Ever Wonder If St. Nick Gets Lump In Throat At Child's Hopeless Prayer?

Kids Tell Their Troubles To Santa

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP)—Ever wonder if Santa Claus gets a lump in his throat at some little child's hopeless prayer? So does Postmaster Albert Goldman.

The lumps come fast for him these days. He's eavesdropping on Santa.

Goldman has nearly 5,000 letters addressed to Santa. They find their way each year to his big general post-office in New York City.

Inside each letter is a hope or a prayer. When there's nobody else to breath it to, kids all over the world tell it to Santa. Not just kids, either.

There's a laugh in some of them for Goldman.

Seven-year-old Harry from the Bronx wants a shrunken mummy's head for Christmas. Thinks it might help him when he becomes a magician. He promises "I won't bring it to school."

And Nancy over in Brooklyn loves horses. She asked for a female gelding — "all black." But only male horses are gelded.

Charlie wrote out his own Christmas list, then added:

"Grampy wants a bottle of whisky."

Six-Year-Old Boy's Santa Claus Dead

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14 (AP)—Christmas stories don't always have a happy ending—like this one police told yesterday:

A small boy was "lost" in a big department store. He was taken to a nearby police station.

Under questioning, the youngster said he was six years old and member of a poor family that included 14 brothers and sisters.

Then the query: "What's Santa Claus going to bring you, sonny?

Civilian Rule Action Urged

Cold War Outlays Set At $20 Billion

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — The Committee for Economic Development (SED) estimated today that national security will cost at least $20,000,000,000 a year for years to come.

In the face of this costly cold war defense, it urged definite action to: (1) safeguard civilian supremacy in the republic, (2) strengthen long-range security and (3) protect individual freedom.

The CED, an organization of business executives, said the $20,000,000,000 estimate on the annual cost of security for the next several years embraces several items. Military defense is the big one, followed by rearming of non-Communist nations, European recovery spending, atomic energy development, U. S. broadcasts overseas, and much of the government's diplomacy and intelligence work.

Defense Plans Hit

One of its principal recommendations was for a transfusion of civilian leadership into the whole security program. The CED criticized today's preparedness planning as being "neither efficient nor in balance."

The report said that a powerful military machine can dominate the economy and, unless held in balance, "can destroy a free economy."

And, while urging continued strong action against subversive activities, it called for caution in the handling of "loyalty" inquiries. The CED declared:

"An atmosphere of suspicion favors the growth of political police. Agencies with power to investigate sometimes degenerate into organs of oppression and intimidation.

"Necessary investigations into

Burglary of Arcadia theater, at 1213 Ave. H, and theft of $150 in "change" found in a pried open desk were reported this morning to the police.

Police investigation, by Chief of Detectives Pat Davidson, Detective Pete Hubbard and Patrolman Doyle Clark, did not indicate definitely the means of entry to the theater's office.

16 Men Missing In Atlantic Ship Fire

Eight Other Persons Are Rescued From Life Boat; Coast Guard Searching Area

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—A coast guard search plane found the burning hulk of the Dutch motorship Doros 300 miles due east of Miami today and radioed tersely "no survivors sighted."

Sixteen men were missing following an explosion and fire aboard the craft.

Eight others were rescued. Cause of the accident was not determined.

A coast guard PBM from St. Petersburg said there wasn't any debris near the smouldering motorship and no sign of other lifeboats in the area.

Coast guard air sea rescue headquarters said a plane planned to meet the American tanker Sparrows Point at the hole-in-the-wall about noon to pick up one of the survivors who was reported badly burned.

The hole-in-the-wall is at the southern end of Abaco island in the Bahamas.

Meanwhile air and surface craft continued to search the area in the hope of locating other survivors.

The chief engineer was among the eight picked up from a life boat. He said he believed the captain and seven others went down

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 14—Documents discovered in the home of a Red labor leader set 1950 as the date for a Communist Mexican revolution, government authorities announced today.

Federal District Attorney General Carlos Sodi said details of a "seditious movement to impose a Communist regime on the republic" were discovered among 3,000 documents taken from the Mexico City residence of Valentin Campa, railway union official.

Spent Years In Hiding

Campa was arrested last month after spending a year in hiding. He is being held in a federal penitentiary on charges of fraudulently using railway union funds for Communist propaganda.

Sodi said the government had proof that Campa had been a member of the Communist International since 1926 and was a high official in the Mexicon "politburo" which goes under the name of a left-wing labor group, the Un-

1,000 Persons Forced To Flee Homes By Ammonia Gas Waves

(By The Associated Press)

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 14—Upwards of 1,000 persons were forced to flee their homes before dawn today as waves of ammonia gas spread through 20 square blocks of West Oakland.

Scores were overcome and many may die. Five were known to have been hospitalized.

A tank car, filled with liquid ammonia, was being pumped out at a fertilizer plant when a pipe split and the cargo spilled into the streets. Gas formed quickly.

Eight police cars, with sirens screeching, moved slowly through the residential area warning persons to flee.

Gas-masked firemen attempted to wash away the ammonia with streams of water. It was several hours later before evacuees began returning to their homes.

Battalion Chief Thomas Dolan said the tank car contained enough to "kill everyone in the area."

50,000 Over Area Eligible To Cast Votes

National Election Is Set Thursday; Large Poll Urged

More than 50,000 South Plains farmers, landlords and their wives are eligible to vote Thursday in the national cotton marketing quota election, but no one in authority would guess today how many will go to the polls.

Frank uneasiness was expressed that the vote will be light due to the present harvest rush and because of the apparently prevalent confidence that approval of the proposal is virtually certain.

But most observers acknowledged that greater interest than is apparent on the surface may result in a heavy turnout.

Favorable Vote Expected

Authoritative opinion apparently was unanimously of the expectation that the South Plains vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of the restoration of federal controls in 1950.

But, to be put into effect, they must be approved by at least two-thirds of the voters throughout the nation who cast ballots.

A large poll on the South Plains has been urged by farm leaders as a possible offset to the opposition vote in some regions where the turnout is sure to be heavy.

Polling Places Set Up

Officials of the Production and Marketing administration said attempts have been made to arrange for polling places in practically every community of every cotton producing area.

Voting hours will be from 8 a. m. until 7 p. m.

Eligible to vote are all landlords, farmers, tenants, sharecroppers and others including wives, directly interested in the production of cotton during 1948.

It is not necessary that they posses a poll tax receipts or exemption certificate.

5,000 In Lubbock

The estimated qualified vote in Lubbock county is about 5,000. Polling places in the county follow:

Hardy community—at the Caldwell gin.

Becton—the old school building.

City of Lubbock — the courthouse, College Avenue Co-op gin and the McCoy and Ely gin.

Idalou—city hall.

Hurlwood—the Hurlwood gin.

Wolfforth — Frenship school

Mail Schedule Here Revised

Assuring both later departure of outgoing first class mail and earlier arrival of incoming first class mail to and from the south and east, a star route will go into effect between Lubbock and Sweetwater Friday, Postmaster Amos H. Howard of Lubbock announced today.

Such a route has been considered an intense need since change in railway schedule several months ago, he said. Numerous inquiries have been received from Lubbock residents whose mail has been held over 24 hours in many instances before leaving Lubbock.

To Make Connections

The star route will make connections with the Texas & Pacific railway at Sweetwater. A truck will leave Lubbock nightly at 8:30 p. m., arriving in Sweetwater about 11:30 p. m. to make connections with a train going to Fort Worth and Dallas. The truck will leave for the return trip at 3:30 a. m. following receipt of mail

PARENTS OBJECTED TO MARRIAGE

Bride Of Day Says Mate Kidnaped Her

(By The United Press)

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 14—A 19-year-old bride of one day charged that her husband kidnaped her and forced her to marry him but he claimed today that she eloped willingly with him.

The bride, the former Hellen Herrick of Des Moines, accused Des Moines Salesman Francis E. Byers, 29, of holding her prisoner at pistol point on a trip across Nebraska to Denver, Colo.

Byers, freed on $3,000 bond to await grand jury action on her kidnap complaint, denied the charge and claimed it was instigated by the girl's parents, who objected to their marriage.

Bride Claimed Happy

He said his bride willingly consummated the marriage "two or three times" with him during their wedding trip.

"Do you think it would be possible to travel across three states, stop at restaurants and night clubs, and visit relatives with a girl unless she was doing it willingly?" Byers asked reporters.

"She was very happy about our wedding until yesterday morning when we got back home and saw her parents. I can assure you things were not very blissful after that."

The bride's parents secluded her away from newsmen, saying she was "very tired and under a doctor's care for exhaustion and shock."

Abducting Alleged

The kidnap charges were filed against Byers yesterday after the girl told Detective Chief Paul Castellise about her alleged abduction.

She said Byers, whom she "had met only a a couple of times before," picked her up last Thursday as she walked to her job at a Des Moines hospital.

Instead of driving her to work, she said, he started west on a long auto drive that wound up at Denver.

She said Byers "always had a pistol handy" and kept her in "fear of her life" as they drove across Nebraska.

She said it was on the way back, as they paused at Tekamah,

Uncle Sam To Start Harvest Of Tax Funds

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — The biggest harvest of the tax season starts tomorrow.

The government expects to reap $15,000,000,000 tax dollars—some 40 per cent of annual revenue—over the next three months.

Final Payments Due

Corporations must make final payments of tax on 1948 income tomorrow, giving the government its last crack at last year's record high profits. A decline in corporate income tax collections is expected after that, reflecting lower 1949 profits.

The tax focus after tomorrow will be on individuals, who finished 1948 payments last March but in many cases have something to do about 1949 income taxes ahead of the general deadline next March 15.

Calendar Of Dates

A calendar of dates to remember:

Jan. 1.—Social security insurance (old age and survivors benefits) taxes increase upon both employers and employes — automatically, so there is no return to be filed.

For both employes and employers, the rise will be from 1 to 1½ per cent on wages or salaries up to $3,000.

Jan. 1 also marks the opening of the season for getting refunds on overpayments of 1949 income tax through withholding.

Main Office Of Swift Packing Plant Blasted

Sioux City Scene Of Tragedy; Many Reported Injured

(By The Associated Press)

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Dec. 14.—An explosion blew out the front of the main office building of the Swift & Co. packing plant today and the death toll was estimated at between 30 and 35.

Brig. Gen. Charles Grahhl, adjutant general of the Iowa national guard, said in Des Moines that guard officers told him by phone that "30 or 35 were killed."

Worst In City's History

Walter W. Lindgren, superintendent of public safety for the city, made a preliminary estimate of "at least 25 dead."

Lindgren called it "probably the worst disaster in Sioux City history."

Lindgren said firemen and volunteers had donned gas masks to go into the debris-choked basement where cries of the injured could be heard.

Estimates of the number of injured ran as high as 200.

Al Wright, city sales manager for Swift who was in the company restaurant in one corner of the five-story brick office building at the time of the explosion, said:

South Side Demolished

"There was a big puff. That's all I know."

The south side of the office building was demolished and early reports said the greatest force of the explosion seemed to come on the first floor.

Walter Krebs, a spokesman for the firm, said "there is no telling how many may be dead or injured."

Krebs said a natural gas leak may have caused the explosion. The gas is used in several departments, he said.

All emergency equipment and units, including the national guard companies and the naval reserve were sent to the scene.

Most Office Workers

Safety Commissioner Lindgren said that beyond his preliminary estimate of "at least 25 dead" it is impossible to predict or estimate the number of dead and injured.

It was believed most of the victims of the blast were office workers.

Lindgren said escaping gas was hampering rescue work.

Bill Slattery, a radio newsman at the scene, said a Roman Catholic priest, who went to the plant to administer last rites, told him that 25 were dead. A similar report was given by a policeman.

Hope Revived For Girl Scout

OSTRANDER JUNCTION, Wash., Dec. 14. (U.P.)—Rescue parties launched the biggest search in this timberland's history today, hoping to find a 15-year-old Girl Scout before she died in the wilderness.

Expert trackers and bloodhounds attempted to follow a meandering, intermitten trail of footprints apparently left by pretty brunet Ruth Aberle who disappeared three days ago while in the woods to cut a Christmas tree.

The girl's mother, Mrs. William Aberle of West Kelso, Wash., knelt in prayer for the safety of her daughter as 700 woodsmen, townspeople and national guardsmen strung out through the woods to search for her.

Trail Located

After his first night's rest since the girl disappeared Sunday, her father returned to the forest to join the hunt.

Hope for the girl was revived yesterday when trackers found a broken trail of prints made by crepe-soled shoes threading up Ostrander canyon into the foothills of the Cascade mountains east of here.

Woodsmen traced the pattern in a thin snow cover and deep mud. They scrambled through

World's Worst Mosquitoes Claimed Found In The Arctic

BY FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 14 — Any nation planning to attack the United States by way of the Arctic circle should be prepared to cope with "the world's worst mosquitoes."

Maj. Robert Traub, an Army scientist who described these insects, did not say anything about enemy attacks.

But he made it implicit that anyone fooling around in the Arctic should be ready to fight the hungriest, most numerous and most persistent swarm of creatures in the whole nasty family of mosquitoes.

Breeding Areas Thick

Traub knows whereof he speaks, because he spent a lot of time in the Malayan tropics where mosquitoes are by no means minor leaguers.

"Up in the Arctic," he told a reporter after he had addressed a meeting of entomologists here, "we have the world's worst mosquitoes from the point of view of biting and numbers.

"There is little other food for them up there, so they seek out humans. You can hold out your hand for a couple of minutes and you'll have as many as 200 of them trying to bite you.

"There are unlimited breeding areas for them in the swamps and bogs, and apparently the Arctic does not have enough natural insect enemies of the mosquito to keep it under control.

"Moreover, the season for mosquitoes is relatively short up there, because the area is covered with ice most of the time. So the mosquitoes have to get married, raise their families and seek out food in a short time. That's apparently why they attack so violently, although some of them bite even after the ice sets in."

Mosquito Range Traced

He said research by a civilian in the Army's Chemical corps, employing radioactive materials to put "markers" on mosquitoes, had shown that the Alaska dive bombers have a flight range of at least five miles.

"This indicates," said Traub, "that while you might wipe them out of a given area, others will swarm in from outside."

He also said that Alaska sports "a lot of Siberian fleas"—ostensibly imported, he said, when Aboriginals trekked across the Bering straits from Siberia to Alaska, bringing flea-infested animals with them.

Traub on the staff of the Army Research and Graduate school, Washington, D. C., addressed a joint meeting of the American Association of Economic Entomologists and two other related societies.

Outlining various research activities of the school, he said scientists there had come up with the chance discovery of a powerful repellent for rats and mice.

They made the finding in testing the substance on rodents for possible utility in treating human diseases. Commercial possibilities of the repellent are being investigated.

Large Crowd Attends Little Theatre Play

A near-capacity crowd Tuesday night attended the second performance of "The Male Animal" which was presented in the auditorium of O. L. Slaton Junior High school by the Lubbock Little Theatre, Inc.

The war between the sexes raged merrily in the local presentation of James Thurber's humorous and faintly satirical vehicle.

Mrs. John Robert Moxley who directed the play in addition to playing a role in it, paced the production to bring out both the subtle and not so subtle implications of the plot and gave the audience refreshment and pleasure.

Cast members last night played their respective roles with ease and lack of self-consciousness.

Credit should be given to the technical staff headed by James Reynolds who staged the play tastefully.

Seminole Near 26-Year Mark Without A Traffic Fatality

SEMINOLE, Dec. 14 (Special)—Many of Seminole's leading civic boosters are keeping their fingers crossed during the few days that remain in 1949.

Because, if all goes well, they will be able to welcome the new year by chalking up the beginning of the town's twenty-seventh year without a traffic fatality in the city limits.

That record, they claim, probably cannot be equalled by any town of this size—estimated at 6,500—in the U.S., and it's a record they want to keep bragging about.

Work Bears Fruit

The spotless record didn't just happen either. For many years an active safety committee of the chamber of commerce, the Lions club, the Rotary club and other civic organizations have worked constantly to bring it about.

And their job is growing harder every day, just as their town is growing larger. A heavy traffic increase, both on city streets and the highways which serve the town has been recorded in recent months. Through traffic now consists largely of heavy oilfield trucks. And, while they add greatly to the area's economic well being, they also add to the hazards of traffic congestion.

The chamber of commerce safety group started a program several years ago which brought about the removal of undergrowth, shrubbery, signs and other obstructions at intersections. As a result, Seminole is almost completely free of "blind corners" which always present a serious traffic menace.

Spotted at strategic points through the town are large signs, erected by the Lions and Rotarians, which remind motorists that a speed limit is enforced. The message hits the driver with the reminder, "Children at Play."

The city of Seminole last week announced the purchase of a new 1950 auto for the police department. It will be used in the traffic program and careful driving rules will be enforced even more rigidly in the future.

The Seminole schools play their part in the perpetual safety drive. Realistic caution signs slow traffic in the school zone. A large class of high school students are enrolled in the driving class and a late model car with dual controls is used for actual instruction.

The people of Seminole are a bit boastful of the fact that they live in "the safest town in Texas." They realize that the job of keeping it that way is increasing every day, but they feel equal to it.

OKLAHOMAN IS BUSY PRACTICING HIS RELIGION

Children Of Convicts Will Not Be Forgotten As Gifts Prepared For 300,000 Youngsters

By SAUL FELDMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 14.—A 13-year-old boy wrote the Associated Press:

"Coud you sind me the name and address of the man that sinds children presants whos fathers or in prison. Sinsirley."

A convict scribbled on blacklined prison stationery:

"I have been in prison two months, first time for me, and I have been thinking quite a lot about my children, how they would spend Christmas with no father for a Santa Claus. I sure will appreciate anything you send them as I know they will be very well pleased."

Dan Vinson received both letters—part of more than a thousandhe is getting each day. And everyone will be answered with handmade gifts.

Vinson started shipping toys today so that 300,000 youngsters, who might otherwise be forgotten because their fathers are in prison, will have a merry Christmas.

No Money Accepted

This gigantic undertaking is the climax to an unpretentious project started in 1944.

Vinson will not accept money. Materials for making tops are donated as well as time and labor.

"I don't believe in buying toys, anyone could do that," he said.

Vinson, who is 65 and a dead ringer for Saint Nick if he donned a Santa Claus outfit, has put it on a "help someone else basis."

"When somebody wants to aid, the first thing he must learn is there is no publicity and no pay. Right now 4,000 persons over Oklahoma are making all kinds of salvageable material into toys."

And they are toys any youngster would be happy to receive.

For the girls, there are dolls and beautiful scarfs made from nylon parachutes. Among the toys for boys are airplanes stamped from aluminum.

Appeals For Balloons

And to each youngster, Vinson is sending a good luck ruler.

On the back is the quotation: "Let's all share what we have today with the little kids that didn't have enough yesterday."

Uncle Dan—as he is affectionately called—wants to include at least one balloon in each package and has made a nationwide appeal for them.

Five years ago, Vinson began distributing a few toys to Oklahoma institutions. Last year, 23,800 underpriviliged children were made happy with gifts.

This year, Vinson decided something should be done for children likely to miss out on Christmas because their fathers are in prison.

"I have helped some 500 paroled persons and their main worry usually is about their children. Well, I decided to try to do something about it," he explained.

Letters went out to all prisons in the United States, Canada and Mexico. They asked prisoners to write how many children they have and their ages.

To make sure each gift has the personal touch, toys are sent directly to the prisoners. They in turn re-address them to their children.

Vinson has five grown children.

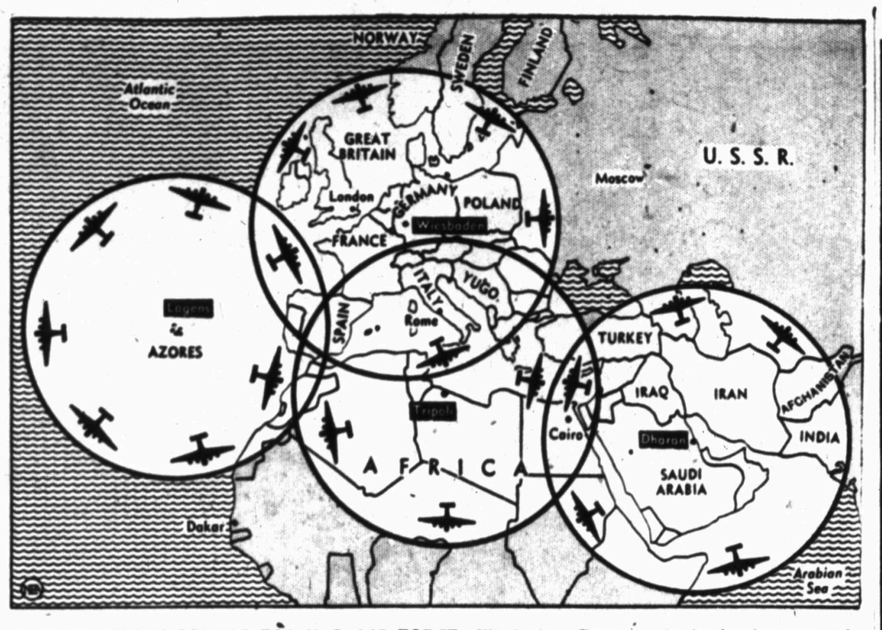

A successful life insurance salesman in 1923, he gave it up to work on a project to convert useless asphalt into a road building material.

