For Space Exploration President Asks US-Red Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy has invited Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to cooperate in five immediate space projects and eventual joint exploration of the moon and the planets.

The offer was made in a March 7 letter to Khrushchev made public today by the White House.

"The tasks are so challenging, the costs so great, and the risks to the brave men who engage in space exploration so grave, that we must in all good conscience try every possibility of sharing these tasks and costs and of minimizing these risks," the president wrote.

The White House said Khrushchev had not yet replied.

The president's proposal was a followup to a letter he wrote Khrushchev Feb. 22, saying he had asked U. S. space officials to prepare concrete proposals. This was after Khrushchev himself had suggested cooperation in the wake of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's orbital flight.

Kennedy's specific proposals:

- Joint establishment of a weather satellite system. The United States would launch one satellite and Russia another in near-polar orbits in planes approximately perpendicular to each other. These satellites would photograph cloud cover and provide other meteorological services to all nations.
- Establishment of operational tracking services by the United States and the Soviet Union, in each other's territory. Thus the United States would provide the equipment for a tracking station in Russia and train Soviet technicians to operate it. The Soviet Union would provide equipment and train technicians to operate a tracking station in this country.
- A project to map the earth's magnetic field in space by using two satellites, one near the earth, the other in a more distant orbit. The United States would launch one and Russia the other. Both would permit distribution of the information obtained to the world scientific community.
- Russia was invited to join in a project already started by the United States, with cooperation from other countries, in experimental communications by satellite.
- Pooled efforts and exchange of knowledge in the field of space medicine in connection with manned space flights and insuring man's ability to survive in space and return safely to the earth.

"Beyond these specific projects, we are prepared now to discuss broader cooperation, in the still more challenging projects, which must be undertaken, in the exploration of outer space," the president told Khrushchev.

He said U. S. officials had de-

Police Nab Two Suspects In Local Burglaries

Pampa police early Saturday nabbed what they call "a couple of good suspects" in a number of burglaries in the city during the past two months.

The two men, James Leon Sirles, 25, of 513 Harlem, and 18-year-old Robert Mitchell, 812 Octavius, were captured in a post-midnight chase and foot race through downtown Pampa by Patrolmen Gerold Clark and H. G. Shaffer.

The pair is being held in county jail under $2,500 bond each after arraignment before Justice of the Peace J. W. Graham.

Police Chief Jim Conner said sheriff's officers and city police will question the two suspects further in connection with a number of burglaries in Pampa.

Chief Conner said both are charged with burglary with intent to commit theft and that they had a confession from one of the men that he was involved in the burglary of the Pampa Concrete Co. on the night of March 7 when the offices were entered and a safe was broken open and looted.

Police said the burglars also broke into a vending machine and stole some change. Total of the money stolen was approximately $110, police said.

Events leading to the capture of the pair started at 12:08 a.m. Saturday when Patrolman Clark, on routine patrol, noticed two men walking hurriedly north in the alley behind the First National Bank. Clark got out of his car to investigate but saw no trace of the two when he walked into the dark alley. He heard a noise in the vacant lot of the Old LaNora theater and when he ran to check it, he said two forms leaped over the board fence that closes the lot off from N. Cuyler St. He ran back to his car and radioed for help.

Clark was joined by Patrolman Shaffer and they started in pursuit of the two youths on foot. The chase wound through downtown Pampa streets.

One of the men was captured behind the LaVista Theater and the other further down on W. Foster near the Pampa Ice Company.

"We plan to continue questioning of both Sirles and Mitchell for possible connection with a number of Pampa burglaries," Chief Conner said Saturday night.

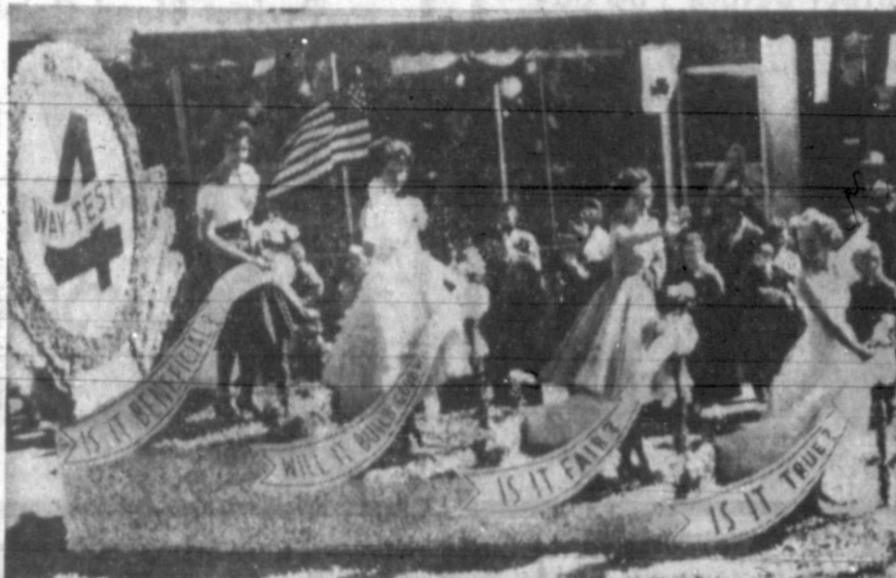

Destroyer Races To Spot Where Wreckage Spotted In The Pacific

Pilots See Floating Objects But Report There's No Sign Of Life

By ALBERT E. KAFF
United Press International
CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (UPI) — The U. S. Navy destroyer escort Brister raced at high speed Sunday to examine possible wreckage spotted near the area where a super-Constellation airliner disappeared with 107 persons aboard.

But planes which had reported floating objects in the Pacific between Guam and the Philippines said they saw no sign of life. It appeared almost certain the passengers, 93 of them U.S. Soldiers en route to South Viet Nam, were dead.

A search plane said it sighted five submerged articles about 750 miles west of Guam but that it could not tell what they were. The Brister, part of a vast search fleet of ships and planes, expected to reach the position by daybreak.

The U.S. Navy in Guam, said "it has been verified there are no survivors in the immediate vicinity." But it ordered the Brister to the scene to check whether the debris was other than the log and driftwood seen by spotters from Guam and the Philippines.

The weather was reported good and the Air Force ordered more than 100 planes into the search Sunday to supplement the 49 planes and nine ships in action Saturday. It was becoming one of the biggest efforts since the search for Amelia Earhart many years ago.

The Constellation, chartered from the Flying Tiger Line by the U. S. government, disappeared early Friday on a night flight from Guam to Manila. Aboard were 93 soldiers, three Vietnamese and 11 crew members, four of them women.

The search already was covering an area of more than 250,000 square miles of Pacific waters, an area the size of Texas.

Planes ranging from swift jet fighters to whale-shaped double-decked C-124 Globemasters were searched small areas at a time.

There were unconfirmed reports that flares had been sighted Thursday night when the plane fell but the Air Force said nothing was found. Early Saturday search planes reported what they thought to be wreckage but a close search showed it was driftwood and a log. The first plane dropped smoke flares and other planes flew in low for a close look.

Another aircraft from an early warning squadron sighted five submerged objects in the water later and attempted to photograph them for a closer look. In the end the Navy dispatched the Brister.

Ed Myatt Issues Statement

Former Mayor Ed Myatt Saturday issued a statement to newspapers, radio and television stations in which he said he would consider it an honor to be a "hatchetman" or "bright young genius" in view of what he stated "is now going on."

The ex-mayor stated, in substance, that he does not "necessarily object to the authority of our present group (city commission) to hire and fire, or to discuss matters obtaining to a more democratic and orderly form of city affairs, to break contracts and to subject their wills against the wishes of the people; but, I strongly protest the manner in which all of the above was done."

Ex-Mayor Myatt said he also protested the manner in which facts are presented for publication.

The former mayor, in his statement, discusses a number of issues which have arisen during the current City Hall controversy.

Myatt's statement, in full, will be found on Page 4 of today's Pampa News.

Rusk Says He Will Return Barring Progress

GENEVA (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk served notice Saturday he will return to Washington Friday night if there is no progress in his probing talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Berlin and nuclear testing.

American officials said Rusk had advised other delegations to the 17-nation disarmament conference informally he would remain only another six days unless "unexpected developments" warrant a delay. Unexpected developments would include a breakthrough on Berlin or nuclear testing.

William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, is expected to return to Washington with Rusk. This would leave Arthur H. Dean, permanent negotiator in the nuclear test ban talks, as head of the U. S. delegation to the disarmament conference.

Some U.S. officials said they were convinced Russia does not want a test ban under any terms at present because the Soviet is ready to begin a new series of atmospheric nuclear tests of its own once the United States resumes its testing next month.

Rusk's decision to return home followed reports Gromyko was stalling off another man-to-man meeting with Rusk until he receives new instructions from Moscow.

Oil Operators Discuss Salt Water Disposal Problems In Meet Here

Representatives of about 65 oil operators met Thursday, March 15, in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn to take part in a salt water disposal workshop sponsored by the Panhandle Chapter of the API.

Primary purposes of the workshop were to provide representatives of the oil producing companies in Gray, Carson, Hutchinson, and Wheeler counties with an opportunity to discuss progress made to date in providing salt water disposal facilities for their leases, and to investigate possibilities where cooperative or joint facilities may be considered.

It was apparent from the mood of the operators that a serious, determined effort is being made by the operators to comply with a Texas Railroad Commission order aimed at eliminating unlined salt water disposal pits by July 1, 1962. The known plans of each operator in each county were reviewed, and pins representing proposed disposal wells were posted to each county map. Between and during county discussions, the operators took advantage of every opportunity to form small groups and consult with each other about specific problems.

Overall, it appeared that most operators had completed at least their preliminary plans regarding the method of disposal to be used on each lease, and that a number of disposal wells were already in operation. At the same time, it was apparent that there were some difficult problems remaining to be solved.

Wiley noted that the chapter was scheduling a meeting on the subject of salt water disposal equipment and procedures for the last half of April.

What'll You Bet 'Dr. Kildare' Is A Better Sawbones Than 'Ben Casey'?

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—As I understand television ratings, which is hardly at all, Ben Casey, the surly surgeon, has a slight edge over young Dr. Kildare, the everlasting interne.

This may reflect their relative popularity with the medically oriented audience, but I question whether it is a reliable measurement of their skills as physicians.

As the saying goes, I don't know much about medicine, but I know what I like. And instinct tells me that Kildare is a better sawbones than Casey.

I realize, of course, that Kildare is only an interne, whereas Casey is a chief resident. Nevertheless, Kildare is the more experienced.

Kildare has been interning for as long as you and I and Lew Ayres can remember. He has ministered to the lame, the halt and the infirm not only on television but on radio and in the movies.

Casey, on the other hand, has never operated anywhere but on television, which is sick enough in its way but simply doesn't provide the variety of cases that a medico gets in the other media.

There are some who say the fact that Kildare has never advanced beyond his internship indicates a limited capacity. Bosh!

Put them both in the same ward and I'll bet you the price of a new bedpan that Kildare could spot Casey two tracheotomies and an encephalograph and still beat him to the nearest pretty nurse.

By divorcing myself from the pain and suffering, and observing him in a cool, detached manner,

I think I have found Casey's weakness.

His scowling countenance, which seems to reek self-confidence, is really a cover-up for incompetence. The patients are willing to risk having him remove the wrong brain lobe because it feels so good when he smiles.

Moreover, Casey is freed from Kildare's handicap of always having crochety old Dr. Gillespie peering over his shoulder and criticizing every move he makes.

If Gillespie moved to the other program, Casey wouldn't last two weeks. He is too temperamental to work under a superior who scowls more than he does.

I suspect that down deep Gillespie is jealous of Kildare and has deliberately kept him an interne all these years to avoid competition.

Get Gillespie off his neck and I feel certain that Kildare would soon be television's ranking M.D.

DISMISSAL IS COSTLY
WAUKESHA, Wis. (UPI)—It cost Mrs. Kurt Schroeder $200 to avoid an $18 fine on a charge of driving on the wrong side of the road.

The charge was dismissed Thursday when the attorney and a surveyor she hired at $100 each proved that snow banks narrowed the road and forced Mrs. Schroeder to cross the center line.

Bank Robbery Tip Fails To Materialize

A tip that the Farmers National Bank at White Deer would be hit by robbers Saturday forenoon failed to materialize.

Sheriff John Nunn at Panhandle said a cordon of lawmen was thrown around the town and remained on watch from 7:30 a.m. to 12:30 noon.

Some 25 officers from sheriffs' departments in Carson, Gray, and Hutchinson counties, an FBI agent, and highway patrolmen made up the posse that kept the watch.

"We maintained a five-hour vigil, but the robbers failed to show," Sheriff Nunn said.

Grass Fire At McLean Is Extinguished

McLEAN (Spl) — A grass fire of uncertain origin started about 1:55 p.m. Saturday in the Bob Willoughby Wrecking Yard on the West Lane of U.S. Highway 66, one-half mile west of McLean city limits and was contained at 3:10 p.m. after burning north about 1 1/2 miles.

The grass fire cut a 500 yard swath and burned approximately 400 acres of grass.

The vacant farm home of Guy Beasley narrowly missed destruction but a half section of grass land on his farm was consumed by the fire.

The fire jumped from the wrecking yard, fanned by a 25-mile southeast wind, into the Claude and Ted Simmons' farm; burned into an area belonging to Mrs. Ethel Smith; destroyed the west quarter of some grass land belonging to Boyd Meador; and then headed into the northwest corner of the McLean Golf Course.

Fire units from McLean, Shamrock, Lefors and a Gray County Maintainer brought the fire under control.

veloped detailed plans for manned and unmanned flights in space, exploration; that U. S. and Soviet plans would no doubt provide possibilities for scientific and technical cooperation.

"For example," he wrote, "we might cooperate, in unmanned exploration of the lunar surface, or we might commence now the mutual definition of steps to be taken in sequence for an exhaustive scientific investigation of the planets Mars or Venus, including consideration of the possible utility of manned flight in such programs."

"When a proper sequence for experiments has been determined, we might share responsibility for the necessary projects. All data would be made freely available."

The President told Khrushchev that he was naming U. S. Technical representatives who would be prepared to meet with Russian counterparts to discuss cooperation. He suggested that representatives of the two countries meet privately during sessions of the United Nations outer space committee which will open in New York Monday.

