After Killing At Least 640...

David's Winds Drop

By RICK SPRATLING
Associated Press Writer

PALM BEACH, Fla (AP)-Hurricane David, one of the century's deadliest Atlantic storms, lost some of its wrath today as it skirted Florida's populous Gold Coast on a path toward this playground of the rich.

Before closing in on the southeast coast of Florida where thousands fled their homes, the storm had killed at least 640 persons in a 5-day march through the Caribbean islands of Dominica, Puerto Rico, the Dominican Republic, where 150,000 were reported homeless, and the Bahamas.

David sidled up the Florida coast during the night, hurling gale winds up to 70 mph at Miami, Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach, snapping palm trees and power lines and causing blackouts and some scattered bush fires.

Motorists were ordered to stay off the highways because lines were stretched across some roads.

Forecasters predicted David, with top winds of 90 mph, could strike land today near Palm Beach, a posh resort area of 350,000 residents 50 miles north of Miami. But they said there also was a possibility the storm would just keep hugging the coast as it veered slightly north.

"The question is now to get it over land before it strengthens again," said Dr. Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center, said. "A weaker storm making landfall in the Palm Beach area is probably the best situation - if we had to have a hurricane. It's not as severe a threat to life."

Hurricane David, which had 105 mph winds as it left the Bahamas for Florida, slipped to 90 mph as it hovered about 50 miles southeast of Palm Beach.

At 8 a.m. EDT it was at latitude 26.3 north and longitude 79.6 west. The hurricane was moving northwest at about 12 mph, but showing a tendency to move a little more northward, forecasters said.

Hurricane warnings were in effect from Fort Lauderdale, 175 miles north to the space complex at Cape Canaveral, but the warnings were lifted for the Florida Keys, Miami and south of Fort Lauderdale. The area north from the Camp to Jacksonville was under a hurricane watch. Forecasters said there was little chance the hurricane would cross Florida to the west coast of the state.

Meanwhile, Hurricane Frederic was about 45 miles north-northeast of Antigua and moving toward the Leeward Island as it swirled its 75 mph winds just north of the path carved by David.

Frederic was considered a threat today to the northern Leeward Islands and the Virgin Islands. Forecasters said it could follow David's route all the way to the U.S. coast.

Winds gusting to 70 mph were reported in Miami.

Some 2.5 million persons live in the area where David was expected to hit. As many as 80 percent had never been through a hurricane, Frank said. The last one to strike the area was Betsy in 1965.

In South Florida, oceanside residents deserted plush condominiums, crowding into emergency shelters, or heading north on clogged Interstate 95, the main artery out of the area.

The storm skipped north of the lower keys. In Key West, the Florida Highway Patrol reported high tides but no flooding.

"It's pleasant out. It's almost disarmingly calm," said dispatcher Pepper Lawless.

Thousands of evacuees sought refuge in emergency shelters. The famed Fontainebleau Hotel on Miami Beach took in all comers. "We are housing people whether they are guests of the hotel or just off the street," said assistant manager Larry Zanas. He said about 1,200 people were in the hotel, many dozing in the lobby.

Some 500 people, most nursing home patients, fled to the Miami Beach Convention Center. Lines stretched as long as one mile at the few service stations open Sunday as people fled.

Gov. Bob Graham ordered evacuation of 50,000 persons in low-lying southeastern areas.

Holiday Deaths Pass 300

By The Associated Press

Holiday traffic deaths passed the 300 mark as the Labor Day weekend went into its last day.

By 6 a.m. EDT today there were 316 highway deaths reported nationwide.

The National Safety Council had estimated that from 440 to 550 persons could lose their lives between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight today.

Council statisticians said 440 deaths could be expected during a three-day, non-holiday period at this time of the year.

Last year there were 537 traffic deaths during the Labor Day observance. The worst such holiday was in 1968, when 688 persons were killed.

Troops Enter Kurd Stronghold

MAHABAD, Iran (AP)-An Iranian armored column rumbled into the northern outskirts of this Kurdish rebel stronghold today under cover of fierce air force rocketing, while a second government force fought the insurgents south of the city, witnesses said. Casualty figures were unavailable.

Rebel troops, still in control of the city, began withdrawing heavy guns into the hills surrounding Mahabad while hundreds of civilians carrying their belongings streamed out of the city.

Iran's oil chief warned in Tehran, meanwhile, the government might seek to revise contracts for selling crude oil to the United States if U.S. congressmen continue criticizing the U.S. sale of kerosene and heating oil to Iran.

Non-Aligned Nations Meet

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)-The Non-Aligned Movement's sixth summit meeting opens today with its growing membership engaged in a tug-of-war over what the movement's ideology and priorities should be.

Cuban President Fidel Castro was to deliver the inaugural address to the kings, president, prime ministers and other leaders from more than 100 countries at the $33-million Palace of Congresses he built for the meeting.

Rains Soak Houston

HOUSTON (AP)-Power has been restored to areas of Houston blacked out by heavy rains and flooding in the wake of Tropical Storm Elena that caused the deaths of at least two persons.

Police said one Houston man was electrocuted when he stepped in water where a power line had fallen and another drowned in a flooded underpass.

Houston Lighting and Power reported about 3,000 homes were without power Saturday after the storm dumped as much five inches of rain on parts of the city.

Some of the heavy rain contained an oil residue apparently picked up when rainclouds engulfed smoke from a burning oil tanker in the Houston Ship Channel.

Labor Blasts Clements

MIDLAND (AP)-President Harry Hubbard of the Texas AFL-CIO said Monday Gov. Bill Clements' views on the Mexican oil spill represent his own company - SEDCO-not the people of Texas.

"Clements clearly put his personal interest above the public interest when he opposed filing suit against the parties involved in the oil spill," Hubbard said in remarks prepared for a Labor Day celebration.

Clements founded the Dallas firm that leased drilling equipment to the offshore well that blew out, and he once described the spill as "much to do about nothing."

Congress Returning To Work

WASHINGTON (AP)-Congress returns to work this week, after a month of political pulse-taking, faced with important decisions on President Carter's energy legislation and federal spending.

On another issue, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will resume its hearings on the SALT II arms treaty with Russia, although floor debate is not expected until October.

The House and Senate return to work Wednesday for the first time since Aug. 2. Most members of Congress used the long recess to meet with constituents in their home states.

TSTA Chief Says Politics The Key

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas State Teachers Association, which claims to be the "most powerful lobby in Texas," must give "pro-education" political candidates time and money, says the new TSTA president.

