NOTES FROM MANILA.

Interesting Facts About Schools In the Philippines.

TEACHERS IN GREAT DEMAND.

Ardor of the Natives to Learn English—Mohammedan Teachers For the Sulus to Be Brought From India—Cunning Tricks of a Filipino Colonel.

The schoolmaster is abroad in the Philippines, making some recompense for the ravages of war and doing what he can—much probably—to create good feeling and prevent a recurrence of hostilities, writes the Manila correspondent of the New York Post under the date of May 18. Nearly everywhere he goes he is welcomed, the impulsive Filipinos showing a great desire for education generally and acquirement of the English language particularly. Professor Atkinson, superintendent of schools, after a tour of the provinces in southern Luzon, feels that he will need to double his order for a thousand English speaking teachers in order to meet the demands of the people of the archipelago. Even Mindanao is to have its English schools. English speaking teachers of the Mohammedan faith are to be brought from India.

Nearly every pacified town in Luzon and in some of the other islands has its schools. The American soldiers have turned readily from fighting to teaching. Many of them are as enthusiastic as teachers as they were as fighters. When the sword was sheathed, several of the officers turned their attention to the preparation of suitable textbooks for the native schools. In Cebu two valuable contributions of this character have been made, one an English-Spanish Visayan dictionary and the other a reader in the same languages. Captain John H. Goldman, governor of Batan province, says that there are schools in nearly every town under his jurisdiction. He has one English teacher for each town, but needs more. He believes that in six months English will be spoken by the younger people throughout the province.

Here in Manila a vacation normal school, attended by native teachers from many provinces in Luzon, has just ended. It is pronounced a success both in point of attendance and in the interest shown. The aim was to illustrate to the Filipino teachers the modern methods of education. What the Filipinos much need is industrial education. They are quick to learn, "handy" and as imitative as the Japanese, and if taught how to work in modern ways with improved tools they would become formidable industrial competitors within such limitations as the climate enforces. There is hope of the establishment in Manila of one or more industrial schools through the efforts of the Red Cross association. Mrs. Capron, widow of Captain Allyn K. Capron, Jr., sent here by Miss Clara Barton to ascertain Manila's special needs, will report that industrial schools are more needed than hospitals. Money for the creation of such schools may be forthcoming. Mrs. Capron tells of the readiness of several wealthy men of New York city, acting together, to establish such a school, and she knows of two wealthy ladies in Philadelphia who are anxious to contribute to such a purpose.

Two pleasing stories are brought to Manila from Iloilo of the cunning of Quintin Salas, a Filipino colonel, long sought by the American soldiers, but not found until he surrendered himself. The first tells of his meeting with the American Lieutenant Conger. Out in Dumangas country some time last year Conger ran across what purported to be an insurgent hospital camp. He found in charge a very courteous medical officer, with a red cross on his arm, who greeted his American visitors cordially while he busied himself with his patients. Farther along the trail a Filipino was captured, who, when put to the "third degree," said that the hospital camp was a ruse and its medical officer none other than Salas. A quick return to the supposed hospital disclosed no patients and no surgeon. The other story concerns Captain Raysor of the Forty-fourth infantry, who was also hunting Salas. On his "hike" Captain Raysor met a hombre whose offered service as a guide was gladly accepted. The guide seemed to know the country very well and showed the captain more bypaths, lanes, short cuts and incidentally hard trails than he possibly could have found alone. They did not find much of anything else, however, and when the force was thoroughly fagged out the guide volunteered to go ahead and do a little scouting alone. He did not return. Recently while in Iloilo Captain Raysor was introduced to Colonel Quintin Salas by Major Noble and could hardly believe his eyes as he recognized his erstwhile guide of the swamps.

On May 1 the Spanish gunboat the Marques del Duero was raised from the bottom of the harbor, where she had been sent by Admiral Dewey just three years before. It is an 800 ton boat, with twin screws and a light battery, and is said to be in excellent condition. Preparations are being made to raise two more of the sunken Spanish ships.

Young Women

The entry into womanhood is a critical time for a girl. Little menstrual disorders started at that time soon grow into fatal complications. That female troubles are filling graveyards proves this. Wine of Cardui establishes a painless and natural menstrual flow. When once this important function is started right, a healthy life will usually follow. Many women, young and old, owe their lives to Wine of Cardui. There is nothing like it to give women freedom from pain and to fit young women for every duty of life. $1.00 bottles at druggists.

Miss Della M. Strayer, Tully, Kan.: "I have suffered untold pain at menstrual periods for a long time, was nervous, had no appetite, and lost interest in everything, in fact was miserable. I have taken four bottles of Wine of Cardui, with Thedford's Black-Draught, when needed, and to-day I am entirely cured. I cannot express the thanks I feel for what you have done for me."

WINE OF CARDUI

CAREER OF HOSHI TORU.

Former Japanese Minister Was the Tom Reed of Japan.

Like Okubo, a Japanese reforming minister of the interior, assassinated in 1878, Hoshi Toru, the former Japanese minister at Washington, has fallen a victim of a strong wave of political feeling agitating his country, says the New York Herald. Japan is just now passing through something of a crisis, and the unrest prevailing in national and municipal politics has cost the country the life of one of her ablest statesmen.

When the Marquis Ito formed his new party cabinet last October, Toru Hoshi was chosen by him for the post of minister of communications. Within a few weeks, however, Hoshi Toru thought it necessary to resign his portfolio in consequence of persistent attacks impugning his administrative integrity. He was selected by the government majority in the lower house of the diet to be its leader.

As a parliamentarian he proved his strength in the stormy scenes that marked the first sessions of Japan's national legislature. He has been termed the Tom Reed of Japan, for he was a speaker whose firm hand guided the assembly and saved it from chaos. During the war with China he was chairman of the budget committee providing the ways and means, and he was largely responsible for the new commercial treaties of Japan. He, however, himself came into collision with the dominant sentiment, and in 1894 he was expelled after making a stubborn fight amid roars of abuse and vituperation. Subsequently he was appointed minister at Washington, a post which he resigned in 1898 after his reelection to the house.

At Washington he was one of the most hospitable of the diplomatic corps, and the residence of the Minister and Mme. Toru Hoshi at the legation is remembered for the charm which emanated from the social graces of host and hostess. An only son, Hiharu Hoshi, then between 5 and 6 years of age and a child of much promise, was the light of the domestic life of the legation at that time.

While in the United States Mr. Toru Hoshi adopted the western usage in writing his name. In Japan the family name comes first, and hence in official titles the form Hoshi Toru is that generally followed. Born in 1850 at Tokyo, he passed through many hardships in his early years. He studied law in England and in later life made himself a special authority in the international branch of jurisprudence.

DOWIE AND HIS WINGS.

Gorgeous Creations Worn by the General Overseer of Zion Church.

One pair of wings has every angel
Who cleaves the air of heaven remote,
Yet Dowie fastens four winged winglets
Upon his queer Elijah coat,
But why he needs them in his dominion
Is merely a matter of a pinion.
—"Fly Time Fancies."

