FDR's Plan Of Purging Party Receives Test

Demo Primary Elections Are Being Held In California And South Carolina Today

(By The Associated Press)

DEMOCRATIC primary elections in South Carolina and California will measure today the effectiveness of President Roosevelt's campaign to elect New Dealers to congress.

In each of two sizzling contests for places in the senate, the chief executive has made his preference clear. Without naming names, but unmistakably, he has asked that the Democrats of South Carolina defeat Senator Ellison D. Smith, opponent of some administration measures. And he has endorsed Senator William G. McAdoo of California for reelection.

Holds Key Position

Smith, a senate veteran who holds a key position as chairman of the agriculture committee, is opposed by Governor Olin D. Johnston, who has proclaimed himself a "100 per cent" New Dealer. Smith has said he voted for 80 per cent of administration measures and would continue to back such legislation except when the "best interests of South Carolina" required a contrary course.

Entering the contest after a third candidate, Edgar A. Brown, had withdrawn, Mr. Roosevelt said of Smith and Johnston:

"One of these candidates thinks in terms of the past and governs his actions accordingly. The other thinks in terms of 1938, 1948 and 1958 as well."

To Support Smith

State Senator Brown, who withdrew from the contest Saturday, indicated in a message to Governor Johnston yesterday that he would support Smith. He charged the governor had opposed a resolution in the 1932 state convention endorsing President Roosevelt and had "swung onto the administration" only after observing the president's personal popularity.

McAdoo has three rival candidates for his seat in the senate: John W. Preston, who calls himself "no rubber stamp," Sheridan Downey, an exponent of the Townsend plan, and James W. Mellen, an avowed opponent of the administration. The president made plain his preference for McAdoo on his recent trip to the coast.

Students of politics awaited the South Carolina results as an indication of how successfully Mr.

Green Branded As Renegade

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Chairman J. Warren Madden of the labor relations board acclaimed tonight the agreement between Kentucky coal operators and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

"America should rejoice in the reclamation of Harlan county and the critics of the national labor relation act should take the day off," he declared in a broadcast address.

Bristling Reply Is Made

Madden spoke shortly after Lewis had made a bristling reply to the charge of William Green, American Federation of Labor president, that the labor board's dismissal of complaints against Harlan, Ky., operators as a result of their agreement with Lewis' union was a "conspiracy" to violate the Wagner act.

Lewis said Green's statement was "characteristic of what might be expected from any traitorous renegade." He interpreted the Harlan agreement as the advent of industrial peace for "the long terrorized and disturbed Harlan mining communities."

Madden made no reference to Green but referred by implication to Senator Burke (D-Neb.), another

Are You A Sly Guy At "Flimsy Whimsy?"

(By NEA Service)

NEWEST slick trick for a smarty party is a game called "Flimsy Whimsy."

Rivaling the "Knock, Knock, Who's There?" game in daffiness, Flimsy Whimsy is supposed to produce a gang of laughs whenever it's tried at a convivial gathering.

The idea is simple—to combine two rhymed words to define a certain type of person, place, situation, anything. You think of the rhymed phrase first and then describe what you're thinking about in general terms and the partying-party you're questioning is supposed to come back with the rhyme.

For instance, if you're sports-minded you might ask what they call the shortstop of the Boston Bees when he makes an error. The answer being: Stumble Bumble.

Or you might have in mind a young woman carrying home a bunch of bundles, in which case the rhymed answer would be: Laden Maiden.

Swing music is bound to rear its ugly head in any such goings-on as these. So if someone asks you what they call a cabaret offering swing swing music, be sure to come back with: Jive Dive.

Sounds goofy, doesn't it? It is goofy—but it's also a lot of fun. 'Tis said a brainy zaney can think 'em up till the cows browze home.

You too can be a quiz whiz; just introduce Flimsy Whimsy next time you're invited out, and listen to them laugh when you sit down to play, etc. As a starter, see how you do on the sketches shown here. You're supposed to think up two rhyming words to describe (1) a vivacious girl golfer, (2) a movie villain, and (3) a gay old gent. You'll find the Flimsy Whimsy answers on Page 5.

Attorney Found Shot To Death

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Aug. 29.—Funeral services for James O. Guleke, Amarillo attorney and leader in Masonic and civic affairs, and former member of the state board of education, will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Central Presbyterian church here.

He was found dead, with a bullet wound in his head and a pistol beside him, in his hotel room at Socorro, N. M., early this morning.

Guleke had practiced law here since 1916 and was recognized as one of the outstanding lawyers in this section of the state. He had served as a member of the state board of education and as a member of the board of regents of West Texas State Teachers college, Canyon.

Honored By Masons

He had been honored on numerous occasions by Texas Masons, and at the time of his death he was district deputy grand master of the Masonic lodge. He was grand orator of the Grand Lodge of Texas in 1934.

Guleke's death came as he was preparing to return to Amarillo after a brief fishing trip in New Mexico with Mr. and Mrs. Loy Smith. Smith said Guleke appeared in good spirits all during the fishing trip, although he had been on the verge of a nervous breakdown. He had recently returned from a trip to Colorado for his health.

He is survived by his wife, three children, and a sister, Mrs. Herbert Hansen of Nanuet, N. Y.

Allred Spikes Talk Of Extra Session

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (AP)—Talk of a special session of the legislature to create a separate oil and gas commission was spiked today by Governor James V. Allred.

Speculation regarding a possible new commission was revived after C. V. Terrell, senior member of the railroad commission lost his race for renomination Saturday to young Jerry Sadler of Longview.

"I don't see any occasion," Allred said, "for a special session to create an oil and gas commission. The railroad commission, which supervises oil and gas production, is elected by the people."

Bold Warning Against Nazi Aggression Is Sounded By Britain To Check Threats

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 29—A bold warning against any German aggression against Czechoslovakia was understood projected today by key British ministers to check the dangerous drift of European events.

Informed sources suggested such a warning might be directed personally by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain to Chancellor Adolf Hitler who today inspected Germany's frontier fortifications facing France.

Decision With Cabinet

The final decision, however, rested with the cabinet. It will meet tomorrow to pass judgment on the prime minister's plans for easing the crisis welling from the dispute between Czechoslovakia and her autonomy-demanding Sudeten German minority.

As a prelude to the cabinet meeting, Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, reported to Chamberlain and other ministers on Germany's present attitude and intentions toward Czechaslovakia's minority problem.

Sir Nevile first saw Sir Robert Vansittart, diplomatic adviser to the government, and then Lord Halifax, foreign secretary. When Chamberlain returned from the country, there was a conference among the prime minister, foreign secretary, Sir Nevile and Sir Robert.

A direct meeting between the prime minister and an ambassador was pointed out as an unusual occurrence.

In weighing the outlook for the future, informed sources said they considered Hitler held the upper hand in event of a sudden open conflict because of German maneuvers which begin next Thursday and for which an estimated minimum of 1,000,000 men will be under arms.

Be Ahead Of Others

Military attaches said Germany thus would be fully ten days ahead of any other country should war break out suddenly.

This was interpreted as meaning any British cabinet action tomorrow certainly would fall short of threatening Germany with the possibility of armed reprisals either in the form of war or support of France if she should feel compelled to assist Czechoslovakia under the French-Czechoslovak mutual assistance pact.

Hitler's tour of Germany's western frontier fortifications, which began Saturday, took him today to Kehl, across from Strasbourg, France, and thence south toward Basel.

All traffic between Strasbourg and Kehl was stopped during his visit which served to intensify the atmosphere of anxiety in France over the forthcoming German ma-

O'Daniel Says People Will Decide His Political Fate

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Aug. 29.—W. Lee O'Daniel, Texas' governor-nominate, said today whether he would offer for a second term two years from now was "for the people themselves to decide."

As he announced he was discontinuing daily press conferences, the Fort Worth flour man said he would not use his administration to build "a machine" to perpetuate himself in public office. Press conferences will henceforth be confined to each Monday morning, he said.

He would go into office, he said, "with blood in my eye," to do what the people have said they want done, "and let the chips fall where they may."

O'Daniel said he had wanted the governorship because of the honor attached to it and "there's just as much honor in being governor two years as being governor four years."

"Whether I will be a candidate two years from now is for the people themselves to decide. That's right from the heart. I really mean it."

Oil Fields Are To Be Closed On Saturdays

Another Drastic Move Being Made In Texas In Effort To Cut Excessive Stocks

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 29.—Statewide Saturday oil field shutdowns were ordered by the Texas railroad commission today in another drastic move to eliminate excessive gasoline stocks.

Chairman C. V. Terrell and Ernest O. Thompson, constituting a majority of the commission, decided Texas wells should stand idle on both Saturdays and Sundays through September. Sunday closings have been in effect since January 15.

Basic Allowance Given

The commission said the basic production allowance for the state, counting the two day a week shutins, would be 1,233,248 barrels daily. This is approximately 12 per cent under the United States bureau of mines recommendation of 1,398,600 barrels.

The current allowable is approximately 1,410,000 barrels. The allowance at the start of the month, not considering Sunday shutdowns, was 1,614,805 barrels and that for September 1, not considering Saturday and Sunday closings is 1,649,493.

Exemptions Continued

Exemptions from the closings of the Texas portion of the tri-state Rodessa field and of wells which would be materially damaged by being shut in were continued.

Thompson said a return to Saturday shutdowns was necessary to eliminate pipe line proration and liquidate excessive stocks. Stocks of crude oil are much lower than a year ago but those of heating oils and gasoline are materially higher. The peak gasoline consuming season will end Labor day.

Texas had Saturday closings during the last three weeks of May and all of June.

Allowables For Districts

The allowables for the various districts, not considering the shutdowns, were as follows for August 1, August 18 and September 1:

East Texas, 513,893, 514,741 and 516,147; Panhandle, including Moore county and Osborne area, 81,590, 82,080 and 82,913; North Texas, including Anderson-Kerr, Foard county K.M.A. and Gant, 83,356, 86,693 and 88,008; West Central, 78,737, 79,760 and 79,067; West Texas, 219,671, 223,997 and 223,578; East Central, 111,094, 111,442 and 112,163;

New Record Is Set In Flight

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—Alexander P. De Seversky had an early breakfast in New York and a late luncheon in Los Angeles today.

The little Russian, who manfactures fast ships for the United States army, was 10 hours, three minutes and seven seconds between meals. This was the time for his one-stop flight as given by a timer for the National Aeronautical association, although it is subject to checking.

Big Fight Already Set In Congress

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. — Four months before congress convenes, the big battle of the coming session is rapidly developing.

President Roosevelt has said that the Wagner national labor relations act needs amending. Opening that law to revision obviously means a three-way struggle which could easily prove the most bitter since the president's court reorganization bill was defeated.

Opponents Lined Up

Even this far in advance, there is no doubt that the contest will find:

The bulk of industry, in one-camp, demanding greater protection for the employes and restrictions upon union activities.

The American Federation of Labor, in a second, insisting upon strong and specific safeguards for the collective bargaining rights of its craft unions, rivals of the industry-wide unions of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

An in the third camp, unquestionably, will be John L. Lewis and his C. I. O., vigorously and vehemently opposing any changes in the law first of all, but ready, if revision is attempted, to present and urge their own amendments, based largely upon the record of Senator La-Follette's investigation of anti-union tactics which the Wagner act has not prevented.

It seems clear that a fourth party to the controversy, the national labor relations board, target of the denunciations of industrial leaders and the federation alike, will oppose

Ten Texans Marooned Upon Mexican Coast Are Safe; Were Trapped By Storm

(By Staff Correspondent)

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 29. — An "o.k." traced in the sand on the Mexican coast spelled the safety of 10 Texans marooned there by a tropical hurricane which swept inland and took at least three lives in the Monterrey area.

Pilot Les Mauldin returned here this afternoon after a flight over the sparsely settled coast where the men had been isolated by wind and water.

Unable To Land

The pilot was unable to land because of the soggy condition of the beach, but one of the fishermen printed a large "o.k." in the sand as the plane flew over their temporary shelter 32 miles up the coast from eighth pass, where they had been fishing.

Joe Cline, Brownsville photographer, who accompanied Mauldin, said apparently the 10 Texans had been joined by other fishermen caught on the sand dunes when the blow came.

