Gov. Sterling Protests Standard's Cut in Crude Price

SAYS ACTION WOULD UPSET PRORATION

AUSTIN, March 5. — Gov. Ross Sterling today telegraphed President Hoover and John Rockefeller, Jr., protesting against a cut in crude oil prices by the Standard Oil company of Indiana.

The cut at this time Gov. Sterling former head of the Humble Oil and Refining company, said it likely to upset the uniform program of oil proration and conservation now being worked out by Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma legislatures.

Effective this morning at 7 o'clock in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, the Stanoline Pipe Line company announced reductions in crude oil ranging from 22 to 40 cents. Crude below 29 degree to 65 cents for crude oil of 40 degrees and above.

The standard runs no oil in this section but handles crude in counties in the Wichita Falls area. The prevailing price for oil of 40 degrees at this time is $1.07. The cut announced by the Standard would represent a reduction of about 38 cents a barrel on oil of the Cisco area.

No other purchasing companies have announced reductions meeting the new standard prices at noon today so far as the Daily News was able to learn.

CHOIR HALTS PANIC DURING CELEBRATION

SAN ANTONIO, March 5. — An anthem by the famous Leiderkranz choir prevented a panic here today when six persons of a crowd of 10,000 were injured by a falling tree during the celebration of pontifical high mass by Cardinal Hayes and others church dignitaries here for the bi-centennial celebration.

Cardinal Hayes half rose from his seat, a look of horror on his face and the crowd stood speechless as the upper portion of a palm tree toppled above the multitude jammed in the historic military plaza. Two women and a baby were taken to hospitals. Others were cut and bruised by the falling tree in the efforts to those beneath to escape. The choir began singing and the crowd which had been milling about the ambulances again turned its attention to the mass which proceeded as scheduled.

Trial of Altman Is Postponed

JASPERMONT, March 5.—Trial of Homer Altman, charged with murdering his landlord, Sam Tanner, prominent Stonewall county farmer and rancher, was delayed until March 26 when called in 39th district court today.

Judge Clyde Grissom overruled a defense motion for continuance delaying the trial two weeks on the defense plea that Tanner's wife, ill ness, recently became a mother. Counsel for Altman indicated today that the unwritten law will be the defendant's plea.

Tanner was slain in his hog pen January 25. Altman was arrested that night at Tatum, New Mex-

Breining, assistant director, finance division, Colonel Ijams and J. V. Byrne, chief of the adjusted compensation division, all of the Veterans' Bureau.

Kitchen Short Cuts to Economy Revealed

Interest in the Daily News Free Cooking school, which opened Monday and closes Friday afternoon, continues to increase among the women of Cisco. The crowd at the building directly across the street from the Cisco Banking company, which the Continental Oil company permitted the Daily News to use for the school, was the largest yesterday that has attended previous lectures by Miss Rada Sue Garrett, home economics expert conducting the school.

About 30 chairs were secured from the Laguna hotel but still many ladies were forced to stand. More seating has been secured for today, yet an overflow is expected. The economic department of the high school has been invited for today's session. Many prizes are being given each day by local merchants: Hyatt & Wood furnished the groceries Wednesday and Norvell & Miller furnished those being used today. Skiles Grocery & Market is furnishing the meats and cheese used each day. West Texas Product company is furnishing the fresh vegetables and fruits.

RADA SUE GARRETT

Capacity Crowd!

Reports from the Daily News Free Cooking school late this afternoon were that standing room is at a premium in the building where Miss Rada Sue Garrett is conducting her demonstrations. Every chair that it has been possible to secure has been pressed into service but the crowd of women attending is such that room can hardly be found in the building for them.

"Mother Hubbard's Cupboard" was the title of Miss Garrett's lecture yesterday. The resourceful housewife, said Miss Garrett, always keeps a good supply and variety of groceries on her pantry shelves so that she will be prepared to meet all emergencies.

Kitchen equipment hints supplied by Miss Garrett included a recommendation that each kitchen be equipped with a pair of scissors. This instrument is invaluable in mincing vegetables such as parsley, celery and similar articles of food and prevents injury to the fingers. Speaking of celery she advised that the vegetables, when minced, should be cut from the bottom to prevent stringing.

Another useful kitchen article advised by Miss Garrett is a rubber plate scrapper. This utensil, she said, is very useful in scrapping food from utensils.

"It has been said," declared Miss Garrett, "that the kitchen sink is one of the best fed children in the United States. An efficient cook is one who is able to cut left-overs to a minimum by disguising them for economical consumption."

Economy in the use of electricity when cooking upon an electric stove is obtained when the housewife makes everything ready before cooking the meal, Miss Garrett pointed out. In this way everything is cooked at once, or as nearly as possible and less electricity is consumed. She showed that an entire meal may be cooked in the electric oven, with the exception of the salad.

In cooking meats, she said, it is better to use no water at all. Never, she declared, is it necessary to float roasts in water.

In cooking macaroni, she said, boiling water should be used for the best effects. Vegetables, excepting dried beans, are better cooked if boiling water is poured over them after they have been started.

Pointing out that macaroni may be used as a good substitute for potatoes, Miss Garrett demonstrated a macaroni combination in the making of salad.

Fish Essential.

Any series of lectures, said the lecturer, is incomplete without a good fish recipe and she demonstrated Haddock loaf as an appetizing method of serving this item of food. Pointing out that many people do not realize the importance of fish in the diet, she asserted that the human body needs the iodine products to be found in this food.

The first recipe demonstrated yesterday was "Russian steak." If one desires variety this recipe should certainly fill the bill.

A very interesting way of cooking rice as the French do was given.

Hoover Plans to Visit Country

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Hoover plans to go out to meet the country this summer, it was learned today from his associates, although his itinerary is still indefinite. He is expected to make several speeches.

The president's itinerary may take him across the country by a northern route in Palo Alto, California. In that case he probably would return by a southern route, this affording him an opportunity to visit at least half the 48 states.

8 MORE FARM LOAN CHECKS ARE RECEIVED

Eight more checks for federal farm relief loans in Eastland county were received this morning by the county committee. The loans are for farmers in the Rising Star, Nimrod and Carbon communities and total $1,033.24, or an average of $129.15 each.

Those receiving the loans are: J. L. Black, W. O. Hamilton and J. M. Thurman, of Carbon; J. W. Turnell, S. W. Wilkerson, M. M. Baldwin and J. B. Glidewell, of Rising Star and J. F. Sampson, of Nimrod.

Accompanying the checks was a letter setting forth revised regulations with respect to borrowing from the federal government. These regulations provide that a family may borrow a maximum of $75 for the purpose of feeding cows, chickens and hogs to be used for the production of food for farm families. This sum will be distributed in the following manner:

Each family may feed a maximum of three cows for two months at $7.50 per month each, making a total maximum of $45 for cows; five hogs for two months at 2 per month each, making a total maximum of $20 for hogs; 100 chickens for two months at five cents each, making a total of $10 for chickens.

It was also announced that the Fort Worth branch office for distributing federal farm relief loans is now open and that all applications must be sent to that office instead of the St. Louis office. This will expedite the making of the loans in this section, it was pointed out.

BILL PROVIDES PENALTY FOR POSSESSION

AUSTIN, March 5. — Possessors of liquor will run the risk of a jail sentence under a new prohibition enforcement law offered the Texas house of representatives today by Rep. B. J. Forbes, of Weatherford, and Rep. Harry Graves, of Georgetown.

The present law punishes only possession for the purposes of sale.

The proposed new law would punish every possession but that of prescription liquor, sacramental, scientific or mechanical. That the liquor was so possessed is made an acceptable defense in prosecution.

Penalties for possession in the bill are made fines of from $25 to $1,000, a jail sentence not more than one year.

AMENDMENT IS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 5. — A proposal for an additional amendment to the constitution permitting states to manufacture, transport and sell liquor in their borders was put forward by John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee for the consideration of the party today.

Raskob explained that his proposed amendment should not be effective until it had been ratified by the state thorugh conventions of the people.

Under this plan, as Raskob explained it, the eighteenth amendment would not be repealed.

MOTIONS CAUSE WARMTH IN COMM'N MEET

One of two resolutions introduced at the meeting of the city commission yesterday afternoon caused some warmth when Mayor J. M. Williamson declared that he "resented" the motion.

The motion as introduced by Comm'r. Burnett stated:

"I move that the city commission do not have any recess meetings in the future unless there is given at least 24 hours notice to each commissioner of said meeting."

Ruling the motion out of order on the ground that it proposed suspension of the rules governing the commission and adopted by ordinance and that such suspension could not be done on simple motion, the mayor declared that he "resented" the motion for the reason that in the beginning and before the commissioners were inducted into office that he had told them that every member of the commission would be given an opportunity to discuss every question to the last word and that he had kept his promise. He asserted that he had not taken advantage of the absence of any commissioner to introduce mooted questions or to pass "pet" legislation. He said that he had always tried to play fair with the commission.

Protests Reflection

Commissioner Burnett protested vigorously that his action in introducing the motion had been to cast any reflection upon the mayor.

He explained that many important questions coming before the commission require full attendance and he regarded that each commissioner should be given 24 hours notice of every meeting so that he could make arrangements to be present.