Many and strange are the vagaries indulged in by John Alexander Dowie, otherwise Elijah II and overseer of the Church of Zion, but perhaps the most startling of all is the addition of two pairs of wings to the garb of the prophet, says a special dispatch from Chicago to the New York Evening Journal. When he delivered the sermon in which he vociferously declared that he was not a paranoiac, he wore four pinions, and as he called upon his congregation of 400 to say if he were or were not he was answered back with loud yells of "No!"

The general overseer turned his back to the audience and furiously flapped the gorgeous wings. The wings are about 18 inches long by 8 inches wide and are shaped like those of the grasshopper. Two are black, lined with purple silk. The others are gorgeous creations in purple, orange and white, the colors of the Zionites.

During the services Dowie strutted up and down the platform, now and then turning suddenly, causing the wings to flap violently. Dowie said that the laws of the church should be obeyed even if they contradicted the laws of the state. He called John D. Rockefeller a thief and said he intended to make war on the trusts.

Curfew In the United States.

Curfew is now ringing every night at 9 o'clock in many towns and villages of the United States, not only in New England, but in several states of the west and south as well.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Items of Interest Gathered at Washington.

NEW ROOFS FOR THE CAPITOL.

Those Over Supreme Court and Statuary Hall to Be Replaced—Illustration of the President's Devotion to His Wife—Straw Hats For Horses. Automobiles For Fire Chiefs.

The architect of the capitol at Washington has decided that it will be necessary to remove the entire ceiling of the United States supreme court room at the capitol in order to replace the timber roof with a more substantial structure of steel, says the Washington Star. The ceiling has been carefully photographed, and diagrams have been made of it so that the new ceiling can be replaced so that it will not be possible for the observer from below to detect that it has been removed. Material for this work has been ordered, and about Aug. 1 it will be in Washington, so that the work of reconstruction can then be begun.

The reconstruction of the roof of Statuary hall will also be begun at the same time. A temporary roof will be built under the present ceiling, so that when the rafters and plastering have been torn out no inconvenience will be caused in the hall whatever may be the character of the weather. The statues will all be boxed so as to protect them from damage. The guides at the capitol have been greatly alarmed over the possibility of having a part of their stock in trade destroyed by the reconstruction of the roof. They fear the "sounding stones" and the various acoustic peculiarities of the hall will be interfered with by the new roof and ceiling, although the ceiling is to be an exact duplicate of the old one. The old construction was of wood, while the new one will be of steel, and this alteration may make such a change as they fear, though no one at the capitol is certain what the result will be.

The president recently gave a pretty illustration of his devotion to Mrs. McKinley and his affectionate regard for all that she admires, says the New York World's Washington correspondent.

A new autograph album was laid before the president for his signature. On each leaf was a flower with a little sentiment beneath it. The president did not follow his usual custom of signing his name on the first page, as had doubtless been expected, but turned over the leaves until he found near the middle of the book a bunch of pansies, Mrs. McKinley's favorite flower, with the lines:

You cannot guess the power
Of a simple little flower.

With a smile the president wrote beneath this sentiment, "William McKinley."

The Humane society of Washington has been agitating the question of hats for horses, and its efforts are bearing some fruit, says the Washington Times. The society is intending to have made several dozen straw hats of the kind used for horses in the West Indies and in Europe and will distribute them to the hack drivers in order to place them where they will do most good. The hats are provided with holes in the top through which the ears of the horse protrude. The bonnet is tied neatly under the horse's chin and as it is two feet and over in breadth casts a shade that is ample to protect the whole head and face. A place in the top of the hat above the horse's crown is made to receive a sponge that can be dampened in order to keep his topknot moist.

President McKinley's coachman and footman have new liveries of a dark green hue, writes the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. They wear silk hats of the latest pattern, without cockades. The new livery is an improvement over the old one, which was tan colored. For several days those who spend a great deal of time about the White House were quite curious to know who was the owner of a pair of bay horses attached to a new victoria that stood in front of the executive mansion each afternoon. It developed that the horses were the pair purchased by the president recently with a comparatively new victoria and new liveries for the coachman and footman.

The Washington fire department has under consideration a proposal to purchase two motor vehicles for the use of the chief and assistant chief, who go to all fires, and an electric company is now preparing an estimate of the cost, which will not exceed $1,000 each, it is said. The idea is to provide the heads of the department with vehicles of greater speed and endurance than those now in use, says the New York Post's correspondent. The chief has two horses at his command, but there are days when owing to several fire calls in remote sections of the city a third and even a fourth horse are necessary for the relief of the two regulars. Should the experiment in Washington of using automobiles for the fire chiefs prove successful, it is expected that other cities will quickly take it up.

Novel Plan to Stop Drunkenness.

A Kansas soldier in the Philippines notes a new temperance force which is at work in the army, says the New York Tribune. "We have," he says, "a lot of native soldiers enlisted here. When one of the white boys gets drunk, the captain puts a native soldier over him, and the native puts on lots of airs while marching him around. It grinds the boys so that they wouldn't get drunk if they could."

STORIES OF PINGREE.

How He Learned Shoemaking and Met Colonel Mosby In Washington.

Hazen S. Pingree, formerly mayor of Detroit and governor of Michigan, who died in London the other day, was the founder and owner of the largest boot and shoe manufactory in the west, says the New York Sun. He learned the trade of shoemaking in the dingy little shop of a cobbler in Georgetown, now West Washington, D. C. While a soldier in the civil war Pingree's regiment was camped on the Virginia side of the Potomac just across the Aqueduct bridge from Georgetown, and it was his duty to get the mail for the camp from the Georgetown postoffice daily. Often the mail would be very late, and Pingree would kill time talking to the cobbler, who taught him how to mend shoes and finally to make them. Pingree earned many an honest dollar by cobbling for his comrades and from that beginning pushed on with characteristic brains and pluck until he made a fortune as an enterprising and honest manufacturer.

One night about a dozen years ago when Pingree was just coming into prominence in Michigan politics he was in Washington and strolled through the corridors of Willard's hotel, which he had not visited since wartimes, when it was the popular rendezvous of the city, political, military and otherwise. A friend introduced him to Colonel Mosby, the old guerrilla chieftain.

"Why, hello, colonel!" said Pingree in his bluff, offhanded way, just as if he was in the habit of meeting Mosby every day. "I have not seen you for 25 years, but I remember very well the last occasion when we met."

"Ah," said the Virginian politely, "what incident recalls it to your mind? I really fail to remember you, much to my regret."

"Oh, well," said Pingree, "you would not be so apt as I to remember the day. I was captured by your men, and, happening to be wearing a very good, nearly new uniform, you confiscated it on the spot and gave me your old, ragged butternuts. But that's all right. All's fair in love and war, I know. Let's have a cigar."

Without a word of protest Mosby accepted, and a long friendly chat followed.

KNOX AS A DRIVER.

How the Attorney General Made World's Record With His Trotters.

Attorney General Knox recently brought to Washington his famous team of trotters Wert and Dr. Leek, for which he paid nearly $12,000, says the New York Evening World. Mr Knox has many blooded horses and will take several of them to Washington next fall. At present he has only his famous trotters there.

It is the pride of the attorney general that these horses, which he trained himself, hold the pole record of the world for gentlemen drivers. In view of this it was said of Mr. Knox that one of the greatest jockeys of the age was spoiled when he became a lawyer.