U. S. officials said the Soviet line as late as last fall was that there could be no cooperation in space research before disarmament because it involved the use of intercontinental ballistic missiles. They said the United States had never accepted that argument and noted that Kennedy's proposals did not call for ex-

Art Exhibit In Lovett Library

Pampa Art Club is sponsoring the circuit exhibition of the Texas Fine Arts Association March 17 through March 28 in Lovett Memorial Library.

The pictures in this exhibition were selected from the two semi-annual shows sponsored by the Texas Fine Arts Association.

On display are oils and watercolors of Texas artists from San Antonio, Austin, Abilene, Houston, San Marcos, Fort Worth, Corpus Christi, Commerce, Bedford, Lubbock, and Kingsville.

Pampa Art Club completed the hanging of the exhibit on Friday and extends an invitation to the public to go by the library at any time during its open hours and view the exhibit.

change of information about rockets or for any joint launching of satellites.

The only exchange he proposed was for equipment to be used in tracking stations.

Officials said there had been recent signs that the Russians were convinced that there could be cooperative space efforts.

In view of the fact that the two nations are competing in space activities, U. S. officials felt that agreement to cooperate would be a conspicuous and important step.

rocks from Ireland to start off the morning's program on the sound stage erected in the heart of downtown Shamrock.

The greatest number of persons for all the celebration events jammed the streets as the St. Pat. parade began moving a few minutes after 11 a.m. Saturday. It was nearly 12:10 p.m. when the last unit of the parade rolled by.

The afternoon's festivities started off with a concert by the ROTC choir from Panhandle A&M College and the ROTC Band from West Texas State College at Canyon.

Action shifted at 2 p.m. to the Rodeo Arena for the opening of the two-day St. Patrick's Rodeo, sponsored by the Shamrock Sheriff's Posse.

Awards were made in mid-afternoon to winning floats, bands, drill teams and riding clubs that took part in the morning parade.

Another of the big afternoon attractions came with the coronation of Miss Irish Rose at ceremonies conducted in the Shamrock National Guard Armory.

Miss Irish Rose was picked from among 16 contestants from Pampa, Tascosa, Kelton, Canadian, Lefors, Briscoe, Wellington, Groom, Sammerwood, Mobeetie, Sayre, Miami, Allison, Amarillo, Perryton and Erick.

A boxing show was staged in the Armory late Saturday afternoon with entries from Pampa's Tri-City Boxing Club of Pampa, Wellington and Shamrock versus Dea's Boxing Club of Amarillo.

Last night, the celebration was given over to parties and dances in all sections of Shamrock. The huge St. Patrick's Day dance got under way in the National Guard Armory at 9 p.m. and a Western Dance started at the same hour in the Junior High School gymnasium.

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce sent a four-car load of delegates to the St. Pat's Day event and more than 200 others from Pampa made the trip in private cars for the parade, boxing show and other events in which Pampans were especially interested, including the afternoon boxing show and rodeo and the dances last night.

Burglars Hit Service Station

Burglars, believed to have gained entrance through an unlocked door to the grease rack at the Conoco Service Station, 2101 N. Hobart, made off with an undetermined amount of cash and several checks sometime Thursday night.

Police said Jeff Truly, station operator, reported the theft was discovered by Bill Farris, an employee, when he opened the station Friday morning.

Police said the burglars found the hiding place of the cash register drawer.

Mrs. Viola Herring reported to police that someone broke into her house at 723 E. Frederic and stole $100 worth of fireworks. Mrs. Herring said the fireworks were stock left over from a roadside stand last July Fourth.

Statement Of Former Mayor Ed Myatt

(Editor's Note: Former Mayor Ed Myatt, who's name has been mentioned several times in the current City Hall controversy, has issued a statement concerning his position in the matter. The complete statement follows.)

TO THE CITIZENS OF PAMPA:
I am not "A HATCHEMAN," nor am I "A BRIGHT YOUNG GENIUS." Even though I am not, I would consider it an honor in view of what is now going on, to be either one. Pampa has been my home for more than thirty years, and for all of that time we have enjoyed a wonderful and progressive City Administration, and I am unable to understand how our affairs got themselves in such bad shape in the past ten months without some of these conditions being brought to the attention of our people, during this thirty year period.

"It is amazing to me that the City of Pampa has progressed as it has in the past thirty years in view of the above and other conditions, especially also due to the concerted efforts on the part of many individuals to establish in the minds of our people an invisible boundary, dividing our town into organized parties of "NORTH AND SOUTHSIDERS." Further it is amazing that we have progressed as we have, with the adverse publicity affecting the attitude not only of the people in our immediate trade area, but all over the state, which we have recently been subjected to. Therefore, I, as an individual, a taxpayer, and a former member of the Pampa City Commission, and as former Mayor, do not necessarily object to the authority of our present group, to hire and fire, or to discuss matters pertaining to a more democratic and orderly form of city affairs, to break contracts and to subject their wills against the wishes of the people; but, I strongly protest the manner in which all of the above has been done. This has brought unwanted and unneeded publicity to a wonderful town, that has always been able to take care of its own affairs and business.

"I further protest the manner in which facts are presented for publication. The background on which these facts are predicated is left entirely to the imagination or research of our citizenry. For example, I refer you to a statement from the Pampa Daily News, dated Wednesday February 28, 1962, in which the Mayor stated he was very concerned with the way the City's operating cost have risen in the past ten or twelve years and that he was calling on all City Employees to do everything in their power to try to lower this cost. It was further stated that this Commission would not get into the habit of reaching into the Taxpayer's pockets to pay for this increase' cost. What the Mayor failed to add was that the population of the City of Pampa has risen from slightly over 16,000 people in 1950, to more than 24,000 people in 1960, creating a tremendous obligation of our City to provide equal facilities and services to a fast growing community. Then, in 1958, the people of Pampa, went to the polls, and through a democratic process proceeded to approve a four million dollar bond election for certain improvements to be made to our City, and instructed the Commission at that time, and also future Commissions, that this was their wish and that it would be done. With the sale of these tax and revenue bonds, our debt service, or amount of money necessary to retire our bonded indebtedness, increased from $163,000 in 1955 to slightly over $363,000 in 1960, adding to the cost of doing business, but whose idea was it?

"Included in this bond election was the building of two new Fire Stations, one on the North part of our City; however, when these much-needed stations were built, it became necessary to man them and it immediately became necessary to double the size of the Pampa Fire Department to do so. You can readily see what happened to the cost of doing business.

"Furthermore, about this time, the citizens of our community were presented with a new and beautiful library by the Lovett Estate. Upon acceptance, it became the Commission's obligation to move from the present location in the City Hall basement, with a budget of approximately $17,969 a year, to the new building which required a budget of approximately $28,000 in 1960. All of this added to the cost of doing business.

"In this period of time, nearly all of the additions now in our city limits were added to our tax rolls thereby bringing thousands of people into our corporate limits. This made it necessary for the City to buy additional equipment, hire more people to pick up trash, repair streets, give service to the Water Department, add to our Police and Fire Departments, and, in general, add to the cost of doing business. However, these are only a few of the reasons for the City's costs going up and maybe there is such a thing as "false economy." In spite of all of the above, taxes in the City of Pampa have been reduced THREE times in the past FOUR years. Does it appear that we are "reaching into the Taxpayer's pockets"?

"In regard to the Master Plan and the rejection of this by the present Commission, here are the facts that have never been presented, nor asked for: In 1958, a group of 15 people headed by our former City Engineer, Mr. Ray Evans, was organized and called the City of Pampa Planning Commission. Their purpose, of course, was to take over some of these duties from the Commission and City employees and proceed to adopt a plan for the orderly growth and development of our City for an extended period of time. This group met several times and then resigned, stating that the job was too much for them and that it required the full time services of people qualified through education and experience to perform this service. They advised the City Commission to try and proceed on the basis of hiring a qualified person for this position. Then, after a plan was adopted, and only then, was the time to appoint a Planning Commission. At every opportunity, the Commission checked with various other cities regarding this problem and was advised in nearly all cases that the cost of hiring a full time Planning Engineer and staff would be prohibitive. They recommended a company regularly engaged in this type of work would save the City money in the long run. After due consideration and study, it was finally decided in the Spring of 1960 to call a public meeting of the people and present the facts to them for a decision. This meeting was held in the Palm Room of the City Hall. After wide publicity and numerous invitations to attend were made, some 60 people were present including the entire commission, City Engineer, City Manager, and other interested City Employees. In addition, Mr. von Zuben from the State Planning Office, was invited and spoke at this meeting. After explaining all of the mechanics and the necessity of such a Plan, the entire Commission expressed their individual concern and recommended this approach to our problem.

"Before asking the people present for their recommendation, I, as Mayor, advised them of two points for them to consider. First, the Plan, if adopted, was only a tool to be used or implemented, and that it would be a waste of the taxpayer's money unless we could count on the people to help after the Plan was completed. It was pointed out that the City's problem was not financial, inasmuch as the Commission had the authority to raise taxes to meet our obligations; however, our problem was always to get people to serve their community and that would be vital if this plan was undertaken. Second, it was pointed out that the people needed to consider the Federal aid possibility, inasmuch as the Commission needed their advice on this part. After due discussion and consideration, the entire group, with the exception of one man, went on record to advise the Commission to adopt a Master Plan for the orderly growth and development of our community for the next twenty years and to also ask for the Federal aid in regard to financial help. This was done and, of course, immediate study was made.

"The State Planning Department presented to the Commission a group of six or eight firms that were qualified to perform this work. We were told, upon questioning, that there were no local firms able to perform this duty whereupon we immediately asked for bids and entered into Contract with the firm selected and later fired by the present Commission. The rest is recent history and I present the above only to correct the impressions recently left with you. I sincerely believe the manner in which this was handled reflected not only against the former Commission but against the wishes of the people, and certainly did not help our credit rating nor our relations with various state departments.

"It appears that since their election certain members of the present Commission have tried to dig into the past and prove certain conditions existed that they have been unable to substantiate, such as the statements which appeared in the Pampa Daily News Tuesday, March 13, 1962. My conclusion is that they have been unable to find corruption or graft existing and half truths which may elevate themselves in the minds of some, but certainly tears down the good will and name of our City. We must now pick up the pieces as well as we can and try to rebuild the faith and confidence not only of our taxpayers and citizens, but the people all over the State.

"In answer to recent statements and accusations, I have never asked any Department Head or the City Manager to hire or fire anyone who works for the City. The only time the Commission ever took a part in personnel matters was when we were asked to and then the final decision was in the hands of the City Manager and the Department Head involved. I have never stated to anyone that the former City Manager was a "bad City Manager." What I have said at the time of hiring him and during the four years I served with him on the commission is a matter of record. I feel that this has no bearing on the current situation and is only another example of the petty things that are being injected into the thinking of our citizens, to help achieve the Commission's goals, whatever they may be.

"I, as a former City Commissioner and Mayor of the City of Pampa, make no apologies to anyone for my conduct, actions, decisions, or convictions. Whatever I did affected me as a citizen and taxpayer as much as it did anyone else. I was firmly convinced that what I did was right and was for the good of the community as a whole, not any particular group, section, or party. I remind you that the Good Lord gave us two ears in order to hear each side of every argument and the mentality to then make up our own minds; therefore, I beg of you to please ascertain the facts before jumping to conclusions and then vote your convictions."

Behind Scenes At Whitehouse

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: When James J. Rowley, chief of the U.S. Secret Service, testified recently before the House Appropriations subcommittee, he took along quite a shopping list for the upcoming fiscal year.

Among other things, Rowley asked for an increase of 58 agents and to put them into business, his shopping list included:

- 58 revolvers at $58 each (a slight discount for Uncle Sam).
- 58 briefcases at $12 each.
- 58 pair handcuffs at $8 each.

Thus we have the picture of the complete detective: gun, badge, handcuffs—and briefcase.

It is not true, however, that Secret Service men carry their briefcases when trailing suspected counterfeiters or protecting President Kennedy. The briefcases are for occasional sandwiches, spare shirts and the voluminous reports a federal agent must prepare on his activities.

Rowley's list neglected to mention the tiny little notebooks every agent has on his person at all times, particularly men assigned to protection of a President. They keep a detailed log of their activities as they relate to those of the Chief Executive. These logs figure in massive reports which are compiled and sent to Secret Service headquarters in the Treasury on every movement made by a President.

In fact, there's a sure-fire way of spotting an agent in a planload of people accompanying the President on a trip. At the instant of takeoff and landing, the agent whips out his notebook and jots down the time.

Aside from the new agents and their equipment, Rowley also asked Congress for other tools with which to protect the currency, the President and his family. His list included 42 new cars costing a total of $79,950 plus 23 short-wave car radios at $450 each; 10 dictaphones at $850 apiece; three lie detectors at $1,500 each and 4 Polaroid cameras.

There are currently three shifts of agents assigned to the White House for protection of the President, plus a small unit of men who divide their duties between protection of Mrs. Kennedy, Caroline and John, Jr. As the children grow older, and particularly when Caroline starts to school outside the White House, this will entail even more manpower.

Rowley would like to see a fourth shift added to the White House unit. These added men would be assigned primarily to advance work in connection with presidential trips and not the day-to-day schedule at the White House.

Currently this highly important advance inspection and planning must be done by men already stationed in the field or by borrowing agents from the three shifts on duty around the clock at the White House.

We Still Don't Know How Reds Brought Powers' U-2 Plane Down

EDITORS NOTE: During U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers' imprisonment by the Russians, a key mystery surrounded his successful flight: How was his high-altitude plane downed? Was the Soviet boast he was shot down by a new super-rocket correct? Did a flame-out force him down within range of Soviet fighter planes or conventional type anti-aircraft fire? Had the Russians developed a Mig capable of much higher flying than known before? The following dispatch, based on what Powers has said publicly and other information, seeks to answer these questions.

By NORMAN RUNNION
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In all the time Francis Gary Powers remained in a Russian prison cell, U.S. officials waited for the day he would return home and tell the real story of the destruction of his U2.

Powers now has been in the United States for more than a month. He has been questioned exhaustively by the Central Intelligence Agency, and made an appearance before a Senate committee.

From the public record, at least, no one still knows for sure how his plane was brought down.

The only theory advanced publicly is that voiced by Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga. He said the CIA believes the U2 was downed by a Soviet ground-to-air missile which scored a near miss, knocking the plane out of control.

But if Powers himself couldn't supply the real answer in public, he did clear up some speculation. He was not, apparently, shot down by a Russian Mig jet fighter. And he was not — also apparently — the victim of a "flame-out" of the U2's jet engine.

