Regional Plan Group Approves Two Projects

The Coastal Bend Regional meeting in Three Rivers on April 7 approved two local projects on which applications for federal loans and grants have or will be filed.

The Commission, one of whose directors is Emory M. Spencer, judged these two projects as compatible with the long range planning for this area.

The first project was an interim water supply for the Copano Water Supply Corp., and the second was expansion of the Rockport Sewage disposal plant. The latter involves an additional federal grant of three per cent of cost made eligible since the Planning Commission now qualifies as a Council of Governments.

Spencer and Larry Urban of Urban Engineering Co., Corpus Christi, presented plans for the Copano project. Present plans are to drill two water supply wells for an interim supply until the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District plan is operative in providing a water supply for the Aransas county area.

Tom Foster of McClendon & Associates, Corpus Christi, presented the plan for the Rockport sewer expansion for which a contract has been awarded to Clyde Smith of Austin in the amount of $173,084.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the club or the teenagers now learning to square dance. Members have worked on this about a month and fun is in order for the evenings.

The Paws and Taws will not have a square dance Friday April 14. All square dancers are invited to come to the program at the High School Auditorium.

Harper Smith was a guest caller at the Paws and Taws square dance building Saturday, April 8. A crowd of almost 200 dancers were pleased to dance to his calling. New Aldermen Are Sworn In

The first woman alderman in local history was sworn in Monday night along with two other newly elected aldermen.

Mrs. J. W. "Tony" Harden and N. F. Jackson of Ward 2 and Charlie Garrett of Ward 1 took the oath of office given by Mayor Delmar Hiller at the City Council meeting. N. C. Vandagriff of Ward 1 is the fourth alderman.

Watching the ceremony were friends and relatives of the aldermen including Mrs. Harden's husband and three-year-old son, Adam.

After the swearing in ceremony, the mayor asked each alderman for any comment.

Jackson and Garrett thanked the people who voted for them and said they would do their best to represent the public well.

Mrs. Harden thanked those who voted for her and then said:

"I don't mind admitting also that I'm nervous."

The first action of the Council after the swearing in ceremony was to elect Alderman Jackson as mayor pro tem for a one-year term.

Other actions at the meeting included:

—1) Carl Krueger submitted for approval a plat of Unit No. 3 at Key Allegro Island Estates. He said the unit will contain 153 lots. The smallest will be 80 by 80 feet and others will be 80 by 90 and 80 by 100, all fronting on water. Krueger said total cost for this unit will be about $300,000. The Council tabled the request for approval until a plat is submitted which shows water lines and drainage lines.

2) Mrs. Burl Wagley submitted for city approval a plat of Lazy Acres subdivision, west of the city. The Council voted to table action on this request until City Attorney Dick Hatch determines the Attorney General's latest ruling regarding cities' jurisdiction over subdivisions outside the city limits. "30 YEARS AGO. One man buried $10,000. Today this $10,000. is worth only $5,000. because of the loss of purchasing power due to inflation.

Another man put $10,000 in a savings account. Today there is $18,000. in the account. But this $18,000 is worth only $9,000 . . . when compared with purchasing power of the original $10,000. A third man bought an apartment building, using his $10,000, as the down payment. For the past 30 years he has lived rent free. His tenants have paid off his mortgage and some extra. Now he has the income and could sell the apartment building for $50,000 !!"

Letters to the Editor

Tuesday the writer attended the Aransas County Reclamation District meeting at the courthouse. This is the group appointed to work out the future water supply for Aransas County. The purpose was to discuss the question—Why have test wells not been drilled on the Live Oak Peninsula from the County Airport southwesterly in the four miles to the present City of Rockport water wells? This is the only way to find out the quantity and quality of the underground supply down to the 200 foot depth of water sands.

After some discussion which had the net result of ruling out any further use of this underground source of supply for the next five to 15 years, without learning more definitely about this local supply source: the chairman handed me a copy of their Engineer's report of 1965, saying "this report will answer all of your questions."

I had previously studied this report in detail, having a copy in my file along with other authentic reports from the Texas Water Engineers, University of Texas and the U.S. Geological reports on this subject of underground water studies in this coastal area and the water run-off data from the Texas Rivers into the bays and gulf from the Rio Grande to the Louisiana border.

