Eight Burn To Death In Salvation Army Hotel Fire In Dallas

HOUSE PASSES AID-BRITAIN BILL 263 TO 160

18 Injured And Burned In Hospitals

Story Of Heroics And Pandemonium Told By Survivor

By JACK B. KRUEGER

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Nine men and a boy perished today in a mauling, screaming crowd of homeless transients trapped by a fire in a second-floor Salvation Army hotel.

About 18 others who fought their way out of the inferno after flames had blocked the only stairway were in hospitals, at least five of them seriously burned or injured. The death toll was expected to grow.

An emergency call for blood donors went out from Baylor University hospital's blood bank after the equivalent of 196 transfusions had been administered the injured and dying. Salvation Army officials and employes immediately volunteered their blood.

A story of heroics and pandemonium was related by one transient, who broke both legs in plunging from a window 35 feet to the ground.

He did not want his name used. He told of what happened, pain from his shattered limbs halting him occasionally:

About 11 p. m., last night, about 55 men were lying in the row of cots which stretched to the rear of the big room. At the front sat several naked men, waiting for their clothes to come out of a small cabinet-like room called a "delouser." In the delouser a gas fire burned, heating the clothes hung around it.

Smoke curled around the door of the tiny room, and someone ran in to grab the clothes. The flames roared out, flashing across the tar-papered ceiling.

The witness said he leaped from his cot, quickly tied two blankets together, and reached for a third held by a neighbor.

"He wouldn't turn loose, so I slugged him and took it away."

He said he tied the third blanket to the others and rushed to a window at the rear of the room, pushing through a plunging mass of men making for the smoke-filled stairway. He anchored the tied blankets to a cot, smashed the window with a shoe and flung the make-shift rope through it. The window opens on an enclosed courtyard.

The crowd of men at the stairway entrance turned back, unable to stand the wall of flame barring their way. Some got through, burned and blackened.

The others made a rush for the rear window. One man, the witness said, was literally shoved out, dropping in a heap 35 feet below. The witness himself was shoved, toppling out the window but grasping the blanket rope before a body hurtled down on top of him. Men poured through the window until there was a pile of them below.

The press at the window grew, and when firemen went in they found eight men, some dead, lying in and near it.

Willkie To Testify For British Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Senate supporters of the lease-lend bill won their first test today when the foreign relations committee voted 10 to 5 to wind up public hearings on Tuesday after Wendell Willkie testifies.

The decision, opposed by leading opponents of the bill who are members of the committee, was reached at the close of a tumultuous day that saw these developments:

A noisy demonstration at the committee hearing that brought capitol policemen running and caused removal of some 50 young people from the hearing room. Members of the group said they represented the American Youth Congress.

Testimony by Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential candidate in 1936, that the legislation was a "guess and be damned policy" that would lead this country into war. Landon also accused President Roosevelt of a "systematic attempt" to "silence" Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.), an opponent of the legislation.

Publication by Senator Wheeler of a letter to Secretary of War Stimson asserting that the cabinet member "should not be a party to misleading the American people into believing that this nation is so well armed that we can afford to strip it completely of what few planes we have." Stimson had questioned the propriety, in the light of world conditions, of a recent statement by Wheeler that the army had only 639 planes on Jan. 1.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.), in announcing the majority decision to end testimony Tuesday, said those who favor the legislation had taken only a week to present their testimony while senators opposed to the legislation had had all of this week to offer witnesses, and also would have Monday.

Voting against ending the hearings were Senators Johnson (R.-Calif.), Capper (R.-Kan.), Nye (R.-N. D.), Shipstead (R.-Minn.), and Clark (D.-Mo.), all opponents of the measure.

Clark said these five votes did not include all opposition within the committee, but conceded a majority of the group favored sending the bill on to the senate for debate.

The demonstration in the senate committee's hearing room was touched off by Jack McMichael, who said he was chairman of the American Youth Congress.

Rising in the center of the crowd of spectators, the tall, blond young man attempted to make a statement opposing the bill. In an instant dozens of other young men and women began applauding, whistling and yelling. Capitol policemen rushed for McMichael and whisked him out of the room.

Landon, former governor of Kansas, made it plain he was sharply at odds with the expressed views of Willkie, the 1940 Republican candidate, on the legislation. Willkie has endorsed the bill with modifications.

19 At First Drill Of Home Defense Unit

Lawyer and school teacher, business executives, and clerks, World War vets, and those who were too young for military service when "Goodbye, Broadway, Hello France" was a new hit tune—were represented in the first drill of Company D, 14th battalion, Texas Defense guard, held yesterday afternoon.

There were 17 men and two officers present, only a small percentage of the 85 men who had signed for membership in the company.

Next meeting of the company is to be announced. Officers are seeking to find a large hall or empty store space so that more extended drill can be given. The place and time of the next meeting will be announced as soon as this can be determined.

What the company lacked in numbers yesterday it made up in the interest shown in going through the school of the soldier. Fundamentals were stressed both in verbal instruction and actual practice, held on the lot adjoining the American Legion hut and inside the building.

The company was given instruction on right and left face, the po-

Bananas And Milk Make Navy Recruit

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 8 (AP)—The mere mention of bananas pains Marion Rhoades deeply, yet bananas—eight pounds of them topped with two quarts of milk—helped him realize his ambition.

Rhoades, 22, wanted to become a cadet in the U. S. Naval air corps reserve but recruiting officers rejected him, because he weighed only 137 pounds, eight less than the regulation minimum.

The youth went straight to a grocery store, purchased eight pounds of bananas and the milk and began to eat. Two hours later he was back at the recruiting station.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," said Officer A. I. Husted, "when he tipped the scales at a fraction over 145 pounds. Then I noticed he was sort of pale and asked him what he had been doing.

"I told him if he wanted to join bad enough to eat eight pounds of that stuff he deserved to get in. That took determination, and we need men of determination in the air corps."

Rhoades confessed that his banana-eating orgy was quite an ordeal. "When I would get to the point where I thought it was impossible to take another bite," he explained, "I would just rest for a while and start over again.

"Anyway, I'm in the air corps and there's another consolation. I'll never have to eat another banana as long as I live."

Dramatics Adviser To Girl Scouts To Speak Twice Here

Miss Oldea Schrottky, dramatics advisor of the national Girl Scout organization, will speak at a joint luncheon in Pampa on February 28 at which the Pampa Kiwanis club will be host to other men's clubs.

In the evening Miss Schrottky will speak at a parent-daughter supper to be held at 7 p. m. in the red brick school building cafeteria. Persons interested in attending the supper and hearing the speaker can obtain tickets from the local Girl Scout office, located in the Culberson Smalling building.

National Boy Scout Week Begins Today

This is National Boy Scout week and boys over the nation are making plans for its observance. In the Adobe Walls council, of which Pampa is headquarters city, special programs, father and son banquets, holding of county and city offices for a day, and other interesting meetings will be held to observe the 31st anniversary of scouting in America.

Boys will think of the privileges they enjoy and they'll think of the boys in Europe who are carrying guns and have no Boy Scout troops.

Gray county Scouts will meet this week to elect county and city officials who will hold office for an hour Saturday morning. Final plans for the election will be announced early in the week.

During this week many boys will be recruited to the ranks of this largest boy movement in the world. Others who have failed to re-register will be brought back to the ranks of Scouting and the program invigorated through an increased membership and an increased faith in the movement.

Scouting is doing its part in strengthening and invigorating this Democracy of ours by training its members for instant and effective action in any emergency.

In this period of National Emergency the Boy Scouts will again be prepared as they were during the Emergency of 1917. Possibly the greatest service that Scouting can render will be in the building of youth so as to be good citizens during this time. In this period of preparedness the men of the country should not forget nor neglect our youth.

U. S. Adopts Scouts Motto, Says Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—America's Boy Scouts heard their honorary president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, declare tonight the nation had adopted the Scout motto, "be prepared," for a national policy, since "the United States must be strong if our free way of life is to be maintained."

Participating in commemoration of the thirty-first anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scouts organization, President Roosevelt spoke over the three major national radio networks from the white house. More than 1,500,000 Scouts have been celebrating the anniversary all week with special activities.

Scouts, Mr. Roosevelt said, have won the praise and esteem of the American people because they have "dedicated themselves to the development of those qualities of character and citizenship upon whic the future of our democracy rests."

He said he was proud of what he knew they would do "in playing your part in our American defense."

Asserting that Scouts of today are approaching manhood at "a grave hour in the world's history," the chief executive added that "recent events have threatened the security of free men everywhere; and the democratic way of life is being challenged in many parts of the world."

Scouts have an opportunity, in their Scout troops, he said, to develop "the type of leadership and group cooperation which is so greatly needed in a democracy such as ours."

Petain Wins Victory In Laval Squabble

(By The Associated Press)

Pierre Laval, one of the most puzzling figures in the passing European drama, was thrust back into the spotlight last night (Sat.) by a Vichy government announcement that he had refused to become "minister of state and member of a committee of direction" at the invitation of Chief of State Phillippe Petain.

The disclosure came as the British, victorious in their arduous Libyan campaign, mopped up south of the captured naval and military base of Bengasi and left to speculation their next move in the desert drive.

It was made also as the British nation, cheered by the African successes, waited to hear Prime Minister Winston Churchill speak to them over the radio today (Sun.) to rally the armed forces and explain perhaps where Britain stands in relation to France. Churchill speaks at 9 p. m. (2 p. m. CST).

The Vichy government communique on the Laval case said that Marshal Petain made his offer in accordance with the policy of Montoire, the French town where Petain met Adolf Hitler last October and signified agreement to French-German collaboration.

The announcement was made after Admiral Jean Darlan, navy minister in the Vichy government, returned from a second trip to Paris to see Laval, conferred with Petain and attended a "restricted cabinet meeting." It had been reported that Laval's maximum demand upon Petain was for a post equivalent with that of the premiership, and his minimum demand the establishment of two vice presidents of council—himself and Admiral Darlan.

Some of Laval's friends said he had withdrawn from this position because he decided it would be impossible for him to return to Vichy without causing internal trouble in the unoccupied zone, where there are many who despise him.

In other quarters the whole affair was considered a victory for Petain, who would give in so far to Laval but no farther.

There still is a possibility, however, that Laval may head an eventual French government in Paris. Anti-Vichy quarters there already have set up the nucleus for such a regime.

Diplomatic quarters in Sofia said the British had formally warned Bulgaria that the RAF would bomb Bulgarian military objectives if the German army is allowed to enter the country.

The reported British warning, it was said, was intended to head off the long rumored German attempt to strike at Britain's allies, Greece and Turke, through Bulgaria or perhaps to attempt to come to Italy's aid in the middle east by the same route.

Bulgaria's capital, Sofia, has been filled with rumors that the Germans, who are understood to have about 300 000 men in Rumania, are about ready to start south through Bulgaria.

The British at Cairo said the Italian resistance south of Bengasi has collapsed, that Fascists were "surrendering in large numbers" but that parts of two divisions had fled from Bengasi and were moving westward toward Tripoli by road, a long dry journey which the

Death Takes Van Devanter, Ex-Justice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Willis Van Devanter, former associate justice of the United States supreme court who retired in 1937, died suddenly tonight of a heart attack.

Van Devanter, who was appointed to the supreme court by President Taft in 1910, left the court under provisions of the statute permitting justices over 70 who had served 10 years to retire at full pay of $20,000 a year.

He had been in poor health since his return from a visit of several weeks to New York when he presided over the federal district court there but his death was unexpected.

The retirement of Van Devanter, who had frequently voted against New Deal legislation, came shortly before the defeat of President Roosevelt's plan to add new justices to the court.

Americanism Talks To Feature C-C Luncheon Tuesday

There will be no guest speaker at the regular monthly luncheon meeting of the Pampa Chambers of Commerce Tuesday noon in the basement of the First Methodist church. Instead, President Frank Culberson of the Board of City Development and senior chamber of commerce will lead a discussion on plans for 1941 and the junior chamber of commerce will present its Americanism contest speakers from White Deer and Pampa.

