Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

This is the last issue but one before the run-off primary, and Talker would like to tell you just how to vote, but he won't.

In the first place intelligent people read this column and Talker infers they are going to vote for his candidates without any need of instruction. And if they haven't quite naturally chosen Talker's candidates they are, as said, intelligent people, and intelligent people are independent and self-reliant and there would be no use of Talker telling them how to vote anyway.

The thing to do is to vote and to vote one's convictions. Vote affirmatively, if possible, but vote even if your vote is only an "agin" vote.

A good many of us have been voting our prejudices. The trouble about this is most of us accumulate so many prejudices we sometimes find them in conflict. Talker has friends who have so many prejudices that they can hardly vote at all. Wouldn't it be a happy situation if all of us could vote affirmatively for somebody and something?

On a recent trip outside of Texas Talker found a great deal of interest in the University of Texas and its possibilities. A lot of folks who had never been in Texas told this Talker just what the university's income from oil royalties was and how much in all it could be expected to derive from this source. The belief appears general that the University of Texas will become one of the great universities of the country.

And as Talker looks through his mail he finds this piece of publicity from the University of Texas News Service:

Since the opening of the university in 1883, a total of 183,121 men and women have been enrolled, either in some school or college of the main university, the College of Mines, the School of Medicine, the College of Nursing, the Summer School, or the Division of Extension, a survey compiled by the university registrar's office shows.

The number enrolled annually has steadily increased since 1883, when 163 men and 56 women were registered, to 1928-29, the last year covered by the report, when 13,254 were served by the institution.

In 1883, there were only the College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Law in operation. The School of Medicine was opened in 1891, with an enrollment of 23, all of whom were men. Two years later three women enrolled in the School of Medicine, and by 1928-29 a total of 401 women had been registered.

The College of Pharmacy was added in 1893, in 1896 the College of Nursing, in 1897 the summer school and summer normal, in 1899 the College of Engineering, in 1909 the Division or Department of Extension, in 1910 the Graduate School, in 1914 the College of Mines, in 1922 the School of Business Administration, and in 1923 the School of Education.

Total enrollment by schools or colleges through 1928-29 is as follows: College of Arts and Sciences, 38,896; Graduate School, 3,368; School of Business Administration, 1,836 men, 215 women, total 2,051; School of Education, 49 men, 405 women, total 454; College of Engineering, 10,802 men, 292 women, total 11,094; School of Law, 9,978 men, 164 women, total 10,142; School of Medicine, 6,874 men, 401 women, total 7,275; College of Nursing, 1 man, 1,412 women, total 1,413; College of Mines, 1,496 men, 702 women, total 2,798; Summer School of Main University, 38,642; Summer School of College of Mines, 257; Summer Normal, 8,001; Division of Extension, 2,826.

BIDS RANGE FROM $67,000 TO $222,000

Treasury Architect Opens Offers on Federal Building Site

INSPECTION PLANNED

Construction to Start On Purchase of Land, Says Maricle

Eleven tracts of land in Wichita Falls, at various locations within the area between Brook and Indiana avenues and Fifth and Twelfth streets, and ranging in price from $67,000 to $222,500, were offered to the federal government for the new postoffice and federal building here in sealed bids opened Thursday in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury department, according to a special dispatch to The Record News from its Washington correspondent.

With this additional step in the direction of the city's realization of one of its outstanding needs, Postmaster O. P. Maricle said Thursday he fully expected to see ground broken and actual construction work on the new federal project started before the first of the coming year. This assurance gave to Wichita Falls a vision of the $750,000 structure and added to the expectation that the building will be near completion before another 12 months elapse.

Inspection Planned

Two actual steps remain before the way will be cleared for breaking ground, Mr. Maricle said. These steps were described as of formal nature, requiring only the stamp of approval from officials of the postoffice and treasury departments.

A committee from Washington, probably composed of one representative from the office of the supervising architect of the treasury department and another from the postoffice department, will visit Wichita Falls within the next few weeks to inspect the 11 sites offered for the federal building. This committee, Mr. Maricle said, will make recommendations as to the most suitable location, with consideration for the price asked and the advantages offered by the site they deem most appropriate. From the report of the committee the actual site will be selected and as soon as a deed has been secured by the government, the way will be clear to let contracts for construction.

Mr. Maricle said that in his opinion the construction contract would be let immediately after transfer of the deed to the site, since the government has signified its intention of going forward with all such federal building projects with as much speed as possible. The breaking of ground should follow closely on the heels of this procedure, he added.

Bidders Listed

Bidding on the sites for the new building was opened here July 19 when Postmaster Maricle received advertisements and forms from the department at Washington. The forms were filled in and submitted by the bidders direct to Washington, bids having closed Thursday. The list of bidders, with the tracts

Illinois G. O. P. May Hop Fence on Liquor Issue

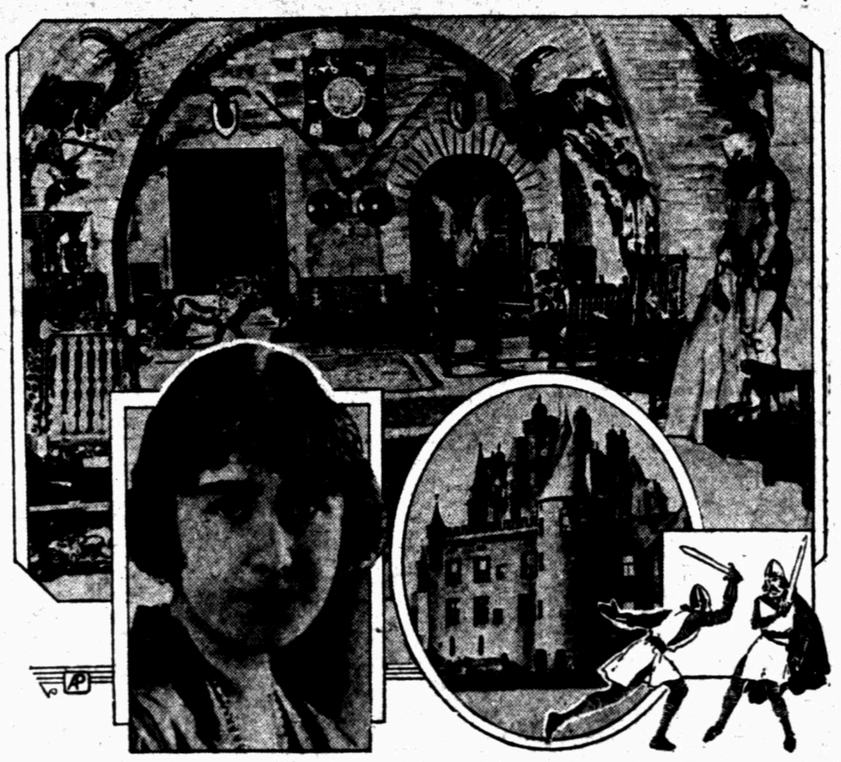

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 21. (AP)—A "middle of the road" platform to prevent dissension in party ranks on the prohibition question may be offered to Republicans of Illinois in convention here tomorrow. The Democratic state convention yesterday demanded repeal of all dry laws.

The proposed platform, which may be changed by the resolutions committee and further modified by the delegates, is the work of candidates for the major offices of the state and other party leaders. Final touches were added to it today at two conferences.

PROMISED ADVANCEMENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (US)—Col. Stanley H. Ford, general staff corps, was today selected by the war department for promotion to Brigadier general when Brig. Gen. William W. Harts retires Aug. 31.

Royal Heir Born in Historic 'Haunted' Castle

The Duchess of York (above) Thursday gave birth to a daughter in her old home, Glamis castle, shown with a glimpse of the crypt where Macbeth is reputed to have killed Duncan. The castle supposedly is haunted by a "wicked earl" to this day.

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 21. (AP)—The Duchess of York, expecting her second child, retired to her old home here, Glamis castle, where Macbeth, the story goes, killed Duncan.

The ancient castle was her home for many years before she married King George's second son.

Glamis is the oldest inhabited castle in Scotland.

The first legend which lends historic importance to the place is that Duncan was murdered there by Macbeth, Thane of Glamis, in the crypt. Macbeth's sword and shirt of mail still hang in the armory.

The estate came into possession of the duchess' family in 1371.

The castle, supposedly, is haunted by "a wicked earl" to this day. There is a secret room in the castle known only to the possessor of the castle, his heir and his factor. There are always sworn to secrecy regarding its location. The duchess, thus, does not.

The room is supposed to have been the scene of a hideous gambling affair, the hero of it being an Earl of Strathmore.

The legend, duly chronicled in standard British reference books, goes that one Sabbath the old earl could get nobody to play cards with him.

So he swore he would play with the devil himself.

And the legend continued that the devil did show up and played a stormy game of cards with the old earl, who died soon afterwards.

He is supposed to haunt the secret room.

SPEAKERS HERE DENOUNCE JIM

4,000 Attend Final Rally For Sterling

Drastic denunciation of "Fergusonism" and confident predictions that Ross S. Sterling will be swept into line for election as governor in Saturday's run-off primary featured addresses by Mrs. A. C. Zehner of Dallas and Dr. J. W. Hunt of Abilene at a Northwest Texas woman's rally held by the local women's Sterling-for-Governor club at the Memorial auditorium Thursday night. According to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, there were approximately 4,000 persons in the audience.

Launching immediately into scathing attacks on James E. Ferguson, who was branded as the real candidate under the name of Mrs. Ferguson, both of the principal speakers devoted practically their entire time to alleged descriptions of alleged breaches of public trust by the Fergusons in the past, and to pleas for the nomination of Mr. Sterling Saturday as the chief requisite to establishing honest government within the state.

Hecklers Silenced

Familiar voices and familiar exclamations, originating in the same position on the auditorium grounds from which they have "heckled" at nearly every political meeting there during the present month, were present Thursday night. Efforts to disturb Mrs. Zehner and Dr. Hunt during their addresses proved unavailing, however, their answers to hecklers quite completely silencing those outbreaks while their appeal to the main body of listeners held the audience in close attention.

Mrs. Zehner, for many years a chautauqua lecturer and a veteran of many campaigns on various public issues, declared the present campaign for state office "one of the greatest epochs in the history of Texas."

"The crucial point will be reached

Duchess of York Gives Birth To Daughter as Third Royal Heir

British Empire Gladdened by News of New Arrival at Historic Old Glamis Castle

GLAMIS, Forfarshire, Scotland, Aug. 21. (US)—A baby girl was born tonight to the Duchess of York in Glamis castle, seat of the Earls of Strathmore, an event which has been long and anxiously awaited by the British people, who had hoped for a male heir presumptive to the throne.

The whisper that a little princess had arrived reached the crowd of loyal Scots outside the castle's gates shortly after 9 o'clock, not long after the speeding automobile of Home Secretary J. R. Clynes had carried him through the mysterious and closely guarded gates of the ancient Saxon pile.

Second Girl

The new arrival is the second girl to be born to the duke and duchess,

WALES TO WED

LONDON, Aug. 21. (US)—The Prince of Wales will marry within a year. At least, that is the fond hope of the Briton tonight, who recalls the promise the prince is said to have made the Duchess of York only a few weeks ago.

The prince, it was reported, told his sister-in-law that if her second child should be a girl, he would marry inside a year.

Tonight's news from Glamis that the second daughter had been born to the duchess finds Britain inclined to believe that the prince will shortly start his long-postponed search for a bride.

and providing the Prince of Wales never marries, is in direct line to the throne, following after the Duke of York and her own baby sister, Princess Elizabeth, now four years old.

The scene of the event is the same glorious old Scottish castle which saw the birth of the duchess herself 30 years ago, but the new arrival was greeted with the subdued well-wishes of a crowd of local inhabitants who gathered at the gates of Glamis castle today when the news first spread that the long-

LIVINGSTON IN LEAD AT TULSA

Great Crowd Welcomes Air Racers Here

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 21. (UP)—Jack Livingston maintained his lead of one hour and 11 minutes over W. G. Moore, his only opponent in the Brownsville-to-Chicago air derby for class B planes when the two landed here late today.

Livingston took off from Fort Worth at 8:30 a. m. and landed here at 3:32 p. m. and Moore was a minute behind. Livingston's total elapsed time now is 14:01:42; Moore's 15:12:28. The pair will fly to Kansas City tomorrow.

GLADYS O'DONNELL LEADS AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—Gladys O'Donnell led the women's national air derby into Amarillo today. She made the hop from Lubbock in 42 minutes 11 seconds, landing at 3 p. m. She averaged 172 miles an hour.

Ruth Barron displaced Marjorie Doig for second place. Miss Doig's plane had a flat tire at Lubbock.

5,000 GREET FLIERS AT MUNY AIRPORT

Spectators estimated to have numbered 5,000 persons were entertained briefly at the Municipal airport Thursday morning with the arrival and departure of John Livingston and W. G. Moore, sole entries in the Brownsville-Chicago derby of the national air races, who spent one hour following their jump from Fort Worth on the third day's flight.

Livingston First

Sighted by the waiting crowd as he flashed over Wichita Falls 50 minutes after leaving Meacham field, Fort Worth, Livingston swooped across the finish line at an elevation of less than 30 feet at 9:24:18 o'clock. Moore, who took off at Fort Worth one minute later than his competitor, brought his speed ship across the line before Livingston's plane had come to rest, being checked in at 9:26:11½ o'clock. The leader's time from Fort Worth was announced by Judge William N. Bonner, timer, as 53 minutes, 18 seconds. Moore made the jump in 54 minutes, 11½ seconds, it was stated. Elapsed time for the fliers since they left Brownsville Tuesday was announced as 7 hours 53 seconds for

FARM LEADERS SHOWN POWER OF IRRIGATION

Visitors From Texas And Oklahoma Counties Open Tour

45 MAKE C.-C. TRIP

Poultry, Dairy and Farm Industries Prosper In Valley

By JOHN GOULD
The Record News Staff

A group of 45 representative farmers from seven Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma counties were shown Thursday afternoon what irrigation means in a drouthy year. Escorted by a number of Wichitans, they toured the southern part of the irrigated valley, saw many things that interested them and some things that astounded them, saw thriving fields of cotton and feed that irrigation water had kept luxuriant.

They visited the powdered milk plant, for which most of the counties represented supply the raw material; saw one of Texas' largest orchards, green and healthy in spite of the fact that it has not yet been irrigated, due to the deep tillage system employed; visited the demonstration dairy farm where the Junior chamber of commerce is making a practical tryout of dairying; saw the largest White Leghorn poultry ranch in the world, M. Johnson's, and heard him tell of plans for virtually doubling the incubator capacity; saw what to most of them was a startling novelty, a complete and prosperous-looking farm on just three-quarters of an acre, and inspected a dairy where some of Texas' bluest-blooded cows are kept.

Tour Resumed Today

Supper was served them at the fair grounds and was followed by a visit to Lakeside park and a swim in Westmoreland pool. The visitors spent the night in one of the fair buildings, on straw bunks which were improvised after the effort to obtain cots had proved unsuccessful.

The tour will be resumed at 7 a. m. today and it is expected that additional guests from Frederick and Duncan will join the party this morning. Various points and farms in the valley south and east of Iowa Park are on today's itinerary, with dinner to be served at the experiment station, followed by the station's annual field day program.

The trip is sponsored by the agricultural committee of the chamber of commerce to provide an object lesson in irrigation farming in a very dry year. Joe N. Sherrill, chairman of the committee, County Agent G. C. McGown, S. D. Johnson of the Kempner properties and Secretary Wilburn Page of the Junior chamber of commerce were in the escoring party.

The start was made from the courthouse, with the powdered milk plant of the Southwest Dairy Products company as the first stop. There P. R. Freeman, local manager, showed the visitors through the plant, following the journey of the milk from the receiving platform where it is unloaded, weighed and tested, through the separator and condenser to the immense vat in the top of the building where heated air dries the moisture out of the milk, leaving the sulphur-

Pope Gives Audience To Former President's Son

ROME, Aug. 21. (US)—Charles P. Taft II, son of the late former President Taft, was received in audience today by Pope Pius XI.

The pope told Taft that he well remembered meeting his distinguished father when the latter came to Rome as United States representative for the Philippine Island negotiations toward transferring the resident Spanish priests and substituting those of other nationalities. The pontiff said that he was then particularly struck by the elder Taft's cordiality and cleverness.

After the Taft reception, the pope accorded an audience to members of the party with which Taft is traveling.

Storey In Appeal For J. V. Allred

Vernon Man Says R. L. Bobbitt 'Mediocre' As Lawyer

AMARILLO, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—Cecil Storey of Vernon, who ran third in the race for attorney general in the July primary, announced tonight he would support the candidacy of James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, in a radio address over radio station WDAG.

"Without attempting to dictate to anyone and at the request of numerous friends in every section of Texas," he said, "I feel impelled to say that I shall cheerfully vote for James V. Allred for attorney general on Aug. 23.

"A careful study and consideration of the qualifications and public record of the two men convinces me that the best interests of Texas will be served by the election of James V. Allred."

He said he had known both Allred and Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt, his opponent, for a number of years.

"I served in the legislature with Mr. Bobbitt," he said. "Our personal relations were always pleasant. However, as a lawyer, in my judgment he is not generally considered one of very great ability but more of the mediocre order. His appointment as attorney general was, in my opinion, dictated rather by political expediency than on the ground of ability and qualification.

"As for Jimmie Allred, he is a young man, full of energy, vim and has demonstrated remarkable legal attainments, not only as a

'MA' AND ROSS IN SAME TOWN

Jim Addresses Big Crowd At Fort Worth

(By The Associated Press)

Appearing in the same town, San Antonio, Ross S. Sterling and Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson tonight brought to a climax one of Texas' most acrimonious election campaigns, their fight for preference next Saturday when the voters will choose between them for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

While her outstanding champion, her husband, James E. Ferguson, had an engagement to continue his hard campaigning at Fort Worth, Mrs. Ferguson decided to appear at the Alamo city with Barry Miller, thrice lieutenant governor and eliminated from the gubernatorial joust along with eight others in the July primary. It was one of Mrs. Ferguson's few run-off campaign appearances, she having left the strenuous work to her husband.

Sterling in Full Day

Sterling already had a full day and night of campaigning outlined, but was prevailed on to rush to San Antonio after a night speech at San Marcos. He appeared in the afternoon at Georgetown.

While Mrs. Ferguson had with her the lieutenant governor, Sterling had with him as a speaker no less strength than Clint C. Small of Wellington, who swept West Texas in the July primary to run third to Mrs. Ferguson and Sterling.

Also on the program with the Houston man was Senator Walter Woodward, a happy but hard campaigner.

Gov. Dan Moody kept Sterling's home town interest up by a speech there Thursday night, jumping to

Cotton Crop Declines Further Past Week

DALLAS, Aug. 21. (UP)—The week ending Aug. 21 saw further deterioration of the Texas cotton crop with the bulk of the state reporting present prospects below average, the Dallas News will say tomorrow in its weekly crop survey.

"Only 33 counties, mostly in South, Southeast and lower Central Texas, report the crop as average or above," the report will say. "A few counties on the western fringe of the south plains show average prospects."

HEAT STROKES FATAL TO MEN AT STATE FARM

Attorney for Victim Writes Letter Demanding Probe Of Affairs

FOUR OTHERS FALL

Cotton Pickers Stricken In Blistering Sun As Guards Look On

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—A thorough investigation of circumstances surrounding the death of three state prisoners from heat prostration was promised this afternoon by Lee Simmons, general manager of the penitentiary system.

The three died yesterday while picking cotton. Jimmie Arnold and Hebert Davis at Clemens state prison, and Zeb Daniels, negro, at the Ramsey farm.

Burglary Sentence

Arnold was under sentences totaling seven years for theft and burglary and had been charged, not long ago, with the beach murder of Charles Gouge. Gouge's young woman companion, Miss Lillian Bissett, was wounded at the time.

J. A. Collier, attorney for Arnold's mother, Mrs. Ruby Arnold, today announced at Houton, that he had written a letter to Mr. Simmons requesting an investigation and had said he wanted this question answered: "Why was a man, or more properly a youth, put in a cotton field to work after spending eight months in jail and four months in the walls.

"I believe," Collier's letter continued, "you will agree with me that few persons, even if they were never incarcerated, could live through this treatment if they were unaccustomed to cotton picking or hard physical labor under a burning sun."

Four Others Stricken

Mr. Simmons revealed that four other prisoners at Clemens farm had had to "fall out" on account of the excessive heat and were being treated at the prison hospital.

Concerning the deaths he said he was confident "that the two white men died of heat prostration induced by the excessive heat. They were not driven to over exert themselves as far as I can ascertain from the guards after questioning them last night and today."

He added he had learned the negro was overcome after a "picking race" with another negro.

