THIRTY CAGE TEAMS AND 1000 VISITORS EXPECTED AT AREA ATHLETIC MEET

Annual Invitational Tourney To Open At Colorado Friday, Jan. 1

Colorado will entertain not less than 1,000 visitors from thirty West Texas communities during an annual meeting of invitational cage tournaments to open here Friday morning of next week. Local school authorities are directing plans for advertising the visitors stated Tuesday that a total of 32 cage teams might be registered for participation in the contests before it ends, but say on which these entries may be accepted. "It is now apparent that we are to have between 300 and 400 school boys and coaches here for the two days tournament," C. A. Wilkins, principal of the high school, stated Tuesday. "With the local following that each team will have, indications now point to an attendance of not less than one thousand people here for these two days. The interest centers is to be made an annual affair with headquarters at Colorado. Several of the leading schools in West Texas, including Abilene, that recently won the state championship, normally in football, have entered for a tournament. Trophies to be awarded winning teams and individual players in the tournament are on display at the P. Mason Jewelry store. In bringing the above news to Colorado schools and chamber of commerce officials pledged to provide rooms for entertainment of the youth Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Citizens who will cooperate in opening their homes to these visitors are requested to telephone 500 or 404.

Prosperity Plans For Another Year Center in Poultry

We sincerely hope that you had a very enjoyable Christmas, and we wish for you a very happy and prosperous New Year. In beginning your prosperity plan for 1932, poultry should be your first consideration, and now is the time to begin making your arrangements and plans for your baby chicks. Economists and bankers agree that poultry and eggs are the most profitable things produced on the farm. The margin between feed costs and poultry and egg prices is greater today than in several years past, and greater still with the extreme poultry shortage on every farm this year. Not only is poultry profitable, but it provides one of the quickest and surest cash incomes for the farmer. In the 1924 depression, poultry was the only thing that saved thousands of farmers from bankruptcy, and it will do the same thing for you in 1932. The local poultry industry is largely dependent on the local hatchery. The progressive farmer no longer hatches his own chicks, but depends on the progressive hatchery for them. Buy your chicks from your local hatchery and know and see what you are getting. We stand back of every chick we sell, guaranteeing them to you from the standpoint of quality, vigor and livability. By buying from your local hatchery you are going to get quality brood chicks and keep thousands of local dollars in the community that will otherwise go to outsiders. We have one of the largest, cleanest, most modern hatchery plants in this part of the state, and we invite you to visit our plant and earnestly solicit your patronage that we try hard to merit. Logan's Hatchery, at the Checkerboard Store, Colorado and Big Spring, Texas. 1tpd.

The nature of Plaintiff's demand being as follows, to-wit: Plaintiff sues for the judicial cancellation and forfeiture of certain oil and gas grants or lease given by W. L. Foster, joined by his wife, Mary E. Foster, to John Sealy, E. E. Brown, B. Wavely Smith, E. E. Phunley, W. C. Proctor, Courtenay Marshall, F. V. Faulkner, A. C. Ebie, D. C. Stewart, B. H. Stephens and W. H. Francis, Trustees, for the Magnolia Petroleum Company, a joint stock association, covering Sections 7, 8, SW 1/4 of 9, 10, 15, 17, 18, Block 29, Twp. 1-S, in Mitchell and Mitchell and Howard Counties, Texas, dated January 27, 1925, recorded in Book 66, page 631. Deed Records of Mitchell County, Texas, averred to be subsequently assigned to the Defendant Magnolia Petroleum Company, a corporation, Plaintiff alleging that the Defendant Magnolia Petroleum Company, although bound and obligated by the express and implied covenants and conditions of the grant to fully, properly and adequately develop said land for oil and gas purposes, has failed and refused to do so; that it has since said lease has been in force drilled a total of seven wells thereon, one of which was abandoned and averaging about one well per year when it should have drilled to the present time a grand total of thirty-six wells as a minimum; that had said Defendant Magnolia Petroleum Company drilled the proper number of wells to constitute reasonable and sufficient development of said land for oil and gas purposes, that the royalties therefrom accruing to the Plaintiff would have been not less than $50,000.00 more than they have been, to Plaintiff's damages in the sum of $50,000.00; that said Defendant Magnolia Petroleum Company has utterly failed and refused since the 25th day of April, 1930, when it completed its last well on said land to do anything whatever toward further development thereof; that by reason of the non-development of said property being deliberate, willful, and in disregard of its express and implied duty Plaintiff further claims $10,000.00 exemplary damages; that all the other Defendants herein are joined as necessary parties as the owners of certain royalty interests by, through and under Plaintiff in some of said lands. Plaintiff prays for judgment for the forfeiture and cancellation of said lease, for his damages and costs and in the alternative if he be found not so entitled to forfeiture and cancellation that the court do ascertain and determine the proper number of wells and the time within which they should be drilled to constitute proper development and that relief in the nature of specific performance under penalty of forfeiture be decreed. For a more complete and detailed statement of Plaintiff's cause of action reference is here made to Plaintiff's Original Petition on file in this court. Herein Fail Not, and have you before said court on the first day of the next term thereof this return with your endorsement thereon, showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and seal of said court at office in Colorado, Texas, this 5th day of December, A. D. 1931. J. H. BALLARD, Clerk, District Court, Mitchell (Seal) County, Texas. 1-15p.