He lost his savings and had to borrow. After 14 years of failures, he discovered an asphalt mixture suitable for roads.

Vinson turned the process over to a company and is drawing a modest royalty. He now spends all his earnings and time on his life project.

Has this Santa Claus a philosophy? Yes, here it is!

"Well, if I were driving in a heavy rainstorm and came across some people in a stalled car, hungry, wet and disgusted; if I can help them get started again without regard to their color or race or creed—and leave without waiting for their thanks or their learning who I am—then I am happy. That's my religion."

WORLD RESCUE SQUADS FOR U. S. AIR FORCE—Wiesbaden, Germany, is the headquarters of a new airborne rescue unit being organized by the U. S. Air Force to sweep one-eighth of the world's air-lanes in searches for missing planes. Four flights of B-17 Flying Fortresses carrying aerial lifeboats will operate from Lagens in the Azores; Tripoli; Dharan Saudi Arabia, and Wiesbaden. The map above indicates general areas to be covered from each outpost. In addition to B-17s, each rescue team will include one C-82 "flying boxcar" and a helicopter which it can carry.

Young Girls Tell Of Illicit Relations

Sex Orgies By Teen-Agers In Hoosier Town Shock Citizens

NEW HAVEN, Ind., Dec. 14 (U.P.) Widespread sex orgies involving scores of teen-agers shocked this quiet Hoosier town today and aroused the entire county, including the nearby city of Fort Wayne, to action.

Disclosure of the situation came from Allen county Probation Officer Walter H. Nagle who told how 37 boys and four girls had engaged in wild parties at which they were intimate repeatedly during the past year.

A six-weeks' investigation was culminated yesterday when six boys—several of them star players on the New Haven high school basketball team—pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of the minor girls.

Sentences Suspended

Circuit Judge William H. Schannen fined the six $50 each and gave them suspended sentences of six months at the state penal farm. He ordered the boys to stay home every night during the probationary period.

One of the sentenced youths was a 25-year-old married man and the father of two children. The other five were "over 18."

Allen told how one 13-year-old girl admitted that she had illicit relations with 20 boys. Once, she told him, she was intimate with two young men and then submitted to two others when they threatened to tell her parens.

Another 'teen-aged girl called her boy friend while she was on a baby sitting job.

"I told him where I was and invited him to bring along anyone else loafing around," she told Nagel. "Four others came, one a married man."

Disclosures Awaited

She said she was intimate with all five.

Nagel said most of the sex orgies took place in parked cars or at homes where the girls were babysitting.

Nagel's revelations shocked the 3,000 residents of this city as well as citizens at Fort Wayne 10 miles west of here where the six youths were sentenced yesterday.

Allen county's civic leaders, clergymen, school leaders and members of the Fort Wayne city council and chamber of commerce planned to meet Monday night to discuss the situation.

Meanwhile, townspeople expected new disclosures when "25 or 35" of the other youths are brought to trial before Judge Schannen next Saturday.

Reorganization Set By Philippine Head

MANILA, Dec. 14 (AP)—President Elpidio Quirino plans far reaching reorganiation in his next term. He already has asked for the resignations of all appointive officials down to te mayors of cities, sources close to the President said today.

They said the resignations asked of all cabinet and administrative officials had more significance than the usual "courtesy" notes customarily submitted to Presidents starting another term.

Quirino begins a four-year term as President Dec. 30. His planned reorganization and retrenchment is made necessary by falling national income, which means lower tax revenues.

The sources said Quirino received the resignations of cabinet members within a few minutes after a joint session of the Philippines Congress proclaimed him elected yesterday.

But, they added, Quirino passed out word he also wanted the resignations of all appointive officials. Mayors in chartered cities such as Manila are named by the President.

Continuation Of Air Service Proposed

Continuation of direct Lubbock-Fort Worth-Dallas service by Braniff airways has been recommended to the Civil Aeronautics board by James M. Verner, CAB examiner, according to information to the Lubbock chamber of commerce today.

The recommendation followed a hearing in Austin recently.

The CAB ordered the service discontinued several months ago on the grounds that it virtually duplicated that supplied by Pioneer Air Lines.

Braniff's demand for a hearing acted as a stay upon the effectiveness of the order and the service has been continued without interruption.

Final action in the case now rests with the CAB after a review of Verner's findings and recommendations.

One of the principal arguments stressed in favor of the Braniff appeal was that the service provided by the line is direct while that given by Pioneer is interrupted by several stops.

Doctor's Wife Is Bullied By His Mother; Should She Assume False Friendship?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Jack and I have been married two years and we love each other dearly and are very happy—except for the troublesome bullying we receive from his mother.

Usually I am the target, but Mrs. Day (I'll call her) seems to project her anger and anxieties on Jack too, and as he is a doctor now specializing in psychiatry he takes it very lightly (or pretends to) when she bullies him. She has a strong temper, and as I am afraid of her tongue lashings I have never rebuked her in any way.

Recently at a dinner party in her home she cursed me and asked me to leave. I left after telling her quietly but firmly that I would never forget the humiliation. Two months have passed since then and she has made no effort to apologize to me, but she does call Jack at his office. She hasn't told him she is sorry either, but she said she would like to have a "formal" relationship with me.

MAN IS UNHAPPY; WIFE IS DEFENSIVE

I KNOW she hates me and the only reason she wants to resume a relationship is because Jack doesn't visit her as much now as when I accompanied him. In the two years we've been married she has never visited our home and I realize now she has always liked having me placed in a subservient position.

My dilemma is that Jack is unhappy because things have turned out so badly. We have discussed the situation endlessly. He says that no one has ever been able to deal with his mother and freely admits that she is very unstable emotionally. But he also says if I loved him enough I would understand the difficulty and continue our visits to her.

I honestly feel I owe her nothing and my self respect rebels at subjecting myself to further hurt, but for my husband's sake should I force myself to cover up my hostility and resume a false friendship?

(Signed) F. F.

BIBLE SAYS AVOID FORWARD PERSONS

DEAR F. F.: I differ emphatically, one hundred per cent, from Jack's theory that if you loved him enough you would accommodate cravenly to his mother's cussedness as he does.

As a matter of fact, the Book of Proverbs in Holy Scripture abounds with graphic reminders to avoid the company of "forward" persons—meaning those who are difficult, unreasonable, wilfully quarrelsome, etc., and it minces no words in stating that the ways of such people are "abomination to the Lord."

Christian charity is one thing, poor spirit something else. And whereas it would be morally fine to forgive Mrs. Day from the heart (that is, in the privacy of your feelings) for her shocking attack on your sensibilities at her dinner party ,it would be ignobly servile to visit her home again, unless and until she negotiates directly with you to revive a formal exchange—and either plainly or by implication submits a suitable apology for her cruel discourtesy.

MAN OFFERS WIFE SICK RELATIONSHIP

SINCE she is sending you messages through Jack, in effect signaling you to humor her selfishness at your own risk, it seems quite fair and fully appropriate to send your answer similarly—by telling Jack to let her know you will receive her with "formal" courtesy in your home, if she cares to come. And let the matter rest there, unless she chooses to follow through.

Inasmuch as Jack freely admits that his mother is very unstable and impossibly difficult in relation to everyone she knows, don't you see the absurdity of thinking wretched impasse to which brought you is a special problem, and a "dilemma" that might be solved by your bellycrawling to her.

Actually it's not a case of "things turning out badly," but simply a very sick family relationship that you married into—for obviously the mother's neurotic temperament and disturbed performance exert a predominant influence in Jack's life even now, and that's how she intends it to be. For advice, recognize the nature of the squeeze you're in, and follow the promptings of self respect in standing your ground against emotional pressures that would strip you of dignity and adult rights in the situation.

Midwest Shivering In Sub-Zero Weather

(By The Associated Press)

Most of the midwest shivered in the coldest weather of the season today.

Temperatures took another dip into sub-zero levels again today over many areas. It was on the chilly side throughout most of the rest of the country. The only mild weather was reported in the extreme southeast.

The Dakotas, Minnesota, parts of Nebraska and Minnesota got a touch of midwinter as the mercury dropped. It dipped to 24 below zero at Bismark, N. D.; -19 at Jamestown and Minot, N. D.; -14 at Lemmon, S. D., and -11 at Duluth, Minn.

Rain fell today from the Carolinas and southern Virginia southwestward to southern Texas.

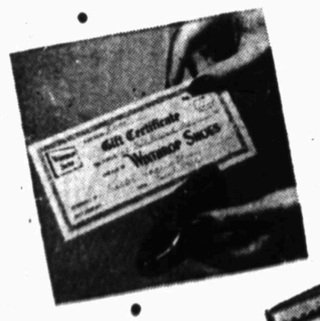

Travelers to Poland are being warned that currency regulations there are strict.

SPEED-UP OF "COLD WAR" SEEN

Stronger Party Is Goal Of Red Purge

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Purges of eastern Europe's ruling Communist parties have been speeded up in a campaign apparently aimed at stiffening Red resistance to growing western military preparedness.

Since the Russian-led Cominform met in November, diplomats here agree, the drive to crush independent nationalist feelings and build up Russian prestige has been turned on full blast.

The new rash of purges and government shakeups from Poland to Bulgaria promises an intensification of the East-West cold war, these diplomatic sources believe.

Party Discipline Tightened

The purges are seen by diplomatic observers not only as an attempt to rid the parties of those who sympathize with the West or with Ygoslavia's Marshal Tito—ousted from the Communist Information Bureau for defying Moscow dictates—but also to tighten the party discipline.

The Cominform is made up of Communist parties from Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, France and Italy. Last month it ordered its members to purge the party of those who don't toe the line, to stamp out sympathizers with Marshal Tito, to step up the Soviet-proclaimed "peace" drive, and to boost the Soviet Union.

Events Are Listed

The observers saw as a forerunner to this announced campaign the trial in Hungary of former Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk. He was executed on charges of spying, sabotage and plotting with Marshal Tito and the British and Americans to overthrow the present Communist regime there. Rajk himself was at one time a leading member of that country's Communist party.

Other events that occurred almost simultaneously with the latest Cominform meeting appear to be no mere coincidence. They were:

1. In Poland, former Deputy Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka was expelled from the central committee of the Communist party for allegedly continuing an "anti-Soviet," nationalist policy. There are unconfirmed rumors he may be tried as a nationalist or Titoist (the words are synomous in Cominform vernacular).

2. Polish-born Marshal Constantin Rokossovsky withdrew from the Russian army and became boss of Poland's army. He also was given a voice in Polish political councils by election to the Communist party central committee.

3. The Bulgarians suddenly began the trial of former Deputy Premier Traicho Kostov, who today is awaiting sentence in a Sofia jail on charges of plotting with Tito and being anti-Soviet. Kostov's trial had been postponed twice previously. It is expected he will receive a severe sentence—possibly death by hanging—although he shocked the Communist world by refusing to pour out a penitent confession of his guilt.

Other lesser figures in eastern Europe have been purged from the party recently, accused of such things as "opportunism and personal ambition," "nationalism," "Titoism," "direct relations with the enemy," "fatalism that war is inevitable" (which could mean failure to support the Soviet "peace" drive) and "economic sabotage."

Rites Set For Seminole Boy

SEMINOLE, Dec. 14 — Funeral services for R. C. Hurst, 19, who was killed in a highway accident three miles west of Tatum, N. M., about 10:45 o'clock Monday night were scheduled for 3 o'clock this afternoon in Seminole First Baptist church.

Rev. T. L. Denton, pastor of that church, was to officiate. Singleton Funeral home announced burial would be in Seminole cemetery.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny C. Hurst of Seminole, was employed by the United Geophysical Co. in Arstesia, N. M.

He and Gene Williams, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams of Seminole, were going to Artesia from Seminole when the accident occurred.

Sideswiped Van

Hurst was killed instantly. Williams suffered head injuries. Information received here today indicated Williams condition to be satisfactory at Hobbs General hospital.

The car occupied by Hurst and Williams had passed a truck preparing to pull a stalled moving van and sideswiped the moving van in front of the truck, according to an account of the accident received here.

Survivors of the fatally injured youth are his parents: one sister, Mrs. T. G. Stewart of Seminole, and three brothers, J. C. Hurst of Portales, N. M., A. L. Hurst of Odessa and Bobby Hurst of Seminole

Former Red Leader Sentenced To Hang

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Dec. 14 (AP)—Traicho Kostov, former Communist vice premier of Bulgaria, was convicted of treason tonight and sentenced to death by hanging.

The number two defendant, Ivan Stefanov, former finance minister, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Killing Suspect Branded "Sadistic Monster"

Mother-In-Law Testifies In Murder Trial Of Clergyman

(By The Associated Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 14 A jury resumed hearing testimony today in the first degree murder trial of the Rev. George P. Hetenyi, whose mother-in-law denounced him from the witness stand yesterday as a "sadistic monster."

The clergyman is charged with the murder of his wife, Jean Gareis Hetenyi, 25, who was shot twice through the chest and dumped into the Genesee river near here last April.

Mrs. Elsa Gareis, the dead woman's mother, testified she had opposed her daughter's marriage to Rev. Hetenyi.

She said her daughter still was recovering from the shock of her first husband's death in the battle of Leyte gulf when she met the Episcopal clergyman in 1945.

Mrs. Gareis, a short, white-haired woman told of receiving two telephone calls from her daughter after the marriage. The Hetenyi's were then living in El Paso, Tex.

"I left for that city immediately," Mrs. Gareis said. "Jean had a very bruised eye and a bruised cheek and she had lost a tooth.

"I said—'George, how could you do this' He said he didn't know if he would do it again. He never felt sorry about it."

Mrs. Gareis testified that Rev. Hetenyi once said that "in order to be a good wife, a woman had to have a beating once in a while."

SALE IS FINAL

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—The ad in the personals column of a local paper asked the party who bought a brown Mouton coat at a rummage sale to call 3-8714. The ad author, who took advantage of the feminine prerogative to change her mind, said the ad didn't bring back the coat but kept her phone busy with calls from curious readers.

SENATOR CONSULTS CONSTITUENTS

Great Concern Of Voters Is Public Debt, Taft Claims

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today the greatest concern of the voters is "the size of the public debt and the spending policy of the government."

This was his finding after a 13-week campaign in which he covered 75 Ohio counties. Taft said in a statement from his office here that he is convinced there is no "slide toward socialism" among his constituents.

The Ohioan is a candidate for re-election to the Senate next year and made his tour as part of that campaign. His conclusions carry national weight because of his influence in shaping Republican strategy as chairman of the Senate GOP Republican policy committee.

Danger Is Seen

"I do not think that workmen are by any means persuaded in favor of the socialistic, planned economy, hand-out state principles suppored by the CIO and AFL leadership," Taft said.

He said the real danger of such proposals is that the bulk of voters will greet them with little interest.

"My own job and that of others concerned with the preservation of liberty and the American system is to bring the issues directly and forcefully to the people," he declared.

In this connection, Taft said he found that "the program of price fixing and controlled business, of deficit spending and the nationalization of medical care and other services excites little support, and not as much interest as it should."

"I do not agree at all with those who fear that the workmen are inclined to vote for anyone who promises them free services from a federal bureau," he said.

Labor Act Cited

Taft said he thinks a substantial number of workers approve of the Taft-Hartley act.

He said he found Ohio farmers in a frame of mind to resist department of agriculture production controls, although they want government support prices for their crops "at some reasonable point."

"The idea that the Ohio farmer can be bought by government handout seems to me a complete fallacy," he said.

On other matters, he commented:

"My impression is that the people thoroughly approve of a vigorous policy against Communism, both in Europe and China, but that they question the wisdom of gifts and loans to European countries to support that policy.

"There seems to be no questioning of the necessity of our maintaining adequate armed forces, particularly in the air, regardless of expense."

Actor Suspended For Refusing Movie Role

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 (AP) — Victor Mature is under suspension from 20th Century Fox today for his refusal to make a picture for another studio.

Fox says it bought Mature's contract from Hal Roach and that the contract specifies that RKO may use Mature in one film a year. RKO cast the handsome actor in a movie tentatively titled, "Mr. Whiskers."

Mature turned the gangster part down with this comment:

"I haven't seen the finished script, but what I did see convinced me it wouldn't be good for me."

Mature, known as the "beautiful hunk of man" will not draw his salary for a minimum of eight weeks, a 20th Century Fox Spokesman explained.

A divorce complaint two months ago showed he makes $2,750 a week. He and his wife have made up since the complaint was filed.

Great Plague Might Have Been Prevented

Coffee Looked Upon As Cure For Everything In The 1700's

By ARTHUR EDSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Coffee, so much in the news now, once was considered something more than a fine drink. Back in the 1700's it was looked on as a cure for almost all that ails you.

Richard Bradley turned out a fascinating little book in 1721 called: "The Virtue and Use of Coffee with Regard to the Plague and Other Infectious Distempers."

Bradley, a Londoner, contended that if coffee had been known during the great plague, the disease never would have been so disastrous. And he advanced this as proof:

"In some parts of Turkey where the plague is almost constant, it is seldom mortal in whole families, who are rich enough to enjoy the free use of coffee; but the poor sort, who want that benefit, seldom escape."

Bad For Hot Brains

Nor was that all, in Bradley's opinion.

"If a mother drinks frequently of it when she is with-child, the infant will not be troubled with worms, during its first years," he wrote.

"Other authors assert, it cures consumptives, swooning fits, and the rickets, and that it helps digestion, rarefies the blood, suppresses vapours, gives life and gayety to the spirits."

But even Bradley conceded that you can't have everything.

"Mr. Ray," he observed, "disallows the use of it to such as are paralytick, and likewise such as are troubled with melancholy vapours, or have hot brains."

So if your brains are hot, don't turn to coffee for solace. Still, doesn't it look as if you get a lot, even at 85 cents a pound?

Goats On Coffee Jag

The whole history of coffee is wonderful, especially the legend of how man first learned of its value.

Kaldi, an Arabian goat-herder, noticed in the year 850 that his goats "not only kept awake all night long, but spent it in frisking and dancing in an unnatural manner."

Turned out the gay things had been on a coffee jag.

In spite of the popularity of coffee, man always has had a difficulty getting a decent cup of it. Back in 1721 Bradley wrote of a traveller to Constantinople who reported on coffee:

"It was sold in many public places there, which he calls coffa houses, where the Turks sit chatting most of the day, and sip of a drink called coffa, in little china dishes, as hot as they can suffer it; black as soot and tasting not much unlike it."

The description was so apt that I dropped around to my unfavorite restaurant for a check. Sure enough, it still tastes like soot.

Yugoslavia expects to be planting 200,000 acres a year to hemp, by 1951.

Dinner-Dance Honors Workers At Dunlap's

More than 200 persons attended Dunlap's Department store's annual Christmas dinner-dance Tuesday night at the Hotel Lubbock, which is given by the company each year for its employes and members of their families.

A custom which has been followed for about six years, the party was informal, with a buffet dinner preceding the dance. The banquet hall was illuminated by candlelight only, opening into the main ballroom, where Ted Crager's orchestra provided music for dancing.

Company executives Retha Martin, president; Ruel Martin, vice-president; Ira G. Dunlap, jr., secretary; and J. B. Hoskins, manager of the Lubbock store, all attended. Arthur B. Watkins, assistant manager of the store, was in charge of arrangements.

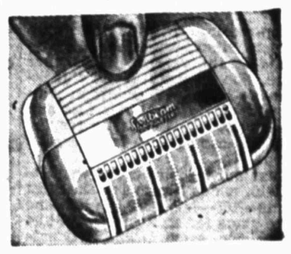

The store employs approximately 150 persons.

Port Arthur Paces Class AA

Jacket Eleven Top Favorite

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

Four of the eight schoolboy football teams left in the battle for the Class AA and Class A state championships have averaged better than five touchdowns per game, while defensively all eight have held the opposition to an average of around one touchdown or less.

Top-scoring outfit in the group is Port Arthur, which has piled up points at the rate of 36.25 per game. The powerful Yellow Jackets have scored 435 points in winning 12 games without a loss and rate as the No. 1 favorite for the class AA crown held last year by Waco.

Next most potent crew was Littlefield, which has scored the most points—453—but has played one more game for an average of 34.84 points per game. The Wildcats have won 12 and lost one, an early season tilt to Dalhart, in moving to the Class A semifinals.

The other two five-touchdown-per-game elevens are Wichita Falls in Class AA and Uvalde in Class A.

The AA Coyotes have pushed across an average of 32.75 points per game while winning 12 straight. They have amassed 393 points.

Uvalde, also known as the Coyotes, wasn't far behind. The southwest Texas crew piled up 373 points in 12 games, including one tie, for an average of 31.08 points per game.

Mexia Ranked Fifth

Uvalde's opposition in Friday's semifinal clash at Austin, the Mexia Black Cats, ranked fifth. Coach Ty Bain's eleven ran and passed for 376 points for a 28.92 average in winning 13 straight.

