ANNUAL MEETING CHAMBER Of COMMERCE

J. A. KEMP

"I feel better about the future of Wichita Falls than I have ever felt before in my life, as a result of this meeting tonight."—J. A. Kemp, Director Chamber of Commerce.

Last Evening Witnessed One of the Most Enthusiastic Gathering of Business Men Ever Held in the City at Which Over $10,000 Was Pledged to Garry on the Work of Developing Wichita Falls, the Largest Amount Ever Subscribed at an Annual Meeting of the Organization.—A Delightful Banquet was Served Immediately Following the Meeting at the Opera House.—Further Subscribtions will be Solicited By a Committee Appointed for the Purpose.

An important duty in connection with the development of Wichita Falls presented itself to the people again last evening, and with that characteristic enthusiasm that has been manifest from time to time on such occasions, it was performed with a fidelity that is not only commendable of a people, but which is, and should be, the pride of every loyal citizen in the city. With an enthusiasm known to few, if any, cities in the country, this people has again gone on record as the pronounced exponents of real city building and have blazed the way for a series of accomplishments during the year just beginning that will surpass even the wonderful achievements of the past, and which will be, in their nature, so conspicious as to command the admiration and applause of an appreciative world. It was a great commercial revival, as it were, and incidentally, a striking illustration of the "Wichita Falls Way," so well known to the country at large.

If there is a man in Wichita Falls who is pessimistic as to the future, or one who is disposed to complain because, perchance, conditions have not been as favorable as he would have liked; if there is one who entertained for a moment the thought that our people were disposed to be derilect in their duty to the city, or permit its interests to suffer on account of a lack of enthusiasm among its builders, that person, if present last evening, could not but have had all such doubt dispelled, and at the same time he made ashamed of his seeming indifference to the manifest determination of this exceedingly earnest people. As man after man arose to pledge a portion of his income to the further development of Wichita Falls, the enthusiasm increased, until within an incredibly short time, and with little persuasion, the sum of $10,056 was raised as a foundation for promoting the city's interests during the next twelve months. Not only this, but in the face of the fact that the past year has been considered one of business depression, this amount is the largest ever raised in the city for a like purpose. In the presence of such a response to the call of duty one does not wonder at the remark of R. E. Huff, the faithful president of the organization, at the conclusion of the meeting, when he said: "I believe that we are going to do the greatest work that we have ever done." Nor could one marvel at the expression of Mr. Kemp, when he stated: "I feel better about the future of Wichita Falls than I have ever felt before in my life." These expressions, coming from two men from among those who have manifested the greatest degree of interest in the work of the Chamber of Commerce, are an index to the general sentiment that prevailed at the conclusion of the meeting last night.

To the strains of sweet music furnished by the Wichita Falls Band, about 250 of the city's progressive citizenship filed into the opera house last evening about 8 o'clock for the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, an occasion that has become, by virtue of its importance and achievements, a history making event and one that is looked forward to with ever increasing interest as the date approaches. That each succeeding meeting is productive of a greater degree of enthusiasm was forcibly demonstrated on this occasion and that the annual meetings of this organization are increasing in importance from time to time, was obvious to all who have witnessed the growth in sentiment during the life of the organization.

The expression contained in the faces of the town builders of this city last night as they assumed their seats in the opera house, was that of good fellowship, and every expression, both at the business meeting and at the banquet was characterized by an optimism known to but few cities in the entire country. A neighborly interest in the welfare of the city predominated throughout and the spirit of "pull together" was manifest as it has been so often before in dealing with matters having for their object the promotion of the industrial development of Wichita Falls.

The audience was truly a representative one, comprising as it did the banker, the merchant the professional man, the skilled mechanic and the day laborer; the man who, by virtue of his success in life, is abie and willing to contribute largely to the annual fund of the organization, and the man who, while not so fortunately situated is nevertheless as enthusiastic, and cheerfully subscribes his $1.00 per month to the cause of city building, a contribution that is in its nature as commendable and that is as much appreciated as the greater sum.

The meeting was called to order by Judge R. E. Huff, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who introductory to the proceedings, requested Mayor Noble to announce the result of the election held for a $25,000 bond issue for paving. The announcement was made that 253 votes were cast, of which 243 were for the bond issue, while only 10 were voted against the question. The result was received with loud applause and served to temper the meeting with a greater degree of enthusiasm than had prevailed before.

Judge Huff thereupon delivered his annual address, reciting the results accomplished during the past year and outlined briefly some of the plans proposed for the future. The address, which was received with much interest and appreciation, was as follows:

President Huff's Address.

Gentlemen: One year ago we met in this building and by unanimous vote decided that it was to the interest of our city that we continue the Chamber of Commerce and broaden its work for 1910.

While the past year has been disappointing in some respects, owing to an almost total failure of all crops but cotton, the work of building a city here has steadily proceeded even when many of our neighbors were halting and falling back.

Our county, though the smallest west of the Cross Timbers, has passed every one of her forty-eight sister counties in the Twenty-ninth district, except our big sister on the east to whose progress we partly contribute and though nearly twice our area, she is not quite 1,000 people ahead of us.

Our city is twenty-fifth in the list of forty, which exceed 5,000 people in Texas, having passed fifteen of them in the past ten years and there is not a man here tonight who should not determine that within the next ten years we will pas fifteen more and take rank at least tenth among the cities of Texas.

Chamber of Commerce Perfects Reorganization

For the third successive time, R. E. Huff was chosen this morning to head the Chamber of Commerce, and Wylie Blair was also elected first vice president for the third successive term. J. C. Tandy was re-elected second vice-president.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce, chosen last night, met this morning for re-organization and to discuss plans for the ensuing year. Wylie Blair was appointed temporary chairman. Frank Kell moved that Mr. Huff be re-elected president for the ensuing year. Mr. Huff opened the minute records of a meeting in 1909 and read: "No member shall serve more than two terms"—when one of the directors reminded him that he was reading ancient history and before he could proceed, had been unanimously re-elected and the chair refused to hear his protests. "You seem to have about as much political influence with the Chamber of Commerce as you had at Iowa Park upon a certain occasion," he was told.

Plans to increase the membership of the organization and to rate every member according to his wealth and the amount he contributed toward the Chamber of Commerce when the membership lists were printed were discussed.

It was practically decided that every director should secure ten new memberships or be required to pay in addition to his regular contribution the sum that ten new members would pay.

It was also voted that a committee of three should be appointed to formulate a plan of classifying the members according to the amounts they contributed. This committee will be named by the temporary chairman.

Acting Secretary Thomas reported that members who were active in 1910, but who had not yet received their memberships, had contributed about $240 per month. If they renew their subscriptions and it is added to the sum subscribed, more than $1,000 per month will be raised in the coming year.

Frank Kell, representing the committee appointed to investigate the engine and boiler works, which contemplates removing here from Corinth, Miss., heartily recommended a further investigation of the proposition, with which he said he was most favorably impressed. Mr. Kell, N. Henderson and J. G. Culberson were appointed to go to Corinth to inspect the plant. Mr. Kell said that a written proposition had been submitted by a representative of the company. It is claimed that the plant has an intrinsic value of $100,000. The cost of moving and for building here would be about $25,000. The company proposes to fix its capital at $125,000, of which it will ask the citizens of Wichita Falls to subscribe $25,000. The committee appointed will go to Corinth in the near future to investigate the plant more fully.

Mr. Kemp reported very favorable progress with the plans for the automobile factory and said he believed the company would be organized without any bonus or stock subscriptions being asked from the citizens. He said, however, that any citizen would have an opportunity to subscribe for stock.

Resolutions were adopted, thanking the St. James Hotel and complimenting the banquet last night.

A resolution was adopted calling upon all eligible citizens to pay poll tax, so they could be qualified to vote and to give the city a good showing.

R. E. Huff, N. Henderson and Frank Kell were named as a committee to confer with F. H. Day of Fort Worth, relative to the secretaryship of the Chamber of Commerce.

Board of Directors Employ F. H. Day as Secretary.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce this morning employed F. H. Day of Fort Worth as secretary of that organization. Mr. Day's salary is to be $200 per month and he is to start work next week.

Mr. Day came to Texas several years ago and was connected with one of the largest realty and development projects in South Texas. Later he became advertising manager of the Fort Worth Record and has recently been highly honored by the Associated Advertising Clubs of America. He is a publicity man of recognized ability and has very favorably impressed the citizens here with whom he has come in contact.

The Chamber of Commerce now has a substantial sum to its credit and has a larger sum subscribed than has ever been pledged in the history of the city. The membership was never more harmonous or enthusiastic, and all signs point to a year of great achievements.

Government Man Is Here.

W. L. Ganzer, of Denton, in charge of the U. S. Government demonstration work in this part of the state was a visitor to the city yesterday. Mr. Ganzer was here in connection with the demonstration work in this county, preparatory to a more extended visit contemplated about the first of February.

In discussing the movement with a Times reporter yesterday afternoon, Mr. Ganzer stated that they expected to give considerable attention to this county the coming year and that upon the occasion of his visit here again he expected to make extensive preparations for carrying on the work.

The appointment of a man to have charge of the demonstration work here has not as yet been made, but it is thought that Mr. J. W. Campbell, who has been recommended by the Chamber of Commerce, will be given the place.

Mr. Ganzer left on the early morning train for Munster, in Cooke county.

Start Ball Rolling.

Special to The Times.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 11.—Dilatory tactics were resorted to today in the senate with considerable success. In view of the fact that the house was not expected to get thoroughly organized until late this afternoon, the anti-prohibitionists believed the time propitious to start the ball to rolling.

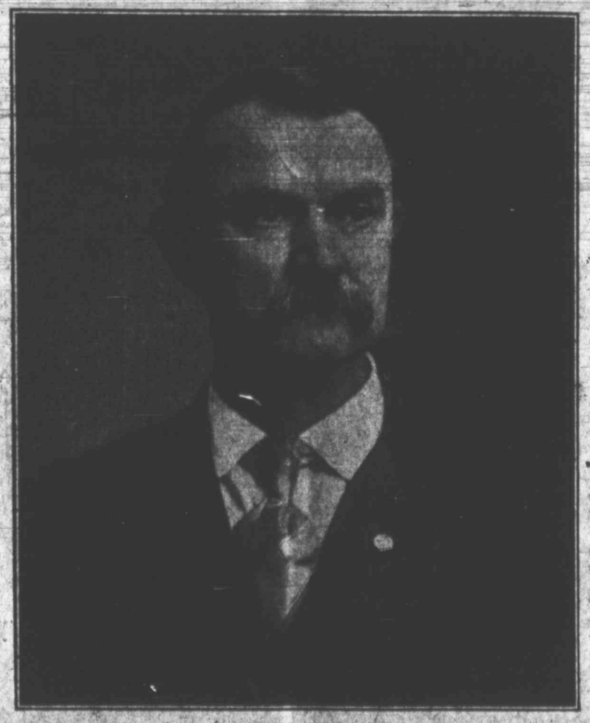

Senator Kaufman of Galveston, offered a resolution that the senate adjourn until tomorrow, when Senator Cofer, the pro leader, offered a substitute to recess until 2:30 this afternoon. A roll call was had on Kaufman's motion and it was lost by a vote of 16 to 10. Cofer's motion then carried.

