Impelling Urge Will Be To Stay With Party of Andrew Jackson, Brittle Says.

BOTH ARE BULWARKS TO THE SOLID SOUTH

States Are Looked Upon As Towers of Strength For Smith Victory; Press Is Supporting Him.

By D. FIELD BRITTE (Associated Press Staff Writer) MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 21. (P)—The democracies of the two states that look into each other here across their joint boundary, the Mississippi, are united in a common purpose in this presidential year—to stand as border bulwarks of the solid south and as militant champions of Alfred E. Smith. It is true that in both states the party has been turned on by some of its own elements, but basically it still is sound and potent.

Democrats here are confident that Tennessee, given its electoral vote to a republican, and the other, Arkansas, has an unbroken record of democratic successes. Although Tennessee is defined politically as well as geographically as a border state, and Arkansas is as least geographically in the belt that separates north and south and therefore constitutes fair battle ground in every quadrennial campaign, democratic stalwarts do not admit any doubt as to the outcome of the contest between Herbert Hoover and Governor Smith.

Conversely, there is no expression of doubt at republican headquarters as to the November outcome, and so far as Tennessee is concerned, followers of Hoover are not without some visible source of inspiration. They draw it from the fact that

Honolulu Kidnapers Send Letter To Newspaper Declaring They Will Reveal Their Identities Soon

Abductors Say They Are Willing To Pay Penalty

(By Associated Press)

HONOLULU, Sept. 21.—A letter to the newspaper, Star-Bulletin, made public today and assertedly sent by the kidnapers and slayers of 10-year old Gill Jamieson, declared the murderers would reveal their identities Tuesday.

The letter said its authors were willing to pay the death penalty for the kidnapping and strangling last Tuesday of the son of Frederick W. Jamieson, vice president of the Hawaiian Trust company.

Talk Is Subdued

This was the chief development in the search for the killers of the boy, whose body was found yesterday after a three-day search by thousands of persons. Talk of vigilante vengeance somewhat had subsided. Though feeling still was high against the abductors, who had demanded $10,000 ransom for the boy and killed him a few hours after his father had handed them $4,000 upon their promise the boy would be returned at once and unharmed.

Bill Is Enacted

The letter from the asserted kidnapers passed through the Honolulu postoffice yesterday morning, but was withheld from publication until today upon request of the authorities. Enclosed with the letter was a five-dollar bill, the serial number of which appeared upon the list of those which Jamieson gave the abductors Tuesday night.

It Is Filed Asking For Investigation and Recount; Charges Fraud In Gathering Returns.

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, Sept. 21.—Renomination of Governor Moody in the July primary is contested in a suit filed in district court here today by Mrs. Edith Wilmans, Dallas, one of his opponents in the race.

The suit asked that the Governor's nomination be declared void and that another primary to determine a democratic gubernatorial nominee be held before the general election. The case cannot be heard until the January court term.

Fraud Is Charged

Irregularity and fraud in the election was alleged. Mrs. Wilmans also asked return of $1200 which she said she spent in the campaign.

Mrs. Wilmans, last in the race and reported to have received approximately 10,000 votes against more than 600,000 for the governor, also filed a pauper's oath relieving her from posting bond.

Declared Against Al

The woman candidate who had declared publicly against Governor Alfred E. Smith, said that her name was left off the ballot in more than thirty counties and that thousands of legally qualified voters were afraid to participate in the primary for fear they would be disfranchised and not permitted to vote in the general election.

She claims that persons gathering the election returns used by the state democratic executive committee were employees of telephone, street railway, electric light and telegraph companies in violation of a law prohibiting "a corporation participating in or assisting with an election of any candidate to public office."

Asks For Recount

Mrs. Wilmans asked for an injunction to restrain election officials from destroying ballots, a full investigation of the election, and a recount.

New All-Metal Structure for Fair Is Complete

The new all-metal livestock building of the Fairgrounds-South Plains fair completed this week at a cost of about $10,000 will be inspected today by the directors of the fair.

The directors will meet at the fair grounds at 9 o'clock this morning and pass judgment of the new structure.

Construction of fabricated steel building, which is 90 by 120 feet, is fire proof throughout, forming the most substantial building on the fair grounds.

Addition of this new building to the fair meets one of the outstanding needs of the annual exposition. The crowded condition of the fair last year demanded additional housing facilities. Need of space by the livestock department was considered the greatest.

YOUR CHILDREN

"Who's birthday is it?" asked the teacher.

Pedro's birthday was celebrated on Friday. It was a great day in Pedro's life. That night all the relations, his Uncle Juan and his Uncle Esteban and their families came to Pedro's house with gifts.

There was a great cake with candles, but also other delectable dishes, hotly seasoned things that tickled the appetites of the family.

The next day Pedro's glow extended beyond his ears. A new necklace flaunted itself gorgeously below his chin. From his jacket pocket peeped, or rather glared a handkerchief much striped with red.

Pedro's birthday was on Tuesday. On Friday when the teacher asked "Whose birthday is it?" Richard stood up with dignity.

He did not blush, he did not look particularly happy. Indeed, he looked rather bored while the school roared out its usual greeting.

He sat down quietly and went on with his lessons.

The next day Pedro inspected him closely. He looked at Richard's tie, at his pocket, at his shoes—everything. There was nothing exciting about his neighbor, to his great disappointment.

