WINTER'S FIRST DAY BRINGS HEAVY SNOWFALL

Terrifying Fog Causes Numerous Collisions Of Steamers In European Water

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D

I heard a most remarkable talk at a funeral service at Henrietta the other day.

The funeral service was that of W. E. Edwards, for many years publisher of the Henrietta Review, and the speaker was Rev. T. H. Morris, pastor of the Methodist church at Byers and former pastor of the Methodist church at Henrietta. Reverend Morris spoke for more than 30 minutes upon the life and character of Mr. Edwards and in all he said there was not one word that did not ring crystal clear and true of what Talker had learned of the late Henrietta publisher in an acquaintance extending over more than 23 years.

"He was no ordinary man," said Reverend Morris. "I think his outstanding characteristic was his undying and intolerant opposition to sham and pretense in all their manifestations. He had the nerve to tear the mask from the face of hypocrisy wherever he found it." How inerrantly Reverend Morris pointed out the outstanding characteristic of this publisher who in his writing was so often "definite, incisive, brilliant."

The Henrietta Review which Mr. Edwards published so many years has gone out of existence. We hope that somewhere a file of this paper is being preserved and in them examples of editorial writing as penetrating and incisive and brilliant as anything that a Watterson ever wrote.

One had only to know of W. E. Edwards' intolerance of all sham and pretense to realize that it was no easy thing to deliver an oration upon his life and character for one word of false praise would have wrecked the whole address. It is a tribute to the sincerity and understanding of Reverend Morris that he spoke no word that was dissonant of the character of this publisher who was no ordinary man.

Wichita Falls and the country as a whole may not have as big a Christmas this year, measured in money expended and the value of gifts purchased, but measured in manifestations of love we would say that it is exceeding the plumpest years of our prosperity.

The contributions may not be so large, nor the gifts so costly but reports from all the organizations that serve the less fortunate tell us that more people are giving this year than ever before, and this at a Christmas time when many who have been givers in other years have nothing now to give. It makes us very hopeful that after all Christmas may become a time for giving in a very real sense and less a time of commercialism and exchange.

Even an empty Talker is likely to get full up around Christmas time and this Talker has never had so much to be filled up about as right now. He's had something to give himself—more he hopes than is hung on the Christmas tree—and what gifts of friendship are his, and the gift of knowledge of all the fine and noble acts of these friends who are giving of the utmost of themselves and resources for others; and knowledge of the undaunted spirit in which others are facing situations that are discouraging.

It seems to him that everywhere men and women are spending of themselves and their means unselfishly and magnificently and are showing such fortitude and courage and faith as are the glory of life.

Congress has shown commendable speed in the passage of emergency construction and drouth relief appropriations. If the executive department can now show some of the same speed in the expenditure of the appropriations some good will be accomplished.

It is now recognized that it would have been better to have called a special session of congress for unemployment and drouth relief measures 90 days ago. If that had been done some actual relief might have been given by now. We ought not

DANISH CRAFT RAMS STERN OF AMERICAN SHIP

Liner George Washington Disabled by Crash in Elbe River

FORTY-ONE LOSE LIVES

Hope Abandoned for Crew And Passengers of Finnish Ship

LONDON, Dec. 21. (AP)—The greatest of all terrors of the sea—which caused the wreck of the Finnish steamer Oberon with a loss of 41 lives Friday night, today has spread a thick mantle over a large area of European waters.

Reports of ships in peril have come from points as far distant as Constantinople and Queenstown, Ireland.

A message from Lisbon, Portugal, said the steamer Patria sank in the fog after a collision off the Portuguese coast, carrying to the bottom four members of her crew.

U. S. Liner Rammed

The United States liner George Washington was rammed astern in a dense fog in the Elbe Estuary by the Danish motorship Malaya. The Malaya, a vessel of 8,600 gross tons, was badly damaged, but her captain decided to run her ashore. The George Washington, although badly gashed, was less seriously damaged and was towed safely into port.

Off Constantinople, an American steamer collided in a dense fog with the British steamer Rio Azul. The British ship was reported seriously damaged and the American only slightly.

Rotterdam Collision

The Dutch steamer Export and the British steamer Kemmel came together in a fog near Rotterdam. The Export was forced to return to port, although the British steamer was able to proceed on her voyage.

This morning the British steam trawler William Hallett lost her bearings and went ashore near Ballycotton, Ireland. The deepsea tug Zwarte Zee went to her assistance.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR 41 MISSING

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 21. (AP)—Forty-one passengers and members of the crew of the Finnish line steamer Oberon were still missing today, and all hope virtually had been abandoned of finding any additional survivors of Friday night's collision between the Oberon and her sistership, The Arcturus, off Laso Island.

It developed today that the brothers commanding the two ships Captains Erik and Ossi Hjelt, had, exchanged Christmas greetings by

Bandits Get $35 At Service Station

Two men held up the Panhandle Refining company filling station on the Burkburnett road and escaped with $35 Sunday night.

The two men drove into the filling station and while their car was being serviced, one of the hijackers entered the station. When A. V. Henderson, the attendant, returned he was forced at the point of the gun to open the cash register. The robber ransacked the cash drawer, forced Henderson to lie on the floor and made his escape with his companion, police were told.

The station is located at the Panhandle refinery entrance on the Burkburnett road.

Unemployment Insurance Proposed by Senator

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Unemployment insurance was proposed tonight by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, as the next step in his program for dealing with the problem of the jobless.

Wagner announced he would introduce, as soon as congress convenes after the holidays, a resolution calling for a study of the private and public unemployment insurance systems here and abroad and a bill proposing federal and state cooperation in the maintenance of such a system.

FOUR DROWN IN AUTO'S PLUNGE

Car Hurtles Into Water Filled Ditch

BEAUMONT, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Three men and a woman were drowned today two and a half miles west of Vinton, La., when their small automobile went into a water-filled ditch.

They were identified by papers found on the bodies as Leonard A. La Petina, 41, superintendent of a new paint plant of the Standard Oil company here; George Deiffenback, of New York, also a superintendent with the company; Lee V. McAnelly of Beaumont, employe of the company; and Elizabeth Stalford, believed to be of Beaumont.

The bodies were brought to an undertaking establishment at Orange by a tourist who discovered the car in the water. None of the bodies was visible and a passing truck stopped and pulled the car out. The victims had been pinned under the car.

A passing tourist, who took the bodies to Orange, said the partly submerged car was found by a woman and child who immediately reported their discovery. A truck came along and pulled the wreckage from the water. The papers showed that Dieffenback was a member of chapter 204, Masons, of New York, and La Petina a member of Masonic lodge 528. Also he was a member of the Italian-American Democratic league of New York. Letters on the other body indicated he was McAnelly and had been addressed to him at Fort Worth, Dallas, and New York. The woman was not positively identified. Among her effects was a statement made out to Eliz Stalford. No address was given.

E. E. Swope, assistant superintendent of the Magnolia Petroleum company, acquainted with La Petina, Dieffenback and McAnelly, left tonight for Orange to identify the bodies. He said he does not know the woman. The Standard Paint company only recently built a plant here and the officials were sent when operations began.

Girl Injured as Nine Rail Cars Leave Tracks

GOODMAN, Miss., Dec. 22. (AP)—Miss Lenora Hodges, 19, of Lafayette, La., suffered serious injuries and more than 100 passengers escaped injuries as nine cars of the Illinois Central Creole northbound passenger limited were thrown off the track two miles south of here early today.

Miss Hodges was the only passenger injured sufficiently to require medical attention. She is suffering from a fractured hip, dislocated knee and internal injuries. After treatment at Goodman this morning, she was sent to a Jackson hospital.

Rites for Diplomat To Be Said Wednesday

THRONGS HEAR BELOVED SONGS OF CHRISTMAS

Wichita Opens Week With Beautiful Concerts And Services

CHURCHES TAKE LEAD

Musicians Club Gives Its Annual Program in Impressive Style

Thousands of Wichitans and many visitors from other cities participated Sunday in the inauguration of Christmas week by means of special musical services and pageants staged by local churches for the most part, but including an elaborate musicale presented by the Musicians club as its annual community Christmas gift.

Celebration of the year's greatest holiday in song began at the morning service in most churches here. With the exception of the First Methodist church, their specially arranged programs were for the most part set for Sunday night, but the seasonal theme was predominant in musical portions of the morning worship.

Morning Services

An extended program of musical numbers, articulated closely with the atmosphere of Christmas, was included in the 11 o'clock service at the First Methodist church Sunday morning. Arranged by Mrs. Pearl Calhoun Davis, the program included an anthem, "Gates and Doors," with Francis M. Hansen as soloist, and a solo by Mrs. C. Y. Tully, "Oh Night Divine," by W. J. Marsh of Fort Worth. Organ numbers included the "Pilgrims' Chorus" from Richard Wagner's "Tannhauser" and the thrilling chorus, "The Heavens Are Telling," from Hayden's "Creation," both played by J. W. Akin Jr.

At the Grant Street Methodist church, the morning service included an anthem by Stults, "There's a Song in the Air," Christmas carols, and a duet presentation of "Adeste Fidelis." At the First Baptist church a group of Christmas musical selections included a duet, "The Guiding Star," by Misses Mary Claire and Christine Burton, and a solo by Miss Ruby Faye Myrick, "The Birthday of a King," by Neidlinger.

Christmas carols and two choral anthems, with George Taylor as soloist, comprised the musical program at the Grace Methodist church in Sunday morning's service. At the First Southern Presbyterian church, the Christmas season was observed not only in the sermon, but by two special musical numbers. The choir sang "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," and Willard L. Underwood, tenor, sang Oley Speaks' "There's a Song in the Air."

Programs offered here during the remainder of the day provided many persons with a constant cycle of audition from mid-afternoon to the close of night services at the churches. At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, about 400 persons gathered at the First Methodist church for the annual Christmas concert of the Musicians club. The excellence of performance and unusually high standard of composition which prevailed throughout the concert proved more than adequate to offset the unusual length of individual numbers. Construction of the program also provided a wide variety of presentation, including organ, violin, piano, voice and vocal ensemble selections.

Musicians Club

Among the instrumental numbers heard on the Musicians club program, one in which exquisite interpretation imparted much of its unusual charm was Ernest Katz' playing of "Vienna Waltz," by Friedman-Garpner. Those who heard the lightly wistful melodies of the waltz expressed with such delightful delicacy and feeling could not but wish that this local teacher of piano might be heard more often as a program artist.

Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., organist at the First Methodist church opened the program with Gillette's "Meditations" on "Come Ye Disconsolate." The established favorite in old hymns received a quietly effective treatment, and served well to create the atmosphere of worship for the entire musicale. Her second number was the Finnish cry for freedom, Sibelius' "Finlandia," and was given a skillful employment of the entire organ for exatled pronouncement of its theme.

Mrs. F. R. Collard played the overture to Rossini's "William Tell" —one of those compositions so fav-

SANTA SHIPS

Liners From Europe to Bring Cargoes of Presents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—The vanguard of Santa Claus' big fleet of transatlantic liners, bringing gifts and Christmas wishes from abroad will arrive tomorrow in New York harbor.

Four ships due in that port Monday are bringing 28,951 sacks of mail, the equivalent of 40 carloads. Assistant Postmaster General Glover today promised a large part of the mail would be delivered by Christmas day.

The Leviathan will lead the four liners in, followed by the Britannic, Paris and Olympic.

LYNCHERS FAIL TO GET NEGRO

Missouri Sheriff Saves Slayer From Mob

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 21. (AP)—Efforts of a mob to storm the Buchanan county jail early today and gain custody of Raymond Gunn, negro trapper, charged with the murder of Miss Velma Colter, 19-year-old school teacher, were foiled by sheriff's deputies, city police, and a national guard tank company.

Approximately 150 men, said to have gathered from Maryville, Mo., home of the teacher, and from other nearby Missouri towns, first appeared at the jail here shortly after midnight. Sheriff John Roach talked to the mob leaders through a heavily barred door, and told them he would protect his prisoner in every way possible.

All deputy sheriffs immediately were called for duty. They were not molested on arriving at the prison and entered the jail. City police also responded to the alarm as did the St. Joseph tank company of the Missouri national guard.

The guardsmen placed a tank, equipped with a machine gun, at the jail entrance.

Slowly the mob, reinforced by spectators from St. Joseph, were driven away from the jail. After about three hours police guard lines circled the building, keeping all unauthorized persons at least a block distant.

Members of the mob held a meeting on a street corner, two blocks away, and it was said they decided to go to Plattsburg, where reports declared the negro had been taken.

Officers there said the negro, alleged to have confessed attacking and beating the school teacher to death, had not arrived and was not expected. The mob was not reported at Plattsburg, and St. Joseph officers believed the members drove in motor cars to their respective homes after failing to obtain entrance to the St. Joseph jail.

It was understood late today that Gunn, 30-year-old ex-convict, still was in the county jail here. Officers, however, were reticent concerning his whereabouts. He served a term in the Missouri penitentiary for conviction of assaulting a co-ed in the Missouri State Teachers' college of Maryville.

Miss Colter, whose mutilated, partly nude body was found Tuesday night in the rural school house where she was the single teacher, also attended the college.

Buchanan county officers believe prisoners in the jail here easily can be guarded from any violence. The cells are in the center of the building. Seven heavy steel doors must be opened before entrance can be made into the cell rooms.

Minister's Wife Dies in Mangum

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Alva H. Williams, 34, wife of the Methodist minister of Granite, Okla., died in a local hospital Sunday after a major operation.

Rev. and Mrs. Williams went to Granite only six weeks ago from their former post at Atoka.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Holdenville, Mrs. Williams' girlhood home. Rev. S. H. Babcock, of Altus, an old friend, will conduct the services.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Williams is survived by three small children.

Kentucky Feud Claims Third Victim Sunday

JACKSON, Ky., Dec. 21. (AP)—The death of Pierce Gabbard, 57, today was the third fatality from a stabbing and shooting affray yesterday growing out of a Breathitt county feud. His son, Wilton Gabbard, 29, died last night of knife wounds, and Isaac Little, 55, was shot to death.