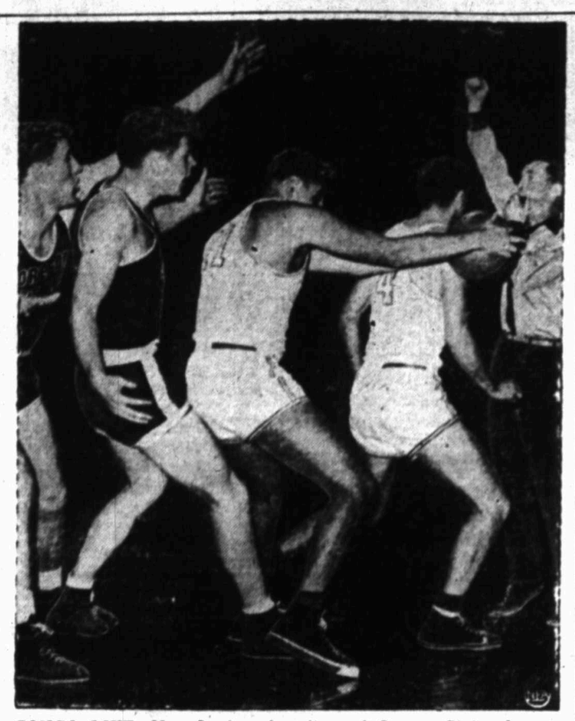

Highland Park, which meets the only team able to defeat the Scots this season—Wichita Falls—Saturday, rated sixth with a 24.92-point average in 12 games. The Scots scored 299 points.

Port Arthur's Friday afternoon foe, Austin, ranked seventh with 269 points in 12 games for an average of 22.42 points.

Weakest offensive of the lot belonged to Class A Garland, which managed only 245 points in 13 games for an average of 18.84 points. The Owls dropped one game and have been tied three times, but in each case had more than enough penetrations to get the nod.

Defensively, Uvalde had the best mark although there was little to choose between any of them. The Class A Coyotes have had only 47 points scored against them for an average of four points per game.

Mexia's defenses have checked the opposition to 4.46 points per game, Highland Park, Port Arthur and Garland 5.5 points, Wichita Falls and Littlefield 6 points and Austin 7.75.

CONGA LINE—New York university and Oregon State players were in this dance when the referee blew his whistle after the Violet's Abe Becker, 11, with ball, was fouled by the Beavers' Harv Watt in the second half at Madison Square Garden. Others are Len Rhinearson and Dan Quilty. The visitors edged the home guard, 49-45.

McCarthy "Confident" As He Looks Ahead To 1950 Season

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 — Marse Joe McCarthy of the Boston Red Sox ordinarily is a morose and purposely inarticulate man who grimly guards his thoughts and his tongue, but from the way he was smiling today the New York Yankees had better worry about their world baseball championship.

Attending the annual major league meeting, McCarthy shows none of the dourness you would expect from a manager whose club blew the American league pennant on the final day of the season. Even his casual cold manner is missing. McCarthy is smiling easily. His brown eyes are placid and his face is smooth and unworried.

Man Seems "Mellow"

You might expect the Buffalo Irishman to be even more gruff and introspective than ever, considering the breaks of the past two years. With the Yankees, he won eight pennants and seven world championships before he resigned in 1946 and every year the lines tightened about his mouth.

But his two years at Boston have been murderous. He lost the 1948 pennant in the American league's first playoff. And the past season his club tossed it away on the final day. Yet strangely enough, Marse Joe seems more mellow because of the perversity of his luck. And it isn't the false friendliness of a man whistling past the graveyard.

McCarthy is looking ahead to 1950, and with a concealed confidence which is betrayed by his manner.

"You can't come much slower," he admitted around a large cigar. "But in looking back on the past season we are all inclined to recall the games we could have won. We forget to remember the ones we won which should have gone to the other team."

Defeat No Surprise

Nor, he'll tell you, is it surprising that his highly favored Red Sox lost the two final games of the season the Yankees to blow the flag.

"Nobody thought we would beat them three straight to take the lead," he explained. "But we did. So why should it be surprising that they should win two in a row."

Only at the inference that his club did an el foldo does McCarthy show the sparks which can shower from those steady eyes.

"What about the Cardinals?" the Bosox boss demanded with just a trace of his famed gruffness. "They blew it in the last week and to weak teams, the Pirates and the Cubs. At least we lost to the team whih won the world championship."

At 62, Marse Joe is fit and trim and looking ahead to next season. And he confided that nobody is going to be helping his Bosox in the trade marts.

Young Hurlers Praised

"I don't think we can help ourselves much there," he grinned, admitting that one of his needs was for relief pitching but that "everybody needs pitching."

Yet McCarthy isn't low on his pitchers, despite the fact that the staff didn't have it in that crucial stretch drive last season.

"We have a good, young nucleus," he reflected. "There's Mel Parnell, Chuck Stobbs, who proved that he can win some good games, and Maurice McDermott, who should be a wonderful pitcher if he escapes illness or injury."

From there, and not ignoring his older hurlers, McCarthy has high hopes for the "good kids' 'coming along. He figures that the club was helped by the acquisition of Al Papai from the Browns and Chuck Schanz, former Phillies' pitcher acquired from the Pacific coast league.

"Then there's fellows like Gordon Mueller from Louisville, Bob Gillespie from the coast and George Copeland from Rochester," Marse Joe murmured in a startlingly soft voice.

The man, you can see, is dreaming right bright dreams and it bodes no good for those world champion Yankees or anybody else who gets in the way.

Lamesa Cagers Top Plainview, 28-13

LAMESA, Dec. 14 (Special) — Lamesa rolled to a 28-13 victory over Plainview's Bulldogs here Tuesday night before 400 persons in a non-district tune-up tilt.

After a 10-9 first quarter showing, the Golden Tornadoes held the Bulldogs to but one point in the second stanza and two points in each of the third and fourth frames. Halftime score was 19-9.

Leading scorer was Tornado Guard Bob Hawkins, who tallied 11 points on five field goals and one free shot. Wally McNeill, Lamesa forward, had eight points. Pacing the losers with five points was Jack Howton.

A "B" team battle saw Plainview dump the Lamesans, 30-20, with Derwood Nye making eight markers.

High individual total was Guard Doyle Lee Beck's 12 for the young Tornadoes.

Abernathy Quintets Beat Lorenzo Fives

LORENZO, Dec. 14 (Special)—Three games were played by Lorenzo against Abernathy basketball teams here Tuesday night, and Lorenzo won only one tilt.

The varsity boys game went to Abernathy, 30-26, and the "B" team won, 19-16. The girls salvaged their game, 30-27, for Lorenzo.

Athletics Get Bob Dillinger

NEW YOR, Dec. 14 (U.P.)—The St. Louis Browns, making a deal "solely because we're desperate for young talent," today sent Third Baseman Bob Dillinger and Outfilder Paul Lehner to the Philadelphia Athletics for $100,000 in cash and four obscure players.

In exchange for the 31-year-old Dillinger and the 29-year-old Lehner, the Browns received Outfielders Ray Coleman and Rookie Rocco Ippolitto, Shortstop Billy De Mars and Frank Gustine, a shopworn infielder who previously served with Pittsburgh and the Chicago Cubs.

Helps Is Seen

"We think those four players will help us tremendously," explained Brownie President Bill DeWitt. "Coleman, who was with us before, had a fine year at Buffalo in the International league with a .295 batting average and 23 home runs.

"De Mars, who they tell us is a whale of a shortstop, may get our first string job; Gustine always goes well in the spring when we generally need help and this kid Ippolitto—he's only 21—is a genuine big league prospect."

The deal, largest engineered at the current major league meeting, was in direct line with the Browns' policy of offering for sale or trade any player 28 years or older, De Witt explained.

Need Young Players

"We simply have to get young players," De Witt said, "and all the fellows we got from Philadelphia are under 28 with the exception of Gustine, who is 29."

The Browns consummated the transaction with Earle Mack, assistant manager of the Athletics and the son of Manager Connie Mack.

"We want to give Dad a real good ball club," the younger Mack emphasized, "and this deal has been in the making a long time. Before we made the deal with St. Louis, we consulted Dad and he gave his okay."

Fate In Doubt

Dillinger, added Mack, will be Philadelphia's regular third baseman and the fate of Hank Majeski, who was the A's' third sacker last season, will be decided "shortly." If the club does not add another outfielder, Lehner, who hit .230 for the Browns this year, will be given a crack at a starting berth.

Prize plum in the package, of course, wal Dillinger, who hit .323 this year. De Mars, like Coleman, comes up from Buffalo where he batted .277 in 109 games.

Both De Witt and Mack agreed that young Ippolitto almost snagged the entire deal. The A's were reluctant to part with the husky outfielder who batted .320 with Lincoln, Neb., of the Western league while the Browns would not consent to the swap without the inclusion of Ippolitto.

Sudan Hornets Drub Morton Quint, 48-28

SUDAN, Dec. 14 (Special) — Coach Francis Smith's Sudan Hornets last night served notice that they're prepared for a last-ditch defense of their District 4-A basketball crown by besting the Morton Indians, 48-28.

With Donald Lance hitting 14 points and Cal Foster getting 13, the Hornets went into a commanding lead early in the game and were never seriously threatened.

Wynn and Hill each scored nine points for the Indians.

Sudan's quint boasts four of the five regulars who last year went to the regional finals before dropping a two-point decision to Memphis, the eventual state Class A titlist.

The clash was the first conference game of the season for both Sudan and Morton.

Successor To Bear Mentor Discussed

WACO, Dec. 14 (AP) — Ray Morrison, Homer Norton, Henry Frnka, Raymond (Bear) Wolf and H. N. (Rusty) Russell were mentioned today in speculation over whom would become head football coach at Baylor university.

Bob Woodruff, coach of the Bears for three years, resigned last week-end.

Morrison, former Southern Methodist, Vanderbilt and Temple coach now is at Austin college; Norton formerly coached Texas A. and M. and now operates a hotel at Galveston but has said he still is interested in the coaching profession; Frnka is coach at Tulane, Wolf formerly coached at Texas Christian, North Carolina and Florida, and Russell is backfield coach of Southern Methodist.

These names were listed by Jinx Tucker, Waco News-Tribune sports editor, as being the most prominently mentioned.

Loop Changes By TIL Urged

DALLAS, Dec. 14 (AP) — P. C. Cobb, athletic director of the Dallas public schools, said Tuesday he would urge the Texas Interscholastic League to dissolve the City Conference set-up in favor of a Class AAA plan.

Cobb, one of the prime movers in organization of the City Conference—a union of the schools of Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, and San Antonio in a Conference separate from Class AA which takes in the smaller cities — said the plan had not turned out as he had expected.

"I will admit that now I am opposed to the City Conference arrangement," Cobb declared. "When it was organized I thought it was the best plan to offer the big city schools, but the public hasn't taken to it. It seems that football people in Dallas feel like they are playing in a minor league—that the Conference was formed to keep city schools out of the tough state competition. That was not the idea at all. I never thought there would be so much opposition to football in the City Conference set up."

The Dallas News said a survey disclosed that Fort Worth officials oppose the City Conference; San Antonio would approve either a reorganization of retention and Houston is satisfied with the City Conference.

Herman Clark, athletic director of the Fort Worth schools, said Fort Worth always had been opposed to the set-up.

Clark said he favored a Conference that would take in all schools with enrollment of 1,000 students, with those of 500 in Class AA.

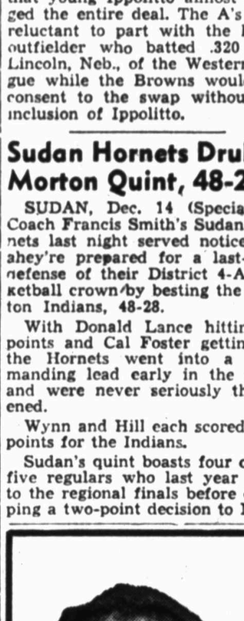

R. J. Kidd, director of the Interscholastic League, recommended a Class AAA division before the City Conference was formed but the advisory council of the League rejected the plan.

PLAYERS HONORED

VICTORIA, Dec. 14. (AP)—Leroy Key of Victoria and Ed Lechler of Wharton, who led the ballcarriers and passers respectively, were unanimous choices for the all-South Texas conference football team announced today by the conference publicity bureau.

CLUB TO OPERATE

SHERMAN, Dec. 14 (AP) — There'll still be a Sherman-Denison club in the Class B Big State baseball league next season, and it will need a new business manager and player-manager.

Tech Beats Wayland

Gibson Paces Raider Quint

Texas Tech's basketball team today was on the "sunny side" of the 50-50 mark for the first time this season, after scoring a 58-50 triumph last night over Wayland college's Pioneers at Plainview.

A crowd of 550 fans saw Center Gene Gibson spark a late Red Raider drive that produced the victory, after Wayland had surged from behind to knot the score at 31-31 and again at 33-33 early in the second half.

Gibson Leads Scoring

Gibson paced the Tech scoring with 17 points on seven field goals and three free throws, but high individual honors for the night went to Wayland's Ed Billings, who pumped 19 points through the nets. Most of Billings tallies came on set shots.

Top offensive games were turned in by Billings and Tech's Verdell Turner, who snared many of the rebounds, and by Wayland's George Goodson, who held Tech's Riggs Jackson to one field goal and three free pitches.

Cop Lead Early

Tech got away to a blazing start, running up a 17-3 lead in the first seven minutes. Gibson was the big gun in the early attack, hitting three one-handed shots from the free throw circle.

Wayland rallied late in the first half, but the Raiders still maintained a 26-21 edge at the midway intermission.

Accuracy from the free throw line, where they hit 14 of 18 attempts, helped the Raiders. The Pioneers made good 10 of their 15 charity tosses.

The triumph was the third in seven starts this season for the Tech quint. It was the fourth defeat in seven games for Coach Harley Redin's Pioneers.

Colgate, at one time behind by 18 points, put on a furious rally in the first Garden tilt to upset favored New York university, 83-78.

GAME SET TONIGHT AT BORGER

Westerners Clash With Borger Five

Lubbock High's undefeated Westerner cagers were scheduled to leave Chapman fieldhouse at noon today for Borger, where they will bid for their sixth straight victory of the new season against the Borger Bulldogs of District 1-AA. Game time is scheduled for 8 p. m.

Tuesday—in practice—shooting came in for most of the attention from Coach David Cook, and the team as a whole had the range on the bucket.

Drills Are Pushed

Stressed also were offensive and defensive workouts, with the varsity working the ball in close to the basket to try to clear the defenders for shots at the basket. After a period on the offensive, the varsity switched to defense, with substitutes being used until every player had worked in the drill.

In Borger the Westerners face a very speedy team, paced by their junior center, Keith Lane, who is six-foot, five-inches tall and a good shot from the floor as well as a fine play maker.

Leading the scoring attack are Thomas (Red) Hooper, a forward, and James Brown, co-captain and a guard.

Lubbock Record Good

Although having a small team, the Borger quintet is very speedy and is considered one of the best in District 1-AA. In games this season the Bulldogs have sped to 11 victories without defeat. The majority of the victories have been against Class A teams, five coming in a tournament in Borger the past weekend.

Lubbock also is sporting a perfect season, with five victories being posted. Two victories came at the expense of each of the Abernathy and Plainview teams, while the other was a one-sided victory over Big Spring last Friday.

Leading scorer for the Lubbock squad is Center Jim Wilson with 45 points in the five games, and close behind with 43 points is Guard Carl Ince. In four games Guard Richard Allen has scored 27. Forwards Jimmy Sexton and Tom Cheatham have 40 and 34 respectively. The five players mentioned above will be the probable starters for the Westerners tonight.

In addition to the five mentioned above, squadmen making the trip are Walter Norton, Bill Williams, Bob Wassom, Jimmy Hamilton, Dean White and Bobby Day.

Following the game the squad will spend the night in Amarillo, returning to Lubbock Thursday morning.

THOMAS TINKERS WIN

LEVELLAND, Dec. 14 (Spl.)—The Thomas Tinkers of Lubbock took a 44-41 cage verdict over the Mason Ramblers here last night. Albert Salem, with 13 points, and Jake Broyles, with 11, were the Tinkers top scorers, while Fred Owens paced the losers with 10. In a preliminary game, the Mason "B" team downed Plains Ice cream of Lubbock, 48-34.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

By AL WILLIAMS

It is becoming apparent that the squabble now in progress in the Baylor university athletic department is not holding up the acquisition of funds for the new 40,000-seat football stadium.

A report emanating from Baylor shows that the $1,500,000 goal is not far off, with more than $1,000,000 already subscribed in seat options and interest bearing bonds.

For sports fans or writers who have had the questionable pleasure of viewing football games from the old stands or press box the new model will probably seem like heaven. Probably the only major stadium in Texas able to rival old Municipal stadium in antiquity and need for repairs was Butler field in Amarillo, which was replaced this year.

The outcome of the coaching situation at Baylor is another matter, however. After a meeting Tuesday Dr. W. R. White, university president, said that there would be "no statement."

It is possible that either or both of the persons involved—Coach Bob Woodruff and Athletic Director Ralph R. Wolf—may remain with the school.

Both have resigned, but a serious effort is being made to keep both in the school system if possible, and a committee is working toward a suitable agreement between the two parties.

Woodruff has given Baylor the shot in the arm which has been lacking for so many years, and the revamped athletic department has sent feelers far and wide for athletic talent, not only in football but in other sports. It would be bad for Baylor to lose the young mentor, and it is my opinion that the alumni will do everything possible to keep Woodruff.

But if not, can Baylor follow through with the statement made by its president that the school would get the "best coach in the land?"

That best coach at present seems to be Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, recently chosen as "coach of the year."

Wilkinson, in only three years at OU, has developed a powerhouse and brought the Sooners through an undefeated season this year. The Sugar Bowl appearance Jan. 2 will be the second in as many years for Oklahoma, a team that is one of the most colorful to watch in the Southwest.

Probably the accomplishment that ranks highest among football memories of recent graduates of the University of Texas over Oklahoma which was stopped short at eight straight in 1948 by the Wilkinsonmen.

Now the Sooners have won two in a row, sending the Longhorn rooters (including this one) home yelling, "Wait till next year!"

Local fans will be hearing more of Wilkinson in the near future.

Sympathy even at this late date goes out to the members of the El Paso Times sports staff who made life unbearable for a few hours after the Westerner loss to Austin of El Paso.

Before that game, victory had been conceded by the writers, and afterwards the jubilation shown by the El Paso staff knew no bounds.

In an open letter to members of the Austin team the morning the squad left for Wichita Falls, these words appeared in black type: "The team that won't be beaten can't be beaten."

Guess Wichita Falls was that team!

The announcement that Coach Dutch Meyer will be at the helm of the TCU Horned Frogs for the next three years should be good news to TCU followers after reports he was retiring.

But there is probably a little fear in the hearts of other Southwest conference coaches, who each year face the Froggies.

Each year Meyer can be expected to produce at least one upset, and it is usually the choice for the Southwest conference crown that gets a working over.

This season Texas and SMU took the rap, and Rice came near to being a victim. The two previous seasons SMU was held to a tie, being forced to come from behind in the closing seconds to deadlock the 1948 tilt, 7-7, and the 1947 battle, 19-19.

Texas came in for concentration in 1946, being knocked out of the title by a 14-0 defeat. In 1942 the Texas squad lost to the Frogs by a 13-7 count but still managed to win the conference.

And who can forget 1941. That year the Longhorns were boomed as the greatest football team of all times. But that was before TCU put the skids under the Steers, wining 13-7 to end the job Baylor started the week before by tying Texas.

With Meyer around, followers of Southwest conference football can expect at least one upset a season by Texas Christian.

Report Not Confirmed

Eddie Dyer won't confirm the report that the Reds offered him Ewell Blackwell in a deal, but he comments: "This would be a poor time to try to trade him; he hasn't pitched nine full innings since that kidney operation."... Donie Bush, the Indianapolis veteran, probably is the most tireless lobby-pounder in town... A scout who doesn't want his name mentioned, says he'd like to pitch all day to Boston's high-priced rookie, Sam Jethroe. "If you pitch with control and confidence, you can get him out. I'll be surprised if he hits more than .150," the guy says. "But if he gets on base, he'll kill you with that speed."... Another reported "no dice" deal: Andy Pafko for Herman Wehmeier. The Reds wouldn't give up the pitcher... Hank Greenberg discloses that Joe Gordon's disagreement with the Indians originated when Joe "thought" he had an agreement with Bill Veeck to get his release. 'What Bill said was 'we'll talk it over'," Hank explains.

Gridders Now Colonels

A Santa Clara, Calif., merchant, reports publicist Mike Welds, filled a vacant store window with clippings about the 1949 feats of the Orange bowl bound Broncos... One fourth-string guard was scanning them eagerly when a teammate asked what he was doing... "Window shopping," was the reply, "and I don't see a thing I want."

All the Louisiana State football players and coaches recently were made colonels by Louisiana Governor Long... Madison Square Garden's basketball dept. won't give the press exact attendance figures this season. Ned Irish's explanation is that the colleges don't always turn in their ticket data in time, so they'll just make an estimate to the nearest 500... At least, they're always sure of 500.