Three or four overcome but not killed still were in a serious condition late today while the fourth had been discharged, Mr. Simmons said.

Guards in Statement

The guards, in a statement to Mr. Simmons, denied having overworked the prisoners, stating they had allowed them to take their time and had not tried to "push them."

Captain W. M. Hickman, in charge of the farm, told Simmons the prisoners had fallen below the average in their work the last few days and that he had asked them to try to increase it as much as possible.

Hickman said the average number of pounds picked daily by each prisoner was 200 and that recently the men had dropped down to an average of 133 pounds.

In a letter sent to all managers of prison farms about two weeks ago Simmons said he had instructed guards not to overwork the men in the excessive heat and to allow them longer lunch periods and to work later in the evenings.

"There is an ever increasing number of prisoners being sent to the farms from the 'walls,' new men just admitted, and these men for the most part have been confined in jails for long periods and are not capable of stepping in and doing hard work at first," the letter said.

Jimmy Doolittle To Attend Air Races

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (US)—Maj. James Doolittle, army reserve flying ace, will hop off from Bolling field here tomorrow with a special message from President Hoover to be read at the opening of the national air races at Chicago.

Shrunken Incomes Wipe Out Hopes For Continuing Income Tax Slash

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (US)—High treasury officials have virtually given up hope of continuing the one per cent income tax reduction next year, but they have no present intention of seeking higher taxes, it was learned today.

Although there have been rumors from time to time that shrunken incomes this year might force an increase of rates, above those fixed in the 1928 law, treasury officials said no consideration has been given to such a possibility.

The 1928 rates were in effect until early this year, when congress made a temporary uniform reduction of one per cent in all rates.

This action having been taken by joint resolution, without altering the tax law, the former rates will be restored automatically next year unless congress should continue the reduction for another year or make it permanent.

Paring of departmental budgets is under way, at the instance of President Hoover, as part of the effort to avoid higher rates. All possible expedients of this character will be resorted to, it is understood, in preference to moving rates up.

Hope is felt that a business pick-up in the fall and winter will expand many individual and corporate incomes that have been curtailed in the first half of the year. Such an expansion would be reflected promptly in federal revenues, for the taxes coming in early next year will be paid on incomes earned in the full calendar year, 1930.

Mother of Flier Had 'Premonition' Of Fatal Crash, Father Reveals

Mother love, the harmony between a mother's heart and the life of her boy—call it what you will—such things have always existed, always will. It is but seldom however, that one encounters such harmony between the hearts of mother and son as that revealed here Thursday evening after last rites and final tribute had been said over the body of Burton L. Walker, killed Monday in an airplane crash at the Municipal airport here.

Jack Walker, father of the flier, revealed to The Record News Thursday evening that Mrs. Walker the flier's mother, had felt a distinct premonition of the tragedy which overtook her boy here Monday, even before the message telling of his fatal injury arrived at their home in Helena, Ark.

The feeling that something had happened to her son Monday, the father related, was strengthened by the fact that at the time of Walker's previous crash here, in which he escaped serious injury by almost a miracle, Mrs. Walker experienced a startling premonition of the accident in a dream, in which she saw in clear detail an almost exact vision of her son's injuries. The dream, Mr. Walker said, came to his wife one Sunday night. The following day she related what she had dreamed and expressed fear that her son had been hurt. The news of his crash did not come

Livingston Leads Rival To Field Here

Livington, 9 hours, 3 minutes, 39½ seconds for Moore, giving the former a lead of 1 hour, 10 minutes, 39½ seconds up to the time of landing at the local airport.

Livingston, who hails from Aurora, Ill., took off on the hop to Oklahoma City at 10:31 a. m., with Moore following over the starting line one minute later. Perry Browning acted as starter. The two pilots planned to spend Thursday night in Tulsa. On Friday they will stop at Springfield, Mo., and spend Friday night at St. Louis. Aurora, Ill., will be one of the control points on Saturday's flight, which will bring the planes to Chicago for the start of the National Air races.

Pilots Welcomed

No confusion nor accidents marred the racers' visit to the local field, despite the large crowd assembled to witness the event. Aided by a recently constructed fence, Police Chief Frank Burns and a corps of motorcycle and traffic officers easily kept the crowd off the field until both racing planes had been parked for their brief stop.

Preceding the arrival of the two contestants, R. C. Allen of Chicago, manager of the derby, accompanied by R. L. Putman, Chicago publisher, and E. H. Pearson, pilot, arrived at the Municipal airport in the six-place cabin plane in which the same party visited this city last Friday.

Wilbur Cahoon acted as referee at this control point. Judge Bonner was assisted in timing the ships by L. P. Hammond. The fliers were welcomed by a committee headed by Walter Nelson Jr., mayor, and their planes were completely serviced under the direction of C. P. Logan, airport manager.

Houston from West Texas, into which he went despite Ferguson's dare and offer of $50 for each speech made in that area.

Closes at Galveston

Friday, the last day of the campaign, will find Sterling making his last plea in his own behalf at a close to home bailiwick when he makes his final address at Galveston.

The end of the campaign will come for the Fergusons with Mr. Ferguson speaking at Marlin.

In the lieutenant governor's race on the Democratic ticket, Sterling P. Strong and E. E. Witt Thursday continued their decorous, non-mudslinging appeal for preference.

Prof. A. F. Henning of the Texas Election bureau, the only unofficial agency in Texas compiling returns from elections, stated Thursday that fever heat in the gubernatorial contest was indicated by only two of Texas' 253 organized counties deciding not to hold run-off primaries as against 17 which failed to hold such elections two years ago. The two counties were Kendall and Borden, in which the Sterling July vote totaled 184, the Ferguson vote 155 and in which the grand total of votes cast was 462.

STERLING REACHES ORATORICAL HEIGHTS

SAN MARCOS, Aug. 21. (AP)—Ross Sterling reached oratorical heights today as he journeyed through Dan Moody's home county into the state capital and down toward South Texas on a last minute vote garnering trip.

His attack upon Ferguson surpassed any previous efforts of his campaign. His hands and his voice shook as he made statements in refutation of charges that he under paid workers on his Dayton-Goose Creek railroad—"not so long, but just as wide as the Katy"—and declared that the workers on the line were now out working for his candidacy although he no longer owns the line.

Crowds jammed the east side of the Georgetown courthouse, in Governor's Moody's home county, this afternoon, and stopped all traffic when Sterling spoke from the balcony of a hotel on Austin's main street later today.

On the platform with Sterling at Georgetown were D. W. Wilcox, nominal head of the state's Democratic party as chairman of state executive committee; Albert Sidney Johnson, secretary of the same committee who is accompanying Sterling; and Representative Harry N. Graves, Wilcox's law partner at Georgetown.

Denies Charge

Sterling dealt individually with the charges he said James E. Ferguson had made against him, from the "22 bathtubs" to the "wholesale liquor business." He denied he had ever engaged in wholesale liquor business, declaring charges to that effect were based on his ownership of shares in a store which stored beer on ice.

He said he had never stated he wanted to move the state penitentiary system; denied he owned Standard Oil or state sulphur companies; denied that he was a director of the Lumbermen's Reciprocal Insurance company of Houston which recently went into receivership; or that Jim Ferguson had kept him "out of the penitentiary" in connection with a land deal in West Texas.

His connection with the Houston insurance firm, he said, was as a stockholder in the Security Union company of Houston, operated by the same company, and which, he said, he had recommended be placed in receivership.

Pledged $35,000

"I arranged for reinsurance of all policies held by that company and pledged $35,000 of [illegible] own money to guarantee payment of all claims, long before old Jim knew anything about it," he shouted.

Sterling exhibited with pride a watch employes of his railroad had given him on his birthday in 1922, and said so far as he knew it was the only railroad the employes of which received 13 months' salary for 12 months' work, the extra month's pay being given at Christmas.

Johnson, as the first speaker, and Representative Graves, launched bitter attacks on the pardon records of the Fergusons, citing individual cases from several sections of the state and defying any one in the audience to uphold the granting of the pardons.

As to the objections to his candidacy because he is a rich man, Sterling declared "the question isn't how much money you have, it's how you use it."

Wilcox, in introducing the speakers, said he had not supported Sterling in the first primary, but that the question had now resolved into "honesty in government" and that it behooved everyone who stood for that principle to support Sterling.

FORT WORTH CROWD HEARS "FARMER JIM"

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP)—James E. Ferguson appropriated La Grave field, the home of the Fort Worth baseball team for an address tonight in order to accommodate thousands of persons whom he expected to attend.

The former governor delivered his next to the last address of the bitter run-off campaign in behalf of the gubernatorial candidacy of his wife, Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson.

Ferguson was invading one of the state's urban centers which generally are considered Sterling's strongest fortresses. Mrs. Ferguson, however, was second to Clint C. Small in Tarrant county in the first primary even though she received less than 25 per cent of the votes.

Ferguson headquarters was the scene of continual milling today as followers of the woman candidate inquired whether "Jim" had arrived and asked for latest plans for tonight's rally.

Bearers of the Ferguson banner arranged for the broadcasting of Ferguson's speech over radio station KTAT from 8 to 10 o'clock. A. B. Curtis, Ferguson's Tarrant county campaign manager presided and Mrs. Dan M. Doyle preceded Ferguson as a speaker.

Curtis introduced Mrs. Doyle as a "good woman and mother supporting another good woman and mother, Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson." Mrs. Doyle, a Sunday school teacher, was presented as a woman prominent in church and club activities.

Here in one of the counties which gave Clint Small a plurality, the Panhandle senator was attacked by Mrs. Doyle. Small is supporting Sterling in the run-off.

"Clint Small is trying to go forward and backward at the same time," Mrs. Doyle said. "He is trying to catch onto anybody's bandwagon, no matter which way it's going.

"They are saying that Mrs. Ferguson would be a 'namby pamby' governor; that Jim Ferguson would run the office. We know who Mrs. Ferguson's husband is. We don't know who would be behind the scenes if Ross Sterling should be governor."

Mrs. Doyle hailed Mrs. Ferguson's suggestion for a law to disqualify officers who drink intoxicants as the most constructive proposal for the enforcement of the 18th amendment ever advanced.

The large grandstand was nearly filled. The audience stood and cheered as Ferguson mounted the platform. The chief speaker was introduced by Curtis in a few words.

Ferguson, speaking from a stand half way between the pitcher's box and second base, said this was the first time he had ever spoken 100 feet away from the crowd. "But I am not half as far away from the people as Ross Sterling will be at the ballot box Saturday."

The former governor lost little time in levelling an attack on Clint Small and on the Fort Worth Star Telegram which supported Small in the first primary and is now urging the nomination of Sterling.

"Small is a peculiar animal in Texas politics," Ferguson said. "In the first campaign he charged that Sterling represented the Standard Oil, that he favored the special interests. The day after the first election, I saw Small here and he called Sterling a 'blankety blank blank'. He said he did not want to dictate to his followers but 'you can rely on it, I'm supporting your wife' and repeated that the Sterling crowd was trying to buy the governor's office.

"When I heard Small was going to Houston I said that there was something dead in Denmark," he continued.

"The Star Telegram said in the first primary that the Sterling forces were trying to buy the governor's office. The Star Telegram produced Moody and now is sorry for it. After producing a misfit like Moody they ought to go back and sit down and never tell you how to vote."

"Sterling first said that it must have been some other Sterling. Then, when he saw I had him he said the company only sold beer," Ferguson related as the stands howled.

The speaker then mentioned some of the men who were taking parts in Sterling's campaign. He named William Strauss, and Jesse Jones of Houston and called attention to Jacob F. Wolters of Houston, who he said managed the anti-prohibition campaign in 1911.

About the middle of his speech, Ferguson was interrupted by the first serious heckling he has encountered during the run-off campaign.

"Hurrah for Ross Sterling," a few insisted.

"Don't worry about that," Ferguson admonished the rest of his hearers. Then turning to his hecklers, he said: "You'll shut up; you'll never get another chance to holler that after tonight. Each of you who is saying that has $1.25 of the Sterling forces' money in your pocket."

A large proportion of the audience roared and the crowd was more enthusiastic thereafter. Some, however, continued to "hurrah for Sterling."

Ferguson had just finished a warning to the bankers which received considerable response. "You bankers had better keep your nose out of this campaign," he admonished, "you're the only set of people in the world who live off what other people make."

NEW ENGLISH PRINCESS BORN

Third Heir to Throne Born By Duchess of York

awaited birth would take place tonight.

Bonfire Lighted

On Hunters hill, near Glamis castle, a huge bonfire was lighted after many unsuccessful efforts in the drizzle which marred the day. The beacon finally burst into flames that lighted the night and carried the happy tidings to the tenants of the 14th Earl of Strathmore, father of the duchess.

King George and Queen Mary, at Sandringham, their summer residence, were immediately notified of the birth by telephone from Glamis, and expressed great happiness at the reminder that they "still are grandparents." The Prince of Wales at Le Touquet, was notified by telephone, and his first wish was for the duchess' health and greetings to the royal family's newest infant.

Famous Physician

The duchess was attended by Sir Henry Simson, famous British gynecologist, and his assistants. Home Secretary J. H. Clynes, commanded by the British law to certify the birth of an heir to the throne, immediately telegraphed the news to the administration office in London and to Prime Minister MacDonald. The home secretary rushed to Glamis from Airlie castle, eight miles away, when he received the inevitable summons from the Duke of York.

King George's fourth grandchild will have her own room in Glamis castle until she is unwittingly removed for her first sight of London through the windows of the duke's Piccadilly residence. The room will be the one in which the duchess, as the little girl who was lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, played almost three decades ago.

The girl students of the royal school of needlework, plus the members of her mother's and the duke's family, have already provided the new princess with her first wardrobe.

The duchess' mother, the Countess of Strathmore, has made a baptismal robe of the finest lawn, exquisitely hand-stitched and trimmed with ancient lace, long handed down from past Countesses of Strathmore.

Queen Mary has sent a dress and matinee jacket of peach satin and Princess Mary a white embroidered silk "coatee" and bonnet, which she made herself.

The duchess, while awaiting the event, prepared her own little baby basket, stitching into the corners small lavender bags, to scent the softly padded peach silk lining.

Two large rooms in the duke's Piccadilly house have been prepared for the little princess' reception when she is taken to London from Glamis. Princess Elizabeth's white cot and satin quilt, gift of Queen Mary at "Princess Lilly-Bet's" birth, will be used for the latest baby princess. While at Glamis Princess Elizabeth had her playroom on the same floor of the castle that the duchess occupied.

The day-long drizzle turned into a heavy downpour just about 9 o'clock, but the thunder and lightning which was the heaven's greeting to Britain's newest princess did not dismay the crowd at the gates, who sighed with relief and then subdued their huzzahs in deference to the duchess when the official bulletin was posted that a baby girl had been born to the duchess.

The bulletin was signed by Drs. F. Neon Reynolds and David Myles.

Insect-Infested Homes Have Most Illness

Authorities Waging Big Clean-up Campaign —Advise Using Kill-Ko

KILLS FLIES, MOSQUITOES, ANTS, MOTHS AND ROACHES

Multiplying at an almost unbelievable rate, living and feeding upon filth, insects spread all kinds of dangerous disease.

Authorities recognized the merit of Kill-Ko are urging everyone to use its deadly gas in stamping out insects, to clean up home and public buildings, thereby removing the cause of so much illness.

Kill-Ko does what dusts, powders and sticky papers cannot do. It sends off a powerful death-dealing gas that kills all insect life—and yet it is absolutely harmless to humans, beasts, fowls, furniture or fabrics.

Flies and mosquitoes fall in agony as Kill-Ko snuffs out their lives. Its gas penetrates every nook and corner, killing the young, leaving no new crop to take the place of others.

Kill-Ko has been used for years. It is approved and preferred by many health authorities. You, too, will like it better than anything you have ever used.

Get Rigo's Kill-Ko from your druggist or grocer—in the blue bottles only. Two sizes, 50c and 75c. You will find nothing else more effective.—Adv.

Expectancy

Young mothers find in this richest malted milk palatable mildness and wholesome nutriment in happiest combination. As children love it, so do people in all ages and conditions find it pleasant relief for fatigue. Send ten cents today for a sample and mixer.

Wichitan Barely Escapes as Fire Destroys Home

Aroused by heat and smoke from flames which were rapidly destroying his home, Robert E. Allday, 1822 Pearl street, awoke early Thursday morning to find all exits from his bedroom with the exception of a window blocked by walls of fire. He escaped through the window without having time to save anything from the burning house, which was almost completely wrecked by the blaze.

Loss was estimated at $5,000 by officials of the fire department. The fire occurred about 2 a. m. Thursday. Fire Chief J. L. McClure said it was likely the blaze was caused by defective wiring, although officials had not definitely determined a cause Thursday night. Mr. Allday was asleep and alone in the house when the blaze broke out. His wife and their two small children went recently to Kerrville, Texas, on a vacation trip.

Turkey Accused of Being Center of Dope Traffic

GENEVA, Aug. 21. (US)—Turkey today was accused of being the center of illicit traffic in narcotics, during the first public meeting of the permanent central opium board of the League of Nations.

The secretary of the board, reviewing the result of a secret investigation in the Balkans, reported:

"The center of gravity of the problem of the manufacture and distribution of narcotics is fast shifting to the East."

Prof. G. Gallavresi, Italian member, suggested that the League of Nations take steps to force Turkey to ratify and abide by the opium conventions of the league.

HUEY LONG HAS TARIFF PLANS

Louisiana Governor Runs For Senate Seat

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 21.—Gov. Huey Long, one time "drummer on the road, selling hardware, lard, groceries, most anything," aspires to be a U. S. senator.

Pausing in his campaign for this office the man who often has been in public prints for his spectacular administration told the United Press he favors tariff and debentures, and does not know "what I would do about prohibition if I were given power."

Long is not yet 40. He comes of what they call in Louisiana "good stock," but he was not raised in the lap of luxury. The age of 16 found him "a drummer on the road." Until he was 21, he was a "drunker." Then, with a little more than a year's study at the University of Oklahoma and Tulane, he became a lawyer and since then his career has been one of constant rise.

Beats Impeachment

A little more than two years ago he was elected governor. Since then he has fought off one attempt to impeach him and now he seems to be upon the offensive himself as he tours the state, driving his own car, accompanied by a big truck which carries amplifying appartus, and makes speeches.

Long sat on a hard bench beneath a big gum tree in the village of Livingston, 80 miles from New Orleans. At the close of one of three meetings he addressed and told of some of the things he has in his mind, but doesn't put in his speeches.

"I stand for a tariff and for debentures," he said. "I didn't talk to these people about it but that's what I stand for. I believe in a tariff not too high and only where it's needed. That will help the working man and build industry. And I stand for debentures to help the farmers.

Experts for Tariff

"But about this tariff business. I don't think it really ought to be in politics. What we ought to have is a body of experts who do nothing but study the tariff and they should have charge of it. They should hold office long enough to know their business.

"But they should be changed before the big interests give their wives too many society dinners.

"And about prohibition — what does everyone think about prohibition? What we have now isn't good. It isn't as good as we want it, but it's better than what we used to have and we wouldn't go back to that. I'll tell you, if I were given the power and told to go ahead and solve the liquor question right now I wouldn't know how to go about it. I'll have to admit I've changed my mind on that more times than on anything in the world.

"As for the army and navy, I'm for everything and anything that will cut down our army and our navy. I'll vote for every treaty and everything that makes for peace. It's a curse the way we spend our money for armies and for navies. The government has no time or money left for anything else."

Reference was made to the threat to bring out the militia to close gambling in the famous old city.

"They've got to behave in New Orleans," he said. "I believe we have too many laws and that's one of the curses of the country, but I believe when we have a law its enforcement should be positive. And that's what they'll get. New Orleans is the Sodom of the South; of the whole country. It's rotten. And it's a shame."

Free Employment Bureau Stormed by Jobless

Two thousand hungry, jobless men, unable to apply at employment agencies where advance commissions are required, immediately jammed the municipal free employment bureau as it was opened in New York City. A staff of 31 workers, under the direction of Edward C. Rybicki, shown here interviewing an applicant, was swamped by the appeals for aid. Hundreds of women and many one-time professional men were among the applicants who said: "We'll do anything, mister—all we want is jobs."

GIRL MOTHER DENIED PAROLE

Slayer of Stepchild Sent to Penitentiary

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21. (AP)—Hope of 20-year-old Jessie Cooper, serving a life sentence for the drowning of her 6-year-old stepdaughter, to obtain a parole and a home faded today when the state sanity board recommended that she be transferred from the state penitentiary to the state industrial school for girls at Tecumseh.

The girl, wife of an aged Indian, drowned her step-daughter four years ago by holding the child's head under water in a small creek, because the child annoyed her.