This report given to me shows well logs from several wells in Copano and Aransas Bays. It shows only one log from a well on the north six miles of the Live Oak Peninsula, where the best underground water in the county is known to be, and this is the water well on the Modesto Ranch a couple of miles west of Fulton. No mention at all of the three fine wells, north of the County Airport, now owned by the County, with a complete water system costing over $100,000, which has and can produce 450 gallons per minute of potable water testing today under 475 ppm chlorides.

From the meager data the report concludes that there is no fresh water supply available below 250 feet. The data in the report shows that the salinity of the City wells has increased some, but comments that the increase is not at an alarming rate. Very little consideration has been given to a treatment plant for demineralizing the present supply.

From the taxpayers and the water consumers standpoint, it seems only reasonable that the quality and the quantity of the local underground supply should be known in order to establish the time-table when an outside supply source will be needed.

It appears that more consideration should be given at this time, in the interest of future supply at the lowest cost, to the recent conclusions by the State Water Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation, working together on supplying fresh water to South Texas from the millions of acre feet of water now wasting into the Gulf and the Bays from the San Antonio-Guadalupe River Basins and northerly up the Coastal Bays to East Texas—the direction of extra water for South Texas including the Nueces River Basin. Don't it appear logical that we delay committing ourselves at this time to buying treated water from the San Pat Water District, which supply comes from the source which will require water from the north and east fed to it? This is not our last chance for water from outside the County.

Areas on this peninsula need fresh water now for domestic use. Why can't they get good water from the good water supply now unused at the Airport?

Just north of the Airport is the County owned water system built by the U. S. Airforce. It has supplied 150 gallons per minute, which is half of the requirements of the City of Rockport.

I repeat that the data submitted in the report handed me at the Aransas County District meeting, which group is charged with the responsibility of water supply, does not answer satisfactorily the question, "What do we now have in the underground water bearing sands on the north end of the Live Oak Peninsula?"

Letter to the Editor

516 South Jean Drive
Longview, Texas
April 9, 1967

Gentlemen:

We are the Northeast Texas unofficial Rockport Chamber of Commerce Branch. We do like your community much and vacation there whenever possible. We talk up your advantages to anyone who will listen and possibly may retire there someday. Whenever we need some salt air and saltwater fish we go to Rockport. Incidentally, we were depressed to note the vandalism that has taken place on the beach. Only suggestion I can make to improve your area is to put some 12 by 12's along the west side of the boat basin—every time we park there we are afraid the car might slip over.

Very truly yours,

R. W. Blair,
Longview, Texas

JOHN KINSEY

While serving as public relations director of Wesley Memorial Hospital in Chicago, it was my responsibility to make arrangements for the first nationally televised operation.
It was a highlight of op-annual convention of the American Medical Association which had given the National Broadcasting Company exclusive rights to televise the surgery.
The public relations director of the A.M.A. and I were instructed not to inform the press in advance, the reason being that something might happen to cancel the telecast. Even though the procedure was to be ulcer, surgery considered "safe," there was always the chance that complications might make it inadvisable to televise this particular operation.
However, with so many people involved in making preparations for this nationwide telecast, the news some how reached science writers covering the "convention in time to watch this TV first."
Before the operation was completed (only 15 minutes of it was shown on TV), the science editor of the New York Times phoned me and asked for additional information about the patient, the surgery, etc.
"The operation is still going on," I said. "As soon as it's over in about half an hour, I'll have the surgeon call and give you the detailed information."

Then I said, "Hold on, here comes the surgeon now and I'll put him on the phone."
The surgeon, Dr. Sam Fogelson, picked up the phone and said, "Yes, sir, what can I tell you?"
The reporter said, "Well, first of all, if as Kinsey says, the operation is still going on, how can you be talking to me over the telephone?"
Dr. Fogelson, quite a kiddie, replied, "Well, when I heard that New York Times science editor wanted to talk to me, I just dropped my instruments and came running."
Then he explained that two other surgeons were doing the finishing touches.