The Mig theory at one time seemed plausible in view of the doubt surrounding Russia's official claim that a rocket brought down the U2. Russia, it was thought at one time, didn't have a ground-based weapon powerful enough to hit a plane flying at 68,000 feet or about 13 miles high.

Some of the advanced Russian Migs do have a service ceiling of 55,000 to 60,000 feet, which in theory — could bring them up close to the U2. The speculation was that if such Migs were equipped with air-to-air rockets, might they have been able to hit the U2?

The answer is no. On May 1, 1960 — the date of Powers' flight — Russia did not have a plane or rocket that could do this.

In addition, it has been reported that Migs tried many times to get the U2s (although not Powers' plane) — and did not come close. Powers himself said last week that he saw Migs below him in the early stages of his flight, and believed they apparently had not spotted him.

Powers apparently also could not have been the victim of a plane other than a Mig. It's believed Russia has nothing capable of sustained flight at anywhere close to the altitudes at which the U2 can operate.

Another theory prevalent at one time was that Powers' plane may have suffered a jet flame-out at 68,000 feet and dropped to a lower altitude in an effort to re-ignite the engines. According to this theory, he may then have been shot down by conventional anti-aircraft guns or less-powerful rockets.

But Powers maintained in his public testimony that the "orange-colored" explosion at his plane's tail occurred at 68,000 feet.

Speaking as a veteran Air Force jet flyer, he also maintained that what happened was not a flame-out.

"Different aircraft react differently," he told the Senate Armed Services Committee last week. "In this particular airplane I had had flame-outs before. Sometimes there is a chugging of the engine, but you know what that is. There was no kind of an explosion accompanying that, and nothing that would give an orange light."

His testimony also indicated that the crash could not have been caused by internal trouble such as the failure of a jet blade.

In addition to all of this, Powers also has cleared up one other question — why he didn't destroy the U2 and its secret equipment before bailing out.

He said that the forces of gravity were so great as the plane spun earthward that he was pushed back and couldn't reach the switches.

The destruction package was a small explosive designed to blow up the U2's secret cameras. But it also probably would have resulted in breaking up the airplane at the same time.

And that, as far as the public knows, is what did NOT happen to the U2. What did happen may never be known.

Another theory prevalent at one time was that Powers' plane may have suffered a jet flame-out at 68,000 feet and dropped to a lower altitude in an effort to re-ignite the engines. According to this theory, he may then have been shot down by conventional anti-aircraft guns or less-powerful rockets.

But Powers maintained in his

Wall Street In Review

NEW YORK (UPI) — Viewing the market's action over the past week, Bache & Co. says it still sees no conclusive technical signs of important improvement in the short-term picture.

It concludes that while individual issues will continue to attract a following, the general list requires further preparation before attempting a significant upward move.

United Business Service says further market churning seems likely for now, but it expects stocks to resume their uptrend "in time."

Benson B. Sloan Jr. of Harris, Upham & Co. says it would appear that the market will remain cautious until investors have a clearer idea as to the eventual outcome of steel labor negotiations and confidence is restored as to the upward course of the business recovery, which has shown some signs of faltering in recent months.

How They Voted On Welfare Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Thursday defeated a Republican move to eliminate $140 million in budget-boosting welfare payments from a bill to reform the welfare program.

Texas Democrats who voted against the Republican action were Beckworth, Brooks, Burleson, Casey, Dowdy, Fisher, Gonzalez, Kilgore, Mahon, Patman, Purcell, Roberts, Rutherford, Teague, Thomas, Thompson, Thornberry, Wright and Young. Texas' only Republican congressman, Bruce Alger of Dallas, voted to eliminate the money.

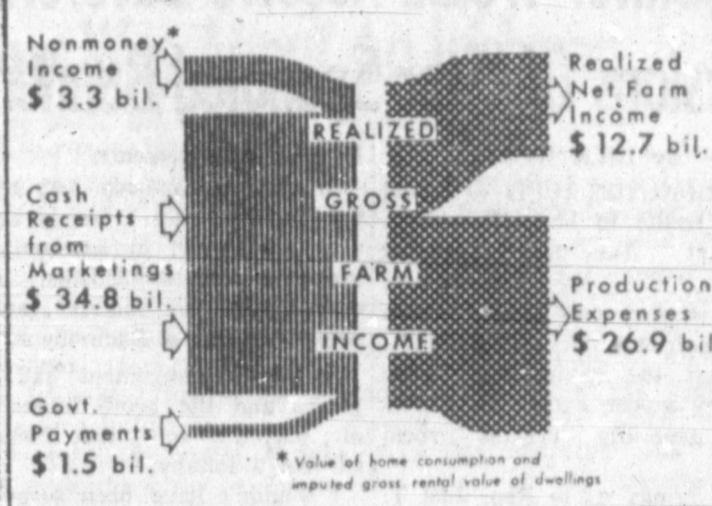

Texas Democrat, Walter Rogers of Pampa was not shown as voting but was paired for eliminating the money.

Under terms of the bill as approved by the House, Texas would receive another $12,610,000 yearly in federal welfare funds.

Foreign Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

From time to time the United States is bombarded by the propaganda of special opinion groups holding strong opinions on this or that, ranging from religion, to United States policy toward the Congo, to atomic testing.

Many have their basis in man's inhumanity to man.

A late example is the considerable difference of opinion generated by the conditional United States decision to resume atmospheric tests of nuclear weapons.

What follows here will be mostly quotes from an article appearing recently in a small publication called "War-Peace Report."

The publication is oriented toward the United Nations and the author of the article is reformer commanding general of tired Brig. Gen. J. H. Rothschild, the Army Chemical Corps Research and Development Command in charge of research in chemical, biological and radiological warfare.

The implications are not pleasant. Here are excerpts:

"There is nothing human about any method of warfare... (but) if you wish to arrange your weapons in order of humaneness, I believe the toxic weapons will come at the top of the list. A person injured short of death in biological and chemical warfare could generally expect to recover in a matter of a few weeks."

"One of the purposes (of chemical warfare) would be to cause panic and force diversion of valuable effort and material from more important tasks. An attack on one of our major cities would certainly accomplish this.

"A small dose of LSD 25... causes a person to become so confused mentally that he cannot carry out his normal functions. Other drugs can cause temporary paralysis, sleepiness, blindness, deafness, loss of balance, crying, diarrhea, vomiting and convulsions."

"Biological agents exist which can be used strategically to cause casualties in an area the width of a continent."

"Many germs are suitable... among those are dengue fever, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, yellow fever, Q fever, anthrax, undulant fever, rabbit fever..."

"We do not know the intentions of the Soviets. From all the information we can get, they have the capabilities to wage both germ and chemical war."

General Rothschild says that the preparation of chemical and biological weapons would defy any known inspection system.

He concludes that these, combined with nuclear weapons, make war in the future a "completely unacceptable method of solving world problems."

But he says the problem of toxic warfare cannot be swept under the rug.

"The dangers of mail order prescriptions include delays encountered in obtaining the medication, the absence of the physician-pharmacist relationship, the difficulties of checking the prescription files for strength and dosage, and the possibility that prescriptions will be filled by non-professional personnel. Legislator Would Resolve Different Versions Of 'Star Spangled Banner'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I hold these truths to be self-evident: —That "The Star Spangled Banner," when played by a band, is a stirring tune which starts your patriotic juices flowing.

—That the same song, when sung by anyone except Lucy Monroe, generally creates vocal chaos.

This brings us to Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, a Virginia Republican who is trying to persuade Congress to adopt an "official" version of the National Anthem.

In an effort to enlist support for his proposal, Broyhill Thursday obtained the use of Constitution Hall and arranged for the U.S. Army band to give a demonstration.

As Broyhill pointed out, when Congress formally designated "The Star Spangled Banner" as America's theme song in 1931, it failed to spell out exactly what "The Star Spangled Banner" is.

Opinions vary, as witness the fact that 171 different versions of it have been copyrighted. Even Francis Scott Key, who wrote the original lyrics, changed a word here and there in his later copies.

The melody, based on an English folk song, is subject to even wider interpretation. This was pointed out by the Army band, which played some of the more familiar arrangements. In one, the melody was overpowered by drum beats, giving it a jungle flavor. In another, the melody was embellished with counterpoint, so that it sounded something like a Bach fugue.

A third arrangement had the glares and the bomb bursts in air, played so softly that it sounded like a lullaby.

I wouldn't have been surprised to have heard a "Star Spangled Banner Cha-Cha."

The band then played its own arrangement, based on the version in the Broyhill bill. Here the regular brass section was augmented with herald trumpets, and it was a grand thing to hear, provided you don't have tender ears.

But when the last note died away, a little old lady, who identified herself later as Miss Tilly Sutor, age 96, of Baltimore, stood up in the audience and voiced a protest.

"No one can sing it," Miss Sutor complained, and I could only agree. Some of the notes were so high they would make my nose bleed.

The program ended with a Broyhill plea for unanimity, but somehow I doubt the conflict will ever be resolved. The only solution I can see is to have two National Anthems, one for instruments and one for voice.

There's Plenty Of Verbal Horseplay In New Mitchum, MacLaine Movie

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Bob Hope and Bing Crosby yes, but Bob Mitchum and Shirley MacLaine? — yes! There's verbal horseplay and even Indian arm wrestling on the set as they co-star in a movie. Uninhibited describes both of them and with spring in the air, well — I guess no psychiatrist will be needed to probe hidden meanings.

It started when they went to work together for the first time in "Two for the Seesaw," a comedy drama with more humor than drama.

"I thought," observed Shirley, "that you'd be a big, good-looking guy like you are on the screen."

"And I," returned Mitchum, "figured you were beautiful. What a shock."

It's been a seesaw of quips and gags ever since. Mitchum gave Shirley a rose-festooned backyard seesaw with a card reading, "To break your neck on."

Shirley gave Mitchum an old-fashioned ice box, (mentioned in the script) with a note: "Climb in. I promise you won't suffer long."

When Mitchum blew a line, Shirley asked: "Hey buster, did you read the script?" "No," replied Mitchum, "but I read my contract. It's great."

One of Mitchum's ad libs will be in the film, in which Shirley plays a Greenwich Village doll who fancies herself as a dancer and continually complains about her ulcer.

A photo of Shirley in a low-cut gown cued a whistle from Mitchum as per the script but then he added:

"I can see your ulcer from here."

Debbie Reynolds will become a grandma before becoming a mother in the fall. She ages to 60 for the concluding scenes of "How the West Was Won" . . . Vic Damone is seeing a lawyer about seeing his six-year-old son, now living in Rome with ex-wife Pier Angeli . . . Esther Williams and Ben Gage are having similar problems, with Esther living in Europe. It's a footnote to "runaway" movie production.

Symphonic Drama Will Draw Wide Interest To Palo Duro Canyon Area

Wales Madden, Jr., chairman of the Symphonic Drama Campaign, recently announced the appointment of Bob Clements as chairman of the Pattern Advance Division. The announcement came at a recent meeting of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

Symphonic drama, a huge historical story, is a significant combination of music, pageantry, movement, humor, and drama based on the history of the area where the action takes place.

"It is the most constructive plan ever presented to create statewide and national interest for Palo Duro Canyon, without injecting any type of commercialism into this historical landmark. Symphonic drama is a program that will attract additional tens of thousands to our area each summer. Tangible economic opening scenes of their latest movie, "If a Man Answers."

The witness: "He's so interested in his wife's happiness that he hired a private eye to find out who's responsible for it."

Not in the script: Comedian Jerry Van Dyke, when he spotted a couple sneaking out of the Tropicana Lounge in Las Vegas during his act: "I'm really packing 'em OUT tonight."

Louis Prima will introduce still another new feminine vocalist when he opens at the Sahara in Vegas May 29. As someone was saying to him when he and Keely Smith parted:

"You'll be sorry."

The Lennon Sisters will collect $10,000 for an appearance at the Winnipeg auto show. . . The Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation Development Fund was established to "recapture, recreate, and preserve the history of the Panhandle by presentation of a symphonic drama in a permanent theater in Palo Duro Canyon."

Paul Green, noted author, playwright, and originator of symphonic drama, will write the script for the story of the history of the Texas Panhandle. Symphonic drama in the Panhandle marks the first major step in the development of the area arts by the Amarillo Area Foundation.

Clements, a long-time civic leader and retired businessman, is Chairman of the 21-member Board of Directors of the Amarillo Area Foundation.

He is a past president of the Texas Manufacturers Association, the Amarillo Rotary Club, a past Director of the National Association of Manufacturers, General Chairman of the 1951 United Fund Drive, and was president of the United Fund Board of Directors in 1952.

The campaign goal of $350,000 will be used to build the outdoor theater at the base of a 600-foot bluff in the Canyon, and to launch symphonic drama in the Panhandle, the first to be presented west of the Mississippi.

Pure Coincidence 'Dr. Kildare' TV Show Was About An Irishman

By RICK DU BROW

United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It is a coincidence, of course, that Thursday night's "Dr. Kildare" show on NBC-TV told of a hard-drinking Irish poet who flees a hospital for a pub — the exact same thing that boozing playwright Brendan Behan did six days ago in Dublin.

Only the most cynical of men would think there was a connection between the two events; or stress the fact that actor Dan O'Herlihy, who portrayed the poet, was according to his press agent, a boyhood-friend of Behan in Dublin.

The press agent pleads innocence, while over at NBC informed sources report that the whole thing is unquestionably a St. Patrick's Day miracle. And on this eve of St. Paddy's Day, who would deny that?

The show, titled "The Roaring Boy-O," got off to a rousing start with a first-class barroom brawl begun by O'Herlihy, who played his part with the assurance of a man who had been there before.

After the brawl was over O'Herlihy wound up in Kildare's hospital. There, so the audience would have little doubt about whom his character was modeled after, he was described as a writer whose wild exploits had been in newspapers across the country.

All that the poet wants is a drink. "They're killin' me with sedatives," he roars.

Finally, he sneaks out of the hospital in a wheelchair, heads for a pub and sets off one of the finest chases ever seen on television.

Alf Landon Is On Campaign Trail Again

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Alf Landon is on the campaign trail again. His cause this time is free trade and the Kennedy administration's moves to align the United States with the European Common Market. Much to the surprise of many old friends in the Republican party, the GOP standard-bearer of 1936 is all in favor of lowering the U.S. tariff wall. A reporter who knows Landon well describes the man and his crusade in the following dispatch.)