About 25 On Island

"There must have been 25 men on the island," Cline said. "They have built a hut of driftwood and seemed happy."

B. G. Eubank, fishing camp operator who also was in the plane with Mauldin, said the only way the men can get off the pass and to the Mexican mainland would be to wade a distance of six miles. Barges and pontoons used to transport cars to the islands had disappeared after the storm, the airmen reported.

The airmen dropped notes to the sportsmen telling them that they could wade 10 miles northward to the first pass where a fish truck

U. S. Plans To Meet Prices

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. — The agriculture department announced today its wheat export subsidy program would be carried out by purchasing wheat and reselling it to exporters at a price enabling them to meet competition in the world market.

Acting Secretary M. L. Wilson, who announced the policy in the absence of Secretary Wallace said the program would be handled by the Surplus Commodity corporation.

To Make Up Losses

He explained losses sustained by the corporation in reselling the wheat to exporters would be made up from customs receipts set aside by the farm law for the removal and disposal of farm surpluses.

The Surplus Commodities corporation has arranged to borrow $30,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and this sum will be used as a revolving fund in the exporting operations.

First purchases under the program were made last Saturday.

Similar To Canadian Plan

Wilson said in the actual sale of the wheat the corporation plans to pursue a merchandizing policy similar to that which has been adopted by the Canadian wheat board.

In carrying out the program, the facilities of the regular wheat and flour trade, including farmer cooperatives, will be used, he said.

Conflict Over Contributions To Political Funds Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — A conflict developed today between Chairman Sheppard (D-Texas), of the senate campaign expenditures committee, and Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as to whether federal employes could contribute legally to campaign funds.

Senator Sheppard asserted it was his interpretation of the law that no federal employe could give money to any person to be used for the benefit of a candidate for the senate or house, regardless of whether the contribution was voluntary.

Americans In Monterrey Said To Be Safe; Flood Is Worst In That Area In 30 Years

(By The Associated Press)

MONTERREY, Mex., Aug. 29. — Nine persons were reported drowned and property damages of millions of pesos resulted today as the most disastrous flood since 1909 struck this area in the wake of a hurricane which swept a portion of the Mexican gulf coast. Four hundred families were reported homeless.

Nine persons, all residents of Monterrey, who were returning home from Saltillo, were reported drowned when their three automobiles were washed away on the Monterrey-Saltillo highway. A wrecker that had gone to the aid of the stranded automobiles also was washed away by floodwaters, but the two occupants of the wrecker escaped.

Americans Thought Safe

No reports had been received of injury or death of any American tourists. The tourist courts and hotels are out of the flood area, it was explained, and all of them were crowded to capacity.

Although the total toll was reported as nine drowned, Mayor Leopoldo Trevino Garza of Monterrey said he had received reports of only three drownings. Many persons were missing in the lowlands of the Santa Catarina river, he explained.

Residential Area Inundated

Much of the property damage here, he said, was in the Colonia Independent district, a residential area in which some American industrialists live. Most of the city's residential area was partially or entirely covered by water.

Rescue workers were poling the debris of homes damaged by the storm which Garza said evidently moved toward Monterrey after striking Ciudad Victoria through high passes of the Sierras. He said he believed the storm had spent itself on the Tamaulipas mountain range.

Cut Off By Hurricane

Cuidad Victoria, which was cut off by the hurricane, had not been heard from. The industrial city of the state of Nuevo Leon was virtually isolated. Three bridges on the international highway between here and Victoria were washed away.

Garza said more than nine inches of rain had fallen in the Monterrey area in the last 36 hours. The Santa Catrina river is a tributary of the

BUTTONS, BUTTONS

BUTTONS as ornaments—in borders, rows down sleeves on cuffs and pockets and in unexpected places—is the word from Paris this fall. This is good news, both for the woman who makes her own frocks and for the gal on a budget who has learned the trick of substituting unusual buttons for those that come on unexpensive frocks. Both know that nothing gives dresses or coats that "expensive look" more quickly than interesting buttons of fine quality.

New wood or leather buttons—or what's just as smart—buttons that look as if they were made of those two compositions—are good for your tailored clothes. We saw a clever button the other day which may be available here. It is a leather button for "mad money." Of calf and saddle stitched, it holds a dime.

For dress-up clothes there are the new jewelry buttons—buttons made of silver or gold metal—decorated with filagree or semi-precious stones. Some of them are really jewel ornaments important substitute for costume jewelry.

Nation's Welfare Depends On Homes Says Lecturer Here

Mrs. W. G. Kennedy of Muleshoe, vice-president of district two of the Texas Home Demonstration association, told Lubbock County Home Demonstration council members Saturday afternoon farm women should be members of home demonstration clubs in order to be good homemakers. The lecture was given at a monthly meeting of the council in the district courtroom.

"The ideal homemaker is a good wife and mother and a good neighbor. The home is a unit of the nation and the wife and mother has a place to fill in the community," she said.

Thirteen clubs were represented with 25 members and 12 visitors attending.

The council has invited the Texas Home Demonstration association to meet in Lubbock next year.

Miss Martha Clowe Is Guest Speaker

One hundred twenty women attended a regular fifth Monday meeting of the Church Federation yesterday afternoon at the first Baptist church.

The program included a devotional led by Mrs. C. E. Hereford; a number, "The Lord's Prayer," sung by a girls' sextet; a talk on social service work by Miss Martha Clowe, supervisor in the city-county welfare association and committee reports.

The latter included: Literature, Mrs. Mark Allen; hospitalization, Mrs. Tom Foster, who stated the Federation had paid for five tonsilectomies for underprivileged children and has been assisted by the Junior Welfare League in paying for ten others; linen loan, Mrs. W. T. Milam; social service, Mrs. W. H. Johnston. The last report concerned activities in the community center which was begun a year ago in July and which has included Sunday afternoon programs and play nights on Friday.

Women of the host church and of the First Methodist Women's Missionary society were hostesses for a social hour conducted in the activity center.

BRAZILIAN CHOCOLATE

Two squares unsweetened chocolate (2 ounces), 1 1-2 cups double strength coffee (use 6 level tablespoons coffee and 2 cups water to make this), 4 tablespoons sugar, few grains of salt, 1 quart whole milk.

Heat chocolate, coffee, sugar and salt in top section of a double boiler, stirring until the mixture is well blended. Continue cooking for 5 minutes. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Then heat until mixture is hot.

Beat with a rotary egg beater until frothy. Cool slightly. Serve. Pour into glasses about 1-4 full of cracked ice.

For a summer night party, here is a beverage recipe that won't let your guests go home hungry.

VINEGAR WITH SPICE

Spiced vinegar lends a piquant flavor to meat and fish sauces or salad dressings. To make it mix three cups of vinegar, one teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon each of mustard, cinnamon, cloves, celery seed, paprika, mace and crushed bay leaf, four parsley sprigs and two tablespoons of granulated sugar. Boil together for two minutes. Strain and store in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Of Straight Lines

A supple black wool which looks like finest needlepoint makes a straight hanging, box coat. It is lavishly trimmed with black Persian lamb, has slit pockets and is shown with a high hat, large purse and suede oxfords.

Student Flier Safe After Plane Crash

TULSA, Aug. 29. (AP)—Julio Rodriguez, 23, of Santurce, Puerto Rico, a student pilot at the Spartan school of aeronautics, joined today the caterpillar club of airmen who save their necks by parachuting from faltering planes.

Rodriguez was unhurt when he leaped from his spinning training plane four miles northeast of the Tulsa municipal airport.

He speaks little English but acknowledged with a grin it was "some experience."

Takes To Parachute

The low-wing trainer started spinning at 5,000 feet, Rodriguez said. He tried vainly to pull it out of the spin and took to his parachute at about 3,000 feet.

The student landed on his feet, pulled down his chute and telephoned the school from a farmhouse that he was "o. k."

The plane splintered itself in a field.

Rodriguez entered the Spartan school in February. He has 52 hours of training to his credit.

PURPLE FOR SPORTS

For the lucky girls who can wear shades of lavender and purple, this combination is a happy choice for a sports ensemble. Joan Bennett, blond screen actress, wore a cleverly tailored sports jacket of lavender suede over an angora sweater and tweed skirt of deep purple at the Hollywood Turf Club the other day. Her fine felt hat matched the purple of her sweater and skirt. Bag and pumps were of black patent, gloves of natural pigskin.

Minotaur Club Will Stage "Foo Week"

Giving members of the Minotaur high school boys' club a last opportunity for get togethers before school starts, "Foo week" will be initiated today. A breakfast at Wylie's drug store at 8 o'clock this morning will be followed with games at the Lubbock Tennis club. Carey May, Clark Kimmel, Jimmy Kilpatrick and Garmer Shaffer will be hosts.

Tonight M. B. Hilburn, jr., and Clark Kimmel are to give a scavenger hunt at 8 o'clock.

To Give Swimming Party

Wednesday morning Bud Kennedy, Cary May, Armond Samson and Charles Hvass will be hosts with a swimming party at 8 o'clock at Mackenzie State park and that night Billy Martin and Quanah Maddox will entertain with an 8 o'clock theater party.

Roger Kuykendall, Robert Allen, jr., and Armond Samson will give a sports dance at the Lubbock Country club Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Friday's activities will feature a stag party at the Hilton hotel with Quanah Maddox, Bud Kennedy, Charles Hvass and Billy Martin as hosts.

Saturday night Carey May and Bud Kennedy are to give a hay ride that will terminate at Buffalo Springs where a picnic supper will be served. This will be at 8 o'clock.

A banquet will be given at the Hilton hotel Sunday night.

Japanese Army Pushing Ahead

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30. (Tuesday) (AP)—Invading Japanese forces pushed further into Central China today both north and south of the Yangtze river and on the river itself both United States and British gunboats were warned by the Japanese navy to look out for themselves.

Japanese naval authorities here, asked to comment on Hankow dispatches concerning the explosion of a mine dangerously near the United States gunboat Monocacy, said they had no information on this incident but made it clear the Japanese navy was opposed to the movements of both the Monocacy and the British gunboat Cockchafer nearby "while the campaign is going on in that region."

Serious Dispute Arises

(Honghong dispatches disclosed a serious dispute had arisen over the rights of the American gunboat in the Yangtze sector near Kiukiang, controlled by the Japanese. The Monocacy was shaken but undamaged by a mine explosion only 80 yards from the vessel's anchorage Saturday.

(Commanding Officer Lieut. C. V. Conlan protested to the Japanese vice consul at Kiukiang, according to reliable information, but was told that foreign warships traveled these waters at their own risk.

Japanese Responsible

(The Japanese vice consul was understood to have refused to permit the Monocacy to proceed downstream toward Shanghai, and to have suggested that foreign warships at Hankow proceed up the river. Lieut. Conlan was reported to have told the Japanese official he would hold the Japanese responsible for any mishap resulting from the Japanese operations.)

On land the Japanese said they pushed 20 miles southwest of Liuan, important town 130 miles north of Kuikiant which the invaders occupied Sunday night. On the south bank of the Yangtze they reported they lunged west of Jiuchang, infantry forces following up a severe aerial attack in which Japanese planes dropped tons of explosives. Juichang is 30 miles southwest of Kiukiang.

Between these two advances, however, the Chinese staged an eastward offensive, indicating the Japanese, either deliberately or under Chinese pressure, had again changed their line of approach toward Hankow, main objective in the Yangtze drive.

It appeared certain the Japanese had abandoned and the Chinese had reoccupied key positions along a north-south line in southern Anywhei.

LUSCIOUS LIMES

When buying limes, select fruit which is heavy for its size and really green. These will contain the most juice and have the best flavor. Watch out for decay at the stem end or any sign of mold or discoloration on the skin which may affect the flavor of the fruit.

Prosperity For France Noted

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Henry Morgenthau, jr., secretary of the treasury, returned from a month on the French Riveria today saying he was impressed with the good humor of the French people and convinced France is prospering.

The secretary had nothing to say on war debts, the tri-partite currency agreement, or war scares, but he spoke freely of French crops, the tourist season and the apparent prosperity of hotels both inland and on the coast.

