COTTON HARVEST TIME—There were 2,000 acres planted to cotton in Ochiltree county this year, and the cotton harvest is well under way. Gordon and Weldon Wright are two cotton farmers in the county, and their field six miles southwest of Perryton is averaging about one-half bale per acre. In the picture, Weldon Wright and Charley Lile are shown shoveling cotton bolls into the truck while Gordon Wright is packing it down. In the bottom picture, Gordon Wright is shown stripping the cotton with a mechanical harvester. This is the first cotton grown here since 1926.

Ochiltree County's First Cotton Harvest 25 Years Under Way; Yields Are Good

Ochiltree county's first cotton harvest is well under way. The county has 2,000 acres planted to cotton this year, and the yields are averaging about one-half bale per acre. The cotton is being harvested now. The county farmers put in a good season.

This summer, the cotton became infested with weeds, which he harrowed out. This summer, the cotton became infested with large green "tomato worms" and Gordon sprayed it with an insecticide. However, the sprayer had been used in spraying 2,4-D on weeds, and some of the residue was left in the sprayer. This resulted in a definite wilting of the cotton.

Andy's Electric Opening Set This Week

Grand opening of Andy's Electric in their newly remodeled building at 413 S. Main will be held Friday and Saturday, with many free prizes to be given to visitors on that day.

W. A. Revious, owner, said that the firm will give away a dressed turkey, a Lazy Susan, and three Philco Fire-King ovenware sets as door prizes during the two days.

With the opening, Revious is announcing his appointment as authorized Philco dealer for this area and will handle a complete line of Philco radios, refrigerators, ranges, home freezers and air conditioners, with complete service facilities on all appliances.

The firm will continue to do electrical contracting and carry a line of electrical fixtures, Revious said. The building, located next door south of the Perryton Motor Co., has been remodeled, with new fixtures and equipment. The public is cordially invited to attend the opening on Friday and Saturday.

Sixteen Teams Are Entered In Tournament

The second annual high school invitation basketball tournament will start Thursday afternoon, December 6, at the Perryton school gymnasium, with eight girls teams entered. The first postwar tournament was held last year, after lapse of many years due to inadequate gymnasium facilities.

The tournament will open at 6 p. m. Thursday, with four games to be played that night. There will be two games Friday morning, two games Friday afternoon and four games Friday night.

Two games will be played Saturday morning and afternoon, with four games Saturday night, including the finals in both divisions.

There are eight boys teams and eight girls teams entered. Trophies will be presented to the winners, runners-up, and consolation winners from both boys and girls teams.

Boys teams entered are Saratoga, Darrrouzett, Spearman, Perryton, Dalhart, Follett, Booker and Stinnett. Girls teams are Turpin, Darrrouzett, Spearman, Perryton, Dalhart, Follett, Booker and Stinnett.

Ten Men From Local Board to Go In December

The December draft call is for 10 men from Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hemphill and Hansford counties, served by local Board No. 99, reports Mrs. Norma G. Phelps, clerk. These men will be picked at the meeting of the board to be held this week.

There are 34 married men without children on the eligible 1-A list, and since many of these are older than single registrants, they will be included in the December physical examination call, Mrs. Phelps said. The men in the December call will be in the 23 and 22 year age groups, Mrs. Phelps added.

There will be two men inducted on December 11. Nine men were sent to Amarillo Tuesday for physical examination, with one man transferring to Boulder, Colorado for his physical.

The January draft call for Texas is 1,471 men, the biggest call since April. It is more than four times as large as the December call of 362 men. The quota for the local board has not been received for January.

Waka Father and Son Banquet to Be December 6

The annual Father and Son banquet of the Waka community will be held on Thursday night, Dec. 6, at the Waka Church of the Brethren, with Rev. Lyle Albright of Pampa as the principal speaker.

Music will be furnished by the quartet composed of Rufus Bolerjack, Troy Bolerjack, Paul Tucker and Kenneth Herndon, with Frank Herndon as accompanist.

The banquet, which will start at 6:30 p. m., is not limited to fathers and sons, but every man and boy in the community is invited, stated Rev. Alvin Klotz of the Waka church. Tickets are on sale and may be secured from Rev. Klotz, Harold Simpson at Farnsworth or at the Waka Equity elevator.

Roy Leicht and Walt Elledge are the committee making arrangements for the affair.

Christmas Lights Are Still Missing

Has anyone seen four strands of Christmas lights—the kind that are used to stretch across Main street for Yuletide decorations? If so, Lee Little, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, would really like to know about them. The lights were stored at the county barn after being taken down last year, and someone borrowed them during the year. The question is who borrowed the lights, since Little has asked every civic club and organization in town and no one seems to know anything about them. These lights are needed to complete the Main street decorations.

Tickets to Dies Speech to be Mailed Dec. 1

Tickets will be mailed out Saturday to all members of the Chamber of Commerce for the Martin Dies speech on December 13. The tickets are free to Chamber of Commerce members and the public, and may be secured for the asking.

Installation of the new Chamber of Commerce officers will be held prior to the speech by Dies, which will be at the school auditorium on Thursday night, Dec. 13.

Dies, former chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee of Congress, is widely known as a speaker and has gained wide renown for his fight against Communism.

Officers Named Wednesday In PMA Election

Ochiltree county farmers returned the same county PMA committee to office in the annual election held last week. With 268 ballots turned in, 52 per cent of the eligible voters, the final results saw Herman Hargrove, Homer Gurley and E. N. Flathers returned to office. Hargrove was re-elected county PMA chairman.

First alternate is J. H. Latham and C. H. Williams is second alternate.

Community PMA officers were named as follows:

Community A: Chairman, Fred Smith; member, Leon Shrader; first alternate, Robert Holt; and second alternate, W. E. Brown.

Community B: Chairman, Cecil Tevis; vice chairman, Harry Reimer; member, Jack Williams; first alternate, Roy Hogland; second alternate, Roy Gheen.

Community C: Chairman, Leonard Littau; vice chairman, J. D. Wright; member, Walter LaMaster; first alternate, Woodrow Brillhart; second alternate, Jerry S. Slaughter.

Delegates to the county convention were Travis Flowers, community C; Charlie Jewell, community B; and O. C. Rogers, community A.

Wheat Sowing Totals 305,000 Acres In County

There will be an estimated 305,000 acres of wheat sowed in Ochiltree county this year, according to the local PMA office. This is about the same acreage that was sowed in 1950, in spite of the tremendous increase in grain sorghum acreage this year.

The 1951 wheat crop yielded an estimated 1,000,000 bushels, although well over half of the seeded wheat acreage was lost to drought and insects before harvest time.

There has been more late planting of wheat this year than in recent years because of the summer drought.

Many fields of wheat are being planted in grain sorghum stubble, with farmers gambling on abundant moisture this winter to make a crop, according to PMA secretary Elliott Lee.

There are 384,000 acres of crop. See No. 1, Page 6

Man Loses Life Monday In Early Morning Hotel Fire

Smart Porker and Friend

Heavy Smoke From Mattress Causes Death

A fire in his room at the Glasgow Hotel early Monday morning brought death to Robert L. Barlow, Jr., 31, who had lived at the hotel since August. Death was attributed to suffocation from the heavy smoke when the mattress on which he was sleeping caught fire.

The fire was discovered at approximately 3:30 a. m. Monday by residents of the upstairs rooms in the hotel. Mrs. Emma Glasgow, who lived downstairs across the hall from Barlow's room, said she didn't smell the smoke until alerted by the other occupants.