Lieutenant Governor Davidson said that the house would not likely complete its organization today.

Annual Banquet Last Night A Pronunced Success

That "Pull Together" spirit of cooperation and good fellowship for which Wichita Falls is so justly famed, was never given a better exemplification than last night, when the progressive citizenship of the city gathered around their annual banquet board.

The banquet was spread in the spacious dining room of the St. James hotel and the menu was one which reflected credit on the justly famed hostlery. Covers were laid for 160 guests and every seat was filled. The tables were set in the form of a gigantic V with smaller tables in the center. A fresh and beautiful carnation was laid at every plate.

The menu was as follows:

Fresh Crab Cocktail
Melon Mangoes Celery
Savory Bouillion, En Cups
Salted Almonds
Fresh Shrimp, Tartar Sauce
Gherkins
Broiled Tenderloin, Natural
Shoe String Potatoes
White Rock Mineral Water
Chicken Salad
Asparagus Tips Vinagrette
Neapolitan Ice Cream
Nabisco Wafers
Schloss Kasse Paprika
Bent's Crackers
Nuts Coffee Raisins
La Regalita Havanas

In the absence of Hon. L. H. Mathis, who was to deliver the principal address of the evening who was called out of town on urgent business, Toastmaste Wiley Blair called upon Hon. C. C. Huff to respond to the toast, "Wichita Falls; Her Past, Present and Future." In his characteristic humorous way, Mr. Huff recalled some early reminesces of the town in early days, telling of R. E. Huff's speech to the mob that hung the bank robbers. In the early days, Mr. Huff said, the principal occupation of the citizens was to vote out the corporation, to deed purchasers more lots than they had bought, to shoulder upon them the payment of taxes. He said that the whole population turned out to the ball games and that from April to November Frank Collier was "The Man on the Box," the "Matinee Idol" and the whole show.

"After those days the citizens began to band together and talk about doing something for the town," Mr. Huff said, "and began the practice of going out of town and getting the best men from other towns.

"In those days the citizens contracted for a railroad every thirty days and every time J. A. Kemp heard of a man who had bought a railroad bond he got on the train and hunted him up and implored him to build into this territory."

Mr. Huff then reviewed briefly the progress that had been made since our own people started building railroads themselves and declared that with the same spirit that now prevails in Wichita Falls no man could safely predict what the future had in store for the city.

Clyde Thatcher was next called upon. He recounted a different version of Judge Huff's address to the mob and told of the time that he had passed a petition asking for an election to dissolve the corporation. He said that he had been commissioned to represent the ladies of the Civic League and presented the following toast, written by the poetess laureate of that organization:

A Toast to the Chamber of Commerce.

"May you enjoy this feast tonight,
Business success with cigars is your delight;
To man nothing is so much the winner
As to converse with friends over a savory dinner.
However, do not indulge too much in wine,
Forgetting the fair matrons, left behind;
Beware of much drink, beware of intrigue;
Three cheers for the Chamber of Commerce from the Civic League!
Laugh much over your dinner; talk much of duty;
We pray you, think much of the city's beauty.
Then forget not our mission while in converse—
Three cheers again for the Chamber of Commerce!"

Dr. J. L. McKee said that he came to Wichita Falls the first time with no intention of locating here. "When I came into contact with the splendid sprit that prevails, I felt myself at home. I have been watching the pace set by the citizenship and my only concern is my ability to keep up with the procession."

Mr. Gates, of Carroll-Brough-Robinson & Gates, said that he came to Wichita Falls on a prospective trip about a year ago. I went back to Oklahoma City and told my associates that I had found something. I asked them for $100,000; they gave it to me, and we came here and established a house. We have met with a most gratifying success," he said.

Mr. C. W. Snider said: "Wichita Falls can show a Missourian or any one else . I have been pleased every minute since I came to this city."

A high tribute to the patriotism of R. E. Huff, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was paid by Dr. J. M. Bell: "No man has labored more zealously for the interests of the city than Mr. Huff. I assure him that I will stand with him with locked shields looking forward to greater and better achievements.

J. G. Culbertson said that he had been in nearly every state in the Union and that Wichita Falls pleased him better than any other. "It's spirit is catching, and I have become infected," he said.

Frank Kell paid a high compliment to the citizenship of Wichita Falls: "I believe you are the most progressive set of men in the southwest," he said. "There is not another city in Texas that would have done what we have done here tonight," he declared in speaking of the sum raised to carry on the work of the Chamber of Commerce.

J. A. Kemp predicted that Wichita Falls would have a population of not less than 25,000 within five year. He spoke of the packing plant and the automobile factory as practical certainties. He said that the automobile factory would employ not less than 500 men within twelve months.

R. E. Huff mentioned the fact that the paving bond issue had carried by a vote of more than 24 to 1 and said that this would not have been possible in any other city in the southwest.

Col. R. M. Moore and J. L. Jackson also delivered addresses of rare eloquence.

Annual Report of Secretary of Chamber of Commerce

To the President, Board of Directors, and Members of the Chamber of Commerce:

Gentlemen:—At the close of the fiscal year, the inhabitants of Wichita Falls can feel justly proud of the rapid growth of our city, not only for the handsome increase in population but for the large number of paying industries that we have succeeded in securing. This is enough to make our sister cities sit up and take notice that great things can be accomplished by a correct system of advertising, as is shown by Northern and Eastern capitalists locating with us, which gives us assurance that there are many good things in store for a "Greater Wichita Falls." It is not necessary for me to go into detail just at this point as to the many things we have accomplished during the year, but I will call your attention to the continued "Pull Together" spirit that has enabled us to secure such handsome improvements as the new Kemp and Kell building, the Union Passenger Depot, the Northwestern Brick Company, and many other minor improvements. For the incoming year, we have the assurance of the location of a Wireless Telegraph Station, Automobile Factory, and the Packing Plant, all of which will be in operation at an early date as per contracts. It is true the citizens deserve the greater part of the praise in securing these industries, for it was through them that the bonuses have been raised, still credit must be given to the untiring efforts of the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce through whom the first propositions were ever offered us.

While we must confess that our zealousness to advertise Wichita Falls, embarrassed us to the extent of about $1,000 at the middle of October, still we are glad to say that, by good collections and extra subscriptions, we have been able to wipe out the overdraft at the bank and are now ready to start the new year with a clean sheet and a nice little balance to insure the carrying on of a successful publicity campaign.

The receipts of the foregoing statement have been collected from an average of 250 members, in monthly payments ranging from $1.00 to $75.00. On account of not making a thorough canvass at the beginning of the past year, the membership has considerably decreased while the income has continued in line with that of 1909, as is shown by the monthly average of $893.15 against $813.00, the monthly average of last year.

Recognizing the fact that publicity is the chief element in town development work, much time and attention, and as much money as could be spared has been devoted to this feature. This organization should get aside not less than one-third of the total receipts to be devoted specifically to advertising in Northern and Eastern Periodicals, setting forth our advantages, resources and opportunities along commercial, manufacturing and agricultural lines. This is the most important part of commercial club activity, and it is not now receiving the substantial encouragement necessary to secure the best results in the upbuilding of Wichita Falls and Wichita county. Through an arrangement with the Daily Times and Daily News, our local paper has been sent to six hundred inquirers. We also mailed out 5,000 personal letters in answer to newspaper, advertising, and 300 personal letters were written to as many manufacturers, contemplating a change in location. 250 mounted birds-eye views of Wichita Falls and Lake Wichita, have been placed in the principal hotels in many Northern and Eastern states; and 200 unmounted birds-eye views have also been sent to manufacturers who might be induced to locate in Wichita Falls. We have mailed out 5,000 copies of The Coming City, a monthly bulletin, prepared and published by Secretary Barrickman, dealing with the advantages and resources of Wichita Falls and Wichita county. Besides this, we have mailed out 10,000 envelope inserts, 9,000 small folders, showing 23 local views, and 1,500 booklets, issued by the Iowa Park Commercial Club. There have been a number of special articles prepared and sent out to be published in numerous Texas papers, including the Fort Worth Record, The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, The Dallas News, The Texas Banker, The Texas Magazine, The Manufacturer's Record, The Kansas City Star, The Tradesman, and others.

Through the united efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and the people in general, the Northwestern Brick Co. has been located here, and when completed will have a daily capacity of 100,000 bricks. Henry's Business College, which promises to be a valuable asset in advertising Wichita Falls, was located here through this organization. A test well was drilled near the city in an effort to secure cheaper gas and as a result of this undertaking, the price of gas was lowered from 9 cents to 7 cents per thousand cubic feet. By using the industrial addition plan, we have succeeded in landing an automobile factory which we expect to be in operation within a very short time. The Texas Fiscal Agency has made arrangements to put a Wireless Station in Wichita Falls, without any assistance whatever, other than a fair proportion of the telegraphic business. The Chamber of Commerce has secured the location of a furniture jobbing house and mattress factory which show every evidence of being successful. During the early part of last May, a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce raised a bonus of $50,000 as an inducement for the location of a packing plant, the outcome of which is to be learned this evening. If we can accomplish nothing more than this during the entire year 1911, we will be amply repaid for all our time and money expended in our determined efforts to make this a greater and better Wichita Falls.

Realizing that nothing gives a town more favorable advertising than a convention or an excursion, persistent effort has been made to secure as many conventions for Wichita Falls as possible. We have succeeded in entertaining the County Judges' and Commissioners' convention, The North Texas Press Association, which will also meet here again next June, the Northwest Texas Medical Association, The Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma Association of Commercial Clubs, and the North Texas Methodist Conference. Besides the North Texas Press Association, we have been successful in getting the Annual Meeting of the Texas Retail Merchants' Association, and the Christian Endeavor Society, all of which will meet here next summer. The Chamber of Commerce with the co operation of the Retail Merchants' Association, ran a successful excursion to Elk City in celebration of the completion of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railway to that point. We also entertained, at Lake Wichita, 200 especially invited guests from the different towns along the line of the Northwestern. Excursions from various points on the Fort Worth and Denver, the Missouri Kansas and Texas, the Wichita Valley, the Northwestern and the Southern Railways have been run into Wichita Falls during the summer and as a result we have received extensive local advertising.

During the past year particular effort has been put forth toward the agricultural development of Wichita county, and to insure a continued interest in this undertaking, the Chamber of Commerce entertained a number of Boys' Corn Clubs in May, with the view of encouraging them in their efforts to derive benefits from a systematized diversification. The co-operation of the farmers was asked for in making the Wichita County Exhibit at the Dallas and Oklahoma City fairs a success, and, to this end, we succeeded in securing the services of Mr. J. T. Young who made a thorough canvass of the county and secured the choice products of the different farmers, and also obtained numerous samples of the output of our various manufacturing enterprises. As a result of these exhibits, both our city and county received a kind of advertising that could have been gotten in no other way. The Chamber of Commerce, with several other Commercial organizations, joined in a call for a meeting of the farmers at Haskell for the purpose of organizing a Northwest Texas Dry Farming Congress. This movement was indorsed by all nearby Commercial Clubs and by the State Commissioner of Agriculture.