REPORT OF EARNINGS DUE FROM SOCIAL SECURITY BENEFICIARY

Most people start worrying about their income tax return about this time of year, but equally important for many social security beneficiaries in this area is the filing of their annual report of earnings, H. M. Cleveland, social security district manager, says.

The annual report of earnings form, should be filed by all beneficiaries who earned more than $1,500 in 1966, except those who reached age 72 before February, 1966, or who did not receive any benefit checks for any month of the year because of their work. It is particularly important, Cleveland said, for beneficiaries who had earnings lower than originally estimated to make a report since they may be eligible for some benefits as a result of their lower earnings.

Under changes in the social security law effective last year, many older people can earn more money and still be paid some benefits. For example, a person with a social security benefit rate of $125 a month could earn $3,000 a year and still collect $600 in benefits.

Also under an important exception to this yearly rule, no matter how much a beneficiary earns in a year, he can still be paid for any month in which he neither earns wages of more than $125 nor is actively engaged in self-employment.

The deadline for filing the annual report of earnings for 1966 is April 17. Cleveland cautioned beneficiaries that late filing may cause a loss in benefits. An annual report of earnings, with instructions on completing the form, is available at the social security office any weekday or from 8:30 to 12:00 on Saturday. The office is located at 1802 South Staples, Corpus Christi, telephone TU 4-5511.

Mullinax Warns On Fire Extinguishers

Fire Marshal Elva Mullinax today issued the following warning about unlabeled fire extinguishers:

For years many well meaning persons who know nothing of fire extinguishers, have been placing in the homes, aerosol type, squeeze bottle type, bulb type, and many other items called fire extinguishers.

These are not approved by the U. S. Coast Guard, Underwriters Laboratories, or Factory Mutual. Some may contain acceptable fire fighting ingredients, which are, or can become, highly toxic when used on a fire. Some of the labels on these, would-be extinguishers say "Does Not Contain Carbon Tetrachloride" but the fine print states certain types of fires may cause noxious fumes, ventilate room immediately after the fire is out, do not breathe fumes or smoke. "One extinguisher offered recently stated it contained U. L. approved dry chemical. That much was true, but the extinguisher was not approved.

"Buy extinguishers approved by a recognized testing laboratory."

Mullinax also warned residents to move lawn mowers from garages or other buildings before filling with gasoline to decrease fire hazards.

Business Booming At Key Allegro Island Estates

During the past month nine houses and nine lots on Key Allegro Island Estates were sold for a total of $311,000, Carl C. Krueger, Jr., the developer, reported today.

Nine houses were sold at a figure in excess of $240,000, and nine lots were sold for more than $71,000.

Meanwhile, Krueger is moving ahead with work on Unit No. 3 just south of Unit No. 2. This new unit will contain 153 lots, all on waterfront, and covering a total of 52 acres. Krueger said the new development will cost approximately $300,000.

Purchasers of houses and lots during the past month were:

Lots: R. I. McClanahan, Houston; T. E. Betzel, Dallas; Picton Lumber Co., Rockport; Mrs. Jane Damron Reese, Odessa; Mrs. Miriam Kizer, Kansas City, Mo.; Glenn Boehmer, Ft. Worth; M. H. Spinks, Ft. Worth; Lawrence Strickland and P. King Burney of Dallas.

Houses: Conwell Smith, Austin; Col. Sam Barrow, San Antonio; Roger Zeller, San Antonio; G. R. Morgan, Wynne-wood, Okla.; C. R. Kamerer, Ft. Worth; H. G. Livingston, Liberty; Charles Vaughn, Houston; Owen Maddox, Brenham; Mrs. Esther Carrico and Mrs. Irene Isaacson, El Campo.

Junkyards To Be Screened Off

The Texas Highway Commission has approved a program to beautify the state's highways in 86 counties by screening 154 junkyards with right of way landscape planting.

The 1967 junkyard screening program will be submitted to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads for acceptance under the federal Highway Beautification Act of 1965. If the Bureau of Public Roads concurs the federal government will pay 75 per cent of the $664,300 estimated cost of the program.