Chicagoan Killed By Home Intruder

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (INS)—Anton Anlecki, 42, owner of a soft drink place, was fatally wounded today when he engaged in a gun duel with a bandit at his home.

The bandit, Frank Kolka, 25, an ex-convict, was wounded also and is in a critical condition.

Kolka, police learned, entered Anlecki's home. Anlecki aroused from sleep and discovered him.

The two men met face to face and both fired simultaneously. Anlecki dropped to the floor with a bullet in his abdomen, while Kolka fled.

Trailing spots of blood, police found Kolka at his home.

Hale Holden Granted S. L. S. W. Directorship

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Hale Holden, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific system, was permitted today by the Interstate Commerce commission to take a seat on the board of directors of the St. Louis Southwestern system.

The Southern Pacific lately announced its purchase of control of the St. Louis Southwestern subject to the sanction of the commission, which it is now seeking.

Boy Shooting at Tin Cans Slightly Wounds Woman, Then Kills Himself

GALT, Ont., Aug. 21. (AP)—Shooting at tin cans last night on the farm of David Main, where he was employed, 18-year-old Thomas Oelman struck Mrs. Main when she walked from behind a shed into range of the gun.

She was not fatally hurt, but Oelman did not wait to learn that. He turned the rifle on himself and fired, dying a few hours later.

'Butter Bootleggers' Bring State Action

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21. (UP)—War was planned against "butter bootleggers" today by the Pennsylvania department of agriculture after disclosures that thousands of housewives were being cheated by the distribution of re-churned and watered butter.

John H. Tryon, general agent of the bureau of foods and chemistry for this district said his agents have gathered evidence against the butter racketeers.

Indiana Bank Robbed Third Time in 2 Years

MARSHFIELD, Ind., Aug. 21. (INS)—The Marshfield State bank, a $130,000 institution, was victim of the third holdup in two years today, when two dapper young bandits raided it, grabbed $500 in cash and kidnaped Cashier Samuel C. Adams, 60, to prevent vigilantes from shooting at them.

"Come on papa, we'll take you for a little ride," the well-dressed desperadoes told the veteran cashier after they had collected all the bank's funds.

Jackson, Miss., Named For Pecan Headquarters

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 21. (AP)—Selection of Jackson, Miss., as headquarters for the National Pecan Marketing association was recommended today to the board of directors by its headquarters committee. The board was expected to approve the recommendation. Other cities bidding were Memphis, Tenn., St. Louis, Mo., Birmingham and Mobile, Ala.

Carey Nominated By Wyoming G.O.P.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 21. (UP)—Robert D. Carey, former governor of Wyoming and a son of the state's first U. S. senator, was in definite possession today of the Republican nomination for the seat to be vacated by Senator Patrick J. Sullivan.

Returns from a majority of precincts in Tuesday's primary gave Carey a plurality of more than 6,000 votes over his nearest rival for the senatorial nomination, Chas. E. Winter, former congressman.

Carey will oppose H. H. Schwartz, Casper attorney, who was named unanimously by the Democrats.

HOSPITAL BILLS AVERAGE $5.81

Daily Cost of Being Sick Runs Into Big Money

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (UP)—The average person who goes to a hospital pays $5.81 a day, according to a survey completed by the United Press today in representative cities.

His costs cannot be much lower than that and the probability is that they will be a great deal higher. The $5.81—representing an average of all types of service in various cities—does not include the expenses incurred by an operation or fees for special nursing. Nor does it include the cost of medicines and the fees of physicians and surgeons.

The $5.81 estimate compares with one of $5.35 which the American Hospital association of Chicago found to be the average cost of hospitalization in a survey of 30 institutions. The same association surveyed 2,716 hospitals in all parts of the United States and found the average income of the patients was $59.26 per week.

Thus, each patient in hospital spends on an average between $35 and $40 a week out of a salary of less than $60. When his special costs are figured, it is apparent that his salary cannot be expected to meet the costs of his illness.

In Kansas City, Mo., it is possible for a patient to pay only $2 a day if he enters a ward occupied by three other persons. That is the minimum charge revealed by the survey. In some cities the minimum cost is $4 and the average for all cities in the survey is $3.18. The cost of semi-private rooms ranges from $4 to $6, the average being $4.61. For private rooms in general hospitals, the cost is from $7 to $14.50, with an average of $9.64.

Most of the hospitals included in the survey will take charity patients and many of them have a sliding scale of prices based on the income of the patient.

State Refuses to Aid Lynch Probe

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. Aug. 21. (INS)—Governor Harry G. Leslie's refusal to act in the Marion lynching case today caused general belief that the state would not push the inquiry until at least after the Grant county grand jury has completed its investigation, which will begin early next month.

The governor yesterday afternoon told a delegation of negroes from Marion and elsewhere that because of the "tension" and possibility of future violence in Marion, he deemed it advisable to refrain from action until after the inquiry by the Grant county body.

No action likewise was taken by the governor on the demand of the negroes for the removal of Jacob C. Campbell, Grant county sheriff, for his failure to prevent the lynching of the two negroes in the courthouse yard on Aug. 7.

Hop production for the Pacific coast is estimated to be half of last year's. Acreage has been cut 40 per cent.

When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are not yourself—60% is dangerous

A fact you should not overlook

MORE red-cells in the blood! Good health and resistance to infection and disease, depend on that. If a lowered red-cell count is allowed to continue, ANEMIA often results.

S.S.S. should be your safeguard. A hundred years of experience has proved its usefulness in building red-cells in the blood. Take it before meals. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to restore their red-blood-cells. The appetite picks up, the whole body is strengthened, invigorated! Get S.S.S.—take it and possess a wonderful power of new life and vitality. Ask for the large size. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

How to recognize a low blood count

Blood is Life! You cannot count your own red-blood-cells—that is technical! But you should know that they are the "ships" that sail in the blood and carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Also, they remove impurities from the tissues.

You can recognize a lowered count by the way you look and feel—such as body weakness, lack of appetite, underweight, paleness, sallow complexion, boils and pimples. They may indicate that you need S.S.S.

S.S.S.—the great blood tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. If your vitality and clear skin are slipping away from you, try S.S.S.

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to every cubic millimeter.

ZUTA'S SECRETS INEXHAUSTIBLE

More Officials Named In Gangster's Books

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (US)—Dead Jack Zuta's safe deposit boxes yielded up another mass of records and canceled checks today besmirching the names of many more Chicago and Cook county politicians.

Eight of those whose names were made public by Chief Investigator Patrick Roche tonight are country town political committeemen and most of them are holding high public office. They were merely listed by Zuta by "districts" with no explanation of what might be his connection with them.

Others, part of them lawyers and officials, the rest of them gangsters and gunmen of high and low degree, were the recipients of checks from Zuta such as have embarrassed many other politicians in the revelations of the last week.

Zuta, the slain leader and "brains" of the Moran gang, had listed the following men by "districts," apparently as a means of ready reference:

Gene Oliver, member of the county board of assessors; William V. Brothers, of Evanston, a judge of the circuit court; William H. Weber, member of the board of review; Peter M. Hoffman, former sheriff and former coroner; Joseph W. Klenha, mayor of Cicero; William Busse, county commissioner; George A. Miller, politician; Frederick B. Roose, recently an unsuccessful candidate for the state senate.

Among the checks was one for $500 which bore the rubber stamp endorsement of Crowe & Kolb, law firm headed by Alderman Dorsey R. Crowe.

A check for $2,000 was to Simon Herr, law partner of former Judge Emanuel Eller who was on the bench at the time the check was written.

A check for $500 was made payable to P. W. Rothenberg, a former deputy coroner and a Republican committeeman in the 24th ward.

Numerous checks had been issued also to well-known gangsters, some of them still alive, but most of them now dead.

Among the documents and records was the engraved card of Frankie Uale, the Brooklyn gang chieftain whose bullet-riddled body was found one day near his car in the New York city.

In each instance the checks were signed by Zuta and endorsed by the persons to whom they were made payable.

Other records show the disposition of stock in the Fairview dog race track, which was one of the numerous illicit enterprises of the Moran-Aiello-Zuta syndicate. Blocks of this stock in many instances went to politicians "for services rendered."

Roche and Charles F. Rathbun, attorney for the Chicago Tribune, were confident tonight that there are still other records of Zuta's which can be recovered.

Rail Official's Death In Houston Is Probed

HOUSTON, Aug. 21. (UP)—Possibility of foul play was being scouted in connection with the death of a man tentatively identified as O. H. Herring, chief examiner of the comptroller's office of the New York Central lines, New York, whose body was found in the Rice hotel today.

The victim died of loss of blood from a jagged wound in the throat. Blood was spattered all about the room.

Justice Campbell Overstreet, who conducted an inquest, said there was some doubt that he committed suicide. Verdict was withheld.

Papers identified the man as Herring. Information from New York said Herring left for the Southwest a week ago.

U. S. Enters Pact To Regulate Ship Loading

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (US)—The United States with 26 other maritime nations today concluded a treaty to prevent overloading of ships and thus eliminate a major cause of sea disasters.

Each nation's port officials are to be allowed full authority to inspect ships of other nations before they clear. If defects are found, or cargo is greater than allowed under the treaty, clearance papers will be denied.

Oklahoma City Fliers Begin Endurance Grind

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21. (UP)—With 1,000 hours as their goal, Roy A. French and Capt. F. A. Bloss took off from the municipal airport here at 11:52 a. m. today in My Oklahoma, a Curtiss-Challenger-Robin monoplane, in an attempt to set a new world's endurance flight record.

Virginia Thorne to Get 150 'Grand' While He Gets Peace

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (INS)—She gets $150,000 and he gets a lot of peace. Such, in brief, is the settlement which promises to end the marital-legal-financial entanglements of Gordon Thorne, millionaire clubman, and his first wife, Virginia Milner Thorne of New York.

Judge Charles A. Williams today received an agreement, signed by Gordon and Virginia and their attorneys, whereby she agrees to accept $150,000 in lieu of further alimony payments and those which are past due.

Virginia was divorced from Thorne in 1921 on charges of drunkenness and secured an alimony award of $750 monthly until she should marry.

Two Counties Forego Run-Off Elections

DALLAS, Aug. 21. (UP)—The Texas election bureau has been advised that there will be no run-off Democratic primary in Kendall county Saturday.

Possibility that Borden county will likewise fail to register a ballot was imminent with information that no funds had been collected to defray the cost of the run-off primary. The bureau said there was talk, however, of election officers holding it free for the benefit of state candidates.

Borden county cast 349 votes in the first primary, of which Mrs. Ferguson received 127 and Ross Sterling 147 in the gubernatorial race. Kendall county cast 113 votes, of which Ferguson received 38 and Sterling 37.

Magnificent Tapestries Destroyed in Blaze

PARIS, Aug. 21. (US)—The magnificent D'Aubusson tapestries, among the world's most valuable works of art, were a complete loss in the fire which today destroyed the 18th century Chateau de Berleur, near Amiens. A check of the losses placed the total at more than $800,000.

Best Known Way To Heal Toe Itch

(Athlete's Foot)

This condition of the feet, cracked skin between and around the toes; inflammation and severe itching; water blisters and burning is now known to be caused by a germ, or fungus growth.

The only way to get relief is to kill these fungus germs, which you can now do, with a pleasant-odored, delightful-to-use ointment, known as "Tetterine."

Tetterine will bring quick and sure relief in these distressing conditions of the feet, and it may be had at any drug store for 60c, with a guarantee of perfect relief or money refunded.—(Adv.)

An innovation in pleasant summer courtesies is that extended by the General Food Sales company, Inc., represented by J. B. Tillery and William Ayers. For the first time in Wichita Falls, the management of the Majestic theater in cooperation with this company, will present Miss Maxwell House in person, and this charming lady, who has been seen on the billboards and in the newspapers and magazines for many years, will appear at the Majestic in the new guest room every afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock and every evening from 7 to 9 o'clock, Sunday excepted. Iced tea, iced coffee and many new and favorite summer delicacies will be served.

Saturday morning visits will be made by Miss Maxwell House to E. B. Crocker Groceries and Meat markets, number one and two. She will appear also at all the C. H. Parker groceries and at Sullivan's grocery.

Every patron attending the Majestic during the showing of Jack Oakie and Jeanette MacDonald in "Let's Go Native," or Cyril Maude in "Grumpy," is invited to visit Miss Maxwell House and participate in the treat arranged. No charge is to be made for this courtesy.

DEATHS

H. A. MOORE

The body of H. A. Moore, 33, of Putnam, Texas, who died in a local hospital about 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning, was forwarded later in the day to his home by the Hines mortuary. S. B. White, father-in-law of the deceased, accompanied the body, having come here to be at the bedside. Mr. Moore had been ill for some time. Funeral services and interment will be held in Putnam Friday.

Chicago plans to eliminate unnecessary noise in its new subways.

Long Sought Fountain of Youth Found at Last in Human Body

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL

NEW YORK, Aug. 21, (US)—The fountain of everlasting youth, of perhaps even very long life, is a scientific reality.

It is inside the body, and not outside. Really, this fountain is a ductless gland, an endocrine.

It is none other than the cortex of the suprarenal gland, about which so much has been heard in scientific circles during the current year.

Dr. Boris Sokoloff, in his "biodynamics," subtitled "The Battle for Youth," affirms boldly:

"We have many reasons for believing ourselves justified in considering the cortex of the suprarenal, the gland of the conservation of life-energy, the gland on which, directly and indirectly, the process of ageing in organism depends."

Old age seems to be definitely connected with the dwindling of the power of the suprarenal cortex, according to Sokoloff. The sex glands are most intimately connected with the cortex. That means, when the cortex grows weaker, the sex glands also decline, and psychological old age appears.

Lack of vitamin B in food of pigeons caused the atrophy of the cortex, of the sex glands and the coming of permanent old age, Sokoloff reports.

One noteworthy fact is, that the cortex of the suprarenal gland, "is very sensitive to every change, to infection, to nervous shock, to poisoning by metals, and the majority of these reactions leave very deep and lasting traces on the gland."

"Physiologically speaking," Sokoloff maintains, "old age is the result of the chronic intoxications of the endocrine glands.

"Senility will not be inevitable, when once we will be able to contend against the degeneration of the endocrine glands and against the chronic intoxications which cause that degeneration."

WESTERN RATE PARLEY TODAY

Railroads to Decide On Drouth Relief

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21. (AP)—General offices of the Frisco railroad announced today traffic executives of western railroads will meet tomorrow in Chicago to determine what emergency freight rates are to be put into effect for drouth relief.

The railroad announced that pending the meeting it was holding in abeyance any action on lowering rates in the drouth stricken area of territory it serves, as described by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

Officers of the Frisco felt it was virtually certain the railroad and other western lines would adopt the ame schedule of reduced rates already put into effect in eastern and southern territory.

LEGGE URGES MIXED FEEDING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—Although reporting that recent rains had improved pastures, Chairman Legge of the farm board today urged farmers to serve mixed feed to livestock as a means of preventing an acute shortage in feedstuffs and a possible increase in food prices.

Reports from the drouth area, he said, indicated that the general feeling of agriculturists affected was improving, one of the encouraging signs in the situation, he added, was the absence of any "stampede of livestock to market."

"The quicker the farmer gets his land seeded to permit a change of diet for the animals and give them a new meal ticket, the better we will get through this situation," said Legge.

"Mixed rations must be used if we are to avoid an unnecessary rise in food prices later on. There just isn't enough corn. Even if it began to rain every day, there wouldn't be enough. But there won't be an acute shortage of food products if we use up the surpluses of rye, wheat, oats and other cereals."

Asked when wheat would "get up to a dollar a bushel," the chairman grinned and retorted.

"When you feed enough of it."

Parachutes Used In Battle Flight

MITCHELL FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 21. (AP)—Three army air corps men have proved that parachute jumps can be made from planes in a military formation without falling into the other ship or tangling the formation.

Three planes in formation went up Tuesday to a 2,000 altitude and at a signal from the leading ship a man jumped simultaneously from each. They dropped more than a hundred feet before pulling their ripcords, and cleared the formation by a safe margin.

The men who volunteered for the experiment, which settled a point long moot among air corps officers, were Sergeant James Pearson, Corporal John Marchewka and Private J. Frazio.

Two Gunboats Sent To Quell New Disorders

SHANGHAI, Aug. 21. (UP)—Two gunboats, dispatched by the Nationalist government, were en route today from Hankow to South China to quell fresh activity by bandit bands.

Although meager reports reached here, it was thought that the scene of the bandit raids was Wusueh on the Yangtze river between Hankow and Kiulang.

Mighty Men of Harvard Larger Than Their Fathers for Third Generation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 21. (AP)—For the third successive generation Harvard men are larger than their fathers.

The statistics are a comment on the potential power of food, diet and enlightenment to bring back the Biblical days when there were mighty men on earth.

The finding is made at Peabody museum by Gordon T. Bowles. It is based on records of Hemenway gymnasium and Harvard college physical examination records.

These figures are all the more striking because the fathers were more than a year older on the average than the sons who physically outclassed them. In the comparison of the last two generations of Harvard men, the boys were 18.5 years old, where their fathers had averaged 19.6 years. The comparisons included 1,461 couples, nearly 3,000 men.

In weight the boys of the third generation average 149.48 pounds, the fathers 141.33. The sons' average was 8.15 pounds, or 5.77 per cent.

The height of these same boys was 5 feet 10 inches. Their dads when a year older had averaged 5 feet 8 6-10 inches. The sons' advantage was 1 1-3 inches, or 1.94 per cent.

Mr. Bowles says "the grandfathers have not been calculated yet, but a survey shows marked increase of the fathers of Harvard sons of today over their fathers, that is, increase has been steady for three generations."

GOLD STRIKE

New Diggings Yield Enough Riches To Start Boom

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. Aug. 21. (AP)—Camp McCoy, the new gold diggings 30 miles south of here was the scene of several rich strikes recently and is assuming all the aspects of a typical western mining camp at the beginning of a boom.

Tents still predominate, only a few cabins being in evidence, but lumber is arriving and some prospectors have turned their attention to construction of better dwellings. New claims are being staked and the district extended.

Army Testing Out Range Director

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (INS)—Army technicians are putting the finishing touches on a complicated machine which will so direct anti-aircraft fire that the range and direction at which the guns must be pointed will be determined automatically, and the projectiles and the enemy plane will reach the same point in space at the same instant, it was learned today.

Tests of three of the new fire directors began today at the Aberdeen, Md., proving ground, and will continue until Nov. 1. Two of the machines were built in Europe in accordance with U. S. army specifications and the third was produced domestically.

The army has been endeavoring to evolve a fool-proof range director of anti-aircraft guns since 1924.

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 21. (UP)—A petition that a receivership be declared for the Steward Drug Stores Inc., of Tulsa, was on file in federal court here today. Several creditors of the firm asked for the receivership. Assets of the company were set at approximately $15,000.

TERROR OF AIR WAR OVERDONE

Experience Shows Aerial Fighting Theoretical

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 21. (AP)—The terrors of aircraft activities in predictions of future wars are sometimes overestimated, Edward P. Warner, former assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, told the institute of politics today.

The record of experience, so far as experience exists, "is of more value than speculations on the frightfulness of future aerial warfare," he said. He recalled that Great Britain had been warned of disastrous air attacks two years before the last war and that her defense proved more effective than had been anticipated. "It is possible," he said, "that present prophecies may also overshoot reality."

He pointed out that while aircraft have been improved since 1918 they haven't changed in essential nature and that fundamental principles of bombing attack and repulse remain the same.

The gas bomb, he said, "is an ugly possibility" of the next wear, but the power of gas is sometimes overestimated. He declared competent scientists have estimated that 10,000 tons of bombs would be required to gas a city the size of New York, and said "anticipations that entire capitals can be wiped out in a few minutes in a single raid appear considerably to exceed the facts."

Although he praised the efforts of the League of Nations to limit aerial armaments, he said possibilities of agreement on reasonable limitation of aircraft or their employment in war "remain somewhat in the realm of theory."

YOUTH ADMITS SLAYING COP

Bertillon Expert's Findings Bring Confession

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Confronted with an analysis from Maurice O'Neill, Bertillon expert of the New Orleans police department showing that his gun fired bullets which took the life of Policeman Ted Boynton in a holdup slaying here in July, a 16-year-old boy broke down and made a detailed statement of the shooting today.

The youth, who had been under arrest four days, remained silent, and had convinced police of his innocence until a report from O'Neill identified his gun as the one from which the fatal shots were fired.

Boynton was fatally shot when he attempted to halt a bus holdup on the outskirts of the city.

Murder charges against the youth are being prepared.

Mexico Sets Aside $20,000,000 for Debts

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 21. (AP)—The treasury department, publishing details of next year's budget today, revealed that $20,000,000 of the total will be spent in payment of exterior and interior debts. $12,500,000 to be devoted to the exterior debts and the remainder to those of the interior.