While Wichita Falls has been advancing along commercial and agricultural lines, we have not lost sight of our civic affairs. Among some of the civic improvements are the extension of the Express Delivery, the issuance of bonds for two additional school buildings and for the paving of the business section of Wichita Falls, the contract for this paving is to be let on the 17th day of the present month, and the reduction of the fire insurance rate from sixty-four to thirty-six cents. A successful clean-up-day was conducted in co-operation with the Civic League and Mr. H. M. Weed, a noted landscape artist of Chicago, delivered an address on civic improvement. We have co-operated in the formation of a Choral Club and the organization of a first class military band.

The incoming year should start out with a permanent membership committee having charge of a continuous campaign for new members who should pay according to the value of their property and means. This committee should revise the membership rolls at frequent intervals for the purpose of getting rid of members who refuse to pay their monthly dues and also for the purpose of keeping in line those who are able but slow to observe their obligations. Every effort should be made to secure natural gas at five cents or less in order that Wichita Falls may keep getting her proportion of industrial enterprises. Out to be paved streets will not show up as they should unless we make some improvements in the way of street lighting over the business section if no more. There are a great many things that it would be well for us to go after but none of these would cause such rejoicing as actual work on the packing plant.

Respectfully submitted,
J. W. THOMAS,
Acting Secretary.

Texas' Opportunity.

A bill to create in Texas a state bureau of child and animal protection will probably be introduced in the legislature of that state this winter. If it is, it is to be hoped it will go through without opposition.

The experience of Colorado for ten years has shown that in no other way yet tried can the physical, mental and moral welfare of all the children of the state be safeguarded and promoted. In no other way can the abused and neglected lesser animals be protected.

The experience of this state proves also that the only way to get results from such a bureau is to keep it absolutely divorced from politics and political intluences and to leave it in the hands of those who have already made the protection of children and animals a labor of love. The counsels of the ambitious, the selfish and the inexperienced should be disregarded.

The reason why Colorado assumes to speak with authority on the subject of child and animal protection is that for twenty years we tried to accomplish it effectively through a society such as exists in most other places. We changed then to a state bureau and have been operating on that plan for ten years past.

We think we know by experience most of the things to seek and most of those to avoid in both systems.

As a result of that experience we say without reservation of qualification that the state board system, provided it is kept wholly free from political influences, provided it is left solely in the hands of those who are exclusively concerned with it and provided it is made and kept an independent board, unconnected with other interests and independent of them is as far superior to the old society system of child and animal protection as the public school system is superior to one of private schools, and for much the same reasons. But all these provisos must be observed in order to insure success.

As in the education of children, their protection in other ways is theconcern of the whole state, not of charity or philanthropy. There will be plenty of room left for these latter after the state has gone as far as it can. As with private schools refinements of education are possible wihch can not be expected of the public school system, so private and semi-private beneficence can fill up the gaps left by the state and carry efforts for the benefit of children and for the protection of animals further in special cases and in specific ways than the state can.

But if we are to have all the children and all the animals protected, the state must do it even if it is not done quite as completely and well for all of them as societies may sometimes do it for a few of them, exactly as the state must see to education if all the children are to be educated, even if private schools can do a little better in some ways and in some cases.

It is a question of the size and universality of results more than of their perfection. It is better to cultivate a farm even moderately well than to spend one's time in bringing a flower bed to the highest possible perfection.

Experience has taught this board, as already said, that child and animal protection must be run by itself. It can not be tied up or with any other board or any other interest if the best results are to be had. It must be free not only from political control and even political influence, but from any other control or influence except that which has the good of the state in view as it is involved in the welfare of these helpless classes.

Should any one raise the question of uniting under one board the protection of animals with that of children, we have found also that each profits by association with the other; that the officers who enforce the one can at the same time enforce the other, and that the union brings to the support of both all who are interested in either.

Nothing marks so well the civilization of a state or country as the protection given to the weak and helpless. Nothing in government, society or education pays so well as intelligent and careful protection of the child. Aside from its economic value, the protection of the lesser animals on moral grounds weighs more and more heavily on our consciences.

It will be only a little while before all our western states will have taken this great step forward which Colorado, Wyoming and Montana have already taken. We hope Texas will be the next and that the coming legislature will make of the Texas State Humane Society the Texas State Bureau of Child and Animal Protection.—From "Child and Animal Protection."

Got Something Else, Too

"I liked my coffee strong and I drank it strong," says a Penn. woman, telling a good story, "and although I had headaches nearly every day I just would not believe there was any connection between the two.

I had weak and heavy spells and palpitation of the heart, too, and although husband told me he thought it was coffee that made me so poorly and did not drink it himself for he said it did not agree with him, yet I loved my coffee and thought I just couldn't do without it.

"One day a friend at my home—that was a year ago—I spoke about how well she was looking and she said:

"Yes, and I feel well too. It's because I am drinking Postum in place of ordinary coffee."

"I said, what is Postum?"

"Then she told me how it was a food-drink and how much better she felt since using it in place of coffee or tea, so I sent to the store and bought a package and when it was made according to directions it was so good I have never bought a pound of coffee since. I began to improve immediately.

"I cannot begin to tell you how much better I feel since using Postum and leaving coffee alone. My health is better than it has been for years and I cannot say enough in praise of this delicious food drink."

Take away the destroyer and put a rebuilder to work and Nature will do the rest. That's what you do when Postum takes coffee's place in your diet. "There's a Reason."

TARIFF EXPERTS GATHER TO URGE COMMISSION

Meeting Intended to Promote Organized Campaign For a Tariff Commission.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Scores of delegates, some of them appointed by the governors of the various states and many others representing trade bodies and commercial organizations in every section of the country, were on hand today at the opening of the National Tariff Commission convention at the New Willard Hotel.

The National Tariff Commission Association, under whose auspices the convention meets, is an affiliation of nearly one hundred commercial and industrial organizations of the country banded together to conduct an organized campaign for the creation by Congress of a permanent tariff commission.

A permanent, bi-partisan commission of tariff experts is sought by the association as the best solution of the tariff question. This commission is not to fix rates, but to act as advisers and recommenders to Congress. The members are to serve constantly, the same as other government bureaus, and it is part of the program to have them take up one section of the tariff at a time, so that the business world need feel no apprehension that radical and general changes in rates are to be made at any time.

President Taft has publicly stated his entire approval of the permanent tariff commission plan and is expected to reiterate his views on the subject when he speaks at the banquet which will bring the convention to a close tomorrow night. At the general sessions of the convention the speaksr will include Senator Cumins of Iowa, Senator Beveridge of Indiana, Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, President Schurman of Cornell University, and Allen Riplel Foote, of Columbus, Ohio.

MONEY BACK.

The Marchman Drug Store Sells a Remarkable Catarrh Cure.

Pour a few drops of HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-me) into the hard rubber inhaler and you can then breathe into the lungs the very same antiseptic germ killing air as you would breathe in the Australian forests of eucalyptus, where catarrh is unknown.

And HYOMEI is so pleasant to use; you'll like to use it; when you breathe it the effect on the inflamed catarrh infected and germ ridden membrane is soothing and healing.

In five minutes you get such wonderful relief that you will know that at last you have a cure for catarrh.

A HYOMEI outfit which consists of one bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper and simple instructions for use, costs only $1.00, and extra bottles of HYOMEI, if afterward needed, 50 cents.

Besides catarrh, remember that HYOMEI is guaranteed to cure asthma, croup, bronchitis, coughs, colds, sore throat, or money back. HYOMEI is sold by O. F. Marchman and leading druggists everywhere. Trial sample free from Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE DAY'S BEST STORIES.

Her Reason.

She stood before her parents with demurely downcast eyes.

"My daughter," he said "I am indeed grieved to hear of your goings on."

"Goings on, daddy?" she asked.

"Goings on, my wayward offspring. Last year your fond mother warned you that unless you soon became engaged she would not hold herself responsible for your future. But now she informs me you have become engaged to five different people."

"Oh, don't worry daddy," she responded, smiling.

"Worry!" he echoed. "How can I help worrying?"

"You see, they're all football players."

"And what on earth," he demanded, "has that to do with it?"

She smiled at him half compassionately as she answered: "Why, everything. At the end of the season I shall marry the survivor."

—t—

Pacified Her.

The beautiful girl was in a temper. "Now," she exclaimed impetuously, "you see I can stamp my foot."

But the young man only smiled. This made her furious.

"There," she snapped, bringing her tiny heel down on the pavement, "I'll snap it again."

"Oh, you are too extravagant."

"Extravagant?"

"Yes; anything as small as your feet only requires one stamp."

—t—

A Model Nurse.

"Yes, our little 4-year-old is such a comfort and such a help to me," said Mrs. Masman to a lady caller. "Why, he can take care of his baby sister as well as any nurse. He is in the next room now playing with little Dorothy. (Raises her voice.) Walter!"

"Yeth, mamma."

"Are you taking care of little sister?"

"Yeth, mamma."

"What are you doing?"

"Oh, I'a des playin' I'a a barber, an' I'a shavin' her wif papa's razor."

IN LIGHTER VEIN.

Coal Man's Delight.

The wintery winds are blowing,
The thermometer is lowering,
While the coal man's face is covered with a smile.
He is raking in the dollar,
While from cold the people holler,
His bank account is growing all the while.
So he likes to see it snowing,
And colder, colder growing,
He prays that zero days may here long stay.
He likes that kind of weather,
That make the people shiver;
It makes the coal man happy and so gay.

—Boston Advertiser.

Unmatched Glory.

"Woman's glory is her hair,"
So someone stated.
And mere man can only stare—
His breath quite bated—
For oft he sees piled on her head
Hair enough to stuff a bed,
While in hue it must be said,
'Tis variegated.

Young at the Business.

General Howard was an invited guest at a dinner given by a boys' patriotic club. "You eat very well, my boy," said the general to a doughty young trencherman. "If you love your flag as well as your dinner, you'll make a good patriot."

"Yes, sir," said the boy, "but I've been practicing eating twelve years and I ain't owned a gun but six months."

—Success Magazine.

In Florida.

Simeler—What on earth are you taking a picture of those dismal sand hills for? Why don't you get some of the beautiful scenery around the hotel?

Doubler—Tush, tush, old boy! These are for my wife at home. If I send anything else she'll come down and spoil the Christmas celebration I have arranged.

—Judge.

Mild.

"Don't you think my new suit is a perfect fit?"

"A fit! Why, it's a perfect convulsion."

—Toledo Blade.

The Early Worm.

A father had been lecturing his young hopeful on the evils of staying out late at night and getting up late in the morning. "You will never amount to anything," he continued, "unless you turn over a new leaf. Remember that the early bird catches the worm."

"How about the worm, father?" inquired the young man. "Wasn't he rather foolish to get up so early?"

"My son," said the father, solemnly, "that worm hadn't been to bed all night; he was on his way home.

—Ideas.

Brooking No Interference.

The lone bandit was about to enter the sleeping car.

"Stand back!" cried the furious porter, confronting him with a magazine gun in each hand. "I haven't gone through these passengers myself yet!"

With a yell of impotent rage the baffled villian threw himself from the train.

—Chicago Tribune.

One of the Forgotten.

Mr. Goode—Did you hang up your stocking on Christmas eve?

Little Rambo—I sho' did.

Mr. Goode—Did you have any luck?

