HOUSE VOTES BILL BARRING OVERDUE TAX SUITS

Huge Nitro Dose To Blast Rampaging Oil Torch At Gladewater Today

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Two years ago Texas publishers attended the last convention of the American Newspaper Publishers association to be held in the old Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York.

Today there is a great new Waldorf Astoria hotel and tomorrow on the site of the old Waldorf Astoria will be opened the world's tallest structure and the world's largest office building, the Empire State building, built and to be operated by a company of which Alfred E. Smith is president.

The new Empire State building towers 102 stories above the street and extends two stories beneath the street level. It is 1,250 feet from the ground to the top of the mooring mast. As compared with this building the Chrysler building in 1,046 feet, Eiffel tower 995 feet, Bank of Manhattan 927 feet and Woolworth building 767 feet.

The building will house 25,000 tenants, has a rentable area of 2,158,000 square feet and cubic capacity of 37,000,000 cubic feet. It has 6,400 windows, and 10,000,000 brick and 200,000 cubic feet of stone were used in its construction.

Ceremonies marking the opening of the building will begin at 10:30 Wichita Falls time tomorrow and will continue until 11 p. m. Saturday the building will be thrown open to the public.

The Empire State building is a long way from Wichita Falls but nearly everyone hopes to see it some day and this is a sort of advance announcement of what you will be reading about tomorrow and hearing over the radio.

Almost as marvelous as the building itself has been the vigor of the organization which built it, its resourcefulness and courage in going forward with such a venture in a period of depression and the speed of its erection. It is all a reflection of the dynamic personality of the man who heads the company that built it.

Talker wouldn't undertake to say just what it is symptomatic of but this "red" scare in connection with Wichita Falls' breadline looks like a case of somebody "seeing things." Talker believes that a little investigation would show there is no connection whatever between Moscow and the incidents in connection with the distribution of food here that have received publicity. Certainly there has been no situation here that has called for the intervention of state rangers.

If the problem of our unemployed is solved it will have to be solved by common sense rather than hysterics or even sentiment. "Taxpayer" made a good suggestion when he said that some kind of work ought to be provided and required of all able bodied persons obtaining aid. It would make the recipients feel better and would greatly reduce their number.

A bill to levy a tax upon the intangible values of corporations fails of engrossment in the house by only one vote. The railroads and telegraph and long distance telephone lines already pay a tax upon intangible values. An intangible value is something above physical and real value. It is arrived at in the case of the railroads by computing an investment value based upon the average of earnings over a period of years. The difference between the actual or physical value and the investment value is called the intangible value. If Talker has it correctly, a five-year period is used in this computation. Under such a tax many a corporation which is now losing money would be forced to pay taxes upon high earnings of several years ago. As applied to ordinary corporations which have no public franchise and which in themselves are not in the nature of monopolies the tax upon intangible values would be revolutionary and in many cases confiscatory. Yet we find such a proposal lacking only one vote of a majority in the Texas house of representatives.

HEARING POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, April 29. (US)—Hearing on the application of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for authority to acquire control of the Chicago and Alton was postponed by the Interstate Commerce commission today from May 4 to May 7.

? ? QUESTIONABLE ? ? BUT TRUE

EUROPE'S FIRST SKYSCRAPER

ANTWERP, Belgium, has the lead among European cities in the erection of that continent's first skyscraper. When Columbus discovered America, Antwerp claimed centuries of progress. In erecting this 30-story commercial building, the old world is making its first attempt to grow cities upward instead of outward. In London the present maximum height is 80 feet, with two additional stories permitted for roofs, spires or turrets, but this new Farmers Cooperative building in Antwerp has the distinction of being the tallest commercial structure in the European Continent. Every day modern offices and desk rooms are advertised in the Classified Want-Ad columns of this newspaper. There is not only one office building to choose from, but many, at a variety of rentals.

PLANES RUSH EXPLOSIVES TO SNUFF FLAMES

Tulsa Experts Fly Back For More as Fire Increases

TWO NEAR DEATH

Cremated Bodies Held In Grip of Raging Inferno

GLADEWATER, Texas, April 29. (AP)—John L. Keys, oil crew worker of Oklahoma City, died tonight in a hospital at Longview, his death making the eighth fatality from the fire at the Sinclair No. 1 Cole here. A blood transfusion had been given Keys late today, nine Sinclair employes offering their blood. Doctors said that Frank Feiouck, also in the Longview hospital, was expected to die before morning.

Preparations went forward meanwhile for an attempt to extinguish the fire tomorrow. M. M. and Harry Kinley, experienced fire blowers from Tulsa, Okla., surveyed the well from an airplane today and decided they would need more nitroglycerine than at first estimated.

Blaze Is Fiercer

The fire was fiercer than ever tonight. Heavy rains had stopped but there remained the possibility that the road to the well might be too muddy for trucks bearing equipment and explosives.

It was revealed tonight that the Tulsa men flew over the flaming crude oil burner today after preparing to use 100 quarts of nitroglycerin and sawdust composition but decided the dose insufficient to snuff out the inferno. Consequently they will be back tomorrow.

In the meantime, water lines were to be laid from Prairie creek, at the foot of the veritable volcano. Workers found the heat too great to attempt the extinction without reinforcements.

Sinclair Absent

A torrential rain fell about the leaping fire but had no effect in checking the flames. It seemed doubtful that the circuitous road, taking 10 miles to negotiate the four-mile air line distance from this little town, would permit trucks to cart the necessary supplies to the scene of operations. If so, the shooting will take place tomorrow afternoon.

Harry F. Sinclair did not come to the field today and it could not be ascertained if he would be on the ground to supervise operations.

The well roared away tonight, defying the efforts of dripping clouds and of human beings to quench it.

Sinclair company officials were reticent about revealing their plans for fighting the flames but it was believed they had definitely decided that the only way of checking the cauldron of fire was with a well-placed shot of nitroglycerin.

Bodies Cremated

Five charred bodies lay in Longview morgues. Two other bodies were cremated in the flames at the site of the derrick and late today had not been recovered.

Although Sinclair officials at Tyler intimated today there was a possibility the well was ignited by incendiarists, that theory was scouted by both W. Tom Cole, owner of the lease and eyewitness of the explosion, and by Sheriff Martin Hayes of Gregg county.

The suspicion of Sinclair officials as to possible incendiary origin of the fire was based upon a recent letter sent by Texas ranger Capt. Frank Hamer to oil companies warning of a possible Communist plot to damage oil properties, in connection with which he

Misconduct of Jury Charged in Appeal

LAREDO, Texas, April 29. (AP)—District Judge J. F. Mullally today heard arguments of counsel on a motion for new trial for Harlan B. Carter, 17, Laredo school boy convicted of the shotgun killing of Ramon Casiano, 15, and given a three-year penitentiary sentence.

The defense charged that members of the jury conversed with persons by telephone, read accounts of the trial in newspapers and received mail while doing service.

Crawford Case Rests With Jury

Special to The Record News.

PADUCAH, Texas, April 28.—Jurors weighing the case of John Crawford, former deputy game warden at Lake Kemp charged with statutory assault upon a 14-year-old Baylor county girl, were still in disagreement early Wednesday night after deliberations starting shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon. No verdict was in prospect before the jury retired for the night.

Crawford did not take the stand in the trial here but witnesses offered testimony purporting to establish an alibi for him on June 21 of last year, the day of the alleged assault. The prosecuting witness, whose baby was born dead on March 30, admitted on the stand that she had told Mr. and Mrs. Crawford that a Mabelle high school boy was responsible for her condition.

An earlier trial in Seymour resulted in a hung jury and the case was transferred to Cottle county on a change of venue plea.

No date was set for trial under the indictment charging mail fraud and conspiracy, and Joab H. Benton and Charles V. Hailey Jr., counsel for the two, were given until May 11 to make any necessary motions for their clients.

New York-Porto Rico Fliers at Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 29.—Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, accompanied by Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, brought their new cabin monoplane to a safe landing here at 4:25 o'clock this afternoon, completing the first leg of a flight from New York to Porto Rico. The fliers plan to take off again tomorrow for either Miami or Havana.

Herndon and Pangburn are making the flight as a test, preparatory to a proposed flight around the world.

America's Most Distinguished Hostess Dies in French Home

BEAULIEU, France, April 29. (US)—Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, widow of the late American ambassador to Great Britain, and known widely as the most distinguished American hostess in diplomatic history, died of lung congestion today at the home of her daughter, Lady Ward, at St. Jean, Cap Ferrat.

Even at the time of her death, Mrs. Reid was again in her role of hostess to America's royal visitors, having placed Ophir hill, her Purchase, N. Y., estate, at the disposal of the king and queen of Siam, during their stay in the United States.

Mrs. Reid contracted a chill on her voyage across the Atlantic and was ill only 10 days. Before coming to the south of France, in hopes that she could recover from her illness here, she was in Paris long enough to inspect the plant of the Paris edition of the New York Herald-Tribune for the first time.

When as Elizabeth Mills she was married to Whitelaw Reid in 1881, her husband was editor of the New York Tribune, rising to fame as a journalist and later to become American ambassador to the court of St. James until his death in 1912.

Death came to Mrs. Reid shortly before 10 a. m. A specialist, who arrived by airplane from Paris yesterday, could do nothing to relieve her condition. At the bedside when Mrs. Reid died were Sir John and Lady Ward, son-in-law and daughter. Sir John, second son of the Earl of Dudley, was equerry in or-

LAKE ROADS MUDDY AFTER HARD RAINS

Anglers Urge Weather Man To Bring Out Sun For Opening

FISHERMEN 'ALL SET'

Closed Period Officially Ends One Minute After Midnight

Exhortations to the weather man to favor Wichita Falls with the first fair weather on opening day in three years were being offered by Wichita Falls anglers Wednesday night after heavy rains had soaked the roads leading to two of the lakes and had muddied the waters of the third.

Dirt roads leading to Lake Kemp and Diversion lake were in bad condition Wednesday night, reports to The Record News said, although the optimistic pointed out that if there is no more rain Thursday or Thursday night the roads will be passable. Waters of the two lakes were clear, and in fine condition for fishing, observers said. A little wind and sunshine today will dry the roads out, but those who plan to leave for either Kemp or Diversion early in the day were advised to carry mud chains.

Dirt Roads to Lakes

Seven miles of new graded dirt between Mabelle and Lake Kemp offers the chief obstacle to those going to that lake. Those going to Diversion lake will find the best route by Iowa Park to Kemp City over the gravelled road, and from Kemp City to the Electra pavement. From that point it's a toss up as to the best route.

The fishing season will officially open at one minute after midnight tonight (12:01 a. m. Friday), and advance preparations indicate that a record number of fishermen will be out for the opening day. The number will be further increased Saturday and Sunday by numerous

Air-Tight Defense For Pistol Toters Recalled by Court

SAN ANTONIO, April 29. (AP)—The late Justice of the Peace Roy Bean of Langtry, who, with the aid of a six shooter and a dog-eared law book, set himself up in his saloon as "the law west of the Pecos," has at least been quoted by an appellate court, even if ironically.

The fourth court of civil appeals, in pointing out the fallaciousness of an argument before it here today, said it was reminded of the noted "pistol toting case from a Western court," holding that if a man were standing still he was not carrying a pistol, and if he were moving, he was traveling and had a right to carry it. The unique ruling was attributed to the picturesque trans-Pecos judge.

Caucasian Quake Takes Great Toll

MOSCOW, April 29. (AP)—A total of 392 persons were known tonight to have perished in the earthquake which struck three districts of the Soviet republic of Nakichevan in trans-Caucasia today.

In the district of Gerussy 200 were killed and 205 injured, while in the Siclana region 192 were known to be dead, and 600 injured.

Eighty per cent of the villages in the Zangezur region were destroyed.

The Guerrussin district in Armenia also was badly shaken and it was reported many were killed there and a large number injured.

Police Banking Records To Be Aired in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 29. (INS)—Subpoenas for the bank records of acting Police Commissioner John H. Alcock and 40 police officers were issued today by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the criminal court.

A few days ago Judge McGoorty refused to issue the subpoenas declaring the investigation of the special grand jury into police bank accounts was a "fishing expedition." At the time he declared that to grant the subpoenas would tend to besmirch the name of Chicago.

New Spanish Regime Invites U. S. Friendship

MADRID, April 28. (US)—The Republican government of Spain, which will remain stable and conquer disorder and chaos which have in the past attended the overthrow of monarchies, looks forward henceforth to closer relations with the United States.

This was the theme of the talk of Provisional President Alcala Zamora tonight in the first international radio address ever made from Spain. The international hook-up was arranged by the National Broadcasting company, the Hearst Radio service and Universal Service.

Five Injured When Mail Plane Crashes

ELYRIA, Ohio, April 29. (AP)—Three passengers and two pilots were injured, the latter seriously, when a National Air Transport trimotored passenger and mail plane from Chicago to Cleveland, crashed in making a forced landing about five miles north of here late today. Five passengers escaped injury. The plane was badly damaged.

Sam Taylor, Cleveland, widely known mail and passenger pilot, suffered a possible skull fracture and a fractured left ankle and his co-pilot, Allen McDiarmid, also of Cleveland, received possible fractured ribs and internal injuries.

The three passengers, all of which were treated for minor injuries at a hospital and then released, were P. G. Gadebusch and W. Weber, both of New York City, and Harry J. Fisher of Cleveland.

Portuguese Warships Land Troops on Island

LISBON, April 29. (AP)—Reports reaching here late tonight from unofficial sources said Portugese government warships had bombarded Funchal, Madeira, and landed forces on the island.

Earlier tonight there had been an exchange of radiograms, it was learned, between Minister of Marine Correia, commander of the expeditionary forces at Madeira, and government officers here. The tenor of the messages was not disclosed. The belief in Lisbon was that the conditional surrender offered by the rebels last night was still under consideration.

Bandits Demand Gas As Preacher's Ransom

WASHINGTON, April 29. (US)—Chinese bandits holding captive Rev. Bert N. Nelson, American missionary, are now demanding 30 cans of gasoline before they effect his release, the state department was advised today. The bandits recently demanded unusual ransom, asking tennis balls, golf balls and other sporting goods before they released their captive.

Appeals Court Upholds Two Death Sentences

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed the death sentence of Ira McKee, alleged to have killed W. R. Billingsley when Billingsley endeavored to frustrate McKee's robbery of a small store at Sparenburg, Dawson county.

The court also affirmed the death sentence of Joshua Riles, negro from Galveston county, convicted of criminal assault March 28, 1930, on a white married woman.

WHITE HOUSE HONORS HERO OF BLIZZARD

Youthful 'Lion' Starts Mad Sightseeing Whirl At Capitol

WASHINGTON, April 29. (US)—"Hello, Mr. President!"

"Hello, Bryan! Glad to see you. How are your folks?"

And thus, in simple work-a-day phrases, a 13-year-old boy found himself in the midst of an Oz-book dream today, visiting at the White House as the guest of the president of the United States.

He was neither shy nor forward, this Bryan Untiedt who saved the lives of 16 children in the tragic Colorado bus disaster of six weeks ago. He chatted with the chief executive as he might have chatted with his father—very interestedly, but very respectfully. And as he trod his world of wonder, a nation watched with a rather cherishing interest, surreptitiously, lest too much attention might do him harm.

Limousine Awaits

Small boys—even such very fine small boys as Bryan—can be gravely injured by too much idolizing, and with this in mind the White House and all concerned in the visit are proceeding with the utmost care. Mr. and Mrs. Hoover have reared two boys of their own.

Bryan arrived at the union station very quietly this morning at about 9 o'clock, in the company of a special secret service man from the Denver office, to find a sleek black limousine with the presidential coat of arms emblazoned on its door, to be whisked to the front door of that mythical mansion they call "the White House," and there ushered in by a liveried doorman.