The war department's annual bill has been cut from $40,000,000 last year to $32,000,000 the current year. The department of education gets $16,500,000.

LOOSE

what it is . . how to remove it

quick relief for infected, burning and itching scalp

Great dermatologists declare that a normal, healthy scalp is extremely rare. Some go as far as to say that there is no scalp that is not troubled in some way, to some degree.

The most common—and humiliating—condition is loose dandruff.

Infection makes fat glands overactive

Dandruff is caused by overactivity of the fat glands of the scalp—which expel a greasy whitish substance known as sebum.

This overactivity is the result of infection, many dermatologists claim. They advise immediate treatment. Whatever the cause, this activity should be checked lest the condition continue and cause eczema, falling hair, and baldness.

Why Listerine checks dandruff

Frequent shampoo, vigorous massage, and the use of an antiseptic constitute effective treatment for ordinary cases of loose dandruff.

The success of Listerine in combating this condition is due to certain unusual qualities.

Since it is a safe though powerful germicide* Listerine combats any irritation that may be present on the scalp.

It dissolves and removes incrustations of sebum from the hair and scalp, assuring antiseptic cleanliness. It produces on the scalp an astringent effect, exhilarates and invigorates the tissue around the hair roots.

It allays itching, and soothes inflammation and eruption frequently associated with dandruff.

Results achieved quickly

You simply use Listerine as a part of the shampoo, or independent of it. Douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously.

Keep the treatment up, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry.

You will be delighted to see how quickly you get results. Frequently loose dandruff disappears after one or two treatments. Sometimes however, if the case is stubborn, a week or two and perhaps more will be required. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Germicidal Power—with safety

*Though safe to use in any body cavity, full strength Listerine kills even the resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. (Fastest time science has accurately recorded.)

Seashore Bridge Is Pretty Courtesy Shown Directors

Miss Ida Catherine Walker honored the board of directors of the Business and Professional Women's club Thursday night with a pretty bridge party stressing a seashore motif. The green of palms added to the tropical setting while fans concealed back of greenery brought sea breezes into the rooms.

Place cards were dainty maidens on the seashore and the tiny umbrellas they held were given as favors to the guests. The handsome prizes given to winners of high and low score emphasized the same original motif.

A delicious refreshment plate including seafoam and watercress salad, sea biscuit, with punch and sweets carrying out the seashore idea, was served to guests at the close of the games.

Among those present were Misses Zula McKay, Lena Derzaph, Mayme Kuhfuss, Ethel Glasgow, Arnie Smith, Elizabeth Hall, Alta Saye, Helen Nixon, Winnie Mae Giddings, Maude Thomas and Mesdames Joella Terrell Butler, Rose Tickell, Mary Crane, Jewel Mays Myers, Edna Vought, Mary Lyons, T. A. Hicks and Finley Weldon, with the hostess.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

If the price of cattle on the hoof set the price of steaks and roasts, one should be able to feast on tenderloin and prime ribs these days. In Tennessee, we talked to a woman who was expressing her opinion of the world in general because she had only received three cents for her cattle.

We remarked in the first paragraph of this column that we talked to her which was a decided misstatement. We sat on a shady porch and listened to her talk.

She was a Baptist and believed in her church. Not that she denied salvation to members of other denominations. She had attended, just a day or two before, the bedside of a dying man on whom she poured out the pity of a really generous heart.

"He was a wicked man," she stated, and in an awed aside, "you know he swore, but I felt so sorry for the poor storm tossed soul. As for his wife, it has been said that she drinks whisky!"

We thought of one of the biggest hearted, broadest-minded man we know, who, though he may never drink whisky, is one of the most fluent swearers we ever heard make the air lurid. And we marveled at the different ways in which people measure morality.

A group of negroes were working down the street, singing together as they did their heavy lifting. They sang old hymns, harmonizing perfectly. We doubt if there was a moral among them. The laboring negro in the old South is not so much immoral as unmoral—happy in each day as it passes.

And like the woman who talked to us, never think of reforming a drinker or a swearer among them. Perhaps because they do sing church hymns.

But that woman, with many others we met, were canning all the fruit and vegetables they could possibly put up. No rain had fallen in 85 days and old men and old women prophesied a hard winter.

We know their kind well. When the hard days come, people who are hungry will not be turned away from their doors. They may preach morals but they will not condemn the immoral to suffer.

We heard an old lady who had visited often in Texas say that all Texans bragged on the state and the people—said Texans were the finest people in the world. "Why of course they are," she said; "Texas is settled by Tennesseans." Yet she considered herself modest.

Mrs. Preston H. Brown Entertains for Son

William Walter Brown was honored by his mother, Mrs. Preston H. Brown, on the occasion of his fifth birthday, with a lawn party at the family home, 1506 Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Kendall Wins Low Ball in Thursday Game

Members of the Woman's Golf association of the country club met Thursday in their regular game followed by a delightful luncheon. Mrs. Helen A. Kendall was winner of low ball in the morning games.

Luncheon was served in the private dining room where a table was set with green crystal and centered with an overflowing bowl of radiance roses was a pretty setting for the pleasant occasion.

Covers were laid for Mesdames Grace E. Jarboe, C. O. Davis, H. L. Ruehl, J. Wagner Caldwell, Fred T. Couper, H. L. Hargrave, W. P. Bolding and Mrs. Helen A. Kendall.

TWO YOUTHS CONVICTED FIRST DEGREE MURDER

FIOCHE, Nev., Aug. 21. (AP)—Joseph A. Morlock Jr., and Kenneth Carter, Cleveland, Ohio youths, were convicted today of first degree murder for killing Herbert Hulse, Irish mountain miner, last December. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

Husband Advised To Cook and Let Wife Earn Money

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man who lost his situation through the business he was in being merged with another and on account of my age I have not been able to secure a good position since. We used up our savings, and my wife, who was a former private secretary, wanted to go back to work. I opposed the woman earning the living and in the heat of the argument I finally declared, "When you put on the pants I shall put on the petticoats." Well, the next day my wife went back to her old job.

Now here is the queer part of the situation. My wife makes more money than I did and enjoys business life. I find that I prefer women's work to my own. I am a better cook and a better manager than my wife and everything is happy and serene at home. But what shall I do? Shall I give up the work I enjoy and try for outside male employment?—MR. MARTHA.

Answer—Did you ever stop to reflect that there is no sex in talent, though we act as if there were, and that many times a woman gets the gifts that are supposedly masculine while a man is endowed with an aptitude for the work that we arbitrarily relegate to women? And thereby much ability goes to waste.

In other wards, there are many women who are better business men than their husbands, and there are many men who are far more domestic than their wives. There are many women who are always misfits in their homes. They never learn to cook or clean, and they are always bored with housekeeping and loathe it, but they make crackerjack business women and are happy and contented working their heads off in an office.

And similarly there are plenty of men who are failures in business who enjoy nothing so much as puttering around their homes, and who always have an eye out for fashion and style. It is men of this type who are the successful hotel and restaurant keepers, and who make fortunes as dry-goods merchants or dress designers or millinery creators.

So, inasmuch as you find that your talent is for cooking and managing a house, why not develop it into a real art? Why not make yourself a chef who can command a fine salary?

Why not start a little restaurant or boarding house or hotel, for, to paraphrase Mr. Emerson's immortal saying, he who can broil a steak or make a pot of coffee or fry a doughnut better than any one else will have people wearing a path to his doorstep though he lives in the obscurest house in the obscurest street in the city.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix.—I am married to the most wonderful man in the world and am supremely happy except that I have a mother-in-law who lives next door and who is over at my house so much that I never have a minute to myself and this has got on my nerves so that it is nearly running me crazy. She has a lot of other children and other kin, people that she might visit, but she doesn't. She just sticks with us all the time. We can't take a ride or go to a show that she doesn't tag along. I wouldn't mind it so if she wasn't such a bore, but she tells the same things over a million times and the limit of her conversation is, "I had such a wash today," or "I had so much mending to do my hands just ache." She is wonderfully good to me—volunteers to wash my blankets or rag rugs, and she gave us the lot our house is built on, but I am just so fed up on her. My husband knows how I feel and has offered to say something to her, but I know how hard that would be for him. Isn't there something I can do without hurting her too much?

DISGUSTED DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Answer—How can you tell a person who loves you that you do not love her? How can you tell one whose whole interest in life is bound up in you that she bores you to tears? How can a child tell an old mother, who has sacrificed everything for him, that he is not willing to give her a little time and throw a few kind words to her as one might throw a bone to a hungry dog?

It can't be done, my dear. There is no painless way of breaking a mother's heart. It would be a kindlier thing to kill her outright than to tell her that you are just tired of her, and that she is not welcome in your home and that you regard her as incubus.

You have my sympathy in your predicament, for I realize what you are suffering is very real. A dull old woman, who has lived a narrow life, and who has never thought of anything but her house and her children, is a tiresome companion.

I know how you feel like screaming when you have to listen for the millionth time to the dreary detail of how many towels she had in the wash and how she cooks spinach and the way the butcher overcharges her and the time her little Johnnie had the measles thirty-seven years ago and how Tommy would never eat applesauce unless it was cooked a certain way. I know how you feel irritated at her mere presence and how you would like to have your house to yourself and go off alone with your husband.

And I think it is a million pities that old people cannot realize how they bore young people with their reminiscences and that they have not tact enough not to force themselves continually upon their children, and that they do not remember their own youth well enough to recall how tired they got of their own elderly relatives.

But no one ever senses that he or she can possibly be a bore to any one else. Still less can parents realize that their children are not as interested in them as they are in their children, or that their children can grow weary of them. And old people never suspect that their old tales are not topics of vital interest to the world.

So there you are, my dear, and the only thing that you can do is to try to see the matter from your mother-in-law's side and to realize that it is because you are her favorite daughter-in-law that she wishes to be with you so much, and that it is because you are her dearly that she clings to you so closely. It is because the old have no lives of their own, no interest of their own, that forces them to be parasites on their children. They must take their happiness vicariously and there is nothing more pitiful than that.

So why not possess your soul in patience and try being good to your mother-in-law? Listen to her tedious stories as you would to your own mother's. Make her feel that you love her and appreciate her good points, and the bread you cast upon the waters will come back to you in angel's food some day when you are old and a mother-in-law.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix.—I am engaged to a young man who seems to be deathly afraid of being henpecked. He has got a complex on this subject and feels that he has to assert himself at every turn and ignore my every wish in order to show that he is not being bossed. I am not of a dictorial type nor accustomed to having my own way, and not for the world would I have a spineless husband who would be a doormat for me, but I would like to have my wishes considered sometimes. And at any rate I am getting sick of this henpecking stuff. What do you think?—PARTNER.

Answer—It is only little men and weak men who are afraid of being henpecked. You never saw a big man who boasted about being the head of his house and who made his wife kowtow to him. A strong, self-reliant man doesn't consider it beneath his dignity to consult with his wife and take her advice and be guided by her in many matters, but a weakling always disparages his his wife and tries to make her feel small and of little consequence.

If you marry a man who has to be continually asserting his authority, you will get a tyrant for a master.—DOROTHY DIX.

Avoid Pain

Nature never intended any woman to suffer intense or prolonged periodical pain. If you do suffer, build up your general health. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. Take it not merely to relieve pain temporarily. Take it to overcome the conditions which cause pain. 98 out of 100 women report benefit after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Mary H. Weisenbacher
960 E. Eldorado St.
Decatur, Illinois

"Two years ago I lost my baby at eight months. I suffered a great deal from pain and weakness. I wish I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I did. One of the waitresses where I used to work told me about it. I took it to build me up and it helped me in every way. I am now on night work and could not keep up without the Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Golda White
Blue Springs, Missouri

"I used to suffer everything with cramps. Once I was in bed three weeks. I took treatments but felt no better and people told me how bad I looked. My daughter had to do the work. One day on my way for a treatment I decided to buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instead. I had read the advertisements. The first dose I could feel touch my toes. Two bottles helped me wonderfully. I don't have cramps any more or periodical headaches. At that time I go right on with my work and I never could before. I have four children and we live on a farm, and I do my washing."

Mrs. Lula Walker
2203 Wibben Avenue
Louisville, Kentucky

"Ever since my second baby was born I have been irregular. How I suffered from female trouble. My sister told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my second bottle. I feel fine and am regular as a clock. Both married and single girls should take this medicine. It certainly will give a woman energy and strength and appetite."

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.

Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

RITES SAID FOR PLANE VICTIM

Mother's Vision of Fatal Accident Revealed

until Monday night, when he himself called his home by telephone to tell them he had crashed but had escaped with minor injuries.

"My wife dreamed that Burton was hurt, that he was lying unconscious with his head in her lap and that she was stroking his hair and crying over him," Mr. Walker said. "She seemed to see his face covered with blood from a cut. She told me about it that Monday morning. We found out when Burton called that his only injury was a cut on the face. The crash happened Sunday evening and she had the dream Sunday night. The vision so upset her that she was too nervous to sit through a picture show Monday night before Burton called."

Their relief at finding that their son had been only slightly hurt caused them to forget the premonition of Mrs. Walker for a time, until Monday when the crash which claimed the flier's life occurred, Mr. Walker said.

"That Monday morning when the crash took place, Mrs. Walker had a distinct feeling that something had happened. She did not have a clear picture of the accident this time, but only a feeling. I had been ill the day before and she said later that she could not tell whether her premonition concerned me or Burton, but only that what she felt would not let her rest. She became so upset that she started to town to see me. I met her on the way as I was returning to the house with the mesage telling of the accident in my hand."

Mr. Walker said he had never known his wife to have such premonitions in connection with any other occurrence.

The body of the flier lay in state Thursday from 9 o'clock in the morning until the time for the services at 4 o'clock at the Elks home on Ninth street. Rev. E. F. Bohmfalk of the First Methodist church officiated at the rites, with members of the Elks lodge conducting the funeral ceremony of the fraternity both at the home and at the grave in Rosemont Burial park. Arrangements were under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

As the casket was placed over the grave, planes piloted by Pilot Walker's former flying mates glided about over the cemetery, some remaining at high altitudes while others zoomed low over the grave to drop wreaths and flowers in tribute to their dead comrade. Ships from both the Municipal airport and Staley field took part in this impressive last ceremony.

Ferguson Speakers at Olney And Graham Flay Sterling and Moody

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Aug. 21.—Declaring that "Ross Sterling is not to blame, because he's really a good man being ruined by Dan Moody, Cullen F. Thomas, Walter Woodward and W. P. Hobby," John Davenport and George Williams, both of Wichita Falls, addressed a crowd of about 500 persons here Thursday night at a rally staged in the interests of the gubernatorial candidacy of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson.

The speakers added that "the P. in Hobby stands for power," and said that the four men they named "are running Ross Sterling to satisfy their own selfish desires." Woodward was described as a "broken down politician." The Wichita Falls speakers were introduced by R. A. Barton, city attorney here. The crowd at the rally was one of the most enthusiastic to have assembled in Northwest Texas during the present campaign, greeting each statement of the speakers with applause and shouts, particularly when reference was made to Dan Moody, who was in almost every instance characterized by the speakers as "Little Dan."

"The Wichita Falls newspapers are the only large papers in the state of Texas not subsidized by Ross Sterling and the Standard Oil company," Mr. Davenport declared. "I'll bet a good Stetson hat that the Standard and Humble companies, which are the same, have already spent $1,000,000 in electing Ross Sterling." Mr. Davenport continued his address with statements in connection with the pardon records of the Fergusons, declaring that "those two-bit politicians down there at Austin would impeach Jesus Christ if he didn't do to suit them."

Mr. Williams in his address said, "Ross Sterling and his bunch want to sell the penitentiary land for $15 an acre to the big oil companies and buy some of the white chalk hills around Austin, which are worthless. Then they want to take the people's tax money and build a $12,000,000 penitentiary that wouldn't hold a billy goat."

2,000 HEAR FISCHER IN GRAHAM ADDRESS

Special to The Record News.

GRAHAM, Texas, Aug. 21.—More than 2,000 persons crowded the lawn of the Young county courthouse here tonight to hear F. W. Fischer of Wichita Falls speak in behalf of the candidacy of Miriam A. Ferguson, candidate for governor.

Fischer flayed W. P. Hobby, Gov. Dan Moody and Ross Sterling in his address, declaring one of the chief aims of the Sterling candidacy is to assure the sale of the state prison farms to some large oil company. The issue of "honesty in government," raised by the Sterling forces, is only a smoke screen to hide the real issue of "the common people against the trusts," Mr. Fischer declared.

Mr. Sterling in his platform has offered nothing to bring relief to the people of the state, the speaker declared, while Mrs. Ferguson, it was asserted, offers the only real constructive program for the welfare of the state. Mr. Fischer was introduced by County Judge W. F. Parsley.

Maj. Gen. Everson Inspects Guards

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 21.—Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the military bureau at Washington, arrived at Post field by airplane this afternoon for the purpose of making an inspection of the National guard tonight.

Following his inspection of the camp area, including the rifle ranges, this afternoon, General Everson addressed a general assembly of the entire command at the camp area at 7:30 tonight. The general was given the official gun salute upon his arrival and escorted to camp by General Barry and 20 mounted officers.

JIMMY ALLRED 'POURS IT ON'

Bobbitt Given 'Hiding' By Wichita Candidate

very popular district attorney, with an enviable record, but in other litigation he has shown that when you beat him in the courtroom, you have a real lawyer's task. A very large per cent of the members of his local bar are squarely behind Allred and that bar has some of the ablest lawyers in Texas—lawyers who would not, in my judgment, champion the cause of a man for attorney general did they not believe in his honesty, integrity and qualification to fulfill the important duties of the office."

Cecil Storey of Vernon, defeated candidate for attorney general in the first primary, will speak in Wichita Falls Friday afternoon between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock over station KGKO, according to an announcement issued Thursday night. Mr. Storey will make an address here similar to one he presented Thursday evening in Amarillo.

ALLRED "POURS IT ON" HIS OPPONENT

GREENVILLE, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—James V. Allred brought his campaign for the Democratic nomination for attorney general to a close here tonight with an address before a crowd that included delegations from Dallas, Fort Worth, Kaufman, Terrell, Paris, Sherman, Bonham and McKinney. He spoke during the afternoon at Rockwall.

"If I am any judge," Allred said, "the people of Texas are tired and disgusted with the abusive tactics employed by the present appointed attorney general in an attempt to retain his political power.

"The scurrilous circulars, which my opponent has caused to be dumped in truck loads all over Texas can have no other effect than to cause a reaction against his candidacy among the intelligent and thinking people of Texas. In his desperation and with defeat staring him in the face, my opponent has forgotten himself and by the campaign which he and his friends have waged, has lowered the dignity of the high office of attorney general.

"He has evaded every issue that has presented itself and has made a frank appeal to prejudice by charge after charge that is absurd and ridiculous.

"He has to this good hour failed to satisfactorily explain to the people of Texas why he was repudiated by the voters of Hill county, where he was born and raised and spent the greater part of his life. He has not and will not successfully deny that on July 26 he carried every Mexican machine controlled county along the border of Texas."

Negro Arrested For Failure to Give Aid

Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff here, was expected to arrive in Wichita Falls early Friday from Amarillo bringing with him Joe Ford, negro, under indictment in Wichita county for failing to stop and render aid after striking another negro with his automobile, according to the report Thursday of Sheriff W. G. Bralley.

Ford was arrested in Amarillo at the request of the sheriff's department here and Deputy Gant was dispatched to bring the negro back to jail here. The charges against Ford were filed following an automobile crash at Eleventh street and Ohio avenue last Jan. 31, when William Whitfield, another negro, was fatally injured after Ford's machine collided with a delivery truck on whose fender Whitfield was riding.

GOING BACK

Aimee, Younger and Not So Heavy, to Return To Pulpit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21. (UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson will go back to her Angelus temple pulpit a younger looking and a thinner evangelist.

She revealed this today when she called reporters to her bedside to advise them of her future conduct in the new feud with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. The meeting was brief but was sufficient to show that Mrs. McPherson has dropped years from her face and weight from her body.

Mrs. McPherson was pale and her eyes appeared strained, the result of her nervous breakdown, but there was no indication that she was "deathly sick" or that her sight was affected to any degree, as reported by her secretary.

S. A. F. E. LINES IN AIR MERGER

Four Companies Reported Linked in Deal

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 21. (INS)—Merging of four aviation companies into a $4,000,000 corporation to operate a transcontinental air mail and passenger service was announced here today.

The four companies are the Pittsburg Airways, the United States Airways, the Ohio Air Transport company and the Southwest Air Fast Express company. The United Aviation company will be the new name of the corporation.

Air service from New York to Los Angeles, via Pittsburg, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City via Albuquerque and Winslow is to be started, the announcement stated.