Another motion introduced by

Plays Politics

Sixteen-year-old Artemisia Calles, above, youngest daughter of ex-President Calles of Mexico, can show her noted father a thing of two in the game of politics. Seeking election as carnival queen at exclusive San Diego, California, school, where she attends, Miss Calles wired political friends in Mexico City for their support; the aid of the Mexican consul was forthwith enlisted and when the balloting ended Miss Calles was 8,000 votes ahead of her nearest competitor.

CISCO FIRMS BUY BEEVES FROM BOYS

Not all the fine beef raised by Cisco vocational projects is sent out of the city. Three Cisco business institutions have just purchased three fat baby beeves from three of the vocational boys, paying a premium for the animals.

The Laguna hotel bought a fat young beef from Aubrey Holt; Johnson Grocery purchased a similar beef from James Matthews, and Skiles Grocery a beef from Gordon Seaborn.

Nice prices were paid for this fancy "blue ribbon" beef by these concerns.

LONE ROBBER IS SOUGHT IN BRUSH COUNTRY

SAN MARCOS, March 5.—Hays county officers this morning were beating through the wild, brushy country between Driftwood and Austin in search for the lone bandit who held up the Kyle State bank yesterday afternoon and escaped with about $4,000.

The bandit's abandoned automobile and a belief that he is a resident of Austin were virtually all the clues the officers had to aid them.

The automobile bearing one Texas and one Louisiana license plate, was found last night in a pasture several hundred yards off the road, 15 miles northwest of Kyle.

RAIN OR SNOW FORECAST FOR NORTH TEXAS

DALLAS, March 5. — Sweeping southward from Canada through the Rocky mountain area a cold wave is scheduled to reach north Texas tonight and tomorrow, the United States weather bureau here predicted today.

While the mercury is expected to tumble to 18 degrees in the panhandle force of the cold wave will be spent before it reaches south Texas and the lower Rio Grande valley.

Stockmen in northwest Texas were warned today to protect their herds. Rain or snow for Texas was forecast in the wake of the cold north wind.

SCHOLASTIC CENSUS NOW BEING TAKEN

Supt. R. N. Cluck, High School Principal H. Brandon and West Ward Principal T. C. Williams are now engaged in taking the annual scholastic census of Cisco. Most of the work is being done in the afternoon. Mr. Cluck has been engaged in enumerating scholastic in the eastern part of the city while Mr. Brandon is working sixth and seventh streets this afternoon. Mr. Williams is enumerating scholastics in tourist camps and similar places.

Children who are six years of age or will be six before September 1, 1931, to children who will be eighteen years of age after September 1, 1931, are being enumerated. The school authorities are anxious to list every child of these ages and between in Cisco so that the local system will be able to receive all the funds from the state to which it is entitled. Parents and guardians are earnestly requested to cooperate with the enumerators so that none of the scholastics will be missed.

It is hoped to complete the first enumeration this week.

BUSINESS MEN TO DON GARB OF FAIR SEX

Just how women should wear clothes and drink tea will be demonstrated by 20 or 25 Cisco business men when they don feminine garments and lose their dignity in a riot of fun at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening.

The occasion will be the presentation of the "Womanless Tea" and the purpose to raise money for the band and for the high school girls basket ball team of 1930 who have never received sweaters in reward of their athletic efforts. The band needs money to finance a trip to Abilene where Bandmaster G. W. Collum has hopes of winning another west Texas championship in the annual contest to be held in that city shortly.

The business men have come to the rescue of these organizations and they promise to make their talents count heavily in the till. Fat women, lean women, short women, dainty dancing misses and misses who can't dance will disport themselves for the benefit of the audience. Advance indications are that by far the greater part of this audience will be made up of the sex whom the business men will endeavor to mimic.

The curtain rises promptly at 7:45 and the program will consume about two hours.

WEATHER

West Texas—Cloudy tonight and Friday with snow in north portion. Much colder tonight with temperatures of 18 to 26 degrees with strong northern winds. Colder south portion Friday. Notify stock men of north portion.

Mrs. Cook is making a most capable president and the club is looking forward to the next years work expecting to do much good work under her able leadership. This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to any good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded. —Adv.

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

(1) Cheap tobaccos.

(2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.

(3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidor and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

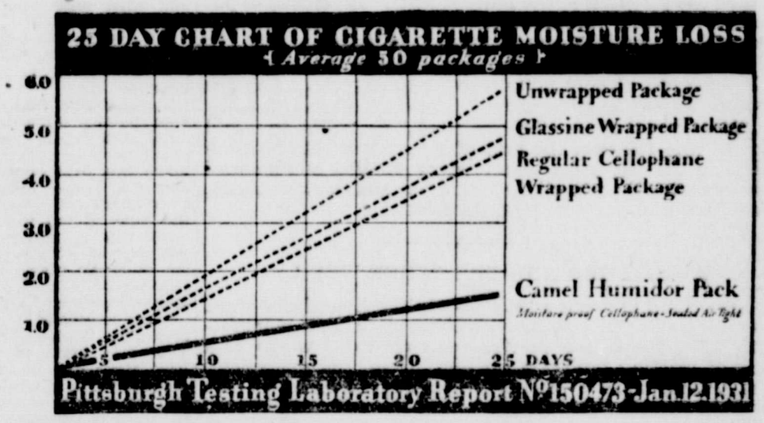

(A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.

(B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.

(C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection.

(D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

GOVERNOR MURRAY AND HIS PLAN.

Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and Ross S. Sterling of Texas, joined by representatives of the governors of New Mexico and Kansas, shot a "hot" message to President Hoover that he "request major companies to limit their exports in an effort to stabilize the oil industry. We are dealing with a great emergency in the oil situation now existing and appeal to you as president to urge an immediate agreement by these importers with the section of the various federal authorities." Copies of the message were sent to the heads of the giants of the oil industry. An advisory committee was appointed by the two governors and the representatives of the two governors and it was resolved that the committee "immediately take such action as may be necessary to recommend and sponsor such necessary legislation for all oil producing states as may be necessary effectually to conserve to these states their natural resources, for the benefit of the public and prosperity, such legislation to be as nearly uniform as practicable."

Now the Murray plan would bar from business in the mid-continent oil area states domestic and foreign corporations importing oil from other countries. A republican house smashed the program of the independents. It refused to put a ban on imports. It forced an early adjournment of congress with the oil bills left as unfinished business for the new congress to tackle in December, 1931. Foreign crude is on the free list. There is no limit as to imports. There is no ban on imports.

"Wherever there is oil there is hell," according to an old geologist who followed the flag of Dohoney on his invasion of Mexico. He may have been in error but it is an immortal cinch wherever there is oil there is a row and the lawmakers, national and state, are kept on their toes.

EDSEL FORD AND THE SHORT WEEK.

Edsel Ford is doing a little play in the Everglades state. He was interviewed and said he believed that all manufacturers will come to the shorter week (five-day week) as a means of meeting problems arising from unemployment. These are his words: "Industry has demonstrated it can more than supply the demands which naturally will leave a surplus of labor and at present nothing appears on the immediate horizon which can absorb this surplus." There is another surplus that must be absorbed. This is the machine age away down on the farm.

Machinery annually creates a large surplus of farm population and adds to the number of the unemployed. Now how will it be possible to absorb the surplus idlers down on the farm? They continue to drift to the cities and the towns. Absorption must come. It is either "back to the farm" to toil for a living by supplying the wants of the table from the soil or a continuous army of unemployed in the centers of population.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE TEXAS SUN.

Texas has been pronounced the whitest spot on or in the map of America. Now a general optimistic trend is denoted in the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas. Livestock have wintered well and are improving steadily. All the drouthy spots have been soaked, snow has covered the wheat fields of the West and Northwest and the cattle ranges of the upper country as far south as the Big Bend boundary line of Texas. With prospects for excellent pasturage, the review says that livestock should take on flesh rapidly during the succeeding weeks. There is one drawback—the low prices obtained for agricultural and livestock products. To combat the effects of the low prices the review pointedly says "farmers are showing a greater disposition for raising their living at home and to practice greater diversification as well as to reduce the cost of production wherever possible."

The plain English of this is that the folks "down on the farm" are going to do their own work this season. It is announced that land preparation is more advanced than usual, planting operations are being commenced early and growing crops generally are in good to excellent condition.

Speaking of trade, it is said the department state sales reflected the usual seasonal recession from the previous month and the decline from a year ago was approximately the same as in December but the gain was less than the usual seasonal expansion and the comparison with a year ago was slightly more unfavorable than in the previous months. Merchants continued to restrict purchases to actual requirements and collections have shown little or no improvement. Nationally speaking, Julius Barnes has reported to his chief, the president of the United States, that the trend is upward in the business as well as the manufacturing world. Building activities continue brisk under the skies of Texas and the outlook in this field of endeavor is said to be encouraging.

Take the bright side of the situation and permit the dark side to care for itself. Seasons of prosperity come and go. Lean years follow fat years. Americans have their fat years. Now they have been given a touch of the lean year. Depressions come and go. After a season of depression comes business revival and a fair share of prosperity for those who think and work and hustle and "never say die."

OTHER OPINIONS

THIS CRAZY WORLD

Becoming a cynic is as easy as rolling down a hill. All you have to do is to shut your eyes tight to one set of facts and open them wide to another set. Magnify the evil about you and minimize the good; focus your eyes on the faults and foibles of your neighbors, brood often and long on the wrongs done society, not forgetting to regard as hypocrites the great souls who suffered in order to make our rugged way a little smoother; imply ulterior motives to the poor deluded folks who say they believe in their fellows, and do not fail to exercise yourself daily with the hammer, fit emblem of the chronic knocker. Pursue months and you will become an accomplished cynic, a proficient misanthrope, pessimist of a purple hue.