Little Rambo—Well, I reckon you might call it some luck. Nobody didn't steal de stockin.'

Railway Men at Tampa.

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 11.—More than one hundred prominent railway officials of the United States, Canada and Mexico are attending the annual convention of the National Association of Railway Agents, which met here today for a four-day session. Numerous features of entertainment have been arranged for the visiting railway men, many of whom are accompanied by their families.

BANK FAILURE HAS BAD LITTLE EFFECT

Closing of Carnegie Trust Company Caused But Little Excitement in New York.

New York, Jan. 11.—The financial horizon was decidedly clearer today as a result of conferences held last night to provide against any unsettling of the stability of financial organizations allied to the Carnegie Trust company. Action by Superintendent Cheney, J. P. Morgan and associate bankers has brought added stability to the banking situation, it was generally agreed.

The conference of bankers at the home of Paul D. Cravath did not conclude until early this morning, and while it was in progress almost constant telephone communication was maintained with J. P. Morgan.

Five directors of the three banks retired following the conference.

Certain assets of the Nineteenth Ward and Twelfth Ward banks have, by direction of Banking Superintendent Cheney, been replaced by money and J. P. Morgan agreed to give whatever financial assistance was necessary.

Little excitement was manifested by those wishing to withdraw their deposits from the Trust company's branches and allied banks. The line at the Twelfth Ward bank included only about fifty persons, a majority of them foreigners, and many of these went away when informed of the developments over night.

There was some excitement at the savings department of the Nineteen Ward bank at Fifty-seventh street and Third avenue, where there were about 200 people in line when the bank opened and at the branch on East Eighty-sixth street, where 400 depositors were in line. At the Seventy-second street branch there were about 100 people in line.

There was not the slightest disorder, however, at any of the branches. At the main bank all was quiet, depositors displaying considerably more confidence than those of the savings departments.

As an indication of the good feelings in financial quarters, prices on the stock exchange showed fractional gains in a number of the stocks and the market was moderately active. Some of the leading stocks showed advances. A similar sentiment was shown from other financial centers.

The guarantee signed by the Carnegie Trust company directors for the $650,000 which the city had on deposit with that institution was found today in the private safe of City Chamberlain Hyde. Mr. Hyde has been absent from the city for several weeks and the subpoena servers of the legislative investigating committee could not locate him.

Charges against Chamberlain Hyde and a request for his removal from office were filed today with Mayor Gaynor by a citizen.

Northwestern Skating Championships.

The events will include the half-mile and two-mile open championships, one-mile novice and junior championships.

Conference on Play Grounds.

Baltmore, Jan. 11.—The Play Ground institute for the Middle Atlantic States began a three-day session in this city today. Among those on the program for addresses are Edward W. Stiff of New York, George E. Johnson of Pittsburg, E. B. DeGroot of Chicago, Dr. Rebecca Stoneroad of Washington, and A. E. Carey of Waltham, Mass.

L. C. SMITH & BROS. Typewriters

ALL THE WRITING ALWAYS IN SIGHT

(The biggest order ever placed by any firm or corporation for typewriters for their own use) because their own mechanical experts, sitting as a jury, said it was unquestionably the best.

They examined all competing makes, tested them under every condition of stress and strain, and voted unanimously in favor of the L. C. Smith & Bros. The DuPonts thus rendered you an invaluable service. Lacking mechanical experts of your own you can safely rely upon the decision of these fire engineers, at the height of their calling, who were willing to stake their professional reputation on the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter.

Many large concerns have already been guided by this expert opinion and have standardized, as the DuPonts did, with the typewriter that stood the test. There could be no test more thorough, or more unbiased decisions.

Never a Cup of "Revere" Coffee is Thrown Away

Can you say the same for other coffees you have used or may be using now?

If, when you make say 6 or 8 cups of coffee for a certain meal, it does not seem to taste good to the family they don't call for the second cup and you have a cup or two more left, what do you do with it?

Throw it away most likely.

You wouldn't do that with Revere. In the first place you are not likely to have any left it will probably be all used, it tastes so good.

But if you do happen to have a cup or two left you would save it and put it in with the next brew.

A pound of it will explain all about the why of it.

Will you let us send you a pound? 40c. per pound. Packed in 1, 2 and 3 pound tins.

I have rented this room only temporarily and intend to locate permanently as soon as I can find a suitable location.

Wichita Falls, Texas, January 11th, 1911

SENSATORIAL STICKER.

Senator Gore has denied the canard put afloat by his enemies that he intended to resign his seat in the United States Senate. This was not at all necessary. The honest people of Oklahoma have no idea of letting Senator Gore resign, and the blind Senator has declared that so long as his people want him to serve them he would be at their service. Gore is the right man in the right place, and is one of the comparatively few United States Senators who has had the honesty to decline propositions that, by their acceptance, would have made for himself an independent fortune. Senator Gore is likely to represent Oklahoma on the floors of the United States the balance of his natural life.—Wichita Falls Times.

That is what Senator Gore says about it—that he expects to remain in the Senate as long as he lives. There is perhaps no more tenacious habit than that of staying in the Senate when one once becomes addicted to it. If Senators go to heaven when they die (a subject we have our private opinion on) they will probably find it a trifle galling up there to have to shed their togas and don white robes with no particular distinction to them. And if as many as two Senators ever reach the pearly precincts they will try to organize some sort of upper chamber, with themselves as the upper chamberlains, so to speak.—Dallas News.

Last night's annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, followed by the splendid banquet, was without question the most enthusiastic, largest attended and most plesant affair ever held by our business people. There was not the slightest indication of factions or discensions anywhere, showing that our people in the matter of town building, stand as one. More than $10,000 was subscribed at this meeting for the mantenance of the organization during the year 1911. It is doubtful if there is another city of twice Wichita Falls' population in the state, or out of it, for that matter, that can or will give to its business organization a financial support equal to that given to the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce by its members. So long as this good feeling and enthusastic spirit prevails, there is nothing that can hold Wichita Falls back, and if she continues to grow in the next four years at the rate she is now growing the prediction made by one of the more enthusiastic speakers at last night's meeting that she would be a city of at least twenty-five thousand population is conservative. Wichita Falls owes much of her prosperity to the public spiritedness of her citizenship.

THIS DATE IN HISTORY.

1776—British soldiers in Boston made a playhouse of Faneuil Hall.

1785—Seat of United States government located at New York.

1835—William Stanley Haseltine, noted painter, born in Philadelphia. Died in Rome, Feb. 2, 1900.

1842—"Weavers' riots" in Philadelphia.

1853—Ericsson's caloric ship made its first trial.

1861—Alabama seceded rfm the union.

1865—The federals took Fort Fisher, N. C.

1869—Improvements to East River channel began at Hell Gate.

1871—First elections for the Provincial legislature were held in Manitoba.

1909—Secretary Root and Ambassador Bryce signed a treaty providing for the settlement of points in dispute between the United States and Sanada.

The Texas Railway Commission will hold a meeting soon to determine whether or not the people living along the line of the T. C. shall have the benefit of one-line rates. The Central has been absorbed by the Katy, and a bill to consolidate the two lines will come up for consideration at the present term of the legislature. Governor Campbell, it is understood, is opposed to the consolidation of the two roads under one ownership and as yet Governor-elect Colquitt has not made his views known. It is believed, however, that in the event the consolidation bill is defeated the Railway Commission will put into effect a one-line rate on the Texas Central, which will, in a measure, give the people along that line the relief which they are asking for.

ESTIMATE MADE ON BRIDGE COST

The various representatives of the bridge material firms who have been here for the past few days to meet and confer with our County Commissioners Court as to the widening of the old bridge spanning the Wichita river in this city or putting in a new one at another place higher up the river made a preliminary inspection of the three available and convenient bridge sites on yesterday, and this morning submitted to the commissioners court their estimates, which are as follows:

Bridge on Bluff street, $22,000.

Bridge on Scott avenue, $31,000.

Bridge by the side of the old bridge, $17,000.

The court will take no action on the matter at this term and will probably finish up its business and adjourn this afternoon.

The bridge to be put in, or that which the bridge men were asked to submit estimates, is to be twenty feet wide, with concrete floor.

Commissioner McCleskey is of the opinion that the estimates submitted are entirely too high, and is sure that a bridge such as is needed can be put in at either one of the places selected at a very much lower figure.

Commissioner Thomas rather favors widening the old bridge or putting in an entire new one by the side of it.

Railroad is Sued.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 11.—County Attorney Clark today filed suit against the Trinity & Brazos Valley Railroad for $500 penalty for violation of the 16-hour law. It is alleged that the company required Conductor A. J. Thomas on January 4th to be on duty longer than sixteen hours.

Port Lavaca Wave: The reports from the shippers and railroads are out and show that during 1910 Texas exported 19,490 cars of garden truck and fruit. The peach shipments required 4500 cars and brought the most money to the state. The onion crop was next, requiring 1700 cars. The time is near when Georgia must give up her title as the leading peach growing state of the Union and when the gulf coast will surpass the South Atlantic seaboard in trucking.

Annual Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce

to encourage every class of our people in their efforts.

During the past year, we have extended open handed hospitality in turn to bankers, doctors, teachers, editors and ministers alike at their respective meetings, and to the great body of the people coming from our surrounding cities to catch a glimpse of matchless Lake Wichita, and take a drink from her limped waters and other sources.

It has encouraged the building of sidewalks, the paving of streets, the laying out of parks and the care of our cemeteries. It has helped push the building of school houses and promoted industrial plants to provide employment for our people, but its greatest work has been in training the people to have faith in themselves and in their city, and so long as that spirit continues, there will be no let again the growth and prosperity of Wichita Falls. If the present legislature of Texas and Oklahoma shall encourage progress as we hope they will, we believe the present year will witness direct railroad connections with the Texas & Pacific on the South and the Santa Fe on the Northwest, and the long delayed Wichita Falls-Oklahoma City connection may be made a reality.

We look for cheaper gas and more factories, cheaper coal and more smoke stacks, and more dinner pails and for a greater Wichita Falls in every line.

In order to realize this, we desire the co-operation of every citizen for "in union is strength." We invite you all to join the Chamber of Commerce and do your part. Let us all "pull together" and don't let anybody sit on the brake."

Acting Secretary J. W. Thomas then read his report of the work of that office for the past year, which report in full will be found elsewhere in this issue.

The report of the treasurer of the organization was read by W. L. Robertson, showing the financial condition of the organization to be as shown in the secretary's report with a balance of $869.19 on hand.

It had been announced that Hon. Louis J. Wortham, of Fort Worth, would be present and deliver an address, but his duties at Austin as a member of the legislature prevented his attendance, as explained to the audience by Mr. Huff, and Mr. F. H. Day, also of Fort Worth, was introduced and spoke on "How to Build Up a City."

Mr. Day prefaced his remarks by disclaiming any effort to deliver such an address as would have been given by Mr. Wortham, explaining that his mission was not that of a public speaker, but rather that of a doer of the ideas involved in the solution of the question presented for discussion, however, before Mr. Day had concluded the audience was quite thoroughly convinced of his capability to present his views in an intelligent and entertaining manner.

