People Asked To See R. Price About Blood Donations

R. L. Price, Post Service Officer of the local American Legion, who attended State Convention Department of Texas at Fort Worth last week, reports that there is a possibility of bringing a truck here to take blood for plasma to be used to heal wounded soldiers. He states that if enough people in Lamesa and Dawson County will contact him by letter, card or telephone, and state that they will give one pint of their blood to save a boy on some battle field, arrangements can be made for a truck to be brought to Lamesa to take this blood.

Price can be contacted by telephone by calling 378, or at his home at 212 North Houston, which is located one block north of the Post Office.

He warns, "If you don't intend to keep your appointment to donate blood, please don't promise to do so, as the truck can not come to this city unless the people will keep their appointments."

He continued, "Thousands of boys are giving all their blood for their country, so we should each give one pint. Any able bodied person can give a pint of blood without any ill effect, and 85 per cent of the Dawson County citizens are healthy enough to donate blood. Lamesa has never had a chance to show their real patriotism in giving blood for plasma to be used to save wounded Dawson County boys on battle fields all over the world."

If you make an appointment, and keep it, Price can arrange the date for this blood truck to be in Lamesa. He will have to promise that a certain number of citizens will donate blood before the truck can be brought here. If enough appointments are made, the date when the truck will arrive will be announced later.

Mr. Price reports that at the State Convention in Fort Worth, almost 100 per cent of all business brought before the group was pertaining to Veterans of World War Number 2. He states that there were 4 wounded boys from McCloskey Hospital, Temple, who spoke to the convention. All 4 boys contributed the saving of their lives to blood plasma. One veteran had lost both legs, one when he was shot by the Japs, and the other had been amputated twice in a Base Hospital. He stated that his life was saved by blood plasma. Ninety-six per cent of the wounded men in this war are saved by the Medical Corps through new methods of treatment not enjoyed by World War Number 1 veterans, according to Price.

Join the blood plasma donors, and make your appointment today through R. L. Price, and plan to keep it.

MRS. HUGH GAINES AND DAUGHTER HAVE MOVED TO ALASKA

Mrs. Hugh Gaines and daughter, Alice Ruth, left last week to join their husband and father in Alaska.

Mr. Gaines, who is doing government work, has been in Alaska for some time, and his family will make their home there.

Subscribers Are Asked To Check Expiration Date

Courier readers are asked to watch the expiration dates on their paper in order that they may not miss a single issue of The Dawson County Courier, your home town newspaper.

In other words, if the number following your name on the paper reads 9-44 that means that your subscription will expire on September 1, 1944 and that unless your subscription is renewed your paper will be stopped at that time.

The subscription price of the Courier is $3.00 a year in Dawson, Martin, Gaines, Borden and Lynn Counties, and $2.00 for six months. For a limited time only a 2 year subscription will be offered for $5.00, or you can save one dollar by taking a two year subscription. The subscription price outside this territory is $4.00 a year, except for men in the armed services which remains at $3.00 a year.

No Further Word Received About S-Sgt. E.H. Moore

Editor's Note: The following letter concerning S-Sgt. Edwin H. Moore, son of Mrs. Ann Lee Moore of this city who was reported missing in action over Rumania April 5, was received by Mrs. Moore last week from Major General J. A. Ulio:

August 17, 1944

Dear Mrs. Moore:

As promised you, I am writing again regarding your son, S-Sgt. Edwin H. Moore.

It has been my fervent hope that favorable information would be forthcoming and that you might be relieved from the great anxiety which you have borne during these months. It is therefore with deep regret that I must state that no further report in his case has been forwarded to the War Department.

I want to again emphasize the fact that the Commanding Generals in all our theaters of operation are making a continuous effort to establish the actual status of personnel who have been reported as missing, or missing in action. In many instances the War Department must rely upon the reports by a belligerent government through the International Red Cross for information.

You may be certain that when any information is received, it will be promptly transmitted to you. In the event no additional information is received within the next three months, I will again communicate with you.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. Ulio, Major General, The Adjutant General Washington, 25, D. C. War Department.

Citizens Asked To Turn In All Metal And Waste Paper

Coach Fitzgerald Spoke At Lions Club On Thursday

Principal speaker at the Lions Club session last Thursday, August 24, was H. S. Fitzgerald, head coach at Lamesa High School. His topic for discussion was the football situation, and he included such items as systems of football, seasonal prospects, schedules, and season tickets in his interesting talk.