The checked stockings were one of Richard's regular pairs. Pedro knew them all—the black and white diamonds, the ones with the touch of red—a pair for every day.

"Hey," said he with a deprecating wave of his hand, "then birthday is silly, isn't it? Cake and presents 'n' all. They're for girls, ain't they? Next year I'm going

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST: Sassa melon, cereal, vegetable hash, graham muffins with dates, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked Mexican corn, cabbage and carrot salad, brown bread and butter, chocolate drop cookies, milk, tea.

Many children around five years of age appease their pangs of hunger by quickly drinking the prescribed glass of milk and then fussing and playing with the necessary solid food. One way to overcome this habit is to wait until the vegetables and bread and butter have been disposed of before serving the child his milk. Then the bait of a cookie with the milk makes it "go down" happily.

Baked Mexican Corn

Two cups chopped tomatoes, 1 cup corn cut from cob, 1 cup corn meal, 1-2 cup stoned ripe olives, 1 cup chopped onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 2 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon white pepper.

Mix tomatoes, corn, meat, olives and cornmeal. Beat eggs well and add to first mixture with onion, parsley, salt, pepper, paprika and melted butter. Mix thoroughly and turn into a buttered baking dish. Cover and bake one hour in a hot oven. Remove cover for last few minutes to brown top if necessary.

The olive can of course be omitted and canned tomatoes and corn be substituted for fresh.

Shoed An Eagle

Modern woman champions might make some to do about the physical prowess of today's woman and cite the case of Mrs. Frank Taft who, attacked by an eagle at Lake Mohonk, N. Y., fought off the bird with an umbrella. Still, that's not so good. Our grandmothers shoed off wolves and bears and much fiercer things than eagles. Same old story of the existence always of individual cases that can prove anything, and it's all just as silly as those who claim that women are as good aviators as men because Amelia Earhart got across.

Weep, Clown, Weep!

The recent death of Charlie Chaplin's mother reminds one again of the beautiful devotion and tenderness of the great comedian to the woman who shared his hard days in a London music hall and even before that when her two boys fought other gamins in the London gutters for spotted tomatoes and rotten apples thrown away by the market vendors.

They say that with the first pound he ever earned little Charlie Chaplin made a vow to always "go halves" with his mother. They say that he did till the day of her death.

Lila Steps In

Queerly enough, he and Lila Grey Chaplin who figured in his recent sensational divorce case, came to the funeral of his mother. One wonders just why. It seemed rather poor taste. One hardly dares intimate that the only possible motive could be a desire for publicity once more.

Long-Haired Babies

As for me, I have no liking for Thomasina Albanese, 6 weeks old, whose picture appears in the paper with enough hair for a Samson and the statement that she had owned most of this hair since the day of her birth. Presumably, I like babies as bald-headed as nature meant 'em to be. Neither have I any great affection for babies born with full sets of teeth and all such nonsense. Give me babies as is by-bye!

THE SQUEEZE PLAY-3

Another example of the squeeze play follows. In this illustration spades are trump and the declarer is on the lead. Eight rounds have been completed. The declarer has led the exact position of the remaining cards from the bidding, leads and signals—he proceeds to make all five remaining tricks.

Dummy—spades none; hearts 5; diamonds none; clubs K 5 4 3.

East—spades none; hearts 10 9 8 7; diamonds none; clubs 7.

West—spades none; hearts K J; diamonds A; clubs Q J.

The only way in which the declarer can make all of the remaining tricks is to lead the 6 of clubs and follow it with the 7 of clubs. West will be forced to weaken either his heart or club suit. If west discards from the heart suit, both hearts in the declarer's hand are good and he wins the last trick by leading to the King of clubs in the dummy. If west discards from the club suit, the declarer leads to the King of clubs in the dummy and the remaining clubs are winning tricks.

COUPLE WEDS HERE

Rev. Jack Lewis Officiates At Marriage

Miss Lela Ratliff of Slaton, and Earl Warren of Canadian, married Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock by Dr. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who officiated with the ring ceremony at his home on Avenue N. The bride's sister accompanied the couple to Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Warren will reside in Canadian.

Today In Society

Miss Alma Spikes and Fay George are entertaining with a bridge party at 5 o'clock this morning, complimenting Miss Verna Wilson, bride-elect.

The Woman's Day

By Alice Samsen

When Hollywood gave Tex Guinan one of the prettiest and it has ever administered to anyone by refusing to attend her welcome party, Texas spurned any of the usual ladylike habits of translating plain snub in some way that should save her from being utterly blighted. She admitted that she "gave the suckers an even break" and was the sap!

Shoed An Eagle

Modern woman champions might make some to do about the physical prowess of today's woman and cite the case of Mrs. Frank Taft who, attacked by an eagle at Lake Mohonk, N. Y., fought off the bird with an umbrella. Still, that's not so good. Our grandmothers shoed off wolves and bears and much fiercer things than eagles. Same old story of the existence always of individual cases that can prove anything, and it's all just as silly as those who claim that women are as good aviators as men because Amelia Earhart got across.

Weep, Clown, Weep!

The recent death of Charlie Chaplin's mother reminds one again of the beautiful devotion and tenderness of the great comedian to the woman who shared his hard days in a London music hall and even before that when her two boys fought other gamins in the London gutters for spotted tomatoes and rotten apples thrown away by the market vendors.