Four youths were held on first degree murder charges. They are Ed Turner, 23, and three brothers, Fred Little, 26, George Little 22, and Herman Little, 20. They will be arraigned tomorrow. The Little brothers are sons of Isaac Little, in whose home all were arrested last night.

Suicide Verdict Entered In San Antonian's Death

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 21. (AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace R. W. Stappenbeck today in the death of Louis E. Kuhne, 60, who was shot to death yesterday in his bedroom. The body was taken to Runge, his former home. He had been ill for several months.

LOREN LANDON SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS HERE

Prominent Business and Oil Man Dies After Operation

FUNERAL TUESDAY

Death Ends Widespread Activities Through Wichita Area

Loren O. Landon, 48, for more than 11 years a prominent figure in Wichita Falls' business life and in oil circles of this section, died Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at a local hospital.

Mr. Landon became critically ill a little more than a week ago. He underwent a major operation on Saturday, Dec. 13, from which he failed to rally, death coming Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Landon was a member of the firm of Norwood & Landon, drilling contractors, at the time of his death. Previously he had been operator of one of the largest sporting goods houses in this section, the Landon & Hill store which was destroyed by fire several years ago.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence at 1411 Hays street, with Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Member of Vernon Lodge

Mr. Landon was born at Jerseyville, Ill., Sept. 25, 1882. He came to Wichita Falls a little more than 11 years ago to engage in the oil business. Later he became associated with E. G. Hill in the sporting goods business under the firm name of Landon and Hill. After the store was destroyed by fire about three years ago, Mr. Landon returned to the oil business, becoming associated with Carlisle Norwood in the firm of Norwood & Landon, drilling contractors. The firm recently had been active in the field at Hobbs, N. M.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge of Vernon, and until recently was a member of the Wichita Falls Rotary club.

He is survived by his widow, Leone Landon; two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Wiseman of Jerseyville, Ill., and Mrs. Roland McIntyre of Mexico, Mo.; and three brothers, Perry O. Landon of Carlinville, Ill.; Truman Landon of Eastland, Texas, and Roy Landon of Jerseyville, Ill.

Active Pallbearers

Active pallbearers at the services Tuesday afternoon will be D. H. Rubsam, C. H. Reid, C. E. McCutchen, C. E. Basham, E. G. Hill, A. R. Dillard, H. F. Weldon and Carlisle Norwood.

A partial list of honorary pallbearers completed Sunday night included the following: W. N. Bonner, W. M. McGregor, R. L. More of Vernon, G. H. Hampshire, Overton Abernathy, J. H. Allison, Paul Harding, John Waggoner, W. E. Norton, J. B. Hatchitt, Preston Beck, A. F. Kimmel, George N. Dwyer, R. A. Kelley of Cleburne, Guy L. Waggoner of Fort Worth, Horrace Robbins, T. H. Lawson and Walter Robbins. Other names are to be added to the list before the services, friends of the family announced.

College Girl Burned In Brownwood Fire

BROWNWOOD, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Pauline Stubbs, 19, student of the College of Industrial arts at Denton, home for the holidays, was burned seriously early today when fire destroyed her home.

C. F. Stubbs, her father, was awakened during the night by the girl's scream and went to her room but could not enter, the flames forcing him back.

It was believed a heater in the girl's room started the fire.

Father Dies in Vain Effort to Save Son

KING CITY, Calif., Dec. 21. (AP)—After saving his wife and two young daughters from their flaming ranch home 12 miles north of here early today, Roy Hutchenson, 42, perished in the blaze as he returned to save his 16-year-old son. Both were burned to death as he was carrying the son to safety.

Dies Sunday

Wichita Falls lost one of its best known business men Sunday when death claimed L. O. Landon, drilling contractor and former sporting goods dealer.

'SOUP' FAILS TO QUENCH GASSER

Two Charges of Nitro Set Off in Wewoka Well

WEWOKA, Okla., Dec. 21. (AP)—Two five quart shots of nitro-glycerine failed late today to snuff the fire from the wild gas and oil well, the No. 2 A. B. Douglas, which has been belching a column of flame at the outskirts of Wewoka since early Friday.

The shots were placed and fired by the Kinley brothers of Tulsa, professional tamers of oil fires.

It was decided to try a third and heavier shot, probably a 10-qaurt charge, later in the day.

Snuffing of the fire would solve only one problem. After that the 60,000,000 cubic foot gasser, producing also an estimated 600 or 700 barrels of oil a day, must be capped. Connections damaged by the initial outburst of the well were expected to add to the difficulty.

The shots, heavily sheathed in insulation, were taken in as close as possible to the well and fired by electricity.

Scorning the bulky asbestos suits worn by their assistants, the Kinley brother, M. M. and Harry, wore only work clothihg as protection from the terrific heat of the blazing well. A constant stream of water played on the workers.

After the first ineffective shot, the rotary table, a huge steel cog wheel used to turn the drill bits was dragged out by cables attached to caterpillar tractors. The flame, which had been diverted in part by the table then shot skyward.

The second shot was fired an hour later with no better results. Workers continued to drag out heat warped steel wreckage that impeded the fire fighters' efforts.

Aged Woman Found Dead in Mangum

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Dec. 21.—Mrs. M. E. Blasingame, resident of Mangum for more than 30 years, was found dead Sunday morning in the house where she lived alone. The body, sitting before the fire, was discovered by Mrs. F. M. Overton, a neighbor.

Mrs. Blasingame, about 78 years old, had apparently been in the act of taking a bath by the warmth of fire when she was stricken. The covers on her bed had been turned down, leading to a belief that she died early last night. She had been in good health.

Six sons and a daughter are scattered over the United States from Nebraska and the Dakotas to Texas. The daughter is Mrs. Mont Spencer of Ladessa, near Mangum.

Funeral for Contractor To Be Held Monday

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Funeral services will be held at Crockett tomorrow for James Henry Smith, 52, one of the most prominent contractors and builders in the Southwest, who was found dead last night in his room at a hotel here.

Justice Ben H. Fly, at an inquest held today, returned a verdict that Smith met death by gunshot wounds, inflicted with suicidal intent. The body was sent to Crockett today.

DISTRICT WEST AND SOUTH OF CITY MANTLED

Light Fall Here Lasts Only Short Time Early Sunday

MERCURY IN DIVE

Sub-Freezing Temperature Recorded Over Most Of Texas

With an accurate eye on the calendar and the season, the weather man for Northwest Texas sent an appropriate avalanche of snow Sunday to mark the first day of official winter and the inauguration of Christmas week. At midnight the temperature was 27.

The whole area opened its eyes to whirling snow flurries Sunday morning as church bells tolled for pre-Christmas services and the festivities of the season approached a climax. Meanwhile, the official calendar marked the day as the shortest of the year and the real beginning of the winter season.

Heavier South and West

The light fall which transformed Wichita Falls and her closest neighbors grew heavier to the south and west. Between Stamford and Spur six inches lay on the ground at nightfall, with a hard freeze expected to maintain it for days. In Stamford proper eight inches fell during the day, but the mounting temperatures reduced the accumulated drifts. The snow in Haskell county ranged from three to five inches in depth and the white covering lay deep in Paducah, Newcastle and Floydada.

Oklahoma, chilly under clouded skies, saw little snow Sunday, but was looking for more as thermometers went down and the clouds remained.

The light fall in Wichita Falls was short-lived, yielding early in the day to a temperature that rose to 55 degrees from a minimum of 27. Two inches stayed on the ground in Fort Worth, the Fort Worth and Denver railroad reported, but only light flurries fell elsewhere along the line. Only between Wichita Falls and Frederick, Okla., did the Katy road encounter snow.

The following reports of weather conditions were received by The Record News Sunday:

OLNEY—Three quarters of an inch of snow, which melted away almost as it fell, was recorded in Olney Sunday.

WELLINGTON—Skies were cloudy and weather conditions generally unsettled here Sunday. No snow fell during the day and the temperature stayed up around 45 degrees.

NEWCASTLE—A brief Christmas snow storm, heavy while it lasted, visited Newcastle Sunday. Big flakes fell at intervals from 8 o'clock in the morning until 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The whole fall measured approximately three inches. Mercury stood just at the freezing point and the white blanket was slowly melting late in the afternoon.

ELECTRA—Electra enjoyed a Christmas fall of snow for a few hours Sunday before warmer temperatures and a faint sun melted the white covering which fell between 4:30 a. m. and 11 o'clock.

IOWA PARK—A light snow fell in Iowa Park Sunday morning, when the mercury dropped to 28 degrees. Skies cleared somewhat during the afternoon and the snow melted. At sunset the thermometer registered 34 degrees.

BURKBURNETT—A blinding snowstorm lasting about 30 minutes left Burkburnett garbed in white Sunday morning. Later warmer temperatures melted most of the fall.

ALTUS, Okla.—Altus experienced a wide range in temperatures Sunday, the mercury climbing from a minimum of 20 all the way up to 50 degrees. Skies were clear.

GRANDFIELD, Okla.—Flurries of snow which fell here early Sunday disappeared as the mercury rose and the sun fought its way through clouds in the afternoon.

HASKELL—Snow, measuring from three to five inches covered Haskell county Sunday. The storm starting Saturday night, lasted throughout most of the day Sunday.

SHAMROCK—Most of the light snow which fell here Sunday had disappeared before night, but dropping temperatures indicated that

Military Burial Honors Accorded Tom Hardin by Grandfield Vets

Special to The Record News.

GRANDFIELD, Okla., Dec. 21.—Military honors were accorded Tom Hardin, slain world war veteran, in public funeral services at the First Christian church Sunday afternoon. The Herbert Eugene Wade post of the American Legion, Grandfield, and the Grady Kerr post, Frederick, conducted the ceremonies, attended by State Commander Moody Nicholson and led by Claude Riley, past post commander here. An American flag draped the casket. Rev. Mr. Brown of Hollister, former Devol pastor, officiated in the religious services.

The body of Mr. Hardin, missing since Oct. 1, was found on Dec. 11 on the Mance Griffith farm three miles from the Red river bridge. An inquest led to a verdict of death from a gunshot wound through the head. Investigators in Walters and in Wichita Falls, Texas, have announced that murder charges will be filed against a prisoner held in the Wichita county jail as soon as the probe of the death is complete.

The slain man, wounded in the world war, had lived in and around Grandfield for many years, dividing his time between this city and Devol, the home of his mother.

Pall bearers in the services Sunday included Jimmy Gibbens and Pat Irey, former sailors; and Dr. W. C. Foshee, Martin Boone, Lee Boesburgh and Orville Hamill, ex-soldiers.

Return of Old Southern Principles Urged by Jones in Open Forum Talk

"I venture to suggest that we shall not make much progress towards a balanced program of life in the South until we frankly return to one of the most important elements in the old South, namely, the creation of a party of southern men with southern principles, either within the Democratic party or without it," Dr. Howard Mumford Jones, professor of English literature of the University of Michigan and third lecturer of the Wichita Falls Open Forum season, declared Sunday afternoon at the Memorial auditorium in speaking on the subject "The Future of Southern Culture."

Dr. Jones referred to the dependence of the South on federal aid on problems confronting the southern states. "I believe that what we need is not a romantic return to agrarian economy, but a renewed vigor in the political and public life of the southern states."

"Increasingly," the speaker said, "the northern wing of the Democratic party is drifting away from the southern wing; increasingly in the political world the South is thrust back upon itself. In place of lamenting the situation, should we not rather welcome the opportunity, and follow the examples of Wisconsin and North Dakota, forming within the several states a party whose first interest in the the next 12 hours would bring the season's hardest freeze.

PADUCAH—The three-inch snow which fell here Sunday morning will be of great benefit to crops, farmers said.

HENRIETTA—It was cloudy and cold all day Sunday in Henrietta, but the promised snow failed to put in its appearance.

WALTERS, Okla.—Heavy clouds and falling temperatures gave promise of snow here Sunday night.

MEMPHIS—After a light fall of snow Sunday mroning, the mercury started downward, with indications for more unsettled weather Monday.

FREDERICK, Okla.—Frederick experienced one of the coldest days of the season Sunday. A thin sheet of snow covered the ground in the morning, but disappeared during the day.

STAMFORD — Stamford lay under an eight-inch blanket of snow Sunday night after a storm that lasted most of the day. Warmer weather during the afternoon melted some of the fall, but the prospects were that it would freeze on the ground Sunday night.

FLOYDADA—A slow, steady snow began falling here Saturday night and continued through the morning Sunday, amounting to between three and four inches. Much of it melted away under the sunshine in the afternoon. No damage to livestock was reported and the moisture on the other hand will benefit crops.

GRAHAM—Traces of a hard snow storm that fell here Sunday morning had almost disappeared before the day was over. Clouds still covered the sky and indications pointed to another white avalanche. The temperature stood at 34 degrees in the afternoon.

DUNCAN, Okla.—Skies were cloudy and the mercury was falling here late Sunday, pointing to a prospect of snow before morning.

MANGUM, Okla.—Heavy clouds darkened Greer county most of the day Sunday. Temperatures rose through the day. No snow was reported in the county.

SEYMOUR—Most of the light snow that fell here Sunday morning had been melted by mounting temperatures during the day, but it was still cloudy here Sunday night.

CHILLICOTHE—Clouds were growing more ominous and the mercury was dropping Sunday night after a light snow that fell here during the day.

SNOWFALL COVERS WESTERN TEXAS

(By The Associated Press)

Snow covered most of the northern portion of Texas Sunday, as though in preparation for a real "white" Christmas in usually sunny Texas, where even as late as Saturday, roses were blooming in many gardens.

Beginning in the Panhandle, heavy snowfall extended southward across the Plains, amounting to three inches at Clovis, N. M., three inches at Muleshoe, seven inches at Tulia, three inches at Dimmitt and lighter falls at Plainview, Sterley, Hart, Petersburg and Lubbock.