Fully as easy as the road to cynicism is the way leading to that "fool's paradise" where a Pollyanna optimism supplies the rarefied air and provides the cloudless skies. To shut out the drab and sordid facts of life, to ignore the designs and divisings of wicked men, to refuse to see peril in organized evil is to be "forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air," and to jeopardize the hard-won achievements in the long fight for freedom and justice. Of the two extremes the ardent optimist or the morbid cynic most of us prefer to act on the conclusions of the latter, though we would rather "winter" with the former. As medicine, optimism is the more palatable to the taste, cynism is a nasty dose, but more likely to prove efficacious.

To look the world squarely in the face, seeing things as they are and taking into account both good and evil is not easy. No portion of the world is wholly good or wholly bad. Everywhere society is an admixture with right dominant in some portions and wrong enthroned in others. A "spotty" world is not a safe world, and each generation is flung a challenge to rid society of the plague spots which threaten its destruction. Every mother's son of us is born when the times are out of joint and born to set them right. It is both a single-handed fight and a mass movement. This crazy world can never be set right until its citizenship goes about the job on a global scale with no nation or race as a mere looker on, but each and all active participants in the bloodless battle of peace.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

We are told that Nero fiddled while Rome burned. It is extraordinary what prominence has been given to this musical performance and what unqualified blame has been directed at Nero.

But we are not acquainted with all the circumstances accompanying Nero's much maligned musical show.

It is possible that the Romans were passing through a financial crisis such as is now affecting many sections of the country. Rome may have been well insured and the people resigned to see their homes and shops burn up to the tune of the violin.

All this is merely speculation. We must accept the modern opinion of Nero's performances as an instance of callous disregard of other people's misfortunes.

Many merchants today are letting their business be destroyed while they listen to the tune of hard times and spend their time dreaming and talking hard times, and on account of this they and their neighbors suffer.

In this day and time if business men would continuously advertise their merchandise or service, advertising would be the music that would build business for them and hard times thoughts would be forgotten and everybody would be more prosperous.

SOME FOLKS VALUE THEIR AUTOMOBILES MORE THAN THEIR HEALTH

At least it seems so. It is strange, but true, that many men who have a spark plug miss fire, or some other trivial thing go wrong with a car will take it to a garage, ask for the master mechanic or an expert. He is told to find the trouble and fix it. He demands service and gets it. And because the garage is on a "cash basis" he pays his bill and goes on his way.

This happens every day and hundreds of the same men have a physician's bill of long standing. Why is it that so many people will pay the plumber promptly for fixing a broken pipe—yet they allow their physician to go unpaid for months after he has fixed a broken arm or leg?

Why is it that men who will pay a lawyer a substantial sum for making out a paper will allow their physician who diagnoses and prescribes for their illness so that they can be physically fit to keep busy to go unpaid for months?

Treat your physician fairly. He serves when you most need service. He comes when the bravest are worried and frightened, he comes at any hour regardless of the inconvenience. He comes day or night. He leaves his meals, a warm bed, a family gathering; he leaves them because he is serving an ideal. It is the physician who renders the greatest service. It is your physician who is first entitled to your consideration. Pay him promptly—If you can't pay cash at least pay the first of each month.

Every physician is entitled to fair play. The man you expect to rush to you in time of need is not the man to place last on the list when you are paying your bills. Why not send your physician a check today?

Drought Relief by Red Cross Greater Than Given in Any Previous Disaster

This map, as of January 31, shows that the Red Cross is giving drought relief in 735 counties in twenty states.

DROUGHT brought to the American Red Cross a larger relief job than the Mississippi flood of 1927. Three times as many states are affected. The latest tabulation shows more than 800,000 persons being cared for by the Red Cross, as against 600,000 in the largest previous domestic disaster. Thousands of volunteers are aiding in the present emergency, and upon them rests much of the work for local relief. With 175 representatives in the field giving supervision, the American Red Cross reports that every one of its 735 Chapters extending aid in as many counties of 20 affected states, is giving an excellent account of itself.

President Hoover recently called upon all of the citizens of the nation to contribute to a ten million dollar relief fund to care for these men, women and children who are victims of the unprecedented drought.

Helping them to help themselves is one of the major efforts of the Red Cross. As a part of this plan, distribution of two million packets of garden seed given by the Red Cross is getting under way in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama and will follow later in other drought areas. Garden plots will be planted up to one-quarter acre in size, and will do much to thwart malnutrition and prevent disease.

Many are the stories of distress due to the drought stricken crops, which have robbed the larder of its normal winter food supply, and the barn of its feed for stock, which have reached the Red Cross. As a result, the Society has started to feed the children in hundreds of rural schools. A hot, thick beef stew, with vegetables, buttered bread and milk constitute this noonday meal to prevent malnutrition.

Thousands of families receive their food orders each week from the Red Cross. Their wants are passed upon by committees of men and women in their own communities, who issue to them orders upon the stores they normally patronize.

In addition, more than 150 carloads of fresh fruits, vegetables and other edibles have been donated to the Red Cross by individuals all over the country, and these have been distributed in the drought areas, along with hundreds of bales of clothing.

The States where the Red Cross is giving aid are Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Texas.

GOVERNOR MURRAY AND HIS PLAN.

Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and Ross S. Sterling of Texas, joined by representatives of the governors of New Mexico and Kansas, shot a "hot" message to President Hoover that he "request major companies to limit their exports in an effort to stabilize the oil industry. We are dealing with a great emergency in the oil situation now existing and appeal to you as president to urge an immediate agreement by these importers with the section of the various federal authorities." Copies of the message were sent to the heads of the giants of the oil industry. An advisory committee was appointed by the two governors and the representatives of the two governors and it was resolved that the committee "immediately take such action as may be necessary to recommend and sponsor such necessary legislation for all oil producing states as may be necessary effectually to conserve to these states their natural resources, for the benefit of the public and prosperity, such legislation to be as nearly uniform as practicable."

Now the Murray plan would bar from business in the mid-continent oil area states domestic and foreign corporations importing oil from other countries. A republican house smashed the program of the independents. It refused to put a ban on imports. It forced an early adjournment of congress with the oil bills left as unfinished business for the new congress to tackle in December, 1931. Foreign crude is on the free list. There is no limit as to imports. There is no ban on imports.

"Wherever there is oil there is hell," according to an old geologist who followed the flag of Dohoney on his invasion of Mexico. He may have been in error but it is an immortal cinch wherever there is oil there is a row and the lawmakers, national and state, are kept on their toes.

EDSEL FORD AND THE SHORT WEEK.

Edsel Ford is doing a little play in the Everglades state. He was interviewed and said he believed that all manufacturers will come to the shorter week (five-day week) as a means of meeting problems arising from unemployment. These are his words: "Industry has demonstrated it can more than supply the demands which naturally will leave a surplus of labor and at present nothing appears on the immediate horizon which can absorb this surplus." There is another surplus that must be absorbed. This is the machine age away down on the farm.

Machinery annually creates a large surplus of farm population and adds to the number of the unemployed. Now how will it be possible to absorb the surplus idlers down on the farm? They continue to drift to the cities and the towns. Absorption must come. It is either "back to the farm" to toil for a living by supplying the wants of the table from the soil or a continuous army of unemployed in the centers of population.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE TEXAS SUN.

Texas has been pronounced the whitest spot on or in the map of America. Now a general optimistic trend is denoted in the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas. Livestock have wintered well and are improving steadily. All the drouthy spots have been soaked, snow has covered the wheat fields of the West and Northwest and the cattle ranges of the upper country as far south as the Big Bend boundary line of Texas. With prospects for excellent pasturage, the review says that livestock should take on flesh rapidly during the succeeding weeks. There is one drawback—the low prices obtained for agricultural and livestock products. To combat the effects of the low prices the review pointedly says "farmers are showing a greater disposition for raising their living at home and to practice greater diversification as well as to reduce the cost of production wherever possible."

The plain English of this is that the folks "down on the farm" are going to do their own work this season. It is announced that land preparation is more advanced than usual, planting operations are being commenced early and growing crops generally are in good to excellent condition.

Speaking of trade, it is said the department state sales reflected the usual seasonal recession from the previous month and the decline from a year ago was approximately the same as in December but the gain was less than the usual seasonal expansion and the comparison with a year ago was slightly more unfavorable than in the previous months. Merchants continued to restrict purchases to actual requirements and collections have shown little or no improvement. Nationally speaking, Julius Barnes has reported to his chief, the president of the United States, that the trend is upward in the business as well as the manufacturing world. Building activities continue brisk under the skies of Texas and the outlook in this field of endeavor is said to be encouraging.

Take the bright side of the situation and permit the dark side to care for itself. Seasons of prosperity come and go. Lean years follow fat years. Americans have their fat years. Now they have been given a touch of the lean year. Depressions come and go. After a season of depression comes business revival and a fair share of prosperity for those who think and work and hustle and "never say die."

OTHER OPINIONS

THIS CRAZY WORLD

Becoming a cynic is as easy as rolling down a hill. All you have to do is to shut your eyes tight to one set of facts and open them wide to another set. Magnify the evil about you and minimize the good; focus your eyes on the faults and foibles of your neighbors, brood often and long on the wrongs done society, not forgetting to regard as hypocrites the great souls who suffered in order to make our rugged way a little smoother; imply ulterior motives to the poor deluded folks who say they believe in their fellows, and do not fail to exercise yourself daily with the hammer, fit emblem of the chronic knocker. Pursue months and you will become an accomplished cynic, a proficient misanthrope, pessimist of a purple hue.

