Hoover Denies He Neglected To Cooperate

President Strikes Back At Democratic Charge That He Failed To Help Economy Committee In Program

Charges Answered

Formal Statement Issued By White House To Say That "Congressman Byrns Seems To Be Under Misimpression"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 9.—President Hoover struck back at and denied today a Democratic charge from Capitol hill he had neglected to cooperate with a special house economy committee in efforts to reduce federal expenditures.

The White House gave out a formal statement. Answering an assertion by Chairman Byrns of the economy committee that the president had offered his aid only through the press, the statement said "Congressman Byrns seems to be under some misimpression."

Results Are Wanted

It was said on the chief executive's behalf he had instructed every arm of his administration to cooperate with the committee and that some cabinet member already had placed plans before it, while still other suggestions were en route.

"What the country wants and needs," the statement said, "is real results."

Yesterday, the president informed newspaper men that "further drastic economies" were necessary. He added, however, the limit of reductions by administrative action had been reached and that it remained for congress to authorize either reorganization of the federal government or a reduction of activities now required by law.

Statement Issued

Promptly, Byrns issued a statement to the press in reply. He expressed "considerable surprise" Mr. Hoover had not submitted to the committee "information he was supposed to have when he forwarded his special message on reorganization to congress." He charged there had been no direct communication offering aid to his committee.

The White House statement of today was released after the chief executive had been closeted with one of his secretaries more than an hour. It said President Hoover was "glad" Speaker Garner had appointed the special economy committee to undertake a reorganization of government departments, even though he (the president) had suggested the task be left to him.

Warmer Weather Predicted Today

South Plains residents, who have been kept in heavy wraps by three wintry March days, Wednesday night saw hope of warmer weather in a forecast for cloudy weather and slowly rising temperatures for Thursday.

The mercury slipped to near the seasonal low early Wednesday morning. The experiment station reported a minimum reading of 13 degrees; the South Plains Pipe Line company said the silvery column hung at 12, reported to equal the season's minimum, at 6 and 7 a. m. Maximum was 35 degrees yesterday; at 9 p. m. the reading was 28.

Frosts Tuesday night caused severe losses to agriculturists of northern and eastern Texas, where fruits and vegetable crops were hit hard. The coldest weather of the winter was brought to northeast Texas, and the lowest temperature —12 degrees—was reported in the Panhandle, which suffered losses to grain crops. Stockmen feared they also had been affected.

Party Loyalty Stressed By State Democrats; To Hold Meet At Houston

State Presidential Convention Will Be On May 24; Scant Mention Of "Bolters"

BY J. R. WEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

FORT WORTH, March 9. (AP) — Insistence on party loyalty was quietly but firmly pronounced today by the Democratic state executive committee, at a meeting here which voted unanimously to hold the state presidential convention May 24 at Houston.

The committee voted without dissent to require all persons participating in precinct conventions to pledge their support of the party nominees for president and vice-president. The resolution was offered by Charles I. Francis of Wichita Falls and aroused little discussion.

Scant mention was made of the fact that a large faction of "ultra-drys" bolted the party ticket in Texas in 1928 and voted for Herbert Hoover for president.

It was regarded by many as a concession to these "bolters" whom the committee wishes to welcome back into the party that it changed the basis of representation on the county and state conventions. It voted to allow each precinct one vote in the county convention for each 2 votes cast in the governor's run-off primary two years ago and each county convention one vote in the state convention for each 500 votes cast in the same race.

Hitherto, representation in the state convention was apportioned on the basis of one vote for every 300 cast in the previous presidential election.

The resolution was submitted by Sam C. Lackey of Cuero.

The committee voted 20 to 6 to certify candidates for congressman-at-large, according to place, for the three additional seats allowed Texas under the 1930 census apportionment, rather than permit them to engage in a free-for-all race.

Fourteen Are Killed, Four Hurt In Blast

Workmen Meet Fiery Death In Explosion Inside Purifying Box; Two Other Victims Are Expected To Die

(By The Associated Press)

CAMDEN, N. J., March 9. — Fourteen workmen met a fiery death today in an explosion inside a purifying box at the plant of the Public Service Electric and Gas company and four others were injured, two so seriously they may die.

The explosion occurred less than half an hour after 19 men entered the 20-foot square tank like box to give a periodic cleaning. The force of the detonation shook the business district of the city a mile away.

Six Regular Workers

All the victims were residents of Camden and only six of them were regular employes of the company. The others were taken on for the cleaning process and many of them were earning their first wages in weeks.

The purifying box is used to remove sulphur from the gas before it leaves the plant. The box was erected about 15 feet from the ground on steel girders. Within, it is divided into upper and lower compartments with a partition running longitudinally.

Firemen and employes prevented flames from spreading to large gas containers located close to the purifying box.

Three of the rescue workers collapsed after inhaling fumes which filled the box and had to be removed to the hospital.

As soon as the fire was extinguished, firemen wearing gas masks were lowered into the structure on ropes and began removing the bodies which were taken to a hospital in rough wooden coffins.

The victims were found piled everywhere in the box, firemen said, and most of their clothing had been burned off.

Death Sentences Of Two Are Affirmed; New Trial For Trio

AUSTIN, March 9. —(AP)—Death sentences involving five persons, all negroes, were passed on by the court of criminal appeals today, it reversing and remanding the verdict as to three and affirming assessment of the extreme penalty against two.

Affirmances were given James Williams, convicted in Hunt county for the slaying of Joe West, 77 years old, and Ernest Johnson, sentenced in Caldwell county for killing Frank Kempf, clubbed to death in Medina county.

Thomas Henry Armstrong, Cal English (alias Willie Ray) and Norman Miller (alias Sonnie Miller) tried jointly for a freight train robbery of Rufus Hunter and Charles Hunter, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., youths out looking for employment, were given a new trial, the death penalty inflicted against each having been set aside.

Eamon De Valera Elected As Head Of Irish Free State

DUBLIN, March 9. (AP)— Eamon De Valera, New York-born son of a Spanish father and an Irish mother, was elected president of the Irish free state today by a vote in the dail eireann of 81 to 68.

With his deeply furrowed face wreathed in smiles at his triumph after years of fighting with his back against the wall, the new chief executive this evening took actual charge of the dail and presented the names of his ministers.

One Bandit Is Slain And Two Are Wounded

Another Expected To Die As Oklahoma Vigilantes Open Fire To Prevent Robbery Of Mill Creek Bank

(By The Associated Press)

MILL CREEK, Okla., March 9. While two robbers escaped with $7,000 at Sklatook, in northern Oklahoma today, the "town guard" of this sleepy southern Oklahoma village "turned the tables" on a trio of bandits. One was killed, one probably fatally wounded and the third less seriously wounded and captured later.

Two men entered the First National bank of Mill Creek while the third waited in an automobile. After forcing three employes to fill a handbag with money, the robberr ordered the three to accompany them outside.

Fired At Vault

But the employes dashed into the vault. Enraged, one of the robbers fired at the vault door.

As the robbers fled from the building they met a withering gunfire from the vigilantes. The man in the car escaped in a hail of bullets as his companions dropped to the sidewalk beside the money satchel, containing approximately $800.

The dead man was identified as Fred Hamner, fomer Wewoka deputy sheriff who had appealed from a five year sentence for automobile larceny. Luther C. Smalley of Seminole, who was shot down with Hamner as they emerged from the bank, was believed fatally wounded.

Adam Ritchie was captured in a pasture near town a few hours after the robbery. Suffering from bullet wounds, he offered no resistance.

Motorist With Body Of Slain Man Kills Negro And Escapes

Two Japanese Arrested For Severe Beating Given To American Missionary Teacher Last Friday

BY MORRIS J. HARRIS

SHANGHAI, March 10. (Thursday) (AP)—The Japanese authorities worked for peace with one hand today and prepared for war with the other.

A new Japanese proposal to end the hostilities in the Shanghai area was transmitted to the Chinese authorities. Meanwhile reinforcements and great quantities of supplies were moved westward toward the Japanese front lines.

Eager For Truce

The new proposal, submitted through Sir Miles Lampson, British minister to China, asserted that Japan was eager to negotiate a truce because of the "critical condition existing at the front and the imminent possibility that hostilities will break out afresh."

The Japanese consulate announced that consular police were arresting two Japanese civilians who gave Miss Rose Marlowe, American missionary teacher, a severe beating last Friday.

Consular officials said the two men were to be tried for the offense, which was the subject of a protest by United States Consul Edwin S. Cunningham.

In Tokyo police announced they had discovered the existence of a small group of fanatical patriots, banded together to assassinate eminent Japanese leaders. The police blamed this group for the recent assassinations of Baron Takuma Dan and Junnosuke Inouye, former finance minister.

Lubbock County 40 Years Old Today; Fifteen Original Voters Are Still Here

Old-Timers Tell Of First Election In County In 1891

BY CHARLES W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

LUBBOCK county is forty years old today!

On March 10, 1891, Lubbock county held its first election and was entered on the records of the state of Texas as a duly organized county.

Of that little group of sixty-four men who came "to town" on that blustry day two score years ago for "the big election" fifteen still reside in Lubbock and Lubbock county. They are: F. E. Wheelock, W. N. Green, J. C. Burns, W. D. Crump, G. M. Boles, C. W. Mallard, J. D. Caldwell, Geo. C. Wolffarth, Isham Tubbs, R. C. Burns, Frank Bowles, Joe Boyd, W. S. Clark, A. J. Clark and G. O. Groves.

Election Necessary

That age-old charge of "taxation without representation" had been flung over these borders of the Yellowhouse canyon and separation of the area now known as Lubbock county from Crosby county was sought. An election had to be held in order that the county could be duly organized.

A group of citizens called on Judge E. B. Covington of Crosby county who declared that because of the scramble for the location of a county seat a petition with 150 names signed to it must be presented.

Before that time there had been two factions existing here, one known as Singer's men and the other as Rayner's meh. G. W. Singer, one of the earlier settlers operated a small country store and post-office two and one-half miles northwest of the present site of Lubbock which was known as "Singer's store." J. E. Rayner, a newcomer, had tried to start a town near Singer's store and friction arose from his efforts. No one could decide just where the county seat should be located. A new location for Lubbock was made at a site near the old Andy Wilson farm northeast of town by another group of men. Business houses were built and preparations went along for the development of a town.

But the judge's order that they must decide on a county seat and secure the petition with 150 names apparently straightened matters out

Negro Is Shot Down After He Kills Two Men

Prisoner Runs Amuck In New Orleans Police Station; Third Officer And Negro Trusty Wounded In Fight

(By The Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, March 9.—Running amuck with pistols and a pump gun in the twelfth precinct police station here today, Percy Thompson, 28, negro, held off 100 officers for an hour, shot and killed two policemen, wounded a third officer and a negro trusty and two hours later was slain while riding in a police automobile.

The dead men were Patrolmen Cornelius Ford and Corporal George Weidert. The wounded are Patrolman Albert Oestricher, with a bullet wound in the abdomen, and William King, the negro trusty.

Rushed By Officers

Thompson was shot in the chest as he was rushed in his unlocked cell by a group of officers led by Harry Gregson, chief of detectives and was disarmed and captured.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment of his first wound. There Thompson said he rebelled over a beating given him by officers with a rubber hose in the police station. He said he snatched Ford's pistol and shot him.

On being taken from the hospital to the first precinct station, Thompson was said by officers Vick Swanson and James Smith, accompanying him, to have snatched at Swanson's holster in an attempt to get his revolver. Swanson shot the negro near the heart and Thompson died a few minutes later.

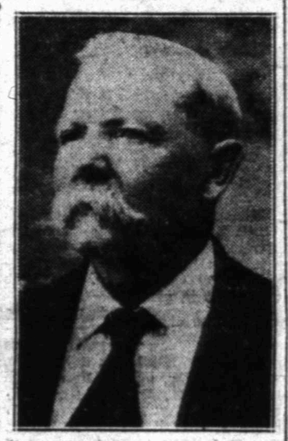

Thompson was armed with two pistols and a pump gun taken from the men he had killed and wounded.