Hurlers Need Old Spitball

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 — Billy Evans was sounding off just after the American league had refused to legalize the spitball... "Something has to be done for the pitchers," Billy argued. "We all want them—no club has enough good pitchers. But in the last 15 years nothing has been done to give the pitchers a break. Everything has helped the batters... They outlawed freak pitches; they throw out a new ball every few minutes and now they've narrowed the strike zone... When I was umpiring, I'd give the pitcher a new ball any time he'd ask for it, but not when the batter wanted one. The batters would demand a new ball on every pitch if you'd let them."... Billy, incidentally, didn't voice his arguments during the league meeting, nor did he dispute Tiger Manager Red Rolfe's assertion that his club is pretty well satisfied with its pitching staff... Expecting the trading dam to break any day now, Red said: "If we're going to help our club, it will have to be at first or second base. Of course, we wouldn't refuse a really good pitcher, but we won't trade an outfielder for an ordinary pitcher."

Kasaboski To Test Overhull

The long-awaited battle between George Overhull and Alex Kasaboski has been signed and sealed, and the next move awaits only the sound of the gong tonight at Sled Allen's arena.

The match is a grudge battle which dates back several weeks ago when Kasaboski won a decision over Overhull at the local arena, a decision that Overhull thought was unfair, claiming a foul. But the referee did not see the foul and maintained that Kasaboski had won fairly.

Challenge Issued

Since the last match there have been repeated challenges issued back and forth, but until tonight the two men have not been able to meet at the local arena.

Choice of referee for the bout has not been determined, but several men have been mentioned for the job.

For those fans who like their wrestling scientific but rough, the first main event should fill the bill. In this match Andy Tremain, the smooth-working lad from El Paso, meets another of the ring experts in the wily Herb Parks, a Canuck from North Bay, Ont.

Parks Is Favorite

Parks is a favorite with the local fans, and this loyalty has been won by his hustle aggressiveness and willingness to mix it with any opponent.

In Tremain, Parks will have an opponent who knows his way around—in and out of the ring. Tremain is known for his skill and ability and will have a chance to use all his ring lore against Parks.

Johnson, Blackley Meet

Gust Johnson the durable Swede will meet Gene Blackley, the bad man from Anson, in the first event, a 20-minute match. This will be Blackley's first local appearance since last spring, while Johnson has wrestled a couple of matches since returning to the territory several weeks ago. This match should prepare the fans for the following bouts.

The main event is for two of three falls with an hour time limit, and the first main has a 45-minute limit tagged on it. Matches start at 8 p. m., and tickets may be bought in advance today at the arena or reserve by telephone.

Rams Seek Answer To Eagle Defense

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP)—The midnight oil is burning and the day time hours are churning—and pardon the poetic(?) approach—as Coach Clark Daniel Shaughnessy tries to concoct some magical T-formula to crack the potent defensive tactics of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Literally speaking, this is the scene as Shaughnessy and his skilled staff of grid technicians labor almost around the clock preparing the Los Angeles Rams for the struggle with the Eagles here Sunday for the National Football league championship.

Offense Not Scorned

No one, Shaughnessy included, is looking down his nose at the offense fashioned by Greasy Neale for the Eagles. Far from that.

But Shaughnessy long has admired the defense masterminding of the Quaker City coach, and just prior to their regular season game in Philadelphia last Nov. 6, commented:

"You can't tell what that man will throw at you in the way of defenses. I tell you, he's awfully tough."

Tough the Eagles were, too, as they whipped the Rams, 38-14.

Eagles Top Defense

Comes now the title game, and the Eagles are still very stubborn. They are merely the best defensive club in the league, as the latest statistics disclose, and better than the Rams in all departments.

To make things even rougher, Shaughnessy had hoped to begin preparing for the Philadelphia team two weeks ago, without bothering too much with the Washington Redskins.

The Chicago Cardinals ruined tht hope. They beat the Rams in a dramatic last second play, forcing them to go all out in preparations for the Redskins in order to win the western division title.

Bertolino To Arrive Today

Eddie Bertolino, who meets Levelland's Bill Henderson Monday night at Chapman fieldhouse for the Texas lightweight boxing Championship, was to arrive by train today from Galveston.

Bertolino and Henderson will work out daily at City Club gym as they taper off their conditioning programs for the 15-round title bout.

In Top Form

Henderson went through a rugged sparring session Tuesday and appeared to be near top form.

Promoter Edd Sides announced Tuesday that the 29-round Monday night card had been completed with the signing of Juan Herrera, El Paso, and Enrique Morales, San Antonio, for a four-round featherweight preliminary.

Other bouts on the card are a six-rounder between Duncan and Young Amado, El Paso, and a four-rounder matching Joe Chaplin, Shreveport, and Jimmy Moreland, Lubbock.

Tickets continued to sell at a steady clip Tuesday, Sides reported. Approximately 300 ducats, priced at $4, $3 and $2 each, have been sold, he said.

A special block of tickets in all three price categories went on sale this morning in the Hilton hotel lobby. Tickets also are on sale daily at Hub clothiers, Tech drug and City club gym in Lubbock, and at Talley's Barber shop in Levelland.

West Texas Shades Texas U. Quintet

(By The Associated Press)

Southwest conference basketball teams got a little better than an even break against clubs outside the loop last night.

Texas A&M whipped Abilene Christian, 73-38; Rice eased by Sam Houston 63-48, and Baylor just managed to beat Texas Wesleyan, 52-51. But Missouri beat Texas Christian, 54-45, and West Texas State defeated the University of Texas, 46-42.

Ags Start Slow

The Aggies started slowly against Abilene Christian's Wildcats, but built up a 32-19 lead by halftime. A sharp-shooting second half gave A&M its biggest final score in three seasons. John DeWitt of A&M led the scoring with 16 points.

Big Joe McDermott scored 11 points for Rice before fouling out in the second half. But J. B. Collins of Sam Houston was the game's high point man with 21.

Hickman Top Scorer

Don Heathington popped in a free throw with two seconds to go, giving Baylor its one-point margin over the Wesleyans. The Rams had tied it up, 42-42. Baylor pulled away, 49-46. But Wesleyan came back to make it 51-51, just before the winning toss. Co-Captain Bill Hickman of Baylor took scoring honors with 18 points.

The West Texas Buffaloes acted like polar bears and froze the ball the last nine minutes of their game against Texas to get away with a close one. Tom Hamilton of Texas bucketed 24 points to pace the scoring.

Flying insects in the lower atmosphere now are said to be the cause of heretofore unexplained "angels" or "blips" appearing on the viewing screen of radar equipment.

Man's Suicide Plan Thwarted

CASTILE, N. Y., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—A smooth-talking classmate prevented Paul Jennings, 26, a ministerial student from Teague, Tex., from jumping to his death from a high peak in Letchworth state park, police said today.

Police said Jennings, a student at Houghton college, left a note in his room yesterday saying he intended to take his life.

A short time later, they said a telephone caller informed the state police station here that a man was "threatening to leap from Inspiration point," which looms over a 300-foot deep gorge.

Seized By Police

Accompanied by classmates, including Bruce C. Merritt, state troopers went to the park and hid while Merritt approached Jennings with persuasive tones.

A little later, the two students started walking down a path from the point and police seized Jennings. He was confined today in the college's infirmary.

Police said Jennings had had an argument with his girl friend, that his health had "not been too good" and that his school work was not up to par. They said he also had been notified recently that his mother was ill.

Rotary Club Given Report On Ways To Cut Federal Costs

Asher J. Thompson gave Rotarians a report of the findings of the Hoover commission in a talk today at their regular weekly noon luncheon in the Hilton hotel.

Thompson, who is a member of the Lubbock Jaycees, said that the publicizing of the commission report and its passage in Congress is the No. 1 project of the national Junior Chamber of Commerce this year.

"The nation is paying heavily for the lack of order, overlapping jurisdictions, and inefficiency found in the government today," he stated, and then suggested some of the changes recommended by th report tha' could be put into effect immediately.

Goodfellows Fund Hiked

He closed by urging members to acquaint themselves with the context of the two-million-word report, which would streamline government agencies and save approximately four billion dollars yearly.

He was introduced by French S. Pruitt.

Dr. Bill Gordon introduced Miss Alice Billings, occupational therapist, who has joined the staff at the Lubbock Cerebral Palsy Treatment center, a Rotary-sponsored organization. Dr. Esther Snell, director of the center, also was present.

J. Wilkie Talbert directed the collection of $212.45 from members for the Goodfellows fund.

Irving L. Jones introduced visiting Rotarians, including Dr. Emil Prohl of Tahoka, Ray McEntire of Floydada, the Rev. O. B. Herring of Slaton, Walker Watkins of Ralls, Mays Osborne of Plainview, Walter Craig of Amarillo, and Fred Weldon of Waxahachie.

Horace Coffman led a song, accompanied by Roy Bass on the piano. The Rev. William F. Blakeslee offered the invocation.

manager of the Sioux City Red Cross, said that, based on reports reaching her from the scene and from hospitals, it was "pretty definite" that at least 30 persons were killed.

Hanging From Rafters

Deputy Sheriff Ralph Hindman said that fellow deputies told him they could see bodies 'hanging from the rafters."

At Chicago, Swift and company officials said that the plant when in full production employs about 1,000 persons.

Mrs. Fretheim said the Red Cross had been asked for morphine for the injured. Some of the dead were reported taken to a naval reserve station.

The Red Cross began rounding up all persons with rescue and first aid experience.

The fire department said a "small" fire followed the explosion but was extinguished.

All windows in the plant were shattered when the blast occurred about 11:30 a. m.

The plant is about one mile from the downtown district, which felt the force of the blast.

In the last few months, mail bound for eastern and southeastern points has been tied out at 6:30 p. m., after which numerous letters have been received which in many cases were held over for departure on a 7 p. m. train the following night.

Under the new arrangement, first class mail dropped in a postoffice slot up to 8:30 p. m. will be placed on the star route.

"It's quite an improvement in our mail service to and from the south and east," said the postmaster.

Arrangements for the route were made by the Railway Mail service in Fort Worth through approval of the second assistant postmaster general in Washington.

Santa Claus

too.

The kids from Germany, France and England who write to Santa at New York, ask for chocolate or food. In their world, for a long time, toys have had a low priority.

Louis, a Manhattan seven-year-old, knows Santa "can do anything." So he wrote:

"Please bring me my mother. She went out and left three of us with my father. He is going to put us in a home and my baby brother is sick. I like toys but I like my mother best . . ."

Then there's Barbara, whose childish scrawl read:

"My daddy is in the army and he is AWOL for three months. My mother's allotment check will stop and we will not have any Christmas . . . We can use a blanket, as we don't have enough . . . Last year you forgot us."

And seven-year-old Sophie, who won't ask anything for herself:

"I'm not asking anything for myself My mother and daddy have something wrong with their legs. My mother cries every night because my daddy is not working We have no steam in the house and lots of times we feel awful cold . . . Please, won't you get us something to keep us warm?"

Roberta, nine, is planning her first Christmas at home in two years. So she wrote:

"I was sick in hospital with polio. Will you send me a doll and carriage and please don't forget my friends I left behind in the hospital. . . ."

From Kent, England, came Janice's nine-year-old scrawl:

"Plees don't forget me this yer I dont spec you got my (letter) last yer as I didnt get my presents like I asced you. My mummy is ill . . .

There's a Santa Claus to adults too. Wrote 76-year-old Alphonse:

"If you could please find time I would like very much to have some warm covering for my bed and some food for the holiday, and if you could spare it a pair of stockings for my daughter, who has sacrificed her life trying to care for me . . ."

Goldman has 3,600 toys set aside already to take care of the neediest cases. Postal employes are chipping in for more. The public always helps, too.

But, he wonders, what can you do for Louis, who only wants his mother back?

Defense Cost

loyalty can deteriorate into witch hunts which threaten the whole structure of individual freedom."

In summary, the report stated: "The fear of war may dominate our lives for a generation;" security outlays, abroad and at home, can impose a drain on the nation's resources and a strain on the free American society; and that it is time to bulwark the country against this hazard to its liberties.

"Security measures, uncurbed by the requirements of freedom, can undermine our free institutions," the business group said.

"Public apathy and the pressure for security can lead us along a dangerous road — a road that ends in what has aptly been called a garrison-police state."

Study Group Identified

CED was organized during the war to plan ahead for economic growth and high employment. Its statements on tax and economic policy and other matters have been credited with influencing legislation.

The new report was the work of its research and policy committee, headed by Marion B. Folsom, treasurer of Eastman Kodak Co., and including such businessmen as Philip D. Reed, chairman of General Electric, William L. Clayton, cottonman and former undersecretary of state; Chester C. Davis, president of the Federal Reserve bank of St. Louis; Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture association; and Fowler McCormick, chairman of International Harvester.

Their report stated that the government's national security resources board (NSRB), set up to plan for defense mobilization, "has not lived up to its potential."

President Truman should promptly give it a full time chairman, CED said, and the board's responsibility in matters of industrial mobilization, stockpiling and economic warfare should be clarified.

The chairmanship of the NSRB has been vacant for many months. Mr. Truman's nominee, Mon Wallgren, withdrew in the face of Senate opposition, and presidential assistant John R. Steelman has been filling the post while carrying other duties.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

MARKET AT 1949 HIGH

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — The stock market ponderously climbed to a new 1949 high today in the fastest trading of the year.

Final prices were a shade under the day's best in most cases.

Churning action produced only minor price changes for the most part. Gains were mostly less than a point, with a few running from one to three points.

It was far from a one-way market. Numerous shares either stayed at Tuesday's closing levels or backed down a trifle.

Railroad stocks were among the best while motors, rubbers, airlines, and electronic issues found the going bumpy.

The volume of business approached 2,300,000 shares, a 13-month high.

Higher most of the day were Santa Fe, U. S. Gypsum, Consolidated Edison, Kennecott Copper, Allied Chemical, General Electric, American Woolen, Schenley, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Sears Roebuck, and International Telephone.

Unchanged or a trifle lower were Bethlehem Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, Emerson Radio, Philco, Zenith, Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, and American Airlines.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 (AP) — Cotton futures displayed early strength today, but later turned reactionary on profit taking. Renewed uncertainty over the cotton acreage and marketing controls program influenced some selling.

Spot houses were on both sides of the market, one leading firm buying upwards of 3,000 bales of the May 1950 position. Switching operations were extensive between old and new crop positions, along with evening-up in nearby December prior to expiration of trading in those contracts at noon Friday.

Cotton closed steady.

Spots closed nominal at 30.85, up 2.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 14 (AP) — Cotton futures advanced here today in the early trading but eased off later under profit taking from the long side and hedge selling.

Closing prices were steady, 30 cents a bale lower to 15 cents higher.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.30-35.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP) — Selling pressure directed at December wheat knocked that contract down more than 3 cents at times on the board of trade today. Weakness in December wheat unsettled the rest of the grain market, although July wheat held steady.

Last day for trading in December contracts is Dec. 20. There appeared to be liquidation in all December deliveries by longs who were not anxious to obtain grain. The downturn came in the face of substantial export business by the private trade.

Wheat closed 2½ lower to ⅜ higher, December $2.30½-¾, corn was unchanged to ½ lower, December $1.31½-⅝, oats were unchanged to ½ lower, December 77⅝-½, rye was ¼ lower to ¼ higher, December $1.41⅜, soybeans were ½ higher, December $2.30½-¾, and lard was 10 to 22 cents a hundred pounds higher, December $16.30.

Twenty-four men were aboard the Doros when it left New York Dec. 8 for Port-Au-Prince, Haiti.

Municipal radio station WMH at Baltimore and the coast guard here picked up first news of the tragedy late yesterday. It came from the Sparrows Point and told of the rescue of eight men, in latitude 24.41 north, longitude 74.14 west.

The Doros was built in Holland in 1939 and its home port was Amsterdam. It was a vessel of 921 gross tons.

Police Probe Theft Cases

Kenneth Richard Nutter of Northington, W. Va., informed police early today that he had accepted a ride at Snyder with a motorist, but became ill and woke up in a bar ditch, his suitcase missing.

Initials "KRN" are on the bag, which contained important papers and most of his clothing, Nutter said.

Pistol Is Stolen

Douglas Robinson of Monahans said a .22 automatic pistol had been stolen from his car, after a collision here.

Littlefield authorities said a 1941 Chevrolet truck, license MH 7696, had been stolen there.

Three of four Bonham defendants in robbery with firearms charges in several Texas counties were served Tuesday afternoon with certified copies of indictments voted in Dickens county, Dickens Sheriff C. C. Kimmel announced here.

The bills were returned Monday afternoon to 110th District Judge Alton B. Chapman.

The defendants—Talmadge Monroe Bonham, 17, William Robert Leeman, 22, and James Thomas Scrivner, 21—were served in Lubbock county jail, where they are held for Crosby county.

Charged In Robery

They are charged with robbery of A. W. Wallace the night of Nov. 26. Early in the night Wallace was robbed in his drygoods store in Crosbyton.

They have executed statements admitting that they took Wallace in their car when they fled from the store robbery.

Sheriff Kimmel said they "got only three-quarters mile inside Dickson county" before letting Wallace out of their car and robbing him of $5 at point of a pistol.

Leeman, Bonham and Orville Wayne Mann, 21, who also is held here, are charged with robbery of a Lubbock store the night of Nov. 19.

Leeman and Scrivner are charged in a Corsicana hijacking.

Bonds of $25,000 were set by Judge Chapman for each defendant charged in Dickens county.

Judge Chapman had said earlier that efforts will be made to arrange a trial date for the accused this month.

Here's The Situation

If cotton marketing quotas are approved by two-thirds of the U. S. cotton farmers voting tomorrow, this will be the situation:

Farmers who plant within their acreage allotments will be able to sell all the cotton they grow without paying any penalty. They will be eligible for government loans at 90 per cent of parity. They can receive conservation payments from the PMA ($23,000,000 in Texas this year).

Farmers who plant more cotton than their acreage allotments will pay a penalty amounting to one-half the parity price on all cotton they grow in excess of their marketing quotas. A marketing quota is the cotton produced on a farm's allotted acreage. At current parity prices, the penalty would be about 15 cents a pound on all excess cotton.

Farmers who overplant their allotments will not be eligible for government loans on their cotton. And they won't be eligible for government conservation payments.

Still Use Allotments

If quotas fail to receive the necessary two-thirds majority, then they will not be in effect. Acreage allotments, however, will still be used. In the event quotas are voted down, this will be the situation:

The government will support the price of cotton at 50 per cent of parity (instead of 90 per cent).

Farmers who plant within their allotments will be eligible for government loans at 50 per cent of parity. They also will be eligible for conservation assistance payments.

Farmers who overplant their allotments will not be eligible for government loans on their cotton, and they cannot receive conservation payments. But they can market all of their cotton without paying any penalty.

Roy Bonner, 39, Kelso, Wash., a veteran of Guadalcanal said, "this is the worst terrain I have ever seen. Five of us were lost four hours. It took three hours to stumble half a mile."

Some Optimistic

Bonner, red-eyed, unshaven, leg weary and spattered with mud, came out of the hills after seven hours.

The Salvation Army set up a free food and drink station to refresh the haggard searchers. Most of the woodsmen doubted that Ruth was alive but many were optimistic.

One logger said:

"A woman has more endurance in the hills than a man. A man will become confused. A woman will keep going."

Others said her Girl Scout woodcraft might save her.

Ruth, her brother Bill and two other teen-agers went into the area Sunday to find a Christmas tree. She became lost about noon.

For farmers, who have a unique position, this will be the first contact with 1949 taxes. All farmers whose 1949 income exceeded $600 are required to declare the amount they took in.

The farmer will not have to pay the indicated tax until March 15. A law passed this year lets the farmer skip a Jan. 15 declaration if he is going to make a final return and payment by Jan. 31.

Non-farmers filing original or amended (correcting) estimates Jan. 15 have the option of making their final returns and payments on 1949 income taxes then and relieving themselves of further chores March 15.

"The Communist directors planned simultaneous demonstrations throughout Mexico in 1950, using as a pretext the high cost of living," Sodi said

Part Of Red Plot

Sodi charged that the Communist demonstrations were part of a Pan-American Red plot to influence workers in Costa Rica, El Salvador, and Colombia. He said the plot was to cause "discord among the nations of the hemisphere."

The attorney general said the plan for demonstrations in Mexico called for "direct action, if necessary." He said such action, according to the Communists own words, 'would permit them to substitute the government of the republic with another of Marxist type."

Tested Their Power

According to Sodi, the Communists tested their power last summer in prolonged student strikes in Morelia and Mexico City. He said the "politburo" advised workers organizing the strikes that they should be used to create a political problem "of the greatest proportions possible."

Sodi said Mexican Communists were working with the Confederation of Latin American workers and the World Federation of Trade Unions to gain labor support. He said the Reds were concentrating particularly on workers in the oil industry.

Neb., Monday, that Byers forced her to go through the wedding ceremony with him. She charged that he used a forged blood test certificate.

Parents Urged Charges

Castelline said the girl's parents urged her to file the charges against Byers soon after the couple returned.

Byers denied all of the girl's assertions—except the fact that they had been married. He said the ceremony was performed by a Lutheran minister and was witnessed by three Sunday School teachers.

He said they had been engaged for a long time and had planned their elopement "weeks in advance."

He also denied that he carried a gun on the trip.

"It wasn't necessary," he said.

During the trip, he said, they visited his grandmother and other relatives in Denver and vicinity. Several times they stopped along the way to buy the bride clothing and cosmetics, he said.

The court of criminal appeals today reversed and remanded to Lubbock county court for a new trial a judgment fining Horton B. (Bo) Sessums, 27, of Lubbock $1,250 and sending him to jail for 90 days.