The fire alarm was turned in and the firemen discovered Barlow's body near the door of the smoke-filled room. The mattress burst into flame when the door was opened, and was taken outside. The room was not damaged by fire, but there was considerable smoke damage.

The fire apparently was started from a lighted cigarette, since there was no stove burning in the room.

Barlow had worked on the Trew ranch south of town and was employed at the Anderson Shoe Shop at the time of his death. He is survived by his step-mother, Mrs. Robert Barlow, Sr., at Chillicothe.

Funeral services were held at Chillicothe Wednesday.

Santa Claus Letters Are Being Received

Youngsters of the Perryton area have started sending their Santa Claus letters to the Herald, and all letters will be printed in the issue of December 13, in plenty of time for Santa to fill orders before Christmas. Every child in the area is invited to write a letter to Santa. The letters should be written early and addressed to Santa Claus in care of the Ochiltree County Herald, Perryton, Texas.

Farmer Solves Mystery of Growing Pig, Contented Cow

"This little piggy went to market, this little piggy stayed home."

But this little piggy, to paraphrase the old nursery rhyme, found a better milk supply and got twice as big as his brothers and sisters.

The pig and the cow shown above belong to Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Jines. Some time ago, Jines sold the calf of this Jersey Cow, along with some calves of other cows in his herd. The other cows would always start bawling about milking time, but this one never uttered a sound.

Besides that, when she came to the lot, it always appeared that some one had milked her ahead of time.

About the same time, Jines noticed that one of the pigs in a litter was growing by leaps and bounds. In fact, this porker was about twice as big as his brothers and sisters in the litter.

Jines started investigating. One afternoon, the Jersey cow came to the lot and the pig trotted over and started dining. No question about it, he had done this before. Then Jines noticed that when this smart porker got hungry during the day, he would go out into the pasture and look up his Jersey cow friend, who never seemed to mind him.

This relationship was so remarkable that Jines got out his camera and took this picture for proof of his tale.

It does seem a pity that a pig this smart should have to end up as meat on the table. But it's his own fault if he's ready for butchering before the rest of the litter. He's too smart for his own good.

Scout Troops to Rehearse Carols

All members of the Girl Scouts, Brownie Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Cub Scouts will meet for a mass rehearsal of Christmas carols on Monday, December 3, in the high school study hall.

The rehearsal, which will be in charge of Marvin Genuchi, is in preparation for the program to be held at the city park next month in connection with the Christmas Nativity Scene being prepared.

An adult will be in charge of all troops and dens and will be present for the rehearsal.

DRIVERS TRAINING

—They learn lots of things in school nowadays, and learning how to drive an automobile is one of them. Troy Sullivan teaches two classes in driver education and the students are able to pass the drivers license test when they get through. ABOVE are members of one of the classes. They are, left to right, Joe Harris, Larry Daniels, Lanny Madden, Sullivan, Mareta Pittman, Joyce Anderson, George May, Jerry Waller and Jimmy Sims. BELOW—Joe Harris drives the car through an obstacle course while the rest of the class looks on.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY

(P) Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Congressional Record has published a list of individuals registered as lobbyists during the third quarter of 1951. Among several score named are seven Texans.

The registration act requires that all persons who attempt to influence, directly or indirectly, the passage or defeat of legislation must file a statement with the clerk of the House of Representatives. They must show their business connections and salaries or fees received.

The constitutionality of the act has been challenged by the National Association of Manufacturers. A special three-judge federal court panel is expected soon to rule on the issue; their decision undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court, so it may be many months yet before the question is settled.

The Texans who filed statements with the House clerk for the July, August, and September period are:

David G. Gray, Humble Oil Co., Houston, received $1,500 during the quarter; Harold L. Kennedy, formerly of Palestine, Ohio Oil Co., $500 during the quarter; Fritz G. Lanham, former Fort Worth congressman, $1,000 from American Fair Trade Council, $1,500 from the National Patent Council, $2,500 from the State Tax Association (Houston), and $900 from the Trinity Improvement Association (Fort Worth); Dale Miller, formerly of Dallas, received $1,500 from the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, $1,500 from the Louisiana and Texas Intracoastal Canal Association, and $1,500 from Texas Gulf Sulphur; J. Veterans Forum

Q. About a year and a half ago, I filed a claim with VA for disability compensation. Circumstances that came up made it impossible for me to report for a physical examination, so I just dropped the whole matter. Now, I'd like to follow through on my claim. Is it too late?

A. It's too late to follow through on your original application, but you may file a new one. Since VA didn't hear from you within one year from the time you were ordered to report for an examination, it may not take action on your original application.

Q. I am drawing disability compensation from VA, and I expect to be recalled to active military duty in the near future. Will the VA payments continue? Even though I'll be in uniform?

A. No. VA compensation payments may not be made to persons receiving pay for active military service. Your compensation will be suspended while you're in service.

Q. May I still apply for my first National Service Life Insurance dividend—the one covering the period from the time I took the insurance to the anniversary date in 1948?

A. Yes, you still may apply. Write to the VA district office that has your NSLI records, giving your full name, present address, the number of your policy or policies, and your service serial numbers.

Q. Will VA pay for the medical care of my dependents?

A. No. Under existing laws, only veterans are eligible for medical care from VA.

Former Balko Resident Dies In California

Fred Buller, formerly of Balko, passed away on November 26 at his home in Woodlake, Calif., where he had lived for approximately four years. Funeral services will be held Saturday, December 1, at Woodlake.

Mr. Buller was born July 3, 1898 and was a pioneer resident of the Balko community.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Leroy Buller of Balko, four sisters, three brothers, two grandsons and a number of nieces and nephews.

The Phoenicians made wonderful goods and sold them throughout the world known at their time.

The inner area, designed in green and light tan glazed tile, holds the playing surface for three basketball courts, volleyball courts and tennis courts, plus 4,000 seats. Of the 4,000, approximately 1,600 are on roll-away bleachers on floor level. Eight tunneled passage ways lead to the upper section where approximately 2,400 more fans may be seated.

Reserved seats are in the upper section sides while general admission seats gain entrance to the upper section end zone and the floor level roll-aways.

Lazbuddy Nips Darrouzett

DARROUZETT—The Darrouzett Longhorns finished their successful football season on Thanksgiving Day by losing to Lazbuddy, 33-32, in the bi-district six-man football contest. Lazbuddy will play Knox City for the regional six-man title.