Did Not Discuss Debts

Asked if he had discussed war debts while over there he said, "no one made me an offer."

Jules Bache, international banker, returned on the same liner expressing the opinion there would be no war in Europe although "nearly everyone believes there will."

Commenting on business affairs, Bache said:

"I don't believe pump-priming, a fine radio voice and a smile will make good times. We're in a famine now but there should be a feast afterwards."

Texas Legionnaires And Sons Swing Through Austin In Four-Mile Parade

Convention To Close Tuesday

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (AP)—To the blare of martial music, 2,000 overseas-capped American Legionnaires swung down Congress avenue in the shadow of the Texas capitol here today, climaxing the second day's program of the 20th annual Texas convention.

The four-mile parade was marked by the appearance of more than 600 youths, members of the Sons of the Legion, who paced their dads along the route.

Frivolity Contributed

The 40 and 8, fun-making Legion auxiliary, contributed frivolity to the procession, one appearing in a uniform made entirely of "Hill Billy" flour sacks and carrying a plate of hamburger-sized "biscuits."

In the preceding business session, the Legionnaires and their wives heard Assistant Secretary of War Louis A. Johnson advocate a policy of armament for defense in order that the nation might be free to promote the ideals of Americanism.

Must Stand On Guard

"So long as some members of the family of nations make force and threats of force their national policies, we must stand on guard," Johnson said.

Meeting in the spacious senate chamber, the Legionnaires also heard their commander, Dr. W. J. Danforth of Fort Worth, deliver his report.

Pointing out Texas membership had mounted to 24,000, Danforth urged his "fellow-workers" to "carry on" their programs of Americanization through flag and citizenship education, sponsoring Boy Scout troops and junior baseball to prevent juvenile delinquency, and petitioning the state legislature to enact the child welfare provisions of the federal social security program.

Campaigns Under Way

Campaigns were under way to elect Danforth and Larry S. Daniel of Abilene as national executive committeemen while delegates from Fort Worth, Waco and Laredo worked for selection of their city for next year's convention.

Informal lobby conversation indicated Vincent Chiodo of Houston prominently mentioned for the post of commander of the Texas department, might have competition for the office in L. J. Roberts of Borger.

General James A. Drain, first national commander and official of the social security board in Washington, deplored the fact Texas had not perfected its setup for child welfare work and informed the assemblage 40,000,000 men and women in the country had applied for assistance in one form or another.

A contest among Legion bands and bugle corps was scheduled tonight, to be followed by a dance at the University of Texas gymnasium.

The convention will conclude tomorrow.

Uncle Sam Condemns "Lash Lure" Here

Although it was interpreted as a possible reform movement on the part of the government, the United States of America gave another reason for condemning 34 cartons of "Lash Lure" in possession of a Lubbock beauty supply company here.

The government filed with Mrs. Olive Fluke, U. S. deputy district clerk, a libel proceeding against the commodity and ordered C. E. Luce, deputy marshal, to confiscate it, which he did.

The product is used by women to darken their eyelashes.

Back To The Reason

But back to the reason set out by the government:

The article, as alleged by Clyde O. Eastus, U. S. district attorney, contained a substance known—more probably unknown—as paraphenylenediamine. The best Webster could do in defining the substance was to take off the first four letters and call phenylenendiamine "any of three isomeric crystalline compounds $C_6H_4(NH_2)_2$ diamino derivatives of benzene."

Uncle Sam alleged the substance "may render it injurious to users under conditions prescribed on label." The substance was described as poisonous or deleterious.

It was pointed out the product was shipped from Los Angeles, Calif., July 20 and was in the same condition at the time it was ordered taken as when shipped from California.

The product allegedly does not conform to the federal food, drug, and cosmetic act.

Policeman Campaigns Against Himself As Demo Delegate

CAMBRDGE, Mass., Aug. 29. (AP)—Thomas H. Leary, policeman and unwilling candidate for Democratic convention delegate, is about ready to bow to fate and let himself get elected.

Leary was nominated while he was away on his vacation. Since then he has campaigned against himself. He even interviewed several defeated candidates in past elections—to find out how to lose votes.

Now, he reports, somebody broke into his car and stole his notes on "secrets of failure."

German Refuge Smuggles His Fortune Out In Bale Of Hops

HARWICH, England, Aug. 29. (AP)—How a German refugee smuggled £5,000 ($25,000) out of Germany in the middle of a bale of hops was told today by customs officials here.

The anxious consignee met a German hops shipment personally, they said, claimed the money hidden in tubes inside one of the bales and headed for Kenya colony in East Africa.

The refugee said the mony was his entire fortune.

Revision Seen For Ordinance

The city commission will attempt to revise its livestock zoning ordinance instead of appealing from an injunction issued by Judge Daniel A. Blair in 72nd district court Friday forbidding enforcement of the present regulation. This course was decided upon Monday at a special commission meeting.

Mayor Carl E. Slaton, City Manager W. H. Rodgers, City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley and City Engineer Marlin R. Smith, jr., were named members of a special committee to make a survey of livestock zone boundaries with the view of excluding certain portions from the attempted zoning.

Will Exclude Tracts

Judge Blair remarked, in granting the injunction which restrains the city from enforcement of the ordinance, that the zones described in the ordinance included large tracts of land which are entirely bare of buildings. One such tract, he pointed out, is approximately 40 acres in area.

Should the ordinance be revived, members of the commission were informed, it probably will exclude such objectionable tracts and will have the effect of replacing the law named in Blair's injunctive order.

Members of the commission were of the opinion that a new ordinance would be a speedier method than appealing from Judge Blair's decision. Even if the appeal should be successful, it was explained, several months would elapse before a higher court ruling could be obtained.

The injunction, which is now in effect, was granted on the application of 16 individuals named as residents of the city and the owners of livestock.

New Orleans Philanthropist Taken By Death Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29. (AP)—Mrs. John Dibert, philanthropist whose donations, chiefly to New Orleans hospitals and religious institutions, were estimated at $2,000,000, died Saturday night. The funeral was yesterday.

Mrs. Dibert, the former Miss Ever Butterworth, of Woodville, Miss., was married in 1884 to Captain John Dibert, wealthy banker and lumber man, at Orange, Texas. They came here 35 years ago. Captain Dibert died in 1912. There were no children.

Charges That Efforts Are Being Made To Destroy Church In Germany Are Denied

BERLIN, Aug. 29. (AP)—A propaganda ministry spokesman today branded as "nonsense" charges made by Germany's Roman Catholic hierarchy in a pastoral letter that efforts were being made in Germany to destroy the church.

"The government is paying millions of marks annually to the church and the fact that the reading of the letter was possible clearly demonstrates that there can be no talk about persecution," he said.

Answering the bishops' charge that "unparalleled, ugly, concentric attacks and outrages" were used against Bishop Johann Sproll who was expelled from Wurttemberg last Thursday, the spokesman said the Nazis had acted solely to protect the bishop.

"Sproll, who was a German citizen, violated one of the fundamental principals of German citizenship by not participating in the April 10 plebiscite (on union of Austria with Germany)," he declared.

"This naturally led to demonstrations against the bishop."

New Building Record For Any Month In Year Set Monday

A new building record for months of this year was set Monday with issuing of 16 permits authorizing construction and repairs estimated to cost $23,335.

The August total climbed to $273,848.25, approximately $11,000 more than July's aggregate, until this month the largest for this year's months.

Figure for the year rested at $1,770,830.43, within approximately a quarter of a million dollars of the entire total for 1937, building authorities pointed out.

Permits for $1,000 or more went to: Mark Blair, owner, and J. E. Ligon, contractor, residence at 2405 Twenty-sixth street, $3,000; Dr. J. W. Phillips, owner, and J. E. Walker, contractor, repair residence at 614 Avenue K, $1,800; Mrs. Pearl Tatum, owner, and C. B. Harris, contractor, service station at 1501 Avenue V, $1,885; Guy Rozelle, owner and contractor, residence at 2425 Twenty-seventh street, $3,500; Ed O'Dell, owner and contractor, residence at 2011 Texas avenue, $1,000; Irma Clay, owner and contractor, brick veneer residence and garage at 2519 Twenty-fourth street, $5,525; L. P. Vaughn, owner and contractor, residence at 1513 Twenty-fifth street, $3,650.

More Than 1,000 Invitations To Conference Are Mailed

In cooperation with plans for a district public health conference to be conducted Sept. 7 in Hilton hotel, more than 1,000 invitations to all sections of West Texas were mailed from the chamber of commerce Monday.

The letter follows previous personal invitations sent out by the recently organized public health association by those attending a short course at Texas Technological college and from Dr. H. H. Puckett, district director of public health.

The meeting here, the letter explained, is in line with a widespread movement seeking to correct public health conditions in Texas. The letter remarks that "Texas is one of the most backward states in the union as regards public health. Deaths in Texas fron preventable diseases have a much higher ratio than for the nation."

MUST HOLD ELECTIONS

FORT WORTH, Aug. 29. (AP)—George M. Bull, regional PWA director, announced today cities which must hold bond elections to meet their part of the cost of projects financed by the PWA should hold them not later than Oct. 1, 1938.

Application For New Airline Is Entered

Lubbock may be served by an airline yet.

Braniff airlines of Oklahoma City has filed notice of intention to serve San Antonio and Denver, as well as intermediate points of San Angelo, Big Spring, Lubbock and Amarillo, said a letter to the chamber of commerce from Robert J. Smith, vice president of the airlines.

The intention was filed Aug. 22 with the civil aeronautics authority.

Recently, the postoffice department had expressed itself as not being interested "at this time" in another airline which would have joined Lubbock with San Antonio and Amarillo as terminus points.

A conference will be had this week with another airline which had evidenced interest in service from El Paso through Carlsbad, Hobbs, Roswell, Lubbock, Amarillo and into Pueblo, Colo., from which point the line had a direct route into El Paso. The proposed route would tie up with fast transcontinental lines at each terminus. The postoffice department had sent word it would survey the proposed line.

SCAT GOES THE WEASEL

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—City employees gaped in astonishment and two women took to chairs when a weasel visited the municipal building in mid-afternoon. The weasel walked up the front steps, surveyed the treasurer's and building inspector's offices, then scampered out the front door and into a churchyard.

Roosevelt Gets Down To Work

BOSTON, Aug. 29. (AP)—His two months honeymoon at an end, John A. Roosevelt, youngest son of the president, settled down today to a business career with a job as a stock clerk—at $18 a week—in a Boston department store.

A tall young man with a familiar smile, John had orders to report for work—through the employes' entrance where he was to punch a time clock—not later than 9:20 a. m.

And for a half hour after sales clerks have left for the day, John will continue to push a merchandise truck through the long aisles of the store, replenishing stocks for the next day's business.

Start Night Work

In September he will be initiated into night work—when the store starts its winter program of advertising classes two evenings a week. John has said he wanted to make advertising his life work.

He told his new employers he wanted no favors or special privileges. The management assured him he would get none.

His one hour lunch period won't permit him time to go home for lunch, but at night he will join his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, in a Brooklyn apartment in a building where rents average $100 a month.

WE USE TILLYER LENSES FOR YOUR GLASSES— THEY'RE BEST FOR YOUR EYES

FATHER or SON—

Which needs good eyesight more?

The answer is simple. Both need it. In fact good eyesight is just about the most important thing in the world to both. Father is the breadwinner—he needs good eyesight day in and day out to stay on top of his job. Headaches and eyestrain means inefficiency on the job—irritability at home.

Growing boys and girls need clear vision equally as much. Bad eyesight and eye habits mean failing marks at school—inability to get along with classmates—grief later on. The fortunate thing is that good eyesight is within the reach of all. A visit to your oculist will reveal the truth about your eyesight.

If glasses are needed, Tillyer lenses provide the finest aid to normal vision. They are scientifically made to give you the same clear vision at all angles. There are no blurs, no distortions.

Lubbock, Wink Open Shaughnessy Saw-Off Here Tonight

Thousand Extra Seats Added At Ball Park

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

For the first time in more than a decade, Lubbock has a professional baseball club striving for a league championship.