They say that with the first pound he ever earned little Charlie Chaplin made a vow to always "go halves" with his mother. They say that he did till the day of her death.

Lila Steps In

Queerly enough, he and Lila Grey Chaplin who figured in his recent sensational divorce case, came to the funeral of his mother. One wonders just why. It seemed rather poor taste. One hardly dares intimate that the only possible motive could be a desire for publicity once more.

Long-Haired Babies

As for me, I have no liking for Thomasina Albanese, 6 weeks old, whose picture appears in the paper with enough hair for a Samson and the statement that she had owned most of this hair since the day of her birth. Presumably, I like babies as bald-headed as nature meant 'em to be. Neither have I any great affection for babies born with full sets of teeth and all such nonsense. Give me babies as is by-bye!

THE SQUEEZE PLAY-3

Another example of the squeeze play follows. In this illustration spades are trump and the declarer is on the lead. Eight rounds have been completed. The declarer has led the exact position of the remaining cards from the bidding, leads and signals—he proceeds to make all five remaining tricks.

Dummy—spades none; hearts 5; diamonds none; clubs K 5 4 3.

East—spades none; hearts 10 9 8 7; diamonds none; clubs 7.

West—spades none; hearts K J; diamonds A; clubs Q J.

The only way in which the declarer can make all of the remaining tricks is to lead the 6 of clubs and follow it with the 7 of clubs. West will be forced to weaken either his heart or club suit. If west discards from the heart suit, both hearts in the declarer's hand are good and he wins the last trick by leading to the King of clubs in the dummy. If west discards from the club suit, the declarer leads to the King of clubs in the dummy and the remaining clubs are winning tricks.

Anyone interested in cutting Costs

To lower distribution costs, business is turning to the key town method of buying and selling by telephone. By this plan each representative can "travel" farther, reach more people, buy and sell more—and cut expenses.

The national key town map, showing key towns and their calling areas, is now ready. This and regional maps may be obtained through any of our business offices. These maps are free.

Key town plans work like this. The sales or purchasing representative goes to the key towns in person. From each he makes his contacts by telephone with customers and prospects in that area. Expensive visits in person are made less often; yet by telephone more frequent and up-to-the-minute relations are maintained.

Related telephone services supplement the key town plan. Classified business telephone directories furnish lists of prospects, sequence calling lists save hours of time, the Bell System credit plan makes it possible to have bills for calls sent to home offices—avoiding the carrying of cash and helping in keeping records of contacts. Thus, Long Distance can be custom-made to fit your selling or buying problems—to increase business, yet lower costs. A call to our nearest business office will bring a copy of the national key town map to you. . . Number, please

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl entertains a strange proposal from RICHARD EUSTIS because he wants her so that "longing is an ache in his bones." Eustis (who professes to scorn and despise marriage) finally begs her to marry him.

But Sybil is more or less engaged to CRAIG NEWHALL, wealthy and desirable. It was to please her dying father that she had consented to a secret understanding with Craig. After her father's death she begins to fear it was all a mistake, since she cannot banish from her mind the image of young JOHN LAWRENCE, her first sweetheart. Lawrence went to France with the A. E. F. and never returned—but Sybil believes herself still in love with him.

In order to think things over she has taken a trip to Havana with MABEL BLAKE, a social worker. They meet Eustis aboard and he begins immediately to make love to her and finally through his detestable marriage—has begged her to marry him.

Swept off her feet by his impassioned ardor, Sybil seems to forget Craig and consents—on the spur of an insane moment—to be married by the ship's captain. Mabel is so mad of honor. The first mate will be best man. And all the passengers are to witness the ceremony in tears Mabel dresses for the mad event and Sybil into her gray gossamer—her improvised little wedding gown. On their wedding night, strolling down the Prado, Richard offends his bride.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

Sybil drew her breath sharply. "Oh, Rich," she protested, "you don't want to drink any more tonight."

"Why not, darling?"

"Good-naturedly he coaxed. "We'll just drop round to Sloppy Joe's. You've no idea how interesting it is, dear. Life in the row—jockeys and gamblers and all their fancy ladies."

She shrugged distastefully, and her voice was cool and distant.

"If you wish," she conceded sily, and they walked in silence down the gay promenade.

The crowd at Joe's was loud and boisterous, so that Sybil drew back as they reached the corner.

But Richard, pleasantly expansive, would have his way. "Just one little drink, dear. You and I together."

He pressed her arm persuasively. "Whoever heard of a honeymoon without a champagne cocktail?"

But it was hardly he ordered when they had found seats at the crowded bar.

"Presidents," he called, and turned again to Sybil. "I want you to try these, dear. They're the kickiest things in Cuba."

And when the bartender shook them up and set them forth, frothing foily, he ordered. "Mix us up another."

"Richard Eustis, you said just now."

"Well, dearest, I don't get married every day. I guess you're going to let me celebrate tonight, aren't you. You'll like this drink. Sib, here's happiness, sweetheart! ... I'll be up again boy."

But she left them before 10 o'clock. Dinner had been served in their suite. Now it was after midnight.

"If you say I must," he conceded. "I suppose I must. But Sib, of girl, I'd like 'mother in' drink."

It was only a few minutes back to their hotel.

"Now, darling," he suggested, as they reached the lobby, "you go ahead and I'll be up in a few minutes."