Memphis Boy Holds Onto Sleep After New Record Is Set

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—The strange case of little Joe Higgins, eight-year-old sleeping sickness victim, is still as much a puzzle to doctors as it was the day more than two months ago when he fell into the coma. Joe can be aroused slightly for a brief period; he chews and swallows food when it is placed within his mouth, but otherwise he remains in an almost sound sleep. He has been this way since Oct. 19. Despite approximately two months of inactivity, the child is in good physical condition except that his muscles are so stiff that his arms and legs cannot be moved freely. The disease is popularly called sleeping sickness, but its real name is lethargic encephalitis. It is a disease of the brain and spinal cord, according to Dr. F. B. Turner, professor of neurology at University of Tennessee. "Sleeping sickness can never be really cured," Dr. Turner said. "The condition of the patient can be improved considerably, but we cannot effect a real cure." Dr. Turner could not recall any other cases here which lasted more than three or four weeks. In all of those cases the patient either died or awakened by the end of that time. "We used to think when the patient was awakened from his sleep his troubles were over, but now we know better. He does not have full control of his muscles. You usually can recognize the stooping posture, the shuffling gait, and generally clumsy movement. The cause of sleeping sickness is not known, but Dr. Turner is inclined to believe it usually is an aftermath of influenza. It is often fatal. Profound sleep is said to have been observed in encephalitis in past influenza epidemics as far back as the early part of the 18th century, but it was not until 1917 that the disease was actively manifest in this country. A. D. Franklin and family of Big Spring, were guests in the Jeff Dobbs home during the holidays. Calling Cards that are lithographed or engraved, most of them, Whiskey Printing Co. 1-15p.

PASTIME BRIDE CLUB

Miss Estha Edwards was hostess to the Pastime Bride club and a number of friends Monday evening, December 21. It was one of the most pleasant and enjoyable parties of the holidays. The rooms were very attractively decorated with "Merry Christmas." Each one found their place card, then a delicious plate was served, which consisted of sandwiches, salad, olives, soft food pie, whipped cream and coffee. Those present were: Messrs. and Mrs. Claude Spikes; Virgil Walker, Henry Cook, and Jack Coffey; Misses Viola Brown, Irene Brown, Fern and Ruth Coon, Lola Coffey, Mildred Coffey, Willie Fae Hall, Inez Mayes, Kate Spurgur, Julia Tart and Estha Edwards. Messrs. Glen Coon, Charles Spikes, Red Howell, Marvin Edwards, Floyd Coffey, Kent Martin, Stanton Hutchins, Melvin Calhoun and Phillip Smith. Lola Coffey took high score.

"42" AND BRIDGE PARTY

Lurlene Britton entertained with a 42 and bridge party last Saturday night at her home north of town. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Swinford Higgins of El Paso, Misses Edna Edmondson, Birdie Robertson, Ibel Hudson and Edith Wilkerson; Messrs. Clyde Hart, Phillip Smith, Tot Coles, Preston Morrison and Charlie Brazil; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coffey.

CHRISTMAS TURKEY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Thomas entertained on December 25th with a 6 o'clock dinner at their home near Lorain. The guests were: W. P. Dodike and family of Midland; Mrs. W. H. Bodine, Mrs. Marie Levens and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Broadus, Miss Mary Broadus, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thomas and Luther Thomas of Colorado; Miss Minnie Evert of Buford, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hooker and children and Miss Velma Cranfill of Lorain. Later other guests were added to the merry crowd, all remaining until a late hour.

FIDELIS CLASS ENTERTAINS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bennett was the happy place of meeting for a Fidelis class dinner Tuesday, December 20th. The home was beautifully decorated with holly and mistletoe, wreaths and other Christmas decorations. The table was artistically arranged with a small tree placed in the center. Icicles and candles helped to add to the beauty of the tree. Before anyone was seated at the table, the old custom of blowing out the candles was used. This was interesting as some did not get any Christmas wish at all. A very delicious dinner of turkey and all that goes with it was served to the following guests: Misses Edith Wilkerson, Mamie Howell, Anna Best, Wilkerson, Lurlene Britton, Birdie Robertson, Kate Spurgur, Inez Mayes, Adine Towell, Willie Faye Hall, Arlene and Zella Jones. Messrs. Charlie Brazil, Eli May, Brice Webb, Preston Morrison, Brother Hardin and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bennett. After dinner a song hour was enjoyed with Miss Willie Faye Hall at the piano. Many of the Christmas carols were sung. Lurlene Britton read an Italian piece entitled "Rosa's Curiosity." Brother Hardin then gave a beautiful talk on Christmas and its significance. We were very glad to have Brother Hardin in our midst and invite him to be with us again. Everyone reported a nice time and expressed the hope of getting to meet again in Mr. and Mrs. Bennett's beautiful country home. Fidelis Reporter.

P. T. A. MEETING

The Parent-Teachers Association will hold their first meeting of the New Year, 1932, on Thursday, January 7th, 7:30 P. M. at the high school auditorium. After a short business meeting we will entertain you with an interesting program, with Mrs. W. R. Martin, in charge. The leading feature of this program will be some African pictures and lecture given by the courtesy of Mrs. Zeilus Layton, member of the school. 1-15p.

LORAIN METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. J. E. Harrell, pastor, preached Sunday morning and evening to a large congregation. The Epworth League rendered a pageant on the H. C. M. Sunday night which was very fine. Rev. Harrell will preach next Sunday morning and night. Come and worship with us. The Christmas tree and program was fine with a large attendance. A nice offering was taken for the Orphans' home at Waco.