Former Knox City Postmaster Makes Embezzlement Bond

John E. Clark, 58, for nearly 20 years postmaster at Knox City, made $750 bond here Wednesday, after he had been arraigned on a charge of embezzlement before U. S. Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey.

Deputy U. S. Marshall J. P. Edgar arrested Clark at the latter's farm home 15 miles west of Brownfield late Tuesday. The complaint alleges a shortage of about $330.

Clark, who was relieved late last year, told Commissioner Lindsey he immediately had made good shortage allegedly brought out by a postal inspector last October. The bond is returnable in the Wichita Falls division March 28.

Owen W. Sherrill, Federal Loan Manager, Speaks At Meeting Of 200 Business Men, Farmers, Bankers

BY J. SAM LEWIS

Pounding the table with his clenched fist to emphasize his points and hammering home his statements in a rapid flow of words that seemed like the rat-a-tat-tat of a machine gun, Owen W. Sherrill, who is Uncle Sam's big boss in Texas and the southwest in the production loan program, told two hundred South Plains farmers, bankers, business men and county officials that "the money is there, you can take it or leave it—but you've got to cut cotton acreage." He spoke at the Hilton hotel yesterday from 10:30 to 1 o'clock.

He talked straight from the shoulder mincing no words in declaring the time has come to get away from the old one-crop idea.

Breaking suddenly into his talk, he threw the meeting wide open for questions. As fast as a man rose to ask a question he was answered and the speaker was ready for the next.

Action Promised

Sherrill promised the committee members present that if they got their loan applications into the Dal-

Four Men Are Convicted Of Prohibition Law Violations

Four men charged with prohibition law violations were convicted by 72nd district court juries Wednesday and assessed a total of five years in the penitentiary. One sentence of one year was suspended.

A. L. Robinson, who pleaded not guilty of a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of sale, was given a two-year term. A jury gave E. H. Hope, who pleaded guilty of a possession charge, the suspended sentence.

A jury convicted J. C. Barnard of liquor law violation and set his punishment at one year in the penitentiary. Ray Odom pleaded guilty of liquor possession and manufacture, and was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Case of Richard Wallace, indicted for robbery with firearms, is set for trial before Judge Homer L. Pharr Thursday morning, said District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley.

No Specific Information Is Given Parents About Where To Find Kidnapers; Silence Shrouds Hunt For Child

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 9.—Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has taken every possible step to negotiate directly and confidentially with the kidnapers of his son, it was learned tonight in an apparently reliable quarter the abductors have informed him they did not feel it yet safe to deal with him further.

The two notes he received Sunday are reported to have contained the information that when the child-stealers considered the time "proper and safe," they would let the famous flier know how he would communicate with them.

Neither these two notes nor the ransom demand left pinned to the window sill of the nursery a week ago last night contained specific information about where and how the parents could reach the kidnapers to bargain with them.

Anne Shows Strain

Meanwhile, there were indications the long wait and the uncertainty were beginning to tell on Mrs. Lindbergh.

"You must realize the strain is terrific, and has been throughout the investigation," said Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, in answer to a question about Mrs. Lindbergh's health at tonight's press conference.

A sudden visit of two physicians to the Lindbergh's hilltop home following issuance of this statement was explained by Colonel Schwarzkopf by the assertion they "came to see me to discuss a theory. They saw no member of the Lindbergh family."

While interest centered in police reports they were continuing to make progress with their investigation and in the silence that surrounded Col. Lindbergh's own efforts, a belief in the safety and ultimate return of the famous baby was expressed by Gov. A. Harry Moore.

State police gave no indication in what direction they were making the progress they reported, but in the hills to the northeast of the Lindbergh home a group of state troopers was searching abandoned huts and making an intensive hunt for clues.

Posse Hunts Two Who Robbed Bank

LEXINGTON, Mar. 9. —(AP)—A posse was searching southern Lee county late this afternoon for two men who robbed the Lexington State bank here and escaped with cash and negotiate securities aggregating about $2,500.

The bandits, before leaving the bank, locked C. A. Raschke, cashier, and Otho Warren, bookkeeper, in the vault. They freed themselves almost instantly and gave the alarm.

A roadster believed occupied by the robbers was seen on highway No. 44, south of Lexington, headed toward Giddings, officers were told.

Advocates Of New York Chief Executive Pick Up 24 More Delegates In Minnesota But Meet Seating Contest

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — Heartened by a sweeping victory over Alfred E. Smith forces in the New Hampshire primary, advocates of Governor Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination picked up 24 more delegates for him in Minnesota today but encountered a contest against seating them at the national convention.

The 24 were selected at the regular state convention, but a dissatisfied Smith element broke away and selected a delegation of its own favorable to the 1928 standard bearers.

The contest will have to be settled at the Chicago convention June 27. Roosevelt's backers here expressed confidence his slate would be seated.

With these 24, Governor Roosevelt is leading the field of six or more Democratic candidate possibilities with 48 pledged and claimed delegate votes. New Hampshire gave him eight yesterday and Washington state 16 several weeks ago.

Governor Murray of Oklahoma is next in the running with 22 delegates from his own state.

Boundary Line Fuss In Court

Texas Supreme Court To Try To Untangle Differences Among Nine Plains Counties Including Lubbock

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 9. — The Texas supreme court has undertaken a task of unscrambling differences that have developed among nine counties in the plains section over county boundary lines.

The trouble started when Garza county entered suit against Lynn county to determnie the true lines along the northwest corner of Garza county and the northeast corner of Lynn county. Cross actions and answers to the suit brought into the dispute additional counties as follows: Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Terry, Yoakum, Cochran and Kent.

The court of last resort took hold of the litigation today when it granted writs of errors in cases involving the litigation which were styled Lynn county vs. Garza county, Lubbock county vs. Crosby county, and Yoakum county vs. Garza county. The cases were appealed from Taylor county.

The higher court took submission of the case of the state vs. C. W. Bradford and about 700 other defendants, involving constitutionality of the stream bed validating law enacted by the legislature over the veto of Dan Moody, governor at the time. The bill was sponsored by Senator Clinton C. Small.

Easter Motif Is Featured In Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Parties

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

HAVEN'T you heard about the good old days when men were men with hair on their chests and women were clinging vines? And haven't you heard men sigh for these same ancient times when men pursued the manly pursuits while women did the work around the place and taught the 13 children their three R's? Here is a little story to try on one of these yearners the next time he mentions the molly-coddles of today, disparages the card-playing women and gives his muscles a reminiscent flex:

* * *

Away back—so far back, in fact, that the archeologists rather than historians are responsible for the tale—the women were little more than so much help around the house and had orders not to disturb the men in their masculine pursuits, mainly card playing. Of course the women didn't have time, what with skinning the beasts that the men had brought home from the hunt, cutting the hides up into stylish trousers for the lords and masters and hanging new draperies over the doors to the caves, but there was another reason why they were barred from the game. They were too insignificant to be let in on anything so important.

This thing rocked along for centuries, the archeologists have discovered, the men drifted away from their masterly ways, took up the problem of making a living for their families and turned their card playing over to the women. Then it was that the queen's picture was placed on a card.

Face cards a thousand years ago represented the court and in those days the jester, or joker, was of a lot more importance than any mere queen. So he appeared on the cards along with other such masculine figures as were considered popular around the palace.

But as the world aged, the men took up this soft life they lead today, women demanded rights and got them, quit their feminine ways and took up card playing. So, just to indicate where she stood in the world's affairs, the queen was added to the pack. More than half of the bridge players today are women, according to estimates.

When the women came along, they started a few reforms in the cards, too, the archeologists further state. During those centuries when men were sitting around the stones dealing from under the slack, the various denominations were represented with trees, vines, acorns, flowers and such. Instead of counting the spots, one counted the leaves or the bees that were imbibing the honey. That was what made the work hard. Women, being a bit lazier, introduced numbers so that the counting was dispensed with.

* * *

So, actually, the good old days when men were he-men with hairs on their chests and women ate with the slaves, are past. What with reforms and one thing and another, the men may sigh for those ancient times when they hung around arena box seats, bet on the latest chariot race and followed the other manly quests undisturbed by the knowledge that their wives would dare have a doubt of their prowess in the finesse or flick a doubious eyebrow over some tale of strength and bravery.

KEEPING UP

ONE of the late fashion notices says that Princess Astasia, morganatic wife of former King Alexander of Greece, has adopted the vogue of wool frocks for daytime wear. Irving Named US Steel Head

Man Who Once Was Railroad Telegrapher Steps Into One Of Most Prominent Jobs In The World April 19

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — A man who was once a railroad telegrapher steps into one of the most prominent jobs in the world—the presidency of the United States Steel corporation.

His name is William A. Irvin. April 19 he will take over the office held since 1911 by James A. Farrell, 69, who is retiring, as he himself said early this year "in favor of a younger man."

Generally Unknown

The new president, 58 years old last December 7, is unknown to most American newspaper readers, but he has been in the iron and steel business 36 years, many of which were spent as operating vice-president of American Sheet and Tin Plate company, a U. S. Steel subsidiary. September 1, last, he was brought to New York from Pittsburgh to fill a vice-presidency of the parent corporation.

Mr. Irvin is a native Pennsylvanian and has spent much of his life in that state of steel mills. He was born December 7, 1873, at Indian, Pa., the son of a contractor. The public schools of that town supplemented by night courses at Indiana state normal school, gave him his education. Leaving school, he worked as a telegraph operator for the Pennsylvania railroad and later as a clerk and assistant freight and ticket agent.

His introduction to the steel business came in 1898 when he entered the employ of the P. H. Lauffmann Co., Ltd., at Apollo, Pa., manufacturer of sheets and tin plate, as a shipping clerkship. He subsequently advanced through the various departments of the plant until he landed in the superintendency.

Farmers' Program To Be On Friday

The local Swift & Company organization will be hosts to farmers and their families in this district at an all-day Swift program Friday, March 18, here, R. F. Humphrey, local manager, said Wednesday.

The meeting will be held at the Palace theater, where moving pictures produced by the U. S. department of agriculture will be shown and talks will be made by men familiar with up-to-date methods of producing and handlin gpoultry and dairy products. A tour of inspection of the local produce plant is scheduled during the afternoon.

Better Quality Keynote

Better quality produce and wider diversification of farm products will be the keynotes of the meeting, according to Mr. Humphrey, who pointed out that the program would be of special interest to farmers and their families, vocational and agricultural students, and 4-H club members.

Speakers on the program include Sterling C. Evans and E. N. Holmgreen, from A. and M. college, F. M. Simpson and G. V. Jeck of the Swift & company organization and D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agent. Free souvenirs will be given to guests at the meeting and a number of cash prizes are to be awarded.

The program follows:

9:30 a. m.—Meeting called to order in the Palace theater by R. F. Humphrey, manager, Swift & company, Lubbock.

9:40 a. m.—"A Tale of Two Bulls." A film produced by the United States department of agriculture.

10:00 a. m.—"The Cost of Ill Health," by G. V. Jeck, Swift & company.

10:40 a. m.—"How the Butter, Eggs, and Poultry of Texas Are Marketed," by F. M. Simpson, commercial research department, Swift & company.

11:30 a. m.—Luncheon served to guests with the compliments of Swift & company.

12:15 p. m.—"Blood Will Tell." A film produced by the United States department of agriculture.

12:30—"Helpful Hints from a County Agent," by D. F. Eaton.

1:00 p. m.—"Relief from Low Prices," by Professor S. C. Evans, A. and M. college of Texas.

1:30 p. m.—"Producing Quality Chicks." A film produced by the United States department of agriculture.

2:00 p. m.—According to desires of those in attendance, any one of the following forms of entertainment will be followed:

1. Show another film of the United States department of agriculture.
2. Egg-grading demonstration.
3. Discussion open to visitors.

2:30 p. m.—Tour of inspection of Lubbock produce plant of Swift & company.

'Chuter "Shot" In Transit

Believed to be the first picture of one parachutist ever made by another as both hurtled toward the earth, the top panel above shows Hazel Wootton, 15-year-old schoolgirl of Reading, Eng., just after she had dropped from the plane and before she opened her parachute. Lower panel shows the young jumper being assisted against the pull of the 'chute after she had safely reached mother earth. This was Miss Hazel Wootton's first jump and it seems to have put adventure into her blood, for now she wants to be a film star.