The Hubbers, winners of the pennant on a straight-through basis, tonight tangle with the Spudders of Wink at the Lubbock park in the first game of a three-out-of-five-game series destined to qualify a finalist in the 1938 West Texas-New Mexico league pennant race.

The game tonight begins at 8:30 o'clock, and Tommy Fleming, a youth from Indiana who was signed by Chicago White Sox authorities on the basis of his pitching ability in semi-professional and sandlot baseball, will take the hill for the Hubbers against the Spudders in the opening Shaughnessy system play-off game.

Fleming On Spot

Fleming, a tall, good-natured, handsome righthander who joined the staff only a few weeks ago, but who has proved his ability by winning some outstanding games, will be the "man on the spot" tonight when he faces the determined Spudders.

Lubbock's Hubbers, personal property of the Chicago White Sox, won the straight-through pennant race with a margin of nine games to spare. But in Shaughnessy play-offs, it is very, very unusual for the first place team to come through with a pennant.

Wink won fourth place in the regular league schedule, qualifying therefore to meet the No. 1 team. The Spudders have been doing very well by themselves in latter games of the regular season, stalling off the Big Spring Barons, who aspire to the fourth place hole, by defeating Midland and Clovis and Hobbs recently.

Champ Of 1938 Returns

Manager Jodie Tate, a favorite skipper of the league, brings his hard-hitting Winks here today to start defense of the championship they won last year. Wink won the Shaughnessy play-off last season with little trouble, and sold enough players to more than "come out" financially for the season.

So Wink is back in the title race again, this time against Lubbock.

Survivor of the series starting tonight will qualify for the championship series. While Wink is playing Lubbock, Midland will be playing Clovis. Winner of the Midland-Clovis series will stand ready to meet the winner of the Lubbock-Wink series for the league flag. This series will be the best four out of seven games.

Wink's pitcher tonight is an unknown quantity. Red Roberts, who has had good luck against Lubbock all season, is reported to have "jumped the club," but this story has had no verification from Wink. Molly Ferguson, a righthander with plenty of stuff, who also had his fair luck against Lubbock all season, is expected to start, if Roberts does not show up.

General Manager Harry Faulkner of the Hubbers announced last night that one thousand extra seats had been set up at the local park for accomodation of cash customers through the Shaughnessy series.

Extra Bleachers Borrowed

Bleachers have been borrowed from Sled Allen, Auditorium wrestling promoter, and the Hubber management "wishes to express sincere thanks for the loan of the bleachers," said Faulkner.

So there should be seating accommodation for all, except the late comers. The covered grandstand accomodates about 1,200 fans. The permanent bleachers take care of about 300 more, and the extra seats will accomodate a seated crowd of 2,500 or more.

The regular Hubber lineup will be ready for the series, no injuries having been reported. Bob Mosel, best fielding first baseman of the league, will be at his usual post, with Malcolm Stevens, the league's leading hitter, at second base, Joe Gedzius, unanimous choice for shortstop in the league, at that post, and Johnny Taylor, all-West Texas-New Mexico third baseman, at the hot corner.

Manager Hack Miller intimated that he would play in left field, with Pete Melito taking over the catching duties, and Boyd Watkins playing center, Al Carr in right field.

Wink is expected to come through with its usual hustle, plus the desire to win a second straight league championship. Happy Spangler, a favorite third baseman, is expected to lead off and play that position, with Simpson next, at shortstop; Johnny Stone, right field; Le Muller at left field, Jubela at first base, Wano at second, Reeves at center, Bates catching.

The Clovis Pioneers, second place team in the straight-through campaign move to Midland for the first two games of the series. Winner of that series, will meet either Lubbock or Wink for the league pennant.

Toes The Slab

TOMMY FLEMING, the Indian righthander, takes the mound tonight against the Wink Spudders in the first of the Shaughnessy play-off series. He appears today as Lubbock's starting hurler against the Wink Spudders.

Bihl Advances In City Open

Medalist Joe Bihl advanced to the second round of the annual Lubbock City Open golf championship tournament yesterday with a 4-3 victory over Carl Nail, and stood ready to approach a third golf championship this year.

Bihl won the West Texas Golf association championship in June at Lubbock Country club, followed that by winning the Country club championship two weeks ago, and qualified as medalist for the current city open.

The defending city open champion, Edgar Doherty, did not play yesterday. He is scheduled to play Bill Hackett in the first round. Players are given through today to complete first round matches. Two days will be allowed for second round matches, two days for semi-finals, and one day, next Sunday, for finals in all flights.

Counts Defeats Allen

Three other matches were played in the championship flight yesterday. Weldon Counts defeated Manson Allen in a mild upset, 1 up. Alfred Holton won C. Thompson, 6 and 4, and Bob Hale, second in the qualifying with a 64, won from C. Galbraith, 6 and 4.

Championship flight first round matches to be completed are:

Ed Doherty vs. Bill Hackett, winner to meet Counts; Loftin Burnette vs. Jack Trammel. Don Doherty vs J. K. Bradshaw, winners to meet; J. Marshall vs. Cecil Horne, winner to meet Bihl.

Only two matches were played in the second flight. Lee Hubby defeated W. A. Gregwich, 1 up, and F. L. McRee won from T. Patterson, 3 and 2.

In other first round matches, to be played today, L. E. Works meets Ed Bates, Harvey Austin plays Hugh Anderson, Tommy Murphy meets J. Webster, Arthur Yaggy meets Amos Howard, J. D. Hinson plays J. D. Farmer, and O. A. Terry plays Ted Tipps.

Other Results

Six third flight matches were played, with the following results:

Bill Perry defeated Charles Hvass, 5 and 3; Sled Allen won from Walt Seeley, 3 and 2; Lee Michie defeated W. F. Helwig, 1 up; Leland Mast beat F. Sandlin, 8 and 7; J. B. Galland won from Bert Pinson, 1 up, and Carrol Claiborne defeated Sam Parkinson, 4 and 2. Incomplete matches: W. L. Hale meets George Langford, and John Wilson plays A. B. Holton.

Fourth flight results: C. C. Smith won from H. A. Padgett by forfeit; C. W. Goodgion advanced on a bye, as did Ford Benham, Hugh Horne, Bill Martin, M. E. Heard, and Melvin Best defeated R. L. Stovall, 5 and 4.

RUDY MEETS DEAN

DALLAS, Aug. 29. (AP)—Chester Rudy, New London, Conn., battler who last week decisioned Billy Deeg of San Antonio, the state welterweight champion, will face Irish Johnny Dean of Philadelphia in a 10-round bout here Friday night, promoter Dick Griffin announced today.

Ruth Slated To Boss Dodgers Next Season

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Don't say we didn't tip you off but. . .

Babe Ruth will succeed Burleigh Grimes as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Babe, lured to the Flatbushers as coach with a promise of the pilot's job next season, is slated to make his bow as the Flatbush maestro during the annual shopping spree at the minor league meetings next winter at New Orleans. In taking over the job, Ruth will have wasted a few years. He could have had it two years ago but refused it.

Budge To Go Pro

Donald Budge will open his tennis professional career against Ellsworth Vines at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 7 or 9. After 40 matches with Vines, unless they are crowd packers, Don will take on Fred Perry for an equal number. Gene Mako hasn't made up his mind but is regarded as a cinch to team with Budge as a doubles partner for the pro tour.

Unless she turns professional, meeting the U. S. singles winner in a winter tour, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is through with tournament tennis. Alice Marble is her hope to win the nationals and a great touring pair they'd make. But if Helen Jacobs wins, Mrs. Moody will give up all thoughts of turning pro and settle down to designing, writing, and probably another marriage to a west coast sportsman.

Henry Armstrong, triple champion of the ring, no longer has the boys scared. Since Luigi Ambers put up such a gallant though losing fight against the windmill man in defense of his lightweight crown, challengers are coming out of their cyclone cellars in droves.

Giants And Yanks?

Price tags will dangle from almost every major league ball player except those of the high riding New York Yankees next winter but the business will be dull as usual.

Reports that Carl Hubbell never can come back are mere guesswork. Nobody will know until he starts to pitch—and then it won't be sure until he works at least a dozen games.

The Grand National cripple handicap, officially known as the 1938 National League pennant race, is getting hotter and funnier. The Chicago Cubs have the best chance to overtake Pittsburgh but this corner still fears the Giants will win, thereby setting up the saddest World Series picture in years. A third straight series between the Yanks and Giants will just about kill cock robin.

Public Links Champ Is Out Of A Job

CLEVELAND, Aug. 29. (AP) — Al Leach, Clevelander who won the National Public Links golf championship Saturday, parted today from his $73.50-a-month job as a WPA timekeeper.

The ex-caddy reported for work at a road widening project but the head timekeeper wasn't around. Some of Leach's co-workers cited a rule that absence for five consecutive working days take a man off the payroll.

Leach said he'd been practicing and playing in the national tournament for 16 of the last 17 days and surmised he didn't have a job left.

So he went out to play some more golf, predicting something would "show up."

Well, What's Your Idea? Managers Differ Upon Cause Of "Sore Arms"

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Ford Frick's conclusion that the "rabbit" ball is responsible for the epidemic of sore arms among pithers has been greeted with a minged chorus of "rights" and "wrongs" from the managers of the two major leagues.

The young president of the National League told the Associated Press he was convinced the lively pellet was forcing the pitchers to burn themselves out five pilots are in thorough agreemnt with him; eight think it is simply coincidence, or something, that has seen so many valuable arms go smashthis season; three aren't saying what they think.

Grimes With Frick

Burleigh Grimes of the Brooklyn Dodgers emitted the hottest blast in support of his league chief:

"Frick's absolutely right, but he should have gone out for a lower ball two years ago. The pitche has been the man to suffer all the way through. The ball should be slowed down, and if the manufacturers say they can't do that, somebdy should go out after them."

Sarge Gabby Street of the St. Louis Browns was almost equaly vehement about it:

"The only solution is to brin back the spitball. There's nothin dangerous about it and it gives th pitcher something to bluff with. A matters are now, pitching is no skill. It's bravery."

On the other hand, such a veteran of the game as Connie Mack of the Athletics couldn't see Frick's theory for dust. "I can't see any difference today from five years ago," he said, thoughtfully. "It's just one of those things."

Others were equally certain the ball wasn't to blame. Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs, a slugger in his own right, went so far as to insist the batters were getting all the worst of it, and Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox thought maybe the pitchers weren't warming up sufficiently before entering the box.

Other comments:

Del Baker, Detroit: "It should be evened up in some way. Probably the liveliness of the ball ought to be cut to some extent."

Bill McKechnie, Cincinnati: "Naturally the new balls are better to hit and the pitchers can do more with old balls." (Frick had complained, too, that too many shiny, new balls were used in every game.)

Pit Traynor, Pittsburgh: "In my opinion the lively ball has nothing to do with the epidemic of sore arms."

Casey Stengel, Boston Bees: "The rabbit in the ball causes sore arms."

Bucky Harris, Washington: "The ball has had nothing to do with the pitching breakdown. Grove, Hubbell and Dean were just due to go—Dean because he was burned out and others because of their ages."

Frankie Frisch, Cardinals: "Warneke, French, Lee, Derringer and others are pitching with the same ball, and they don't have sore arms."

"Individual Cases"

Jimmy Wilson, Phils: "I don't blame the ball. The sore arms seem to be a physical matter."

Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox: "I'm inclined to the belief it has nothing to do with the ball, but that the trouble originates in each individual cases."

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees, Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians and Bill Terry of the New York Giants would not express an opinion.

Pirates Smack Dodgers To Increase Lead

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29. (AP)—The Pirates, who have been up and down so much the last week even Manager Pie Traynor hasn't been able to keep track, definitely were up today as they scored eight runs in the first three innings and went on to slaughter the Brooklyn Dodgers, 10 to 1.

Since the second place Giants, meanwhile, were losing to Cincinnati, Pittsburgh's National League lead was boosted back to five-and-a-half games. The Giants open a four-game series here tomorrow.

BROOKLYN ..... 001 000 000— 1 9 1
PITTSBURGH ..... 233 000 20x—10 15 0

REDS BEAT GIANTS

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29. (AP)— The Reds scored five runs in the seventh inning today to end their five-game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over the New York Giants, who were left holding second place in the National League by only one percentage point over the Chicago Cubs.