Fully as easy as the road to cynicism is the way leading to that "fool's paradise" where a Pollyanna optimism supplies the rarefied air and provides the cloudless skies. To shut out the drab and sordid facts of life, to ignore the designs and divisings of wicked men, to refuse to see peril in organized evil is to be "forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air," and to jeopardize the hard-won achievements in the long fight for freedom and justice. Of the two extremes the ardent optimist or the morbid cynic most of us prefer to act on the conclusions of the latter, though we would rather "winter" with the former. As medicine, optimism is the more palatable to the taste, cynicism is a nasty dose, but more likely to prove efficacious.

To look the world squarely in the face, seeing things as they are and taking into account both good and evil is not easy. No portion of the world is wholly good or wholly bad. Everywhere society is an admixture with right dominant in some portions and wrong enthroned in others. A "spotty" world is not a safe world, and each generation is flung a challenge to rid society of the plague spots which threaten its destruction. Every mother's son of us is born when the times are out of joint and born to set them right. It is both a single-handed fight and a mass movement. This crazy world can never be set right until its citizenship goes about the job on a global scale with no nation or race as a mere looker on, but each and all active participants in the bloodless battle of peace.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

We are told that Nero fiddled while Rome burned. It is extraordinary what prominence has been given to this musical performance and what unqualified blame has been directed at Nero.

But we are not acquainted with all the circumstances accompanying Nero's much maligned musical show.

It is possible that the Romans were passing through a financial crisis such as is now affecting many sections of the country. Rome may have been well insured and the people resigned to see their homes and shops burn up to the tune of the violin.

All this is merely speculation. We must accept the modern opinion of Nero's performances as an instance of callous disregard of other people's misfortunes.

Many merchants today are letting their business be destroyed while they listen to the tune of hard times and spend their time dreaming and talking hard times, and on account of this they and their neighbors suffer.

In this day and time if business men would continuously advertise their merchandise or service, advertising would be the music that would build business for them and hard times thoughts would be forgotten and everybody would be more prosperous.

SOME FOLKS VALUE THEIR AUTOMOBILES MORE THAN THEIR HEALTH

At least it seems so. It is strange, but true, that many men who have a spark plug miss fire, or some other trivial thing go wrong with a car will take it to a garage, ask for the master mechanic or an expert. He is told to find the trouble and fix it. He demands service and gets it. And because the garage is on a "cash basis" he pays his bill and goes on his way.

This happens every day and hundreds of the same men have a physician's bill of long standing. Why is it that so many people will pay the plumber promptly for fixing a broken pipe—yet they allow their physician to go unpaid for months after he has fixed a broken arm or leg?

Why is it that men who will pay a lawyer a substantial sum for making out a paper will allow their physician who diagnoses and prescribes for their illness so that they can be physically fit to keep busy to go unpaid for months?

Treat your physician fairly. He serves when you most need service. He comes when the bravest are worried and frightened, he comes at any hour regardless of the inconvenience. He comes day or night. He leaves his meals, a warm bed, a family gathering; he leaves them because he is serving an ideal. It is the physician who renders the greatest service. It is your physician who is first entitled to your consideration. Pay him promptly—If you can't pay cash at least pay the first of each month.

Every physician is entitled to fair play. The man you expect to rush to you in time of need is not the man to place last on the list when you are paying your bills. Why not send your physician a check today?

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

QUALITY OF 1932 COTTON CROP FIGURED

AUSTIN, March 5. — Nearly two years ahead of time, the prospective quality of the 1932 Texas cotton crop is being estimated by inspectors for the certification division of the state department of agriculture.

While the results of analysis now being made in the division could not be regarded a sabsolute gauges of the 1932 quality, they will indicate that quality indirecily; for they will show what quality the certified cotton breeder may expect in 1931, and from the 1931 breeders' crops will come a good portion of the planting seed for the 1932 farm crop.

Armed with a tiny comb, and with samples of cotton taken from the breeders' fields last year, the inspectors are combing these sample to determine staple length and uniformity. Their findings will be compared with the growing cotton in the breeders' fields next season; if marked variation is found, the inspector will know the cotton is not running true to form, and corrective steps can be taken in order that seed from the faulty cotton may not be sold to the farmer. These samples taken from the fields set aside by the breeders for their own planting seed, also are tested for lint percent and lint index.

All these analysis, combined with field inspections made of the growing cotton last season and compared to the previous record of the breeder, furnish the division fairly accurate data concerning the potentialities of each breeder's seed.

The division does not attempt to compare one breeder's seed with that of another, since such comparisons should take into account soil and climate as well as seed stock. Tests of this nature are made by the Experiments Stations, with which the division cooperates. The only concern of the certification division is to determine whether the cotton breeder measures up to the standards fixed by the state plant board.

According to R. V. Miller, chief of the division, the bright red tag which is affixed to every bag of certified seed has come to be known not only in Texas but in other states and foreign countries as a guaranty of cotton seed purity.

Farmers Told to Shelter Cotton

Austin, March 5. — Shelter your cotton from the rain and build a durable shed with the savings, cotton farmers are urged by J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture.

Deductions of five dollars or more per bale made by buyers against wet cotton might easily be avoided by putting the bales under shelter instead of leaving them in the fields to rot, the commissioner said.

Door Too Big for "Heavy" to Leave

PHILADELPHIA, March 5. —Listen to this story about a man who hasn't been outside of his home for 11 years because he's too big to get through the door.

He's only 27, but he weighs 701 pounds.

His name is Joe Raggio and his one joy in life is food.

"I live to eat," declared the champion fat man of the Quaker City. "In fact I love it."

And so it seems for outside of reading or playing a bit of poker, he hasn't another interest in the world but food.

Joe really enjoys spaghetti. He only eats four pounds at a meal, he says, and stops then because they won't give him any more. Next on the menu is "dogs." Now Joe, when he is really hungry, eats four or five pounds of frankfurters at a sitting. Then with a loaf of bread and eight cups of black coffee to wash it down, he says he's able to "carry on" for at least another three or four hours.

He wears home-made shoes; that is he calls them shoes, but they're just slabs of wood with a canvas strap to hold them on.

His widowed mother makes his shirts when she has time.

Joe's circumference—78 inches — is ten inches greater than his height, which is 5 feet, 8 inches.

BOTH BULLDOG GRID MENTORS ARE RE-ELECTED

RANGER, March 5.—Eck Curtis and Tricky Ward will direct the athletic destinies of the Ranger Bulldogs for the next year.

The two popular coaches were re-elected by the school board at a session Tuesday night.

In 1928, the regime of Curtis and Ward in Ranger high school athletics began. Curtis, former star quarterback of the Abilene Christian college team, came here from Anson where his Tigers each year were recognized as among the strongest Class B teams in the state and capable of holding their own with most "A" teams. One year, he piloted Anson to the unofficial Class B championship of Texas, defeating Marlin in the final game. Marlin was coached by Dewey Mayhew, now the mentor of the Abilene Eagles.

Ward came to Ranger upon graduating from Texas Christian university where he starred as a tackle and an end. His duties here were those of coach of Ranger Junior college and he produced a strong eleven. However the scant number of boys available caused football to be given up and Ward then took over the task of coaching the Bulldog line.

Yes, you love me all right, after a fashion, the way you love your father, and Ben and Jenky, but the way you love this Bard chap is something else again."

"I — I hope you aren't surprised—"

"Not only am I not surprised," he said, "but I'm darn glad of it. I'm tired out. To tell you the truth, Pat and I have come to understand each other pretty well, and we have agreed that as soon as we get you off our hands we'll get married ourselves and take a long rest."

"You and Pat! You mean my Pat?"

"Nobody else."

"And will she do it?"

"She says so."

"Will she go and live wtih you at Pay Dirt?"

"It's the only place I have to live."

* * *

"Oh, Eddy!" cried Ginger. "That's just gorgeous! Then Bard and I will switch things around at Mill Rush and chuck out the club and go and live there with Pietro to cook for us. And I'll be right on hand to go on managing father and Phil—and I can sort of keep an eye on you and Pat, too. Tell Bard to come, quick!"

But before he reached the door she called after him, "No, don't interrupt him. He may be working on those portraits."

But it was not necessary to postpone their plans for the painting of portraits.

A few weeks later Marker was in possession of news of such tremendous importance that he took the first train to Red Thrush—at his own expense—to deliver it in person.

It seemed that Mexico had not witnessed the first co-operative efforts of Messrs. Giovanni and Benito. They had been allied long before that in a different sort of business, far more sinister, in their native Italy, where they were listed as political offenders and where "there was a price on their heads." Marker and Holt lost not a moment in picking up Ziovanni, making one feather in their professional bonnet since they could not attack much credit as concerned Benito.

They had taken the matter up with Italian consuls and representatives of the law in this country, and found that instead of bringing Benito to trial in Iowa—an expensive and unpleasant proceeding at best—he could be deported to Italy as an undesirable alien. And the Italian consul assured them that the government would take care of him at the other end, and would gladly reimburse them for their time and trouble to the extent of that price on their heads, which amounted to no less than $10,000 apiece.