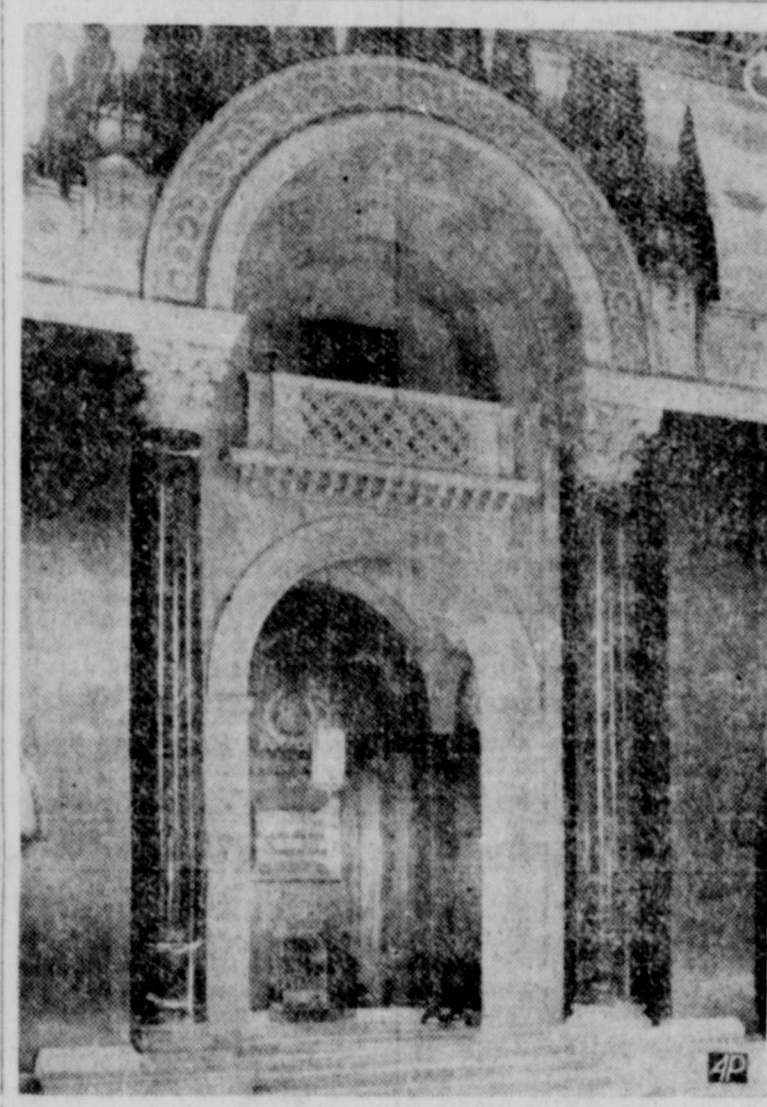

Both teams made five touchdowns, and the margin of victory came when Lazbuddy made three conversions and Darrouzett could make only two. Darrouzett had two touchdowns called back on rules infractions.

Coach A. C. Teter of Darrouzett said this was the best game of the year and that the teams were as evenly matched as the score indicated. The Longhorns finished the season with seven wins, two ties and one loss.

More Businesses Now Must Pay State Store Tax

A number of Perryton businessmen will now pay the state store license tax or face a penalty, according to a news release received by the Herald.

Some stores have paid the tax all along but an amendment passed by the Legislature recently added these types of businesses to that list: petroleum bulk stations, parking lots, garages, storage garages, gasoline filling stations, oil and gas supplies and equipment dealers, radio stations, retail dairies, wholesale and retail ice stations, plumbers and plumbing shops, lumber dealers, building material establishments, text book publishers, public utilities, wholesale and retail distributing points, restaurants, sandwich shops and other eating places.

The tax has been increased from $1.50 to $5.00 per year for the first store and from $6.50 to $10 per year for the second store. All applications for the 1952 license must be filed by December 31 or owners are subject to a penalty.

Roger Walton Returns to Local Firm

Roger Walton, recently manager of Boxwell Bros. properties in Spearman, has been transferred to Perryton where he will be manager of the floral shop and assist in the funeral home.

Walton had been manager here for several years and had moved to Spearman last year.

The change was made since the Boxwell hardware and furniture store in Spearman was recently sold to Russell Townsend of that city. Townsend had been an employee of the Dumas organization.

Alton Boxwell, said that the firm was building a funeral home and flower shop in Spearman. The new building will be located just north of the Hansford county hospital.

Mrs. Mabel Wilcox of Spearman will be in charge of the new flower shop and Townsend will handle all emergency calls of the funeral home.

Oil Activity Is Increasing In Beaver County

Leasing activity in Beaver county took on a decided spurt last week after drillstem tests were announced on a wildcat near Beaver which recovered 1,410 feet of free oil. The well is the Flynn Oil Co. No. 1 School land two miles north of Beaver. The Flynn well is the second Beaver county wildcat to strike pay in the last two months. Eighteen miles to the east the Pure No. 1 Albert is drilling below 8,800 feet after testing oil and gas shows from 6,025-7,092 feet.

Both wells may indicate new production for the northeast part of the county. At present the only other production is from the Light field in the northwest part of the county, which has three wells producing and one well drilling in its Oklahoma portion.

Of the four drillstem tests taken on the No. 1 School Land, only one failed to recover oil or gas. The test from 4705-35 feet found only 1360 feet of salt water. A one hour test from 4771-82 feet had gas to the surface in nine minutes, and recovery of 1410 feet of free oil with 990 feet of salt water. The third test, from 4788-96 feet, showed gas to surface in one hour and 40 minutes and had 350 feet of free oil and 120 feet of salt water in the drill stem.

Rancher Gets More Beef on Same Pasture

COLLEGE STATION — Clifton Wheeler, Jr., a McMullen county ranchman, has demonstrated that it pays to balance livestock numbers with range forage production. In 1949, with assistance from county agent L. E. Franks, Jr., Mr. Wheeler established a demonstration on his ranch to show the value of proper stocking rates along with other range management practices.

A 1,250 acre pasture was used. This pasture previously had been used to graze 100 head of grown cows. In 1949 these cows produced a 60 per cent calf crop and at weaning time the 60 calves weighed an average of 300 pounds each. The range vegetation was eaten to the ground and the mother cows were in poor condition.

In 1950 the number of cows on the pasture was reduced to 65 head. This increased the number of acres available for each cow from 12.5 to 19. The calf crop jumped from 60 to 95 per cent or 62 calves from the 65 cows. These calves averaged 425 pounds each at selling time and the gain in pounds of beef was more than 8,000.

In 1951 despite the serious drought, balancing livestock numbers and the available range forage again paid off. The number of cows on the pasture was increased to 74 head in order to lighten the load on other pastures but the calf crop still went to 88 per cent and the calves average 340 pounds each in June. This demonstration pasture despite the drought was rated fair.

Overstocking, says Wheeler, costs the ranchman in four ways: smaller calf crops, ruins the turf breeding cattle do not stay in good condition and the calves do not bring the top market prices.

A. H. Walker, Extension range specialist of Texas A. & M. College, points out another big advantage for balancing the livestock numbers with the available range forage and that is water penetration and absorption. He cites as an example another demonstration. Moisture penetration tests were made on two adjoining ranches following a two and one-half inch rain. On one of the ranches, range improvement practices including proper stocking and deferred grazing had been used and a good cover of grass and litter covered the ground. Moisture on this ranch penetrated to a depth of 15 inches. Just across the fence on the other ranch, Walker says the ground was practically bare of vegetation due to excessive grazing. Moisture penetration here amounted to only four inches. Most of the badly needed moisture was lost as runoff.

Walker adds that it is not good business to stock heavily during periods of above average rainfall following a drought. This heavy stocking prevents recovery of density and vigor of the range pasture. He says many ranchers practice running only about three-fourths the number of breeding animals they think their range will carry. In the good years they carry over the calves or lambs through the winter, and in bad years, such as this year, they sell in the fall.

By balancing livestock numbers with the available range forage supplies, Walker says ranchmen can go a long way toward removing one of the biggest range problems; namely, keeping a good cover of grass and litter on the ground at all times. This would result in more feed for the livestock, less damage from erosion, less winter feeding, better conditioned livestock, larger calf crops, more meat production and deeper

Sugar Beet Production

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—The possibility of increasing sugar beet acreage in Iowa is being explored by U. S. agricultural leaders.

T. N. Barlow, of the U. S. Production and Marketing Administration, said in Des Moines recently that experimental work to eliminate beet root rot is under way. He said it should be possible to boost Iowa's beet acreage to 10,000 acres.

Last year 2,472 acres of beets were grown in five counties.