Reservations may be made by telephoning 384 or by calling at the chamber of commerce office in the city hall.

The Jaycees and Radio Station KPDN are sponsoring an Americanism contest among high schools of the Panhandle. The speakers are selected by school officials in elimination contests and the winner of each school is given five minutes. Two speakers are heard each meeting day. The talks are broadcast over KPDN.

President Culberson is anxious to have a large number at the meeting to assist in the discussion of the 1941 program.

Confiscated Car Sold By Sheriff

A 1941 model automobile, purchased for $900 on Jan. 2, at Woodward, Okla., was sold at a sheriff's sale here yesterday to Bob Ewing for $545, the highest bid.

This is the first case in the state of the sale of a confiscated car, Sheriff Cal Rose said. The automobile seized had belonged to F. D. Crosby, who was charged here on Jan. 14 with illegal transportation of liquor, and who two days later, paid a fine of $100 and costs in county court.

Also confiscated was eight cases of whisky, valued at $170.

Arrest of Crosby was by Sheriff Rose. The automobile had been driven only 947 miles.

Pampa Postoffice Has 'Blackout'

The Pampa postoffice had a "blackout" yesterday that was different.

It came out of a sack and it wasn't supposed to take place either. Clerks were emptying mail from sacks yesterday morning in the usual manner, but one of the clerks was soon hidden from view by a black film which spread over much of the room.

That started an investigation which revealed that several cartons of carbon black had been smashed and the black coated every other piece of mail in the sack. The samples had been shipped from Corpus Christi to a Pampa plant.

Several dozen magazines and papers in the same sack with the black were ruined.

Democratic Chiefs Accept Limitations

'Ceiling' Rejected But Concessions Yielded

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—By a vote of 260 to 165, the house today passed the momentous bill empowering President Roosevelt to lease, lend or otherwise transfer the sinews of war to embattled Britain and other nations whose defense he deems "vital" to the defense of the United States.

On the final vote, 236 democrats and 24 republicans were recorded for the bill. Voting against it were 135 republicans, 25 democrats, 1 American labor, 3 progressives and 1 farmer-labor.

The measure went through, and on to the senate, at the climax of an historic weeklong controversy, which found most of the opposition coming from the republican side of the wide center aisle. Democratic leaders, seeking the largest possible majority to increase the prestige of the program abroad, met this situation with a successful strategy of yielding one concession after another to the critics of the measure.

Consequently, the bill as passed contained all its original provisions but also these restrictions:

A limit of $1,300,000,000 on the value of American defense items already on hand or under appropriation which may be sent abroad. (The chamber refused, however, to place a $7,000,000,000 limitation on the over-all cost of the program.

A time limit of two years on the president's power to make contracts for delivering military equipment to other nations, and of five years on the execution of these contracts.

A proviso that congress may rescind, by a simple majority vote in both houses, any of the powers granted under the measure.

A stipulation that the bill contains no new authority for assigning naval vessels to convoy duty or sending American merchant ships into the zones of war. And a proviso that before sending any army and navy equipment abroad, Mr. Roosevelt must consult, though not necessarily have the approval of, the ranking officers of the army and navy.

Having backed all these restrictions—except the one providing for congressional repeal of the powers given, which went through when they were mapping—administration leaders refused to grant any more concessions. Steadfastly they op-

The War Today

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON

It is obvious that Germany is experiencing increasingly in Norway, the Low Countries and Western France those difficulties that invariably go with fighting a war on or from hostile territory.

There is ample evidence that information as to German plane, submarine and troop dispositions is seeping through to London despite harsh Nazi measures to suppress the traffic. It seems probable that the British high command has a definite picture, based on tested information from many continental sources, of the scope of German preparations to attack.

There have been accounts from Swedish sources within recent days of Norwegians sentenced to death or imprisoned by Nazi courts martial for attempted radio communication with London. Weeks ago the Germans adopted stern measures in Holland and Belgium in an effort to stifle civilian signaling to British air bombers concerning prime targets for attack. Probably the same thing applies along the "invasion coast" of France.

Guarding a 2,000 mile sea front, some of it within close sight of British shores, from military information leaks would be beyond the capacity of an army many times the size of the German occupation forces. If German-hating civilians all along that vast coastal sweep have the will to pass along information to the British it will be impossible to prevent it.

It follows, then, that London has accurately gauged probabilities of the actual strength in air power which Germany could throw against England in an all-out spring offensive.

There are good reasons why the London government should not disclose its conclusions just now. Yet there are hints from England that well informed British sources do not share the notion that Nazi planes by the thousand are already massed or being massed all along the "invasion coast" for the spring drive at England. Some witnesses before congressional committees in Washington have guessed the present total Nazi air strength at 40,000 planes or more.

A London aviation magazine, "Aeroplane," expresses doubt that the Nazis have ready for action against England, now or in the spring more than 4,000 planes of the first line. It concludes that at least 1,500 of those ships are fighters.

Daylight raiding experience last year "taught the enemy that fighter escorts in a ratio of at least 10-to-1 are necessary to prevent excessive losses," the article said, adding that it seemed unlikely the Germans could "throw more than 150 bombers into action by day at any one time."

Red River Dam Suit Referred To High Court

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Feb 8 (AP)—Oklahoma's suit to halt construction of the $54,000,000 Red river dam project near Denison, Tex., was referred to the U. S. Supreme court today.

Acting upon a request of attorneys for Gov. Leon C. Phillips, a three-judge federal court cleared the way by dismissing the state's suit for an injunction. Counsel for Oklahoma immediately filed notice of appeal and set up $500 supersedeas bond.

Entering the state's plea was C. C. Hatchett, who told Judges Walter A. Huxman and Alfred P. Murrah of the Tenth U. S. circuit court and Federal Judge Rice of the Eastern Oklahoma district that the order was necessary in order to permit an appeal to the Supreme court.

He asked the tribunal to "hit us square between the eyes" in moving for the dismissal.

Attorney Charles O. Burler of the Department of Justice contended a denial of the injunction was not necessary to a judgment dismissing the case. He expressed concern that the action might injure the government's position in the further legal battle over the project.

But the judges, holding that the dispute was "much ado about nothing," granted the state's request.

On January 25 the court entered a memorandum of opinion upholding constitutionality of the congressional action under which the dam was being constructed, sustaining, in effect, the government's motion to dismiss the injunction sought by Phillips.

It held not relative to the constitutional issue the state's pleadings concerning alleged loss of revenue, damages to "potentially rich" oil properties, farm lands and highway networks."

During Willkie's stay here he and other passengers took their first baths since leaving London.

"We were commencing to hate each other," he joked.

He was Rizley, Oklahoma Republican.

Texas A. & M. Aids In National Defense

Special To The NEWS

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 8—(A&MC)—As it enters the spring semester of its 56th year, the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas again has demonstrated its ability to adjust itself and quickstep in line with all national emergency measures. Strictly a military institution since its establishment in 1876, A & M College has done its bit in supplying officers and trained civilian personnel in every national emergency since that time.

As the spring semester begins more than 1,000 students are taking advanced military courses which will lead to Reserve Officers' commissions upon graduation. The college furnished 2,200 officers for the World War in 1917-18. Since that time 4,600 have obtained reserve commissions and 450 more will be granted next june.

For the present national defense program the college is taking a leading role.

Work will start immediately on the campus to improve Easterwood airport as a result of a WPA grant of $131,030 which supplements $75,000 obtained from the C. A. A. and $23,000 appropriated by the A. & M. board of directors to build one of the finest airports in this section of the state.

KPDN Radio Chat

Friday morning at 8:55 KPDN listeners were introduced to a new dramatic program. It's a play called "Adam and Eva." It originates in the local studios. The cast is local. The theme "music" is a locally made recording of a locally composed jingle sung and played by local talent. And the script is written by KPDN staff men.

"Adam and Eva" is the story of Pampa's newest newlyweds. In the opening episode Friday morning they were driving into Pampa from Amarillo. Eva, the bride, is a sure-enough tenderfoot from the east. The oil derricks along the roadside perplexed her, and she wondered why there were so many windmills with nothing for the wind to turn. Well—that gives you a rough idea.

The story will be taken up again Monday morning and again each Wednesday, Friday and Monday at 8:55.

Taking the part of Eva is Jerry Smith, who in reality is not nearly that naive. She is a product of Kenneth Carman's dramatic training at Pampa High School. Junior Williams plays Adam. The staff of KPDN contributes sound effects.

Tune in for the second episode of Adam and Eva Monday morning at 8:55, and let the station know what you think of it. Incidentally, KPDN would like very much to know just what you think of any program you hear over this station. So drop the station a line whenever its programs please you or grate on your nerves.. Or maybe you'd find it more economical to telephone your comments.

Anyway, KPDN likes to know you're listening and are interested enough to comment.

You know, Sunday is a good day for you to listen to KPDN. Just put your dial on 1310 and let your local station entertain you. Here are some of the items on KPDN's Sunday bill of fare.

Today a special feature will be a 30-minute concert of the Pampa Municipal Band, starting at 1:45.

But on every Sunday there are religious talks by Rev. T. D. Sumrall of the Central Baptist Church at 8 a. m. and by Albert Smith, Evangelist of the Central Church of Christ, at 8:30.

Then at 9:30 comes the 15-minute drama of Jungle Jim, which has a universal appeal—not just for kids, though the kids really follow it. This is followed by the telephone all-request hour, whereon the tunes you ask for by phone are played. And then the services from the First Baptist church are broadcast.

For those who love fine music, there is a dandy program called the "Keystone Sunday Symphony" at 12 noon. This is a program of transcribed music which draws from the best in KPDN's symphonic library.

Mrs. May Foreman Carr, local music teacher, presents a piano program at 1 o'clock, and at 1:15 comes probably the dramatic highlight of the day, "Front Page Drama." This weekly feature brings you by transcription some mighty thrilling dramas. These are for the most part complete one-act plays, but occasionally one will carry over into two or three episodes. Many of them are mysteries, though not all. "To Broadway and Back" is the name of today's play, and it's about a 16-year-old mother who comes from a Fennsylvania mining town tavern to become the toast of Broadway and then lets a fortune slip away from her and drifts back to dance in the mining town tavern.

At 1:30 "Miracles and Melodies" is a dramatic program prepared by the Moody Bible Institute and deals with miracles that have been known to happen to people whose faith in God has been unfaltering. This program ends each week with a quotation from the writings of Dwight Moody, eminent churchman and founder of the Moody Bible Institute.

"Boys Town" presents a half-hour program of news and music from Father Flanagan's famous Boys Town in Nebraska. The boys themselves take part in the program. It starts at 2:15.

At 3:15 the Ministerial Alliance gives a quarter-hour program of their own choosing. Dorothy Peacock, local soprano, presents a program at 4 o'clock. She is accompanied by Pauline Stewart. Ernestine Holmes plays a piano program at 4:15, and at 4:30 a commentary on the news is presented as prepared by the Christian Science Monitor.

Musing on Music!

"All Request Hour" listeners showed their liking for the Martha Tilton style this week when they chose "G'Bye Now" and "The Sky Without the Stars" as top tunes number one and two, respectively. Other favorites in the order of their popularity were "Frenesi," "Clap Hands on the Afterbeat" and "I Hear a Rhapsody." These are the tunes that will be featured on KPDN's Top Tunes of the Day" at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon, a new time for the program, which was re-scheduled so that the radio audience may hear the Pampa Municipal band.

"Land Of Liberty" U. S. Cavalcade . .

The motion pic industry does a bang-up job in producing "Land of Liberty." All profits from distribution go to war emergency work at home and abroad. The picture is an inspiring cavalcade of Americana, a dramatic history of our nation for the past 150 years, and is composed of 112 feature pictures and short subjects, plus newsreels.