Cecile Russell, on leave from her job as a third-grade teacher in Amarillo, says one of the keys to teacher strength is political involvement.

An interview with Ms. Russell appeared in the recent issue of the association's magazine, The Texas Outlook.

The magazine noted that the TSTA's executive committee had adopted goals that include salaries above the national average and collective bargaining for teachers.

Ms. Russell said the TSTA's House of Delegates had voted in March to support and work for collective bargaining, and she added, "First, we must educate our members who are unaware of the benefits that can be derived through the bargaining process for teachers and children."

The TSTA was organized in 1880 and has 126,332 members, making it the largest professional organization in Texas.

"We will be working through TEPAC (Texas Educators Political Action Committee) for election of pro-education candidates," Ms. Russell said. "Our major emphasis will be on fund-raising, endorsement of candidates, and working on behalf of those candidates to ensure their election."

"We must be willing to give them time, as well as money, to ensure their election," she said.

Registration At WTC To Begin Tuesday

Fall semester registration at Western Texas College will begin at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Sophomores will register between 1 and 5 p.m., with evening students to register between 6:30 and 9 p.m. Freshmen are to register from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Wednesday. Registration will continue through Wednesday afternoon and classes will begin on Thursday.

An All-School Assembly is scheduled at 11:10 Thursday morning in the gym. Students are asked to check the surname schedule and to register at the hours given there.

Registration begins in the Student Center where counselors will assist students in making out schedules.

All offices at the college and the Scurry County Museum are closed today for the Labor Day holiday.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Saturday, 95 degrees; low, 74 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Sunday, 74 degrees. High Sunday, 96 degrees; low, 68 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 69 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1979 to date, 16.73.

Ask Us

Q--Why are the obituaries, local news items and hospital notes so often on the back page of the SDN with classified ads?

A--Mostly it is a matter of time. The classified ad pages and the front page are the last to be "made up," or completed, and it follows that they catch most of the last-minute type news. These type of items and the end of stories continued from the front page usually wind up on the same page simply because it has all of the remaining space at deadline time. It would be impossible to hold up other pages, since production in the composing room must be steady from early morning to noon.

Retiring After 49 Years...

Twin Nurses See Many Medical Developments

By JOHN LONG

When twin sisters Eula Williams and Bula Richardson left Cogdell Memorial Hospital at 11 p.m. Friday they ended nursing careers that began 49 years ago.

They began their nursing careers before the advent of such drugs as antibiotics, back in the days when pneumonia patients were given hot mustard plasters to relieve their congestion and strychnine to make their hearts stronger, and in the days when patients with a burst appendix almost always died.

The Coleman County natives, like all twins, have much in common. The life of one corresponds surprisingly to the life of the other.

Each has two children, each has had one major operation, each is a widow, and they live together at 703 27th St. Going back to their mother's and father's sides of the family, 17 sets of twins have been born. Nursing is a common family vocation, they said.

"Throughout our lives we've had fun being twins," said Eula at a retirement party given for the twins Friday afternoon. The jokes abounded.

"I don't think I look as old as you do," said Bula to Eula, an allegation which Eula denied. Actually, however, Bula is the older by several minutes.

"Our father couldn't even tell us apart," Bula later quipped.

Both recalled several stories from their early days of nursing.

Once, when she was about 21 years old, Bula entered private duty. Her assignment was to take care of a man. The man's wife, however, had other ideas.

"When I got there, she looked me over and said I was too young," Bula recalled. She was replaced by a gray-haired 70-year old.

On another occasion, Eula had entered into private duty. Working at the same hospital, however, was Bula.

The family was paying Eula to stay in one room and take care of a sick relative. What the family saw was Bula going up and down the hallways taking care of everyone.

"They didn't know what was happening," Bula remembers. "We got together and let them know there were two of us."

Joking aside, the twins said medicine and nursing were very different in the old days.

They sometimes worked 20-hour days, and without sophisticated drugs not everyone lived. "We lost a lot of them," Bula said.

Bedside nursing involved "bathing down" feverish patients. There was little paper work back then. That, along with sulfa drugs and antibiotics, is something of the modern era.

Eula, an emergency room nurse, came to Snyder in 1947. Bula, the house supervisor, came here in 1964.

"We're going to miss this," said Bula. "It's been fascinating," said Eula, "every phase of it."

New Term Begins Tomorrow...

Pupils Have Mixed Emotions

By JO ANN NUNLEY

It's back to the old classroom tomorrow for pupils in Snyder Public Schools, and apparently many youngsters view the opening of the fall term with mixed emotions.

And, apparently, a lot of them kept busy during the summer months.

We found some pupils who were thinking about the new school term and asked if they were ready. Also, comments were sought on their summer experiences.

Kerry McCarter, a seventh grader, was getting a pre-school haircut as he sort of looked forward to beginning the new term.

"Well, a little," he said, when asked if he were ready for school again.

Kerry said he was looking forward to seeing what junior high will be like. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCarter, and managed to get in a lot of swimming and baseball during summer vacation.

"No, not really," declared Ronnie Hatfield in response to the question of readiness. He said he would enjoy "a little bit more summer" and that he probably would work more. He is a high school freshman.

Ronnie spent the summer mowing lawns and also managed to get in some traveling to New Mexico and to Corpus Christi.

Stephanie Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Weaver, is a sixth-grader at West Elementary. She was a little reluctant to admit that she is ready for the homework that interferes with the social activities of a sixth grader's life. But, with excitement in her voice, she said, "I'm ready to find out which teacher I will get and see which kids will be in my room." She is anxious to see all of her school friends again.

Stephanie spent a lot of the summer swimming and riding horses, and is a member of the 4-H Horse Club.

voters should judge

Sen. William Proxmire has rarely been known to shy away from a fight. But he may have to reconsider now that the Supreme Court has served notice that continuing his past habits might land him in jail.

Worse yet, other federal judges may be launching a crusade against like-minded lawmakers who speak their mind.

For several years the Wisconsin Democrat has awarded a monthly "Golden Fleece" to the federal agency making the biggest waste of taxpayer money. His tales often have provoked a mixed response - a chuckle over the occasional mindlessness of federal bureaucrats and chagrin that they are wasting our money. The targets range from a federally financed study of tennis court behavior to excessive use of government limousines.

Proxmire's recent problems were caused by a Michigan researcher who objected when the senator said a federal subsidy to study a monkey's emotional behavior was a lot of "monkey business."