After purchasing this team Mr. Knox drove it for weeks on the Brunot Island track and then announced that with it he could beat the world. Against the advice of the jockeys he changed Dr. Leek to the pole, and on the trial spin with Wert he gave the horses a loose rein, with the result that the world's record was lowered from 2:12½ to 2:10½.

"I am going to live ten years and keep on giving all the time just as now," he said recently to a New York Evening Journal reporter. "It'll be in $25,000 and $50,000 lots, with just one or two promises of $100,000 which I have in mind. I haven't told any one how much I was worth or how much I've got still, and I'm not going to."

A New Use For Camomile.

The medicinal properties of camomile tea have recently been subjected to a new test at the Schonbrunn menagerie in Vienna. A rhinoceros that has been sent to the emperor of Austria from the Malay peninsula was taken sick on the long sea voyage. To favor her the van in which she traveled from Triest to Vienna was heated with 60 hot water tins, but the chilly weather when she reached her destination increased her cold. She has been dieting on six quarts of camomile tea daily and several quarts of red wine. The beverage seemed to please her greatly, for she has swallowed it readily and is now recovering rapidly. She is a remarkably strong creature of 3½ years and has excited great interest in the city. The crown prince of Germany has been among her visitors.

The Umbrella de Luxe.

Apparently there is no limit to the extravagance of fashion, says the Philadelphia Times. Up to this time the umbrella when rolled up has been fastened with a narrow band attached to it by a modest button, while the other end was provided with a small ring. Now the button is replaced by a cabochon turquoise, sapphire, ruby or emerald and the ring is of gold.

Smart Engagement Rings.

According to the smart jewelers, the favorite engagement ring of the day is a pear shaped stone, preferably a diamond, the setting almost invisible, the circlet very thin. If a colored stone is chosen instead of a diamond, the accommodating jeweler will surround it with the tiniest of diamonds, making a brilliant line of white fire, but the individual stones so small as to have the effect rather than the appearance of gems, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. A row of five diamonds, encircled with many rubies, is also a favorite engagement ring.

FIRE IN ARIZONA.

Fourteen Buildings Destroyed and Many Families Rendered Homeless.

Globe, A. T., July 3.—Fourteen buildings were destroyed here by fire of an unknown origin and 10 families of miners are homeless. Loss $80,000.

Smoke was discovered issuing from an upper window of the block owned by T. J. Morris & Son late Tuesday and before the fire department arrived the flames were coming through the roof and also eating their way downward into the general store on the first floor, where several barrels of oil was stored. Knowledge of the explosives kept the fighters at a distance until the oil had ignited and it was considered safe to venture nearer the house. Such headway had been gained, however, that the department and citizens who volunteered to aid, confined their efforts to saving the furniture and contents of the dwellings and other store buildings nearby. A stiff wind carried the flames leaping from housetop to housetop so rapidly that in a short time a dozen buildings were burning and there was danger of the whole town going. Selecting a point on Main street about five houses away from the edge of the flames, a dwelling was blown up with dynamite and in this manner the town was saved from total destruction.

A Trip to Buffalo.

Editorial Correspondence.

Tuesday morning June 18th.—Our trip to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo lies over the Ft. Worth & Rio Grande to Ft. Worth, the T. & P. to Dallas, the M. K. & T. via Greenville and Denison, Texas; McAllister, I. T.; Parsons and Fort Scott, Kansas; Sedalia, Mo. to St. Louis, thence over the Wabash by way of Decatur and Chicago, Illinois; Wakarusa and New Paris, Ind., Montpelier, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan, across the Detroit river connecting Lakes Erie and Huron, to Stoney Point, Ontario, and along the shores on the Canadian side of Lake Erie via Chatham, St. Thomas and across the suspension bridge over the Niagaria river to Buffalo, New York. As I write (10 a. m. July 18th) we are speeding through middle western Illinois on the excellently equipped cars for which the celebrated Wabash road is noted and from the car window the thrift and prosperity of the Illinois farmer is apparent on every side. The wheat crop will apparently soon be ready to harvest but the oats are somewhat backward and are just beginning to head, while most of the corn is just appearing above the ground with an occasional crop six or nine inches high. The latter appears to be the principal crop with much the largest acreage, though there is a considerable quantity of wheat and both these crops are fine, the oats not so good. Farm houses as a rule present a neat and comfortable appearance and with rare exceptions every farm house has large barns, cribs and out houses almost equal to their houses but always large, roomy and well built and finished. We arrived in St. Louis yesterday morning over the Katy and the train was two hours late on account of the heavy travel and as a consequence of this lateness was our remaining in St. Louis yesterday, though the time there was pleasantly spent, for aside from getting some business for the Progress we made a trip in the afternoon to Forest Park, which is said to be one of the largest natural parks in the United States. In the tract there is 1,320 acres and about one half of this area is well improved with flower gardens, beautiful paved streets and cement walks laid off in abandon with here and there substantial rest houses with toilet rooms and other conveniences while throughout the grounds and under the shade of the natural trees seats are conveniently located so one is never at a loss to find a place to sit down and rest "far from the modding crowd." Several natural and artificial lakes add a coolness and freshness not otherwise obtainable and in these lakes are boats for those who wish them. An interesting part of the park is the zoological garden, where there are a number of elk, dromedary, bears of different kinds, wolves monkeys, parrots, peacocks, badgers and many other small animals and fowl. There are two large buffalo in the zoo, "Jake" and "Mollie" and a buffalo calf a day old yesterday, has taken up abode in the appartments arranged for the now nearly extinct species. The park is a favorite haunt for St. Louisians and visitors there and as a drive-way it is immense. Throughout the afternoon all manner of vehicles from an automobile to a goat cart were constantly visible on the most frequented drives. Dublin's new park is not quite so pretentious as this one but has more room for improvement.

A number of the members of the reform press association of Texas are on the train en route to Buffalo, but at the next station, Bement, Illinois, our ways will part, they going on the direct route to Detroit and we by way of Chicago, more business for the Progress, and then to Detroit. We will meet them at Buffalo, arriving there ordinarily about three hours after the train they go on, though we may remain for some time in Chicago. The reform press association met in Corsicana last Saturday and this excursion party is one of the pleasureable results of the meeting. We met the party at Dallas Sunday morning and have been with them since.

The trip through north Texas, the Territory and Kansas was very disagreeable on account of the weather being so dry and hot and this in connection with the extra heavy train and the crowded condition of the cars, conspired to make the heat and dust almost unbearable. From Denison, Texas, to Parsons, Kansas, the train consisted of five sleepers, five ordinary coaches and two baggage cars and at Parsons two more sleepers were added making a train of fourteen cars, every sleeper and every seat was filled and there was a demand for still more room. Over the entire route from Denison to St. Louis two mammoth four driver engines were required to carry the train and right nobly they did their duty, for despite several "hot boxes" which occasioned delay the train arrived in St. Louis only two hours behind time. The traffic was said to be unprecedented and the excellent management of the Katy people deserve much credit for the manner in which they try to make it comfortable for their passengers even under such extraordinary difficulties. Most of these people were en route to Chicago and many to St. Louis and to Buffalo and the heavy traffic is probably due to the present cheap rates to points north and east.