John Cobb To Seek Speed Record In Utah Today

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 29. (AP)—Balked by rain, John Cobb, bulky and genial London broker, set dawn tomorrow for his attempt to break the three day old world's land speed record of 345.49 miles per hour set by his compatriot, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

Cobb was to have gunned his low slung automobile down the 13-mile salt course this morning but a thunderstorm that broke after midnight made the going too treacherous.

BASEBALL CHALLENGE

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 29. (AP)—C. P. Moseley, president of the East Texas league, today sent a challenge to Walter Morris, Shreveport, president of the Cotton State league, for a playoff between the pennant winners in the two circuits.

Moseley suggested a four-out-of-seven series.

Hotel Employes Identify Hines As Man Seen In Company Of Dutch Schultz

Defendant Remains Calm During Testimony Going Against Him

By JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. — District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's Connecticut witnesses — the Bridgeport hotel employes who served Dutch Schultz in the summer of 1935 when he was having federal income tax troubles—were called to the witness stand today to identify James H. Hines as the gray-haired man they saw in the racketeer's company three years ago.

Charles W. Hughes, former assistant manager of the Hotel Barnum, Bridgeport, identified Hines without hesitation.

Others Are Positive

John Pucher, head waiter in the Pine room of the Hotel Stratfield, Bridgeport, was just as positive of his identification.

So was Charles Wall, a former bellhop.

Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief defense counsel, sought to no avail to make them admit they might have been mistaken about Hines.

It was Dewey's answer to Stryker's bitter attack on the credibility of George Weinberg, gangster payoff man of the Schultz policy racket.

Details Of Trip Told

Weinberg, indicted with Hines for conspiracy and operating the racket, swore last week that Hines accompanied him to Bridgeport in the summer of 1935 to visit Schultz who wished to tell the Tammany district leader personally that retrenchment necessitated a cut of $250 weekly in "protection" payments.

Weinberg, who pleaded guilty and turned states's evidence, swore Hines was paid $500 a week and more for protection against police raids and court convictions for the policy mobsters and the 6,000 men and women they employed in the $20,000,000-a-year racket.

Hines Remains Calm

Hines, calm in the face of the identifications, sat quietly in supreme court throughout the day, his blue eyes on the witnesses, his hands sometimes toying with the horn-rimmed glasses he occasionally wears.

Dewey sought further to corroborate Weinberg's testimony by calling John J. Kearns, a vice president of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce, and former Mayor Leslie V. Bateman, of nearby Mount Vernon.

Weinberg had sworn that when things got "too hot" for the policy banks in 1934 they moved to Mount Vernon after Weinberk had consulted Hines, who arranged a meeting with Bateman through another man. Bateman and Kearns confirmed parts of Weinberg's story.

Speaks In Low Voice

Hughes, a slender, diffident man of 28 who rarely smiled, spoke in a voice so low that not even the frequent admonitions of Justice Pecora could raise and sustain it.

With little show of emotion he picked out Hines as the man he had seen twice with Schultz.

"The first time I recall was seeing him (Hines) walking through the lobby from the elevator," he said.

"And the second time?" asked Dewey.

"I saw him again in that coffee shop," he answered. Hines, he said, was seated at a table with Schultz and his bodyguard, "Lulu" Rosenkranz.

Clings To His Story

Through all of Stryker's cross-examination Hughes clung to his story that he had seen Hines.

During the long, tedious cross-examination and brief re-direct questioning of Hughes, Dewey and Stryker argued heatedly. Even Justice Ferdinand Pecora smiled behind his hand when Dewey, grinning under his mustache, mimicked Stryker in one of his more persistent attitudes toward the witness.

Kearns and Bateman, who were not cross-examined, were questioned by Dewey concerning efforts of the Schultz mob to move the policy headquarters to the quiet business suburbs when police raided the operations too persistently in Harlem.

Didn't Hear Conversation

Kearns testified that at the instance of John F. Plunkett, former superintendent of buildings, and a friend he identified as a member of Hines' political club, he took Plunkett and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, Schultz's lawyer, and later Davis and George Weinberg to see Bateman. He said he did not hear their conversation.

Bateman, who was mayor of Mount Vernon from Jan. 1, 1932, to Dec. 31, 1935, identified a picture of Weinberg, but could not identify one of Davis. He recalled the visits and Weinberg's attempts to "interest me in a proposition where I could put on a dozen and a half or two dozen clerks."

Weinberg, the witness said, explained that the business was "something that was not popular with the police."

Was Not Interested

But Bateman said he was not interested.

The state contends that when the policy racket got too dangerous to handle safely in 1934 Schultz and Weinberg moved the banks to Mount Vernon after Hines had arranged to have it done through Plunkett, who introduced Davis and Weinberg to Kearns.

Pucher, the middle-aged Austrian head-waiter indicated Hines in court as "the gentleman with the blue suit with the gray hair."

At Dewey's request he stepped down from the witness stand and pointed to Hines unerringly. He well remembered seeing Hines, he said.

Pucher, his voice firm, his Germanic accent strong, was positive. He had seen many men in his life. He had been a head waiter all his life. He remembered Hines, though he had seen him only briefly.

Wall, who is 30 and a native of Sheffield, England, testified he was bellhop and later clerk and cashier at the Hotel Barnum. He was a bellhop in 1935 when Schultz occupied a three-room suite, he said.

Without hesitation he pointed Hines out as the man he had taken up in an elevator in the hotel.

"He asked me which was the way to room 904," Wall said, and added in response to a question by Dewey, that room 904 was the main room of Schultz's suite.

"Off Day" Gave Yankees Title?

GERMANTOWN, Pa., Aug. 29. (AP)—It was an "off day" and not "possum-playing strategy" that cost Australia's Davis Cup team its recent match with the American pair from whom they'll try to take the cup next weekend.

This was the explanation offered today by Harry Hopman, non-playing team captain, for the defeat of Adrian Quist and John Bromwich by Don Budge and Gene Mako in the national doubles championship final at Brookline, Mass., Saturday.

The Anzacs took only six games from the sorching red-head and his blond partner. Quist called it "a natural letdown."

"Just an off day for the boys," Hopman said as the Australians arrived to practice for the challenge round beginning at Germantown Cricket club Saturday. "We weren't playing 'possum. Why should we?"

To Be Troublesome

The unorthodox young men from down under—Bromwich is ambidextrous and Quist plays backhand shots with both hands-left the Brookline courts the decided underdogs in Davis Cup speculation. But they seemed unperturbed when they arrived here and promised to give the cup defenders a tough battle.

George Lott, Vincent Richards and a trio of Japanese net stars will help drill the Australians.

Bromwich, Quist and Len Schwartz, the team's "spare," tuned up today and announced they would practice every day unless they found themselves getting too "fine."

Joe Hunt, the "extra" on the American team, arrived last night. Budge, Mako and Bobby Riggs were expected tonight.

East Texas League Playoff To Begin

(By The Associated Press)

Four top position winners in the East Texas League season just closed, Marshall, Texarkana, Tyler and Henderson, girded tonight for the beginning tomorrow of a Shaughnessy playoff, annual method of selecting a pennant winner.

Not one of the quartette has ever gained the loop crown. The pairings sent Tyler's fourth place Trojans against Marshall at Marshall tomorrow night, and the second place Texarkana Liners against the third place Henderson Oilers, at Texarkana.

Second games in the opening round, in which the powerhouse Marshall and Texarkana nines are favored to advance to the final title series because of great all-around strength, will be played at Tyler and Henderson Wednesday night, and third and fourth clashes at Marshall and Texarkana.

Each series will continue until one team has won four games. Then the winners in each bracket will open the second round which leads to the championship.

Jack Van Orsdol, voted the league's leading right-handed hurler, will open on the mound for Marshall, against either Jack Lavis or Charlie Cuellar for Tyler. Both the latter are righthanders.

At Texarkana the Liners planned to send their southpaw, Eugene Davis, against Henderson's righthander, Roy Weisenborn.

Gly-Cas Restored Faith In Medicines

Skeptical Of Gly-Cas' Ability Until He Gave It A Trial In His Own Case; Says "Blessing To Suffering Humanity"

"Gly-Cas certainly had the ability to find and eliminate the source of my stubborn ailments," said Mr. P. A. Chavez, 922 S. Williams St., Albuquerque, New Mexico. "I had suffered with distressing constipation for five years and had always restored to the strongest of laxatives—then I obtained only temporary relief. My stomach became affected and I was certain to suffer after each meal with awful gas and bloating. My back ached almost continually from bladder trouble and my sleep was constantly disturbed by night risings. Medicine after medicine failed miserably in my case but I decided that one more failure could not add much to my discouragement, so gave Gly-Cas a trial.

MR. P. A. CHAVEZ

"Gly-Cas went right to the source of my health troubles with no delay," continued Mr. Chavez. "I have taken only one full box and my stomach troubles are entirely ended, am no longer bothered with gas or bloating. My bowels have been regulated, bladder action is normal and I feel better in every way. I enjoy good nights of sleep and awake feeling full of energy and pep, more like my self than I have in five years. I wonder at my former skepticism now that I have found through actual experience the extent of Gly-Cas' true ability."

Europe Can't Understand It

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S recent reavowal of the friendship of citizens of the United States for the people of Canada seems to have been interpreted in European countries and Japan as having been our pledge of alliance to the British Empire.

Nothing could be further from the truth.

The President's declaration that the people of this nation would fight side by side with the Canadians should attempt be made to invade Canada meant no more than what it said. Not even the President of the United States could bind this people to any pledge to assist Great Britain in war. Nor could the President keep the people of the United States from springing to Canada's assistance if the dominion should be invaded.

So far as our people are concerned, there is almost as much difference between a Canadian and an Englishman as there is between a Canadian and a German, Frenchman, Italian or Spaniard. We would be as quick to resent and resist an invasion of Canada by England as we would be by any other power.

The misinterpretation placed in Europe upon President Roosevelt's remark exemplifies a fundamental difference in European and American psychology. In Europe, proximity is almost exactly synonymous to suspicion. The bitterest of hereditory European enmities are those between powers which live side by side.

In view of that condition, it is impossible for the European mind to imagine that two nations can live side by side without being constantly suspicious of each other. A friendship between two neighbors like the United States and Canada is outside their experience and consequently is beyond their conception.

Another Guess Goes Awry

ONE MORE wild guess has "gone haywire."

The guess in this particular case was but some "nut" in Pennsylvania that the world was to have ended this morning. Such guesses are not especially unusual, although there were some unusual circumstances about this one.

Learning of the forecast, the management of a Philadelphia planetarium arranged a program for tonight which will depict the astronomers' ideas of what will happen when the world does come to an end. Special guests of the management on this occasion will be at least three men whose erroneous predictions of approaching end for the earth were widely publicized. Among those who have accepted invitations to be present tonight is the man who predicted that this dawn would see an end to earthly things.

Ridiculous as such forecasts may appear to reasonable people, it still seems to be an invariable fact that a few will take such things seriously. It is not unusual for fears thus aroused to lead to a suicide or two. There were many hundreds of such suicides because of the general belief that the dawning of the year 1,000 A. D. would mean the end of the world.

However, as people have gotten further away from superstition, they have come to realize just how preposterous is any given prediction as to when the world will end. In the case of the latest guess, it has served no purpose save as a publicity stunt for the Philadelphia planetarium.

THE FIRST PRISONER OF THE WORLD WAR

General Radomir Putnik, Chief of Staff and Commander-in-Chief of the Serbian Army, who led his country's war forces in two campaigns prior to the World war, was the first to fall into military captivity. He was arrested within two hours after the outbreak of the Austro-Serbian war, while he was rushing home from a bathing resort, where he had been spending the summer. Although he was known as an enemy of Austria and the designated leader of the military forces of Austria's first enemy, he was released by special order of Emperor Franz Joseph, of Austria, and permitted to return home. Putnik led his country's armies in the World war for two years.

Chapter 31
Question Marks

They were just out of rifle range when Windy, via two wheels swung a corner and put the car on the smooth, wide macadam of the state highway. Ankrom saw him turn his head to voice a question.