Traffic Signal at 5th and Main Is Ruled Out

There is not enough traffic at the intersection of Main street and 5th avenue to warrant the installation of a traffic signal, city manager J. B. Whigham reported this week.

The city has taken a traffic count at the intersection during this week, and found that an average of 504 cars and 40 pedestrians pass through the intersection each hour.

To qualify for a red light, an intersection must have an average of 600 cars and 100 children during the opening and closing hours of school.

An average of 41 cars an hour travel through the intersection going from east to west; 94 from west to east; and 369 traveling north and south.

City officials had thought that a stop signal at the intersection would be a safety aid for school children who cross Main street each day.

Explorer Scouts Attend Council Meet at Borger

Nineteen Explorer Scouts and their advisor, Troy Sullivan, spent Wednesday in Borger attending the Vocational Guidance Conference sponsored by the Adobe Walls Area Council.

Purpose of the conference was to give young men an opportunity through panel discussions and tours to secure information on the opportunities and responsibilities of the job of their choice.

The boys toured 15 professional, business and industrial firms during the day.

Scouts from the Panhandle area were present for the all-day meeting.

Members of the First Methodist church will wrap Christmas packages on Friday evening, December 7, in the home of Mrs. H. D. Meadows.

The Guild sends toys and clothing every Christmas to two Orphans Homes, one in Kentucky and one in Texas.

Used toys may be sent to these homes as they are repaired in the workshops before being distributed to the children.

Anyone who has used toys that they wish to give to one of these Orphans Homes may be left at Meadows Electric or may be given to Mrs. Curt King.

MAN SIZED CATCH—A man-sized catch and a hungry pup add up to a big event in the life of three-year-old Stevie Wallace, son of Highway Patrolman and Mrs. Raymond Wallace of Cuero, Tex. Stevie caught the large bass in the waters of Cuero Municipal Park Lake. (AP)

You, Too?

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hey, if you bite your nails, you may be maladjusted. While it's just a bad habit like smoking or chewing gum, psychologists have also discovered that:

1. There are more nail-biters among maladjusted groups, like juvenile delinquents.

2. Nail-biting tends to be "in-punitive," meaning they do it to punish themselves, particularly when frustrated or angry.

3. One out of five biters is a young person.

Dr. James C. Coleman, assistant professor of psychology on the UCLA campus, has discovered these tendencies in his research. He has written a book adopted by the U. S. Army for training in psychology. One cure for nail-biting is vigorous exercise, he says.

Korean Kids Study

PUSAN, South Korea (AP)—More than three million South Korean youngsters are continuing their schooling despite the war in Korea, the South Korean government has announced.

Of the total, at least 2,500,000 are going to primary schools. Most of the classes are held in tents and barracks.

Bad Movie Weather

REGINA, Sask. (AP)—The weather is poor in Western Canada for making motion pictures in the opinion of two Danish movie men.

"Sunny Alberta isn't sunny. Dry Saskatchewan isn't dry and beautiful British Columbia is foggy," Palle Bojesen of Copenhagen, film producer for the Danish Film Board, lamented.

Mr. Bojesen, and Erik Olsen, cameraman, are making a one-hour color film called "Canada, Sea to Sea."

The pair had been in Canada seven weeks and had poor picture-making weather since they arrived in the West.

Poll Tax Payments Running Very Weak

Everyone knows that 1952 will be a heavy election year, with not only the state and county primaries, but the November presidential election to be held, but Ochiltree county will have a weak voice in determining candidates if the present sale of poll taxes are any indication. As of this week only 653 poll taxes had been paid, although well over 60 per cent of the state and county taxes have been paid. The poll taxes are not included on the state and county tax statements and there are many people who think they have paid a poll tax when they really haven't. The poll taxes must be paid separately.

Kelly Heads Cast In New Musical 'American In Paris'

Music of George Gershwin provides the melodic background for "An American in Paris," which stars Gene Kelly, outstanding cast of the Technicolor picture which comes to the screen on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

of Paris, with all its romance and gaiety, is one of the stars of this picture, along with French ballet dancer, piano-playing Oscar, singing Georges, and Nina Foch. They all are in the story of Jerry, happy-go-lucky ex-GI, who came out of the war in Paris after a precarious existence in a Paris famous Left Bank of some day becoming a famous painter.

of an artistic career brings about a number of complications for Jerry (Gene Kelly) complication number one being the amiable, very rich and predatory American girl, Milo Roberts, who is determined to make Jerry her protegee. Complication number two comes in the person of a captivating French perfume salesgirl, Lise (Leslie Caron) with whom Jerry falls in love.

Since it is impossible to remain in Paris very long and be unhappy, the various plot dilemmas are resolved in the picture's final sequence which takes place against a striking and colorful Art Students ball.

No Sure Remedy Has Been Found For Common Cold

AUSTIN, Texas—"At this time of the year health officers and practicing physicians always expect an increase in the common cold," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, reminds residents of Texas. "Although good personal hygiene—adequate sleep, suitable clothing, moderate exercise and good nutrition—may help the individual to develop resistance to infections, colds frequently develop in spite of all normal precautions. The seasonal rise in colds and other respiratory diseases during the fall and winter months certainly suggests that the shift to cooler weather is partly responsible for their prevalence.

"The unhappy victim of a cold should make every effort to prevent spreading the infection to others. He can help by covering coughs and sneezes with a disposable paper handkerchief, by staying out of crowds and avoiding close contact with others—especially invalids, young children and old people. Evidence indicates that colds are readily transmitted from person to person.

"For his own sake the patient should rest as much as possible in order to help his body to fight the cold. If there is any fever it is advisable to go to bed and stay there. There is some question as to the effectiveness of the large quantities of water and fruit juices generally recommended in the past, but they can do no harm and may help to some extent.

"If a cold persists for several days the patient should by all means consult his family physician, especially if there is an accompanying fever. Although, as is generally known, there is no specific cure for the common cold the doctor can prescribe medicines that will afford safe relief. Consulting the physician is strongly advised, also, because a number of communicable diseases have early symptoms similar to those of the cold and only a doctor can decide whether the patient has a simple cold or some serious disease."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Fair and Square"

We've just had a political campaign with everything from a torchlight parade to a neck-and-neck ballot box race.

Rusty Robinson, with no campaign funds, planned his Election Eve speech for the Square. Slim McCormick, who owns the Palace movie house, was finishing up his campaign in Pioneer Hall.

Then it began to rain. Rusty's political career was fizzling out in the damp when Slim showed up to say that Robinson people could meet in his theatre—for nothing. "I want to beat Rusty," Slim said,

"but certainly not with rain!" From where I sit, you've got to give Slim credit for acting on his belief that everyone has a right to be heard—just as everyone has a right to his own opinions and tastes. Maybe you like hot coffee, for instance, when you "take a break." Well, my vote goes for a refreshing glass of beer. After all, we're lucky to be living in a free country where we can have our own preferences!

Woman Pirate Is Featured In New Lusty Drama

"Anne of the Indies" brings back to movies one of its lustiest and most popular subjects, the colorful and spectacular adventures of piracy on the high seas. For a change, the pirate in this tale is a beautiful woman, Jean Peters.

The picture comes to the Ellis on Sunday and Monday. Co-starring with Miss Peters is sword-brandishing Louis Jourdan and Debra Paget, along with Herbert Marshall, playing a rum-sodden doctor.

In the production, Miss Peters is cast as the ungenteel lady officially known as Captain Providence and in the pirate trade as "Anne of the Indies," a protegee of no less a personage than Blackbeard, the master pirate.