"You're not going to have anything else to drink, Richard," she demanded, and her voice was hard and sharp as he had never heard it before.

"My God, Sybil, you talk like somebody's maiden aunt."

He put his arm about her shoulders and laughed mockingly. "Only a nightcap, darling. It will make me feel better. I'll be right along."

"You needn't bother," she informed him huskily, and holding her head high, rang savagely for the elevator.

"Listen, sweetheart," contritely he sought to detain her. "I'm dreadfully sorry, but I've a splitting headache. That's the only reason I want a drink. Sybil, you don't think I want to get drunk tonight, do you? Why, darling, I've been dreaming about this ..."

"Here's the elevator," she interrupted, and stepped into the little gilded cage.

Twenty minutes later there was a gentle knock at her bedroom door.

"Darling! You've been crying." He kissed her soft wet face. "Why, Sybil—Sybil—dear—you mustn't tears simply lacrate me."

He found his handkerchief, and tried to wipe them all away.

Shuddering, she turned from him.

"Please," she implored, "go away."

But he sat on the side of her bed, and stroked her forehead and her hair. When she had grown quieter, he put his arms about her. And so the night passed.

The sun was streaming through the broad windows that front the Prado when Richard, tossing restlessly, opened his eyes and groaned.

"Oh, my head!"

Sybil, at the desk, turned and contemplated him remotely.

"You look," she volunteered, "like the wrath of God, and bent again to the paper on which she wrote."

Once the pen point stuck, and ink splattered on the whiteness of the Sevilla's crested stationery.

She murmured detachedly, and then he heard her pen go scratchingly determinedly on. Scratch. Scratch. Like ticks ripping his brain apart.

He raised himself on one elbow and surveyed her uncertainly.

"Please," he asked humbly, "pull that curtain, will you, Sybil? The sun's right in my eyes."

She adjusted it, and with her back to the bed, told him, "I'm going out for breakfast with Mabel."

"You're not going to leave me like this?"

"I'll ask the clerk to send someone up."

"But I'm a sick man, Sybil."

He moaned with great fervor "God I'm sick."

He raised himself in bed. Put his head on his knees, and cradled his body with his arms, rocking back and forth.

"I don't believe you know how rotten I feel, dear," he moaned.

"I begged you not to drink last night," she reminded him coolly.

"I know you did, darling."

"You—you were horrid to me," Her voice broke on a sob.

High School Eleven Runs Roughshod Over Class B Aggregation As Local Backs Flash A Brilliant Offensive

By ALLAN CARNEY

Avalanche Sports Editor

Flashing a brand of football that could not be stopped by their heavy opponents, the Lubbock high school Westerners smothered the Post Antelope 21 to 7 at the Tech Stadium Friday afternoon in a game that was a thriller from the first whistle to the last report of the time keeper's gun. The visitors were outclassed in every department of the game.

Led by Cravy, 300 pound fullback and Cheaney, halfback, the Antelope got the jump on the golden-jerred warriors and scored the first touchdown of the fray early in the first quarter. Cheaney getting away with a fifty-five yard run around left end. He was assisted in his spectacular run by well-timed interference.

Then Lubbock Starts

After this the local gridsters were complete masters of their class B opponents. Capt. Ernest Dowell, George Pierce, Moody Smith and Joe Powers led the brilliant offensive, ripping off from five to fifteen yards to the play for a total of 17 first downs as compared to five for the Antelope. Line smashes, off-tackle bucks, end runs and brilliant passes were used with equal success. The varied attack completely bewildered the Post eleven after the Westerners got their heads together to overcome the lead enjoyed by the visitors in the first quarter.

The Lubbock lineup was successfully shifted to give the Westerners a scoring punch that was unbeatable. George Pierce started the game at quarter and directed the plays like a veteran field general. The shifty little back ripped off yard after yard through the enemy line and around the ends. He also was on the throwing end of two beautifully executed passes.

Moody Smith, who relieved Pierce second half played his usual stellar game as did Joe Powers who went in during the first quarter in the place of Capt. Dowell who had borne the brunt of the attack during the early stages of the game.

Score In Second Quarter

The Westerners made their first counter in the second quarter. With the Antelope backed up to their own 7 yard line, Luman kicked 25 yards out of bounds and by virtue of an 18 yard pass, Pierce to Rich, and a 15 yard run around right end by Powers, the local team was in possession of the ball on the one yard line with four downs to cover the one yard. On the first play, Luman fumbled and Post recovered on the five yard line. Cravy plunged through center for ten yards but the play was called back and the visitors penalized five yards for pushing, putting the Antelope on their own one yard line. On the next play, E. A. Castleberry broke through and pinned Cravy for a loss, scoring a safety for the Westerners.

The local eleven opened up in the second quarter and played the Antelope off their feet to score a touchdown after carrying the ball the full length of the field. Pierce and Powers were ripping off substantial gains through the line and around the ends. Pierce carried the ball over on an off tackle smash.

Post Line Weakens

In the second half, the Lubbock backs ripped the battered Post line for long gains, scoring two more touchdowns. The enemy line was in a bad way, allowing the Westerners ball huggers to carry the ball through with little opposition. Moody Smith and Ernest Dowell covered themselves with glory during the massacre.