A private screening of the film was held Monday afternoon at a Canadian theater.

Assembled and edited by Cecil B. DeMille, the picture is welded into perfect coherence and continuity, and the story told in one hour and 35 minutes starts with the drafting of the Constitution, right up to the present. The film is sponsored by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

Through the miracle of the movies, historical characters become warm, living personalities and episodes in the nation's history become dramatic realities.

Such stars as Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert, Henry Fonda, Raymond Massey, Margaret Sullavan, Lionel and John Barrymore, Bette Davis, Walter Huston, James Stewart, Robert Montgomery, Virginia Bruce and 100 other additional first rank players compose the cast.

Historical characters portrayed include Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Madison, Hamilton, Lincoln.

Nelson B. Bell in The Washington Post calls "Land of Liberty" the greatest documentary film ever compiled. "The smoothest, most engrossing and most complete dramatic tribute to Americanism . . . ever released in any form."

National release date was January 24.

Martin Asks Public To Look Out For Anti-Americanism

An appeal for the public to assist local authorities in keeping down any subversive activities in this area of the Panhandle was sounded Friday afternoon by District Attorney Bud Martin, speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Pampa Kiwanis club.

"Take nothing for granted," the district attorney said. "If you hear anything that smacks of anti-Americanism we will appreciate your cooperation in reporting it to the sheriff, chief of police, district or county attorney's office."

District Attorney Martin urged anyone who knows of any subversive agent suspects to report them immediately to the proper authorities.

"Get names, addresses, statements made and the names of witnesses, if any," he said. "It is one of the best ways we can locally serve the best interests of our country in this world-wide time of war unrest."

The district attorney, introduced to the luncheon club audience by R. B. Saxe, program chairman, also explained in brief the duties of his office and expressed appreciation for cooperation received from other officials in Gray county since he took over the office on Jan. 1.

Biographical sketches of three club members, R. B. Allen, B. B. Altman, and L. N. Atchison, was the subject of a talk by Guy E. McTaggart.

Attendance was 65, including guests:

B. F. Tepe, Canadian, Sim Kelly, Amarillo Kiwanian, and the following Pampans, the Rev. William Joseph Stack, pastor of Holy Souls Catholic church, Sid Patterson, Don Conley, M. W. Osborne, and Bill Browne.

Has History Repeated?

One of the most dramatic rumors to come out of the war's strict censorship revolved about the famed Count Felix von Luckner, above, World War Skipper of the German raider "Sea Devil." Reports state that von Luckner is in command of the German raider (possibly a former British ship) which has played havoc with British shipping in the Pacific.

Only 2,000 Pay Their Poll Taxes

Poll taxes for 1941 in Gray county show a marked drop from the total number of poll tax receipts issued in this county for 1939, the nearest "off-year" so far as elections are concerned.

While a complete report has not yet been made for 1941, the approximate total is 2,000, as compared with 3,580 in 1939. For 1940, the total was 6,130.

The Canadian Confederation was formed in 1867.

Draftees Cannot Enlist In Army

Sgt. R. A. Jackson of the Amarillo Recruiting office announces that no longer may applicants for enlistment in the various branches of the regular army be accepted after they have received orders to report to their local board for induction. The draft boards usually send these orders to report about five days in advance.

Large and desirable quotas are in effect at the Amarillo office with the applicant having his choice of Air Corps, Coast Artillery, Field Artillery or Infantry, for stations in Texas, Oklahoma, California, and Nevada and in the Philippine Islands.

New Zealand Will Send Minister To Washington Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—The United States and the self-governing Dominion of New Zealand are planning to establish direct diplomatic relations, it was learned authoritatively today, in a move characterized here as presaging closer and more friendly collaboration in the increasingly important South Pacific.

Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, is now conducting conversations with the state department, it was understood, looking to establishment of legations and exchange of ministers in the immediate future.

New Zealand is the only British dominion not represented in Washington by its own minister. The country's interests heretofore have been represented by the British Embassy.

The decision to provide diplomatic channels for more direct and closer collaboration was said in informed quarters here to have been a natural development of New Zealand's increasing importance in the Pacific, a storm-threatened area in which the United States has vital interests.

Talks between Richard G. Casey, the Australian minister, and Secretary of State Hull recently brought reports from Wellington, New Zealand's capital, that Australia and New Zealand had reached "an understanding" with the United States concerning possible future contingencies in the South Pacific.

Mickey Rooney's Symphony To Be Played Tonight

By TED GILL

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8 (AP)—Symphonic music by Mickey Rooney, regarded by some who don't know him as an irresponsible cinematic jitterbug, but who at times is as dignified and serious as the proverbial long-haired professor, makes an auspicious debut to radio tomorrow night in a nationwide hookup.

Two of the three movements of his "melodante," which he secretly and diligently has worked on for the past two years, will be presented on the Ford Sunday evening hour program from Detroit at 8 p. m. (CST) over the CBS network.

"Gee, but I'm scared to death," declared the tousled-haired 20-year-old No. 1 movie box-office attraction. "And, I'm going to keep on being scared until I actually hear the program.

"Of course, I'm terribly elated to think that my symphony is to receive such recognition, and I just hope that everybody likes it. I'm sorry I won't be able to go back to Detroit for the presentation, because of my picture work here, but you can bet I'll be listening in when it comes on the air."

Mickey has never heard the symphony since it has been put to orchestration. He played it publicly on the piano for the first time at a social function in Washington recently on the occasion of the presidential inauguration, and was enthusiastically acclaimed by the first lady for his musical accomplishments.

The toy balloon industry in the United States does an annual business of $5,000,000.

The 'Kick Me' Sign Comes Off

American business is not silly. As soon as it clearly sees the "Kick Me!" sign it has been wearing when it travels south, it is pretty sure to tear it off and see to it that if there is any kicking done it is wearing good stout shoes itself.

That paragraph was written last November, and it is a pleasure to find that it was not too optimistic. Word comes from Washington that some of the United States firms who have been employing Nazi sympathizers as their commercial representatives in Mexico, Central and South America are severing those connections. The office of commercial and cultural relations between the American republics has been informing various American firms in detail of the dodge by which they were being made unwittingly to play the Hitler game in Latin countries. And many of them needed only to be told, to act. Exposure of the general condition was made last October in American newspapers, and the specific information provided by the Rockefeller commission has now brought action.

What has been happening is this: In Mexico, for instance, of 300 American firms selling through agencies, about 150 were employing representatives of definite Nazi sympathies. Not only did these representatives contribute from their commissions to Nazi work in Mexico, but diverted advertising appropriations to newspapers which were or could be made sympathetic to their cause, and passed on trade secrets to German connections. Thus American business men seeking to sell in Mexico and other southern countries had unthinkingly turned to established jobbers and agencies which, unknown to them, had Nazi connections. And the more American goods were sold, the more funds, information, and power were available to Nazi sympathizers for their work.

It is good to see that such firms have been informed in detail as to the results of connections in which they have generally entered quite innocently, and it is doubly good to note that many of them have acted promptly when they learned the facts.

It is one thing for Nazi sympathizers in Latin countries to use all their legitimate influence in favor of their cause; to allow them to turn our own legitimate influence against us is stupid. It is good to see the "Kick Me!" sign come off.

Behind The News

By PETER EDSON

The Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—War-time Washington on Saturday night:

It's definitely a black-tie social season in your country's capital this year because of the war and the preparedness and all that, and anyone who is so definitely "de trop" as to doll up in a white tie for a night out is simply going too far.

That's probably as good a tip-off on Washington night life as any you could get.

The town has, of course, been through two big sprees for the inauguration and the President's birthday ball. There's a natural let down, but even if there weren't, it would still be possible for a tourist from the provinces or a business man here to get a war contract or a job to take in all of Washington's important high life in one night, not miss a trick and not see enough celebrities to count on his thumbs. Point is that Washington is strictly a private party town.

You have to belong or be specially invited to get into Chevy Chase, Army and Navy or any of the swank clubs. Aside from that, the height of entertainment seems to be to give or get given a dinner at home. It's perhaps the dinner-goingest town on earth, the entertainment being to talk or be talked at, for a purpose or perhaps sometimes for no good purpose. Congressmen, having seen each other all week, "ad nauseam," crawl into their shells. Dollar-a-year men fly home to their families.

SIMPLEST EVENING—
JUST EAT TOO MUCH

So, being cut off from the riff-raff of the upper crust and being on the town, you proceed as follows on either of two courses:

A—If your idea of fun is to eat too much good food, you go to either Harvey's uptown, or Hogate's, down on the river front, and stuff. You are thereby pleasantly and painlessly incapacitated, so you go to bed and sleep till noon like the good citizen that you are.

B—You have afternoon cocktails in the Willard or that vicinity. There will be time, before dressing, for a couple of quick ones in the Hamilton Rainbow room and the Ambassador Hi-Hat lounge, catti-cornered at 14th and K on what has unofficially and accidentally become Washington's blind-date rendezvous, to put it prettily.

Into your dinner clothes—black tie, remember—and you're off at 7:30 for pre-dinner appetizers in the Cosmos room at the Carlton, currently supposed to be the No. 1 spot for everybody who is anybody, but which is so subdued in its lighting that nobody could be recognized, even if there.

L'Escargot, serving French food, is the chic place to eat. You can dance there in the Salle Versailles, or walk across the street to the Mayflower hotel, big and noisy, with a one-buck cover charge and drinks at the same price, each.

ONE ORCHID, ONE
UNIFORM AT SHOREHAM

Inevitably you wind up at the Shoreham Blue room. Covers for 1000. Tables on terraces. Orchestra on a stage. Dance floor big enough for 200. Floor show. Nice crowd, nice people.

Who are they?

Nobody whose picture you've ever seen in the papers. Only one uniform, on a prep school cadet. Only one orchid, on a gal in a gray street suit. Plenty of decollete, though the fashion books said that because of the war this was to be a "cover-up" season—long gloves, and all that, to go with the black ties.

The pay off comes when the M. C. directs the orchestra to play the first bars of "Happy Birthday to You" six times, and the Lohengrin wedding march twice. Here are the people who live in Washington, out for an annual Saturday night binge, in a nice polite way. The floor show soprano's numbers that this crowd applauded most were "I Want a Girl Just Like the Girl That Married Dear Old Dad," and "My Wild Irish Rose." I have witnesses.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

This column contends there can be no satisfactory progress until we measure the shares of each man by the common yardstick of the God-given equal right to create and enjoy anything anyone else has a right to create and enjoy.

REAL COST OF GIFT OR FORCED WAGE

Few persons realize the stupendous cost and the unmeasurable sacrifice and poverty that results when people come to believe that wages can be established by gifts, or arbitrarily by union labor.

There is probably nothing that has caused so much poverty and misery as the failure of the people to understand that there are certain natural laws that control the amount of wages that can be paid. These laws are just as inevitable and unbreakable as the law of gravity.

This statement is probably better demonstrated in the recent book, "Capitalism the Creator" by Carl Snyder than any place else. All political economists have known this and expressed it as a part of political economy, but Carl Snyder in this book gives dozens of charts showing the real causes of wage increases; namely, better and more efficient capital.

It is this belief that wages can be either gifts, charity or forced that has caused dozens of laws to be passed that strangle and greatly retard the real causes of labor increases.

Reasons For Misunderstanding

There are two reasons why many people are confused and believe that wage levels can be raised by labor unions or by law.

One is the fact that they can be temporarily raised for the few by labor unions but they lower the wages of those who have to pay the increased cost.

The public sees the benefit to the few but the increased cost—because it is so spread out and is paid by so many different people—is not visible to the man who has not made an exhaustive study of social and economic problems.