Whether she goes on being a lady pirate or falls in love with one of her employees and retires to a life of domestic bliss is a question to be resolved only by seeing the picture.

'Fugitive Lady' Is Story of Murder

A murder mystery, love story and the beauties of Rome are mixed up in "Fugitive Lady," the picture starring Eduardo Ciannelli and Janis Paige, which comes to the Pertex on Wednesday and Thursday.

The picture opens with the death of a wealthy Italian financier, Ciannelli, in a drunken automobile accident. From there the camera follows his lovely young widow, Janis Paige, as she attempts to reconstruct her love affair with her former sweetheart, played by Massimo Serato.

In a series of flashbacks, the story details the incidents leading up to the death of Ciannelli. A relentless insurance detective, Tony Centa, pursues each clue leading to murder until he feels certain he knows the identity of the killer, then he sets a trap.

The trap is sprung, the killer identified, and Miss Paige is made happy in the thrilling climax.

Playing Santa Teaches Junior How to Give

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
Newsfeatures Writer

Children, as well as parents, relatives and friends, are all Santas when they give gifts at Yuletide.

According to Prof. Emma D. Sheehy, specialist in psychology and early education at Columbia Teachers College, playing at being Santa is a very real thing for a child—as real as when he believes himself to be Hopalong Cassidy while playing cowboy. "A child's imagination is a precious thing and should be cherished and nurtured. Parents should try to make junior see that there is a little of Santa in each of us and act accordingly."

Unfortunately, says Prof. Sheehy, the child is more often on the receiving rather than on the giving end. Too often parents fail to teach him how to give so that he can experience that inner satisfaction one gets from giving.

What the child gives at Christmas, or any other time of the year, says Prof. Sheehy, need not be something valuable in terms of money. "I remember," she says, "when, during the last war, there was a scarcity of safety pins. My little daughter managed to get one and presented it to me Christmas morning all wrapped up in layer after layer of paper, and yards of ribbon. It was something she thought I needed and had gone to great lengths to get me one. It was more precious to me than any object she could have purchased in a store."

One thing to remember, says the professor, is that a child has a very short span of waiting. He can't be expected to buy a gift and hold off presenting it very long. Therefore parents should try to hold off junior's gifts until shortly before Christmas. Otherwise he will lose the "kick" or satisfaction he enjoys in the giving.

When taking junior to buy his gifts, try the neighborhood stores as much as possible. All too often such shopping tours leave mother, as well as junior, nervous and tense.

Junior may not always like the gifts he receives, says Prof. Sheehy, and it is up to the parents to prepare the gifts for such a reaction. Oftentimes he is too young to appreciate a gift some adult gives him because it was one the donor had never received as a child and which he felt should be given to junior. In this case, the donor should realize that the satisfaction he derives from purchasing and presenting the gift may not always be shared by junior. It is up to the parent to set such gifts aside for future enjoyment and development.

Above all, concludes Prof. Sheehy, do not deny junior the opportunity of carrying out gift-giving in his own way. If he is not willing to present the gift, don't push him to do so. In time, as he observes the customs practiced by the family, he will come to do willingly the things approved by the whole group.

Christian Science

7th and Colgate
Services 11 a. m. each Sunday
Public Cordially Invited

The fact that obedience to God's law gives man strength and power and is a denunciation of evil of any nature, is emphasized in the Lesson-Sermon to be read at Christian Science services this Sunday. The subject is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alchemy, Mesmerism and Hypnotism. Denounced."

The Golden Text is from Proverbs: "Do they not err that devise evil? but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good."

Selections to be read from the Bible will include the following: "Ye were sometimes darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light, providing what is acceptable unto the Lord" (Ephesians 5:8, 10).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include this from the textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If man is not victorious over the passions, they crush out happiness, health, and manhood. Here Christian Science is the sovereign panacea, giving strength to the weakness of mortal mind,—strength from the immortal and omnipotent Mind and lifting humanity above itself into purer desires, even into spiritual power and good-will to man" (p. 407).

To a young man who's walking on clouds

You're a little prouder of her than other girls you've known.

When you've a date with her, you take a bit more time picking out a tie. You stand a little taller when she's walking with you down the street.

There's something about her that brings out the finer feelings in you... something that makes you realize how wonderful women are.

Why not show her how you feel about her—by taking her to church this week?

There's not a girl in the world who wouldn't deeply appreciate and treasure the respect such an invitation implies.

And there isn't a surer foundation for a young couple falling in love than going to church together each week to renew and enrich their faith.

Let her know how you feel about her. Take her to church this week.

THE TEXAS POLL Majority of Texans Say Price Controls Not Working At All

AUSTIN, Texas—The great majority of Texans feel price controls are not working, and many of them say neither Congress nor the President are doing enough to control inflation. That is the gist of public opinion in this state as measured by a Texas Poll recently completed.

More people blame the Congressmen than Truman for failure to stem the tide of rising prices—something which may be considered by the state's lawmakers now back in Texas to amend fences and talk to the constituency.

Evidence to support the let-down feeling of the public is found in the latest figures of the government's Consumer Price Index, which continued marking an increase in the cost of living. The index has shown that it now takes nearly $1.07 to buy what $1.00 bought a year ago.

Texas Poll interviewers questioned a representative cross-section of adults to determine their evaluation of the efforts of the government to halt rising prices. The public was asked, "Judging by your experience in buying things in the last few weeks, how do you think price controls are working?"

As shown below, residents of the larger towns and cities are more critical of controls than are farmers, ranchers and residents of small towns and villages.

Village Medium Towns City All Farm & Small and Large

Working well 14% 9% 13% 12%
Working on some things, not on others 27 24 14 22

Not working
Don't know 52 55 67 58
Total 100% 100% 100% 100%

Very little difference was evident between the answers of people in the higher and lower economic levels.

The issue of what should be done to control prices has caused continued wrangling between President Truman and Congress. Before adjourning, Congress passed a revised price control bill which President Truman said he signed reluctantly, as better than none at all. To test opinion on this Congress-Truman tug of war, The Texas Poll asked this question:

"As you know, both President Truman and Congress have been trying to do something to keep prices from rising. Will you read all of these statements (on a card handed respondents), and tell me first which you think describes best what President Truman has been doing?"

"Now tell me which describes best what Congress has been doing."

The card which was handed to respondents listed these three statements:

"Trying to do everything possible to keep prices from rising."

"Under present conditions can do little to keep prices from rising."

"Not doing enough to keep prices from rising."

Results below indicate that the Texas public tends to give President Truman more of the credit, although most adults think neither one is doing

County or State Highways?

There has long been a demand, and a need, for both state highways and paved farm-to-market roads within counties, but the situation has now developed where the counties and state are bickering over which shall do the building.

In connection with this, Governor Allan Shivers told the County Judges and Commissioners Association in Corpus Christi recently some of the economic facts of life regarding highway construction. The state highway department is operating on a restricted budget now, with many miles of paved farm-to-market roads to maintain, main highways to build and maintain, with no increase in revenue.

When the state withdrew from the property tax field as a source of general revenue, it left the way open for counties to levy a tax with which to build roads within the counties. This has been done only in a few cases.

Said Governor Shivers: "I support the well-established principle that it is best for the state to build and maintain highways and roads from revenues collected at the state level. . . . Aside from the governmental principle involved, I have a most practical reason for my position."

"It would be foolish, if not utterly out of the question, to divert further revenues from the State Highway fund that is already inadequate to meet the obligations of even our primary system. I do not look upon the controversy over the financing of road construction in Texas as a game or a fight. To me, it is a problem of stretching available road revenues, federal, state and local, so as to cover the need and the demand as adequate as possible."