The Antelope, although decidedly beaten, put up a last minute attack that checked the Westerners drive and threatened to score. Fighting desperately for an opening, the visitors launched an aerial attack which was partially successful, but their effort came too late. The end found them fighting gamely.

YELLOW JACKETS WIN

Defeat McMurry Indians, 9-0, At Brownwood

BROWNWOOD, Sept. 21. (P)—Howard Payne college opened the season by defeating McMurry college of Abilene 9 to 0, in a well-played, hard fought game here today.

The two teams battled through the first half without a score.

In the third quarter the Jacket forward wall broke through on another McMurry punter, blocking the punt, but was unable to cover the ball as it rolled behind the goal line, McMurry covering for a safety. The Jackets marched down the field in the fourth quarter for a touchdown, the last 15 yards being covered in a pass from Boyd to McCarver. Boyd added the extra point. Both teams used veteran line-ups.

MIDLAND, Sept. 21. (P)—Two postoffices is the situation Midland may find itself in this year. Mrs. Mary S. Ray, postmaster, and the Midland Chamber of Commerce have requested the post office department for two offices at least during the Christmas rush. Oil business has so congested the main office that a second building is needed.

Benton Gets Stuff From Grips On Ball

There may be some difference of opinion as to whether Larry Benton of the Giants or Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates has done the best pitching this year, but there is no doubt but what they are the best two pitchers in the National League. Benton has the best average in games won and lost and possibly has had the nicest times said about him, including favorable comparisons with the famous Christy Mathewson. The grips Benton uses in throwing his two famous pitches are shown here: Below, for his knuckle ball; above, for his slow ball.

Coming Grid Season Will Smash All Records For Attendance, Rivalry And Championship Fights, Is Belief

Teams In Three Main Areas Will Be Seen In Action Today; Stamford Sets Precedent In Double Bill

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—It is early to expect much of the tumult and roar to shift from the diamond to the gridiron, but enough football will be flying through the air in various sections tomorrow to let the world know the season is on, anyway. The main gridiron blast won't be sounded until the end of next week. The world's series will be over before King Football claps his crown to dominate the spotlight until snow flies. Nevertheless, representative teams in three of the main areas of battle will be seen in action tomorrow, even if only for the benefit of an early start or a good workout.

Out on the Pacific Coast, Poy Warner's Stanford Cardinals start out with a double-header, a new gridiron fashion that has taken quite a hold on this year's schedule-making. To judge from advance reports, Stanford has unusually bright prospects for the campaign.

Preliminary Skirmishes

Washington State, Oregon and the University of California at Los Angeles also are slated for preliminary skirmishes tomorrow while in the Southwest, Texas Christian, the Texas Aggies and Southern Methodist are among those slated to play. Southern Methodist will need all the advance preparations it can get for that long early season jaunt to West Point, October 6, where the Mustangs will roan Army plains.

Centenary's famed gentlemen, who compiled an impressive record last season in the Southwest, also get an early start, along with Centre, South Carolina and William & Mary, among other prominent elevens below the Mason and Dixon Line.

West Virginia tackles Davis & Elkins by way of a pipe-opener for a rugged season, but otherwise the principal Eastern teams are still in the training camp stage, a situation that also prevails through the Big Ten and the Middle West.

Record Season Predicted

These scattered few conflicts, in themselves of little apparent consequence, nevertheless give advance warning of a season likely to smash all college football records for attendance, keen championship fights and inter-sectional rivalry.

It will be a strange campaign without the Army-Navy classic as a climax, but there will be no lack of color or thrills on that account. Both service institutions intend to do all they can to offset it. The Midshipmen journey west to Chicago for a game with Notre Dame, that is expected to attract an unprecedented attendance of 100,000 in the now historic Soldier Field. The Sailors also play Michigan and Princeton while the Army is bringing East the champions or near-champions of most of the main sections, among them Southern Methodist, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Stanford.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Among the grid candidates at St. John's College is Ben Hamu, a 220 pound Turk. A chance for the coaches to talk Turkey to one who can understand.

Turks in the sport world, however, are not so plentiful. Mostly they go in for wrestling and other forms of pantomime.

That's barring the noble band of wild men, of course, who study mayhem in the school of Knute Rockne. They are Turks for the most part, but not the terrible variety.

While the major league teams are picking up the old lads from the minors, they shouldn't overlook a left-handed gentleman named Harry Krause. Just twenty years old Krause was with the Athletics this year he won 13 and lost eight for the Frisco club.

Matador Club Is Reorganized For Year of 1928-29

J. A. Riley Jr. Again Named President of Club Sponsoring Tech Athletics; Jobs Are Located.

J. A. Riley Jr. was re-elected president of the Matador club last night at a meeting of that organization in the Chamber of Commerce offices at the City Hall. Other officers for the ensuing year were named and plans for a membership drive were worked out by a large representative assembly of the club's membership.

Other officers named were: Walter A. Myrick and R. C. (Dick) Smith, vice presidents.

A number of jobs have been practically clinched for Tech athletes and others under consideration will be acted on at a later date.

The membership of the organization during last year's term reached 185 and the drive starting next Wednesday will be concentrated on these members who will be asked to sign up for the coming year.

In explaining the purpose of the Matador club, Judge Riley said: "The chief purpose for the existence of the Matador Club is to aid and assist all worthy athletes who are unable to pay their way through college without working. Before they are accepted as its subjects to this aid they must have passed successfully their work in college and their department must be satisfactory. The club does not help any boy who is not worthy."