"Keep your damn eyes on the road or we'll both wake up in hell!"

Windy's head jerked front again and Ankrom said more softly:

"Straight for the ranch. Ratchford'll probably follow, so keep 'er wide open an' watch what you're doin'. We've got a pretty fair start. He won't be able to commandeer a machine right off, so we're that much to the good — see that we don't lose our lead."

"What's he up to, anyhow?"

"He's after my hide. He's the gent—one of 'em, anyways—that's been tryin' to bust the Rafter T. Old grudge's still workin' on him, likely. Got a new inducement too. Some railroad's figurin' to lay track between El Paso and Amarillo. Have to cross the Rafter T. Ratchford wants to cash in."

Windy whistled. "So that's what it's all about. This business sure has had me fightin' my hat. Best thing for you right now is to get clear outa the country. Ratchford'll be after you sure as Gawd makes little apples! He can hate like a Injun!"

"I'm a pretty good hater, myself."

Ankrom relapsed into silence. Talking was a strain on the vocal chords at the pace they were traveling.

One thing was certain, he thought; regardless of how many different factions were trying to break Trone and get the Rafter T, Ratchford certainly was one! There was no longer any doubt in his mind about it. Ratchford was doing his damnedest — by hook or croop he was set on getting the ranch. And wanted Lee thrown in!

Claydell? Well, Claydell might also be striving to possess himself of Trone's domain, but what was his motive? Claydell was a big rancher —and a politician—one of the big men in this country. It would be a mighty risk for him to dabble in this business; a much greater risk than was Ratchford's, since he had more to lose than Ratchford.

Claydell was suave—a cool customer. If he went after something, as Ratchford was going after the Rafter T, his chances of success would be much greater than would Ratchford's, Angrom thought. For Claydell was a thinker; he had a keener mind and knew how to use it.

If Claydell—checked by a sudden notion, Ankrom's thoughts stopped there. No man, he'd abruptly realized, could be in a better position to start Trone on the down-grade than could Claydell — a trusted friend.

Four-Square And Upright

Lee had told him of many little things the boss of Swinging J had done to help her father at various times; the man, according to Lee, was four-square and upright.

He'd met such prodigies of virtue before. Uusually if one dug deep enough — Ankrom softly swore. Claydell was top-hand stuff; there was no sense nor fairness in letting Ratchford's charges and insinuations fill him with suspicions of the man. Why, at one time and another, so the boys had told him, Lee and Claydell had been spoken of as a pair who'd soon hitch up an' travel in double harness.

Ankrom grimaced. Why, he was old enough to be her father! Well, almost, anyway.

Yet he had to admit that as a suitor Claydell would be bound to be attractive. Like Ratchford, the fellow was magnetic, likeable; a good catch for any woman. He was successful in his business, he held good prospects for the future. And the fierce vitality of his dark and lean-carved face— As a friend, Claydell would be in a strategic position to bring about Trone's downfall. Ankrom scowled. Those insinuations of Ratchford's. He could not get them out of mind.

He had thought when they'd stepped from the sheriff's office that this shove against Rafter T was over. He'd bluffed Ratchford to the wall, forced him to step out of office. By all the rules of tradition Ratchford should now be hunting himself a hole.

But he wasn't! He'd got his teeth in Rafter T now and wasn't aiming to let go til death grabbed him by the ankle. And even then, the burley ex-sheriff would likely do some powerful kicking!

Ankrom snorted. "He's stubborn enough to hang on till hell freezes an' then try an' skate across the ice! But he's out in the open now, an' he won't have the law to back him up."

"Who yuh talkin' 'bout?" yelled Windy.

"Ratchford. Hey! Keep your eyes on the road!"

"I'll bet he's mad enough to chaw the sights off a six-gun! He won't be layin' down again."

"This thing ain't over yet." Ankrom grinned as he remembered that these had been Ratchford's words. "We're goin' to have to hire more men an' catridges. Now that this business is in the open it'll be shoot first an' ask questions later an' hell for the guy that ain't lookin'! It may make Tonto Basin look like a picnic 'fore we shake Ratchford loose. Now Trone's out of the way an' he's got a taste of blood, he'll throw the hooks to Rafter T hard. We're goin' to play hell with Trone's bank account."

"Not much we ain't" snapped Windy. "There ain't no Trone bank account—bunch of damned coyotes cleaned the bank plumb out today!"

"What!" Ankrom half rose from his seat.

"I said it. Lee tol' me tonight right after I brung the ol' man in. That's what she was goin' to town for Ratchford sent her word."

Ankrom sank back heavily in his seat. Here was a blow beneath the belt! No need to wonder was this robbery just coincidence—it happened at much too mad a time for Rafter T, not to have been planned deliberately. This robbery bore the mark of a more subtle hand than Ratchford's heavy paw. This was the balanced stroke one might expect or having emanated from a mind like Claydell's.

One thing only kept Ankrom from considering the cold suave boss of Swinging J as the chief menace. He could find no apparent motive strong enough to lure or force the man into risking all that he now had. He could find nothing which the man might possibly gain that would be commensurate with his losses should he lose.

To be sure, Ratchford had claimed to have found that thing which Claydell was after. But had the former sheriff actually made such a discovery, or was this but another of his smoke screens designed to further Ankrom's belief in the rancher's possible guilt?

The devil of it was that so much might be hanging on the issue. And upon his correctly gauging it. If Ratchford alone was responsible for the calamities descending so steadily upon the Trones, things would indeed be sufficiently bad. But if Claydell, too, was having a hand in them, one might as well admit that Rafter T was licked. He and the three hands might possibly hold off Ratchford and his unofficial posse if it came to an open fight—leastwise, as long as their supply of ammunition held out. But Ankrom and Trone's punchers could not fight off the whole damned county!

Ankrom's chin sank momentarily forward upon his chest. It was hard, he told himself, bitter hard to know what a fix Lee Trone was in and to realize at the same time that he could do nothing toward alleviating matters.

Then abruptly his chin came up and out. His grim jaws squeezed hard together, causing the muscles beneath his tawny skin to stand forth lige stiffened ropes. He could not successfully combat the united forces of this country—but he could make a damned good try!

Ratchford, when he had left the Rafter T with Betty Struthers that afternoon, had not gone directly back to town as he had informed Trone he intended doing. He had gone first to the Swinging J. Claydell had him badly worried. This, coupled with the humiliation he had suffered before the Trones at Ankrom's hands, had put the man in a vicious temper. He denounced the golden girl for a scheming hellcat, a double-crosser. She had reminded him that he had no business calling anyone a double-crosser after the way he had treated her. Accordingly, when they reached Claydell's ranch, neither of them could have been described as being in a jovial mood.

They dismounted before the porch. Claydell met them at the door.

"You came to apologize perhaps for the accusations with which you connected me with Drean's death?"

With an effort Ratchford ironed the scowl from his features and essayed an answering smile. "Yeah," he said. "I've discovered that it was that Streeter bird who blowed out Drean's light. Miss Struthers, here, saw him fire the shot."

"Well, that's something." Claydell's tone was non-commital. "Have you arrested him yet?"

"Not yet. But I will soon's I gather me a posse."

"Posse? To arrest one puncher?" he drawled.

Ankrom faces Claydell, tomorrow.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

AMERICAN politics were never more chaotic than today. They puzzle even a Jim Farley refreshed after a summer trip to Alaska and other purgeless parts of the nation.

Georgia furnishes proof of the topsy-turviness. When the opposition of a Democratic President helps Senator Walter George, and the endorsement of a Republican national committeeman costs him votes, it shows something's crackpottish. The G.O.P. sympathy for the Senator doesn't look to be on the up and up. For one thing, National Chairman Hamilton has rejected all suggestions for an anti-New Deal coalition. The endorser, as a Georgian, must have realized that he would injure rather than improve Mr. George's chances. So, as usual, the second guessers are blaming even this coup on those White House strategists—Harry Hopkins and Tommie Corcoran. "Now they're trying to run the Republican party."

With the purge approaching a test in Georgia, South Carolina, Maryland and "the" O'Connor district, the insiders' books forecast the score as follows: George a winner, though Gene Talmadge may squeeze through, with New Dealers Camp a bad third; "Cotton Ed" Smith to romp through, but the Lewis-Tydings battle a hoss race. Mr. O'Connor seems doomed, for he won by only 109 votes two years ago, and had no such formidable foes as he faces now. But even when it's over, nobody will know what it means, if anything.

IDEA: Roswell Magill left behind an imposing list of new tax ideas when he quit the Treasury. But you can paste it in your hat that there will be no radical tax legislation at the next session. The wily Pat Harrison was talking inside politics when he recently suggested that the base and exemptions might be lowered so as to hit the little fellows.

Non-political Treasury experts recommend three things: (1) broadening of the base. (2) higher and punitive levies on closely-held corporations, (3) taxation of exempt federal, state and municipal securities. Even anti-New Deal critics generally recognize that these three proposals have fundamental merit. But the next Congress will never agree to revolutionary levies hitting the little or the big fellows. They will do a patch-work job if they tackle the problem at all.

Mr. Harrison's effusions caused a more sensational stir in political than in financial circles. In suggesting that small salaried men might suffer from any revision, he was highlighting the issue that the boys in the lower brackets must pay—eventually, if not now—for New Deal expenditures. And he wanted to get that idea across in primary time for whatever good it might do to the administration entries.

KEEPER: Private analysis of the Berle memo to the O'Mahoney Monopoly committee discloses that it did not rate the headline sensation it provoked. It shocked only those people who were surprised to receive such a sane document from his pen.

Mr. Berle—and he admits it—simply stated the obvious. He warned the antimonopolists that American industry was too vast and complicated a system to permit the application of hard-and-fast notions in any attempt to change it. He served notice that size is no longer a sin. What most people missed in his suggestions is the proposal that certain industries be set aside as public utilities and treated accordingly. It's the first hint that industries furnishing such necessities as food, clothing and homes may eventually be regulated as strictly as the railroads and public utilities.

The O'Mahoneyites may not—probably will not—write any revolutionary laws. But Mr. Berle furnished the tip that the investigation may be used to headline F.D.R.'s 1940 issues—namely that health, insurance, food and shelter are matters of governmental concern. The New Deal, in short, plans to become everyman's keeper by satisfying all his wants.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

EUROPEANS are developing a new technique for trading in American stocks that has the Securities and Exchange commission plenty bothered. The system is to deposit American securities in a sort of trust account abroad and then issue bearer certificates against them. Trading is done in the certificates instead of the securities themselves. This plan was first tried in Holland and has since spread to other European financial centers.

The trick about it is that buyers and sellers of these bearer certificates can keep their identity and their activities completely secret. Thir transactions are untraceable. Thus they are able to escape the inconvenience of market regulations and—even more important—to avoid taxation on capital gains.

There are signs that a number of wealthy Americans are getting wise to the advantages of this device and are doing more and more of their trading anonymously abroad. There is even talk of establishing a bearer certificate setup in Canada. The more the practice grows, the more it tends to nullify S.E.C. regulations. The tax angle worries the Treasury too. But so far no way has been found to combat it effectively.

CONFIDENCE: Informed New York sources report that Senator Walter F. George's campaign for re-election has taken on the atmosphere of a crusade since President Roosevelt demanded his elimination, and is going to town on that note.

Edgar Dunlay (recently bounced from the R.F.C. for "political activities") has built up one of the finest political organizations for the Senator that the state of Georgia ever saw. His county leaders are invariably the experienced politicians. He has the power companies and the Coco-Cola organization lined up. The daily newspapers in Georgia are with him practically 100% plus 90% of the weeklies. The influential people in every community are apparently for George. To these can be added the American Legion (Dunlap is a big legionnaire), the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods. The "white supremacy" issue, spotlighted by the Senator's opposition to the anti-lynching bill, is an important factor.

SWITCHING: A recheck of ex-governor Eugene Talmadge's prospects indicates that they have faded somewhat since a week ago. He is apparently running second to George, with Camp third, but it must be a good second if he is to qualify for a run-off election.

Revised estimates place Talmadge's strength at about 70,000 votes. He polled 134,000 votes for governor in 1936 with the state machine behind him. He doesn't have that backing now. Moreover, many of those votes would normally go to George in a contest between them.