"The consideration of modern methods of promoting the interests of municipalities is purely a business proposition," said Mr. Day. "There are many live cities that furnish striking objects lessons in city building, but after it is all boiled down, publicity is the great power in city development." To illustrate this point the speaker compared such work to the great modern locomotive. "Publicity," he said, "is represented by the powerful engine equipment, while the citizenship of the city may be compared to the boiler that furnishes the steam. The officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce form the connection by which the former force is practically applied to the work of the organization."

Continuing Mr. Day discussed the value of co-operation in connection with city development stating that it was the duty of every citizen to contribute something to the support of the commercial organization, even though it be a small amount.

Loyalty upon the part of the people was also emphasized as an important feature of city development, and to encourage such loyalty it was suggested the people be kept advised as to the matters under consideration, the progress made from time to time, general good being accomplished for the city. In this connection he called attention to the value of the city papers to the work under consideration. "The city's best advertisement" said the speaker, "is its daily newspapers. There is no other form of advertising that will take their place or even compare with them. The daily papers should be the first consideration in connection with the appropriations for publicity."

Mr. Day here took occasion to refer to Wichita Falls in a complimentary way and spoke of having heard of the city immediately on his arrival in the state about five years ago. He had first heard of the "pull together" spirit of the citizenship, he said, and was attracted by the glowing accounts of conditions obtaining here.

The speaker here again emphasized the value of advertising in connection with commercial club work and called attention to the fact that the practice had exisited since the early dawn of creation, to substantiate which contention, he quoted scripture from the book of Genesis, wherein an allustration was provided.

Mr. Day gave as one of the necessary features of successful work in city development, the proposition that a fund be raised sufficient to meet the requirements of conditions for a period of three years, of which one half should be spent the first year with the remainder apportioned between the two remaining years.

While offering these and other practical suggestions along the line indicated in the subject, Mr. Day stated that there was no accepted rule governing city building, but that certain principals were essential, although applied in a different manner. The main thing necessary to a successful beginning was a basket of money and a barrel of hustle," said the speaker.

The address of Mr. Day was well received, and liberally applauded. At its conclusion the president invited five minute discussions on this subject and quite a number responded.

Judge J. T. Montgomedy disclaimed any knowledge of city building other than he had learned in Wichita Falls, which city had provided a most thorough course, as evidenced by the wonderful results obtained. "All that is necessary to keep up the work and be discouraged."

Dr. J. M. Bell humorously called attention to the fact that the best way to build a city was the Wichita Falls way of going out into the neighboring towns and getting their best men. The point was well taken and the doctor was given the glad hand in appreciation.

Frank Kell thought that perhaps the best way was that in which Wichita Falls went at it. He considered that the spirit of get together had been the greatest asset of the city, and predicted that 1911 would provide the greatest prosperity the city has ever enjoyed. "With the same enthusiasm throughout the year that is manifest here tonight," said Mr. Kell, "there is no telling what can be accomplished." He recited the fact that Wichita Falls had continued to progress regardless of depressed financial conditions, that building had gone steadily on without interruption, labor had found conditions that had staggered many cities. "Victory is ours," said the speaker, "if the Chamber of Commerce keeps up the enthusiasm that prevails here tonight."

Orville Bullington stated that five years ago he located as close to Wichita Falls as his condition would permit and moved in at the very first opportunity. Was proud to be a citizen of the city and expected to see a population of from $25,000 to $30,000 at the end of another ten years.

J. C. Ward responded with a voluntary pledge to do his part in the work of promoting the interests of Wichita Falls. "All that is necessary," said Mr. Ward, "is to stay together, and if possible increase the membership of the Chamber of Commerce from 250 to 500."

Rev. R. R. Hamlin made a very pleasing talk, reciting a number of amusing anecdotes to the delight of the audience. "One thing I like about Wichta Falls" said the speaker more seriously, "is the pace set by the people of this city. It reminds one of Chicago, and other large cities, the people mean business and are full of business." The speaker also referred to the cordiality with which people were received and the sociability of the citizenship as a whole. "We are going to have the best city in the country and are going to have it quicker than such conditions usually come," said Rev. Hamlin.

Rev. C. T. Bishop said: "There are some things in connection with the progress of Wichita Falls that strike me with tremendous emphasis, among them being the spirit and determination of the people to carry out the work undertaken." Continuing, the speaker called attention to the fact that in the development of the city we should not lose sight of the purpose to make it a good place to live, as well as for making money. "I have great faith in the future of Wichita Falls," said Dr. Bishop, "and I expect to see the smoke from the factories here so dense that it will darken the day for Henrietta, Bowie and other surrounding towns."

At this point in the proceedings of the meeting President Huff stated that he desired an expression as to whether or not the work of the Chamber of Commerce had been satisfactory, and if it should be continued. With that same unanimity that had characterized other incidents of the meeting, practically every man in the house arose to his feet in a standing vote of endorsement.

Judge Huff then announced that the subscription would be opened for contributions for the support of the organization for another year, and called on Judge Carrigan, who he designated as a successful veteran in the work of raising money for this purpose, to present the mattef and call for volunteers.

Judge Carrigan expressed a feeling of deep interest in Wichita Falls, calling attention to the good work done by the Chamber of Commerce and the prospects for even greater achievements if the citizenship would only respond with a sufficient fund to carry on the work. He stated that every citizen of Wichita Falls was expected to do his full duty, and if this was done we would make a city here.

The responses were liberal and came in rapid succession until within a very short time a total of over $10,000 was pledged as dues for 1911. J. A. Kemp renewed his subscription of $75 per month, Wiley Blair increased the subscription of his firm from $50 to $75 per month and Frank Kell raised his monthly contribution from $50 to $75. C. W. Snyder subscribed $50 for the City National Bank, and subscriptions varying from $30 to $1.00 were then added to the list as shown elsewhere in this issue.

The subscription list having been closed for the meeting, on motion a committee was appointed to solicit further contributions from among the business men not in attendance upon the meeting and for this purpose President Huff announced the appointment of the following gentlemen: A. H. Carrigan, J. C. Ward, R. M. Moore, Miles O'Reilly, J. B. Marlow and J. A. Kemp.

The election of directors for the ensuing year being announced, a motion prevailed that the present directorate of 15 be re-elected and that seven additional names be added thereto, providing a board of 22 members, of which eight should constitute a quorum. The following comprising the old board was thereupon declared elected for another term:

J. A. Kemp, C. W. Bean, Robt. E. Huff, Frank Kell, T. J. Taylor, T. B. Noble, J. C. Tandy, N. Henderson, G. D. Anderson, Miles O'Riley, Wiley Blair, W. Lee Moore, Thos. R. T. Orth, T. P. Hickman, J. B. Marlow.

President Huff then appointed a committee of three, composed of Messrs. Frank Kell, W. M. McGregor and N. Henderson, to recommend seven names to constitute the remainder of the board. The committee reported the names of J. M. Bell, A. H. Carrigan, J. L. Jackson, C. W. Snider, J. G. Culberson, F. M. Gates and R. M. Moore, which gentlemen were unanimously elected as members of the Board of Directors for the ensuing year.

The business of the meeting having thereupon been completed, adjournment was taken to the St. James Hotel for the banquet that had been provided for the occasion.

DRUCKE COMING TO TEXAS.

Twirler for New York Giants To Visit Brother at Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 11.—Louis Drucke, who in one season after leaving the Texas Christian University developed into a world famous twirler with the New York Giants, will visit his brother in Fort Worth this week. His relative here is Oscar Drucke, catcher for the Oklahoma Crazy Snakes, and an employe of a Fort Worth cotton firm.

The elder Drucke is an alumnus of the Texas Christian University. It was while wearing a T. C. U. uniform that Luther Burleson, a scout for Joe Gardner, discovered the tall Swede and signed him up for Jeems Maloney. Druckes' rise in the baseball world has been sensational. He now measures shoulders with Christy Mathewson and "Three-Fingered" Brown.

Drucke has spent the winter at his home in Waco. Oscar Drucke, his old brother, will join the Oklahoma team early in March.

COMMENTS OF THE TEXAS PRESS.

Smithville Times: The legislature will convene in Austin next Tuesday. May the session be short and busy. However, as the state is to be redistricted in addition to the other matters to come up, it will necessarily be busy.

Jasper Newsboy: The iron industry will be one of the largest in Texas in a very short time. We predict inside of three years to see iron smelters all over the red hills in San Augustine, Sabine and Nacogdoches counties. Grand Old Texas is coming into her own.

El Paso Times: The San Antonio Express chronicles the fact that Colonel William J. Bryan has just delivered two addresses in that city, and says that his thoughts seem to turn more to religion than to politics. It is a most gratifying indication, for some one has said when a man falls at every thing else he naturally turns to preaching.

New Ulm Enterprise: Laws are not intrinsically effective because they are written into statute books. To be a force for common good, a law must express a sentiment already in existence among the people. And in order to suppress an abuse the wise lawmaker will not go about it like the quack surgeon who cut off an arm to cure an ailing finger.

Quanah Observer: Our farmers are planning to make 1911 a banner year for Hardeman county's cotton and corn crops. They are going to be more careful in the preparation of the soil and in the selection of their seed than ever before. It is no more work to plant and cultivate the best seed than the poorest, and our farmers are commencing to know that the best pays.

Dallas Times-Herald: Mrs. Alma V. Lafferty, democrat, is the leader of the Colorado legislature. That body organized yesterday and Lawmaker Lafferty made all the speeches and all the nominations. All the boys, the democratic boys, "took orders" from the petticoated boss. Tell it to the doubters that in Colorado the hand that rocks the cradle runs the machine.

Madisonville Christian Commonwealth: The Louisville Courier-Journal says that Senator Bailey's tariff views are sound and invincible; and the Commonwealth heartily agrees with the C.J. on that point. Tariff reduction should not be indiscriminate. Senator Bailey believes that producers of raw material have as much right to protection under the tariff as has the manufacturer.

Sherman Sentinel: The best domestic science department on earth for girls is in a home in which the mother is a good common sense woman who does not make a slave of herself nor employ a small army of servants in order that her girls may not soil their hands or hurt their feelings by helping with the housework, and one who teaches domestic science by having them assist in making their home a home by performing their share of the domestic duties. If more domestic science, economy and common sense were taught in the home, instead of so much music, dancing, art and boarding school "finishing" abroad, there would be fewer divorce scandals in the courts.

Fairfield Recorder: The Recorder believes that the best thing that could happen to Texas would be action looking to the reduction in the number of our representatives in the legislature, and providing for a reasonable salary to be paid the members. Providing for only about two representatives to each senatorial district, and paying these representatives about $1,000 per term, would undoubtedly encourage abler men to offer for this, one of the most important offices in the state. The legislature is large and business is transacted slowly, with a few men practically controlling legislation, through the fact that there are members who can easily be led and "bamboozled" into voting most any old way. Texas needs a business legislature, and we will never have it under present conditions.

FELL FROM WAGON YOUTH IS INJURED

Ode Clinton, a seven-year-old boy, who lives with his parents in a tent near the Wichita river fell or was thrown from a wagon near the corner of Ohio avenue and Seventh street yesterday afternoon and was run over by the wagon wheels and his hips crushed. Dr. Reed attended his injuries and he was taken to his home. Doctors Reed, Jones and Coons redressed his wounds this morning and it is believed the lad will survive.