BAPTIST NOTES

The Christmas tree and program at the church Christmas eve was greatly enjoyed by the youngsters, immediately after the prayer service a nice Christmas box of miscellaneous gifts was presented to our pastor, Rev. A. C. Hardin and family. In the absence of our superintendent, Mr. R. B. Furgeson, Rev. Hardin had charge of the Sunday school Sunday morning. All the services of the day were well attended, and our pastor brought us two wonderful messages from God's word. Sunday morning just before the preaching service we had a short conference, in which it was decided to have our monthly conference on Wednesday night after the first Sunday in each month. If there is any business to come before the church it will be attended to at this time. Prayer service each Wednesday evening. Rev. Hardin is leading in some interesting Bible study. Our last lesson was the book of Ecclesiastes. The Missionary ladies will render a special program next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. B. Furgeson. Reporter

Taylor Jarratt, well known here and who had resided near Lorain, died in a sanitarium at Wichita Falls, December 24th. Rev. S. H. Young of Snyder, conducted the funeral service, held at the Methodist church at Roscoe, December 25th. Interment was made in the Roscoe cemetery. Deceased leaves a wife and several children who reside in Snyder, a mother, three sisters and three brothers who reside in Lorain, also other relatives of Lorain. Deceased was the son of the late W. A. Jarratt of Lorain. A sister, who resides at Abernathy, was also present at the funeral.

DISASTROUS FIRE

The J. E. Spikes residence, located on the highway west of town, was destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. The home, contents and most of the family's clothing went up in the flames of unknown origin. Ladies of Lorain met Tuesday and Wednesday and made quilts, clothing and other bedding given.

DELAYING THE MACHINE

It is a masterly editorial published in a recent number. The Saturday Evening Post sums up conditions to-day in a manner that may be understood by any reader.

"Every Man his Own Leader," is the caption under which the article appears, and most certainly should take some of the wind out of the so-called economic and political leaders who propose sure cure for all ills.

It says that "real leadership is developing among employees, business men and farmers who are concentrating on the individual job, putting their problems down to fundamentals, free of any illusion by some magic formula they obtain from economic law so as to improve their condition."

The article goes on to point out that, just in the case of rubber, coffee and other products, not to mention our own government, experiments to lift the price of agricultural products by their own bootstraps, prices dropped steadily under the simple little law of supply and demand took a hand.

The Post emphasizes the fact that our problems, local, national and international, will yield to the same logic, sense thinking that sensible "breath" to their own affairs, if instead of political blarney and talk, they used economic hot air.

Their best leader that the high price never produced could not be a get-rich-quick, crime producing scheme that is not self-reliant on the part of the workers and whose success depends on the efforts of efficiency in its several branches.

In its several respects we have gone ahead in America. In others we have fallen behind. As a nation our feet are weaker, our fighting condition is softer. We want government that is always possible to speed a dictator who might make us wags. But what a sorry finish for a people with a tradition of initiative and individualism behind them.

The newspaper joins with the rest in belief we are rapidly approaching the forks in the road where we will have to follow the house course ahead which represents our own traditions and ideals, or take the side road which is filled with theoretical chuckles and exhortations which cause mirning, a slowdown and delays in the moral progress of a well built economic machine.

SETTING THE PACE

A very Colorado citizen was as salad, as a certain merchant in and coffee conditions would be considered better than most of us are to be. This particular citizen is one of the largest dealers in this town and he accepts that the industrial progress of this community is likely to be seriously strained.

Colorado merchant sees ahead. He carries a big sign on his face and a word of enlightenment on his lips. He looks only the better side of things. Colorado needs more of him.

A NEW YEAR SERMON

Sunday, January 3, 1932, will be New Year's Day with the churches. DAY OF DAYS again the bells ring out to celebrate the Nativity. Come to church. There will your heart grow lighter, there will your spirit be refreshed, there you will be lifted up to the heights of inspiration and brought into closer communion with your God. On this day come home to the love and peace and joy of your church.

Every religion, every system of philosophy, every school of morals and ethics that has had the effects of bettering the condition of mankind has had for its foundation the economics of righteousness.

Nothing can benefit the human race that does not recognize the truth of right, and the right of truth.

It is quite worthy of our serious thought that in Athens, "The Eye of Greece," the center of culture, the home of philosophy and philosophers, two-thirds of the population were slaves, and slavery existed practically throughout the world before Christ. Surely, it must be said to the credit of Christianity that the abolition of slavery was never begun seriously until the teachings of Jesus became well known, and that its abolition has been largely in proportion to the spread of Christian religion, when the thought began to impress itself upon man, that human slavery was not in accord with the teachings of Holy Writ, men began more seriously to think of the wrong of it.

Enlightenment and intelligence have followed Christianity as it has gone from one continent to another. Rather, we should say they went with it. We often hear it said "trade follows the flag." It can be said also that the flag follows Christianity, for in many countries Christian missionaries have preceded the flag for many years. The Banner of the Cross even in these days may be seen waving where the beloved flag of our country has never been unfurled.

The fact that the abolition of slavery of the individual to sinful habits and sinful deeds, many of which are much more to be dreaded than even the slavering, enslaved by human chattels, is also abolished through the acceptance and practice of Christianity proves it to be a panacea as to man's spiritual and moral ills, which in itself proves an effective prophylactic as to many of his physical ills.

There are some scenes that never become repellent, drab, uninteresting nor unattractive, that mighty panorama of moon, stars and comets; the Grand Canyon and Niagara Falls. And there are some which are transcendently beautiful and which the eye never sees. They are viewed by mind and spirit only; some which even the blind can see. "The City Four Square," "The King in His Beauty," "The Lion of the Tribe of Judah," those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb, "The King of Kings and Lord of Lords."

