tell books, but I doubt that they will be on my reading list," he replied.

Asked what his book-writing advice would be for members of his Cabinet and current aides, the president gestured around the table and said, "I trust all these people." The room erupted in laughter.

The White House has said it was disturbed by disclosures about the Regans' interest in astrology.

Published reports said Mrs. Reagan, after consulting with an astrologer, insisted that the signing of the U.S.-Soviet treaty eliminating intermediate-range nuclear missiles be held at 1:30 p.m. last Dec. 8.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said earlier this week he did not know if that report was true. He acknowledged, however, that the first lady follows astrology.

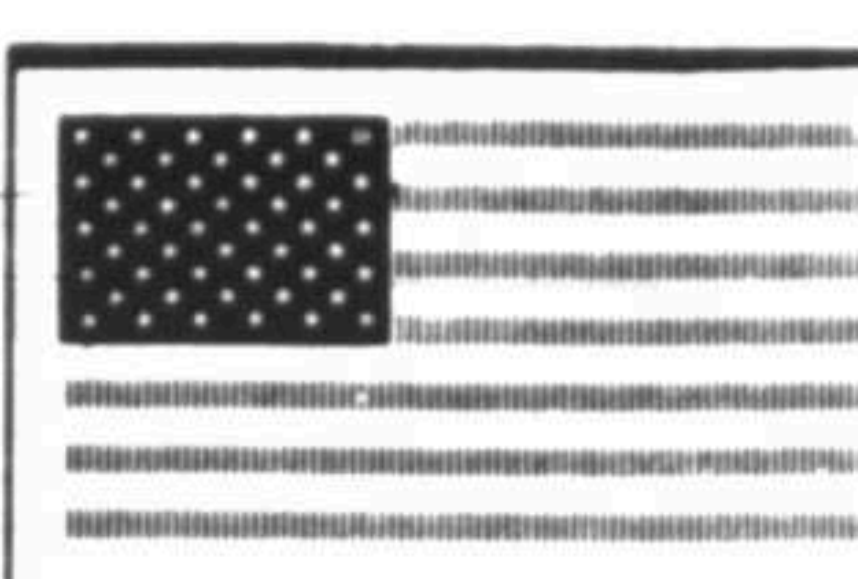

Her interest, dating back before the Regans moved to the White House, was heightened by the March 30, 1981 assassination attempt against her husband, Fitzwater said.

"She was very concerned for her husband's welfare, and astrology has been a part of her concern in terms of his activities," he said.

Fitzwater said that as far as he knows, Reagan's interest in astrology is limited to reading his horoscope.

Elaine Crispin, Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, has said astrology was "only an interest" for the first lady and not a major factor in the Regans' lives.

Hutton expected to plead guilty to money-laundering charges

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Criminal charges accusing E.F. Hutton & Co. Inc. of conspiracy and money-laundering involving more than $500,000 were filed Friday, and officials said the company will plead guilty later this month.

In addition to the three felony counts against the firm, two former brokers at Hutton's Providence office were also named in documents, known as a criminal information, filed in U.S. District Court here.

One of the brokers died shortly after the investigation began. U.S. Attorney Lincoln C. Almond said charges against the other, Brian J. Lareau, 46, of Jamestown, would be filed next week.

A spokesman for Hutton's successor company said the firm would not contest the charges, and called the incident "an old matter" involving people no longer with the firm.

The charges accuse Hutton of failing to report at least $532,000 in currency transactions at the Providence office. Federal law requires that cash transactions of greater than $10,000 must be reported to the IRS.

The people for whom the transactions were allegedly made were not named. But in the past, Almond had said up to $1.2 million was involved, some of it from organized-crime figures and some from businessmen.

He declined to give details of the alleged crimes on Friday but said they would be spelled out during a court hearing May 16 at which Hutton was expected to enter the guilty pleas.

The company faces up to $1.01 million in fines.

Hutton was acquired last year by Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc., and the company is now known as Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. A Shearson spokesman, Michael O'Neill, said the company would acquiesce to the charges.

"There was an agreement reached about a month and a half ago at which Hutton agreed to a criminal disposition," O'Neill said. The filing of the charges, he said, was "the next logical step."

O'Neill said the charges would not interfere with Hutton's current operations. "It's an old matter and the principals have long since left the firm," he said.

Almond called the alleged scheme "a major problem existing in the Providence office of Hutton." He said he did not know of any wrongdoing at other Hutton offices and said there was no evidence anyone other than the two brokers named Friday had participated in the scheme.