Kinship With Fame Has Drawbacks

Niece Of John Garner, Speaker Of House, Lives In City; Finds Trouble In Answering Inquisitive Questions

BY MARGARET TURNER
Of The Avalanche Staff

Kinship with a celebrated person certainly has its drawbacks declares Miss Blanche Garner, 2202 16th street, who is a niece of John N. Garner, speaker of the house of representatives and mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination. There are too many inquisitive questions which one is asked on every hand regarding the speaker's personal life and political aspirations, she says.

These questions are not easily answered by Miss Garner, because she knows very little more about this man who is second in all Washington only to Pres. Hoover, than the press has published. She has seen him very little in the many years he has been representing the 15th Texas district in congress—indeed he was first elected several years before Miss Garner was born.

James Garner, Blanche Garner's father, died when she was five months old, leaving his widow and a young son, James, jr. Mrs. Garner and James live in Bethany, Okla., at present, where he is head of the history department of a junior college.

Receives Clippings

"It is from my mother and my brother that I get what little firsthand information I have concerning Uncle John," Miss Garner said. "Brother is afraid I am not keeping up with my uncle as I should and sometimes he sends me dozens of clippings."

After numerous quizzings on the speaker's stand on prohibition, Miss Garner in desperation wrote to her brother and asked him to state definitely how their uncle stood on the matter.

"How do I know whether he is a 'wet' or a 'dry' " — was the query back. "He's neither I think—but he might be moist."

A remarkable resemblance in the speaker and his niece is noted at once and she laughs and confesses, "I'm a Garner all right and I have been told that I look like Uncle John but I'm sure my nose isn't hooked." Her long hair just avoids being sandy-colored, she has the speaker's deep set blue eyes, heavy brows and definite chin.

Born in Blossom, only a few miles from Detroit in Red River county, where John Garner's mother, brothers and sisters live, Miss Garner has returned during the summer months to visit throughout her life, the last few years have been spent in the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass., where she was graduated in piano in June of 1930. She teaches private lessons.

Invited To Capital

From time to time, the niece has received invitations from her uncle to visit the Garners in Washington but on occasions when she was in that city the house would be in recess and in the summers when she visits her grandmother in Detroit her uncle is in Washington.

Miss Garner is convinced in her own mind that much of her uncle's success might be traced to the unfailing support given him by his wife through the years. "Aunt Etty thought of Uncle John as a presidential possibility long before any of his party members," is their niece's theory.

The next time that John Garner visits in Texas Miss Garner is going to try and see him, she says. At this time perhaps she will ask him to answer some of these questions which are thrust at her whenever one learns she is the speaker's niece.

OFFICE TO CLOSE

LEVELLAND, March 9. (Special) —The Levelland branch office of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, has been closed and records will be sent to the district office at Lubbock. Approximately 6,000 bales of cotton were handled during the 1931 season, J. I. Stinson, manager, said.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at Mark Halsey Drug, City Drug, or any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.—(Adv.)

She THINKS it's "RHEUMATISM" ... but it's really SELF POISONING

Do those twinges of pain in your muscles and joints mean that you have rheumatism? Not necessarily.

Thousands of people who think they have rheumatism are really suffering from self-poisoning. Poisons from putrid waste in the intestines have been absorbed into the blood. The polluted blood in turn carries the poisons all over the body. They not only torture the joints and muscles, but soon attack the kidneys and other vital organs. In time they even irritate the brain.

So if you have pain in the muscles and joints don't be in a hurry to call it "rheumatism." First make a little test to learn the truth.

AN AMAZING TEST

For the next three nights take a dose of B-L Tonic. If your case is like those of thousands of other so-called rheumatism sufferers you will be amazed at the improvement in three days. The pain will rapidly disappear. Your system will eliminate a startling amount of foul-smelling poisons. You will begin to feel healthier, happier. But that is only a promise of the reward to follow. Continue taking B-L Tonic every night for three weeks. You will thus keep the poisons from regaining a foothold in your blood. Meanwhile the stimulating properties of B-L Tonic will sharpen your appetite, improve your digestion, and thus help build up a more robust resistance to disease. Nine chances out of ten that's all you need to get rid of your "rheumatism." Get B-L Tonic at Mark Halsey Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

Staff Captain Harry Purdum and Adjutant Geussner, of Dallas, representing the divisional offices of the Salvation Army, arrived last night for a day's inspection of the Lubbock corps, Captain W. T. Wilson, commandant, said.

"The two officers from headquarters will meet with the board in the afternoon," he said. "They will also hold a gospel meeting in the hall at 7:30. We invite the public to the hall to hear them."

From Lubbock the party will go to Plainview for an inspection of the corps there.

More Than Five Hundred Are Enrolled In Schools At Post

POST, March 9. —(Special)—The Post school system now has 510 pupils enrolled, Ira Witt, superintendent, has reported. About 600 students have been enrolled this year.

There are 124 in the high school and 28 in the seventh grade, housed in the senior high school building, Mr. Witt said. At the grade school there are 358 pupils.

Nineteen teachers comprise the faculty, nine in the high school including Mr. Witt who teaches two subjects, and ten in the grade building. Besides these there are two others, a kindergarten teacher and a music teacher, whose salary is met by tuition fees.

"Every high school teacher holds a degree," O. C. Thomas, principal, said. "There are very few schools of this size that have a faculty with that record."

Cold in Head, Chest or Throat?

RUB Musterole well into your chest and throat—almost instantly you feel easier. Repeat the Musterole-rub once an hour for five hours ... what a glorious relief!

Those good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor—are mixed with other valuable ingredients in Musterole to make it what doctors call a "counter-irritant" because it gets action and is not just a salve.

It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars, tubes. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Pleasing Husbands With Coffee
a Problem in 3 Homes in 5

Why You Must Do More Than Change "Brands" If You Want to Get Better Coffee

For a Real Change

(FOLGER PHOTO)

How many times have you changed your brand of coffee trying to find one your husband really liked?

Not one woman in 50, domestic science experts tell us, knows the real reason why coffee that men like is so hard to get. Yet the reason is simple.

All your life you've probably been using just one kind of coffee. For according to U. S. Import Statistics almost 70% of all coffee sold is this one kind. You may try 20 different brands and styles of package. But it's still the same coffee inside.

So for a real change, you must do more than change "brands." You need a different KIND OF COFFEE!

A Different Country

Down along the West Coast of Central America, we procure coffees utterly different in flavor and richness. These mountain coffees, experts concede, have a rare tang and mellow body, not duplicated anywhere else in the world.

If you want something different in coffee, try them! Less than one pound in 20 of the world's coffee comes from this famous district. It's a flavor that few people in a lifetime ever have a chance to enjoy. See for yourself how unusual it is.

A 3-Day Test

Order a pound of Folger's from your grocer today. It comes in a special key-opening vacuum tin that brings it right to your coffee pot as fresh as it left the roaster. Drink it tomorrow morning. Next morning serve the coffee you have been using.

Transplanting baby coffee trees in the Antigua district where Folger secures coffees famed the world over for extra richness and flavor.

©F. C. C., 1932

The third morning serve Folger's again. Then choose between them.

If for any reason you decide against Folger's, your grocer will refund your money. We'll pay him—gladly. But if you do as 8 out of 10 do, you'll never be satisfied to return to less flavorful coffees. Try it. You'll be glad you did. 130

Att: Mr. Norman, Adv. Mgr.,

Gentlemen:

It will no doubt be of interest to you to know the results obtained thru your papers in our recent advertising campaign introducing "FLAKE O' WHEAT" Breakfast Cereal.

Within ten days after starting this campaign we had placed this product in 51 stores in Lubbock, some calling our office even before we called on them. The out of town results was, however, more surprising. In one town practically all of the better stores had received calls for "FLAKE O' WHEAT" within two days after running our introductory ad.

We are indeed gratified at the response obtained from your paper in the matter of—Results, Expense and Time required to acquaint the public with our product.

Yours very truly,

Indians Need A Shortstop And "Peck" Is Raising One

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

ABOUT THOSE YANKS

Manager Joe McCarthy says: "We will hit better than .300 this year as a team and that ought to make a big difference in the club that finished second in the American League last season.

"We don't have to go beyond the pinch hitting department to figure ourselves twice as strong as we were in 1931. Think of the pinch hitters—Dusty Cooke, Joe Sewell, Saltzgaver, Lary, Lazzeri, Crosetti, Hill. Some of those fellows will be regulars, but about three of them will bolster our pinch hitting department."

Charley Ruffing says: "We can win. We will pick up right where we left off last season, and we were the best club in the league the last six weeks of 1931. Pipgras and I will be in shape from the start this year. We'll miss Johnson in the early games, but I figure he'll be pitching by July 4."

CASTILIAN COMMENTS

"I'd rather face Cochrane or Foxx or Simmons any time," declares the tall, dark Spanish Vernon Gomez, "than Bing Miller. He always makes trouble for me. But do you know who gives me more misery than anybody in the league? Oscar Melillo.

"I faced Melillo 14 times in 1931 and got him out once. He made 11 hits off me and I walked him twice. The only time I got him out I made a hero out of Combs. Earl made a sensational catch of a line drive that was headed for a triple. That Melillo guy was poison to me."

But in spite of Bing Miller and Melillo, the tall Castilian was the niftiest southpaw in the league, aside from the great Grove. You know what he did in those earned run averages—2.63, which was second to Grove's 2.05. He won 21 and lost only 9.

Still, Gomez doesn't think he's so hot. "I wish I had Pennock's stuff," he says. "I'd be pretty good if I could throw 'em like he does."

Several years ago the citizens of Atlanta wanted to set up a $50,000 home for Bobby Jones, but the golfing idol rejected the offer. Jones and Venzke are the only amateurs I can think of who could, and did, say no.

TWO A DAY

Word has arrived from Los Angeles that the New York Giants are carrying their lunches to work with them, much the same as the common working man did in the days when he had a job. It's all John McGraw's fault.

The Giants' manager ordered two drills per day when he arrived on the scene, several days late. One was to be a morning workout, the other an afternoon, but the distance from hotel to training camp presented a problem.

The players couldn't bathe, get rubdowns, dress and return to the hotel, several miles distant, in time to eat lunch and get an early afternoon workout. Consequently, they now have their lunches made up at the hotel in the morning and take them along.

Between workouts at the training park, they bathe and get attention from the trainers and rubbers, then lie around scantily clad and eat sandwiches. Before dressing for the afternoon drill, they frequently have time for two or three rubbers of bridge.

Fritz Crisler declares the only system he will employ in Princeton football is the "block and tackle" system. All he needs then, is a bunch of truck drivers to go with it.

Lanky Texans Open Scoring But Drop Lead

Lone Star Cagers Within Two Points Of Winners In Last Half; Under-Basket Shots Win 37 To 26

(By The Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, March 9.—Southern Kansas Stage Lines, Wichita, Kas., advanced to the quarter final round of the national A. A. U. basketball tournament here tonight by defeating the tall West Texas Teachers, Canyon, 37 to 26.

The victors will play Young Men's Institute, San Francisco, in the quarter-finals tomorrow night.

The Texans ran up eight points before the Kansans scored but the former could not stop the under-basket shots of Matson, Crawley and Blue, and were behind 11-16 at the intermission.

The Texans trailed only 23-25 early in the second half and threatened to overtake the stage line team several times until Blue, stage lines forward, sank three field goals in rapid succession.

Blue scored six field goals and Crawley, center, five for the Wichita team.

The score:

Southern Kansas Stage Lines, Wichita 37	FG	FT	PF
Matson, f	1	0	1
Blue, f	6	1	2
Myers, f	2	0	0
Crawley, c	5	1	1
Hennigh, g	3	1	0
Olmstead, g	0	0	1
Morris, g	0	0	0
Totals	17	3	5

West Texas Teachers, Canyon, Tex., 26.	FG	FT	PF
Comer, f	2	0	0
Richards, f, c	0	0	0
Colvin, f	1	2	0
Fortenberry, c	3	0	3
Clark, g	2	1	1
Burk, g	3	1	2
Totals	11	4	6

Officials: A. A. Schabinger and H. W. Hargiss.