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY
United Press International
TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — Rain, snow or sunshine, Alfred Mossman Landon, 74, begins each day with a brisk five-mile horseback ride up and down the Kansas River. To travelers on U.S. 40 the elderly horseman is a startling sight at dawn.

Now Landon is riding out to do battle on a political subject of national concern — and to many of his old colleagues in the Republican party, this is startling, too.

For the subject of Alf Landon's crusade is free trade.

With all the enthusiasm of a younger campaigner, Landon is going all-out to win support for one of President Kennedy's top priorities (and most controversial) legislative proposals: an economic alliance with the European Common Market.

Landon makes his speech to anyone who'll drop in to share a hamburger and cup of coffee at his favorite lunch stand in downtown Topeka.

"A reduction in tariff protection will ultimately be good for the nation as a whole and I plan to support the proposal to the bitter end," says Landon.

"A lowering of American tariffs appears to me to be the only way we can unify the Western nations against Communist trade plans."

Make a note here that this is quite a position for Landon, 1936 leader of a Republican party which traditionally campaigned for high tariffs.

Is he turning his back on the party?

"There's no politics involved in my feelings on trade," says Landon. And he goes on to point out that he espoused the cause last October — before President Kennedy unveiled his own position to Congress. For Landon, the clincher was Britain's decision to join in on the big continental free trade area.

How does he square his campaign with his own business as an independent oilman, a business which generally believes free import policies will hurt it?

"Sure, this thing will hit me in the pocketbook," he says. "But like I said before, I'm not taking a political or personal line."

"Who knows, if we don't get the ball rolling, the Common Market may cut us off completely — and then where would we be?"

In 1936, Landon was the champion of sitting still, whether he intended himself that way or not. He was the political opponent of FDR's New Deal. He was the enemy of unbridled presidential power.

If he now adamantly favors giving the President — a Democratic president — the considerable power to lower tariffs, it's not exactly unprecedented.

When the Korean war broke, Landon was one of the first statesmen to express complete support for President Truman's decision to send U.S. troops into action.

He later spoke out against the "brinkmanship" policies attrib-

Film Actor Startles Indian Extras By Realistic Portrayal Of Gandhi

By PATRICK J. KILLEN
United Press International
NEW DELHI (UPI) — The figure of Mahatma Gandhi is walking in the evening again in the garden where he was assassinated.

Here are the same bald head; big ears; steel-rimmed glasses perched on a large nose; protruding lips under a small, bristly mustache, ganging legs beneath a white loin cloth and stooped shoulders covered by a white shawl.

The figure moves haltingly, leaning for support on the shoulders of two sari-clad women. Indians in all walks of life touch his sandaled feet and his garments. He spreads his arms in benediction.

The scene could have been in the 1940's when Gandhi was holding evening prayer meetings and leading the campaign for India's independence.

Actually, it is a scene from a film, the first motion picture about Gandhi's life allowed by the Indian Government since his death 14 years ago.

The movie is "Nine Hours to Rama (God)" produced and directed by Mark Robson. It is largely a suspense film, with Jose Ferrer in the role of an Indian police superintendent who has nine hours in which to stop Gandhi's assassination by an Indian youth played by Horst Buchholz.

Perhaps the greatest impact of the film, however, is the brief appearance of Gandhi's figure in two scenes. One shows his intimates trying to talk him out of attending the regular prayer meeting because of a suspected plot on his life. He refuses, as always, to bow to violence. The other sequence is his assassination, played out in the garden of "Birla House," actual scene of his death in New Delhi.

Gandhi's figure is that of 65-year-old J. S. Casshyap, a former school teacher turned film producer, who acts as a sideline. With a bean-sized bit of nose putty as his only makeup, his resemblance to Gandhi is startling.

I watched the figure's first appearance in the garden. About 600 Indians picked off the streets as extras were obviously moved. A reverent silence fell on them. Some reached out and touched "Gandhi" as he passed, long before the cameras started to turn.

"I felt their reaction," Casshyap said. "It was something strange and wonderful and I unconsciously spread my hands to bless them. I've been trying to compose my heart and mind for this part for a long time. It's dif-icult to portray such a man as Gandhi."

Robson also was impressed by the reaction of Indians to filming of the Gandhi story.

"I never knew it would be this great," he said. "But this man was Christ in India. It's like making a film on the life of Christ, but shooting it just a decade or so after his death, among his own people in Jerusalem."

Washington Window

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agonizing appraisal is the right phrase for what now confronts the people and the Congress of the United States.

The people and the Congress must decide, and soon, what shall be done about:

—Buying $100 million of United Nations bonds to protect that international organization from bankruptcy and, probably, collapse.

—Committing U. S. taxpayers to contribute $20 billion to raise the living standards of South and Central Americans.

The bond purchase is pending in Congress. The $20 billion Alliance for Progress contribution to Latin America already is under way. Popular and congressional opposition to both projects is considerable.

President Kennedy proposed the AFP program a year ago. The $20 billion was to be contributed over a period of 10 years. Nearly $1 billion already has been advanced. Receiving nations were to become eligible for such aid only on effecting reform or reorganization of their agricultural, tax and related institutions.

The receiving nations were to reorganize their economic order to create internal conditions calculated to make it possible for a vast transfusion of Yankee money actually to improve the Latin American living standards. The Latin Americans are dragging their heels against their own reform programs. They also are showing annoyance that the distribution of funds is not as fast as they would like.

The Congress must provide the AFP money. The agonizing appraisal confronting Congress must determine whether the United States should proceed with this international charity even though receiving nations fail to achieve the stipulated reorganization of their economies. It will be a difficult decision.

The United States has an objective more basic to its own welfare than merely to raise Latin American living standards. That objective is to help establish in Latin America a climate less suitable for the spread of communism than the climate now existing. Communism thrives on misery, disease, illiteracy, poverty, semi-starvation. Latin America has them all. Communism thrives especially in a social and economic order in which the masses of the people are without hope.

Kennedy's AFP is intended to give the masses reason to hope. The big question, of course, is this: will AFP help at all if the Latin Americans do not also help themselves? Congress must answer that.

The bond issue dispute is similar. Does the welfare of the United States need and demand a continuing United Nations? If the answer to that is in the affirmative, the proposed $100 million bond purchase is peanuts.

the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives. It is my hope that it will soon be approved by the full Judiciary Committee. It should then be passed upon promptly by both Houses of the Congress and laid on the desk of the President of the United States, regardless of who he is or what party he represents. Until this matter is finally determined by the Representatives of the people of this country, it will not have been passed upon by more than one Branch of our Government. Certainly the Legislative Branch and the Executive Branch should assume their full responsibilities in the determination of this vital question.

Walter Rogers Reports

H. R. 3 AGAIN

On June 24, 1959, the House of Representatives passed a Bill numbered H. R. 3. This Bill had a deliberate and primary purpose to prevent Federal laws from striking down and over-riding State laws in the absence of an irreconcilable conflict, unless the Congress affirmatively stated the contrary. H. R. 3 was called by the popular title "The States' Rights Bill". Its author was the Honorable Howard Smith of Virginia, Chairman of the Rules Committee of the House.

The need for this legislation grew out of the application of the doctrine of Federal preemption by the United States Supreme Court. H. R. 3 simply provides that no act of Congress shall be construed as indicating an intent on the part of the Congress to occupy the field in which such act operates, to the exclusion of all State laws on the same subject matter, unless such act contains an express provision to that effect, or unless there is a direct and positive conflict between such act and a State law so that the two cannot be reconciled or constantly stand together.

It has long been the recognized rule that acts of Congress take precedence over State laws where there is an irreconcilable conflict between the two. It has only been in recent years that the application of this doctrine has been extended to the nullification of State laws by the mere existence of a Federal statute, and where there is no conflict and where the Congress has not so expressed itself in the act being construed. H. R. 3 simply spells out the proper application of the doctrine. It would not change the law where there is an irreconcilable conflict between a Federal statute and a State law. It would not change the law where Congress, in passing an act, expressly stated that it was the intention of the Congress that the act superseded all State laws in that field. It would nullify the decisions of the Supreme Court which have struck down State laws not in irreconcilable conflict with Federal law and when the Federal law does not expressly preempt the field.

Probably the most famous case involved and the one that prompted the introduction of H. R. 3 was the Stevie Nelson Case. The Steve Nelson Case decision nullified a Pennsylvania sedition statute on the basic theory that the Federal Government had preempted the field between passage of the Smith Act of 1940 and various other Federal statutes dealing with National Security. It is a strange coincidence that the author of the Smith Act referred to here is the same Howard Smith of Virginia who is author of the present H. R. 3. Certainly Congressman Smith never intended that the Smith Act of 1940 should be so construed by the Supreme Court as to result in nullifying sedition laws in 42 states. Congressman Smith has always been one of the leading advocates of States' Rights. He is a southern gentleman of the highest degree, and a man who has always subscribed to the dual sovereignty form of government with complete separation of powers as provided under the Constitution. Those of us who have supported him in his long and difficult fight to correct the decisions of the Supreme Court in this particular are looking forward to many obstacles and difficulties. It is true that we were successful in passing H. R. 3 on June 24, 1959, by the vote of 229 to 192.

It is regrettable that further action was not had during that session of the Congress in the Senate. Whether or not the lack of action at that time was due in whole or in part to the vigorous opposition to the measure expressed by the then President Eisenhower, I do not know, but I do know that this is a measure of tremendous importance insofar as the basic policy of government in this country is concerned.

H. R. 3 is AGAIN before the Congress and has been recently approved by a subcommittee of

Alston Not Buying N.L. Pennant Talk

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Manager Walter Alston isn't buying all this pennant talk about the Los Angeles Dodgers. "He remembers all too well that the Dodgers were favored last spring too, and wound up second to the Cincinnati Reds. "I kept warning then, and I'm doing the same now, that we have to have a lot of our kids come through if we are going to win," he says. "They didn't come through last year. "I'll admit we have the talent to go all the way. But again it's a question of whether our kids are going to find themselves. There is no question about it, we have the arms, the legs and the bats. However with a young club like this one, you never can be sure. "Maybe we've appraised some of our youngsters too highly. I doubt it. This year should tell." The youngsters who have to do the job are the Davis boys, Tommy and Willie, Frank Howard, Ron Fairly, Larry Burditt and Joe Moeller, among others. Burditt and Moeller are rookies. Tommy and Willie Davis, no relation, are speed merchants who can go and get 'em in the field, but haven't come through as expected at bat, Howard, who many believed would be the majors' new home run king, has proved awkward in the field and also has failed to come through at the plate. Fairly did everything he was asked to do, hitting .322 but this year he might be expected to fill the first base job, if Howard cannot make it there. The betting is that Howard won't fill the bill. The Dodgers traded away their second baseman, Charlie Neal,

Colorado Gridiron Longhorns In Strong Finish To Tie 'Cats Coach Is Fired

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — The University of Colorado board of regents fired head football coach Everett (Sonny) Grandelius Saturday, three months after he coached Colorado to its first big eight championship. The regents took the action in a resolution charging the 31-year-old Grandelius with "flagrant violation" of the rules of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and with misrepresenting the facts about the situation to university officials. The regents' 90-minute meeting and refused to say anything during or after the session. But his attorney said court action was "contemplated." The regents voted, 5-1, to terminate Grandelius' contract on March 1, 1962, and give him a year's paid leave of absence until then. The contract would have run through 1966. The group cited as its authority for terminating the contract a letter from CU president Quigg Newton to all coaches March 20, 1961. The letter, read verbatim Saturday into the resolution under which Grandelius was fired, warned that any violations of the big eight conference or NCAA rules "will be considered to have nullified any agreement pertaining to (a coach's) future connection with this university." The resolution went on to say: "In view of the incontestable evidence of flagrant violation of the NCAA rules and regulations, and university policies, and the deliberate and consistent misrepresentation of facts, the board of regents has reluctantly concluded that the employment of head coach Everett Grandelius should be terminated, effective March 1, 1962, with leave of absence in the interim." The regents said it had been learned a "secret slush fund" was administered by Grandelius, but that he denied its existence. "He flatly and, as is now evident, falsely denied knowledge of rule violations or secret fund," the resolution said. Grandelius' attorney, Anthony F. Zarlengo of Denver, urged the regents to table the resolution until Grandelius could be given a hearing. "I have never seen such a flagrant violation of all the rules of decency as we are about to witness here," Zarlengo said. The resolution said the investigation leading to the firing began with the presentation of NCAA charges against Colorado last Nov. 14. The NCAA charged Colorado had committed 17 specific infractions of NCAA rules.