H. J. Sanders, local coach, also spoke briefly as did Major Heston McDonnell, a Rotary visitor Thursday, who has just returned from foreign duty in the Southwest Pacific.

In the business portion of the meeting, Hugh Lott was elected director of the Club to replace Roy Eubank, who has moved from this city.

Only other guest present for the session besides Major McDonnell, was the Rev. R. L. Flowers, who is conducting a meeting at the first Methodist Church in this city.

Rotarians Heard J. Church Friday

Eddie Darrell was in charge of the Rotary program at the regular meeting last Friday, August 25. He introduced J. D. Church of El Paso, who is air port engineer of Civil Aeronautics Administration, and who spoke on "Our Part In Post War Aviation." Church included in his discussion the construction of air ports, and getting towns like Lamesa ready for post war aviation.

Visitors at the meeting were Rev. Dick O'Brien of Big Spring, Dick Bankhead of Alpine, Major Heston McDonnell, John Allen Jr., and Lt.-Col. Louis B. Reed of Ft. Sill.

Two new Rotary members, George D. Norman and R. A. Henningsen, were introduced.

Rains Fell Over This Area Early Saturday

Light rains fell here Saturday morning, bringing cooler weather to the county. The official government gauger in Lamesa registered .50 of an inch, and reports from various farmers of the county indicate that the rains were general over this area, with a range of from 1-4 to 1-2 of an inch precipitation.

Heavy clouds have hung over the county for the past two days with promises of more rain.

Capt. Worley Is At Station In California

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cameron have been advised that their son-in-law, J. D. Worley, has been promoted to Captain.

Captain Worley, a member of the Air Corp who serves in the Supply Depot, is stationed at Hammer Field, California.

He has been in the service for approximately two years.

Have you tied your waste paper in bundles or put it in cartons and placed it on the sidewalks around town, or have you gathered your scrap metal together and deposited it by your mail boxes to help with the war effort? If you have not, do so today so that the group of army men here can collect it all and forward it to the various mills making war materials. This is an opportunity for you to help pack powerful blows which will put the Germans and Japs out of the war.

The salvage drive has been underway in this county more than a week, and army men will be here for approximately three more in an effort to gather every piece of paper and metal that is available, and to put it into the war. A concentrated effort is urgent in order to keep these vital materials flowing to the mills.

You have always backed up the armed forces with everything called for, and you won't let them down now. Make a firm resolution to turn in all your waste paper and scrap metal, which will help save some boys life.

Eight million tons of waste paper are needed this year by the armed services, and on the production front. Because every item shipped overseas is made or wrapped with paper, waste paper is war paper today.

Scrap metal is converted into war materials, and with new gains being made daily by the fighting forces, new guns, ammunition, planes, and ships are needed to replace old worn ones.

The entire community is asked to join in now. The drive will be in progress several more weeks here, and a large amount of paper and scrap can be salvaged yet.

Two million tons more waste paper is needed this year than last year. A good part of this must come from American homes. Business and industry used to supply all the waste paper needed—but now the American home has to come through and help.

Get Applications for 'A' Books Now

According to information from the local War Price and Rationing Office, applications for "A" gasoline books have been distributed to local filling stations, and you may secure your applications for gasoline renewals from them now.

You are asked to get your applications at once and mail them to the local board, who in turn will mail them back to you.

Officials remind you to answer every question on the application completely prior to sending it to the office, as that information is needed in full. You are not required to send the old inspection record that you now have but you must keep it to use when applying for tires.

Sparenberg Won First In Softball Tourney Here

In the windup of the second and third half schedule of the softball tourney in which city and county leagues participated, Sparenberg wound up on top of the ladder, followed in second place by Union and the Green Hut team as third place winners.

The second half of the tourney was held Thursday afternoon, when Sparenberg rang up a victory over Ackerly by 1 point, with the score standing 3-2. Union then matched the skill of the Sparenberg team and were beaten by the teamsters 3-1. Harmony and McDonnell teams then played a match, with Harmony scoring 4 points while the other team did not score. The other match of the day was played between Green Hut and Joe Spikes ten, and Green Hut was 4 points in the lead at the end of play with the score of 6-2.

Two matches were played Friday in which Union beat Ackerly 1-0, and Green Hut beat Harmony 3-2.