He wore a brand new blue serge suit, a brown cap and a wide-eyed expression of interest, rather than awe, as he walked into the main hall of the executive mansion. A second doorman brought his one hand-bag, but Bryan himself insisted upon carrying the small box camera which he had brought from home. He was a little pale, rather frail, for he has spent some weeks in a Denver hospital recovering

Six-Year Old Pair Held in Shooting

CHERRYDALE, Va., April 29. (INS) — Robert Testerman and Willie Miller, both 6 and of this place, were detained for awhile by police today after they are alleged to have fired five shots at a woman. None of the shots took effect but one broke a window of a dwelling. They said they found the weapon, of .22 caliber, in a parked automobile. They were released in the care of their parents for their appearance in juvenile court.

Club Women Consider Campaign Against Reds

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 29. (AP)—Resolutions upholding the 18th amendment and asking severe aggressive campaigns against Communism and a report decrying "the filth and vulgarity that pollutes too many daily newspapers" were presented to the biennial council of the General Federation of Women's clubs here today.

DINNER FOR ROYALTY

WASHINGTON, April 29. (US)—Their majesties the King and Queen of Siam were guests of President and Mrs. Hoover at an elaborate White House dinner tonight.

The affair took place in the state dining room with a small but distinguished list of guests, including cabinet members and their wives, Prince Kridakara, Siamese minister to Washington, state department officials, and the president's family.

'Thinking' Machine Planned

BERKELEY, Calif., April 29. (US)—Even man's mind must bow to the machines it creates, at times.

Prof. Derrick N. Lehmer of the University of California department of mathematics, is to construct a machine that will "think" thousands of times faster than man.

This machine, in which electricity and light work with exceedingly intricate gears, is designed to aid mathematicians in determining factors of numbers greater than 2,000,000,000, and in solution of problems involving factors of enormous numbers. It would take years to figure these out with a pencil.

It is expected to figure out computations which in the past were virtually impossible.

A beam of light, thrown against thethe machine, strikes a sensitive photo-electric plate when the gears set to determine the answer sought, all mesh. A counter, recording the revolutions of the main gear shaft reveals a number from which the factor of the largest number is at once obtained.

RAIN BOOSTS GRAIN CROPS

Prospects Called Brightest In Ten Years

Announced by a blare of thunder and sig-naging lightning, sizeable hail stones peppered Wichita Falls fiercely for about two minutes at 11 o'clock Wednesday night, while gardeners cringed for their young plants. The sharp storm was short-lived and damage was believed slight.

Spring rain that fell gently upon thirsty grain fields and ranges of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma Wednesday put crop and stock prospects at their brightest in 10 years. Experts said the general downpours met crucial needs in the wheat fields to the west and stockmen rejoiced in the assurance of abundant grass.

In Wichita Falls .48 inch of rain was measured during the early morning and through the day. Clouds lingered at nightfall with indications that more beneficial moisture would fall before morning. Temperatures remained moderate through the day Wednesday, climbing to a 64 degree maximum here.

Dispatchers for the Fort Worth and Denver, the Wichita Valley and the Katy railroads reported the rains universal throughout this section of Texas and through Southern Oklahoma.

Rains over the territory were reported to The Record News as follows:

MEMPHIS—More than a quarter inch rain which fell here Wednesday assured a bumper grain crop and ample pasturage. It was still cloudy at nightfall.

VERNON—More than an inch of rain fell here Wednesday. Farmers welcomed the downpour as a boon to wheat.

BURKBURNETT—A light rain fell throughout the day here Wednesday. This rain will put the

Pact Brings Railroad Merger Near Completion

WASHINGTON, April 29. (US)—Consolidation of eastern trunk line railroads into four powerful systems has come nearer to realization with an agreement between the Pennsylvania and the Van Sweringen lines over control of the Virginia railway, it was learned today.

These two big companies have decided to control the Virginia through stock ownership rather than through a division of the physical properties. The Virginia case, one of the obstacles hindering the plan, was settled by arbitration.

Rail Heads Map Route Of Pampa Extension

PAMPA, Texas, April 29. (AP)—John A. Hulen, representing the Fort Worth and Denver Northern railway and J. H. Barwise, general counsel, and engineers, arrived today to select a route into Pampa for a line. They conferred with the Pampa Board of City Development and during the afternoon inspected possible routes and terminal sites.

PLAN ALLOWS SALE OF ONLY PART OF LAND

Johnson Measure Hailed As Most Forward Step Of Recent Years

CORPORATION FINE

Senate Postpones Action On Truck Regulation Proposals

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—Acclaimed as the most forward step taken in recent years in tax matters, the house today passed the delinquent tax bill of Representative Johnson of Carrizo Springs. The vote was 103 to 24.

Under the bill, no suits for delinquent taxes would be filed. The tax collector would advertise the property delinquent and it would be sold to the person who paid the taxes, costs and penalties in return for a deed to the least amount of the property. Johnson said only enough of the property would be sold to pay the taxes and costs, claiming it was unfair to sell all of a person's property to pay the taxes when the sale of a small portion would serve the purpose.

Redemption Clause

The original owner would have the right to redeem the property within four years by paying the purchase price, plus 20 per cent the first year and 40 per cent the second. If the property was not redeemed, the purchaser would be required to bring suit to quiet title to his interest in the title.

The bill was branded by Representative Greathouse of Fort Worth as a "fraud" and designed to deprive owners of their property without "his day in court."

Corporation Penalty

The house passed a bill to levy a penalty of $5,000 per day on foreign corporations doing business in Texas without a permit.

The house made doubly certain it had killed the Keller drivers license by reconsidering the vote by which it failed at engrossment, and then ordering it tabled. The vote on engrossment was 84 to 66.

The bill had been amended several times. It would have provided for licensing of all drivers, the license to cost 30 cents for a three-year privilege. Licenses would have been suspended for violation of the traffic laws in cases of serious accident.

Tax Repeal Killed

Although introduced late yesterday, a bill by Representative Keller of Dallas which proposed repeal of the newly enacted cigaret tax was today recalled from the committee to which it had been sent. The house then reconsidered the vote by which Keller was authorized to introduce the bill, and voted 60 to 53 against its second introduction.

The senate committee on constitutional amendments reported out favorably the Beck county home rule resolution. The vote was 3 to 2. The proposed constitutional amendment was passed by the house.

The senate worked one hour today and then adjourned until tomorrow in order that members might attend the funeral of Mrs. Alpha C. Johnstone, mother of Mrs. Edgar Witt. The funeral was held in Waco.

Sponsors of truck regulatory bills in the senate, asking for postponement at the beginning of the session today, said they would ask renewal of consideration of the bills tomorrow.

Vernon-Altus Bridge Bids Due on May 5

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—The state highway commission tomorrow will start a three-day meeting at which contracts for road and bridge work, estimated to cost $4,439,000 will be awarded.

Bids will be taken May 5 on construction of a free bridge across the Red river between Vernon, Texas, and Altus, Okla.

The list of projects called for construction of 124.5 miles of concrete and other paving and 114.4 miles of grading and drainage structures. Seven bridge projects were included in the list.

Verner Donohue Murder Case Moved To Wichita Court for Trial June 1

VERNON, Texas, April 29.—Verner Donohue, charged with the murder of Herman Walden in February, 1929, in Wilbarger county, will be tried before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court in Wichita Falls on June 1. Judge W. N. Stokes, judge of the 46th district, granted the state's motion for a change of venue Wednesday. J. V. Leak, defense attorney, filed a general bill of exceptions to the order of transfer.

Walden was found shot to death on the banks of a creek in February, 1929, after having been absent from his home for five days. Donohue was arrested shortly afterwards, charged with the murder. He was tried in April, 1929, and given a 25-year sentence. His case was later reversed and he was brought back to Vernon from Fort Worth, where he was in jail pending the outcome of his appeal. He made bond and was released from jail.

The case was again tried in February of this year and the jury was unable to agree. When the case was called for trial in April the state asked for a change of venue on the grounds that it was impossible to secure a jury in the county because so much publicity has been given the case in former trials. Judge Stokes took the matter under advisement and rendered his decision Wednesday.

FIRE FIGHTERS AT WILD WELL

Death Toll Stands at 7 In Gregg Disaster

was investigating recent thefts of nitroglycerin.

Roads Bogged

Meanwhile, the rain made roads through the East Texas red sand so sticky heavy trucks could hardly get about and while this new cause for delay intervened, the flames increased. Oil men estimated that fully 1,500 barrels of oil hourly were being lapped up.

Bodies in Longview morgues awaiting burial were those of George Albright, Carnegie City, Pa.; Roy Blankenship, Tulsa, Okla.; Bill Caslin Sr., and Bill Caslin Jr., of Winona, Okla.; and Virgil Woltz of Hunter, Okla. Bodies of Bob Murdock of Orlanda, Okla., and Bill Harroun, of Canadian, Okla., had not been recovered from the fire.

Deputies were detailed by Sheriff Hayes to patrol a wide area adjacent to the burning well, refusing to allow sightseers nearer than several miles.

Spark Seen

Cole, his hands bandaged from burns he received when he tried to rescue some of the workmen said he was one of the first to see the first bit of fire. He said sparks flew when the collar of the drill stem in the well came in contact with one of the clamps the men worked in their efforts to harness the wild producer which had raged for 30 hours prior to the explosion.

Cole related some of the horrors he witnessed while a nurse, Mrs. Virginia Myrtle Jergensen, bandaged his seared hands.

While Cole's son, Martin, 18, dashed on horseback to Gladewater to summon ambulances and doctors, Mrs. Jergensen gave first aid to the burned victims, applying cylinder oil, cup grease and anything available which she thought would soothe the seared bodies of the victims. There was no telephone in the Cole home.

Cole said he was standing near the well with Emmett Florence of Mesquite, George Duckworth and his two sons, Martin and Ralph Cole, when the explosion occurred.

Horrors Told

Martin Cole, just a few minutes beforehand, had ridden his horse to the well location with a bucket of water to quench the thirst of the men who had been putting in long hours of hard work.

"I would give $5,000 if I had not taken that water down there," he said today. "Those fellows came off the job one by one and tilted the bucket to drink. Five minutes later they were burned beyond recognition."

"It was just like an Indian war dance," Cole senior explained, "their blazing clothes reminded me of the feathers Comanche Indians wore, and those poor fellows were running wildly, calling for help every jump.

"I saw the spark the instant it ignited the oil. In less than a second those men were in a mass of fire. Before they moved out of their tracks they knew they were done for—burned to death.

Fire Defies Rain

Feiouck, from what was expected to prove his deathbed, said the dropping of elevators upon the steel rotary table caused the spark which started the fire.

"We were fitting a tapered swedge lead on the end into the casing and as the swedge settled, it caused the gas pressure to drop momentarily," the suffering man said. "The elevators, which had been held up by the pressure, suddenly dropped to the steel rotary table right at my feet. I ran and jumped from the east end of the derrick and ran through the woods, tearing at my clothes. I dropped to the ground and rolled over in the dirt."

The well roared alone tonight out in the wet pines. The great pillar of fire seemed to thrive under the rain, as though its thirst for more oil could not be appeased. Those who watched the fire last night agreed it had increased in intensity.

Holliday Woman Injured in Crash

Mrs. Neil Sprinkle of Holliday was pinned beneath her automobile but was only slightly hurt when it turned over after being struck by another car shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday night a short distance from the city limits on the Seymour road.

The driver of a passing car heard Mrs. Sprinkle's moan and pulled her unconscious from beneath the wrecked automobile. An ambulance was called but she was taken to the Wichita General hospital in another machine before it arrived. Her injury consisted of a severe bruise on her forehead.

The Holliday woman was returning home from Wichita Falls, it was said, and pulled to the edge of the highway when she saw an automobile coming from the opposite direction. The machine crashed into her automobile, throwing it into a ditch by the roadside, she told Sheriff Perry Browning, who Wednesday night was conducting a search for the driver of the hit-and-run machine. The accident occurred on the sharp turn in the highway a short distance outside the city limits.

Mrs. Sprinkle remained at the hospital overnight.

From Odds and Ends

LONDON.—John Parker has had a habit of collecting odds and ends of junk for years. Two years ago he took a large pile of junk that he had gathered in his yard and started building a small locomotive. It is now complete. It weights 500 pounds and can pull a load of two tons at a speed of 20 miles an hour. An old bedstead furnished the frame for the engine, and the boiler is made from an old oxygen tank.

Rules for Annual Fishing Contest

1—The contest is open to any person, regardless of residence, age or sex.

2—Fish entered in the contest must be legally taken from Lake Wichita, Lake Kemp or Diversion lake. That is, fish caught in violation of state laws will not be considered, nor will fish taken from any waters other than those specified herein.

3—The contest opens May 1 and closes at 6 p. m. Sunday, May 3. No fish will be weighed in after the closing hour.

4—Fish may be weighed at any of the official stations at the three lakes, or in the lobby of The Times building.

5—Prizes are posted in two divisions, one for the crappie and one for the bass. Contestants may weigh fish in both divisions if they desire.

6—Prizes will be awarded to the largest fish until all 24 prizes are distributed. The man taking the largest bass will have first choice of all prizes, the person with the second largest bass will have choice of the remaining articles, and so on until all prizes have been distributed. The same system will be followed in the crappie division.

Variety Offered in Fishing Prizes

Here's 'Review' of Opening Day Awards

Prizes which should win the approval of even the most fastidious fishing fans are included in the 24 awards posted by sporting goods dealers, national manufacturers of fishing tackle, and the Record News and Daily Times in the annual contest for the opening of the season on the three Wichita Falls lakes.

The prize list includes four split bamboo rods, a decided change from previous years when the rod prizes have leaned heavily toward steel. Each road material has its adherents in the Wichita Falls section, but the lover of the split bamboo will be most pleased with this season's offerings.

Three Good Reels

Three good reels, any of which would find a welcome home in any tackle box, are offered in the two prize divisions. Two merchandise prizes, of $2 each, given by Sears-Roebuck and company and Montgomery Ward and company, would allow the winner free choice of the available tackle. Two dollars at the tackle counter will purchase many desirable items—like minnow buckets, small hooks, sinkers, stringers, a couple of good plugs, an assortment of bass bugs, a new line, scales, etc.

The cash prizes of $5 each for the bass and for the crappie, given by The Record News and Daily Times, would fit almost any fisherman's purse. It isn't even necessary to list the things a fishing fan can do with $5. A set of outboard motor spark plugs, either two or four, given by the Gaines Motor Sales company, would be mighty handy extras for any boat. And there'll be some boat owners who will wish they had them for immediate use when they start out Friday morning. Ten dozen big minnows, given by the Lone Star hatchery on the Seymour road, would take care of three or four expeditions for crappie.

The annual passes to either Cara Blanca park or Diversion lake park, valued at $10 each and offered by the W. T. Waggoner estate of Vernon, will inspire many fishermen to go after the big ones on opening day. The Waggoner estate is participating this year for the first time in the opening day contest, and is offering one pass for the largest bass and one for the largest crappie. The pass admits the holder to the lake of his choice for the season, as well as members of his family.

Manufacturer's Prizes

James Heddon's Sons of Dowagiac, Mich., in offering six of its famous Spook baits, total value $9, posts prizes which are well known to bass fishermen. The Spook bait is made of heddylin, and is a transparent, underwater minnow, the finish of which is indestructible. One each of these baits will go to the six persons weighing in the six largest bass. The Heddon company is credited with originating the "dowagiac" minnow or plug, and manufactures other popular baits of all types. It offers a complete line of fishing tackle, including its rods of "tempered" browntone split bamboo.