Attorney E. A. Blair, who argued the case last week on appeal in Austin, had not learned upon what point the decision turned.

The information of the court's finding came over United Press leased wires.

Sessums was convicted of transportation of one-fifth gallon of whisky, Blair said.

Veterans Urged To Aid Water Program

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—City officials today asked veterans who used to get along on a canteen of water a day during the war to spearhead the "dry Friday" campaign to conserve New York City's dwindling water supply.

Edward J. Clark, chief engineer of the water supply department, said veterans "know the value of water and can bring it home" to city dwellers who are used to an overabundant supply.

The water department requested New York's 8,000,000 residents to go without a bath next Friday and requested men not to shave on that day.

"A Friday beard is a badge of honor," said water commissioner Stephen J. Carney.

War Victory Claimed Delayed Year By Shipments To Soviet

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—Vivian Kellems, famed woman industrialist, charged today that the allied victory was delayed "at least one year" because the U. S. sent Russia large quantities of electrical equipment which the Soviets used to build atomic plants.

Miss Kellems, who won prominence as head of a Connecticut cable grip factory for her fight against federal withholding taxes, made the charge in a luncheon speech here.

"Truly in all history no nation has ever been betrayed by its leaders as was the United States of America," she said.

"Had we concentrated on fighting the war we could have won the war at least one year sooner and thousands of dead American boys would be alive today.

Accusation Qualified

"These boys lie murdered in their graves all over this world."

She accused the wartime Democratic administration of diverting U. S. production of electrical equipment during the war so that huge quantities could be sent to the USSR which, she said, used them to build four atomic installations.

She did not say, however, that the American leaders knew the Russians would use the equipment for that purpose.

She said the shipments were made prior to 1943 when even U. S. scientists were not certain that they could produce an atomic bomb.

Miss Kellems quoted extensively from a speech she made here on Sept. 28, 1943, and from a New York World-Telegram dispatch of Sept. 24, 1949, to support her charges.

In the 1943 speech, made before the Chicago Rotary club, she criticized the government for sending big Lend-lease shipments of electrical supplies to Russia at a time when they were badly needed in this country.

Evidence Offered

She offered copies of government requisitions to prove that this nation had sent to Russia 9,842,000 feet of long distance telephone cable, 4,264,000 feet of heavy underground power cable, 26,000 tons of bare copper overhead transmission and trolley wire, and "many, many other" types of cables.

In her address today, she said the 1943 speech was "hotter than I knew and it is only recently, since Fulton Lewis, Jr., has been explaining a few things regarding the atomic bomb, that I understood just why it was so hot."

But, she said, it was the front-page story by Leon Dennen, NEA staff writer, in the World-Telegram that made her realize that the Russians had used the electrical equipment for atomic purposes.

She quoted the article in which Dennen said he could "state from personal knowledge" that the Russians had built four huge atomic plants and that one, at Zlatoust, was "served by high power lines drawn from the most powerful generators in the Urals industrial network." He added: "It is equipped with American machinery."

1943 Speech Quoted

Miss Kellems charged that "what is true of one atomic factory is true of all of them."

The luncheon at which Miss Kellems spoke was sponsored by the Businessmen's Committee of Chicago, the Women's Advertising club of Chicago, the Henry George School of Social sciences, the Abraham Lincoln club, and the Chicago Junior Commerce association.

She pointed out that in her 1943 speech she had said she was mystified why the United States should be sending the Soviets such huge amounts of electrical equipment, enough "to electrify the whole trans-Siberian railway and then some."

At that time, she said, she feared this country was providing Russia with "equipment to be used after the war" instead of during the conflict.

"To me the matter is so serious," her quotes from the 1943 speech continued, "that I cannot understand why Congress does not start an investigation and while it is about it, why not direct a few pertinent questions to that ubiquitous resident of the White House, Mr. Harry Hopkins.

"Maybe he can explain it."

Hopkins, late presidential aide, was accused by radio commentator Fulton Lewis, Jr., of expediting shipments of atomic materials to Russia via lend-lease.

Food Flown To Cats Of Mrs. Angus Ward

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14 (AP)—A Pan-American clipper leaves here today with 15 pounds of food for Mrs. Angus Ward's four hungry cats.

Mrs. Ward kept her animals with her all during the time she and her consul general husband were held prisoners by China's Communists. All are now en route to Kobe, Japan, aboard the SS Lakelands Victory.

Robert Kendell, president of the American Feline society, New York, sounded the call for aid yesterday.

The Coast Fishing Co., of Wilmington, Calif., responded forthwith by announcing it will ship the cat food to Japan today.

Chicken Thief Sends Delayed "Payment"

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Miss Mabel Thomas said she could not buy another chicken with the 50 cents but she appreciated the remittance.

A letter from Iola, Kan., signed "One of God's Children," contained the half dollar along with an explanation:

"About 30 years ago I killed a chicken which belonged to you... I'm sorry, but I was hungry."

Mail Carrier Ready For Winter Snows

FAIRFIELD, Neb., Dec. 14 (U.P.) Ray Killion is a rural mail carrier who looks ahead. Last winter, he wasn't able to deliver mail during the worst part of the blizzard that hit Nebraska.

This year, Killion is ready for any kind of weather. He has burned weeds along the road on his 68-mile route. He said the weeds caused snow to pile up and drift over the road last winter.

When snow comes this winter, he said, there won't be any drifts bothering him.

City Bond Issues Approved In Tuesday Vote

EXTENSION OF PROGRAM URGED

Farmers Of Plains Facing Heavy Loss

South Plains farmers face the possible loss of thousands of dollars in income of the cottonseed support program isn't extended beyond the present Dec. 31 deadline, Cong. Geo. H. Mahon of the 19th district, said in a telegram to Ralph Trigg, president of the Commodity Credit corporation and director of the Production Marketing administration, in Washington.

Mahon's wire came after receipt of a letter from Trigg which said "Because of the serious problem of field damage to seed from the late harvest, it appears that it would be inadvisable to make loans beyond the present expiration date."

Extension Asked Earlier

Mahon had requested last September I requested you to arrange to continue the cotton seed support program beyond the present Dec. 31 deadline in order that support price would be available on the entire 1949 crop," Mahon said.

"I have frequently repeated that request and I want to urge prompt action now. To chop off the program on Jan. 1 would do grave and unwarranted injustice to cotton producers of this area.

Points To Harvest Rush

"If good weather continues most of the cotton will be harvested by Jan. 1, but many thousands of bales of seed cotton, most of which opened earlier in the season and are stacked in the fields, cannot possibly be ginned by Jan. 1. This congressional district is harvesting a two-million bale crop and gins cannot complete ginning by the deadline. I urge that the support date be extended from Dec. 31 to March 1 in order to meet the emergency situation."

Average seed being received still grade above 100 and much of the unginned cotton will average 105 and above, Mahon said.

"Both the cotton oil mills and the PMA committees are storing seed on the ground but the mills have customarily stored seed on the ground through the years in this area without appreciable loss and no heavy storage losses in this area are indicated," Mahon continued.

"The cottonseed program has worked some inconvenience upon producers and on the PMA committees and the program has occasioned difficulties and some financial losses to gins and oil mills. But the program is probably putting about $20 million additional into the pockets of the cotton producers of this congressional district as it seems obvious without any support program on seed this year the present price would probably be about $40 per ton as compared to the present support price of $46.50 per ton and a price of about $90 a ton last season."

Mahon said he understood that Trigg was undertaking to find markets for the seed and seed products which will prevent heavy

Carol Singing Opens Tonight

The first of a series of three nights of carol singing will be held at 7:30 p. m. today when the annual Feast of Carols opens in the Lubbock Senior High auditorium.

Students from ten of the Lubbock Public schools will participate in tonight's program to make it the largest of the three programs. Approximately 500 children will sing tonight. The public is invited to the programs.

Altogether about 1,250 students will take part in the program planned for parents and friends, Mrs. Elois Elliott, vocal music coordinator, said.

The eight schools participating in tonight's program are: Arnett, Guadalupe, Sanders, K. Carter, Dupre, McWhorter, Cottage, Central Ward, Carroll Thompson Junior high and Senior high.

Other programs this week will be at O. L. Slaton Junior high Thursday night and J. T. Hutchinson Junior high Friday night.

Directing the general singing tonight will be Mrs. Elliott and J. H. Penn, Senior High director. Directors of the grade choirs tonight will be Mrs. Mary O'Wilpitz, fourth grade, Mrs. Billie Tabor, fifth grade and Miss Bernice Bay, sixth grade.

Hosts for the program tonight will be Carl Bailey and Mrs. Iris Bergholm.

Group Singing Planned

Parents, teachers and friends will join the students in the singing of familiar carols: "O Come All Ye Faithful," "The First Noel," "I Heard The Bells on Christmas Day," "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night," "O, Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Joy To the World."

In addition to the evening programs this week a carol singing program has been planned with each of the city elementary schools included with the secondary school, in which district it lies. The choirs of the Senior High and

Speed Due On New Projects

City bond issues to enlarge the sewage disposal plant and complete the highway dispersal system were approved over-whelmingly in an election here Tuesday.

The vote on the two propositions follows:

$525,000 highway dispersal bonds—For, 815; Against, 89.

The sewage disposal bonds were approved by a margin of almost 14 to 1 and the dispersal system issue by more than 9 to 1.

The total vote was the next to smallest cast in any Lubbock city bond election in recent years.

Near 1947 Vote Total

Only 820 ballots were cast in May, 1947, in an election which approved a $500,000 issue for a public library. These bonds still remain unsold.

The total polls in other city bond elections in recent years was 1,284 in December, 1945, on issues totaling $5,894,000 and 1,101 in December, 1947, on $4,924,000.

Involved in those two elections were 17 different projects and all were approved by margins ranging from 8 to 46 to one. A bond issue never has been defeated in Lubbock.

Commission Meeting Set

The tabulation of returns in Tuesday's election was followed immediately by the announcement of City Manager Steve Matthews that the city commission will meet at 3 p. m. Thursday to canvas the votes and to get the two projects under way.

First and most pressing attention will be given to enlargement of the sewage disposal plant, which is dangerously small for Lubbock requirements.

Plans for the expansion have been completed and approved. Construction of the additions to the plant can be started as soon as contracts can be let. The project cannot be completed by next summer. But Mayor W. H. Rodgers said the plant can be enlarged sufficiently before hot weather to provide adequately for the city's needs at that time.

Engineers estimate that the entire expansion program, to be completed next fall or winter, will be sufficient for Lubbock's requirements until 1953. The plant is of sectional design so that new units can be added as needed, somewhat like a sectional bookcase.

Members of the city commission agreed it would be financially unsound to enlarge the plant more than is planned now. A larger expansion, officials said, would tie up a big investment—on which interest would have to be paid—in a facility which will not be needed for two or three years and which would be idle, with re-

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP) — Mrs. Bettina Yario, 38 year old beauty operator and mother of three children, is suing her sister for $100,000 for alienation of affections.

She charged in a superior court suit that before she obtained a divorce from Charles Yario, 45, her sister, Mrs. Elvira Yario, 32, carried on a campaign to win Yario's affection.

Mrs. Bettina Yario won her divorce from Yario, a motion picture machine operator, on grounds of cruelty Nov. 17, 1948. She said in her suit Elvira married Yario Nov. 27, 1949.

Bogart Running Madly To Be Most "Uncooperative" Actor

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14—Humphrey Bogart announced today he's cooperating like crazy to get himself named the "Least Cooperative Actor of the Year" by the Hollywood Women's Press club.

"I have agents at work for me," the tough guy chuckled. "I think it's about time these ladies honored me for my nasty disposition."

This "uncooperative" gimmick is part of the annual "Golden Apple" ceremonies staged by the lady scribes around town. Every year they proclaim the "most cooperative" actor and actress and present 'em with solid golden apples or appropriate knick-knacks.

That done, they get down to business with the razzberries for the two stars—lady and gent—who gave 'em the most trouble during the year.

The awards and boos will be handed out in a week or two, and rumor hath it Boogie's wa-a-a-y out in front as the male most likely to feel the girls' claws.

"I hope I win," he declared. "I've never had an award in this town—unless you count my record for the most suspensions at Warner brothers. And if my wife(Lauren Bacall) keeps on the way she's going, she'll top me yet."

Bogie says he's going to let his "record speak for itself."

"Hereafter, I'm not available. Besides, if I win, think of the good company I'll be in. Bing Crosby, Ingrid Bergman, Frank Sinatra ... most of the top stars have been named uncooperative."

Help On Gals' Living

He wants to win, Bogart says, because he thinks the annual awards are "silly, stupid, and ridiculous."

"After all," he argues, "we're the ones who help these gals earn their living. If everybody did everything they wanted 'em to, the stars'd be outa business.

"And how do they decide who's uncooperative if they never call you up and ask you to do anything? I've never turned down a request for an interview yet. But don't let that get around—it might queer my 'uncooperative' chances."

We've got news for Bogie. We happen to be a member of the Hollywood Women's Press club and he didn't get the MacPherson vote this year.

Any gent who'll fight for the right to buy his panda a cocktail and tell the world "what Hollywood needs is more Errol Flynns and Humphrey Bogarts" gets no boos from us.

Cast Of "The Squaw Man" Has Gathering

Stars Celebrate Anniversary Of First Full-Feature Movie

BY BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14 — The filmtown saw a different kind of premiere last night, attended by two dozen of its most famous old-time stars.

The movie kings and queens of yesteryear met in the basement of a bank near Sunset and Vine to honor the anniversary of "The Squaw Man," Hollywood's first feature picture. Cecil B. DeMille said he started directing the picture in an orange grove near the bank 36 years ago to the day, despite press releases which said it was 35.

Theda Bara Present

Theda Bara, now a society matron, looked dark-eyed and exotic, if a trifle round. Portly radio actor Francis X. Bushman flashed his famous profile. Ramon Novarro, a real estate dealer and character actor, was thin-haired but still courtly with the ladies.

Mae Murray, now dabbling in television, flounced around as though she would break into a "Merry Widow" waltz. Airplane model manufacturer Reginald Denny as debonair as ever. Jack Holt, still active in films, was bald but still looked able to save a heroine from the logjam.

Among the others: William Farnum, Elmo Lincoln, Norman Kerry, Herbert Rawlinson, Mack Sennett, Anita King, Claire Windsor, Andy Clyde, Blanche Sweet, and Winifred Kingston, who appeared in "The Squaw Man."

Relived Old Glories

Jesse L. Lasky told the gathering of sending DeMille from New York to Flagstaff, Ariz., to make "The Squaw Man." DeMille landed in Hollywood and wired Lasky that he wanted to rent a barn for $25 and shoot the picture there. The producer said, "Go ahead but make no long term commitments."

"That was the start of the first feature length picture in history," said DeMille, who liked "The Squaw Man" enough to film it again in 1919 and 1931.

The old time stars listened to the remarks of the two film-makers, and smiled brightly for the news cameras. They briefly relived some of the old glories until the party broke up and they returned to their present-day lives.

Laughed one-time idol Bushman: "Nowadays people meet me and say, 'Francis X. Bushman! I thought you were dead!'"

ACORNS ONLY FOOD FOR SIX DAYS

Flier Recovering After Being Marooned On Mountain Peak

GLENDALE, Calif., Dec. 14 (AP) A young flier is recovering today from serious injuries from being marooned for six days without food after his plane crashed onto a snow-covered 7,000-foot high mountain.

Physicians said that the airman, Robert Bryant, 26, may have suffered a fractured skull as well as frozen feet and a back injury. He is at Glendale sanitarium.

Spotted By Searchers

Air searchers spotted him yesterday as he stumbled feebly through a rugged, snow-mantled canyon. A ground party reached him and found the plucky fellow in surprisingly good shape for a man who had eaten only acorns since last Wednesday.

He was found struggling through Sespe canyon, some two miles from where his two-place Culver Cadet pancaked near the top of 7000-foot Devil's Heart peak in the Topa Topa mountains, some 70 miles northwest of here.

"You sure look good to me," were Bryant's first words, spoken through chapped and cracked lips to the 13-man rescue party. The young radar technician hiked a mile and a half with the rescue party before becoming too weak to go farther. He was brought to a waiting ambulance in an improvised stretcher.

Tried To Flag Plane

Describing his crash, he said "my plane iced up, I couldn't get enough altitude and visibility was bad. I was unconscious (after landing) for about half an hour."

He told of running wildly in the snow trying to attract the attention of a search plane overhead.

Bryant crashed in a heavy snowstorm last Wednesday shortly after taking off from here for Hamilton field, near San Francisco. The Air Force and FBI clamped secrecy over much of the rescue operations. Bryant is believed to have been engaged in secret government work.

BABY PLAYS ROUGH

HAYMARKET, Va. (U.P.)—When her 10-months-old baby hit her on the head with his bottle, a young mother lost control of her car and it ran into a tree. Neither mother nor baby was seriously hurt.

WATER SHORTAGE MAKES BIG SPLASH—Residents of drought-ridden Roosevelt, N. J., draw their ration of water from an Army truck sent from Fort Monmouth, N. J., after the town's two artesian wells went dry. Water shortage worries many cities in the East. New York faces a three-year drought. Cincinnati, O., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Jersey City, New Brunswick, N. J., and Memphis are among the bigger cities facing drastic water shortages. If water continues to disappear at its present rate, authorities say vast areas of the U. S. might become desert wastelands.

OFFICES SHIFTED TO JERUSALEM

Israel Moves Against Plans To Internationalize Holy City

TEL AVIV, Israel, Dec. 14 (AP)—The offices of Israel's president, prime minister and parliament were being moved today to Jerusalem—backing up the Jewish nation's flat rejection of the United Nations plan to internationalize the holy city.

The knesset (parliament) closed its Tel Aviv sessions last night by voting overwhelmingly for the government's decision to speed the transfer of all offices except the ministries of foreign affairs and defense to what Prime Minister David Ben Gurion called "Israel's eternal capital."

Plan May Be Wrecked

Ben Gurion avoided an outright proclamation of Jerusalem as Israel's capital, presumably in acknowledgement of advice from U. S. Ambassador James MacDonald urging against any "inflammatory" action.

But the silver-haired premier told a solemn session of the parliament that Israel rejected the U. N. plan to set up an international regime over Jerusalem. He said "we are continuing with the transfer of the government to Jerusalem and hope to complete it as soon as possible."

Parliament decided to meet in Jerusalem in 10 days.

(At Lake Success, the 12-nation U. N. trusteeship council voted to proceed with plans for trying to set up the frameword of an international regime in accordance with the resolution approved by the general assembly. But some diplomats predicted the Israeli decision to move government offices to jerusalem may wreck the U. N. program.

U. S. Idea Defeated

(The United States—which with Britain supported Israel in opposing internationalization during assembly debate—was defeated in a move to delay trusteeship council discussions on Jerusalem. The council voted 6-1, with five abstaining, to proceed with work on drawing up a plan for international rule of the holy city.

(Some responsible diplomats speculated that a special spring session of the U. N. assembly would be needed to deal with the problem. The U. N. has no power to enforce its decisions and both Israel and Hashemite Jordan, whose troops hold the two sections of Jerusalem, are opposed to internationalization.)

Actually last night's decisions to move the government offices to Jerusalem are still largely symbolic.

Although the offices of prime minister and president will be opened in Jerusalem, it is presumed duplicate offices will continue to function in Hakirya, the present administrative center in a Tel Aviv suburb.

It is significant that the foreign ministry will stay in Tel Aviv. It was believed the decision was made to avoid any issue that might arise if ambassadors from other members of the United Nations, now stationed in Tel Aviv, should refuse to move to Jerusalem.

Housing Project For Negroes Is Rejected

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Dec. 14 (AP)—The federal government has rejected this city's application for 400 public housing units because the project was intended for negroes only. City officials met today to discuss a new bid.

President Truman struck out the project in line with the administration's announced policy to prevent racial discrimination in the use of public housing funds.

Executive Secretary Harold J. Dillehay of the Charlotte housing authority announced the turndown yesterday. He said it would be necessary to revise the application, eliminating reference to white or negro occupancy, if approval was to be obtained.

The Public Housing administration has announced that segregation in projects will be left up to local authorities as long as the number of units is apportioned fairly among the races.

Officials here interpreted this to mean that after the government approves a project, the policy of limiting occupancy to negroes can be exercised on a local level.

Clearing Office On Christmas Aid For Families Is Set Up

A central clearing office has been set up by the Salvation Army to assist local groups and individuals interested in providing Christmas dinners and remembrances to needy families of the community, it was announced Tuesday night by Capt. W. Thos. Gregory, local commanding officer.

The captain pointed out that: "The purpose of the clearing office will be to give information to groups and citizens who are desirous of providing Christmas cheer for the less fortunate without the possibility of families receiving baskets from several different sources.

Duplication Made Difficult

"We want to provide information to these groups so that a few families who perhaps are more in need than others and will be known to several churches and clubs will not have four or five baskets delivered and another family, not receive any.

"A call to the Army headquarters will get the information as to whether or not the family will be provided for by any other group that plans to undertake Christmas activities of this nature. We want to avoid as much duplication as possible." The Army official expressed a desire to work with or co-operate with any group or individual in any way possible.

