Reagan withdraws U.S. ambassador to Syria

ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE (AP) — The United States, in a show of support for Great Britain, announced Friday the withdrawal of America's ambassador to Syria, citing London's charge that Syria sponsored a plot to smuggle a bomb onto an Israeli plane at Heathrow airport.

President Reagan's chief spokesman, announcing the withdrawal of William Eagleton from Damascus to reporters accompanying Reagan en route from Oklahoma City, Okla., to Tampa, Fla., said the administration applauded "the reaction of her majesty's government" to acts of terrorism.

"A state that encourages and takes part in terrorism isolates itself from the civilized world," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said. "The United States will consult and cooperate with others to bring practical meaning to the isolation — diplomatically, politically, economically."

Earlier Friday, the government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher severed ties with Hafez Assad's government in Damascus, after charging that Syria sponsored the terrorist plot at Heathrow.

The White House statement said: "We applaud the reaction of her majesty's government. We support the British decision. Our ambassador is being withdrawn from Syria. In the coming days we will be in close consultation with her majesty's government."

A senior administration official, declining to be named publicly, said that U.S. Ambassador-At-Large L. Paul Bremer, chief State Department expert on terrorism, was consulting with Great Britain on any further moves.

Reaction of U.S. leaders — 2A

The official said that Secretary of State George Shultz informed the Syrian charge d'affaires in Washington in mid-afternoon Friday.

An official at the State Department said, however, that Syrian charge d'affaires Bushra Kanafani was informed of the decision by Richard Murphy, assistant secretary of state for Near East affairs, not by Shultz.

The State Department official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said U.S. policy toward Syria is being reviewed and that further steps were a possibility.

Asked if a complete break in diplomatic relations would be considered the official said, "I'm not ruling anything in, or anything out."

For the moment, he said, there were no plans to make any other changes in the U.S. staffing at the embassy in Damascus, where the deputy chief of mission will be in charge once the ambassador departs "in the next few days."

There are three steps that a government can take. The least serious is recalling an ambassador for consultation. The next serious, which the administration chose, was withdrawal of the ambassador, and the most serious would be a severing of diplomatic relations.

The official said the withdrawal is "regarded in diplomatic language as an extremely serious measure. It is a sign of great displeasure with the country's policies."

When an ambassador is withdrawn, it usually means the person will not return to the diplomatic post for an indefinite period. A less severe measure is an ambassadorial recall, which generally involves a trip home for consultations and a return to post after a few days.

A step more serious than a withdrawal is the breaking of diplomatic relations, which Britain elected to do. The United States has not formally severed relations with any country since its 1980 break with Iran.

Syria protested Great Britain's decision to sever relations as unjustified, and it ordered Syrian air space and territorial waters closed to British planes and ships.

Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe told Parliament there was conclusive evidence of official Syrian involvement in the "monstrous and inhumane" attempt to sabotage the El Al flight to Tel Aviv and kill the 375 people aboard.

Earlier Friday, a jury at the Old Bailey criminal court convicted a Jordanian, Nezar Hindawi, 32, of trying to smuggle a bomb onto the plane at Heathrow airport in the hand luggage of his pregnant Irish girlfriend.

Judge William Mars-Jones sentenced Hindawi to 45 years in prison. He said terrorists "can expect no mercy from our courts...A more callous and cruel deception and a more horrendous massacre is difficult to imagine."

Officials: Proposed zoning change will have little impact

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

Single family homeowners say it will despoil their neighborhoods, but city officials say a proposed zoning amendment will have little impact.

The City Council will consider Tuesday amending a zoning ordinance to allow philanthropic organizations into single-family zoned neighborhoods.

Concerned homeowners say the term "philanthropic" is too loosely defined and would allow anything from a derelict flophouse to a drug rehabilitation center to locate within neighborhoods.

"It virtually eliminates a single-family area. Because there's not good public notice, something is going to slip in," says Midge Erskine, whose property abuts a proposed neighborhood site for a senior citizen agency.

The planning department requested the amendment after Community and Senior Services inquired about locating within a neighborhood where they might receive donated land.

The senior citizen agency is considering relocating from 2000 West Wall to the Fuhrman Estate house at Midkiff Road and Sinclair Avenue.

Assistant City Planning Director David Thurbon says the senior service center request and similar requests in the past prompted his office to suggest the ordinance amendment.

But Thurbon says the ordinance will have little impact on neighborhoods.

"There really are no consequences directly related because each individual request would still have to go through the zoning commission and council," he says.

However, many homeowners say they want the amendment to remain as it is by only allowing educational and religious organizations within single-family zoned neighborhoods.

Another homeowner in the Fuhrman Estate neighborhood says she is against the amendment and the center's relocation.

"I think they can be in other places besides neighborhoods. There's a lot of other places they can have them," says Betsy Ashley of 3400 Sinclair.

Fifth-largest cocaine bust nets drug valued at $26.5 million

From Staff and Wire Reports

ODESSA — The fifth-largest cocaine seizure in Texas history netted two arrests Friday and 663 pounds of the drug valued at $26.5 million, Department of Public Safety officials said.

Two men, whom authorities identified as S.E. Chastain, 63, of Waco, and 55-year-old Edmond Wilson Legler of Oklahoma City, Okla., were arrested after a state trooper seized the cocaine from the truck they were driving, DPS spokesman Gerald Bradford said Friday.

Ector County peace justice Virgil Lumpee set bond for the two men, who were charged with possession of cocaine, at $100,000 each.

Bradford said the DPS was tipped that some drugs might be moved through the area, and six miles west of Odessa on Interstate 20, state trooper Dennis Riley spotted a 1983 Chevrolet truck which matched the description.

He stopped the truck and cited the driver for speeding and not wearing a seatbelt. Riley got the driver's written consent to search the truck, and he found the cocaine beneath a plastic sheet in the truck's bed, Bradford said.

The incident was also the third-largest seizure in the state this year, Bradford said. The largest in Texas history occurred last March, when authorities confiscated 1,072 pounds in Hardin County.

The second and third largest were 1,000 pounds in Houston and 992 pounds in Harris County both in 1984. In February this year, authorities made the fourth-largest seizure of 862 pounds in Falfurrias.

It's time to change clocks back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once again, it's time to set clocks back to standard time.

The change occurs officially at 2 a.m. Sunday local time, when clocks should be set back one hour, to 1 a.m.

With less daylight during shortening fall days, standard time helps keep some of that light in the morning, to light the way for school children, farmers and other early risers.

Standard time remains in effect until next April 5, when daylight saving time returns. That springtime switch occurs three weeks earlier than in the past, a change made this year by Congress.

The time change affects every state except Hawaii, Arizona and parts of Indiana, which have exempted themselves from the semi-annual time changes.

Blind New Jersey journalist has ball reporting on World Series

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — More than 1,000 credentials were handed out to journalists covering the 1986 World Series, and Ed Lucas got two of them.

One for himself, and one for his escort.

Lucas has been blind for almost 35 years, but it hasn't stopped him from reporting on baseball.

"It was hard getting into the field right away because everyone asked how could a blind person work in this sport, how could you see what's happening," said Lucas, who is reporting on the series for radio station WOBM in Toms River.

Lucas, who does interviews and locker room reports for the station, says he relies on his hearing and imagination to help make up for the fact that he doesn't see what's happening on the field.

"I have a pretty good perception where a ball is going once it's hit," said Lucas, of Jersey City.

A lot of the knowledge has to do with Lucas' childhood. His family lived close to the old Roosevelt Stadium in Jersey City and frequently went there to watch the Jersey City Giants, Lucas said.

"I grew up loving baseball," said Lucas. "I wanted to play baseball."

Lucas played some, but not much. He was born with congenital cataracts and later suffered from glaucoma, which limited his playing time. He lost sight in his left eye at age 9 when a collision with another youth resulted in a detached retina.

Reagan tells Oklahomans he wants two more years of GOP-controlled Senate

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — President Reagan told Oklahoma voters Friday that he would like to have two more years of Republican control of the Senate as he campaigned for Sen. Don Nickles at a colorful, old-fashioned, foot-stomping political rally.

Reagan was in Oklahoma in the midst of a four-state campaign tour. On Thursday, the president campaigned in Wisconsin and Missouri and was headed for Florida after leaving Oklahoma City Friday afternoon.

More than 10,000 cheering, hand-clapping Republicans, high school students and University of Oklahoma students listened to Reagan's 40-minute address on the campus.

Outside the arena, about 200 student protesters picketed, carrying signs criticizing Reagan's policies in South Africa and Central America.

At one point during Reagan's speech, a brief scuffle broke out on the floor of the arena between two sign-carrying protesters and others in the crowd. Reagan apparently referred to the scuffle when he said "A few minutes ago over in the corner it seemed to be Iceland replayed over again."

Reagan told the crowd liberals are "waiting in the wings to come back with tax bills blazing."

"Come Election Day, you can head them off at the pass and let them know that the days of high taxes, high inflation and high interest rates are over," Reagan said. "You can send them that message special delivery by sending Don Nickles back to the United States Senate."

Reagan said if Republicans lose control of the Senate, Nickles will probably be replaced on the energy regulation and conservation subcommittee by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

Lawmakers praise diplomatic action

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and British diplomatic actions against Syria drew praise from a Jewish leader and members of Congress, with a group of senators calling for economic sanctions against Syria.

Britain severed relations with Syria, charging that Syria sponsored a plot to smuggle a bomb onto an Israeli plane at Heathrow airport. The United States backed Britain by withdrawing its ambassador to Syria.

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., and 18 other senators released a letter to President Reagan urging that economic sanctions be taken against Syria similar to the steps imposed by Reagan against Libya.

The Oct. 16 letter said Reagan should "impose the same economic sanctions against Syria as are now in effect against Libya — a total trade cutoff and a severing of all sea and air links. We also urged you to call on our allies to do the same."

Noting the bombing plot in Britain, the letter said, "Syria's support for terror in the air and in various foreign countries poses a direct threat to Americans, threatening Americans' mobility and freedom."

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, who was not a signer of the letter, called on Reagan take further diplomatic, political and economic steps to pressure Syria to give up its support for terrorism.

"We struck at Libya," Dole said. "Prime Minister (Margaret) Thatcher and her government were with us 100 percent. Now we must find ways to back British efforts to respond to this new challenge from international terrorism."

Morris Abram, chairman of the Conference of Major American Jewish Organizations, Friday praised the American and British diplomatic actions against Syria for its alleged involvement with terrorism.

In a statement, Abram said, "We are proud of our country for joining Great Britain in striking a blow against international terrorism We congratulate the government of Prime Minister (Margaret) Thatcher for its action, which follows a trial in a British court that established for all the world to see the direct and intimate connection between the Damascus regime and international terrorism.

"By breaking diplomatic relations with Syria, Great Britain has set both a tone and a precedent for other governments to follow. By withdrawing our own ambassador, we have served notice that those states that aid and abet terrorism will no longer be accepted in the community of nations.

"Let all other countries that give aid and comfort to the terrorist enemy in the form of financial support, political protection, weapons, training and other assistance take warning."

SYRIA

Within an hour of the verdict, the Foreign Office summoned Syrian Ambassador Loutof Allah Haydar and told him of Britain's intention to expel him and the 20 other diplomats in the Syrian Embassy.

The White House statement noted that "the British government has broken diplomatic relations with Syria as a result of Syrian government involvement in the attempt to bomb an El Al passenger airplane."

The conviction, it said, " ...reflects the gravity of the crime and the natural response of a civilized nation. The president notes that had it not been for the vigilance of those responsible for security at Heathrow airport, over 400 persons would have perished, including 230 Americans."

Howe said in his announcement to the House of Commons that the evidence against Syria included testimony that Hindawi carried an official Syrian passport and met with the Syrian ambassador on the day the bomb was found.

Earlier Friday, Richard Armitage, an assistant secretary of defense for international relations, had said, "I think that Her Majesty's government and Mrs. (Margaret) Thatcher deserve tremendous support and accolades for this endeavor. I think that they have found a terrorist, they have tried a terrorist...they have pinned the responsibility back to Syria and they are taking moves to make sure that Syria understands very clearly that state-sponsored terrorism is not something that Her Majesty's government is going to get along with."

The senior administration official said that Shultz spoke with Howe Friday morning.

In the consultations with Great Britain and the other allies, "We will seek to take steps which we believe will have the greatest possible effect on changing Syria's policy on terrorism," the official said.

In regard to how the action would affect the Mideast peace process, the official said, "The peace process is a target of those who conduct terrorism. Their aim is to threaten those who would make peace."

Syria, whose troops control sections of war-torn Lebanon, has played a central role in the Reagan administration's efforts to free the Americans held hostage in Lebanon.

Jury rules in Odessan's favor, but he won't get award

From Staff Reports

A federal jury in Midland decided Friday that an Odessa policeman falsely arrested a diabetic man last February while he was driving from his business to his Meloday Lane residence.

The three-man, three-woman jury deliberated about two hours and found against the City of Odessa in the lawsuit and awarded Robert Harlow Jr. $5,000 in damages.

However, because the jury failed to answer certain questions, Harlow will not receive any monetary compensation.

Ruff Ahders, who represented Harlow in the suit, said the jury found that Odessa Police Patrolman Roy Alexander did have probable cause and did act in good faith in stopping and arresting the 54-year-old Harlow.

In finding against the city, Ahders said the jury determined the city's policy was a bad policy.

However, the jury's failure to find that the arresting officer did not have probable cause and acted in bad faith, not only means that Harlow will not receive the $150,000 sought, but he will not receive the $5,000 awarded, Ahders said.

The suit accused Patolman Alexander and other arresting and booking officers of assault and battery, false arrest, false imprisonment, intentional infliction of emotional distress, attempted malicious prosecution, negligence and gross negligence.

The original complaint alleged Harlow began to go into a "diabetic shock condition" while driving home from work about 6:30 p.m. Feb. 15

Harlow stated that he pulled his car off the road, according to the complaint.

Alexander arrested Harlow at West County Road and 42nd Street about 9 p.m., the complaint stated.

According to the complaint, Harlow claimed he "suffered serious physical injuries" because he failed to receive medical treatment.

Libertarian candidate supports 'free market' for drugs

By JANE MARLER DEES
Staff Writer

The Libertarian candidate in the gubernatorial race said she believes the creation and legalization of a "free market" for drugs would greatly decrease organized crime, street crime and pushers on childrens' playgrounds.

"I believe the situation with drugs is not that much worse than it was a few years ago," Theresa Doyle, a San Antonio housewife and Libertarian candidate for governor, said.

"The media hypes it up to the point where the polls show it is the No. 1 issue among candidates. Then candidates jump on the bandwagon and talk about how they'll rid the world of drugs.

"In any society drugs are there. We will never have a utopia of a drug-free society," Ms. Doyle said.

America has created an entire class of criminals by making drugs illegal, she said.

George Meeks, Libertarian candidate for state comptroller, said it took a constitutional amendment to declare alcohol illegal for consumption and that amendment was eventually repealed in 1933.

Even in the most socially controlled environment — Russia — they have a drug problem, Meeks said.

"Even in the most controlled environment in the freest nation in the world — an American prison — there are drugs if someone has the money," Meeks said.

"If we can't control drug abuse in prisons, we sure can't control it in the free society," he added.

Ms. Doyle said the bottom line to her campaign is the Libertarian call "for government to return to its role as protector of our rights and to refrain from interfering in our voluntary transaction with others."

"It's time to think in different terms," she said.

Three years later while playing baseball with friends, he was hit in the right eye with the ball. The eye hemorrhaged and the retina became detached.

"I didn't lose sight completely then," he said. "But it was real blurry." By the end of the year, he was blind.

Lucas spent the next few months learning to cope with his handicap and got a shot in the arm the following summer from Leo Durocher of the New York Giants.

"My mother wrote Leo Durocher, and Durocher wrote back, saying come over on June 14 about 2½ hours before the game," Lucas said. "When I got there, a clubhouse attendant asked Leo if he should take me around the clubhouse.

"Leo said: 'He's my guest, tell them if they want to meet him to come into my office.'"

Durocher then took Lucas into his office and put him in his swivel chair, Lucas said.

"I was on cloud nine," he said.

Later, Lucas graduated from the New York Institute for the Education of the Blind, where he helped form a baseball fan club that invited players to speak. Lucas handled the interviews, his first step into journalism.

"I don't let my blindness interfere," said Lucas, who also sells insurance and works at a hospital part time. "I had two wonderful parents who never let me feel sorry for myself."

"The last thing our economy needs, the last thing the energy industry needs, is to have someone who is anti-oil and anti-free enterprise elevated to such power."

Reagan, wearing a red and white Nickles re-election button, referred to being on the turf of two winners — Nickles and the University of Oklahoma football team.

"Now Don is no Brian Bosworth," Reagan said, referring to the University of Oklahoma linebacker after first complimenting the defending national champions. "How could there be more than one Boz."

Reagan also gave political support during his speech to gubernatorial candidate Henry Bellmon, congressional candidates Jim Inhofe and Rep. Mickey Edwards and lieutenant governor candidate Tim Leonard.

The president said Bellmon has developed the kind of national contacts that can help turn around the Oklahoma economy.

New tax law seminars scheduled

From Staff Reports

People who are interested in finding out how the provisions of the recently enacted Tax Reform Act of 1986 will affect their federal tax situation are invited to attend a free one-hour informational seminar sponsored by H&R Block.

The seminar, entitled "How Will the New Tax Laws Affect You," will highlight most of the individual tax changes that will take effect in 1987, as well as cover the few changes that will affect the 1986 returns.

"While the majority of the new rules will not come into play until after the first of the year, we believe that people are interested in getting a better idea of what changes have been made in the tax laws for 1987 and future years," said Mary Breite, of H&R Block. "We are making these seminars available as a public service to address people's concerns and explain how the new rules will work."

Each seminar participant will receive a booklet that will give them a side-by-side comparison of the current law and the new law.

The seminars will be held Sunday at 1101 N. Midkiff — one session at 1 p.m. and the other at 3 p.m. To register or obtain more information about these seminars, call 561-8689.

ZONING

Virginia Pickett, 3402 Boyd Ave., says she does not object to the center relocating within her neighborhood, but she is against the proposed amendment.

"I'm in favor of a senior citizens' center, but I don't think they've made the proper announcement about how they're going to handle that," she says.

"My objection was mainly about putting the amendment in because it has such a broad application on the whole city," Ms. Pickett says.

City Councilor Gordon Marcum II says he is against the amendment, but he is for the relocation of senior services.

"I just don't think I would want any philanthropic organization settling next to my home," he says.

Marcum says senior citizen services could still accept the donated Fuhrman Estate and relocate on the 2.7-acre lot by requesting a specific use permit.

But Thurbon says allowing specific use in such a small area would be spot zoning, which is illegal in the state of Texas.

However, Marcum claims it would only be illegal if someone challenged spot zoning and took it to court.

"It's illegal only after the court determines it's illegal," he says.

Marcum also contends that while the present council is protective of neighborhood rights, future councils may be more lenient by allowing different organizations to locate within neighborhoods.

"I wouldn't worry so much right now with our City Council, because if so many neighbors show up against a specific use, we reject it.

"I just don't think it's a good idea to have it as a choice. You just never know what the next City Council's feeling will be on it," he says.

Mayor Carroll Thomas says he is recommending the word "philanthropic" be replaced with "senior citzens center" in the amendment.

"Philanthropic just opens it up too wide. There's going to be very few senior citizens' centers. It's not going to open a floodgate.

"I don't think adding the words senior citizens would be disruptive at all," he said.