Of the three reels offered, two are made by Shakespeare and one by South Bend. The Shakespeare company of Kalamazoo, Mich., is offering with the Noble-Little Hardware company its Ideal level-winding reel, trimmed in onyx and priced at $11. The frame of the reel is nickel-silver chronium plated, the bushings are of bronze and the spool caps are agate jeweled. The capacity of the reel is 100 yards of 18-pound test line. It is offered in the bass division.

The Shakespeare company has long been famous as a manufacturer of reels, the company declaring that each reel is "built like a watch." It also manufactures rods, lures and other fishing tackle.

The other Shakespeare reel posted in the contest is the Criterion level-winding, valued at $5.50, offered by the Wichita Hardware company in the bass division. The frame is brass, nickel-plated, and the spool caps or crystal, agate jeweled. The crank is double grip, with white ivoroid grips bushed with metal and riveted to crank.

The Monroe Street Hardware company is offering a South Bend No. 550, anti-back lash level winding reel as a prize in the crappie division. The sale price of the reel is $5.50. Its frame is of brass, nickel-plated, and it has a capacity of 100 yards of 18-pound test line. The spool bushings are of phosphor bronze, with jewelled spool caps. The level winding and anti-back lash features of this reel, which have made all South Bend reels so popular, are the same as on the higher priced reels in the South Bend line.

Four Rods Offreed

Of the four bamboo rods offered, two of them should prove a delight to the light tackle fan, while the other two would be acceptable for almost any kind of fishing. The rod offered by the South Bend Bait company of South Bend, Ind., is extremely light and whippy, designed for one-half ounce and lighter lures. It has a smooth, flexible action, positive thread-lock reel seat, and solid cork grip and forward grip. The reel seat and ferrules are of nickel silver, and the line guides are of garnix. The South Bend company is one of the three manufacturers to join in the local contests. It manufactures a complete line of lures, rods, lines and other fishing tackle, including its famous "anti-back lash" reels. It is also the manufacturer of Cross single-built and double-built custom rods. The sale price of the rod given in the contest here is $10, and it is offered in the bass division.

The Shakespeare rod offered by the Bailey-Moline Hardware company is also a light and whippy bamboo, designed for light lures. It is five feet long, with cork grip and forward grip, agate guides and nickel silver reel seat and ferrules. The sale price of this rod is $13, offered in the bass division.

A three and one-half foot Utica rod offered by the Wichita Hardware company for the crappie division is a serviceable one, and probably would be preferred by any number of feminine anglers. It is short enough for convenient use as a crappie rod, and also ought to be good for general casting in close quarters. The rod is valued at $4.45.

The Monroe Street Hardware company is posting the fourth rod, a South Bend split bamboo, which mad be had in any length desired by the winner. The rod is fitted with nickel silver mountings, solid cork grip and agate guides. It is valued at $5.

Two silk lines offered in the contest, one by Noble-Little for the crappie, and one by Wichita Hardware with its bass prize, should be strong enough to hold almost anything caught on opening day, including even the toughest snags. The lines test 30 pounds each and are valued at $2.25 each.

A Falls City floating minnow bucket, 14-quart capacity, offered by Bailey-Moline in the crappie division, rounds out the prize list.

Anglers Plead For Sunshine

parties planning the week-end at one of the three lakes. Waters of Diversion and Kemp are not expected to become clouded even with additional rains, but the heavy showers Wednesday checked the clearing up of Lake Wichita. However, as this lake is only five miles from Wichita Falls on a paved road, it is almost certain to be visited by scores on opening day.

In the annual contest sponsored by The Record News and Daily Times and sporting goods dealers of the city, 24 prizes are posted for opening day fishermen who weigh in the largest bass and crappie. The prizes are valued at more than $100, and will be divided into 10 places (16 prizes) for the bass and eight places or prizes for the crappie.

Weighing Stations

Weighing stations have been arranged at the gatehouse at Diversion Lake park, in charge of G. H. Cox, manager; at the Wichita colony, in charge of Lois Anglin, member of The Record News staff; at the Moonshine entrance, in charge of C. M. Wilkins, manager of the gatehouse; and in the lobby of the Times Publishing company. Efforts are being made to arrange a station near the Seymour entrance to Lake Kemp and plans are also made for one at Lake Wichita. All fish entered in the contest must be weighed at one of the official stations before 6 p. m. Sunday, May 3.

Fishing licenses in Texas are required only of those persons using artificial lures. The residence license is $1.10 for the season. Non-resident licenses can be purchased for $5 for the season or for $1.10 for five days.

The limit as to size of bass is none smaller than 11 inches; of crappie, none smaller than seven inches; and of bream none smaller than five inches. One day's catch of bass must not exceed 10 in number or 20 pounds in weight; of crappie, 20 in number or 20 pounds in weight, and of bream, 20 in number or 80 pounds in weight, and of all three species not more than 30 pounds in weight.

HOOVER HOST TO BOY HERO

Bryan Untiedt Visits President

from the effects of his heroic work in the bus tragedy. His arms and legs were frozen, because he gave almost all his clothes to the younger children in an effort to keep them warm, when the school-book pages for his bonfire had run out.

Hoover's Summons

As soon as he was inside the White House, he was taken to the "blue room" on the north front facing Pennsylvania avenue, where he will sleep. It is not the room in which Lindbergh slept, that chamber being otherwise occupied at present.

As soon as he had unpacked he was shown into Mrs. Hoover's study where the first lady and Herbert Hoover Jr. had an extended chat with him. Then the president sent for him, and Bryan went to Mr. Hoover's offices.

There was a pressure of state business this morning, so this talk was comparatively brief, but the president had time to inquire after Mr. and Mrs. Untiedt, and to ask how Bryan himself was feeling, after the long seige in the hospital.

"Oh I feel pretty well," said Bryan. "Dad's been in the hospital, too, wth an infection on his face, but he's better now. The doctor says he can go home soon."

"Well," said the president, "I'll see you at luncheon about noon. Don't be late."

Visits Kennels

Bryan nodded, started out, but then hesitated. Quietly, he ventured: "They tell me you have a lot of dogs here at the White House. Do you suppose I could see them without causing too much trouble?"

The president laughed. Bryan spent the rest of the morning inspecting the kennels.

He seemed to steal hearts from the time he first arrived, this Bryan. After he had inspected the kennels, Mrs. Hoover herself took him on a thorough round of the White House, from the basement to the garret, showing him every nook and corner—even the secret stairway which spirals down to the basement from the president's private study on the second floor.

At luncheon the president asked him to tell his story of the bus incident, which Bryan did in remarkably terse and graphic words.

Inspects City

This afternoon he was a very, very busy young man. First, Mrs. Darr Stark McMullin, also a guest at the White House and a close friend of Mrs. Hoover, took him for a lengthy tour of the city in another of those crested limousines, first to the Washington monument, where they rode to the top, and viewed the city; then to the capitol, where they saw the supreme court in session, and viewed the empty senate and house chambers.

Returning to the White House they then picked up Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, and Miss Sue Dyer, and went to the Washington navy yard where Bryan had his first view of a battleship—or of any kind of a ship, for that matter except river skiffs. On the way home they stopped at Ford's theater where Lincoln was shot, and went through the little house across the street when he was allowed to "peek in" through the doorway, just for a glimpse of real flesh-and-blood royalty, though the sight may have been disillusioning. The king wore no regal robes, carried no scepter; instead he wore merely an ordinary full dress suit.

The length of Bryan's stay still is not determined, though the president has made it known that he is to see everything in Washington of interest to a boy of his age, and is to remain until he does. Tomorrow he will go to Arlington and the next day to Mount Vernon.

41 Lose Lives In Egyptian Wreck

CAIRO, Egypt, April 29. (AP)—Forty-one persons were killed and scores were injured tonight when the Cairo-Alexandria express caught fire from a hot box as the train sped along near the little station of Benha.

The wreck is believed to have been the greatest railroad catastrophe in Egyptian history.

The hot box developed beneath one of the third class coaches and it was not noticed until the flames burst upward spreading quickly along the train. A signalman at Benha, first to see the flames, flagged the train, but the general alarm had spread before a stop could be made and the frantic passengers leaped from windows in a wild scramble to escape.

The coaches were packed with holiday crowds en route to Cairo from Alexandria. They were not fitted with means of signaling the situation to the engineer.

Chesterton Tells 'Em At Home About U. S.

LONDON, April 29. (AP)—Gilbert K. Chesterton, author, told the society for preservation of rural England today on his return from the United States that he felt as if he had "just returned from a different civilization—or barbarism, whatever you call it."

Prohibition, "ugly" buildings and Tennessee's rigorous moral code impressed him strongest on his tour of America, he said, adding that New York was as terrifying to Americans as to foreigners.

Lamont Urges U. S. C. C. Against Cutting Wages of Working Men

By J. R. BRACKETT
Associated Press Business Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 29.—Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, addressing the United States Chamber of Commerce today, counseled the nation's business leaders against wage cutting as a solution of their problems.

Instead, he said, the most prosperious periods in history have been those "coincident with high wages and shorter hours."

Efforts Reviewed

Mr. Lamont told the chamber the government had done all possible; that the problems were so vast no single effort could solve them; that business itself, as the American individualistic tradition dictates, should get together "to sit on the bulge" of enthusiasm that makes over production during boisterous periods of prosperity.

Round table luncheons discussions featured.

"What, for instance, can private insurance companies do to take care of unemployment?" was one.

Insurance Speaker

Leroy A. Lincoln, vice president and general counsel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company said:

"The extent to which insurance can solve the problem of unemployment is very limited and, indeed, there is great danger that unemployment insurance would tend to increase the incidence of the very ailment it was intended to remedy. It should not be implied from this that the cause of such a situation, if it should transpire, would be due entirely to the insured persons themselves. It is quite possible that the existence of insurance sufficient in its scope, would tend to make employers and even the state, as well as the workmen, more careless about the essential evil of unemployment itself, and would tend to induce them to relax the efforts they would otherwise be making to diminish a state of unemployment."

Butterworth Speaks

Courage in solving problems created by the depression has brought about a definite upward trend in business in the opinion of William Butterworth, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

"The inherent strength of our economic position has been proved," he declared. "Industries which were depressed have shown a record of problems faced, so that for many of them it was a period in which difficulties of many sorts were liquidated, thus leaving those industries in position to face their future without a burden of maladjustments which, but for this time of liquidation, might have proved continuing handicaps."

Butterworth paid a tribute to the work of chambers of commerce throughout the country and to simlar business men's organizations.

General Rains To Help Grain

ground in good condition for cotton and feed stuff is being planted as fast as the weather will permit. Corn is looking good and some of it in this section has a four inch stand. This rain has assured a good small grain crop, as there is plenty of moisture in the gorund to finish up. Some oat fields are already headed out and wheat is in the boot and with two or three days of sunshine will head out.

CHILDRESS—Childress county was visited by a good rain Wednesday. The fall amounting to almost one inch, with the weather warm and a light mist falling during the day. Farmers express the opinion there is almost enough moisture to make the wheat as it is now heading. The stalk is very rank and full of sap. It is possible for Childress county to make more than a half million bushels of wheat. General farming conditions could not be better than at present time.

DALHART—The North Plains received another soaking Wednesday when more than one inch of rain fell throughout the day. An early morning mist developed into a slow rain that continued until 3 o'clock. The precipitation measured 1.22 inches at Dalhart.

Texas league sports writers, in a pre-season poll, decided the Houston Buffaloes had the best pennant chances.

dinary to the late King Edward of England, a close friend of the late ambassador.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Reid is survived by a son, Ogden Mills Reid, publisher of the New York Herald-Tribune. Funeral arrangements will not be made until word is received from him. Ogden L. Mills, a nephew, is under-secretary of the U. S. treasury.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, one of the wealthiest women in America and an acknowledged social leader although preferring a quiet life after the death of her husband, was born in New York, daughter of Darius Ogden Mills, a financier who began his march to the heights of the banking business during California gold rush days.

She was married in 1881 to Whitelaw Reid, then editor of the New York Herald-Tribune, of which he was also proprietor, following the death of its founder, Horace Greeley.

Whitelaw Reid was named special ambassador to Great Britain in 1897, at the occasion of Queen Victoria's jubilee. In 1902, he was special ambassador at the coronation of King Edward VII, and in 1907 was named ambassador to the court of St. James.

The Reids leased Dorchester house in London, entertaining lavishly. During their residence in London, their daughter, Jean Reid, was married to Sir John Ward. The son, Ogden Mills Reid, married Helen M. Rogers. The American embassy, during the five years until Whitelaw Reid's death, was the center of diplomatic entertaining, and on several occasions Mrs. Whitelaw Reid presented Americans at court.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Reid retained ownership of the Tribune and maintained an active interest in it until her death, even though her son has been in charge of the newspaper properties, which consolidated with the New York Herald.

At her New York home, 491 Madison avenue, Mrs. Reid entertained the Duke and Duchess of Connaught when they came to New York in 1912, and she was one of the few women to be hostess to the Prince of Wales on his last American visit.

Roy St. Lewis May Win Appointment To Higher Post

WASHINGTON, April 29. (UB)—U. S. Attorney Roy St. Lewis, of Oklahoma City, is being considered for the post of assistant attorney general in charge of admiralty and property matters, succeeding George R. Farnum, of Boston, who recently resigned, it was learned today.

St. Lewis has been strongly urged to the attorney general and is being viewed with favor. Final recommendation, however, has not been sent to the president.

Attorney General Mitchell stated today that Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, will not be given the post of district judge in Baltimore, because he is "too valuable in his present position to be spared." He said Woodcock would be chosen, except for this.

Federal Judge Morris Soper, of Baltimore, is likely to get the post, it was learned, having been strongly recommended. The vacancy was created by the recent death of Judge Edmun Waddill.

Business Leader Arrives Today

hear Mr. Penney, as he is ranked as an outstanding authority on agriculture.

Tour of Valley

Friday morning Mr. Penney will be the guest of the retail merchants division of the chamber of commerce at a breakfast. At 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, and immediately following the Junior chamber and business council luncheon, he will be the guest of an industrial tour to the Lehrack-Ferguson milk plant, sponsored by the Junior chamber.

Friday afternoon an inspection tour of the Wichita valley will be conducted for Mr. Penney. The Saturday afternoon address at the auditorium is sponsored by the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce and by the county farm agents department.

Invitations to hear Mr. Penney have been extended to all persons in this section. Reservations, however, for the Friday luncheon must be made by 10 o'clock Friday morning, it was said.

Chambers of commerce of various cities surrounding Wichita Falls are cooperating in the making of plans for large attendance at each meeting. Through request, teachers in schools of Clay, Archer and Wichita county have made announcements of the meetings and have extended invitations to parents and students to hear Mr. Penney.

Mr. Penney is on an extended tour throughout the West and Southwest, appearing before business and agricultural groups and conducting meetings of managers and associates of the J. C. Penney company stores.

During the past two years he has covered nearly every state in the union and spoken to thousands of business men, at meetings of various business clubs and associations.

Agricultural Interests

While he is nationally known as the man who started what has become the greatest mercantile organization in the world, he is also equally well known as a leading agriculturalist and community developer.

For years his purebred dairy cattle, sheep and hogs have been featured at leading state fairs and cattle shows and foundation stock from his breeding farms have been sent all over the world.

Late last year he sold a purebred dairy sire to the English Guernsey Cattle club for use among the herds of former Princess Mary, now Viscountess Lascelles, Lord Fitzwalter and Lord Tichbourne. At about the same time he sold another to Gabriel Brenes Ibarra of Costa Rica, and this sire recently was named grand champion of all breeds in Costa Rica.