Stewart, Clark Star In Opening Diamond Win

By DICK RABE
News Sports Editor
Mike Clark pitched a nifty three-hitter for Pampa in the first game of their doubleheader with Hereford Saturday afternoon as the Harvesters won the opening game of their doubleheader at the Pampa Optimist Park, 1-0. The Harvesters lost the second game, 13-6. Clark notched his second win in a row and his second victory of the young season Saturday in the first game for the Harvesters. The tall senior righthander has given up but three hits in the last two games, having tossed six innings of no-hit ball against Dumas last weekend on home ground. Clark is now 2-1 on the season. Mike Stewart was the hero in the first game along with Clark. The senior catcher drilled a run-scoring single through the box in the bottom half of the sixth inning to score Howard Reed from second base with the game's only run. Reed had walked and advanced down to second base, on a single by John Arthur. Clark fanned six men to give him a total of 16 strike-outs in the last two contests. In the second game, the visitors built up an early 12-0 lead, but the Harvesters roared back in the fifth inning with five big runs to narrow the margin to 12-5. Pampa added a single run in the final inning, but the damage had been done and the local crew had to settle for a split for the afternoon. Big Dee Wright started the second game for the Harvesters but was shelled out in the first inning. Wright faced 10 men in the initial stanza, walking five men and giving up a pair of singles good for five runs before being yanked. Bobby Price, a fireballing sophomore who has seen limited action for coach Deck Woldt this year, came in to the game in relief and finished up the remainder of the contest. Hereford chalked up five runs each in the first and second innings and then added two more in the third before the fireworks settled down. Price held the White-

Thousands Arriving For Sebring Classic

SEBRING, Fla. (UPI) — Thousands from all over the western world began arriving here this weekend for the 11th running of the Sebring 12-hour sports car endurance race, a major event on the international road racing circuit. By the time the marathon car race begins at 10 a.m. (EST) next Saturday the population of this 8,000-resident town will be doubled, tripled or maybe quadrupled. Sixty-five cars will compete in the event that counts points in three areas of international sports car competition and in which the fastest cars and the best grand prix drivers will fight it out over a twisting 5.2-mile road course—a route noted the world over as a wrecker of highly-tuned racing machinery. The world's top drivers will be here—world champion Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif.; Stirling Moss, the Englishman considered the fastest man on a road course today; Olivier Gendebien, Belgium, like hill a three-time winner here; young Rodriguez brothers, Pedro and Ricardo of Mexico City; Dan Gurney, Costa Mesa, Calif.; Jo Bonnier, Sweden, Innes Ireland, Scotland; Walt Hansgen, Westfield, N. J.; Roger Ward, former Indianapolis 500 winner, Indianapolis, Ind. and Roger Penske, sports car ace from Villanova, Pa. They'll be seated in the hottest sports cars—grand touring (GT) and prototypes—man has ever built. The field of squat prototypes, designs where production is less than 100 units, includes the famed blood-red Italian Ferraris, Italian Maseratis, green English Lotus, silver German Porschers, and a sprinkling of cars from OSCA, Elva and Chapparral. Undisputed favorite team for the overall win is Moss and Ireland, who will drive a V8, 2.5 liter Ferrari prototype for the North American racing team (NART) of New York City, which will carry the colors for the Ferrari factory of Modena, Italy, in this race. The same car must be considered the favorite in the new area of sports car racing, challenge Mondial de Vitesse de D'Endurance, for prototype up to 4 liters. An American car hasn't won the 12-hour race since a Cunningham C4R driven by John Fitch

Yanks Win Again Topping Dodgers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Tony Gonzalez paced a late inning attack righthander Bob Gibson Saturday in the Philadelphia Phillies snapped a three-game losing streak by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-3. After southpaw Ray Sadecki blanked the Phils on two hits for five innings, Philadelphia cuffed Gibson for seven hits and five runs the next three rounds. Gonzalez drove in two runs with a single and triple. TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Bob Purkey, Jim Brosnan and rookie Bob Miller teamed up to toss a four-hitter Saturday as the National League champion Cincinnati Reds shut out the Washington Senators 2-0. The Reds, in scoring their third victory in eight grapefruit league outings, collected only five hits off Senator righthander Bennie Daniels and Tom Cheney. LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Pitchers Eloy Face and Diomedes Oliva knocked in two runs apiece Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the Detroit Tigers, 7-1, before 2,666 fans at Henley Field. The victory evened Pittsburgh's spring record at 3-4 the loss was Detroit's third straight and the Tigers are now 3-4. FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The undefeated New York Yankees continued to ride roughshod over their grapefruit league opponents Saturday, making it seven in a row by beating the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-5. A sellout crowd of 7,365 watched the world champions pile up an early lead on starter Don Drysdale, thanks to an erratic defense which contributed three errors, a balk and a wild pitch.

Colt 45's Short On Good Hitting

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (UPI) — The new Houston club of the National League has more than $3 million invested in ballplayers. And the best thing the Colts have to show for it is something in the way of defense. Houston may have the 45s, but they're not loaded. The infield is set with Norm Larker and Dick Gernert at first base, Joe Amalfitano at second, Don Buddin at shortstop and Bob Aspromonte at third, Bob Lillis is the utility man, and, as Harry Craft stresses, he doesn't have to apologize for the infield. Perhaps the most interesting story at Geronimo Park here is Von McDaniel trying out as a third baseman. This is the same lad who five years ago broke in so auspiciously as a pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals. Manager Craft is long on outfielders who can shag the ball—Roman Mejias, Al Heist, Al Spangler, Don Taussig, Jim McDaniel and Jack Waters. All of them have played center field and Jim Busby may always be placed on the active list instead of being a coach. Hal Smith, obtained from Pittsburgh, is an established catcher. Merritt Ranew is a bright catching prospect and Clint Courtney is in reserve.

Pampa Golfers Finish Sixth In First Round Of District Action

Pampa High school's golfers managed a sixth place finish in the first round of the district competition in Plainview Saturday afternoon with a score of 328. Plainview led the pack with a total of 309. Pampa boys and their individual results Saturday included Leonard Hudson, 80; Bryan Prigmore, 81; Gary Stanfield, 83; Johnny Hatcher, 84 and Freddy Howard, 86. Jerry Ferrell of Plainview was medalist Saturday with a score of 73. Other teams and their results included Palo Duro, second, 319; Borger, third, 318; Monterey, fourth, 317; Tascosa, fifth, 315; Amarillo High, seventh, 317 and Lubbock, eighth, 330. The second round of the district meet, will take place next weekend in Borger.

Matson Sets Another Record In Shot Put At Odessa Meet

Randy Matson maintained his record setting pace once again Saturday afternoon by breaking the shot put mark in the Odessa relays. Matson broke the relays mark in the preliminaries Friday night with a heave of 55 feet 3/4 inches and then broke his own record Saturday afternoon by tossing the 12-pound ball 58 feet 3 1/2 inches in the finals. The old record was 54 feet 1/4 inch set last year by Robert Sandlin of Andrews. Pampa finished in a tie for 12th place with Brownfield with five points, all scored by Matson's winning throw. Tascosa won the high school division with 8 1/2 points.

Smith Wins In Stock Car Race

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — Jack Smith of Spartanburg, S. C., pushed his 1961 Pontiac to an average speed of 58.978 miles an hour on 200 dusty laps here Saturday to win the first annual St. Patrick's Day 100-mile stock car race. A winning time of one hour, 41 minutes and 45 seconds was posted as caution flags slowed the 16-car field on three different occasions. Another Spartanburg driver, Cotton Owens, in a 1960 Pontiac, finished in second place just a half-lap behind Smith. Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., failing in a bid to overtake Owens, finished third.

Dijkstra Winner Of Skate Title

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) — Blonde, buxom Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland Saturday night captured the Ladies World Figure Skating Championship with a solid but not outstanding free skating performance. Miss Dijkstra's success marked the first non-American title win since 1954. The United States has had a virtual monopoly on the women's title for the past seven years — Carol Heiss won it five times and Tenley Albright twice.

Taylor Is Named As Top College Mentor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fred Taylor who once gave up a promising professional baseball career for a handyman's coaching job at Ohio State, today was named the United Press International college basketball coach of the year for the second straight season. The 35-year-old native of Zanesville, Ohio, spent four years in the minor leagues, hitting 22 home runs for Beaumont of the Texas League in 1953. Even though he was considered a fine prospect, Taylor quit baseball to take over as freshman basketball and baseball coach at Ohio State. "The move proved to be a wise one, for just five years later he was named varsity basketball coach. Then began a streak of four seasons in which Taylor's teams won 86 games and lost only 16, including three trips to the NCAA tournament and two national championships. The Buckeyes won 23 of 24 games during the past season to rate the No. 1 ranking of the UPI board of coaches for the second year in a row. That record earned Taylor 79 of the 181 ballots cast in a nationwide poll of basketball writers and radio television broadcasters, for coach of the year honors. Adolph Rupp, who guided Kentucky to a surprise 22-2 season, was runnerup with 30 votes, while Johnny Wooden of UCLA and Ed

Greens Win Over Gold Team, 22-14

Charlie Snuggs scored two touchdowns Friday afternoon to lead the Green team to a 22-14 victory over the Gold squad at the high school stadium. The game climaxed spring training for the sophomore griders. Keith Griffith added the final Green TD and together with Snuggs were perhaps the best boys offensively on either team. Up front, Charles Scribner shone on the forward wall. The score at the half was 16-6, in favor of the Green. April 30 the juniors and seniors will don the pads and join in their annual three weeks of head-knocking.

Pampa Netmen In Loss To Spearman

Pampa High school's netmen lost out to Spearman Thursday afternoon for their second match loss this year. They have one tie thus far. Don Collins and Jerry Thomas teamed to win their boys doubles match, 6-2, 6-2 while Collins won his singles match, also, 6-2, 6-3. Charles Ashby lost his two single matches, however, 2-6, 0-6 and then lost out again, 2-6, 3-6. The girls also fell by the wayside, with Donna Walsh and Jerry Edmondson losing 4-8, 18-6, 4-8. Miss Hawkins also lost her singles match to Judy McClain, 1-4, 3-6.

faces bats in check the remainder of the game, allowing but one run the rest of the way. Friday, the Harvesters nailed down their second win of the year and their second straight over Dumas, 5-2. Jerry Glover was both the pitching and the batting hero for the local crew, giving up but five hits and two runs on the mound and belting three extra-base hits with the lumber. Glover slammed a pair of home runs and a triple and batted in three runs to help his own cause and provide the margin of victory over the Demons. It was Glover's first victory of the year. He has yet to lose. Pampa is now 3-2 on the year.

Golfers Are Not Playing Game By Book Anymore

United Press International MIAMI (UPI)—Not one feeble per cent of the nation's millions of golfers play the game by the rule book Lighthorse Harry Cooper of the plus Doral Country Club insisted today.

There was some consternation raised in this corner some time back when Joe Dey, executive secretary of the U.S. Golf Association, was quoted as saying that 96 per cent played dishonestly. What Dey actually said was that only 2 per cent played it strictly honest.

Lighthorse Harry cuts that squarely in half and will make it even less than one per cent if you put the pressure on him.

"We in golf are concerned primarily with speeding up play," says Cooper, one of the golfing greats who is summer time pro at New York's Metropolitan Country Club. "We should be more concerned with making people play the game by the book."

Aside from the pros, and the top amateurs, who really are only a drop in the golfing bucket, Old Fearless will make you a bet that if you pick out any average four-some you will find every member breaking the rules in one manner or another. With some it is unintentional. With most it is strictly intended.

Play the same ball from tee to cup, the rules say. How many do? Don't ground your club in a sand trap, not even on your backswing. Don't give it that winter rules jazz. It's a laughable situation unless you happen to be the one out of every hundred who is trying to adhere to the rules.

"I will bet you that, aside from the pros and the top amateurs, there isn't one per cent of the nation's players who have read the rules book from cover to cover," says Cooper, the 1937 Vardon Trophy winner, "and no more than 10 per cent of the people who play golf have even a 'fair' idea of the rules of golf."

There is nothing "fair" about golf tournaments in Florida, a of fleece or be fleeced.

As example, at a recent pro-am golf tournament in Florida, a player was reminded that he had 16 clubs in his bag although the rule book says in cold black print that there should be only 14.

"What are you," asked the player, "a cop?"

Then, at the end of nine holes, when his driver wasn't performing properly, he told the caddy to take it to the clubhouse and get his other driver from his locker.

"You can't change clubs in the middle of a round," he was told.

"Why don't you go heckle somebody else?" he said truculently.

This was a "top" amateur player, who, by all the rules, should have known them.

"Golf pros are always giving clinics," Cooper said. "Well, twice a year at my club I get the players together and have a clinic on rules. It's a shame that this practice isn't followed at more clubs. Because what we need above anything else is a little more, I won't say honesty, but at least a little more willingness to follow the written rules of a game that is too fine a sport to be put into

Houk Wonders If Maris To Change

United Press International FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Ralph Houk, during the days when he was a sometime catcher for the New York Yankees and regarded by many as a heap of dead kindling, realized something that Roger Maris may have to learn.

The major now directs the Yankee battalions with a suave, easy-going geniality, despite the lump of tobacco in his jaw. His is a command which he wears with befitting and becoming aplomb.

"But there were times," he admits of the days before he became manager, "when I sat in a corner for long periods of time and nobody came around to talk to me."

It could happen to Maris, the most pursued man of 1961.

Because all of a sudden he thinks he's another Ted Williams.

There are two ways of looking at such a self representation. First of all, despite those 61 home runs last season, anybody in baseball will give you 10-1 that Roger is only a fairly faint facsimile of the Splendid Splinter. Williams was a hitter, and you can put that word in capital letters, Maris as a team hitter leaves more than somewhat to be desired.

Big deal. A touch football player who once piloted an explosive speed boat talks to us about his plans to protect the lives of 180 million people because he thinks it's important that the people know what's going on. Before him, a golfing fellow went through the same routine. Another speed crazy guy whipped up into orbit and back and didn't feel that he was too big to answer a lot of silly questions.

They're not even getting big fees for endorsing bubble gum, appearing on television programs, suggesting that the neighborhood kids quit using that "goop" on their hair, peddling razor blades and having their names emblazoned on sweatshirts.

All at a fancy price.

As a man who puts the potatoes on the table by writing about sports—and the men who are in them—and has been doing so since before Maris was even known in his home town—I find his whole big-headed attitude rather insufferable. Not because of the sportswriters he scorns. But because of the kids in Keokuk or Kankakee who read all the slushy lagniappe which those same sportswriters dish out about him while gagging over this puling pabulum.

For a man who belabored the ball at a rather anemic 269 clip, I would have to think that Maris has a rather swollen idea of his importance. Sports are grand fun when kept in their proper perspective, but if either of my two sons was a hero, I hope it's a modest fellow named John Glenn who went for the circuit when it really counted.

Because guys like Maris bat a round zero with me.

Reds Manager Ponders Again

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Freddie Hutchinson is a man wandering through a world of make believe, unable to comprehend that last season really happened and wondering whether by some freak of fate it could come up again.

Freddie only likes to remember last season up to a point, the days when his scorned Cincinnati Reds won the National League pennant and before they lost the World Series to the New York Yankees. The ones since then have been a kind of a nightmare.

"All I've heard since then has been what happened to the Reds," he admitted.

Hutch, a rugged, powerful man with a jutting jaw and a stern exterior which hides a warm friendliness, has a ready answer. "My standard reply is that we didn't hit," he shrugged.

Not even Hutchinson, he'll confess under pressure, believed last spring that his Reds would win the flag.

"If I said yes, I'd be lying," he grinned, "but I did think we could move up. And I feel the same way about it this season. Of course, we haven't looked good in spring training."

"But then," somebody interrupted, "you didn't look good last spring, either."

"No," Hutch said honestly. "But that's last year. This is a different season."

Yet he doesn't believe that the whomping his Reds took in the Series will have an adverse psychological effect.

"Why should it?" he drowned. "after all, we had our share of bad series all through the season. Actually we should have more pride and confidence. We should have gained stature. Remember, we led the league for quite a while last year. So when we went into a town we got their best, no humpty-dumpties. We faced their front line pitchers and players."

Hutch already has had a jolt this spring. Third baseman Gene Freese suffered a fractured right ankle. It was complicated by torn ligaments and a dislocation, requiring a two hour and 40 minute operation.