The lower federal courts dismissed the researcher's libel suit against Proxmire on the ground that press releases announcing his Golden Fleece award were a legitimate activity immune from a court suit.

But the Supreme Court decided in its past term that the researcher's right to his good name outweighed Proxmire's right to speak his mind. Once Proxmire voiced his criticism off the Senate floor, the Court ruled he lost his constitutional protection.

"Valuable and desirable as it may be in broad terms, the transmittal of (press releases and newsletters) to inform the public and other members (of Congress) is not a part of the legislative process," wrote Chief Justice Warren E. Burger on behalf of the High Court.

The case has been returned to the lower court for a hearing on whether Proxmire's remarks were libelous.

The decision hit Congress like a thunderbolt. While the Supreme Court in the past has warned that members of Congress could be legally accountable for actions such as bribery or invasion of privacy, it never attempted to limit what legislators could say.

Lawyers in Congress advised their colleagues to weigh more carefully what they say to or about their constituents. Many were concerned that Senate and House members would face increasing intimidation and harassment by citizens and judges.

That fear was realized recently when a Louisiana federal court judge held that Rep. Mendel J. Davis, D-S.C., and two House aides could be sued for libel and slander because they told reporters that they uncovered substantial vote fraud in their investigation of a 1976 election in Plaquemines Parish, La. Local election officials filed the suit.

Even though Davis's press statements summarized the committee's official findings, Judge Fred J. Cassibry ruled that comments to the news media by congressmen can be the target of a defamation suit.

And a New York federal judge soon will hear a suit filed against Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y. for her critical statements about a government food program for children.

What makes court challenges against these seemingly legitimate congressional comments particularly questionable is that at the same time the Supreme Court found Proxmire liable for his press releases it ruled that an ex-New Jersey congressman could not be prosecuted for refusing to testify before a grand jury on political corruption charges; the court reasoned that the lawmaker was immune because the suit involved his filing of a bill, which is official House business.

Members of Congress traditionally believe that their first responsibility is to the people who elected them and, secondarily, to the institution they serve. The Supreme Court should tend to more important matters and let the voters and their peers judge the performance of our lawmakers.

produce or perish

The energy crunch can suffocate us – or it can motivate us. It is as we will.

If we've been sucking the Big Government udder for so long that we've lost any urge to forage anymore – then our Beloved Republic has had it.

If, on the other hand, we still have enough spine to confront this new challenge – these next decades will be the most exciting and the most fruitful since the Industrial Revolution.

Again – it is as we will.

Our nation became the powerhouse of the planet because we appreciated, applauded, adopted and adapted technology.

We made folk heroes of scientists – Einstein, Edison.

We built our technological infrastructure deep and wide and high.

The United States bred or attracted the best scientists in the world, eclipsed all other nations combined in the accumulation of Nobel prizes.

We sent humans to the moon and back.

Then what happened?

Chairman Reginald Jones of General Electric, seeking to trace the decline of American ingenuity and productivity, discovered that during the 1960s a reaction against industriousness set in, a creeping counterculture emerged, dedicated to the proposition that "things" were not important anymore. Disciples of this counterculture, encouraged by the media, preoccupied themselves and then others with what they called "the quality of life."

Instead of "opportunity" they urged what they called "social and economic justice."

Technology became suspect as an "enemy of social values."

Technology, the unwashed insisted, was "dirty" and "ravages our resources."

And following these dubious leaders our country allowed unelected bureaucrats to mandate regulations in the name of health and safety and pollution prevention and social equitability and liability – to where compliance with those regulations cost American industry an additional $102 billion in one year; which cost had to be added to the prices of American-made products.

The rigidity of depreciation for externally acquired patents and the legal jeopardy involved in the acceptance of any patents discouraged American industry from accepting new ideas.

As the result of all this snoopervision added up, inflation accelerated, productivity declined, and our balance of trade with other nations tilted precariously their way.

Today, in proportion to our nation's Gross National Product (GNP), we are spending on researching of new products 25 percent less than in 1964.

All other advanced industrial nations are investing more in research, new plants, new equipment.

France and Germany spend twice as much as we do, Japan three times as much. Their productivity has been increasing two to three times faster than ours – to where now even American consumers, more often than not, get the most quality for the least price by buying products made outside the United States.

Further, the U.S. Patent Office confirms that more than one-third of all new patents – 37 percent of all new U.S. patents – go to foreigners!

Some weeks ago, Business Week magazine carried a special report on the decline of American productivity, power and prestige. On the cover was a closeup of the face of the Statue of Liberty – with a tear rolling down her cheek.

Several area residents were getting in one last mini-vacation before the beginning of school tomorrow. Labor Day provided a long weekend for some Snyder firms, while others were open for business as usual.

The SDN's annual football guessing contest begins Tuesday. Watch for the contest rules and win cash. A perfect score any week is good for $100.

It's football time, and the Snyder Tigers will open the season this Friday night against always-tough Midland Lee.

Also coming up later this month is the SDN Cooking School. Make plans to attend. It starts at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 25 in the Snyder High School Auditorium. Remember, admission is free.

A.C. Floyd of Roe's Furniture spent part of the Labor Day weekend with his family at Lake Hubbard. Also at Lake Hubbard was the John Reed family.

Jo Birdwell of N.J.'s was in Dallas for market last week.

Ed Thrift was also in Dallas for the ladies market last week.

Pizza Hut's new manager is Daniel Parker.

Three winners have been named in the "Back to School" contest sponsored by the SDN and participating merchants. Names drawn were Joyce Barnes of 2213 43rd St., winner of $50 worth of merchant money; and George Adams of Rt. 1, Box 174 and Terri McClain of 501 32nd were winners of $25 worth of merchant money.

Charlet Wall is a new operator at The Snootie Fox beauty salon. She previously worked at the Irving Mall.

Snyder Lanes Winter Leagues open tomorrow.

Bill Miller has joined Bill Dennis Quick Automotive's service department.

Make your reservations now for the Chamber of Commerce Banquet Sept. 20. Eddie Chiles of the Western Company will be the guest speaker.

The SDN's football special comes out today introducing the Snyder Tiger team, and Hobbs, Hermleigh and Ira teams.

Gold Jumps $4 An Ounce

LONGON (AP)-Gold prices jumped some $4 an ounce today and the dollar was mostly higher against foreign currencies.

Gold was quoted at $319.375 an ounce in Zurich and $319.30 in London. This compared with closing prices Friday 15.375 in Zurich and $315.875 in London.

Dollar quotes, compared to Friday:

Frankfurt-1.8256 West German marks, up from 1.825 Zurich-1.6577 Swiss francs, up from 1.6568.