At Parsons, Kansas, Sunday evening the train stopped twenty minutes for lunch and by reason of "hot boxes" needing attention this was extended to about an hour and a half. Parsons is only fifteen miles from St. Paul, formerly Osage Mission, the old home of the Progress editor and many of the old-time Missionites have moved to Parsons. We were gratified to meet and spend a pleasant half hour with an old friend of school boy days with whom we have "fit, bled and died" and incidentally absorbed the intricate multiplication table as well as learned to spell and read "writin."

At a by station in the Indian Territory a burly looking man apparently about 250 pounds weight and six and a half feet tall got on the train with a lady and some children. We afterward learned this man to be a Mr. Buffington, the head chief of the Cherokee tribe of Indians and who resides with his family at Vinita, I. T. He is a half-breed Cherokee, appeared to be about fifty years old, a fine looking man, straight as an arrow and speaks English as well as anyone. A conversation with him revealed that he is a cultured gentleman, well versed in history, politics and current events in general. He is very wealthy and is most favorably thought of by the citizens of Vinita, regardless of nationality.

June 19th.—Yesterday at 4:30 p. m. we arrived at Chicago and were able to get out of that place at 9 30 on the Continental Limited a new train just put on the Wabash between Chicago and Buffalo, this being its third trip. This train makes no stops between Chicago and Buffalo, a distance of slightly over five hundred miles except to change engines and get water, and a running speed of about forty-five miles an hour is maintained. At the time of this writing, 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, June 19th, our train is passing a little town called Canfield, in Ontario, about three hours run from Buffalo and about eight miles north of Lake Erie. About daylight this morning the city of Detroit, Mich., was reached and from a copy of the Morning Free Press we learned that Ex-Governor Pingree, who resides at Detroit and who has been ill for some time, died in London yesterday. Also the paper contained a brief, but heavy head-lined account of the forming of a new "third party" at Kansas City yesterday, said to be endorsed by Wm. J. Bryan and by the populist national committee.

Our train was backed on to a ferry boat on the Detroit river and in a few minutes we were steaming down the Detroit to the town of Windsor, two miles below on the other side of the river. On the ferry a United States custom house office was located and by the time the boat got under good headway a custom inspector with several aids passed through the cars and closely investigated all baggage to see that no contraband goods was on board. At Windsor before the boat was allowed to land, a British custom inspector made a cursory examination of the goods and chattels of those on board. From this place on, the general appearance of the people and the oncoming passengers, who boarded the train at the stops, was greatly changed, nearly all of them being distinctly English with a big "H" in the speech.

The largest town we have so far passed in Ontario was St. Thomas, a city of from 12,000 to 18,000 population, located about one-third the way from Detroit to Buffalo. The principle part of the city was only to seen at a distance from the car, as the depot is virtually in the suburbs, a curious fact applicable to nearly every town we have yet passed in the Dominion.

The country along this route is sparcely settled, considering the more densely populated section of the states through which we've traveled, but as we approach Buffalo the farm houses become more numerous and every foot of land is under fence, though probably less than one-half of it is in cultivation, and there is very little land above water that is not tillable. The principal crop seems to be wheat and this is now in the head, but appears to be a very poor crop. Some land is being prepared for corn and here and there a corn planter is running. There are quite a number of clover meadows along this route, but these are neither so extensive nor so fine as those passed in Missouri, Michigan and Illinois. In the latter state, for a hundred miles before reaching Missouri the railroad winds down the beautiful valley of the Missouri river and the hills, which are really large enough to be called mountains, are covered with fine crops of wheat. Even sharp peaks, probably two hundred feet above the river level, can often be seen to have a wheat field for a crown

The finest looking country we have yet seen was southern Michigan, passed through this morning from daylight until sunrise. This land lies almost as flat as a floor, and is the best cultivated of any this writer ever saw. The principal crop noticeable there was corn and this was just coming up.

The Wellington canal, which connects Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, was crossed a few moments ago. This canal carries all the boat traffic between the two lakes, which are connected by Niagria Falls prevent this being used as a waterway, hence the necessity of the canal to accommodate the immense amount of water traffic which plies between the great lakes. The canal is about forty miles in length and is supplied with locks and dams at proper intervals, and a levy some twenty feet high runs its entire distance on either side. The canal is fed by water from the two lakes, except where the canal bed is too high, and at that point a canal feeder enters, which drains the upper lands for many miles and is kept open by dredging from year to year. All the expense in connection with keeping this waterway open and in order is met by the Canadian government, and it is said that the amount is by no means a small sum.

Saturday June 29th.—We arrived home today at 4 p. m. after a trip of two weeks, five days of which was spent at Buffalo, one at Niagra Falls, two at Chicago and one at St. Louis, the remainder of the time being spent on the cars. During the stay at Buffalo, and Niagra Falls, our time was too fully occupied in seeing the sights to have time to correspond to the paper, and hence next week we shall give a general resume of the trip and our stay at the Exposition and Niagara. J. S. DALEY.

A STINULANT.

And a Sorry Friend to Some Systems.

"Coffee acts as a stimulant to me. I can for a time accomplish considerable more work, but then I am dull, spiritless, nervous, weak and irritable. Coffee acts like a slow poison on my father, giving him inward pains and a feeling of being generally upset. Continued use always used to make him ill.

"He used to be very fond of the beverage and was in the habit of drinking it two mornings, say, then skipping a few days and taking it two mornings again. If he took it the third morning, he was invariably sick. It is two years now since we had the first package of Postum. We have been using it ever since, to our very great benefit.

"A lady friend who is the wife of a prominent clergyman in New Haven (whose name I am not at liberty to give) was a complete nervous wreck from the use of coffee. About a year ago she began the use of Postum and continued in it. Six weeks after starting she had lost all her former nervousness, had grown plump in the face, and her health was better than it had been for years. She is a splendid walking advertisement, and is most enthusiastic in the praise of Postum, telling all of her callers of its merits and urging them to try it."—Kate Austin, Hamden, Conn.

FOOD AND WEATHER.

Temperature Increased or Reduced by Food.

The old army ration for the tropics has been very sharply criticised for the reason that it consists of articles of food that any person even slightly acquainted with the elements of food knows is not adapted to the needs of the human system in hot weather. Nature shows forth in the selection of food by inhabitants of various countries; for instance, the Esquimaux in a cold climate selects fatty, carbonaceous foods, tallow, blubber and such; while the Hindoo and inhabitants of hot countries turn to the cereals for sustenance. We should follow this hint of nature, and particularly in hot weather should avoid much butter, meat or any of that class of food. Perhaps a little meat once a day is not amiss, even in hot weather, but the breakfast and luncheon should be made of fruit, one or two slices of entire wheat bread and some Grape-Nuts and cream. Grape-Nuts are mentioned, because they furnish the ideal cereal food in a most palatable and delicious form, in addition to which, they are ready cooked and require no attention from the cook. A person can pass through weather that may be intensely hot, in a comfortable manner, if their food be properly selected, and the above suggestions can be put into practice with most excellent results.