The other reason why many people are confused and believe that labor unions can raise wage levels is that wage levels have been raised constantly for a hundred years prior to 1930. This was done the same time that labor unions were in existence. It was in spite of labor unions. The wage levels would have been raised much more rapidly had it not been for labor unions. But many people jump at the conclusion that this coincident was the cause.

But no one who believes this can write an impersonal rule of conduct. They only believe what they wish. And it certainly would be nice and easy if wages could be raised by making things scarce, as the labor unions do, or by laws. If this were all there is to raising wages, then the sky would be the limit and we could live by working one minute a year or one minute a century, if it is true that wage levels can be raised by collective bargaining or by law.

GOVERNMENT WITHOUT PRINCIPLE

The fact that the Federal Government lets truck contracts to other than the lowest bidder, because Henry Ford will not give up principles and worship the egoism of government officials, indicates that we are practicing almost the same kind of policy that they do in Germany and Russia.

No government official will write an impersonal rule as to how the government is to buy its services or things it needs.

When they will pay a lot more to one concern than they will to another because they, or their agents, cannot select the help that the producer uses and tell what wages shall be paid, how long people shall work, etcetera, then it is hard to understand why we should be going to Europe to fight against tyranny and oppression.

If we are not going to use the law of equal freedom as a guide in buying labor and commodities, then we have no guide left excepting the changeable, mutable will of some human being. And this will become as tyrannical, as oppressive, as Hitler or Stalin.

Roosevelt said some time ago that we had established laws that might be very oppressive under certain men at the head of the government.

We have that oppression, that tyranny, that egoism now at the head of the government. Any government that will not write an impersonal rule of conduct is a despotic, tyrannical oppressive government and no people can have great prosperity or have relative safety under that kind of a government.

We are rapidly losing a great amount of freedom that our forefathers handed down to us. And, yet, we want to stamp this kind of freedom on the rest of the world by sending our material and, sooner or later, hundreds of thousands of our boys to satisfy the ego and the vanity of those people who will not even write an impersonal rule of conduct. To do so is simply one tyrant fighting another tyrant.

HOW ABOUT THE $2,000,000,000 STABILIZATION FUND?

When the gold content of the dollar was changed, Roosevelt was given $2,000,000,000 to use for what is known as Stabilization Fund. He did not even need to get the consent of anybody in order to use this vast sum.

Now he wants the Lease-lend Bill giving him authority to give away anything he wants to to any nation he wants to.

What has become of the $2,000,000,000 secret fund he received when the government repudiated its contract with its creditors.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 8—Behind the screen:

When Leo McCarey prepared to direct "The Cowboy and the Blond" at 20th-Fox, a picture having several sequences supposed to take place at a movie studio, he naturally planned to use some of the studio buildings as backgrounds.

But trouble started as they tried to line up a scene outside the administration building: Executives began popping in and out at wrong times; doors banged; loud telephone conversations were heard; and office workers crowded to the windows to stare like a bunch of tourists at the film crew at work. McCarey finally had to give up and have a false-front built on the back lot.

Incidentally, since the music war took ASCAP songs off the air, theater receipts have increased. Some Hollywoodsmen feared the opposite effect because screen tunes couldn't be plugged by radio. Metro is figuring on making a picture about ASCAP, in which case the studio would have its pick of the society's hits.

Seattle Socialite Gets 15 Years In Tacoma Bridge Case

SEATTLE, Feb. 8. (AP)—Hallett R. French, 45, Seattle socialite and insurance executive who confessed keeping premiums on $800,000 worth of insurance issued on the ill-fated new $6,400,000 Tacoma Narrows Bridge, and failed to tell his company about the policy, was sentenced to a maximum of 15 years in the state penitentiary today.

The expose came shortly after the great Tacoma bridge, third longest suspension span in the world, buckled and collapsed into Puget Sound during a gale last November 7.

"Just think of the odds on that bridge falling," French told reporters. "The actual insurance rate in cold figures was 20,000 to 1 that the bridge wouldn't fall.

"But it fell, and I've got to pay."

I got acquainted yesterday, in a unique and informal manner, with the family of Ray Nielson, linotype operator at The Pampa News. I was tracking down items on Mammy's list in the grocery store, and had paused at the egg counter. Just then a small boy came by pushing the grocery wagon in the wake of his mother. "Look at that big man, mother!" he said. "Look at that big man! Look at him!" he said, and he stopped his pushing and turned around and gave me a head-to-foot sizing up, his brown eyes big with astonishment. "Sonny, what's your name?" I asked, and he streaked out after his mother, mumbling his name hurriedly over his shoulder. I took after them and learned that he was Dennis Ray Nielson, six years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nielson. . . . Well, it's a small world after all, ain't it?

HIGHLIGHTS FROM LATEST BOOKS

WAR OR NO WAR, GERTRUDE STEIN IS SAME AS EVER

Gertrude Stein is loose again with her first novel in 11 years. Her latest contribution to the world's present-day confusion is called "Ida" (Random House: $2). It is all about Ida, which is all anyone can say about it with any degree of certainty.

It is not quite clear just what Ida is doing all through the pages of the novel. She moves around a good deal, and then again she doesn't; she just seems to get places without moving. At various times, Ida decides to be a twin—and she is a twin. She marries assorted gentlemen from time to time; in fact, they seem to go with the places in which Ida finds herself. Ida's chief occupation is resting, which seems a little odd considering her extensive marital experiences and travels.

Here's a dash of typical Steinese. Make something of it if you can.

"As she was leaving Connecticut she began to listen to a man. He was an officer in the army. His name was Sam Hamlin. He said if he had a wife he could divorce her. He came originally from Connecticut, and he was still in Connecticut. He said the only way to leave Connecticut was to go out of it. If he had left Connecticut he might have gotten to Washington, perhaps to Utah and Idaho, and if he had he might have gotten lost. That is the way he felt about Connecticut."

When you read a couple of paragraphs of Miss Stein, you begin mulling over what she has said, and you think, perhaps, you have got what she is driving at. Then you read another paragraph, and you realize you're right back where you started from.

So the best way to read "Ida," is to read just a couple of paragraphs at a time. If you like, you can start at the end and read backwards. It makes just as much sense.

"In a group the other night somebody brought up the question as to whether a woman pays more heavily for her mistakes than a man. I immediately took the negative on the contention that in a divorce case you most always find the woman taking the children, the house, the furniture and the alimony, and the man gets the air. I say it's the man who pays. What do you think? . . . . Brother, we are not competent to answer that question, but maybe somebody else has an idea on it. . . . The man went on to say in his letter, among other things, that the women present really got on him, that they didn't stick to the argument and got pretty personal with him. . . Pampa, Texas.

Dear Editor:

For your clearing house.

I used to think this fellow Lindbergh was pretty smart, but I am changing my mind on the matter rapidly. The more I read of his testimonies before the house, the less I think of his judgment.

At the time "We" flew the Atlantic, I, like the rest, considered him a hero. And at the time of his misfortune, I, like the rest, sorrowed for him. But after all, didn't we have a Corrigan? And others have had their misfortunes also, but they stuck it out. I cannot recall any of them leaving this country to take up residence in another. If I ever came to the point where this country wasn't good enough for me to live in, I sure would not high-tail it back here when the bullets and bombs started.

Now that statement starts the old question mark appearing again. If I recall correctly, Mr. Lindbergh stayed in England until just before hostilities started and then scatted for the good old U. S. Now he must have had some inclination of what was in store for England or he sure wouldn't have left so sudden-like. And it seems to me like I read somewhere about him receiving some kind of medal or decoration from the German government. At the time of this donation, I don't recall him doing anything so great that a government would honor him for. Possibly it was the statement he made concerning the condition of Russia and her air force that pleased Mr. Hitler. Now, perhaps Stalin's condition from a military standpoint isn't so hot, but I notice Mr. Hitler is careful not to step on his toes.

Now Mr. Lindberg gets up before the people and tries to make it appear he is doing the country a great favor by trying to keep us out of war and is claiming that our airforce, even when combined with England's, is not enough to defeat Germany. If he knows this now, he surely must have known it a few years ago. If so, why didn't he show all this interest and get up before congress and the house and tell them then that Hitler was building his great air fleet. He surely must have known it then after all the traveling he did in Germany. At that time his statements might have carried some weight.

And, I can't agree with him when he states that this country is in no danger of invasion, in fact couldn't be. It's a cinch that should Hitler defeat England he would also annex her territories, and if my school geography wasn't wrong, I think she has some possessions that are fairly close to this country. Close enough in fact, that it would not be much of a task to reach here by airplane. And in my estimation, I think he knows this, too. My own personal opinion is that he is doing all he can to slow up our defense program, and if possible to stop whatever aid we are able to give England. I think we should give her all the aid possible to defeat Germany, and keep the war over there. Of course I'm not in favor of sending any of our boys over there, nor am I in favor of compeitely stripping our defenses to help England, but I think this country can and will build up our own defense and at the same time supply England with what she needs to defeat Germany. In my mind that is our safest defense. Keep England supplied to where she can keep Mr. Hitler busy over there, and not give him time to turn his attention in our direction.

I don't think we have so awful much to say whether we get in this war or not. I believe that is up to Herr Hitler. Regardless of whether we help England or not, if the time comes when Hitler thinks he can conquer this nation, he will try it. And we will not have a thing to say in the matter. So I say, let's build our defense to where we can give Mr. Hitler a reception warm enough to force him to change his mind in regards to conquest in this part of the world. I don't think all Mr. Lindbergh can say will cause our senators and congressmen, that is the majority of them, to change their minds in regards to helping England, but he may cause some delay in our preparations. The best thing he can do is to keep quiet on the matter if he can't help. But I think that if we continue to help England, Hitler in the end won't be able to turn in this direction. And we won't have to eternally be reading headlines: "Lindbergh says this, or Lindbergh claims that." I've sure had enough of it for my part.

Lawson Little Shoots 62 In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 8 (AP)—Bulky W. Lawson Little plodded along in snow, deep slush and eventual sunshine on his fifth wedding anniversary today to create one of golf's all-time masterpieces—a nine-under-par 62.

Incredible under the conditions, fantastic except to some 1,500 bundled addicts who slipped and slid at his heels, the National Open champion's 31-31—62 tied the P.G.A. 18-hole open tournament competitive record—put him three shots ahead of the Texas open field at 36 holes with a 136 total.

It tied a round shot in the Oakland open last month by poker-faced little Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and it was Ben Hogan who trailed him in second place today with 69-70—139.

Ill luck on the last four holes cost Hogan a chance to take the lead, despite Little's wizardry. Bogies caught him at the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth holes, a lost ball in deep grass in the rough causing his grief at the fifteenth.

Nine one-putt greens, every one for a birdie, were included in Little's perfect round of golf. He hit every green in par figures, used only 27 putts.

Pudgy Ed (Porky) Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., posted a respectable par 71 in the muck, stroked his chin when Little's last putt rattled the cup and commented:

"The most perfect round of golf I have ever seen played—under any conditions."

Snow flakes were whirling when Little tucked his long pants inside flaming red socks and started bareheaded from the first tee. Snow was played as casual water, players were permitted to lift balls from embedded positions in the rough and fairways.

Suddenly the snow halted, the wind heightened and the sun shone. It was Texas weather at it's fickle best. Little barely missed birdie putts on the first and second holes.

His birdie putts ranged from two feet to 35 feet, but seven of the nine were under 10 feet. He was simply a machine pumping iron shots dead to the pins.

Tied for third position at 140 were Johnny Dawson, the Hollywood amateur whose 68 led the field yesterday, and Slammin' Samuel Jackson Snead, Hot Springs, Va. Snead came tearing in with a 68 to bracket with yesterday's 72.

Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., was around in 68 for a 141 total. One shot behind him was National P.G.A. Champion Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, with a pair of 71s.

Jaycee Cagers To Play Shamrock Faculty Here

Pampa's independent basketball team, playing under the colors of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be seen on the home floor Monday night against the Shamrock Faculty, a team that has nosed them out twice this year. The Jaycees have lost only three games.