Oliver M. Kaufmann, chairman of the board of Pittsburgh Airways, and J. D. Condon, president, will become vice-president and treasurer, respectively, of the new organization. Paul Wiek, of Youngstown, president of the Ohio Transport, is to be the new president, and Earl Halliburton, head of the Southwest Air Fast Sxpress, and W. A. Letson, head of the United States Airways, will be named vice-presidents.

Pittsburgh Airways now operates an interstate air passenger service transport service between Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York. United States Airways serves St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver and Salt Lake City and the Southwest company covers St. Louis, Kansas City, Tulsa, Oklahoma City and Sweetwater, Texas.

Local representatives of the Southwest Air Fast Express have received no official notification of the reported merger of four big airlines, including the S. A. F. E., which are said to have formed a $4,000,000 airlines corporation for carrying transcontinental mail and passengers.

I. O. O. F. Society Uames Heads

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Hattie E. Beadle of Chillicothe was elected president of the Lower Panhandle association of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Thursday afternoon at the closing session of the two-day convention here. Mrs. Beadle succeeds R. T. Sudaley of Electra.

O. Clary of Crowell was selected to succeed Mrs. Beadle as first vice president. Mrs. Mina Key of Vernon was elected as second vice president succeeding Mr. Clary.

Mrs. Bertha A. Ross of Vernon was re-elected to the office of secretary.

Mrs. Josephine Griffith of Crowell was elected treasurer and succeeds Mrs. Ada Ramsey of Wichita Falls. F. Haskin Smith of Burkburnett was re-elected as chaplain.

Following the election of officers, award of the Rebekah degree team cup was officially made to the Vernon lodge. Individual awards followed. The convention closed with the installation for the new officers. The Vernon Rebekah team was awarded the cup following competition with the Doans lodge Wednesday night.

The morning session today was featured by an address by W. A. McIntosh of Memphis. Mr. McIntosh, Hall county attorney, delivered an address on character qualifications of Odd Fellows and stressed conduct.

Greetings were personally presented by Mrs. Maggie Jordan of Paris, vice president of the Rebekah assembly, and Mrs. Mattie E. K. Knauff, secretary of that organization. The girls glee club of the orphans home at Corsicana presented numbers on both the morning and afternoon program.

Montana Woman Lost 19 Pounds of Fat in 4 Weeks

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewiston, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

"I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I took and stimulated my desire to greater activity.

"I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, in fact, have a number of them taking Kruschen Salts.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will convince any one."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at Allison Drug store or any drug store in America.—Adv.

Refreshing Spectacle Divorces in Poland From Screen to Stage Saratoga "Cleanup"

By EMILE GAUVREAU

There doesn't seem to be any doubt in the public mind that $12,000 was paid to somebody of influence for the appointment of George F. Ewald for a New York magistracy. It is refreshing to view the spectacle of a Tammany district attorney ripping the thing open and getting to the bottom of it. Federal Attorney Tuttle's cooperation also gives a certain freshness and vigor to the situation.

Poland adopts a sensible attitude toward divorce. It decrees that marriage made in Poland may only be dissolved in Poland. If America took the same stand, all states cooperating, wives and husband would not be running off to Mexico, Yucatan, Holland and France for freedom.

A uniform divorce law for the United States would be a healthy thing. Stale and conflicting statutes should be revised to conform more nearly to present day ideas, instead of having the statutes flagrantly circumvented and laughed at, as they are, particularly in New York state, where a divorce is nothing but a hypocritical frame-up.

In the face of prophecies that the doom of the theater is near at hand, five notable film stars announce their desertion of the screen for the stage. The list includes Mary Pickford, Vilma Banky, Rod La Rocque, Lya de Putti and Colleen Moore. Their defection from talkies to the legitimate is encouraging. If theatrical producers at this juncture will cooperate with the public, popularizing prices, the institution of the drama may yet be saved for America. It's an institution worth saving.

Governor Roosevelt ordered a cleanup of all the gambling and vice dens in Saratoga within three days. This is a tall order and will never be executed. Official laxity has already been proven. And the tentacles of graft that have wound themselves about the body politic for years will take more than three days to unclasp. Vice roots itself deeper than virtue. It's a more hardy and virulent tuber. Governor Roosevelt will learn this pretty soon, if he does not know it already.

There are many ways of serving science. Marcus Cohen, a manufacturing chemist, obviously chose the least intelligent. Experimenting with a new formula for vanilla extract, he causes a building on Prince street to blow up and collapse, which kills one person and injures 12 others.

If there is no law prohibiting laboratory experiments in public buildings, such a law should be formulated at once. A true scientist may take a chance with his own life, but not with the lives of others.

Menace from the air, by way of bombs dropped from planes, is something new in strike warfare. It is introduced in the coal fields of Kentucky. Seventy-five per cent of the remaining 25 per cent are using a bit of air pressure to make their "renegade" brothers listen to reason and put down their tools.

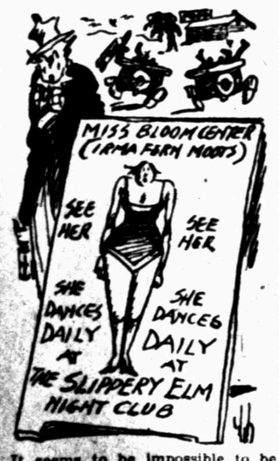

When planes can thus turn the air into a one-way battleground, liberty turns to license. Racketeers have more than once availed themselves of the air way to beat the police. Flying is a serious privilege. The safety of the public demands more rigid control of the airplanes.

TEXAN HONORED

DETROIT, Aug. 21. (AP)—Judge Tom L. McCullough, of Dallas, Texas, president of the Praetorians, was elected president of the National Fraternal Congress of America at today's session of the annual convention here.

Abe Martin

(Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

It seems to be impossible to be a fine, useful citizen without havin' somethin' wrong inside of us. When we do run onto a mean Democrat we've got somethin'. Today Ex Pash remarked, "Well, it looks like the farmers had another long, corn burnin' winter ahead of him."

Parts of a dictionary inscribed in Semitic on sun-baked bricks have been unearthed in a Syrian coast town. It is understood that reporters in those days found it easy to build up a story on the most meager data.

The Way Things Happen

FROM literature, we are told, we learn about life.

This, doubtless, is very true. But it occurs to one who has just finished reading a great many current detective stories that literature can give one some queer, though interesting, ideas.

Here, for instance, are some of the facts about life that stand out after digestion of the country's most popular mystery novels.

The library of a rich man's home is one of the most dangerous places in the world. This is especially true of English homes. For some reason, the overwhelming majority of all murders take place in libraries. Rich men without number have been knocked off while sitting placidly among their books. Usually they have been given no warning of their fate; but there are cases on record in which they not only knew that they were in danger, but actually locked all the doors and windows—without avail. The library, obviously, is a place to stay out of.

Butlers, it is comforting to learn, are practically never given to homicidal impulses. This writer can recall no case in which a butler murdered his employer, or anyone else. To be sure, butlers act very suspiciously, at times, and not infrequently are up to shady practices; but they never stoop, or rise, to murder. The same applies with almost equal force to other servants. One recent book tells of a gardener who committed a singularly brutal murder, but this rascal seems to have been a rare exception.

It is regrettable to discover that doctors do not seem as reliable. In all too many cases, judging by current literature, the trusted physician turns out to be a malignant rogue. Even where he does not, it often happens that he acts in a most peculiar manner when a crime has been committed.

The daughters of such rich men as are slain in their libraries are nearly always quite innocent. This is comforting, since it quite often happens that these girls had strong financial or personal reasons for killing their fathers. Present-day detective fiction proves rather conclusively that the daughter is almost never guilty—although, it must be said, things often look a bit black for her.

The same applies, with not quite so much force, to the sons of murdered men. The sons, however, usually turn out to be sorry wastrels, capable of sin if not of crime, and suspicion is often quite logically directed against them.

These are the outstanding discoveries made by an assiduous reader. There are interesting minor facts—poor men, for example, almost never get murdered, and the goofier a detective acts the more sure he is to be a mental giant—but there is no space here to go into them at any length. It is all very absorbing. How much one can learn about life from literature!

Who Now Should Wear the Shoe?

WHILE lessons in democracy may have been taught effectively to sundry participating nations in the world war some years ago, reports from a small Wisconsin city indicate that at least one minister of the Evangelical Lutheran church failed to see the light.

The directors of the local church in question voted to dismiss their pastor, one Rev. John Henning, because of his refusal to admit certain members of the American Legion to communion services. Congregational action will decide whether or not the board's decision will become final.

The pastor explained that the American Legion is considered "antichrist" and that various members of the organization had sought his advice relative to participating in communion. It followed, however, that he did not stop with offering counsel, but proceeded to bar certain legionnaires from the communion altar. Therein lies proof that the clergyman failed to recognize, or has forgotten one of the autocratic practices against which the war was waged.

Assumption of the right to fix the destiny of individuals by arbitrary command, supported by frequent references to a close working relationship with God, will be remembered as one of the reported evils which spurred the allied forces on to a hard-earned victory. To give advice is one thing; to say whether or not a man may worship his Maker with his fellowmen is quite another thing. The Wisconsin pastor appears to have exercised the same type of autocracy which the legionnaires fought successfully to overthrow in Europe. The directors of his church apparently exceed the pastor in the matter of Christian democracy.

The Responsibility Remains

IT DEVELOPS, now, that the terrible fire in the Ohio penitentiary last spring was set by the convicts themselves as part of a big plot to escape. A fuse that burned too slowly caused the fire to break out half an hour later than was planned, thus trapping the men in their cells instead of starting when they were in the open prison yard.

All of this—subject, of course, to verification by a more complete investigation—is interesting; but it should not lead anyone to suppose that the fire is any the less a black mark on the record of the state as a whole. Ohioans may have the minor comfort of learning that it was not the negligence of prison authorities that caused the fire to start; they cannot escape, however, from the responsibility that lies on the state as a whole for confining its prisoners in an antiquated fire trap. That responsibility is as dreadful as ever, no matter how the fire got started.

Zuta's Strong Box

IT WILL be extremely interesting to watch the progress of Chicago's investigation into the murder of Jack Zuta, "vice king," and see just how many more tell-tale checks, notes and other documents are unearthed from the dead gangster's strong boxes.

To date the indefatigable Pat Roche has brought forth evidence showing pretty clearly the way in which gangland and politics are allied. There may be more of the same sort of evidence to come, and if there is it will be worth waiting for. These checks and notes go a good part of the way toward providing the answer to the question, "Why hasn't Chicago been able to suppress her gangs?"

Lines to an Unapproachable One

I builded a ladder to reach her
And reaching her, found it in vain,
The structure, quite shaken,
makes me so forsaken
So I'll tear down my ladder again.

I shopped 'mid the stars for her favors,
Found the prices exceedingly high,
And the gods thought I'd better return and forget her
And, well, wotthehell, so did I.

Since penning this moronic drivel,
I've found that strange things do occur,
So hand me those tools and I'll show you how fools
Build ladders to heaven and her!
—ZICO.

Oh, Mr. Vizetelly!

A New York newspaper in reporting the passing of Paddy Roche said in part: "Roche flourished in the days of the old Tenderloin before there were any Broadway columns to make him famous. Roche was a Broadway big shot when sport meant big shot, and spree meant whoopee."

You mean, then, that whoopee isn't 300 years old as Mr. Vizetelly of the Standard Dictionary announced?

Show Business

Helen Menken is one of America's major stars. But, as Miss Menken was saying the other night, "No matter how big you think you are in this business there is always that devastating problem 'What will I be doing next year this time—what show—what job?'"

Miss Menken, it appears, is seeking a job. And hasn't a thing to look forward to—and is forced, mind you, to give auditions! She had to try out for Arthur Hopkins the other day for his revised version of "Torch Song."

And Miss Menken failed to get the assignment—because she cannot sing.

So a lesser-known actress will get it—because of the song that must be sung in the piece. And it should give you the shudders when you pause to recall that Miss Menken was cheered in such plays as "Congai," "Infinite Shoeblack," "The Captive" and "7th Heaven!"

Oop!

A Hamilton journalist queries "Where does Earl Carroll get hold of the stories he dramatizes? He is too young to have been around livery stables."

For the Records

Whether or not it has been chronicled before we do not know. At any rate, W. C. Handy, the sepia song genius, coined the word "blues," but when he first employed it, he did not intend to mean that "blues" was "hot music" or "torch" ditties.

Handy's orchestra wore blue coats, among other apparel, and his men once were known as "Handy's Blues." Then he wrote a torrid-tempo'd melody which he called "Handy's Blues" and later, his grand number, "The Memphis Blues."

Thus the word "blues" was originally the nickname of an orchestra because it wore blue coats.

Swifty

Take it from George A. Stark, of the Detroit Athletic club group. When Baird Leonard was recently appointed dramatic critic for Life she received the following telegram from Irene Franklin: "I hear you got Life. No girl deserves it more."

By Way of Report

There is a phoney in the town who took too many chances just to impress pretty girls. He asked them to name the show they wanted to see and then he got them passes. He called press agents and said: "Please leave two tonight for Winchell" (or the name of any dramatic critic) and as a rule when the girls called for them the tickets were there. The phoney would tell the girls: "They will be in the name of (the critic) and he explained that he got the critic to get them for him. This invariably made the girls think that the passgetter was a bigger shot than they first supposed.

Well, the other night during a performance two girls were arrested for getting the tickets under false pretenses, and in their hysteria they named the phoney, who comes up for a hearing next week.

The Morning Mail

"Oop! And so forth. Now you've done it! You'll be in hot water now, all right. When you went after Ernest Smith of Holiday Magazine, for making his staff work on Saturdays, you didn't realize that you made a terrible enemy. He has been fighting newspaper men for years—even though he usually loses! He'll probably ride you to death and never forgive you!—A Friend."

"My dear Mr. Winchell: It's not where you are, but what you do on a holiday that counts. They are not compelled to work on Saturdays, they just love to stick around—some don't dare to go home. Is it fair to say that ours is the only magazine in New York that has 100 per cent more editorial content and 100 per cent more advertising than a year ago?—Sincerely yours, Ernest M. Smith, Publisher, Holiday Magazine, Washington, D. C."

Is My Face Red?

To hear Mr. Walter Trumbull of the Dallas newspapers tell it: "Among the snappiest dressers in New York are Mayor Walker, Damon Runyon and Walter Winchell. The latter goes to his daily toil in a double-breasted, beautifully tailored white linen suit, black and white shoes and a panama hat."

What! no sox?

Sotto Voce

Flora Kirst: So glad.
Jeannette Despres: Thanques.
Dorothy Weller: Your meter is jerky and the theme is stale.
Fred'k Marrow: Don Wahn thanks you, sir.
Helen Fallon: It isn't true.

Add Bad Breaks

Similar tales have been told. This one, however, still is causing gab along the Canyon, where the pair were well known. She is a show gel and her admirers showered her with coin when she told them she wanted to get rid of her husband, who didn't want to lose her.

After spending $5,000 to "frame" him for divorce evidence, she eventually got the divorce.

Three weeks later he died!

"STEP-CHILD"

By ROB EDEN

Kay Smith is unable to remember anything of her past, not even her real name. Kay and Dane Talbot are madly in love with each other, but Julie Drew refuses to break her engagement with Dane. Dane's aunt offers to send Kay away so that the wedding may take place. Though her friend dislikes the idea, Kay, utterly discouraged, wants to accept the offer.

CHAPTER XXXVII

Kay was arranging the flowers which she found on the desk every morning. A vase for Doctor Raleigh's office, another for the reception room. This morning the choice of the florist was roses. Blood red. She buried her face in them, drinking in their fragrance.

The petals so crimson, shading deeper into the hearts, until the red almost became black. A velvety, soft black.

When the flowers were fixed to her satisfaction, she went about her other duties, which must be finished before the first patients came in. Notes for Doctor Raleigh on his appointments for the day. The morning mail. Checks to be entered on the books. Fresh magazines to be fastened in their holders. The early papers to be placed on the tables. A dozen things which kept her busy until 10 o'clock.

She hadn't quite finished when the door opened. She frowned as she consulted the appointment book. Only quarter of 10 and the first patient had arrived. A Mr. James. Well, the doctor wouldn't be in, anyway, until 10. Mr. James had 15 minutes to wait.

She looked up expecting to see a man, and was surprised to see a woman.

"Why Madam Marcia!" she exclaimed, recognizing the seeress. Was she one of Doctor Raleigh's patients?

Madame Marcia bundled up in a heavy black astrakhan coat, looking very smart and not at all mysterious, beamed. She loosened the coat, and drew up a chair near the desk.

"You came to see Doctor Raleigh?"

"No, Kay, I came to see you. Have you a little time?"

"Of course." The girl was puzzled. Madame Marcia to come here—of all places. When she was so busy with her own appointments. For she knew that Madame Marcia started her consultations at 9 in the morning, and continued them almost until midnight, so much in demand was she. She only stopped for her meals, which her maid brought in to her.

Luminous Eyes

"I could have come tonight—"

"Tonight would have been too late. I had to see you now." The woman's eyes, so expressive at all times, seemed deeper, more luminous than ever to Kay. The olive skin was tinged with color—a fine skin for a woman of Madame Marcia's age. Kay estimated her age at about 55.

"I've been thinking about you all night. Thought I ought to call you, but I really had nothing to say to you, so I didn't. This morning while I was eating breakfast, I still had you in my mind. I'm worried about you, child. Whether it's a warning or not, I don't know. You've always interested me so much, and I've tried to help you, as much as I could. I know, after all, I haven't done much—"

"You have," the girl contradicted, "and you're here now, when you've probably dozens and dozens of appointments all day long. Wasting your time on me."

"I'm never wasting time on you, but I did skip some appointments. However, they'll come back, and be glad to do it. I never worry about any of my lovelorn folks. It's only you I'm worrying about now. And I'm doing plenty of worrying about you. As I said you've been on my mind all night long, and this morning, too. Kay, Kay—I can't think about anything else. I don't want to frighten you child, but I'm afraid I'm going to."

Madame Marcia's eyes were very serious and penetrating as she laid her hand on Kay's.

"I want you to go away, child. Soon. Now, if you can."

"But, I'm going! How did you know?"

"I didn't know. I only know that something is hovering over you — something I can't see. I know it's trouble, that's all. You may not believe me, you may think I'm telling you something for the fun of it—"

"I know you wouldn't, Madame Marcia. And I'm going away, I decided last night."

"There's no time to lose."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean just that. There's no time to lose. I have money here—for you to use. Plenty. I want you to take it and go." She drew some bills from her purse. Kay saw several hundreds on the roll.

"I wouldn't take it Madame Marcia—please don't offer it."

"But I want you to go—now. For my sake. I don't know why, but something warns me. And when I get warnings like that I always heed them. You're going to have a disappointment, greater than you can bear—"

"I've already had it—"

"No, I can't mean what you mean, not if you've already had it, because this disappointment has yet to come. I see it around you, although I can't tell what it is!"

Hunches

"How do you know?" Kay faltered. She was moved in spite of herself.

"I don't know, but now and then I get these hunches. They always work out right. I've a strong one now, that you should leave New York now. It's not just foolishness, Kay. I'd never tell you any of the things I tell some of my people. I must tell them the things they want to believe, or else my living—it would be gone. I'd be poor in no time. You'll promise me you'll go?"

"Yes."

"Soon? Today if you can?"

"I can't go today—but as soon as I can get ready."

"That isn't soon enough—that's why I brought you the money—it's yours if you want it. Kay, last night I saw over and over again that paper you wrot for me. You remember?"

Kay nodded. The paper, automatic writing, Madame Marcia called it. "I'm afraid of Larry," she had written on it, all unconsciously.

"Well, that's why I want you to go. Now you understand?"

"But, if it's my past that's concerned—shouldn't I stay?"

"If I were you, child, I'd seek no longer. I'd forget I ever had a past. I—think you'll be happier just as you are."

Kay was silent. Madame Marcia's eyes still held hers. Finally the woman got up to leave. "You'll not forget to go?"

"I'll go."

"I've hated frightening you this way—"

Then she was gone, and the office was empty except for the girl, still looking at the closed door. Mr. James came in, and Kay forced herself to go up to him, and greet him, her mind on Madame Marcia and her strange warning.

What was there to be afraid of? Why should the seeress be so positive that she should go?

Disappointment, she had said. A greater disappointment than she had already had.

The office was rapidly filling with patients. Dr. Raleigh came in, and the stream started in to him.

I should call Edith—Kay thought. She picked up the phone and called St. Luke's hospital, asking for Miss Nason. She was informed by the telephone girl that Miss Nason was busy at the present. Would she leave a number or a message?

She gave the office number and hung up.