According to the criminal information, Fusco accepted cash in amounts greater than $10,000 from clients and directed other Hutton employees to take the cash to Providence banks and buy cashier's checks in denominations smaller than $10,000.

The cashier's checks would then be deposited in the customers' accounts and used to purchase bearer bonds, which would be redeemed through intermediaries to conceal their true ownership, the information charged.

Almond said the investigation of Hutton began in the summer of 1985. After the probe was completed last summer, the Justice Department and the company began several months of negotiations which led to Friday's filing of charges. Fusco, who died of cancer in late 1985, committed "the more egregious offenses," Almond said. "Lareau was an offshoot of that."

Under Securities and Exchange Commission rules, a felony conviction of the company could result in the suspension of investment services. Shearson said last month that it expected to receive waivers from the SEC that would allow it to continue business.

Last October, the SEC found that Hutton had violated provisions of the SEC law and rules relating to financial record-keeping and reporting of currency transactions.

As a result, Hutton was censured and directed to report to the SEC on policies and procedures regarding the receipt of cash deposits and to adopt surveillance procedures to monitor deposits of multiple bank checks.

Damage estimates in fuel plant explosions reach $100 million

HENDERSON, Nev. (AP) — Damage estimates topped $100 million Friday from explosions that demolished a rocket fuel plant, while city officials tried to calm residents by meeting with a neighboring company making the same product.

"We've created a monster of fear," said City Councilman Michael Harris. "I don't think anybody other than maybe some of those that really knew the plants knew the potential hazard inside."

Union officers, meanwhile, huddled to review safety records of Pacific Engineering and Production Co., where a 1982 union letter wondered why the plant hadn't already been "blown off the face of the earth."

Jim Barnes, state industrial relations director, said Pacific underwent 11 inspections by the state Occupational Safety and Health Division over the last five years.

The inspections resulted in 10 citations as well as four fines for incidents Barnes termed serious.

"There have been problems from time to time, mostly minor," he said. "Our opinion is that overall there record has been a good, moderate record."

Executives of Kerr-McGee Corp., which manufactures the same ammonium perchlorate a mile from the earthquake-force blast that leveled Pacific, met with city officials amid calls from frightened residents to shut the second plant down.

"It's too early to say we're going to run Kerr-McGee out of town," said Harris. "We have to wait and find out what caused this. It may create a tremendous war out here."

Kerr-McGee voluntarily shut down Thursday.

"We will not resume until we're absolutely certain it's safe," said Kerr-McGee spokesman Paul Reed. "But we've been operating 35 years without any sort of accident. We think our plant safety record is exemplary."

Two Pacific executives were killed and 326 people were treated at hospitals for injuries in Wednesday's blast, which threw houses off their foundations and severely damaged buildings throughout the city 10 miles southeast of Las Vegas.

Six people remained hospitalized, including a 5-day-old child cut over the eye by flying glass in a hospital nursery.

Nearly a third of the city's 16,000 homeowners filed damage claims by Friday. City Manager Gary Bloomquist said initial damage estimates topped $100 million.

"The number of claims already has really startled me," said Bloomquist. "But things are going real well. Practically everything is running again and people are ordering new windows and garage doors."

President Reagan was asked on Thursday to declare a disaster area to qualify the city for federal grants.

John Molovich, a United Steelworkers union safety and health expert, flew to Henderson from Pittsburgh to meet with local union officials. "The reports we're getting is they've had problems with fires of late," said Molovich.

Molovich wrote a 1982 letter that questioned plant safety after he took a tour. In the letter, he wrote of fears of an explosion because of the chemicals used at the plant.

"The company moved on some of the items," Molovich said Friday. "I'm not saying they didn't do anything. But they moved on the minor things, some of the major things were just not being done."

Geomagnetic storm sweeping over Earth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A geomagnetic storm is sweeping over the Earth and may interfere with satellite, radio and telephone communications, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration reported Friday.

The storm, which affects the Earth's magnetic field, struck Thursday evening and is expected to end by today or Sunday, said Joe Hirman of the Space Environment Services Center in Boulder, Colo.

Hirman said the disturbance originated in a huge flare that erupted from the sun on Wednesday. It took about a day for the effects to reach Earth, and those peaked on Friday, he said.

Most notable for Americans will be the display of the northern lights, which is an electrical phenomenon induced by the current from the sun.