The injured boy is a bright and attractive youth and much sympathy is felt for him and his parents.

Will Seek South Pole.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 11.—Harry Payne Whitney, the noted arctic explorer, who was with Doctor Cook at Etah, now here on a hunting trip, today announced that he will start on a south pole expedition the latter part of next July. He will go first to Cape Horn, then to Coates Land and reach the pole if possible.

SYNOPSIS OF THE STANDARD OIL CASE

Suit Has Attracted Wide-Spread Interest Throughout the Entire Country.

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—The final fight of the Standard Oil for its very existence under the present organization is expected to begin late today in the United States Supreme Court.

The suit under the Sherman anti-trust law to dissolve the Standard Oil organization was instituted in 1906 in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Missouri. The proceedings were begun by the Department of Justice in the name of the United States against 114 corporations and seven individuals.

The principal corporation was the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. From 1888 to the present time this company is said to have operated refineries itself, but in 1899 its stock was increased to $1,000,000,000 so as to enable it to acquire the stock of nineteen other oil companies, which in turn owned a large number of companies, concerned in the oil business. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was designated as a holding company and is similar to the American Tobacco Company, the organization of which was considered by the court during the last few days.

The seven individuals named in the suit as defendants were John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, Henry M. Flagler, Henry H. Rodgers, John D. Archbold, Oliver H. Payne, and Chas. M. Pratt. The part these men are said to have played in the alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law has been summarized by the government as follows:

About 1870 the Rockefellers and Flagler conceived the purpose of controlling the petroleum trade, both domestic and export, and obtaining a monopoly thereof. They entered into a conspiracy to accomplish this purpose, which from time to time took the form of various combinations. Shortly after 1870 the Rockefellers and Flagler were joined in the conspiracy by Rogers, Archbold, Payne and Pratt.

The form which the alleged conspiracy took is described by the government as being from 1870 to 1882 "a combination between a large number of manufacturers, who acted in harmony and whose stock interests were pooled in the hands of three trustees in 1879." From 1882 to 1899, the form of the alleged combination was that of a trust agreement, whereby the stock of a large number of corporations was placed in the hands of trustees, who managed the property. From 1899 to the present time, the combination is alleged to have taken the form of a holding company, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The four judges in the circuit court found that the Standard Oil was an illegal combination in restraint of interstate commerce and was also monopolizing the oil trade. A decree was entered enjoining the holding company from exercising any control over the subsidiary companies, and enjoining the subsidiary companies from paying any dividends to the holding company. All were enjoined from engaging in interstate commerce until the illegal combination was discontinued.

The court also found that the Standard Oil:

Produced more than 1-10 of crude oil obtained in this country.

Owned and operated more than 1-3 of all the tank cars used to distribute its products.

Manufactured more than 3-4 of all the crude oil refined in the United States.

Transferred more than 4-5 of the petroleum derived from the Pennsylvania and Indiana oil fields.

Marketed more than 4-5 of all the illuminating oil sold in the United States.

Exported more than 4-5 of all the illuminating oil sent forth from the United States.

Sold more than 4-5 of all the naptha sold in the United States.

Sold more than 9-10 of all the lubricating oil sold to the railroad companies in the United States.

Vivian Ogden, who was the successor of Helen Lowell as Mis' Hazy in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is to play Miss Lowell's persent role in another "Lottery Man" Company.

CATTLEMEN WOULD GROW BLACK GRASS

By Associated Press

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 11.—Efforts to reclaim the arid regions of the southwest by growing the now extinct black grass on the deserts was approved by the American National Live Stock Association here today. This grass once grew thickly over the southwest, but is now only found in experiment stations.

Officers will be elected tomorrow and the convention will then adjourn.

Judge Cowen, general attorney for the Cattlemen, this afternoon advised the association to proceed against the railroads for the proposed advance in stock rates, under the anti-trust laws, and urged that Attorney General Wickersham and President Taft be called upon to institute proceedings immediately.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

"Girls."

Friday night, January 13 at the Wichita Theatre for an engagement of one night, Clyde Fitch's most successful comedy, "Girls," which ran for one whole year at Daly's Theatre, New York, will be presented. "Girls" gives a description of the struggles of three young women to earn a living, their brave beginning and their ultimate willingness to let mere man work out the problem for them.

The whole play is pure comedy of the first rank. It pictures the discomforts and makeshifts of studio life. One large room in a studio building is the home of three young women all out of employment, deeply in debt and looking for work. The eldest of the trio is an avowed man-hater, and talks loudly of man's inhumanity to woman and the injustice of the inequality of wages. Her two companions, for the sake of harmony in the family, pretend to agree with her. Because of her youth, her utterances are extremely laughable. At the end of the first act when they all prepare to retire for the night, the fact is disclosed that they are sadly in need of certain articles of furniture known as beds, and are forced to sleep (in turns) on a folding-bed, couch and Morris chair.

Suddenly a young man rushes into the room, slams the door behind him and locks it. Consternation reigns and an explatnation is demanded; but this really is the funniest situation in the play and it cannot be described in a few words; it must be seen to be appreciated. The real man-hater of the family proves her inconsistency and lack of conviction by falling in love with the intruder at first sight.

After two more acts of extremely funny situations the play ends in good old orthodox fashion with all the girls safely started on the road to matrimony, and everybody satisfied and happy. The production supplied, is remarkably characteristic in atmosphere and complete detail. The cast is composed of prominent metropolitan players.

THE ROAD TO THE TOP.
By Herbert Kaufman.

The road to the bottom of the slope also leads to the top. You can take the down grade in a hurry, but you'll have to work before you can get back to the level.

It is man's destiny to climb. You can't slide through the world and collect the wage of success.

The shortest cut to prosperity and contentment is the rough, craggy, bruising path of the pioneer. It is harder in the beginning, but your muscles grow stronger as the journey grows longer, and there's always reward at the goal.

Efficiency isn't a birthright, but an education. Even a diamond doesn't flash with fire until it has been cut and polished, its value must be ground out of it, and so must your merit be rubbed out of you.

There isn't any magic formula that makes men win. One willing and courageous human, plentifully mixed with energy and briskly stirred with ambition—that's the recipe.

Your chance begins as soon as you belive you have chance.

There's room for you.

The bitter struggle is only among the cowards, and the weaklings. They purchase the right to live at a heavier cost than the bolder soul pays to live right.

You will never row far from shore if you turn back at the first blister. Training always involves some paining. Learning is the fruit of effort; prosperity only takes root in honest labor.

Growth is a habit. You have got to keep at it or you will stay small.

Opportunity isn't fenced in game. It's played out in the open. Anybody can join in.

There may be crowds here and there in a few spots, but there's no need to wait for a turn, while thousands of square miles stretch from seas to sea, and from the gulf to the lakes, waiting for the first man to put in appearance and start something.

Aren't you sick and tired of your colorless existence? Haven't you ever aspired for respect and approbation?

It's up to you man. You're heir to everything beneath the heavens.

This world is your legacy. Your portion of the universe is only bounded by your ability and your zeal. You stand ready and equipped to seize your birthright. Your title is clear to anything which you can honestly reach.

Come on up the hill and look around; select a destination; keep on trying until you reach it. The distance between failure and success isn't nearly so great as it seems down below. The slope cuts off your view.

What if your pockets are empty? Resolution is a mint.

What if yesterday was a flunk? Tomorrow creates a new sphere, lighted with fresh promise and filled with virgin hopes.

With a sound constitution and an active brain, you're a capitalist, as rich as the young Carnegie when his feet first touched these shores.

Invest yourself.

A mightier America than he knew lies before you—bountiful with new-born cities, fertile with new farm lands.

The smoke of factories is rising above the peaks of mountains where was wilderness fifty years ago; acres of living green are glistening with the dews where your grandfather saw the burning sands and sagebrush.

BASEBALL NOTES

Manager Bresnahan of the St. Louis Cardinals has signed a Chippewa pitcher by the name of Mitchell.

Pitcher Tom Hughes did great work for Minneapolis las year and will be back in Washington next season.

Cincinnati has signed George A. Sullivan, a Dorchester (Mass.) high school player. He is a first baseman.

Billy Hamilton, the old big league star, has a bunch of regular money and is looking for a minor league franchise.

Perhaps Vic Willis will stick with the big top after all. President Murphy of the Cubs refuses to waive on the twirler.

Honus Wagner of the Pirates and Sherwood Magee of the Quakers are playing basketball this winter in order to keep in condition.

No more barnstorming trips for the team that wins the world's championship series. The National Commission has blue-penciled the practice.

Now, that Cincinnati has sold "Mickey" Corcoran to Detroit, Buffalo fans expect to see him back in Buffalo when the bell rings this spring.

Jack Miller, the Pirate' second sacker, has been elected a member of the Centarl Hose Company of Kearney, New Jersey. "Fireman, save my child."

The Rock Island Club has sold Manager Jack Tighe to the Seattle Club of the Northwestern League. Jack has been a pennant-winning kid in the Three I and Connecticut leagues.

Promotor Jack Gleason, who cleaned up about $100,0000n the Jeffries-Johnson fight, was anxious to chip in to buy the St. Louis Browns, but his offer came too late.

Manager Hal Chase of the Highlanders has taken up motoring and is now in the class of speed merchants which includes Honus Wagner, Ty Cobb, Larry Lajoie and Nap Rucker.

President Crowley of the Providence Club says that he has not engaged a manager for next season. It was reported some time ago that Jimmy Collins had signed for his second term as pilot of the Grays.

"Dezzie" Wadsworth, the former Williams captain and second baseman, has entered the banking business in Boston and will not sign with the Boston Nationals. The Doves' management wanted "Dezzie" badly.

One that is Different.

How there came an awful blight upon the singer's ambition and how it was lifted, is the story and it is related in a way that grips the heart. It has been well said that it is a great play for those who love music, but it is a play for anyone who has a grain of sentiment in his or her makeup, and all of us have that. There is depth, feeling, pathos, power and appeal in "The Climax."

FATE AND THE FRONT ROW
By Malcom Hincks.

Jameson had been "fired" from Keene's, and Jameson after a month's fruitless search for work was down to his last half crown; and being too honest to steal and ashamed to beg, saw only one end in front of him, the end of life by a plunge into the gray, and swiftly running waters of the River Thames.

It was 7 o'clock in the evening of an exceptionally cold October day, London was beginning its evening's work or play; taxicabs and private broughams were rushing up to hotels and restaurants, lights were dying down in offices and shops and springing up in the places of entertainment, the night workers were preparing to entertain those who labored by day.

Jameson came to a stop at the foot of St. Martin's lane, and turned his solitary half crown over in his pocket. A sudden desire to forget himself, his surroundings and the thing that he had desired to do that night seized him. Opposite to him a crowd was collecting outside a huge variety house. For half a crown he would be able to book a luxurious seat; but a vaudeville performance would not grip him, would not cause him to forget as he longed to forget.

A line of sandwich men passed him as he hesitated; mechanically he read what was on the bills they bore.

"Justice!" he said, with a grim laugh. "A play called 'Justice' should interest me. I may even come to think that there is justice in the world before I leave it."

He decided to spend a shilling and go up to the gallery, then after the play have several drinks to nerve himself to take the plunge over Waterloo bridge.