Other second-round scores:

Olympic Club, San Francisco, 26; Rockhurst college, Kansas City, 14.

Schuessler Athletic club, Chicago, 17; Diamond Oilers, Tulsa, Okla., 16.

Young Men Institute, San Francisco, 27; Hupps, Oklahoma City, 26.

St. Mary's college of Moraga, Cal., has postponed until 1933 the inauguration of track and field as a major sport.

More than 50 Santa Clara university, Cal., students turned out for spring football practice on the first day.

Flag Fishing?

Maybe he's fightin' for a shortstop. Says he needs one for his Cleveland Indians, but Roger Peckinpaugh, above, likely will turn out a good team with his veterans anyway. He is shown here at a fishing hole near the Tribe's camp at New Orleans, a day or two before work began in earnest.

Armour, Dudley Win 4-Ball Go

Billy Burke And John Golden Go Down 3 And 2 In Final Match Of $5,000 Florida International Tournament

MIAMI, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Tommy Armour, British open champion, and Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., dug their way through the rain and mud of the Miami Country club course today to win 3 and 2 their 36-hole final match with Billy Burke, National open champion, and Johnny Golden, Noroton, Conn., in the $5,000 international four ball tournament.

The championship gave Armour and Dudley $750 each and their vanquished opponents earned $250 each as runners up.

It was Tommy's second major title in the winter golf season here. He won the Miami open tournament January 3.

Casey Jones, Texas fighter, scored a one-punch, 11-second knockout over Joe Thomas in a bout in Fort Worth.

Otherwise The Tribe Will Be Some Stronger

Manager Peckinpaugh Believes Veterans Will Keep Indians Near Top; Four New Hurlers Added To Same Roster

By RALPH WHEATLEY

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—"My kingdom for a shortstop" wails Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland Indians and one of the greatest shortstops in his day the game ever has known.

For four years, Peck says he has been looking for a shortstop but can't find one.

"What, a shortstop like you can't develop one?" he was asked.

"Boy, you don't make shortstops. They have to be born. You don't hear of Walter Johnson bringing out any second Walter Johnsons, do you?"

Looks To Son

So Peckinpaugh has decided to raise one. He expects his sixteen-year-old son, now burning up the sandlots at short, to take over the tricky post for the Indians some day.

Manager Peckinpaugh expressed satisfaction with the rest of his team and believes they have good prospects of climbing to important places in baseballdom this season.

Under present plans, the Indians of 1932 will be the same Indians in name as those of 1931 with perhaps about four young pitchers added to the roster. In name only, however, because this young fighting team should develop this year into a stronger aggregation with the added experience and team work.

Eddie Gets Lessons

Peckinpaugh believes Eddie Montague will be a better shortstop this season than last and might develop suddenly just as Joe Cronin did. Joe and Eddie were boyhood playmates out in Frisco and during the winter Joe has been telling Eddie all he knows about being a shortstop.

Right now four minor league pitchers are attracting attention at the camp and on the Indian mound might be found Monte Pearson and Howard Craghead, from the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League; Oral C. Hildebrand, from the Indianapolis club of the American Association, and Belve Bean of the New Orleans club of the Southern Association.

The Indian chiefs would like to bolster their infield if finished material could be found but they admitted today they had not seen any so far.

Twenty Schools Expected To Enter Brady Track Tourney

BRADY, Mar. 9. (AP)—An invitation track tournament will be held at Brady on March 19 in which schools within 100 miles of Brady have been invited to compete.

Approximately 20 schools are expected to enter this meet. San Saba, Ballinger, Coleman, Santa Anna, Paint Rock, Eden, Rochelle, Lohn, Melvin, Richland Springs, Brownwood, Mason, Junction, London, Fredericksburg, Goldthwaite, Lampasas, Bangs, Sonora, Menard and perhaps several other schools may be represented in the meet.

Last year about 200 athletes participated in an invitation meet here, and it is predicted that at least 300 track and field men will be on hand when the tournament opens this year.

Dizzy Dean Bowled Over Again As Cincinnati Trims Cardinals, 7 To 0

BRADENTON, Fla., March 9. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals presented only a powder puff attack again today and the Cincinnati Reds handed the world champions their third defeat of the grapefruit league, 7 to 0.

Dizzy Dean, who started for the Cards was the losing pitcher, the Reds pounding him for five hits and as many runs in three innings.

SAN ANTONIO INDIANS INDULGE IN FIRST DRILL

SAN ANTONIO, March 9. —(AP)—Twenty members of the San Antonio Indians including Manager Claude Robertson, had their first workout of the spring training season in League Park this afternoon under a clear sky and the final gusts of a dying norther.

Announcement was made today that Catcher Jack Heath has been released outright.

WALLY BERGER SLAMS ONE FOR 4 BASES IN PRACTICE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 9 (AP)—Wally Berger, Boston Braves' slugging outfielder, slammed out his first homer of the season today when the Tribesmen defied wet grounds and extremely cold weather to go through a seven-inning practice game, which ended in a 2-2 tie.

FREEZING WEATHER BLOCKS RED SOX TRAINING AGAIN

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 9. (AP)—Freezing weather blocked the Boston Red Sox's training today for the second time this week. It was so cold that Manager "Shano" Collins ordered his Athletes to stay away from the golf links. Not a tap of baseball was attempted.

PHILS' BACKSTOPPER ARRIVES IN CAMP; NO WORKOUT

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 9. (AP)—Dick Bartell, star backstop of the Philadelphia Nationals, and Barnet Friberg, veteran utility man, arrived in camp today to break the monotony of a cheerless day that threw the training schedule for a loss.

The Phils now are at full strength with 33 players in camp.

TEX JEANES OF MEMPHIS SOLD TO FT. WORTH CATS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 9. (AP)—Outright sale of Ernest L. (Tex) Jeanes, centerfielder for Memphis last year, to Fort Worth of the Texas League was announced today by President R. Watkins, of the Memphis club.

Jeanes has played in the Southern League for several years and formerly was in the Birmingham roster. He is a native of Maypearl, Texas, near Fort Worth.

Terms of the sale were not revealed.

"Hold Her This Way, Son!"

"Say, paw! How was it you used to throw that swift one of yours?" asks Jimmy Crandall, left. And old Otis Crandall, right, veteran coach of the Pittsburgh Pirates, steps up to inform his son, who is a Pirate rookie pitcher, how it was done. It wasn't so many years ago, as some of you figure it, that "Doc" Crandall, pitching star of the Giants, was saving games for the McGrawmen and bragging about his husky infant son. Now the son is grown, and probably "Doc" is still bragging about him.

Shorts Are "Out" Say Net Helens

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9. (AP)—Shorts for women on the tennis courts is a style of dress that will have to worry along without the approval of America's two greatest players, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Helen Jacobs.

At her home here, Mrs. Moody rounded up her disapproval of "shorts" by describing them as "ugly."

Miss Jacobs, attending the University of California, at Berkeley, took time from classes long enough to observe that "tennis would be more like a burlesque than a competitive sport if women took to wearing shorts."

League Director Studies Charges

AUSTIN, March 9. (AP)—The state executive committee of the Texas Interscholastic league today deferred action on the recommendation of the Abilene district committee that Cisco high school be barred from participating in interscholastic league football for one year.

Roy B. Henderson, athletic director for the league, said there was a conflict in the testimony presented and that the executive committee desired time in which to make its own investigation.

Alabama will have 10 football players next fall that weigh more than 200 pounds. Five others scale over 195.

Walter Morris Returns Again To Texas Loop

Former President Of West Texas League Is Business Manager Of Shreveport Club; Former Player, Manager

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SHREVEPORT, La., March 9. —A well-deserving pillar of the Texas League has returned. Walter Morris spent 23 years in the Texas circuit. After almost four years on the outside wishing he was on the inside, he has returned, happy that baseball is again his business.

It was in 1902 that Morris started his Texas League career as a shortstop at Corsicana. In 1903 he switched to San Antonio, in 1904 h.. wore the uniform of Beaumont. In 1905 he returned to San Antonio. In 1906 and 1907 he played with Savannah in the South Atlantic League. He started the 1906 season with the same club, was purchased by the St. Louis Cardinals and finished the season under the big top. He went back in the South Atlantic with Knoxville in 1909.

Ft. Worth In 1910

He joined Fort Worth as a player in 1910. Before the season was over he was player, manager, secretary, business manager, groundkeeper and general handy-man. He remained at Fort Worth from 1910 to 1915 when he was called to a higher office—that of the league president. He held this office until 1921. He was also president of the West Texas League in 1920 and 1921.

Leaving the league's presidential office, he connected with the Dallas club in 1922 and served as part owner through May 29, 1928, when he sold his interest and retired from baseball.

When the Shreveport franchise was put on the block, Morris was a prime instigator, in organizing a stock company to purchase the Sports from O. L. Biedenharn. He was rewarded by being elected business manager.

Ralph Thomason of Omaha, captain-elect of Iowa State college's 1933 basketball team, will be the sole returning regular from this year's team.

Despite the fact that his injured wrist arched after a round, Horton Smith scored early season 72's over a Springfield, Mo., links.

Harry Pate, city handball champion, of Joplin, Mo., has held the title three years in succession.

SPONSOR DANCE, SHOWS

Two plans to raise money to send delegates to the national convention of Sigma Gamma Epsilon geology fraternity have been made by the local chapter. One is a dance, which is being given with the cooperation of the Hilton hotel, and the other is a special arrangement with the management of the Lindsey and Palace theaters so that the fraternity will receive a percentage of receipts for shows during March 23 and 24.

The dance will be in the Matador ballroom of the Hilton Monday night, March 21, the first day of the spring term. Dean Mary W. Doak has approved it and it will be limited to college students.

Tags, which are to be distributed at registration, will entitle two people to admission to the Lindsey or Palace theaters for 25c. This will be good for either matinee or evening shows March 23 and 24.

Morgan Gist, president of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, has been elected to attend the national meeting, but the fraternity plans to send four other delegates if the necessary funds can be raised. The convention will be at Pennsylvania State college April 1 and 2.

STUDENT ILL

Aleene Brown, sophomore from Ackerly, has been out of school all week on account of illness but expects to be able to geturn to classes soon. She lives at Duck Inn.

TECH WINS RIFLE MATCHES

Tech won two rifle matches fired with the University of Cincinnati and the University of Pittsburgh last week. Three others have not yet been heard from. The Tech team defeated the Cincinnati squad by 15 points, and won over the Pennsylvania marksmen by 9 points.

The next match, according to L. W. Chapman, will be the first eek of the spring term. The club also will begin outdoor shooting on the 30 range in the canyon east of Lubbock.

TO TEACH SCOUTING

A new course will be added to the list of those offered by the college next term: It is "Principles of Scout Leadership," or education 222. The work is planned as a training school for scout leaders and others working with boys, Dr. J. O. Ellsworth, scoutmaster, explained.

The first meeting will be Monday night, March 28, in room 214 of the administration building. The class, which carries two hours credit will meet once each week from 7:30 until 9:30 p. m. Two different men will lecture each evening. Besides Dr. Ellsworth, who is head of the department of agricultural economics, the lectures will include other faculty members and various scout executives from Lubbock and vicinity.

PRESIDENT ILL

Because of illness, Dr. P. W. Horn has been confined to his home the last two days.

DR. JOEKEL TO RETURN

Dr. S. L. Joekel of Austin is to be in Lubbock again this spring and will give a series of lectures at the college, is the announcement made by representatives of the Student Religious workers council, which is sponsoring his appearance on the campus. The First Presbyterian church, however, is bringing him to the city.

Dr. Joekel, professor of English Bible at Austin Theological seminary, will give a series of lectures on "What Does it Mean to be a Christian on the Modern Campus?" basing his discussions on the life of Jesus. He will be here during the week of March 21 to 25 and will talk each afternoon at 5 o'clock in room 220. He lectured before a group of Tech students last year, talking on the Book of Job.

NAME HONOR STUDENTS

Cleburne High school is the alma mater of the three freshman engineering students who made the highest grades in their group for the fall term, according to figures released by Dean O. V. Adams.