Good ol Madame Marcia is come here to see her. Leaving her clients, bringing her money. She had been disappointed when Kay wouldn't take it. . . .

"What's worrying you?" one of the nurses asked, as she came to the desk.

"Nothing." Kay answered dully. "I you don't feel well, why don't you go home and rest? I'll take the desk."

"No, I'm all right, thanks." She tried to smile her assurance that she was quite all right, but the nurse went away shaking her head. She liked the girl, and Doctor Raleigh had told her to be kind to her.

Kay hadn't had time to talk with Edith this morning. They had both overslept, and the nurse had hurried out without any breakfast. Not even the chance to remind her to mail the letter to Mrs. Talbot.

The phone rang. She was relieved to hear Edith's steady voice.

"Did you mail the letter, Edith?" she asked excitedly.

"Not yet—"

"Will you mail it, then, right away? Better put a special delivery stamp on it. I could call Mrs. Talbot, but I'd rather not. I don't feel like talking to her."

"Then you've made up your mind to go?"

"Yes, Edith, as soon as we can."

"I'll send the letter right out, with a special delivery stamp—"

Kay hung up the receiver slowly. She was going away—away from Dane, away from all these memories in New York.

Going away. . . .

Madame Marcia had changed her mind again. For she was half determined this morning, after she had fixed the roses to stay, and let things take the course they would. . . .

Permission Asked For World Flight

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (AP)—The state department requested permission of five governments today for Roger Q. Williams and Ted Lundgren to fly over their territory on what may be a globe encircling flight.

The messages were sent after Williams and Lundgren had conferred wtih department officials. The nations are the Irish Free State, England, Holland, Germany and Japan. The fliers were said to have made private arrangements for flight over Soviet Russia and Siberia, since the United States does not maintain diplomatic relations with the Soviet.

The request was considered by department officials to put at rest reports that Williams and Lundgren contemplated a flight only to the continent of Europe.

Union Men Driven Out of Bessemer

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 21. (UP)—National Textile Workers union organizers said here today that Walter Wilson and two other members of the union were driven out of Bessemer City, N. C., last night by a mob and they feared Wilson has been kidnaped.

Albert Herder, an organizer for the Communist union, and W. G. Binkley, Communist candidate for congress, who accompanied Wilson to Bessemer City, said their companion was "badly beaten" by the mob and they lost sight of him during the disturbance.

A strike of 1,200 textile workers has been in progress at Bessemer City and leaders of the walkout refused aid from outside labor organizations.

Q.—I wish to be married shortly after Easter next spring. When will Easter fall?—G. M.

A.—It will fall on April 5, 1931.

Q.—Which city is larger, Sydney or Melbourne, Australia?—R. H.

A.—The population of Sydney is 1,101,000; of Melbourne, 975,160.

Q.—Does Florida produce minerals?—T. A. S.

A.—There are minerals in Florida, principally phosphates, lime, limestone, kaolin, and fuller's earth.

Q.—How long have antiseptics and anesthetics been used? —F. D. V.

A.—Antiseptics have been known to medical science since 1880, and anaesthesia since 1846.

Q.—How many men lost their lives in the airship Shenandoah?—D. S. E.

A.—There were 14 men killed in the crash of the dirigible Shenandoah.

Q.—Will cranberries grow on dry land?—H. A. T.

A.—Cranberries grow in bogs or swamps, but there is a species of high bush cranberry, which is edible, and which will thrive in a drier location.

Q.—If a soldier while in camp went to his company's infirmary for treatment, how can he find a record of his case?—J. E. R.

A.—He should write to the surgeon general's office, war department, Washington, D. C.

Q.—About what place was Tennyson's Blow, Bugle, Blow, written?—T. M.

A.—It refers to Killarney. It is said that along Long Range connecting the lakes, a bugle call brings countless echoes.

Q.—Has Canada a good apple crop this year?—B. R. A.

A.—The forecast shows that the crop is estimated at 3,113,330 barrels. Last year's crop was 3,939,915 barrels.

Q.—Have there been any colored missionaries in Africa?—W. J. A.

A.—There have been a great many colored missionaries to Africa. As early as 1873 Amanda Smith, negro woman, born a slave, went as a missionary to Africa, India, also to England and Scotland. Among the most famous of the early missionaries to Africa are John W. Roberts and Francis Burns, The African M. E. church at the present time maintains two resident negro bishops in Africa and has over 164 missionary stations. The African M. E. church Zion, maintains a resident bishop and has 52 stations.

Q.—What effect does dry weather and hot winds have on corn crop?

A.—The department of agriculture says that when hot dry winds and severe drouth occur some of the tassels in a corn field may be damaged so that they do not give pollen, and if all the pollen in a given field is injured or destroyed in this way, there may be no crop of corn from the pollen of this field. On the other hand, however, the tassels in a given field may not all be cooked, overproduction of pollen is very great, corn plants produce pollen over considerable stretch of time, and pollen from one crop of plants may be carried some distance. Therefore, there are a good many factors to be considered in the production of a new corn crop, and it is very difficult to make any sort of statement concerning the possible danger to the crop from a hot dry season without knowledge of local conditions.

Q.—Why do the more desirable avenues in Washington, D. C., bear the names of northern states and the less desirable bear the names of southern states?—A. W. H.

A.—When streets were numbered, lettered, and named in the very beginning of the plans for the city of Washington, no one knew in which direction the capital would grow. It was expected in fact that the city would grow toward the east and south. It actually happened that the city grew more rapidly toward the north and west. Some of the avenues which now run through somewhat undesirable sections of the city are so located that as the plans for the city's improvement are executed they will be perhaps the most beautiful of Washington's streets. An example of this is Virginia avenue which at no very distant time will probably be one of the most beautiful streets. It is doubtless true that the streets around the capitol were named first and the states for which they were named were those belonging to the union at that time.

The Record News Offers Its Readers a New Booket on Interior Decorating

Do you realize, in creating a color scheme for your decorating, that every object in a room has a color role to play? The background should be rather neutral. The rug should be of darker value and definitely keyed to the color of the walls. The furniture may be keyed to the woodwork or the walls. The room will look larger if it is keyed to the walls. The smaller the piece of furniture the more intense its color may be. For example, a bright orange lamp is attractive, whereas an orange davenport would be too garish. Draperies should be in lighter values than the furniture, for they are nearer to the top of the room, but they should not be of so intense a hue that the other furnishings are overlooked.

'Low Cost of Living' Becomes Disturbing Factor in Commerce

Haskin Shows How Debts Piled Up During War Are To Blame for Present Depression

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The world and especially the United States for the last generation or so has made the high cost of living as universal a topic of conversation as the weather. No two housewives, no two taxpayers, no group of any sort ever get together without the subject of excessive prices coming up.

Today, all the world over, there is a change. The new order is twofold. A very large number of persons, including tradesmen, politicians, and chiefly bankers and economists who are the diagnosticians of good and bad times now are complaining of low prices.

It is difficult to distinguish the peculiar characteristics of an era while it is being passed through. Those who properly can judge the true situation in the midst of an economic crisis usually get rich. Most people are not conscious of fundamental changes in the immediate way of the world until that change can be viewed in retrospect. There is every reason to believe, however, that right now the world is in the midst of one of those major economic crises which, later, is used as a milestone like "the year of the big wind." Statisticians can scarcely find a period when commodity prices have been so low throughout the world. In any number of lines all low records of which business has note have been broken, prices having dropped right through the bottom.

Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer of the British government, a man of the people, raised to power with a Labor government, the "mill boy" as he is called because he was one of the hundreds of thousands of poor child laborers of England, might be expected to look with tranquility upon low prices. Yet, at a recent meeting of British leaders, concerned with trade, with unemployment, and such allied problems, he blamed much of the world's present-day troubles on what he described as "the appalling fall in world prices." There is much meat for thought in the fact that one of a class which, traditionally, has prayed for relief from the high cost of living, should find the fall in prices "appalling."

Wholesale Prices Fall

The second element in the twofold economic order is the lag between wholesale and retail prices. This "appalling" fall has been a fall in wholesale prices; retail prices, although far lower than they have been in many a year, still do not fully reflect the tumble which the wholesale price, and more especially the price paid the producer has taken. The corner grocer still is charging what looks like a good round price for many of his goods. Rents have not appreciably declined save in limited localities. There are many such exceptions to the general decline. Nevertheless, the cost of living is well below what it has been for years.

It is expected that before very long the retail prices will take the final plunge and bring the level of the whole structure down. This will not happen, in some cases, until the shelves are cleared of goods which had been purchased at a higher wholesale price level than now prevails. That is to say it will not unless, meantime, unemployment so greatly reduces popular purchasing power that there will develop a sort of buyers' strike. Then, retail prices will come down precipitately but bring retailers down too. Another wave of business failures would pass over this country and the rest of the world in such an event. Goods would be sold at retail for anything they would bring and, although huge losses would be sustained by these middlemen, shelves would be cleared would have to be placed with mills now idle. The mills then would be compelled to call in workers who long have been without work.

So the cycle turns. It is an old, old story, as old as trade itself.

The joint problem of the low cost of living and of unemployment probably is the greatest peace argument which could just now be found. The whole economic ailment from which the world is suffering springs from the war. It is the cosmic headache of the people of almost an entire planet following upon the greatest orgy of fighting and spending and gambling in all history.

By saying it springs from the war is meant that it springs from the debts to which the war gave birth. The war created wealth, destroyed wealth, shifted wealth, freed peoples politically, bettered some economically while injuring larger numbers but, as aftermath of it all, left a mountain of debt which still weighs upon many nations.

Adjusting German Reparations

The treaty of Versailles fixed no amount of reparations which Germany should pay. Not until 1921 did the reparations commission to which the treaty delegated the job of fixing the sum name it. When it was named, the world thought about it for a while, Germany shuddered and, at length, every one admitted the payment of such a debt was impossible. Then came the Dawes plan which was to settle the crisis by reducing the amount and fixing definite payments yearly. After a trial of this it was found that even the huge annuities provided scarcely amounted to 2 per cent on the indebtedness and that the capital sum was too much for Germany to pay anyway.

Finally it became necessary to re-write the whole deal and the Young plan came into being, still reducing and simplifying. The Bank of International settlements has been set up at Geneva. More important, private finance has been admitted and given a place and a way provided whereby individual investors, by purchasing bonds, may help wipe off the debt. This spreads the burden while not lifting ultimate responsibility. In the final analysis Germany must pay by creating net balances of exports of goods over imports and the furnishing of services, such as steamship services, insurance, and the like to the people of other nations, the other nations taking the profits.

Such a load of responsibility, resting upon the German nation, has resulted in a prostration of trade there which has increased unemployment during the last year by 1,000,000. Great Britain, a large creditor to be paid through discharge of the German reparations, meantime must keep her taxes high. Even now, 12 years after the end of the war, British business is paying 22½ per cent tax on income. Every British citizen with an income of as much as the average stenographer in the United States draws, must pay to the government nearly $20 out of every $100 earned.

At the other end of the world the same situation, the effect of the overpowering debt, is felt. Unemployment in Japan is as serious as in any Occidental nation. In a single recent month 935 factories closed in the city of Tokyo alone.

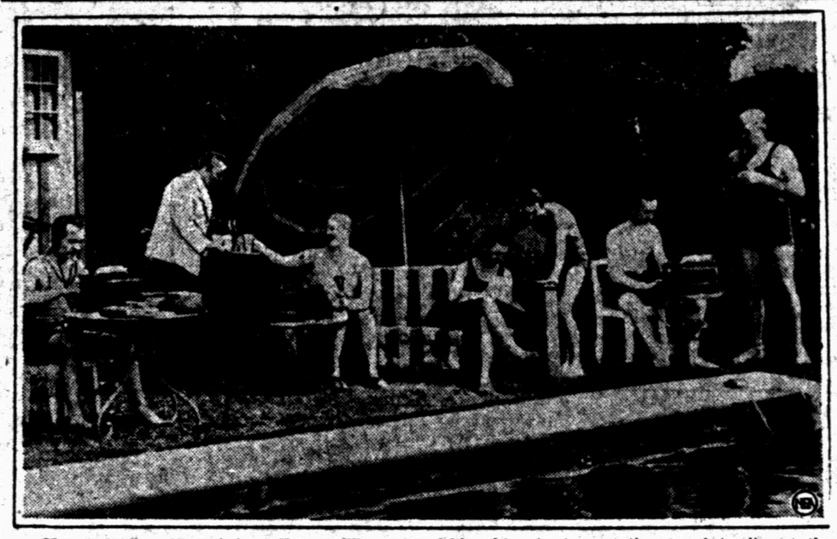

The United States is far better off than any other nation which was involved save France. Our taxes are but a fraction of those paid in Great Britain, for instnce, yet our unemployment is heavy. Meantime, the nationalistic feeling which the war engendered have resulted in the raising of tariff barriers which are making it very difficulty for any debtor to pay off a debt by building up a favorable trade balance.

The situation cannot last long because of the enormous vitality of the industrial nations of the world but while we are in the midst of it a new topic of conversation has been furnished—the tremendous troubles of people due to the low cost of living.

DIXIE GOP MAY CAUSE TROUBLE

Horace Mann's Faction To Fight Regulars

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. (US)—With 221 Southern delegates at the next Republican national convention, the insurgent group headed by Col. Horace Mann, of Tennessee, will be in a strong position to cause trouble for supporters of President Hoover, it became evident today.

By an odd turn of fate, the Southern states will have 51 more delegates than they did in 1928 because Hoover carried four southern states.

Thus Texas gains 17 delegates, North Carolina six, Tennessee, six, Florida four and Virginia 11. A few other southern states also make gains.

Strong Factor

It is this bloc of delegates which Mann and his followers hope to control when the G. O. P. meets again to choose a presidential nominee. By controlling all or even a majority they might hold the balance of power at the convention and be a strong factor in party councils.

Mann has already sounded the war cry by calling for "uninstructed" delegates to the next convention—a polite way of opposing President Hoover's renomination.

The fact that the Southern Republican organization through which Mann and his followers will work, is being organized at Atlanta, Ga., gave rise to the belief here that the new movement has a working alliance with the old Ku Klux Klan."

"White" Party

This view is strengthened by the fact that it is to be a "white Republican party with "militant nationalism" the supporting plank of the platform.

On all national political issues apparently, the Mann followers and the klan see eye to eye. Several months ago the national headquarters of the klan was also moved to Atlanta.

When the hooded order made its surprising rise in Southern politics several years ago, the leaders worked mostly through the Democratic organization, seizing control in several states. For the most part they have since been knocked out of power.

An alliance with these disgruntled Democrats might prove helpful to the Mann army, particularly as most of them were Hoovercrats in 1928.

In order to win an opening, however, the new organization must win a few places on the Republican national committee. They are striving for this now with fair chances of success.

Hatcher Delivers Two Campaign Addresses

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—Gregory Hatcher, candidate for the Democratic nomination for railroad commissioner, spoke here this afternoon and planned to speak tonight at Denison. Earlier in the day he made an address at Whitesboro. He attacked his opponent, Pat Neff, charging Neff quit his speaking tour rather than meet Hatcher's challenge to declare whether he voted for Smith or Hoover in the last presidential election.

Al Smith's Friend In Denial of Statement

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (UP)—A denial was issued here today by Joseph Israels, close to former Governor Smith, that the latter had sent a message to the Joel Parker association in West Orange, N. J., predicting coming Democratic success and heralding prosperity as a watchword.

Israels said Smith knew nothing of the message and that all he sent the association was a brief telegram expressing regret at not being able to attend the organization's session.

Answers Prepared To Oklahoma Recall Plea

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21. (UP)—City Attorney M. W. McKenzie prepared answers today to charges contained in recall affidavits filed against Mayor Walter C. Dean, and his administration by more than 100 electors.

The answers will be submitted to the council for approval at a special meeting tomorrow or Saturday. Answers must be made this week to be included in the recall petitions which leaders in the movement plan to circulate. Mayor Dean refused to discuss the situation.

Pile Sufferers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Allison Drug store with their guarantee of money-back if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

"A Vote for 'Ma' Is a Vote for Freedom"

So Say Ferguson Politicians

THIS IS TRUE, according to the records of Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, which shows that:

"During Miriam Ferguson's last twenty-nine days in office she granted full, unconditional pardons to 33 RAPISTS, 133 murderers, 124 robbers and 127 liquor law violators. During her last three days in office, from January 15, 1927, through January 17, 1927, she granted clemency in 160 cases, including full pardons to 35 violators of liquor laws, 40 robbers, 22 murderers, and 10 RAPISTS."

A Vote for Sterling Is a Vote for:

1. An honest administration.
2. An able executive.
3. A tax program which relieves the heavy burden on farm and home.
   (In Wichita County more than one-third (1-3) of our County Taxes levied on home and farm now goes to pay for the building of our State Highways through this county. Ross Sterling's plan eliminates this unjust taxation.)
4. Political peace and governmental stability.
5. A fair deal to the oil industry.
   (The endorsement of independent oil operators and association executives is proof of the fact).
6. A program of progress.

A Vote for Mrs. Ferguson Is a Vote For Freedom

To the Women of Northwest Texas:

The oil trust, the flour milling trust, the chain store trust, the ice trust and all other monopolies who are supporting R. S. Sterling for Governor are making a frantic last minute struggle to save their candidate from the overwhelming defeat which is inevitable. The money that is being spent in behalf of his candidacy is unparalleled in the history of this State; indeed it equals that of Vare of Pennsylvania and Newberry of Michigan.

An advertisement appeared last Sunday in the Wichita Daily Times to show the names of the women of Wichita Falls who, it is claimed, will vote for Mr. Sterling. Evidently those who are furnishing the money for his campaign incurred this great expense hoping that, because of the reputed financial and social eminence of these ladies, the women in humbler circumstances would be so dazzled by such an array of elegance that they would for the time forget their duty to save Texas from the clutches of the oil trust and other monopolies who are bent upon driving from the field of activity the independent oil man, the independent merchant and all who come in competition with their nefarious system of oppression. Do not be deceived by advertisements of this character; they are the methods always used by the big corporate interests to divert the attention of the people from the real issue. This is the fight of the common people against predatory wealth and the people have it won. Don't be deceived by statements given out by the Dallas News and Dallas Times-Herald to the effect that a poll of the newspaper editors shows that Sterling will win by fifty thousand. It will be remembered that these papers also took a poll in the first primary and placed Mrs. Ferguson in third place. Their poll was just as accurate then as it is now. A week ago the women of Oklahoma withstood the assault of corporate wealth and saved their State from dominance by Wall Street; likewise, the women of Texas will save this State from the interests that would reduce their children to a state of peonage.

That Body Of Yours

Safety for Tuberculosis Patients

One of the usual symptoms in tuberculosis is the feeling the patient has that he is getting better and is sure to get well.

Now this is helpful of course, because it means "hopefulness" on the part of patient, and hope is a great aid to recovery.

However, this hopefulness, this feeling that he is getting better, may cause the patient to take chances with his health that may prove disastrous.

Often also he so influences his physician by his encouraging statements about how good he feels, that the physician may allow him more liberty of action than is wise.

The X-ray may show a partial clearing up of the lung condition, there may be some increase in weight, and the temperature be almost at normal, and with the patient's assertions that he is feeling so much better a little exercise is permitted.

Sometimes the results of this exercise are beneficial but often the patient was really not in as good shape as he thought he was, and his recovery is delayed some months.

It is therefore gratifying to know that further experimenting with the "sedimentation" test of the blood has proven its effectiveness as actual guide to the patient's condition.

This is the length of time it takes for the red blood corpuscles of the patient's blood to sink to the bottom of the vessel into which it has been drawn.

Dr. D. M. Dunlop, Edinburgh, examined the blood of 30 individuals suffering from various types of tuberculosis, in varying stages of severity, and also the blood of five healthy individuals.

He found that the length of time it took the corpuscles to sink gave an exact record of the condition of the patient. The shorter the time the more severe or serious was the condition of the patient.

Drs. J. W. Cutler and L. Cohen, Eagleville, Pa., studied this sedimentation test in 500 patients, all of whom came to the dispensary before going to the tuberculosis sanitarium or after they had been discharged as cured.

They believe that the sedimentation test is the most valuable single means of knowing just how active the tuberculosis is. They estimate that it is exactly right in 94 per cent of the cases.

This test shows the general disturbance in the body caused by the tuberculosis.

This means then that even if a patient says he feels good, and that he knows he is improving, this test tells the doctors exactly his condition, and whether it is improving or growing worse.

It is gratifying to know that there is now this safe means of estimating the patient's condition.

MIX DENIES HE ABUSED MAN

Cowboy Actor Answers All Charges in Suit

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 21. (INS)—Tom Mix, internationally famous stage, screen and circus cowboy, today declared, in commenting on a damage suit filed against him at Minneapolis, that he had learned long ago it was "bad practice" to shake your fist in the other fellow's face.