No snow had fallen at Amarillo but overcast skies gave rise to hope for snowfall there Sunday night. Olney reported three-fourths of an inch of snow.

West Texas Covered

Eight hours of continuous snowfall in the vicinity of Sweetwater, the first heavy snow there in more than two years, sent the temperature down to 25 degrees and left the ground covered with five inches of snow. Pasture lands and small grain crops were expected to benefit materially.

With a temperature around freezing, the first norther of consequence this season reached Monahans, in West Texas, late Sunday morning, followed by a light flurry of snow. Clouds prevented a severe freeze previously, but a further drop in temperature was expected before Monday morning.

Snow that started falling Saturday night reached a depth of five inches at Snyder, the heaviest since 1924, and at nightfall Sunday the snowflakes continued to come down.

Sleet which began falling at Colorado at 5 a. m. Sunday was followed by snow, estimated tonight at from two to three inches. The snow melted rapidly.

Snow at Brownwood

Brownwood also reported snowfall, although the flakes melted almost as fast as they fell.

Snowing continued all day at Dallas and Fort Worth. Haskell reported four inches, Brady one inch of rain with a flurry of snow, Anson four inches of snow, the heaviest in many years, and Post, three inches of snow.

Southward the precipitation turned to rain, the fall at Waco being mixed with flurries of snow. Taking a freakish turn at Corsicana, the weather offered rain, snow and sleet together on its Sunday menu and the temperature was falling rapidly.

Austin reported rain throughout the day, with a temperature slightly above 40 and freezing weather forecast for tonight. Houston and Galveston had cold, drizzling rain with temperatures ranging slightly above 40 and a greater drop expected before morning.

Third Abandoned Car Burns Near Roadside

The third mysterious burning of an automobile on a highway near Wichita Falls in as many days occurred Sunday night when it was reported to police that a powerful automobile was ablaze about two miles out on the Windthorst road.

Similar to the occurrences Friday and Saturday night, the automobile was found abandoned and wrecked by the flames. The first incident of the kind happened Friday night when an automobile on the Petrolia road burned after having been abandoned. Saturday night on a road west of the city still another car was found under the same circumstances.

Police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the mysterious fires.

Ships at Mercy Of Fog Mantle

radio a few moments before the collision, not realizing in the dense fog their ships were in such close proximity.

Fog Lifts

As the fog lifted today permitting observation over the scene of the tragedy, Danish seaplanes were utilized and Finnish boats steamed methodically back and forth seeking bodies. In the flotsam they found three life boats empty and two Christmas trees. Marines believe a majority of those lost were trapped in their bunks and sank with the ship which went down like a linesman's sounding lead.

All day huge crowds thronged the quay where the Arcturus was discharging her cargo. In her battered bows they saw mute evidence of the most pitiful figure among the survivors is Capt. Erik Hjelt, commander of the Oberon, who sits in his brother's cabin with the body of his 4-year-old daughter, Elizabeth, for whom he fought a losing fight against the icy waters.

After he and his daughter had been picked up by the Arcturus he feverishly worked over the body of the child for six hours in an attempt to restore life, and then dropped exhausted and sobbing when he realized his attempts were in vain.

Mother Missing

Meanwhile, no trace of the child's mother has been found. Reminiscent of Longfellow's wreck of the Hesperus, she was making the trip so the child could be with her daddy on Christmas.

Almost as tragic an appearance is presented by Capt. Ossi Hjelt who has gone without sleep since his ship barged out of the fog and sank his brother's vessel. Captain Erik had been bound toward England and Captain Ossi for home.

The tragedy was not without brilliant additions. Erick Vickers, an English resident of Finland, was safely aboard the Arcturus when he spied Mrs. Gilbert Williams and a child struggling against the odds of the chilling waters. Despite the half-frozen condition of his clothes, Vickers dived to their rescue, but perished with them. Williams, the husband and father, had left the ship at Copenhagen while his wife and child continued on to spend Christmas at their old home in England.

As the Arcturus arrived here, a sailor called to the crowd on the quay, "Is Mr. Williams here?" A quiet man stepped to the front and answered, "Yes."

"Your wife," said the sailor, "said, 'tell my husband please he is in my thoughts to the end.'"

Pastor Talks On Birth of Christ

New Testament accounts of the pronouncement to "shepherds abiding in the fields" of Jesus' birth at Bethlehem was the subject of an address delivered by Burton Coffman, assistant pastor of the First Church of Christ, before members of the Young People's society Sunday evening.

Appropriateness of the factors in the described situation, from the standpoint of religious influence, was discussed by Mr. Coffman. Lack of identification in the New Testament of those "shepherds" who received the significant pronouncement, he said, heightens rather than weakens the narrative and its effect. He said:

"Shepherds, whose hard hands are symbolical of the toiling millions of the earth, represent those who have ever kept watch over the tasks of life. It is well that their names are omitted. Shepherd means infintely more to us than any particular shepherd, or shepherds, by name. We, like they, keep watch—we over the flying hours of time, and we too are abiding in the fields."

Presence of the shepherds in the field offered an advantageous opportunity for the best announcement of the Christ's birth. Mr. Coffman continued, for "only in the field can man have the proper perspective." The eternity of God, and the brevity of human life, are much more plainly felt in the field, the speaker said, than within the four walls of a home or a strong castle.

"It is appropriate also," he said, "that the night should have been chosen as the occasion of such a glorious revelation. Although the heavenly light of that choir made the meadow near Bethlehem bright as they sang of Jesus' birth, it was not merely the gloom of that particular night or hour that was being driven away by their tidings of great joy. Theirs was a joyous message, to make the first rift in a black night which had enveloped the world. Jesus' birth was the signal that God had kept his promises to man, and that the long night of waiting for the perfect Life was at an end."

Ammel Home Again After Panama Crash

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (AP)—Captain Roy W. Ammel of Chicago who made the first New York-Panama non-stop flight several weeks ago, returned today on the steamer Abengarez.

Captain Ammel's plane, which cracked up on an attempted Panama-Chicago flight—a crash which resulted in serious injuries to Ammel—has been shipped directly to the manufacturer's plant in California for repairs.

Captain Ammel appeared completely recovered from his injuries. He said he would remain in New York several days for an examination to determine whether he had been injured internally.

Aged Man Plunges To Death From Bridge

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Jesus Rodriguez, 84, whose body was found today, was killed when he plunged 40 feet from a Cottonbelt railway bridge into mud and water beneath the trestle. Physicians said he had been dead about two days.

JONES GIVES FORUM TALK

Creation of Southern Party Urged by Speaker

economic and social welfare of the commonwealth?"

A discussion of the South, Dr. Jones asserted, assumes that there is a homogenous something called the South, when as a matter of fact there is not one South, but many. "The South is not a unit geographically, racially, socially, or historically," Dr. Jones said. "I hope it never will be. That there is identity of interests in the South is undeniable, but there is an amazing diversity of the southern scene." He described the racial differences in the various states, the high percentage of Mexican population in Texas, the Acadian French in Louisiana. "If one speaks of Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana, one calls up a particular tradition, a particular legend to the imagination."

Defining southern culture as the result of what the best and most representative sections of the southern people have wanted out of living, Dr. Jones described the southerner as one who traditionally has preferred to stay at home, in comparison with the Yankee who ranged the seven seas in clippers.

Southerner Stays at Home

"Where the New Yorker has created a great international university, the southerner has preferred the local academy, the indigenious college. Until recently he has also preferred an agrarian life to an industrial one, a rural life to an urban existence, a leisurely life to an intense and feverish activity, politics, conversation, the Protestant religion for the most part, and a decorative and casual relation to the arts, as against metaphisics, specialization, theological modernism and aesthetic frenzy. He has been, amid all his diversity, the product of a great agricultural hegemony."

Several of the natural traits of the southerner were described by the speaker.

"One such common trait," he said, "is kindliness.

"The impression we get of the old southerners then and since—is that they were a warm-hearted and kindly people. In the next place, it would appear that human relations were on a much more personal basis than was commonly the case elsewhere, and this trait, I think, lingers with the South today. This relation among individuals is commonly truer of agrarian than it is of industrial societies. These two foregoing traits merge into a third, that quality in southern life for which we have no very good word, but which I can best indicate by saying that life was for them an end in itself, not a means to some other end.

One Common Vice

"These traits in southern culture are agreeable enough, but a fourth is perhaps not so flattering—it is the evolution in this situation of what I may call the 'make it do' philosophy. The art of conversation is certainly a very desirable accomplishment, but one comes to feel by and by that on cabin porch and plantation veranda that talking ended merely in talk; it became a euphemism for that characteristic southern vice 'jes' sittin'.' The intense conservatism of an agrarian civilization built on a caste system was naturally hostile to innovation, to experiment, to change, and therefore to progress."

Having built on these certain traits, and especially the "make it do" philosophy, Dr. Jones declared that the South now finds itself confronted with a new cultural problem, that of industrialization. Tracing the industrialization of the South in the past 30 years, the speaker gave statistics of progress, showing the increase of wealth, manufactured products, banking resources, highway expenditures, motor cars, farm acreage, farm products and population.

"We have but to look," it was said, "at the concrete highway, the filling stations, the factory chimney, the consolidated school, the motor bus, the long lines of freight cars, the general movement and activity, and alas! also the bitterness of industrial conflict, the country club drinking party, the billboard, the radio, the booster spirit, the dejected farmer, to know that industrialism has radically rearranged the traditional values of southern life.

"The South has been hitherto backward and somnolent; it is at length waking up; and all that is necessary to complete its transformation is more money, more factories, and more production."

A solution of the southern agricultural problem must be brought about by the application of the methods of large scale industry to the farm, Dr. Jones stated, referring to Dr. Clarence Poe, agricultural authority on the South. The farmer must begin, it was said, by budgeting his income, he must spend his money in productive purchases, he must standardize his products.

Referring to the adherence of the gentry of the old South politically, and suggesting the need of a similar organization of southern men today, Dr. Jones said: "No great political movement was ever created in the United States which did not have in its inception seem to have set up a goal so visionary as to be impossible of fulfillment. And upon what other terms can southern culture be preserved from senility and slow decay? Beaten once at Appomator, the South has the choice, so far as I can see, between a blind following once more of the industrial North into a life which does not on the whole seem to make for the happiness its creators allege to be its product; and a unified and coherent life of its own, fitted for the South with its peculiar heritage, its special problems of race and climate and soil, its rich potentialities for a well-rounded civilization—a southern South, in short, fit for southern Americans to live in."

A smaller crowd attended the lecture Sunday afternoon than have responded to former programs of the open forum, due to weather conditions. A 30-minute musical program preceded the lecture and was provided by the Booker Washington choral club and high school quartet.

S. H. Rider, principal of the high school and dean of the Junior college here, briefly introduced the speaker.

Following the lecture several of the individuals present questioned Dr. Jones for explanations along lines similar to his lecture.

The next lecture of the season, it was announced, will be held the afternoon of Sunday, Jan. 11, with Edward Howard Griggs speaking on the subject "Galsworthy's Justice; the Protest Against Making Criminals."

Optimists Ready for Big Party For Boys Tonight; Room for 25 More

Bert King will be the principal speaker at the venison-buffalo dinner which will be given by members of the Optimist club Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the ballroom of the Kemp for under privileged boys, according to an announcement made by Solon R. Featherston, chairman of the program committee.

Other numbers will include a Christmas reading by Miss Jane Ann Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamilton, and several humorous sketches by V. N. Armstrong. Following the program, Santa Claus will appear and distribute gifts from his pack. The boys will then be taken to the Strand theater where they will be special guests of F. J. Patterson, manager of the theater.

Seventy-five reservations have already been made and accommodations are being made for 25 more. Those wishing to attend may make reservations by calling Ira Brown at 5300 or by going to his office in room 210, Staley building or by calling V. N. Armstrong at 4391.

The venison is being donated by P. J. Lea and the buffalo by J. I. Staley. Members of the club will act as waiters and will be assisted by members of the Junior club.

Republican Leaders Want Hoover To Help Ward Off Special Session Move

Public Statement From President Urged as Barrier to Another Convening of Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. (AP)—Alarmed by the legislative jam in the senate, the Republican leadership was looking anxiously today for means of breaking the deadlock during the holiday recess in a determined effort to avoid an extra session in the spring.

It is the conviction of some senate Republican leaders that formal assurance by President Hoover that he will not call the senate into special session for consideration of the World Court will go a long way in averting the threatened delay in that body in acting on necessary legislation.

World Court Deferred

The Republicans of the senate foreign relations committee voted to defer World Court consideration until the regular session a year hence but there are signs World Court foes are fearful the president will call a special session. There also are signs these forces are going to keep in a position to force an extra session of the whole congress until this fear is totally dispelled.

Word was given out yesterday at the White House that Mr. Hoover does not intend to call a special session of the senate for disposition of the World Court. Whether this informal assurance would satisfy the World Court foes was uncertain today.

Relief Program

The rebellious senate completed action yesterday on the emergency relief program. The recommendations of President Hoover on the $311,000,000 relief bills encountered stubborn resistance as the promised Republican-Democratic cooperation movement became engulfed in storms of dissension which broke in both parties.

None of the 11 regular appropriation bills providing funds for operation of the government the next fiscal year has gotten through the senate. The gigantic $1,058,000,000 treasury-postoffice appropriation measure has passed both senate and house but the conference report adjusting differences was rejected by the senate.

Administration leaders intend to concentrate after the holidays on putting through these vital bills without which President Hoover will be forced to call an extra session. Also, they are going to seek an early solution of the long deadlock over disposition of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant.

France Uneasy Over Condition of Poincare

PARIS, Dec. 21. (AP)—France felt uneasy tonight for the condition of former President Raymond Poincare, for today's bulletin was not so reassuring as his condition yesterday had indicated it might be. The bulletin said:

"The condition of former President Poincare is stationary and still necessitates complete repose."