Soviet paper says 'priestesses of love' need to be outlawed

WORLD

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin has claimed for generations that communism wiped out prostitution but now admits that it didn't. An official newspaper says the time is ripe for a law against the "priestesses of love."

Prostitutes who frequent hotels for foreigners, such as the National and Intourist in Moscow, are special targets of a campaign that began recently in the official press.

It is widely presumed that some of those women work for the KGB secret police, but that was not mentioned in the newspaper articles, the first known to have acknowledged the existence of prostitution in the Soviet Union.

The articles reflect some lingering uncertainty. One leading journal still insisted there is no such thing as prostitution in this country, and others said it either is not widespread or was imported by Westerners.

"It's fully explainable by the fact that we can't always effectively oppose decadent influences from outside, from where magazines with questionable pictures and questionable video films are smuggled," the Moscow youth daily Moskovsky Komsomolets said Friday.

The campaign against prostitution follows a recent one on drug addiction, another "capitalist vice" once said to have been eradicated by socialism.

Both appear to be part of an effort by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev to use the media in a more open, sophisticated manner while maintaining the traditional tight control.

They reflect a conclusion that using the press to combat problems is more effective than the old Soviet policy of denying that they exist.

For decades, prostitutes were officially declared to be phenomena of capitalist exploitation, unemployment and drug abuse.

"In the U.S.S.R.," says the Soviet Encyclopedia, "prostitution has been liquidated. The conditions which create and feed it have disappeared."

That statement was repeated Thursday by the weekly New Times in an article acknowledging the existence of drug addiction but denying there was prostitution in the Soviet Union.

However, young women solicit tourists and businessmen at hard-currency hotels and restaurants and entice Soviet customers at other spots.

At least two newspapers operated by the Communist youth league Komsomol published articles saying it is time to stop being "bashful" about the subject.

"Fencing ourselves off with the label 'this is not ours' risks creating a certain prohibited zone in which the priestesses of love will feel free to turn any tourist hotel into their temple," Moskovsky Komsomolets said.

In an expose on prostitution in Minsk, the national youth daily Komsomolskaya Pravda said there also is an "alarming situation in Moscow, Leningrad, Riga and other large centers."

"We have to acknowledge a wanton 'business' exists," it said. "For many years, we pretended that we didn't notice anything."

Both papers stuck to such euphemisms as "ladies who take tips," "night stalkers," "professionals" and "ladies of easy virtue."

Moskovsky Komsomolets insisted that "there's not even such a word in conversational language" as prostitute.

Numerous obscene words for prostitute exist in Russian. The only polite one is "prostitutka," derived from English.

"There is also no corresponding legal regulation," Moskovsky Komsomolets said. "Working out a basis for punishing those who sell their bodies, and even more so those of other people, would be fully justified."

Just as there was no strict law against drug abuse until 1974 because it officially was declared nonexistent, there is no law against adult prostitution. Laws are on the books against child prostitution and "keeping dens of debauchery."

Police who want to arrest prostitutes must cite them for public drunkenness and disturbing the peace, Moskovsky Komsomolets said.

According to Komsomolskaya Pravda, "if worst comes to worst, they will be invited to the militia office for a preventive talk."

Gorbachev: U.S.S.R., U.S. accord possible

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev said Friday that although the superpowers had missed a "unique chance" for arms control accords at the Reykjavik summit, it is still possible to reach agreement.

Speaking at a Kremlin dinner for visiting North Korean leader Kim Il Sung, Gorbachev said his meeting in Iceland with President Reagan "confirmed that work has to be kept up and a maximum of political courage and good will displayed."

"It can only be regretted that in Reykjavik it has not proved possible to reach agreement," Gorbachev said. His remarks were carried by the official news agency Tass.

"Although a unique chance has been passed up, an agreement meeting the vital interests of the entire world community is attainable," Gorbachev said.

The Soviet Communist Party chief also accused Washington of trying to form an "eastern NATO" with its military alliances with Japan and South Korea in Asia.

"Washington has thrust its nuclear systems like splinters deep into the body of Korea, the body of Asia," Gorbachev said. "All this has been done with one sinister aim, that of impeding social progress and turning the clock of history back."

"One should add here plans to forge a bloc of Washington, Tokyo and Seoul with the involvement of also other states," Gorbachev said. "This indeed poses a real threat to the U.S.S.R. and the D.P.R.K. (North Korea) and to many other countries, and to the cause of peace."

Tass quoted the North Korean leader as saying, "The situation in Asia and the Korean peninsula is becoming more and more serious as Japanese militarism has grown into a dark force of aggression."

Man not paralyzed when it comes to action

AUSTIN (AP) — Although his limbs are partially paralyzed, Bob Kafka is a man of action.

In the past two years he's been arrested five times in acts of civil disobedience.

Each time he was in a different city protesting the inaccessibility of public transportation to disabled people. The arrests came after he got on a bus with his wheelchair and refused to leave when the bus driver asked him to board a special bus for the disabled, he said.

"This method is an activist style of saying what we want," said the 40-year-old Bronx native. He wants public buses to have lifts so that disabled people can enjoy the same services as other members of the community.

But direct confrontation is only one way he tries to obtain equal rights for the disabled. He also works within the political system. He is president of the Coalition of Texans with Disabilities, a statewide organization that recommends policy that affects the disabled.

He is president of the Texas Paralyzed Veterans Association, which focuses on transportation, attendant services and architectural access. He helped found Houston's Coalition for Barrier Free Living to improve the architecture and public communication systems for disabled people.

He founded the Southwest Wheelchair Athletic Association, which promotes recreation opportunities. He is a co-founder of American Disabled for Accessible Public Transportation.

For his efforts, Kafka was recently awarded the Governor's Citation for Meritorious Service.

"It's an honor, but I don't like getting awards," Kafka said. "If anything comes out of it, I hope I can get more disabled people involved; they need to do something about their situation."

Kafka received his bachelor's degree in economics and a master's degree from the University of Houston. He also is a veteran of the Vietnam war.

In 1973, Kafka broke his neck in a car accident, which left his arms and legs partially paralyzed, he said. Since then he has become politically active in securing the rights of disabled people, he said.

"Disabled people are part of the community and we have every right to have the same services as everybody else," he said. "The environment needs to be designed so that we can utilize it."

Although Austin is one of the better cities in Texas for providing services to disabled people, he said, there is still a lot of room for improvement.

In January 1985, he picketed the Capital Metro office on Congress Avenue. This summer, Capital Metro bought 100 buses with lifts. "But the board has not passed a policy that all future buses must have lifts," he said.

Salvadorans recovering from quake

Debris piled in neat rows; Stores reopen for business

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — The owners of homes shattered by a devastating earthquake two weeks ago have piled the debris in neat rows.

Most downtown stores have reopened for business, and many people are settled in to makeshift quarters. Foreign rescue workers have headed home.

But the grisly work of recovering bodies goes on at downtown office buildings and the sites of mudslides triggered by the Oct. 10 quake. Most officials said the final tally could show 1,500 dead, 10,000 wounded and about 300,000 homeless.

Scores of people have moved into the streets, some because they fear continuing aftershocks, others because they have nowhere else to go.

Several families settled along a grassy median strip near the National University, which still bears deep bullet scars from a civil war battle fought in 1980.

One elderly woman washed clothes, and another hung laundry on a wire strung across part of the road. Catalina Lopez, 23, stirred chicken simmering on a wood-burning stove.

"We don't have anywhere to go," Mrs. Lopez said, pointing to the wreckage of her mud and wood house. "We left our home once and we started over again. We'll do the same here."

She said her familiy left eastern Usulutan province six years ago because "the guerrillas took over the town."

The leftist guerrillas began fighting El Salvador's U.S.-backed government in 1979. Since then, more than 62,000 people have died and about half a million have fled their homes in the country's east and north, many heading to San Salvador.

The Roman Catholic Church urged after the earthquake that peace talks be resumed. Two attempts at talks in 1984 ended in stalemate, and a negotiating session planned for last September was called off by the rebels because of a dispute over security.

Despite the past failures, Auxiliary Bishop Gregorio Rosa Chaves said peace seemed possible.

"The earthquake changed the way we view things in the country. We are sure that the things that before were impossible now can become reality," he said.

After a slow start, donated food is reaching the homeless. Some politicians and private business leaders had accused President Jose Napoleon Duarte of putting political propaganda before the needs of the people.

"We are getting food now," said Lucia Maria Cornejo, walking from her makeshift tin shelter near the university. "And the mayor's office brought us this plastic for the roof."

In a southern neighborhood, Los Planes de Renderos, a group of curious gathered Thursday above a hill to watch rescuers dig out the bodies of a woman and her two children, killed in a quake-triggered landslide.

"We have been searching for them for the past 13 days," said one man, covering his nose against the stench of the rotting bodies.

Hope ended last week for finding anyone alive in the ruins of seven large office buildings destroyed by the quake. Officials said 58 bodies had been found inside one of the buildings, the Ruben Dario building, by Thursday, while 62 people earlier were pulled out alive.

During the first week after the quake, teams labored around the clock at the five-story structure in hopes of finding survivors.

On Thursday, only a handful of men picked slowly through the heaps of twisted metal, glass and concrete. Most took time off for lunch. Scraps of papers, bills and file folders lay scattered in the debris.

People waiting to recover the bodies of their loved ones sat in the shade across the street from the building, seeking relief from the stifling heat.

"My son was inside. They brought us some of his bones," said Maria Celina Martinez, pointing to a black plastic bag on the sidewalk. She said she waited for word of his colleagues.

Six of the nine major hospitals were heavily damaged, forcing many of the patients to be moved outside.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Marine plane crashes

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — A U.S. Marines plane, with a crew of two aboard, crashed in the Mediterranean Sea on Friday while searching for a missing Navy aircraft, a Navy spokesman said.

Lt. David Morris, a spokesman for the U.S. Sixth Fleet based in Naples, said crew members of a Greek ship saw the Marine Corps A-6 hit the sea southeast of the island of Crete at about 11 a.m.

The plane had taken off from the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy as part of a sea and air search for a plane from the same carrier, a S-3A Viking submarine hunter, which has been missing since Tuesday.

A sea and air search was launched for the aircraft's pilot and flight officer, Morris said.

The names of the crew were not made public, but Morris said the plane was part of the Marine Attack Squadron 533.

Polio cases doubled

GENEVA (AP) — A polio outbreak in Brazil has nearly doubled the number of cases of the disease reported in the Americas in the first half of 1986, compared to a year ago, the World Health Organization said Friday.

A total of 537 cases were reported from January through June this year, compared to 280 for the same period in 1985.

Most of the new cases were in Brazil, Colombia and Guatemala, with Brazil alone accounting for two-thirds, WHO's weekly epidemic bulletin said. Polio cases also were reported in Mexico, Peru, Haiti and Venezuela.

Four countries listing cases last year — El Salvador, Honduras, Paraguay and the United States — said they had no new ones, according to WHO.

East German escapes

HANOVER, West Germany (AP) — A 19-year-old worker from Communist East Germany escaped over the border to West Germany, border police said Friday.

The man made his escape to Lower Saxony state on Thursday, but authorities did not announce it until Friday. They gave no details except to say that he was unhurt.

It was the sixth escape from East to West in the past week and the 27th in the past 34 days.

Three East Germans fled on foot over the border on Wednesday. On Sunday, one man scaled the Berlin Wall and another swam across the Elbe River, which marks border in the north.

Marchers against payment

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thousands of students, unionized workers and peasants marched through downtown Mexico City demanding a suspension of payments on Mexico's $100 billion foreign debt and protesting a wide range of alleged government abuses.

The Thursday evening protest coincided with the Continental Day against the Foreign Debt. Activities were suspended for the day at the National Autonomous University of Mexico to allow students and faculty to participate.

Marchers carried banners protesting the debt and calling for a higher minimum wage, more help for people still homeless from last year's earthquake and freedom for political prisoners.

Ex-Postal Service official sentenced for embezzlement

Peter Voss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter Voss, the former vice chairman of the U.S. Postal Service board of governors, was sentenced Friday to four years in prison for embezzlement and receiving payoffs in connection with a postal contract.

U.S. District Judge George H. Revercomb sentenced Voss, who was co-chairman of President Reagan's Ohio campaign in 1980, to two years' imprisonment on each of two counts of accepting an illegal gratuity in connection with a $250 million mail-sorting equipment contract.

Voss also received six months on one count of embezzling money from the Postal Service by submitting vouchers for first-class airline tickets he did not use. The sentence for embezzlement is to run concurrently with the four-year term. Voss was fined $11,000 — $5,000 on each charge involving the gratuities and $1,000 for the embezzlement.

In a court appearance, Voss said that at an early stage in the government's probe of postal corruption earlier this year, he came forward and informed federal investigators of his illegal activities.

"Conscience has no place to hide and that's certainly true in my case," said Voss, a Canton, Ohio, businessman.

"The sentence may seem to you and to some others a severe one," Revercomb told Voss.

But he said Voss had harmed the Postal Service and the American public and that "you had the benefit of a plea bargain. Without the plea, you would be facing a substantially longer sentence."

Voss faced a maximum sentence of seven years in prison and fines of $750,000.

Asked if he considered the sentence too severe, Voss joked with reporters, "The judge did his job, (but) I would have let me off."

In a news conference on the courthouse steps after sentencing, he said he believed his difficulty stemmed from being a part-time government employee and reacting as a businessman.

"I think I did a tremendous amount of good for the United States Postal Service," he said. "Unfortunately, this is one I crossed the line on."

Voss resigned from the postal board May 30, when he entered a guilty plea under an arrangement in which the government agreed not to file additional charges against him, as long as he continues to cooperate with the U.S. attorney's office.

His lawyers had asked the judge for a six-month term at a community treatment center in Youngstown, Ohio, followed by a lengthy term of probation and community service work.

In documents filed by prosecutors in federal court, Voss was accused of taking at least $20,000 worth of payoffs in a fee-splitting arrangement with a public relations firm hired on Voss' recommendation by Recognition Equipment Inc., of Irving, Texas.

The president of the PR firm, John Gnau, pleaded guilty a week ago to conspiring with Voss to subvert the postal procurement process and to passing along to Voss some of the payments Gnau received from REI.

REI is still in the running for the mail-sorting equipment contract, which federal prosecutors estimated would be worth $8 billion over 10 years when maintenance and other costs are included.

The government alleged in documents filed in court last week that Voss used his official position to benefit Gnau's business dealings in at least four other schemes.

One involved a piece of Chicago-area real estate that Gnau wanted the Postal Service to purchase. Another involved an unspecified real estate firm that wanted to evaluate Postal Service property holdings.

A third involved an unspecified Ohio company seeking a postal contract for automated warehouse and material handling. The fourth involved an Ohio company, Readak Corp., which Gnau approached and offered to assist in obtaining postal business in exchange for a share of the company. Readak officials rejected Gnau's overtures.

The documents filed by prosecutors said Voss received $6,000 in connection with the third scheme, involving automated warehouse handling.

Voss's prison term will begin in 30 days and will be served at a minimum-security federal prison to be chosen.

Under federal law, a prisoner's sentence generally is reduced by about one-third to give credit for good behavior while in custody. In addition, the U.S. Parole Commission can reduce the sentence further if the prisoner applies for parole.

Legislator suspended because he refused to name alleged drug users

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — State Rep. Philip Bradley said he wanted to point out the need for drug testing when he called a radio talk show last month to say he had seen colleagues use cocaine in the South Carolina House of Representatives.

But the Republican's action stirred public emotion, brought bitter reactions from colleagues who questioned his motives and resulted in his indictment this week for obstruction of justice for refusing to name the alleged offenders.

Bradley, the owner of a real estate company in Greenville, has been suspended from the House and is up against an uncompromising prosecutor who vowed to make Bradley "name names or eat crow."

If Bradley offers the names of legislators, he could ruin their political careers, and the 48-year-old lawmaker said there is no point in naming them because they can't be convicted on his word alone.

If he recants, he will lose respect and his political career will suffer.

If Bradley remains silent and is convicted of obstruction of justice in a trial to be held in February or March, he will be expelled from the House and will face a maximum 10-year prison sentence. He was indicted Tuesday, freed on his own recognizance Wednesday and suspended from the House Thursday. He has served in the House since 1979.

"He's in a no-win situation," Rep. Mike Fair, R-Greenville, said of his deskmate in the House. "It all just doesn't make a lot of sense."

Bradley has reserved comment since his legal troubles began, but Friday he laughed when he heard the "no-win" description.

"Mike's pretty perceptive," Bradley said, adding that he was "trying to work things out and resolve it."

Bradley unwittingly placed himself in the difficult position the morning after Ronald and Nancy Reagan sat on their couch before a national television audience and urged Americans to "rise up together in defiance against this cancer of drugs."

Broadcaster Russ Cassell decided to make drugs the topic of his morning show on WFBC radio in Greenville Sept. 16. He was taking an opinion poll on who should be tested for drugs.

"Just all of a sudden I get this call from Phil Bradley," Cassell said.

Bradley told Cassell on the air that he had seen drugs used while legislation was being debated.

Bradley, who advocated drug testing for public officials, said he has known about the problem with cocaine and "uppers" for three to four years, and said he was speaking out because it's about time the public knew how bad the drug problem is.

Bradley started receiving telephone calls from the media soon after the show and went into detail.

"I've seen a couple of members so spaced out on cocaine they could not even function," Bradley told The Associated Press. "One person was so spaced out he could not even wipe his nose. He was so numb he didn't even know it was running."

Rep. Eugene Foxworth, R-Charleston, said Bradley "is not the type of person who would lie about something like this."

"I think Phil is honest. He sets high standards for himself and other people," Foxworth said.

But other state lawmakers howled that Bradley had political motives, because a large majority of the members of the legislature is Democratic. They complained they were being smeared by his refusal to name names.

NSC reassigns worker who refused polygraph

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Security Council has reassigned a State Department employee who refused to take a lie-detector test or otherwise cooperate with an FBI investigation into a leak of classified documents to the news media, Reagan administration officials said Friday.

The investigation was touched off by a report in The Washington Post that the administration had conducted a "disinformation" campaign, beginning with an article in The Wall Street Journal, designed to convince Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi that an American attack on his North African country was imminent.

"No culpability is imputed by the member's decision to leave the staff," a U.S. official told The Associated Press. "The FBI is continuing with its investigation and until it is complete we will have no further information on the matter."

"The refusal to cooperate with the ongoing investigation resulted in the loss of the trust and confidence essential for any individual holding a sensitive security position," said the official, who declined to be identified.

The official refused to divulge the name of the worker. A second official said the employe was a woman.

And Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, said "the individual concerned is a civil service employee who has been with the department since 1974 and was on loan to the National Security Council."

The NSC, whose main function is to assist the president on foreign policy and other sensitive issues, operates in virtual secrecy. The director, Adm. John M. Poindexter, rarely holds news conferences or makes public statements.

The FBI has questioned about 20 to 25 people and given polygraph tests to seven or eight NSC staff members, according to unidentified officials quoted in Thursday's editions of The Washington Post.

Dan Howard, a White House spokesman, said, "Whenever there is a leak of national security information, there is an investigation."

"There has been an investigation regarding the leak of classified information to The Washington Post," he added.

The Post on Oct. 2 published a report on a three-page memo sent by Poindexter to President Reagan.

The memo called for a "disinformation program," combining real and illusionary events to make "Gadhafi think that there is a high degree of internal opposition to him within Libya, that his key trusted aides are disloyal, that the U.S. is about to move against him militarily."

Continued fair skies expected

From Staff and Wire Reports

Continued fair skies are expected through the weekend as forecasters with the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal predict today's high will reach the upper 60s. Winds will be from the north at 5 to 10 mph.