Conservative estimates now indicate that more than 400 families will be assisted directly this year by the Army's Christmas Cheer fund. The goal for this year is $3,250. Last year, 369 families were provided baskets of food and toys for the kiddies.

Applications are being received direct at the Army headquarters, 1112 17th Street and by referrals from other agencies, friends of the less fortunate and from the Army's regular welfare files.

Contributions to the Salvation Army Christmas Cheer fund now total $1,574 as of Tuesday night. The members of the Lubbock Optimist club provided the manpower for the first day's operation of the Army's Christmas Kettle house in front of the F. W. Woolworth store. This booth will be sponsored on various days until Christmas by the civic clubs of the city. The Optimist club turned over to the Army a total of $204 for the first day's work.

Captain Gregory emphasized that baskets given by the Army to needy families would have a retail value of between $12 and $15 according to the size of the family. However, because of wholesale buying, the actual cost would be a little less than $10 per basket.

Mystery Of Truck "Theft" Is Solved

BALTIMORE, Dec. 14 (AP)—Baltimore's only horse-radish truck has been restored to its owner after 11 days of intense gloom and mystery.

Harry Tulkoss, head of the Tulkoss horse-radish company, assumed the truck had been stolen. Ten days after its disappearance, the tearful news was reported in the press. Tulkoss expressed amazement that police couldn't get onto the scent. He suggested that pedestrians whose eyes overflowed while passing a truck call police.

Tulkoss was still amazed when the truck turned up at a garage. No thief was involved. The horse-radish truck had been serviced at the garage, which had picked it up at night after Tulkoss' son had parked it.

WORRIED BY HOMICIDAL IMPULSES

Student Charged With Coed's Murder Visited Psychologist

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Dec. 14 (AP)—Robert E. Bednasek, charged with the murder of his University of Iowa sweetheart, had sought psychiatric advice, several weeks ago, says County Attorney Jack White.

White yesterday confirmed a report that Bednasek, a 24 year old psychology senior at the university, had visited a psychiatrist.

"We heard a rumor to that effect," White said. "We checked and found out that he had seen a psychiatrist some weeks ago. A statement by the psychiatrist said Bednasek had come to him and said he had 'homicidal and suicidal impulses,' White added.

Talked To Professor

Later a university official, who asked not to be named said Bednasek had gone to Edward J. Shoben, jr., assistant professor of psychology, for advice. Shoben also is a clinical psychologist on the campus and counsels students as part of his regular duties.

The official said he believed Shoben might be the "psychiatrist" to whom White referred.

Bednasek had told newsmen that Shoben "probably knows more about me than anyone else. After Shoben visited the student in jail Shoben said he would be willing to tell of his relationship with Bednasek if subpoenaed. He said he did not "feel at liberty" to discuss the relationship with newsmen.

Girls Rites Held

Rites were held yesterday at Burlington for Margaret Anne Jackson, 20, whose body was found in an Iowa City rooming house early Sunday after she had spent the evening with Bednasek. A first degree murder charge was filed against Bednasek in connection with the co-ed's death.

Ten Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sisters of Miss Jackson attended the brief services held in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jackson.

Defense Attorney Clair Hamilton has requested a full-scale preliminary hearing on Dec. 21. He said evidence will be presented intended to show that Bednasek was not involved in a "one sided love affair," as Miss Jackson's father termed the relationship of his daughter and Bednasek.

Dr. Young Speaks To Seagraves Rotarians

SEAGRAVES, Dec. 14 (Special)—Approximately 100 members of the Seagraves Rotary club and their wives attended an annual banquet here Tuesday night at the community building.

Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of the Broadway Church of Christ in Lubbock, was the principal speaker. He related his experiences on a trip to the Holy Land last September.

The program also included a medley of Christmas carols sung by the Women's Music club of Seagraves.

Full House Seen For Talk By Eisenhower

FORT WORTH, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—The chamber of Commerce said today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would speak to a full house in Will Rogers Memorial coliseum tomorrow night.

The affair, the chamber's annual membership meeting, is a sell-out, with 3,200 tickets purchased. Eisenhower's address will wind up his ten-day visit to Texas. He already has visited San Antonio, Houston and Galveston and made speeches in the latter two cities.

Heard Around

Through error, it was stated in Tuesday Morning's Avalanche that a fire run was made to Turner's Shoe Shop at 1215 Ave. G at 5:55 p. m. Monday. The run, instead was made to J. K. East's second hand store at 1213 Ave. G, where a faulty heater caused slight damage.

Families of the Latin-Americans killed in the recent truck-train crash near Shallowater have been paid a total of $840 in relief funds from soliciations secured by M. G. Sepulveda, radio announcer, an affidavit filed in the county clerk's office revealed Tuesday. The relief was made on the basis of payment of $105 per person killed in the crash. The collection of the fund was sponsored by the Latin-American employes of the Texas, New Mexico & Oklahoma Coaches.

Word has been received here of the death of Howard Wrenn in Greenville. He was a brother of Miss Neville Wrenn, teacher in Lubbock High school last year and now at Memphis.

Dec. 22, rather than Dec. 21, will be the date of a Christmas party for all children in Lubbock under age of 8 years to be held at the hall of Allen Bros. post of the American Legion. The party is to be held from 3 to 5 p.m. The date had been erroneously announced.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Stafford of Afton are visiting here with their daughter Mrs. Murl Hext of 2721 Francis.

Six Masons will be conferred the fellowcraft degree at a meeting of the Yellow House lodge 841 A. F. and A. M. at the lodge hall today at 5:30 p. m.

Residents of a house at 805 Ave. S extinguished a minor fire there with a garden hose about 5:08 p.m. Tuesday, firemen said. The blaze occurred when gas escaping from a hose connected to a heater ignited and spread to a wall. Fire equipment was also called to a building at 2009 Ave. R about 8:35 p.m., records showed. A box of matches left on a small heater there had burned, it was reported.

ENOUGH TO CRY ABOUT

SPOKANE, Wash. (U.P.)—Clare L. Hamilton testified in his suit for divorce from his wife Dorothea that she had threatened him with a hunting knife, struck him over the head with a wedgie slipper and beat him with a three-foot rod until "I even cried."

Victim Of Crash In Critical Condition

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 14. (Special)—Sam Houston Winn, jr., about 55, of Hobbs, N. M., remained in critical condition here this morning of head injuries he suffered at 7 p. m. Tuesday when his automobile collided with a semi-trailer truck at Hale Center.

Plainview Sanitarium and Clinic attendants today said occupants of the truck, Mr. and Mrs. Max E. Rankin of Plainview, were resting well.

Rankin, 21, driver of the truck, suffered possible rib fractures while his wife, 18, sustained neck injuries. Their conditions are not believed serious.

Winn was identified through papers found in his pocket and in his car. Attendants said full extent of his injuries have not been determined.

Popularity Course Is Given By School

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—San Diego high school students are being given an experimental course designed to help them seek jobs and hold them. It also aids them to get along with other people.

The course was created after a survey showed that only 10 per cent of high school graduates lost their jobs because of lack of skill or knowledge. However, 90 per cent were discharged because they did not know how to co-operate and work with others.

The course gives the student an opportunity to study himself, learn why he is unpopular or popular, and how to correct his faults.

Thief Steals Money; Takes Cash Register

"Is anybody around?" called a voice from the front.

"Yes, I'll be out in a minute," Walshlager replied.

A minute later he was out and so was the "customer," taking the $325 cash register with him and its $100 contents.

APPLES COST LIFE

SPOKANE, Wash. (U.P.)—An 82-year-old man's attempt to save a box of apples cost him his life. Albert Hallquist was carrying a box of apples up a fire escape when the box slipped and the elderly man made a grab to save it. He lost his balance and plunged three stories onto a parked car.

Happy Christmas For Family Weighs Heavily On His Mind

Jobless Man Starts Holdup, Then Calls It Off, Deciding He Doesn't Want To Be Thief

HOUSTON, Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Written just in the routine way it would have been a fairy story. It would have sounded something like this:

"A 26-year-old unemployed carpenter walked into a hardware store here today, demanded at gunpoint that the lady cashier give him some money, and then suddenly walked out into the rain without taking it. Police arrested him a few minutes later.

But the story of the young carpenter was told from his jail cell today. Police called it a "Christmas story," and no charges have been filed against him. Officers hinted he would go home to his family after questioning.

Neon Sign Did It

"It would have been all right," he explained, "if I just hadn't seen that neon sign. On one side it said 'Christmas'."

That word meant happy times, lots of gifts, plenty to eat and laughter—lots of laughter.

At home this year there would be none of that. Instead there would be two crying children in the small cold apartment. His patient wife expecting another child any day now, would understand about him losing the job. But how about the kids?

He felt in his pocket. A few pennies and a toy pistol—the one he bought for the youngest boy before his job was gone. The gun looked real.

Changed His Mind

"I just walked into the hardware store. Seemed like I could not stop. And then when I said, 'Lady, this is a holdup,' she began taking money out of a drawer. I don't even know how much it was."

The lady pushed the folded dollar bills across the counter.

"Then I knew I couldn't do it." The carpenter felt of the hard jail cot. He smiled a little, almost boyishly, as he lowered his eyes and fumbled with a fold of his checked, threatbare coat.

"Even Christmas without money, even the babies crying, I could stand. But not to be a thief. I just said, 'Forget it, lady,' and walked out."

A reporter asked the police desk seregant flatly what would happen to the carpenter.

POWER WORKERS STRIKE

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP) — A dispute over a pay raise sent powerhouse workers out on a wildcat strike and partly paralyzed London tonight. The strike began yesterday with an unauthorized walkout of 400 workers at the Brimsdown station in North London. By tonight it had spread to four power houses. About 2,600 of the city's 10,000 power station workers were out.

Boy Gets Christmas Wish For Tombstone On Mother's Grave

Bobby's mother died in October, 1948, and was buried in the Montoursville cemetery.

Several days ago, the youngster —who lives in a trailer camp with his father, an unemployed laborer on relief—decided to find his mother's unmarked grave.

His search proved successful yesterday after he had enlisted the aid of Police Chief Stanley C. Zartman.

Seeks New Home

The police chief related the story to a newspaper and the J. E. Gibbons company offered to donate a tombstone, engrave it and have it in place by Christmas.

Bobby examined the firm's stock, passed by a number of ornate stones and selected a two-by-three foot marker.

"I would like very much to have that one," he said. "Now I can find mother's grave and put flowers on it."

Meanwhile, local merchants promised Bobby's Christmas would not be without gifts, including a permanent movie pass. And Zartman said he was making arrangements to find Bobby a new home "under different environment."

A toll of more than 100,000 lives has been taken by the Sicilian volcano, Mount Etna, since records have been kept.

Los Angeles Police Cleared Of Charges

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14. (AP)—Inquiry of Hollywood police vice tieups has concluded with the clearing of the last of five police officers of all charges.

The fifth to be freed was Police Sgt. Elmer V. Jackson yesterday. Superior Judge Stanley Barnes dismissed the case, relieving a jury of seven men and five women of the chore.

Brenda Allen, former Hollywood vice queen, flatly refused to testify against Jackson, although she told the grand jury that she paid him $50 per girl per week for protection. Her refusal was on constitutional grounds that she might incriminate herself.

Whereupon, the district attorney's office recommended dismissal of perjury and bribery charges against Jackson.

Others previously indicted in the vice investigation but later cleared were former Police Chief C. B. Horrall, former Assistant Chief Joseph Reed, Capt. Cecil Wisdom and Lt. Rudy Wellpot.

FOURTH CRASH ON SCHEDULED RUN INVESTIGATED

Airline Fatality Rate During 1949 May Be Lowest, Considering Increased Passengers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. (U.P.)—This year already has gone down in the records as the second worst in history for scheduled airlines in numbers of fatalities.

But when the big increase in passenger volume is considered, the 1949 fatality rate may be among the lowest ever.

Its four fatalities—two passengers and two crewmen—raised the 1949 death toll to 91 passengers and 11 crewmen. This was exceeded only in 1947, when 199 passengers and 17 crew members perished in five crashes.

Fatality Rate Considered

Barring further accidents before Jan. 1, Civil Aeronautics board officials estimate that the 1949 fatality rate may average about 1.2 or 1.3 passengers for every 100,000,000 passenger-miles flown. This would be among the lowest rates in civil aviation history.

Government investigators still are trying to determine the cause of Monday's crash, in which 18 passengers and one crewman escaped death.

The twin-engine plane, on a flight here from Memphis, missed the fog-bound runway of Washington National airport and crash-landed moments later in the muddy Potomac. Rescue teams in crash boats pulled the survivors from the wreckage.

Joseph W. Buell, 26-year-old flight attendant who was the lone survivor among the crew, told newsmen that one engine failed at a crucial moment in the approach to the airport.

He said the plane was flying a level course at about 300 or 400 feet as it came in for an instrument landing. The pilot, he said, apparently was dissatisfied with the approach and decided to gain altitude — possibly to circle the field again. But just as the plane began to climb he said, "the right engine sputtered and gave out."

The American Aviation Daily said the crash may have been averted but for the "procrastination" on the part of Civil Aeronautics administration about installing high intensitw approach lights at National airport.

The CAA, the paper said, decided to put in new lights in the spring of 1948. But because of "Inter-bureau feuding," two winters have gone by with no high intensity approach lights, it said.

The crash had the lowest fatality total of any major scheduled airline accident this year. The other three and their death total were:

July 30, Eastern airlines DC-3 in an aerial collision with a navy fighter plane near Chesterfield, N. J. Twelve passengers, three crew members and the navy pilot died.

Nov. 1, Eastern DC-4 in a collision with a P-38 fighter plane at Washington National airport. Fifty-one passengers and four crewmen perished in the worst disaster in the history of civil aviation.

Nov. 29, American airlines DC-6 in a crash at Dallas, Texas. Twenty six passengers and two crewmen were killed.

An estimated big expansion in air travel this year helped to account for 1949's low fatality rate. CAB officials believe the total travel figure will be 7,152,000,000 passenger-miles, the largest in history and an increase of more than a billion over 1948.

Following are fatality rates of domestic scheduled lines since 1938:

1938—4.5; 1939—1.2; 1940—3.0; 1941—2.3; 1942—3.7; 1943—1.3; 1944—2.2; 1945—2.2; 1946—1.2; 1947—3.2; 1948—1.3; 1949 (estimated)—1.2 or 1.3.

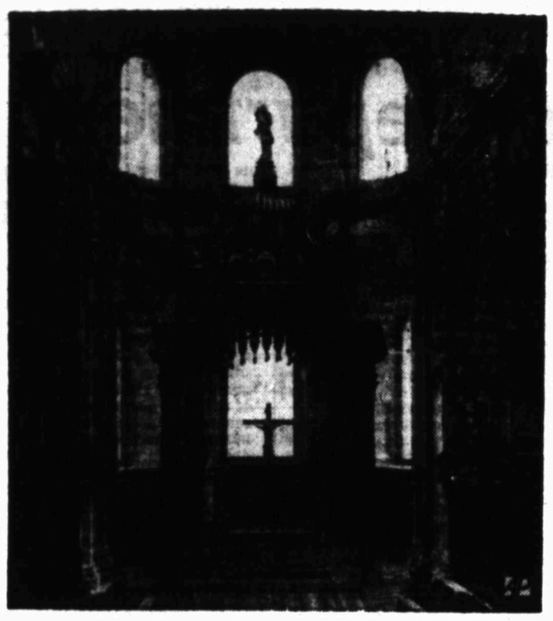

Passenger and crew fatalities respectively since 1938:

1938—25 and 10; 1939—9 and 3; 1940—35 and 10; 1941—35 and 9; 1942—55 and 1; 1943—22 and 8; 1944—48 and 8; 1945—76 and 11; 1946—75 and 22; 1947—199 and 17; 1948—83 and 15; 1949 (to date)—91 and 11.

Jury Finds Murder Suspect Is Insane

HAMILTON, Dec. 14 (AP)—J. M. Horsley, 63, will not be tried on a murder charge in the poison death of his wife last Nov. 14. He was found insane yesterday.

A district court jury decided Horsley was insane now and when the killing occurred. Horsley was accused of putting poison in his wife's coffee.

State Acts As Baby Sitter For Veterans

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 14 (AP)—The state of California, acting as baby sitter, has given veterans a chance to finish their studies because of child-care centers enabled the mothers to earn for the family too.

A study conducted by research workers here shows that in veterans' families whose children were cared for in the state-supported centers while the fathers went to school, the mothers averaged earning of 57 per cent of the family income.

In most cases the father's only income was from government allotments, the study shows.

Damaged Organ Results In Composition Of Famed Carol

OBENDORF, Austria, Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Mice gnawed the bellows of the church organ 131 years ago, and it was a wheezy wreck when Christmas came around.

The mice did their mischief in the small Catholic church of St. Nikolaus in this village of the Salzach valley, and thereby hangs a tale. It is the tale of the best loved of all Christmas carols:

"Silent night, holy night,

The parish priest, Joseph Mohr, 26, was desperate. He knew his parishoners wanted music for their Christmas. He took his problem to his friend, Franz Xavier Gruber, a school teacher. Gruber was the organist in the little church. Together they went to work.

Carol Is Composed

By Christmas eve the two had composed a simple carol. It was to be sung by the two men, a tenor and a baritone, and accompanied by Mohr's guitar.

Just before Christmas the next year, an organ builder came to check the church organ. Gruber, testing the repairs, played the carol. Mohr began to sing it, and Gruber joined in.

The organ builder, his name long since lost, copied the song and played it as he went from village to village. He carried the song from the rolling hills and valley of Salzach near the German-Austrian border to Zillertahl, high in the Tyrolean alps. There two brothers and two sisters heard it.

In 1831 the Tyrolean singers sang the song at a church service at the Leipzig fair. They were asked to sing it again at the local concert house.

Mohr died in a tiny hamlet in the Alps in 1848, he did not leave enough money to pay for his burial. Fifteen years later Gruber followed him, unrecognized.

This Christmas eve, as on almost every Christmas eve since it was written, the carol will be sung by a tenor and a baritone in the chapel marking its birthplace.

A MODERN PARABLE
By Charles G. Reigner

Hear now a parable. Thus the story goes:
The people in a certain land were free
To plan their way of life just as they chose—
They worked and built a great democracy.

Then something happened; honeyed voices said,
"Why work so hard against the odds you face?
We'll think for you, we know what lies ahead,
We have a master plan that fits your case."

"You'll never have to fret—from womb to tomb
We'll care for you and cure your aches and pains.
Henceforth you need not worry—we'll assume Control of all throughout these wide domains."

Those words, of course, were not the words they used.
Expansive words, high-sounding words were heard
Throughout that land; the people were confused,
The bedrock truths of life were dimmed and blurred.

Who seeks to shift the burdens he should bear
But walks the road that leads to tyranny,
Who listens to the subtle doctrinaire
But puts our way of life in jeopardy.

CLOSE observers of the American political scene have known for 10 years or more that sooner or later a realignment of political parties must come. Events of recent days and weeks indicate that this realignment is on its way; that it very probably will receive its first real impetus in 1952.

The Democratic and Republican parties of today are not the Democratic and Republican parties of yesteryear. Only the names remain the same.

The GOP, once an anathema in the South, today has become the party of States Rights and of decentralization of power in the government, which, traditionally, is the line of thinking in the South.

The Democratic party, once controlled and operated by the South, has become a wierd polyglot, dominated largely by Northern radicals, big city political bosses and the representatives of pressure groups, many foreign-born, or with foreign connections. It has become the party opposed to States Rights, favoring centralization of power in the federal government, pro-regimentation and, in many respects, embracing pure Socialism.

Yet despite the about-face of the major parties, a great many Southerners continue to vote tickets marked "Democratic," even though the men and the platforms for which they are voting are as foreign to their own desires and thinking as was the Republican party of a half-century ago. A great many other Southerners vote "against" the ticket marked Republican simply because of habit and tradition. They can't bring themselves to vote Republican because their fathers and grandfathers brought them up that way.

Barring miracles, its only chance to return to power lies in the person of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Even though the general accepts the GOP nomination for the Presidency in 1952, his election is by no means a certainty—unless some sort of liaison can be worked out between the Republicans and the Old Line Democrats of the South. That is why the question: "Can Eisenhower crack the 'Solid South'?" has been heard so much of late.

That is why it is so important.

IT IS not impossible for a Republican to crack the "Solid South." It is only next to impossible.

True, Herbert Hoover broke the South's traditional Democratic fealty in 1928, but that was purely on a religious issue. No other Republican has come even close to turning the trick since—and will not until there comes up another ground-shaking, precedent-shattering issue.

But a "big name," proven man like General Eisenhower might crack the "Solid South," and the break will come sooner IF the realignment of the parties goes so far as to include a change of names.

If the best elements of the GOP would agree to a reorganization, and a change of name, it is quite possible that General Eisenhower might carry a number of Southern states in 1952.

But if he runs as a straight Republican, on a ticket marked "Republican," his task of winning much of the South will be much more difficult—if not actually impossible.

Slowly but surely the South is splitting away from the rag-a-ma-tag organization which is called the "Democratic party," but which isn't the Democratic party of old.

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, proved that in 1948. Then, despite every conceivable handicap and without organization, he carried four Southern states as the gallant, but hopeless, standard-bearer of a "splinter party."