Mix's statement, made exclusively to International News Service, bristled with denials of charges made by John Berress, Minneapolis salesman, that Mix had shaken his fist in Berress' face, had called him names and had put him in great fear of his life.

Due to the alleged incident, Berress has asked $13,000 damages and claims his efficiency as a salesman has been reduced.

"As to shaking my fist in his face," Mix said, "I learned long ago that was bad practice—when the other fellow hit me on the nose."

Mix denied the charges categorically, charged "the man" (he did not name Berress) had used rough language and denied he had called Berress names.

"As to calling anyone names—that's out of my line," Mix said. "If I did that, I would be making talkies now instead of taking chances of breaking my neck twice a day with a circus."

England Astir on Divorce Problem

OXFORD, Eng., Aug. 21. (INS)—Controversial issue dealing largely with marriage and birth control continued to excite comment today at the modern churchmen's conference here.

Following closely in the footsteps of Dean Inge's sensational pronouncement that suicides in certain cases should be justified in place of the death penalty and the Lambeth all-Anglical conclusions on morality, Dr. Douglas White of the archbishop's commission on sex relations declared that birth control must take its place of sheer necessity in human society, despite its attendant dangers and objections.

Stupidity and false modesty of women cause many a marital wreck, he continued, adding:

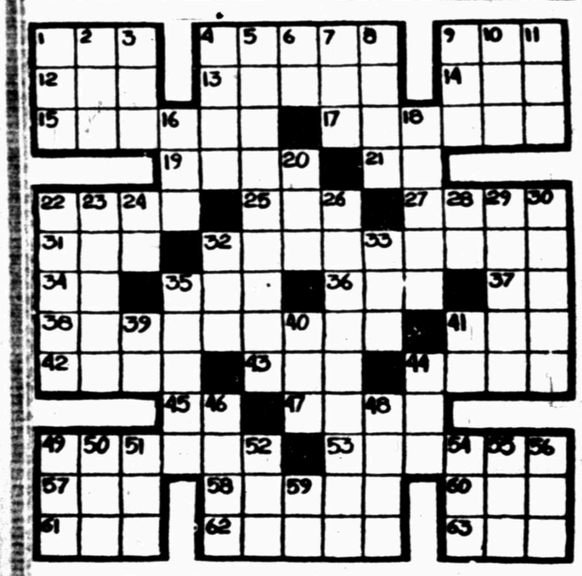

"Unhappy marriages are caused by the lovers' rosy view and by real changes occurring after physical maturity. Hence, divorce is necessary and is not forbidden by Christ."

Louisiana Acadians In Grand Pre Pageant

GRAND PRE, N. S., Aug. 21. (UP)—Acadians from the United States and Canada gathered in this historic village today in memory of their forefathers who were forced to flee 175 years ago.

Fifty young women, direct descendants of the French-Canadians who were deported in 1755, came from Louisiana to participate in a pageant presenting Longfellow's beautiful epic story of Evangeline. Their offering was given beneath the same ancient willows which were full grown trees when their forefathers were exiled.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

We were all talking baseball and trying to forget the terrific heat of about three weeks ago. The hour was something like 2 a. m., but the cool breeze we had been awaiting had failed to show up. I hauled out the old bandana for a tour o'er my mug, and between soaks I kept the conversation going with this:

"Well, we got a new pitcher, today."

"Who?," the ensemble wanted to know.

"Ernie Koob," says I, "a left-hander of the old school. They say he's good."

Wayland Sanford drained the fifth pitcher of ice water, finally jerked his collar off in desperation and swore at the heat. He had barely heard my remark. But it penetrated his mind suddenly and he said:

"Ernie Koob—Ernie Koob . . . Now boys, way back there in the iron age when men were men and I attended the University of Michigan we had a great ball game one day. It was for the championship. The old varsity team was up against the Kalamazoo Normal nine, and a little fellow by the name of Koob pitched for the Normal and beat us. Now I wonder if by any chance this could be the same Koob. If it is, he'll be a great addition to the Spudders, for on that dim and distant eve he pitched great baseball against the University of Michigan."

And so the first chance I got I interviewed Ernie and asked him if he was the guy. He was. The same old Ernie. He recalls those college games with pleasure, remembering how he played against George Sisler, who was on the Michigan varsity team.

Most baseball players desert the farm for baseball, but Ernie's early hankering was for farming, and poultry farming especially. When a lad his folks gave him a fond farewell and watched him catch a train for Ann Arbor, Mich., expecting him to enroll in the University of Michigan, graduate and then prove that each and every citizen of this nation can, with proper initiative, become president of the United States. But Ernie never enrolled in the school. He took one look at the dude campus and entrained for a small neighboring town and got a job with a poultry farm. For months his folks thought he was digesting English composition, etc., when in fact he was watching the evolution of baby chicks. Later he entered Kalamazoo Normal, because he could get courses in agricultural subjects there.

But somehow or another he couldn't keep his hands off a baseball glove, and gradually he saw his dream of a quiet little farm distorted by the lure of the diamond. His fellows hailed him as a great pitcher. He couldn't quit. It went on and on . . . and in 1915 Ernie signed the dotted line with the St. Louis Browns. For five years he toiled for the Spudder parent club. Then came a sojourn at Louisville of the American association. After several years he found himself in 1929 with Mobile of the Southern association. The first of this year he was with Atlanta of the same loop. But Ernie tired of the game and bought his release. He returned to St. Louis, his home; through with the diamond forever.

But a baseball player is human like all of us. Probably they are more human, for they never shirk when a friend is in need. And when that friend calls on them to again don a uniform, two forces get to work. First, he thinks of his friend. Second, he begins to remember the thrill of the game.

Well, it came. The president of the Topeka club of the Western league, a good friend of Ernie's, called the latter by long distance, pleading for him to come at once. Topeka needed him. So Ernie went out on the back porch, found his glove in an old trunk, and caught the next train for Topeka.

His story up to the present is fairly well known. Topeka is a farm of the Browns. The Browns management decided the Spudders needed mound aid more than Topeka, and ordered Ernie here. And here he is.

Ernie is a veteran at the game, but he is not old. In fact, he looks like a 19-year-old, and none of his stuff has slipped from him, apparently.

He hardly expects to be in a players' role next year, he confided to me. This probably will be his last year in active service as a player. He wants to manage a club. And there is bound to be an opening next year for such a seasoned player as Ernie.

Cochran Defeats Dallas Golfer in Tournament

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP)—With the exception of a pair of extra hole matches, the favorites, traveled through their first round matches with ease today in the Glen Garden invitation golf tournament. Jack Jackson, elongated lad from Dallas, defeated R. L. James, Glen Garden, in one of the 19 hole battles, while the other went to M. J. Thomas, Dallas, over Dr. H. B. Kingsbury of Glen Garden.

While Jackson and Thomas were having trouble winning their matches, Dennis Lavender of Abilene, reigning favorite, and the others in the select group were adding victories. Lavender defeated Vic Morgenstern, River Crest, 5 and 4; Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls, tournament medalist, defeated O'Hara Watts, Dallas, 4 and 3.

SHIPPERS 3, CATS 2

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 21. (AP)—Big Buck Marrow tripped the loop-leading Fort Worth Cats with his crossfire this afternoon, limiting the Kittens to seven scattered singles as his mates were pounding Hugh Buchanan hard and taking advantage of every misplay to win the opening game, 3 to 2. Sensational fielding and hitting by Stapleton and Schuble helped Marrow baffle the Felines. Buck whiffed six. Score:

GIANTS WHIP CUBS, 13 TO 6

McGrawmen Win First Of Vital Series

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP)—John McGraw's Giants from New York presented a bear-training act in Wrigley field this afternoon, and when it was over, had a 13 to 6 victory over the Cubs in the first game of their vital series and were only two games behind Chicago in the National league pennant battle.

The Giants gave an able demonstration of why they have won 22 out of their last 26 games, in humbling the 1929 champions of the senior league. They belted Sheriff Fred Blake and Bud Teachout for 15 hits, took advantage of every Cub shortcoming, and presented a defense that left no opportunities for easy scoring. Score:

Simmons' Homer in Ninth Saves Champions

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21. (AP)—Al Simmons' 30th home run of the season with two out and one on base in the ninth inning today climaxed the Athletics' rally from behind a three-run lead of the Detroit Tigers, giving the champions an uphill triumph, 8 to 7. George Uhle, who allowed only one hit in the first six innings, lost his effectiveness in the closing innings. He gave up four runs in the seventh and eighth and was relieved after the Athletics filled the bases with none out in the ninth. Score:

Wichita Tennis Champions Leave For State Tournament at Dallas

Heavy favorites in the quest for state honors, the Wichita Falls tennis delegation to the state tournament of the Texas Amateur Athletic federation left here Thursday noon for Dallas, where the tournament will be held Friday and Saturday. Tom McCarty, director of the recreation division of the city park department which sponsors local tourneys, accompanied the group.

The entries included city champions in the various divisions selected in the city tournament recently. They are as follows: Raymond McPhail and Clifton Haynes, men's doubles champions; Jewel Williams, women's singles titlist, who paired with Juanita Morey to win the doubles title; Henry Anderson, junior singles champion, and John Graham, who with Anderson will make up the doubles team; Wyona Gregg, girls' singles; Dorothy and Irma Cline, girls' doubles; Ted Norwood, boys' singles, and Albert Biedenharn, who with Norwood will play in boys' doubles; and B. B. Toone, veterans' singles.

Wichita Falls will have entries in every event but junior singles. Entrants from several cities are expected to compete. Last year the state tournament was held here.

Betty Nuthall Maintains Winning Tennis Game

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 21. (AP)—Other players here may falter and drop a set now and then but "Bouncing Betty" Nuthall marches steadily forward through the ranks of America's foremost stars in the direction of the National's Women's championship.

Nineteen-year-old Betty won today in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, from slender little Dorthy Weisel of Sacramento, Calif., while the three other survivors of the original field of 57 contenders all were extended to the limit in three-set battles.

The competitive thrills that were lacking in Miss Nuthall's easy victory were found in abundance in the other quarter finals in which Marjorie Morrill of Dedman, Mass., Anna Harper of San Francisco stopped Mary Gree of Kansas City, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4; and the amazing Baroness Georgio Giacomo Levi of Italy overcame Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., 4-6, 6-4, 7-5.

WRESTLERS TO SEEK CROWN

Title Contenders on Card Here Tonight

Tonight's wrestling card at Athletic park promises to be an exciting one in that principal contestants, Silent Rattan and Charlie Carr, are both out for the welterweight crown now held by Jack Reynolds. Tonight's battle, according to Promoters Billings and Willoughby, will have an important bearing on which of the two will engage the present champion at some future date.

Rattan, a deaf mute, is regarded as one of the cleverest welterweights of the country, while Carr is likewise rated among the best.

Two preliminary matches will precede the main event. The first will be a one fall match between Sylvio Checco Reno, who wrestled here last Friday, and Red Rogers, of Oklahoma City. The second will be a special two out of three fall match with a 45-minute time limit between Jim Coefield, 170-pounder of Kansas City, and Al Mercer, 172 pounds, of St. Louis.

Tonight's bout will be the second here this season. They will be presented each Friday night.

"Puy de Dome," the famous beauty spot in France, has been saved from commercialization, and will be the property of the public. The victory ended a long battle between public and private interests. The volcanic cone, one of many in the vicinity, was owned by a large number of small proprietors, and recently a movement to buy them out and erect a hotel and amusement places at the summit was started. The "Puy" was put up at auction and the department's offer was overbid, but because of public opinion a second sale was held and the purchasers stood down to allow the department to acquire the place for $5,680.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—Cotton opened barely steady at a decline of 7 to 14 points in response to easier Liverpool cables and private reports of some rain in the Southwest.

In addition to local and commission house selling, there appeared to be some overnight selling orders from the South, but the initial offerings were readily absorbed by further covering or trade buying. December advanced from 11.09 to 11.16 on this demand and there may have been a little buying on the failure of the early weather map to show the privately reported rains at some Texas points.

The bulge, however, met increased offerings and the market at the end of the first half hour was about 10 to 12 points net lower.

Futures opened barely steady. Jan., old, 11.46; Jan., new, 11.24; March 11.42; May 11.58; July 11.74; Oct., old 11.24; Oct., new, 10.90; Dec., old, 11.33; Dec., new, 11.09.

The selling tapered off early in the morning and prices strengthened on renewed covering. Some New Orleans selling was reported here, but local brokers said there had been comparatively little southern hedging and more or less uncertainty as to the showing of end-August condition figures which should begin to appear within the next week or 10 days, may have been a factor on the rally.

New October advanced to 11.35 and March to 11.57, with active months showing net advances of some 5 to 10 points at midday.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21. (AP)—Cotton here had an easy opening with Liverpool cables unfavorable. First trades showed losses of 15 to 16 points. October traded down to 11.92 and December to 12.12. From these levels the market rallied 5 to 7 points soon after the start on some trade buying and price fixing by mills but towards the end of the first hour the market was a shade easier again though the weather map showed little rain in the interior.

Futures opened steady. Jan. 11.21; March 11.37; May 11.55; July 11.72 bid; Oct. 10.92; Dec. 11.12.

The market improved during the morning owing to shorts covering and an absence of hedge selling. As a result of the buying, October advanced to 11.16, December to 11.36 and January to 11.44, or 23 to 25 points up from the lows and 8 points above yesterday's close.

At mid-session the market was quiet and had eased off 6 to 9 points from the best of the morning.

Futures closed easy, 10 to 17 points lower; spot quiet; middling, 11.1.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 21. (AP)—The cotton market was less active today, due largely to a falling off in hedge sales. Prices while fluctuating rather broadly showed an upward trend for a time owing to the improvement in the technical condition.

After an early decline of 15 to 16 points due mainly to poor cables the market rallied 23 to 24 points on the absence of hedging and short covering. Insufficient rains inland probably helped the rally.

The market turned easy in the late trading on a resumption of hedge selling with net declines up to 13 points.

Liverpool came in 5 to 7 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of 15 to 16 points. After October had dropped to 10.92, and December to 11.11 and January to 11.21 or 16 to 17 points below the previous close, the market became steadier.

Owing to a market falling off in hedge sales and shorts covering prices improved during the second half of the morning and before the demand had been satisfied October traded up to 11.16, December to 11.36 and January to 11.44, or 23 to 25 points above the early lows.

The market turned easier in the late trading on some renewal of hedge selling. It was claimed and prices gradually lost all of the late morning's recovery. October traded down to 10.97, or 19 points down from the highs and closed at the figure. December closed at 11.16.

Port receipts 26,787, for week 125,240, for season 319,836, last season 191,953. Exports 11,837, for week 85,257, for season 168,215, last season 140,902. Port stock 1,680,218, last year 537,701. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 27,762, last year 31,355. Spot sales at southern markets 21,419, last year 17,214.

Futures closed steady at net declines of 11 to 13 points:

Professional Pressure Kept Up With Result That Stocks Show Losses

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (US)—Confronted with unceasing professional pressure against vulnerable issues, the market today suffered a setback which, however, was restricted to moderate proportion in the main body of stocks. An outburst of selling in the Railroad group was the most disconcerting development of the day. Having uncovered among the miscellaneous group such weak spots as Gillette, Auto-Strop and a few others, the bear crowd kept hammering at these issues in the hope of inducing general liquidation. In the latter expectation they were doomed to disappointment, although weakness in the vulnerable stocks influenced the entire market temporarily. Continued aggressive sponsorship of a few popular issues, notably the amusement stocks tended to offset the damaging effects of weakness elsewhere in the list and a rally from the day's lowest levels was scored in the closing transactions. The improvement, however, was insufficient to overcome earlier declines and the list closed lower on the day. Transactions totaled 1,700,000 shares.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum continued the outstanding performer on the constructive side of the market. The stock attained a new high on the present movement as buying continued on a large scale, with demand coming from entirely new sources attracted by what is considered the bright prospects for this company. The most aggressive market sponsor of the stock reiterated his complete confidence in the stock attaining, in time, prices above its former high. The new interests aligned on the constructive side of R. K. O. include some of the most successful operators in the market. The entire motion picture group was influenced by R. K. O.'s firmness even in the face of general irregularity throughout the market. Fox achieved a slight net gain for the day. Loew was up over two points. Warner broke to the year's low but also recovered to close off only ⅛. Many vicious stories were circulated regarding Warner, but these proved unfounded.

Gillette broke 10 points as the continued bear attack uncovered virtually no support in the stock. It is understood that the bull pool in Gillette will dissolve tomorrow. Auto-Strop continued to suffer along with Gillette, breaking 5½ points net. Danforth is reported to have scored another profitable victory in Gillette. Selling broke out anew in Southern Railway and forced it to a new low for several years. Baltimore and Ohio also declined to a new low on fears over its $7 dividend and the weakness of this issue unnerved all of the Railroad shares. Atchison broke 5¾, Union Pacific 2, New York Central 2, and other Rails in proportion. Canadian Pacific continued under pressure, despite official assurance the $10 dividend is not in danger.

Vanadium, in which probably the most active contest between bulls and bears in the entire market is being waged, was in supply on issuance of its semi-annual report, showing $3.30 per share earned. Almost half of this income, however, came from transactions in the stock market, including resale of Vanadium's own stock. This confirmed the exclusive disclosure here weeks ago that the profits would be swelled by speculative operations. Vanadium, however, harbors a tremendous short interest which in itself furnishes basis for frequent sharp run-ups in the stock. Deprived of this short interest, the bull pool in the stock undoubtedly would experience difficulty maintaining the price. However, it was reported that another effort would be made to stampede the shorts. The effort is to be made, it was stated, by the same interests who were so signally successful when the stock attained its highest price of the year. United Aircraft, in which the same interests have been very active, maintained its price despite attempts to weaken the stock by bearish professionals. Buying of this stock in part at least is for long-pull investment.

The market's continued resistance to successful attacks against its vulnerable spots becomes more impressive daily. Encouraged by this performance, it is understood that at least half-a-dozen new pools have been formed to commence activities within the next two weeks. Oil stocks were again unsettled by a price-cut in one of the smaller Mid-Continent fields. Utility stocks were lower on the average as short covering ceased. Transamerica sold off fractionally probably reflecting passage of dividend by Shell-Union in which it holds a substantial interest. Worthington Pump, in which a strong group has been prominent recently, gained almost four points.

Radio maintained its price despite strenuous efforts by the bears. Buying of the stock is chiefly for long-pull account but attempt may be made in the near future to attain higher price levels. Commodity prices generally closed with relatively unimportant changes. Money remained easy at two per cent and bond prices held steady. Brokers' loans during the past week, the federal reserve reported, decreased $27,000,000, an insignificant amount. The federal reserve rediscount rate remained unchanged.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP)—Good demand was reported today for all wheat offered which was limited. Exporters were bidding 93@93½c for ordinary wheat delivered Texas gulf ports but were getting little grain in competition with the mills, which were bidding 95½@96c for ordinary No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points. Heavy offerings of wheat might glut the market, in the opinion of dealers, but are not expected.

Corn was reported in fair demand and there was said to be some inquiry for milo but other grains were very slow sale.

Estimated receipts: Wheat 26 cars; corn 12; oats 1; and sorghums 1 car.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn: No. 2 mixed $1.01@1.03; No. 2 white $1.02@1.04; No. 2, 95 per cent white, $1.01@1.03; No. 2 yellow $1.07@1.08.

Oats: No. 2 red 50@51c; No. 3 white delivered Texas group 1 points, 50½@51½c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

Barley: No. 2 nominally 71@73c.

Sorghums: No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.85@1.88; No. 2 kaffir $1.70@1.73.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. (AP)—Canada's wheat harvest loomed larger as a grain trade factor today, and the wheat market at least temporarily shook off the uplifting influence of corn. It was announced that rural deliveries of wheat in Canada for 24 hours totaled 1,076,000 bushels compared with 271,000 bushels a year ago, a circumstance which led to fears of heavy selling pressure from Canada during the next few weeks.

Despite rains in various sections of the corn belt, and notwithstanding downturns in wheat prices, the corn market scored fresh gains, and Chairman Legge of the federal farm board was quoted as saying it would make but little difference hereafter how much rain fell, since it would not bring about a recovery of the corn crop.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅝@1c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed nervous at ⅛@⅜c net gain, with oats ⅝@1⅛c advanced, and provisions varying from 7 cents setback to a rise of 5 cents.

Adding to the bearish effect of a rapid increase of the rural movement of newly harvested wheat in Canada was an estimate current that the world's visible supply of wheat and flour as of Aug. 1 amounted to 411,840,000 bushels compared with 378,000,000 bushels a month previous and 370,120,000 bushels last year.