There are some sounds which never become discordant, monotonous, nor devoid of euphony, indeed some things are heard which make no sound, some which even the deaf hear; "The Still Small Voice," "The Music of the Choir Invisible," the invitation "Come Unto Me, All Ye That Labor, and are Heavy Laden, and I Will Give You Rest," "The Holy of Holies" in this world now, so far as men and women are concerned, so far as they may make such a place, is the quiet home room of the mother of a family. There will be found the word of God, there the prayer of sacred and blessed motherhood, there innocence incarnate in little children, there surely God broods and comforts and blesses. The mother's prayer is always a prayer prompted by genuine love. If there can be a holy utterance, certainly here is such. Love performs miracles, it beautifies and glorifies. It paints rainbow hues across the face of black clouds. It transforms the deformities of a child into features of beauty and admiration. It converts the hard face with lines woven into it by crime and sin into one that glows with desire to comfort and bless.

It replaces pride with humility and supplants selfishness with charity. The flowers when full of the dew always hang their heads in grateful humility, but men hold theirs the higher as they receive and become prouder the more they are blessed with this world's goods, or cursed with them, as it turns out that some are. Is it not true, as some one has said that "No two persons worship the same God," the truth is that all worship the same God in the same manner that to them comes from the Father, Him they worship.

Let earth receive her King, Let every heart prepare Him room And Heaven and nature sing.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S "FIGHTING GENERAL"

As the nation begins this year of celebration to its greatest man, George Washington, every man who helped him fight the battle for our Independence shares in his glory and claims national interest. In the front rank of these daring officers, says the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, was "Mad Anthony Wayne," whose name is familiar to every American boy who loves a hero.

Interest attaches to Anthony Wayne from the moment of his birth, for he picked New Year's Day itself for that important event. He first saw the light at Easttown, Pa., on January 1, 1745, which makes this day his 187th birthday anniversary. Wayne was named Anthony after his grandfather, an Englishman who lived in Ireland for some years before migrating to Colonial America. Here he built up a modest fortune, so that his grandson Anthony was able to start life with some advantages in the way of education. He also came naturally by his fighting blood, his grandfather having served with distinction under the gonfalon of William III of England, and the boy's father took an active part in the French and English conflict in America.

In fact, young Anthony's martial spirit got in the way of his schooling. An uncle, the boy's first schoolmaster, complained to his father that more time would have to be given to study and less to playing soldier, or Anthony would have to leave school. He later was sent to the academy which became the University of Pennsylvania, and there distinguished himself in mathematics and, at the age of eighteen, he became a surveyor, like the youthful George Washington.

Early in the outbreak of the campaign for Independence, Anthony Wayne put his fiery heart into the fray. In 1775 he served, along with Benjamin Franklin, on the Pennsylvania of Safety, and in that same year he organized and drilled the 4th Pennsylvania regiment of soldiers. On January 3, 1776, he was commissioned a colonel, and took his regiment to reinforce the attack on Quebec. At Three Rivers he led with all his characteristic dash an assault on a superior British force and there received the first of the six wounds he suffered during the Revolution.

Next he was sent to Fort Mifflin, but there the enforced inactivity was too much for his ardent spirit, and he sought of Washington a post of action in the field. In February, 1777, he was made a brigadier-general, and two months later he joined Washington in the Commander in Chief's movements on New Jersey, giving good account of himself.

At the battle of Brandywine, Wayne was given the important duty of defending the center of the line at Chad's Ford against the advance of Knyphausen's Hessians, and so spiritedly did he resist the British attack that he receives credit from many military authorities for saving Washington's army from a rout. A little later a force under Wayne was overwhelmed by a British force under "No-Flin" Grey at Paoli, and though they were ordered what became known as the "Paoli Massacre," Wayne's Mary Bronck, the main body of the Bridgettes Wednesday, instead of on the usual day, they were five tables of players, lines of guests being presented by Bill Dorn made high score and given a candy dish. Refreshments of ice cream and cake was served, ages, knew God as the Christian knows Him he would worship Him as the Christian does. Those who do not worship Him the best they know how are those who do not believe that He is. Physicists tell us that "nothing is ever lost." It must necessarily and logically follow that if nothing material or physical is ever lost, then nothing mental or spiritual is ever lost.

Reverting to the thought, let us take to our minds and hearts the fact that cold, clammy philosophy which aside from the Bible would be simply wisdom gained through experience, can not take the place of spiritual guidance as found in the Bible. It requires all the philosophy and knowledge we can possess, combined with the most exalted spiritual thought, to make any of us what we should be.

The crazy quilt of sin cannot take the place of the seamless garment of righteousness, nor can "filthy rags" be substituted for the robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

In these holidays, Christmas and New Year, we celebrate the coming of the King of Kings, and Lord of Lords. A manger His birthplace, poverty His dowry, ingratitude His reward from men, a Crown of Thorns the Diadem of His royal authority, the cross His destiny, the grave the scene of His eternal victory over death by His resurrection.

"Joy to the world—the Lord has come Let earth receive her King, Let every heart prepare Him room And Heaven and nature sing."

ton took his army out of Philadelphia that year, Wayne was ordered to hang on to the British rear, and wherever he appeared there was invariably a fight. At Monmouth, Wayne did more than any other except Washington himself to save the American army from disaster and convert that action into a drawn battle.

When Stony Point was to be taken, Washington relied upon his fighting general, Wayne, and there "Mad Anthony" brought off the most daring exploit of his whole career. Stony Point was considered impregnable. It commanded the important crossing of King's Ferry, and it was essential to American success that it be wrested from the British control. Not only was the position strongly fortified, it was protected by a marsh which at high tide was covered by water so as to render the fort itself an island.

Wayne took his command to within a mile and a half of the place, and waited for midnight. Then he moved his men forward in two columns, to carry the redoubt by the bayonet. To insure the element of surprise, the charges were removed from all but a few muskets, these to be fired to divert British attention from the real attacking columns. So desperate was the attempt that Wayne's correspondence before the action indicates his belief that he might lose his life, but he meant to take the fort.