The boys are Leon Ince, who has an average grade of 2.82; John Doughtie, 2.75, and W. J. Parks, 2.63. The averages were obtained by dividing the number of grade points earned by the total registration credit hours.

Other engineering freshmen who were among the ten highest ranking students were: Harold Elkin, Amarillo High school; Clifton H. Crawford, Haskell; Marion Royalty, Lubbock; Melvin Chesser, Lockhart; Atmar Atkinson, Anton; William Luce, Lubbock, and Paul Hall Waco.

From high schools having two or more freshmen enrolled in the school of engineering, the five whose graduates had the highest scholastic records are Cleburne, Anton, Haskell, Amarillo and Floydada.

Some Support For Hunches

LUBBOCK and South Plains citizens who rely, to a certain extent, on "hunches" will be happy to learn that they have a scientific basis for the practice. One learned doctor, Arthur Holmes, professor of psychology at University of Pennsylvania, says a hunch is apt to be right in 75 per cent of cases and while we think he's a little high on his percentages, his remarks are at least interesting.

But he goes ahead telling why.

Your hunch, claims Doctor Holmes, probably comes from your apperceptive mass, or collection of things you have seen or done—long since forgotten. You are unaware that such things are guiding you, but that fact does not make them any the less powerful. The larger the store of the sub-conscious one has to draw on the more hunches one will be likely to have and the nearer right they will come.

If Dr. Holmes be right, the claim to a hunch is not evidence of superstition so much as ability to call experience to one's aid in an emergency. A hunch is an intuitive appreciation of a condition, of which one is confident, but which is lacking in tangible demonstration. If we proceed accordingly to the hunch and it turns out as we hope it is proof that we called to our aid powers we possess, but so deeply submerged that we are unconscious of their existence.

However, careful notation by the individual of the extent to which his hunches have proved right would influence the degree to which one is warranted in indulging. If the hunch turns out badly, maybe it wasn't a hunch but an instance of mistaken identity. Doubtless it is needful to make few mistakes in recognizing hunches, if one risk much.

SPANISH

Spanish rode into the curricula of thousands of American schools on the high tide of war feeling. School children had been studying German, and in war time German was taboo. Undoubtedly the war fever carried all combatant nations to excesses in the effort to stamp out the civilization and influence of the enemy, but it did the United States a service in awakening it to the beauty and utility of the Spanish tongue.

Now the impression has gained ground that Spanish, valuable commercially, is not the peer of French and German as a key to the cultufe of the past. But culture is not all a matter of the literature of the past. It is in a large sense a matter of understanding the significance of the contemporary. And the rich significance of present-day Latin-American civilization is largely a closed book to those to whom Spanish is as remote a tongue as Russian or Chinese.

The Southwest is beginning to feel in art, architecture, poetry and philosophy, the fertile contact of a culture part Indian and part Spanish which it had for a century despised. Those who visit South and Central America to sell goods return with a sense that Latin America has something to teach even our hustling republic. The exchange of students and professors between the three Americas is enriching all.

School children and college students may be learning only a smattering of this neglected tongue; but in another generation the seminal influence of the Spanish language on a generation of young North Americans may bear fruit.

We, of Lubbock, should be among the first to realize the growth and expansion of the Spanish influence, for we have only to look about our city and its college campus to view the trend. This country is made-to-order for Spanish architecture and decoration and our schools are filled with students learning the language.

Practical Health Problems

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of five articles by Dr. Fishbein on "That Tired Feeling: How You Get That Way and What to Do About It." Others will follow daily.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A MAN running a mile race cannot continue at top speed for the entire distance. Neither can a man doing manual labor work at the absolute maximum of his energies for a long period.

The reasons for this are obvious. The body wears down much more rapidly at maximum effort than it can be repaired. Thus, we "run in debt" until the unusual exertion is over.

In the case of the longer runs in a track meet, runners recognize this and develop their timing to the point that they know just how long to sprint, how long to run easily and how long to sprint again at the finish.

When the runner misjudges these distances, we usually have the spectacle of a man ending his sprint before he crosses the finish line and coming in at little more than a walk.

All races for more than 440 yards are done with a quick start, a slower "middle run" and a sprint at the end.

PHYSIOLOGISTS have measured the maximum capacity of the body by testing the runner. A trained runner does not exhaust himself completely in any race up to 200 yards.

He begins to be exhausted at 300 yards and the 440-yard run, or a quarter-mile run, is enough to completely exhaust even a first-class sprinter. Obviously the amount of work and the speed of the performance depend on the training and on the ability of the tissues to utilize oxygen and to get rid of waste products.

Furthermore, the fatigue in some one part of the body may be reflected in other portions.

Continued use of the legs to the point of exhaustion in any type of work or play will interfere with accurate and speedy work by the arms and hands. If muscles are used to the point of fatigue, stiffness and soreness will develop and then follows swelling of the muscles and even breaking of the individual fibers with the appearance of what athletes call "charley horse."

The person who is trained in physical efforts knows how to use his tissues to the best advantage. He does this by keeping his oxygen "debt" as low as possible. The maximum of oxygen taken in is reached usually from two to three minutes after the beginning of work.

Once this point is reached, it is possible to work harder and faster, hence anyone about to engage in a severe muscular performance may breathe rapidly and deeply five or six times before starting, and warm up by proper exercises. The warming up process is regularly indulged in by prizefighters, baseball players, chorus girls, and others about to submit their muscular systems to severe strain.

It is important to teach children early the necessity for the warming up process because the child at play or in competition with other children may produce exhaustion in its body without the realization that exhaustion is dangerous and is preventable by proper procedures.

Suggestions Discredited

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Whenever a conservative says anything, radicals are so in the habit of shying bricks at him that they instinctively let fly in his direction even when he changes to make a liberal suggestion.

Silas Strawn

For example, while it is true that President Silas H. Strawn of the United States Chamber of Commerce probably did not intend to put himself on record progressively, in arguing recently that every citizen with an annual income of 1,000 or more ought to "pay something" toward supporting the government, in order to make him "tax conscious," he really was expressing a very advanced idea.

Instead of recognizing it as an enlightened concept, however, all that the "common people's" spokesmen seem to sense in President Strawn's utterance is a complete failure to realize that no self-supporting citizen does escape contributing to the government's upkeep.

A DAYTON (O.) NEWSPAPER published by James M. Cox, former Democratic presidential candidate, sums up liberal criticism of Strawn's contention in a forceful paragraph.

Says this paper:

"The federal government, through its excises and tariffs, levies on the necessaries of life taxes which increase their cost. Every citizen, however poor, who earns his living, pays these taxes, but—

"The taxpayer doesn't know he pays them."

EXACTLY. The average taxpayer has no notion how he is being soaked. Would he continue to stand it, if he did?

President Strawn wants him let in on the secret.

One may justifiably wonder if Strawn has maturely considered what he is advocating. If ever an administration was the creation and embodiment of just such folk as President Strawn and his United States Chamber of Commerce associates, it is the administration in office now—and he demands that all the people be made as acutely "conscious" as possible of the stiff price they are paying for it!

But that's what he says. "Tax conscious;"

ONE OF the brainest men in congress today is Representative David J. Lewis of Maryland.

Pre-eminently he is a tariff expert; was a member of the original federal tariff commission—and is far from an enthusiastic protectionist. That is to say, he considers that protection has been vastly overdone and abused.

"Nevertheless," admits the Marylander, "a situation occasionally arises in which it is to the public interest to encourage some struggling, infant industry. In such instances, aid should be extended, but it should not take the form of a tariff; it should take the form of an open-and-above-board subsidy. The industries, however, prefer the tariff method, because it can be continued, without attracting much attention, long after the excuse for it has passed.

"To the interest which is being benefitted the objection to the other method is—

"A subsidy's visibility is too high!"

PERSONALLY Representative Lewis is for "high visibility" in matters of taxation. As he says, it gives the folk who foot the bill at least a chance "to holler."

For this stand, because he is known as a thorough liberal, the progressives commend the Marylander warmly.

Now President Strawn of the United States Chamber of Commerce takes a similar stand—that is, for "tax consciousness," which surely, in effect, is the same thing.

But because Silas has a reputation as a reactionary, instead of commendation, the progressives give him hades.

RAPIDITY OF CHANGE

After months of search the Royal Society of Arts has found the "perfect English village." Its fifteenth century church loft, which is used as a parish hall, its Elizabethan cottages and its three old "pubs" are to be preserved just as they are a remainder of the England that has passed. Visitors now and hereafter will be able to see the village as it was in Shakespeare's day.

This is very much the same idea as that which has led to the restoration of Williamsburg, Va. In both England and the United States there is a feeling for the past which dislikes the prospect of having every relic of an earlier age buried beneath modern changes. If it is not practicable to live under the conditions which our forefathers endured, at least we can preserve a few of their private houses and community buildings as museum pieces.

Only by such undertakings will future generations be able to visualize conditions of life in England and America which already have virtually disappeared.

England, with a civilization centuries older than that of the United States, can still find ancient villages to preserve. The United States, unable to find one intact, must restore it. This is no reflection upon the United States, rather it graphically portrays the rapid transformation taking place here constantly.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE GREATEST FATHER OF HIS TIME:

Rameses II, who ruled Egypt for 66 years (1298-12 32 B. C.) was the most illustrious of the Pharaohs and his reign is described as the culminating glory of ancient Egypt. He took great pride in the accumulation of gold in the royal treasure houses, in the magnificent structures he erected, in his military exploits, and in the prodigious number of children his queens and concubines bore him. The bas reliefs of the famous subterranean temple of Ipsamboul and again of Wady es Sebua disclose the names of 111 sons and 51 daughters, inscribed on the walls.

He lived to see most of his children reach maturity and die around him. Mernephta, his 14th son who married his own sister, Rameses' daughter No. 6, Nofrit is said to be identical with the Pharaoh of the Exodus.

The mummy of Rameses was found in 1886, and is now on exhibit at the Museum in Cairo.

THE METROPOLIS BUILT IN A DAY:

Anchiale, a great maritime metropolis of the Assyrian Kings, was situated in Cilicia. The founder of the city was the redoubtable Asur Bani Pal (Sardanapalus) who according to Strabo, was buried in Anchiale. The royal tomb was surmounted by a statue of the great King in the attitude of snapping his fingers, and an inscription in Assyrian characters upon it recorded the fact that at the royal behest the city had been built in a single day.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Beautiful ELLEN ROSSITER, a salesgirl in Barclay's Department Store, lives with her mother, MOLLY ROSSITER, her elder sister, MYRA, and her young brother, MIKE. Molly foolishly spends money saved to pay the rent STEVEN BARCLAY, a man of 57 and Ellen's employer, lends her an evening dress so she can secure a job dancing nights at DREAMLAND.

At the dance hall she meets handsome LARRY HARROWGATE, an artist, and accepts his invitation to tea next day. Barclay sends her roses. Distressed that the gift is not from Larry, Ellen quarrels with her mother and sister, who openly favor the wealthy Barclay. Myra shows her a newspaper announcement of Larry's engagement to ELIZABETH BOWES, a debutante. Broken-hearted, Ellen breaks her tea date with him. She also returns the dress to Barclay and is disturbed to see that he has no intention of dropping their friendship.

Still heartsick over Larry she returns the next night to Dreamland. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

Ellen knocked at the door of Steven Barclay's office at five minutes past one. Under her arm, carefully wrapped in tissue paper, was the ivory taffeta dress. There had been time enough, after all, for her to pick up the borrowed dress before going on to the store.

That morning in the basement had been no worse than any summer morning. But it had seemed to Ellen that the morning would never end, and seemed to her that before the slow hands of the clock dragged to 1 o'clock she would be dead of suffocation. The morning had ended; she was not dead, even though she felt that there was no particular reason for continuing to live. Life was tiresome and stupid and unfair.

She tried to convince herself that Larry had been only a casual infatuation but she could not forget how different the morning would have been if only she had not read a newspaper clipping, if only the day could have gone as she had dreamed it would. Even the fact that she was calling on the "big boss," that he had sent her flowers, things which only the day before would have left her trembling with excitement, seemed dull and unimportant and completely colorless.