"I feel real bad for him," said Hutch, typically worrying more about the player than about what it might be doing to his managerial hopes. "He's 28 and if he should miss the whole year there's no telling whether he'll be able to make it back to the top. Still, I'd bet on Gene. He's a very determined fellow."

The one happy surprise for the Reds this spring has been the showing of Sammy Ellis, a 20-year-old out of Memphis State who in a half season with Columbia last season pitched five shutouts.

"We're deep in pitching," Freddie allowed, "but if he keeps it up, we'll have to make room for him, one way or another."

HOW THE GOLD-MINERS OF '49 would have loved the fashions this year... "that's" gold in nearly every wardrobe closet this year... there's gold under bridge tables... at Morning Coffees... afternoon club sessions... downtown shopping... who would have ever thought that this color... always associated with gala evening affairs would catch on for everyday wear?... but it has and with a fervor!... it is such a gay color... we noticed that the trend has even caught on in the automobile world... just looking at the new fashion or wearing it... gives such a lift to our spirits... we almost feel like "Klondike Kate" when we step out in our golden "yaller" slippers.

Little progress can be made by merely attempting to repress what is evil; our great hope lies in developing what is good. — Calvin Coolidge

API BALL... and it was one... this is the one social affair of the year for the American Petroleum Institute... and departure from its usual meetings wherein knowledgeable speakers impart technical and valuable information concerning the oil world... also, it is the one evening of the year that members cast off their usual, staid pursuit of business and pursue partners across the dance floor... and they come from far and near... Amarillo, Borger... and, of course, locally... heard that members of the Keweenaw Oil Co. had enough members and guests last Friday night for a quorum of fun... there was an attractive Keweenaw couple there, who are newcomers to the city... Pete and Betty Blanda, who moved here around the first of the year from Kansas... they've bought the former Dale Thut home on Mary Ellen... Barbara Turnbo, who's the prettier half of the Turnbo team, was a dream in an all-white dance frock with an eye-catching pair of pyramid-shaped earrings of rhinestones and pearls... this little gal is a poetess, too... we remember reading a poem she wrote several years ago about "Christmas Day at the Turnbos"... her husband, Nate, who is one of the officers in the API organization is quite a dancer, too... he seems to love every minute of it... the Cal Shows were over here from Borger... and there was a guest, John Tatlock from Great Bend, Kansas... Esther and Ben Ray were over from Amarillo... Joan and Jim Smith... Don and Angie Fry... Charlie and Pat Norton... Al and Alice Ann Knox... Paul and Carolyn Wiley... among a lot of others were holding up the Pampa tradition for wonderful hospitality... a lot of the members of this organization are also members of the AIME... which has circled April 20 for its Gala in the Amarillo Country Club... so there will just be time for everyone to get rested up for that one!

As to people saying a few idle words about us, we must not mind that any more than the old church steeple minds the rooks cawing about it. — George Eliot

AFTER THE BALL is over... there are always housework chores to do, aren't there?... thumbing through a ladies' magazine this week we came across a few bon mots, which we wish we had thought of years ago... for instance, when you iron flatwork, turn the ironing board around so that the iron rests on the narrow end of the board... this gives more ironing surface for the large pieces... why, of course!... and an "easy does it" way to wash venetian blinds is to wear a soft, heavy sock on each hand... dip one in detergent and the other in the clear water... and just wipe away... and did you know that if you are in the process of putting up windows... a simple way to do it is to mix the putty with paint of the color you want... this way, it saves painting later... and if you're looking for an elegant hair set liquid... a new hairdressing salon in New York innovated one by using champagne... it is suppose to give a new effervescent brilliance bordering onto a halo effect... and it leaves no odor and no residue... hmmm mmmmm?... just call us, Helpful Hannah!

A life spent worthily should be measured by deeds not years. — Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

CLASSIFIED INFORMATION... hometown folks are hearing a lot of wonderful things about the adventures of June and Buster Ivory... as they travel about the country on the professional rodeo circuit... June is the daughter of the F. E. Bulls... and Buster is a former world champion rodeo performer... they have traveled all the major cities in the United States and Europe... they make excellent "goodwill ambassadors" for this Top O' Texas town... hear that Bunny and Leah Behrman have been Las Vegas-ing... as well as a lot of other Pampanos this week... a coterie of friends left early this week for fun in that Neon Town and if we can get our antenna tuned in properly perhaps we can find out just who went and just WHAT THEY DID... sorry to hear that the Ray Cales' are leaving Pampa for Ulysess, Kansas at the behest of their company, Cities Service... she is such a pleasant person and has been quite active in the DMF Auxiliary... the Rebekahs and the Women of the Moose Lodge... another person, whom we are hoping will be around for a long time to come, is Jewel Walker... who does so many nice things for people that are little heard about... she's an asset to this town of busy women... we heard a nice thing about Dr. Royce Laycock, who just moved here last July... he has just been made a Diplomat of the American Board of Surgery... which, our doctor friends tell us, is a high honor for a surgeon... saw Jim Terrell entering the Hughes Building the other day mumbling to himself... come to think of it, maybe he was rehearsing his lines for Pampa Little Theater's presentation of "The Night is My Enemy" in April... in which he has a leading role... hear that Jim Douthit, who scored a hit as "Dr. Einstein" in "Arsenic and Old Lace" also has an important role... Homer West, who was "Officer O'Hare" in "A and OL" has the directing duties... tickets for the play will be on sale next week...

The world is divided into people who do things and people who get the credit. Try, if you can, to belong to the first class. There's far less competition. — Dwight Morrow

WINNING THE HEARTS of all who are coming to know her is Cathy Papathanasopoulou... the Grecian teenager who is here this year on the American Field Service program... she is a charmer... but we always feel so bashful when speaking to her... she can speak our language so well... and here, we can't even pronounce her last name... last week was Girl Scout Week and, also, Texas Garden Club Week... so far, we haven't heard a label for this week... but we're sure there must be one... how about "Just Be Yourself Week"?... I'll buy that...

Take It From Kathy

by kathy peterson

Dear Kathy: I'd like my daughter to be a model. She is pretty enough but so shy that she doesn't mingle well in groups. I encourage her to wear attractive clothing, tastefully accessorized, but she insists on wearing sneakers and following fads. I just don't understand why high school girls choose to look like carbon copies of one another, especially when the latest craze is often so unflattering.—A Discouraged Parent.

Dear Discouraged Parent: Today's teens didn't invent fads. There was a time when every high school and college student thought he needed a racoon coat!

I agree that slavishly following fads or fashion can be unflattering. It's also important to dress up when the occasion demands it. But, wearing a formal gown to an informal party could make you so conscious of your appearance that you might not be the world's great conversationalist.

A shy teen-ager is just as uncomfortable in a pretty dress when the order of the day is skirt, sweater and sneakers.

It's important to a girl who is shy to be like the crowd. Conforming to their pattern helps her to feel she is part of the group. When she blends with the scenery, she feels less self-conscious. This permits her to find a niche personality-wise. As she gradually becomes more confident, she should and will develop a clothing personality all her own.

Let her develop a social life at her own pace. Pushing won't help.

An Easter wedding is being planned in the home of the bride-elect's grandmother.

TC Forum Hears Of Beauties Of Virginia

Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Henry Rose.

During a business meeting, conducted by Mrs. William Ellis, president, plans were made to entertain Senior Citizens at their March 29 meeting in the library.

The program on the "State of Virginia" was presented by Mrs. E. J. Dunigan and Mrs. Calvin Jones.

Beginning with the landing of Captain John Smith and his company at Jamestown in 1607, which was the birthplace of the United States, Mrs. Jones told of the early history of the colonists.

"Virginia presents wide contrasts in physical features," she pointed out. "On the east is the flat coastal plain; next the Piedmont Plateau and in the west, the two mountain ranges; the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains and the more rugged Appalachian Range."

"In Virginia," Mrs. Jones said, "you will find the oldest homes and universities in the United States. Eight presidents of the United States were born in Virginia and it was the main battleground of the war between the states. Today, Virginia is one of our most beautiful states, with its many national shrines, beautiful homes, its well-built towns and cities and rolling green countryside."

Mrs. Dunigan selected Thomas Jefferson, one of Virginia's many famous sons, for discussion. "Franklin Roosevelt once admiringly described Jefferson as 'the many-sided man.' He is best remembered as a great president and as the author of the Declaration of Independence."

Mrs. Dunigan continued, "He won fame, also, as a statesman, diplomat, political philosopher and as the founder of the Democratic party. In addition, he was the foremost American architect of his time: His many inventions at Monticello included the dumb-waiter, the swivel chair, storm windows and a movable bed on pulleys. He was responsible for the convenient decimal system of coinage, which allows men to keep accounts in dollars and cents. He also played the violin and took part in chamber music concerts."

"Thomas Jefferson was born at Shadwell, Albemarle County, Va. in April, 1743. Upon graduation from William and Mary College, he went into the law office of George Wythe, who prepared him for the bar. In 1772, he married a young widow, Martha Skelton. The young couple settled at Monticello, then only partially built. They had three daughters and Mrs. Jefferson died 10 years after their marriage."

Mrs. Dunigan went on to say, "Jefferson's achievements are so many and great that it is difficult to list them. He was a member of the House of Burgesses of Virginia; was the Virginian delegate to the Second Continental Congress."

"The Declaration of Independence is Jefferson's surest guarantee."

Dear Abby....

Better To Be Safe
..... Than Sorry!!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and my boy friend is 21. We have gone together two years and had planned our wedding for March 25th. Last Saturday "we" (it was his idea) decided to postpone it indefinitely. He says "we don't have enough money." We both have good jobs and I intended to continue working after our marriage. He says he still loves me and there is nobody else, but he thinks we should both date others to "be sure." I have "been sure" for over a year. I can't understand the sudden change. All the plans have been made and I am deeply hurt. What do you think?

CONFUSED AND HURT

DEAR CONFUSED: I think you are lucky. Your boy friend obviously is not ready for marriage. What a break to find it out BEFORE the wedding! Date others. You might meet someone who is better suited to you. Or, in the meantime, this one might grow up.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me what a guest should do when he is having dinner at the home of a very swanky friend and the fish tastes "funny"? Should he say something to the hostess? Or should he just quietly not eat it?

CHASTISED

DEAR CHASTISED: He should very quietly tell the hostess.

DEAR ABBY: How can you tell the father of a 15-year-old boy to stop kissing him goodbye every morning and also to stop the good-night kissing? I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I think our son is too old for that.

THE BOY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In some families the son is never too old to be kissed. Even by his father. If yours is not that kind of family,

Exemplar Chapter Speakers Discuss Countries "South Of The Border"

Mrs. James Poole and Miss Virginia Vaughn presented a program on "Brazil and South America" and "The Caribbean Central America" at a meeting of Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. John Plaster, 1010 Charles.

Mrs. Poole introduced her discussion with a five-minute audience participation quiz dealing with interesting facts of South America. It was learned that "the Amazon basin of South America is the mystery, challenge and the hope of the new world. Venezuela is the tough, under-populated, suspicious, hard-boiled, oil-prosperous nation, which is hard to enter and hard to leave. As was quoted from William Russell, "Columbia is a cultured land, where taxi drivers are not ashamed to admit they write poetry; where paddle steamers on the Magdalena River 'start when they start and arrive when they arrive'."

Miss Vaughn continued the discussion with highlights dealing with the Caribbean by stating "the Caribbean is one of the key points of the earth; where tides of peoples and cultures meet, clash and intermingle or repulse each other."

"The Caribbean waterways," Miss Vaughn continued, "have linked Europe with Latin America, Spain with the Philippines; New England with California."

They have divided the Caribbean countries, shore from shore and island from island and most of the traffic passing through has passed the island by."

During the business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Ralph Esson, the nominating committee named a slate of officers to be voted upon.

Plans were discussed for the "Woman of the Year Tea" and "The Founders' Day Banquet."

It was announced that the social committee is planning a dinner to be held March 26 at 7 p.m. in the Celanese Game Room with husbands of members as guests.

Attending were Miss Virginia Vaughn; Mmes. James Poole, Jack Vaughn, F. L. Stone, Murry Sealey, Barney McMullan, Ted Knox, Melvin Keiffer, Byron Hilbun, Lemond Hall, Joe Fischer, Howard Buckingham, Dot Francis and Ralph Esson.

Stamping Out Obscene Publications Club Topic

Civic Culture Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Neef with Mrs. Louise Sewell as co-hostess.

The afternoon's program concerning "Objectionable Publications" was presented by Mrs. R. E. Dauer, who stated, "There is a ground swell all over the country rebelling against the nationwide traffic in pornographic materials. The illicit business of peddling indecent magazines yields from 100 to 300 million dollars every year; a figure which should be of concern to every decent person. In the United States Senate judiciary committees' findings in its probe into the causes of juvenile delinquency, it is revealed that the "business" of pornographic magazines depends for a large portion of its profits upon the lunch money and allowance of school children."

Mrs. Dauer continued, "The subcommittee discovered that today's technological progress makes it a pretty simple matter to transport pornographic material farther and faster than ever before. High speed presses can turn out stories and pictures at a rate unknown a quarter of a century ago."

"As an example," it was pointed out, "when the mailing privileges of a national magazine with a 4,000,000 circulation were recently revoked because it had alleged indecent and blackmail type content, some surprising situations were spotlighted."

"One was the fact that the magazine appeared on the stands on time, although postal authorities had refused to handle it. The owner of the magazine had reverted to motor truck for transportation."

"A second interesting fact was revealed by the editors of the magazine that a survey showed that 80 per cent of the readers were women. This astonished editors because they had conceived the magazine for men and slanted all content and advertising towards a male readership."

"Women continue to be the biggest supporters of the gossip blackmail type magazine, which

FOOTSAVING EDUCATION

By FRANK D. SMITH
How can I be sure that my children's shoes fit when I buy them?

If you mean that you want to check the fit of the shoes yourself, you should first work in a shoestore for at least two years. Then you will be more uncertain than you are now.

If the shoe internship is impossible I would use the practice of most women when they buy a hairdo. They don't rush downtown at fifteen minutes before closing time and let the first operator they come to give their hair a fast sizzle. Hairdo's are too important.

Hairdo's and the operators who do them are the subject of conversation at every hen party. A newcomer to town knows before she leaves the house not only which beauty parlor she is going to but which beautician will give her the kind of curl she wants. She will read ancient magazines waiting for the operator to take her and she might even overpay the bill if she is especially pleased with what the mirror says after the ordeal.