He took it, leading his men up the slope until he was hit in the head by a musket ball that laid him senseless. In a short time he recovered, nevertheless, and was there in front. The British themselves paid tribute to Wayne and his men. Washington, Lafayette, Steuben, and all the rest of Wayne's comrades in arms showered him with praise; and General Charles Lee called Stony Point "the most brilliant assault in history."

Later in the Revolution, Wayne played important parts in squeezing Cornwallis out of the Carolinas, and in 1781 he joined Lafayette when Cornwallis had moved into Virginia. Mad Anthony proved a gadfly to the British commander. At Green Springs he threw himself upon the entire British army, and at Yorktown it was Wayne who opened the first "parallel" thrown round Cornwallis, a key move in the final victory.

Another of Wayne's six wounds was received when a nervous sentry at Lafayette's camp let fly at him one dark night. The bullet glanced from a bone in Wayne's thigh and lodged in the flesh. Far from angry at the soldier, Wayne raged against the American commissary, and complained that "if the damned cartridge had had enough powder, the ball would have gone clear through."

After the war, General Wayne returned to civil life in Pennsylvania and was a member of the state convention that ratified the Constitution. In 1792, President Washington commissioned Wayne General in Chief of the American Army with the rank of Major General, and sent him to do what both Generals Harmar and St. Clair had failed to perform—the subjection of the Indians in the northeast. Wayne first built three forts in the hostile territory and offered the Indians peace. When they refused, he met them at Fallen Timbers and not only cut them to pieces but leveled their villages for miles around. It taught them a lesson they never forgot, but it cost Wayne serious injury to his health. On his return to Pennsylvania, Washington made him a commissioner to shape a treaty with the Indians, but on this mission Wayne became ill and died at Presque Isle, now Erie, Pa., on December 15, 1796.

Many times had Washington commended him for his brilliancy and daring. The esteem was mutual, for the men were warm and lifelong friends and so admired each other that Wayne once is said to have remarked that he would storm the gates of hell itself if Washington planned the assault. In the honors paid to the Father of the Country this year, Wayne's name and fame will deserve its mention, along with that of the man he adored and served so well.

Miss Elsie Walker, who is nurse at Big Spring hospital, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Edgar Conaway, and father, G. W. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conaway, Mr. and Mrs. John Blakeney and family, spent Christmas Day in Westbrook.

Misses Loretta and Venetta Byrd entertained with a party and shower at their home Christmas eve night, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Barber. The house was beautifully decorated and with a red sack filled for each guest, occupied a corner of the living room. As the guest entered the living room they were asked to register in a green book, and written on the top line was the name of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Barber. After all invited guests had arrived, Christmas games were played for about two hours, led by Misses Juanita Hart and Loretta Byrd. Some of the games that created much enthusiasm and fun were "Santa's Toy Shop," "Christmas Pantomime," "Ice Guessing Contest," "A Letter to Santa" and "Snowflakes." The guests were then led by Miss Juanita Hart to the living room where the Christmas tree was and each one given a red sack filled with candy and nuts. Miss Loretta Byrd presented the sacks and asked Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Barber if they would come for them on their journey through the country. It was a large red sack, about 6 feet long and 2 feet wide, packed with many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Barber unwrapped and admired the many beautiful gifts they received and thanked each person present for them. The guests were then led to the dining room, to the dining table where hot chocolate and cake were served. The favors being green mints in a small red box with a little green Christmas tree on each side of the box. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Barber, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Boyd, Mrs. E. Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Webb; Misses Della Mae, Eunice, Hattie Lee, and Velma Barber; Ardoth, Loretta and Venetta Byrd; Juanita, Lorraine and Lucille Hart; Mildred Folkner of Spade; Maxine Conaway and Estelle Rogers; Hesses Loyd Hart, Ray Williams, Herman Sully, Ennis and Kenneth Rogers, Vance and Ronald Armstrong, Clyde Hart of Valley View, Jack Jarrigan, Robert Bolin, Murphy Byrd, and Ernest Brooks and Jerry Frequay of Westbrook.

How To Realize Profit In Hogs Shown In Comparison By The County Agent

W. S. Foster, Mitchell county farm agent, to demonstrate how greater profits may be realized from the marketing of scientifically fattened porkers, directs attention to records of two neighboring farmers who recently sold a hog each on the market. The story of these two farmers and their experience follows:

Bill Smith sold a choice, live hog weighing 200 pounds for $12. His neighbor just across the road sold a litter mate weighing exactly the same for $22. In fact he received almost twice as much for his pig.

Mr. White sold his hog made up in hams, bacon, sausage, lard, and the choice loin cut into chops and roasts. He produced from his 200 pound pig two cured hams weighing 12 pounds each, two cured bacon weighing nine pounds, and two shoulder butts weighing eight pounds each. The lower parts of the shoulder were ground into sausage with the other lean trimmings, making 20 pounds of sausage. The two choice 12 pound loins were sold as pork roasts and chops. All the fat was rendered making 24 pounds of lard.

Quality pigs fed a good ration, such as corn, grain sorghum, wheat, or barley, with some protein supplement as cotton seed meal and tankage in equal parts, will produce a quality of fresh and home cured meats that will be in demand, especially if properly handled when killed and cured.

To produce a high standard quality cured product, hogs should be killed on a clear, cold day. They should be allowed to hang over night to allow the meat to cool out well, thus making the carcass firm before cutting.