* * *

Marker reported the situation in great detail and with evident relish, strongly advising Mrs. Tolliver to relieve herself of the annoyance of prosecution and to accept the consolation of $10,000. He assured her that arrangements had already been made for the bon voyage of Giovanni, who, he was confident, would be deeply grateful for the companionship of his faithful old friend and comrade, Benito.

Phil professed a complete lack of interest.

"It's none of my business, one way or the other," she said. "Ask Bard. It is entirely up to him."

"To me!" ejaculated Bard. "Why, it doesn't make the least difference in the world to me. Whatever you think best, of course."

"Well, would you rather have the fun of sending Benito to the pen for life, or $10,000 cash?" Phil wanted to know.

"It's no fun sending anybody to the pen, as far as I can see. And money is always money! Who would get it?"

"Oh, stupid!" she cried, laughing. "What do you think Mr. Marker came out here for? Wasn't it you who caught him?"

Ginger ran across the nudged him, slowly and with purpose. Her face was rapt and shining.

"Bard," she whispered, "take the money! Art is perfectly wonderful, of course, but—really, it is a little slow—when one's waiting!"

COMING SUNDAY

One man won her love— and destroyed it.
Another won her beauty—and robbed her of it.
She sought joy — she found sorrow. Seeking peace, she came face to face with tragedy.
Pride made her reckless, but her heart would not let her forget.
Dreams of youth fading in the bitterness of reality.
Does life exact too high a price for love—for beauty — for pride?
Let your own heart find its answer in the eloquent, soul-awakening drama—

Motions Cause—

Comm'r. Burnett died for want of a second. It was:

"In view of the fact that there has been a great number of people in our city who have been sued on their taxes, and in view of the fact that we have not had such times as we are having now so far as money is concerned, and in view of the fact that the state of Texas has extended the time for the payment of state and county taxes to October 15 1931, I move that this city commission instruct the attorneys who are handling tax matters for the city of Cisco not to file any more tax suits in behalf of the city until after October 15, 1931 and not then if it appears that financial conditions are no better then than now. Also I move that where suits have been filed that same be held up and no action taken until after October 15, 1931."

"Unfair"

Dicussion of the motion brought statements from the mayor and other members of the commission to the effect that such an act on the part of the commission would be unfair to the citizens. The policy of the administration, as stated by the mayor, has been to file suits against delinquent tax-payers only when they exhibit a desire to evade satisfactory settlement or fail to answer communications in this regardd. Any tax-payer who is delinquent may make arangements for carying his payments without having suit brought against him if he is willing to do so, it was declared.

A motion by Comm'r. Fee, seconded by McCrea, however, was passed directing that the tax collector be required to submit to the commission a detailed report of all tax cases upon which suit is contemplated before suits are filed.

The meeting was held at the home of the mayor yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Facts in regard to the bill in the legislature for repeal of the senate Bill No. 31, were laid before the commission by the mayor. This law provides receivership for cities defaulting on the indebtedness under what are declared drastic regulations.

Kitchen Short Cuts to Economy Revealed

Interest in the Daily News Free Cooking school, which opened Monday and closes Friday afternoon, continues to increase among the women of Cisco. The crowd at the building directly across the street from the Cisco Banking company, which the Continental Oil company permitted the Daily News to use for the school, was the largest yesterday that has attended previous lectures by Miss Rada Sue Garrett, home economics expert conducting the school.

About 30 chairs were secured from the Laguna hotel but still many ladies were forced to stand. More seating has been secured for today, yet an overflow is expected. The economic department of the high school has been invited for today's session. Many prizes are being given each day by local merchants: Hyatt & Wood furnished the groceries Wednesday and Norvell & Miller furnished those being used today. Skiles Grocery & Market is furnishing the meats and cheese used each day. West Texas Product company is furnishing the fresh vegetables and fruits.

"Mother Hubbard's Cupboard" was the title of Miss Garrett's lecture yesterday. The resourceful housewife, said Miss Garrett, always keeps a good supply and variety of groceries on her pantry shelves so that she will be prepared to meet all emergencies.

Kitchen equipment hints supplied by Miss Garrett included a recommendation that each kitchen be equipped with a pair of scissors. This instrument is invaluable in mincing vegetables such as parsley, celery and similar articles of food and prevents injury to the fingers. Speaking of celery she advised that the vegetables, when minced, should be cut from the bottom to prevent stringing.

Another useful kitchen article advised by Miss Garrett is a rubber plate scrapper. This utensil, she said, is very useful in scrapping food from utensils.

"It has been said," declared Miss Garrett, "that the kitchen sink is one of the best fed children in the United States. An efficient cook is one who is able to cut left-overs to a minimum by disguising them for economical consumption."

Economy in the use of electricity when cooking upon an electric stove is obtained when the housewife makes everything ready before cooking the meal, Miss Garrett pointed out. In this way everything is cooked at once, or as nearly as possible and less electricity is consumed. She showed that an entire meal may be cooked in the electric oven, with the exception of the salad.

In cooking meats, she said, it is better to use no water at all. Never, she declared, is it necessary to float roasts in water.

In cooking macaroni, she said, boiling water should be used for the best effects. Vegetables, excepting dried beans, are better cooked if boiling water is poured over them after they have been started.

Pointing out that macaroni may be used as a good substitute for potatoes Miss Garrett demonstrated a macaroni combination in the making of salad.

Fish Essential.

Any series of lectures, said the lecturer, is incomplete without a good fish recipe and she demonstrated Haddock loaf as an appetizing method of serving this item of food. Pointing out that many people do not realize the importance of fish in the diet, she asserted that the human body needs the iodine products to be found in this food.

The first recipe demonstrated yesterday was "Russian steak." If one desires variety this recipe should certainly fill the bill.

A very interesting way of cooking rice as the French do was given.

Hoover Plans to Visit Country

WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Hoover plans to go out to meet the country this summer, it was learned today from his associates, although his itinerary is still indefinite. He is expected to make several speeches.

The president's itinerary may take him across the country by a northern route in Palo Alto, California. In that case he probably would return by a southern route, this affording him an opportunity to visit at least half the 48 states.

8 MORE FARM LOAN CHECKS ARE RECEIVED

Eight more checks for federal farm relief loans in Eastland county were received this morning by the county committee. The loans are for farmers in the Rising Star, Nimrod and Carbon communities and total $1,033.24, or an average of $129.15 each.

Those receiving the loans are: J. L. Black, W. O. Hamilton and J. M. Thurman, of Carbon; J. W. Turnell, S. W. Wilkerson, M. M. Baldwin and J. B. Glidewell, of Rising Star and J. F. Sampson, of Nimrod.

Accompanying the checks was a letter setting forth revised regulations with respect to borrowing from the federal government. These regulations provide that a family may borrow a maximum of $75 for the purpose of feeding cows, chickens and hogs to be used for the production of food for farm families. This sum will be distributed in the following manner:

Each family may feed a maximum of three cows for two months at $7.50 per month each, making a total maximum of $45 for cows; five hogs for two months at 2 per month each, making a total maximum of $20 for hogs; 100 chickens for two months at five cents each, making a total of $10 for chickens.

It was also announced that the Fort Worth branch office for distributing federal farm relief loans is now open and that all applications must be sent to that office instead of the St. Louis office. This will expedite the making of the loans in this section, it was pointed out.

TODAY'S RECIPES AT DAILY NEWS FREE COOKING SCHOOL

Below is the program of recipes which Miss Rada Su Garrett, nationally known dietician and home economics expert who is conducting the Daily News Free Cooking school, demonstrated in the second of her series of five lectures this afternoon.

The menus are presented in detail for the benefit of those who wish to keep an acurate record of the food which Miss Garrett is demonstrating.

One-half pound flour
One-half pound sugar
One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg
Five eggs.

BILL PROVIDES PENALTY FOR POSSESSION

AUSTIN, March 5. — Possessors of liquor will run the risk of a jail sentence under a new prohibition enforcement law offered the Texas house of representatives today by Rep. B. J. Forbes, of Weatherford, and Rep. Harry Graves, of Georgetown.

The present law punishes only possession for the purposes of sale.

The proposed new law would punish every possession but that of prescription liquor, sacramental, scientific or mechanical. That the liquor was so possessed is made an acceptable defense in prosecution.

Penalties for possession in the bill are made fines of from $25 to $1,000, a jail sentence not more than one year.

AMENDMENT IS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 5. — A proposal for an additional amendment to the constitution permitting states to manufacture, transport and sell liquor in their borders was put forward by John J. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee for the consideration of the party today.

Raskob explained that his proposed amendment should not be effective until it had been ratified by the state thorugh conventions of the people.

Under this plan, as Raskob explained it, the eighteenth amendment would not be repealed.

MOTIONS CAUSE WARMTH IN COMM'N MEET

One of two resolutions introduced at the meeting of the city commission yesterday afternoon caused some warmth when Mayor J. M. Williamson declared that he "resented" the motion.

The motion as introduced by Comm'r. Burnett stated:

"I move that the city commission do not have any recess meetings in the future unless there is given at least 24 hours notice to each commissioner of said meeting."

Ruling the motion out of order on the ground that it proposed suspension of the rules governing the commission and adopted by ordinance and that such suspension could not be done on simple motion, the mayor declared that he "resented" the motion for the reason that in the beginning and before the commissioners were inducted into office that he had told them that every member of the commission would be given an opportunity to discuss every question to the last word and that he had kept his promise. He asserted that he had not taken advantage of the absence of any commissioner to introduce mooted questions or to pass "pet" legislation. He said that he had always tried to play fair with the commission.