The local business men in taking the lead in finding jobs for Tech athletes, have made possible the existence of strong athletic teams for the college and have sponsored clean sportsmanlike behavior. This work is being carried on by the business men until the outgoing student body has grown into a group sufficiently large to carry on the work.

RECRUIT SOUTHPAW, FIGHT

DETROIT, Sept. 21. (P)—The recruit Southpaw, Fought, received a serious check here today when the Tigers hammered out a 9 to 4 victory over the Mackmen in the second game of the series. Coupled with the Yankees' success over the White Sox in Chicago, the defeat put the Athletics two games out of first place with only eight more to play.

The Tigers triumphed at the expense of Robert Moses Grove, southern ace of Philadelphia, during his first game in the series. Included in the attack that brought about Grove's retirement was a home run by Harry Rice into the right field bleachers with the bases full.

Subsequently, Jonathan Stone, recruit outfielder, hit a home run for leathers to whittle on.

Four Children Burn to Death

(By Associated Press)
CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 21.—Four children were burned to death at Paradise when their home caught fire in the absence of the parents, a coroner learned today.

The father, Ransom Kelly, was attending a funeral and the mother was working in a garden, leaving the children alone in the house. When the parents returned home, their house was in ashes. The tragedy occurred last Tuesday.

DUN'S REPORT
NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Dun's tomorrow will say: "The satisfaction derived from a further seasonal commercial expansion has been overshadowed by the recent destructive tropical hurricane, extending to the lower Atlantic coast and followed by severe storms in some other sections. Although the work of reconstruction and rehabilitation ultimately will give impetus to certain branches of business, the immediate results in the affected regions, and to some extent in outlying territory, naturally are deleterious. Broadly, however, trade has followed the upward course that invariably develops at this period, evidence of rain being more numerous in reports covering the country as a whole. The spreading of mercantile and industrial operations, is not now, nor has it been for a long time, evenly distributed, but the existing irregularities and contracts do not obscure the fact that the underlying conditions are favorable. Political influences are not acting as a brake on progress and such retarding elements as prevail are outweighed by stimulating forces."

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK.
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 21.—(U. S. D. A.)—Moderate activities featured the fat lamb trade around the loop, with prices firm to 25c higher. Choice range lambs on Chicago cashed up to 14.75 and at Omaha 14.10 was realized on short westerns. The supply approximated 47,000 against 70,000 a week ago and 47,279 the same day last year.
Hog prices at most markets ruled weak to 25c lower; a few points having relatively light receipts showing a slight advance; the days extreme top of 17.75 was paid at Chicago total offerings of around 44,000 were 4,500 short of a week ago but 10,000 more than the same day last year.
Cattle trade around the 11 mark at circuit was slow and prices stood to easier with the week's uneven and sharp decline; demand at Kansas dressed beef market was sharp and additional declines were enforced; this week's sharp decline on cattle and calves should have a tendency to reduce receipts the next ten days but unless the supply next week is considerably reduced additional losses may be expected. Blocker and feeder trade at Kansas City continued slow with prospects of a moderate to slow week-end hold-over; many late sales on good to choice white faced stockers and feeders at this point were fully $1.00 under last week; aggregate receipts were estimated at 14,425 as compared with 14,787 last Friday, and

Cotton moved upward today under a broad demand and closed around 50 points higher with the tone strong. News from southern sources on the crop were pessimistic and it is evident that public interest on the constructive side of the market is growing and that crop views are being scaled downward. Bullish sentiment was created by two private estimates on the ginning figures to be released by the government on September 24. The Dallas News reported that the northwest Texas crop in general suffered heavy deterioration during the past week due to hot, dry weather and that boll worms have taken heavy toll in some areas. This report together with continued alarming messages being sent from the south about the crop progress seems again to be creating a wave of fear that the supply of cotton is going to be short. The government estimate on Sept. 8 of 14,432,000 bales served to check the alarm but anxiety is once more working acutely among some traders and merchants. We favor the long side and suggest buying on any break.

Night temperatures were somewhat below normal from northeastern Texas to Tennessee but otherwise near normal over the belt during the last 24 hours. Light local showers occurred in the Carolinas and in extreme southern Texas.

Barometer was high over the cotton belt; area central in east 30.1. Another large area with two centers from northwest cotton belt to the Pacific coast 30.2. Low area over northwest portion of old Mexico 29.7.

Eastern cotton belt at noon was generally fair; western belt ranged from clear to partly cloudy and central belt was mostly cloudy.

New York spots 1943, sales none. New Orleans spots 1775, sales 690. Dallas spots 1895. Houston spots 1784, sales 752, to arrive, 18,474. Galveston spots 1745.

Liverpool cables, "London and Bombay cotton and there was fair trade calling."

LONDON-Tattersall says that Manchester cotton goods outlook is dominated by raw cotton situation. Buyers are afraid to commit themselves until more stability develops.

Marcelite, Okla.—No bolls put on by cotton since the middle of August because of weevil.

Utica, Miss.—Cotton is moving but only slowly and crop looks short.

Brown, Ala.—This section has ginned only 33 bales of cotton against over seven hundred a year ago this date. One picking will get entire crop in most fields.