But even though his showing was remarkable in the face of obstacles, Governor Thurmond wasn't running as a Republican. He was running as a "States Rights Democat," which he certainly was and is — and which most Southerners were and are.

The experience of Governor Thurmond in 1948 indicates that if the GOP-ers are willing to get away from the traditional name of their party; if they are willing to give the South's Old Line Democrats an equal voice and equal authority in a newly organized party, General Eisenhower might very possibly break the "Solid South" wide open in 1952.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and the other bigwigs of today's Democratic party have gone out of their way to humiliate the South and Southern Democrats.

They are so sure of their ability to hold he "Solid South" through habit and lethargy, that they make a whipping boy of the South in order to placate the various racial elements, the gangster political bosses of the North and the left-wingers of both coasts.

In recent days and weeks, outstanding Southerners—real Democrats—paced by such men as James F. Byrnes and Governor Thurmond, have come out in open resentment. They are ready and willing to lead a revolt against those who have kidnaped the Democratic party and assassinated all its major principles.

The realignment of political parties undeniably is on the way, spurred by administration bungling, insults to good citizens and the uncovering of countless scandals such as furnishing Russia with the secrets of atomic power.

A new organization of solid citizens from the Republican party and of the real Democratic party —with a new name, a fresh, honest outlook and with sound leadership will go a long way toward making the realignment a fact in 1952.

Dwight Eisenhower may be the man to lead the way to victory for freedom at home, just as he did with the troops abroad.

BY DREW PEARSON: VAUGHAN'S FRIEND, MARAGON, STILL ENJOYS SPECIAL PRIVILEGES

Justice Department Is Slow To Move On Bigwigs

WASHINGTON. — A significant development has taken place inside the Justice department regarding the amazing John Maragon, close friend of General Vaughan and once a frequent caller at the White House.

Higher-ups in Justice have given orders to Morris Fay, efficient U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia, to give them a full report on the perjury case against Maragon and to make no move without consulting the Justice department.

PEARSON

This has not been done in other important cases. General Benny Meyers also faced a perjury charge, but no such order went to Fay from the Justice department. He was convicted and jailed without any delay or consultation.

John Maragon not only faces an almost identical perjury charge, but Sen. Clyde Hoey of North Carolina, chairman of the Senate expenditures subcommittee, officially sent the case to the Justice department with a request for prosecution. Furthermore, Hoey went to extra precautions to have a quorum of his subcommittee present when Maragon was questioned so there would be no legal loophole for a wriggling out of a perjury prosecution.

Finally, it has been three full months since the Senate sent its report to the Justice department, and still no action. Ordinarily, it takes about one week to bring a case of this kind before a grand jury. Maragon, of course, has had a special White House pass, has supplied liquor to Gen. Harry Vaughan, has ridden on special presidential trains, stood on the bridge of a battleship with the President when he reviewed the fleet in New York, and at one time had access to the White House at almost any time of the day or night. So while General Benny Meyers can't even get parole, Maragon isn't even indicted.

Reluctant Justice Department

Failure to act in the Maragon case brings up a point regarding the Justice department which most people don't realize. The public generally thinks of the Justice department as the protective branch of the U. S. government, which reacshes out to punish dishonesty wherever found and does its best to keep the federal government clean.

A review of important cases, however, indicates that the Justice department is extremely reluctant to go after the big boys in government, and that most of the cleanup cases have been developed either by committees of Congress or by the newspapers. Frequently it isn't until after a crime has been thoroughly aired by the press and on Capital Hill that the so-called upholders of the law in the Justice department move in. And if some friend or high political figure is involved, such as John Maragon, sometimes they don't move at all.

Here are a few notable cases in point:

Alger Hiss — now on trial for perjury. This case was developed by the House un-American activities committee, which turned up the famed pumpkins papers. Since the Justice department finally moved in, however, its lawyers have done an efficient and persistent job.

Congressman Andrew May of Kentucky — now sentenced to jail. Various hints of May's peculiar activities were published by this column and others for some years, but it took the Senate investigating committee, under Sen. Jim Mead of New York, to bring out the facts. After that the Justice department acted.

Congressman Parnell Thomas — now sentenced to jail. It took a newspaperman to dig out Thomas's skulduggery. After the canceled checks in Thomas's kickback deals, plus an important witness, were turned over to the Justice department, it carried through thoroughly and efficiently. However, Alex Campbell, dynamic chief of the criminal division, who carried the ball, had to buck some opposition near the top.

General Benny Meyers — the first public revelation that General Meyers had been up to no good was published in this column on July 29, 1947, when it was stated that Meyers had speculated in the stock market with as much as $4,000,000. Chief credit belongs to the Brewster committee, however, for bringing out the facts in the Meyers case and turning them over to the Justice department.

Arabian oil — it was also the Brewster committee which developed the amazing manner in which certain admirals and the navy had overcharged the U. S. government for Arabian oil during the war. The Justice department, for reasons best known to itself, never prosecuted this scandal, but exposure of the facts resulted in new oil contracts and a saving to the taxpayers of millions of dollars.

Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma — when a grand jury probing lobbyists learned about the speculating activities of Senator Thomas, it wanted to indict him, but the Justice department demurred. Instead, Thomas's friends, who worked with him in speculating — Ralph Moore, Tom Linder, J. E. MacDonald, and Robert Harriss — were indicted. He was not.

Thomas has been defended during discussions inside the Justice department by No. 2 bigwig Peyton Ford, who hails from Oklahoma. Ford also dragged his heels at prosecuting certain other high-ups in government while the little fellows associated with them went to jail. In fact, Ford is one of the weakest-kneed in the Justice department when it comes to going after the big politicos who cheat their own government.

On the other hand, the Justice department's criminal division and the FBI did an excellent job of tracking down and prosecuting various treason cases — notably Axis Sally, Tokyo Rose, Herbert Burgman, together with the Judith Coplon documents case. But in none of these were any high-up Democrats or high-up Republicans involved.

"You Gotta Economize!"

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

A YOUNG divorcee complains to me that married women don't seem to trust a divorcee. If she's young and attractive they keep an eye on her when their husbands are around. She's resentful of that attitude and puzzled by it.

MILLETT

It's nonsense, of course, for married women to be suspicious of all divorcees. But it's easy to understand why they are.

If she wants the friendship and sympathy of the wives she meets, the divorcee often goes about it in a strange fashion.

In order to build up her own ego she often seems to have to prove to herself that though she lost one man she's still attractive to men in general. To do that she'll play up to the husbands she meets and pay little or no attention to their wives.

REASONS FOR "SUCCESS"

SHE'S usually successful at getting men interested in her for several reasons. She is experienced enough to know how to flatter a man's ego. She is probably trying twice as hard as a complacent wife to be attractive to men. And as an added attraction, she can always tell just enough of the story of her "unhappy" marriage to arouse a man's sympathy and interest.

The divorcee's record of being able to get a second husband makes her look dangerous to the wife, too. At age 30, statistics show, the divorcee stands a far better chance than a single girl or a widow to get a husband.

If the divorcee is that attractive to men then she's a dangerous woman to have around, reason the wives.

So my advice to the divorcee who thinks wives are on their guard against her is to do one of two things: Either be careful when she's with married couples to pay more attention to the wives than to the husbands.

Or, if she isn't willing to do that, to resign herself to being a "suspicious character" until she gets another husband. At which time she'll move over to the wives' corner again.

"Try And Stop Me"

FOR THREE full months recently a New York newspaper had a messenger 'boy" who was over 70 years old, but few of the people who gave him fleeting or pitying glances as he shuffled by knew that in a happier day he had been the managing editor of one of pre-Hitler Germany's greatest newspapers. Idleness had driven him close to distraction in America, and finally, like an old fire-horse, he had come back to the business he had known and loved.

What place was there, however, for a wistful, apologetic refugee of 70? When he heard that the newspaper urgently needed messengers, he surprised the staff by applying for one of the vacant jobs.

His love of books is what undid him. He took longer and longer to complete his errands, and when finally he was discovered poring over some old volumes in a second-hand bookstore, he admitted that that was how he had been spending many of his working hours. He took his dismissal philosophically. "I guess it's just as well," he told the foreman. "I was spending too much on taxicabs anyhow."

Sale Of Liquor In Airliners Termed Controversial Issue

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—I believe we will be in for some interesting controversy shortly on a highly spiritual question. The question is: Who owns the skies—the airlines, the separate states underneath the skies or do the upper regions still remain the exclusive property of God?

RUARK

For years our airlines have refused to serve the customers a slight snifter of alcoholic refreshment while in the heavens over the United States—not so much for moral or safety reasons as because of interstate whisky regulations. They don't mind ladling out a hooker of hooch when they fly you across the waters to a foreign land. It ain't free, but it's available.

Now the Boeing people have just stuck some new ships called Strato-cruisers onto Pan American and Northwest, and in these double-decker giants they have built cocktail bars. It seems a shame to have a cocktail bar and serve nothing but flat ginger ale in it; so the Northwestern people, I understand, have been dealing out a martini or so in their domestic flights, as well as on their foreign runs.

Now we come to the burning issue: When a plane is beetling along at 300 miles an hour, 19,000 feet in the air over a dry state, is the steward liable to sudden arrest by a pursuit plane constable if he deals out a noggin of rum to ward off airsickness? How do you raid a 300-knot airplane with a heavy tailwind to push it along?

Authority Is Disputed

The states, in past, have been pretty testy about what happened in the air above their borders. I recall a case in which one state sued another for robbing it of its rain. The complaining state averred that clouds normally headed its direction were being milked of rain by a sister state, which pelted the clouds with dry-ice to induce an artificial fall, thereby committing an act of hijacking.

The clearer heads in a controversy about air ownership propound the idea that if a plane is in the stratosphere, said plane is a heck of a sight closer to heaven than to interstate commerce or a local option law. If there is any beef about what goes on at that height it might very well stem from upstairs, in the form of an outraged angel wielding a summons in his harp hand.

IN the days of the hedgehopping flights, with slow planes, you could understand the concern of the people on the ground for what went on over their heads, and a certain proprietary interest in a vehicle which might land in your living room on a cloudy day.

But now, with the lofty-ceiling jet airliners just around the commercial corner, you can be over and past a medium sized state in the time it takes to bone up on one local ordinance.

Clearly some action must be taken to define the ownership of the upper regions, because I should hate to be arrested in California and extradiated to Oklahoma on suspicion of having consumed an illegal manhattan while temporarily over Tulsa. (I doubt the legality of such an operation, but it poses a pretty point.)

Complains Are Seen

Also, if one airline is dispensing short beers to its customers in the arid reaches of the stratosphere, I want all the others to follow suit, because it gets awful dull up there sometimes.

I suppose the WCTU will complain, together with the politicians and the bootleggers, that the serving of alcoholic beverages on high is a matter of state control, but it's a hollow argument. I have always heard that air is free, and wears no man's collar, let alone a state's ownership.

Today's Thought

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

BRITISH POLITICS AND THE U. S.

Americans may have a more direct interest than many realize in parliamentary elections like that held in the British industrial city of Bradford last week.

This election to fill a vacancy caused by death in the House of Commons resulted in a victory for the Labor party candidate. But the margin of victory was much smaller than in the last previous election there. The Laborites clearly have lost strength in a locality which has been one of their major strongholds.

This may or may not mean anything insofar as the general parliamentary elections next year are concerned. Both the Laborites and the Conservatives profess to see a favorable omen in the Bradford test.

But the interest of Americans in that election and those coming up is just this: A Laborite victory will mean continuing pleas for U. S. aid to keep their Socialistic program going; a Conservative victory will offer hope that the British will make a sincere effort to work out their own salvation with fewer pleas for continuous American charity.

Indonesia Ratifies Agreement Allowing Freedom From Dutch

BATAVIA, Java, Dec. 14. (AP)—The way was cleared today for the long-awaited formation of a sovereign United States of Indinesia. Independence comes after 300 years of Dutch colonial rule over some 77,000,000 island inhabitants in the southwest Pacific.

The Dutch-Indonesian independence agreement, signed six weeks ago in the Hague, was ratified by the parliament of the independent Indonesian republic, largest of the group which will make up the U. S. I. Previously the 15 federal Dutch-sponsored Indonesian states and the lower house of the Netherlands parliament approved the agreement.

The parliaments of all of the states also ratified the draft constitution.

UN Demanded Truce

It is expected that the constitution would be signed in Batavia later today.

Negotiations for the granting of Sovereignty to the people of this group of fabulously rich islands began early in 1942. They were interrupted by the Japanese invasion of the islands. After the war the negotiations, although resumed, were marked by bloody fighting between Dutch troops and Indonesians republicans before the United Nations stepped in early this year and demanded a truce and peaceful talks.

The big Indonesian republic, meeting in its capital at Jogjakarta, was the last to ratify the agreement. But ratification was approved overwhelmingly by a vote of 226 to 62 with 31 members of the moderate Socialist party abstaining from voting.

Those who voted against ratifiation were made up mainly of Communists and splinter leftist parties.

Soviet Vetoed Resolutions

(At Lake Success, the Soviet Union cast two vetoes in the U. N. security council on resolutions commending the Dutch and Indinesians for peaceably ending their civil war. But Council President A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada said the vetoes would not stop operations of the U. N. conciliation commission which paved the way in ending the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

(Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin said the new agreement only imposed a "new and more subtle slavery" on the Indonesians. British delegates Sir Alexander Cadogan retorted that the Soviets were annoyed by the independence agreement because it "limits their possibility of making trouble, raising strict and causing turmoil in that part of the world."

(The security council voted down a Soviet resolution to abolish the U. N. Indonesian commission. McNaughton said it would continue to function as long as necessary to advise the Dutch and Indonesians on transfer of power to the new U. S. I.)

The last two federal states to ratify were the tin mining islands of Bangka and Billiton, off east Sumatra, whose parliaments passed the bill yesterday.

Among the islands which will become part of the New U. S. I. are the most heavily populated island of Java. The romantic island of Bali, home of graceful ceremonial dances and beautiful gold and silver work, also is in the group. Largest in area is oil-rich Borneo. Inclusion of the Dutch-held part of New Guinea was postponed for one year under the agreement despite demands by the Indonesians that it become part of the U. S. I. now.

Although the new U. S. I. will have full sovereignty, it still is to be included on a federated commonwealth basis linked to Netherlands by the Dutch crown. The Netherlands government has appointed its top economic specialist, Dr. Hans M. Hirschfeld, to be the first Dutch high commisioner to the new federation.

The government said Hirschfeld would hold the post for only a short time because of other duties.

Authoritative sources in the Hague also revealed that S. L. J. Van Waardenburg, who at present is a delegate of the Netherlands royal high commissioner in Batavia, will become high commissioner of Dutch New Guinea.

The sources said the Dutch will send a token military force to 1,000 men to the New Guinea area. While the Dutch are to hold that area, negotiations with the Indonesians are called for in the Hague agreement to establish its political status with a view to eventual inclusion in the U. S. I.

Formal turnover of sovereignty to the U. S. I. is scheduled Dec. 27.

TOKYO'S LITTLE "GIANT"—Midget fire engines, named "Giant," are a new item on the Japanese market. Salesman Muneshige Sasaki shows off his firm's product, a three-wheeled motorcycle with fire-fighting equipment mounted aboard. The outfit sells for about $1300.

Return To "Boyish Look' Of 1920s Is Scored By Actress

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 14.—If fashion designers are serious about promoting the "boyish look," they can include Linda Darnell out.

"I'll have no part of it," says the busty glamor girl about the proposed return of the slim silhouette of the '20s.

"I think it looks terrible. Besides, it's unhealthful. Many girls really ruined their figures for life when they had to bind their chests to get the flat effect.

Statistics Unchanged

"Why can't women look like women and men look like men? That's what makes life more interesting."

Betty Grable's leg measures are the same as when she arrived at 20th-Fox 12 years ago. The vital statistics: Ankle 7½, calf 12, thigh 18½.

Dancer Is Praised

Fred Astaire is now teamed with a gal who may prove to be his best dance partner—Vera-Ellen. . . Mel Torme is trying to avoid wisecracks about now being the velvet smog. . . Funniest thing I ever saw on TV was a silent-movie skit by Buster Keaton on Ed Wynn's show. What a great field video will be for the great old comedians!

Elsa Lanchester, who has four unreleased pictures, was asked what she'll do next. "I think I'll sit around on my backlog," she answered.

General Sales Tax Scored By Burmese

RANGOON, Dec. 14 (AP)—Burma's five Chambers of Commerce—Burmese, British, Indian, Chinese and Muslim—got together to express oint frank disapproval of the Burmese government's general sales tax.

President of the Burmese Chamber, U Tha Tun Aung, in a letter widely published in local press, criticized the government for planning multiple taxation at 6¼ percent compound interest at "each stage on all commodities which in normal practice passes through several hands before reaching the consumer."

The final result, warned the letter, will be a call upon the public to meet price increases of 50 per cent or more.

LAST IS FIRST

Hop-merchant butterflies lay their eggs in columns, attached to leaves, and the last laid eggs hatch first, so that the chain may not be broken.

TWINS PAY OFF

BOSTON (U.P.) — Under a new Massachusetts law, the state foots the bill for hospital care of babies weighing 4½ pounds or less if the parents need such help. First to benefit under this statue was a woman who gave birth prematurely to twins weighing a total of only 7 pounds, 13 ounces.

VACATION FOR HST IN FINAL WEEK

President's Aides Working On State Of Union Message

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 14 (AP)—Work at the temporary White House slowed down to little more than routine today.

President Truman delegated most of what there was to do to John R. Steelman, assistant, and Clark M. Clifford, special counsel.

They in turn delegated to staffers in Washington necessary leg and research work to get the "State of the Union" message into shape for final consideration by the full cabinet before the last draft is written at the White House.

Tax Plans Unknown

The President, it has been made clear, will urge Congress in a personal appeal in January, for that part of the "fair deal" it refused to pass this year.

How he proposes to raise enough new taxes to offset a prospective new deficit has not been disclosed. Nor has he said how he views suggestions to eliminate or reduce war-time excise taxes.

He long has advocated a revision of the tax structure to close loopholes, shift a greater share of the cost of government to the profits of corporations, and reduce the taxes of low-income groups.

Such a revision likely will be embraced in his "State of the Union" message and elaborated upon in his budget message if some of his advisors have their way.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross disclosed that basic policy decisions on the tax program will await the President's return to Washington.

Emphasis was placed on swimming, walking and sunbathing as the President's vacation entered the final week. He returns to Washington Tuesday, then flies to Independence, Mo., three days later to spend the Christmas holidays with his family.

He appealed to American communities last night to help provide Christmas cheer and recreation for members of the armed forces unable to get holiday leave to return to their homes. The President's committee on religion and welfare in the armed services was asked to carry the appeal to the people.

Children Reimbursed For Theft Of Money

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Burglars broke into a grade school here and stole $9.50.

Six dollars of the loot was precious money the children had set aside for their "World Friendship Among Children" fund.

When Mrs. Wilkes Covey of Minneapolis heard what happened she promptly sent the children a check for $6. The children are going to use it to send packages of new clothing to youngsters overseas.

NEW HAMPSHIRE'S ANNIE OAKLEY—Mrs. Charles Ewens, 31-year-old mother of three, with the 305-pound wild boar she killed with one shot of her 30-30 rifle at a distance of 75 yards while deer hunting near her farm home near South Alexandria, N. H. Wild boar have been shot in several sections of western New Hampshire since the 1938 hurricane damaged fences around a private game preserve and allowed them to escape. (AP Wirephoto).

Mayor Rodgers also said, after the returns were announced, that the city commission will begin immediately to negotiate for the rights-of-way necessary to the completion of the highway dispersal system.

These will involve the building of about 10 miles of 64-foot, four-lane thoroughfares in Lubbock and the immediate environs and the construction of four, four-lane railroad underpasses by the state and federal highway departments at an estimated cost of $1,611,000.

The thoroughfares scheduled for improvement are Nineteenth eastward from Texas Avenue to the Idalou highway; Fourth street entirely across the city; Avenue A from Broadway to Nineteenth and Northeast Avenue Q from Third street to the Plainview highway.

Voting Tuesday was light throughout the day. At no time during the counting of ballots was there reason for uneasiness that either of the projects would fail of decisive approval.

Larger Vote Possible

However, members of a citizens' committee headed by Irving L. Jones stood by throughout the day, prepared for an intensive drive to get out the favorable vote if either proposition appeared in danger. A much larger vote could have been gotten to the polls if the necessity had arisen.

City officials were of the opinion that the votes against the propositions represented practically all the opposition in Lubbock. Their further opinion was that most of the qualified voters who did not go to the polls favored both proposals.

The Central Fire station, Tenth street and Avenue J, was the only voting place. The indications were that this will be the last city election of any kind with only one voting box. The probabilities are that, in future elections, places more convenient to large residential areas will be designated.

losses to the CCC.

"Oil mills are still running at full tilt but crushing arrangements should be completed in the near future in order that the mills may continue to run at maximum capacity, and so that an abundant supply of cottonseed cake may continue to be available to farmers and ranchers in the Southwest," Mahon continued.

"I am most anxious that you take favorable action at the earliest possible moment," Mahon's communication said in closing.