Protests Reflection

Commissioner Burnett protested vigorously that his action in introducing the motion had been to cast any reflection upon the mayor.

He explained that many important questions coming before the commission require full attendance and he regarded that each commissioner should be given 24 hours notice of every meeting so that he could make arrangements to be present.

Another motion introduced by

Plays Politics

Sixteen-year-old Artemisia Calles, above, youngest daughter of ex-President Calles of Mexico, can show her noted father a thing of two in the game of politics. Seeking election as carnival queen at enclusive San Diego, California, school, where she attends, Miss Calles wired political friends in Mexico City for their support; the aid of the Mexican consul was forthwith enlisted and when the balloting ended Miss Calles was 8,600 votes ahead of her nearest competitor.

CISCO FIRMS BUY BEEVES FROM BOYS

Not all the fine beef raised by Cisco vocational projects is sent out of the city. Three Cisco business institutions have just purchased three fat baby beeves from three of the vocational boys, paying a premium for the animals.

LONE ROBBER IS SOUGHT IN BRUSH COUNTRY

SAN MARCOS, March 5.—Hays county officers this morning were beating through the wild, brushy country between Driftwood and Austin in search for the lone bandit who held up the Kyle State bank yesterday afternoon and escaped with about $4,000.

The bandit's abandoned automobile and a belief that he is a resident of Austin were virtually all the clues the officers had to aid them.

The automobile bearing one Texas and one Louisiana license plate, was found last night in a pasture several hundred yards off the road, 15 miles northwest of Kyle.

Stockmen in northwest Texas were warned today to protect their herds. Rain or snow for Texas was forecast in the wake of the cold north wind.

SCHOLASTIC CENSUS NOW BEING TAKEN

Supt. R. N. Cluck, High School Principal H. Brandon and West Ward Principal T. C. Williams are now engaged in taking the annual scholastic census of Cisco. Most of the work is being done in the afternoon. Mr. Cluck has been engaged in enumerating scholastic in the eastern part of the city while Mr. Brandon is working sixth and seventh streets this afternoon. Mr. Williams is enumerating scholastics in tourist camps and similar places.

Children who are six years of age or will be six before September 1, 1931, to children who will be eighteen years of age after September 1, 1931, are being enumerated. The school authorities are anxious to list every child of these ages and between in Cisco so that the local system will be able to receive all the funds from the state to which it is entitled. Parents and guardians are earnestly requested to cooperate with the enumerators so that none of the scholastics will be missed.

It is hoped to complete the first enumeration this week.

BUSINESS MEN TO DON GARB OF FAIR SEX

Just how women should wear clothes and drink tea will be demonstrated by 20 or 25 Cisco business men when they don feminine garments and lose their dignity in a riot of fun at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening.

The occasion will be the presentation of the "Womanless Tea" and the purpose to raise money for the band and for the high school girls basket ball team of 1930 who have never received sweaters in reward of their athletic efforts. The band needs money to finance a trip to Abilene where Bandmaster G. W. Collum has hopes of winning another west Texas championship in the annual contest to be held in that city shortly.

The business men have come to the rescue of these organizations and they promise to make their talents count heavily in the till. Fat women, lean women, short women, dainty dancing misses and misses who can't dance will disport themselves for the benefit of the audience. Advance indications are that by far the greater part of this audience will be made up of the sex whom the business men will endeavor to mimic.

The curtain rises promptly at 7:45 and the program will consume about two hours.

WEATHER

West Texas—Cloudy tonight and Friday with snow in north portion. Much colder tonight with temperatures of 18 to 26 degrees with strong northern winds. Colder south portion Friday. Notify stock men of north portion.

This Great Healing Oil Best For Pimples and Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to any good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil—an 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Why we spend $2,000,000 to put CAMEL cigarettes in the new HUMIDOR PACK

WE have been in the tobacco business a long time down here at Winston-Salem and we take a lot of pride in the quality of the cigarettes we make.

While we have spent a good many million dollars advertising Camels, we've always held to the old fashioned idea that the thing that really counts is what we put into our cigarette and not what we say about it.

If we know anything about tobacco, and we think we do, Camels contain the choicest Turkish and the mellowest, ripest domestic leaves that money can buy.

In fact we have every reason to be proud of the quality of Camels as they come from the factory, but the remark of an old friend of ours from Denver some time ago emphasized a point that has been the problem of the cigarette industry for years.

As he inhaled the smoke from a Camel we gave him in our offices one morning, he sighed with very evident enjoyment and then asked jokingly, "What is this, a special blend reserved for Camel executives?"

"Certainly not," we told him. "This package of Camels was bought at the corner store this morning."

"Well," he said, "I've been a dyed in the wool Camel smoker for a good many years, but upon my soul I never got a cigarette as good as this in Denver. If you would give the rest of the world the kind of Camels you sell here in Winston-Salem, you ought to have all the cigarette business there is."

THAT statement simply emphasized again the cigarette industry's most important problem. The more we thought about it, the surer we were that he was dead right, and that somehow, something must be done.

Denver wasn't getting a fair break. Neither in fact was any other town. The only people who really knew how good Camels could be, were the folks right here in Winston-Salem.

That was due to a factor no cigarette manufacturer had ever been able to control.

Naturally there is no difference whatever in the quality of the tobacco in Camels, whether you buy them in Winston-Salem, Denver or Timbuctoo. But up to now there has been a very real difference in the condition of the cigarettes by the time they reached the smoker.

The flavor and mildness of fine tobacco depend upon the retention of its natural, not added, moisture content which is prime at about ten per cent.

In spite of our great pains always to make sure Camels left the factory with just the right amount of natural moisture, no cigarette package had ever yet been designed that could prevent that precious moisture from drying out.

THERE are three things about a cigarette that can sting the tongue and unkindly burn the throat.

(1) Cheap tobaccos.

(2) Particles of peppery dust left in the tobacco because of inefficient cleaning methods.

(3) A parched dry condition of the tobacco due to loss of natural moisture by overheating or evaporation.

Always certain of the quality of our tobaccos we had already made Camel a "dustless" cigarette by the use of a specially designed vacuum cleaning apparatus exclusive with our factory.

Now, if we could perfect a package that would actually act as a humidor and retain the natural moisture content, then Yuma, Arizona, could enjoy Camels as much as we do here at Winston-Salem.

We knew what we wanted. We tried many things. We asked the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory to help us.

After many experiments and humidity tests covering all methods of packing cigarettes came the detailed report of which this is the net:

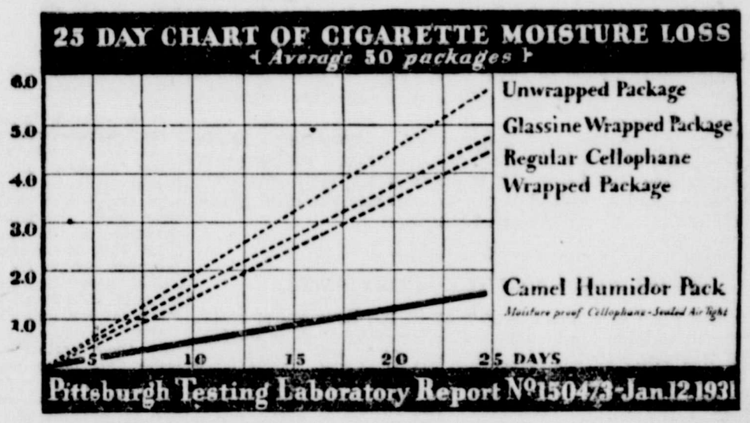

(A) No existing cigarette package, including those wrapped in glassine paper or ordinary cellophane, gives anything like adequate protection against evaporation.

(B) All cigarettes so packed tend to dry out rapidly from the day they are released from the factory.

(C) Only a waterproof material with a specially devised air-tight seal could give the desired protection.

(D) This measure, while costly, could be relied on to keep Camels in prime condition for at least three months in any climate.

If you have a technical bent, the graph below made by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory will show you the exact results of their exhaustive study.

Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory chart above graphically shows you that only the Camel Humidor Pack delivers cigarettes to you in prime condition

YOU may be sure we gave this report a lot of careful study. We checked it and re-checked it and then we went ahead. We tried this device and that. At last we met success. The air-tight wrapping involved the designing of special processes, special machines.

That costs a lot of money, more than $2,000,000 the first year, but after you have tried Camels packed this modern new way we are sure you will agree it is a fine investment.

For some time now every Camel that has left our factory has gone out in this new Humidor Pack.

We have said nothing about it until now, to make sure your dealer would be able to supply you when the good news came out.

Camel smokers of course have already discovered that their favorite cigarette is better and milder now than ever before.

If you aren't a Camel smoker, try them just to see what a difference there really is between harsh, dried out tobacco and a properly conditioned cigarette.

You can feel the difference, you can hear the difference and you certainly can taste the difference.

Of course we're prejudiced.

We always have believed that Camel is the world's best cigarette.

Now we know it.

Just treat yourself to Camels in the new Humidor Pack and see if you don't agree.

GOVERNOR MURRAY AND HIS PLAN.

Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and Ross S. Sterling of Texas, joined by representatives of the governors of New Mexico and Kansas, shot a "hot" message to President Hoover that he "request major companies to limit their exports in an effort to stabilize the oil industry. We are dealing with a great emergency in the oil situation now existing and appeal to you as president to urge an immediate agreement by these importers with the section of the various federal authorities." Copies of the message were sent to the heads of the giants of the oil industry. An advisory committee was appointed by the two governors and the representatives of the two governors and it was resolved that the committee "immediately take such action as may be necessary to recommend and sponsor such necessary legislation for all oil producing states as may be necessary effectually to conserve to these states their natural resources, for the benefit of the public and prosperity, such legislation to be as nearly uniform as practicable."

Now the Murray plan would bar from business in the mid-continent oil area states domestic and foreign corporations importing oil from other countries. A republican house smashed the program of the independents. It refused to put a ban on imports. It forced an early adjournment of congress with the oil bills left as unfinished business for the new congress to tackle in December, 1931. Foreign crude is on the free list. There is no limit as to imports. There is no ban on imports.

"Wherever there is oil there is hell," according to an old geologist who followed the flag of Dohoney on his invasion of Mexico. He may have been in error but it is an immortal cinch wherever there is oil there is a row and the lawmakers, national and state, are kept on their toes.

EDSEL FORD AND THE SHORT WEEK.

Edsel Ford is doing a little play in the Everglades state. He was interviewed and said he believed that all manufacturers will come to the shorter week (five-day week) as a means of meeting problems arising from unemployment. These are his words: "Industry has demonstrated it can more than supply the demands which naturally will leave a surplus of labor and at present nothing appears on the immediate horizon which can absorb this surplus." There is another surplus that must be absorbed. This is the machine age away down on the farm.

Machinery annually creates a large surplus of farm population and adds to the number of the unemployed. Now how will it be possible to absorb the surplus idlers down on the farm? They continue to drift to the cities and the towns. Absorption must come. It is either "back to the farm" to toil for a living by supplying the wants of the table from the soil or a continuous army of unemployed in the centers of population.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE TEXAS SUN.

Texas has been pronounced the whitest spot on or in the map of America. Now a general optimistic trend is denoted in the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas. Livestock have wintered well and are improving steadily. All the drouthy spots have been soaked, snow has covered the wheat fields of the West and Northwest and the cattle ranges of the upper country as far south as the Big Bend-boundary line of Texas. With prospects for excellent pasturage, the review says that livestock should take on flesh rapidly during the succeeding weeks. There is one drawback—the low prices obtained for agricultural and livestock products. To combat the effects of the low prices the review pointedly says "farmers are showing a greater disposition for raising their living at home and to practice greater diversification as well as to reduce the cost of production wherever possible."

The plain English of this is that the folks "down on the farm" are going to do their own work this season. It is announced that land preparation is more advanced than usual, planting operations are being commenced early and growing crops generally are in good to excellent condition.

Speaking of trade, it is said the department state sales reflected the usual seasonal recession from the previous month and the decline from a year ago was approximately the same as in December but the gain was less than the usual seasonal expansion and the comparison with a year ago was slightly more unfavorable than in the previous months. Merchants continued to restrict purchases to actual requirements and collections have shown little or no improvement. Nationally speaking, Julius Barnes has reported to his chief, the president of the United States, that the trend is upward in the business as well as the manufacturing world. Building activities continue brisk under the skies of Texas and the outlook in this field of endeavor is said to be encouraging.

Take the bright side of the situation and permit the dark side to care for itself. Seasons of prosperity come and go. Lean years follow fat years. Americans have their fat years. Now they have been given a touch of the lean year. Depressions come and go. After a season of depression comes business revival and a fair share of prosperity for those who think and work and hustle and "never say die."

OTHER OPINIONS

THIS CRAZY WORLD

Becoming a cynic is as easy as rolling down a hill. All you have to do is to shut your eyes tight to one set of facts and open them wide to another set. Magnify the evil about you and minimize the good; focus your eyes on the faults and foibles of your neighbors, brood often and long on the wrongs done society, not forgetting to regard as hypocrites the great souls who suffered in order to make our rugged way a little smoother; imply ulterior motives to the poor deluded folks who say they believe in their fellows, and do not fail to exercise yourself daily with the hammer, fit emblem of the chronic knocker. Pursue months and you will become an accomplished cynic, a proficient misanthrope, pessimist of a purple hue.

Fully as easy as the road to cynicism is the way leading to that "fool's paradise" where a Pollyanna optimism supplies the rarefied air and provides the cloudless skies. To shut out the drab and sordid facts of life, to ignore the designs and divisings of wicked men, to refuse to see peril in organized evil is to be "forever blowing bubbles, pretty bubbles in the air," and to jeopardize the hard-won achievements in the long fight for freedom and justice. Of the two extremes the ardent optimist or the morbid cynic most of us prefer to act on the conclusions of the latter, though we would rather "winter" with the former. As medicine, optimism is the more palatable to the taste, cynism is a nasty dose, but more likely to prove efficacious.

To look the world squarely in the face, seeing things as they are and taking into account both good and evil is not easy. No portion of the world is wholly good or wholly bad. Everywhere society is an admixture with right dominant in some portions and wrong enthroned in others. A "spotty" world is not a safe world, and each generation is flung a challenge to rid society of the plague spots which threaten its destruction. Every mother's son of us is born when the times are out of joint and born to set them right. It is both a single-handed fight and a mass movement. This crazy world can never be set right until its citizenship goes about the job on a global scale with no nation or race as a mere looker on, but each and all active participants in the bloodless battle of peace.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

By EDSON R. WAITE
Shawnee, Oklahoma.

We are told that Nero fiddled while Rome burned. It is extraordinary what prominence has been given to this musical performance and what unqualified blame has been directed at Nero.

But we are not acquainted with all the circumstances accompanying Nero's much maligned musical show.

It is possible that the Romans were passing through a financial crisis such as is now affecting many sections of the country. Rome may have been well insured and the people resigned to see their homes and shops burn up to the tune of the violin.

All this is merely speculation. We must accept the modern opinion of Nero's performances as an instance of callous disregard of other people's misfortunes.

Many merchants today are letting their business be destroyed while they listen to the tune of hard times and spend their time dreaming and talking hard times, and on account of this they and their neighbors suffer.

In this day and time if business men would continuously advertise their merchandise or service, advertising would be the music that would build business for them and hard times thoughts would be forgotten and everybody would be more prosperous.

SOME FOLKS VALUE THEIR AUTOMOBILES MORE THAN THEIR HEALTH

At least it seems so. It is strange, but true, that many men who have a spark plug miss fire, or some other trivial thing go wrong with a car will take it to a garage, ask for the master mechanic or an expert. He is told to find the trouble and fix it. He demands service and gets it. And because the garage is on a "cash basis" he pays his bill and goes on his way.

This happens every day and hundreds of the same men have a physician's bill of long standing. Why is it that so many people will pay the plumber promptly for fixing a broken pipe—yet they allow their physician to go unpaid for months after he has fixed a broken arm or leg?

Why is it that men who will pay a lawyer a substantial sum for making out a paper will allow their physician who diagnoses and prescribes for their illness so that they can be physically fit to keep busy to go unpaid for months?

Treat your physician fairly. He serves when you most need service. He comes when the bravest are worried and frightened, he comes at any hour regardless of the inconvenience. He comes day or night. He leaves his meals, a warm bed, a family gathering; he leaves them because he is serving an ideal. It is the physician who renders the greatest service. It is your physician who is first entitled to your consideration. Pay him promptly—If you can't pay cash at least pay the first of each month.

Every physician is entitled to fair play. The man you expect to rush to you in time of need is not the man to place last on the list when you are paying your bills. Why not send your physician a check today?

Drought Relief by Red Cross Greater Than Given in Any Previous Disaster

This map, as of January 31, shows that the Red Cross is giving drought relief in 735 counties in twenty states.

DROUGHT brought to the American Red Cross a larger relief job than the Mississippi flood of 1927. Three times as many states are affected. The latest tabulation shows more than 800,000 persons being cared for by the Red Cross, as against 600,000 in the largest previous domestic disaster. Thousands of volunteers are aiding in the present emergency, and upon them rests much of the work for local relief. With 175 representatives in the field giving supervision, the American Red Cross reports that every one of its 735 Chapters extending aid in as many counties of 20 affected states, is giving an excellent account of itself.

President Hoover recently called upon all of the citizens of the nation to contribute to a ten million dollar relief fund to care for these men, women and children who are victims of the unprecedented drought.

Helping them to help themselves is one of the major efforts of the Red Cross. As a part of this plan, distribution of two million packets of garden seed given by the Red Cross is getting under way in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama and will follow later in other drought areas. Garden plots will be planted up to one-quarter acre in size, and will do much to thwart malnutrition and prevent disease.

Many are the stories of distress due to the drought stricken crops, which have robbed the larder of its normal winter food supply, and the barn of its feed for stock, which have reached the Red Cross. As a result, the Society has started to feed the children in hundreds of rural schools. A hot, thick beef stew, with vegetables, buttered bread and milk constitute this noonday meal to prevent malnutrition.

Thousands of families receive their food orders each week from the Red Cross. Their wants are passed upon by committees of men and women in their own communities, who issue to them orders upon the stores they normally patronize.

In addition, more than 130 carloads of fresh fruits, vegetables and other edibles have been donated to the Red Cross by individuals all over the country, and these have been distributed in the drought areas, along with hundreds of bales of clothing.

The States where the Red Cross is giving aid are Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Texas.