Junkyards will be screened in 22 of the Texas Highway Department's 25 districts throughout the state under the 1967 program. The department initiated its junkyard screening program in January, 1966, with nine projects which were completed by its own maintenance forces.

In early 1966 the department also conducted an inventory of junkyard and roadside signs in compliance with provisions of the beautification act. The inventory disclosed a total of 1,220 junkyards, dumping grounds and other unsightly blight along the state's federal-aid highways which could be concealed by landscape planting or would require removal away from the right of way.

The beautification act provides that any state failing to cooperate in the junkyard screening and beautification program will sustain a 10 per cent reduction in allotments for the building of highways. The penalty for Texas would amount to about $20 million a year.

In improving the 1967 junkyard screening program, the highway commission observed: "It is the desire of the Texas Highway Department to cooperate with the federal government to improve the beauty and sightliness of the highway system."

"In this spirit of cooperation the State Highway Engineer is directed to proceed with the submission of projects to the Bureau of Public Roads for their acceptance and at such time as bureau approval is received, proceed with the program in the most feasible and economical manner."

The Texas Highway Department has won a worldwide reputation for its highway beautification programs. Wildflower and other landscape plantings were begun by the department more than 30 years ago. More than 800,000 acres of right of way are under cultivation at the present time and more than 1,100 roadside parks, safety rest areas and scenic turnouts have been constructed along the 68-thousand mile state-maintained highway system.

In February the department was the recipient of the first special Highway Beauty Award to be presented by the newly-organized Department of Transportation. The award—which will be expanded to an annual nationwide competition—was presented to State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer in Washington by Mrs. Lady

The FHA Week theme was "21 Years—a Foundation for Progress."

Bird Johnson, wife of the President.

The department also has 1966-67 state-wide beautification program which totalled $8.8 million of Feb. 1. This program is for construction of roadside parks, safety rest areas, scenic turnouts and general highway landscaping. Included are comfort stations in safety rest areas along the Interstate system.

Loyalty Is Positive Thinking and Action

The Veterans of Foreign Wars has always been very outspoken—positive—concerning the meaning and practice of loyalty.

More than 1,300,000 combat war veterans who are members of the VFW, declare that the word loyalty has two closely related meanings. They are: (1) Patriotic convictions—and—(2) determination and ability to make those convictions do something.

That is how the Veterans of Foreign Wars emphasizes the word loyalty on May the first—Loyalty Day—and upon all other days throughout the year.

We start with our definition of loyalty. Then how we put that definition to work. Those steps are made clear through the policies and programs the VFW organization approves.

The latest mandates adopted by the VFW National Convention for our guidance and action—especially on Loyalty Day the first of next May—make very clear how the VFW thinks about patriotism.

We have praised and pledged our most vigorous support to democracy—our American way of life. Also we have condemned and pledged vigorous opposition to all forms of un-Americanism. We mean all threats against our national ideals and government. We align ourselves to work for the unit and security of our land. Here are some examples of our thinking. The current VFW mandates provide that we shall:

1. Uphold, strengthen and extend our development of the essentially patriotic Loyalty Day.

2. Encourage more positive activation of all American patriotic principles—through our VFW programs.

3. Promote patriotic education in schools and for all adults. That means more dedicated application of the term "For God, flag and country."

4. Sponsor stronger, more vigorous action to combat all forms of subversion, whether they be leftism, rightism, anti-governmentism or any other strange "ism" that attempts to undermine or destroy our image as a nation of people who will fight for freedom and for the rights of the individual—in Vietnam or anywhere else on earth.

5. Also we give high priority to two symbols of our chosen way of life. They are God and flag. Our national mandates urge that every citizen maintain some faith in a deity higher than our own puny prejudices. And we declare that the Stars and Stripes Flag is the number one symbol of our national character—and of every freedom right we hold dear.

6. Furthermore, we declare that American citizenship has a price—and that we should never forget that the price includes some 30 million men who have fought for our country; and especially the million men who sacrificed their lives in the armed defense of our land. Therefore, we hold no sympathy for, nor with, those who try to dodge the responsibilities—the obligations—to defend our country, nor for those who take any seditious or treasonous action against our government.