Tonight calls for fair skies, with a low in the mid-40s. Sunday will be fair, with a high in the low 70s.

Friday's high of 67 was 25 degrees cooler the record of 92, set in 1933. The low of 56 was 22 degrees warmer than the record of 34, set in 1955.

STATE

A low-pressure cell in central Louisiana created overcast skies in East and Southeast Texas Friday, as well as strong, gusty winds in the state's center.

The rest of the state had generally fair skies because of a high pressure cell moving into Texas, the National Weather Service reported.

Afternoon temperatures were mostly in the 60s and the 70s, with some 80s in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Also, some readings in the 50s were reported in the higher elevations of the Panhandle.

The forecast for North Texas calls for partly cloudy skies in the northeast and mostly fair in the southwest through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs in the 60s.

West Texas should be mostly fair through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs ranging from the 60s to the 80s in the Big Bend.

South Texas should see mostly sunny days and fair nights through Sunday with lows in the 40s and 50s and highs in the 70s.

NATION

Showers were scattered across the Midwest to the southern Atlantic coast Friday, with some flooding reported in Arkansas and threatened in rain-soaked Louisiana and Alabama.

Areas of fog and drizzle stretched from the southern Great Lakes across much of the Mississippi Valley to the central Plains, and showers were scattered from the east central Plains across the Mississippi and Tennessee valleys to the southeastern coast.

A flash flood watch remained in effect late Friday for southwestern Alabama and a flood warning was posted for low-lying areas near Morgan City, La., as rain was expected to continue, the National Weather Service said.

Heavy rains have soaked parts of northern Louisiana, southern Arkansas and northeastern Texas since Thursday morning.

Rebels take Magic out of Mojo, 24-14

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

As time was winding down in the fourth quarter Friday night at Memorial Stadium, a chant could be heard coming from the Midland Lee side of the field: "No Mo Mojo, No Mo Mojo."

And, they sang it with a lot of pride and emotion. It was the first time the words could be uttered since 1983, the year the Rebels won two meetings with Odessa Permian, the year Lee went into the state 5A championship game. This time, the Rebels posted a 24-14 upset victory over 5A's No. 2 ranked team.

"We felt like we had a chance going into the game, but we knew that Permian had a lot better talent than we did," said Lee head coach Earl Miller. "Still, Permian has a new defensive coach and we've been coaching against the Wing-T for nine years. We should have learned something during that time."

THE REBELS held a 17-point lead most of the way, using three big plays to ensure victory.

The first gave the Rebels a lead that was never threatened. Defensive back Billy Wagner recovered a fumble by sophomore tailback James Brown at the Permian 28.

Still, it was a typical defensive stand for the Panthers, holding Lee to three downs and a field goal attempt by Jeff Connally. His 33-yard effort split the uprights.

After Lee mounted a nine-play, 52-yard drive for a TD capped by Dennis Sterling's high dive over the line and into the end zone, the Rebels found their second big play of the night. This time, it reminded many of former Rebel great Isaac Garnett.

On Lee's next possession, fullback Waymon Goodley took the handoff from quarterback Rodney Johnson, stutter stepped his way to the line of scrimmage, picked up a block and saw nothing but open field ahead Goodley led three Permian defenders by 10 yards as he raced 72-yards for a commanding 17-0 advantage

"I was surprised that it was so open, but I never knew if I was in the clear. I never dared to look back," said Goodley of his first touchdown of the year.

The advantage almost held to the half. However, Permian has one of the best running backs in the state and he showed why he'd managed to cover 1,111 yards in his first seven games.

With 28 seconds left on the clock, Shawn Crow moved the ball through Lee's defense, found a hole and outraced the Rebel secondary to the end zone. When Crow went into the end zone, there were 12 seconds left in the half.

Lee went ahead 24-7 on a 39-yard punt return by Wagner with 1:09 left to play in the third quarter.

"I was free catching the ball all night and I don't think they were ready for me to run with it," said Wagner. "I just weaved around until I got a few blocks and it finally opened up."

Nearly six minutes later, Permian scored for the final time, capping a 15-play, 61-yard drive with a one-yard run by Woody Bryant. Bryant added the PAT.

PERMIAN COACH Gary Gaines saw Wagner's punt return as the game's deciding factor.

"The punt return for a touchdown was ultimately the nail in the coffin, but we made some mistakes in the first half that really got us in a hole.

"Lee won the battles of the kicking game and field position and that's always a big factor in games between these two teams."

"Our kids were just super on defense with the exception of there late in the second quarter when we gave up that 45-yard touchdown," said Miller. "That was ridiculous."

But, coach, not ridiculous enough in the long run to do any harm. Between Wagner and Goodley and a drive-ending interception by Jimmy Fennell in the fourth quarter, the Rebels had the game well in hand.

Bosox to seek clincher

JOHN NELSON

NEW YORK (AP) — One victory away from their first World Series title in 68 years, the Boston Red Sox will have the visiting field advantage tonight in Game 6.

"We're 2-0 in New York, and that's got to be on our side," Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs said.

Boston defeated New York 4-2 Thursday night behind the pitching of Bruce Hurst and took a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Series. The Red Sox had won the first two games in New York, 1-0 and 9-2, then lost the next two at Fenway Park, 7-1 and 6-2.

Thursday night's Game 5 victory was the first by a home team in this Series, prompting Red Sox center fielder Dave Henderson to remark: "Now we've got the homecourt advantage off our backs."

Win or lose, there were some ghosts exorcised from old Fenway Park in Game 5. The Red Sox have not won a World Series since 1918 — when Babe Ruth still played for them — and have lost three seven-game Series since, in 1946, '67 and '75. In the last of those two Series, the final-game loss came at Fenway.

Then there was also the infamous Boston Massacre of 1978 when the Red Sox were swept at home in a crucial four-game series with the New York Yankees in September, wound up tied for the American League East regular-season lead, then lost a one-game playoff to the Yanks at Fenway.

The Red Sox have an excellent chance in Game 6 with a well-rested Roger Clemens going against former teammate Bob Ojeda of the Mets. The 24-game winner Clemens will be pitching on five days' rest after working three straight times on three days' rest.

Through some pitching adjustments that may have cost the Red Sox Game 4 of this Series, Manager John McNamara got both Hurst and Clemens back on a regular schedule. McNamara started Al Nipper, who had not been used since Oct. 4, in the fourth game. He lasted only six innings.

Midland Lee's Billy Wagner (12) gets a hug from teammate Dennis Sterling after returning a punt 39 yards for a touchdown against Odessa Permian Friday night.

Oops, The King slips on a Rebel

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Odessa Permian has won six consecutive District 4-5A titles, but the Midland Lee Rebels went a long way toward ending that streak Friday night before a sellout throng at Memorial Stadium with a 24-14 win over the Panthers, who forgot to bring Mojo with them.

Black Magic deserted the Panthers early as Permian, previously ranked No. 2 in the state, fell behind 17-0 in the first half. "The King" isn't leading the league any longer and that's news that will rock the state from the red tide plagued coast, through the Hill Country and to the top of the Panhandle.

And Lee's first year head football coach Earl Miller stepped into a niche of West Texas football history in the process. That niche may not last long, but it's true today. He's the only head coach in District 4-5A that hasn't lost to a Permian team. Stout stuff, that is.

"WELL, THAT might last for a year, or unless we meet them again in the playoffs, but that's great right now," commented Miller on his place in Midland's football history.

"I feel really good about the win except for giving up that 45-yard touchdown run to (Shawn) Crow with only 23 seconds left in the first half. That was a stupid mistake and our kids new it. They came back and took the game to Permian."

Lee's no-frill offense ran at the Permian strength, making the victory even sweeter, but Lee offensive coordinator Van Tom Whatley said that was the plan all along.

"You can't trick Permian, they're too well coached," said Whatley. "You just have to line up with them and whip them. I thought that's what we did. We controlled the line of scrimmage both offensively and defensively. And you really have to hand it to our kids on defense because I want to tell you that Shawn Crow is the best I've seen in quite a while."

WHATLEY'S birthday is next week and defensive line coach Eddie Wolski's birthday was this week. What kind of a birthday was it for Wolski? "It's the very best I've ever had. Nothing else even comes close."

But a victory — any victory — over Permian is a monumental experience. No one was probably happier than quarterback Rodney Johnson, who guided the Rebels to victory without even throwing a pass.

A year ago, Johnson was sacked on a fourth down play inside the Permian five-yard line by linebacker Mark Gladson in a 13-7 Lee loss. That nightmare is now over for Johnson.

"I've thought about that game a lot. This does a lot to make up for that memory," said Johnson. "However, I want it known that I didn't do much to win this game. This was a team effort from top to bottom. Everyone played so well."

It was also a big night for center Chris Jones and guard Mark Barnes. Offensive linemen don't often get credit for the dirty dog work expected of them, but it was these two that broke open Waymon Goodley for 72 yards and a touchdown up the Permian gut to produce a 10-0 lead.

JONES described the play as "a 21 base fold. It's just a cross block with me taking the defensive tackle and Barnes coming around me on the linebacker. I guess we both made a block because it went all the way."

Goodley had his first career 100-yard rushing night, and he said, "I haven't scored all year, and I've never had 100 yards in a varsity game. But I did both tonight and I can't think of a better time to do it. This was a lot of fun."

But the heroes were many for Lee. Billy Wagner recovered a key fumble after Anthony Pertile knocked the ball loose from sophomore James Brown and that led to a 33-yard field goal by Jeff Connally, who may put his shoe in bronze after this one. Jimmy Fennell had a key interception and Wagner also had the big 39-yard punt return for a touchdown. This may have been Wagner's finest hour. And linebacker Greg Bick seemed to take on the whole Permian backfield. It was a memory as promised.

Permian coach Gary Gaines seemed to take his first lost at Permian in stride.

"Midland Lee deserves a lot of credit. They were well prepared for us and deserved to win. We've got an open week and we now have to beat San Angelo. We've got to fight back. You've got to take this one and go on."

Lee can nail down a state playoff berth next week against San Angelo, but the Bobcats are 8-0 on the year and also state ranked. That one will be played in San Angelo.

Midland athletic director Gil Bartosh said Friday night that tickets for the San Angelo game will go on sale Tuesday to season ticket holders and to the general public on Wednesday at Memorial Stadium ticket office.

But Friday night is one to cherish. It was only Lee's sixth victory against Permian in 26 years. The old King doesn't die easy, but a Rebel bullet found its mark Friday. And it was fatal for Black Magic, rabbit's feet, Mojos and broomsticks. Halloween can now officially be canceled due to lack of interest.

Crane trio runs over Greenwood for 4-3A grid victory

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

CRANE — The Golden Cranes are giving new meaning to the "three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust" offense.

With a trio like Gerald Mitchell, Sharod Vaden and Cliff Wilson, it's more like 12 yards and a puff of smoke.

That's about all Greenwood's defenders were able to come up with on most occasions as Crane romped to a 42-18 District 4-3A victory Friday night.

It was Crane's third straight win in district play after struggling through a tough non-district schedule.

Again, it was Mitchell carrying the load for Rickey White's ballclub, topping the 200 mark for the third straight week with 240 yards on 22 carries.

"This team has really progressed a lot since early in the season," Mitchell said. "We scheduled some really tough games in pre-district because it didn't look like district would be that hard and we struggled. But we just kept working together and we've come a long way. I think it will pay off for us later on."

Miami, just don't look back

Miami might do well to heed the advice of Satchel Paige lest the Hurricane get nervous about its regal standing in the world of college football.

Paige, the legendary pitcher of the old Negro baseball leagues who never got a chance to show his stuff in the majors until he was long passed his prime, once advised, "Don't look back. Something may be gaining on you."

Perhaps that's why Satchel lasted so long. He stayed loose and never worried about what was "back there."

Still, the Hurriance may have cause for alarm, in case no one has alerted them.

While Miami defeated Oklahoma and was accorded the No. 1 ranking in the wire polls, Alabama has been quietly disposing of one neighborhood bully after another and gaining attention and respect.

Miami has finished its schedule. If it hasn't, it can kiss No. 1 goodbye.

The Crimson Tide has been making modest inroads in the rankings and now faces equally unbeaten Penn State in a game that can score a lot of points for the winner. Since 'Bama has traversed a more perilous road, it stands to make a stronger impression with another win. But don't sell State short.

While the AP poll voters have been apportioned evenly throughout the land to prevent block voting, State still commands solid support from eastern voters and isn't exactly ignored elsewhere. In any case, next week's poll should make interesting reading.

The SWC...

Rice plus 31 over Texas A&M- Aggies headed for the Cotton Bowl, but 31 points...that's one I'd stay away from.

Arkansas minus 10 over Houston- Razorbacks haven't exactly been world beaters in making the spread...

SMU minus 5 at Texas- It has been a long season for the Longhorns and it's not getting any shorter.

TCU plus 13 1/2 over Baylor- I don't why know I do things like this.

Texas Tech even over whomever it is playing.

The Big Ones...

Penn State plus 6 over Alabama— Last year's game was close. This one should be, too. Therefore...

USC plus one over Stanford—The season is turning to green cheese for the Trojans, unless....

Columbia plus 28 1/2 over Colgate- This looms as a classic battle for status in eastern football circles. Neither team's record is sullied by anything so unseemly as a victory. I hope I'm not underestimating Columbia.

The others....

Clemson minus 10 over NC State- Wolfpack must be spent after last week's effort against Tar Heels.

Indiana plus 15 1/2 over Michigan- After last week, Wolverines may be a little flat.

Nebraska minus 17 1/2 over Colorado- Huskers stay unbeaten and in the hunt for No. 2.

Iowa minus 32 over Northwestern- Hawkeyes lost heartbreaker last week and the Wildcats pay and pay and pay....

Washington State plus 15 over UCLA- Let's get the Cougars in the Rose Bowl again.

Georgia minus 6 over Kentucky- Even without UGA IV, injured in a frivilous motel frolic last weekend and a replacement who has no game experience, it's the Bulldogs.

LSU minus 9 over North Carolina- It's at Baton Rouge, 'nuff said.

The pros....

Bears minus 14 1/2 over Lions- Chicago proves last week shouldn't have happened.

Cowboys minus 12 over Cardinals- Gary Ott, hates the Cowboys, so I'm sure he'll take the Cards even, if you can find him.

Browns three over Vikings- Vikings prove last week was a mistake.

Raiders minus 6 1/2 at Houston- Oilers can sympathize with Longhorns.

Miami minus 10 over the Colts- Can you believe that it wasn't too many years ago that this would have been a choice game.

Falcons plus 4 over Rams- A big one in NFL West.

Stanton suffers first league loss

From Staff Reports

FORSAN — Quarterback Brant Nichols and passed for three touchdowns as Forsan defeated Stanton's Buffs in AA football action, 32-7.

The loss was the first of the district season for Stanton and leaves the Buffs 2-1. Forsan is 2-0-1 in district with the lone tie against Reagan County, a game Forsan won on penetrations.

Forsan is 7-0-1 for the season.

Forsan scored with 8:55 left in the first period as Nichols unloaded a 12-yard pass to Brandy Bryan.

With 7:49 left in the half, Stanton quarterback Skip Hopkins dashed in from 15 yards out and Rafael Frausto kicked the point to give Stanton its lone lead of the game.

Forsan broke it up with two touchdowns in the final 1:09 of the half, both on Nichols passes. The first was a 41-yarder to Wayne Wright with 1:09 left and then Wright ran the two-pointer.

McCamey 46, Marfa

From Staff Reports

MARFA — The McCamey Badgers are rolling toward the District 5-2A title and did little here Friday night to halt its steam engine in a 46-0 win over the Marfa Shorthorns.

McCamey is now 6-1 on the season and 2-0 in loop play while Marfa is 3-5 and 0-2.

Emmitt Brown scored three touchdowns on runs of 8, 3 and 31 yards for the Badgers and quarterback Roman Zarate threw for touchdowns of five yards to Mikel Rowe and 40 yards to Clay Heja.

Danny Baiza also scored on a 50-yard run in the second quarter to help spoil Marfa's Homecoming.

Still, McCamey had less than 100 more yards than Marfa in the lopsided game.

McCamey has an important District 5-2A game at home with Van Horn next week, while Marfa plays at Presidio.

Reagan County 55, Ozona 0

OZONA — The Reagan County Owls gained a share of first place in District 6-2A with Forsan here Friday night with a sound 55-0 win over the Ozona Lions.

The Owls are now 7-0-1 on the season and 2-0-1 in 6-2A play. Forsan defeated Stanton to keep the same 2-0-1 district mark. Ozona fell to 2-6 and 0-3.

Reagan County quarterback Scott Lipsey had a big night in the Owls' romp. He scored on TD runs of 22 and 52 yards and threw TD passes of 19 ayrds to Mike Townsend and 28 yards to Kelly Baggett.

James West scored two touchdowns on a two-vard run and a 41-yard interception return.

Game Of The Week

Seattle, 5-2, at Denver, 6-1, 3 p.m. Sunday. First meeting of the season between the two leading clubs in the AFC West. Denver leads the series 11-7, winning the last three meetings.

Speaking

"He said 'Hi' and we had some casual conversation when I asked him about some pass patterns. It was friendly and cordial. I'm waiting for the practical jokes to start. If the jokes don't come, I'm in trouble." — Doug Flutie on a conversation with Jim McMahon after his first practice with the Chicago Bears.

"I was in La-La Land, that's for sure." — John Elway on the concussion he sustained in Monday's 22-10 loss to the New York Jets.

"This season is going to be an emotional scar on everybody. It already is." — Pittsbugh Coach Chuck Noll, whose Steelers are 1-6.

Making The Playlists

George House, morning host of radio station WAYY-AM in Eau Claire, Wis., has joined the sports music craze, recording a song called "Where Are You Now, Vince Lombardi?" on the station's new Heart of Gold label.

Speeches by Vince Lombardi, the coach during Green Bay's most successful years, and Bart Starr, the Packers quarterback then and later the coach, are mixed with lyrics and country and western music that House composed.

Despite the title's apparent reference to Simon & Garfunkel, the song includes a Dylan-like line about the Packers, who are 1-6 and have not finished first since 1972: "The faces and numbers are changing."

No Sartorial Splendor

Greg Koch, a Miami Dolphin who played nine years for the Packers, was quoted in the New York Post on the difference between Miami and Green Bay: "When someone in Green Bay says he has a good wardrobe, it means he has 10 bowling shirts."

Pulling Into Port

Minnesota's first-year head coach, Jerry Burns, compares coaching in the NFL to being captain of a ship.

"It's your job to get the ship from point A to point B. In doing so, you've got navigation officers and engineers and people running the commissary. The captain's just trying to keep everybody happy and get the (ship) in port. But, if it runs aground, ultimately the captain's responsible."

New Team, Old State

Running back Joe Carter, cut Wednesday bu the Miami Dolphins, was signed Thursday by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Carter rushed only four times this season, but is the last Dolphin to run for more than 100 yards in a game, gaining 105 yards against Houston in 1984.

Numerology

Cincinnati has won only four times in 16 games at Three Rivers Stadium although the Bengals have beaten the Steelers in their last three meetings. ... Gary Andreson of the Bengals has kicked 129 consecutive conversions, the longest current streak in the NFL.

REBELS—

Anthony Pertile also had a big play in the game, causing the fumble that Wagner recovered.

"I read the sweep and saw it coming and hit him (Brown) as hard as I could," said the Rebel cornerback. "The ball came loose and we got it."