New Orleans—Domestic cotton goods markets report improved business.

A private estimate put that Indian cotton crop at 6,500,000 against 6,420,000 last season.

New Orleans—Floor comment was that good spot demand is helping to advance values.

Gerds Bureau estimates cotton ginned to Sept. 18 at 2,200,000 bales. E. H. Miller released an estimate of 2,548,000 bales. Trade accepted this estimate as bullish.

The government issued a grade and staple report as of August 1 which put the carryover at 2,831,000 bales.

At twelve-thirty talk of cooler weather for the cotton belt caused continued buying of cotton.

Our manager at Oklahoma City writes today, "Don't think Oklahoma will see over a million bales. Ginning is going forward rapidly now, but there is no sign of any top crop from the eastern side of the state to west of Oklahoma City due to weevil kill. West and southwest I can't dope out over 50 to 60 per cent of last year's crop from the reports I get."

Weather: Eastern forecast: North Carolina and South Carolina generally fair and warmer. Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi generally fair, warmer in southern portions and cooler in northwest portions. Western forecast: Louisiana partly cloudy cooler in north portion Saturday partly cloudy and somewhat unsettled near the coast. Cooler in west and north portions. Arkansas partly cloudy preceded by showers in east portion. Cooler Saturday. Oklahoma fair and cooler Saturday with rising temperatures in west and north portions.

East Texas partly cloudy in north. Showers in south portion. Cooler Saturday. West Texas Saturday partly cloudy with occasional showers in south portion. Cooler with rising temperatures in Panhandle.

LA PERLA.—New citrus packing plant will be erected here at cost of $100,000.

Our young spinster friend says it is very embarrassing when a man becomes jealous and very humiliating when he doesn't.

If you do not believe that perfection can be improved on just compare the automobile advertisements of last year with this year.

Some men know more than you'd think, and some more than you know.

Are You Run Down, Weak, Nervous?

To have plenty of firm flesh and the ability to do a big day's work and feel "like a two-year old" at night, you must eat three good meals a day, relish your food and properly digest it. If you can't eat, can't sleep, can't work, just take a teaspoonful of Tanlac before meals.

Mr. Joseph A. Culver, of 812 S. Main St., Muskogee, Okla., says: "I was a nervous wreck and forced myself to work and eat. I felt I was quitting work before the day was up. On taking Tanlac, my appetite picked up so I could eat anything, soon slept well and gained 10 lbs."

Tanlac is wonderful for indigestion and constipation—gas, pains, nausea, dizziness and headache, it brings back lost appetite, helps you digest your food and gain strength and weight. It contains no mineral drugs; it is made of roots, barks and herbs, nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist. Your money back if it doesn't help.

Work Is Started On Poultry Assn.

Charter for Alliance Is Received Here; Meeting of Incorporators Will Be Held Soon.

Culminating a movement of several years for the development of an efficient co-operative marketing system in the poultry business, the South Plains Poultry Association became a definite reality yesterday with the receipt of the charter by the local Chamber of Commerce from Austin.

The charter was granted last Wednesday, although it did not arrive here until yesterday. The Chamber of Commerce has sponsored this movement for a number of months.

The next step in the movement for better poultry will be for the organizing directors of the corporation to meet and accept the charter. Following this it will be necessary for the members of the corporation to approve the action of the directors and frame the by-laws of the company. The directors will then meet again at which time officers will be elected. Considerable routine matter will have to be taken care of in perfecting the organization.

Outgrowth of Movement. Application for a charter for this co-operative marketing system was an outgrowth of a Plains-wide movement for the betterment of poultry in this section. The system will be similar to the ones in effect in California and other sections of this state.

High interest has been maintained by local business men and farmers for several weeks following a previous embryonic attempt to organize a corporation of this kind. Incorporating directors include: E. L. Hicks, Slaton; J. W. Berry, Ropes; Joe M. Peterson, Lamesa; E. E. Young, Ralls; S. W. White, Meador; W. L. Davis, Post; O. L. Berry, Seagraves; Taylor, White, Taback, and Douglas Pounds, Lubbock.

Two States

Harding carried the state in 1920, by a majority of 13,000, but democrats declare that result was a "fluke" and not at all the voice of Tennessee.

Arkansas for Robinson. Neither camp bothers with figures at Arkansas headquarters but both actively are at work. Indicative of the democrats' determination to give their leadership Robinson an overwhelming vote to be shared with Smith is the fact that for the first time in years they have opened headquarters and are making a real campaign. Both states serve adequately as cross sections of the presidential battlefield. Each has its quota of sentiment for and against Hoover and Smith, with the anti-Smith feeling being perhaps most vocal. In both of these dry and Protestant states the New York Governor's wetness and religion are talking points, producing protest from bishops and pastors and prohibition organizations and not a few heated disputes between clergy and laity because of pulp politics.

Whispers in Fall Way. Smith leaders charge that a whispering campaign is in full swing that the anti-Smith forces "about rum and whisper Rome," aided by a flood of anti-Smith literature that covers the state.

Republican headquarters for Tennessee picture prohibition and immigration as important factors of the contest. They disclaim any connection with the anti-Catholic movement and discount its value as a reason for the admitted capture of some democratic support. Their theory that Hoover has won many democratic votes because of his leadership in flood relief along the state's Mississippi shores is heatedly disputed by the democrats, who say that what votes he might have counted upon have been lost to him.