When he reached the theatre there were only forty or fifty people waiting for the gallery, and barely a dozen for the pit; for the play was both clever and serious, and did not appeal to the average playgoers. They had come to see "Justice." "There is no justice," said Jameson in his heart. For he had been "fired" from Keene's.

He had been to the huge stores for fifteen years, entering as an office boy and gradually working up the ladder until he had become assistant manager of an important department. His father had started with James Keene in the little shop that had been the foundation of the huge business of which as Sir James, he was now the nominal head.

Then the stores had been floated as a company, and Sir James had allowed the reins of management to drop from his hands. For some time Jameson had not noticed any difference.

Jameson had done no wrong, but there had been a muddle in the affairs of the department, and the director then the manager of his department had died, and he had expected to take his place. He had gone home to his lodgings, and, with a joyous heart, written to a girl in the country whom he was only waiting for a rise to ask to become his wife.

Then, to his blank bewilderment, a young man named Causton, brother-in-law to the managing director had been appointed to the position, and it was hard luck on Jameson that the new manager should be incompetent; for that gentleman was no fool as far as the main chance went, and he realized that his second in command was a danger in that the second in command was more fit for the manager's post than he was.

Therefore Jameson was "fired."

Jameson had done no wrong, but there had been a muddle in the affairs of the department, and the managing director, who, having got his brother-in-law into the stores after some opposition found it policy to lay the blame on the young man who knew too much.

In a mad moment he had written to Sir James Keene, the man who had been almost a friend of his father's, and who had been very kind to him in years gone by; but the letter had been unanswered—it was evident that the chairman and founder of the great company believed the managing director and not him.

Well, his money was gone, and here he was waiting outside the pit of a theater on a cold October night; and, the doors having just been opened, the crowds were moving rapidly toward them, prepared for the delight of obtaining a seat in the front row.

Gradually the pit filled, and the buzz of conversation became greater; the early arrivals began to file into the stalls in front of him; neatly dressed program sellers flitted hither and thither, ushering people into their seats. Then the lights went up and the orchestra played the overture.

The stalls filled rapidly now, around him women were removing their hats, the air of expectancy was contagious. A serious-looking man next to him told him that this was the third time he had seen the play, and began to outline the plot.

But Jameson was not listening. Two late arrivals had hurried in, and taken the two seats in the last row of the stalls just in front of him, and in one of them he recognized his late employer, Sir James Keene.

The curtain went up, but he did not know what was taking place on the stage, his gaze fixed, as one fascinated, upon the back of the gray head in front of him. Then he told himself that he was a fool, and tried to take an interest in the play.

But he found it impossible, he dreaded Sir James' turning round and recognizing him—recognising the man whom he had thought fit to discharge and was driving into the Thames.

He decided that he would leave after the first act, and do the thing he had been contemplating for days. The dull gray matter would be cold, but it would soon be over, and then—peace.

The curtain came down at last, amid a good deal of applause. Jameson stooped down and groped for his hat. Just as he had obtained it and risen to his feet, the lights went up, and in his excitement he knocked against the brass rail, causing the curtain rings to vibrate.

Sir James turned round quickly, and then the eyes of the two men met.

Then the baronet held out his hand. "How are you, Jameson?" he asked genially. "I've only just got back from a trip in the South of France. As industrious as ever, I suppose?" Then before the astounded man could make any reply, he turned to the lady who was sitting next to him. "My dear, this is Mr. Jameson, one of my most promising men."

Ladey Keene bowed.

"How are things going on, eh?" asked the baronet genially. "I heard that Dalton was leaving, so I suppose you rule your department with a rod of iron, eh, Jameson?"

"I was discharged sir!" gasped the astounded Jameson. "Mc. Causton is head of the department. I——"

"Discharged!" thundered Sir James Keen, and several people about stared at him curiously. "Discharged without my being consulted in the matter! I shall——"

He saw that his excitement had attracted attention, and lowered his voice.

"Come to the stores at 11 o'clock tomorrow, he said quietly. "I shall be there."

"Thank you, sir; but I wrote a letter to you, and——"

"I never received it," said the baronet shortly; and then Jameson found himself out in the street again unable to remain in the theater any longer.

Fate had thrown him into the front row of the pit, and Sir James Keene had looked around. The gray Thames seemed but a vague dreamr. Evidently the baronet trusted him.

Then he remembered that he had no money and would have to walk round London all night. He faced the prospect cheerfully.

* * * * * * *

There was trouble at Keene's stores in Oxford Street. The man whose personality and business instinct had made it what it was had awakened as a giant from sleep, and driven up before half the principals were at the office.

Sir James was by far the largest shareholder, in addition to being chairman of the company; his power was practically unlimited. Now he was making that power felt.

"Jameson," he said, when the discharged employe presented himself, "I am very glad that I saw you last night. I trusted to others to carry on the business as I wished it carried on, and they have gone against my wishes. You will go back to your old department as manager, and I shall keep my eye on you. There will be big changes here soon, when I have gone thoroughly into things, and good work will get its reward."

Jameson thanked him brokenly, and made his way along the familiar passages to his own department, the department of which he was now head.

That night John Jameson wrote to the girl in the country.

CUBA HAVING PEACE UNDER GOMEZ RULE

Despite Some Defections Young Republic Is In Good Condition With Firm Ruler.

Havana, Jan. 11.—As the second year of Cuba's second independence draws to a close it finds the administration of General Gomez apparently more firmly entrenched in power than it has been at any time since the termination of the provisional government of Gov. Magoon on Jan. 20, 1909. So far as appears on the surface, General Gomez dominates the situation and enters the third year of his administration under much better auspices that those which attended his inauguration, succeeded as that was almost immediately by a clash between the president and the vice president over the appointment of Ricardo Arnato as chief of the secret police, which came very near to disrupting the administration.

This apparent status of the government is curiously at variance with the many alarming reports of threatened revolution which has recently been circulated in the United States and which have been received here with expressions of astonishment, coupled with the general belief that they have been largely manufactured by a propaganda inimical to the experiment of Cuban self-government.

Though the president has not been able to enlist in his support the better elements of the Cuban people and has unquestionably lost not only the support of many of his own followers, but incurred the bitter animosity of some of the most influential, the fact remains that Major General Jose Miguel Gomez holds the reins of power in both hands and is well seated in the saddle.

The government finds itself facing a time of probable immunity from agitation, that with little doubt will continue for many months. With the sugar grinding season in full operation and the greater part of the laboring people profitably employed, all thought of revolution is removed from their minds.

The only exception to this condition is found in the province of Pinar del Rio, where there is reported to be much distress and many mutterings of discontent, but this condition has been practically normal in that province for years, the reason most generally ascribed being that these people have a deeply rooted aversion to labor of any kind. August is the political cyclone season in Cuba because work is then scarce and the political campaigns are in full blast.

VICTOR BERGER WOULD ABOLISH U. S. SENATE

Socialist Congressman Has Ideas of His Own With Reference to Upper House.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 11.—Either to pin a recall tab to the togas of United States senator or to totally abolish the "American House of Lords," are the alternatives of a plan soon to be laid before the nation by Victor L. Berger, the socialist-congressman who will sit in the next house as the first of his political faith to enjoy that honor.

While Berger refuses personally to discuss his plans on the ground of "ethics" his socialist associates here tonight declared one of his slogans will be the abolition of the senate, "as the bulwark of legislative favor and protection simultaneously with the abolishment of the British house of lords, as the chief agent of the wealthy classes of England."

Berger's personal belief, his associates say, is that the senate is like the Indian—the only good one is a dead one—he is quoted as declaring that it would be impossible to get any permanent relief from high prices as long as the senate may be used to block the reformatory measures of the house. The plan the socialist congressman has in preparation is either to provide for the election by popular vote with power of recall and referendum for instruction as to how they shall vote on public measures or the total abolishment of the senate as a menace at all times to the welfare of the common people.

THIS IS MY 41st BIRTHDAY.

Alice Hegan Rice.

Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice, who won literary fame and fortune with "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and "Lovey Mary," was born in Shelbyville, Ky., Jan. 11, 1840, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Hegan. Her education was received principally at Hampton College in Louisville. While still attending school she wrote a number of short stories and some of these appeared in the leading magazines and attracted considerable attention. "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," published in 1901, was her first book and proved one of the greatest successes of the year. Two years later came "Lovey Mary." Both books were dramatized and as plays proved even more successful than in book form. In 1902 Miss Heagan was married to Cale Young Rice, who is also well known as a writer.

MAAG AND TULLOS ARE RELEASED BY TOLEDO

Both Will Play With the Dallas Giants During the Coming Season of 1911.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 11.—Heinie Maag and Leslie Tullos will be members of the Giants this year. Their releases from Toledo of the American Association have been asked and secured by Joe Gardner. The news brought joy to the hearts of the local fans, for these two veterans will fill up big holes in the infield lineup.

Tullos finished last season with Waco as third baseman. His work here and his previous brilliant playing with the Dallas Giants netted him a draft to Toledo in the American Association. Admirers of Tullos expected him to make good with the Class A club if a chance had been given to him. But evidently Armour does not need any new men for his infield.

Heinie Maag was also drafted by Toledo. The departure of the little second sacker from Dallas was regretted for he was largely instrumental in winning the pennant for the Giants. This was Maag's second trip to fast company. Denver drafted him once and used him through one season, but sold him back to Gardner for $400.

News was also received this morning to the effect that McDonald, the most promising youngster turned out by Dale Gear last year, would be released to the Pirates. This is a surprise, for the big third baseman had the earmarks of a wonder. The Cardinals gave him only a brief trial last fall.

BOBBY RIGGS ANXIOUS TO JOIN PANTHERS

The Player Deserted His Team Last Year During the Pennant Season.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 11.—Bobby Riggs wants to play with the Panthers again next season, in fact, he is very anxious to get back. When Morris was in Houston the other day on his way to Galveston to attend the meeting of the Texas League magnates he was greeted with a surprise in the appearance of Bobby Riggs at his hotel. Riggs had come to Houston from his farm in Tennessee for the sole purpose of seeing Morris with a view to getting in the Panther line-up in the spring.

Morris said that Riggs talked as though he were real anxious to get back to baseball. He said that he had not made a cent on his farm this year and that he needed to establish a reliable source of income.

It will be remembered that Riggs deserted the Panthers during the latter part of the 1910 season, at a time when the pennant race was being hardest fought. Fort Worth stood an excellent chance to finish the season right close to the top, if not on top, when he and Deardorf deserted. Their leaving crippled the team considerably, and their conduct, to use the vernacular, "got them "in bad" with Morris and the local fans. Riggs was suspended.

Riggs cannot play with another club so long as he is under suspension, but he may return to the Fort Worth club provided he is wanted. Morris assured Riggs that he would take his case under advisement and render a decision later. Morris did not say what he would do in the matter.

METHODICAL BURGLAR CARRIES CARD CASE

Plies His Nefarious Trade With a System That Astonishes the Police Department.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11.—Fred C. Hoffman, carrying a card as agent for the Bell Telephone company, was arrested here late last night as the third member of a gang of burglars who have looted scores of residences in the last few months. Hoffman revealed to the police a card index system in which the estimated booty, arrangement of furniture, means of egress and ingress and other details of hundreds of dwelling houses were enumerated. This information had been collected by Hoffman in his guise as a telephone agent, it is said.