Paris-4.256 French Francs, up from 4.2517

Amsterdam-2.005 Dutch guilders, up from 2.0015

Milan-816.5 Italian lire, down from 816.8.

In London it cost less to buy a Britis; .248 compared with $2.252. In Tokyo, the dollar closed higher at 221.075 yen against 220.1 Friday.

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Here's a fantastic new money-making opportunity: Buy a national park and make a handsome profit by selling millions of tourists everything from hot dogs to hotel rooms at non-competitive prices.

The parks aren't actually for sale because they're owned by the American people and administered as a scenic and historic trust by the National Park Service, a component of the Interior Department.

But NPS and some of the country's biggest corporations have found a way to circumvent that minor technical difficulty. In return for nominal fees paid to the federal government, the companies are given exclusive long-term contracts to provide park visitors with food, lodging, boat rentals, ski facilities and a host of other goods and services.

As a result, many of the nation's best known parks are being exploited by concessionaires willing to subordinate preservation or protection of natural beauty to maximization of profit through commercial development.

A series of hearings conducted earlier this year by a Senate subcommittee chaired by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., produced evidence that the park service has strayed from its official mission of promoting "the development of park areas, the protection of the natural environment and the preservation of historic properties."

NPS and the concessionaires always have guarded closely the detailed financial reports on profits from park sales, but Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, broke that bond of secrecy at the little-publicized hearings.

At Yosemite National Park in California, the principal concessionaire is the Yosemite Park & Curry Co., a subsidiary of one of the country's biggest entertainment conglomerates, MCA Inc.

According to Metzenbaum, the concessionaire's 1977 profits were calculated only after it had transferred to its parent company almost $1.3 million, ostensibly to pay for insurance, advertising, date processing, marketing, management, legal and other corporate fees.

On the south rim of the Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona, the major concessionaire is the Fred Harvey Co., a subsidiary of the AMFAC Corp., an agribusiness conglomerate and one of the nation's largest sugar producers.

Fred Harvey last year year reported modest profits of $1.6 million on $17.8 million worth of sales, but Metzenbaum says that doesn't take into account a $1.9 million transfer of funds to the concessionaire's AMFAC parent.

NPA officials say the Yosemite and Grand Canyon concessions are "superbly run ... in a very high quality manner." But they could be even better if less money was drained away from the parks by the parent corporations.

"I imagine," observes Bumpers, "they can jimmy the books around" to justify those fund transfers.

Another corporate concessionaire is the Trans World Corp., whose subsidiaries include Trans World Airlines, Hilton International Hotels and several smaller firms that have been awarded NPS contracts at Bryce Canyon and Zion national parks in Utah, the north rim of Grand Canyon, Crater Lake National Park in Oregon and Death Valley National Monument in California and Nevada.

After a team of Interior Department officials examined the facilities operated by the corporation at Bryce Canyon and Zion, it reported: "It was a unanimous belief of our group that the quality ... of the concessionaire-run cabins was inferior."

Trans World has since been formally cited by NPS for "not performing satisfactorily" at Bryce Canyon. Termination of the contract could follow.

After a half-century of awarding concession contracts, the park service now is belatedly reviewing its practices. There's not much time left to prevent some parks from becoming subsidiaries of conglomerate corporations.

Abstinence Makes Heart Grow Fonder?

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem, but my friend suggested I write for a consultation on what she thinks is a most unusual situation. She couldn't believe it when I told her that my husband and I have been happily married for nine years and have never consummated our marriage.

I am a physician who prefers to practice in the United States, and my husband is a career officer in a foreign military service, based abroad, 3,000 miles away. We are both in our 30s. We see each other only three times a year for a week at a time. We knew how little time we would have together, but married anyway because we truly love each other.

We express our love by hugging and kissing, but always stop short of completing the act of love because we agree it's easier to live in total abstinence than open ourselves up to insufferable frustrations during our long separations.

We are a well-adjusted, heterosexual couple without organic dysfunctions or psychological hang-ups. We are living proof that a sexless marriage can be fulfilling. Some may think we're weird. Perhaps you do.

My friend insisted that I get a prescription from Dear Abby. However, I don't think there's anything wrong that needs fixing. What is your opinion?

DOING FINE WITHOUT

DEAR DOING FINE: Yours is a most unusual case, doctor. But if you and your husband are totally fulfilled in a sexless marriage, I agree – there's nothing that needs fixing. I can only wish you continued abstinence, because if you ever find out what you've been missing, you may kill yourself.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are fit to be tied! Our son is also angry. My sister says we are making something out of nothing. Here is the situation:

My sister's daughter will be married soon. It will be a semi-large affair. Our older son (30) and his wife received an invitation to attend the wedding.

Our youngest son (26) is unmarried and presently living with us. He did not receive a separate invitation. Instead, my husband and I received an invitation addressed to MR. AND MRS. JOHN SMITH AND SON.

My son also feels that he should be allowed to bring a date. Who is right and who is wrong?

J.S.

DEAR J.S.: As an adult, your son should have been sent a separate invitation. However, unless he has a steady girlfriend, he should not dig up a "date" for the occasion.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a suggestion for CAN'T SLEEP, whose conscience is bothering her over the neglect of her elderly motherly, recently deceased.

Go to the nearest nursing home and "adopt" a "mother." Do for her what you wish you had done for your own mother. What enormous pleasure a drive in the country, a small gift, or even a few fresh flowers would mean to an elderly "forgotten-by-family" resident in a nursing home. If you can't take her out, you can go and visit with her and let her reminisce awhile. You will gain a lot. I know. I've tried it and it works. Sign me . . .

CAN SLEEP IN MINNEAPOLIS

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

PRESCRIPTION FOR feet weary after a night on the dance floor: disco shoes, resembling running shoes but with flashy differences, such as silver milar tops and red urethane soles. Of course, the ache in your feet could simply move up to your wallet; the shoes are priced at $50 a pair.

DIPLOMA PRESENTED — Susan Palmer was presented a diploma Friday afternoon by D.M. Cogdell Memorial Hospital Administrator Cy Miller. She completed a 24-month training program at the hospital as prescribed by the American Registry of Radiologic Technologists. She is the wife of George Palmer, and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Grosshans. The program director, Stephen Camp, will be accepting applications for a new class in radiological training in January, 1980. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Hearing Test Set For Snyder.