She knocked again. Barclay's secretary, Ruth Tevis, a plain girl whose plainness was heightened by heavy eye-glasses, opened the door.

"Mr. Barclay had to go out for a minute," she said, peering over the tortoise shell frames of her spectacles. "He told me to ask you to wait if you will."

When Ellen was seated in the dim, cool office with the dress over her lap, the secretary began fussing unnecessarily and a trifle officiously with the flowers on the rosewood desk, rearranging them, plucking a leaf here and there and sliding the slender crystal vases an inch nearer the center. She moved a pile of typed letters, awaiting Barclay's signature, to the left of the desk, then back to the right again.

"You were here yesterday, weren't you?" she asked casually.

"Yes," Ellen replied.

She wished the other girl wouldn't stare so. The steady, near-sighted regard of those pale eyes was making her uneasy and nervous, unsure of herself. Ruth Tevis cleared her throat and opened her mouth—to ask another question, Ellen was sure—just as Steven entered.

He said impersonally to Ellen, "I'm sorry I kept you waiting, Miss Rossiter."

And to the secretary, "I'll call you if I need you, Miss Tevis."

His words were a dismissal. With a dissatisfied glance at Ellen, Miss Tevis turned and went into her own office. As if by accident she managed to leave the arjoining door a trifle ajar but Barclay rose and closed it.

"Miss Tevis, I'm afraid," he remarked with a twinkle in his eye and an entre change of manner, is beginning to be curious."

Ellen went directly to the point. She was, to tell the truth, vaguely disturbed. The secretary's attitude had in a small way served to confirm her mother's pleased insistence, her own secret fears of the morning. It was possible, it was more than possible that Barclay's interest in her was more than friendly. Certainly there had been a note of intimacy in his voice after the door had closed, a light intimation that

Littlefield Offers City Hall For Use As Courthouse If County Seat Moved

LITTLEFIELD, Mar. 9. (Special) Littlefield, in asking that the voters of Lamb county vote on Saturday, March 19, to move the county seat from Olton to this city, is offering the use of Littlefield's new $50,000 city hall free of charge for 10 years.

This offer also includes the large and modern jail, which is a part of the city hall.

Lease Presented

Previous to the election being ordered by Judge Simon D. Hay, the city of Littlefield presented a lease on the Littlefield city hall to the county of Lamb, which was accepted by the commissioners' court.

This lease provides that the county may use the hall and the jail in connection, for a period of 10 years at a total rental for the 10 years period of $10. The $10 figure was written into the lease for no other purpose than to make the transaction legal.

Under the arrangement the city hall would be used jointly by the city of Littlefield and the county.

Subsequent to the accepting of lease and the ordering of the county seat election, the commissioners' court of th's county executed a document which recites that the members of the commissioners' court will "vote against the issuance of any warrants or bonds by the commissioners' court for the purpose of building either a court house or a jail in Lamb county, unless the question shall have first been submitted to a vote of the people, and a majority voting at such election shall have voted in favor of the issuance of such warrants or bonds."

Would Avoid Expense

The foregoing document, together with another document which was signed by hundreds of citizens of Littlefield and territory, and other parts of the county, expresses the fact that the citizens of Littlefield and territory, citizens of other parts of the county, and the commissioners' court, do not wish at this time, or for a long time to come, to put the taxpayers of Lamb county to any expense that can be avoided. These documents express the fact that the county as a whole is united in an economy program of a very strict nature until such time, at least, so long as economic conditions continue as at present.

Littlefield, in offering the county the use of the Littlefield city hall, is doing so with the idea in mind of saving the taxpayers of the county a large expenditure, particularly for a new jail.

The document which has been signed by hundreds of citizens of Littlefield and territory, and other parts of the county, particularly refers to Littlefield's attitude toward the issuing of warrants or bonds at this time, expressing that such action would be actively opposed.

Here are some facts concerning the Littlefield city hall:

The Littlefield city hall is a new an modern two-story brick building which was completed in 1930 at a cost of $50,000.

The Littlefield city hall has a frontage of 70 feet and a total depth of 72 feet. The main section of the building is 70 feet by 40 feet, and the rear portion of the structure, which is given over to a fire station on the ground floor and a jail on the second floor, with the exception of a small portion, is 40 feet wide and 32 feet deep.

The Littlefield city hall, including the court room and the fire station, has 14 rooms. If the county should need the room, it will be an easy matter for the City of Littlefield to find other accommodation for the fire trucks.

Most of the rooms in the hall could be made considerably larger by the removal of partitions.

The court room at the Littlefield hall has 110 chairs.

The Littlefield city hall also offers rooms of sufficient size which would prove admirable for the sessions of county court or for the meetings of the commissioners' court.

The Littlefield jail is capable of accommodating at least 35 prisoners. (There is bedding at the present time for 25 prisoners.)

The Littlefield city hall has a large, modern vault. The hall has a large basement, in which is located a modern heating plant.

both of them were in league to defeat the secretary's curosity.

She intended to avoid complications of that sort.

"I've brought back the dress," she began, as she leaned forward and laid the box on his desk. "I can't tell you how much I appreciated using it. And the flowers were lovely. They've made our apartment into a florist shop. I've never seen lovelier ones."

"Did you like them?" Barclay exclaimed, deeply pleased and missing entirely her subtle, gracious air of withdrawal. "I hope they didn't wake you when they arrived this morning. But I was determined you should have them before you left for the store."

He was like a young boy, aching, wistfully anxious for praise at his cleverness. Ellen did not stint her praise. It was absurd she thought, even as she thanked him, that she could give a man like Steven Barclay such pleasure.

He was looking down at the dress.

"I'm sorry you've returned it so soon," he remarked with a shade of disappointment. "I'd hoped you'd keep it a long time."

"Mother bought me one yesterday afternoon," Ellen said casually. "Nothing like so beautiful as this but more suitable for Dreamland."

"I didn't think of that," he admitted. "But I do hope everything went all right."

Ellen felt an inextricable net closing around her. Yesterday she had, in that unfortunate burst of confidence, told him so much that today it seemed unfriendly to become remote and impersonal. It was impossible. So she painted Dreamland for him with very light strokes. She made it a place almost pleasant, determined above all that he should not be sorry for her. She did not tell him of her first unpleasant encounter nor did she, of course, mention Larry Harrowgate. She told an amusing, if underemphasized story, of Jacob Salomon, of Tony, of the other hostesses. But Barclay felt, she knew, a lack of spontaneity.

"I'm sorry you have to work so hard," he said slowly when her story was finished. "Glad it won't be for long. Now of course," he said looking straight into her candid, youthful eyes, "now that everything's going so well you won't need to see me any more, will you?"

"Certainly, I will," Ellen said quickly, "if you want to see me."

She could not have him believing he was like that.

"Then come to lunch with me", he suggested, unable to conceal his pleased relief at her answer.

"I'm awfully sorry but I have some errands for Mother."

She really did have, too.

"But you will some other time?"

"Of course."

It was impossible for a Rossiter to be tepid. Ellen saw with dismay that he had misinterpreted her instinctive graciousness. Worst than that, she was harried by fear the he might think she was coquetting with him, refusing a first invitation so that he would more thoroughly appreciate her acceptance of a second. And she must accept the second one. She had promised. As she rose, feeling helpless and uncertain, he spoke again.

"I've thought a lot about that young brother, Mike. How is he?"

"Just as usual," Ellen smiled. "He woke me this morning by dropping his kitten on my face."

"I'd like to meet him sometime—and your mother."

"You must—sometime."

She left his office in a disturbed frame of mind. She was no calmer when she observed that Ruth Tevis opened the door of the adjoining office and stared after her as she hurried to the elevator. If only Steven Barclay were less kind, if only he were a different sort of man from the generous and natural person he was, how easily she could solve that particular problem. How could she snub a man from whom she had accepted favors, a man whom she was determined not to hurt unless hurting him was the only way out?

Ellen went to a movie that afternoon.

She sat through two presentations of the same silly, sentimental picture but afterward she remembered nothing of the film except that the hero turned his head sometimes in a way reminding her of Larry Harrowgate. There was, unfortunately for her peace of mind, an illuminated clock visible to the audience. She watched the clock instead of the picture.

As the hands came closer and closer to 4, the hour she was to have met Larry for tea, she found that it took all her resolution to keep from walking out of the theater and hastening to the hotel where she had promised to meet him.

Four-fifteen. Larry would be wondering where she was, why she didn't come. Perhaps if she went, if she were very cold, it would be all right. Surely just to sit chatting with him for a short while would be all right. Perhaps he meant to tell her that the engagement was broken.

Someone tapped her on the shoulder.

"Listen," hissed a voice in the darkness. "Don't wiggle so, lady, I can't see the picture for your head."

Ellen sat rigid. Four twenty-five now. Perhaps he had gone. Should she saunter through the lobby to see?

The picture moved on toward a tragic denouement. Sniffles rose from the audience; a few men coughed explosively. Pale blurs of handkerchiefs showed in the gray darkness. Ellen was dry-eyed, frantic with restlessness and indecision.

At 10 minutes to 5 she surrendered. At 10 minutes to 5 a small section of the matinee audience was treated to the spectacle of a young girl who jumped hastily from her seat and ran up the long shadowy aisle toward the street.

Ellen entered the lobby of the Hotel Vandervent at 5 o'clock. Her breath was coming quickly; her cheeks were crimson banners. She hesitated before she plunged into Peacock Alley. It was not too late yet to retreat with her pride. But her pride was gone and she knew it.

Larry was not there. By the time she had made one hurried passage through the brilliant, mirrored alley she had assured herself of that. She assured herself of something else as well. She was glad, glad, glad! Glad that kind fate had taken him off before her folly had come to its consumption.

She had lived through the longest afternoon of her life she thought—but she still lived. She was still young. And she had her pride again, a little battered perhaps, but substantially intact. Larry would never know that she had come to meet him.

After she had eaten a solitary dinner she felt considerably better. A girl of 20 finds it hard to mantain a mood of black depression. But when she reached Dreamland for the beginning of her second evening there she felt the black mood returning. How could she bear to dance again in the arms of another man where she had danced and laughed with Larry?

Cotton Cotton Market Is Quiet Wednesday Livestock Demand Stimulated In Livestock Mart Grain Corn Leaps Into The Export Field

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 9. (AP)—Today's session in the cotton market was one of the quietest experienced lately. For a good portion of the day, prices were stagnant with both buying and selling interest very limited. Throughout the period all active months traded within a range of 3 to 5 points. The closing was steady with active positions 1 point down on the day. May 7.02 and July 7.16, the only months which were active at the close. Unfavorable weather over the belt aroused interest which failed to reflect the market.

The market opened quiet but steady with first trades unchanged to 1 point down.

An hour before the closing of the market, May stood at 7.03; July at 7.16 and Oct. at 7.37, unchanged to 1 point down on the day and unchanged to 1 point above the opening figures. Late in the afternoon, prices worked moderately lower as stocks sold off. May declining to 7.01, July to 7.14 and Oct. 7.37.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — A further early advance in Sterling led to additional adjustments of differences between New York and Liverpool which caused more or less irregularity in cotton during the first hour of trading. Business tapered off after the close abroad and the market was comparatively quiet later with prices movements restricted. May contracts after selling off from 7.02@7.09 Fallies to 7.01 and closed at 7.02, with the general market steady, net 1 point lower to 2 points higher.

Stocks Balk At Decisive Move Into New High Ground; Bonds Advance

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 9. (AP) — Stocks once more balked at a decisive move into new high ground today although the bond market continued its forward march.

Firmness at the opening and during the first hour lifted share quotations sufficiently to edge several issues into new high ground for 1932 but the market lacked energy and settled back into a narrow trading area. There was nothing of a rag in the last hour and closing prices represented an assortment of small losses. Volume fell to 1,331,340 shares.

In the morning, rails acted as if they meant to support recent advances of industrials and utilities, which was a favorable technical symptom. Although unable to set far independently, the carriers displayed a generally better tone than other major groups and with a few exceptions their net losses were fraction.

Food stocks were joined by packing company issues in the early upturn. The American and Foreign Power group provided a vulnerable spot, all listings making new lows for the year. Radio Corporation shares were heavy.