Game time Monday night will be 8 o'clock with admission 15 cents for students and 25 cents for adults.

Shamrock will present the high scoring player of the Panhandle, John Walker, who used to be a star for the West Texas State college Buffaloes when Joe Fortenberry, Ray Colvin and the rest of the greats were at Canyon. Teamed with Walker at the forward position will be Puett, former Shamrock high school star. Moss, a tall sharpshooter, will be at center while the two guards will be Scott McCall and Forest Kline, the two Shamrock high school coaches.

Taking the floor for the Jaycees will be Elmer Irving, Albert Ayer, Junior Strickland, Claude Heiskell, Orville Heiskell, Nevin Johnson, all former Harvester greats, and Tom Dean, formerly of the Canadian River Gassers of Amarillo.

Proceeds from the game will go to the community center fund.

On Friday night the Jaycees swamped the Groom Independents 57 to 38 with Claude Heiskell the scoring star with 17 points. Ayer and Irving followed with 14 points each. Orville Heiskell added 10 points and Al Webber added two. Only five players made the trip.

W. Britten paced the Groom attack with 16 points followed by Bergen with six, Kuehler, Leroy and Black with four each and R. Britten and Blackwell with two points each.

Harvesters Nose Out Santa Fe Five In Last 5 Seconds

The Harvesters ran into another zone defense last night and had to come from behind in the last five seconds to win a 21-20 thriller from the St. Michael's Horsemen from Santa Fe, N. M.

With five seconds to go, Flanigan, Harvester center, who has scored three field goals in the last three games, looped one just outside the circle to win the game. Heiskell and Flanigan led the scoring with five points each.

Star for the Horsemen was Ortiz, peewee forward, who slipped through the Harvester defense for five field goals, none of them setups. He led the scoring for both teams with 10 points. The Horsemen, state champions of New Mexico last year, were dead-eye shots from the free throw line, making 8 of 12 attempts. Lujan, tallest man on the Horsemen team, who had been guarding Flanigan, fouled out in the last 30 seconds.

The Harvesters led 11 to 6 at the half and 18 to 15 at the third quarter. They did not score a field goal in the first half. The Horsemen beat Price Memorial college at Amarillo Friday night 27-15.

Coach Francis Smith of LeFors called the game.

Coach Mitchell used his entire squad in an attempt to penetrate the Horsemen's zone but none got the unhindered set-up shots or the rebounds the Harvesters sought.

Arkansas Beats Baylor 36-31

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 8 (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks came from behind twice to reach the halfway mark of their Southwest Conference basketball campaign undefeated as they won over the Baylor Bears for the second straight night, 36 to 31.

A band of battling Bruins opened up with a band and held a 10 to 4 lead over the Porkers, who have won six straight circuit decisions, after seven minutes of play. Three minutes later, however, a free throw by John Adams deadlocked the count for the Porkers at 10-all. Less than a minute later, giant John Freiberger looped a one-handed field goal to give Arkansas a two-point advantage.

Tigers Presented Football Sweaters

GROOM, Feb. 8—Athletic awards were presented Thursday morning during high school assembly to all boys who lettered in football during the past undefeated, untied season.

Those receiving letter sweaters were: John L. Angel and Jack Kuehler, Co-captains, John Townsend, Austin Crowell, Kenneth Black, Roy Dale Andrews, John Troy Whatley, Kenneth Burns, and Mack Smith, manager. "Butch" Clark was given a sweater award in token of appreciation of having coached his boys through 20 six-man football games without a single defeat.

Of the boys given awards, only Burns and Andrews will be eligible for participation next season.

Harvesters Win Thriller From Sandies

Led brilliantly by little Grover Lee Heiskell, forward, the Harvester basketball team whipped the favored Amarillo Golden Sandie cagers 20 to 17 Friday night.

The Harvesters are now trailing Borger for the lead in the Big Five race and can tie Borger Tuesday night when the Bulldogs of Catfish Smith invade the Harvester gym for a return game.

The Sandies will play in Pampa next Saturday night. If the Harvesters win both games they can cinch a tie for the Big Five title, and if Borger loses in Amarillo, the Pampa team can keep the championship which they have won nearly every year since the league was formed of District one football teams.

The Sandies were favored to beat the Harvesters because they beat Lubbock twice. The game was a thriller from beginning to end. The Harvesters opened the scoring with baskets by Mounts and Dewey and a free shot by Dewey before the Sandies tallied. But by the end of the first quarter the score was 7 to 4. It was tied 12-all at the half and 16-all at the third quarter. In all the score was tied five times, but only once did the Sandies forge ahead.

Both the Sandies and the Harvesters couldn't make their free shots. The Pampans made two and missed 8, and the Sandies made one and missed 9. The officials assessed 10 fouls against each team. The officiating was satisfactory.

The Harvesters won probably because they were able to hold the ball three out of the last four minutes of the game. Heiskell came out on the front line to aid in holding the ball. The Sandies almost tied the ball up once but Heiskell slipped by Halter and took it from him. The Pampans held the ball the last 50 seconds of the game. Heiskell led the scoring with 10 points, all field goals. Dewey was second with 6. McCartt, Hughes, and Dorman each scored 4 points for the Sandies.

Neither Flanigan nor Terrell made a basket for Pampa. In the last two games Flanigan has scored only one field goal. Terrell however, played a good defensive game against Amarillo.

The undefeated second team found the Yannigans the strongest team they have played this year, but managed to overwhelm them 25 to 11 with Mitchell, Cox and Frashier each scoring two field goals.

Pampan basketball fans who have been thinking that the Harvesters had some good material this year were ashamed of their bragging when they saw the Sandies. Coach Hull had a dozen boys averaging over six feet tall, and strong and fast to boot. Pampa's Harvesters, some tall and some short, some heavy and some spindly-legged, just couldn't stack up with Amarrillo material in looks, but the Sandies certainly couldn't match the Harvesters in playing basketball.

Howard Lynch Says He Likes The 18-Year-Old Grid Rule

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AMARILLO, Feb. 8 (AP)—Those who think the 18-year rule in Texas schoolboy football responsible for the flood of substitutions in last fall's football campaign will get little encouragement from the coach of the state champion Amarillo Sandies.

Many took the attitude that the younger boys didn't have the stamina of teams of the past, therefore more reserves had to be used. It is contended that this brought on an unprecedented number of lettermen per team.

But Howard Lynch, who piloted the Sandies to the title in one of the greatest campaigns a team ever waged in the state, says he likes the 18-year rule and that he thinks last season's Amarillo squad had much more endurance than the one of 1939.

Lynch also blasted the theory that the boys are younger than they were due to the new age rule. He points out that Amarillo had nine boys 17 years old last fall, with the other two signing in at 16. In 1939, he had four 16's, five 17's, and two 18's.

"I don't think that the new age rule affected our playing at all," he said.

He added that he did feel schoolboy football should return to 15-minute quarters instead of 12 as used last season.

"I feel that even more boys would be given a chance to play—48 minutes is not a very long game," Lynch said. "I hope that the rule committee will see fit to return to the old rule after his next fall."

Amarillo, it is true, lettered 29 boys, seven more than at any other time, but Lynch doesn't think the 18-year rule had much to do with the situation.

"I played as many boys as I could, simply because we were in a position most of the games where we could experiment and give boys who ordinarily would never had a chance to break in, a chance to play and get some experience," Lynch declared.

And here's the tip-off on why Amarillo was so good: Lynch had 18 or 20 boys who were almost equal in ability—and used them.

"I really think the 18-year rule has equalized football all over the state," he said. "Where we had a powerful team last year, next year it is just as liable to be some one in the other half of the state.

"I don't think any section will be able to dominate the league in the future. And taking it all in all, I think you will find that the brand of football will be better under the new set-up than it was under the old."

Anicos Complain They Can't Get Any More Games

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Galveston's Anicos' one of the greatest girls basketball teams of all times, has about run out of competition.

It was not of the Anicos' choosing, because they were deliberately broken up in an effort to whittle down to the size of the opposition.

But it did no good. Today they continue to win and the competition has dwindled until they can't get enough games to make it really interesting.

Time was when the Anicos, a team sponsored by the American National Insurance Co., roamed the broad southwest and middle west, running up unbelievable winning streaks and twice capturing the National AAU championship.

But each year it became increasingly difficult to get games close enough to home. So the all-American stars left the squad and this season the team started with new faces at all but two positions.

They were here last night to play the Dallas Hornets and they won 27-18, their seventh victory in eight starts. Who they will meet next is the problem.

"We sent out about 25 letters seeking games," said Louis Rivaux, business manager. "We've played all we could get and now there's nothing to look forward to but the state AAU tournament."

Federal Income Tax Employee To Be Here 3 Days

Federal income tax reports must be filed by March 15 and to help Pampans in making out their reports the treasury department will send Ralph Kenniston here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The deputy collector will be at the postoffice from 8:30 a. m., to 4 p. m., to answer questions regarding the filling out of tax blanks. The deputy collector will not make out lists, etc., but will advise persons on how to make their returns.

Mr. Kenniston will be in Canadian on Monday and Tuesday and in Shamrock on Wednesday.

Several changes have been made in the income tax law this year.

Mr. Kenniston has revealed a number of "don'ts" to follow in filling out tax returns.

First, don't prepare your income tax return until you carefully read and understand the instructions accompanying the forms. Make out a work-sheet and check it with the instructions before filling in the forms.

Don't delay in making out your income tax return. Tax problems deserve careful study, and the early assembling of your data expedites this.

Don't destroy the data from which your return is compiled. You will need them for possible rechecking and verifying the return.

Don't overlook any item or schedule on the form which you are required to fill out. They are all necessary to the exact computation of your income tax.

Don't omit any explanation or information that is essential to a complete audit of your return. An ounce of care may save you a pound of unnecessary expense, and time and annoyance both to you and to the government.

Municipal Band To Make Debut Over KPDN At 1:45

Radio Station KPDN, Pampa, will present a special program Sunday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock. It will be a 30-minute concert by the Pampa Municipal band under direction of J. R. Earsom.

The concert this afternoon will be the first by the band although it has been organized for more than a year.

"We have been meeting and practicing for the fun of it," Business Manager Emory Smith remarked yesterday. "We have 22 members and need more. Musicians not playing in school bands will be welcomed in the organization."

Band members will meet at 1 o'clock in the old Schneider hotel for a rehearsal of numbers to be presented.

Special guests in the studio will be members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and Civic clubs.

Among the numbers to be presented will be America, Sen Triumphal, Snapshot Overture, Royal Legion, Goliad, Hail the Chief, and others.

TO PREACH TODAY

H. Paul Briggs, above, associate pastor of the First Baptist church, will occupy the puplit at both services today in the absence of Rev. C. Gordon Bayless, pastor, who is conducting an evangelistic campaign at the First Baptist church of Borger.

"Is There Any Word From the Lord?" will be the topic of discussion at the 10:50 a. m. service. In announcing his subject, Mr. Briggs said, "When his country had its back to the wall and the enemy was about to beseige Jerusalem, King Zedekiah asked of Jeremiah, 'Is there any word from the Lord?' With democracy, Christianity, human right, and all that decent people hold hear being threatened by the onslaughts of the satanically-inspired totalitarian nations, that question is being asked anew, and people are asking if God has any message for the world at such a time as this."

A feature of the evening service will be special music by the First Baptist Male chorus. Following the musical portion of the service, which begins at 7:30 o'clock, the associate pastor will speak on "Profit and Loss."

of his injuries, but he died a hero. Three times he charged up the stairways, and returned with a victim. On one trip he rushed shouting to the rear window, imploring the able-bodied to help several cripples to safety. He stuck at least two men, the witness said, who refused.

One man, going through the window, ripped the flesh from his hand on jagged glass.