Provisions, although firm early with corn, weakened later under scattered selling, notwithstanding that the hog market today reached a new high point for the year, $11.90 a hundredweight.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Sept. 87½c, 90c; Dec. 91½@⅝c, 94¼@⅝c; March 96⅛c, 99c; May 99c, $1.01⅝. Corn—Sept. 96⅝c, $1.00⅝; Dec. 90¼c, 93⅜@⅝c; March 92⅝c, 96⅛c; May 94⅝c, 97⅛c.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle receipts here today were estimated at 2,000 head and this total included about 15 loads of slaughter steers.

Trade in slaughter steers ruled steady to 25c higher, with the better grades showing the advance. A top of $8.50 was paid for two loads of good 1,161 pound steers and other loads of good steers sold at $7.50. The $8.50 steers were well finished beeves. The plainer grades of slaughter steers moved from around $4.00@5.00.

Slaughter yearlings ranged from around $8.50 down.

Slaughter cows sold from around $4.50 down. Low cutters sold from $2.50@2.85, some meaty low cutters ranging up to $3.00. One car of bulls moved out at a fully steady price of $4.50.

Stock cows moved out at $4.00, with a load of horned steer yearlings at $6.25.

Slaughter calves buyers paid up to $7.75 for a load of good heavy calves and an order buyer purchased a load at $7.85. Bulk of the medium and heavyweight calves changed hands from $6.25@7.25, with medium quality calves around $5.75.

Advances of 15@20c were registered in rail hogs and truck hogs showed advances of 25@35c. The day's top in the carload division, $10.45, was paid for a short load of good 200 pound weights. Good and choice light and medium weight butchers were nominally listed up to $10.55. Best truck hogs brought $10.10, and bulk of the better grades of 175 to 240 pound truck hogs moved from $9.95@10.10. Packing sows sold mostly from $7.25@8.00, 25@50c higher. Pigs ruled steady, good feeder pigs at $7.50 and some underweight stocker pigs at $4.00.

Aged fat wethers sold at $4.00, and about 200 head of good fat truck yearlings brought $5.00.

Hogs—Receipts 900; rail hogs 15@20c higher; top $10.45; truck hogs 25@35c higher; top $10.10; packing sows 25@50c higher, $7.25@8.00; stocker pigs $4.00.

Cattle—Receipts 3,600, including 1,600 calves; slaughter steers steady to 25c higher; good 1161-pound steers $8.50; others around $7.50; plain steers $4.50@5.00; butcher cows $4.50 down; bulls $4.50; stock cows $4.00; steer yearlings $6.20; heavy calves $7.75.

Sheep—Receipts 300; steady to 25c higher; aged fat wethers $4.00; fat truck yearlings $5.00.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 21. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Opening hog trade around the eleven market circuit ruled 10@40c higher but the late trade at some points was slow with the early advance erased. St. Louis had an early top of $12.00 with comparable sold later $11.55@11.90. Offerings were around 63,700.

Fat lambs were strong to unevenly higher with a maximum gain of 25@50c at Chicago. Chicago scored $10.65 for choice native lambs and $10.50 for choice Idahos. The supply approximated 60,400.

Receipts of cattle were estimated at 24,900. Killing classes were on a firm to 25c higher basis.

Most of the upturn was taken by beef steers and yearlings. Country demand also remained fairly broad for replacement stock. Chicago had a top of $11.75 on 813 lb. yearlings steers. Good 1,300 lb. fed Kansas grassers in Kansas City cleared at $9.50 while at several of the river markets, common to medium straight grass steers were in liberal quota at $5.75@7.50. Well-bred straight grassers on feeder accounts paid upward to $8.00.

Hogs—Receipts 4,000; 30@40c higher; top $10.60; packing sows $8.50@9.75; stock pigs $7.75@9.00.

Cattle—Receipts 4,000; calves 800; active fully steady, spots 25c higher on in-between grades of steers. Steers, good and choice, 600-900 pounds $9.00@11.25; 900-1,100 pounds $9.00@11.00; 1,100-1,500 pounds $8.75@11.00; heifers, good and choice, 550-850 pounds $8.00@10.75; cows, good and choice, $5.50@7.25; cutters $3.00@4.25; vealers (milk-fed) medium to choice $7.00@11.50; stocker and feeder steers, good and choice (all weights) $6.75@8.0.

Sheep—Receipts 5,000; lambs strong to 15c higher; sheep steady; lambs, good and choice, 90 pounds down $9.00@10.15; medium 90 pounds down $7.75@9.00; cull medium to choice 150 pounds down $2.50@4.25.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. (AP)—Print cloths have sold in excess of production for the week at the lowest prices of the year, considerable business having been accepted for delivery in the last quarter of the year. Finished cotton goods were selling very moderately today. Pile fabrics for overcoatings have been selling more freely. Moderate trading is going on in suitings and coatings. Raw silk was slightly higher. Silk merchandise is in better demand this week for cutting purposes. Burlap cables from Calcutta were on a slightly higher basis but trade here is slight.

FARM LEADERS TOUR VALLEY

Power of Irrigation Shown To Visitors

like powder. This powder is sold principally to ice cream plants.

Mr. Freeman stated that as much as 52,000 pounds of milk had been received at the plant in one day and that present receipts, decreased by the unusually dry weather, were about 25,000 pounds daily. Cigars and milk chocolate were served to the visitors by Mr. Freeman. E. E. Reynolds, production manager, also welcomed the visitors.

Visit Orchard

From the milk plant the caravan proceeded out via Holliday street and Lake Park drive, past Lake Wichita to the Bullington-Odonohoe-Dunaway orchard, with its 15,000 peach trees and 5,000 grapevines.

Here the visitors learned that in spite of two months of extra dry weather and in spite of other long dry periods in the three years since the orchard was planted, it had not ever been irrigated. The elaborate irrigation system installed in the orchard will be used for the first time in the next day or two.

The orchard and vineyard have flourished, without moisture other than rainfall, because of the deep tillage system employed. It is considered a striking object lesson in deep tillage, and William Hausermann of Oklahoma City, representing the company which manufactures deep tillage implements, explained to the visitors how that method of cultivation conserved moisture, aided root systems to develop healthily and promoted nutrition. Forrest Stallings, manager of the farm, took the visitors to where one of the plows was in operation, cutting a deep furrow down the tree-rows preparatory to irrigation. The visiters were able to poke their fingers into moist, clinging soil, a few inches under the surface of the ground.

The junior demonstration farm was the next stop. On the way to it the trippers saw some fields being sprayed against leaf-worm, saw other fields where spraying seemed to be urgently needed.

At the demonstration farm, P. R. Freeman, manager, told what the Junior chamber of commerce is endeavoring to do. It is not intended as a model farm, he explained, the purpose being to show how a 50-acre farm, operated under ordinary conditions, could make a success of dairying. The grade A dairy barn, Mr. Freeman said, had been erected at a cost of $280 and the chicken house at a cost of $120. The visitors saw a big stack of hegira feed, abundant clover and sudan pastures and a cotton crop that looks promising. At the chicken house the 260 hens which were raised from a consignment of 600 baby chicks are beginning to lay.

Johnson Enlarges Plant

The M. Johnson poultry farm was next visited with Mr. Johnson himself doing the honors as host. He told the trippers that the incubator capacity of his two farms, now 280,000, was being increased by installation of two 100,000-egg Smith electric incubators, which will give him a total capacity of 480,000. His shipments of baby chicks this year were slightly over one million, he said, in answer to questions, being about the same as last year.

At present Mr. Johnson is selling very few eggs, putting the summer yield into his warehouse, which holds the equivalent of six carloads. The visitors inspected the chicken houses and saw the double-yard system with its overhead irrigation by which abundant green feed is supplied at all times during the summer.

The next stop was the headquarters farm of the Weeks colony, where a tract of only three-fourths of an acre is the "farm." Peach trees trained on fence trellises, grape vines on an arbor over the driveway, clover instead of grass in the yard, a sub-irrigated vegetable garden and a chicken house with 1200 hens were among the interesting features of this farm. There was nobody at home and County Agent G. C. McGown explained things but could not answer the question that everybody asked, whether a man could really make a living on three-quarters of an acre. The consensus was that he might with the price of eggs at a normal figure, but not under existing market conditions.

The final stop of the day was the Fair Park dairy, one of only two certified milk plants in Texas, owned by Orville Bullington. All of the Jerseys on this farm are register of merit cows, the visitors were told, and all of the Holsteins are advanced register. The very sanitary barn and facilities for handling the milk were inspected right at milking time, while John McLarry, manager, explained things. He exhibited the Jersey herd sire, a blue-blooded individual of the celebrated Fauvic strain, and also pointed some individual cows that are making exceptional records, one of them having a butter fat production of over seven per cent.

Blooded Stock in Auction

It was learned at the Bullington dairy that some of the stock will be included in the registered Jersey auction at the Wichita county fair at Iowa Park next month.

The trippers next repaired to the headquarters hangar where supper was served by Ansley's cafe. A trip to the lake park and to Westmoreland swimming pool ended the day's activities.

The party includes A. C. Golden and Jim C. Searl of Iowa Park, W. E. Harrison, Olin Miller, W. G. Clyde, T. C. Colgin, John Olsen, R. L. Eddleman, Cedric Cline and A. F. Harrison of Seymour, Jim Boyd and D. O. McCoy of Henrietta, M. E. Rowe and Guy Harding of Byers, J. M. Anderson and F. L. Brown of Bluegrove, M. H. Bevering and G. P. Edwards of Charlie, Carl Grimpe of Halsell, W. H. Dye, J. D. Murray and J. G. Brown of Bellevue, C. H. Randle of Chillicothe, L. T. Hunter and Frank B. Mayfield of Quanah, R. A. Mayfield, J. E. Calvert and R. E. L. Pattillo of Vernon, L. E. Key of Odell, G. P. Robertson of Olney, L. Hulse of Walters, C. P. Park and J. L. Nunn of Randlett, Paul Powell of Walters, Knox Andrews and J. Lee Jackson of Dallas and W. B. Hauserman of Oklahoma City. Wichitans with the party included Pat H. Simmons, Oral Jones, W. J. Morgareidge, L. T. Stone, W. A. Remington, S. H. Rider, G. C. McGown, P. R. Freeman and E. E. Reynolds.

Governor Moody said in general, counties suffering most from drouth are those in the south Plains country.

SOUTHEAST ARCHER COUNTY

Texas to Get Drouth Relief

AUSTIN, Aug. 21. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody today received a telegram from Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, notifying him that some Texas counties are eligible to receive reduced freight rates on shipment of feed or livestock for feeding.

Secretary Hyde asked Governor Moody to supply him names of counties in Texas which are suffering from drouth and to which the benefits of the president's drouth relief program should be extended. The governor said the list of names would be sent to Washington by telegraph Friday from his office.

The telegram proferring aid to Texas was the result of an exchange of telegrams between Governor Moody and President Hoover. When the president called the recent national conference, Texas was not included in the list of states invited to send representatives, Governor Moody said. The governor then telegraphed the president calling attention to Texas conditions, and today the federal government invited Texas to take part.

"Am sending you today form of organization recommended by president's conference with governors," Secretary Hyde telegraphed. "Suggest you appoint committee on lines laid down by conference. Some Texas counties are being notified as eligible to receive reduced freight rates on shipment of feed or livestock for feeding and further certifications probably will result from survey now in progress. Wire names of counties you referred to."

The secretary did not include in his telegram names of counties which are now being notified they are eligible to receive reduced freight rates.

WOMEN RAP JIM'S RECORD

Ferguson's Record Recalled At Rally Here

on next Saturday, Aug. 23," she said. "On that day we shall say to the nation that we are in favor of a man who is honest, who has been educated in the school of experience, a man who has made his way up from poverty, step by step to a deserved high position in this commonwealth. His enemies have sought to use his wealth as a means of stirring up uninformed prejudices against him. But thinking people know that wealth is just as necessary to progress as labor. There should be no stirring up of the minds of the people with prejudice and hate.

"This is not a campaign of hate, but of facts," Mrs. Zehner continued. "Facts are hateful to Jim Ferguson, of course, if he has one drop of manhood in his whole body. I should not have mentioned him in this talk tonight had he not presented himself in this race in the name of his wife."

Jim Real Governor

Mrs. Zehner declared that practically the only plea made by Mrs. Ferguson herself to the voters of the state in 1924 was for an opportunity to clear the name of her family from the stigma of Mr. Ferguson's earlier impeachment. Texas citizens gave her the fullest opportunity for making such redemption, the speaker continued, but witnessed immediately after the inauguration the assumption by Mr. Ferguson of all the powers of governor.

"When a young woman," Mrs. Zehner said, "I learned that bargains are oft times expensive. We have been offered 'two for one' in the candidacy of Mrs. Ferguson. We should have to pay for it. While incompetent to discharge the duties of governor, Mrs. Ferguson is not ignorant of what her husband would do through her title as governor. She is as deep in the mud as Jim is in the mire. Mrs. Ferguson had her chance to win a position of glory in Texas history; but she abused it. When Ross Sterling sweeps the state next Saturday, the women of Texas will have had a large part in that victory."

Doctor Hunt, president of McMurry college of Abilene, declared in the beginning of his address his conviction that West Texas will return a large majority for Mr. Sterling in Saturday's election. He stated that he has been campaigning for the past 10 days in that territory.

Referring to his support of Tom Love in the first primary, and to the support given by various of his hearers to other candidates in that first race, Doctor Hunt said:

"Many of us can not get our first choice for governor in this race which closes Saturday, but we can keep the devil from getting his first choice. All issues save one have disappeared: Jim Ferguson against honest government."

Mr. Ferguson was referred to by the speaker as "the man who gave Texas three great Americans; the American Construction company, the American Book concern, and the American party."

Numerous pardon cases of the 1924-26 term served by Mrs. Ferguson were reviewed by Doctor Hunt among them the Marshal Ratliff case from Eastland county.

Lower Property Taxes

"Although this bond issue of which we heard so much has been killed for the present, recent study of Mr. Sterling's proposals for such a plan has awakened a wide-spread realization of its fitness and value to the state," Doctor Hunt declared. "Mr. Sterling's plan briefly is to take from the shoulders of the local property owner the burden of building and maintaining roadways which are used principally by residents of other communities. Just to bring it home to Wichita county, I have found this afternoon that you have $1,750,000 worth of road bonds, and a tax rate of 75 cents. Of that amount, 26½ cents goes to pay the cost of this highway running from Electra to the Clay county line.

"Reduced to bales of cotton, it means that in time you will use the proceeds of 30,000 bales of cotton at $55 per bale to pay for that road. Under the proposed road bond plan, this expense would be borne by the people who use the road, in proportion to their use of it."

Mrs. W. W. Silk presented Doctor Hunt. Mrs. J. C. A. Guest introduced Mrs. Zehner after Charles I. Francis had opened the meeting. Mr. Francis announced that a public debate will be held in Vernon Friday night between Judge R. E. Taylor, representing Ross Sterling and B. Y. Cummings as the representative of Mrs. Ferguson. The match will be "catch as catch can" according to Mr. Francis. Women prominent in various communities in this section of the state occupied the platform Thursday night. The speeches were broadcast through radio station KGKO.

Utah tax collections have doubled in the last 11 years, according to state figures.

Wrightsman Suit Is Termed 'Holdup'

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 21. (AP)—The $1,000,000 oil land suit brought against C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa oil man and recent candidate for the Democratic pomination for U. S. senator, by Raymond Offutt, Creek Indian, was characterized today by Christy Russell, attorney for Wrightsman, as "just a holdup."

Russell called attention to the fact that Offutt previously had filed a similar suit in state district court only to have it dismissed when the case was transferred to federal court. The new suit was filed in the state court.

Offutt's petition charges Wrightsman conspired with Offutt's wife and her brother, Ray Frazier, to defraud him of Creek county oil lands allegedly worth the amount of the suit.

Oklahoman's Will To Benefit Texans

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 21. (AP)—Col. Ike T. Pryor, ranchman of San Antonio, Texas, and Mrs. Pryor were named the chief beneficiaries in the will of David C. Pryor, Oklahoma City pioneer, which was filed for probate today in county court here. Because of the discovery of oil, the value of David Pryor's real estate holdings south of Oklahoma City leaped after his death in September, 1927, to an estimated $1,000,000.

David Pryor died in San Antonio at the age of 79. He was a bachelor. He made a bequest of $5,000 to a friend, Miss Lena M. Ewing of Paris, Texas.

SARTIN TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Candidate to Close His Campaign Here

Supporters of B. D. Sartin, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 13th district, will hold the final rally before the run-off election of Saturday on the lawn of the Memorial auditorium Friday night at 8 o'clock, it was announced Thursday.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, a 15-minute band concert will be given in advance of the speaking arranged for the evening. Ed W. Napier will preside and J. F. Friberg will introduce Judge Sartin for the principal address of the rally. Among the other speakers to be heard Friday night will be R. S. England, M.-K.-T. conductor.

The speaking will be broadcast through radio station KGKO from 8:45 to 9:45 o'clock, it was announced. According to those in charge of preparations, information has been received indicating that delegations from Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park, Holliday and Bellevue will be present for the pre-election rally.

A trail is planned from Death Valley, Calif., below sea level to the summit of Mt. Whitney, 14,494 feet high.

Mexico exports more than 6,000,000 bunches of bananas yearly.

Today

At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

STRAND: Robert Montgomery and Joan Crawford in "Our Blushing Brides." Comedy and sound news.
MAJESTIC: "The Florodora Girl" with Marion Davies. Comedy and sound news.
STATE: Buck Jones in "The Lone Rider." Comedy and sound news.

It is hard to realize how thoroughly styles change in everything—clothes, music, morals, wisecracks and everything—until one sees "The Florodora Girl."

The girl who would have hysterics and talk about "honorable intentions" and slap her escort today would be as out-of-date as if she wore a bustle and hummed "Waltz Me Around Again, Willie." Miss 1930 wears her morals as comfortably as she does her one-piece frock and boyish bob, and never verges on the melodramatic.

Even first-aid methods seem to have changed. The elaborate measures taken to resuscitate Daisy Dell would excite the scorn of any Boy Scout or Camp Fire girl today. How they ever kept from drowning in those terribly decent bathing suits is a mystery, anyhow.

Joan Crawford again—first it's "Our Dancing Daughters," then "Our Modern Maidens" and now, "Our Blushing Brides." I guess they will keep on until they have one entitled "Our Rheumatic Grandmothers" before someone has a bright idea for a different title.

"Disraeli" may be shown here again within the next week or two, according to a half-promise made by Manager Victor B. Lowrey of the Majestic theater. "Disraeli," one of the best talkies ever made, was "jerked" a day ahead of schedule several months ago because there was no audience, while "Sunny Side Up" broke all records for a week's stand across the street. "Disraeli" will be shown on some Friday night as an extra feature without additional cost, as is the custom each Friday night at the Majestic theater.

"All Quiet on the Western Front" is another promise for the near future—this one to be scheduled for a week's run at the Strand. If the picture goes over like the book, there should be a waiting line halfway down Scott avenue during the entire week. If, however, the movie is like the book in every way, the Strand will have to install equipment like that used on airplanes for nauseated customers—for, in spite of its excellence, the famous war book is not a pleasant recital.

Public opinion appealed to the management of the Majestic and Claudette Colbert makes her second appearance Friday night in "Young Man of Manhattan." This will be in addition to the regular bill for that night and those who attend the second show will see the quick action, hear the crooning melodies in the play, and marvel again at the consummate artistry of Claudette Colbert. Norman Foster is popular, but the lady should have the title role in this play.

ROTARY HEARS THREE TALKS

Ice, Radio and Traction Industries Explained

Classification talks concerning the ice industry, development of radio, and the local street car service were given by T. C. Scott, Darrell Kahn, and L. L. Albritton respectively before members of the Rotary club Thursday noon.

Per capita consumption of ice in 1929 in the United States amounted to 1,000 pounds, Mr. Scott declared. During the period in which the country's population increased six per cent, higher standards of living and new-found uses for ice occasioned an increase of 51 per cent in the consumption of that commodity, he added.

Since 1927, according to Mr. Kahn's address, federal radio control and broadcasting chains have brought order out of chaos.

"The work of the federal radio commission has wrought wonders already," Mr. Kahn said, "and its work has only begun. The rate of future development in radio is uncertain. Television may be remote, despite predictions of some experts that it is at hand."

Gradual decrease in the number of passengers on street cars and buses in this city during the past four years was attributed in part by Mr. Albritton to the picking up of persons by automobile drivers. Motorists in the city pick up 1,500 prospective street car or bus passengers daily, he declared. Patronage of the traction company's equipment reached its peak in 1926 it was stated.

Fred Elbert presided at Thursday's meeting. A club singsong was directed by R. E. Shepherd, with Mrs. Shepherd playing accompaniments.