THE VICTORY gives Lee a 7-0 record and a share of first place in District 4-5A with San Angelo at 4-0. The Bobcats defeated Abilene Cooper, 24-7. Permian fell to third place for the first time since who can remember when, 7-1, 4-1.

Next week, the Rebels have a chance to clinch no worse than a tie for the district title when they take on San Angelo at Bobcat Stadium.

Despite the loss on the scoreboard, Permian actually owned the edge in several game statistics, 13-9 in first downs, 241-229 in total yards, 104-5 in passing yards and 35.2-33.4 in punting average.

Even though he was outpunted for distance, Lee's Geoff Rich had his best kick of the year, a 34-yarder to the Permian one, which eventually set up Wagner's punt return TD.

GOLF — Tom Watson disqualified himself for what he called "a stupid mistake" Friday in the rain-delayed first round of the Vantage golf championship. Watson, one of 72 players who were stranded on the Oak Hills CC course Thursday when rain suspended play, He practiced putting in his hotel room Thursday night, found a putter he liked and stuck it in his bag. It was not the same putter he had used for the first 14 holes of play. The rules of golf prohibit a change of equipment during the course of a round.

Watson, one under after 14 holes, returned to the course to complete his round Friday. He two-putted for par on the first hole he played, the 15th. "I noticed Bruce (Edwards, his caddy) had a kind of quizzical expression on his face," Watson said. "He asked, 'Is that the same putter you used yesterday?' I said, 'No. It is not.' I knew I'd breached the rule."

BASEBALL — Infielder-outfielder Bill Russell, 38, an 18-year veteran with the Dodgers, will retire as an active player and return next season as a coach, replacing Monty Basgall as the Dodgers' infield coach.

Houston Astros Manager Hal Lanier agreed to a new 2-year contract to manage the NL Western Division champions. In his rookie year as a major league manager, Lanier, 44, led the Astros to the playoffs.

Devils foiled by Eagle rally

RANKIN — You would have had to have been there to believe it when the Eldorado Eagles pulled off an incredible fourth quarter come-from-behind victory over the Rankin Red Devils Friday night 22-14, shocking everyone on both sides of the stands.

What could be so amazing about this game in particular? Well, take into consideration that going into the fourth quarter the Red Devils had completely shut down any attempt by the Eagles to control the ball, either offensively or defensively.

Trailing 14-0, the Eagles tried every old trick in the book in desperation in the final minutes. Double flea-flickers thrown to receivers who were impossibly well covered. Quarterback sneaks. You name it. Eldorado threw everything at the Devils but the kitchen sink, and to the wonder of the fans on both sides of the field, the players on both sides of the field, and the coaches on both sides of the field, they all worked!

Receivers wrestled the ball out of the hands of defenders hands for long gains on two occasions. Eldorado even tried the old hike the ball to the quarterback on the extra point try stunt, and when that was called back, the Eagles did it again — successfully.

When asked exactly what he said to his players at halftime, Eldorado coach Armando San Miguel said, "I just told them that they had to believe in themselves to win, and they came out with a lot of composure and won the game."

Composure may not be the exact word that one would normally call an effort like that, but they sure had something.

FROM THE outset of the game the Eagles' hopes looked dim. On Rankin's first possession, they marched downfield only to have their drive stalled by two crucial long yardage penalties. Still the Eagles were stuck with horrible field position, starting off their first possession on their own 10-yard line.

Four plays later, after having driven all of three yards, they were forced to punt. Rankin promptly drove the short 36 yards for an easy first quarter touchdown and a 7-0 lead.

Eldorado seemed to be blessed with opportunities the entire night though none had as of yet to have been capitalized upon. Three plays later Rankin quarterback Doug Braden coughed up the ball, leaving the Eagles inside Devil territory.

At this point in the game it seemed as though Eldorado might actually have a chance at putting some points on the board. An 11-yard pass from Braden to Shawn Hamilton, the only one in the first three quarters of play, put them inside of the 10. On second-and-goal at the two, the Eagles pulled a holding penalty which called back a touchdown. One sack and an incomplete pass later, their hopes had vanished, and they were forced to hand over the ball on the Rankin 13-yard line.

With 21 seconds remaining in the half, Rankin's George Abalos ran the ball in, moments after a dismal two-yard punt, retiring the side at Rankin 14, Eldorado 0.

Rankin so dominated the Eagles, that their leading rusher had a grand total 26 yards on eight carries and 11 yards passing for a team total of 36 halftime yards.

Rankin ended up with seven penalties for 105 yards, which effectively stopped anything they tried in the second half.

Rankin, 0-3 in district, travels to Ozona next week while Eldorado, 2-1, returns home to play Forsan.

Stalling Redbirds out to poop Cowboys' homecoming party

Dallas Cowboys

IRVING (AP) — It's homecoming week for old Dallas Cowboys but St. Louis Cardinals head Coach Gene Stallings hopes to be a party pooper.

Stallings, a secondary coach for 14 years under Dallas' Tom Landry, needs the victory. The Cardinals are only 1-6 in Stallings' first season.

"Our morale is up but we need to beat some folks. We'd like to ruin things for the Cowboys," he says.

The Cowboys' 11th annual Alumni Reunion Weekend includes a halftime flag football game in which former Cowboys, led by Roger Staubach, will play former NFL All-Stars led by Billy Kilmer, the former Washington great.

Stallings lost a 31-7 encounter with Landry on Sept. 29 in St. Louis, helping put Landry at 10-3-1 against his former pupils.

The Cowboys' starting quarterback, Danny White, who has missed starting three games with a pulled muscle, is expected to replace backup Steve Pelluer.

"I'm about 90 percent and feel pretty good," White says. "I'll probably be a little rusty but it's time to get back in there."

Stallings is worried no matter who is in the game.

"There's no question Dallas is a much better team than the one we played last month," Stallings said. "They look better on both sides of the ball."

The Cardinals are hurting.

St. Louis played last week with four starters on the injured reserve list and four more starters hurt.

"Our biggest problem has been getting our good players on the field," Stallings said.

Landry said he believes the Cardinals are rapidly improving with Stump Mitchell as the top running back since Ottis Anderson was traded to the New York Giants.

"Stump Mitchell is a better runner," Landry said. "Mitchell is a dangerous runner."

The Cowboys struggled to a 17-14 victory over Philadelphia last Sunday while the Cardinals fell behind 21-0 but rallied to only lose 28-21 to Washington.

Landry said he hoped the Cowboys take the Cardinals more seriously than they did the Eagles.

"You can't stay at an emotionally high level for 16 games," Landry said. "But I hope we're more psyched up against St. Louis."

Landry still converses on a regular basis with Stallings.

"Sure, we talk," Landry said. "I called him up after the Tampa Bay game. Gene will do a good job there. He just needs time and some luck on the injuries."

The 11-point favorite Cowboys are 5-2 in the NFC East a game behind Washington while the Cardinals are 1-6 with their only victory coming against Tampa Bay.

Dallas has won 13 of its last 16 games with the Cardinals, who are 2-12 in Texas Stadium. The Cowboys will be seeking their 100th victory in the stadium with the hole in the roof.

A sellout of 63,855 was assured for the 3 p.m. kickoff.

Barrett's surprise for Sox

By JOHN FEINSTEIN
The Washington Post

BOSTON — It has become an unending joy ride for Marty Barrett.

Thursday night, he became a part of baseball history in the eighth inning of the Boston Red Sox' 4-2 victory over the New York Mets with a single to left field. That gave him 20 postseason hits and broke the all time record set 10 years ago by the late Thurman Munson.

Because of his flurry of hits, because he was the most valuable player in the American League Championship Series, Marty Barrett has risen from virtual anonymity on a team filled with brighter lights to stardom.

Thursday night, his work didn't really begin until Bruce Hurst had struck out Len Dykstra to finish off the Mets and give the Red Sox a 3-2 lead in the Series. Into the locker room went Barrett. Off came his Boston cap, on went a gray Puma cap. Swiftly he moved to a table laden with lasagna. He grabbed a plateful, stuck a beer in the other hand and began eating.

EVEN AS he did, reporters stormed into the room. "The record's great," Barrett said, his mouth full. "To be in the same sentence with a player like Thurman Munson is a great feeling. But the better feeling is being one game away from winning the World Series with Roger Clemens going for us on Saturday."

He put the food down, turned and raced out of the locker room. On the field, television awaited him. First, the Boston locals. The questions were all the same as were the answers. Barrett credited Hurst and Clemens, he raved about Jim Rice's triple. Behind him several hundred fans were screeching, "MVP, MVP." Between takes, Barrett looked up, smiled and waved.

A guy from ABC was tugging at Barrett. "Tommy Lasorda wants to talk to you for 'Good Morning America'." Barrett nodded. Another guy, this one from WNBC in New York, reminded Barrett he had promised Marv Albert he would come over to talk to him. "Yeah," Barrett said, "tell Marv I'll be there in five minutes."

THAT DIDN'T please the woman from "The CBS Morning News." As Barrett started toward Albert, she reached for his arm and came up with air. Barrett is quicker than he looks.

He took care of Albert: "Home-field advantage?" Barrett said. "No, no problem. We've won two there and Clemens wipes that out, anyway."

Finished, he sprinted back across field to do the morning shows. Then some more. Barrett did 11 television interviews in little more than 20 minutes. It may have been another postseason record.

Finally, back in the warmth of the locker room, he talked about the postseason and his hot hitting. "I've just been getting good pitches, I guess," he said. "Dwight Gooden looked like he wasn't quite himself tonight. He was hittable and we got to him, which was certainly a break for us.

"This was our strategy, though. Get Bruce and Roger the extra rest by pitching Al (Nipper) in Game 4. If we stole that game, great. If we didn't, we still thought we were in good shape. So far, it's working out well for us."

The subject of this sudden adoration is hardly a movie-star type. Barrett is a stocky 5 feet 10 with brown eyes, receding brown hair and the hint of a paunch that may become a factor in his life when he turns 30 in two years. In a locker room filled by men such as Clemens, Rice, Bill Buckner and Dwight Evans, all of whom have prototype athletic builds, Barrett often is overlooked.

BUT, AS is often the case with players like him, his teammates appreciate and simply point at the numbers as evidence of his value. This season, moved up to the No. 2 spot in the batting order, Barrett hit .286 with 179 hits, 60 RBI, 94 runs scored and only 31 strikeouts — 15 fewer than Wade Boggs. Defensively, he made just 14 errors in 159 games.

But with Boggs hitting .357 in front of him and Rice and Buckner driving in 100 runs behind him, Barrett went almost unnoticed. Until postseason began. All three of those men have struggled: Buckner has left 11 men on base in the World Series; Rice doesn't have an RBI yet and Boggs is hitting less than .200. But Barrett has just kept getting on base time after time after time.

And the Red Sox got their win to calm the Fenway not-so-faithful and Barrett got his record and the TV people got Barrett. And finally, well after midnight, Barrett sat down for a moment and smiled.

"I understand now what guys mean when they say something hasn't hit them yet," he said. "I'm just going along trying to keep hitting. It's a great feeling to be so confident at the plate."

He stopped and smiled. "I hope I can keep it for one more game because, if you ask me, that's all we're gonna need."

They asked him. And asked him and asked him. And Marty Barrett loved every minute of it.

Maryland parents come to rescue of Lefty Driesell

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Parents of some University of Maryland basketball players have met with Chancellor John Slaughter to defend Coach Lefty Driesell.

Meanwhile, a former athletic director chided Slaughter for being slow to decide Driesell's future.

The parents indicated they might release a public statement of support for Driesell, who they say has been falsely portrayed as a supporter of athletics over academics, according to Friday's Baltimore-Sun.

Hubert Powell, whose son, Ivan, recently transferred to Maryland, said a parent telephoned his wife this week, asking about Driesell. Powell said he has been impressed with the emphasis Driesell put on classwork in a conversation the two men had when the coach was recruiting his son.

"I wanted to know where he stood on certain things, not only basketball," he said. "I found he was an all-around man."

Driesell said he played no role in organizing support among the parents, but he said he was gratified.

"That makes me feel very good that they're behind me and want me to coach this season," he said. "That proves that some of the things people say about me not caring about academics are not true."

Attorneys reportedly are discussing options of buying out Driesell's contract or finding another position for him at the school. Officials have said they expect a decision before the basketball season.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post on Friday quoted unidentified sources as saying that Driesell could be reassigned to a job in administration, possibly an assistant athletic director to deal with the public as a fund-raiser.

Arbitrator's tests veto cheered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mark Murphy, the vice president of the NFL Players Association, on Friday described as "politically crucial" to the union an arbitrator's ruling that players do not have to submit to postseason drug testing.

Arbitrator Sam Kagel held that nearly 200 players were improperly fined for refusing to submit to drug tests as part of their postseason physical exams last year.

Kagel, in a 34-page decision, concluded that the clubs' actions violated the 1982 collective bargaining agreement. He ordered that the fines of $1,000 per player, levied last January, be returned within 30 days.

"Obviously, we're excited," said Murphy. "We went through exhaustive negotiations for that 1982 collective bargaining agreement. Having Mr. Kagel rule on our behalf in this issue, to us, is politically crucial."

Kagel found the New York Jets, St. Louis Cardinals, Tampa Bay Buccaneers, New Orleans Saints and Indianapolis Colts guilty of improperly fining their players for refusing to submit to drug tests following the 1985 season.

"The entire subject of the club's 'right' to test for drugs was submitted to collective bargaining," said Kagel in a prepared statement. "And, what was specifically agreed to on that subject was preseason testing and resonable cause testing. There was no residue of such a 'right' remaining which could be read into the postseason examinations language of the agreement."

Gene Upshaw, executive director of the NFLPA, gave credit to the players who took a stand and refused to give in to the owners.

"The real heroes are the 200 players who refused to allow their clubs to coerce them into doing something the collective bargaining agreement did not permit," Upshaw said. "They stood up for their rights."

This is the final year of the collective bargaining agreement and drug testing again is expected to be a major issue when talks begin.

After 57 years, papers admit Series mistake

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Fifty-seven years after that dark day in 1929 when 10,000 copies of the Daily News went into the trash cans instead of onto the street, the Springfield afternoon daily newspaper has acknowledged it reported the wrong team won the World Series.

"Assuming that confession is good for the soul or at least good for the readers, we admit that we did have the Chicago Cubs win that fifth game of the 1929 World Series, whereas the Athletics won it," Daily News editor Richard Garvey said in his column in Friday's editions.

"And yes, we never admitted it. Why bother the reader with details like that? And anyway, we got it right the second time. Well almost right," Garvey wrote. In the paper's scramble to remake the front page, the compositor picked up and used an upside-down "V" instead of an "A" for the Athletics, then the pride of Philadephia.

"It was the Athletics' fault," Garvey maintained. "They had played lackluster ball all that day at Shibe Park, and had taken a long time to do it. As the game dragged on to the last inning, and the Cubs had been holding their two-run edge for five innings, The Daily News decided to take a chance that the A's would never wake up. So, a pressman punched in a "0" for the A's in the last of the ninth, and the presses rolled.

"The newspapers were bundled and put into the trucks which were held in the Cypress Street alley by Charles Meyrick, circulation manager. As soon as he was given word that the Athletics had remained true to form in the last of the ninth, he would step aside and let the trucks roll. The Daily News would beat the Evening Union to the newstands with news of the Cubs' victory."

But as it turned out, Moose Haas hit a two-run homer to tie the score, and Al Simmons and Bing Miller hit doubles to produce the winning run.

"As soon as he touched home plate, the game was over, the Series was over, and The Daily News was overwrought," Garvey wrote

Mustangs swamp Loboes

District 2-4A

From Staff Reports

MONAHANS — The visiting Sweetwater Mustangs spoiled the party for the Monahans Loboes Friday night, 34-14.

Monahans had been cruising along undefeated in District 2-4A play, looking forward to a match up of unbeatens next week in Big Spring. Well the Steers kept up their end, but the Loboes suffered through a scoreless second half to lose for the first time this season.

Sweetwater's Chris Davis ran for two touchdowns and threw for another in an unanswered 20-point spree in the second half to spark Sweetwater. Davis threw three touchdowns in all, two in the first half, as he had a hand in all five Mustang scores.

Monahans' Charles Thompson openeed the scoring with a 71-yard run on the Loboes' first drive, but Davis brought the 'Stangs back for the next two scores.

Dana Amos later scored the final touchdown for Monahans. Then the second half was all Sweetwater. Davis ran five yards for one score and one yard for the second. A three-yard pass completed the sweep.

Rufus Smith led Sweetwater rushers with 112 yards on 26 carries and Mark Redden added 100 yards on 12 carries for the Mustangs.

The Loboes, 4-1, 6-1, have another key District 2-4A game next week at Big Spring while the Mustangs, 4-1, 6-1, return home to face Sndyer.

Lamesa bows to Stockton

From Staff Reports

FORT STOCKTON — Fort Stockton's Ramon Valeriano returned a punt 87 yards to pull Fort Stockton into a second place tie and a 26-yard pass put the Panthers ahead to stay before intermission in a 25-7 win over Lamesa here Friday night in District 2-4A football.

Lamesa is 1-4 and 2-5 and Fort Stockton upped its district record to 2-4 and even its season's mark at 4-4.

Fort Stockton fumbled seven times, lost three and still managed to win.

Lamesa drew first blood when Woody Woodberry went in from the 12 as the Tors took a 7-0 lead in the second period.

Valeriano's punt return and Cesar Serebia's kick tied it and then Wayne Truesdel took a 26-yard pass from Chad Durham for the go ahead touchdown.

Mike Nix scored in each of the last two periods, first on a 12-yard run and then punched in from the one in the final quarter.

Lamesa returns home for a date with Pecos next Friday night, while Fort Stockton takes its open date.

Snyder 10, Lake View 6

From Staff Reports

SNYDER — All the scoring came in the second period as Snyder defeated Lake View, 10-6, to up its District 2-4A record to 2-3. The Tigers are 2-5 for the season. Lake View is 1-5 and 3-5.

Randy Townsend toed a 20-yard field goal for Snyder with 4:17 left in the half and Lake View retaliated with a one yard TD run by Randy Young with 2:57 left in the half.

A minute later Michael Riggins sprinted 76 yards for a touchdown and Townsend converted to make it 10-6.

Snyder enjoyed a 264 to 106 rushing advantage, but didn't make a yard passing. Lake View made 182 yards rushing.

Big Spring 33, Pecos 20

PECOS — Big Spring's Steers remained in the thick of the 2-4A football chase with a 33-20 victory over the Pecos Eagles here Friday night.

The Steers pushed their record to 5-0 in league play and 6-1 for the season, the lone loss to Lubbock Estacado by a landslide score, but that is in the distant past.

The Steers' win put a crimp in Pecos' title hopes. The loss left Pecos with a 3-3 district record and a 5-3 mark for the season.

Stampeders thunder by Alouettes

MONTREAL (AP) — Rick Johnson threw for one touchdown and ran for a second, while Gary Allen rushed for 131 yards and one touchdown as the Calgary Stampeders defeated the Montreal Alouettes 32-12 in Canadian Football League action Friday night.

The Stampeders moved into a tie with Winnipeg for second place in the West Division and clinched a playoff spot for the first time in four years.

Calgary used a strong running attack to take control of the game in the first half, rolling up 212 yards on the ground and scoring 22 points.

Johnson, the league's leading passer, had trouble getting untracked all night and ended up completing ony 14 of 34 attempts.

The teams were scoreless in the third quarter, but Calgary put the game away when Mike Emery blocked a Zenon Andrusyshyn punt near midfield and kicked it all the way to the end zone before falling on the ball for a touchdown.

J.T. Hay kicked a 19-yard field goal with less than two minuters remaining to finish the scoring.