In his business life, Mr. Penney his been known as the "man with a thousand partners" and a recently published biography, by Robert Bruere, bears this title. It came about through the plan of the J. C. Penney company, which makes managers and other associates, shareholders in the organization which, as Mr. Penney says, is controlled not by one man or one group of individuals but by more than 2,000 men all working for one common purpose.

Commenting on Mr. Penney's visit to this city, R. S. Fidler, manager of the local J. C. Penney company store, said, "We have been looking forward to having Mr. Penney with us for the past two years, in fact ever since he started out on his present work of contacting the store towns of the company.

"He has stated to us that he feels that every business man should be in harness at the present time and that he feels he can best serve the restoring of public confidence by going out among the people and getting their ideas as well as discussing his own with them."

Born on Farm

Mr. Penney, who is in the middle fifties, was born on a farm at Hamilton, Mo., and engaged in his first money earning enterprise at the age of 8 when he began to raise pigs to pay for his clothes.

The first store of the J. C. Penney company was opened by Mr. Penney in April, 1902, in the town of Kemmerer, Wyo., a mining community of about 900 people. The early growth of the company was among the smaller towns and largely in the West and Southwest.

Today it numbers 1456 stores covering every state in the union. Directors and major executives of the company are, with but a very few exceptions, men who have come up through the ranks of the organization.

R. S. Fidler has been with the organization six years and was formerly on the merchandise staff in New York City.

Driver Named In Girl's Death

Dance Hostess' Slaying Brings Charge

NEW YORK, April 29. (INS)—Rudolph Duringer, truck driver, of Ossining, N. Y., today was named as the killer of Virginia Brannen, dance hall hostess found shot to death in Yonkers, according to police.

Robert Leclaire, of the Bronx, said that during a wild, drunken automobile ride, a shot suddenly rang out and the girl slumped in her seat. He said Duringer and another man disposed of the body.

Believe It or Not

Truth is stranger than fiction. Ripley, the cartoonist, has proved that. The great success of his newspaper feature is no doubt due to the fact that people enjoy unusual information. The fact that "St. Joseph's" is now the largest selling genuine pure aspirin in the world for 10c is of decided interest to people everywhere because they immediately realize that it is neither sensible nor necessary to pay more than this price for twelve tablets of genuine pure aspirin. More than nine million boxes of St. Joseph's Aspirin have been sold in a single year with the result that the medical profession as well as the public fully realize that "St. Joseph's" is not only genuine aspirin but is also as pure as money can buy, meeting every government standard. When you buy aspirin, ask your druggist for St. Joseph's. Genuine Pure Aspirin in the orange and black striped St. Joseph's package.

Quest of Sun-Glow Glass Spreads Among Texans as New Hobby

FORT WORTH, April 29. (AP)—A new form of treasure hunting is being indulged in by Texans, and the hobby is fast becoming a popular one. It is familiarly called "the quest for sun-glow glass."

Mary Daggett Lake of Fort Worth has observed inception of the latest novelty and watched it with a peculiar interest. So well acquainted is she with the interest it has excited that she has written several articles about it.

"Formerly the ash heap and the trash pile did not move in polite society; they were the haunts only of the rag and bone pickers and of such animals and insects as found pleasure therein," she said.

She said it was not an uncommon thing to find persons who had been struck by the latest hobby "with a basket filled with broken bits of purple or lavender-tinted glass."

"When you were a child it is likely you, and the other youngsters in your neighborhood, played store out under the big oak near the barn, and it is a safe bet that you had on the shelves of that store certain broken pieces of colored glass that intriguted your interest and pleased your eye," Mrs. Lake said.

"Sun-glow glass is glassware of any type or pattern that has lain out under the heat rays of the sun until it has become colored in varying shades and degrees of lavender and purple. The tinting, or glowing, begins with a fresh pink color and goes from that to lavender, to orchid and on to shades of purple so deep that the object is almost black, according to the length of time it has been out, with regard to the kind of glass."

Mrs. Lake said modern collectors "are picking up milk bottles, discarded toilet water and perfume bottles, fruit and olive jars and barber's lotion bottles, and they are enthusiastic about the way these cheaper pieces of glass have taken the color."

Most Powerful Amplifying Tubes Listen for 'Music of Spheres'

By WALTER D. CLAUSEN

MOUNT WILSON OBSERVATORY, Calif., April 29. (AP)—The radio amatuer's dream of a set that will pick up Mars fades into the insignificance of a commonplace crystal receiver compared to the set being built here by Theodore Dunham Jr. He says he expects to tune in the stars.

He does not hope to hear music, so he has no loudspeaker attached. But if the set works, the results will be music to the ears of astronomers throughout the world.

Dr. Dunham is an astronomer for the Carnegie institution of Washington. His device has a photo-electric cell for a detector tube and is equipped with the most powerful amplifying tubes ever built.

It is designed to tune in on the light waves from stars millions of miles away and the amplifying tubes are expected to register a delicate galvanometer by which the temperature of the star under observation will be recorded.

Temperatures are revealed by the measure of the star's color. A prism is used to break up the colors. That's the spectroscope. In the past the photographic glat, radiometer or thermocouple had been used. In Dr. Dunham's set the photo-electric cell will make available a direct continuous record of temperature.

The strength of the red and blue links of the spectrum are measured in finding star temperatured, the proportion of the blue light to the red light increasing as temperature rises.

The device will at once be a thermometer and speedometer of stars. It is the atoms of the stars that reveal these secrets. The spectroscope picks up the code messages of the atoms.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of Mount Wilson observatory, developed the means of reading these atoms messages through a spectroscope many years ago.

POLLUTION OF STREAMS GAINS

State Moves to Protect East Texas Farmers

AUSTIN, April 29. (AP)—William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the game, fish and oyster commission, said today the commission was facing "a pollution menace without parallel," in the new East Texas oil fields.

"Despite vigorous effort by the department to avert damage, many valuable bodies of water are being ruined by oil and complaints are pouring into the department from dairymen, stockmen and farmers in the watersheds of the fields and from cities whose water supply is being menaced," Tucker stated.

Tucker promised nothing would be left undone in bringing about a cleanup. He said cooperation of the operators was being asked and where such is withheld, prosecutions would follow.

Seven men already had been detailed to the work, H. E. Faubion, director of anti-pollution activities and Charles Jones, director of law enforcement were in charge. "If this force is inadequate, additional men will be detailed and there will be no halting of effort until the fields are definitely clean of all polluting matter," Tucker said.

The verdict, which was praised by many Austrian and German medical authorities, may have an important bearing on future methods of birth control in both Austria and Germany.

C. C. Julian Tells Reporters He's 'Most Misunderstood Man in U. S.'

DALLAS, April 29. (UP)—C. C. Julian, beset by legal difficulties but philosophical over the romances of the oil industry, told reporters today he was the "most misunderstood man in the country."

"People imagine I'm all sorts of a swashbuckler," he said, "while as a matter of fact, I'm just an ordinary guy. I started at the bottom of this oil business. Twenty-two years ago I worked as a laborer in the fields. My winnings have been tremendous—so have my losings. A fellow has to be philosophical in this business."

Julian is 41, slightly gray about the temples but trim in figure and young in spirit.

His divorce case, which his wife filed in California, he dismissed with "Oh, that." He intimated he preferred to forget it.

About the Laredo case where he is charged with attempted kidnaping and extortion of $50,000 from L. S. Bolling, the dapper oil man said:

"I was born on the Canadian frontier where men settle their differences in a man's way. I am not worried about the case. I have full confidence in Texas laws to administer justice."

A case at Oklahoma City, in which he has been ordered to render an accounting of his properties, is only a personal affair and does not involve his company, he said. It resulted from judgments obtained against him when his company failed about two years ago in California, he said.

Julian said his property was appraised last November and estimated to be worth $10,600,000. "Yet only a few years ago I was broke again," he said.

"After the trouble in California I borrowed $500, all the money I could get, and came to Oklahoma City, with $400 to spare."

He said he went back into the oil business backed by about 10,000 stockholders who "have full faith in me."

This Woman In 4 Weeks Lost 17 Pounds of Fat

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewiston, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give "Kruschen Salts" a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 206 lbs. And at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince anyone."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drug store in America. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. To help reduce swiftly cut out pastry and fatty meats and go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

The Kruschen way is the safe way to reduce—Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back. Allison Drug store knows all about Kruschen.—Adv.

A Safe Airplane 'Bug' Makes Hoover Think Lady Heath's Drinks Would You Fly With Her?

By EMILE GAUVREAU

President Hoover steps out of the White House to shake hands with Pilot James G. Ray, who lands on a small space on the presidential lawn in an autogiro, much after the manner of a gentleman dismounting from a bicycle. The autogiro is not as graceful a machine as the bird-like plane which Lindbergh flew to Paris, but it gets there and is safer. Perhaps some inventor will make it look less like a bug some day, but now it is the only plane which makes the man on the ground feel like he can soar from the earth and land in safety.

President Hoover sees the point. The autogiro's ability to arise and descend with safety almost vertically makes it a practical and decided step forward."

An airplane that can "arise and descend with safety almost vertically" should make the president think of the millions spent for battleships which could be blown out of the water by one little air machine costing a few thousand dollars. One hundred autogiros, able to aim bombs, could blow an entire navy out of existence. Perhaps Mr. Hoover has given this some thought.

Leaving a dinner party where the host opens some excellent "pre-war" from his cellar, you do not hesitate to climb into an automobile driven by one of the guests who has enjoyed the libations. Aviation will change all that. When transportation becomes a problem of the air there will be little drinking. A drunken driver may pick his way out on the road, but nobody will be willing to step into an airplane piloted by an airman under the influence of liquor.

Lady Heath, brilliant English flier, probably does not think of this as she is fined in police court in Windsor, Ontario, for drunkenness. She addressed the Business and Professional Women's club in Windsor and then went to a private home for dinner. "I had two beers and a small whiskey at the party," she says, "and every one knows one can't become intoxicated on that." Perhaps not. But would you want to ride in an airplane piloted by Lady Heath after she had swallowed two beers and a whisky?

According to a survey by the manager of a famous radio broadcast artists' service, music lovers in America spent $10,000,000 for seats in the season just closed. Out of this sum Mr. Paderewski got $500,000. Other box office attractions that put hundreds of thousands of dollars into the pockets of virtuosi were Kreisler, John McCormack, Rachmaninoff and Heifetz.

Americans love music but they love beauty more. They spent $300,000,000 last year for cosmetics. On sports they spent $30,000,000. On motor cars they spent several millions. On education they spent two and a half billions. That means something. But more money was spent on clothes than on any other item. Perhaps most of us would prefer to be well clothed than amused and inspired.

The plagiarism suit brought by Miss Georges Lewys against Eugene O'Neill, involving the original authorship of sections in the "Strange Interlude," ends in favor of the dramatist. The absurd charges of Miss Lewys are going to cost her $17,500 in lawyer's fees, an amount she may cheerfully pay in view of the publicity she got out of the trial.

There is hardly a successful novel, play or movie that is not saddled with a plagiarism suit by an "outraged" party. Sometimes, as in the case of Sinclair Lewis, the "sufferer" is a well-known novelist, or the wife of a novelist. Most of the claims, however, are by unknowns, and are spurious. The exceptions, here as elsewhere, prove the rule.

How ridiculous Miss Lewys' claim is can readily be seen from examining the 445 "deadly parallels" she cites between her own work, "The Temple of Pallas Athenae," and O'Neill's "Strange Interlude." Any one of these "deadly parallels" might be duplicated in any one of a hundred books.

Authors like O'Neill have too much of their own thoughts and experiences to dramatize even to have the time to borrow from lesser writers. If they are tempted at all, they will steal from the illuminati, not from the grubs.

Suicide Follows Girl's Slaying

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 29. (AP)—William A. Wetmore, a farm hand and related by marriage to Miss Emily Kirk, who was slain Saturday night in Hamden, killed himself by shooting today. After reading three notes which Wetmore left, Coroner J. J. Corrigan gave an opinion that Miss Kirk was killed by Wetmore and that the case would be closed with a verdict of murder and suicide.

Wetmore in a note which was made public protested his innocence. He had told his mother, Mrs. Elmer A. Wetmore, last night that he had had an agreement with Emily that if one died the other would commit suicide.

Coroner Corrigan said the notes seemed "altogether too emphatic in his (Wetmore's) protestation of innocence."

7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first, in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek; third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

Plagiarism Suits

NOW that a federal judge has dismissed Miss Georges Leweys' plagiarism suit against Eugene O'Neil, declaring that she had made "a wholly preposterous claim," it might be just as well to consider overhauling all of the legal machinery by which one person seeks damages from another.

Miss Lewys charged that O'Neill stole the plot of his famous play, "Strange Interlude," from her novel, "The Temple of Pallas Athenae." She asked $1,250,000 as damages.

Practically every qualified literary and dramatic critic in the country who examined the two works agreed that the claim was preposterous. But O'Neill, although he has won the suit, has had something less than simple justice.

Consider the situation for a minute. O'Neill had to retain lawyers to fight the case—and any one who has had any experience with lawsuits can tell you that that cost him plenty of money. He had to devote a good deal of valuable time to the affair. He had to undergo a lot of worry. Miss Lewys, to be sure, is ordered by the court to pay him a certain sum of money; even so, he has been very unpleasantly harassed.

And why? Because someone with "a wholly preposterous claim" insisted on filing suit. O'Neill had no protection against that. Any one can file a lawsuit. What if you haven't a good claim? Take a chance—you might make a lot of money.

That illustrates a singular weakness in our legal machinery. No successful man, no successful corporation, has any protection against such suits. Of course, the defendant in such a case almost invariably wins—but it has cost him time and money. He has been compelled to make a sacrifice for no good cause.

Isn't it just possible that we ought to find some way of making it a little bit harder to begin an action at law? Ought not there to be some way by which individuals and organizations could be protected against the trouble and expense of unjustified lawsuits?

The difficulty, of course, lies in the fact that putting up such restrictions might work an injustice on some penniless plaintiff with a perfectly valid claim. The law has to be geared to fit such cases. It would be unthinkable to propose restrictions which would enable the rich and powerful to victimize the poor with impunity.

But in many instances it works out that way even as things are. The poor man never enters a legal battle on an equal footing with the rich man. It ought to be possible to find some method of protecting his rights and, at the same time, safeguarding men like O'Neill from unwarranted trouble.

Presidential Trees

A TREE planted by President Hoover has now taken its place on the White House grounds along with trees planted by other presidents. Mr. Hoover, who planted an elm the other day, has received a certificate of membership in the tree-planting army enrolled by the American Tree association—and, incidentally, has set an excellent example for his fellow-citizens.

Many presidents have planted trees on the White House grounds. Not far from Mr. Hoover's tree is one planted by President Roosevelt. A little distance away is one set out by President Wilson. Within view is one planted by President McKinley. Farther away is one planted by President Hayes.

There is something appealing about this presidential tree-planting. A tree is a living memorial; more intimate, somehow, than a granite shaft or a bronze tablet. We hope the custom is continued.

A Notable Record

ONE of the most unusual advertisements of the year is surely the following, paid for and inserted in Cleveland newspapers by the employes of the Pocahontas Oil Corp.:

"To the officers of the Pocahontas Oil Corp.:

"Your entire force—station men, maintenance men, drivers, office help—take this means of expressing our appreciation for the fair and square treatment you have extended us during these trying times.

"We are thankful and happy to know that every one of us has been kept working at full time and at full pay. We are proud to let everyone know what a fine company we work for."

The advertisement speaks for itself. It is about as fine a testimonial as an industrial concern could get in these times of depression.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

Promise

Someday, I know, that I will nurse regret
For all my vagrant days and fevered nights;
The primrose path hides many a silken net—
To trip the weak-half-blinded by the lights;
Someday, the gold that I have freely spent,
Will mock the lad who flung it carelessly,
And I will sob and bitterly repent
The wastrel years that took so much from me.