The lights, known as the aurora borealis, should be visible for a few nights, although the light of the nearly full moon may interfere with viewing them.

Hirman said the electrical current induced by the magnetic storm may also affect communications moving via satellites and could cause interference with some radio and telephone communications.

The worst should be over by Sunday, however, but it may not be possible to communicate with Europe via high frequency radio channels for a time, Hirman said.

Workers practice rescue

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space center rescue and medical workers rehearsed procedures Friday for retrieving astronauts from a space shuttle damaged during an emergency landing.

A wooden mockup of an orbiter was used in the exercise, which simulated a landing in a remote area off the runway.

In the test, controlled from the launch control center, helicopters were dispatched to pick up personnel representing the astronauts, who then were transported to a nearby site for any needed medical treatment.

It was the second test here this week of space shuttle emergency procedures. On Wednesday, seven astronauts and several workers fled to safety, with some of them receiving make-believe injuries, following a mock fire and explosion on the shuttle launch pad.

FDA recalling Ipecac

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of bottles of Humco brand syrup of Ipecac, possibly containing a deadly poison, remain in American homes, the Food and Drug Administration said Friday.

As many as 400,000 1-ounce bottles labeled Ipecac may actually contain oil of eucalyptus, which could prove fatal to children, the FDA said.

Ipecac normally is used to induce vomiting in children who are suspected of having eaten some dangerous product.

The FDA initially announced a recall of the Humco brand Ipecac April 29, after the label mix-up was discovered. However, since then it has learned that thousands of bottles of the product have been distributed to consumers across the country as part of poison prevention week activities.

Finding and returning those bottles is vital, the FDA says, so that parents will not forget and accidentally give some of the eucalyptus oil to a child.

Eucalyptus oil is used in minute amounts in vaporizers. But if taken internally it can cause convulsions and coma, officials said. As little as a teaspoonful could prove fatal, FDA reported.

Mother pleads guilty to felony child neglect

CROWN POINT, Ind. (AP) — A woman whose 9-year-old daughter lost her lower legs to frostbite after being trapped for days in an unheated apartment pleaded guilty Friday to felony child neglect.

Darwin Britt, who has been held in the Lake County Jail since her arrest Jan. 20, agreed to plead guilty to one count after prosecutors said they would drop two other felony counts of child neglect.

Under the plea agreement, Ms. Britt, 25, would be sentenced to 14 years in prison. But Lake County Superior Court Judge Richard Maroc said he has the option of suspending part of that sentence, and will make a decision at a May 27 hearing.

Ms. Britt took the stand only briefly during the 40-minute hearing. She admitted that her daughter, Darwin Carlisle, needed medical attention, yet she did not seek it.

Off the stand, Ms. Britt told Maroc that she was taking cocaine during the time in January that young Darwin was forced to live in the unheated attic apartment. Otherwise, she gave no explanation for the incident.

Ms. Britt showed no emotion at the hearing, and Maroc did not admonish her.

The spunky youngster, described as a good student by her teachers and "very courageous" by hospital personnel, now lives with her great-grandmother in Gary. After her ordeal was publicized nationwide, at least $125,000 poured in to help pay her medical bills and future expenses.

Darwin has learned to skip rope and roller skate on her artificial legs, therapists said at the time she was released from a Chicago hospital.

The little girl was found in a freezing apartment in Gary on Jan. 18 by a construction worker who had been sent to board up the building after a mortgage foreclosure.

At the time, Jeff Griffin said he heard a child pleading for help, removed a refrigerator from the top of the stairway and kicked open a padlocked door to rescue the girl.

Prosecutors said she had been without food or water for three to five days.

Doctors at Chicago's Wyler Children's Hospital said her lower legs could not be saved. Darwin was fitted with artificial legs at La Rabida Children's Hospital, also in Chicago, where she also received therapy.

The Rev. Cozetta Olive of First AME Church in Gary said she read about Ms. Britt's arrest in January and has visited her weekly at the county jail.

"She is very refreshed but despondent," Olive said outside the courtroom. "She loves her daughter and that needs to be understood. She's just happy the child is alive. She believes God has answered her prayers, but she knows that she has done wrong."

Lake County Prosecutor Jack Crawford said young Darwin has not visited her mother, adding, "interestingly, she has not indicated that she wants to."

"It's a strange case," Crawford said. "Ms. Britt would come back to the apartment and visit her daughter but not spend the night. Instead she was hanging out on the streets."