The capture of the burglars has brought into the hands of the police much stolen property valued at many thousands of dollars. Part of this, consisting of valuable silver plate, was discovered buried under a wall in the forest hill estate of John D. Rockefeller. It had been stolen from the house of one of Mr. Rockefeller's tenants.

Arbel Harrison and Burt Hosridge are also in custody, but the police are still looking for a fourth man named O'Reilly, who is believed to have been the leader of the gang.

British Columbia Legislature.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 11.—The Legislative Assembly of British Columbia was opened today by the Lieutenant-Governor, attended by a large military staff, and with the usual sciat and ceremonies. The program of business as forecasted by the speech from the throne, is not so large as in some previous sessions, but it contains a number of important matters. The certification of the statutes and the reports of the Forestry Commission and the Insurance Commission are among the most important items on the legislative program. The most important private bill will be the application of D. D. Mann for a charter to extend the Portland Canal Short Line to the eastern boundary of the province, to connect with other lines at Edmonton. The proposed line would open up extensive areas of agricultural land and tracts of timber, and new coal fields reputed to be equal to those of the Crows' Nest Pass.

MEXICO PAYS BIG TAX TO UNCLE SAM

San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 11.—An increase of over $55,000 in customs collections in the last ten years is the record shown by Collector of Customs Dowe, who arrived from Eagle Pass Saturday.

In 1910 the collections aggregated a trifle over $5000 per annum. By 1908 an increase of $8,000 had been made, while in 1909 about $50,000 was collected. The present years, which officially ends next June, at the lowest estimate will show collections of more than $60,000.

All of these importations are shipped in bond to San Antonio, where they are stored in the United States bonded warehouse until the duty is paid, after which the bond is cancelled. According to Mr. Dowe the majority of imports are entered at New York, Galveston, Eagle Pass and Laredo. The greatest sources of revenue is obtained from the importation of wines, liquors and other rare vintages from France and Germany. Another importation which is of profit to the government is that of Mexican palm leaf hats, which are distributed and worn all over the south.

Rules for Aeroplane Guests.

Now that aeroplanes are becoming so common a few hints as to aeroplane etiquette may not be amiss.

We will assume that you are the guests of honor and are sitting next your host, who is driving his own machine.

It is advisable to keep up a running fire of conversation, as there being no obstacles in his path to turn out for, he can have no reason for keeping his attention on the steering gear.

Ask him what make his airship is.

Say you think that is the best make, after all.

Ask if it is a dirigible or a biplane.

Say you thought so.

Ask its name.

Appear surprised that he hasn't named it yet.

Suggest (1) Skyscraper; (2) Comet; (3) Meteor; (4) Rainbow.

Tell him you will christen it for him whenever he likes.

Ask him what really makes it stay up.

Pretend to understand.

Ask him if there is any danger of an accident.

Remark that you never expected to be so high up in the air until you went to Heaven.

Say it's like a bird in flight.

Admire his getup.

Say you suppose you oughtn't to talk to him.

Say you'd be afraid to go with anyone else.

Say it gives you the strangest sensation.

Ask what is the propeller.

Ask what is the rudder.

Ask what is every part you see.

Inquire about the parts you can't see.

Talk on no subject but aeroplanes.

Ask if you are nearly there.

Say you're glad you aren't.

Begin all over again.—Carolyn Wells.

Two Deer in One Shot.

In the recent deer hunting season in Michingan at least three Upper Peninsula men were successful in filling their license as the result of a single shot. Sheriff Turnbull of Luce county was one of these. Two deer were standing together. The sheriff fired at one, the ball passing through its body and killing the other animal also.

Paul Laabs, of Sagola, Dickinson county, found two bucks engaged in a battle. A shot from Laab's rifle killed the spikehorn and the other was so weak from the loss of blood that it expired as soon as released.

Prof. Hill, superintendent of schools at Crystal Falls, is the third man who bagged two deer with one shot. One of his trophies was a dead deer, however. The animals had been engaged in a battle, during which their antalers had become interlocked, and one of the combatants was dead. Prof. Hill shot the living animal.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

LITTLE STORIES.

A Self-Named Man.

The next speaker's full name is James Beauchamp Clark. When he went out into the world, he discovered that Clark was the sixth most common name in America, and that James was nearly as prevalent as John or the measles. James B. also was curiously numerous, and James B. Clark far from unusual. In the young man's town was a man of that name who used to get his letters and throw them away. This was very annoying. So the future statesman dropped James and became Beauchamp Clark. Beauchamp is a well-known name out west. They pronounce it Beechamp, like that of the Englishman who makes pills. Now, one of the incoming speaker's hobbies is accurate expression, and it irritated him to be called Beechamp, when he should have been called Boshom, with the accent on the shom. Painstaking investigation finally convinced him that only a Frenchman could say it properly, anyway, so he made up his mind to drop one of the syllables, and after due considerations he picked Beau as the one to go. Since then he has been plain Champ Clark, and is so designated almost invariably. We hear of Representative Underwood, Congressman Payne, et al., but never of Representative or Congressman Clark. It is always Champ Clark, as if hyphenated with accent on the Clark.—Harper's Weekly.

Almost a Murder.

Sure that murder was being done, a crowd gathered in West 144th street and listened to shrieks of "Help! Help!" that seemed to come from an open window of No. 126.

No policeman was in sight, so civilians finally ran upstairs and pounded on the door of a top flat. Mrs. Argaro Thelogos came to the door. No guilt was written on her face—only amazement at the intrusion. The cries for help, it was explained in broken English, were uttered by a parrot who had been put out on the fire escape and was indignant.

Neighbors say that every time Poly is put out in the cold she objects, but they have grown used to her shrieks.—New York World.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily By Wichita Falls People.

Which is wiser to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens, of people you know, or depend on statements made by utter strangers residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mrs. Charles Irwin, 704 Burnett avenue, Wichita Falls, Texas, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have proven themselves worthy of my praise and I am glad of this opportunity to recommend them. I had such severe attacks of backache that I could hardly endure them and it seemed as if a heavy weight were tied to me. There were bearing down pains in my hips and I also had much soreness through my kidneys. Last spring I was confined to my bed for four months and during that time I was in great pain. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box from the Wichita Drug House and they helped me beyond my expectations. Since I used them, I have been in much better health. One of my relatives has also taken Doan's Kidney Pills and has found them very reliable." (Statement given June 16, 1908.)

A Second Endorsement.

Mrs. Irwin was interviewed on December 9, 1910 and she said: "I have no hesitation whatever in confirming the statement I gave over two years ago in which I told my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. Since that time I have taken this remedy occasionally and it always brought very prompt relief."

The closing arguments in the case of Edgin vs. The Farmers Union Gin Co., for damages for personal injuries are being heard in the district court this afternoon and it is expected that the case will go to the jury before night.

He limped into a drug store as if he had been run over by a trolley car, and after looking all around in a vacant way he asked of the man behind the counter:

"Got any porus plasters?"

"Scores of them. What kind do you want?"

"Any kind, I guess. I was told I'd better buy one."

"Well, here it is. Fifteen cents, please."

The money was handed over and the rolled-up plaster pocketed, but still the customer lingered. The druggist spoke of the weather, the drop in meat and the big corn crop, but the man neither departed nor asked for anything else. When he had been there half an hour, and other customers had come and gone, the druggist enquired:

"There may be something else you are trying to think of?"

"Yes; I want to ask you something. I have bought a porus plaster."

"Yes."

"You forgot to tell me whether I must take the durned thin in milk or water!"

Are what we lecture on this evening. It is time to discard that old diary of dead-beats and open a new ledger. There are some people in the world who are so fond of red that they carry their balances in that color, and a yearling ledger gets to look like a lithograph of two colors delineating the wonderful accomplishments of Opie Diddock.

Get a new set of books today and separate the red from the black and charge the cardinal colored up to experience.

You can't put Happiness into an empty pocketbook.

Money makes the mare go. The automobile makes the money go.

When a man hasn't anything else to swallow he is expected to swallow his pride.

Some men's memory is written in water, and some others' memory is written in fire-water.

A joke is never so much of a joke as it seems to the man who can't make anybody else see the point.

Charity has covered such a multitude of sins that most of us forget that it can be used for any other purpose.

A man may have more money than he knows what to do with but not more than his wife knows what to do with.

What is Graft?

"William," said Mrs. Bilkins as they sat at the family fireside the other evening, "the newspapers are full of the word 'graft,' and I have long been going to ask you just what it meant."

"Um!" replied Mr. Bilkins without looking up.

"It isn't highway robbery, is it?"

"No."

"Is it anything like arson?"

"Not at all."

"Nor pocket-picking?"

"No."

"Then is it a sort of embezzlement?"

"Yes, more like that."

"But why don't you go on and explain it to me?"

"Well it's like this," said Mr. Bilkins as he roused himself and prepare dto dodge the book in her hand if it came his way. "You hire a cook."

"Yes."

"You tell me that her wages are five dollars per week."

No reply.

"I shell out a 'V' every week to square up."

"After a year I drop on to the fact that she is working for four per, and you are putting the other one in your pocket. That is graft! I am being grafted at the rate of $52 per year."

Mr. Bilkins thought he had her there, but she placidly replied:

"And what becomes of the two dollars a week that you borrow of me, and never a cent do you pay back?"

The Lady—Well, did he hurt himself?

The Boy—I did and that's why I'm crying now.

ADDITIONAL BOND ISSUE IS VOTED

PROPOSITION FOR $25,000 MORE FOR PAVING CARRIED, 243 TO 10.

CITIZENS ARE PLEASED

Total of $60,000 Available If the Four and a Half Per Cent Bonds Can Be Sold.

As a result of the election held in this city yesterday, Wichita Falls will have an additional $25,000 for paving purposes. A total of 253 votes were polled of which there were 243 for the proposition to 10 against.

This amount will give the city a total of $42,500 available for paving and storm sewers, as well as an additional $17,500, provided the four and a half per cent bonds, voted some time ago can be negotiated.

The result of yesterday's election is very gratifying to those who have taken an interest in this matter, and while it was conceded that there would be little opposition to the proposed issue, it was hardly anticipated that the result would be so near unanimous.

The bonds will be issued and placed on the market at the earliest possible date and it is announced that the preliminary work incident to paving the business streets will be rushed as fast as conditions will admit.

RENT HOUSES ARE MUCH IN DEMAND

That a lack of a sufficient number of rent houses exists in this city, is now apparent to many citizens and very painfully so, to the hundreds of people who need them. In order to verify this fact, it is only necessary to consult the various real estate and rental agents, whose officers are daily being swarmed with applicants for houses and a very large number of whom cannot be accommodated.

Business indications now point to the fact that ere many days an improvement campaign such as has never been seen here will be on and to conduct it properly hundreds of artisans must be employed, but another fact remains—they and their families, under existing circumstances cannot be housed comfortably.

This, if not an emergency is at least a contingency that must be met and to meet it houses must be built by men who are able to make the investment and hurried action along that line should be taken.

That present and prospective rental rates justify such an expenditure of money, no one will question; and at these prices it will require one hundred or more new houses to meet the demand.