Identification of the dead, made difficult because admittance records were destroyed or mutilated, gave this list of men who perished:

Julius Benson, 41, Little Rock Ark.; Clarence A. Riley, 15, Travis City, Mich.; John B. Murberger, Dallas; William H. Nugent, New York City; James Edward White, who gave his address as 9 Main street, Tulsa; Gus Halb, St. Louis; Oscar Lindley, Desdemona, Tex.; Thomas Cook and J. M. Jenkins, addresses unknown. The tenth man was not identified.

Lindley, before he died, said he had a wife and child living in Amarillo. His father was reported to reside at Colorado City, Tex.

The origin of the fire was obscure. Fire Marshall Jack Thompson said he was inquiring whether a spray, used in the delouser, had been used and whether it was inflammable.

The dead will be buried Monday or Tuesday in a mass funeral, Brig-Gen. George Gilks of the Salvation Army said.

Ironically, firemen discovered an opening through which the men might have escaped without serious injury. A locked door at the rear of the room, when opened later, gave onto a small shaft. A drop of six or eight feet would have led the men to a skylight opening into a cafe on the first floor.

The senate amended the house guard bill to provide that the units would continue to serve until all national guardsmen returned home. The house also revised the Camp Hulen proposal, thereby necessitating further senate action.

Into the bill the house wrote a provision that when the federal government has no further need for Camp Hulen it is to return the property to the state in at least as good condition as present. The base is being used for anti-aircraft training.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—The stock market today finished a mild recovery week with leading issues edging slightly higher.

Those who showed up in boardrooms had little to go on in the way of outstanding news. Apprehension over war and taxes persisted but another bater of warnings statements demonstrating the ability of some corporations to overcome mounting imposts, inspired timid buying here and there and served to keep selling light.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was up .1 of a point at 42.3 and on the week retained a net advance of .5. It was the first 6-day gain in four weeks. Transfers of 175,470 shares compared with 398,060 last Saturday.

AID BILL

posed and uniformly defeated all such amendments as the republicans offered them. Thus the house rejected:

A proposal that assistance to Britain be put on a strictly money-loan basis.

That its cost be limited—two figures, $2,000,000,000 and 7,000,000,000 were advanced and rejected.

That the president be specifically forbidden to transfer any part of the navy to another country—the $1,300,000,000 limit on the disposition of present defenses was intended to cover partially this much controverted point.

That Russia be excluded from the nations to be benefitted—administration leaders argued that to adopt it would drive Stalin and Hitler closer together.

And many more changes of a minor or greater nature.

The effort to place a $2,000,000,000 over-all limit on the program was made by Rep. Eaton (R-NJ) and was beaten, 177 to 120. Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) sought to apply the $7,000,000,000 "ceiling" and was turned down 122 to 38.

Passage came at the close of a day of impatience, snapping statements and allegations that democratic leaders were imposing a "gag rule" by using their dependable majority from time to time to vote a limit on debate on particular amendments.

As the final vote drew near the democratic membership began heckling the republican speakers as one after another they arose to offer their amendments. Rep. Dworshak (R-Idaho), in particular, had a hard time with an amendment forbidding the president to commit infractions of international law in his administration of the bill.

His speech, shouted into the amplifiers above a din of conversation, was repeatedly interrupted by derisive cheering. Finally, Rep. Mundt (R-SD) pleaded that he be given a "fair hearing."

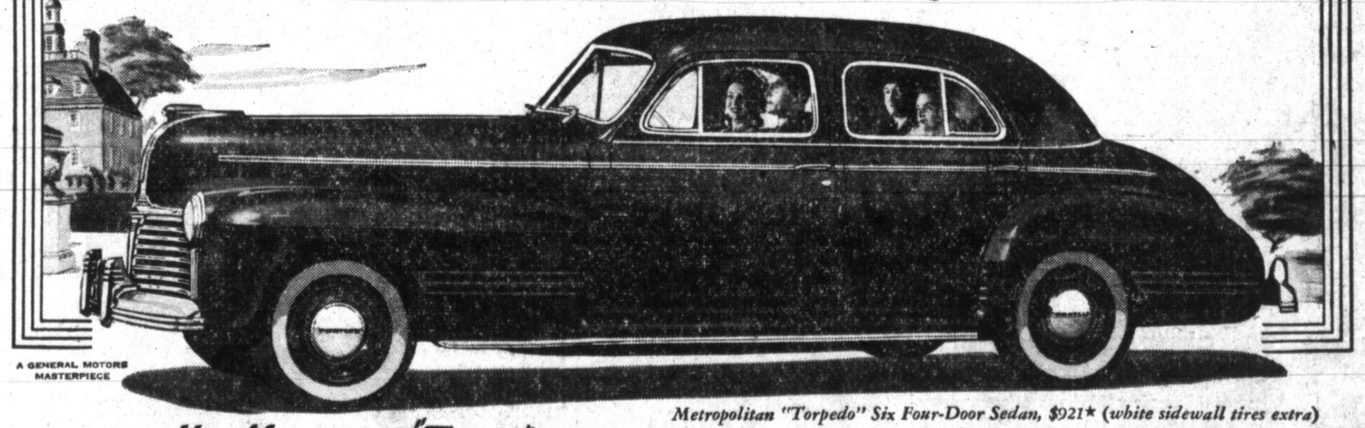

"I wouldn't expect that from that side of the house," Dworshak said, with an angry gesture in the direction of the democrats. His proposal was rejected, 142 to 94.

Also rejected were an amendment by Rep. Fish (R-NY) prohibiting use of American ports for repairing belligerent warships, and another by Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa) which would have forbidden the president to send troops outside the western hemisphere.

Philosophy

Life is a pattern we design
By every word and deed,
Stitched into a garment by
The daily lives we lead.

Fear not nor flee from Life—
Rather run to greet it;
Life can be cruel or kind,
Like as how we meet it!

Travel

"I never see a map but I'm away
On all the errands that I long to do,
Up all the rivers that are painted blue,
And all the ranges that are painted gray."

The above lines written by Jean Mackenzie certainly express our feelings on these pretty spring-like days when we wish that vacation time were a little bit nearer. In the meantime we are trying various exercises to rid us of stiffness caused by bowling. After two days of slow motion, we found that some more bowling was the best remedy.

America's leading parlor game right now, whenever two or three young married couples get together, is figuring out what they will do should the husband be called into the army. It brings all kinds of questions—harder to answer than the questions of any quiz game.

Will they try to rent or sell their home, will Mama go to live with one set of parents, or will she try to get a job in a city near her husband's camp, where she can see him occasionally. What is going to happen to the heavy insurance Papa has been carrying; should they go ahead and build a home or keep the money in the bank? Guessing what the future will bring and what the individual's best moves are—that's America's favorite parlor game, but it is a grim sort of game.

I want to always go through life
on tiptoe,
Filled with expectancy of common things;
A bit of blue, a cloud that floats
in splendor
The sudden flash of brilliant feathered wings.

I wake each day with new anticipation,
My feet I know are not with reason shod;
And that is why I'll go through life on tiptoe
Looking for all the lovely things of God.

INFORMAL DINNER COSTUME

AFTER a day of skiing in the Gatineau Hills in Canada, this pretty winter sportswoman comes down for dinner in the Jasper Room of the Chateau Laurier. She wears a new and unusual informal dinner costume of soft wool jersey. The trousers—as wide as an evening skirt—are bright green. The blouse is white with multi-colored embroidery.

Rehabilitation Topic Of Talk Given At P-TA

At the monthly meeting of High school Parent-Teacher Association Thursday afternoon in the high school auditorium, V. B. Watson of Lubbock, district supervisor of vocational rehabilitation, spoke on "Rehabilitation of Handicapped People."

After being introduced by John Hessey, who told of local cases, Mr. Watson pointed out that his program is an outgrowth of the old Soldier Rehabilitation Act, which was passed in 1918, for the purpose of training disabled War Veterans returning from France.

"In 1920, it was changed to the Civilian Rehabilitation Act and was adopted in the state of Texas in 1928", he continued. "This work comes under the direct supervision of L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction. J. J. Brown, Austin, is state director. Eligibility for this program requires a 25 per cent permanent disability, such as bone or muscle, 50 per cent loss of eyesight, 50 per cent loss of hearing, Cardiac cases, arrested cases of tuberculosis, or sugar diabetes.

"We have a three-fold training program. First, college work, in state institutions; second, trade schools; third, apprentice method or training on the job. Each physically disabled person is trained in some vocation which they can follow with their physical handicap. Before a person is trained, three things are taken into consideration: First, disability; second, vocational handicap; third, feasibility of case. A person does not have to be indigent to be eligible for this program, as it is a part of the public school system of Texas. At the present time, we have 12 students enrolled in Canyon, 42 enrolled in Texas Tech, over 100 in the University of Texas, and anywhere from one to 12 in all other state colleges.

"At the present time, Gray county has three active training programs. One is being trained in florist work one boy in Canyon, and one in A. & M. We have two cases who have been trained and making a substantial living. One is a lawyer and the other a librarian in one of the leading museums in the state."

Following the address, Mrs. Burl Graham paid tribute to the Founders of the National Congress of Parent-Teacher Association and concluded the program with prayer.

In the room count, Miss Louise Warren's room won the award.

A nominating committee, Mrs. Claude Lard, chairman, Mrs. H. H. Boynton, Mrs. A. F. Johnston, and Principal Doyle Osborne, was named during the business session. Plans were made to assist the City Council with the birthday party Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the red brick cafeteria. Committees named included Miss Roy Riley and Mrs. Bob Sanford, table decorations for March and September; Mrs. Burl Graham, stunts; Brs. J. M. Turner, refreshments for September; and Mrs. Dawson, refreshments for March.

Sixty parents and teachers attended the regular meeting which followed the executive board session in the office of Principal Osborne.

"Jack And The Beanstalk" To Be Given At School

To assist in creating a better appreciation of fine arts in the community, Twentieth Century Forum club members are sponsoring a civic project, the presentation of the American opera, "Jack and the Beanstalk," next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

All students of the city schools will be permitted to attend this Junior Programs, Inc., entertainment which has been arranged by the forum's project committee, Mrs. Bill Loving, Mrs. E. C. Sidwell, and Mrs. Gene Fatheree.

In "Jack and the Beanstalk," a wise and sardonic old cow, well-versed in the foibles of mankind, will startle music lovers of Pampa by exhibiting a most unusual voicebox in action compounded of rapidly changing bassoprofundo and baritone. Cynical comment on the weakness of the human mind, the silliness of romance, and the tragedy of age, in verses by John Erskine set to lilting melodies by Louis Gruenberg, will issue forth from the bovine monstrosity with astonishing effects.

The production, featuring in its cast some of the original members who appeared at the world premiere of the opera in New York City, is by Junior Programs, Inc., non-commercial enterprise providing selected and approved cultural entertainment for young people.

Wise Old Cow To Sing

A ribby old cow too old for milk, she is highly articulate and musically expressive. When Jack of giant-killing fame and his poor old mother, beset by poverty, have to sell her in the market, she immediately sets up a harmonious howl. A lesser cow might have ambled off placidly, but the Erskine cow, like the Erskine Helen of Troy, has spirit.

When Jack tries to interest her in the excitement of the market place, she glowers and protests in basso-profundo-baritone, a most remarkable protest. She balks all the way, scolds Jack soundly for forgetting the days when he used her for a charger or for plowing when it would always spoil the butter. And when Jack makes his trade, it is the cow who is smart enough to insist on being sold for a handful of beans which an old witch claimed would return the treasures of Jack's departed father. It takes the duo-singing cow to appraise the fiercelooking giant for his true worth as a bag of wind. And it is the cow who gives voice to a few leavening sentiments of disillusion at the wedding ceremonies when Jack wins his princess.