There are signs that some politicians who have been supporting Talmadge are now switching to George and taking their followers with them—on the realistic premise that George is going to be reelected and they might as well string with the winner.

FORFEIT: Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York, an outstanding target of the New Deal "pudge", is running in the Republican primary as well as the Democratic.

His G.O.P. backers are the same die-hard conservative extremists who supported the late Royal S. Copeland against Fiorello LaGuardia in last year's mayoralty primary. Their flaming hatred of F.D.R. enables them to swallow O'Connor's lifelong Tammany background without a quiver. They probably cannot put him over against Allen Dulles—member of the distinguished law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell and an ex-diplomat—who is the regular Republican nominee. But the fight will be hard and close.

O'Connor may find himself in an ironically awkward position. If he should win in the Republican primary and lose in the Democratic, and if he should then be elected in November, he would retain his seat in the House but would lose much of his power and prestige on Capitol Hill. Officially he would then be a Republican, and as such would forfeit all his Democratic seniority rights, including the potent chairmanship of the Rules committee. On committee assignments he would have to start again from scratch like any cub Congressman.

Texas Topics---By Howard Marshall

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (AP) — Regulations governing University of Texas co-eds in 1900, when Mrs. Helen Marr Kirby was the first dean of women, are curiosities today.

School officials recently found a leaflet outlining restrictions then applicable to women students which said, among other things:

"Sunday excursions, dining unchaperoned at hotels or restaurants, and riding in buggies are altogether objectionable. Sitting on steps and lingering about gates with escorts is discountenanced by refined society and should be avoided by university girls."

Such activities today are left entirely to the discretion of women students themselves. They enjoy many liberties not accorded in 1900, demonstrating, some say, the advancement of co-education.

In an introductory paragraph, the yellowed pamphlet asked the university girls by their conduct "to help establish the success of co-education."

Change Of Luck!

A father and four small children in a shiny new automobile hailed Highway Patrolman John Lowry near Henrietta in North Texas.

The man clasped the officer's hand and the children hugged him.

Then Lowry recalled it was the family he had met on the same road a year and a half ago. At that time they were hungry, without funds, raggedly dressed and had no gas for their dilapidated car.

Lowry managed to arrange for some supplies and sent them on their way.

Immediately thereafter their luck changed, bringing them a home, clothing, food and a new car, they told Lowry at the second meeting.

Farmers Are Warned

DUST Bowl farmers harvesting their first wheat crop in several years have been warned not to burn the stubble.

"That's probably the worst thing a farmer could do and is likely to prove costly," said R. R. Hinde, agronomist of the U. S. Soil Conservation service in the wind erosion region.

"Stubble is one of the most important factors in protecting the soil from blowing and when it is destroyed the earth naturally has less protection from wind erosion," he says.

Hinde attributes some of the worst examples of "blowing" directly to the practice of burning stubble and reminded farmers dust storms result from improper handling of crop stubble and misuse of tilage machines in preparing seed beds for fall wheat planting.

The agronomist said the one-way disk or wheat land plow, about which farmers have disagreed, has been found efficient and should be used in the first operation of seed bed preparation because it cuts and mixes the wheat stubble in the surface soil.

He pointed out, however, the one-way disk could be used to excess in pulverizing the soil and destroying the stubble.

Manufacturers Help

Implement manufacturers, Hinde says, have been quick to respond to the demand of farmers for special tillage machines to be used in connection with seed bed preparation. Waffle machines to be used with the one-way disk have been placed on the market along with damming listers and rotary dammers.

Cultivator Favored

WORKING of seed beds during the summer to destroy weeds and at the same time maintain a cloudy surface with the wheat stubble mixed in the soil can be done efficiently with a field cultivator, Hinde says.

The agronomist said chiseling machines, listers and damming machines were being used with success throughout the plains region.

Tennis On Upgrade

Tennis of the brand for which the University of Texas is noted probably will be seen again on university courts this fall.

Dr. D. A. Penick, veteran tennis mentor, believes he has in Bobby Kamrath, captain, a successor to such former University tennis greats as Berkeley Bell, Bruce Barnes, Lewis White and Wilmer Allison.

Kamrath, who ranked nationally last year, will be teamed with Warren Christner, Maurice Fincher, Melvin Lapman, Gordon Rogers, Tommy Glenn, Gordon Hilley and Jimmy Moore to form the nucleus of the 1939 team.

Kamrath and Christner who have been campaigning on Eastern courts recently are on the junior Davis cup squad. Reuben Riskind, stepping up from last year's freshman team, has been competing in California.

Barnstorming and touring the mid-west this summer were Moore, Billy and Bobby Billings, Chester Granville and Fred Purnell.

Other freshmen who will be eligible for match play this fall, besides Riskind and Granville, are Harry Hickman, Henry Batjer, George Nalle, William Burgin, Joe Ball, John Green and Wayne Justice.

More than 50 men are expected to qualify for tennis when the long term opens in September.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS No. 14 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan was returning with water when he heard the creak of the platform above. His eyes shot upward just in time to see the fever-dazed man swaying and teetering, stretching out his arms. In a few moments, he knew, the unsteady figure would topple earthward.

The ape-man sprang upward, like an arrow released from a tight-drawn bow. He hoped to gain the platform before the man stepped off into space. But he was too late. Before he was halfway up, the dream-walker fell forward, and tumbled through the trees.

The mighty Tarzan, whose mind and muscles worked in perfect coordination, responded instantly when he perceived that the fall was inevitable. He braced himself on a broad bough and fixed his arms and shoulders like a football player about to receive a kickoff.

The man hurtled downward—and struck. Tarzan locked his arms around the whirling body, but the uneven impact knocked him off balance. Together they fell. Dr. Brooks screamed . . . In the forest the hostile warriors heard the cry, and dashed forward.

DEAR FRIENDS OF COMMISSIONERS PRECINCT NO. 3 LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS

I wish to express my sincerest thanks and extend my very kindest personal regards to ALL, who voted for me last Saturday. Which clearly showed that I was the CHOICE of the people except where personal prejudice against me exists in the Acuff Community, on account of a County-wide cotton fight that I made and won a victory for the rights of the people, pertaining to an unfair allotment of lint cotton per acre put out by the county cotton committee to the 29 different cotton communities of Lubbock county, in 1934. And if I was wrong on that issue the big majority of the 2020 cotton contract signers were wrong because they saw it as I did and voted likewise.

"Truth though crushed to earth will rise again." I deeply appreciate the 26 loyal votes I received at Acuff, which helped to put the 79 who voted against me there on the spot, and in 1940 I will take another shot at THEM.

Do not be discouraged dear friends, "A quitter can't swim and a winner won't quit." Game fish ONLY swim UPstream. I was defeated by just 18 votes in the whole precinct, which shows that we are moving onward slowly but surely, but let's continue to be honest and fair to all. Let's give Acuff full credit for naming the commissioner this time because they did do it, and also full credit for slaughtering two good men in their own community in order to get the job done, because they did THAT, too.

Again thanking you and each of you for your expression of friendship on the 27th and earnestly soliciting your votes and influence in the 1940 Political campaign,

I am sincerely yours,

TO THE VOTERS OF COMMISSIONERS PRECINCT No. 1, Lubbock County:

May I take this means of expressing my most hearty appreciation for your liberal support of my candidacy for re-election in the recent democratic primaries, and I fully appreciate the consideration given by those who did not see fit to vote for me.

I shall be found rendering the best possible service I can to all alike and assure all of you that my past experience will prepare me to render better service in the future than I have in the past. I thank you for the splendid co-operation you have given me in the past in my official work and I solicit your continued co-operation.

MARKET IN SHARP BREAK

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Renewed European war tension was blamed largely today for the sharpest stock market break since last spring.

Leading motors, steels, rubbers and a wide assortment of specialties tumbled 1 to 5 points and, in a few cases, losses ran to 14 points.

Light selling at the start, following advices from abroad telling of the possibility of an outbreak of hostilities in connection with the German-Czech controversy, turned the list downward.

Heavy offerings around mid-day staggered prices in virtually all groups and, for a brief interval, the ticker tape was behind floor dealings.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off 1.8 points at 47.1, the most noteable drop in this composite since March 29. Transfers of 1,248,850 shares were the largest since Aug. 12 and compared with 821,810 last Friday.

Touching off numerous "stop-loss" orders was an accentuating factor in the slide. There also was some selling from overseas, but this was not insistent.

Steel stocks virtually ignored a jump of 1.2 points in this week's mill operating rate to the best mark since last November.

General Motors was off 2⅞ at 45¾ and Chrysler gave up 4½ at 70¼. Bethlehem skidded 4⅛ at 55 and U. S. Steel was down 3⅞ at 56¼.

American Telephone held up well for a time but finally backed away 1⅝ to 142⅛. Other conspicuous losers included U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, Philip Morris, Owens-Illinois, Coca-Cola, Air Reduction, American Can, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Paficic and Standard Oil of N. J.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29. (AP)—Cotton futures weakened today despite a bullish interpretation of the loan announcement and final prices were barely steady at net losses of 11 to 18 points.

The tension abroad made most operators cautious and trading was confined to evening-up commitments. Some foreign selling added to the declining tendency of the market in early dealings.

Prices rallied briefly around mid-session only to encounter additional selling prompted by the decided easiness in securities and the market closed at the lowest.

Oct. contracts finished at 8.28, Dec. at 8.33@8.34, Jan. at 8.33, Mch. at 8.31, May at 8.27@8.28 and July at 8.25 bid. Spots were steady but middling declined 13 points to 8.23 on sale of 5,040, the largest day's turnover in several weeks.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 10 points lower at 8.26 cents a pound; for the past 30 market days it was 8.47 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29. (AP)—Cotton declined today under increased hedge selling and liquidation promoted by heaviness in other markets and nervousness over the European political situation. December eased from 8.35 to 8.25 and closed at the low with final prices 11 to 14 points net lower.

The market showed little or no rallying power although some traders felt that ultimately the loan would have a stabilizing influence.

At A Glance . . .

critic of the board.

"Will our critic who applied the expression 'shotgun agreement' to settlements made by the board object to the laying down of the shotguns in Harlan county?" he asked. "Would he prefer that the feud should have continued until either the union or the coal business in Harlan county was prostrate?"

Burke had used the expression "shotgun agreement" in previous criticism of the board.

History Is Sketched

Madden sketched the history of the board's activities in "bloody Harlan county."

"Both sides are apparently acting in good faith and with complete gratification that the long and bitter war is over."

Madden directed a large part of his speech to critics who "go on parroting the statement that we always find that the employer is wrong."

San Juan, also on a heavy rise.

The mayor said Monterrey did not need assistance since it had plenty of foodstuff and the Red Cross was completing its relief organization. He said that in addition to the residential area, some factories were under water.

Highway Impassable

The mayor said trains were leaving Monterrey on schedule but the national highway to Mexico City was impassable because water from the Santa Catarina and its smaller tributaries had rolled over the road in many places.

Water from the Santa Catarina flows into the San Juan, which flows into the Rio Grande, the international boundary between the United States and Mexico. The choked streams caused the Rio Grande to surge on a 21-foot rise at Rio Grande City, Tex.

Laredo-Mexico City Highway Closed By Torrential Rains

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29 (AP)—Forty-eight hours of rain which continued tonight in the trail of a Caribbean hurricane closed the Laredo-Mexico City highway near Victoria and flooded low sections of Monterrey in Nuevo Leon state.

Trains were delayed at Monterrey but the National Railways announced traffic would continue over an alternate route between Mexico City and Laredo.

Tracks were washed out between Tampico on the coast and Monterrey, and the railway station at Tamatan, near Victoria, was destroyed by the hurricane.

The Jesus Maria bridge on the Monterrey-Saltillo highway was swept away.

In this plane, which Seversky says is exactly like his army pursuit ship except for its Pratt-Whitney motor, all of the 540 gallons of gasoline are carried in the wings. There is gas from tip to tip and no other tanks. He said he flew at altitudes of from 6,000 to 16,000 "to see what it would do."