Free Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Tuesday, September 4, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Factory-trained hearing aid specialists will be at the Pal-O-Mar Motel to perform the test.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing test will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy 180 Snyder, Texas. If you can't come Tuesday call 573-2633 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In home testing is also available.

All Hearing Aid users are welcome to our services. Batteries for all makes.

Don't Despair Over Oily Stains

There's no need to panic if you accidentally get lipstick or blusher all over your favorite blouse. For non-greasy stains like those caused by powdered makeup, dampen stained areas, rub with a bar of soap or liquid detergent, rinse soap out and launder as usual. Oily stains, like those caused by lipstick, cream blusher and foundation, should be treated with a soil and stain remover, then rinsed and laundered. Oily stains can also be removed by placing stained area face down on a paper towel and sponging the back of the fabric with a dry cleaning solution. When stain is gone, moisten fabric with water, rub with soap or deter-

Oswald: "Somehow or other, you will take your nine tricks in the other suits. I assume that no one throws a spade and that each defender is left with the three spades he was dealt."

Alan: "Exactly so. Also you have found that West led his diamond from 10 9 8 3, which would be a normal lead irrespective of the rest of his hand."

Oswald: "I assume that you found the queen. Experts aren't supposed to go wrong when the have an even chance to succeed."

Alan: "I did and I got a little help. On the fourth club, East discarded a diamond with no problem. West also chucked a diamond, but only after a lot of soul searching. Then I cashed diamonds. On the third diamond, East threw a heart after long thought. So, I decided to play him for the spade queen and was right."

Leaky heart valves

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please comment on leaky heart valves? My doctor tells me I have a dysfunction of my heart valve caused by scarlet fever in childhood. Would you explain damage to the mitral valve or the aortic valve and how these problems can be corrected? I'm a 55-year-old male.

DEAR READER — Your doctor thinks you've had rheumatic fever with the complication of rheumatic heart disease. Scarlet fever is a streptococcal infection, a strep throat associated with a rash. When these conditions are not treated adequately at the beginning, a person may develop rheumatic fever.

In your childhood, it wasn't widely known that the real cause for rheumatic fever was streptococcal infections. And it wasn't known that administration of penicillin whenever a person had such an infection would prevent rheumatic fever.

Proper treatment has had a lot to do with the closing of many hospitals once devoted almost exclusively to treating rheumatic heart disease in children. It's one of the great successes in preventing heart disease.

The heart valves can actually be damaged or scarred by the inflammation. Normally the little valves in your heart close perfectly to prevent leakage of blood. They are really flap-like valves; if the flaps are damaged, they can't close properly and the leak follows.

The mitral valve is between the upper and lower chambers on the left side of your heart. If it leaks, every time the left ventricle (the heavy pumping chamber) contracts to eject blood out to your arteries, it also squirts blood backward into the upper chamber of the heart.

The aortic valve is situated at the outlet of the left ventricle at the entrance to the aorta, the large artery that carries blood to the entire body except the lungs. If it leaks, the blood will be squirted out into your arteries but some of it will leak back into the heart. This affects the blood pressure and can overwork the left side of the heart.

If the damage is slight, the heart is able to compensate for this and a person might not notice any significant changes. It's interesting to note that people with damaged heart valves — both aortic and mitral — have held athletic records.

There's not much else that can be done for these valves except surgical correction if needed. You have to rely on studies of how your heart is working as a pump to determine whether you need surgery.

Of course, anyone who has heart-valve defects should be certain to take antibiotics any time he has a respiratory infection, an operation or even has his teeth cleaned. This helps to prevent infections to the heart valve that can cause more serious damage.

Readers who want The Health Letter number 13-2, How To Measure Your Risk Of Heart Disease, can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Odd-Even Rationing Ends Today

DALLAS (AP)—Odd-even gas rationing, in effect in 17 counties since June, ended early today, its demise brought on by the end of long lines at Texas service stations.

Gov. Bill Clements, who ordered the rationing first in Harris, Dallas and Tarrant counties and later extended it to 14 others, had intended for the system to end at the end of September. Most of the other 14 counties were counties near Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston.

Clements signed an executive order last Tuesday, bringing the rationing system to an end a month early.

The only portion of the odd-even executive order to remain in force will be the $6 minimum purchase rule, the governor said. This, he said, should prevent "topping" of gasoline tanks.

Basin Drilling Pace Steady

There was no change last week in Permian Basin drilling activity, according to Reed Rock Bit Company's weekly survey.

The count showed 275 rigs making hole in the Basin, the same as the week before. A year ago, there were 283 rigs running.

Lea County, N.M., was the leader with 33 rigs in operation. Andrews County led West Texas with 15 rigs.

Scurry County had four rigs running the past week, compared to five the week before. Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 1 and 0; Dawson 3 and 3; Garza 4 and 5; Howard 10 and 7; Kent 2 and 1; Mitchell 2 and 2.

Wages Not Keeping Up With Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)— Wages are not keeping up with inflation, farm income will be less than expected this year and U.S. investments overseas are on the increase, government figures show.

Hourly compensation including wages, fringe benefits and employment taxes rose at an annual rate of 7.9 percent in the second quarter this year, compared with an 11.3 percent increase in the first quarter, the Labor Department said.

But after adjustment for inflation, hourly compensation showed a record decline of 5 percent when figured at an annual rate.

Federal Reserve Board member Henry C. Wallich said while workers have lost real purchasing power because of inflation, there is no alternative. An effort to maintain or increase standards of living would only contribute to further inflation, he said.

2 Still Missing From Tanker

DEER PARK, Texas (AP)—Coast Guard inspectors examining the burned and broken hulk of the Chevron Hawaii recovered the body of a missing radar technician from the main deck of the demolished oil tanker.

However, inspectors found no trace Sunday of two other men missing since the 870-tanker exploded Saturday sending a wave of burning crude spreading across the Houston Ship Channel.

At least 12 other persons were injured, none seriously, in the fiery blast that rocked the vessel and surrounding area, ignited a nearby ethyl alcohol storage and burned a dock.

The Coast Guard plans a formal hearing Tuesday to investigate the cause of the explosion that destroyed the tanker, three barges, the storage tank and the dock damages that total an estimated $10 million.

"Initial reports from investigators are that lightning struck the vessel or the tank nearby with a resulting explosion and fire," said Commander J.J. Wicks of the Coast Guard marine inspector's office.

Eyewitnesses told the Coast Guard they saw a bolt of lightning strike the deck of the ship during unloading operations Saturday afternoon.

The Harris County medical examiner's office identified the dead man Sunday as Daniel W. Beemer, 32 of Houston.