With the wisdom of age, she counsels moderation in all things, and deliberation rather than haste in the perennial chase for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, which is probably empty anyhow.

Giant Built To Order

The most difficult job encountered by Joseph Burger, a bootmaker who specializes in making shoes to add height and dignity to self-conscious short people, was when he was asked to raise Howard Laramy, good-looking baritone of the Junior Programs Opera company, to giant size. Laramy stands about five feet ten in his oxfords, but when he clumps the boards at the Pampa High school auditorium in size 25 boots, enacting the giant, he will tower nearly seven and a half feet. Shoulder and chest pads, leg o' mutton sleeves and puffed trousers will broaden him proportionately, and he'll appear quite as normal a giant as any in a circus side-show.

Mr. Burger, who designed and built the boots responsible for the remarkable transformation of Mr. Laramy, calls it the biggest job he ever did. The next biggest was when he built up Broderick Crawford for his part as the hulking Lennie in John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" which played on Broadway and later was made into a Hollywood motion picture. But Mr. Burger now passes over the simple Lennie with a careless wave.

"We had to use the skins of three whole calves for Mr. Laramy's boots," he says. "They are perfectly proportioned to fit a man standing about seven feet six inches. They are the largest boots on record actually to be worn by a man. Don't believe all those publicity stories about the size of Primo Carnera's feet or of the giant's feet in the Ringling circus. The circus giant wears size 21. But Laramy, as the giant, wears size 25."

It was no easy task to attain this spectacular result, and Mr. Burger recounts a tale of long hours of planning, careful execution of design and a series of discouraging failures. First he built huge wooden bases in the shape of actual boots, on top of these were fixed the shoes in which Laramy stands. The three calf skins were made to cover this wooden base and come over and above the top to reach high up on the thighs. Half a dozen times, as Laramy heavily trod about a rehearsal studio, the boots broke and the mock giant fell, once spraining his leg so that he was laid up for a week.

After each accident, Burger patiently undertook adjustments. The boots had to be made strong and accident proof. At last perfection was attained. Laramy now strides thru his giant role with comfort and confidence. And Burger is as proud as a little boy graduating from building houses out of alphabet blocks to a real empty log shanty.

A tall young man of 27, Mr. Burger doesn't require any build-up himself. He is the scion of a bootmaking family going back generations. His grandfather was royal bootmaker to the Emperor Franz-Josef of Austria-Hungary, and used to make the fancy boots for the Emperor's Hungarian Horse Guards. His father already had a selected clientele in this country as he came in 1890, and the son, who at first tried to get away from shoes, returned to the business as one of the few build-up specialists in the country.

US GIRLS

Association program includes the following "Don'ts for Parents":

"Don't expect little ones to jump at the sound of your voice. Don't teach your children to hate you by getting a divorce as your life partner may be as unfitted for society as you are yourself. Don't lie to your child and expect him to tell you the truth. Don't be crooked and expect your child to go straight. Don't shout at a child or he will be shouting back. Don't be too severe with children. Don't scold them; speak kindly to them as scolding is one of the earth's greatest cruelties. Don't magnify faults. You may have a few yet yourself. Don't snub a child. Don't complain that they bother you. Don't be cruel in punishment. Don't issue military commands as no one likes to be bossed. Don't watch children critically while they are trying to do something. Don't forget these "Don'ts."

It seems that a large number of applicants signing up for the Civil Aeronautic Board's program here are young women. Each day it is being pointed out that with real leadership the women of America could play any role the government would like to have them play in national defense. They have the brains. They have the time. They are pathetically eager to do their part in this great American undertaking. The one thing they lack is leadership. Women are natural "joiners," Ruth Millett adds.

They're available—the women of America—ready and willing to take part in any scheme Uncle Sam thinks up for them. But to make use of woman-power, Uncle Sam is going to have to provide some capable, go-ahead leaders, and give women a blueprint of what they are to do. Otherwise, they'll meet to eat, and national defense can wait until the dishes are done.

Many complimentary comments have been made concerning the program presented here by the North Texas State Teachers college a cappella choir of Denton. With an itinerary of more than 2,400 miles and a program of 21 engagements before them, the choir left Denton February 2 on the third annual tour of the Southwest, which will carry the singers through Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana.

Pride of Self

Never say, "Oh, well, I'm beaten!"
Never say, "I guess I'm done!"
Say, "I'll show 'em all tomorrow!"
Say, "The fight is just begun!"
Never say, "My work has got me!"
Never say, "I've lost my stride!"
Say, "I'm not so much to look at,
But I've got the stuff inside!"
Never let the world disarm you;
If folks put you on the shelf,
Just refuse to stay! Don't faltar—
Have a little pride of self!

Mrs. Kelley Speaks On Yard Improvements At H. D. Meeting

"We want our yards pretty the year round. That is why we should consider evergreens in our landscaping," said Mrs. Julia E. Kelley, county home demonstration agent, as she discussed yard improvement to members of the home demonstration clubs in her office Thursday afternoon.

"The first thing to consider in landscaping the grounds is the leveling of the yard, then the planting of the lawn in the public area of the grounds. Native or Buffalo grass is the easiest grown and the most substantial, and may be transplanted now and on through April. But the earlier it is set out the better the root system will be. Grass gives a cooler and cleaner atmosphere as well as making the view pretty.

"Shrubs should be planted at the base of the house and in such arrangements that they will help screen and hide outbuildings and barn lots. Trees left untrimmed may be used to a better advantage for screening and background.

"The red cedar is the heartiest of trees and the Arizona cypress, a grey-green plant is the most beautiful but will freeze back easily. The Nadina, Red Barberry, Sandolina, Artemesia, Pfitizer juniper, Spruce, Legustru, Spirea, and Arborvitae were other plants observed and studied in a tour over the city yards and grounds suitable for country homes.

BRILLIANT KORDA FANTASY

Enriched by Technicolor and eye-filling and breath taking scenes of beauty and splendor, the popular fantasy, "The Thief of Bagdad" opens today at the LaNora. It is rich in color, costumes, and background and easily ranks with the most lavish and opulent productions of cinema history. The acting is excetionally good, with Sabu very appealing as the sly yet almost naive "Thief" who comes to the rescue of the trouble ridden young lovers, the blind John Justin and the beautiful June Duprez, above. Conrad Veidt is very convincingly menacing as a magician. A United Artists-Alexander Korda picture. Running time, 106 minutes.

NEW FIELDS COMEDY

How the town's biggest tippler becomes a bank detective when he accidentally is credited with the capture of a bank robber and the recovery of all of the stolen funds is the plot of Universal's 74-minute comedy, "The Bank Dick," with W. C. Fields left, Una Markel, right, and Richard Purcell as the principals. In the picture above Daughter Una is laying down the law, and Fields is doubtless ready with some slick excuse. Showing Wednesday and Thursday at the Rex.

Well-Balanced Array Of Films Offered This Week Certain To Appeal To Nearly All Tastes

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Whichever one you choose, there's a sure-fire appeal in every picture on this week's film calendar.

Color, costumes, and brilliant Arabian Nights atmosphere characterize "The Thief of Badgad," opening a three-day run at the LaNora today.

"Lil Abner," hero of a comic strip appearing regularly in The Pampa News, will provide many a chuckle in the Dogpatch story of the same title at the Crown, for three days beginning today.

Big, red-blooded, action picture fans will like "Boom Town," oil field story, current at the Rex; "O'Malley of the Mounted," Crown, Friday and Saturday; "Hidden Gold," at the State, also on Friday and Saturday.

Those who like generous helpings of melody with their motion pictures will especially want to see "Second Chorus," (LaNora, Thursday, Friday, Saturday); "Moon Over Burma," current at State; "Melody Ranch," at Rex, Friday and Saturday.

The original and distinctive W. C. Fields comedy predominates "The Bank Dick," Rex, Wednesday and Thursday. Other good laughs are to be found in "Blonde Inspiration" at the LaNora Wednesday and in "Mexican Spitfire Out West," at the Crown Wednesday and Thursday.

Worthy of an O. Henry is "The Great McGinty" an unusual type of picture telling of a man who rose from out of the bread line to become governor of a state. It tells a story of crooked politics. Picture opens in an American metropolis; the final scene is in a below the border night club. It's on the State screen Wednesday and Thursday.

WTSC Enrolment At New High With 1,182 Registered

Special To The NEWS

CANYON, Feb. 8—Enrolment at the West Texas State college set a new all-time high this week as the second semester opened.

Eighty new students swelled the total enrolment for the term to 1,182. Registering will continue for several more days. The present total represents a gain of about 75 students over this time in the second semester last year.

Birds have three gaits on the ground, but few of them use all three. The gaits are walking, hopping, and running.

'NEW' LAMOUR

Hair cut short, play suit in place of sarong; that's the "new" Dorothy Lamour as she appears in Paramount's tropical yarn (76 minutes) "Moon Over Burma." Co-Stars are Robert Preston and Preston Foster. Typical tropics-Lamour story, with Foster and Preston battling for affections of Lamour, and a forest fire, log jam in the river, and a cobra on the loose in the plantation house to provide the thrills. On the State screen today, tomorrow, and Tuesday.

TRACY, LAMARR, COLBERT, GABLE IN OIL SAGA

That overworked word, "Saga," seems to be apt for this picture, "Boom Town," a red-blooded yarn of those happy bygone days when there were really "boom" towns mushrooming up overnight and showering gold. Briefly, it is a story of two drillers, Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy, who fight, work together, split up, get rich quick and lose it just as fast, then come back, with Burkburnett, South America, Oklahoma, and New York as the background. The heart interest is provided by Hedy Lamarr, the suave, sophisticate whose attempt to win Gable from his wife, Claudette Colbert, is thwarted by Spencer Tracy, to whom Claudette was engaged—before along came the cyclonic Clark. There is a bit of preaching in the last part of the pic, which seems out of place (even if one does not approve of the Sherman anti-trust law as Spencer argues for his pal Gable in federal court where Clark is on trial. A Metro picture, 116 minutes, showing today, tomorrow, and Tuesday at the Rex.

WITH ASTAIRE

Ups and downs of the ork business form the plot of "Second Chorus," 83-minute Boris Morros musical, his first for Paramount, with Paulette Goddard, above, Fred Astaire of the flying feet, and Artie Shaw and his bandsmen playing the principal parts. On the LaNora screen Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

REPUBLIC'S NO. 1

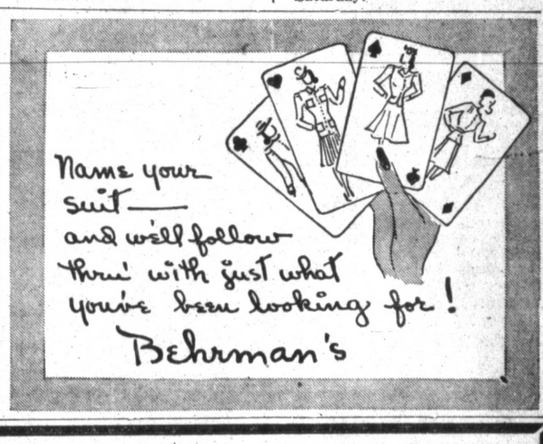

Republic's most expensive production ($500,000 budget) brings Gene Autry again to the front in a yarn with lots of mellow popular music and typical sagebrush opera action. It's called "Melody Ranch," has Jimmy Durante and Ann Miller in the cast. Pic opens with Autry made honorary sheriff by his home town, goes there, finds his native heath infested by a trio of badmen brothers. The 84-minute picture, showing at the Rex Friday and Saturday, is marked by the first kiss Autry ever gave a girl in reel life, according to The Film Daily.

Elder down, which elder ducks pluck from their own breasts to line their nests, is a valuable export of northern countries.

Crows, being fond of poison ivy berries, unknowingly help the plant to spread.