But now, since wine and lips are crimson red,
I've very little time for morbid fears;
The game is on—the kitty must be fed,
So why be burdened down with futile tears?

(I know my ways will bring me endless sorrow—
But I will change—I swear I'll change—Tomorrow!)

—DON WAHN.

The Not So Merry Magdalens

In the Broadway showshops and cabarets when a chorus girl misses a number, the stage manager bars her from appearing during the rest of the show. Then she is fined. If a chorine cannot prove she was ill, and she misses a performance, she is not only fined about $5, but they make her miss another show so they can double the fine and so she will "feel" it.

Which is a pip of a time to relate that one about the beautiful but numb thing appearing in a "Vanities." She missed several performances and the stage manager cautioned her that if she did it again, she would be discharged.

The following week she overslept and missed a matinee. So she telegraphed the stage manager as follows: "Dear Mr. Cody: I'm so sorry I missed today's matinee but I was suddenly stricken with appendicitis. However, I will be around for this evening's performance."

Ouch!

George Givot says that Frank Fay may be "God's Gift to Women," but that Fay thinks he is woman's gift to God.

By Golly!

George Jessel's expert toastmastering at recent functions was masterful and the street is talking about Jessel's breezy speeches. No matter the occasion, a benefit, a dinner or a funeral, Jessel says the right thing.

"He surprised me," said one lad last night." That boy is knocking 'em dead. He reads a lot, you know."

"What?" queried a cynic. "Variety and Zit's?"

"Say!" was the comeback, "he's a heluva Saturday Evening Post man, too!"

Add Similes

Wallace Sullivan's: Shorter than a Betty Compton honeymoon . . . Izzy Elinson's: Happy as a ship news photographer taking a picture of Marlene Dietrich.

Haw!

Mrs. Holtz, the 66-year-old dialectician and proud mother of "Looey" Holtz, of "Lou Said It," took up four paragraphs here the other day, you probably recall. Well, she complained to Looey—charging him with "tukking" about her.

"Besites!" she thundered. "dot Veenchill is a liah! I deedn't sad you deedn't cum humm for four nights—I sad tree nights!"

By Way of Report

Last night one of the Broadwayokeis was complaining bitterly about night life in New York. He told how he preferred the sawdust type of speakeasy, where the patrons may be drunk, boisterous and sloppy, but they rarely curse or fool around the other fellow's girl. They have good speakeasy manners.

"In one of those dives," said the chap, "I had a good time for a reasonable tariff. It was an old fashioned barroom, red and white checkered tablecloths on the ugly tables, it smelled of beer, but there were no fights and nobody annoyed me or my girl friend.

"Later I went to one of those fashionable speakeasies where 'gentlemen' in evening dress lost no time trying to steal my gal. There was a flight and the men cursed loudly, the liquor was lousy and I was short-changed out of eight dollars!"

Merciless Truth

Stanley Sharpe, who for a long spell served Mr. Ziegfeld as general manager, produced his first play the other night.

The following evening a group of mutual friends gathered in a restaurant and discussed it.

"Gee," gee'd a critic friend of Sharpe, "it is tough sometimes having to sit in judgment on shows produced by friends. Take that play by Sharpe. I had to pan it—and he's one of my best friends."

"You mean," snapped another, "he was!"

A Form of Criticism

Harry Bestry, the booking agent with the Brill Brothers' figure, was talking shop in Reuben's again last night, and he tried to sell a vaudeville act to a producer of a current musical show.

"They played the Palace a couple of weeks ago," said Bestry, "and went over big."

"I know," replied the producer sarcastically; "that's a great idea. They are doing nearly all the jokes out of my show—so they won't have to rehearse!"

No Dramatics

One of the few "novelties" in the Broadway area is a blind newsdealer at 55th Street and 7th Ave., on the southeast corner. He is there at midnight.

He is most sensitive about his blindness, it appears, and will not let you know he is sightless. A friend sugrested he could make more coin if he put up a sign reading: "I am blind!" But he strenuously objected.

"That would be hokum," he replied, "and Broadway has enough of that. I can tell a $5 bill from a ten or twenty, anyway!"

He is worth paragraphing about, indeed.

Swiftly

Take it from Morton Irish, a celebrated actress once was enraged at some of John Barrymore's vagaries. She stormed off the set with the ringing announcement that she would never act with him again.

Barrymore cast a wearied glance after her. "Well," he murmured, "you never have!"

As If We Didn't Know

And Mr. Elison revises it to read —all work and no plagiarism makes Jack a dull master of ceremonies.

JILTED —By Margaret Widdemeyer

SYNOPSIS

Helen Heather, living in the little Pennsylvania town of Kingsway, becomes engaged to Tommy Delamater, son of the president of the bank in which Helen works. Tommy takes another job in Wisconsin, and unceremoniously breaks off the engagement. Half sick, Helen wanders into the Kingsway grounds, not knowing Ethan Kingsway, a former sweetheart of Nina Higginson. Helen's cousin has returned from Europe. Ethan and his little charge, Patricia, sit on a bench near Helen. In trying to get away, Helen strikes the limb of a tree and is stunned. The Kingsways take care of her, and in the course of events, she becomes Patricia's governess. Nina, who had followed Ethan to Europe in the hopes of recapturing his affections, returns. Ethan betrays a growing interest in Helen. Helen attends a party and looks for Doris, who has mysteriously disappeared. She finds Ronny trying to persuade Doris to elope with him. As she kisses Ronny in a sisterly fashion, Ethan, whom Nina has told that Helen and Ronny were once in love, comes upon them. Ethan announces that he and Helen are engaged. Helen's engagement is welcomed by Mrs. Kingsway, and Nina, who has failed in her quest for Ethan, writes her a letter, inviting her to an engagement dinner at her home.

INSTALLMENT XXIII

Ethan's car stopped before Helen's house ceremonially Tuesday evening; Ethan, in his evening clothes, tall and distinguished, rang Mrs. Birch's door bell to call for Helen.

Helen herself felt a little as if things weren't real. An engagement dinner at Nina's. And for herself and Ethan Kingsway.

In spite of herself Helen felt a little apprehensive as to how Nina would act. Nina could have a sharp tongue when she wanted to.

Tacy, unchanged as the Sphinx, tall and brown and solid, opened the door in place of the housemaid; and greeted Helen with a warmth of affection—for her—which swept Helen along to Nina, warmed and encouraged.

But there was nothing, at first glance, which needed warming or encouraging in the situation. So much had happened to Helen that she wondered half childishly if Nina would look like a different person. But the five months since Nina had gone away had added and taken away nothing.

Her evening gown was, of course, from Paris; one, Helen knew without being told, of a big trunkful, acquired of a "little dressmaker" who had a secret and immediate wire into three of the big showrooms.

She rushed to greet Helen and Ethan with just her old staccato friendliness.

"My darling child! How clever of you—and how delightful for me! Now I'll have my little cousin in the same town with me always. She's a household treasure as well as a bad little flirtatious Southerner like me, Ethan! I know, I've had her two years!" And then to Ethan, whose hand she held with the one that wasn't holding Helen's, in a softer voice, "You don't know how glad I am that you're going to be happy at last, dear Ethan!"

Ethan's quick and pleasant smile, his equally quick and pleasant words of thanks, showed nothing of what he thought or felt. Even Dr. Gaynor, a little jaded from what he confided to Helen later had been a hard day, smiled with more than his usual professional cheeriness from behind his gold-bridged eyeglasses at the two of them.

"I wonder if I wasn't present at the beginning of the romance," he said, leaning back and sipping his cocktail appreciatively. "When this young person who looks so blooming now stunned herself against Mrs. Kingsway's pet walnut tree."

"Oh, do tell me all about it!" cried Nina with enthusiasm.

"There isn't much to tell. I gathered that Ethan had picked her up and carried her into Kingsway House, like a hero of romance. When I got there she was unconscious in old Mrs. Kingsway's bedroom, with the whole family gathered around her. I must say I never saw anything prettier."

"It must have looked like a deathbed scene," said Helen with an uneasy flippancy.

"Instead of being the prelude—" began Nina lightly, "to—"

"As a matter of fact," Ethan spoke across whatever Nina had been about to say, "you are a little wrong there, Gaynor, but not much. My mother and little Patricia did fall in love with Helen then and there. But I'd begun before that."

"Now we're going to get dates and places," said Nina, with glee.

"Not one," said Ethan cheerfully. "You asked us here, my dear cousin-to-be, to give us a good time, and we hope because you loved us. We refuse to make a Roman holiday for you."

The amusement over this carried them into the dining room, where Helen, sinking into her old seat, found herself beginning secretly to keep an eye on Mattie's serving, so that Nina could be free to lead the conversation.

Nina did.

"And what have you been doing?" from Dr. Gaynor, elicited a stream of Nina's talk at its most amused.

"Well, there was a Russian count on the Riviera," she began.

"And I suppose there was a French one in France and an English baronet in England," said the doctor in a despair that was very nearly real. Nina shrugged her white shoulders under the demure black satin bows. The evening gown was a deceptively plain, tight black chiffon, whose cut alone told what it had cost even from the "little dressmaker."

"It's possible!" she told him, with a look that conveyed memories of a whole Burke's Peerage to good innocent Dr. Gaynor. "At any rate, you never saw anything as marvelous as he was. Our American men don't have that something. That is, of course," Nina added, with a flattering glance at her two guests, "except a very small minority . . . I choose my friends from that minority."

Dr. Gaynor looked flattered.

"We hoped so," said Ethan, with one of his most winning smiles.

Helen listened and wondered. Nina seemed to have shrunk, somehow. Her manners, her phrases her methods, even her looks, seemed further off and less important. Helen felt like the little boy in the fairy-tale who felt that the emperor had no clothes on. She wondered again and suddenly realized that she was seeing Nina now through Ethan's more sophisticated eyes. His entirely charming "we hoped so" yet had a note of casually accepting Nina as she was, and not taking what she was seriously. Helen need never worry any more, she knew that, from just those three words, as to whether Nina's spell could move Ethan ever so slightly. Dr. Gaynor believed in her. Not Ethan.

She went on about the Russian count.

"There was such depth, such tragedy, in every thing he said and was. Nothing left at all, of course. He said to me, 'I live a living death of course, as you would know, being as understanding as you are wonderful . . . but it does not matter. After all, what are we but bubbles on life's cup?'"

Was she really in earnest? Yes —she was. Or she was in earnest for the moment. Playing up to somebody, Ethan or Dr. Gaynor or both.

"I hope you tried to argue him out of such an unhealthy frame of mind," said the good doctor.

"I did what I could," said Nina gently, and Helen saw that she was playing up to Dr. Gaynor. Well . . .

"Where did you get those wonderful sapphires?" Helen interrupted.

Nina brightened.

"I have their absolute attested guarantee, one of the best jewelers in England. My dear, aren't they stunning? Straight from an old English estate. War-poor, you know. And the family had had them five hundred years. You've no idea what a bargain they were. Cartier appraised them. Worth just two hundred dollars less than twice what I paid for them! The settings are about eighteen-ninety. They were to be reset for this man's bride, but they couldn't afford to keep them. I'm going to leave them set as they are. Talk about luck!" She stripped them off to show them about the table—the brooch, the marquise ring, the diamond and sapphire necklace, a pair of bracelets and an agraffe to hold feathers for court presentation day. They became her, as she put them back on; her unshaded, hard good looks. Helen thought that foreigners would call her a typical rich American woman of the better kind. Perhaps she was . . . She looked down at her own lovely ring, and hoped that nobody had been unhappy at parting with it.

"And what do you hear," said Ethan politely, "of young Ronny? Helen and I caught a glimpse of him a few weeks ago."

"Here in Kingsway? Then you know more about him than I do," said Nina. "I haven't heard a word from him since before I left home. Neither has Mr. Powell. Helen was always his confidante. You know something about him, I'm sure, Helen. Tell us, like a good girl."

Ethan looked at Helen attentively. She wondered if she was right in feeling that his face darkened slightly.

She had to put Ronny right with Nina, even if Ethan was hurt at her not saying anything to him before.

"I heard—through someone else—that he was earning his living in New York City," she said. "I'm sure he's going the very best he knows how."

It was Nina's face which darkened now—unmistakably.

"That boy spends his life trying to put me in the position of a cruel stepmother," she said, not quite as lightly as she intended. "And I really do not know how to control him. He forfeited all chance of graduation. He spent his money like water and refused to give an account of it—which is rather tragic, you know, in its implications."

Helen wondered if Nina would believe in the financing of the young poetry magazine, and decided she wouldn't. Nina really shouldn't tell things about Ronny to people who were no relation. But Nina continued inexorably.

"Finally he brought a girl up to his dormitory. He picked out a little sneak for a friend, and the friend told on him, of course. He wouldn't explain. I have done my duty by the boy, and after all he is no relation. As I told him, unless he changes his ways I am through—simply through."

"But, oh, Nina, he's so stupid about money—if he hasn't any till he's 25 it may make all the difference in the world."

"Not to me," said Nina with her quiet firmness. "I am so sure that he is worthless, that I feel I owe it to myself to explain to my friends that Ronny is no longer under my control, financially or personally."

"Oh, Nina, and the boy's so impractical!" Helen pleaded.

Nina laughed lightly.

"You incorrigible little flirt! I thought that was all over, now you were the captive of Ethan's bow and spear!"

Helen looked at Nina, aghast. The inference was unmistakable.

And there was scarcely any way of answering that would not make things worse.

Q.—Please tell something about majolica ware.—M. M.

A.—It is generally claimed that the word was derived from the island of Majorca, whence the first pieces of this ceramic ware were imported to Italy. The term majolica has become a very confused and indefinite expression and used with different meaning. The term, in its first application, referred only to the early Italian lustreware made (15th century) with transparent silicious glaze and outer surface of metallic sheen in imitation of the luster-ware of Hispano-Moresque creation. Later, the early enamel-covered and color-decorated wares of Italy were called majolica regardless of metallic luster surface, and the luster-ware having Oriental style of form and treatment was termed means-majolica. The term in modern times has been vulgarized into a broader definition including practically everything in ceramics having coating and painted decoration. Leading experts, however, retain the more distinctive terms. Luster decoration consists of imparting a metallic or pearlike (nacreous) sheen to the outer surface of the ceramic ware by coating over the already decorated and fired piece with a thin layer of a pigment containing either gold, silver, copper, etc., and then firing under moderate heat.

Q.—How many of our presidents have been book collectors?—J. B. I.

A.—According to a statement made by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach of Philadelphia, Washington, John Adams, Jefferson, and Hoover are book collectors.

Q.—What does "chevet" mean when applied to a church?—E. T.

A.—Chevet, in French, means "a pillow." The term is applied to the eastern extremity of a church with surrounding chapels. It corresponds to that part of the Cross on which Christ pillowed His head.

Q.—Where is the Inn of the Bells in California?—W. M.

A.—It is at Riverside and houses the collection of Frank A. Miller which contains over 500 specimens from many foreign lands.

Q.—Why did Ras Taffari wear lion manes in his headdress at the coronation?—O. H.

A.—Lions have always been the symbol of the rulers of Ethiopia. Baby lions are permitted to play around the steps leading up to the throne. "Conquering Lion of Judah" is one of the names which every Ethiopian emperor adopts.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

With our sincerest apologies to Lord Tennyson's memory, we voice what seems to us to be the thought of man in general today:

"You must wake and call me early, call me early Mary dear—
Tomorrow'll be the happiest time of all the happy year:
Of all the happy year, Mary, the maddest merriest day,
For I shall catch the prize fish, wife,
The prize for first of May."