The Dublin school board met last Monday night and adopted the plans for the new school building to be erected by the sale of the bonds recently authorized. Several architects from Brownwood, Stephenville, Ft. Worth and Waco submitted plans, but the one adopted was that drawn by Howard Messer of Ft. Worth. The building will be of stone or brick, three stories high, besides a basement for the heating apparatus, which will be provided either for steam or hot air. The plans provide for four large rooms and a hallway on the ground floor, six class rooms, a library and a superintendent's room on the second floor, and the third floor is set aside entirely for a large auditorium and is to be covered with a mansard roof which provides the auditorium room. A tower of from eighty to eighty-five feet is provided for with a large clock with four dials and illuminated time characters. The rooms are so arranged that nearly all will have a southern exposure, and the building complete without furniture is roughly estimated to cost about $17,000. Sealed bids for the erection of the structure on the plans adopted have been advertised to be received and opened on the fifteenth of the present month, the board reserving the right to reject any and all bids in the event none of them are satisfactory. The bonds have and are being advertised for sale and the board is in receipt of several bids, none of which are less than par and some being at a premium sufficient to pay all the expense of election, issuing and disposing of the bonds. The bonds, it will be remembered, are to run twenty years at five per cent. interest, with an option on the part of the school board to pay any or all after ten years. The board of trustees are a good class of business men and appear to be facilitating the initiatory steps towards the much needed new school building with all dispatch consistent with a proper management of the responsibility resting upon them. It is likely that work will begin on the building inside of thirty days.

We are in receipt of the eighteenth annual catalogue of the University of Texas. It is a volume of 369 pages and contains much valuable information concerning the state's great enterprise in higher education. The list of alumni of the university number more than one thousand persons, many of them occupying prominent positions in every walk of life. One hundred and sixty-two degrees were awarded at the recent commencement, and during the past year there were more than one thousand regular students enrolled. There are one hundred instructors and officers employed to administer the affairs of the institution. The growth of the state university is a matter of pride to every citizen who loves Texas and who believes in free education for all the people. A copy of the catalogue may be obtained by addressing Registrar Lomax, Austin, Tex.

The expenses of a student in the University of Texas vary with the individual. The state provides free tuition. At University Hall board, light, fuel and lodging has been furnished one hundred and fifty young men during the session of 1900-01 at prices ranging from $11 to $12 25 per month. Fourteen students were given free board for waiting on their fellows during meals. A number of student clubs paid all boarding expenses for $10 per man and even less. In another column will be found an announcement of the nineteenth session of the university.

The past few years labor saving inventions have been most prolific in all branches of industry and while there has been more advancement in new machinery for some other lines than in farming, yet the latter is not without its practical novelties in this class of machinery. One of the latest to be introduced in this section is a corn harvester, which with little trouble does the work of several men. Of course our enterprising farmer friend W. S. Messner was the first to adopt one of the new machines, as he last week purchased one from the popular farm implement department of G. B. Maloney & Co. and expects to begin work with it tomorrow morning. This machine cuts and binds the corn or sorghum and handles it just the same as an ordinary binder does small grain. Those interested in saving the most possible feed this dry year would do well to see it running.

Unloaded Gun Does Deadly Work.

A horrible tragedy was enacted in the southern part of the county near Neri on Sunday last, resulting in the death of the little five-year-old daughter of R. T. Gideon. As the little girl and her cousin, Charlie Brady, a lad of thirteen, were playing, the boy got hold of a twenty-two calibre target gun, which he supposed was not loaded, and playfully pointed it at her through a window, when it was discharged, the bullet entering her left side, piercing the heart and lodging in the skin on the opposite side of her body. The little girl ran about ten steps and fell to the floor dead. No inquest was held, as there were eye witnesses to the accident.—Granbury Democrat, July 3rd.

WORK OF LIGHTNING.

Eleven Persons Killed While Seeking Shelter at Chicago.

ONLY ONE ESCAPED.

Lightning Strikes a Pier on Which the Crowd Had Gathered to Get Out of Rain—The Stroke of Lightning Was Powerful.

Chicago, July 2.—A single stroke of lightning late Monday afternoon killed 11 persons and probably fatally injured a twelfth. The boys rushed to the pier at the foot of Montrose boulevard to seek shelter. Suddenly there was a great flash of lightning and people living in tne vicinity heard a terrific crash. A policeman rushed to the pier and discovered that the bolt had demolished the pier, which was of heavy construction, precipitating the whole structure into the water.

Knowing that the boys had gathered there he called ambulances and in half an hour the bodies were recovered from the lake. The electric bolt burned out the telephone wires in the vicinity and for a time only meager and widely varying reports could be obtained.

The boys were in swimming having fled to the lake to escape the intense heat. When the rain began to fall and it became evident a severe electrical storm was coming they rushed to the shed where a shelter had been built for the use of dressing and undressing. Willie Anderson, 12 years old, was the only survivor and he was badly hurt.

The stroke of lightning was the most powerful which has struck in this vicinity in years. The roar which followed it was deafening. The pier was demolished in a trice, giving the boys not the slightest chance of escaping. The bathers were mostly from the poorer class.

Gave Birth to Triplets.

Bryan, Tex., July 3.—W. H. Reding, from the Willow Hole community, in Madison county, reported that triplet sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seay of that neighborhood. The boys are all doing well and it was estimated that they weighed seven pounds each.

"NERVE WASTE."

Is the title of a little book (now in its fourth edition) by H. C. Sawyer, the eminent San Francisco physician. It is endorsed by both religious and secular press of the country, strong papers like the Portland Pacific Baptist, Boston Congregationalist, San Francisco Occident, Christain Guardian, Peck's Sun, Cleveland Plaindealer, Baltimore Sun, Providence Journal, etc., etc. Public Opinion of Washington, D. C., says: "Nerve Waste as a title is so suggestive of quacks that even if the book had no other merit than its honesty it would nevertheless deserve mention for that," and adds: "There has probably never appeared on this subject as high-toned, unselfishly written book so nearly commensurate with the too apparent needs." The Occident says; "There are so many quacks and charlatans that many need just such sensible and practical information as Dr. Sawyer gives. We heartily commend his book." The Rochester Herald says: "It should be in the hands of every person who has trouble of this kind, for it is calculated to point the way to relief as unerringly as a physician who would charge many dollars could do."

Hundreds of thousands of men, young and old, are being bled by charlatans and quacks who prey upon their misfortunes, and what is worse they even sell each other the names and addresses of the unfortunates who, if they new more of themselves, would not be bled by the vampires that are growing rich off of them. This book will tell them all about themselves and what to do, and save them from the clutches of the worst class of heartless pretenders this country has yet produced. A sample chapter will be sent, in plain, sealed envelope, for two cents in stamps, that fully explains and carries an average case from beginning to end and gives the formulae for the prescriptions, only the standard drugs to be found in every drug store being used. The book is $1 (in stamps) by mail postpaid, and it is the hope that there will be sufficient sale to justify continuous advertising that will reach and put this book in the hands of every person needing it in the United States.

FIRE IN A HOTEL.

Two Persons Dead and Several Badly Injured From Gasoline Explosion.

Butte, Mont., July 2.—Two dead, two severely if not fatally injured, and a score or more, more or less hurt, is the result of a fire which broke out at the Pullman lodging house, 114 West Mercury street at 2 o'clock this morning.