Orchis Sorority To Have Valentine Party On Thursday

A Valentine party to be given Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the home of Miss Laura Mae Dykes was planned at the meeting of Orchis sorority this week in the home of Miss Peggy Walsh.

Popular piano selections were played by Miss Alice Marie McConnell, after which refreshments of cake, fruit, and lemonade were served.

Attending were Misses Nona Lee Kirby, Imogene Harrison, Edna Helen Blackman, Peggy Walsh, Othelia Derry Berry, Laura Mae Dykes, Katherine Hudspeth, Alice Marie McConnell, and the sponsor, Mrs. Kirby.

Entire Membership Of Child Study Club Attends Meeting

Special To The NEWS

MIAMI, Feb. 8—Mrs. Lee Newman was hostess to the Child Study club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edna Newman. All 14 club members were present for the first time this year.

Responses to roll call were the individual subjects assigned each member at the beginning of the year. Mrs. Howard Mulkey was leader of the program which was a continuation of the study of our South American neighboring countries. Her subject was "Chile."

Illustrated from a large map, Mrs. Mulkey's talk was given in the form of a woman's trip through Chile on the longitudinal railway that runs almost that country's complete length.

For her special feature, Mrs. H. J. McCuiston presented a guest speaker, Mrs. Glen Dodson, who reviewed Lorraine Carr's popular book, "The Mother of the Smiths." Mrs. Dodson reviewed this book for the North Plains club last week and it was so well received that Mrs. McCuiston asked her to repeat it as a surprise treat for the Child Study club.

During the business session the nominating committee presented the following names with the recommendation that they be elected officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. C. Carmichael, president; Mrs. Ollie Duniven, vice-president; Mrs. Alfred Cowan, secretary; Mrs. Art Evans, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Willis Clark, treasurer; Mrs. W. F. Locke, critic; Mrs. Theo Jenkins, parliamentarian; Mrs. R. B. Haynes, reporter. Mrs. Jenkins declined the office of parliamentarian as she has served two consecutive terms, and Mrs. W. D. Allen was nominated. With that substitution, the officers were elected as recommended.

The hostess served an attractive refreshment plate.

CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

BY BETTY WALLACE

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: The search goes on, but there is no trace of Bill. Martha finally gets hysterical, is sent to bed. Paul and Suzanne drive to camp. Martha remembers Butch, and how Bill loves the dog. She hurries to the kennel. Bill is there.

THE BEST CONSCRIPT'S WIFE

CHAPTER XXX

"MARTHA!" Bill cried huskily. Martha!"

He darted forward as she swayed. His strong arm steadied her, and his blue eyes looked down into hers with concern and a quick, pleading humility. For the split-second that faintness overcame her, she knew a sharp, leaping relief—a relief almost unendurable in its ecstasy. She clung to him, seeing in that one look the new haggardness of his face, the shamed uncertainty in his eyes.

But in the next moment, she was pushing him away. She was standing straight and rigid, the anger and despair which had whipped her on through the dreadful hours making her lips tighten and her voice hard.

"Where were you all this time? Don't you know we've been looking for you? I almost went out of my mind. Paul had detectives in New York—Suzanne hired detectives here—I phoned the camp, they said you'd deserted—where were you? Why did you do it?"

Bill's eyes dropped. He kicked morosely at a pebble.

"After I—I knocked Paul down, I—I had to hitchhike from New York. I went crazy, Martha. I didn't come to until they kicked me out of the hotel. But knowing you'd gone back to him—"

"Oh, Bill, don't start that again! I told you I've never been in love with him, I didn't go back to him!"

Suddenly all the anger left her, the passionate desire to convince him. "Oh, never mind, Bill. That doesn't matter now. Do you know you're a deserter? You've got to get back to camp quickly! You must do everything you can to make them go easy on you."

"I've made a dreadful mess of things," he admitted morosely. "I guess it's too late."

"No! It isn't too late! Oh, Bill, get into the car with me. You drive, please. Drive fast! We'll get to camp, I'll speak to the commanding officer. Perhaps they—they're not so heartless after all . . ."

AS she sat there beside him, while the old car strained over the road, Martha thought of the guardhouse where she had found him last Sunday. Would this being absent without leave mean a longer term in the guardhouse? More severe punishment? "Bill, will they court-martial you?"

"I don't know." He turned and his eyes met hers. "All I know, Martha, is that I'm ashamed in my soul to have given you all this trouble. I—I could get down on my knees to you, I could—could cut off my arm . . . but it wouldn't help. Nothing could make it right again.

"Oh, sweet, will you ever trust me after this? Can you ever forgive me for my suspicions? I—I'd do anything, if only you'd give me another chance!"

"The Army's got to give you another chance," she said steadily. "That's our first concern. After that—oh, Bill, I've never stopped loving you!" She lifted her tear-stained face. Bill kissed her swiftly. Then they turned their faces resolutely straight ahead—to the immediate future that awaited them at the camp.

TWO hours later, going down the road that led to the sentry hut and the cantonment, Martha saw Suzanne's car. "Bill! There's Paul and Suzanne!" Bill touched the horn button. Paul and Suzanne tumbled out of their car in surprise and relief.

"Oh, Martha, you found him!"

"Yes." Her smile was tremulous. "There's no time now. Bill must report at once. Wait for me."

As Bill stepped on the starter, Martha saw Paul turn to Suzanne. "You've been wonderful," he said simply.

Suzanne answered, "I was wrong about those things I said at the hospital, Paul. I know now none of them was true. But you should have known, long ago, Paul—I'd do anything for you."

Martha thought, as they were left behind there on the road, that perhaps this crisis had worked a minor miracle. It had brought Paul closer to Suzanne—it had given Suzanne a chance to atone. "How odd, that my life and Bill's should touch the lives of others at every point. . . ."

A moment later, Bill was smartly saluting a young officer. "Private Marshall reporting, sir. I—I've been absent without leave."

The young officer looked at Martha. Her chin came up. "May I speak to the commanding officer, please?"

Bill was led away, after a last long look and her smile, sure and proud, to stiffen his spine. "No matter what comes now Bill can face it with courage," she thought.

SHE, herself, faced with courage the stern, gray-haired man behind the big desk in the bare, clean office. "I only wanted to explain, sir," she said steadily. "My husband and I had been having trouble. He thought I'd left him, and he lost his head, went home to find out whether I'd really gone. Whatever he's done has been my fault, too. I must share the blame."

The commanding officer eyed her with frosty wisdom. "Unfortunately, Madam, the Army has no jurisdiction over wives." He leaned forward, softening a little. "If women could only get it through their heads that most men's attitude depends to a tragic extent on the attitude of their wives! Madam, it was your duty, as a soldier's wife, to see to it that your husband was inspired in his solemn job of training—not distracted. It was your duty to encourage him, to be enthusiastic loyal, proud of his having assumed the duties of a citizen soldier!"

He rose abruptly. The interview was closed. "I shall try to do what I can to see that your husband is not dealt with too harshly," he added. "Goodby."

* * *

A WEEK later, Martha was driving into that camp once more. She was being allowed to visit Bill in the guardhouse for the first time. He still had two months to serve. But when she saw him, she realized anew how tiny the punishment was, how gallantly he was enduring it.

"Oh, Martha, it's so good to see you!"

"Darling!" She was close in his arms. "I'm so happy! Even though you're here, and I'm there, I keep feeling that we've started over. Everything's fresh and clean and wonderful." She kissed him gaily.

"And I have news. Paul's being sent to our new plant on the West Coast. He and Suzanne are to be married before he leaves!"

Her eyes, gloriously sure now, teased him. "So keep your mind on the Army, Bill! A few more weeks, and you'll be out showing them the right way to go over the top, or whatever it is they teach you." Her voice sang. "Oh, darling, I love you so! I'm waiting for you—and I'm the best, the happiest conscript's wife in the country."

Bill's voice shook. "You're the most wonderful conscript's wife, darling. I don't deserve it. But I'll spend the rest of my life showing you that I do appreciate it."

"About face, soldier," she laughed. "From now on, the past's behind us. The future's ahead. Oh, Bill, I love you!"

"About face," he agreed steadily. "Together."

Millions Of Trees Growing Now On Plains

By GORDON BROWN

MANHATTAN, Kas., Feb. 8 (AP)—Don't get the idea the prairie states are turning into forests, but millions of trees are growing on the plains where only a few grew six years ago.

It's the result of the shelterbelt plan—remember?

Back in 1934, when the midwest was in the grip of a severe drought and dust clouds plagued the area, came a proposal to plant a strip of trees, north to south, across the country.

Visionaries predicted that such a forest belt would promote rainfall, halt dust storms, make the plains cooler, and so on.

Scoffers pooh-poohed the idea, said the trees wouldn't grow without rainfall, couldn't stop dust storms, was too costly.

Well, both were right and both were wrong.

The trees did grow but they haven't and presumably never will affect the rainfall or temperature. They can help prevent dust blowing and soil erosion and do protect growing crops to a limited extent.

The plan didn't develop quite as the first enthusiasts mapped it out.

In the first place, practical-minded men quickly gave up the idea of a forest belt across the dry, arid country—a strip of trees miles wide extending from the gulf to Canada.

Instead, in each state—Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Texas and the Dakotas—an area in which trees could grow was mapped and the planting concentrated in the areas. The areas do form, roughly, a strip across the country but they are in no sense a line of trees. Trees are planted on any farm in the areas.

The Kansas shelterbelt area embraces the central half of the state.

In the past six years approximately 29,000,000 trees have been planted in shelterbelts in Kansas. The survival is 65 per cent, which means that the program now has nearly 19,000,000 trees growing in Kansas.

In the six-state area, 157,000,000 trees have been planted. The survival is placed at two-thirds, which means, again, that the plains area now has around 100,000,000 more trees than back in 1934.

International Relations To Be B-PW Club Topic

Women's responsibility for adequate national defense and for a peaceful world at the end of the war will be stressed by the local Business and Professional Women's club as a part of the national program of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., during February.

The Pampa club will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the city club rooms when Mabel Gee, international relations chairman, will be in charge of the program.

Mrs. Nettie Sims, of Hastings, Nebraska, chairman of the International Relations Committee, pointed out recently that under the program theme, "Making Democracy Work," there are many opportunities for the study of defense techniques and of cooperating in a peaceful world when the war is over.

In the preamble to the February program set forth in the Federation's program manual, "Making Democracy Work," there is the following statement under the heading "Considering the Price of Peace:"

"In the midst of a war - torn world, women—who, for centuries, have always wanted lasting peace—must now do more than wish or weep for it. Such a peace, whether it comes soon or not for some time, must be more than just a cessation of conflict, more than an armed truce.

"In order to help in building a just and lasting peace, we will have to examine its price and then work to create a public opinion which understands its value. Generations ago one small community was not necessarily affected by the fortune, good or bad, which befell a neighboring village. But today, whole continents are affected by the fortune of another continent thousands of miles away! War anywhere affects business everywhere.

"Citizens in American communities have set up courts to settle differences between neighbors, have established police systems to enforce laws and suppress violence. When an individual gives up the right to blow up his neighbor's house, he is secure in the better right that no one can blow his own roof off. In peaceful, harmonious communities the more fortunate individuals assist the less fortunate; by such cooperation, a more prosperous community is established.

"There is a distinct parallel between such a domestic scene and the world situation today—the success of world organization depends on the determination of peoples to live in harmony together. There must be a will to peace, respect for the rights of others, recognition of the economic needs of all and a willingness to work out problems of common concern."

The program manual provides for three types of meeting for February, the first a panel discussion on "How Shall America Contribute to a Lasting Peace;" the second, a quiz on "This Western Hemisphere," and the third, a forum on the subject "Seeking Security Through National Defense." In this forum it is expected that three members of the international relations committee of the club, or three outside experts will discuss various phases of the defense program. In a summation of this program it is stated that we cannot lose sight of the immediate situation while we have our eyes on our goal of a durable, world peace.