My sleep is haunted o' nights with dreams about 12:01 o'clock Friday morning. I would (as poets word it) that I were one of the Izaak Walton fellowship waiting round the shores of the lakes. In fact, I'm considering haunting the boundaries of Lake Wichita at that hour and minute just to look on.

From the fevered consultations about hardware and sporting goods counters I fancy it must be something like the opening of government lands in the Indian territory. Lines ready, hooks baited—fancy flies or wriggling minnows or the lowly worm—! There should be a starting gun.

And are there bootleggers? Does some person in a secluded corner dip into the waters before it is May day? There's a proper proof of virtue for temptation is rampant.

As to the assayer's office—are all the scales true? Have they been passed on by the proper authorities? Or will there be wrangling over titles?

It is not of the scales the fish in Lakes Kemp and Wichita dream. It is of the fishermen and women. They know the heart of the true Waltonian. Though he may talk of the size of his catch, it is not the weight that gives him most joy, it is the fight.

So in the bosom of the waters, families of game fish are bidding one another farewell. Mother and grandmother bass are snivelling "I never raised my son to be a fighter," and peaceful crappie wail "I do not believe in war; I am a conscientious objector."

Minnows are hiding out. They know the signs of the times. Do not try to tell me better. I have seen a prairie chicken strut brazenly across the road the day after the season closed when the day before, she mingled her feathers with the deepest brush.

Fishermen are promising fish promiscuously. Myself, I have wrangled a promise of fish from three fishermen each of whom vouched for two crappie—and I'll bet I don't hear of a fish when they return.

Fish, on the first of May at any rate are not valued for their culinary properties—at least not by fishermen. It is solely the sport. But the crisp golden brown of a sweet meated crappie fresh from the lake makes my mouth water in prospect.

Poor fish! Those without fins as well as "regular" fry.

Many Guests Entertained At Bluebonnet Benefit Lunch

Bluebonnet hill was the scene of one of the prettiest benefit luncheons of the spring Wednesday when members of circle one of Floral Heights Woman's Missionary society were hostesses with their leader, Mrs. T. R. Boone, to 150 guests.

Living room, library and dining room were softly lighted and each of the pretty tables had a center of bluebonnets, although the hills surrounding the home showed no sign of having been touched. Individual crystals, china and silver arranged by various hostesses, added to the beauty of the setting.

A long southern room upstairs was a lovely picture. Creamy woodwork with yellow draperies and deliciously soft yellow walls held tables marked with yellow china, and bluebonnet centers. From the windows, the slopes covered with bluebonnets and golden flowers and the little lake where shrubs and waving grasses were reflected in the water, were an enchanting vista for the guests who lunched upstairs.

Throughout the luncheon, a delightful musical program was given. Misses Lucile Crouch and Lucile Synder, with Mrs. J. H. Crouch at the piano, gave a group of beautiful violin numbers. Mrs. Crouch played a number of Southern melodies, complimenting Mrs. John Prewett, a member of the circle who is leaving Sunday for a visit in her old home in Tennessee. Misses Mary C. Boone and Martha Johnson also gave pretty piano numbers.

Hostesses with Mrs. Boone were Mesdames Merle Waggoner, Harold Murph, Horace Mosteller, Perry Browning, J. M. Bradshaw, R. G. Ocanower, L. E. Cowling, Ed Fiser, J. E. Boyd, C. J. Bryan, M. H. Cock Fight On Capital Stage Brings Hisses

WASHINGTON, April 29. (UE)—A cock fight which was hissed off the stage by a fashionable audience at the festival of nations was being investigated by the police today.

The battle which supplied the color for the Mexican scene in the festival was at first applauded and then hissed until the attendants took the roosters behind the scenes.

The festival of nations held its premier last night under the auspices of the Girl Scouts of America.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was not in the hall at the time of the cock-fighting incident. She and her party had just left though hundreds of other society folk, clad in evening clothes, watched the fowls as they tore into each other.

Cock fighting is prohibited in the District of Columbia.

PAINFUL INDIGESTION

"I find Black-Draught gives relief for stomach trouble, caused by constipation," writes Mrs. Mahala Atkins, of Ironton, Ohio. "I have been troubled with indigestion—sometimes would have gas and pains under my ribs. My food would ferment, and I suffered uneasy feelings. French-fried potatoes —as quick as broiling a steak

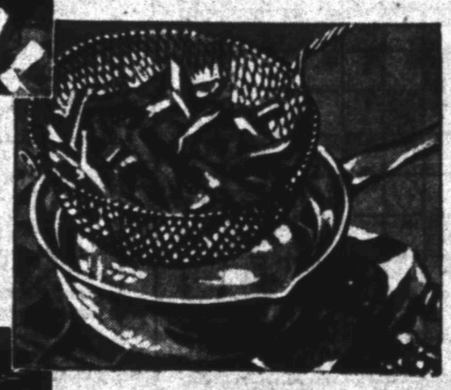
1 All you need is a large saucepan, a wire deep-frying basket (or strainer) and a 3-lb. can of Crisco.

Fill the saucepan a little more than half full of Crisco. (Don't be afraid to use enough—you can use Crisco over and over again.)



2 Heat Crisco to 400° F. (a small cube of bread will brown in it in 20 seconds).

Never wait for Crisco to smoke—Crisco doesn't smoke at proper frying temperatures. As soon as the Crisco is hot enough, put in the food to be fried. Crisco, a delicate, sweet-tasting fat, quickly wraps around foods a delicate crisp brown coat—and leaves kitchens fresh and smoke-free.

3 When the food is cooked, lift it from the fat. Hold the basket over the kettle to drain fat from the food. Finish draining on absorbent paper, paper towel or paper napkin.

4 Now strain Crisco back into the can through cheesecloth or a very fine sieve, to remove any possible burned particles. You can use Crisco over and over for anything you want to fry—Crisco doesn't carry the taste of one food to another.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Milk Cure

The milk cure has been used with benefit in the treatment of many different kinds of ailments. This is particularly true with disorders of the gastro-intestinal tract, cystitis, poor circulation, valvular heart trouble, and neuralgia. In fact, the milk diet can be used for a time with benefit in any of the non-catarrhal disorders. In some cases, especially where the liver is easily upset, the milk diet has been followed or preceded by a short orange juice, tomato juice or water fast. In others, the straight milk diet may be used.

Here are some general instructions for taking the milk diet: The patient should begin on a one hour schedule, taking an eight ounce glass of milk every hour while the patient is awake. The milk should be slightly warmed by placing a glassful of milk in a pan of warm water. The water should not be hot enough to burn the fingers if you place them in it. At this temperature the milk will be soothing to an irritated stomach or intestinal tract. No water should be used with this diet, but it is a good plan to precede the glass of milk with a teaspoonful of lemon juice or a tablespoonful of orange or tomato juice. No water should be used with this diet, as the patient will not need any because of the large amount of water contained in the milk. The milk should be sipped slowly and taken exactly on the one hour schedule. One should not take the milk at the end of 45 minutes, and an hour and a half at another time, or the milk will disagree with the patient, and one suffering from any serious disease cannot afford to be so careless. Do not add extra cream to the milk. In fact, if the digestion seems to be a little upset, it would be a good plan to remove a small amount of the cream, but, on the average, use the milk just as it comes. Holstein milk usually contains just the right amount of cream for the average person. If you desire, the lemon juice or orange juice or tomato juice may be shaken up with the milk and taken with it.

While on the milk diet it is important to use one enema consisting of one quart of clear warm water once daily. Many patients will belefit by remaining in bed for two or three weeks while taking this diet. It is a good plan to use hot applications over the region of the stomach or other painful areas. If possible a large therapeutic lamp should be used several times daily. Massage treatments should be used over the whole body, and the patient may exercise slightly by using the tensilg exercises with the arms and legs.

The milk diet as given in this article will agree with most people better than the milk and cream diet being given by so many authorities. An excessive amount of cream if continued will eventually bring on a serious case of acidosis. This condition will not occur if the milk diet is used as I have directed in this article. The patient may then slowly change to other foods, beginning with the non-starchy vegetables which may be added to one or two of the milk feedings during the day. After several days, if no discomfort is experienced, the patient may return to a regular diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Erethemia

Question—R. M. writes: "I am recovering from erethemia multiform. Please tell me the cause, treatment and diet during and after."

Answer—Erethemia simply means an inflammation of the skin. The multiform type is accompanied with papules and tubercles which last for several days, usually accompaniedf by headache and pain. The usual cause is a gouty or hreumatic tendency. The use of a cleansing diet regimen, using a fast for the first two weeks, should prove helpful.

Potatoes

Question—H. I. asks: "Which is better to use, the Irish or sweet potato? Do you consider fresh water and salt water fish good protein?"

Answer—Both sweet and Irish potatoes are good foods and contain moderate amounts of starch, depending upon the type of potato and the location where grown. The Irish potato seems to be better for some people, as it does not contain as large an amount of sugar. Fresh water fish is a good protein. Salt water fish has the additional advantage of containing a large amount of iodine.

Kleptomania

Question—B. M. R. asks: "What would be your advice in the case of a young man who is a kleptomaniac? He is apparently in the best of health, has good home surroundings, and yet in spite of every precaution, money and useless trinkets vanish."

Answer—Kleptomania is a mild form of insanity and it would be a good plan for you to have the young man consult a psycho-analyst of someone who understands psycho-analysis. In addition to the mind treatment, it would probably be a good plan to have the young man take a fast, as this might assist in absorbing and eliminating any toxins which may be irritating some of the nerve centers of the brain.

By FRED THOMPSON

That Wichita Falls will have night baseball this season has been more or less taken for granted, since club officials, though making no definite announcement, have held various conferences both here and with other club powers in Fort Worth, but a statement Wednesday by L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns, stimulated doubt that the arcs will be installed at Athletic park in 1931.

The Browns' official declared that in his opinion night baseball is not a proven proposition by any means and that in those minor league cities where the night game is prevalent the pastime may revert to an afternoon form of entertainment.

Mr. McEvoy's statement was in reply to a proposition to install lights at Athletic park made by a representative of the General Electric company, which, along with 40 or more other firms in the United States, is seeking contracts for light installation in minor league parks. Mr. McEvoy told the representative that the Wichita Falls club would not commit itself to an agreement at this time.

We are indebted to Neely Vaught, local sportsman and umpire, for a story about Judd Waller, Wichita Falls boy who has had a varied career in baseball, and who is now playing in the outfield with Oklahoma City of the Western league.

The biggest news about Waller, according to Vaught, is that he's hitting. His impotence at bat early in his career was the reason for his failure with the Philadelphia Athletics, and was the reason for subsequent travel orders that sent him hither and thither.

It was back in 1927 that he played with the Panhandle team in the local city leagues, and the next year he made the phenomenal jump from the sandlots of Wichita Falls to the groomed park of the Philadelphia Athletics. Arriving at the grounds hallowed by Mr. Mack, however, he was unable to hit any kind of ball with a twist on it. He could slam out a fast one, but a curve ball means doom to him.

And so his traveling started. He went to the Eastern league, he landed with the Dallas Steers, he journeyed to the Sally league, then to the Cotton States, then to Beaumont of the Texas league, and eventually wound up on the Wichita Falls sandlots from which he had risen.

But he returned, and this year is playing for Oklahoma City. A few days ago, just before the Tulsa franchise was moved, the Oklahoma City team and Tulsa tied up in a bitter battle. Oklahoma City won by the score of 11 to 9. And the winning margin was provided by none other than Mr. Judd Waller, who led his team's attack with two home runs and a double!

Now You Tell One

Well, since the fishin' season opens at midnight tonight, we'd better get in training for the whopper season. You've probably never seen a whopper but if you've lived in Wichita Falls, or anywhere near our fishing lakes you've heard plenty of 'em. And you'll hear the usual amount this season, too, and maybe more than usual. So get your ears used to this sort of stuff.

Now I'll give you a good pre-season start. Of course the term "whopper" is used strictly from the listener's point of view. A fisherman was never known to admit he ever exaggerated. So we present this story as the gospel truth, or so sayeth Tom Brett, the fisherman in question.

Some time ago Tom was fishing on the Pacific coast. He wanted one of those large, black bass, the kind that weigh four or five hundred pounds and know plenty about how to fight. So he bought a strong pole, wrapped it with strong cord and covered it with shellac to further strengthen it. The next day, after the pole had dried off, he set out to sea. For bait he used a small whale, or something like that. He flung the line, with whale attached, into the briny deep, fired up his corn cob pipe and waited for developments. At last the strike came. It was more than a strike, it was an uprising. He had speared a monster, and when it finally came to the surface to do battle, he found he had what he wanted—a deep sea bass, a big black monster.

The fight waxed warm. An ordinary rod and reel would have gone snap—just like that. But this reinforced pole held Mr. Bass. Brett found only one way to escape being pulled off the deck into the sea, that was to pull the big devil in as far as he could, then relax, letting the monster slide back to begin the fight all over again. The process eventually wearied the fish until he was in a condition to be handled by a fisherman, but it took six and one-half hours, no less, to tire the big boy down.

By that time Fisherman Brett was a physical and nervous wreck. Although he had sea food enough to last him a full grown century, he hadn't the strength to eat. He was on the bum for two weeks afterward, he said, spending part of the time in bed.

Chapter two of this fascinating story will be told (how many times!) on the banks of Lake Wichita, Diversion lake, or Lake Kemp, by various authors beginning Friday.

Spanish Statesman Recalled to Madrid

MEXICO CITY, April 29. (US)—Salvador de Madariaga, former chief of the disarmament section of the League of Nations, today was recalled to Spain by Foreign Minister Alejandro Lerroux of the provisional Republican government.

Dr. De Madariaga, well known in the literary field, may enter the Alcala Zamora cabinet as minister of education. On leaving today, after a month in Mexico studying Latin-America, he said:

"Mexico and Ireland are the two most sovereign countries in the world. Ireland enjoys the protection of the British grand fleet and Mexico the protection of the Monroe Doctrine."

A fire and police department league is planned for the Greater Kansas City baseball league.

7 NON-CLASS MEN RETAINED

Milt and Stormy Placed On Suspended List

By FRED THOMPSON

Retaining seven non-class men, one more than the league requires each team to carry, Spudder officials Wednesday night cut the squad to the player limit of 18 men.

The task of weeding out the allotted number of players from a total of 26 candidates was completed by President William E. Huff and his associates barely in time to comply with the league ruling that all clubs have their rosters cut by midnight Wednesday.

Changes Expected

Milton Steengrafe, injured in the first game of the season, was retained on the suspended list, and Fred Vincent, out with an appendicitis operation, was placed on the suspended list. Steengrafe was placed on the suspended list immediately after his injury. These facts, coupled with reports that Walter Euller will return, made it appear the list of players who will "stick" is subject to changes, for when Steengrafe and Vincent are able to play, and when and if Euller returns, room will have to be made for them.

The present list of those making the grade, as announced by President Huff Wednesday night, follows:

Catchers
Herbert Bryant.
Arthur Bradbury.

Pitchers
Lester White.
Ash Hillin.
Richard Florrid.
Roland Flinn.
Howard Taylor.
Bob Cooney.
Forrest Pressnell.

Infielders
Buck Stanton.
Chappie Geygan.
Bear Allday.
Arthur Scharein.
Debs Garms.

Outfielders
Ted Gullie.
Morris Badgro.
Herbert Kelly.
Robert Fuss.

Hassler Released

Of the five remaining players on the squad, disposition of only one was made known Wednesday night, President Huff announcing that Joe Hassler, shortstop candidate, had been given his outright release. Hassler was slowed up at the start of the training season with a tonsil operation, and was late getting into form.