M. Poincare has been seriously ill for more than a week.

Meanwhile, three provincial cities took steps today to express their gratitude to "the saviour of the franc," as the former premier and president is known.

SHEPARD JURY GETS NOWHERE

Panel Retires Again Without Verdict

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—The jurors in the trial of Major Charles A. Shepard, accused of the poison murder of his second wife, ceased deliberations at 7 p. m. and retired for the second night with the fate of the army medical corps officer in their hands.

No word leaked out as to the result of the balloting.

The case went to the jury at 2:58 p. m., yesterday and 24 hours later there had been actual deliberation of about 10 hours.

Shepard and his counsel appeared in the federal courtroom this afternoon to await the verdict.

The jurors went to dinner apparently in good spirits despite a seeming deadlock and returned in less than two hours to resume their discussion and balloting, which should it be for conviction no recommendation for clemency would sentence the 59-year-old army medical officer to death by hanging.

Miss Grace Brandon, the young stenographer, for love of whom the government charged Shepard poisoned his wife, left last night for San Antonio, Texas, where she said she expected to resume her position at Brooks field, an army post.

Miss Brandon, one of the prosecution's star witnesses in the trial, said District Sardius M. Brewster had cautioned her not to talk about Major Shepard.

Rites Said For Mrs. Rumbaugh

Funeral services for Mrs. J. E. Rumbaugh, 52, were held Sunday afternoon from the Floral Heights Methodist church, with Dr. Claude M. Simpson, pastor, officiating, assisted by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church. Burial was in Rosemont Burial park under the direction of the Dalton-Powell Funeral home.

Mrs. Rumbaugh, a resident of Wichita Falls for eight years, died at a hospital here Thursday following a prolonged illness.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Bertha Mae Conner, Mrs. Margaret Alice Wallace, and Mrs. Ethel King, and one son, Reuben Arthur Rumbaugh of Wichita Falls; two other sisters, Mrs. George Wagner of Petrolia, Pa., and Mrs. Clyde Jordan of West Monterey, Pa., and a brother, Benjamin F. Barger of Karns City, Pa.

MRS. J. H. GOODWIN

Funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Goodwin, 44, were held Sunday afternoon from the Scotland Evangelical church. Burial was in Riverside under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Mrs. Goodwin died Saturday night after a brief illness at the family home, 1310 North Sixth street.

Surviving are the husband; two daughters, Mrs. Alene Miller, Guthrie, Okla., and Miss Catherine Blanchard, Wichita Falls; her mother, Mrs. J. H. Benton, Ralls; four brothers, Ernest Murphy, Dallas; Albert, Los Angeles; Lee, Kenton, Okla., and Jack Murphy of Amarillo; and one sister, Mrs. J. H. Davidson of Colorado.

now to be making the mistake of thinking that the government has done all it can or ought to do.

The state of Texas will award $5,000,000 in highway contracts on Jan. 19 and 20. A considerable part of these contracts will be in drouth stricken areas. Local labor is to be employed. That will help in the sections in which the roads are to be built. But no less than 50 million dollars would be needed to make much impression against the distress resulting from the drouth and unemployment.

Writing on the subject of keeping your child's mind healthy in the January issue of the Household Magazine, Dr. Lawson G. Lowrey of New York City says that adults are entirely too conscious of their children and of the potential difficulties that their children may have. "For years I have pleaded that parents should really enjoy their children, play with them on their own level, rejuvenate themselves by taking an interest in the things the children are interested in rather than worry and fret because the children do not come up to some standard, perhaps false, which the parent has. Neither children nor parents in these days have enough opportunity to be together to strike a community of interest, to examine each other's ideas and to work and play together."

And this is applicable to your grown-up friends as well as to your children. Try enjoying your friends for the things you like in them and leave off trying to make them conform to some pattern you have made for them. It is their pattern and not yours they must live anyway, how do you know that yours is any better than theirs?

Maitland's Military Trial Starts Today

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 21. (AP)—The court martial of Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, instructor at the advanced flying school Kelly field who made a flight to Hawaii in 1927 will get under way tomorrow morning with Capt. J. F. R. Scott as prosecuting attorney for the government and Wayne Davis, San Antonio attorney, as defense counsel.

The charge on which the court martial is based specifies "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline" in connection with drinking at the station hospital, Fort Sam Houston, in August this year while Maitland was a patient in the hospital following injury in a motor bus accident. Maitland is the holder of the distinguished flying cross.

Christmas Spirit Shown In Parties Given By Classes

In the Christmas party given by members of the Twain Bible class of the First Methodist church in the Y. W. C. A. parlors Friday night, the lovely Christmas spirit of 1930 was shown when the gifts on the beautiful tree were shown to be toys for the children whose parents would not be able to provide them. In the rooms of the same class at the church Sunday morning the same spirit was shown when groceries sufficient to feed five or more families were brought in baskets and boxes by members of the class.

The pretty holiday decorations arranged in the Y. W. C. A. parlors made a beautiful yuletide setting for the party Friday evening. Games were played and in interesting program given.

A delightful refreshment course was served to members present, including Messrs. and Mesdames W. M. Brumage, W. R. Scott, Cecil Long, W. R. Johnson, W. J. Ranbarger, Murrell Hooper, E. S. Carter, L. S. McDowell, Lee Terry, Mesdames James Norton, A. H. Millsaps and James and Mr. Ellery Lynn.

Faith B. Y. P. U.

Members of Faith B. Y. P. U. of Highland Heights Baptist church had a delightful party Friday evening at the home of Carrol Breland on Lawrence street when the house was decorated in a pretty Christmas motif.

Games and contests were enjoyed throughout the evening and winners in the contest were Vera Leach, Cecil Holton and Robert Ludolphus. One of the interesting features of the entertainment was the group of popular songs by a quartet composed of Carrol Breland, Jack Gentry, Olin Burnett and Bill Jenkins.

A seasonal refreshment plate was served to Misses Allene Muller, Mary Evelyn Vaughn, Dorothy Janeway, Molly Riney, Priscilla Parker, Lola Moss, Ruby Curfman, Clyde Copeland, Vera Leach, Melba Burnett, Fannie Leach, Edith Leach; Messrs. Calvin Henderson, J. R. Holton, Bill Wilson, Jack Gentry, Olin Burnett, Robert Ludolphus, Cecil Holten, Billy Jenkins, R. V. Breland, Jerry Holten, Harrell Riney and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Breland and Mrs. J. Biggs.

Tillman Farmer Offers Fire Wood to Needy

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 21.—Dan Sutherlan, residing on Cooper creek which flows into Red river about 16 miles southeast of Frederick, has considerable timber on his farm and he offers to furnish wood to the needy people in that locality who will cut it and haul it away. A visitor at Sutherlan's a few days ago counted five loads of wood which left that place in half an hour. Where some of the people did not have a large enough force Sutherlan instructed some of the negroes employed on his farm to help in cutting and loading the wood.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

If one had not eyes to see, it would seem impossible that anything so white as the snowflakes could fall from a sky as gray as that covering Wichita Falls for awhile Sunday morning.

The roofs of all the little houses in our line of vision glowed in the whirling drift. Across a street we saw two children run shouting from the front door to greet the first snowfall. For it to fall at Christmas time seemed another gift of Santa.

"A white Christmas" is what the children look forward to. Since the world was young it has been the same. It is the children who run joyously and build snow men and smother one another in the drifts. One such snow man we saw Sunday afternoon tumbled in a yard on Collins street, his head and arms melting into a patch of dead grass.

But with the yet what it is, we wondered how the snow would seem to many families. Those well built prosperous homes where fires kept the snow melting on the roof might welcome it as an addition to the season. With cars to come and go, with warm clothing and the proper footwear, a snowfall is a pretty thing.

But we thought of the little boys we saw on the street Saturday with their toes sticking out the end of their shoes. And we remembered the stories of those many folk without work and without the things necessary to make life comfortable. We wondered if there were hearths where no fire burned and where the falling flakes threatened more suffering.

And then we thought of the spirit of Christmas being shown in the city of Wichita Falls. We remembered the manner in which the managers of the different picture shows had coooperated to provide toys and groceries for the needy. We thought of the unusual manner in which Christmas parties were being celebrated by bringing—not presents for one another, but something for the needy.

If the year of 1930 has been a hard one—if there has been unemployment and want, it has developed a spirit in the people of the United States that was worth suffering to see. In Dallas, we read, employed carpenters have divided work with the unemployed—working half and letting their brothers in on the other half of the time. We hear that railroad employes pursue the same tactics.

Is not that a "white Christmas?" Like the white snow falling from the gray sky, it seems that beautiful thoughts and helping spirits have grown out of the darkness of suffering and want.

Nights at this season seem quieter. It is a strange thing that roosters crow through the night—that cattle are restless and sounds travel far. It takes one back to the memory of a night some 1930 years ago when angels appeared to the shepherds on the plains of Bethlehem. And even as people appeared bringing gifts, they bring them again today. They remember the little ones and the needy ones because of the spirit of the Christ who was born in a manger and who loved the poor.

Epworth Young People Have Christmas Program

A group of Christmas songs opened the regular meeting of the Floral Heights Epworth Young People at the church Sunday evening and Helen Simpson gave as the devotional the pretty Christmas story from the gospel of Luke. Sentence prayers were given by many members.

Juanita Ferguson gave as a clever reading "Anna Belle Attends to Things," and Springer Williams made an interesting Christmas talk on "Love."

Two lovely violin duets were given by Barbara Martin and Mary C. Boone, accompanied by Mary Frances Walker, and Estelle McPhail made an announcement of the Christmas offering box. The group was dismissed with the league benediction.

Dundee Study Club Given Beautiful Christmas Party

Members and guests of the Dundee Study club were entertained at a delightful Christmas party at the home of Mrs. J. R. Parkey in Dundee, when Georgia smilax, vases of red roses and red haws made a pretty background in the living room where a large lighted tree was the holiday decoration and in the dining room where a pretty snow-clad cottage, electrically lighted, added its charm to the occasion.

Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the first district, T. F. W. C. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, president of the Garden club of Archer City and of the Archer County federation, made talks, Mrs. Oneal telling in a most interesting manner of the state federation meeting in Houston.

Games were enjoyed after the talks and Mrs. Alex Albright received high prize while low went to Mrs. Horace Flatt. Gifts from the tree were presented to members and guests.

At the conclusion of the games, delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: Mesdames Ben G. Oneal, P. P. Langford and George W. Thorburn of Wichita Falls; Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta; Mesdames John Turbeville and W. H. Taylor of Archer City; Mesdames Alex Albright and Joe Rayborn of Dundee; Mrs. Hargrove Grounds of Holliday and Mrs. Jess Richeson of Mankins. Members present were Mesdames M. E. Childs, P. G. Fulkerson, Horace Flatt, S. G. Helm, J. M. Hawley, B. V. Harden, Cecil Mankins, W. L. Richeson, J. R. Parkey and Bertha Taylor.

TILLMAN ASKS STATE TAX CUT

Association Organized At Saturday Meeting

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 21.—About 100 were present at a meeting held at the courthouse at 2:30 p. m. Saturday when following a brief discussion a tax reduction association was organized similar to one recently formed at Atoka, Okla. Governor-elect Murray's gross production tax plan to take the load from the farmer and small business man, was approved.

Edwin Brown said Murray's plan is to substitute the gross production tax for the present ad valorem tax In part he said: "Prices of wheat and cotton are now low but there may be so much raised next year that wheat will sell for 35 cents a bushel and cotton may not bring more than the cost of picking and ginning."

C. I. Kent, owner of several farms, said "the farmer's back is broken; our system of taxes is all wrong. Ninety per cent of our farms are mortgaged. We have not produced enough to pay the taxes let alone the interest."

"We can't get any lower taxes under our present system," said Commissioner Ed Cason of Hollister. "Farmers are paying more taxes than any other class but the taxes can not be cut without hurting the schools. Land in which you have only a small equity is heavily taxed while the one holding the mortgage pays but little on the mortgage."

These officers were elected: H. R. King, president; Edwin Brown, secretary-treasurer; vice presidents, Ed Cason, Hollister; F. G. Baldwin, Frederick; Bill Webb, Tipton; Louis Campbell, Davidson; R. L. Winchell, Grandfield; O. C. Ball, Mantou; Squire Humble, Chattanooga; Al Smith, Loveland.

Another meeting is to be called by the president after the legislature convenes when a delegation may be selected to go to Oklahoma City to help pass this gross tax measure.

Einstein's Anguish Honored by a King "All's Quiet's" Frankness "Preserving" Wild Life

By [illegible]

Professor Albert Einstein, generally conceded to be the world's foremost thinker, and who spent a lifetime evolving his theories, is subjected to much mental anguish by American reporters who demand of him that he define the fourth dimension in one word and relativity in a sentence. He is also asked to state briefly his views on marriage and divorce, religion, politics, prohibition, etc.

What Einstein foresaw transpired. What he feared really happened. Pressed to give camera men and reporters a 15-minute interview, he consented graciously, only to be compelled to flee from the battery of foolishness which bombarded him.

Genius may be patient, but even a monument would turn and run under such a charge.

King Gustaf of Sweden, feting the Nobel prize winners at a dinner in the palace at Stockholm, reminds us that the custom of rulers honoring persons who have achieved great things, however humble their origin, is as old almost as history itself.

Zoroaster, Persian magi, was the fig and olive chum of King Hystaspes. Aristotle was a frequent dinner guest of Philip of Macedon. Herodotus, "father of history," was the "lion" at the salon of the rulers of Scythia, Thrace, Egypt during his visits to those countries. In Athens he was voted a huge pension by public decree. Diogenes, who lived in a tub, used to breakfast often with Alexander the Great.

The more recent examples are those of D'Annunzio, Kipling, Masefield, Mme. Curie, Lipton, Sousa, all of whom have sat with princes and dined with kings.

No country relishes seeing its defeat and humiliation pictured by the movie product of another nation. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that Remarque's "All's Quiet on the Western Front," filmed in the United States, and made to show Germany in a war fever, has been banned in Berlin from further showing.