Olive said Ms. Britt told her that she had left young Darwin unattended so she could go find money to buy food and water.

Widow ordered to shop feeding homeless at park

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — A widow says she'll find another way to help others now that health officials have told her she has to stop taking homemade soup and sandwiches to homeless people at a park.

Doraine Frick has been taking food, paid for through donations of her prayer group and cooked in her own kitchen, to Pioneer Park in this Phoenix suburb every Wednesday for about two years. But Wednesday she served her last meal.

Mrs. Frick, 58, said Thursday she won't fight the edict by the Maricopa County Health Department, adding that she considers it God's message for her to move on to another ministry.

"But this isn't right," said Dave Peck, a homeless man who said he's been hanging around Pioneer Park since 1982. "These ladies go out of their way to come down here to feed people that are living on the streets."

Peck said Mrs. Frick and her helper, Lelia Parlier, also have brought razors, blankets, clothing, toothpaste and toothbrushes to the park.

Roy Willis, a Health Department supervisor, said the county had no choice but to halt Mrs. Frick's operation after a city employee filed a complaint with the department April 27.

"All food must come from an approved source," Willis said, calling Mrs. Frick's operation "illegal under any circumstances."

"You just can't prepare food out of your home and take it and give it away or sell it or whatever to the general public or anybody else," Willis said. "By law, we have to have control over how the food is prepared, handled and given away to prevent people from getting sick."

He said the law protects Mrs. Frick, too.

"If we get a mass food-borne illness, her liability would be unbelievable," Willis said.

After a county health officer left a notice at her home to cease feeding people, Mrs. Frick said, she went to the park and told the homeless "we would not be coming back anymore."

Mrs. Frick said she went each Thursday to Hillman Catholic Renewal Center in Glendale where her prayer group collected money to buy the food.

She said she wanted to use the kitchen at Queen of Peace Catholic Church, which she attends, but she said it is committed to the church school's hot lunch program.

Willis said if the meals were prepared in a church, his inspectors would examine the kitchen and waive the permit fee.

If someone doesn't feed the poor, Mrs. Frick said, "you are going to find more crime in the city."

Foreigners bring changes to West Germany

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — "Germany isn't a land of immigration," government officials like to say.

But a massive influx of Turks and other foreigners has changed the face of this once insular nation.

From dozens of kebab stands in big cities to young Turkish children playing in rural towns, the foreigners are making their presence felt.

Nearly 1.5 million Turks live in West Germany, the largest group among the 4.5 million foreigners in a country with a total population of 61.3 million. Frankfurt has a Turkish bazaar.

Yugoslavs number about 500,000 and Italians are the third-largest with about 535,000.

One of the Turks is Nedzhati Baris, who has acquired a small but successful business and an expensive home in the affluent town of Koenigstein, outside Frankfurt.

"My position here now is quite good," he said in German at his store. "We are well known, since we've been here a long time."

"The only worry is bringing my mother for a visit from Turkey. We've been waiting eight months for a visa."

The immigrant workers began arriving in the 1960s and 1970s and were called Gastarbeiter, German for guest workers, to signify what was to have been a temporary stay.

Now, most of the Turks are still work on assembly lines or at menial jobs shunned by West Germans.

Journalist Guenther Wallraff's 1985 book on the exploitation of Turkish workers, "Ganz Unten" (Rock Bottom), became a best-seller and stirred controversy and soul-searching among West Germans.

Federal and state authorities are trying to reduce the number of foreigners in the country and make it more difficult for them to bring in family members.

But opposition groups say West Germany's economy, one of the world's strongest, will need even more foreign workers in the future as the German birth rate continues to drop.

Although most Turks hold low-paid jobs, some of them are successful businessmen. Turkish-owned travel agencies specializing in trips to their homeland are mushrooming across the country, cashing in on the West Germans' growing interest in Turkey.

Turks, nevertheless, have been physically attacked by West German extremist groups, and they face other problems. "According to all our studies, the Turks by far have the most difficult time integrating into the German society," said Hartmut Reichow, an expert in the federal office for foreigners in Bonn.

Turk Nedzhati Baris stands in front of his small, successful grocery store in the affluent town of Koenigstein near Frankfurt. He is one of nearly 1.5 million Turks living in West Germany.

"This has to do with their background: They have a different religion (Islam) and come from a totally different culture," Reichow said in an interview.

"But the situation is much better now than it was in the late 1960s. Then, very few Turkish children went to school. Now, more and more and are getting even higher education and their prospects look much brighter."