In the letter to Mahon, in which it was indicated that the deadline could not be extended, W. C. Shamburger, acting assistant to the administrator of the PMA, said:

"In the cotton trade it is generally recognized that as the harvest continues into the late fall and early winter months, there is a noticeable increase in the percentage of 'below grade' and 'off quality' cottonseed placed on the market," Shamburger's letter said. "The highly perishable character of cottonseed makes this commodity extremely susceptible to deterioration when exposed to weather conditions which often prevail over a large part of the cotton belt in the early winter months.

"Because of the serious problem of field damage to seed from the late harvest, it appears that it would be inadvisable to make loans beyond the present expiration date," Shamburger said.

Shamburger added that the problem would be discussed at a meeting in Memphis this week, which will be attended by state PMA committeemen.

Mahon's wire, dispatched Tuesday, hoped to have an effect on decisions in the Memphis meeting.

It was estimated by cotton men that at least 200,000 bales of cotton would still be on the ground and unginned on Jan. 1 in this area.

Engine Failure In Crash Told

WASHINGTON, D. C., 14. (AP)—Officials investigating the crash of a Capital airliner studied a crew member's report today that an engine failed just before the plane plunged into the Potomac river Monday night.

The probe was started by the Civil Aeronautics board within a few hours of the crash, which killed four persons including the pilot and co-pilot. There were 19 survivors.

The crackup occurred while the twin-engine DC-3 was trying with the help of radar to feel its way into National airport through a heavy fog. Technicians said the plane veered off the radar screen as it approached the field. It was found in the river shortly afterward.

Engine Sputtered

The only surviving crew member, flight attendant Joseph W. Buell, jr., related:

"We started a climb to the left at about 300 feet high. The starboard engine sputtered—I think it quite completely—then we spun off to the left."

Buell's story supported another indication that Pilot William J. Davis was attempting to regain altitude for another landing attempt when the crash occurred near Bolling Air Force base—across the Potomac from the commercial airport.

The other sign that Davis had changed his mind about an immediate landing was a report that the shattered aircraft's wheels were drawn up in flying position—which would not have been the case if the pilot had planned to land.

Congress To Investigate

Chairman Crosser (D-Ohio) of the House commerce committee said his group will start an investigation of air safety as soon as Congress reconvenes.

The crash of the Capital airliner took place not far from the spot where 55 persons lost their lives November 1 in the collision of an Eastern airliner and a P-38 fighter plane. That accident—the worst in airline history—still is being investigated by government officials.

Besides Pilot Davis, those killed in the crash of the Capital plane were Co-Pilot Lloyd L. Porter; Mrs. William Chertow of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and Neville Lassiter, a government employe of Arlington, Va. Davis, Porter and Buell lived in nearby Alexandria, Va.

TOO MUCH RELIGION

DUNCAN, Okla. (UP)—Singing hymns too loudly in a local church sent one Duncan man to jail. Police called by church deacons booked the enthusiastic singer for public drunkenness.

MEET THE MANAGER—Frank G. Parris, partner and manager of Lubbock Auction and Commission company, Thirteenth and Ave. D, was born in Kanawha county, West Virginia, July 20, 1907. He grew up and went to grade school and high school there. He attended Ohio State university, where he received a bachelor of arts degree, and the University of Pittsburgh, where he received a master of science degree in geology. He was elected to Sigma Xi, professional honorary fraternity. He did work toward his Ph. D. degree at Ohio State. He was associated with Union Carbide and Carbon company in West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia for four years. He then engaged in the wholesale mercantile business in Charleston, W. Va., until 1942, when he sold his business and moved to Lynn county, where he bought a farm near Tahoka. On May 1 of this year he became a partner and manager of Lubbock Auction and Commission company. Boy Sentenced To Life Term

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 14 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Raymond Welsh has been convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of a teenage pal. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

The slender youth stood with eyes lowered and shook his head from side to side when the jury of eight men and four women returned the verdict yesterday afternoon. The jury deliberated only an hour and 15 minutes.

Youngest Murder Convict

Welsh is the youngest person ever convicted on a first degree murder charge in Essex county.

He was convicted of shooting 15-year-old Freddie Januszkiewicz in order to rob him of $81 in wooded South Mountain reservation last March 3.

The state had asked for a life sentence rather than the death penalty for the murder, because of Welsh's youth.

Toy Store Man Fined For Noise Of Trains

BEDMINSTER, N. J., Dec. 14 (AP)—Toyshop owner Orville Seals says he's going to fight for the right to toot.

Seals rigged up a loudspeaker which broadcast far and near the realistic chugging and tooting of his toy trains.

Residents near the shop complained about the noise. One of them said her little boy lay awake in bed fascinated by the trains as late as 10 p. m.

Seals was fined $15 in police court. His attorney, George W. Algair, said last night he'd take the case to a higher court.

Town Shipping Water To New York's Mayor

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 14. (AP)—A five-gallon can of this city's surplus water was on its way today to Mayor William O'Dwyer of water-short New York City.

Staff members of radio station WTTS and television station WTTV noted water was flowing over the waterworks dam here and decided to start what they called an irrigation-by-mail plan.

With New York's bathless-shaveless Friday decree in mind, they said in a letter to Mayor O'Dwyer, "Hope this will be good for a few shaves, anyway."

Boy Gets Head Stuck In Rim Of Cake Pan

CHICAGO, Dec. 14 (AP)—Michael Thomas Sullivan, 3, tried his mother's new two-piece cake pan on his head for size yesterday and was up to his neck in trouble.

Michael removed the bottom from the pan and put the rim—which he though made a fine helmet—over his head. The pan didn't come off as easily as it slipped on.

Michael howled and his mother, Mrs. Jane Sullivan, 26, telephoned a fire rescue squad. Firemen used a hacksaw to cut the rim off the boy's neck.

FAMILIES DEPENDENT ON MINE

Mine Closing Ends Work For Most Men Of Maryland Town

SHALLMAR, Md., Des. 14 (AP)—Life was stirring again today along this string of houses buried between high, towering mountains. The 54 families of Shallmar had food and clothing again.

Now there's only one thing lacking: Work. Then they wouldn't need the handouts of food and clothing from more fortunate towns.

These families are dependent almost entirely on the operation of the Wolf Den mine that juts into the hill just above them. But the mine has been closed since last March because there have been no coal orders.

No Market For Coal

W. A. Marshall, broker for the coal mined at the Wolf Den pit, said in New York that the mine will reopen anytime its coal can be sold. Right now, there isn't a market for it.

(Marshall once owned the mine. The town got its name by reversing the syllables of his name: Mar-Shall—Shall-Mar.)

Unemployment compensation checks helped for a while, then most of them ran out last August. The general store extended some credit, but that limit was soon reached.

Three families moved out after the mine shutdown. But the rest have stayed, hoping for a break in the grim stalemate.

Hold No Grudge

A group of miners sat around the pot-bellied stove in the union hall while others were painting the walls so the room could be used when the hot lunch program for the children is started, perhaps today.

They talked freely of the town's condition. Generally they held no grudge against anyone. The company had explained the situation to them last March, and they seemed to accept the situation as one they couldn't cope with.

But none was ready to move. As one put it, "I was born just up the river, and I guess I'll die here."

George Stonebreaker, a miner for 37 years, said he had "moved to a little shack with a plot of ground up on the hill. But I been sick and haven't been able to do anything with it. My woman worked a little bit, but now she's off."

Hope For Work

Tony Crosco, a stocky, 59-year-old digger with white flowing hair, told how he went into the mines when he was nine.

"I went in with a little pick and worked right beside my father," he recalled. "Later they put me to driving the mule, and I drove mules until I was 17. Then I started digging coal.

"I don't know," he muttered. "When us fellows get so old, we can't do much else. There's nothing else we can do.

"My, I sure hope we get back to work soon."

A couple of the younger men said they had tried to get jobs in other parts of the state, but they couldn't find any. So they came back to Shallmar.

Incidentally, Shallmar isn't the only western Maryland mining town hit. The situation is much the same in the general area. But the mine was the only thing Shallmar had. When that closed, there was nothing.

Lufkin Man Is Honored Today

LUFKIN, Dec. 14 (AP)—Lufkin was taking a holiday today as thousands of visitors came to honor industrialist Ernest L. Kurth.

The 64-year-old Lufkin businessman, civic leader and industrialist has been named "man of the south for 1949" and Texas' industrialist of the year.

Federal and state officials are among those from throughout the south who have come to participate in a testimonial dinner tonight when the awards are to be presented.

They include Texas Governor Allan Shivers, U. S. Senator Tom Connally, former Governor William P. Hobby, and former Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones.

Mitchell To Speak

Don Mitchell, New York City, is to be the principal speaker tonight at the high school gymnasium banquet that is to climax a day-long program.

Mitchell is president of Sylvania Products, Inc.

The "man of the year" award was made by Dixie Business, Atlanta, Ga., magazine. The Texas Manufacturers association named him as the state's industrialist of the year.

Schools were closed this morning as the city's numerous industrial plants held open house to out-of-town visitors and Lufkin residents.

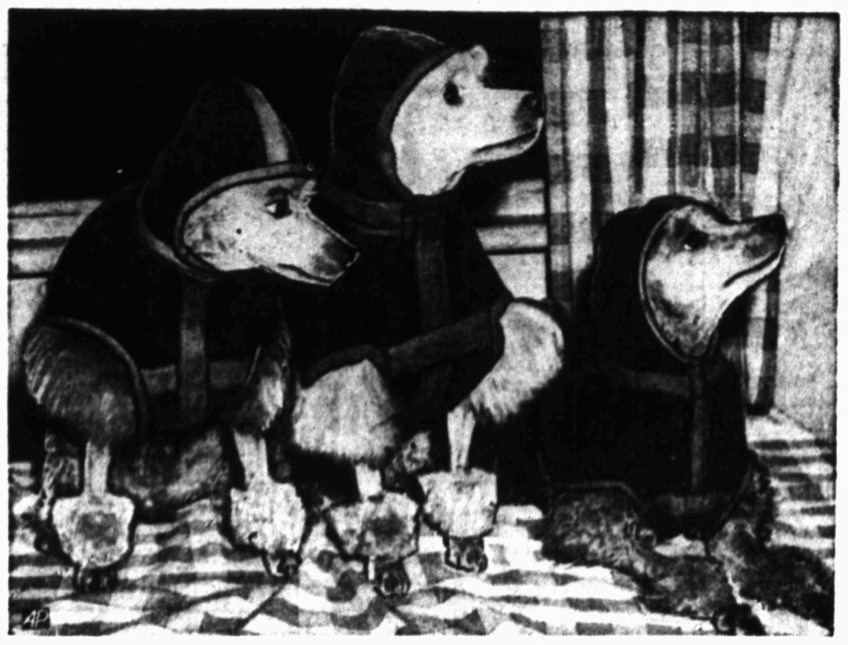

Many of the visitors were receiving their first look at the plants which, primarily through Kurth's efforts, boosted the city from a farm and lumber community to the state's fifth largest industrial center.

Among the plants thrown open for inspection was the Southland paper mills, the first such plant in the south to produce commercial quantities of newsprint for newspapers.

The plant is a symbolic example of Kurth's vision—how he was a pioneer in realizing the possibilities of converting East Texas yellow pine timber into newsprint.

A parade presenting examples of these Angelina county plants was to be held in downtown Lufkin in the afternoon. Several bands, including the 200-piece Texas A. & M. military unit, were to participate.

Immediately prior to the banquet, out-of-town visitors were to be guests at a reception at the Lufkin Country club.

Girlstown Is Praised As A "Preventive" Project At Cornerstone-Laying Ceremony

GIRLSTOWN, U. S. A., Dec. 14 (Special)—Gathering at Plains residence at Girlstown, U. S. A., for a prayer and cornerstone laying, a group of residents from several South Plains towns at sunset Tuesday heard Girlstown praised as a preventive and not a curative project.

Rev. W. H. Bryant, pastor of Whiteface Baptist church, quoted scripture and offered a prayer. He pointed out that Girlstown's purpose is to prevent juvenile delinquency. "How we appreciate that," he said.

Woman Is Praised

After Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director, of Girlstown, had placed contents in the cornerstone, the pastor said, "Miss Anthony is laying a cornerstone in our realm of social structure that has never been laid before."

Girlstown is a home for girls who have a problem which might lead to juvenile delinquency.

The 10 present residents of Girlstown were among the group watching the cornerstone laying.

A 12-year-old girl, figuring what her age will be when the cornerstone is opened in 50 years, said, "I'll be 62 then". Other girls laughingly figured what their age would be when the cornerstone is opened.

One little girl visiting Girlstown with her parents said, "I wish you had a big family like that" to her mother, referring to the 10 residents of Girlstown. The number is to be increased to 64 upon completion of Plains residence within the next few weeks. The director has said girls will observe Christmas in the living room of the residence, although bedrooms may not be ready for use.

Approximately 30 persons from Lubbock, Levelland, Whiteface, Sundown and Plainview witnessed the ceremony.

P. F. Lightholder of Lubbock route 5 placed mortar around the cornerstone. He came to Lubbock from Dublin, Ireland, in February and had hoped to have his wife and four children in Lubbock by Christmas. They are to sail on the Queen Mary for the United States Feb. 24. Lightholder is a nephew of C. J. Lightholder of Lubbock. "I feel sort of sentimental about this," he said of the cornerstone laying. He expressed wish he had a shamrock to place in the cornerstone.

Few people past the age of 40 are able to hear the squeak of a bat.

Game Warden Catches Hunter In Violation

CLINTON, Ia., Dec. 14 (AP)—An over-anxious pheasant hunter paid a $10 fine for a bird he didn't get.

William Eberle, Clinton, strode through the fields at 11:45 a.m., 15 minutes before time for legal shooting. He stopped to chat with a stranger in overalls.

A pheasant flew up, Eberle blasted away, and the stranger introduced himself. He was the game warden, Maurice Jensen.

GOP Strategy Group Planning To Give Voters Clear Choice

CHICAGO, Dec. 14. (AP)—Republican party strategy leaders were reported agreed today that the GOP must shed "me-tooism" and give the voters a "clear choice" on 1950 election issues.

Arthur E. Summerfield, Michigan national committeeman, voiced the view. He said the GOP national strategy committee which he heads is in general agreement with him.

The strategy group, in a one-day closed meeting yesterday, took no formal stand on policy. That is a matter left up to a policy group not yet named and eventually to be decided by the party's national committee in January or February.

But the strategists were said to feel that any campaign plans they recommend for local party workers depend a great deal on "a clear-cut, positive" set of principles.

Action Promised

In effect, Summerfield's declaration suggested that GOP success next year and Guy Gabrielson's future as the party's national chairman hinge more on what the party offers—and how soon—than on how it goes about offering it to the voters.

Gabrielson, who has some critics in the 23-member strategy group, promised to get busy.

He said he will appoint a policy-drafting committee by the first week in January and he hopes the national committee will have a policy statement whipped into shape by February.

Gabrielson declared that the strategy group crystallized sentiments that "we should adopt a clear cut point of view and an affirmative program." He also told newsmen:

"We didn't win in 1948 because we didn't put up a fight. We think we will regain control of Congress in 1950. We are optimistic. If we fail we are going to make a hell of a lot of noise in doing it."

Record Reviewed

Summerfield told the committee: "God knows we need a change in strategy and tactics . . .

"The record of the party for the past 16 years demands that a brand new and fundamental conception of strategy be adopted.

"In campaign after campaign we have let the Democratic party make the issue and carry it to the people by the inertia of our own programs."

"We have told the people that we did not disagree in any great measure with the objectives outlined by the Democrats, but that if we were elected we could carry out these same objectives better than our opponents.

"The plain truth is that we have not given the American people what they have a right to expect and a right to demand—a clear choice.

No Choice Offered

"We have failed and failed repeatedly to offer the American people any reason to remove the Democratic party from power."

The only exception, he said, was in the 1946 congressional elections. The Republicans won then because "our senators and congressmen met the opposition head on and gave the American people a chance to choose."

Summerfield said the GOP should "divest itself on 'me-too-ism'" and present a program "clearly and unmistakeably" against that of the Democrats.

Two other strategy group members, G. Mason Owlett of Pennsylvania and Gov. Alfred Driscoll of New Jersey told a reporter they are in general agreement with Summerfield.

Owlett, however, said "me-tooism" can be interpreted many ways. He said he is against "pussy-footing." The strategy committee plans to put in "package form" a program of how to get across party principles to the voters. It heard reports and ideas yesterday but announced no formal action or decision.

Intra-State Citizen Covers Huge Region

ELKIN, N. C., Dec. 14 (U.P.)—Roamin' Ralph Pinnix, who has been all over, is still moving.

Pinnix set himself up in 1942 as an intra-state citizen.

Since then he figures he's covered 50,000 miles.

In the summers he has worked as a cherry-picker in Michigan. In the winters he usually picks oranges in Florida. He doesn't specify his spring and autumn occupations but says he always manages to keep busy and see the country at the same time.

Nina, Half Past Two, Leaving For Italy

Writer Wants Santa Claus To Keep Godchild Forever Young

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—There isn't a darn thing Santa Claus can throw my way this Christmas.

For all I care the old boy can get stuck in the chimney in Des Moines. I'm not bothering to hang up my sock.

The one thing I'd like even Santa Claus can't give. I want him to make time stand still and keep a girl I know from growing older—and from going away.

The girl is half past two, her name is Nina, and everything about her is wholly wonderful.

I can brag about her with a clear conscience because she isn't mine, except to borrow on an hour's lend-lease arrangement with her parents two or three times a week. That is my privilege as godfather.

When first I saw her she was just a moist, bald-headed ball of protoplasm that smelled of milk and made small noises like a puppy. Now she is a flaxen-haired, sturdy-legged child with a mind and vocabulary of her own.

All this year as Nina has grown older I have been growing younger. And it has been a happy, happy year—too good to go on, I guess.

The other weekefid her father and mother, a young newspaper couple, got an assignment to go to Italy. They will be gone for three years.

I took her on a farewell visit to the Central Park Zoo. She said goodbye to the monkeys, wanted to climb in and pet the tigers, jeered at the "lazy seal" that wouldn't go into the water. But most of all she loved the pigeons because they came and pecked peanuts from her hand.

She'll Grow Up

Then we bought a balloon and hailed a cab home. On the way she turned to me with a luminous smile and said:

"Hal, I sleepy."

And she stretched out comfortably on the seat, put her feet in my lap, and dozed off. All the rest of the way I kept thinking, "Lord, Lord, can't you let it stay this way for a long time?"

Three days after Christmas she'll be gone, leaving me a godfather in absentia. When I see her again she'll be almost six and greet me with a polite "buon giorno" instead of "Hi, Hal!"

How can I believe in Santa Claus—this year?

South Dakota Gets Colorado Turkeys

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. (AP) 14 (U.P.)—South Dakota, which became the greatest pheasant hunting state in the nation within 20 years after the first Chinese ringnecks were planted in the state, now hopes to furnish excellent wild turkey hunting in the future.

The state is getting the turkeys from New Mexico and Colorado.

The turkeys were planted in the Black Hills, where they are "coming along fine."

FOR SAFETY'S SAKE

An Indiana law provides that every high school student be required to devote a minimum of 20 hours each semester to the study of highway safety and motor car driving.

Gaines To Set Farm Program

SEMINOLE, Dec. 14 (Special)—Gaines county farmers will hold a special meeting sometime early in the new year to attempt to work out an overall farm program for the county for 1950, County Agent L. H. McElroy said Tuesday.

The farmers, who cultivated an estimated 60,000 acres of cotton this year, will be faced with an allotment of only 33,169 acres in 1950 if they produce under the federal cotton marketing program.

215,000 Acres Cultivated

Total acreage in cultivation in Gaines county now amounts to 215,000 acres, 8,000 of which is new farm land.

McElroy said that the farmers had considered large scale sugar beet production but that word was received last week from the Crystal Sugar company of Rocky Ford, Colo., that that firm will be unwilling to set an allotment quota and assure a market for the county. High freight rates would make the venture unprofitable for the farmers, the firm explained.

The county agent said the refusal of the company to set an allotment for Gaines county did not completely kill the idea. The possibility of securing an allotment of acreage from some other sugar firm will be explored, he said.

Vegetable Growing Proposed

The possibilities of large scale vegetable production on irrigated land is also under consideration, McElroy said. According to figures compiled by his office, there are now about 135 irrigation wells and about 18,000 acres of land under irrigation in the county. Much of the increase during the past year has been in the Higginbotham area in the northwest part of the county.

Interest in irrigation is growing throughout the county, although many farmers are waiting to see how the new cotton control program will effect them individually.

The newest and one of the most successful wells in the county is on the farm of Tilton Jones, located two miles south of Seagraves. The well has a capacity of 1,000 to 1,200 gallons per minute. It was drilled by the Skaggs Drilling company to a depth of 156 feet and is being pumped from a depth of 147 feet.

Jones expects to be able to irrigate about one hundred acres of alfalfa, tomatoes, peppers, cotton and grain next year. He will use flood irrigation, contouring the borders on the tract.

Boy Sleeps 10 Hours While Police Search

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 14 (AP) Timmie Conner, 8, was kept after school. As he plodded home, trying to make up his mind whether he dared go in, it started to rain.

Timie ducked under a neighbor's porch. He fell asleep. Ten hours later a policeman saw a small head duck behind a parked car. It was Timmie, on his way home at last, completely unaware he had been the object of a city-wide search.