The truth is essential, but it may not be justified in the form of entertainment. A nation may be criticized but not humiliated. What action would our citizens take if America's part in the Spanish-American war were revealed in a Spanish-made film and brought to New York and exhibited in one of our leading playhouses? We'd show that film no better courtesy than the Berliners are showing "All's Quiet."

To see ourselves as others see us is a gift Burns asked for devoutly. All of us might do well to pray for this gift.

The preservation of wild life in a native habitat covering a two-million acre preserve is the work of the Belgian ambassador to Washington, Prince Albert de Ligne. The Kivu district of the Belgian Congo has been set aside for this sanctuary, to which scientists of the world may come for first-hand study of vanishing wild life.

There is something incontestably beautiful in the wild and primitive, and something essentially cruel and unjust in confining it as we do. A tiger in a Central park cage is a pitiable spectacle. The gazelle that sped across the mountains of Gallahad looks at us from a 10-yard confine with a heartbreaking gaze. The zoological gardens visitor with a conscience can hardly bare the challenge of the cabined leopard or jaguar whose memory of vast jungle areas haunts its brain.

The whole practice of domesticating animals is fundamentally unsound. Leave the lion to his lair, the bird to its forests, and the seal to its arctic waters.

Hambone's Meditations

Copyright, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

A man in Indiana has invented an illuminated key hole. A timely device, perhaps, for late-comers celebrating New Year's.

Things are not so bullish for the Spanish government either, it seems.

"Well, I should smile," said the girl as she posed for the dentifrice ad.

A Prince of Old India

THAT United Press correspondent who set himself the job of finding out who is actually the world's richest man managed to produce something of a surprise. The title belongs, not to Ford or Rockefeller, but to a relatively obscure Indian prince called Nizam of Hyderabad.

This gentleman is worth fully a billion dollars, and probably a good deal more. Furthermore, he has all of his fortune where he can see it and touch it. Half of it consists of gold—gold coins, golden bars, golden ornaments, heaped up in the royal coffers; the rest of it consists of diamonds, emeralds, gem-studded bracelets and coronets, pearl necklaces and the like.

And all of it, you may be very sure, lies wasting its glitter on the darkness of an impenetrable treasure house, with sword-girt guards at the door ready to strike down anyone who so much as tries to get an unauthorized peek at it.

All of this is surprising. We like to think that our oil kings and motor magnates are the earth's richest men. But, after all, it is entirely fitting that the title should go to a prince of India. From the dawn of history, India has been the fabulous land of unbelievable wealth.

Alexander discovered it, and his rough Macedonian infantry men, clanking through rich Indian cities with their long spears slanting over their shoulders, blinked at the astounding richness of the palaces they had seized, and doubtless told tall tales about them to their children when they got home. The Mediterranean people knew it throughout the middle ages, starved Europe dreamed incessantly of the storied cities of gold and diamonds beyond Arabia. The Arabs broke through to loot; after them came the English, gaping in disbelief at the wealth that lay ready for their grasp, seizing enough to make themselves uncomfortably rich yet assuring the people at home that there was so much there that they were amazed at their own moderation.

Naturally, the prince of India has figured in literature. Lew Wallace took him up and cast the Wandering Jew in the role of Indian nabob, piling up his riches for uncounted generations. Kipling took up the theme, and drew an unforgettable picture of the buried treasure house beneath the abandoned city, with the white cobra sleeping among the forgotten chests of gems and sacks of gold dust, ready to deal out the vengeance of a dead rajah on any intruder. Economists have worried about it, fearing that all of the precious metal in the world will eventually drain off into India and vanish, locked securely in the strong boxes of a thousand turbaned princes.

The Nizam of Hyderabad, then, has a right to his title. There were billionaires before Ford and Rockefeller. And what is more fitting than a billionaire who lives up to his position, and keeps all of his wealth handy in hard cash?

A Tip for Investors

A VALUABLE tip for potential purchasers of securities is contained in a little article in the current Magazine of Wall street. This article points out that the investor has learned some good lessons during the last 14 months. It lists a few thus:

"He knows that even the greatest bulk market can terminate; he knows that bonds, staid and lacking in the spectacular, are in the main reliable, and he has discovered that the most highly-touted common stocks suffer along with those which are frankly speculative when earnings disappear. All of these things he knows now—the advantage lies in remembering them. For the investor with a good memory and the courage to act, the possibilities for fruitful reward are practically limitless."

In that last sentence the words "with a good memory" need to be underlined. If we remember some of the lessons the last stock crash taught, our next rising market may not terminate quite so disastrously.

A Good Indication

MAYBE it's just the hard times, and maybe the country is recovering its sanity. We'd prefer to believe the latter to be the case; but, anthow, you can judge for yourself.

Someone tried staging a marathon dancing contest in a suburb of a large middle-western city the other day. Seventy couples signed up, together with four solo dancers, and the affair got under way in the usual manner.

But after a fortnight, with 11 couples remaining on the floor, the contest fell to pieces. Its promoters explained that it was not making expenses, due to woefully insufficient patronage by the public.

As we say, this may just be due to hard times. But hard times or no, it is a good sign when the general public begins to stay away from a marathon dance contest.

Mexico for the Mexicans

IF a tariff is good for Uncle Sam, it is good for Uncle Rubio of Mexico. The Mexican government has decreed increased tariffs on wool, cotton and linen products, including shirts, neckties and collars, in order to afford greater protection to Mexican textile industries. Now Americans who are out for the trade of the Latin Indian countries will invest their money in Mexican textile plants. Henry Ford has pointed the way. He will establish his first big plant in the city of Mexico. This wise old wizard of the automobile industry is an opponent of high tariff walls. He did not take kindly to the Hawley-Smoot act. He predicted that if enacted, it would play havoc with American commerce. Now he is a manufacturer-at-large. That is, he is making his own under seven flags. He has an investment of $2,000,000,000 and a fortune of $3,000,000,000.

LITTLE MISS NOBODY

By VIDA HURST

"It's lovely," exclaimed Celeste. "It looks like you," said Clayton.

SYNOPSIS

Dolores Graham, 36 years old and unusually attractive to men, and Dr. Fenton are found in each other's arms, shot to death, in the latter's office, Celeste, 19 and equally beautiful, is the daughter of Dolores. Because of the scandal attached to her mother's death, Celeste is ostracized from her "crowd" and becomes a Miss Nobody instead of a respected girl.

Celeste is forced to take a new job at the Elite Department store and she meets and falls in love with Dale Hamilton Jr., son of the owner of the store. At the store Celeste meets Blondie McManus, a sophisticated girl of Celeste's age with a heart of gold.

Russell Graham, Celeste's father, deserts her and goes to northern California in search of work because of the scandal. Blondie moves into Celeste's apartment and they share expenses on a 50-50 basis.

Through Dale Hamilton, Celeste gets a job in Randolph Clayton's offices as private secretary. Dale and Celeste are admittedly in love with each other, even though Dale knows all about the scandal which made her a "Little Miss Nobody."

One day Dale fails to keep a date with Celeste and, although he comes into the office on several occasions, he fails to speak to her. Wondering what can be the matter, Celeste accepts a dinner engagement with her employer, Mr. Clayton.

At dinner they meet Dale Hamilton. It is 10 o'clock before Celeste reaches her apartment, to find Dale sitting in his roadster waiting for her.

They go for a ride and have a reconciliation. Dale makes Celeste promise never to go anywhere with Clayton again.

CHAPTER XXIII

They loved each other so madly that night. Yet Celeste told herself there could be no future to it. However much Dale loved her he would never defy his family to the point of marrying her.

But, as if understanding her doubts, he whispered: "They'll love you, too, when they know you. Be patient, sweetheart, and everything will come out all right."

With her arms tight about his neck she assured him she would be patient for "years and years, if necessary."

Dale laughed.

"It won't be years and years. Oh, Celeste, you're so sweet! How could I ever have promised to give you up?"

It was late before they returned to her apartment. Dale had insisted on stopping at an outlying chicken shack. Celeste was too excited to be hungry, but she nibbled at the delicately browned chicken, hot corn bread and honey which was served to them.

Dale did not come into the apartment house, preferring to tell her goodnight in the privacy of his car.

"See you tomorrow," he whispered.

"You'd better, and not as you did today."

"It hurt me worse than it did you," he retorted.

Celeste ran up three flights of stairs with his last kiss warm upon her lips. Like a young whirlwind she flashed into the living room, where Blondie and Mr. Smith were waiting.

Mr. Smith said, "Don't tell me R. R. C. kept you as late as this?"

Celeste frowned. His protective attitude threatened to become annoying.

"Certainly not! I left the office hours ago."

Blondie's wise blue eyes were fastened on the other girl's radiant face.

"I'm going to bed," she announced, heartlessly.

Celeste did not wish to be left alone with Mr. Smith.

"Don't go," she begged.

Blondie grinned.

"Must. I'm all in."

"I hope I haven't tired you," suggested Mr. Smith.

"Oh, not at all. On the contrary, I've had a most delightful evening."

She was gone, closing the bedroom door definitely behind her. Mr. Smith's cherubic countenance became rosier than ever.

"Nice girl—that Blondie! Not half as hard-boiled as she tries to make everyone think."

Celeste agreed with him. Oh, why didn't he go? Longing to be alone with memories of her lover, she was in no mood for even the kind attentions of Mr. Smith. But he lingered as if fascinated.

At length he said, "I'm afraid you will think it's none of my business—"

"Why say it, then?"

"Because I must," he insisted. "But please don't think I'm speaking from any other motive than friendship. It isn't even because I'm in love with you."

Seeing there was no way of avoiding it, Celeste sank into a chair.

He continued, bluntly, "Don't let yourself fall for Dale Hamilton!"

The shock of his words brought her to her feet.

"What do you mean?"

"Everyone in the office has noticed it," Mr. Smith said, miserably.

Celeste was furious.

"Since when," she flared, "have you felt it necessary to become the custodian of my morals?"

"It isn't a question of morals exactly. I don't want to see you hurt. Dale is a thoughtless, selfish boy who is accustomed to having anything and everything he wants. But after he wins your love he'll cast you aside like a broken toy."

"Dale Hamilton is a gentleman," Celeste reminded him, coldly.

"Even a gentleman can be a flirt."

She said, childishly, "I think you are horrid to talk about him like this behind his back."

How wretchedly uncomfortable he looked! Little beads of moisture stood out on his brow.

"You've no idea how I dislike speaking against him," Mr. Smith confessed. "But on account of my friendship for your mother, if for no other reason—"

It was not a fortunate reference. Celeste flushed dangerously as she replied, "I'm perfectly capable of looking after myself."

He rose and, taking his hat from the table, prepared to leave.

"I suppose I've been stupid and tactless. If I hadn't asked you to marry me, you'd be more apt to believe in the sincerity of my intentions."

"I don't doubt the sincerity of your intentions, Mr. Smith. But in a matter like this I can't be dictated to."

"Very well," he sighed. "I suppose you'd rather I didn't come here any more."

"Men were such difficult creatures," thought Celeste. Forcing an issue when you didn't wish to be definite. Evading it when you did.

Aloud she said, "come whenever you like, Blondie and I will always be glad to see you."

"Very well. Next time I'll come to see Blondie."

He was smiling as they parted, but Celeste knew he was deeply hurt. She was sorry, but she told herself she couldn't help it if he insisted upon meddling in her love affair.

In the days which followed she had little time to worry over the attitude of Mr. Smith. True to her promise to her employer, she attended night school three times a week. The other evenings she spent with Dale—dancing, attending the theater, driving. He did not take her sailing, perhaps, because it was now December. They had no more afternoons at the beach. As the holidays approached their hours were spent in more sophisticated

Q.—When is St. Nicholas day?—V. G.

A.—It is Dec. 6. It is a children's festival in Holland, Belgium, and parts of Germany, and serves as a preliminary to Christmas. It is on the night of the 5th that St. Nicholas comes with gifts. Christmas day is observed as a holy day rather than as a holiday.

Q.—Does the son of a naturalized citizen who himself (the son) was born abroad have to be naturalized before he can vote?—F. S.

A.—Courts have held that if a father becomes a naturalized citizen before his son shall have attained his majority, the son, although alien-born, becomes a citizen and need not undergo the formality of naturalization if residing within the United States.

Q.—When did skiing become a recognized sport?—D. W. A.

A.—Skiing began to be looked upon as a sport about 1860 in the Norwegian district of Telewark and rapidly spread in popularity over all the Scandivanian peninsula. The climax of the racing season is now the great international ski tournament held annually in February at Holmenkollen, six miles from Oslo.

Q.—How many kinds of orchids are grown in the United States?—C. S.

A.—There are estimated to be 3,000 species of orchids under cultivation and over 75 different varieties of wild orchids in the United States and Alaska.

Q.—How much did the income from farms decrease in 1930?—D. S.

A.—Secretary Hyde says that the gross farm income for 1930 will be about $9,950,000,000 or 16 per cent less than in 1929.

Q.—Who composed the melody of the song popularly known as "Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here"?—J. B.

A.—The melody was taken from the marching song of "Pirates of Penzance," which was composed by Sir Arthur Sullivan of the famous English light opera team of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Q.—Who was called the Faultless Painter?—F. S.

A.—Andrea del Sarto was so called. He lived from 1488 to 1530.

Q.—What is done with the money paid for hunting and fishing licenses?—W. W. F.

A.—In practically every state, it is turned over to the state game commission and the department of conservation.

Q.—Please tell something about the school that Owen D. Young gave to Van Hornesville, N. Y.—R. M.

A.—Mr. Young's object in building the new school in his home town was to give the boys and girls advantages not formerly to be had and to teach them to live successfully and happily. The building is of Georgian colonial style. None but native labor was employed in the construction. On a bronze tablet in the entrance hall are the names of all the men who had a part in the building, names of the members of the school board, and others. Some of the furnishing is copied from antiques in Mr. Young's home. As the school is to be a center of community life, the assembly hall is equipped with a moving picture screen and pictures are shown twice weekly. All conveniences are afforded including two swimming pools. A teachers' house, beautifully equipped and of the same style of architecture, adjoins the school building.