Mavs stave off Boston Celtics

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks withstood a late fourth-quarter Celtics rally Friday night and went on to defeat Boston 102-99 in an NBA pre-season game.

Mark Aguirre scored 18 points to lead 5-3 Dallas and rookie Roy Tarpley, who led all rebounders with 12, added 17. Kevin McHale scored 21 for 4-3 Boston, and Larry Bird had 18.

The Mavericks led 57-35 late in the second quarter, but saw their lead slip to 12 by halftime, 59-47.

The Celtics, behind the shooting of McHale, then put on a run in the third period and cut the margin to four, 74-70, entering the final quarter.

Forward David Thirdkill sparked the Celtics' fourth-quarter rally, scoring 12 of his team's final 16 points, including a basket with 29 seconds left that cut the Dallas lead to two, 101-99.

Bobcats beat Cougars

From Staff Reports

ABILENE — San Angelo scored in every period to beat Abilene Cooper, 24-7, and remain unbeaten going into next week's big game against Midland Lee.

The Bobcats struck on Scott Allen's 85-yard punt return in the opening period and Russ Childers kicked the point.

Cooper hung tough, coming back to tie it on Scottie Pugh's one-yard run and Jeff Ireland's conversion.

San Angelo led 14-7 at half on Bronza Moore's one-yard run and Moore cashed in again on a one-yard run in the third period.

Childers closed out the scoring with a 39-yard field goal in the final period.

San Angelo is now 8-0 for the season and 4-0 in district while Cooper slips to 2-6 and 1-3.

Offensively, San Angelo dominated the game with 217 yards rushing and 38 passing. Cooper had 84 rushing and 196 rushing and out first-downed the visitors 19-15.

San Angelo takes its undefeated mark back home for a match-up with Midland Lee in a battle sure to have playoff significance next Friday. Cooper tackles crosstown rival Abilene High.

Warbirds takes measure of Red Hosses

ODESSA — Abilene High fended off Odessa's early threats and came with a rush in the second quarter to post a 26-0 District 4-5A victory over the Red Hosses at Ratliff Stadium Friday night.

Abilene turned back two early threats in the first quarter and then drove 71 yards to score with 10:58 left in the half on a 17-yard option run by Quarterback John Davis. Trey Forkerway converted and the Eagles were back in business on a turnover on a bad pass on a punt attempt at the Odessa three.

Davis took it in from the play with 8:37 in the half. Forkerway missed an opportunity to pad the Warbirds' lead in the second quarter, misfiring on a 32-yard field goal attempt.

Before intermission, however, Davis again scored, this time from eight yards out with 54 seconds in the half.

After a scoreless third period, Abilene again drove for a touchdown to score with 9:05 left in the game. This time it was Junior Bell going in from the three for his seventh rushing touchdown of the season.

Odessa rolled up five first downs and missed a field goal before Abilene made a first down, but after that the Eagles rolled up 20 first downs to 7.

Bell was the leading rusher for Abilene with 90 yards while Davis had 71 yards on 10 carries.

The loss leaves Odessa 2-6 and 0-5 in district while Abilene is 4-4 and 2-2.

The Eagles return to Abilene for a meeting with crosstown rival Abilene Cooper next Friday while the Bronchos amble over to the Tall City to tangle with MHS.

Oilers must face Raider s next

HOUSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Raiders and Houston Oilers spent the early part of the season playing good enough to lose close games.

But that's where all similiarities end. Los Angeles will bring a four-game winning streak into Sunday's game against the Oilers, who have lost six straight games.

After dropping their first three games of the season, the Raiders have turned their season around and will be favored to make it five straight victories against the Oilers, who are on a six-game losing streak.

"We lost our first three games but we didn't play that badly and they were all close," Raider Coach Tom Flores said. "We started getting some points in the second half and now we seem to be able to hold on and win in the second half."

It's been the flipside for the Oilers, who got a big momentum swing with 1:06 left in the game against Cincinnati last week on Robert Lyles' 93-yard fumble return, the eighth longest in NFL history.

But the Bengals game back to win it with a 21-yard touchdown run by James Brooks with seconds remaining on the clock.

It's been that kind of season for the Oilers, whose defense has played well but whose offense has been unable to keep step.

Houston Coach Jerry Glanville continues his quest for a solid ground game. He didn't get it in last week's 31-28 loss to the Bengals.

"We have a better chance to win if we get 40 rushes a game instead of 26 or 27," Glanville said. "Cincinnati doesn't live on the pass and that's where we'd like to be."

Despite last week's disappointing loss, Glanville thinks his team will again be ready to play a hard game against the Raiders.

"The strength of this team is the way they come back on Wednesday and get ready to play the next game," Glanville said.

'Bama, Nittanies reach for No. 1

College Football

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Alabama and Penn State are fourth and fifth on the all-time major-college victory list with 622 and 610, respectively, and they will be second and sixth in the national rankings when they tangle Saturday in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

For a rivalry that is only eight games old, although it dates back to the 1959 Liberty Bowl, this series is loaded with national championship significance.

Second-ranked Alabama leads the series 5-3 and won the 1978 national championship by defeating No. 1 Penn State 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl. In 1982, Penn State won the crown despite a 42-21 loss to Alabama. At the time, it was the worst beating suffered by a team that eventually won the national title.

Last season, Penn State won 19-17 and went on to play for the national championship, losing to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

Now, says Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, "We have a good football team (the Nittany Lions are 6-0) playing against a good football team (Alabama is 7-0). One team will find out if it is a great team."

THERE ARE two other games between members of the AP Top Twenty — seventh-ranked Auburn at No. 13 Mississippi State at night and No. 16 Clemson at No. 20 North Carolina State.

Top-ranked Miami, Fla. is idle while No. 3 Nebraska visits Colorado, fourth-ranked Michigan plays at Indiana and No. 5 Oklahoma is at Iowa State. Rounding out the Top Ten, eighth-ranked Washington entertains Oregon, No. 9 Arizona State hosts Utah at night and No. 10 Texas A&M is at home against Rice.

In the second Ten, No. 11 Iowa entertains Northwestern, North Carolina visits No. 12 LSU in a night game, No. 14 Arkansas is at Houston under the lights, California at No. 15 Arizona after dark, Washington State at No. 17 UCLA, No. 18 Southern Methodist at Texas and Southern California at No. 19 Stanford.

Penn State-Alabama pairs two of the nation's six undefeated-untied teams.

"If we get beat it will be because Alabama has a better team than we do. It's a big game, a meaningful game, and will enhance any national hopes we have if we win it," says Joe Paterno.

ALABAMA'S Ray Perkins, who succeeded Bear Bryant after the 1982 season, says Penn State "could be the best football team we've played since I've been here and could be the best football team Joe Paterno has had at Penn State.

"I don't know if he will agree with that, but of the Penn State teams we have played the last three years they are certainly head and shoulders above the others."

He points out that the Nittany Lions have 17 fifth-year seniors, 15 of whom play key roles.

"In other words, if you beat them, that's just what you have to do — you have to line up and beat them. Those guys have played together for a long time. The main mark that makes Penn State a great football team, and the thing that separates them from other teams, is that they don't do a lot of things that lose ballgames."

The Lions are tied for sixth nationally in turnover margin. They have taken the ball from the opposition 21 times (nine fumbles, 12 interceptions) while giving it away 13 times (eight fumbles, five interceptions). Alabama isn't far behind with 19 takeaways, 14 giveaways.

NEBRASKA has won its last 16 meetings with Colorado but Coach Tom Osborne is concerned about the Buffs' wishbone, which ranks 12th nationally in rushing with 245.5 yards a game.

"If you make one mistake, you give up the big play," he says. "You have to be very disciplined, you have to be very physical and you have to have a lot of speed. We think we've got most of those elements (Nebraska is seventh nationally in total defense, sixth in rushing defense), but we're a little concerned about making sure our secondary can handle everything that they've got to handle.

"The wishbone always scares you as far as throwing the ball because you get everybody flying up there to play the option and somebody runs by you, so you really are subject to the big play."

The winner will share the Big Eight lead unless Oklahoma, which almost always beats Iowa State (52-4-2), is upset.

The Sooners are 23-0-1 against the Cyclones since 1961 but Coach Barry Switzer says his team's hard-fought 19-0 victory over Oklahoma State in which the nation's sixth-ranked offense couldn't score a touchdown "shows that a favorite's role doesn't mean that much.

BOSOX——

"There was never any question in my mind," McNamara said of his pitching decision. "You people out there had the questions. Nipper did his job. Now we have the pitcher with the most wins in baseball pitching Saturday night."

Ojeda, traded from Boston to New York last November, will be working on just three days' rest, one short of his normal complement. Last time out, the 18-game winner Ojeda worked seven innings, holding the Red Sox to one run on five hits in Game 3.

"I've got to win. It's as simple as that," Ojeda said. "I'm not uncomfortable with this situation. I would rather be in this situation that doing something else. We just have to pull together and get a team effort. We know we have to win two games. We've done it before."

Obviously, the Mets were not ready to concede the Red Sox the visiting field advantage.

"I'm not the least bit concerned about what has already happened," Ojeda said. "Once a game is over, it's dead and gone regardless of the outcome, and you just go get them the next day.

"After the first two games, a lot of people didn't think we'd be playing on Saturday. Speculation is your job. We have to play the game and talk about it after it's over. We are down 3-2 and it's very obvious what we have to do — win two games."

If there is a seventh game, the Mets will send Ron Darling on three days' rest against the Red Sox's Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd. Darling was the winner of Game 4, working seven scoreless innings, while Boyd lost Game 3, giving up six runs on nine hits in seven innings.

"It's going to be a dog fight," said Mets third baseman Ray Knight. "Anyone can win two games. We didn't come to Boston expecting to sweep, but we put ourselves back into it. I still feel our chances are great."

Nuggets trade off Williams to Bucks

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Nuggets traded forward Pete Williams to the Milwaukee Bucks Friday in return for future considerations, President Vince Boryla announced.

The 6-foot-7 Williams played 53 games last season with the Nuggets, averaging 2.8 points and 2.8 rebounds.

Crenshaw's 65 ties for first spot

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ben Crenshaw took a share of the lead while Lee Trevino and Tom Watson took themselves out of the tournament Friday in the rain-delayed first round of the $1 million Vantage Golf Championship.

Trevino and Watson each was the victim of self-disqualification, Trevino for signing an incorrect scorecard and Watson for what he called "a stupid mistake."

Crenshaw watched a 5-foot birdie putt do a 360-degree wrap around the cup before it fell in on his final hole, completing a 5-under-par 65 and giving him a spot in a four-way tie for the lead.

He shared the position with Bernhard Langer, a former Masters champion from West Germany, Chip Beck and Scotland's Ken Brown.

"Exceptional," said Langer, who scored four "2s" in his round. "I don't think I've ever birdied all the short holes before."

Beck played without a bogey and Brown got his share of the top spot with a 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

A single stroke off the pace at 66 were Phil Blackmar, Kenny Knox, Wayne Levi, Bob Eastwood, Curt Byrum and Fred Wadsworth, the upset winner of the Southern Open.

Watson and Trevino were among the 72 players who were stranded on the Oak Hills Country Club course by rain that forced a suspension of play Thursday.

Trevino came back Friday to complete a 1-under-par 69 in the mild, sunny weather. But he signed a scorecard adding to 68.

He did not discover the error until hours later, when he was watching a telecast of the event. He called PGA Tour officials, reported the error and was out of the tournament that offers $180,000 to the winner.

"I just wasn't as careful as I should have been," Trevino said.

Watson, a five-time British Open champ, was one under par through 14 holes when play was held up Thursday. After a putting session in his hotel room Thursday night, he put a different putter in his bag, then used it to 2-putt for par on the only hole he played Friday, the 15th.

That constitutes a change of equipment in the course of a round — a violation of the rules of golf.

Watson said he was not aware of the infraction until after he'd putted out on the 15th.

"I noticed Bruce (Edwards, his caddy) had a kind of quizzical expression on his face," Watson said. "He asked, 'Is that the same putter you used yesterday?'

"I said, 'No. Oh, jeez, it is not.' I knew I'd breached the rule," Watson said.

He called for a PGA Tour rules official and disqualified himself.

"It makes you feel pretty small, pretty stupid. And that's the way I feel," Watson said.

John Mahaffey, who won this tournament last year when it was the Texas Open, had a 68. U.S. Open champ Ray Floyd was one stroke higher at 69. Bob Tway, a four-time winner this season and attempting to overtake Greg Norman on the money-winning list, could do no better than a 71.

The tournament format now calls for the second round to be played Saturday with a double round of 36 holes set for Sunday.

Crampton seeks 5th win

ROSWELL, Ga. (AP) — Bruce Crampton, seeking his fifth victory of 1986 on the Senior PGA Tour, shot a 7-under-par 65 on Friday to take a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $250,000 Pepsi Senior Challenge golf tournament.

Crampton, the second-leading money winner on the Tour with more than $319,000, had a near-flawless round, with seven birdies and no bogeys. He had three birdies on the front and four on the back, including a 25-foot putt on No. 16 and a couple of 12-footers on the first nine.

Crampton also knocked in a 6-foot birdie on No. 18 for the two-shot lead over Gary Player.

Three shots off the pace was Jim Ferree, who was alone at 68 in the field of 52 players.

Crampton, 51, joined the over-50 tour late last season, playing in only three events, with a third-place finish his best effort.

"I did hit a lot of good shots today," Crampton said. "It probably was my best striking round in quite a while."

Player, the fourth-leading money winner on the Tour with more than $258,000, played the par-72, 6,960-yard Horseshoe Bend Country Club course without a bogey, nailing four birdies on the front nine, ranging from 5 feet to 10 feet. The South African added another birdie on No. 10.

Ray Leonard agrees to bout with Marvelous

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard has signed a proposed agreement for a fight against world middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler and the agreement is in the hands of Hagler, his co-managers Pat and Goody Petronelli, and their attorneys.

"To say we have a contract for a fight is inaccurate," Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney, told The Associated Press by telephone Friday.

"The lawyers have a document agreeable to Ray Leonard. If they accept it, we have a fight. If it's not signed the way it's typed, we don't have a contract."

The Boston Globe reported Friday that it was told by unnamed sources that Hagler is not likely to sign until next week.

Promoter Bob Arum, who Hagler and the Petronellis have wanted involved in the fight from the start, is acceptable under the proposed agreement signed by Leonard.

"The contract is acceptable to us if the Ayatollah promotes it," Trainer said.

Under the proposal, the fight would be for no more than 12 rounds and probably would be sanctioned as a title fight by the World Boxing Council if not by the World Boxing Association. The WBC has indicated it would do so if the retired Leonard can pass a physical examination.

"You have to understand Ray is not seeking sanctions, he just wants this fight," Trainer said. "Ten rounds would be fine with Ray."

"In the perception of the public, I think it would be a title fight even if it's only three rounds," Leonard said in an interview late last month.

Should the fight be made soon, it probably would be held the first week of April at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas, Nev.

Leonard has fought only once in 56 months.

Longhorns, Razorbacks seek to stay in title chase

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Arkansas and Texas were expected to be in tough struggles on Saturday to stay within striking distance of the defending SWC champion Texas Aggies, who apparently have a breather.

The oddsmakers say 10th-ranked Texas A&M is a 30-point favorite to whip the Rice Owls in College Station while Arkansas and Texas could be in for a very hostile day.

Arkansas was a 10-point favorite over Houston in the Astrodome in a 7 p.m. clash, but the Cougars always play hard on homecoming.

Texas was a 5-point underdog to the streaking Southern Methodist Mustangs in Memorial Stadium in a 1 p.m. game.

"There's never any problem getting hyped to play Texas," says SMU tailback Jeff Atkins.

Texas leads the series 39-22-4 but games have been split even at 3-3 over the last six years. SMU blasted the 'Horns 44-14 in Texas Stadium last year.

The Razorbacks may have made the Cougars mad by calling out the rule books on them for their night game.

The game, originally scheduled for the Astrodome, was moved Oct. 4 to 22,000-seat Robertson Stadium on the Cougars' campus because of a possible World Series conflict. However, the Houston Astros lost the National League championship series to the New York Mets.

Arkansas demanded to go back to the Astrodome, citing a rule that says a game may not be moved from its original site without a vote of conference members. SWC athletic directors voted on Arkansas' side and an appeal by Houston failed.

Arkansas has won its last four games to earn a 7-5 series advantage over the Cougars. The Razorbacks, who are 3-2 in the Astrodome, have won their last two trips to Houston.

SWC Football

In the other SWC game, Baylor was a 13-point pick over Texas Christian in a noon (Raycom TV) game. Texas Tech was idle.

Rice upset A&M 10-6 at College Station in 1980 when Tom Wilson was still the coach.

The Aggies come into the game off quarterback Kevin Murray's 308-yard passing day against the Baylor Bears in a 31-30 victory.

The Owls lost to Tech 49-21.

Arkansas is 5-1 and 2-1 in SWC play. Texas A&M (3-0) and SMU (4-0) are the only unbeaten teams left in the SWC chase and the Mustangs are ineligible for the championship.

"The race is the same as it was before the season started," said Arkansas Coach Ken Hatfield. "Texas A&M is still the team to beat. Their victory over Baylor was a big one.

"They are a complete team. Everyone else still has a say in the race but someone will have to knock A&M off to give the rest of us a shot."

Hatfield isn't taking the aroused Cougars lightly.

"Houston is playing extremely well on defense," Hatfield says. "They have come on strong. They had Baylor down 13-3. They held A&M without an offensive touchdown. SMU only scored 10 points against them.

"They are playing as well on defense as I've ever seen them," he added.

Embattled Texas Coach Fred Akers holds a 6-3 advantage over SMU.

"Fire Fred" signs were in evidence last week as Arkansas beat Texas in Memorial Stadium for the fist time in 20 years.

Texas is 2-3 and 1-1 in the SWC chase.

The last time Texas was 2-3 after five games was in 1966.

Baylor, with two SWC losses, is hoping to finish strong for a bowl bid.

"We have our second loss and that's a virtual KO to our Cotton Bowl chances," said Baylor Coach Grant Teaff. "It's always tough to play TCU on the road at their homecoming."

Lee Maroon 6-0 as season ends

From Staff Reports

Lee Freshman's Maroon girls finished regular season basketball play with a perfect 6-0 record after a 52-48 win over Midland Gold, 3-3.

Gold rallied from a 12-point deficit in the fourth quarter to take a lead, but Maroon recaptured the victory with less than a minute left to play.

Marcia Dellano led the Maroon with 13 points while Ronnie Sandoval added 12 and Dodi Watson 10. The Gold's Elizabeth Ameel led all scorers with 17 points while Elizbeth Garcia had 13 and Martha Josefy 10.

Evidence found of ancient trade network near Ohio

WATERVILLE, Ohio (UPI) — Archaeologists working in the Maumee River valley are finding evidence of an extensive trading network that was active between Ohio and the East Coast as early as 1000 B.C.

That conclusion, based on prehistoric remains recently discovered near the village of Waterville, about 10 miles southwest of Toledo, is changing long-held theories about northwest Ohio's primitive people, said David Stothers, associate professor of anthropology at the University of Toledo.

Earlier theories were based on a belief of wider patterns of migration, but evidence now indicates the prehistoric inhabitants rarely traveled great distances, Stothers said.

Some of the artifacts being unearthed, however, point to a trading pattern that extended from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes, he said.

The discoveries have prompted anthropologists to reconsider how life developed in northwest Ohio and southeastern Michigan 3,000 years ago.

"We're starting to put together a bigger picture," Strothers said.