The dead are:

S. M. Mix, waiter, Missoula, Mont.

Ole Berg, carpenter, Butte, Mont.

Severely injured:

Billy Ryan, better known as "Australian Ryan," a pugilist well known throughout the Northwest, jumped from a third story window, seriously injured about head and legs.

A man named Camp jumped from a third story window, internally injured and cut about head.

Miss Cryseal, proprietress of the lodging house, injured about head and inhaling smoke,

A number of men were experimenting with a gasoline lamp in a saloon on the lower floor of the lodging house when the lamp exploded, scattering the flames in all directions. The building was wooden and before the fire department arrived the flames had eaten through the lower floor and were spreading to the upper stories.

The lodging house contained about 100 rooms and were probably all occupied but everybody escaped except those mentioned above. It is remarkable that more were not killed. It is not believed that any except the two mentioned perished. The property loss is about $4000 with no insurance.

The World's Largest Gun.

Washington, July 2.—The management of the Pan-American exposition will be disappointed in the hope of securing the great 16-inch rifle which is being manufactured for the government, and which is intended to become a part of the coast defense armament. This big gun has cost the United States about $500,000 so far, and it is so far from completion that it not expected that it can be exhibited before another year has passed. It has been suggested, in consequence, that it would form a most interesting exhibit for the St. Louis exposition in 1903, as it will probably be mounted by that time and ready for transportation.

Must Pay Inspection Fees.

Denver, July 2 —Judge Hallett of the United States district court, denied a writ of habeas corpus to E. H. Reid, the Omaha cattle shipper, who was sentenced to six month's imprisonment by the district court of Arapnoe county for failure to pay the state inspection fee on a shipment of cattle from Texas. Attorney Ralph Talbott took an appeal to the United States supreme court and Reid was released on a $500 bond. In refusing to pay the state fee Reid was acting as agent for the National Live Stock association which desired a decision by the supreme court on the questions involved that will apply to the states.

Gave Himself Up.

Birmingham, Alo., July 2.—Burgess Little, formerly cashier of the Shelby County bank at Monticello, Ala., came to Birmingham and surrendered himself to Sheriff Coleman of the circuit court. The Shelby County bank recently closed its doors and it was alleged that Little had embezzled $10,000 of the bank's funds. Mr. Little declined to make any statement for publication other than to say that he came of his own volition and surrendered.

The Shelby County bank suspended May 7, but no other failures followed its closing. It was a small bank and carried only a limited amount of deposits.

Alleges He Got a Counterfeit.

St. Louis, July 2.—Louis P. Negele, proprietor of a saloon, was arrested Saturday night on complaint of J. A. Dolin, a conductor on the Sixth street line, who alleges that Negele passed a counterfeit dollar on him. Negele says he boarded the car and gave Dolin a dollar, receiving 95 cents in change. He rode about six blocks, he claims, when the conductor walked up and demanded another dollar, saying the one Negele had given him was counterfeit. Negele refused and the conductor caused his arrest.

H. H. Hargrove Dead.

New Orleans, July 2.—Hardy H. Hargrove, who resigned the presidency of the Southern Industrial association on the last day of the Philadelphia convention and who was the father of the cotton mill movement in Louisiana and Mississippi, as well as a veteran of the Picayune staff, died suddenly at his home in Shreveport, La., Monday. He had been ill for months. He was 49 years of age, studied law, but took up journalism as a profession. He was a leader in educational circles.

Proclamation Completed.

Washington, July 2.—At the cabinet meeting today Secretary Hitchcock informed the cabinet that the proclamation for the opening of the Kiowa Comanche and Apache Indian reservations in Oklahoma was completed. The secretary will go over it with the president and it will then be issued. It will fix the day of the opening and will prescribe the methods and rules to be observed by prospective homesteaders.

Blown from the Cab.

Guthrie, July 2.—The steam pipe in an Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe freight engine burst at Seward, seven miles south of here, and George Clark, the fireman, was blown out of the cab. He landed nearly 30 feet away and was fatally injured.

Postmaster of Prescott.

Washington, July 2.—The president has appointed Jack Grayson, postmaster at Prescott, Ark.

SHOT BY A GREEK.

William Harris Deliberately Wounded at Chicago for No Cause.

Chicago, July 2.—While attempting to recover an umbrella and purse belonging to a young lady who was a stranger to him, William J. Harris was shot and fatally wounded Monday night by Michaelo Varlos, a Greek. As his victim fell, Varlos dropped his revolver and fled, pursued by a number of men who had seen the shooting. He was captured.

The affray occurred in an ice cream parlor in which Varlos is a waiter. Half an hour before the shooting Varlos had quarrelled with a woman and her escort who had entered the place. A fight followed between the men during which Varlos was struck over the head with an umbrella by the woman. She then ran out of the door leaving the umbrella and her purse behind.

Just outside the door she met Harris who inquired the cause of the excitement. She told him and he entered to secure the umbrella and purse. Entering the store he demanded the return of the woman's property. Varlos told him to step to the rear of the store and he would hand him the articles. The Greek then walked behind a counter and drawing a revolver from a drawer deliberately fired it three times at Harris. Two bullets entered the breast and one the abdomen. Harris is a machinist from Pittsburg, Pa.

FEAR ANARCHISTS.

Italian Consul General at New York Leaving His Post.

New York, July 2.—As a result of the many threats against his life by anarchists an indefinite leave of absence has been granted Giovannni Branchi, the Italian consul general in this city. It is said he has gone back to Italy, where he will remain and where anarchists are less active. For several weeks before he left the consul employed a body guard and kept his place of residence a secret. His personal mail was received at the Lotos club, but he was seldom seen there and sent a messenger daily to get his letters.

The Italian consulate is left in charge of the vice consul and is carefully guarded. All visitors are closely inspected and questioned as to their business in an outer office. Only those who satisfy the inquisitor that their business is of a legitimate character are admitted to the presence of the acting consul.

He, too, it is alleged, has changed his residence, keeping his present abode a secret.

It was the activity of Consul Branchi in exposing the plot to kill King Humbert that turned on the hatred of the anarchists.

TIME OF THE COUNTRY.

More Land Required to Protect the Delicate Instrument from Jar.

Washington, July 2.—The navy department has purchased a considerable tract of land surrounding the naval observatory here in order to protect from jar the delicate instruments which record the time of the country, It was deemed desirable not to have any highways within 1000 feet of the clock room where the instruments are stationed and a circle with a radius of 1000 feet therefore was drawn entirely around the observatory. At the last session of congress $149,000 was appropriated to purchase the enclosed land and this amount has just become available. The tracts purchased contain about 16 acres.

Strike Situation Unchanged.

Pittsburg, July 2.—The second day of the strike of the sheet steel and steel hoop workers of the Amalgamated association opened without interesting or exciting features. It was evident neither side anticipated early developments as there was no unusual activity about combine offices and utmost quiet prevailed at headquarters of workers. Belief is quite general the real test will not come until the close of the hot weather and a general resumption of business in early fall, and in the meantime it is thought the conflicting interests will see their way clear to recede from present position.

Couldn't Strike Edwards' Trail.