The most attractive and best shaped hams, bacon, shoulders, and loins can be cut by splitting the hog down the center of the backbone. The pieces to be cured should be trimmed free of all excessive fat and made to look very smooth.

The cure White used was the famous old sugar cure method. Eight pounds of salt, two pounds of sugar, and two ounces of salt peter was used for each 100 pounds of meat cured. The cure was mixed well and then one-half rubbed on the meat. For best keeping the meat was then packed in a barrel with the skin side down. In just a week the hams were taken out, but the remaining meat was rubbed with the rest of the cure. In just 30 days from the time the hams were salted, they were taken out of the cure and soaked in water to remove the surface salt. These hams were cured just 2 1/2 days for each pound in the piece as they weighed just 12 lbs.

Pecan wood was the handiest wood that Smith's neighbor had, so he used that to smoke his cured meat. His smokehouse was almost crack-proof so that flies and dirt could not get on the meat. For attractiveness the meat was almost perfect. It smelled most appetizing with a rich reddish-brown color.

Bill's neighbor proved to many of his nearby friends that it paid to sell his hogs as prepared meat rather than as live hogs.

Judge—Now, sir, please tell the court what passed between you and your wife during the quarrel.

Defendant—A flatiron, a rolling pin, six plates and a kettle.

Merchant—No, sir; no checks. I would not cash a check for my own brother.

Customer—Well, of course, you know your family better than I do.

Site For New Passenger Station Being Cleared as City Launched the Year 1908

The New Year, 1908, brought renewed ambitions for a greater Colorado and an awakening of a more universal civic pride, as citizens were made to realize that the proposed new passenger station at the foot of Walnut street would soon be under construction. The new building, "to be among the most imposing depots along the Texas & Pacific west of Fort Worth," was expected to be completed and in use before the passing of many more months.

Plans for going ahead with construction of the new building had been temporarily held up when D. H. McNairy, occupying a building located on site of the station refused to vacate, holding that his lease on the property continued in effect. Judge C. H. Earnest volunteered his services to the plaintiff railroad company, who with Ed. W. Smith, attorney, had gone into justice court and obtained judgment against McNairy. Workmen were then put to work razing the structure.

John T. Johnson, doing business as owner and manager of the Western Windmill Company at Walnut and First streets, announced that when work on the new depot began he would remodel and paint his building, place awnings on the West side and lay concrete sidewalk from Second street to the passenger station. This civic pride was spreading so other Colorado business men and much improvement in downtown properties was expected to follow construction of the passenger station.

Reminiscences of other days are recalled in the edition of The Record for the first week in January, twenty-four years ago. There may be those here today who actually owned brass knucks back in the "good old days." Many of us recall having seen those implements of conflict, now evidently extinct. The grand jury, in session that week, reported having killed a Mitchell county citizen for the offense of carrying a pair of brass knucks.

Three murder cases were pending in the court. The defendant in one was described as "Hargrove, the negro from Big Spring," his case had been transferred to Mitchell county on a change of venue. Lon Ferguson and a man named Wasson were defendants in the other two murder trials pending.

Colorado's long extended legal controversy over bonded indebtedness is recalled in that issue of the paper. One of West Texas' great jurists, Judge Cullen C. Higgins, of Snyder, who was assassinated several years ago at Claremont, is also mentioned prominently in an article having to do with the receivership of Colorado.

The governor had appointed Judge Higgins as a special judge to come to Colorado and hear report of A. B. Robinson, named as receiver for the city of Colorado. Following completion of the hearing Robinson was directed to levy a special tax of 25c on the $100 valuation of property within the corporate limits to be used in liquidating judgment returned in favor of Robert Rankin et al in the sum of approximately $33,000.00. Property valuation of School opened Monday morning, after a Christmas vacation of one week. Many of the larger pupils are absent this week, as they were needed to finish gathering the crops while the weather is favorable.

We regret very much to see Mr. and Mrs. Ivy and family move out of the community. They have moved to Coleman county.

Mr. and Mrs. McCreight spent Christmas week visiting his relatives in East Texas.

Miss Grace Wilson spent several days with her parents in Ft. Worth last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Barrier spent the holidays with relatives in Louisiana.

Mrs. Joe Richburg of Loraine is visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. B. Barrier, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Smith and family visited relatives in Stanton on Christmas Eve.

A large number of Rogers people enjoyed a picnic on the river on Christmas Eve.

The Rogers Wildcats have ordered new basketball suits.

The Rogers cagers will play the Valley View team at the Colorado gym on Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m. There will be no admission charge, so you be there.

Buford Bulletin

By LURLENE HUNT
Rev. Horace Bloodworth closed a revival meeting here Sunday night, which began Wednesday night. We had a nice Christmas meeting, but not so large attendance as was expected.

There is singing this Thursday night at Mrs. Sam Curry's. A special invitation is given to the young people to attend this singing.

Miss Earnestine Brown, who is attending school at Red Springs, was back for the Christmas holidays, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brown and family.

Rev. Horace Bloodworth visited in the M. D. Wilcher home Christmas Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Padgett spent Christmas Day with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Padgett.

Mrs. Minnie Evalt visited Mrs. Jeriston Smith Sunday.

Miss Vernon and Ladena Feaster spent Sunday afternoon visiting their grandmother, Mrs. Barton in Colorado.

There was a pie supper given for the benefit of Buford school here last Friday before Christmas holidays. The highest pie sold for 75c. The lowest price was 25c. The amount of money made was a little over $15. Miss Hazel Fortenberry received the cake for the most popular pie.

The city at that time was pined at one million dollars. It was estimated that fifteen years would be required in which to pay the judgment debt.