He was one of two Raytheon Co. technicians servicing the ship's radar at the time of the blast. The other still missing technician has been identified as David Strout, 28, also of Houston.

The identity of the missing crewman was being withheld by officials.

Firefighters contained the raging inferno late Saturday, preventing its spread to other tanker docks across the channel.

The flaming alcohol storage tank was allowed to burn itself out Sunday after futile attempts to extinguish the blaze with foam.

Coast Guard inspectors who flew over the Ship Channel Sunday to assess the pollution caused by the disaster said oil from the ship was "pocketing in natural coves," and should be easy to clean up.

"The pollution situation looks good provided we don't have any major shifts," said Lt. Edwin Guffey. "We don't anticipate any major environmental damage."

Picnicking, Politicking...

Old-Fashioned Holiday For President Carter

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP)-After winding up his hometown vacation playing softball with local prisoners, President Carter is returning to the White House for a old-fashioned Labor Day picnic and some old-fashioned politicking.

Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, invited about 1,000 labor leaders and rank and file to an evening picnic featuring hot dogs, hamburgers, relay races, banjo-playing and volleyball on the south lawn of the White House.

Some aren't coming for the festivity, which is being viewed as an attempt to repair the administration's strained relations with some parts of the labor movement.

One White House source, who did not wish to be identified, described those relations as "almost nil," adding, "They don't feel they have anyone at the White House they can deal with."

Though a handful of union presidents have endorsed Carter's re-election bid, several labor leaders, including AFL-CIO president George Meany, have strongly disagreed with the administration on economic and other issues.

It was uncertain whether Meany, who is recuperating from a hip ailment, would attend. But a spokesman for the International Association of Machinists said the president of that union, outspoken Carter critic William H. Winpisinger, would not be present.

Originally, the event was intended as a sort of tribute to women, with the president planning to speak about the influx of women into the labor market, it was learned. That apparently was the idea of Sarah Weddington, Carter's adviser on women's affairs.

However, the idea was abandoned for fear that emphasizing women would rankle Hispanics and blacks. A compromise was negotiated between Ms. Weddington and Landon Butler, the White House labor liaison, in which the president would devote a portion of his remarks to women.

Sugar Supply May Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in five years, sugar stockpiles may start declining, the Agriculture Department says.

The department's outlook board reported Friday that new projections indicate the world sugar crop will be 88 million to 92 million metric tons, with a midpoint possibility of 90 million.

Shopping Both Sides Of Border Saves On Food

By BILL GREER
Associated Press Writer

EL PASO (AP)—A penny-wise consumer who does his grocery shopping on both sides of the border can make a substantial savings in his monthly grocery bill, according to an Associated Press check of grocery prices here and across the border.

But there are some hazards.

For example, avocados are cheaper across the border. But the seed cannot be transported into the United States.

However, once those, and similar, peculiarities are mastered there are bargains to be had. For this comparison, the Associated Press chose a supermarket in El Paso and its counterpart, the super mercado, in Mexico. Both were in fashionable neighborhoods.

Marketing and promotional gimmicks pushing small items were used at both stores. The Mexican super mercado perhaps held a slight edge in the sales technique.

In both stores, film, candy and razor blades were displayed near the cash registers to entice last-minute purchases.

The Mexican grocers placed a real temptation at the check counter - a wooden barrel filled with ice chunks and quarts of near-freezing beer.

The mercado designers had parents in mind when they planned the lily-lined, tree-filled park on two sides of the building. Children play while parents spend. The only alternative to basket-riding, display threatening children on the U.S. side is the parking lot.

Shopping center parking lots in the United States occasionally are sites of violence. Not so often at the mercado where the armed guard watches customers and cars.

The comparison showed sugar and milk were about half-price in Mexico. Flour, margarine, chicken and onions cost about the same.

U.S. coffee was $3.19 a pound compared with $2.02 in Juarez, where it was ground fresh.

There was considerable savings in Mexico on fruits and vegetables.

Overall, dual-country shopping can save food dollars.

But U.S. Department of Agriculture rules half some items at the international line.

The avocado is fair. Its seed is not. Agents say they are trying to keep the avocado seed weevil out of the United States.

The produce man at the mercado solves the problem swiftly. He whips out a shiny knife, flashes it around the avacado, bags it and hands it back, sans seed.

"Many people will cut out the avocado seeds and then hide them and try to sneak seeds past us," says John A. Vigil, USDA assistant officer in charge at the border station here. The inspectors check all foods entering the United States.

"People feel that anything with a seed is prohibited and they think they can get anything across by first removing the seed," says Vigil. But the avocado is the only item in that category, he adds.

"People try to bring in apples, oranges and squashes all forbidden (without the seeds). The fruit is all torn up and the seeds are gone but the food still can't come in," Vigil says.

Fear Traffic Fatalities Will Exceed Estimate

By The Associated Press

Texas Department of Public Safety officials feared that traffic deaths during the Labor Day holiday weekend would exceed predicted totals as Texans prepared to return home today from holiday outings.

At least 32 persons were killed in traffic accidents before the final 18 hour period of the long holiday weekend began. The Department of Public Safety earlier predicted that 37 would die in holiday weekend traffic crashes between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight tonight.

Authorities blamed high speed and drinking for many of the traffic deaths.

Department of Public Safety Director Col. Wilson E. Speir said Sunday "With more than a day remaining in the count... we feel certain the estimates will be exceeded."

"Early analysis indicates speed and drinking are heavy contributing factors," Speir added.

"It's been pretty bad so far," said Department of Public Safety spokesman Jim Robinson.

The latest deaths reported included:

Armstrong County deputy sheriff Larry Wayne King, 28, of Claude, was killed Saturday night at a roadblock set up on an Interstate 40 access road near Groom. A car that swerved to avoid the roadblock hit and killed King.

Two 16-year-olds were being held in Amarillo pending filing of formal charges in connection with the high-speed chase that followed.

Adulfo Pena, 18, of Port Lavaca, was killed when his motorcycle ran off a county road in Victoria County late Saturday night.

A two-vehicle head-on collision on U.S. 259 near Lone Star Saturday night killed Randall Darrill Fletcher, 19, of Omaha, Texas.

Alphus E. Deramus, 46, of Corpus Christi, was killed when he was struck by a car in Corpus Christi early Sunday.

Timothy Allen Trull, 35, of Waco died in a motorcycle accident early Sunday in Waco.

Todd Micael Walstrom, 20, of Kingsville died when his car rammed a railroad underpass in Corpus Christi early Sunday.