Marshall, Tex., July 2.—It having been reported to W. L. Foster of Shreveport that the negro Prince Edwards, who murdered his brother, John Gray Foster, had been seen in this county, nine miles east of here, Mr. Foster wiih a posse of Louisianans, augmented by officers of this county, left at an early hour Monday morning for the locality where the negro was said to have been seen. The posse returned in the evening, having failed to strike any trail of the negro.

So many horses have been killed or disabled by the heat that the deliveries of provisions and ice is much retarded, thus adding to the discomfort and suffering.

In Brooklyn 30 sudden deaths were reported between midnight and 9 a. m., and of these 17 were directly due to the heat.

At 11 o'clock the police department list showed that from midnight to that time a total of 52 deaths from heat had been reported in Greater New York. Nearly all the dead were adults.

Factories Closed.

Boston, July 2.—Reports from New England points received here indicated no abatement in the hot wave. Temperature reported from 84 to 90.

At Lynn several factories have been closed owing to the heat.

The thermometer at Fall River stood at 90 almost all night,

No Deaths at Louisville.

Louisville, July 2.—At 8 o'clock the official thermometers recorded 79 and indications were for continued high temperature. Fatalities at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, July 2.—Twelve deaths and 60 prostrations, from the heat were reported between midnight Monday and 11 o'clock this morning, making the number of fatalities 40 in 24 hours. Thousands of persons in tenement districts slept Monday night in hallways or on stone steps and brick pavements. A walk up Webster Avenue Monday night was difficult. Not only the sidewalks, but even the roadway was full of people trying to sleep. Many poor mothers sat up all night watching their slumbering children that harm might not come to them as they lay on the pavements.

Many Deaths at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 2.—At 11 o'clock this morning the government thermometer on top of the postoffice building registered 95 degrees, while those on the street registered from 99 to 102. Sixteen deaths and over 100 prostrations reported up to that time. The manufacturing establishments in all sections of the city were compelled to close. The minimum temperature during the night was 85 degrees. This is the largest number of deaths and prostrations in any one day of the present hot spell. All records for July have been broken.

Still Warm at Chicago.

Chicago, July 2.—Notwithstanding the storm which diminished the heat somewhat Monday evening and made the night more bearable thermometers on the streets at 8 a. m. registered 86 degrees only two degrees lower than at the same hour Monday. Heat wave not yet broken and from present indications it is uncertain when it will be.

Tornado in Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Ky., July 2.—A violent storm, resembling a tornado, wrought havoc across Cumberland Gap in Powell's valley. Half a dozen small farm houses were demolished, together with a large number of barns. There was some loss of life, but particulars are not yet obtainable. Perry Smith was killed by lightning. Crops are seriously damaged in various places.

Water Famine at Huntington.

Huntington, W. Va., July 2.—This city has a water famine. The pumps at the water station, are broken and the reservoirs are empty. There is great suffering. The Adelphi hotel is burning, is in thickly populated part of the city. The absence of water threatens the destruction of the entire town.

Crops Ruined in Russia.

London, July 2.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says crops in the province of Suratoff are withering and grass scorched owing to the prolonged heat and drouth. The price of corn is jumping up and the outlook at Suratoff and in the neighboring Volga districts is alarming. The scarcity promises to be as severe as the famine of a decade ago.

TOLD OF SIR WALTER.

Incidents In Besant's Life Which His Death Recalls.

WARM TRIBUTE TO MARK TWAIN.

The Noted English Novelist Regarded "Huckleberry Finn" as the American Humorist's Greatest Work—Interesting Side Lights on Besant's Character.

By the death of Sir Walter Besant have been brought to light many interesting incidents in his life, says the New York Times. At one of the dinners of a well known London literary association, with which Sir Walter was closely connected, given to Mark Twain, Sir Walter in proposing the health of their guest said they would all agree that in him they had a man who stood in the very front of English writing humorists. When they considered the long line of humorists who had contributed to the honor and glory of our literature, they were quite sure that Mark Twain would be reckoned among the first. They had a very long line of American humorists, with whom English humorists did not compare favorably, although England had such splendid men, and they must not forget them, as Tom Hood and Lamb and others he would not mention because they were living. He regarded "Huckleberry Finn" as Twain's magnum opus and in regard to his "Joan of Arc" said he did not think anybody had succeeded in presenting the world a portrait of that figure so well as Mark Twain. He could assure their guest that their welcome of him was not a conventional one. It was a delightful thing to have him with them—to shake hands with a man who had increased the gayety, mirthfulness and joy of two worlds.

Mark Twain, who was greeted with much enthusiasm on rising to reply, began by humorously saying it did not embarrass him to hear these works of his so praised. It only pleased and delighted him. He had not gone past the age when embarrassment was possible, it was true enough, but he had reached the age when he knew how to conceal it. It was a satisfaction to him to hear Sir Walter Besant, who was much more competent than himself to judge of his work, deliver a judgment which was such a contentment to his spirit.

No man knew Sir Walter better than Mr. Chatto, the London publisher. His firm had business relations with the novelist for a quarter of a century, and out of those business relations grew a friendship as sincere as it was lasting. Mr. Chatto recently gave to a London Chronicle representative many interesting side lights on the character of the late writer.

"I first met him," said Mr. Chatto, "when he was secretary of the Palestine Exploration fund, and it was then, in 1877, that we commenced doing business together. We took over a number of books that had been published elsewhere, among them the Besant-Rice novel, 'The Golden Butterfly.' A little later we published for the first time 'The Chaplain of the Fleet.' The Besant-Rice partnership puzzled many people, myself among them. No one knew Rice's share in the literary part, but it was Rice who looked after the business arrangements. He superintended the printing of 'The Chaplain of the Fleet' and the binding, and we simply acted as distributers. Since then, however, we have seen everything through ourselves. Over this book we had a little run. The story relates to the river Fleet and to the old Fleet marriages. Judge of the surprise of both Besant and Rice when they discovered that the binder's design for the covers consisted of an array of anchors and ropes."

A writer in another London paper remarks that Sir Walter, though he belonged to the Athenæum, the Savile and other clubs, was not what is generally known as a clubman. He was too hard and continuous a worker to be ever really at play, and he lacked that flexibility of temperament, that genius of abandon, of letting himself go, which is the essence of holiday making. He was therefore always at work and wore always a somewhat official expression, contracted in the old days when he was a professor in Mauritius and expected to be challenged and questioned by all who approached him. His most free club hours were those he spent at the Savile, where at one time he was a frequent luncher in the pleasant bow window that commands Piccadilly. Those were days when Stevenson, velvet coated, sat on the arms of chairs to ease his long legs and when Mr. Henley added to the gayety of a group of friends long since dispersed.

In the Savile club smoking room Sir Walter Besant did what under all the circumstances was an act of generosity—wrote to his publishers, Messrs. Chatto & Windus, a letter of introduction for the young novelist, who, more than any one, was to change the vogues and fashions on which Sir Walter flourished. Until then Stevenson had done badly, from a financial standpoint, with his works. The talk turned upon publishers, of whom one after another was named. Bulwer's delightful Saunders & Otley dilemma was recalled: "If you are Otley, damn Sounders; if you are Saunders, damn Otley!" Stevenson improved the occasion, mentioning the Christian name of a publisher as that of "a right good fellow" and then citing his surname as that of a rascal. Some one who was present on the occasion says he has always regarded this fanciful duality of the publisher as the germ of the Hyde-Jekyll creation of later years.