Q.—What shape is the spinal cord?—W. C.

A.—It is nearly cylindrical in form and runs through the hollow vertebral column. Nerve cells are found on the inside of the cord and nerve fibers are found on the outside.

Q.—What is pasteurization?—M. G.

A.—Pasteurization simply defined, is the heating of raw milk to a temperature of 142 to 145 degrees F., holding at that temperature for 30 minutes, following which period it is rapidly cooled to 38 to 40 degrees.

Q.—How can black be removed from golf balls?—F. C.

A.—Immerse balls in a solution of two tablespoonfuls of lye to a pint of cold water which will loosen the outside paint. Remove, scrape off paint, and repaint with golf ball paint. Be sure solution is cold.

Q.—What is the purpose of the international conference on bituminous coal?—M. R.

A.—The third conference will be held in November, 1931. Its purpose is to improve the condition of the coal industry. The economics of new methods and processes will be studied, as well as the condition of the industry as a whole.

Training Tots With Toys

Christmas time is the season for children's toys. A shopper in a toy department often sees so many things that he doesn't know what is best to buy for a child.

The best toys are those which promise hours of delighted play. The finest rule for buying toys is to remember that children play best with toys which give them something to put together.

The least satisfactory toys are those which are mechanical and which go by themselves while the child sits quietly by and watches. It is not the best plan to buy toys which come apart easily and are quickly broken.

In choosing toys one should see that they are strong and well made, or will give the child something to build, make or do, or will develop the child's muscles.

Every child is born with a strong curiosity which impels it to try to find out how the "wheels go around." Thus, a child may take a toy apart solely from curiosity and this is a perfectly normal, natural motive and one which need not alarm the mother. The way to take advantage of this trait is to give the child toys with which he can build houses, garages and other things. Then when he tires of them he can tear them apart and make something new.

Mothers usually learn after a few years that the elaborate and expensive toys are thrown aside. Son does not enjoy an electric train if it is such an expensive set that only father may be trusted to adjust the switches on it. The toys which children love the most are often made from odds and ends. If left alone a child will choose those things which can be used to make something and will cherish old strong, empty packages, cans, rocks, tinfoil, spools, rusty padlocks, nails, old boxes and boards which may be used to play "house," and bits of clothes to dress up in. Therefore, in buying for him choose objects like these which can be used for building, and manipulating.

Good toys to buy are: Crayons and paints with paper, scissors, sandpiles, swings, modeling clay, hammers, saws, balls, ropes, trains, dolls and toy furniture.

The best toys for young children are those which wash. Paint on them should be washable and not easily sucked off. Toys should not have small parts which the child may pull off and swallow. Metal toys with sharp edges are not wise for small children. Some of the modern toys made of wooden beads and colored brightly are good. Toddlers like something to cuddle, such as a washable doll or a soft animal. Block and rubber balls and kiddie kars are always good.

Older children are fortunate if they get toys which take them outdoors and develop their strength, such as tricycles, skates, bikes, scooters, wagons and the pedal automobiles. Rings which may be hung up, and acting bars are also splendid for encouraging activity.

Children's toys teach them to coordinate the muscles and train fingers and the power of observation. A child who has had plenty of the right kind of play will always seem more alert and will handle his fingers and his tools far better than one who has not had this training.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Bad Habits

Question—Mrs. E. H. G. writes: "I am very nervous, have indigestion, low vitality and am extremely underweight for my height and age. What can I do to overcome this unhappy condition? I do office work."

Answer—Your condition is caused mainly by your habits of life, such as a sedentary occupation and insufficient physical culture exercises. Try a fruit fast for from 12 to 14 days, following with a starchless diet, using vegetables rich in mineral elements, also use regular exercises every day. I will be glad to send you my cleansing diet course if you will write again, enclosing a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

Arterial Tension

Question—L. V. asks: "What is arterial tension, and how do we know when we have it?"

Answer—The amount of aterial tension which you have is determined by an examination with a blood pressure meter which every doctor uses in his office. Such arterial tension may come from hardening of the arteries or from nervousness which causes the arteries to become contracted most of the time.

Popcorn

Question—Mrs. W. M. asks: "What do you think of popcorn as a food, and with what other foods should it be eaten?"

Answer—Popcorn is a form of starch which is easily digested when it is cooked in the usual way, that is, by heating the popcorn until it pops open, splitting the kernel and exploding the starch cells. It should be used as the principal starch part of a meal, and may be seasoned with butter and salt. Use it with the non-starches, but not with protein.

KEEN-MINDED TYLER LIONS RAISE EAST TEXAS GRID STOCK

PINEY WOODS BOYS CLEVER

Sandies Look 'Dumb' Beside Easterners

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 21.—For the first time in nine years, an East Texas eleven today held undisputed reign over state high school football circles.

The Tyler Lions, by defeating the vaunted Amarillo Golden Sandstorm, 25 to 13, yesterday before 16,000 spectators at Fort Worth, became the first unit to march out of the Piney Woods to the schoolboy crown since 1921. In that year the Bryan Eagles trimmed Oak Cliff of Dallas in the final battle. Since then the title has gone to the three other corners of the state—Waco, Abilene, Oak Cliff.

New Recognition

Victory of the Lions yesterday brought new recognition to the region that encompasses from Greenville in the north to Brownsville on the far southern tip of the state. Representing a section that had come to be regarded lightly in football circles, the blue-jerseyed Lions from Tyler, a city of some 15,000 population, proved that grid talent is no longer confined to any one, or two sections.

In marching to the 1930 championship, the Lions of Coach George Foltz won 11 of 12 games played, the only blemish on their escutcheon a 14-14 tie with Mexia, a class B team. That was before the doughty little machine struck its true stride, however, and is not to be taken too seriously. By the manner in which they struck down Amarillo, supposedly one of the most powerful teams in the state this year, the Lions left no doubt of their right to the title.

A press box full of critics sat dumbfounded, and worse, as the trim, compact Tyler club outplayed, outfought and out-thought the favored Sandies. Principally it was the latter. While Amarillo appeared to have fully as great manpower, it played a fairly low caliber of mental football compared to its alert adversary. The critics in picking the Sandstorm to triumph, could not have anticipated the tactics to be employed by the lads from the Panhandle. Neither could they foresee the fool-proof game to be called by the little Harry Johnson, sterling quarterback of the new champions. In other words, it was a mental edge that enabled the Lions to overcome a 13-6 Amarillo lead at the half and make the Sandies look woefully incompetent through the third and fourth periods.

Amarillo Scores

Although they scored first, in the opening minutes of play, the Tylerites saw their lead melt in the second period, when the Amarillo backs, Fowler and Bufkin, ripped their line to bits to score two touchdowns. But Tyler had learned something of great value in that first half, namely, that Amarillo couldn't bat down passes worth shucks, and at the start of the third period it was just too bad.

Within two minutes they paraded by the aerial route to a touchdown, and five minutes later they passed their way 96 yards to another, Johnson passed unerringly to Gregory and Morris for repeated gains, and the Amarillo secondary couldn't seem to do anything about it. Instead of dropping their center into the defense, the Sandies stuck to their four-man secondary, and that decided the issue. Tyler sent five men down to receive, and one of them always was open.

Going into the final quarter trailing, 19 to 13, Amarillo chose the very tactics that hastened its defeat and made Tyler's victory more decisive. Bufkin, big captain and fullback of the Sandstorm, appeared able to make repeated gains through and around the Lions, but his number wasn't called enough. Instead of using their running attack, their most powerful weapon, consistently, the Sandies chose to pass, a feature at which they were not so good. Tyler simply intercepted Fowler's tosses and then kicked the Sandstorm back into its own territory. That was where Johnson's educated toe came in. Finally, just to leave no doubt of the outcome, Glass intercepted one of Fowler's wayward pegs and ran it for Tyler's fourth touchdown.

Hard Tacklers

Perhaps the outstanding feature of the final struggle was the fine tackling and blocking of the entire Tyler eleven. It was pretty to watch. The Lion forwards actually outplayed the big Amarillo line, and the East Texas boys tackled with a beautiful precision. They muffed no tackles. When an Amarillo ball carrier was hit, he went down. The Lions' blocking and interference running was equally as effective. They displayed a fine insight into the fundamentals of football, credit for which must go partially to Rufus King, line coach.

The championship tussle was one of the cleanest ever played in the state. There was not a single penalty for off-side, for roughing or for any of the innumerable infractions a player may commit in the heat of conflict. The only penalty stepped off by Referee Ben Lee Boynton was five yards assessed the Lions for excessive time out.

BIG CELEBRATION

TYLER, Texas, Dec. 21. (AP)—Plans were made here today for an All-East Texas celebration Wednesday night honoring the Tyler High school Lions, who won the state high school football championship at Fort Worth Saturday with a victory over the Amarillo high school Golden Sandstorm.

Civic clubs announced plans for two banquets honoring the Blue and White warriors. Several thousand fans built a huge bonfire last night and greeted the special train bringing the football heroes home.

East's Team Starts Training for Contest

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (UP)—Final practice sessions for the players who will engage in the East-South charity football game here Dec. 27 began today at Ebbets field.

Jack McBride, former Syracuse university backfield star, will drill the Eastern squad, while Stumpy Thomason, one-time Georgia Tech ace, will have charge of the Southerners.

Road Lies Open Before Him

On the Pacific coast they're calling Max Baer, above, a second Jack Denmsey; in New York they're calling him another Jack Sharkey. And maybe he does combine the fighting tactics of the old Man Mauler with the boastful prophecies of the Boston ex-sailor.

New, Light Golf Ball Wins First Professional Approval in Tourney

By BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 21.—The new golf ball, the only one after Jan. 1, has won its first skirmish with the men who earn their living playing it.

The revised larger and lighter ball was ruled standard equipment for the Pasadena open tournament and pellets bearing the mark of 1931 were permitted. Results were favorable to the new model.

However, the final verdict from the professional will not be returned until a tournament is played when the wind is blowing. The Pasadena tourney was played in calm weather. The scoring showed no change as a result of a change in balls. There were about the normal number of birdies, just a few eagles, and the run of the mine pars as in days of yore when the ball was smaller and heavier.

Opinion Divided

The usual division of opinion developed among the players. Some thought they could not putt as well as before and claims were made the new ball was "rumming the cup" too much. Golfers seldom agree on any part of the game. However, the concensus was in favor of the oversize ball.

"I don't see that the new ball is any harder to play than the old one," said Walter Hagen, the old master. "Anyway it's here and it doesn't make any difference what we think about it."

Tommy Armour, professional golf association champion, spoke up in defense of the latest edition.

"I like it," he said. "My shots through the fairway are better, especially the irons. Yes, it's a pleasure to play it."

Dutra Pleased

No one was surprised to hear that Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., pro, liked it. He had a round in 69.

"Yes, it's O. K. with me," he said.

Tony Manero, who has played lots of golf in many places, was not prepared to condemn the new ball, but he admitted a mental complex.

"I know it won't go as far as the old one and I have been trying to hit it harder than I should," was his reaction.

Horton Smith's diagnosis awaits confirmation by Professor Einstein.

"The new ball is harder to putt," said the tall pine transplanted from Missouri to New York.

"The weight is not centralized as it was in the old ones and this ball is more apt to rim the cup."

Fellow pros suggested this involved relativity and it was fortunate perhaps that Einstein was on his way to California.

Golf fans who can hit any golf ball, new or old, into a trap or the rough, said they saw little difference in the distance or direction of the ball leaving the player's club.

Clarendon Ex-Broncos Beat Shamrock Stars

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, Dec. 21.—The ex-Broncs of Clarendon high added their second victory to their belt here Friday when they defeated the Shamrock all-Stars 13 to 0. The Clarendon team reeled off repeated long gains as a result of the line smashing of Enoch Darnell, and the pass receiving of Davis, left end, and Schull, right half. The feature player of the Shamrock team was George Close, old-time Clarendon college star, whose fast off tackle and end runs were responsible for most of the yards the Shamrock team made.

Washington Cougers On Way to Meet Alabama

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 21. (AP)—Coach "Babe" Hollingbery's Washington State college Cougars, en route to Pasadena to meet the University of Alabama in an intersectional football match New Year's day, stopped here today to work out with the Western all-star team. Tonight the Cougars departed for Los Angeles.

The Western all-star team, made up of Pacific coast, Mid-Western and Texas college stars, is preparing for the Shrine benefit game next Saturday against a similar team of Eastern players.

TONY MANERO WINS TOURNEY

New York Pro Has Best Card at Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 21. (UP)—Little Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., Italian, won the third annual Pasadena open golf tournament today with a 72-hole total of 287 strokes.

In a tie for fifth place at the start of the final round this afternoon, Manero staged a whirlwind finish to end the match two strokes under Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Calif., who had a 289.

With the new bigger and lighter golf ball in medal competition for the first time, most of the original field of 188 seemed to be handicapped by the change from the old ball. Only seven times during the tournament was par for 18 holes broken.

Manero's final round of 69 was two under par 71 but his 72-hole total of 287 was three strokes over par and seven strokes more than Horton Smith's winning total a year ago in the same tournament over the identical course.

Herman Barron, Portchester, N. Y., who finished in a tie with Al Espinosa, Chicago, for third place, had a chance to tie Manero with a three on the final hole, but he drove his tee shot out of bounds and took a six for a 72-hole of 290.

Four players tied for fifth place. They were Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Texas; Tommy Armour, Detroit; Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Willie Hunter, Montebello Park, Calif., each with 291.

Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., last year's champion, and Walter Hagen, Detroit, playing his first hole in more than two months, tied for ninth place, each with 292.

Out of the six amateurs left in the field of 50 which started the final day, Johnny Dawson, Chicago, was the low man, finishing in 22nd place with a total of 299.