Along with the other issues, some Tennessee democrats are advancing water power and farm relief as issues and are making an appeal to the labor vote for Smith.

Newspaper in Fight. Most of the large newspapers of the state are supporting the Governor, including the Nashville Tennessean, Memphis Commercial Appeal and the Chattanooga Times, although the Chattanooga News, active for McAdoo in the fight of 1924, is not supporting Smith.

Turn by much controversy in the recent primary, the democratic leaders of Tennessee are without exception supporting the state and national tickets, including the state's favorite son at the Houston convention, Representative Cordell Hall.

Memphis and its county, Shelby, are looked upon by the democrats as towers of strength.

In the final analysis the democrats count also upon what they describe as the impelling urge on election day to stay with the party of Andrew Jackson.

OFFER RAIL RATES

DALLAS, Sept. 21 (AP)—A fare and a half for round trip ticket from all points has been granted to the United Daughters of the Confederacy, whose members attend the convention of the national organization in Houston Nov. 18-23, according to Mrs. Neal Ramsey of Dallas, chairman of the Texas Division.

A rate of one fare for the round trip also has been granted for the convention of the Texas division at Waco, Dec. 4, Mrs. Ramsey said.

BURTON TO JUDGE

BEAUMONT, Sept. 21 (AP)—Walter Burton, widely known as a poultry expert of A. and M. college, has been named as the poultry judge of the South Texas State fair here. It is announced by L. B. Stirling, Jr., secretary.

Uses Airplane Midland Rancher Is Air Cowboy

MIDLAND, Sept. 21 (AP)—Cow punching by airplane is the twentieth century method at Midland, Clarence Scharbauer, millionaire cattleman, has so much ranch land that he can't ride range in one day astride a cowpony.

So Scharbauer takes an airplane and in three hours rides over his four ranches. "These planes scare the stuff out of the cattle," Scharbauer declared, "but they have got plenty of time to get over their fright and I haven't got time to waste poking around horseback."

Demo Club

played and campaign pictures and literature will be sent throughout the territory.

Oratory in Evidence. The entire meeting last night was marked by eloquent high spirited speakers. Statements from the Rev. L. G. H. Williams that politics was not discussed from his pulpit brought forth a cheering ovation which lasted several minutes. Contributions were accepted from a number of the club members last night to further the proposed movement in this area.

Listening his hearing of the call as chairman of the organization to his call to enlist in the World war, Judge Mullican assailed the republican party for what he termed its policy of side stepping the main issues in the campaign. He denounced the practice of preachers and laymen "bearing false witness" against Governor Smith. The question of religion and prohibition are not the questions in this campaign as Smith's opponents are trying to pretend, Judge Mullican said.

Williams Attacks Elitism. Centering a vitriolic attack against elitism in the campaign, the Rev. Williams said that the democratic party was facing "whispering, slandering, immorality."

That the Jim Crow law of Texas would be threatened with a victory of the republican party in this state was indicated by Senator W. H. Blalock. He stated that if the morale of the party were to be broken in the coming election that a tendency would be toward the return of the negro control.

Another high spot in the meeting was reached with the speech of District Attorney Durwood Bradley. He denounced violently the injection of the question of religion into the presidential campaign, stating that most of the opposition to Smith was upon a religious basis. He said that if the "so-called Hoover democrats would stop to think they would not act as they have."

Senator Parrish Speaks. State Senator-elect Pink L. Parrish spoke in the interest of Governor Smith's campaign and outlined the purpose and object of the meeting last night and the organization of the Smith club.

Chairman Mullican was authorized by a vote, to select a finance committee for the organization. His selection will be announced in the near future. Although the next meeting date has not yet been announced, it probably will be sometime next week.

Harry Myers, personal acquaintance of Al Smith, told of the New York governor's life, giving a brief outline of his political career. Mr. Myers eulogized Governor Smith as one of the outstanding political leaders of the times.

Mrs. J. H. Goodman spoke for the women democrats, promising wholehearted co-operation with the movement at hand.

Numerous yells of "Stay in there" and "We're for you" in connection with the hearty cheering marked the meeting as one of the most spirited political pow-wows held here for some time.

Principles of the democratic party from its beginning was reviewed by the various speakers. With each verbal pot-shot taken at the principle, methods and administrations of the republican party the audience yelled its approval.

State Officers Asked To Unite For Smith

AUSTIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—All holders of state offices who are democratic nominees for reelection received letters today asking them to sign a message proposed to be addressed to the democracy of Texas as asking support of the party ticket.

With the letters, sent out by W. A. Thomas, state democratic campaign manager, were copies of the message. It was indicated the nominees might prepare a statement to substitute for the one submitted to them. The message was about 1200 words long. It criticized the republican party, mentioned favorably Governor Smith, presidential nominee, and praised the policies and accomplishments of the democratic party.

STAMFORD, Sept. 21 (AP)—Placing of more hogs in West Texas is planned by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, with the assistance of a Fort Worth stockyards company, bankers and others. Prices of pork has been good this year, the chamber announced, and probably will increase in the future.

(By Associated Press)
VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 21.—Gordon Stuart Northcott, indicted in Riverside, Cal., as the alleged slayer central figure in the "murder farm" there, today began his legal fight to escape the clutches of California law.