Two high schools in Gelsenkirchen, a Ruhr Valley industrial city, recently became the first in West Germany to offer the Turkish language as one of the subjects for the "abitur," the examination that gives successful candidates a diploma roughly equal to a junior college degree in the United States.

The schools, whose student bodies are about a quarter Turkish or Turkish-born, were the first to apply a long-existing law allowing a foreign language to be one of the subjects in the final exam.

Turks are also making their mark on cultural life.

The Turkish-born director Tefvik Baser scored a hit two years ago with his movie "40 Square Meters Germany," a moving story about a the wife of a Turkish worker forced by her husband never to leave their tiny apartment in Hamburg.

The leading role was played by Ozay Fecht, who came to West Germany from Istanbul when she was 18 and became a critically acclaimed actress and jazz singer.

Another Turk, Saliha Scheinhardt, who married a West German, advanced from a textile factory worker, waitress and air hostess to prize-winning author, writing mostly in German.

But it is the service sector where Turks and other foreigners are beginning to play dominant roles.

They run neighborhood ethnic restaurants and groceries, as well as tailor and shoe-repair shops.

"Istanbul Kebab," "Balkan Grill," and "Italian Pizza" are found not only in large cities but also in many villages across West Germany.

In Koenigstein, a half-hour's drive northwest of Frankfurt, grocer Baris explained that 15 years ago he traded his ice cream parlor at Adana in the southern Turkey for an uncertain future in West Germany.

The 38-year-old immigrant started out as a waiter, then became a factory worker and now owns the grocery store that doubles as a tailoring and alterations service.

Like most Turks, Baris has no immediate plans to return home.

"If the economic situation in Turkey improves, then maybe some day," he said.

Baris' grocery store sells ornate samovars and Turkish coffee pots, water pipes, dried eggplant, Bulgarian goat cheese, Greek olives, Yugoslav coffee, dozens of Turkish spices and mineral water, and even cassette tapes of Turkish music.

Baris said 90 percent of his customers in Koenigstein are West Germans. He opened his business five years ago and took a 250,000-mark ($148,000) loan to buy a house. Baris, his wife and two Turks work in the store.

All of Baris' four daughters were born in West Germany. Two of them, aged 12 and 10, go to a German school. The two younger ones, 6 and 4 years old, go to a Roman Catholic-run kindergarten.

In Frankfurt, Melek Kapicioglu followed a similar pattern. She came to West Germany 22 years ago, as a 19-year-old girl. After working on assembly lines for the electronics giant Siemens, she opened a tailor shop in downtown Frankfurt five years ago.

"I have been here long and I don't really see how I can go back to Istanbul and work in my profession," she said. "In Turkey, every woman knows how to sew." Both her grown-up children are back in Turkey.

Ms. Kapicioglu, also speaking in German, said she would like West Germany to revise its law and extend business hours for stores.

"I work from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. I cannot serve customers legally after 6:30 p.m., but I have to work long. My store rent is 2,000 marks ($1,200)."

State 'mud'dles through extra yearly season

New York Times News Service

BROWNINGTON, Vt. — While most states struggle along with just four seasons, Vermont enjoys six: spring, summer, fall, winter, more winter and mud.

Mud season comes between more winter and spring. It is marked by wild temperature fluctuations, rapid alternations of sunshine and snow, and mud — deep pools of squishing, quick-staining and slow-drying mud. It dominates Vermonters' lives until the winter's accumulation of ice and snow has finally run off.

At the top of Vermont, in the region known as the Northeast Kingdom, many roads are still unpaved, and in mud season, some are all but impassable. Drivers who have safely negotiated sleet, snow, hail and black ice are defeated by mud.

Flatlanders are not the only ones who get caught. Alva Cleveland, a 47-year-old farmer who still lives here in the house he was born in, has been imprisoned in mud more than once.

The new Eagle Premier has more passenger room than Volvo 740 or Buick Century.*
More cargo volume than Saab 900 sedan or VW Quantum.
More standard horsepower than Ford Taurus or Pontiac 6000.
A smaller turning circle than Acura Legend or Mercury Sable.
It comes with a fully independent suspension while Saab 9000 Turbo and Chevrolet Celebrity do not.
Plus, it's backed by a 7-year/70,000-mile powertrain Protection Plan. Which is much longer than anything offered by Ford, Chevrolet, Pontiac, Buick, or anything coming out of Japan.