Prize money was divided as follows: Manero, $1,000; Mortie Dutra, $600; Herman Barron and Al Espinosa, $375 each; Ray Mangrum, Tommy Armour, Frank Walsh and Willie Hunter, $231.25 each; Horton Smith and Walter Hagen $112.50 each; Ralph Guldahl, Craig Wood, Olin Dutra, Joe Kirkwood, W. H. Cox, Harry Cooper, Chet Beer, Fred Morrison, George Von Elm and Ernest Martin, $50 each.

Ernest Martin Sr., 50-year-old Los Angeles professional who led the field at the end of 36 holes Saturday with 143 strokes, slipped badly today, taking a 76 on his morning round and a 78 on his afternoon round.

POLO DELAYED BY SNOWFALL

Abilene-Wichita Contest Postponed

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Snowfall wedged icy interference today into the plans of the Dallas Polo association for its inaugural tournament and a second bracket match between the teams of Abilene and Wichita Falls, scheduled for today, was postponed.

Members of the Abilene team, after traveling many miles over slippery highways and snow drifts in West Texas, arrived to find their game called off, possibly until Tuesday, when the field is expected to be in condition again for play.

Dudley Meyer, member of the Dallas Blues team, who was injured yesterday when he fell from his horse and the mount rolled over on him during a game with the team of El Ranchito club, was confined to his bed today with a slight concussion but was expected to be recovered sufficiently to play in the semi-finals Thursday.

Mill at Childress To Open Monday

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Dec. 21.—Announcement has been made the Childress Cotton Oil Mill company will open their mill at Childress on Monday, Dec. 22, for a run of from six to eight weeks. The mill has been purchasing and storing seed during the fall.

Childress business men have requested the mill owners to employ local laborers, as there are a number of unemployed in the city, some of whom have worked in the mill in other years.

Missouri Star Takes Southwest Team Post

DALLAS, Dec. 21. (AP)—Vacancies on the Southwest football squad which will be pitted against Bob Zuppke's Mid-West all stars in the third annual Dixie classic game here New Year's day were reduced today to three, when Robert A. Armstrong Jr., star tackle at the University of Missouri, telegraphed his acceptance to Joe Utay, president of the Dixie classic.

His signing leaves only one tackle and two backs to be obtained before the Southwest roster is complete. Utay said he expected to complete the squad before Tuesday.

Armstrong's home is in Dallas. He is a husky 200-pounder.

Tennis Star Tries His Hand at Basket Ball

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21. (AP)—Wilbur F. Coen Jr., the Kansas City youth who gained renown on the tennis courts as protege of Big Bill Tilden and member of the United States Davis cup squad, has turned to new courts to conquer.

As a substitute forward on the University of Kansas basket ball squad he made a brief appearance in the exhibition victory over the Missouri Tigers here last night.

Junior Coen was runner-up to Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, in the national clay courts tennis tournament here last summer. While making his basket ball debut last night he was announced as the No. 1 singles player of the Kansas City district tennis association.

Floyd County Farmers Prepare for New Crop

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Dec. 21.—Farmers of Floyd county have been busy for the past two weeks turning their land getting ready for another crop, and gathering the remainder of the cotton crop which is practically all out. The warm weather is especially beneficial to young wheat which is thriving. Bright prospects are in evidence for another year, as present conditions, due to heavy rainfall during the fall season together with the mild weather have enabled farmers to make an early start with their work and with very small expense.

STAPES WIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (UP)—Ken Strong's Stapleton "Stapes" defeated Benny Friendman's Giants, 16 to 7 today in a game to decide the professional football championship of New York City.

Wolgast and Genaro to Determine Who's Really Flyweight Champion

NEW YORK, Dec. 21. (UP)—That most burning of all public questions, "just who is the flyweight champion of the world and why?" is scheduled to be answered Friday night when Frankie Genaro meets Midget Wolgast in a 15-round bout in Madison Square Garden.

Both Frankie and Midget are champions. That is, the National Boxing association and Genaro's family insist that he is the titleholder, while the New York Boxing commission and the midget's nearest and dearest are equally insistent that the little Philadelphian is the king.

This argument has been going on for quite some time now. Chances are it would have gone on indefinitely had not the far-sighted garden realized that the only way to settle the matter was to throw the boys in there together and let one of them write the correct answer on the other's countenance.

Despite the average fight fan's loathing for any other spectacle save that of two heavyweights clubbing each other bloody, the fight is likely to be a sellout because a title is involved and because the little fellows have a definite following in this town.

Those boys and girls who make it a habit, not to mention a business, of betting on fights, favor Wolgast. This is probably due to the fact that Wolgast, unlike Genaro, has fought here several times this year, and the boys and girls know what he can do.

Wolgast is fast, burning fast, and is everlastingly on the go. He hits like lightning and for such a little fellow his blows carry tremendous pressure. In his bouts with Black Bill and Willie Lamorte, Wolgast was just about everything a flyweight should be. It was his victory over Black Bill in the final round of the garden's flyweight tournament that earned for Wolgast the support of the New York commission.

Speed being the principal attraction of such miniature fighters as Wolgast and Genaro, the garden sees to it that the fans notice the little fellows' quickness of foot. The garden does this by the simple expedient of filling the preliminary card with a group of heavies and light-heavies whose combined grace and speed equals that of a rheumatic water buffalo. Then when the light-steppers start their capers they appear three times as fast as they really are, which is plenty.

Death Prevents Reunion Of Aged Actresses

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21. (US)—Two actresses of bygone days, hoping to break the demands of their profession and be together on this Christmas day today were cheated by death.

Flo Irwin, about 70 years of age, suffered a sinking spell in her apartment today.

An hour later she died in the receiving hospital of heart trouble.

Her sister, May Irwin, of New York, also an actress of other days, is expected here Wednesday.

IRISH SCHEDULE

Notre Dame to Play In Nine Games During Next Season

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 21. (UP)—Nine games, four of them in the home stadium, will comprise Notre Dame's 1931 football schedule. All opponents who were included on the 10-game 1930 "suicide schedule," except Southern Methodist are to be met.

The schedule follows:

Oct. 3—Indiana at Bloomington.
Oct. 10—Northwestern at Soldier field, Chicago.
Oct. 17—Drake at South Bend.
Oct. 24—Pittsburgh at South Bend.
Oct. 31—Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.
Nov. 7—Pennsylvania at South Bend.
Nov. 14—Navy at Baltimore.
Nov. 21—Southern California at South Bend.
Nov. 28—Army at New York.

Speaker Sees Crisis Before U. S. and England

BRIGHTON, England, Dec. 21. (AP)—A statement that the United States and Great Britain are at one of the turning points in their histories formed the keynote of a message broadcast to America tonight by Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary.

"We have to choose between peace and war, between cooperation and conflict, between a developing and ennobling civilization and a collapse into the barbarism of the past," he said. "We have to make that choice now, we can not evade it or postpone it."

Legion Rites to Mark Burial of Woman Flier

BURBANK, Calif., Dec. 21. (US)—Full American Legion funeral rites will be conducted for Mrs. Claire Fahy, aviatrix and widow of Lieutenant Herbert Fahy, at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Interment will be in Valhalla cemetery.

Aviators post No. 350 of the American Legion, of which Mrs. Fahy was the only feminine member, will be in charge of the services. Scores of pilots and associates of Mrs. Fahy and her husband, who was killed in an airplane crash, will attend the final rites.

EXTRA POINT IN PERILOUS SPOT

Georgia Tech Coach Would Ban 'Free' Trial

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 21. (AP)—Abolition of the extra point after touchdown will be favored by Coach W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech, president of the American Football Coaches' association, when the coaches assemble for their annual meeting in New York Dec. 29.

The Dixie mentor, director of Georgia Tech's gridiron destinies since 1920, said he didn't plan to bring up the much talked of extra point, but expected it to be one of the chief questions as the coaches prepare their recommendations for the rules committee.

Regarding the extra point, Alexander said:

"It is not fair for a team to march down the field to a touchdown and fail to kick the extra point and then have the other team grab a fumble, score and kick the point to win."

"Talk to any coach who has lost games by such a margin and they are certainly sold on doing something about the matter," he added. "Suppose there was no extra point and the score stands tied at 6-all. You will see plenty of football. Both teams will open up with everything in their bag trying to score. And the public likes offensive football. You surely wouldn't have one team in a shell for the afternoon."

Coach Alexander said he expected some 300 coaches from throughout the country to attend the New York meeting. Chick Meehan of New York university, and Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, are in charge of the plans. Alexander said Knute Rockne would be unable to attend.

Jean Basketeers Cop Pair of Games

Special to The Record News.

JEAN, Dec. 21.—The Jean Bulldogs, independent basket ball team, won two games last week, defeating the E. D. K. fraternity team of Wichita Falls by the score of 38 to 21, on the latter's court Monday night. Wednesday night they defeated the Bryson independents by the score of 28 to 19 to win their first start in the City league at Graham. The Bulldogs are in class A this year. Their next league game is Monday night against the Loving Steers.

While the independents were winning two games the high school Pirates were breaking even in four games. Monday night they defeated the South Bend five 24 to 22 on the latter's court. Tuesday night they lost to Bitter Creek 17 to 15. However the first half ended 12 to 2 in favor of Bitter Creek with the Pirate second string in all during that half. Wednesday night the Pirates defeated the Archer City high school quintet 30 to 6 on Archer's court. Friday night they lost to Bryson high 22 to 19 in what was described by both teams as being their hardest game this season.

amusements, and Sundays he spent at home. The one concession he asked was that she would not expect him to see her on Sunday. When the time was ripe he wished to introduce her to his family. Until then he felt it would be wiser not to antagonize them further.

"So long as we're not together on Sundays they won't feel that it's very serious," Dale explained. He added, "you trust me, don't you, Celeste?"

She replied, loyally, "of course! I'll stay home and catch up on the things I neglect during the week. It's the only time I'll have."

She had cautioned him about showing his devotion in the office. Without mentioning Mr. Smith, she said she felt it was better for the girls not to know they were seeing each other.

"It's R. R. C. you don't want to know," he accused.

Nevertheless, he promised to be more discreet. It put an extra "kick" in their relationship to speak formally in the presence of others when they had planned to be together that night. It was great fun to say "good-morning, Mr. Hamilton" to the lover whom only a few short hours earlier she had kissed.

The days flew by, winged with delight, and swiftly, almost before they realized it, Christmas eve had arrived. There was an atmosphere of excitement and suspense in the office, which was to close at 1 o'clock. Celeste refused Mr. Smith's offer to take her home on the plea that she had some last-minute shopping. She intended to buy stockings for Blondie. Her gift for Dale—a knitted silk tie—had been purchased weeks ago. Wrapped in holly-decorated paper, it reposed on her closet shelf.

Just as she was ready to leave Mr. Clayton rang for her. She told the other girls not to wait and ran back.

"Are you in a hurry?" he asked, noticing her hat and coat.

Celeste restrained her impatience and answered sweetly, "not if you wish me to take a letter for you."

She was all curiosity as he took a small tissue-wrapped parcel from his desk.

"Here is the miniature of my mother I promised to show you."

She had not forgotten the resemblance he had mentioned, but as she looked upon the merry, innocent face, the deep-blue eyes and shy half smile of delicately painted features she could see little likeness.

"It's lovely," she said, appreciatively.

"It looks like you," he insisted.

The lonely little boy look she had discovered the day they lunched together was in his eyes he continued:

"I've a bracelet of hers I think you'd like since you look so much like her. Will you accept it as a Christmas gift?"

Montague Club Elects Officers

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 21.—The Dewey Wide Awake club, 10 miles northeast of Sunset, has elected new officers for the coming year. They are Miss Beulah Reynolds, president; Mrs. Bess Orrell, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Orrell, secretary; Miss Myrtle McMillion, representative.

Since the organization of this club, about three years ago, its members have done a great deal of good work in Dewey community. Valuable lessons have been learned which will be as profitable and satisfactory in coming years as they are now. Homes have been improved, and the best canning and cooking methods have been adopted.

The Dewey club won first prize on canned products exhibited at a club meeting, held at Bowie in October. Two thousand nine hundred and fifty-nine quarts were exhibited and were valued at $1,096.05. Other prizes have been awarded to members of this club for such work as living room improvements.

Most of the members of this club live in the Denton creek valley, one of the best garden and truck farm sections of Montague county.

Electra Mayor Makes Plea Against Fire Hazard

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Dec. 21.—E. E. (Pop) Wheeler, mayor of Electra, issued a proclamation this week asking the co-operation of the citizens in making this a "fireless Christmas." He asks them to be careful with all inflammable material and not to use lighted candles on trees or in the windows. There is a city ordinance prohibiting the sale or discharge of fireworks within the city limits and this ordinance will be strictly enforced, according to Mr. Wheeler.

ST. JO, Texas, Dec. 21.—Funeral services for Senter Camp, president of the Citizens National bank and head of the chamber of commerce here, shot to death in a hunting accident Friday, were held from the St. Jo Methodist church at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. Earl Patton, pastor of the Henrietta Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Dean Breedlove of the local church, conducted the ceremonies. Members of the Masonic order were in charge of the rites at the graveside in the Oak Hill cemetery near Stoneberg.

Mr. Camp, hunting alone on his farm near Stoneberg, was shot through the chest and was dead when his body was discovered after sundown by the renter on the place. An inquest verdict said death had resulted from the accidental discharge of the hunter's gun.

The banker, a native of Montague county, had been a civic, financial and agricultural leader for many years. He had served two terms as the head of the Citizen's National bank, associated with the institution at intervals for 18 years. He was a leader in movements for the betterment of farm conditions and last week was appointed representative from Montague county of the bankers association for farm relief.

He is survived by his widow, three daughters, two brothers, and three sisters.

Childress to Get New Seed Mill

Special to The Record News.

CHILDRESS, Texas, Dec. 21.—Childress will have the second cottonseed oil mill in time for the pressing of next year's seed crop, according to an announcement made by a prominent cattleman of the city. The mill is to be what is known to the trade as the cold press mill, having a capacity of eight to 10 tons of seed per day.