The prehistoric inhabitants were "wanderers and gatherers" who neither farmed nor stayed in one place too long. The primitive nature of the early groups is reinforced by their lack of bows and arrows and the absence of pottery.

Some traces of residential or ceremonial structures have been uncovered, but those appear to be the exception, since there is no evidence of any organized village-like settlements.

An unusual trait of these people is an alternating use of winter and summer campsites as they followed the migration of deer, while remaining within a certain geographic area.

Excavations along the present river bank show remains of summer encampments. Stothers said the tribes would migrate to the bluff and stay inland away from the river in winter and early spring.

Stothers said knowledge of the limited travel patterns represents important new information about these people. His conclusions are based on studies of Eskimo tribes and African bush families used to establish a model.

"The past repeats itself," he said. "The same things happen again and again, for the same reasons."

Scientists believe some of their traits may have changed little through the centuries and have studied them as a model on which to base conclusions for a lifestyle that existed 3,000 years ago.

The excavations at two sites near Waterville show signs that the early Ohioans established camps for activities such as hunting, hide processing and trading.

Perhaps most unusual is the discovery of objects that are uncommon to the region, Stothers said.

"It shows that this group in our area had far-reaching trade connections with southern Ohio and the eastern end of Lake Ontario," Stothers said.

As an example, he said, is the discovery near Waterville of a type of flint commonly found in southern Ohio.

Another site has yielded conch shells that apparently originated on the East Coast. Stothers said those items may have been the basis of a primitive bartering system.

"They obtained materials that were exotic to them from long distances," he said.

Paper finally sets record straight about '29 Series

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — The editor of the Daily News said Friday that after 57 years it was time to clear the record about the paper's initial reporting on the 1929 World Series.

"Assuming that confession is good for the soul or at least good for the readers, we admit that we did have the Chicago Cubs win that fifth game of the 1929 World's Series, whereas the Athletics won it," Richard C. Garvey, said in his column.

The paper, trying to get a jump on its competition, printed 10,000 copies saying the Cubs defeated the Athletics, 2-0.

But the A's scored three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning and won 3-2. The paper junked the 10,000 copies with the wrong score.

Frederick Buechner said in his delightful little book WISHFUL THINKING: "Of the Seven Deadly Sins, anger is possibly the most fun. To lick your wounds, to smack your lips over grievances long past, to roll over your tongue at the prospect of bitter confrontations still to come...in many ways it is a feast fit for a king. The chief drawback is that what you are wolfing down in yourself. The skeleton at the feast is you."

All About Short-Cuts

They say he brushed his teeth twice a day with a nationally advertised tooth paste. The doctor examined him twice a year. He wore his overshoes when it rained; slept with the windows open, and stuck to a diet with plenty of fresh vegetables.

He relinquished his tonsils and traded in several wornout glands. And he golfed, but never more than 18 holes at a time.

Each night he slept at least eight hours. He never smoked, drank, nor lost his temper. He did his daily dozen daily. He was set to live to 100.

His funeral will be next Wednesday. He is survived by 18 specialists, 4 health institutes, 6 gyms, and numerous companies of health foods.

He had forgotten about trains at level crossings. Why? He was in a hurry taking short-cuts!

Life has few if any short-cuts. There are certain roads and processes which cannot be avoided. Success and fulfillment in life offer no short-cuts. Even God takes ten years to grow a ten-year-old oak tree.

And Jesus reminded us about short-cuts: "Straight is the gate and narrow is the way, which leads to life . . ."

UNITED PENTECO

Special speakers to address upcoming Businessmen's Rally

The Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International Permian Basin Rally is slated for Nov. 7 and 8 at the Midland Hilton Hotel.

The speakers are Lt. General and Mrs. Richard F. Shaefer and the Rev. David R. Reagan.

Reagan will be speaking at 7 p.m. Nov. 7 and will be teaching the morning session at 8 a.m. Nov. 8. The Shaefers will be speaking at the men's and women's luncheons, a 3 p.m. teaching session and the 7 p.m. banquet on Nov. 8.

Gen. and Mrs. Shaefer

Shaefer is a retired U.S. Air Force 3-star general. He is a graduate of the University of New Mexico. His 35 years of military service included 10 years in the rank of general. Among his assignments were Chief of Staff of U.S. Air Forces Europe, Chief of Plans in Vietnam, Deputy Director for Plans and Policy for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Chief of Operations for NATO's Allied Command Europe and Deputy Chairman of the NATO Military Committee.

According to his testimony, he and his wife received divine healing several years ago and were called into fulltime service of Jesus Christ.

Rev. Reagan

Reagan serves as the evangelist for Lamb and Lion Ministries, a trans-denominational, evangelical ministry that specializes in holding evangelistic and renewal meetings and prophecy workshops and seminars.

Before entering the ministry, Reagan had a career in higher education, served as a Fulbright lecturer at the University of the Philippines, and toured Southeast Asia lecturing on U.S. foreign policy. He has a daily radio program called "Christ in Prophecy" and is also the featured speaker on a television series of the same name.

A children's ministry will be led by James D. "Bucky" Adams Jr., who is head of Holy Ghost Town Children's Ministries in Odessa. A spokesman for FGBMFI said, "Through the use of puppets and life-sized characters, Holy Ghost Town is able to teach the word of God to children in such a way that they are able to incorporate it into their everyday life."

Tickets for breakfast are $6, for luncheons $7, and the banquet tickets are $10. For further information, call Leroy Linney, 1-756-3688.

Legislator aspires to Israel's parliament

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Unlike ambitious state legislators who aspire to seats in the U.S. House or Senate, New York state Assemblyman Dov Hikind wants to win a seat in another legislative body — Israel's parliament.

A self-described "Jewish militant" he was one of the early New York City leaders in the Jewish Defense League and has become a rare exemplar of strict religious observance in the statehouse.

Committed to Orthodox Judaism, he refuses to work when Assembly sessions run into Friday night and Saturday — the Jewish Sabbath — even though such weekend sessions are only called to deal with major issues.

Hikind, 36, first won his Assembly seat in 1982 from a largely Jewish district in Brooklyn on his record of Jewish activism and arrests for anti-Soviet demonstrations.

Seeking re-election next month as a Democrat, he said this may be his last political campaign in the United States.

"One of the most crucial things in my life is Israel," he said. "I often wonder who needs me more, America or the state of Israel. I do intend to go home to Israel, and it won't be when I retire."

He said he plans to seek a seat in Israel's parliament, the Knesset, as part of the right-wing Likud party.

"I am a Jewish nationalist," he said. "I don't believe in physically throwing out the Arabs from Israel, but I could support taking actions to encourage them to move."

While about a fourth of New York's 211 state legislators are Jewish, in a state with nearly 2 million of the nation's 5.8 million Jews, Hikind's actions and appearance make him stand out.

He is the only lawmaker who wears a yarmulke, the Jewish skullcap, in his legislative work. He is one of the few legislators with a beard — also a sign of religious observance among Orthodox Jews.

He strictly observes Jewish dietary laws, refusing to eat anything at the many affairs held for legislators in Albany. He said he eats all his meals in his office, where he keeps a refrigerator stocked with kosher food.

"It does wonders for keeping my weight down," said the 6-foot, 193-pound Hifkind. "I've always been very religious. I'm proud of being Jewish and I try to do my best in following what's required of us.

"When there's something I can't do because of Jewish law it doesn't bother me, because I have no choice in the matter."

He recently made a five-week visit to Israel with his wife and three children and said he is ready and able to fight for the Jewish state.

In the militant Jewish Defense League, to which he no longer belongs, he said he learned karate, the use of weapons, took part in anti-crime patrols and unarmed fights with "thugs who were looking for trouble — beating up Jewish kids, desecrating cemeteries.

He said "I still sympathize with the JDL," a group sharply criticized by the more moderate Jewish community. "JDL's image is much worse than the group really is. ...There really is a time to be militant."

Hikind has a long record of militancy for Jewish causes, including three arrests at demonstrations in New York City, beginning with the time he chained himself to the gate at the Soviet Union's United Nation's mission in 1970 to protest treatment of Soviet Jews.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Bellview marks attendance

Rev. Pinson

Bellview Baptist Church will observe Sunday School High Attendance Day Sunday. Highlights of the day will include guest speaker the Rev. William Pinson, executive director of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. Special music will be provided by the Singing Farmers from Hart.

Pinson has authored 37 books and numerous magazine articles. He has preached in Europe, Scandanavia, Africa, the Middle East, Korea, Australia, and the Philippines. He is listed in "Who's Who in the World," "Who's Who in Religion," "The Directory of American Scholars," "Men of Distinction," "Men of Achievement," and "Outstanding Young Men of America." He is the former pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wichita Falls and former president of Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary in California.

The public is invited to hear Pinson during the morning worship service at 10:50 a.m. Sunday. Bellview Baptist Church is located at 1710 N. Big Spring. A nursery will be provided. The Rev. G.A. Magee is pastor.

Altar Society to meet

St. Ann's Altar Society will meet 1 p.m. Nov. 3 in the home of Mrs. Jim Davis, 2514 Humble.

Dobson's fifth film shown

The fifth of the six-part series "Turn Your Heart Toward Home," by James Dobson, will be shown at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Word of Life of Midland, 3838 W. Wall.

The film, "Overcoming A Painful Childhood," includes Shirley Dobson's story of her childhood with an alcoholic father.

The public is invited to attend. For further information, call 699-5610.

Crafts, confections offered

Free admission, coffee and spice tea will be offered at the Crafts and Confections Fair open today from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. at Midland First Assembly of God, 100 W. Wadley.

Sponsored by Women's Ministries, the fair will feature handcraftts, home-baked goodies, shelled pecans, Christmas decorations, original art, signed Western prints and a large "white elephant" display.

Parking in the east lot is provided with the displays to be set up in the fellowship hall.

Crestview lets mothers out

A Mother's Day Out program has been started at Crestview Baptist Church for children from 3 months to public school age. The program is held each Friday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Crestivew Baptist Church is located at 3300 Thomas. For more information, call the church at 694-7701 or Ruth Walker at 689-6587.

Word of Life program set

Rice Broocks

"Rock and Roll: A Search for God" will be presented by Word of Life Nov. 1 at 6:30 p.m. Rice Broocks of Maranatha Ministries will lead the program. The program will be held at the Holiday Inn Convention Center, 4300 W. Hwy. 80.

Broocks is director of Maranatha Campus Ministries, the campus outreach of Maranatha Christian Churches. He has been featured on the 700 Club and other Christian shows. This past year, he joined Billy Graham and Dr. Paul Yonggi Cho in addressing one million people at the observance of the 100th anniversary of Christianity in Korea.

He will present a program that examines the spiritual roots of contemporary music. "Rock and Roll: A Search for God" will address questions such as "Is there a God?," "Can I know God intellectually as well as spiritually?," and "Is there anything wrong with rock and roll music?"

The public is invited to this presentation. For more information, call 699-5610. The Rev. Russ Austin is pastor of the church.

First Men's Day Sunday set

The United Methodist Men of Hollowell United Mehtodist Church will have their first annual Men's Day Sunday, with services at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The Rev. Jake H. Carruthers of San Antonio will be quest speaker during both services.

Carruthers is a 1929 graduate of Gammon Theological Seminary in Atlanta, Ga. A member of the former West Texas Annual Conference of the Central Jurisdiction, he pastored several churches and became district superintendent of the Dallas district on two appointments. He was later a member of the Southwest Texas Conference with the merger of conferences and remained a member until his retirement in 1975.

The public is invited to attend the services. The church is located at 400 S. Marhsall, at Kentucky Street. The Rev. J. Hadley Edwards is the host pastor.

Clemmer to lead mission

Dr. Clemmer

Dr. Dick Clemmer will lead St. Luke's United Methodist Church in a preaching mission Sunday though Tuesday. He will be preaching at the 8:30 a.m., 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. services on Sunday, and at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday. His theme for this series of sermons will be "A Balcony Faith for a Basement World."

Clemmer, a native of Munday and a former member of St. Luke's, received his high school diploma at Snyder; high bachelor of science degree from McMurray College; his master's from Candler School of Theology at Emory University; and his doctor of divinity from McMurray in 1984.

He is currently senior pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Hobbs, N.M., where he has served for 10 years. He also has served as chairman of the board of pensions for the New Mexico Conference for the last six years. Prior to appointment at Hobbs, he served at the Polk Street United Methodist Church in Amarillo, the Central United Methodist Church in Albuquerque, and at St. Mark's United Methodist Church in El Paso.

Bert Bostic, St. Luke's Minister of Music, has arranged music for the services. The Youth Choir will sing Sunday evening, the Children's Choir will perform Monday evening, and the Adult Choir will sing Tuesday evening.

A nursery will be provided for each service and a reception will be held following each evening service.

Asbury slates Fall festival

Asbury United Methodist Church of Midland will have its seventh annual Fall Art and Craft Festival 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Nov. 15, at the Midland County Exhibit Building.

Artists from Midland and the surrounding area will display and sell their crafts. The church will sponsor a bakery, a country store, and a home-made ice cream booth. Also available will be home-made chili, hot dogs, nachos, sandwiches, and drinks. Door prizes will be given.

Admission is $1 for persons 12 years of age and older. The public is invited.

Pair receive certificate

The Rev. and Mrs. Pete Adcock, pastors of the Midland Foursquare Church, will receive a certificate denoting 35 years of continuous ministry in the South Central District.

The award will be presented at the South Central Foursquare Convention to be held Oct. 27-30 in Capitan, N.M.

The Adcocks have served the Midland church as pastors for almost 15 years. Prior to coming to Midland in 1972, they served at the Amarillo First Church.

They currently serve at Midland Memorial Hospital as volunteer chaplains in the emergency room and Shepherd's Staff ministry.

Adcock has served as president, vice president, secretary and treasurer of the Midland Ministerial Alliance. He has worked on various other committees and programs during their tenure in Midland.

According to a church spokesman, the local church has had two building programs and is presently engaged in another under Adcock's leadership. The church is located at 415 Alta Ave.

Pastor new to church

Rev. Ferguson

The Rev. S.V. Ferguson is the newly appointed pastor of Great St. Luke African Methodist Episcopal Church. He assumed his charge in September.

Ferguson's most recent charge was St. Paul A.M.E. Church in Kingsville, where, during his pastorate, the membership almost doubled, according to a spokesman of St. Luke A.M.E. Church. He was reappointed to the church for 11 consecutive years.

Ferguson graduated from high school in Weimar. He earned an AA degree at St. Philip's and a BS in secondary education at Texas A&I. He studied at Trinity University School of Religion and holds a certificate in Christian Mission from the Urban Training Center in Chicago.

He and his wife, Mary Lee, have a son, Sylvester, and a daughter, Terry Lynn.

Workshop set for deaf

Bob Parrish

A communications workshop for the hearing-impaired and interpreters will be held at the First Baptist Church on Nov. 1. The sessions will be held in the educational wing of the church.

The morning session begins at 9 and will be for the hearing-impaired as well as interpreters and those who would like to work with the hearing-impaired.

The next session begins at 1 p.m. and is for interpreters and those interested in working with hearing-impaired.

On Nov. 2, Bob Parrish will preach in the chapel of the church at 11 a.m. Parrish is a consultant for Deaf Ministries, Blind Ministries and Pastor In-Service Training for the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He is a graduate of New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary with a degree in theology.

He has worked in various capacities in his service to the hearing-impaired. Among these are camp pastor for deaf youth camps in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas, and Louisiana; a trustee for the Southern Baptist Conference on the Deaf, a member of the Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf and the National Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf, an associate member of the Texas Association of the Deaf, and a member of the Texas Parents and Educators of the Deaf. He was also appointed by Gov. White to serve on the Governing Board of the Texas School for the Deaf.

Information on the workshop may be obtained from the office of First Baptist Church.

Youth get Fall festival

The Midland Foursquare Church, under the direction of James Whitaker, assistant minister and youth director, will host a Fall Festival for all Midland youth. The event will be held 6 to 10 p.m. Oct 30 at the church gymnasium.

There will be no admission charge, but donations will be accepted at each booth. Prizes will be given and booths include a country store, a concession stand, a dunking booth, a duck pond, a fishing booth and a bean bag throw among others.

"Help us get the little ones off the street and safely inside a better environment," said Whitaker. "We ask that participants come dressed as Bible or cartoon characters or in their street clothes."

The gymnasium is located next door to the church at 415 Alta Ave., one bloxk south of Neely off North Big Spring.

Texas Growth Fund announced

STATE

AUSTIN (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower offered some proposals in a new report Friday that he contends could produce $15 billion in new income for Texas and create 165,000 new jobs for Texans.

"We're not talking about some high-cost, high-tech, pie-in-the-sky future shock in this report, but down-to-earth, here-and-now profitable enterprises that Texans themselves can plant and grow throughout the state," Hightower told a news conference.

Major proposals in the 126-page report by the State Agriculture Department included a $250 million fund to help set up small businesses, development of numerous crops that could be produced in Texas but aren't, and more food-processing facilities.

The Texas Growth Fund would be created by taking 1 percent from the Texas employees and teachers retirement systems and the Permanent University and Permanent School funds.

The growth fund, which would require statewide voter approval of a constitutional amendment, would provide $25 million for high-risk venture capital including agricultural businesses; $125 million for "mid-risk," innovative small businesses; and $100 million for guaranteed investments, such as treasury bills.

Hightower said by diversifying Texas' agricultural production into "alternate crops" such as blueberries, pinto beans, crawfish, Christmas trees, oriental vegetables, native plants, and trees and wine grapes, farmers and ranchers can add $6.1 billion annually to the state's economy and establish 75,000 new jobs.

"The economic potential of food and fiber processing is even greater," Hightower said.

The report said the food-processing industry grew every year from 1974 to 1984, which is "particularly impressive since in the same period there were two booms and a bust in the oil/gas producing industry, a boom and a bust in the electronics industry, a steady decline in the refining/petrochemical industry, and wild fluctuations in agricultural commodity prices."

State Agricultural Commissioner Jim Hightower makes a point with a cucumber in discussing a report on revitalizing Texas economy. The report says agriculture has the potential to "act as a leading sector for Texas economic development."

"Texas, which is the second largest producer of the nation's raw agricultural commodities, processes only 6 percent of the nation's food. If we build enough facilities to process just 1 percent more of the nation's food, they would bring into Texas $3 billion annually in sales, add a total monetary benefit of $9 billion annually to our economy, and create 90,000 jobs," Hightower said.

Other proposals in the agriculture department report included:

— Taxable bonds supported by a $20 million state guarantee and supplemented by private guarantees.

— Investing up to $5 million in state funds in bank certificates of deposit, with the banks, in return, making small business loans.

— A $500,000 state seed fund to support reseach that could lead to commercialization of new crops.

— A $350,000 grant program to assist new and expanding agricultural-based businesses.

— $225,000 in grants, which would require a 3:1 local match, to help agricultural businesses "operating under early-stage obstacles such as limited resources or lack of business experience."

— Consolidation of the authority to issue agricultural development bonds into a single entity managed by the agriculture department.

— Expansion of the Family Farm and Ranch Security Program of 1979 to provide loan guarantees to buy equipment or establish alternative crops. Additional financing also would allow applicants to defer payments of principal or interest on "long-cycle" crops, such as orchards, vineyards and fish farms.

The proposal would require a state constitutional amendment.

— Expansion of technical assistant services by 50 percent. The department now aids more than 40 operations with planned capital investment exceeding $150 million and estimated annual sales of nearly $400 million.

— A $25 million loan/loan guarantee program to increase agricultural exports. Hightower said the state comptroller's office has reported that Texas companies now are achieving only 20 percent of their export potential.