Marriage license had been issued to the following since Christmas: Vernon L. Smith and Mary Clark; Dennis Pritchett and Muriel Sanders; Robt. Wallen and Ada Studard; Luther Sims and Elizabeth Studard.

Considerable comment was given to the announcement originating in New Orleans a few days before that express companies would ship no more liquor. C. O. D. Prior to that time Mitchell and other West Texas dry counties had been well supplied with liquor through the cash on delivery plan. But now, the thirsty citizen must send his money along with the order or go without.

"My work is confining, and often I eat hurriedly, causing me to have indigestion. Gas will form and I will smother and have pains in my chest. I had to be careful what I ate, but after someone had recommended Black-Draught and I found a small pinch after meals was so helpful, I soon was eating anything I wanted. Now when I feel the least smothering or uncomfortable bloating, I take a pinch of Black-Draught and get relief."

Who In Colorado Would Prefer to Enter Foreign Diplomat Service, Is Question

The Washington correspondent for one of the larger news gathering agencies aptly answers the question, "Who Wants To Be a Diplomat?" in a recent NEA Service dispatch from Washington, the capital city. This correspondent sums up the answer as follows:

Do you mind contributing $50,000 or more to the party which is going to win the next election? Are you a senator whose constituents are grimly determined to vote you out of office in November? Can you afford to support an American embassy or legation in the style to which it has been accustomed?

Well, that's too bad, because you will have to work up through the ranks if you can't donate. You can't expect the President to telephone and say that he can't give you that Ambassadorship to Paris or London, but would you mind being minister to one of the Central American countries?

So you send an application to the State Department and say that you want to join the foreign service. After that you are in the hands of the department, but this is a general outline of what happens to you if you persist:

Written examinations are held in 13 cities, oral and physical examinations subsequently in Washington. Chances are about 8 to 1 against your survival. Of 275 who took the recent written examination, 135 came here for the others and only 32 passed them all. The oral is the worst because five officers check you for character, aptitude, appearance, ability to express yourself and intelligence of your opinions. (Inside tip: They like to have you demonstrate that you can make a dandy argument for a hopeless case.)

After passing, you take the oath of office and your nomination as a vice-consul is sent to the Senate, which confirms you because you are not important enough to have a fight about. You are then assigned to a foreign post—usually in Canada or Mexico—from which it doesn't cost much to bring you back. Your salary is $2500 a year.

After six months or so, during which you are supposed to get some idea of what the foreign service is all about, you are ordered back to Washington (if you haven't pulled a bonehead) and put in the foreign service school. This is partly to train you and partly to get a line on your qualifications for future assignments.

Remember, you are only a vice-consul and you probably will be in the consular service the rest of your life—unless you have money and background and know how to be a perfect gentleman, in which case you may be able to get into the diplomatic service by starting as a minor secretary at some embassy or legation instead of a consulate. Just the same, a consul general gets $9,000 a year, if you are good and stick it out in the consular service that long. And if there happens to be a president who believes in "career men" you, even though only a consul general, may sometime be made an ambassador, a minister, a division chief or an assistant secretary of state or something. But do not build up any hopes about that, as it takes lots and lots of money for expenses, and the salary would not begin to pay them.

The foreign service school course runs from three to six months. You are taught primarily how to promote American business, but you also get international law, maritime law, official accounts, estimates and allotments, how to make inventories of government property, codes and communications, immigration citizenship and passport work, services to our vessels and seamen and many other dull subjects. Finally you are examined on each.

You are supposed to learn how to make contacts and friends and, above all, to learn how to tell any American business man who inquires how he can best promote his product in your consular district. Consuls usually answer such inquiries with 15 or 20 typewritten pages of information after careful investigation and analysis.

After passing the school's exams, a report on you is entered in the permanent files and you are assigned to a foreign post.

Whipkey Printing Company can furnish anything needed in way of office supplies.

MRS. MAYME TAYLOR WILL ENTER DEMOCRATIC RACE FOR TREASURER'S PLACE

Incumbent Announces Her Candidacy For This Important Office

Mrs. Mayme Taylor, county treasurer, will be a candidate to succeed herself in office. Mrs. Taylor authorized the statement Tuesday afternoon that she had definitely decided to offer for re-election to the office she has filled during the past two terms.

"I am offering my candidacy to the Democratic voters of Mitchell county solely upon my own merits and the efficiency in which all official matters coming into my office have been handled," she stated. "Records of this county's finances, as maintained by me during the time I have been county treasurer, have ever been accepted with entire satisfaction by auditors and other officials."

It will be recalled that statement incorporated in the last general audit of Mitchell county by a Houston accounting corporation described Mrs. Taylor as being one of the most efficient county treasurers in Texas.

Every cash item was found to have been entered to credit of the proper fund and not one single clerical error was reported as having been found. In addition the report stated that records kept by Mrs. Taylor were neat and reflected personal pride upon part of the official.

She is announcing for re-election to this important county office, subject to action of the Democratic primary election to be held Saturday, July 23. The candidate will sincerely appreciate investigation of her ability and trustworthiness by any voter.

JOHN GILBERT GIVEN FORCEFUL ROLE IN 'WEST OF BROADWAY'

John Gilbert is starred in "West of Broadway," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest offering which will be at The Palace Theatre, January 5th.

The new Gilbert picture is of particular interest because it marks another trail in the star's increasing popularity. In a role reminiscent of "The Big Parade," and dashing Westerns, Gilbert makes his first appearance under the masterful direction of Harry Beaumont, pioneer in silent and sound production.

El Brendel, popular Swede comedian, heads the cast of supporting players in the role of Axel, the hero's war buddy who stands by him in his fight for health and happiness. Brendel last played in "Mr. Lemon of Orange" and is noted for his inimitable dialect characterizations.