Of the more active stocks, U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Bethlehem closed from a fraction to a point lower, and were joined by a number of utilities.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, March 9. (AP) — A stronger dressed beef trade at eastern centers stimulated demand at live weight markets and most killing classes of cattle sold at strong to 25 higher as compared with yesterday's general business. Prices for the majority of fed steers and yearlings ranged at 5.00@7.00. Fed heifers and mixed yearlings bulked at 4.50@6.00 with a few yearling heifers up to 6.40. Most replacement steers sell at 4.25@5.75. Accumulated receipts for the three days at eleven markets numbering 88,500 marks a decrease of nearly 12,000 from the same period last week.

Improved dressed pork conditions also influenced hog sales introducing a fairly active outlet at mostly 10 to 20 higher levels. Chicago and St. Louis shared the day's top of 4.90.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 9. (AP)—Hogs 1,500; market 5 to 15 higher; rail hogs up most; top 4.65 paid for three loads good to choice 220-260 lb. rail butchers, good load good medium weights 4.65; truck top 4.55; bulk better grades 180-250 lb. truck hogs 4.30; packing sows steady to 25 higher, mostly 3.50.

Cattle—750; including 250 calves; trade very poorly tested; slaughter steers and yearlings fully 25 higher; strong weight fed steers up to 5.50; few loads less desirable grades 4.50@5.25; two loads good fed yearlings 5.50; fat cows listed around 3.00@3.25; no stocker sales; slaughter calves strong to 25 higher; one load good heavies 5.00; few good heavies up to 5.25; cull sorts 2.00@3.50.

Out-Of-TownMen At Loan Meeting

A group of Midland citizens, including the entire county committee in charge of making loans to farmers, attended the meeting. In the group were: Paul T. Vickers, secretary of the chamber of commerce; M. P. Hill, county judge; R. M. Barron, president of the First National bank; F. J. Mims and J. C. Miles, members of the committee, and Alton Gault.

Floydada was well represented including E. A. Brown, Bill Dolley, Key Green and S. W. Ross, of the chamber of commerce. Plans for the first annual meat show in Floydada March 18 and 19 indicate a good show, Mr. Ross said, as there is more interest being developed daily.

The Brownfield delegation was one of the large groups of the conference. In the party were: Jay Barrett, county judge, and L. L. Brock and W. A. Henson, county commissioners; J. E. Shelton, secretary of the chamber of commerce; W. H. Dallas, president of the Brownfield State bank; R. M. "Marsh" Kendricks, president of the First National bank, and Claude Hudgens, a farmer.

Dewey L. Granberry, secretary of the Spur Chamber of Commerce and Grady I. Lane, county agent, were here telling of the record of Dickens county in paying off obligations. More than a quarter of a million dollars was paid from the cotton crop, they said. O. C. Newberry county judge, was also in the party.

Plainview and Hale county were well represented. Headed by Grady Shipp, secretary of the chamber of commerce, and Walter W. Evans county agent, the list included: Dan Royall and J. W. Walker of Plainview; R. A. Jeffries, Petersburg bankers; M. C. Hix, Abernathy banker, and Nick Alley and Nelson Perdue of the Hale Center bank.

Yoakum county had a group of four men, including R. F. Moreland, former county judge and M. E. Dumas, members of the county committee, and L. P. Bennett and his son, Ralph Bennett.

"Hale county is sending a car of hogs and a car of calves and a lot of cured and canned meats to the Lubbock show March 24 and 25," W. W. Evans, county agent, said. "We are coming down to get some of the prizes that Lamb and Hockley counties have been talking about winning."

Hockley county is anticipating only a few loans, according to W. T. Magee, county agent, who had his committee with him. In the party were D. E. Magee, former county judge and field man for the county committee; John H. Doyle, banker; D. L. Tucker, Frank L. Adams and J. P. Potts.

A. H. Koeninger and J. L. Shoemaker, jr., represented O'Donnell at the conference. Both men stated that farm conditions in that territory were good and prospects bright for a good crop season.

Texas Tech Praised In Talk By Brownfield Superintendent

LAMESA, March 9. (Special) — Texas Technological college at Lubbock, a West Texas institution, is deserving of West Texas patronage, A. B. Sanders, superintendent of the Brownfield public schools told the Lamesa Lions club here today.

Touching on the recent charge of atheism in the school, Sanders said, "I do not know if these charges are true, but with only three or four professors charged out of 140 or more, Tech has about as good a record as any institution can offer."

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 9. (AP)—Corn from the United States leaped into the export field today, and prices for that cereal scored almost a cent a bushel advance.

Rural offerings of corn broadened out on the bulge in values, however, and most of the rise was lost.

Traders put a bearish construction on the government report issued after the day's trading was over. Stocks of corn on United States farms were officially estimated as 34,000,000 bushels in excess of private forecasts, with domestic farm reserves of wheat 32,000,000 bushels above trade expectation.

Corn closed unsettled, 1-8 to 3-8 higher than yesterday's finish, wheat at 1-8 to 5-8 decline, oats unchanged to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents advance. Oats followed corn.

las office in a correct form, without errors they could look for a check to be mailed out from that office within 24 years after receipt of the application. "We are not going to have it take an average of 35 days to get a check, like you did from St. Louis last year," he stated. "Sixty per cent of the applications, I am told, were made out improperly and had to be sent back.

"Now we are having field agents at the beginning of the season instead of at the close. We want the applications made out correctly. If they are, you can look for a check in about a week."

Selection of community boards, to facilitate the county board's work by a knowledge of local conditions, was urged. County board members were asked to devote all of the time possible the next 30 days as all applications must be made before April 30.

Farmers were urged to get all liens waived by bankers or landowners, before making applications. "If you cannot do this, don't apply," he added.

F. R. Friend, member of the Lubbock county committee, presided and introduced the speakers.

Applications of Lubbock county farmers for loans will be received starting Saturday by J. B. Shannon. Shannon, who took applications last year, is to open an office in the Texas Cotton Cooperative association headquarters here. He was named Wednesday by the county committee.

R. J. Murray Talks

R. J. Murray, Lubbock resident loaned to Dallas, was the first speaker and in his brief talk he stressed the cooperation of his organization, the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, in the handling of loan machinery. "The greatest asset of our country is its people," he said by way of introduction. "We (the T. C. A. A.) have maintained a world market in nearly every town in Texas," he said, "bringing to the farmers better prices for cotton."

A prediction that the next few years would see the greatest colonization program in West Texas, was made by the speaker.

Westbrook Is Heard

Lawrence Westbrook, Waco, West Texas admin'strator for the board, gave a brief outline of the purposes of the loans. "It is a loan, not a dole," he declared. "It is an insult to offer to a farmer or to the resident of a town, a dole. I believe that before we get through we will loan $10,000,000 to Texans."

High points of the program were: Loans can be made to any man who farmed last year, who will give as security a first lien on his crops. The loan limit is $400 to a landlord or tenant and $1 an acre for feed, the same to purchase seed and a dollar an acre for general purposes. Loans are due and payable by November 30 and collections made by the government as the crop is made."

Objective Is Told

Carl Gallagher, Quanah, representative for Arizona and New Mexico, said it was the objective of the Dallas office to make a loan within 24 hours after the application, technically correct, was received at Dallas.

Lubbock Salvation Army Is Greatly In Need Of Clothing

The Salvation army is greatly in need of clothing of all kinds, according to Captain W. T. Wilson, commandant of the corps.

"We need all kinds, for men and women and children," he said. "The cold spell has about cleaned us out. We are having a heavy demand."

During February, he said, 208 garments and 61 pairs of shoes were distributed to people in need. Besides this 25 grocery orders were filled. In addition there were a number of men fed at the hall and given a place to sleep.

Captain denied rumors that the army had sold clothing.

Kidnaping

not concluded their investigation of Henry (Red) Johnson, seaman-suitor of the Lindbergh baby's nursemaid. Johnson is being held in Newark.

The New York Evening Post said it had been informed by a person in touch with the Lindberghs the aviator-father had known for several days where the baby was hidden, that he opened the negotiations with the kidnapers Sunday night, and that the child is being kept on a boat.

Rumors the baby had been returned, either to the Lindbergh home or the Englewood residence of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, were set at rest by state police, who flatly denied them.

The Lindberghs are known to have the aid of some of the most expert private detectives in the east, the advantage of underworld "go-betweens" if they need them, and the advice of sagacious friends.

Clues Are Unknown

Since employment of the private detectives there has been no indication of what clues they are working on or what the result of their confidential investigation has been.

There has been a similar lack of news about the movements and progress, if any, made by Salvatore (Salvy) Spitale and Irving Bitz, the two underworld characters named by Col. Lindbergh as his "go-betweens."

The officers refused to answer a question as to whether "Col. Lindbergh, Col. Henry Breckinridge (his attorney) or any other agent of Col. Lindbergh's has been in communication with the kidnapers during the past 12 hours."

Police in Niagara Falls, N. Y., said that at the request of New Jersey state police they were searching for J. Norman Beck, dog race promoter, and a possible companion named "Archie." They said New Jersey authorities wanted to know the whereabouts of the pair at the time of the kidnaping.

West Virginia cabins were searched by police on the strength of a note which read:

Fly 32 miles south of Elkins, W. Va. Lindbergh baby in log cabin. Come alone. Out of food."

An aviator in Cumberland, Md., told police there a man in a mud-splattered automobile handed him an envelope containing the message printed on a piece of a road map.

House Passes Bill To Punish For Threats

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — Spurred by the Lindbergh kidnaping, the house today approved unanimously and sent to the senate, legislation providing severe punishment for those who sent threatening letters through the mails.

Pausing during consideration of a series of bills designed to slash $15,000,000 from the postal deficit and help balance the budget, Chairman Mean of the postoffice committee called up the Cochran bill and it as approved in less than five minutes.

Applause greeted Speaker Garner's announcement that the bill, providing maximum penalties of $5,000 fine and 20 years imprisonment, was passed. In its report the committee said:

"A new outrage has been perpetrated in the kidnaping of the son of the famous aviator, Charles A. Lindbergh and our mail system used to convey threats and demands of the kidnapers.

"This latest fiendish act has so impressed our committee that it is deemed advisable while the congress and the country are in a state of preparation to report this legislation when its chance of consideration and approval are excellent and for the added purpose that it will bring to the assistance of the states and localities the aid of the federal government in stamping out this most atrocious form of crime."

MOORE OPTIMISTIC

TRENTON, N. J., March 9. (AP) — A belief the kidnaped Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., will be returned to his parents alive and well was expressed tonight by Governor A. Harry Moore.

"I have absolute confidence," he said, "that the baby will come back alive and safe. I don't know when, but whenever it is I feel sure he will be in good health."

Former Amarillo Policeman Freed Of Murder Charges

AMARILLO, March 9. (AP)—A district court jury tonight returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of E. R. Murr, former Amarillo policeman, on trial the past three days on a murder charge in connection with the slaying of Bill Elston, a Panhandle youth, at a local dance resort last summer.

Elston was slain, testimony revealed, when he fled from Murr and Sid Harper, another officer, who arrested him on a charge of alleged criminal assault upon a 15-year-old Amarillo girl.

Two Youths Charged With Smuggling Saws Into Jail

CONROE, March 9. (AP)—Two 18-year old boys, Jake Whidden of Conroe and Marcus French of Teague, were charged today with smuggling saws into the jail cell of Durrell Kendall and Jesse Greer here.

Sheriff Ben Hicks Monday discovered the presence of the saws and had Greer transferred to Walker county, where he was wanted. Kendall, a former Mississippi farm hand, is being held awaiting trial for the axe murder of two members of an itinerant minstrel troupe.

Drastic Steps To Balance The Federal Budget Sought

WASHINGTON, March 9. (AP) — Call for drastic steps to balance the federal budget and avert "serious consequences to our entire credit structure" was directed to the house today on the eve of its consideration of the news $1,096,000,000 revenue bill.

It was sounded by the ways and means committee in a formal report on the highly controversial bill that tomorrow begins a torturous journey through congress.

The 1931 gross cash income from the average South Dakota farm was estimated at $1,177, nearly $1,000 below the 1930 average.