Woodrow Keith Ratliff, 19, of San Antonio, died early Sunday when his car hit a tree near Bastrop.

Thomas McKinley Garrett, 22, of Grapevine, died when his motorcycle ran off the road Saturday in Coppell.

Alejandro Hernandez, of Lueders, was killed when the car he was a passenger in overturned Saturday about three miles east of Haskell on U.S. 380.

Francis Ellen Harrison, 33, of El Paso, was struck and killed as she walked on a city street in El Paso Saturday night.

Austin Arnold Allman Jr. 34, address unknown, was thrown from vehicle and crushed in Fort Worth Saturday.

TO COLORADO—Airman Henry Hernandez Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hernandez Sr., 408 28th St., has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing basic training at Lackland AFB, San Antonio. He will receive specialized instruction in the munitions and weapons maintenance field. Airman Hernandez is a 1979 graduate of Snyder High School.

Recalling Cadillacs

DETROIT (AP)-General Motors Corp. says fuel hoses on about 41,500 Cadillac Sevilles could cause fires in the engine compartment and has ordered the recall of the vehicles, all equipped with fuel injection.

Company spokeswoman Patricia Montgomery said Thursday two persons have been injured in 37 such fires GM is aware of. GM said the problem involves leaks in the fuel hoses, caused by deterioration at the connections. Owners can have new hoses and clamps installed at no charge, GM said.

Dallas Edges St. Louis...

Septien Punches Cowboy Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys' string of triumphs in National Football League openers is intact at 15 - thanks to the gifted toe and steel nerves of Rafael Septien.

Septien, dispelling doubt from his mind, booted a field goal with 1:16 left and clamped the lid on a wild fourth quarter by pinning a 22-21 defeat Sunday on the St. Louis Cardinals.

The ball, teed up at the St. Louis 17, sailed off Septien's foot, hooked left and into the left standard of the goal post, but ricocheted to the right and on through for the winning margin.

Afterward, a composed Septien downplayed the feat amid the din in Dallas' dressing room. "If you're thinking negatively, you're going to miss," he said.

"The hold was good. Everything worked out," he continued in reference to his 27-yard kick. "Only my timing was off. We had hurried onto the field. I looked up, and I saw the ball being snapped. But it went through."

Septien, in capitalizing on his chance, climaxed a closing period marked also by rookie Ron Springs' left-handed halfback option touchdown pass for the Cowboys and a 76-yard gallop to the end zone by rookie Ottis Anderson of St. Louis.

Jim Hart's 18-yard aerial to Pat Tilley lifted the Cardinals to an abbreviated lead of 14-13 late in the third quarter. But, as it turned out, the touchdown only ignited Dallas.

Roger Staubach first clicked off pass completions of 12 and 21 yards to Doug Cosbie and Drew Pearson to set up a 30-yard pass to Tony Hill from Springs, a former Ohio State back playing for ailing Tony Dorsett.

Then, after Anderson bolted over the left side to establish a 21-19 St. Louis edge, a 47-yard kickoff return by rookie free agent Wade Manning refueled the Cowboys.

Robert Newhouse slammed 9 and 5 yards on runs after Staubach shot a 7-yard pass to Springs. Hill was Staubach's receiver at the two minute warning, and a 9-yard scramble by Staubach afterward set up Septien's winning kick.

Glenn Carano, a first-year Dallas player, was Septien's holder. Earlier, he also held for kicks measuring 37 and 24 yards, although Carano dropped the snap on the extra-point try after Hill's TD reception.

"All of the holds were good," said Septien. "We only worked together three days in practice. But there was no problem. Each time, the ball was there."

Septien's first field goal and Newhouse's 4-yard touchdown plunge sent the Cowboys ahead 10-0 in the opening half. But Anderson's 33-yard run soon afterward awoke the Cards, who closed to 10-7 late in the second quarter on Hart's 2-yard pass to Al Chandler.

Anderson's 193-yard rushing aggregate on 21 carries for the day overshadowed a 455-yard Cowboys offense, Septien's field goals notwithstanding.

Rangers Narrowly Defeat Red Sox

BOSTON (AP)-The Texas Rangers' American League West flag hopes are dwindling, but relief ace Jim Kern, a refugee from the Cleveland Indians, is happy to be with a winning team.

"Winning breeds winners," Kern said after boosting his record to 12-4 in the Rangers' 7-6 victory in 11 innings over the Boston Red Sox.

Kern appeared ready to pick up another save when he replaced southpaw bullpen mate Sparky Lyle in the ninth after the Rangers had gone in front 6-5 on John Ellis' homer and two out singles by Eric Soderholm, Mickey Rivers and Bump Wills.

However, the Red Sox came back to tie the score on a hit batsman, a sacrifice and Tom Poquette's single.

Kern faced just six batters the rest of the way, picking up the victory as Willie Montanez led off the 11th with a homer off Dick Drago, the fifth Boston pitcher.

Southpaw John Tudor, a rookie from Peabody, Mass., called up from the minors three weeks ago, was staked to a 4-0 lead while holding the Rangers to two harmless hits in five innings.

Campbell Rolls For Big Yards

WASHINGTON (AP)-Earl Campbell said he was tired. Then, again, he admitted he's tired after a Houston Oilers game, even when it's not hot and humid.

"I'm always tired, that's the way I am," said Campbell, who scored two touchdowns Sunday as the Oilers scored a come-from-behind 29-27 victory over the Washington Redskins in a National Football League opener.

Campbell, the NFL's leading rusher as a rookie in 1978, continued where he left off last winter by gaining 166 yards on 32 carries, with two touchdowns, on the new look Washington defense, which included two starting linebackers and a free safety who hadn't played at the position previously in a NFL game.

Still, on what many consider a crucial play, Campbell said, "It was the best slip I've ever had."

With Houston behind 27-22, Washington's John Riggins fumbled with a little more than 6 minutes remaining in the game. Six plays later, the Oilers were on the Redskins 8.

Campbell mistakenly left the field. He was hustled back in time to attempt the 4th and 1 but stumbled momentarily, freezing the defense, and then bolted ahead for a five-yard gain and the first down. On the play after the two-minute warning, he blasted in for his three-yard touchdown.

"I just slipped, and everybody just stood there," said Campbell, who also scored earlier on a 13-yard run. "It was the best slip I've ever had."

The Oilers, who made it to the playoffs a year ago only to lose to Pittsburgh in the American Conference championship game, looked as if they were on their way to their first loss when they fell behind 27-13 in the fourth quarter.