Final play of the tournament took place Sunday afternoon. Union matched Green Hut and won 19-1, thus placing the Green Hut Cafe teamsters with third place rank in the tournament. The last game was between Union and Sparenberg, in which Sparenberg won 6-5, and captured championship title.

Approximately 500 attended the tournament play-off Sunday afternoon. After the games, Dan Davis furnished watermelon for the entire crowd, which was enjoyed by all.

'B-5' Gas Coupons Will Be Issued

"B-5" gasoline coupons will be issued to fill future application for "B" gasoline rations when the present Ration Board supply of "B-4" coupons is exhausted and will be valid immediately upon issuance, District OPA Rationing Executive Ely Fonville has announced.

Because of a shortage of "B-4" coupons in this region, the "B-5" coupons were validated early and gasoline dealers are being notified.

Fonville also pointed out that all outstanding "B-4" coupons are still valid.

Fotball team candidates are to meet Friday at 9 a. m., so that they can be issued equipment and get instruction and practice underway.

Preliminary instructions from the coaches to players are to do plenty of running for the purpose of becoming limber and developing endurance, as well as to do other things recommended for conditioning in order to be toughened so that all muscular soreness may be overcome and to be ready for starting scrimmage at the beginning of practice.

RESPONSIBILITIES TO SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE DISCUSSED BY GRAMMAR SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

Again absenteeism easily becomes habitual. Any pupil finds that he can absent himself from school the second time more easily than the first and so on until, eventually, he looks for excuses for being absent. He loses interest, loses step, loses working knowledge and reaches a point where school becomes a burden to him. This is where parents and teachers find themselves confronted with a grave problem, the solution of which is often impossible.

Regular attendance, then, should be the primary aim of every parent, teacher, and child. However, children should not attend school when ill regardless of the educational consequences. The health and physical welfare should be the first consideration of every child. There is too much at stake with the child's own health and the health of his classmates to risk attendance during illness, even though absence caused from illness is just as serious and just regrettable as absence caused from any other cause. Children should not attend school while they have colds, sore throats, headaches, sick stomachs, or any symptoms of contagious diseases. If parents, teachers, and children use the proper precautions, the standards of health can be raised to such a level that absence caused from illness can be reduced to a minimum.

The general rule on attendance, then, is to make every effort to keep children in school every day possible but not to send them to school sick.

Another major factor in a child's progress is the matter of health and physical fitness. This factor is influenced largely by habits developed in early childhood—habits of eating, sleeping, exercise, cleanliness, and regular routine. Much could be said upon each of these subjects but time and space will permit only brief discussions. No argument is necessary to substantiate the fact that a child cannot do his best school work if he is not physically fit for the job. The normal child uses an enormous amount of energy in a day at school and this usage requires sufficient food. This is to say nothing of the extra amount of food necessary for physical growth of school children.

Many children go to school in the morning without breakfast of any kind and still others eat the wrong kind of breakfast. It is just as absurd to expect a child to attend school and do good work on an empty stomach as it is to expect father and mother to go to their jobs in the morning without breakfast. In fact, it may be more hazardous to the child because of the nature of his physical body and the extra amount of food required for growth. Heavy breakfasts are not necessary nor in too large quantities. Often the cheaper foods serve the purpose better. Milk and toast, milk and cereals, fruits, butter, eggs, or many other simple, wholesome foods serve the purpose. Suffice it to say that a child will do better school work if he eats before coming to classes.

It has been observed that many children leave home without breakfast and buy and eat a bar of candy on the way to school. Children who make this practice are often ill before the day is over and have to be carried home. Good candy is a wholesome food when eaten at the proper time but it is entirely inadequate as a breakfast.

Children who come to school without breakfast are usually listless and sluggish for the entire morning. Their eyes are not clear and bright and they are often ill and cross and are entirely unresponsive to good teaching. The best eating practices for good health, then, are: require every child to eat breakfast; provide nutritious, wholesome, regular, balanced meals; and see that candies, pops, and other nick-nacks do not become the regular diet. Parents who find it difficult to get their children to form regular eating habits should spend much time and thought until the problem is solved. If help is needed in this regard they would do well to consult their family physician, the County Health Nurse, the Home Demonstration Agent, the Home Economics teacher of the high school, any good dietitian, or the home room teacher.