"The Highway Department now has the obligation of maintaining 14,000 miles of farm-to-market roads, roads that once were maintained by the counties. This adds a total of $6 millions a year to the maintenance costs of the state, while relieving the counties of the equivalent responsibility."

"In the construction of roads, the counties always will have a responsibility which must be met by the counties, under the supervision of county officials, with funds obtained at the county level. It is my experience that maximum efficiency results only when the same officials who do the spending also must levy the tax."

"In recognition of the counties' financial needs, the state has withdrawn from the real property tax field as a source of general revenue. The approximately $12 million a year given up by the state is now available to the counties for road purposes—provided the people want it."

Wolf Creek Philosopher

Can't Qualify for Political Chairman

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher gets off into national politics this week, which he's no authority on, but who is?)

Dear editor:
As you probably know, I'm not looking for a job, my trouble never has been finding a job so much as overlooking the ones already staring me in the face, but if I was there is one job I don't believe I'd care for.

That's being national chairman of the Democratic or the Republican party.

I noticed from the newspapers that turned up out here on my farm some weeks ago that both parties have been having a little trouble with their chairmen, bad health, bad judgment, bad publicity, one thing and another, but finding a new one ain't always an easy job.

For one thing, as I understand it in the light of the latest turn of events, the chairman shouldn't have had any dealings with the RFC or other government lending agencies or influence centers, and it seems like one of the hardest things on earth today is to find a man with enough prominence to head a party who ain't been calling on Washington for his company in one capacity or another.

The way it is, it takes a smart man to be national chairman, but a man who ain't found his way to the RFC these days, why there's some doubt about how smart he is. It's a problem too big for me to handle, but I wish to report that while we folks out here on Wolf Creek might not

From the SIDELINE with HAROLD HUDSON

The Chamber of Commerce retail merchants committee decided not to have any Christmas shopping season ballyhoo this year and have planned nothing outside of three visits of Santa Claus to downtown Perryton before Christmas. Last year, you'll remember, we had a parade featuring high school bands and a reindeer team with Santa Claus.

While this may or may not have been worth the effort, it seems that our neighboring cities think it is, while Perryton merchants apparently think it is not. We have seen newspaper promotions and have received a number of "news items" in the mail, promoting the Christmas parades, etc., at not only Amarillo, but Pampa, Liberal and Beaver. Liberal, for instance, is having a mammoth parade with high school bands from this area, and it is a well known axiom that wherever Junior goes with his band, mama and papa often follow with their shopping dollars.

measure up when it comes to smartness, we could fill the bill otherwise, in case anybody is looking for a national chairman from here, as our slate is clean, up to now, hasn't anybody out here applied for an RFC loan, tried to get a special allotment of steel, bought any surplus ships for re-sale to the government, handled any legal business worth selling to a partner for $150,000 on the installment plan, influenced anybody's secretary, given or received any free automobiles, even gotten a free hotel room. We got a perfect background for a national chairman from the clean slate standpoint, but when it comes to being smart, I ain't sure.

Why even most cities in the country have an in on some kind of a junket to Washington for loans for highways or dredging out a river or building a ship channel or controlling high water or building an airport, we folks out here have sort of let things slide. You might say we have been sitting on our haunches, and you can see there ain't much likelihood of anybody coming out here looking for an astute chairman of anything. Try Dallas or Fort Worth or Houston or Philadelphia or Kansas City.

Yours faithfully,

especially the college variety, is coming in for more and more talk, although it is our private opinion that nothing will be changed even after the NCAA meets this winter. Among the most common suggestions to get football back into proper perspective as a college sport are (1) Eliminate spring training (2) Eliminate the two platoon system (3) Cut out bowl games and return the sport to college campuses only.

While these suggestions may do the job, we would like to add some more that are more important, in our opinion. Our suggestions are (1) Eliminate the Minneapolis betting center which posts odds on all games (2) Cut out the national ranking of teams by the AP, UP, INS, Deke Houlgate, Williamson, etc. (6) Quit compiling individual statistics on yards-per-carry, total offense, etc., of the backs.

Actually, the bowl situation has long been strictly a money making proposition, both for the schools and the promoters. Bowl games do not determine the best team in the nation, but they do fill the coffers of the participants. Bowl teams have an extended practice season and the members are restricted in their participation in other winter sports.

The posting of individual statistics has become somewhat of a farce, with each player having a record of his total offense, yards per carry, etc., and it has progressed to such a point that these statistics are muddled over just about as much as a professional baseball player's batting and fielding average. We read the other night in Sport magazine an article about the University of Washington, in which the Huskies were ahead late in one game, when in came the word to let the other team score.

Reason for letting the other team score was to allow Washington to get the ball and give star passer Don Heinrich a chance to throw one more pass, which would put him out in front of the conference in pass offense. After Heinrich had completed his pass, in came word to let McElhenney run, since he needed another six yards to top the rushing record last year. This is carrying things a bit too far.

We doubt if it could be done, but shutting down the official betting odds center would do a lot toward stifling the howls of those who bet and lost by giving too many points. These are the guys who get after the coaches, and pour it on the teams.

O. B. Ellis, manager of the Texas Prison System, told a group in Austin the other day that taxpayers will go bankrupt trying to provide enough jails if something isn't done to curb crime. He says that people nowadays have too much leisure time and commit crime while off the job. "In olden times, people worked from sun-up to sundown and did not get to play. But today, with a 40-hour week, there is a lot of time between work and sleep," he declared.

This is a disillusionment for us. We have always thought that a 40-hour week would be just dandy, but if it means that we might get into crime and lay some time in jail, we'll just continue with a 60-hour week and be glad of it.

a certain Texas region, who encountered a native who handed him a jug and said, "Take a swig of this."

The traveler demurred, and the Texan, whipping out a pistol, muttered, "Listen stranger, when I ask a man to drink, he drinks."

"The tourist drank, tears came into his eyes, his breath left him, and the Texan, satisfied, handed over his pistol. "Now, pardner," he said, "pint the gun at me and make me take a drink."

GAS

The Economy Fuel

28 million women use gas stoves for cooking in this country. There are two excellent reasons for the gas range being the most popular of all cooking appliances.

1. Cheap installation cost
2. Cheap operating cost

There aren't many ways of practicing economy during this inflationary period, but using gas for fuel is one of them. Gas—The Economy Fuel, is the cheapest available.

You can do it better and cheaper with gas.

Public Service

Corporation of Texas

It gives you a lot to be thankful for

Let's suppose that this is you.

The car you're riding in, as you can see, is a Buick.

But what you can't see is the satisfaction which being behind that wheel brings to every day in the year.

Take the feel of it—the way it goes into action when you nudge the gas treadle. Quick. Eager. Willing. No effort at all. You just swoop up to the miles per hour you want.

That's because there's a high-powered, high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball Engine under the hood that makes every drop of gas do extra duty. And it's because there's a Dynaflo Drive,* feeding that power back to the rear wheels as smoothly as cream flows from a pitcher.

Take the way it sits the road. Balanced. Poised. Sure-footed. Snug.

That's because of a long list of things that Buick engineers have done to its ride—including a torque-tube keel that keeps rear wheels tracking true—and soft coil springs that individually cushion each wheel.

Take the way it steers. Easy. Light. Firm. On a straightaway—or coming out of a curve—it seems to know what you want it to do.

That's because of something the engineers call "front-end geometry"—and because 60 steel balls roll in their own little race track to ease each turn of the wheel.

Take its room, its comfort, its smart good looks—and its price.