— Creation of a Food Transport Authority to allow trucks "with agricultural commodity authority to also haul processed foods, and vice versa, with no minimum rates."

The department also recommended allowing Texas wineries to offer samples of their product at locations other than the winery; allowing a "wine only" option for wineries located in dry counties or precincts; and allowing non-licensed out-of-state carriers to carry Texas wines on shipments leaving the state.

Cisneros: Clements embarrases Texans by 'shooting from lip'

BEAUMONT (AP) — San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, campaigning for Gov. Mark White, accused White's Republican opponent Friday of repeatedly embarrassing Texans during his four years as chief executive by "shooting from the lip."

White's term has been conducted with dignity — and without the repeated verbal gaffs made by former Gov. Bill Clements, Cisneros said.

"This is not a man who shoots from the lip and says outlandish things. He never embarassed us with anything that's come out of his mouth," Cisneros said during a day-long campaign tour with White through East Texas.

White's campaign has hit hard on some of the widely publicized remarks Clements made during his term, such as his suggestion of "pray for a hurricane" when an oil spill was headed for the Texas coast in 1979.

White, in contrast, "is not a man who has ever embarassed us by any action of his demeanor. He has held the office of governor with the dignity and the ability that the people of Texas have a right to expect," Cisneros said.

At a series of news conferences where Democratic politicians endorsed White, and in a speech to the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union in Houston, Cisneros urged his audiences to remember what it was like during Clements' term.

"Remember what it was like when we shuddered to read the newspaper," Cisneros said. "Mark White has stood the same tough scrutiny (as did Clements) but he has never embar-

Mayor Henry Cisneros

Clements, campaigning in Dallas, said he was surprised Cisneros would say such things about him.

"I really don't know what he's talking about," Clements said. "Maybe he had a fever that day."

Besides the character issue, Cisneros said he believes White has earned four more years because of his record.

Despite the state's economic downturn, White has led the charge for improvements in education, highways and water conservation, the mayor said.

"Mark White has earned the right to serve as governor of Texas for another term," Cisneros said. "He has set us on precisely the right course."

Cisneros noted that White twice signed tax increases, but he said they were necessary.

"He has taken risks for education. He has made the tough decisions. Mark White has been a prudent, responsible, financially-sound manager."

Cisneros, who many Democrats suggest may be a candidate for governor in 1990, also blasted Clements for recommending more budget cuts to help balance the state's oil-ravaged budget.

More cuts inevitably would slash into education spending, Cisneros contended, saying that would be precisely the wrong choice.

"I fear greatly that if Texans, for whatever reason, are to diverge from the course that Gov. White has set and not continue the course, it will be a sign to this whole country that Texans are not prepared to step in to the educational future. It would send a terrible signal," he said.

Head of physician's group calls for wrongful-act law reform

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Legislature should reform wrongful-act laws so doctors can spend more time treating patients and less time worrying about lawsuits, the head of the Texas Medical Association said Friday.

An explosion in lawsuits — many of them frivilous — have produced skyrocketing insurance premiums for doctors, said Jim Bob Brame, TMA president and an Eldorado physician.

Brame said the Legislature should limit attorneys fees and force people who file groundless lawsuits to pay court costs and legal fees. Also, he said, the TMA favors pre-trial screening panels to determine if a case has merit before it goes to trial. When a doctor does lose a lawsuit, the payment to the victim should be paid over a period of time instead of in one lump sum, he said.

The TMA, the doctors' lobby, will present its list of recommendations to the Joint Committee on Tort Reform and Liability Insurance and Procedure today. That committee will offer reforms in the state's tort laws, which cover most personal injury and wrongful-act cases, to the Legislature in January.

Opponents to tort reform, mainly trial lawyers and consumer groups, claim that the insurance industry has manufactured a liability crisis as an excuse for raising premiums and making it more difficult for injured people to collect in court.

E. Don Webb, a Houston physician, has served on the board that oversees a non-profit self-insurance pool for doctors. While five years ago one in every 12 doctors in the insurance pool were sued, he said, in 1985 about one in every five were sued.

Money paid out in claims from the pool, Webb said, has increased 100 percent in five years. For instance, a Houston obstetrician-gynecologist in the pool currently pays $32,000 a year for $500,000 of insurance. Starting January, the same doctor will pay $43,200 for the same coverage, Webb said.

The TMA also wants to limit non-economic damages, such as pain and suffering, mental anguish and punitive damages. James Winn, a Uvalde doctor, said huge non-economic awards simply put more money in the lawyers' pockets.

"We really question the concept of punitive damages going back to the plantiff who supposedly has already been compensated for damages," Winn said. "The one who pays is the patient."

Instead of the injured party receiving the non-economic awards, TMA recommends that the money should go to the Board of Medical Examiners to monitor doctors and strip licenses from bad physicians.

STATE IN BRIEF

Department negotiating grant for Big Spring

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Department of Community Affairs is negotiating a $650,000 emergency grant to Big Spring to repair Comanche Lake Dam, Gov. Mark White announced Friday.

"These funds will allow the city to resolve the serious health and safety problems caused by the break in an earthen dam on Comanche Lake during heavy rains," White said. "The city will use local funds to repair streets and water-sewer systems which were also damaged by floods."

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White won a reluctant endorsement for re-election Friday from an anti-nuclear power group.

Dan Harrison, spokesman for the South Texas Cancellation Campaign, said, "We found reason for agreement with Mark White on one issue," and GOP challenger Bill Clements "might be the best friend the nuclear industry ever had in the Texas Governor's Mansion."

Harrison's group, which favors cancellation of the South Texas Nuclear Project now under construction near Bay City, asked Clements and White to answer questionnaires concerning nuclear issues.

Clements did not respond. White did, and Harrison said several of the answers were "disappointing." The area in which the group agreed with White was on battling federal efforts to put a high-level nuclear waste dump in Texas.

"His other answers show a similar reluctance to be aggressive in defense of consumers," Harrison said.

Killer sentenced to die

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A 26-year-old man was sentenced to death for killing the husband of a restaurant night manager during a robbery.

Freddie Lee Webb of Corpus Christi was sentenced to die by lethal injection for shooting to death Leopoldo Cantu, 26. Cantu was slain in December last year during the robbery of the Ship Ahoy restaurant.

A seven-woman, five-man jury assessed the punishment after deliberating four hours Thursday.

Authorities said an accomplice of Webb during the robbery is still at large.

Army searches for soldier

KILLEEN (AP) — The Army searched Friday for a Fort Hood soldier swept away by floodwaters while trying to cross a swollen creek in an armored personnel carrier, authorities said.

One other soldier was rescued by helicopter, said Sgt. Roger Allen, a spokesman at Fort Hood.

The two soldiers were on a "standard, everyday exercise" Thursday when their M-113 armored vehicle sank in a swollen creek, Allen said.

Spec. 4 Steve Kingsley, 20, of St. Louis, was taken to a base hospital, treated for exposure and released, authorities said.

The Army withheld the name of the missing soldier, who along with Kingsley, was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division.

Club ban ruled unlawful

HENDERSON (AP) — A businesswoman has won an eight-month fight with City Hall after a state district judge ruled that the Henderson ordinance on private clubs is unconstitutional.

L. Louise Fike, owner of the Buford House restaurant, will get to keep her state-granted liquor permit.

State District Judge Donald Ross on Thursday ruled that the city ordinance violates the constitutional guarantee of due process.

The City Council earlier this year voted against granting a permit for the club after nearby property owners protested the proposed private club.

Despite being turned down by the City Council, Ms. Fike was granted a liquor permit in July by the Texas Alcohol Beverage Commission. But the commission revoked the license in August after the city complained that the permit violated the ordinance.

Judge meets with farmer

BEAUMONT (AP) — A federal judge Friday met with attorneys representing a Tennessee hog farmer who says he is entitled to millions of dollars in royalties from Spindletop Oil Field.

U.S. District Judge Howell Cobb met behind closed doors in a status conference with attorneys representing John Howard Meadows, who filed the civil lawsuit on behalf of himself and about 18,000 relatives.

By Jeane Dixon
Sunday, October 26, 1986

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: A change in a relationship makes you feel as if a great weight has been lifted from your shoulders. Financial rewards grow. A business turnaround helps you get outdoors more. Professional athletes have an even better year than hoped for. Self-doubts disappear. You feel stronger than ever! Consolidate recent gains. A study project succeeds. The best month for a wedding is April.

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Italian composer Domenico Scarlatti, Texas infielder Toby Harrah, Dodgers reliever Ed VandeBerg, actresses Jaclyn Smith and Lauren Tewes, actor Jackie Coogan, basketball's Rod Hundley, gospel singer Mahalia Jackson, "Wheel of Fortune" host Pat Sajak.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be prepared for several surprises. Other people may be unpredictable. You also change your mind more often than normal, confusing your loved ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Things you say in jest, could be taken the wrong way. A concept suddenly crystallizes for you. Look forward to an exciting, new romance. Put your best foot forward.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Travel is rewarding without being overly expensive. Loved ones are in a cooperative mood. Just give a little and you will get a lot! A party brings great pleasure.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be discreet about your private life when socializing with your business associates. You gain important information by doing more listening than talking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Seek new friends when in a rut. Real estate deals can be highly profitable. Keep an eye on personal spending, especially where entertainment is concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): When confusion sets in, be flexible and you can make this an exceptionally happy day. Romance takes on deeper meaning for married couples.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A Sunday sermon gives you new hope. Pay bills, and go over bank statements. Accept a last-minute invitation. Friends are unusually understanding. Pursue romance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A morning argument could upset you -- by afternoon, calm descends. Be forgiving. Keep spending within reason. Catch up on your reading.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An excellent day to devote to creative projects. Curtail spending. You derive a lot of pleasure from being with family members. Have heart-to-heart talks with children.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be careful not to overdo things today -- especially where physical activity is concerned. Loved ones make some interesting disclosures. The pieces of a puzzle fall into place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Do not make the mistake of taking a loved one for granted. Family members tend to be both sensitive and unpredictable. Tune into other people's feelings.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Read a book or work on a pet project. Avoid all forms of speculation or gambling. Stay away from public places where people may become argumentative.

Garn space suit sought for exhibit

Jake Garn

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A flight suit worn by Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, during his April 1985 mission on the space shuttle Discovery is being sought by Gov. Norm Bangerter for a new space exhibit at the Utah State Capitol.

Bangerter wrote to the Smithsonian Institution this week asking for a suit worn by Garn for the Capitol's exhibit, said Francine Giani, the governor's press secretary.

In addition to the Garn suit, the display will include memorabilia from two other astronauts, Utah's Don Lind and Mary Cleave, a New York native who attended Utah State University in Logan, Giani said Thursday.

The Garn suit actually is an "in-flight coverall garment," said Derek Elliot, assistant curator of the space science and exploration department at the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum.

One Garn suit already is on display at the Smithsonian. Elliott said another of three or four suits worn on the Discovery by Garn would be sent to Utah, if the loan is approved.

Prince Philip

PEKING (AP) — Prince Philip arrived in China's Shenzhen Special Economic Zone on Friday and visited a water plants exhibition and nature reserve there, the official Xinhua News Agency said.

Philip, who is president of the World Wildlife Fund, left later to tour Jiangxi, Sichuan and Yunnan provinces, Xinhua said.

He visited China from Oct. 12 to 18 with his wife, Queen Elizabeth II, on the first official visit to China ever by a reigning British monarch.

His current visit is in conjunction with his work for the World Wildlife Fund.

Prince Andrew

LONDON (AP) — Prince Andrew, the duke of York, has transferred from the Royal Navy's special list onto the general list, which could mean the 26-year-old helicopter pilot is intending to pursue a long career.

A spokesman for Buckingham Palace said Thursday that Andrew, who applied for the transfer earlier this month, would now be able to stay in the Royal Navy longer and would be eligible for more promotion than if he had remained on the special list.

However, the spokesman, who by custom was not identified, said the transfer did not mean the duke, a lieutenant, was necessarily signing up for a lifelong naval career.

The second son of Queen Elizabeth II joined the navy on a medium-term commission in 1979. He flew an anti-submarine Lynx helicopter during the Falklands war with Argentina in 1982.

He is now on an advanced helicopter instructor's course at the Royal Navy air station at Yeovilton in southwestern England.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Clayton Hunter, director of the Small Business Administration's district office here, is tired of being mistaken for Clayton Hunter, executive director of the group fighting to legalize liquor by the drink in Kansas.

"It's giving me headaches I don't need," said Hunter. "It's only really gotten serious as we've gotten close to the election."

Hunter isn't promoting any causes, unlike his namesake in Topeka, who's executive director of Kansans for Effective Liquor Control.

The Wichita Hunter called a news conference Thursday to try to clear up the confusion. He's received checks toward the liquor-by-the-drink campaign as well as passages of Scripture mailed to his home by anti-liquor forces.

The Wichita Eagle-Beacon confused the two men this week, running a picture of the SBA official and identifying him as the head of Kansans for Effective iquor Control.

Clayton Hunter in Topeka says he hasn't had much trouble beyond an errant phone call or two.

"I feel bad for Clayton Hunter from Wichita that this has happened to him," the Hunter from Topeka added.

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS Inc. said Friday it agreed to sell its educational and professional publishing division for $500 million to HHarcourt, Brace Jovanovich Inc., a leading publisher of textbooks and periodicals.

The transaction is the first big sale of a CBS division since Laurence A. Tisch became acting chief executive of the broadcasting and publishing concern last month in a management shakeup.

In announcing the proposed sale, which is subject to approval by CBS's board and government regulators, Tisch indicated that CBS might use the proceeds for more acquisitions, perhaps additional television stations.

Before and after Tisch's arrival, CBS has been shedding certain assets, reducing employment and taking other steps to cut costs, bolster profitability and reduce its debt at a time when reduced national advertising is hurting its primary businesses.

Wall Street applauded Friday's announcement. CBS' common stock was up $1.87½ a share at $131.87½ in late trading on the New York Stock Exchange, while Harcourt Brace's stock was off $1 a share at $30.37½.

The sale of the educational and professional publishing division means CBS' publishing group would consist primarily of specialty magazines, including Woman's Day, Road & Track, Popular Photography and Modern Bride.

CBS bought 12 of those publications last year from Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. for $362.5 million.

In 1985 the overall CBS publishing group contributed $710.7 million, or 15 percent, of CBS' $4.76 billion in total revenue, and accounted for $41.1 million, or 8.6 percent, of the company's $478.6 million in total pre-tax operating income.

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Ben Garcia isn't letting any grass grow under his feet while he crosses the country aboard a riding mower to promote peace.

Garcia, a former Army paratrooper, left Portland, Maine, on Oct. 6 and headed south. His wife Barbara and 16-year-old son Shane follow him in a motor home that tows a small trailer carrying spare parts and tools.

The red, white and blue mower symbolizes a desire to "trim the nuclear arms race" by promoting global friendship and peace, said the 49-year-old Garcia.

Garcia is the founder of a group called World Order of Friends, or "WOOF," which he said has about 500 members nationwide. He calls his eight-horsepower mower the "Woofmobile."

Traveling the country's back roads at 30 mph, with an American flag snapping in the breeze, it will take Garcia and his mower several weeks and some luck to reach Miami and cross the continent to Los Angeles. He's traveling an estimated 100 to 150 miles a day, he said.

"It's not difficult, but very demanding on my energies," Garcia said as he made minor repairs to the mower in Savannah Wednesday.

Starvation continues in war-racked Eritrea

By DENNIS McDOUGAL
Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The full-page ad in Billboard magazine displayed a familiar image — a big-bellied, spindly limbed African baby, naked except for a T-shirt.

The headline read: NO ROCK STAR IS SINGING FOR THIS CHILD.

It was a strikingly ironic message in an era when rock and famine seem to go together like bread and butter. But this child wasn't from the African famine featured on MTV and the network news.

He was from Eritrea, a California-size province of Ethiopia along its northern border, where the killing famine of 1984 began. These children continue to starve, 15 months after "We Are the World" dropped off the Billboard record chart.

"I feel that the American public did great as donors," said Tesfa A. Seyoum, executive director of the Eritrean Relief Committee, which placed the Billboard ad.

"But an (relief) agency is like a corporation, responsible to the stockholders," he said. "The donors are the stockholders. They have not been irresponsible. It is the people who took the stockholders' money who have completely failed."

Pop charities such as USA for Africa and the Band Aid Trust-Live Aid Foundation have been supersensitive to criticism, direct or indirect. USA for Africa Foundation procurement and distribution director Tracy Gordon saw the Billboard ad and called Seyoum to complain that the ad seemed to be critical of the foundation.

Seyoum told the Los Angeles Times, "The USA for Africa people were mad. We killed the ad right away."

Killing the ad seemed to compound a basic irony: It was the slow and some say deliberate starvation of as many as 2 million Eritreans that launched the plethora of pop relief efforts two years ago. Yet little of the $160 million raised by "We Are the World" albums and Live Aid concerts made it to the former Italian colony on the Red Sea:

— Of the $46.1 million that USA for Africa raised for Africa, only $80,000 was granted to Seyoum's committee to establish a medical laboratory for a hospital in Orota, at the center of the province. (The grant is about a 10th of the committee's entire annual budget — $799,714 last year.) According to foundation spokesman Dave Fulton, USA for Africa has given $350,000 to organizations that aid Eritrea — all for medical expenses.

— Of the $110 million that the Band Aid Trust-Live Aid Foundation has earned, $1.3 million has been spent directly on Eritrea for poultry, agricultural equipment, health clinics and training programs.

Pop charity officials say that they are not numb to Eritrea. It's just that the Ethiopian province has virtually no network of roads and has been at war with the central government in Addis Ababa for the past quarter century.

It is safer and easier to deliver food and medicine to regions that aren't subject to regular air raids, said Karen A. Hauser, committee development and outreach director.

Little of the famine aid routed through Addis Ababa has actually found its way to the rebel-controlled provinces of Tigray and Eritrea. And, charged Hauser, the Ethiopian government doesn't want it to get there.

"But it goes beyond the attempt of the Ethiopian government to withhold Western relief supplies," she said. "The drought was a contributing factor, but the war is a bigger one. There's an air war going on. They're strafing Eritrean villages. They're poisoning wells, dropping napalm, white phosphorus, cluster bombs."

When the story of the Ethiopian famine broke over "The NBC Nightly News" two years ago this month, one major missing element of the reports was the civil war. Broadcasts on the three major networks spoke of the drought and the cholera epidemics and the dehydration, but sidestepped the fact that the Ethiopian government — with the largest standing army in Africa — has waged a starvation and bombing war against the desert-dwelling rebels of the north for years.

Sudan struggles to meet needs of internal refugees

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Desperately poor itself, Sudan is home for 1.2 million refugees from famine and armed conflict in nearby Ethiopia, Chad and Uganda. But 750,000 refugees from its war-torn south are its biggest problem.

The southern refugees started coming north to the Khartoum area in small numbers in 1983, but in the past four months, as a civil war heated up in the south, they have been coming by the thousands.

The financially strapped government of Prime Minister Sadek el-Mahdi has been able to do little for them, and the refugees live in squalid cardboard-and-tin shantytowns around Khartoum, mostly begging for food and money.

The foreign refugees are better off.

This is because United Nations relief agencies are allowed to help only refugees who cross international borders. The 750,000 southerners are Sudan's responsibility. Officially, they are regarded as displaced.

Sudan's longstanding policy is to permit foreign refugees to stay so long as international relief agencies feed and shelter them.