The 26th player, Lester Davis, pitcher whom the Browns sent here last week from the Topeka club, did not figure in Wednesday night's negotiations as the club is allowed five days after the signing of a contract to "look over" a player and decide on his final disposition. Davis, though he joined the club at Shreveport last week, did not sign a contract until yesterday.

The seven non-class men included in the "charmed circle" of the 18 men are Arthur Bradbury, Bear Allday, Robert Fuss, Ash Hillin, Richard Florrid, Roland Flinn, and Howard Taylor.

In reducing the squad this year the Spudders stuck to old tradition of maintaining only seven pitchers, allowing room for a utility infielder and outfielder. The outfield of Badgro in left, Kelly in center and Gullie in right seems likely to stick with Fuss standing by for emergency duty.

Unsettled Infield

In the infield, Stanton at first is the only certainty, several shifts being probable. Allday, who took Geygan's place at second in the Steer game last Tuesday, may stay there, leaving Geygan for duty in the utility role. Scharein is a fixture at short at present but there has been talk of shifting him to second. Garms is a fixture at third but if Euller returns a problem at the hot corner will arise.

The catching staff of Bryant and Bradbury couldn't be improved upon. Of the pitchers listed among the 18, only three were here last year, White, Hillin and Florrid.

'Honest John' Returns To Found New West Texas Baseball League

"Honest John" McCloskey, who nearly 44 years ago founded the Texas league, arrived in Wichita Falls Wednesday, ready to go back to the baseball wars.

Spry and talkative as a 20-year-old, and with not a gray hair in his head despite the advancing years, the picturesque veteran who is credited with organizing more leagues than any man in the game launched immediate plans for the new West Texas league which he will sponsor. McCloskey came here from his home in Louisville, Ky.

With F. E. Mathews, Jim Galloway, former Spudder skipper, and J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league which McCloskey founded, "Honest John" will go to Amarillo the latter part of this week on the first of a series of visits to Panhandle and West Texas cities to complete negotiations for a circuit which he hopes will develop into a six or eight-club organization. Cities in which it is hoped clubs will be organized include Amarillo, Pampa, Lubbock, Memphis, Childress, Plainview, Borger and Clovis, N. M., McCloskey said. It was not planned earlier to include Memphis and Childress in the loop, but McCloskey said Wednesday he understood the field in these two cities was inviting.

Waiting on Gardner

Progress in working out details Wednesday was hindered by the absence from the city of President Gardner, who attended the dedication of the Galveston park Wednesday afternoon. He was expected back in Wichita Falls Thursday or Friday. Upon his return, the proponents of the league will leave immediately for Amarillo, it was announced. President Gardner is vitally interested in the proposed organization and said several days ago the move would receive his unfailing support.

At that time Mr. Gardner predicted that the league would be a success, and McCloskey seemed just as convinced Wednesday. "Depression or no depression," he said, "this league is going over."

McCloskey spent the last three seasons managing clubs in the Central league, which he helped organize. In 1928 and 1929 he managed the Akron, Ohio club and last year managed the Richmond club. He was signed to manage the Dayton, Ohio club in the same league this year but the league disbanded. A major league club offered him a position as scout, but he refused when he heard, through his friend Mathews of Wichita Falls, that a field for organizing a new league awaited his efforts in North and West Texas.

"Organizing leagues is an old business of mine," he said laughingly, "I have to do it to get a job." In his rich experience he has created for himself not only countless jobs, but a reputation as a baseball builder. After getting the Texas league off to a start in the fall of 1887, McCloskey, together with Abner Powell of New Orleans, put new life into the old 12-club Southern league. Thereafter he either organized single-handed, or helped organize eight baseball leagues, including the Montana State league, the Pacific Northwest league, the Puget Sound league, the Union association, the Southwestern league, the Rio Grande league, the Atlantic league and the Central league. Sandwiched in between all these operations, he spent three years, 1906, 1907 and 1908, as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

In those days when McCloskey played and managed, baseball was in its infancy and was a stern game, played by manly men, and old John McCloskey has at his finger tips solid evidence of that fact, for his fingers are bashed in and partly disfigured. "We didn't wear mitts or gloves in those days, and I was a catcher," he said. His playing was not confined to catching, however, for he played both infield and outfield positions.

It was McCloskey who not only got baseball off to a start in many far-flung states, but who discovered and developed some of the game's finest stars. It was back in 1893, when he managed the Montgomery club in the old Southern league that he discovered Joe McGinnity, who was later to become one of the game's most renowned pitchers. McCloskey related that a traveling salesman told him of "a guy who registered 22 strikeouts in a game down at McAlester, Okla."

McCloskey was doubtful. "Must of been women he struck out," he replied.

"Naw, they were men!" insisted the traveling salesman. And McCloskey took a chance.

When McGinnity reported, the Montgomery club was about ready to open a game with Nashville. McCloskey's pitcher got off to a bad start. In spite of the fact that McGinnity had been riding all day, McCloskey told him to warm up and get ready to go in. Some of McCloskey's players objected to submitting the youngster to such punishment, and McCloskey went over to ask McGinnity how he felt about it.

"Sure, send me in," he replied. "I'll stop 'em!"

And he turned in a 6 to 0 shutout in his first professional baseball game.

McCloskey also discovered the immortal Joe Tinker, famous infielder. That was when he managed the Great Falls club of the Montana State league. He got Tinker from the sandlots of Kansas City and started him off on his major league career.

In more recent years he discovered and developed such players as Les Mallon, second baseman for Fort Worth last year, and Walter Euller, Spudder third baseman last season. These two, along with Herb Kelly, Spudder center fielder, played under McCloskey at Akron in 1928.

Rain Wednesday soaked the playing field and interrupted the Spudders' series with the Dallas Steers. The teams were scheduled to resume the series Thursday. No double-header was planned.

Cards and Cubs Remain In Tie for Top

ST. LOUIS, April 29. (AP)—St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh today, 7 to 1, to break even with the Pirates in a four-game series and to remain, with Chicago, in a tie for first place in the National league.

Jess Haines, hurling his second game this year for the Cardinals, was stingy in allowing hits and, after Pittsburgh had made its only score in the eighth, struck out Comorosky, with the bases filled. Score:

LEAGUE MAY ELECT M'EVOY

But Browns' Official Isn't 'Overly Excited'

L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Browns who is here "looking over" the Spudders, is not overly excited at being prominently mentioned as successor of the late E. S. Barnard as president of the American league.

"Everybody from McCarthy on the coast to Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York is being mentioned as the new league president," he said. McEvoy even disclaimed knowledge that he is being mentioned as Barnard's successor. Informed that several news services had written of him as being considered for the post, McEvoy said, "They know more about it than I do."

Asked if he would accept the position if offered him, he replied that "the time to answer that question is when I am offered the position."

"The American league," he continued, "is in no hurry to select a successor to Barnard. The league had two fine presidents in Ban Johnson and Barnard, and at the latter's death it was in good condition to open the season. The league powers no doubt will take their time in the selection of a new president, and give the office to someone thoroughly qualified."

Until Barnard's successor is named the league's affairs are being managed by Frank Navin, president of the Detroit Tigers.

Flier Speeds to Aid Of Marooned Scientist

STOCKHOLM, April 29. (US)—Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, noted Swedish airman, took off from Malmo today, bent on the air rescue of Augustine Courtauld, British scientist, now believed facing starvation on the Greenland ice cap, where he has been marooned since last fall.

That Courtauld's plight may be rendered even more desperate by the failure of his food supply was indicated by a wireless message picked up at Reykjavik, Iceland, today.

Fifty Arrested In Raid on Opium Den

LOS ANGELES, April 29. (US)—Forty-nine men and a woman were arrested and opium smoking equipment, a quantity of the drug and gambling paraphernalia were seized by police and deputy sheriffs who early today raided two expensive apartments in the exclusive Wilshire district and an east side garage.

FISK, ROCHON WIN MATCHES

Wichitans Hold Their Own In Golf Tourney

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

COUNTRY CLUB, SAN ANTONIO, April 29. (AP)—The tradition that a medalist must never win a golf tournament was upheld here today when Mrs. Dan Chandler, Dallas, and medalist, fell from the 15th Texas Woman's Golf association tournament by losing to Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Dallas. Mrs. Hunter sunk a 25-foot putt at the 17th green to win, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Hunter's sensational shot was only one of the several thrills crammed into second round championship matches. Mrs. O. R. Armstrong, El Paso, was eliminated when she lost to Mrs. R. R. Fisk, Wichita Falls, 4 and 3. Mrs. Fisk made the turn three up and on the back nine played steady golf to retain her lead.

Favorite Defeated

The gallery shock of the day centered on the Mrs. J. A. Durborrow and Mrs. C. F. Simpson title battle. Mrs. Durborrow, Houston, was a heavy favorite. At the turn Mrs. Simpson, Dallas, was square with her and on the back nine the Dallas contender held her own to win the 18th hole and the match, one up. The elimination of Mrs. Durborrow removed from the championship bracket a player who was expected to reach the finals.

One of the finest comebacks of the day was recorded in the Mrs. M. M. Van Wormer and Mrs. E. R. Lederer match. At one time, Mrs. Van Wormer, Beaumont, breezed along with a four up lead, but she began to miss putts and Mrs. Lederer picked up a couple of holes to face a dormie two task at the 17th green. Mrs. Lederer won the 17th and 18th to square the match. They halved the 19th, but Mrs. Lederer won the 20th and the match, one up.

Mrs. F. C. Pharr, Texarkana, had the biggest win margin of the day when she defeated Mrs. I. J. Morris, Dallas, 5 and 3. Mrs. Pharr who was off her usual game the first two days, returned to championship form today, and after making the turn three up, ended the match at the 15th green.

Mrs. Rochon Wins

After making the turn one down, Mrs. F. C. Rochon, Wichita Falls, staged a putting comeback on the back nine to take the lead and the match from Mrs. E. J. Rose, San Antonio, 2 and 1.

Mrs. R. F. Winger, Fort Worth star, passed through the ninth on the bright side of a two up lead, but she lost in on the back nine and won only when Mrs. P. K. French, Fort Worth, three putted the 18th green to lose, one down.

The third Fort Worth golfer to come through today in the championship flight was Mrs. C. O. Collins, who defeated Mrs. Clyde Anthony, Palestine, at the 18th green, one up. These two were square at the turn and the advantage seesawed on the back nine.

For the first time since the tournament opened Monday, the sun broke through to shine in the afternoon. After two days of almost steady rain, the course today was extremely heavy, especially the greens, and the players found it difficult to judge distance in putting, almost all falling short on their first putts.

Pairings tomorrow in the championship flight:

Mrs. Ruth Hunter, Dallas vs. Mrs. F. C. Rochon, Wichita Falls.
Mrs. R. E. Winger, Fort Worth vs. Mrs. E. R. Lederer, Fort Worth.
Mrs. F. C. Pharr, Texarkana vs. Mrs. C. F. Simpson, Dallas.
Mrs. C. O. Collins, Fort Worth vs. Mrs. R. R. Fisk, Wichita Falls.

Western League Teams Open Season Today

KANSAS CITY, April 29. (AP)—Western league baseball teams plan to make their getaway in the 1931 pennant chase tomorrow, with two games scheduled at night and two in the afternoon.

Showers may interfere with the part of the inaugural at Wichita, where the defending champion Aviators are to meet the Denver Bears.

Unsettled weather in Missouri, may disrupt plans at St. Joseph where the Saints oppose Omaha's Packers.

Better promise is held out at Oklahoma City, where Pueblo is to be the guest, and at Topeka, where Des Moines tangles with the Topeka club.

Sandlot Slants

By THE SANDLOTTER

The amateur baseball season is under full swing for the 1931 season, and they already talk of a banner year. Interest in the games of both the City and Commercial leagues has greatly improved over that shown last year, with larger crowds turning out to witness the contests. We have also noticed a marked improvement in the games as compared to games played this time last year. Closer scores and more hotly contested ball games is the best remedy in the world for baseball. No one likes to see a runaway ball game.

Some people seem to think that every time an umpire makes a decision that doesn't look exactly in favor of their own team this particular umpire is a robber, and a bum. This was brought out Sunday afternoon on three of the baseball fields in Wichita Falls. Four league contests were held on that day. Two were protested and a third threatened with protest.

John Horsley made a smiling and bowing exit Sunday in the eighth inning of the Electric-Dixon game after calling a play at second base in favor of the Electric company. We want now to say that Horsley called that play just as it looked to him. The play came up with the bases full and Paul Whatley at the bat. Whatley flied to Pressley who threw to second in plenty of time to double Shepherd off that bag, but after dancing an old fashioned jig in an effort to find the base, Birchfield failed utterly to touch it until Shepherd was safely back. An argument followed and Horsly retired in favor of Coyal Francis, regular ump.

Looks like Coyal is the best umpire in town. He called the only game Sunday that was not protested and finished up a second game without being tarred and feathered.

We have heard before of "one-man ball teams," but from all appearances the Commercial league is a "one-man league." Paul Whatley lays claim to the job of vice president, secretary, treasurer, manager and shortstop in the loop. Between times Whatley is at his desk in the office of the Texas Electric Service company.

Sid Stanfield, peppery little mask-man with the Texas Electrics, pays a rosy compliment on Sign Painter Dixon's scrappy little baseball team in stating that right now they look like the team the Electrics will have to beat to repeat for the championship. "They have speed and they have fight. They play heads-up baseball, and have ability. Put all this together and you are bound to have a good ball club."

That's the way Sid sizes up the youngsters, and Sid has been in baseball long enough to know a little bit about the game.

Steve Franklin, who besides pitching and managing the Sullivan Grocery nine herds one of their delivery cars, was questioned Monday as to his opinion of the wholesale number of protests made Sunday. Steve at once informed the writer that the league has appointed men to do nothing but settle such arguments in their spare time, and he thinks they should be given something to do.

The Texas Electric Service company has changed their team nickname from Kilowatts to Frigidaires and last week blossomed out in brand new gray uniforms with this new name printed across the back in big letters. Wonder if they think they have the pennant on cold storage?

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 29. (AP)—The action of the stock market appeared to be the dominating influence in cotton today. Rallies of a few points from an opening decline followed a little buying on unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather bureau, but prices eased again owing to the weakness in stocks and reached the lowest point of the day in the late trading.

July sold off to 10.12 or 10 points net lower and within 7 points of the season's low record established last December and closed at the lowest. The general market closed barely steady at net decline of 10 to 14 points.

Liverpool cables reported an inactive market with liquidation absorbed by trade calling. May notices issued here were estimated at 2,600 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 29. (AP)—Trading in cotton was rather sluggish here today and the course of prices was downward. The depressing influences were lower cables and weakness in stocks. While there was a slight rally at one time owing to a bullish weekly weather and crop summary, it failed to hold.

Liverpool cables came in 2 to 4 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there was scattered liquidation. Manchester cabled that cloth sales were below production and are forcing lower prices.

A private authority reported that the crop had made normal progress and that the probable decrease in acreage would be about 10 per cent.

July closed at 10.12, down 10 points net for the day and October closed at 10.43, down 16 points net.

Drastic Break in U. S. Steel Carries Whole List Down

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 29. (US)—Stocks suffered further sharp decline in prices today. The feature of the market was a drastic break in United States Steel common stock which carried the entire list down to new low ground. Reaction in other stocks, however, was not nearly so severe as in big steel, whose net loss for the day exceeded nine points, the worst single day's break in this issue for years. Even during the 1929 panic Steel common received support each day sufficient to prevent so drastic a decline for any one session.

With steel breaking back to 1927 levels and with hardly a point rally during the day, the entire market quite naturally followed its leader. The pressure appeared particularly concentrated against the prime issues, American Can breaking two points and American Telephone & Telegraph down over four points at the day's lowest price. In a few directions, there was evidence of somewhat oversold conditions prevalent, this finding reflection in an actual small fractional gain among leading railroad stocks, on the average, and a modest improvement in various oil shares.