—The Council denied a request by J. T. Trulls to change the zoning classification of a small building from residential to business. The building faces Live Oak Street, between Nopal and Orleans.

—Director of Public Works Tom Shults was instructed to make a study of present and possible future water mains in the south part of the city.

On the Road to Port Aransas

213 E. GOODNIGHT ST — ARANSAS PASS

c-1-3-5

Those were the first words Miss Olivia Gutierrez heard when she answered the call on her switchboard. A telephone operator in Laredo, Miss Gutierrez tells what happened:

"It was from a man at the local bus station. He had spotted a boy who was obviously upset and alone. The man didn't know exactly what to do, so he dialed 'Operator' and asked me to talk with the boy." Miss Gutierrez did so and learned that 12-year-old Joel Barlow was on his way to Mexico City from Fort Wayne, Indiana, to visit relatives. He had missed connections and was stranded all alone in a strange town.

"What do I do now?" he asked.

"Just don't worry," said Miss Gutierrez. Then, with practiced efficiency, she swung into action.

First, she called the boy's parents in Indiana. They weren't home. Joel was unsure about the spelling of his relative's name in Mexico City, but after 20 minutes of calling here and there, Miss Gutierrez managed to reach his grandmother.

After the grandmother was assured Joel was all right, Miss Gutierrez reserved a motel room for the youngster. After work, she picked him up and drove him to the motel. Next day, she took Joel to her home. "He had a good time playing with my little brother about the same age," she noted. "They watched TV until it was time to meet the train."

After checking Joel's ticket and travel papers, Miss Gutierrez arranged with some of her friends who were also on the train to make sure he arrived safely in Mexico City.

"Joel was a very nice boy," said Miss Gutierrez. "The last thing I told him was, 'If you get into trouble, just call the operator.'"

No one would have known how helpful Miss Gutierrez had been if Joel's father had not written a thankful letter to the telephone company in Laredo.

His letter said in part, "... Joel arrived safely in Mexico City and his letters and a telephone conversation with him indicate that he is no worse for the experience. Were it not for the help of your operator, however, this could have been a truly traumatic experience..."

Miss Olivia Gutierrez knows that providing good telephone service sometimes calls for giving a little something extra.

We're very proud of her.

12 UNDER PAR WINS TOURNEY

In Scotch foursome competition at Live Oak Country Club Sunday the following team shooting 12 under par won first place: Speck Howery, Cecil Miller, A. N. Garrett, Sonny Mathews and Carolyn FitzSimmons.

Finishing second at 10 under par were J. T. Stellman, Jr., W. C. Underwood, Joe Payne, Edna Vance and Esther Wrinkle.

Third place, at 9 under par went to Kokie Couch, Gene Everett, C. V. Reid, Lou McCleese and Jeanne Tuer.

There will be no Scotch foursome tourney Sunday, April 16, because of the fifth annual Stellman Classic which will be played Saturday and Sunday, April 15 and 16—a 36-hole event played by handicap.

Those players who have not turned in enough scores to establish a handicap will be given one by the pro, Speck Howery, or the tournament committee.

There will be no entry fee for this event. J. T. Stellman,

Sr., has made this a $100 yearly tournament for the past four years.

The Stellman Classic will start the men's annual club championship tournament. Scores recorded for the Classic will qualify players for their respective flights.

Anyone not able to play in the Classic who wishes to enter the club championship may qualify before April 15.

Also anyone wishing to play for medalist honors may do so by entering and declaring themselves either Saturday or Sunday. This will be an 18-hole affair. Entry fee for medalist is $3.

Entry fee for the club tournament is $5. The flights will be made up April 16 after the Classic ends.

Those wishing to know who they play may call the pro shop. The tournament committee urges each contestant to play his match as quickly as possible. Contact your opponent and set a date for your match.

Finals in all flights will end May 21. This day has been set for the club's annual barbecue. The following week, May 27, has been set for the club's anniversary dance.

The directors and Howery, invite all members to participate in the club's activities.

The swimming pool is scheduled to open May 6, three weeks earlier than usual, and will stay open three weeks longer after Labor Day.