NEW SUBMARINE BOATS.

Novel Proposition Made to the Navy Department by Simon Lake.

The naval board of rear admirals gave a hearing recently to Simon Lake, the designer of a new submarine vessel, who has made a novel proposition to the navy department, which has now been taken under consideration, with likelihood of acceptance. Instead of trying to force his design on the navy by congressional enactment Mr. Lake has asked the advice and criticism of the department on his plans and specifications, with a view to beginning immediately the construction of a service boat at his own expense, the vessel to be tested by the department to ascertain its adaptability as a naval war auxiliary. He submitted complete designs for three boats, one a small vessel about 30 feet long, intended to be carried on the deck of a battleship or cruiser, to be put overboard when necessary for the purpose of countermining the entrance to an enemy's harbor or operating against an enemy's vessels. Another was for a vessel 120 feet long, of 400 tons, over three times as large as any submarine boat hitherto planned and intended to be an ocean going vessel capable of operating at great distance from a base and without support. The third vessel, which will be built this summer, is a compromise between the two extremes and is for general utility, being 65 feet long and of 120 tons, or exactly the size of the seven improved Hollands now under construction for the government. This vessel is to be run on the surface with gasoline and submerged with electricity, is to carry five Whitehead torpedoes and, in addition to all the speed endurance and maneuvering qualities of the Hollands, will be fitted to creep along the bottom and send out divers to cut cables, destroy minefields and perform other functions desired by naval officers in a vessel of this type.

The inventor courted the fullest expression of views from the admirals and left his drawings for such suggested changes and improvements as appeared to them to be desirable. As soon as they complete their study of the practical details the boat will be built, and Secretary Long will designate a board of officers to make a thorough test, with a view of making recommendations to congress if it appears that more submarine boats should be added to the navy. It was said the other day that the new design is mechanically far superior to anything yet proposed abroad or in the United States and with a few modifications may prove a valuable accessory to the fleet not only in coast defense, but in distant offensive operations.

BOAT STOPPING DEVICE.

Apparatus to Prevent Collisions Between Vessels.

A resident of Sweden, Count K. A. Posse, has invented a boat stopping apparatus which will prevent collision and facilitate the maneuvering of large vessels. Consul Nelson, at Bergen, says in a report to the state department that recent experiments have been made on a steam launch accommodating 160 persons, with an engine of 30 indicated horsepower, making nine knots an hour.

The new apparatus consists of shutters, applied on the starboard and port sides, about one-fourth of a boat length from the stern. These can be opened and shut by means of a lever applied on the deck and placed so as to be easily maneuvered by the helmsman. The shutters consist of two quadrilateral steel plates, with special packing boxes in the so called shutter houses. Experiments showed that when the launch was going at full speed it could be stopped in 15 seconds at half a boat length by reversing and extending the shutters. Consul Nelson says the apparatus may be applied to any steamer. The invention has been patented in all the leading countries.

BOOMERS IN DISTRESS.

Destitution on the Border of the Kiowa Reservation.

Thousands of people—men, women and children—camping on the border of the Kiowa-Comanche-Apache reservations in Oklahoma, awaiting the opening of that land to settlement, are in destitute circumstances, according to Dr. J. J. McKenna, who has just returned from the scene. Dr. McKenna, according to a dispatch from Kansas City, said:

"Twenty thousand men, women and children are massed on the border, and half of them are utterly destitute. At least 5,000 of them have been there a year and a half. They went with small sums of money and have made nothing since they arrived."

A Tunnel to Monte-Christo's Prison.

Marseilles talks of having a tube of a new description, says a Paris correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch. This will be a submarine line connecting the town with the celebrated Chateau d'If, made famous by Dumas pere's "Monte-Christo." The railway will be of the electric tubular type. The distance between Marseilles' old port and the island on which the castle stands is a little under one mile, and the steamers take half an hour to do the trip. As visitors would effect an immense saving of time by the tube, the propounder of the scheme fully believes that he may count upon carrying 500 passengers to and fro per diem, and if this sanguine estimate is realized he will thus be enabled to cover the enormous expense of the tunneling works and make a profit.

A GREAT BOAT RACE.

The Intercollege Race Record Broken on the Hudson.

CORNELL WAS FIRST.

All the Way from Start to Finish There Was a Fierce Struggle Between Cornell, Columbia, Wisconsin and Georgetown.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 3.—The Varsity boat race over the Hudson river Tuesday resulted as follows:

Cornell, first; time, 18:15 1-5.
Columbia, second; time, 18:58.
Wisconsin, third; time, 19:06 4-5.
Georgetown, fourth; time, 19:31.

The best previous record for Varsity eight was 19:44 3-5. No time was taken for Syracuse and Pennsylvania who were many lengths behind.

Not only was a new record for Varsity eights made but it is more remarkable that the four leading crews in the race each broke the old record by many seconds.

The varsity race was one of the fiercest struggles ever witnessed in college aquatics.

It was evident before 25 strokes had been rowed that the pace cut out by Cornell, Wisconsin, Columbia and Georgetown was too much for the light Syracuse crew and the Pennsylvania, for they began to fall behind into a second section.

At the mile Cornell had taken the lead away from Columbia and had about a length advantage. From the mile and a half point to the three mile it was the most remarkable feat of endurance and skill ever witnessed. Cornell kept the nose of her shell just a scant half length in front of Columbia, who with her stroke and a clean running boat made desperate efforts to reach her rival. Wisconsin, a half length behind Columbia, made equally great efforts, but they seemed to be of no avail, and Georgetown held on to the trio with a tenacity that won the plaudits of the spectators.

Then Columbia hit up the swing and and her boat, in less than five seconds, had evened up with Cornell and in another five had shoved its nose 10 feet to the front. From the observation train up a mighty roar "Columbia wins" but Cornell raised its stroke slightly and taking the lead until, when the line was crossed they had a length and a quarter advantage over Columbia. Wisconsin had found herself unable to get any more speed in the last mile and finished two lengths and a half behind Columbia.

Georgetown had hung in like manner but finished only a scant two lengths behind the Wisconsin crew. Syracuse and Pennsylvania were distanced.

The 4-oared race was won by Cornell and the freshman race by Pennsylvania.

HOT WAVE STILL ON.

Reports Increase the Number of Deaths and Prostrations.

Washington, July 3.—Reports received at the weather bureau in this city from throughout the area occupied by the intense heat show a continuation of high temperatures save in a few favored localities where more moderate weather resulted in consequence of thunder storms or other local atmospheric disturbances. No immediate relief of a substantial character is in sight. The rainfall reports show that there has been precipitation throughout the affected area varying from less than a hundredth of an inch in many places to almost an inch. Generally speaking the thunderstorms which have come are what are known as "dry storms."

Indications for the next 24 hours are for a large portion of the heated area for cloudy weather. Rains will bring only partial relief. The predictions of officials here is that the temperature for the next 40 hours will show a fall of 4 or 5 degrees, but they will still climb above 90 again in most places. The Atlantic coast will get some relief from a West Indian disturbance which is now moving northward.