The market was dominated from the open by the surprisingly discouraging Steel Corporation first quarter report, showing a meager balance for the common stock. A good deal of the selling of this stock appeared to be coming from thoroughly disgusted holders who had been led to believe the gigantic steel enterprise would be able to show at least reasonably satisfactory profits. In this connection, the quite optimistic remarks of steel executives, not only recently but also months ago, were recalled and this served only to emphasize the misleading character of many of the public remarks attributed to leading industrialists.

Bethlehem Steel, next to Big Steel, was the worst sufferer. The stock broke over six points on the almost certain reduction in its dividend at the Bethlehem directors' meeting after the market closes tomorrow. Bethlehem's net for the first quarter has heretofore been estimated at possibly a few cents a share on the common, but in view of the Steel Corporation's showing, the Bethlehem estimates have been radically revised downward. The most worrisome feature of the Bethlehem meeting was the whispered rumor that announcement may be made relative to lowering of wages, coincident with the "lessened returns on capital."

A premium of one-sixteenth is still demanded for borrowing Steel common, but the suspicion is gaining that perhaps the premiums demanded for many stocks reflects less an actual absence of available stock, as it does the current nervousness in brokerage circles. Aside from steel, other prominent premium stocks are Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Western Union, one-sixteenth each; American Can, Bethlehem Steel, Illinois Central, Westinghouse Electric, Louisville & Nashville, and Wheeling Lake Erie common and preferred, one-thirty-second premium; Coca-Cola and Dupont one-sixty-fourth premium; and Eastman Kodak, one-eighth premium.

Oil stocks reflected short covering, a good deal of which was brought in by reports that salt water is increasing in the East Texas field. This development was first disclosed here a fortnight ago, but its importance may be exaggerated, since it is well known that the industry's difficulties are due to more than one field's enormous production. However, Standard of New Jersey was reported bought for the first time in months by a house closely identified with the Rockefellers, but such buying was only a scale downward in price and presumably coincided with short covering, bringing about a net improvement for the day of almost a point. Texas corporation also rallied, gaining two points at the high of the day, but such improvement was ascribed exclusively to short covering, since this enterprise's operations thus far in 1931 are stated to be showing a deficit in earnings.

New York Central closed three points lower, but most of the other leading rails showed moderate improvement on the average, partly in response to the 22,000 increase in car loadings during the past week.

Public Utilities as a group were under pressure, following the Commonwealth and Southern's lowering of its dividend, which represented the first adverse action of its kind by a powerful utility company almost since the 1920-21 depression. Then, too, a moderate rate reduction by the Laclede Gas company induced some renewal of nervousness over the possibility of widespread rate adjustments. This fear has been responsible for hesitation among many important interests to accumulate the utilities. North American was heavily sold by a bear clique, and Consolidated Gas sold under 90, at which level sizeable scale buying orders were supposed to become effective. Certainly, this premier utility should be among the first to meet investment buying if powerful sentiment turns more friendly toward the industry and its stock representatives.

BRITISH HEIRS ARRIVE HOME

Wales and George Land Near Castle

WINDSOR, England, April 29. (US)—The Prince of Wales and Prince George flew home today, ending their three months' trip to South America in the interest of British trade.

The royal brothers landed at Smith's lawn, near Windsor castle, at 1:10 p. m., making the flight from Paris in three hours and eight minutes. It was the last stage of a 20,000-mile journey that had taken them to 11 countries, seven of them Latin American republics.

In accordance with the wish of the Prince of Wales, there was no official reception. The Duke of York met his brothers at the landing field. They motored immediately to Windsor castle, where King George and Queen Mary were waiting for their home coming.

At the castle also were their niece and nephew, Princess Elizabeth, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, and the Hon. Gerald Lascelles, son of Prince Mary and Viscount Lascelles.

Transplanting Of Voices Perfected By Noted Surgeon

BERLIN, April 29. (US)—The voice of Caruso could have been preserved for all time by a discovery announced today by Professor Gluck, noted surgeon of the University of Berlin.

Professor Gluck, by means of a simple operation, has made successful transplantation of the human larynx and vocal cords from a man just dead to a living man. This operation would have permitted the transplantation of Caruso's vocal organs to another singer.

The newly discovered operation also allows for the tuning up or down of any voice, regardless of sex, to any desired pitch.

Music critics further pointed out that the problem of the brainless tenor with a beautiful voice and a highly intelligent tenor with very little voice can be solved by the transplantation operation.

150 EXPECTED ON W.T.C.C. TRIP

Committee Takes Reservations for Special Train

A special committee will make arrangements to send a large delegation of Wichitans by special train to attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention at Lubbock May 14, 15 and 16, J. L. Jackson Jr., president of the chamber here, said Wednesday.

Mr. Jackson appointed A. E. Kelly to head the committee, and Walter D. Cline, D. L. Fritz, Jean Montgomery, C. R. Featherston and Horrace Robbins as members.

The committee met at noon Wednesday with Mr. Jackson, deciding that a special train would be used to carry the Wichita Falls delegation. The special will leave Wichita Falls the night of May 14, it was announced, and will arrive at Lubbock early the following morning. On the return trip the special will arrive in Wichita Falls late in the afternoon of May 16. More than a full day will be had at Lubbock. Total cost of the trip, it was said, will not exceed $25, and includes train and Pullman fare each way and the use of Pullman berths during the one night to be spent at Lubbock.

An invitation is extended to towns surrounding Wichita Falls to join the Wichita Falls delegation and make use of the attractive fare.

A band will accompany the Wichitans to Lubbock and will compete in the band contests which are special events at West Texas Chamber of Commerce conventions. A student of the Wichita Falls high school will also be a part of the delegation and will enter the "My Home Town" oratorical contest. A total of more than 150 delegates is expected to make the trip.

The Junior chamber of commerce will send a Wichita Falls girl to participate in the pageant during the convention. The girl, it was announced, has not yet been selected.

Mr. Kelly immediately following the first meeting of his committee Wednesday noon started work of signing up members for the delegation. Mr. Jackson said that Wichita Falls should be able to get together a large representation to the Lubbock meeting, despite the adverse conditions the city has faced during the past months. Mr. Kelly's committee will meet again Friday morning at 9:30 o'clock to make further plans, it was said.

MAJESTIC: Marion Davies in "It's a Wise Child." Vaudeville act and sound news.

STRAND: "Cracked Nuts" with Wheeler and Woolsey. Comedy, novelty act and sound news.

GEM: Jack Holt and Ralph Graves in "Hell's Island." Comedy.

"It's a Wise Child" is one of those transpositions from the stage to the screen that depends on some very fine acting in the character parts... and, in this case, gets just that sort of acting from an almost 100 per cent cast.

Of course Marion Davies has to have the lacy outfits and ritzy settings and you just know she does all her acting in front of a mirror. She smiles and crinkles up her eyes, thinking "Ah, I registered delight nicely, that time," with the air of a golfer who has just knocked one of the new balls 200 yards down the fairway.

But then she's only the leading lady and there's no reason to worry about her when there are such delightful character actors as James Gleason with his "escapode," the maid who answers the door while she ties on her apron, and the old man who plays the part of Appleby.

On the stage there is a well-varied act of music, dancing and whatever else it takes. A little girl of less than five feet in height with her hair in the kind of curls that mother used to make does most of the dancing and singing, but the pianist is the musician of the crowd and the three acrobatic dancers are the only real claimants to artistry. Their new three-cornered version of the Apache dance is well done, and the beautiful blonde at the piano does not play the same old Apache tune for once.

NORRIS DENIED SECOND TRIAL

Two-Year Liquor Sentence Upheld by Court

King Norris, convicted and given two years inprisonment last week on a charge of having sold liquor to school boys at Iowa Park, was denied a new trial Wednesday morning by Judge Allan D. Montgomery in the 30th district court.

Irregularities in the jury's discussion of the case was alleged by Earle Kuntz, counsel for the convicted man, in presenting his motion for a new trial. The state was represented by Mike Anglin and George Anderson, assistant district attorneys.

Motions on behalf of Oda Tilton and Tom Hardy, also convicted of felonies last week, for new trials will be heard before Judge Montgomery Thursday morning, it was said.

College to Suspend Classes Saturday

Saturday has been declared a holiday for the Wichita Falls Junior college, according to an announcement made Wednesday by W. W. Brown, secretary of the board of education, on account of the numerous lectures to be given by Dr. H. C. Morrison at the college during the day.

The first of this series of lectures will be given at the Memorial auditorium Friday night, the remainder of the program to be held at the Junior college Saturday.

JURY REPORTS

Decision of Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court in the suit of Miss Jewel Beatty against Fred Ebner et al for $26,000 damages had not been given at the close of court Wednesday after the jury in the case had returned its answers to all special issues.

The plaintiff was struck by a car on Indiana avenue near Seventh street on the night of Saturday, Jan 3, according to the petition filed.

OPTIMIST CLUB HEARS TALBOT

Texans Need to Aid Own Industries, He Says

Resuming the argument advanced before a large audience here one year ago when he was a Republican candidate for governor, Col. W. E. Talbot of Dallas aroused members of the Optimist club Wednesday noon with a spirited plea for patronage of Texas producers as a sure road to prosperity in this state.

Many Resources

The speaker based his address upon the failure of Texas people to "take advantage of their God-given resources." In order to bring financial well-being to Texans, he charged, residents of this state must buy Texas products. There is no lack of resources in Texas, he continued, but there is "an expensive habit of sending nearly all our raw materials elsewhere to be manufactured, so that we buy our finished products outside our own state.

"Census figures show that every city that has lost in population can trace that loss directly to the fact that the people quit trading with their home merchants and failed to bring in new smokestacks and pay rolls to provide work for the people.

"We ought to learn a lesson from Edison. He invented the electric light and then invented the radio and phonograph so we would stay up and burn the electricity.

Change in One Factory

"Last October I visited a Texas factory with 150 people on its pay roll, 50 of whom were just going through the motions and pretended to be busy. Today, just because we have been urging Texas merchants to buy Texas-made products, that factory is employing 450 people, planning to put 50 more on next week and is six weeks behind on orders. A shoe factory that was about to go out of business is four weeks behind on its orders now.

"The only way to get anywhere with cotton is to start wearing cotton. The farmers can't quit raising it because they don't known anything else. We must start consuming it.

"If we refused to use any but Texas suger today, there would be seven refineries instead of two, and there would be 2,300 more men working in those refineries.

Roy J. Daniel introduced Colonel Talbot. The program, arranged by Arch Smith, included two vocal solos by Mrs. J. J. Jordan, who was accompanied by Mrs. A. H. Britain.

$50,000 Damage Suit On Trial in Court Here

Trial of the suit of Mrs. Elsie Spears vs. L. G. Bradstreet company for $50,817.60 damages was begun before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court Wednesday afternoon.

Action of the plaintiff is based upon alleged fatal injuries sustained by her husband, Mike Spears, in an automobile accident on the Archer City-Olney highway near Anarene on April 23 of last year, and upon the charge than an employe of the defendant company was negligent to the extent of causing the crash.

Numerous demurrers to the original pleading, and a cross action against the accused employe, in case the plaintiff be given a judgment for damages, were entered by the defense.

Rhodes Services Held at Olney

Funeral services for W. W. Rhodes, 75, retired farmer and resident of Young county for more than a quarter of a century, who died here Tuesday at the home of his son, Roy Rhodes, 1801 Grant, were held Wednesday afternoon at Olney. Masonic rites were said at the graveside.

Mr. Rhodes had been in Wichita Falls a short time only when he was stricken with the illness that caused his death. During his entire residence in Young county he had lived in or near Olney.

Surviving are three sons, Irby Rhodes of Graham, W. T. Rhodes of Childress and Roy Rhodes of Wichita Falls; and one daughter, Mrs. W. M. Patten of Wichita, Kan.

Lions 'Home Coming' Brings Big Attendance

Home-coming was featured at the weekly meeting of the Lions club at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon, many ex-members of the organization having been rounded up to swell the day's attendance to a total of 53.

Withdrawal of a high percentage of automobile dealers from business in recent years was stressed in a short classification talk by Floyd Randel of the Fox Chevrolet company. Loading of the local dealer under factory contracts accounts for most such withdrawals, he said.

A short musical program which included numbers by J. S. Pitman, Dave and Jack of radio station KGKO, and a singsong lead by Leo M. Underwood was included in the day's meeting.

Frank Cripliver, president of the club, is in attendance at the state convention at Port Arthur, according to James W. Lyle, who presided.

Thursday Last Day To Apply for Farm Loans

Thursday, April 30, will be the last day on which applications for feed, seed and fuel loans for crop-production, or rehabilitation loans for food and clothing, may be made by farmers of drouth-stricken areas to the federal agencies set up several months ago for that purpose.

This information was given The Record News Wednesday by G. C. McGown, county farm agent. Applications which are approved are now obtaining prompt returns, he said, but the period of loan-application will close Thursday. Forms may be filled out at Mr. McGown's office in the courthouse.

NEW MEXICO MAN HELD

A young man was arrested by city police here Wednesday afternoon for officers at Carlsbad, N. M., where a felony warrant is held, according to A. O. Roberson and Luke Hart, city detectives, who made the arrest. New Mexico officers were notified and will probably be here Thursday to return their prisoner.

CITY TAXES DUE THURSDAY

First Installment Bears Penalty After Today

Today is the last day upon which the first installment of 1930 city taxes may be paid under the new payment plan without a penalty of 4 per cent plus 6 per cent interest per year, it was announced by W. Ralph Hyer, city tax collector.

The second and third installments will fall due before June 15 and August, respectively. Should the second payment become delinquent a 7 per cent penalty will be attached in addition to the 6 per cent interest while a penalty of 10 per cent plus a 6 per cent interest will be added to the total for failure to meet all three payments.

Renditions of city property will also close todaly, it was said. Persons who fail to render their property forfeit their right to appear before the board of equalization and contest the value placed upon the property by the board, Mr. Hyer pointed out.

COUNTY PROPERTY RENDITIONS DUE

Owners of real and personal property must make renditions to County Tax Assessor Max Shumake before Thursday night, April 30, or have their property appraised by deputies in that department for listing on the unrendered rolls.

Thursday is fixed by the state law as the last day for such voluntary renditions, Mr. Shumake said. Property owners were urged to complete renditions Thursday in order to minimize later efforts at adjustments. Valuations entered upon the unrendered rolls will not be eligible to review by the equalization board.

Wichita Falls Negroes to Repeat 'Heaven Bound Pageant' May 5

Repetition of one of the outstanding entertainments afforded Wichitans during the past several years was assured Wednesday with the announcement that the "Heaven-Bound Pageant" staged by local negro singers on March 31 will be given again next Tuesday night, May 5, at the Memorial auditorium.

As in the earlier performance, more than 100 singers from the colored population of Wichita Falls will be included in the chorus which contributes the major portion of the program. The ensemble is made up largely of choirs from the local negro churches, for whose benefit the musicale again is being produced.

While choral numbers were predominant in the entertainment given a month ago, the program was strikingly free from monotony. A wide variety of movements and themes was represented in the group of choruses used, and further variety was provided in the use of many specialties. The Booker T. Washington high school boys' quintet, the "Cornfield Trio," the sextet which "fit the battle of Jericho," and other acknowledged features of the earlier performance will appear next Tuesday night. A few changes have been made in the program, it was stated, including the addition of "The Heaven-Bound March" of "The Ten Virgins."

The pianist of the St. John's Baptist church will be at the piano in next Tuesday night's entertainment a post occupied on March 31 by the performer not a resident of Wichita Falls. Admission will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.