Steelers Begin Season Against New England

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP)-Quarterback Terry Bradshaw and his Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers meet the bowl-minded New England Patriots tonight in an opening-game showdown between two National Football League powers.

Bradshaw, who passed for 28 touchdowns last season and then set Super Bowl records by tossing for four TDs and 318 yards, is expected to test New England's secondary early in the nationally televised game at Schaefer Stadium.

A crowd of 61,297 is expected for the 9 p.m. kickoff. The sellout assured regional television coverage, including the Boston area.

The Steelers, who were 14-2 last season before winning three playoff games and capturing a third Super Bowl championship in five years, invade New England with an eight-game winning streak.

They were 3-1 in preseason exhibition games, but Coach Chuck Noll was not too happy with the running game. Franco Harris, the fifth leading rusher in NFL history with 7,377 yards in just seven seasons, is ready to go.

However, veteran running mate Rocky Bleier has been plagued by a knee injury through the preseason and may see only limited action.

Open Enters Fourth Round

NEW YORK (AP)-Defending champions Jimmy Connors and Chris Evert Lloyd advanced to the fourth round of the U.S. Open tennis championships with straight-set victories.

Third-season John McEnroe advanced when John Lloyd of Britain was forced to default because of a stomach ailment.

Wimbledon finalist Roscoe Tanner, seeded fifth, advanced with a 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 triumph over Nick Saviano.

Trevino Wins Canadian

WOODBRIDGE, Ont. (AP)-Lee Trevino won the Canadian PGA championship with a steady, final-round score of one-under-par 70.

Defending champion Lanny Wadkins finished with a final round 72, giving him a 288 total, good for second place, three strokes behind Trevino. Tom Watson was two strokes further back in third.

Unser 3-Time 500 Winner

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP)-Bobby Unser won a duel of pit stops with his Penske teammates Rick Mears and Mario Andretti to capture the $294,000 California 500 auto race for Indianapolis cars at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Unser became the first three-time winner of the California 500, winning previously in 1974 and 1976. And it was the first time in any 500-mile Indy-type car race that teammates had finished 1-2-3.

Two Thefts, Four Mishaps Reported Here

Reports of two thefts and four minor traffic accidents were investigated during the weekend by city police.

L.L. Allen, a lodger at the Beacon Lodge Motel, told officers someone stole an $800 saddle from him. That incident was reported Sunday night.

Saturday morning, R.A. Dodson told police some fishing tackle and a citizens band radio speaker were stolen from his residence at 3007 Ave. I. Value of the property was placed at $190.

The first traffic accident occurred at 1:45 p.m. Saturday in the 2900 block of Ave. W and involved a parked 1978 Ford owned by the State of Texas Agriculture Department and a 1958 Chevrolet pickup driven by Frutoso Carreon of Roby.

The next accident was in the 1800 block of 39th St. at 2:50 p.m. Saturday. There, a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Carol Vanderslice was in collision with a parked 1978 Ford owned by Fay G. Stone.

At 5:35 p.m. Saturday, a 1975 Ford driven by Monty Anderson and a 1968 Chevrolet driven by Gregory R. Cole collided in the 4100 block of College Ave.

The last mishap of the weekend occurred at 1918 Coleman St. and involved a parked 1973 Ford owned by Val Lapin and another vehicle which fled the scene. The accident was reported at 9:25 p.m.

No Rights On Red Lights In Montreal

QUEBEC (AP)—The City of Montreal does not have much faith in its own drivers.

City officials said Tuesday they would not approve immediate application for right turns on red lights because Quebec drivers and pedestrians "do not have the same discipline and sense of responsibility that can be found in other Canadian provinces or different U.S. states."

The Quebec Province Insurance Board agreed.

"Too often Quebecers drive in an anarchic manner and in a disorderly fashion flouting the laws wantonly," the board said in a brief to a legislative committee studying the proposed rule change.

"As a result, right turns on red lights and passing on the right, to cite only two examples, should be re-examined in the light of driving habits solidly anchored in the Quebec mentality."

BASSRIDGE--3 br, 2 bath, triple carport, garage, cellar, new floor covering and lots of other extra's.

Randy Wright Promoted By Champlin Oil

Randy Wright, a 1972 graduate of Snyder High School was promoted recently by Champlin Oil Co. to Production Foreman.

He will be in charge of all of the company's oil production in the O'Connor Field at Bishop.

Wright joined Champlin in December of 1977 as an engineer technician after completing nearly two years with Texaco at Sundown. He assumed his new duties Aug. 1.

Wright and his wife, the former Patti Sims, live in Kingsville.

Padre, Mustang Islands Clean Of Oil, Tourists

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, (AP)—South Padre and Mustang islands were clean this weekend of both oil and tourists.

Workers had stepped up beach cleansing efforts in anticipation of the Labor Day weekend and reconnaissance flights Sunday showed only a few scattered patches of sheen.

"The beaches are in good shape," said Coast Guard spokesman Larry Clark, a member of the federal task force sent to monitor the world's largest oil spill and guard agaist environmental damage.

But the hoardes of tourists who usually congregate on South Texas beaches each Labor Day apparently remained unconvinced.

Smaller motels were hit especially hard by the dearth of visitors on a weekend that usually marks the peak of the tourist season.

"There's not that many people out today," said Mark Brookman, assistant manager of El Padre Motel. Only two of the motel's 45 rooms were rented.

"I went out on the beach this morning and I saw a handful, maybe 25 or 30 people in both directions," Brookman said. "It's not crowded like it should be."

And although some larger hotels, including the Hilton and Holiday Inn, reported 85 percent to 90 percent occupancy, few of their clients ventured onto the beach.

Tropical Storm Elena didn't help matters any by drenching the northern part of the Texas coast and dumping almost an inch of rain over Corpus Christi Sunday morning.

The sun was shining on South Texas beaches later Sunday, but the combination of Elena's erratic behavior last week and the oil spill threat cast a shadow that frightened away many tourists.

"We have no hopes for a great weekend," said Bob Conwell of the Corpus Christi Area Convention and Tourist Bureau. "Our prime wish is that they get the well shut off so we can get our winter business going well."

Mexican officials have estimated it will take at least two to four weeks to shut off the flow of oil gushing from the crippled well in the Bay of Campeche, 500 miles south of Brownsville.

Almost 3 million barrels of oil have leaked from the well since it blew out June 3, but the daily flow has been reduced from 30,000 to about 10,000 barrels.