"Who fits your children's shoes?" should be as commonly asked as "Who does your hair?" Try it. You will find that your town has many shoefitters who realize the health importance of children's shoes and will do a really professional job if they know that you are not primarily interested in speed, low price or high style.

We were happy to have Mrs. Alice Howard with us after an absence due to illness.

We are happy to report that Mrs. Minnie Reeves is home from the hospital, but sorry to report that she is not having much company yet. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

Mmes. Raymond Nice and Buddy Ware came up from Houston and took their mother, Mrs. Jessie VanHuss, who has been a patient in Worley Hospital, home with them. Mrs. VanHuss will remain in Houston until she is well. We hope the warmer weather farther south will speed her recovery.

Mrs. Birdie Osborne and son, Buddy, were visiting with Mrs. Osborne's mother, Mrs. Mollie Hethcock this week. Mr. Osborne attended to business while here.

Mrs. Willie Ragsdale of Groom visited her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Collins this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Evans visited their daughter, Mrs. Wanda Oates in Amarillo on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ollie Staton is visiting in her old hometown of Seamore this week.

We were happy to see Mrs. A. L. Lanham out after her illness.

Was nice to see Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chamberlain out after Georgia's illness. Was good to hear her hearty laughter.

Mrs. J. P. McBride of Amarillo is visiting her sister, Mrs. Lena Webster and came to the center with Mrs. Webster on Thursday.

So nice to have visitors. I am glad to report that Mr. F. M. Heaston has found the lady and delivered the yellow tomato seeds. No name mentioned to prevent a run on the tomato patch this summer.

Have you heard about the sprinkling can without a bottom, its for people who have artificial flowers. Which reminds me, I attended the workshop of the Home Demonstration Council and luncheon on Thursday morning and learned how to make those beautiful rose trees (artificial of course.)

Let us pray and work for peace throughout the world, Love, Mrs. Wagner.

Greek Student Captures Hearts Of Altrusans

Dressed in a charming costume native to her country, Greece, and speaking fluently in English in a well-modulated voice, Miss Cathy Papatanasopoulou, American Field Service student, told Altrusa Club members Monday of the educational system and her impressions of the differences in the ways of life between her country and the United States. The program was presented at the noon luncheon meeting of the club held in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn under the direction of Mrs. Joe Tooley, International Affairs, chairman.

Miss Papatanasopoulou was introduced by Mrs. Julian Key, her American "mother," with whom she is making her home, while she is attending Pampa High School. Mrs. Key introduced the attractive Greek student as the "sixth Key in the Key household." Miss Papatanasopoulou expressed a great interest in foreign languages. She has had four years of Latin; speaks Modern Greek and has studied Ancient Greek; speaks English and French fluently; and this year is in third-year Spanish. In the future, she plans to study German and would like to add Japanese to her linguistic skills. All of which will lead her to an ambition for a career as an interpreter or linguist in the diplomatic field.

In closing, Miss Papatanasopoulou spoke to the group in Greek and then interpreted her remarks as "I'm really glad you invited me to come here. I had a wonderful time and I am glad to be with you."

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. L. L. Harkins, president, the slate of officers nominated at a February meeting as Mmes. Lorene Locke, president; Clay Coston, vice president; Clyde Venderberg, recording secretary; Ray E. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Don Robinson, re-elected treasurer; Marian Osborne and E. E. Ethridge, directors, were elected by acclamation.

The Altrusa Girl of the Month, Miss Donna Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Walsh, was introduced by Miss Ann Jo Watson, GOM for February. Miss Walsh is a cheer leader, member of the a cappella choir, and had a role in the Junior Class Play. Following a recommendation from the executive board, members approved the suggestion that night classes in self-improvement for junior high school students be started in order to allow more time and more students to take the classes. The short courses in charm and good grooming are a project of the Vocational Information committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Lou Ella Patterson with Mrs. Thelma Bray in charge of this special project.

Door prize was won by Mrs. Tooley. International News Flash was given by Mrs. Coyle Ford relating to the Russian proposal to ban nuclear tests.

Miss Edith Wilson, an Altrusa member from Amarillo was a special guest of Miss Patterson.

Informal Texas History Narrated At TCC Meet

"An Informal History of Texas" by Frank Tolbert was reviewed by Mrs. Paul Bowers, guest speaker, at Twentieth Century Club on Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lorene Locke, 2118 Chestnut.

Following a brief business meeting conducted by Mrs. R. W. Stowers, Mrs. J. W. Gordon introduced the Texas Day program.

Mrs. Bowers commented that Frank X. Tolbert was a fourth generation Texas born in Amarillo. He writes a daily column for the Dallas Morning News called "Tolbert's Texas".

"An Informal History of Texas covers the period from the early travels of Cabeza de Vaca, the first tourist in the state, and encompasses the 350 years following his visit," stated Mrs. Bowers. Mr. Tolbert travelled by jeep 4,137 miles around the perimeter of Texas prior to writing this book.

"Now, when Mr. Tolbert looks at the shape of Texas, he recalls the people with whom he made friends along the borderlands; he pictures the wonderfully varied country, contrasting from palmetto and pine jungle in the southeast to near 9000 foot high mountains in the far west," continued the speaker.

"Perhaps of particular interest to us is the Panhandle. He travelled 133.6 miles along the eastern border, 167 miles across the top and 310.2 miles southward down the western side."

Mrs. Bowers continued, "Much of the territory encompassed by this drive was owned by British capitalists at one time. Britishers, many of them titled, settled all over the Panhandle and became pioneers who fought Indians, drought, ticks and hard times just like everyone else."

After tracing Mr. Tolbert's journey around the perimeter of Texas, Mrs. Bowers pointed up some of the little-known and seldom printed facts of Texas history as divulged by Mr. Tolbert's research. For example, one of the first names selected for this state was Cadillac. "History tells us that in the early 1700's the French governor of Louisiana was one Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac. He had eyes for this land. One of Cadillac's captains predicted that when the great country to the west was occupied by France, it would be called "Province of Cadillac."

Mrs. Bowers also discussed little known facts about Suzanna Dickinson, heroine of the Alamo. She mentioned the colorful life of Temple Lea Houston, Sam Houston's youngest son. She commented on the six flags, the French, the Spanish, the Mexican, the Lone Star banner of independent statehood, the flag of the Southern Confederacy and the Stars and Stripes, which have flown over Texas.

In conclusion Mrs. Bowers stated, "Its geographical diversity is a source of amazement, as well as the variety of its opportunities, industries, resource of amazement, as well and potentialities. We are just good—there's no doubt about it, so what we lack in size now, shall we go on record as guaranteeing to compensate for in quality. This is glorious Texas!"

THIRSTY?—The world's largest wine cask resides in the wine-growing community of Bad Durkheim, West Germany. The cask has a capacity of 450,000 gallons, which could please a large party for weeks. Instead, this tippler's temptation houses a restaurant seating 500 persons. The wine still flows freely, but from glasses, not from spouts.

Numbers 12:1-2, And Mariam and Aaron spake against Moses because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married: for he had married an Ethiopian woman. And they said, Hath the Lord indeed spoken only by Moses? Hath he not spoken also by us? "AND THE LORD HEARD IT," THERE ARE THREE THINGS THAT WORK AGAINST US:

The world, (1 John 2:15), the flesh, (Romans 8:13), the devil, (John 10:10).

The devil doesn't have to do very much any more, because the world and the flesh are doing such a good job.

An ungodly farmer in one of the western States, who gloried in his unbelief, wrote a letter to a local Newspaper saying, "Sir; I have been trying an experiment with a field of mine. I plowed it on Sunday. I planted it on Sunday, I cultivated it on Sunday. I reaped it on Sunday. I carted the crop home on Sunday. And now, Mr. Editor, what is the result? I have more bushels to the acre from the field than any of my neighbors have this October.

He expected applause from the editor who was not particularly religious himself. But when he opened the paper the next week there was his letter just as he had written it, but below it was the short but significant sentence: "God does not always settle His account in October."

There are those who think that by obtaining human or legal sanction, they are free from condemnation. Prob. 28:13, He that covereth his sins shall not prosper: but whosoever confesseth and forsaketh them shall have mercy.

THERE IS A HIGHER COURT, WHERE THE JUDGE OF ALL EARTH SITS. 2 Corinthians 5:9-10.

Many try to justify themselves in their sins. To build a reputation in spite of their sins. But a reputation is what folk think you are, but character is what you really are.

ONE OF THE BASIC CAUSES OF SICKNESS AND DISEASE IS — "IDOLATRY."

(Exodus 20:3-5) The question is asked, What is Idolatry? Is it bowing down before a piece of wood or stone that has been carved or hewn into some grotesque shape? We talk about the heathen idol worshippers speaking of the brown skin native's in a far away land, like India or Africa. IDOLATRY means "Undue admiration of love." Therefore an idol is a person or thing loved to the excess. An idolater is one who loves a person or thing to an excessive degree.

The Lawyer ask Jesus, "which is the greatest commandment," Jesus answered, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. (Matt: 23:37).

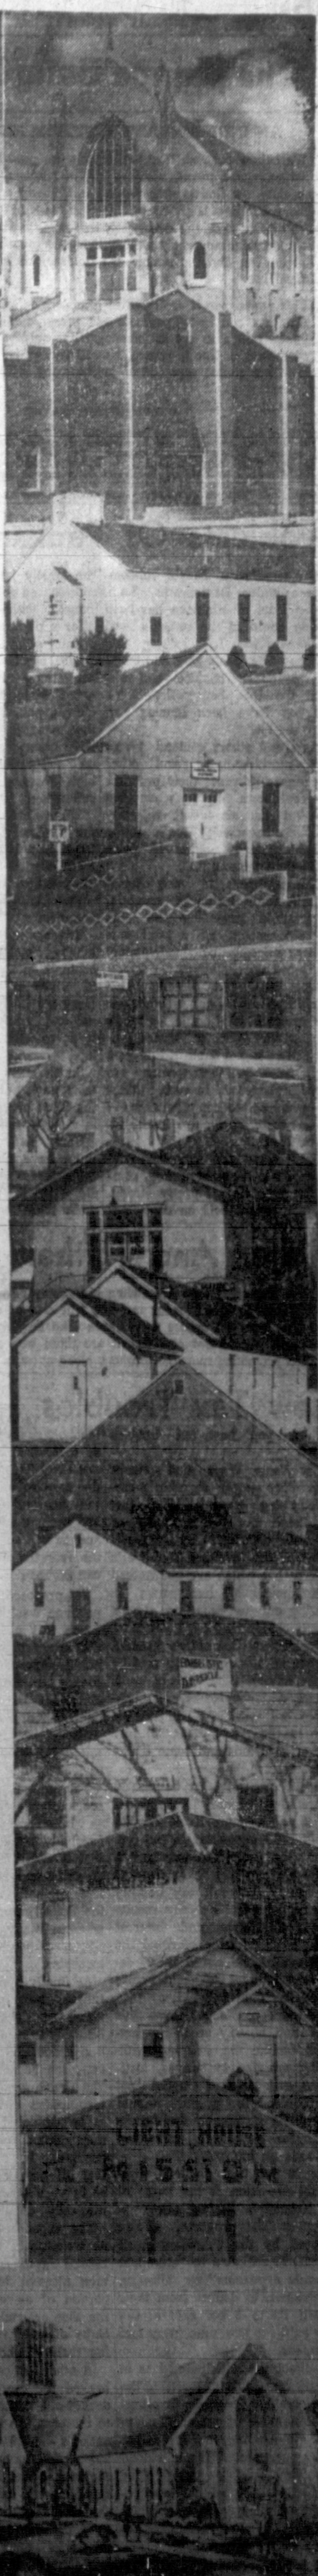

GOD FIRST — should be our motto. The first words of the first verse of the first chapter of the first book in the Bible is a splendid motto for every life. "IN THE BEGINNING GOD."

When any person or thing gets first place in your life and God becomes secondary or has no place at all, that person or thing becomes an idol, and you become an idolater. It may be sweetheart, children, business, pleasure, dress, money, and many other things.

It was said of Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat, who reigned over Judah, that because of his sins, God smote him, and he had an incurable disease, and after two years of being thus affected, he died.

How small and unimportant sin seems before it is committed, but after it is committed it appears exceedingly sinful, huge and terrible.

In John 5:14, Jesus said to the man that had been healed, behold, thou art made whole; sin no more lest a worse thing come unto thee.

Problems Of Packaging

For months a Senate subcommittee under Democratic Sen. Philip Hart of Michigan has been giving some of the nation's food packagers fits. It is looking into charges that packaging and labeling practices confuse and mislead the U.S. housewife. The charges have been landing all over the lot.

Hart and others contend that food merchandisers and other packagers present their products in containers of such varying weights and sizes that a purchasing housewife can't make sensible comparisons as to price and other factors.

The argument is also made that in some instances essential information regarding the kind and amount of a product is either missing or inadequately displayed on containers.

Most packagers defend the jumble of sizes and weights on the grounds that this gives housewives a wider choice, or that this is not their prime concern anyway. Many women are more interested in such things as whether the containers will fit on their shelves or in the refrigerators.

Now come the canners with their case. The inquiring committee may find it pretty strong. Descriptive labels on cans put the legally required basic information on the right-hand side panel, without variance. They offer a picture of what's inside.

Can sizes are usually just small, medium and large, with sometimes an extra large or extra small thrown in. New vacuum packaging methods, say the canners, have forced occasional changes, since cans have to be proportioned to withstand high internal vacuum without collapsing.

Milan Smith, vice president of the National Canners Assn., says there also has been a trend toward smaller cans as more people move to the cities, where less robust individual meals are more common.

The committee questions any labeling which tries to translate contents into "average number of servings." It argues this is fuzzy stuff, inasmuch as individual and family ideas vary greatly as to what constitutes a serving.

Smith says the canners, for their part, put such material on the label only to aid housewives in meal planning.

Hart and his investigators must have been trying to get their names in the paper. They did. But in such a way as to make them look foolish.

Hither And Thither

It is little less than astounding how many people will tell you that they oppose some particular tax who will also criticize you severely if they find that you oppose more taxes than they do. Among those who profess to be for less government are those who are as vigorously as possible promoting more government along avenues pleasing to them.

New Tax Troubles

Think you have tax troubles now?

The House Ways and Means Committee — the chamber's revenue-raising group — has just completed work on a series of tax revisions which may not greatly alter the average taxpayer's liability but which are guaranteed to compound his harassment in figuring out just what he owes Uncle Sam.

The House Committee greeted the annual tax session by settling on — among other things — a system whereby banks and businesses will withhold and turn over to the government 20 per cent of dividends and some forms of interest.