The sub-Saharan drought that drove many of the refugees to Sudan has ended but continued conflicts in Ethiopia, Uganda and Chad have kept thousands of their citizens from returning to home.

The Khartoum office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees says 360,000 Ethiopians, 98,000 Ugandans, 60,000 Chadians and 6,000 people from Zaire are in Sudan, receiving help from international relief agencies. An estimated 600,000 others receive no agency help.

Most of the foreigners live in camps, but some have integrated into Sudan's economic system.

When hundreds of thousands of Ethiopians poured into Kassala in eastern Sudan last year, it was laid barren by drought. But with the return of rains the area is again fertile and most of the refugees have stayed.

"Kassala is now green, with lots of oranges in the trees," said a foreign relief worker who visited the town recently. "There is some shortage of grain, but that comes in from relief agencies. The people are well-fed, so how can you convince them to go back to the fighting in Ethiopia?"

Ugandan refugees are in Sudan's southern Equatoria region. Many of them are remnants of defeated armies that had fled the wrath of their countrymen over crimes committed under successive regimes in Kampala beginning with that of dictator Idi Amin, ousted in 1979.

Chadian refugees are near the western Sudan towns of el-Fasher and el-Geneina, where thousands died during the drought, and markets there are flourishing once again.

Like the Ethiopians, the Chadians are taking advantage of good harvests and international aid and see no reason to return to the hostilities at home between the forces of President Hissene Habre and former President Goukouni Oueddei.

An additional 10,000 Chadians have moved to the agriculturally rich Gezira region south of Khartoum to work as seasonal laborers.

"The food situation in both the east and the west is fine," said another relief worker. "The problem now is the southern Sudanese, who because of the fighting and resulting starvation are fleeing northward."

Discovery of gold taken with grain of salt

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — Few people are racing for shovels after a San Antonio company said it found significant traces of gold and silver on its property in Uvalde County.

Bill Dillahunty of the Uvalde Chamber of Commerce said Thursday there are local legends of buried Spanish gold, and Jim Bowie was said to have had a silver mine near Concan.

"But a gold mine?," Dillahunty said. "I never heard of it."

On Wednesday, James Sigmon, president of Exploration Co., said significant traces of gold and silver have been found in soil taken from a 3,900-acre tract it owns.

As a result of its discovery, Sigmon said, the company has bought or leased an additional 150,000 acres in Kinney, Uvalde and Medina counties.

Officials at the Garner Abstract and Land Co. in Uvalde said no significant mineral filings had been on record for years.

A clerk in the county clerk's office said, "The Leader-News newspaper ran a story on the front page about a gold discovery as an April Fool's joke. That's the only gold I've ever hear of here."

Discovery of any precious minerals would be great with Uvalde County residents, however. The economy of the region has been sluggish. This is an agricultural region with goat and mohair production among the biggest sources of income.

Uvalde County has more goats than people, 85,000 to 25,000.

County Judge J.R. White said he for one would like to see a gold rush here.

"But," he said, "I still want to see it in my hands before I believe it."

Educators: No pass rule having affect

HOUSTON (AP) — Athletes have a better attitude about studying since the no pass, no play rule sidelines them if they don't pass a class, some Houston school officials say.

"The students have taken more of a responsibility on themselves," Attucks Middle School Principal Rudolph Wilson said Thursday. "They see how important grades are now. They know that to participate in extracurricular activities they're going to have to knuckle down."

This year, only two of 43 seventh- and eighth-grade Attucks football players are ineligible to play because of failing grades, Wilson said.

Last year, the school's team was disbanded because of the high number failing one or more subjects.

The no pass, no play rule prohibits students from participating in extracurricular activities for six weeks if they don't pass a class.

Only eight teams from seven Houston high schools were disbanded this fall, compared with 12 teams from 11 schools dropped last year at this time, said Joe Tusa, Houston school district athletic director.

"Everybody's winning this year — scholastically and on the field, too," Wilson said.

The shock and disappointment of not being able to play caused students and teachers alike to concentrate more on academics, he said.

"I think the difference (this year) is that the coaches were totally involved with the academic part, as well as the athletic part," he said. "They go from teacher to teacher to keep tabs on their (students') progress."

Tom Fitzgerald, athletic coordinator at Reagan High School, also noticed a difference in attitude among athletes who have been benched for failing grades.

"I see them with books in hand," he said. "They want to play again."

But he agrees with Wilson that the six-week ineligibility period is too long.

Fitzgerald has instituted a special study lab for athletes. Student tutors hold the 40-minute sessions four times a week, helping athletes with math, history and English.

Freshmen tend to have the most problems, with their failure rate about twice that of other grade levels, Reagan Principal Joel Sturdivant said.

"It takes them one or two seasons to get acclimated," he said.

The first grading period ended Oct. 10.

To Gober farmer, cotton still king

GOBER, Texas (AP) — The days are long gone when cotton was king on the Texas plains.

But don't tell Anse Babers.

As far as he's concerned, cotton still reigns.

Babers, 69, clings to his memories of the past by holding on to the last cotton gin in his small hometown.

"Why, this whole county was bought and paid for with cotton," he said.

"Everything we got, we got from cotton. It fed our families, paid our debts, bought our land. Cotton was our survival."

In 1979, when Jimmy Smith retired and put Gober's last cotton gin up for sale, Babers bought it.

"I didn't want to see the gin leave this county," Babers said, remembering other gins that have been sold, disassembled and shipped to Mexico.

"And I always wanted a cotton gin, ever since I was a little bitty kid. They fascinated me, I guess."

Babers' gin, built in 1953, is as big and crowded as a battleship's engine room.

Two earth-shaking engines turn a jumble of belts and shafts and chains and pulleys. Running at full tilt, the machinery sounds something like a small tornado.

This week Babers and a crew of eight to 10 men, "mostly old fellers from around here," will fire up the 300 horsepower butane-fed engines and start sucking dirty white cotton from big green trailers."

Once, the gin operated around the clock during cotton season.

Now, Babers only gins cotton that he and his son grow and for "five or six fellers around here and three or four from Hunt County."

"Why, this whole county was bought and paid for with cotton. Everything we got, we got from cotton. It fed our families, paid our debts, bought our land. Cotton was our survival."

— Cotton farmer Anse Babers

The first year Babers owned the gin, he ginned "one thousand, six hundred something" bales of cotton.

"It's been going down ever since," he said with a wry smile.

This year he expects the gin to process about 500 bales.

"We used to be prouder of cotton than anything around here," he said.

"Every year, Gober would race with the gin down the road at Cotton Center to see who could make more bales. Usually had 6,000 bales between the two of them. Once or twice Baber has thought about selling the gin but he just can't let it go. If nothing else it is a monument to a bygone era.

"Why, had a young feller bring his sons around here just the other day. Said, 'I just wanted 'em to see what a cotton gin looked like,'" he said.

Babers picked a piece of ginned cotton, as clean and white as fresh snow, from the floor and tested it with his fingers.

"No. As long as I'm around, I'm going to raise cotton," he said.

"Cotton used to be king. It still is, in places."

Starvation continues in war-racked Eritrea

By DENNIS McDOUGAL
Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The full-page ad in Billboard magazine displayed a familiar image — a big-bellied, spindly limbed African baby, naked except for a T-shirt.

The headline read: NO ROCK STAR IS SINGING FOR THIS CHILD.

It was a strikingly ironic message in an era when rock and famine seem to go together like bread and butter. But this child wasn't from the African famine featured on MTV and the network news.

He was from Eritrea, a California-size province of Ethiopia along its northern border, where the killing famine of 1984 began. These children continue to starve, 15 months after "We Are the World" dropped off the Billboard record chart.

"I feel that the American public did great as donors," said Tesfa A. Seyoum, executive director of the Eritrean Relief Committee, which placed the Billboard ad.

"But an (relief) agency is like a corporation, responsible to the stockholders," he said. "The donors are the stockholders. They have not been irresponsible. It is the people who took the stockholders' money who have completely failed."

Pop charities such as USA for Africa and the Band Aid Trust-Live Aid Foundation have been supersensitive to criticism, direct or indirect. USA for Africa Foundation procurement and distribution director Tracy Gordon saw the Billboard ad and called Seyoum to complain that the ad seemed to be critical of the foundation.

Seyoum told the Los Angeles Times, "The USA for Africa people were mad. We killed the ad right away."

Killing the ad seemed to compound a basic irony: It was the slow and some say deliberate starvation of as many as 2 million Eritreans that launched the plethora of pop relief efforts two years ago. Yet little of the $160 million raised by "We Are the World" albums and Live Aid concerts made it to the former Italian colony on the Red Sea:

— Of the $46.1 million that USA for Africa raised for Africa, only $80,000 was granted to Seyoum's committee to establish a medical laboratory for a hospital in Orota, at the center of the province. (The grant is about a 10th of the committee's entire annual budget — $799,714 last year.) According to foundation spokesman Dave Fulton, USA for Africa has given $350,000 to organizations that aid Eritrea — all for medical expenses.

— Of the $110 million that the Band Aid Trust-Live Aid Foundation has earned, $1.3 million has been spent directly on Eritrea for poultry, agricultural equipment, health clinics and training programs.

Pop charity officials say that they are not numb to Eritrea. It's just that the Ethiopian province has virtually no network of roads and has been at war with the central government in Addis Ababa for the past quarter century.

It is safer and easier to deliver food and medicine to regions that aren't subject to regular air raids, said Karen A. Hauser, committee development and outreach director.

Little of the famine aid routed through Addis Ababa has actually found its way to the rebel-controlled provinces of Tigray and Eritrea. And, charged Hauser, the Ethiopian government doesn't want it to get there.

"But it goes beyond the attempt of the Ethiopian government to withhold Western relief supplies," she said. "The drought was a contributing factor, but the war is a bigger one. There's an air war going on. They're strafing Eritrean villages. They're poisoning wells, dropping napalm, white phosphorus, cluster bombs."

When the story of the Ethiopian famine broke over "The NBC Nightly News" two years ago this month, one major missing element of the reports was the civil war. Broadcasts on the three major networks spoke of the drought and the cholera epidemics and the dehydration, but sidestepped the fact that the Ethiopian government — with the largest standing army in Africa — has waged a starvation and bombing war against the desert-dwelling rebels of the north for years.

Sudan struggles to meet needs of internal refugees

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Desperately poor itself, Sudan is home for 1.2 million refugees from famine and armed conflict in nearby Ethiopia, Chad and Uganda. But 750,000 refugees from its war-torn south are its biggest problem.

The southern refugees started coming north to the Khartoum area in small numbers in 1983, but in the past four months, as a civil war heated up in the south, they have been coming by the thousands.

The financially strapped government of Prime Minister Sadek el-Mahdi has been able to do little for them, and the refugees live in squalid cardboard-and-tin shantytowns around Khartoum, mostly begging for food and money.

The foreign refugees are better off.

This is because United Nations relief agencies are allowed to help only refugees who cross international borders. The 750,000 southerners are Sudan's responsibility. Officially, they are regarded as displaced.

Sudan's longstanding policy is to permit foreign refugees to stay so long as international relief agencies feed and shelter them.

The sub-Saharan drought that drove many of the refugees to Sudan has ended but continued conflicts in Ethiopia, Uganda and Chad have kept thousands of their citizens from returning to home.

The Khartoum office of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees says 360,000 Ethiopians, 98,000 Ugandans, 60,000 Chadians and 6,000 people from Zaire are in Sudan, receiving help from international relief agencies. An estimated 600,000 others receive no agency help.

Most of the foreigners live in camps, but some have integrated into Sudan's economic system.

When hundreds of thousands of Ethiopians poured into Kassala in eastern Sudan last year, it was laid barren by drought. But with the return of rains the area is again fertile and most of the refugees have stayed.

"Kassala is now green, with lots of oranges in the trees," said a foreign relief worker who visited the town recently. "There is some shortage of grain, but that comes in from relief agencies. The people are well-fed, so how can you convince them to go back to the fighting in Ethiopia?"

Ugandan refugees are in Sudan's southern Equatoria region. Many of them are remnants of defeated armies that had fled the wrath of their countrymen over crimes committed under successive regimes in Kampala beginning with that of dictator Idi Amin, ousted in 1979.

Chadian refugees are near the western Sudan towns of el-Fasher and el-Geneina, where thousands died during the drought, and markets there are flourishing once again.

Like the Ethiopians, the Chadians are taking advantage of good harvests and international aid and see no reason to return to the hostilities at home between the forces of President Hissene Habre and former President Goukouni Oueddei.

An additional 10,000 Chadians have moved to the agriculturally rich Gezira region south of Khartoum to work as seasonal laborers.

"The food situation in both the east and the west is fine," said another relief worker. "The problem now is the southern Sudanese, who because of the fighting and resulting starvation are fleeing northward."

Discovery of gold taken with grain of salt

UVALDE, Texas (AP) — Few people are racing for shovels after a San Antonio company said it found significant traces of gold and silver on its property in Uvalde County.

Bill Dillahunty of the Uvalde Chamber of Commerce said Thursday there are local legends of buried Spanish gold, and Jim Bowie was said to have had a silver mine near Concan.

"But a gold mine?," Dillahunty said. "I never heard of it."

On Wednesday, James Sigmon, president of Exploration Co., said significant traces of gold and silver have been found in soil taken from a 3,900-acre tract it owns.

As a result of its discovery, Sigmon said, the company has bought or leased an additional 150,000 acres in Kinney, Uvalde and Medina counties.

Officials at the Garner Abstract and Land Co. in Uvalde said no significant mineral filings had been on record for years.

A clerk in the county clerk's office said, "The Leader-News newspaper ran a story on the front page about a gold discovery as an April Fool's joke. That's the only gold I've ever hear of here."

Discovery of any precious minerals would be great with Uvalde County residents, however. The economy of the region has been sluggish. This is an agricultural region with goat and mohair production among the biggest sources of income.

Uvalde County has more goats than people, 85,000 to 25,000.

County Judge J.R. White said he for one would like to see a gold rush here.

"But," he said, "I still want to see it in my hands before I believe it."

Educators: No pass rule having affect

HOUSTON (AP) — Athletes have a better attitude about studying since the no pass, no play rule sidelines them if they don't pass a class, some Houston school officials say.

"The students have taken more of a responsibility on themselves," Attucks Middle School Principal Rudolph Wilson said Thursday. "They see how important grades are now. They know that to participate in extracurricular activities they're going to have to knuckle down."

This year, only two of 43 seventh- and eighth-grade Attucks football players are ineligible to play because of failing grades, Wilson said.

Last year, the school's team was disbanded because of the high number failing one or more subjects.

The no pass, no play rule prohibits students from participating in extracurricular activities for six weeks if they don't pass a class.

Only eight teams from seven Houston high schools were disbanded this fall, compared with 12 teams from 11 schools dropped last year at this time, said Joe Tusa, Houston school district athletic director.

"Everybody's winning this year — scholastically and on the field, too," Wilson said.

The shock and disappointment of not being able to play caused students and teachers alike to concentrate more on academics, he said.

"I think the difference (this year) is that the coaches were totally involved with the academic part, as well as the athletic part," he said. "They go from teacher to teacher to keep tabs on their (students') progress."

Tom Fitzgerald, athletic coordinator at Reagan High School, also noticed a difference in attitude among athletes who have been benched for failing grades.

"I see them with books in hand," he said. "They want to play again."

But he agrees with Wilson that the six-week ineligibility period is too long.

Fitzgerald has instituted a special study lab for athletes. Student tutors hold the 40-minute sessions four times a week, helping athletes with math, history and English.

Freshmen tend to have the most problems, with their failure rate about twice that of other grade levels, Reagan Principal Joel Sturdivant said.

"It takes them one or two seasons to get acclimated," he said.

The first grading period ended Oct. 10.

To Gober farmer, cotton still king

GOBER, Texas (AP) — The days are long gone when cotton was king on the Texas plains.

But don't tell Anse Babers.

As far as he's concerned, cotton still reigns.

Babers, 69, clings to his memories of the past by holding on to the last cotton gin in his small hometown.

"Why, this whole county was bought and paid for with cotton," he said.

"Everything we got, we got from cotton. It fed our families, paid our debts, bought our land. Cotton was our survival."

In 1979, when Jimmy Smith retired and put Gober's last cotton gin up for sale, Babers bought it.

"I didn't want to see the gin leave this county," Babers said, remembering other gins that have been sold, disassembled and shipped to Mexico.

"And I always wanted a cotton gin, ever since I was a little bitty kid. They fascinated me, I guess."

Babers' gin, built in 1953, is as big and crowded as a battleship's engine room.

Two earth-shaking engines turn a jumble of belts and shafts and chains and pulleys. Running at full tilt, the machinery sounds something like a small tornado.

This week Babers and a crew of eight to 10 men, "mostly old fellers from around here," will fire up the 300 horsepower butane-fed engines and start sucking dirty white cotton from big green trailers."

Once, the gin operated around the clock during cotton season.

Now, Babers only gins cotton that he and his son grow and for "five or six fellers around here and three or four from Hunt County."

"Why, this whole county was bought and paid for with cotton. Everything we got, we got from cotton. It fed our families, paid our debts, bought our land. Cotton was our survival."

— Cotton farmer Anse Babers

The first year Babers owned the gin, he ginned "one thousand, six hundred something" bales of cotton.

"It's been going down ever since," he said with a wry smile.

This year he expects the gin to process about 500 bales.

"We used to be prouder of cotton than anything around here," he said.

"Every year, Gober would race with the gin down the road at Cotton Center to see who could make more bales. Usually had 6,000 bales between the two of them. Once or twice Baber has thought about selling the gin but he just can't let it go. If nothing else it is a monument to a bygone era.

"Why, had a young feller bring his sons around here just the other day. Said, 'I just wanted 'em to see what a cotton gin looked like,'" he said.

Babers picked a piece of ginned cotton, as clean and white as fresh snow, from the floor and tested it with his fingers.

"No. As long as I'm around, I'm going to raise cotton," he said.

"Cotton used to be king. It still is, in places."

LET'S TALK ABOUT CORPORATE PROPERTIES...

This Sunday, Many of our corporate properties will be featured on open houses, giving rise to the question, "What are corporate properties". Simply put, they are homes bought by an employer, at an appraised value, from transferred employees.

While these transactions are costly to employers, they may save money in the long run because they enable Corporations to have transferred employees on the job, where and when needed, without the worries of homes that must be sold, and usually with the family units intact.

Some Corporations have "in house" departments to negotiate these purchases and resales, but most contact with banks or third party companies to handle these transactions. That way you may also hear these homes referred to as third party properties.

Because purchases of employee homes tie up valuable business dollars, and because each day of holding time adds to the costs of purchase, corporate homes are usually priced most competatively and are put in top condition so that they will resale as quickly as possible.

Corporate homes are among the best buys on the market, drop by and see for yourself this Sunday!

LET'S TALK ABOUT CORPORATE PROPERTIES...

This Sunday, Many of our corporate properties will be featured on open houses, giving rise to the question, "What are corporate properties." Simply put, they are homes bought by an employer, at an appraised value, from transferred employees.

While these transactions are costly to employers, they may save money in the long run because they enable Corporations to have transferred employees on the job, where and when needed, without the worries of homes than must be sold, and usually with the family units intact.

Some Corporations have "in house" departments to negotiate these purchases and resales, but most contact with banks or third party companies to handle these transactions. That way you may also hear these homes referred to as third party properties.

Because purchases of employe homes tie up valuable business dollars, and because each day of holding time adds to the costs of purchase, corporate homes are usually priced most competatively and are put in top condition so that they will resale as quickly as possible.

Corporate homes are among the best buys on the market, drop by and see for yourself this Sunday!