He Looks For His Little Master

He's only a little Scottie, but his doggish heart sensed something wrong when little Charles Lindbergh, jr., wasn't around to play with him any more. And no one—officers, detectives or the grief-stricken family—could answer the question in his eyes.

Hemphill Man Has Unique Animal

CANADIAN, March 9. (AP)—Parker Hanna, Hemphill county agent, has a dairy demonstrator who owns a "record" cow.

The farmer kept his monthly record sheets tacked on the wall in the milk room. Instead of transferring his figures each month, he would just tack a new record sheet over the old one. With nine months' records on the wall, a cow broke into the milk room one night and ate up the records for the entire herd.

Lubbock County

for the factions got together and agreed upon the present site of the city of Lubbock.

Variety Of Names

"And that petition had nearly everybody's name from Montana to the Rio Grande on it," J. D. Caldwell, one of the leaders in the movement said the other day. "Every cow outfit that came through town had to sign up."

"They even charged that the cowboys signed the names of their horses to the petition," R. C. Burns, another one of the county's charter citizens, declared.

At any rate the petition was duly signed and the election authorized.

It was a great day for Lubbock and Lubbock county. In spite of the fact that 150 names had been signed to the petition calling for the election, only 64 votes were cast.

G. W. Shannon, a Confederate veteran, was elected as county judge over W. C. Henderson and H. M. Bandy.

W. M. Lay, a former Crosby county man to whom Mr. Burns gave a section of land adjoining the townsite to run for the office, was elected sheriff and tax collector. The section Mr. Lay received is now known as Overton addition of Lubbock.

Geo. C. Wolffarth was named district and county clerk, defeating Jeff S. King and W. L. McCauley.

W. S. Clark was elected tax assessor. His opponents were W. F. Cobb, H. F. Welborn and Tang Martin.

U. G. Moore was elected county treasurer over T. S. Bramly.

J. B. Jones, now a resident of Floydada, defeated E. E. Lewis for county surveyor. Mr. Jones made the first survey of the county and also of the city of Lubbock.

County Attorney Named

No one ran for county attorney but W. F. Hendricks was later named to the post.

J. D. Caldwell was elected as justice of the peace and commissioner of precinct one. F. E. Wheelock was named commissioner of precinct two; L. D. Hunt of precinct three, and Van Sanders of precinct four.

With the election over, the problem which confronted the officers was a place to hold court. Mr. Burns recalled recently. The small store of J. D. Caldwell, now residing several miles northeast of Lubbock, was used as a courthouse until in 1892 when the first courthouse was erected. The lumber for the structure was hauled from Colorado City.

The first district court session was held June 22, 1891 and W. R. McGill presided as judge, W. G. Henderson was district attorney; Geo. C. Wolffarth, clerk and W. M. Lay, bailiff. The court appointed W. D. Crump, J. S. Mobley and John Green as jury commissioners.

The first grand jury contained the names of four men who are still residents of Lubbock county. They are: Albert Clark, W. S. Clark, Isham Tubbs and F. E. Wheelock. Other grand jurymen were: G. W. Singer, Henry Crump, W. P. Nelson, J. F. O'Harrow, M. A. Wood, William Tubbs and E. H. Estes.

Ruth Hanna McCormick Weds Former Congressman Of N. M.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 9 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, former congresswoman from Illinois, and Albert G. Simms, Albuquerque, N. M., former congressman from that state, were married today at the spacious home of the bride at Broadmoor, a suburb.

Culminating a romance which began in the halls of congress, the wedding ceremony was performed in the presence of a group of friends who had gathered here from several states.

SUSPECT IS HELD

DEL RIO, March 10. (AP)—A suspect is being held in the Val Verde county jail here today in connection with the fatal shooting late Tuesday of Mrs. Estelle Calk Latta, 25, wife of Lawrence Latta.

A nation-wide survey of land values conducted by the federal division of agricultural statistics shows present land values only six per cent above the 1912-14 average.

The average retail price for automobiles sold in the United States in 1931 was $765, the Chicago Motor club says.

Landlubbers Feel Sting Of Belated Winter While Two Ships Struggle Helplessly In Angry Atlantic Waters

(By The Associated Press)

While two ships struggled helplessly in angry waters off the Atlantic seaboard, landlubbers felt the sting of a belated winter yesterday.

Temperatures were at their lowest points of the winter in eastern and southern states, most of them whitened by snow, in some cases many feet deep. Trains and buses still yielded minutes and hours to the deep drifts.

The 34 men aboard the Collier De Bardeleben, rolling in the heavy seas 270 miles southwest of Nantucket lightship, help their posts from necessity rather than desire. For more than two days, they have kept steerage way by keeping the engines pounding incessantly. The heavy seas have prevented life boats being lowered. The passenger liner Adriatic still stood by as the coast guard cutter Ossipee drew slowly nearer.

The German freighter Harburg, at a point about 180 miles off Cape Sable, N. S., also was endangered by a broken rudder. It sent an S. O. S., which was picked up by the liner President Harding along with the reassuring message that the steamer Vincent was nearby and steaming to the Harburg's assistance. The German vessel carries a crew of 35.

Snow as deep as three and a half inches lay in places in South Carolina, which had enjoyed the warmest winter in 40 years.

In upstate New York, where the winter had been similarly mild—temperatures dropped as low as zero. Fresh snowstorms raged in western New York. Two persons were in hospitals suffering from exposure. A youth was found frozen to death near Harrisburg, Pa. Fifty automobiles and two buses were freed by highway crews after being marooned more than two days. Three more buses remained snowbound in the same section.

Assault To Murder Case Is Given Tahoka Jury Wednesday

TAHOKA, March 9. (Special) — A jury in 106th district court tonight received the case of W. D. Chenault, 63, charged with assault to murder in connection with administering a beating to R. H. Adams, about 60, while the two men were prisoners in the Lynn county jail.

Chenault, who had entered a plea of guilty of a liquor charge and had been given two years in the penitentiary, claimed self-defense from the witness stand today. He said the trouble came up over rent and family differences. Adams said the attack was not provoked. The latter was found guilty of a liquor charge by a jury and given a year in prison. Adams suffered cuts on his head and forehead and it was brought out at the trial that he was choked until cartilage in his neck was crushed. District Attorney T. L. Price said. The case was completed at a night session.

Judge Gordon B. McGuire has called a especial term of 106th district court to be opened March 28 here because of criminal cases on the docket.

On 12 farms in Ohio in 1931 the official yield of corn was in excess of 100 bushels per acre.

Three Minute Relief From Periodical Pains

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold. (adv.)

Few Schools In West Texas Of Similar Size Have As Large A Number Of Grain Heads And Cotton Samples

POST, March 9. (Special)—School men who have inspected vocational agriculture equipment in the Post High school report that few high schools in West Texas the size of the local system have as large a number of grain heads and cotton samples and other agricultural exhibits for teaching of vocational agriculture as does the Post department.

C. J. Van Zandt, completing his second year as teacher, has 1,500 head of grain sorghums, a large amount of wheat, oats and barley and between 350 and 400 samples of cotton.

There are 29 boys taking the work this year. All phases of vocational work is being undertaken by the boys, who are enthusiastic over their projects.

The grain sorghum includes milo, kafir, hegari and feterita. There is also cane and sudan. Three varieties of corn are used for instruction work. The cotton is all good middling, or better.

This year at the annual vocational tournament at Texas Technological college, date for which has not been announced, Post will have four teams, livestock and plant and two new ones, dairying and poultry.

In the vocational department is a large case displaying the various types of seed owned by the boys, as well as types of seed grown in West Texas.

At the recent vocational agriculture tournament held at Plainview in connection with the calf and pig show for Hale county, teams placed as follows: plant, second; livestock, third; dairying, fourth and poultry fifth.

Post had the high point man in Guernsey judging and the team as only 20 points behind the high team in livestock.

Clarence Davies was the high man in hogs and horses and also scored high point man of the meet.

The boys have won numerous cups and trophies through their work.

To prove his contention that Alaskan brown and grizzly bears are harmless unless annoyed or attacked, John M. Holzorth, chairman of the national committee for the protection and preservation of the animals, is shown inside a cage at the Bronx, N. Y., Zoo, feeding one of the bears. Due to the fact that the species is rapidly becoming extinct in the North American continent, Mr. Holzworth seeks Admiralty Island, off the coast of Alaska, as a sanctuary for the animals.

Trades Want-Ad For Peanuts

By Staff Correspondent

TAHOKA, March 9.—Trading a year's subscription for farm produce, such as chickens, meat of all kinds, eggs, canned goods wheat, corn grain sorghum and the like, is not a new thing for E. I. Hill, owner of the Lynn county News, and his son Frank Hill, managing editor.

They have done this from time to time for years, as occasion dedanded and the situation warranted. Last summer, for example, they traded subscriptions for chickens and got about 100 head.

But the other day a man came into the News office to put in a want-ad and wanted to know if he could trade some peanuts for the price of the advertisement.

Frank agreed and after the price of the ad had been figured and the value of the peanuts, Frank received 54 pounds of peanuts.

"I don't know what Frank is going to do with all these peanuts," his father said.

"He says he's going to plant some," Mrs. Frank Hill cut in. "I don't see what for, because he has so many now that he will not need to plant any more."

More Than Half Of Tahoka School Taxes Are Collected

TAHOKA, March 9. —(Special)—John N. Thomas, Tahoka independent school district tax collector, has announced that more than 50 per cent of the 1931 school taxes have been collected.

"The district is on a cash basis at this time and it looks like we will be able to continue to the end of the full nine months term without going into too much debt," said the collector. "We are out of debt now.

"During the month of March we are due to receive from the state four dollars per scholastic. That will be more than enough to take care of our current expenses. If we get all of the state aid we should for this year, and collect some current back taxes, I believe we will not have to borrow to pay our warrants.

"Last year at the close of the school term we were about $4,000 in debt. This year we have made that much up and have kept up our current expenses."

Collection of back taxes for 1929 and 1930, in addition to the 1931 or current collections amounted to approximately 70 per cent of the roll.

Condemnation Proceedings To Come Up At Commission Meet

A city commission meeting Thursday afternoon will hear recommendations pertinent to proceedings to condemn the Temple Ellis building shell, two residences and a business structure. The reports are to be made by a committee composed of Wiley Metcalf, fire marshal; W. E. Twitty, city fire chief; Dr. J. W. Rollo, city health officer, and D. J. Schlagg, city building inspector.

The committee is authorized by the city building code. The two residential buildings are located at 2210 Fifteenth street and at 1945 Avenue N. The business structure is located at 903 Avenue G.

Following inspections, the fire and health departments report to the city building inspector, who also investigates, and recommendations are presented to the commission. The commission may name an outside committee to probe condition of the buildings.

A Chicago firm has developed a portable television transmitter which can be fitted into three suitcases.

French military authorities have ruled that bandsmen must learn to be telegraphers, too.

Care Of Chickens Is Taught At Post

POST, March 9. (Special)—The Post High school vocational agriculture department is giving practical training in the care of chickens from the time they are day-old baby chicks until they are at least six weeks old. C. J. Van Zandt is vocational instructor.

Nine brooders, with about 500 chickens from only a few days old to more than four weeks, are located in a room in the school basement. The brooders are electric type. This is the fourth year of this type of instruction, said Supt. Ira E. Witt. Last year 400 chickens were raised. The birds, property of the students, are sold when they weigh about a pound and one-half.

Minnesota motorists consumed 40,304,599 more gallons of gasoline in 1931 than in 1930.

"Oh, Yeah? well don't let it happen again, Son!"

Say, how come, guy,
You dropped that fly
And spoiled the no-hit game I'm pitchin'?
What put you off?
Oh, yeah . . . a cough?
Yuh couldn't stop yer throat from twitchin'?

Them fags yuh smoke
Would make you choke.
Well, listen to what I'm remarkin'—
You just arrange
To make a change
And smoke OLD GOLDS and stop that barkin'!

Us Old Boys learn
OLD GOLDS don't burn
Or scratch yer throat, or ever fag it,
Rich, mild and pure
You'll like 'em—sure,
And—when the next fly comes, you'll bag it!