The growing child needs plenty of rest and sleep uninterrupted by the many distractions of modern civilization. Younger children should have nine or ten hours of sleep but they should arise early enough in the morning to make their morning toilet and get to school without being rushed to the point of nervous distraction. This practice will demand some sacrifices on the part of parents who have formed the habit of keeping children up late at nights, but the sacrifice will pay surprising dividends in child health and physical fitness. Children who are out late at nights attending exciting shows, or who have to entertain company or listen to a loud blasting radio into the late hours, or who have their hours of rest shortened for any causes, will invariably pay dearly for such irregularities.

If parents would take the business of education seriously, especially during school days, they would go to any extreme to regulate the home so that it would be favorable to child growth and development. We feel that we are not too presumptuous to suggest that the home should be a quiet place, free from over-excitement, free from as much noise as possible, free from nagging and quarreling between parents and at children, and free from anxiety and fear. It should be a home well regulated by routine, protected by cleanliness, and dominated by love, sympathy and parental understanding.

Cleanliness is an absolute requirement for good health and good morale, both of which are necessary for good school work. This statement is made with the full knowledge that the very nature of children's activities is conducive to soiling of clothes, hands, faces and body. It is too much to expect any child to stay spotless all day. However, children should be taught early in life to keep themselves clean and the habit, once formed, will be a most valuable asset to a child's character for life. We still live in a land of plenty of water and soap and failure to use them to keep the body and clothes clean is nothing short of criminal neglect. The most inexcusable trait of any parents is to let children go habitually unclean not only to school but to any place.

It is not inferred that children should wear elaborate and expensive clothes to school. On the contrary, a child's clothes should be inexpensive and practical for school use and in clean condition. Patched and unironed clothes are no disgrace to any person if they are clean. Clean clothes and a clean body contribute wonderfully to good health, personal appearance and self confidence.

The unkept child suffers an inferiority complex with his associates. He often becomes sulky, shy, fearful and sometimes troublesome. He is afraid he will become the object of ridicule. He often thinks he is being made fun of when he is not. He seeks a means of escape from his predicament and is apt to become a truant. He becomes rebellious to teachers, parents and associates. From his point, anything can happen, and often does. The school, of course, receives pupils as they come, regardless of their condition. However, it must be born in mind that in many instances a child becomes a problem child because of existing conditions of cleanliness. Parents and teachers should keep constantly in mind that a liberal use of soap and water way contribute in a large measure to a child's school progress.

Information from the local AAA office reveals that there are 30,001 board feet of AA-2 softwood lumber remaining in this quarter's lumber quota for Dawson County. Officials report further that 119,487 board feet of AA-3 softwood lumber are remaining.

This amount has been allotted the county until September, when a new quota will be assigned.

FSA Supervisor Gives Advice On All Food Supplies

Taking care of what we have is one way to boost available food supplies suggests Ruth E. Magee, Associate FSA Supervisor for the Farm Security Administration. FSA is emphasizing to the 123 families cooperating with its program in Dawson and Borden counties that protection is a twin to production.

"Everything and everybody must do double duty these days," says Miss Magee. "The only way this is possible is to take the very best care of what we have. Protection doubles the life of our farm equipment and household appliances. Conservation increases the power of our soil to yield its maximum in food and fibre required for our nation at war. Care increases the production and lengthens the life of our livestock, workstock and poultry," she added.

Miss Magee warns that even with an early end of the war, new machinery will be scarce for many more months.

"To keep this machinery going we must use the right fuels, motor oils and greases. We must replace worn parts immediately to prevent further wear which might result in complete breakdown, and we must get out of the habit of leaving valuable equipment out in all kinds of weather."

The FSA is urging families cooperating with its program to properly care for their record-breaking output of canned goods for home use. Sturdy shelves in well ventilated closets, free of light which might discolor fruits and vegetables are recommended.

Attention also is being given the housing of layers, prior to the advent of cold weather. "Eggs do not come from trees," comments Miss Magee. She declares that FSA families find that proper housing boosts egg production.

Correct methods of harvesting and storing hay and other feed crops are advocated, and every family is urged to retain all plant and animal waste in a compost pile to increase the fertility of next spring's garden.

SEND THEM BACK TO SCHOOL with GOOD EYESIGHT

FOR BETTER VISION FOR BETTER HEALTH

Poor vision is one of the chief causes for a child's failure in school. School "absenteeism" may also be traced to the results of poor vision—headaches, fatigue, and eyestrain. Guard your child's most precious commodity with a periodical check-up of his eyes. He'll thank you for it in years to come. Bring your school aged children in today for an expert examination.