Any way you size it up, here's a car to make you thankful for your good judgment in picking it, against the field.

All that is needed to complete this picture is you at the wheel of a flesh-and-blood Buick—out on the road for a sample of what we've been talking about.

That's easy to arrange. Just give us a call, and we'll do the rest.

The Editor
Ochiltree County Herald,

Dear Sir:

We of this community are, I am sure, concerned with the welfare of the United States. But too often we leave to somebody else the burden of expressing that concern in a positive manner. A short time ago, Mr. J. Evetts Haley spoke out against federal financing of the Canadian River Dam. The response was a deafening chorus of official protest against his views, a chorus remarkable for the lack of local voices. I wish to review the subject.

The proponents of federal financing of the Canadian River Dam base their case on the following arguments:

(1) The dam is vital to the future growth of this community.

(2) The problem of financing is one that cannot be solved without federal help.

(3) The plans call, not for an outright gift of federal funds, but for a 50-year loan to be repaid by the users of the water.

I will grant that a dependable water supply is vital to the future growth of the West Texas community. But I am not convinced that the Canadian River Dam is the proper solution or the only solution to the problem. Instead of looking at this thing from the standpoint of what we can get by whatever means, let's look at it with an eye to what we can get by proper methods, and by "proper" methods, I mean methods which will not bring upon us something worse than the problem we are trying to solve.

The Constitution of the United States says "Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States."

To my way of thinking, this cannot be construed as giving authority to Congress to lay and collect taxes for the purpose of making a 50-year loan to West Texas in order that West Texas may gain an advantage over other communities in the competition for population and payrolls. If an advantage to West Texas in such competition is properly a matter of concern to Congress, then so also are a host of pet schemes of community boosters throughout the 48 states. I challenge the proponents of our particular scheme to estimate how much money the federal government would tie up if all such schemes were given blanket endorsement by Congress. I challenge them also to demonstrate that such a colossal financing of community projects would be in the real interest of the United States.

"I Must Be About My Father's Business"

WHEN Jesus was twelve years old, His parents went to Jerusalem after the custom of the feast. And as they returned, Jesus tarried behind; and Joseph and His mother knew not of it. But they, supposing Him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought Him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

And when they found Him not, they turned back to Jerusalem, seeking Him. And after three days they found Him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, hearing them, and asking questions. And all that heard Him were astonished at His understanding and answers. And when they saw Him, they were amazed; and His mother said to Him, "Son, why hast Thou thus dealt with us? Behold, Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing." And He said to them, "How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business?" And He went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but His mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

If such a wholesale financing of community projects cannot be proven to be in the real interest of the United States, then it must be contrary to that interest and we have no right to ask for it.

I have asked before, and I ask again, what sort of plans and cost estimates would be produced by West Texas engineers, and what West Texas response would there be to community financing? Has anyone tried to figure out what sort of water supply could be financed by revenue bonds? I want to know what West Texans think about this situation and I will appreciate it if officials of the Bureau of Reclamation, Congressmen of the United States, and other visiting firemen, will tone down their remarks so that the voices of West Texans may be heard.

I ask my neighbors to remember that the welfare of the United States is more important to our children than the Canadian River Dam. Can we reach into the grab-bag once again and hope at the same time to teach Constitutional government to our children? Can we give willing

Ochiltree Bond Sales During Drive $19,706.25

Ochiltree County's sales totaled $19,706.25 during the first U. S. Defense Bond drive, Nathan Adams of Dallas, state chairman, informed Van W. Stewart, local county chairman. The drive was held from Sept. 3 through Nov. 13.

Final figures showed that Series E bonds accounted for all sales. Sales of $27,778,453.25 in Texas during the drive were almost 50 per cent more than normal, Mr. Adams said.

"Normally sales for this period would have been about $18,000,000 or $19,000,000," he said, "and the fact that sales were so much higher is definite proof that the people of Texas are responding, as they always do, to the country's need in national emergencies."

The sales total for the state included $22,459,665.25 in Series E bonds and 5,318,788 in Series F and G. There were no state or county quotas, the "largest possible" sales. Mr. Adams expressed appreciation to the thousands of citizens who served as the drive, but urged them to continue their efforts.

"The need for bonds still exists," he said, "and our country engaged in preparation for the bonds form an important link in our de-

MRS. LeROY LaMASTER

Conley-LaMaster Marriage Vows Read In Home Ceremony

In an impressive home ceremony November 22, Miss Christine Carolyn Conley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audie Conley, Perryton, became the bride of LeRoy LaMaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, Perryton.

Dr. Lance Webb, pastor of University Park Methodist Church at Dallas, read the double-ring service at high noon in the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Jean Webb, pianist, played a prelude of nuptial selections.

Vows were exchanged before an improvised altar of greenery and white gladioli with seven branched candelabra at either side. The bride descended the stairway which was marked with arrangements of huckleberry and white gladioli. At the foot of the stairway was a large basket of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums.

The bride was attired in a candlelight satin wedding gown, designed with a deep illusion yoke outlined with a shirred lace fold of imported Chantilly lace that was scalloped onto the yoke giving a drop-shoulder effect. Seed pearls outlined the yoke. The fitted bodice fastened down the back with minute satin buttons and the voluminous skirt swept into a graceful train. She wore matching lace mitts and her finger-tip veil of imported illusion edged with Chantilly lace, fell from a halo of orange blossoms.

She carried a bouquet of white orchids and lily of the valley entwined with white malle. Mrs. Conley attended her daughter as matron-of-honor. Her gown was of autumn green satin designed with a portrait neckline and softly draped skirt. She wore a matching satin tiara and carried a brown satin orchid encircled with brown satin petals and green malle and brown streamers.

W. B. LaMaster, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Gary Conley, brother of the bride and Philip LaMaster, brother of the bridegroom were ushers.

Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, mother of the bridegroom, wore a tan crepe dress with green and blond accessories and a green orchid corsage. Mrs. C. S. Tandy, Sr., grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue dress with black accessories with an orchid corsage.

Mrs. LaMaster attended the University of Texas at Austin, Columbia University, New York City and the University of California, Berkeley, California. She has worked as a librarian in Akron, Ohio and New York City and the past year and a half has been a librarian in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Mr. LaMaster attended John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville, Texas Technological College at Lubbock and Texas College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville. He worked with the Farm Security Administration in the valley and Gulf coast areas prior to entering the navy where he served three and a half years. Since that time he has been associated with his father and brothers in farming in the Perryton vicinity.

After a short stay in New Orleans, the couple plans to sail for an extended visit to the South American countries.

Faithful Workers Class Entertains With Dinner

Members of the Faithful Workers Sunday School class of the First Baptist Church honored their husbands with a turkey dinner, November 20, in the banquet room of the church.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Henry Pshigoda and Mrs. J. R. Gunter.

The dinner tables were centered with arrangements of fruits and autumn leaves flanked by yellow candles.

Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Rickard, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pyle and Martha, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Manning, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Burton, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Buchanan, Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Curtis.

Booker Club Shows Progress During Year

BOOKER—The Booker Home Demonstration Club showed considerable progress during 1951, as brought out in the annual report of Mrs. F. S. Robertson, president of the club. There were nine members when the club year opened, and nine new members were added, making an increase of 100 per cent.

There were 14 regular meetings, three special REA meetings, and the members visited the Higgins club once. There were 26 guests during the year, of which nine became members.

There were two special programs—Visitors Day and Exchange Program. Sixty-five books were read by Booker club members and two covered dish dinners were held. A Christmas party is planned for members and their families instead of the regular December meeting.