Plans being worked out at this time calls for the mill to be erected upon property adjoining a local gin so there would be no expense in handling the seed.

The cattlemen backing the mill proposition are doing so to assure themselves of plenty of feed at a lower price than has prevailed during the past two or three seasons, according to statements made. It is said that meal and cake from the cold press mill makes a better feed than from the old kind of mills.

The business element of the city are gratified at the announcement, as it means more employment during the fall and winter months, thus increasing the pay rolls of the city.

Ad Club Chritsmas Party at Noon Tuesday

Noticeable for the unusually bright colors in which it is issued, the Christmas week bulletin of the Ad club announces a Santa Claus party for the weekly meeting on Tuesday noon, Dec. 23, at the Kemp hotel.

Arranged by Mrs. R. E. Davis and T. A. Bradley, the program will feature a Christmas tree gift party, each member having been requested to bring a gift for at least one other clubman—the maximum price being stipulated as 50 cents.

Playful exchange of pranks between Albert E. Kelly and Lester Jones also is intimated in the bulletin as part of the program.

Record News and Times Workers Enjoy Annual Christmas Party

Tribute Paid to J. A. Kemp by Publishing Company; Santa Distributes Gifts to Happy Crowd

There was "standing room only" when the Times Publishing company celebrated the season Sunday afternoon with the annual Christmas party. The floor beneath the great lighted tree in the entrance hall was banked with packages done up in gay wrappings, while enormous boxes of gifts and apples and oranges were distributed to members of the entire Times and Record News family and their guests.

Hope Hatcher was master of ceremonies in a short program of entertainment beginning with a reading by Roy Ashley of The Times staff. Miss Dolores Myley, popular KGKO entertainer, received more than one encore when she sang popular songs accompanying herself on the guitar and Miss Millie Farris of Mineral Wells was a singer who joined Miss Myley in a group of melodious songs that brought hearty applause. J. O. Jones, a member of the staff who made himself famous with harmonica numbers on the Christmas program of 1929, set feet dancing again when he repeated old favorites with Miss Myley accompanying him.

Tribute to Kemp

Voyle N. Armstrong introduced in turn the members of the board of directors and short talks were heard from Ed Howard, Rhea Howard, B. D. Donnell, Wiley Robertson, R. E. Huff, G. D. Anderson and J. H. Allison. Judge Huff paid a particular tribute to his friend, Ed Howard. Mr. Allison, in a brief address, paid a beautiful tribute to the late J. A. Kemp and read the following resolutions endorsed at the last meeting of the board in honor of Mr. Kemp.

"Whereas: Since our last sitting together as a board of directors of The Times Publishing company death has for the first time in its corporate existence entered the official family of this company and removed therefrom J. A. Kemp who has been a director since its organization,

And Whereas, J. A. Kemp took pride in his association with this company, its officers and employes and was proud of the integrity, the growth and service to this community and section of The Times and Record News, always advocating and supporting liberal and forward policies in these newspapers and liberality toward those engaged in producing them and was always interested in duty and service before profits,

Therefore Be It Resolved by the directors of The Times Publishing company that in the death of J. A. Kemp they have lost an invaluable counselor and a beloved friend whose ideals and whose courage and enterprise will ever be an inspiration to them in the conduct of the affas of this company. Be it further resolved that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting and that a copy be delivered to Mrs. Kemp.

Signed:
ED HOWARD,
R. E. HUFF,
B. D. DONNELL,
Committee.

Christmas Talk

Mr. Allison followed the reading of the resolutions with a sincere and beautiful devotional talk on the Christmas season, saying in conclusion, "The vital thought of Christmas is something more than the historical Christ, something more than the theologic Christ; it is the personal Christ born in the hearts of men. This brings rest amid unrest, joy amid sorrow, hope amid despair. Oh how, needed at this Christmas of 1930.

"Christmas is more than Christmas greetings; more than the exchange of happy gifts, more than the reunion of the near and dear under the roof of the old home, more than the Christmas carols, more than the Christmas prayers. Christmas means the birth of Christ in our souls, the birth of the Christ of love, the Christ of truth, of the Christ of gentleness, the Christ of forgiveness, of the Christ of beauty. The Christmas lesson is God's supreme gift—the gift of Himself to man.

"Oh Holy Child of Bethlehem!
Descend to us we pray;
Cast out our sin and enter in
Be born in us today."

With the entry of Santa Claus, came a spirit of hilarity. The old gentleman entered into the part in a fashion hard to be excelled and gifts were distributed to each one present.

CREDIT BOARD AIDS FARMERS

Hall County Handles 110 Applications

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, Dec. 21.—The new credit association known as the Agricultural Credit corporation of Hall county, the first of its kind in the state of Texas, which opened its doors for business the first day of December, with J. Henderson Smith as manager, has had 110 applications approved by the discount committee, which is composed of S. S. Montgomery, W. B. Quigley, F. N. Foxhall, W. C. Dickey, all of Memphis, John Sharp of Turkey and J. W. Noel of Hedley. This committee is subject to call at any time since the opening of the new business have been in session almost daily.

After the application has been approved by the discount committee the papers are passed on to the Intermediate Credit bank at Houston, and the applications are either approved or rejected by that body.

This new credit association is expected to be of great benefit to substantial farmers and cattlemen who have a good credit rating, in assisting them to either make another crop or in raising and marketing their stock.

Schools at Olustee Celebrate Christmas

Special to The Record News.

OLUSTEE, Okla., Dec. 21.—Olustee schools closed Friday afternoon for the Christmas holidays and will reopen Dec. 29. All of the rooms in the grade school was lavishly decorated and programs were given before the children received their treats from the teachers.

A large number of patrons were present for the Christmas programs and in several instances received treats with their children.

J. H. Murray, superintendent, said attendance and interest had been unusually good and that parents were giving more thought to the report cards sent out by the teachers.

ored that with each recurring movement knowing, pleased smiles of recognition flash upon the faces of those who listen. Its quartet of moods was enumerated with an intense clarity, and brought into play for the resounding finale the most vibrant, stirring voices of the big Reuter organ.

Differing noticeably from the other instrumental numbers presented, the Clokey symphony for organ and piano was beautifully interpreted by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, organist, and Mrs. W. L. Olmsted, pianist. Delightful synchrony of parts in the opening movement, "Dialog," and in the "Intermezzo," the piano's clear enunciation of scattered melodies against the tonal background furnished by the organ, made the number one of the program's best features.

Vocal Numbers

Mrs. Flora Greenwood's suite of violin numbers included "Kal Nidre" by Bruch, and "Lullaby," by Reger. They were in marked contrast, the first marked by frequent heavy passages of deep feeling, the latter quaintly delicate in its treatment of a wistful little melody. Mrs. Greenwood was accompanied by Miss Annette Walsh.

Vocal numbers were given by W. E. Young, baritone, who chose two excellent solos which are seldom heard, and by a 12-voice mixed ensemble directed by A. H. Mahaffey, with Mrs. Mahaffey accompanying. Mr. Young was accompanied by Mrs. Collard on Gounod's "Nazareth," and "A Dream of Paradise," by Gray. The ensemble sang a chorale and chorus from the cantata "Praise and Thanksgiving" by W. J. Marsh of Fort Worth. Precison of attack, well balanced blending of well chosen voices, and effective shading of tone combined to produce an enjoyable version of the two movements used. Sopranos were Miss Bonnie Combs, Mrs. Ray M. Wilhite, and Mrs. Kenneth Bebb; altos, Mesdames C. H. Evans, W. M. Priddy, J. E. Strattan; tenors, Willard L. Underwood, Jack McWilliams of Burkburnett, Baldwin Montgomery; basses, Louis Bond, Ted Williams and R. M. Tittle.

From the Musicians club program, many repaired directly to the First Southern Presbyterian church, where a white-surpliced choir of 20 voices under the direction of Willard L. Underwood featured a beautiful vesper service with the complete presentation of E. L. Ashford's cantata, "The Manger Prince." Effective decorations which converted the choir loft into a background of Christmas cheerfulness, the opening processional with the choir singing "Oh Come All Ye Faithful," and the supporting Scriptures read by Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor, enhanced the setting for the cantata.

Vesper Service

Aside from solo passages capably handled by Mrs. Victor B. Lowrey, soprano; Miss Margaret Fleming, mezzo-soprano; A. H. Mahaffey, tenor; Mrs. H. W. G. Fletcher and Mrs. J. E. Strattan, contraltos, and Ted Williams, baritone, the choir revealed an excellent feeling for the text of its songs, and an unusual capacity for incisive delivery of tone as well as words. There was in the choral movements a verse and convincing certainty which imparted much of the effectiveness felt in the performance of the Ashford cantata. The "Awake, Oh Zion" with which the first part closed and the chorus, "I Will Magnify Thee, Oh Lord," the finale, comprised the most stirring portions of the choir's work. Miss Eleanor Fleming was accompanist for both choir and soloists.

At 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, a large number of special programs were given in local churches. At the First Baptist, an elaborate program of anthems and solo numbers opened with the William Tell overture, and closed with the "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's "Messiah," both played by Mrs. F. R. Collard, organist. The program was arranged and directed by W. E. Young, who also sang Hoffmeister's "The Birth of Christ."

At the Floral Heights Methodist church, under the direction of Mrs. George W. Thorburn, a cantata "Adoration," by George B. Nevin, was presented by a choir of 25 voices. Soloists included Miss Dorothy Greathouse and Mrs. Jasper Ferguson, sopranos; Mrs. Fred Sehmann, contralto; A. M. Fosdick, tenor, and Ted Williams, bass. Preceding the cantata, children of the primary and junior departments of the Sunday school were presented in pantomime as worshipping at the manger-cradle of Christ at Bethlehem.

Children Take Part

Members of the Highland Heights Christian church and scores of visitors also heard a complete cantata presented Sunday night, when a chorus of 30 voices under the direction of R. D. Ford sang "Bullard's "The Holy Infant." At the Grace Methodist church, carol singing was combined with a brief pageant, "Miriam's Vision." Pageantry and special music also were combined in the evening service at the Lamar Avenue Baptist church.

Directed by Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, a program unique in its use of primary and junior groups with the adult choir voices was given in the presentation of Fred B. Holton's "Chimes of the Holy Night." The choir loft was elaborately decorated for the event, and the enactment of the Christ story in song was varied in the use of the several groups of singers. Soloists in the cantata were Miss Bonnie Combs, soprano; Mrs. J. W. McCutchen, soprano; Mrs. W. M. Priddy, mezzo-soprano; Misses Myra and Fay Humphries, Jack McWilliams, tenor; Baldwin Montgomery, tenor; Louis Bond, bass; and R. M. Tittle, bass.

Services on Christmas eve, next Wednesday night, will include outdoor carols singing by the young people of the First Southern Presbyterian church, who inaugurated the practice four years ago; a carol service and midnight communion at the Church of the Good Shepherd, beginning at 11 p. m.; and a midnight mass, with choir and soloists singing the Concone mass, at the Sacred Heart church at 12 o'clock midnight.

These Movie Queens Are Really Kings!

Charming chorus girls, these—only they aren't exactly what they appear to be. The pictures, you see, were made at a revel of the Masquers' club in Hollywood, and shows some movie actors masquerading for the evening as chorus ladies. Above, Frederic Howard is putting the finishing touches on "her" makeup; below, Glenn Tryon lends Bobby Vernon a helping hand with a tight costume. The Masquers' club in Hollywood corresponds to the famous Lambs' club for actors in New York.

Stamford Pastor Puts Protest And Appeal on Air Sunday

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Dec. 21.—Rev. Sam Morris, pastor of the First Baptist church of Stamford, continued his "protest" with an hour over WBAP at Fort Worth from 3 to 4 p. m. on Sunday. He preached in Stamford at the morning service, left the Stamford airport at 12:30 to fly to Fort Worth, delivered his message there and returned to Stamford by plane for the evening service.

His message Sunday was a Christmas service, followed by a discussion of Christmas education as it is fostered in Simmons university at Abilene. This, Rev. Mr. Morris explains, is one of a series of "fair, frank and friendly discussions of Baptist denominational situations as he knows them today" and also an effort to raise $500,000 for Simmons university by Jan. 1, next.

If the amount is raised, Simmons debts will be paid in full, an hour for Simmons broadcasting over the National or Columbia chain will be paid for so that all America may know of the great orthodox Baptist university located at Abilene, and debts of the campaign paid. If the sum raised does not reach the mark Rev. Mr. Morris, through the Citizens National bank at Abilene where donations are being received daily, will return all money to the donors, unless they stipulate otherwise.

Mr. Morris talked over a statewide hookup last Sunday from 8 to 9:30 a. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m. and will be talking over various stations of the state before Jan. 1.

FLOYD SCHOOLS RECEIVE AID

State Allots County $11,000 for Year

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, Dec. 21.—Announcement was made this week by Price Scott, county school superintendent, that 26 rural schools of Floyd county would receive $11,000 state aid. J. C. Griffin, inspector for the state educational department, made the inspection of Floyd county schools this week. Mr. Griffin, complimented the schools very highly on their buildings, equipment and teachers homes and said he found very few defects in the rural school system of the county and as a whole the school system ranked very high and was conducted in a most up to date manner.

Eastern Montague Turns Attention To Truck Farming

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 21.—Interest in the truck farming industry is growing among the leading farmers of the eastern section of Montague county. Meetings are being held in some of the communities of that section, in which plans are being discussed, relative to organizing a producers cooperative marketing association. This association will cooperate with those already organized in the county.

Farmers in two communities on the east side have already agreed to plant 160 acres to truck farm products. A great deal of the farm land in that section is adapted to the production of tomatoes, cantaloups and watermelons. These will be produced for car lot shipments.

A few years ago the eastern part of this county was a good cotton producing section, but like many other sections, the cotton growing substance is getting away from the land and the farmers are being forced to turn their attention to the cultivation of other products in order to make a living.