"I know now what it will do in the race," he declared, but he laughingly refused to say what speed he thought Miss Cochran would attain. The only woman entrant in the Bendix dash said she expected to have midnight lunch in Los Angeles and breakfast in New York "if I do as well as the major did."

Spanish Loyalist Troops Are Closing In On Rebel Base

HENDAYE, France (At The Spanish Frontier), Aug. 29. (AP)—Spanish government troops were reported today to be closing in on Casteura, insurgent base 150 miles airline southwest of Madrid, and threatening to cut off 20 miles of the enemy lines.

Counter-attacking against the insurgent threat to drive east for the valuable Almaden mercury mines, the militiamen struck from the north along the Villaneuva De La Serena and Companario sectors.

Government dispatches said these troops broke through the left flank of the enemy and occupied numerous positions around Castuera.

Scout Contests Are Set Today

Swimming meet for Lubbock's Boy Scout cubs will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the swimming pool in Mackenzie State park, according to announcement Monday from Boy Scout headquarters.

A picnic for subs and their parents will be held in the park near the swimming pool at 6:30 o'clock tonight and awards will be presented an hour later.

Four events will be staged for boys divided into age classes. Events will be 20-yard free style, distance plunge, 80-yard relay, and diving contests.

Ribbons will be presented to first, second, and third place winners in each event.

Dr. C. C. Schmidt, cubbing commissioner, will be in charge of contests.

A meeting of the Lubbock district commissioners will be held at 6:45 o'clock tonight in the home of Earl M. McClure, council executive, at 2115 Twenty-sixth street. Approximately 14 commissioners and their wives are expected to attend the steak fry and barbecue.

Should Register Today

It was announced that boys wishing to attend the three-day camp at Camp Post which opens Wednesday morning should register today at the scout office. However, if they do not and wish to attend, they may report at the camp and pay the fee there, McClure said. Fee is $2.75.

A patrol leaders' course concluded its indoor sessions at the First Baptist church here Monday night. The final meeting, to be held at Mackenzie State park, is scheduled for Sept. 8.

Approximately 30 patrol leaders and scoutmasters attended the Monday night session.

KMA was given a September 1 allowance, exclusive of shutdowns, of 21,233 barrels daily, compared to 18,817 on August 1.

Commissioner Lon A. Smith said he would have agreed to a continuation of Sunday closings but did not think Saturday shut-ins were needed.

"After having made careful investigation," Smith said, "the information is that the production of crude oil perhaps is at the lowest ebb it has been in 15 years. Big buyers of crude oil need the oil as is evidenced by shipments from foreign countries and interstate movements from Arkansas and Louisiana into Texas.

"I notice a statement that Kansas is not to reduce her crude production for September and I do not feel this burden of a production cut in oil should be required of Texas. Other states are not willing to join in such a program. During September there will be quite a large consumption of gasoline because of the Labor day holiday, Democratic convention in Beaumont, students going to various universities and colleges and folks returning to their homes from vacation."

amendments also. Its members are taking no part in the controversy, but privately they make no secret of the fact that they consider revision unnecessary.

This already complex situation is made the more complicated, for the time being at least, but the fact that a presidential commission is about to report on the operation of

EDITOR'S NOTE
This is the first of a series of five articles on the coming congressional struggle over amendments to the Wagner national labor relations law. It states the situation and presents an abstract of the law's principal provisions, as interpreted by the national labor relations board. Subsequent articles will present the viewpoints of the three factions involved—the employers, the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. The fifth will summarize the arguments and discuss the implications of the study of the British labor laws initiated by President Roosevelt.

the British labor laws, which numerous industrialists have held up as a model for American legislation. The A. F. of L. was represented on the commission. The C. I. O. refused to have anything to do with it, frankly suspicious that the study was ordered with amendments to the Wagner act in mind.

Apparently the fight over amending the act is to be preceded by a preliminary skirmish, which may produce an important test of strength. A few days after Mr. Roosevelt gave William Green, president of the federation, the word that revision would be undertaken, the president reappointed Donald Wakefield Smith to the labor board. Green's criticism of the board had been matched for its vigor and emphasis by his criticism of Smith individually. The A. F. of L. may be expected to oppose senate confirmation of the nomination, along with numerous business interests ready to take the federation's side of that issue.

The law itself was enacted to prevent employers from discouraging membership in unions. It says that the workers have a right to self organization and collective bargaining. Any employer who abridges that right by interference, restraint or coercion is guilty, under the act, of an "unfair labor practice."

The law authorized creation of the national labor relations board as its administrative agent, gave it broad investigatory powers, and the duty to determine by a secret election or otherwise whether, in case of dispute, the employes of a particular company wished a particular union to represent them in collective bargaining.

Further—and this provision has been the origin of many protests from the A. F. of L.—the act says the board shall decide what the "election district" shall be, whether the employes to be polled shall be all the workers in a given plant, whether the election shall be a particular trade or trades within the plant, or any other subdivision.

Once the choice of the employes as to their union is established, by a majority vote, the law compels the employer to bargain with that union and to bargain "in good faith."

From this provision has grown a much disputed decision by the board that if in the course of collective bargaining an agreement is reached between the employer and the union, the employer must embody that agreement in a written and signed contract. The board regards refusal to do this as evidence of bad faith.

In a dozen or so cases the board has ordered the cancellation of contracts between the employer and the A. F. of L. on the basis of its power to determine the bargaining or election unit.

Other provisions of the Wagner act set forth the procedure by which an employer or union, which considers that it is the victim of an injustice due to a decision of the board, has the right of appeal to the federal courts. The law says that findings of the board as to facts, if supported by evidence, shall be conclusive.

In Praha, Britain's unofficial mediator in the Sudeten German problem, Viscount Runciman, conferred with President Eduard Benes.

A Praha dispatch said the Czechoslovak government, with Lord Runciman sitting by and making occasional suggestions, was completing a plan to reorganize the government on the basis of cantons which would have a large measure of self-rule.

It reported Runciman was understood to have a promise from the Sudeten German leader, Konrad Henlein, to indicate by Wednesday his party's reaction to the Czechoslovak proposals.

At the same time, Rudolf Bechyne, Czechoslovak minister of railways, declared in a speech at Prossnitz that the republic was determined to defend itself "bravely" if peace were lost.

Final Visit Is Paid To City

A. J. Payne, whose resignation as secretary and manager of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and the Board of City Development becomes effective Thursday, was in Lubbock Monday for what he said likely will be his last visit for many months, perhaps several years, to come.

Payne plans to leave by automobile Thursday morning for Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where he and Mrs. Payne plan to make their home. Mrs. Payne already is there, the guest of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Burns.

The rush of personal business in Slaton, he said, probably will make it impossible for him to return to Lubbock before his departure.

Wife Suffers Stroke

The change, he explained, has been made necessary because of Mrs. Payne's health. She suffered a stroke of paralysis last April 10 and although she has made rapid progress toward recovery, physicians have advised against her continuing in an altitude as high as the South Plains. Payne said she has convalesced sufficiently to be on her feet for limited periods.

Payne's plans after arrival there are indefinite. He already has three prospects, he said, and probably will be connected with a textile business for a time. His eventual hope, however, is to return to chamber of commerce work.

Since announcement of his resignation and impending departure, Payne has been the recipient of several "going away" gifts in Slaton. They have included a suit of clothes from the chamber of commerce, a Gladstone bag from the Rotary club and a fountain pen from the choir of Slaton First Methodist church.

Establishment Of Bus Line For Odessa Being Planned

Lubbock Bus company of 1101 Main street announced schedule and routing of one bus line in Lubbock to be changed and bus service to be established probably next week at Odessa.

Ray Farmer, head of the company, was in Odessa to complete arrangements for the establishment of service there. Only one bus line will be operated there, but service will be expanded as rapidly as needed, according to the announcement.

Revision in the schedule here, it was further said, will go into effect Thursday and will affect the line serving the western and southern parts of the city. Most important of the changes involved, it was announced, will be the discontinuance of operation on Avenue H and the establishment of the line on N and M.

The new routing will be from the bus station to Broadway, west on Broadway to M, then south to Sixteenth, west to Avenue T, south to Twenty-ninth, east to S, south to Thirty-fourth, east to N, north to Nineteenth, east to M, north to Main and back to the bus station. Twenty-minute service is scheduled from 6 a. m. until midnight.

Members of the sophomore class of Senior High school are to receive their books today or Wednesday in preparation for the opening of school Sept. 12.

Juniors at Senior high will be issued books Thursday and Friday and seniors next week.

Registration in Junior High school will start next Monday and continue through Sept. 9. Elementary students will register and receive books Sept. 12. Buses will start that day.

Children entering Lubbock public schools for first time are required to be vaccinated, Supt. W. B. Irvin said. Whether they are beginners or transfers that requirement must be met, and Irvin has urged that parents have that done so that students may recover effects before school starts.

Final Tests On Engine Start

Final tests of the Diesel engine purchased for the city electric plant by the city commission more than a year ago were started Monday, according to information given by J. J. Graham, plant superintendent.

Several days will be required to complete the tests, he said. The machine was in operation somewhat longer than one hour this morning and was followed by a thorough inspection of all mechanical parts, he explained. The same plan of operation followed by inspections will be followed until he is prepared to recommend to the city commission either that the engine be accepted or rejected.

As soon as the tests have been completed, city officials plan to extend an invitation to the public to inspect the Diesel. Few people seem to realize just how large the machine is, it was explained.

The engine is approximately 38 feet long, approximately 12 feet in width and weighs more than 10 tons. It was manufactured by Nordberg Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, Wis., and was set up and tested there before being dismanteld and shipped to Lubbock. The dismantled parts filled 10 freight cars. Officials say it will increase the capacity of the city plant approximately 25 per cent.

Cost of the engine is approximately $130,000, to be paid out of power plant earnings. The city commission, however, has the option of paying for the engine within 30 days after acceptance, receiving two per cent discount. Otherwise, the city must pay four per cent interest per annum on the debt.

Activities In Parks For Another Week

Activities in the city parks recreations project will be continued until about the middle of next week, said John W. Wilson, supervisor.

Supervisors, he added, will maintain usual schedules in the five parks included in the project. The parks are Pioneer on Seventh street, Carlisle on Twenty-seventh, Rollie C Burns on Twenty-third, Mackenzie and Booker T. Washington.

Some people seem to have gained the impression, he explained, that the program in Pioneer park last Friday night brought the project to an end. The official closing date is Sept. 10, but the last two or three days will be required for the examination and storing of equipment.

Meanwhile, letters were announced as having been mailed on behalf of the city park commission by K N. Clapp, chairman, to J. O. Jones, district administrative officer of the Works Progress administration, and members of the parks recreational council commending the work of the project this summer. The recreational council, appointed by the city commission on recommendation of the parks commission, and the WPA have had joint sponsorship of the project.

Members of the parks commission are J. B. Maxey, Mrs. R. Q. Stubbs, Mrs. Clark M. Mullican, O W. Ribble and Clapp. Members of the recreational council are W. H. Evans, W. O. Daniel, H. C. Pender, S. E. Cone and Marion Sanford.

First Meeting Of Legislative Committee Being Held Today

Notice that the first meeting of a legislative committee appointed as the aftermath to a state-wide ground water conference several weeks ago will be held in Austin Tuesday was received Monday by W. H. Rodgers, Lubbock city manager, a member of the group.

Rodgers planned to leave early Monday afternoon to attend. He will return Wednesday.

Specific purpose of the meeting, according to the notification, will be to begin the drafting of legislation for submission to the January session of the legislature proposing safeguards for the ground water resources of the state. It was the consensus of those attending the recent conference that diminishing ground water reserves is cause for alarm to the entire state.

The letter to the city manager here said that one proposed draft of legislation will propose that the entire matter of control be placed in a state agency. Another plan to be studied, it was revealed, is that various sections be empowered to organize water control districts.

Members of the legislative committee, additional to Rodgers, are F. W. Pulliam of Crystal City, Col. W. B. Tuffle of San Antonio, R. L. Puerifoy of Kingsville, R. L. Holmes of Dallas, E. V. Spence of Big Spring and George S. Findlay of Houston. Members of the state board of control also are expected to be present.