Should the provision be upheld on the floor of the House and Senate, as appears likely despite strong GOP opposition to the provision, the individual taxpayer a year from now will be required to compute his overall tax liability as though he had actually received the dividends and interest withheld. Once he performed the mathematics, he would then deduct the amount withheld before paying his final tax bill.

The new provision leaves this calculation strictly up to the taxpayer. Unlike the existing withholding practice for wages, institutions, and business, would not be required to prepare annual withholding statements and breakdowns for individuals receiving dividends an interest.

The 20 per cent dividend withholding provision forms part of Mr. Kennedy's limited tax revision plan. The program, first proposed by the President April 20, 1961, is designed to "stimulate economic expansion" by allowing businessmen to deduct from their tax bill up to 8 per cent of the price paid for new machinery and equipment.

To offset the anticipated loss in revenue from this tax credit, the administration pushed to eliminate a number of major "loopholes" in existing tax law. The Treasury estimated that dividend withholding provision would bring in an extra $600 million in revenue annually by catching currently unreported — and untaxed — income at its source.

The tax package also contains loophole-closing measures designed to restrict expense account deductions, to remove inequities in the taxation of cooperatives, mutual fire and casualty companies, and savings and loan associations, and to stiffen tax regulations on the overseas operations of American companies.

As proposed, the entire tax package would have balanced revenue loss against revenue gain, the administration claimed. As finally approved by the Ways and Means Committee Feb. 27 — after almost 10 months of intermittent deliberation over content and negotiation over wording — the limited tax plan was roughly $600 to $700 million out of balance.

The committee broadened the scope of the tax credit provision — which the business community ironically tended to oppose — so that it would cost the government an estimated $1.8 billion in revenues annually. At the same time, the House group modified or scaled-down many of the administration recommendations for closing loopholes.

As finally approved by the committee, the expense account provision scarcely approached Mr. Kennedy's recommendation that tax deductions for entertainment expenses be virtually eliminated. The House group decided that entertainment costs could continue to be deducted — to the extent they related to the conduct of a business. It required, however, that all such expenses henceforth be fully substantiated, or be automatically disallowed.

The expense account provision, as written, is bound to require mental gymnastics as businessmen attempt to calculate what portion of an evening of dinner, the theater, and a round of nightclubs directly related to furthering their business.

In other actions, the committee braved the storm center of a decade-old controversy in moving to increase the tax liability of the nation's 6,700 mutual savings banks and savings and loan associations. The House group first sided closely with the position of the administration and the country's commercial banks by writing strict new tax regulations, but settled on a milder compro-

The Doctor Says:

By Dr. HAROLD T. HYMAN

SOCIAL DISEASE PROBLEM MUST BE FACE DSQUARELY

If a recital of unpleasant facts causes you to stick your head in the sand, ostrich-fashion, better skip this column. But if you are an intelligent teen-ager or a parent or a teacher of teen-agers, you might devote a few minutes to the following shocking statistics:

There are, in the United States, approximately 1,200,000 patients with syphilis in various stages, all in need of treatment.

Each year, approximately 1,000,000 fresh gonorrhoeal infections are known to occur. Undoubtedly, many more are unreported.

The rate of infection is rising rapidly in middle and upper income brackets. And this rising incidence is more apparent in teen-agers and, especially, girls. Incidentally, what is being reported in America is also being reported in England, continental Europe, Asia, and in the U.S.S.R.

Nearly one out of every five cases of infectious syphilis (primary and secondary stages) occurs in patients younger than 19 years of age. In general, the infections occur at an earlier age in girls. And finally, to conclude this "chamber of horrors" for the moment, there are more girls infected with both gonorrhoea and syphilis at age 18 than at any other age.

What makes these revelations the more shocking is the fact that we have in our possession simple and safe drugs that can both prevent and cure these venereal infections.

Now I am not competent to discuss any but the medical aspects of this alarming problem. Nor can I enter into a discussion of the problem as a whole. But I would like to make the following special suggestions to parents and teachers of teen-agers, and especially to those responsible for the health and welfare of 18-year-old girls whose incidence of infection is highest at the age of graduation from high school:

By means of lectures with lantern slide demonstrations inform all high school students of the risks of promiscuous intercourse.

And include in this course of instruction the facts about illegitimate pregnancies whose incidence rates have been rising in the same groups and in the same proportions.

Warn these youngsters that much of the "red-hot dope" they tell one another about venereal prolyxaxis and contraception is just not true. They cannot rely on prophylactic kits, douches and sulfa pills or bootlegged devices to keep them "out of trouble."

Emphasize to them that the risks they run far exceed the fleeting pleasures they may obtain. Particularly emphasize to girls that the road to the altar is not through promiscuity. Indeed, it is rather the contrary.

And stress the fact that the risks they run are at the expense of persons other than themselves. Members of the household. Their future spouses. Their children. And, in the case of infectious syphilis, contacts other than those made during intercourse. For, if the infectious sore is in the mouth, the disease may be spread by kissing or by use of common eating and drinking utensils.

"Every time Khrushchev makes a conciliatory move or proposal, he is rebuffed with a new and unacceptable demand. He offers sweeping disarmament, and Mr. Kennedy replies by insisting on even more drastic inspection controls.

"That's why I am attempting to establish mutual understanding and friendship with individual Americans in the sincere desire to further peaceful co-existence. Our people don't want war, and I'm sure your's don't either. Actually, your country has not suffered the horrors and ravages of war since your Civil War a century ago. We know what war is. To you, for 100 years, it has been in our hands.

"My sole aim and thought is to promote the cause of peace because now there are only two alternatives, peace and annihilation. And peace is the only answer."

THE LORELEI LINE — The genial Czechoslovakian diplomat admitted he is especially interested in "four areas" — Berlin, Cuba, the 18-nation disarmament conference underway in Geneva, and Brazil President Goulart's visit to Washington in the spring.

On these matters he is very eager to get American viewpoint, and to put across his own.

"What do you think will happen at Geneva?" asked Weidinger. "Nothing, in effect," Republican Chairman Shipley told him. "It will be the same old story. You people will loudly talk disarmament, but refuse to give the only guarantee that means anything — effective inspection controls."

Nobody Can Deny —

ROBERT ALLEN Peace Promotion, He Says PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—State and Justice Department authorities are watching with intent interest the remarkable proselyting activities of Wladyslaw Weidinger, enterprising new First Secretary of the Czechoslovakian embassy.

Young, personable, well-groomed, ingratiatingly sociable and fluent in English, Weidinger, an engineer-turned-diplomat recently shifted from Canada to Washington, is busily endeavoring to "win friends and influence people" in very unusual quarters and in a most uncommunicative manner.

Red bloc envoys generally are old, suspicious, uncommunicative and circulate mainly among themselves. But not Weidinger. No U.S. lobbyist is more zealous and persistent at glad-handing.

Equally intriguing is Weidinger's avowed reason for his unique eager-beaver.

According to him, he wants to promote "peaceful co-existence on a people-to-people basis."

For that purpose, he is determinedly endeavoring to cultivate Republican and Democratic party leaders, members of Congress, newsmen, businessmen and other prominent "civilians."

Foremost among those sought out by Weidinger are Carl Shipley, popular and dynamic District of Columbia GOP Chairman, and W. John Kenney, Democratic Chairman.

To the two political chiefs, Weidinger has made no bones he is a dedicated Communist. Similarly, he is very frank about what he doesn't like about the U.S., "particularly officials of the Kennedy Administration."

"They are too dogmatic, stiff-necked and unyielding," he explains. "We had great hopes for a change of attitude and policy when Mr. Kennedy was elected. We thought that at last it would be possible to end the cold war and establish genuinely friendly relations. But all these hopes have been dashed.

"Every time Khrushchev makes a conciliatory move or proposal, he is rebuffed with a new and unacceptable demand. He offers sweeping disarmament, and Mr. Kennedy replies by insisting on even more drastic inspection controls.

"That's why I am attempting to establish mutual understanding and friendship with individual Americans in the sincere desire to further peaceful co-existence. Our people don't want war, and I'm sure your's don't either. Actually, your country has not suffered the horrors and ravages of war since your Civil War a century ago. We know what war is. To you, for 100 years, it has been in our hands.

"My sole aim and thought is to promote the cause of peace because now there are only two alternatives, peace and annihilation. And peace is the only answer."

First Iceboaters — The Dutch seem to have been the first iceboaters. A drawing of a Dutch iceboat, dating from 1790, shows a regular sailing craft with a strong cross plank under the hull near the bow, a runner at each end of a sharp iron shoe at the stern on the bottom of the boat's regular rudder.

Hankering

By HENRY McLEMORE

Many readers have written to ask that I resume my Monthly Review. I am more than happy to oblige.

It is my belief that the more the world knows about the world, the less chance there is of disharmony. I consider it a privilege to review the globe.

THE CONGO: A quiet week. No one is eating another. E. nu Blonko has retreated from his original position, and shows every sign of coming to terms with Sango Bango. Both are said to be willing to accept aid from America, Russia and Haselmere (England) Rural District Council.

KENYA: Our carrier pigeons have not shown up, so there's no report. Rumor has it that our birds, with their leg bands, were shot down by rebel Goa troops.

GOA: Not as happy as Nehru says it is.

INDIA: All prominent ministers were elected but word reaches me by water buffalo carrier that India hasn't been happy since the British left. Independent, and all that, but generally falling apart is what they are, you know.

FRANCE: Dry-cleaning prices are up 3 per cent for Americans. The French want a tunnel to England, the English want a bridge to France. De Gaulle is said to have thrashed Mrs. De Gaulle, which is treating him.

ALGERIA: No report. A plastic bomb just got our boy.

UNITED STATES: All the Kennedys are safely home after their world flights.

ENGLAND: Everything's OK there, too. Tony is in the House of Lords where the English peerage is balanced by a man who hardly belongs there. England is a funny country. A photographer now sits with the peers of the realm. Can you name me another country where this can happen? Let's face it—there'll always be an England.

SARDINIA: No report.

EGYPT: No country headed by a man who looks like Nasser can succeed. This is not my opinion, mind you, but that of My Man In Suez.

LEBANON: Too costly for the average tourist.

CUBA: We will hold our opinion until Field Marshal Montgomery of Alamein gives us his. He is soon going to be there. The Field Marshal is far and away my favorite commentator on world affairs. No other observer walks in so child-like — and comes out the same. When the Field Marshal speaks, you are hearing the impressions of an untroubled mind — except for his beret. At the same time, I'll always remember that there were few, if any, finer soldiers in World War II. After all, he never lost a battle. I say this only because so many people forget what the Field Marshal was at one time. In Africa, he was sheer class.

LAPLAND: Reindeer horns are getting shorter and American aid will be sought to stave off a sharp decline in horn-handled knives.

CHAD: Our representative cannot find a communications center so we have absolutely nothing for Chad. Our eyesight is too old for smoke signals and our ears too weary for drums.

Pegler Says:

Alger Hiss Case Left An Ugly Red Glare

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Since the Saturday Evening Post broke with its old profession of conservative character, a few months ago there has been speculation among journalists whether the new SEP could retrieve its old prestige and a measure of its ancient success. Resisting prolonged propaganda I refused to believe that the Post had any intention to desist from the "liberal" revolution which it had abetted for years. As a traditionalist I must say that I detect in the revised form changes only of type and make-up. The editorial quality of this jumbled publication seems to me to confirm its latter-day political additions, which are far to the left of the principles expressed under the late, historic George Horace Lorimer.

He was an institution personified. He was a tradition.

So saying, I take note of an article by Stewart Alsop, one of its very editors, no less, and an offshoot scion of the Roosevelt breed. Mr. Alsop contributes a sympathetic discussion of our State Department, pretending to tell what is wrong with it. The ills he describes do exist, but I detected one spectacular omission. He did not say one word about the Alger Hiss case, which still indicates by its ugly red glare the principal fault of the State Department.

We who went through that menacing revelation of betrayal in the State Department all remember, and so does Mr. Alsop, that it was Adolf A. Berle who first received the confession of Whittaker Chambers which made the State Department notorious around the world. And Berle testified that when he was rebuffed "by his superiors in State he took this merely as a setback in a rather merry little game and set off for Rio de Janeiro to be ambassador. But this was actually several years after he had presented Chamber's confession to President Roosevelt and Roosevelt had told him to "go jump in the lake." All that time meanwhile, Hiss was carrying on in the State Department. Instead of yelling from the houseposts or from Page One of some newspaper, Berle considered that he had done his duty and pursued his career.

After Hiss was convicted, on a charge of "perjury" but with implications of treachery pro-Moscow, Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared to newspaper reporters: "I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss."

In his monumental testament, a book called "Witness," Chambers wrote comments concerning this remark which put to shame all the journalism of the nation of that time. We just hit it a lick and a promise and thus today Alsop can treat Acheson with unquestioning respect in Mr. Lorimer's old Saturday Evening Post.

Chambers wrote in "Witness" as follows: "Nor can Secretary of State Acheson's remark after Hiss's conviction be reviewed merely in those terms of personal feelings that I of all men must be the first to understand, for I shared that feeling. For a Secretary of State to say after the conviction of a man on an implied charge of espionage: 'I will not turn my back on Alger Hiss' cannot possibly be dismissed simply as an unwelcome personal feeling. This would be true, even if the State Department did not make it clear that this was no spontaneous outburst. You will look in vain in history for anything comparable to it.

"These are facts. We witnessed them. They are indisputable. They were evoked from a single focus of infection, the Hiss Case. They are sometimes explained as manifestations of partisan politics. The factor of partisan politics may have been in play, but I do not believe that, in the sense of two-party politics, it was decisive. The explanation lies deeper.

"When I took up my little sling and aimed at Communism, I also hit something else. What I hit was the forces of that great socialist revolution which, in the name of liberalism, spasmodically, incompletely, somewhat formlessly, but always in the same direction, has been inching its ice cap over the nation for two decades. I had no adequate idea of its extent, the depth of its penetration or the fierce, vindictive-ness of its revolutionary temper."

This is a phase of the "trouble with the State Department" which this editor of the new Saturday Evening Post did not deem important enough to mention.

But, of course Mr. Editor Alsop did get in some eye-rolling at the frightful damage inflicted by Joe McCarthy in disclosing treachery and homosexuality in State. Mr. Alsop, indeed the whole vindictive "revolution" that Chambers discussed, took a terribly serious view of the "menace of McCarthyism."