The feminine lead is handled by Lois Moran, who is said to achieve a particularly striking performance as Dot, the hard-boiled gold-digger, who falls in love with her "sucker" so hard she goes West to reform him and win his affection.

GARRETT NOT A CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

TO THE VOTERS OF MITCHELL COUNTY:

The undersigned will not be a candidate this year. I served part of a term. You then nominated and elected me for two full terms. I have given you every ounce of service I could. I choose to retire in favor of whomever you select to take my place.

I will have been County Attorney for more than five years. The office has paid less than a living, less than what I was making prior to assuming the office. Five years free service is enough for one man to give to the public.

Thanking you for every favor, courtesy and kindness shown me during my whole term of office I am,

Yours respectfully,
W. H. GARRETT

WONDERFUL HORSEMANSHIP IN 'WESTWARD BOUND'

One of the noteworthy features of "Westward Bound," a Syndicate talkie, featuring Buddy Roosevelt, Buffalo Bill, Jr. and Allene Ray, which is scheduled for presentation at the Palace Theatre, Saturday, January 2, is the remarkable display of horsemanship therein. This is explained by the fact that the producer of the picture had at his disposal the most wonderful stable of blooded stock on the west coast.

The picture is produced by Harry Webb who has raised horses for a very long time. The Webb horses have played a prominent part in many big picture productions in the past but at no time have they created more admiration than in this new Syndicate talkie and all lovers of horses should avail themselves of this opportunity of seeing so many splendid animals in action.

Taking it by and large, "Westward Bound" offers from every angle the utmost in screen entertainment.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

ORANGE, Texas, Dec. 15.—Policeman Elmer Dunlap of this city, who serves a part of his time as Poundmaster, was chagrined Wednesday night to find that he had impounded his own milk cow.

He was not aware of what he had done until he observed the absence of the family cow at home.

The officer explained that he had been milking the cow but a short time and was not familiar with her appearance.

Eddy county, New Mexico, has sufficient proven potash area to supply the domestic needs of United States for many years with an increased demand.

A radio broadcast by the Mineral Wells chamber of commerce offering a tire cover to the first person responding from each State in the Union, brought 250 letters.

A half million tin cans were used in home canning of foods in Denton county this year.

The pupils played well and showed evidence of excellent training. After the completion of the program Mrs. Meskimen and Mr. Herrington gave selection. There was also an informal "sing song," and a jolly good time was enjoyed by all.

Baptist Church Notes Happy New Year, everybody! Putting the old year far behind and resolving to indeed make 1932 a greater than ever before. The church has bright prospects for blessings this year.

Conference from last Sunday was concluded. Our newly called pastor, Rev. Allen of Brownfield, has not as yet been heard from in regard to his acceptance, but the church is enthusiastic in hopes for getting back in the work as never before. Perhaps it was the sunshine, but we think it must have been the wonderful spirit of the year which urged so many of our people back in Sunday school. To Baptists here and who should be enlisted, we challenge you to a resolution which lasts longer than New Year's Day.

Get behind your church and be one of the lifters—no longer a leaker.

H. A. Cook, Deputy For Many Years, Seeks Election Next July

H. A. Cook, deputy sheriff, is the first citizen to announce for office in the 1932 elections. Cook authorized the statement Monday that he was a candidate or sheriff, subject to the democratic primary election Saturday, July 23.

Mr. Cook has been schooled in experience as an officer for a number of years. He has filled the office of an undersheriff in this county for about fifteen years and has ever served with distinction to himself and credit to his constituency.

The candidate has spent the greater part of his life in Mitchell county. Practically every voter in the county knows him personally and most of them are familiar with his record as a peace officer. He is making the campaign solely upon his merits, pledging to fill the important office of sheriff to the very best of his ability.

Mr. Cook stated that he would make an effort to see every voter of the county before the primary election in July. In the meantime, he would appreciate the consideration if voters would investigate his claim for the office to which he aspires.

the legislature into session twice, in special sessions.

The first year of operation of the East Texas oil fields, brought in late 1930, glutted the oil market until drastic steps were taken by the legislature and by Governor Ross Sterling in bringing sane production and development to the field. But crude oil had dropped to the unprecedented low of 10 cents a barrel before the legislature had passed a more stringent conservation law to give the railroad commission power to enforce proration orders, and Governor Sterling called out the militia to see that these orders were enforced.

Out of these maneuvers, however, came disquieting litigation, which still is pending in the courts. Several independents have filed a suit seeking to restrain the officials from enforcement of proration laws. Attorney General James Allred has filed onerous suits against 15 major oil companies charging violation of the anti-trust laws.

With the days of uncertainty in the oil industry apparently over and the leaders having gained experience in handling problems, oil men predict that the industry faces a more prosperous year in 1932.

A large surplus of cotton bought ridiculously low prices on the market during 1931. A special legislature enacted a statute restricting cotton planting in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the cultivated acreage of 1931 in an effort to curb production and bring back better prices.

Historians two score years from now will write of 1931, and perhaps of 1932, as a transition period for Texas. Crop statistics, charters and business records afford proof that the Lone Star state is changing from agricultural to an industrial empire.

DAUGHTER BORN TO EPISCOPAL MINISTER On the evening of December 29th, at the C. L. Root Hospital, there was born to Rev. and Mrs. Alex B. Hanson, a daughter, whom they will name Howard Gordon Hanson, after her mother. This is the first infant to be born to a minister of the Protestant Episcopal church while serving in the Missionary District of North Texas; and the birth of little Howard will be of interest to the many friends of Rev. and Mrs. Hanson here and throughout the District.