QUALITY OF 1932 COTTON CROP FIGURED

AUSTIN, March 5. — Nearly two years ahead of time, the prospective quality of the 1932 Texas cotton crop is being estimated by inspectors for the certification division of the state department of agriculture.

While the results of analysis now being made in the division could not be regarded a sabsolute gauges of the 1932 quality, they will indicate that quality indirectly; for they will show what quality the certified cotton breeder may expect in 1931, and from the 1931 breeders' crops will come a good portion of the planting seed for the 1932 farm crop.

Armed with a tiny comb, and with samples of cotton taken from the breeders' fields last year, the inspectors are combing these sample to determine staple length and uniformity. Their findings will be compared with the growing cotton in the breeders' fields next season; if marked variation is found, the inspector will know the cotton is not running true to form, and corrective steps can be taken in order that seed from the faulty cotton may not be sold to the farmer. These samples taken from the fields set aside by the breeders for their own planting seed, also are tested for lint percent and lint index.

All these analysis, combined with field inspections made of the growing cotton last season and compared to the previous record of the breeder, furnish the division fairly accurate data concerning the potentialities of each breeder's seed.

The division does not attempt to compare one breeder's seed with that of another, since such comparisons should take into account soil and climate as well as seed stock. Tests of this nature are made by the Experiments Stations, with which the division cooperates. The only concern of the certification division is to determine whether the cotton breeder measures up to the standards fixed by the state plant board.

According to R. V. Miller, chief of the division, the bright red tag which is affixed to every bag of certified seed has come to be known not only in Texas but in other states and foreign countries as a guaranty of cotton seed purity.

Farmers Told to Shelter Cotton

Austin, March 5. — Shelter your cotton from the rain and build a durable shed with the savings, cotton farmers are urged by J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture.

Deductions of five dollars or more per bale made by buyers against wet cotton might easily be avoided by putting the bales under shelter instead of leaving them in the fields to rot, the commissioner said.

You'll hear more about these three in "Mad Marriage" a gripping new serial novel, which starts tomorrow in The Cisco Daily News.

BOTH BULLDOG GRID MENTORS ARE RE-ELECTED

RANGER, March 5.—Eck Curtis and Tricky Ward will direct the athletic destinies of the Ranger Bulldogs for the next year.

The two popular coaches were re-elected by the school board at a session Tuesday night.

In 1928, the regime of Curtis and Ward in Ranger high school athletics began. Curtis, former star quarterback of the Abilene Christian college team, came here from Anson where his Tigers each year were recognized as among the strongest Class B teams in the state and capable of holding their own with most "A" teams. One year, he piloted Anson to the unofficial Class B championship of Texas, defeating Marlin in the final game. Marlin was coached by Dewey Mayhew, now the mentor of the Abilene Eagles.

Ward came to Ranger upon graduating from Texas Christian university where he starred as a tackle and an end. His duties here were those of coach of Ranger Junior college and he produced a strong eleven. However the scant number of boys available caused football to be given up and Ward then took over the task of coaching the Bulldog line.

Door Too Big for "Heavy" to Leave

PHILADELPHIA, March 5. —Listen to this story about a man who hasn't been outside of his home for 11 years because he's too big to get through the door.

He's only 27, but he weighs 701 pounds.

His name is Joe Raggio and his one joy in life is food.

"I live to eat," declared the champion fat man of the Quaker City. "In fact I love it."

And so it seems for outside of reading or playing a bit of poker, he hasn't another interest in the world but food.

Joe really enjoys spaghetti. He only eats four pounds at a meal, he says, and stops then because they won't give him any more. Next on the menu is "dogs." Now Joe, when he is really hungry, eats four or five pounds of frankfurters at a sitting. Then with a loaf of bread and eight cups of black coffee to wash it down, he says he's able to "carry on" for at least another three or four hours.

He wears home-made shoes; that is he calls them shoes, but they're just slabs of wood with a canvas strap to hold them on.

His widowed mother makes his shirts when she has time.

Joe's circumference—78 inches — is ten inches greater than his height, which is 5 feet, 8 inches.

"Ginger, you sly little devil," he said. "Don't you think you can go on pulling the wool over my eyes the rest of your life! I've seen through you for years. Yes, you love me all right, after a fashion, the way you love your father, and Ben and Jenky, but the way you love this Bard chap is something else again."

"I — I hope you aren't surprised—"

"Not only am I not surprised," he said, "but I'm darn glad of it. I'm tired out. To tell you the truth, Pat and I have come to understand each other pretty well, and we have agreed that as soon as we get you off our hands we'll get married ourselves and take a long rest."

"You and Pat! You mean my Pet?"

"Nobody else."

"And will she do it?"

"She says so."

"Will she go and live wtih you at Pay Dirt?"

"It's the only place I have to live."

* * *

"Oh, Eddy!" cried Ginger. "That's just gorgeous! Then Bard and I will switch things around at Mill Rush and chuck out the club and go and live there with Pietro to cook for us. And I'll be right on hand to go on managing father and Phil—and I can sort of keep an eye on you and Pat, too. Tell Bard to come, quick!"

But before he reached the door she called after him, "No, don't interrupt him. He may be working on those portraits."

But it was not necessary to postpone their plans for the painting of portraits.

A few weeks later Marker was in possession of news of such tremendous importance that he took the first train to Red Thrush—at his own expense—to deliver it in person.

It seemed that Mexico had not witnessed the first co-operative efforts of Messrs. Giovanni and Benito. They had been allied long before that in a different sort of business, far more sinister, in their native Italy, where they were listed as political offenders and where "there was a price on their heads." Marker and Holt lost not a moment in picking up Ziovanni, making one feather in their professional bonnet since they could not attack much credit as concerned Benito.

They had taken the matter up with Italian consuls and representatives of the law in this country, and found that instead of bringing Benito to trial in Iowa—an expensive and unpleasant proceeding at best—he could be deported to Italy as an undesirable alien. And the Italian consul assured them that the government would take care of him at the other end, and would gladly reimburse them for their time and trouble to the extent of that price on their heads, which amounted to no less than $10,000 apiece.

* * *

Marker reported the situation in great detail and with evident relish, strongly advising Mrs. Tolliver to relieve herself of the annoyance of prosecution and to accept the consolation of $10,000. He assured her that arrangements had already been made for the bon voyage of Giovanni, who, he was confident, would be deeply grateful for the companionship of his faithful old friend and comrade, Benito.

Phil professed a complete lack of interest.

"It's none of my business, one way or the other," she said. "Ask Bard. It is entirely up to him."

"To me!" ejaculated Bard. "Why, it doesn't make the least difference in the world to me. Whatever you think best, of course."

"Well, would you rather have the fun of sending Benito to the pen for life, or $10,000 cash?" Phil wanted to know.

"It's no fun sending anybody to the pen, as far as I can see. And money is always money! Who would get it?"

"Oh, stupid!" she cried, laughing. "What do you think Mr. Marker came out here for? Wasn't it you who caught him?"

Ginger ran across the nudged him, slowly and with purpose. Her face was rapt and shining.

"Bard," she whispered, "take the money! Art is perfectly wonderful, of course, but—really, it is a little slow—when one's waiting!"

COMING SUNDAY

One man won her love— and destroyed it.
Another won her beauty—and robbed her of it.
She sought joy — she found sorrow. Seeking peace, she came face to face with tragedy.
Pride made her reckless, but her heart would not let her forget.
Dreams of youth fading in the bitterness of reality.
Does life exact too high a price for love—for beauty — for pride?
Let your own heart find its answer in the eloquent, soul-awakening drama—

Motions Cause—

Comm'r. Burnett died for want of a second. It was:

"In view of the fact that there has been a great number of people in our city who have been sued on their taxes, and in view of the fact that we have not had such times as we are having now so far as money is concerned, and in view of the fact that the state of Texas has extended the time for the payment of state and county taxes to October 15 1931, I move that this city commission instruct the attorneys who are handling tax matters for the city of Cisco not to file any more tax suits in behalf of the city until after October 15, 1931 and not then if it appears that financial conditions are no better then than now. Also I move that where suits have been filed that same be held up and no action taken until after October 15, 1931."

"Unfair"

Discussion of the motion brought statements from the mayor and other members of the commission to the effect that such an act on the part of the commission would be unfair to the citizens. The policy of the administration, as stated by the mayor, has been to file suits against delinquent tax-payers only when they exhibit a desire to evade satisfactory settlement or fail to answer communications in this regardd. Any tax-payer who is delinquent may make atangements for carrying his payments without having suit brought against him if he is willing to do so, it was declared.

A motion by Comm'r. Fee, seconded by McCrea, however, was passed directing that the tax collector be required to submit to the commission a detailed report of all tax cases upon which suit is contemplated before suits are filed.

The meeting was held at the home of the mayor yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Facts in regard to the bill in the legislature for repeal of the senate Bill No. 31, were laid before the commission by the mayor. This law provides receivership for cities defaulting on the indebtedness under what are declared drastic regulations.

KITTENS START HOME AFTER LOSING GAME

The Randolph college Kittens lost their game with the Mississippi champions at the Southern Open A. A. U. tournament at Shreveport last evening at 6:30 by a score of 37 to 34 and are now en route home, a telegram from Coach H. R. Garrett announced this morning.

The game was exceptionally hard fought and exciting. The Kittens, weakened by the absence of two regulars forwards, Irene and Delma Fulford, were sadly handicapped.