Four dresses and one suit were exhibited at the Style Show with Mrs. Lowell Bowdle placing first and Mrs. Max Blau second. Members won 16 blue, 18 red and 12 white ribbons at the fair and Mrs. George Seibel received 15 ribbons and Mrs. Dan Conley received 12 ribbons.

The Booker HD booth placed third with an educational exhibit on "Insect Control."

Mrs. F. S. Robertson and Mrs. Max Blau attended the district THDA meeting at Dalhart and two members attended encampment. Seven members and one guest attended the Exchange Program at the Higgins Club. Two training meetings were attended by four members.

Mrs. Max Blau, assisted by Mrs. F. S. Robertson, put on a demonstration of "Etching Aluminum Trays" at the Waka Club in Ochiltree county.

The Booker club sponsored the Red Cross first aid course and nine certificates were awarded, three going to club members. Mrs. Max Blau, Mrs. George Seibel and Mrs. F. S. Robertson. One book review was held.

Seven chairs were upholstered, five pieces of furniture refinished and five name plates were made by members. Two members, Mrs. Vernie Weinert and Mrs. F. S. Robertson had their homes visited on the tour. The Luther Lehman home was also visited. Mrs. George Seibel, Mrs. Lowell Bowdle, Mrs. Cecil Fitzgerald and Mrs. F. S. Robertson, attended the tour.

The members of the Booker club have shown a lot of interest in the work the past year, especially the demonstrations on slip covers, upholstering and refinishing, floor covering, quick breads, insect control, variations of rolls and freezing breads, and furniture construction, that were given by the county agent, Mrs. Clyde Pugh.

G. S. Troop 7 Elects Officers

Jo Morris was elected president of Girl Scout Troop 7 at their meeting in the Scout club room at the First Christian Church, November 26.

Other officers are Wanda Graves, vice president; Louise Dragoun, secretary-treasurer; captain and co-captain of patrol, Beverley Turner and Joylynn Lovett; captain and co-captain of patrol 2, Colleen O'Quinn and Connie Slaughter and reporter, Beverley Turner.

The scouts and their leader enjoyed a hike and camping trip to the Canadian river on November 23.

Beverley Turner and Barbara Ferguson served refreshments to Mrs. J. H. Woodward, leader and to Joylynn Lovett, Louise Dragoun, Billie Black, Connie Slaughter, Wanda Graves, Colleen O'Quinn and Jo Morris.

CARD OF THANKS

THE TEXAS POLL Wets Gaining Ground In Texas Although Drys In Majority

AUSTIN, Texas—Wet-dry sentiment continues to split Texas in almost even halves. The prohibitionists still hold a majority, but a very narrow one, and the trend is against them.

Fifty-one per cent of the qualified voters of the state today say they would vote for banning the sale of liquor, according to the latest Texas Poll. Last year 54 per cent voted dry in a similar statewide survey. In 1949 the Poll found 56 per cent favoring prohibition, the highest dry sentiment during the eleven years that these measurements have been made.

Prohibition is one issue on which Texans have their minds well made up. Only 1 per cent of the voters interviewed would not express an opinion, a remarkable finding in any public opinion poll.

Since 1940, The Texas Poll has charted opinion on this, one of the state's most controversial issues. Periodically, Texas Poll interviewers have asked this same question of a representative cross section of qualified voters in all parts of the state:

"If the question of prohibiting the sale of liquor in Texas came up again, would you vote wet or dry?"

The table below shows from the latest survey compared with answers to five prior surveys and the 1935 repeal election:

	Dry	Wet
1935 election	46%	54%
1940 Texas Poll	47	53
1942 Texas Poll	49	51
1946 Texas Poll	49	51
1949 Texas Poll	56	44
1950 Texas Poll	54	46
1951 Texas Poll	51	49

The above percentages are based on only those voters who gave an opinion.

The greatest opposition to the sale of liquor is naturally found in those areas which are dry under the local system now in operation. Voters in dry sections are against selling liquor by about two to one. In the areas that are now wet, voters favor the sale of liquor by about three to two.

It is women who throw the total weight of statewide opinion into the dry side, although they, as well as the men, are now less favorable toward prohibition than a year ago.

A majority of women voters living in both presently wet and dry areas favor stopping the sale of liquor. But as the following figures show, it is only in the dry areas that a majority of men vote dry:

	Wet Areas	Dry Areas
Women favoring prohibition	51%	72%
Men favoring prohibition	29%	62%

In an opinion survey such as this, every voter is "counted" because the "votes" are solicited at the door of the respondent, and a cross section of all voters is interviewed. In an actual election only those voters who actually take the trouble to vote are counted, and some groups of the population turn out to vote in greater proportions than others. Should the question of prohibition ever be submitted to Texas in an election again, with sentiment running as close as this series of surveys have indicated, the side with the largest proportion actually voting would have the best chance of winning, regardless of the feeling of the entire electorate.

Midget Jockeys Ride in Vietnam

SAIGON — American jockeys would have a tough time making the weight to ride in the horse races in Vietnam.

The little Vietnamese riders weigh between 56 and 84 pounds. They remind one of bouncing balls as they pilot their mounts around the grass-covered course at Saigon's Hippodrome de Phu Tho.

The French and Vietnamese like their races served up regularly even though their forces are busy in Northern Indochina in a war against the Communist Vietnamese.

Six races are run every Sunday. There's pari-mutuel betting run on the same system as that prevailing at racetracks in France.

There's a part-jumelle in every race. It's the French version of an American "daily double" wager. All you have to do to win is to pick the horses that finish first and second, in that order.

Saigon's racetrack once probably was a well-kept and pretty spot. But now its stands are badly in need of repair and some stretches of the track look like fringes of jungle foliage.

The Vietnamese and French soldiers on leave make up most of the track's patronage. Occasionally groups of Americans and other foreigners try their luck, but that's usually when they can't find anything else to do.

CHRYSLER DREAM CAR

Something new in passenger car design is Chrysler Corporation's K-310 European type sports sedan developed as an experimental companion to a powerful new Chrysler K-310 engine which produces 310 horsepower on ordinary premium grade gasoline without supercharging. Styled and designed by Chrysler engineers in the United States, the K-310 experimental car was built by Carrozzeria Ghia in Turin, Italy, on a chassis shipped to Europe by Chrysler. Built on a 125½-inch wheelbase, the car is only 59 inches high, with low sweeping lines and full head-room, with a low flat hood and large wire wheels. K. T. Keller, Chairman of the Board of Chrysler Corporation, said the K-310 sets "entirely new objectives to reach for" in passenger car development. Whether it will be produced for sale has not yet been decided.

Cold Weather Changes

and early winter part of the country the peepiest times After dragging the hot days of sweating and chilling alternate summer nose-diving nor- ness that sets in to out all vestige of days puts new

Part of you just reacts to the weather. Such as chattering, goose- sivers are part of ary or reflex ac- the cold wind doth smooth muscles of have their own the thermostat of when to turn up the cold air hits the smooth muscles ation of cold and up the pores, just down the windows starts getting in the house. That closing up of the pores is your shyer—you pull up tight all over. But down under that top skin, down where those hairs of the skin are bedded, the cold hasn't been felt so much and that skin hasn't pulled up tight yet. So you get bunches of skin around the pores, such bunches as are known by many names, goosebumps, gooseflesh, goosepimples or even goose-skin.

About that time the other muscles of the body, called the skeletal muscles, pull themselves up tight, too, with a sort of springy action, so that your teeth pull together but the muscles are springing so your teeth don't stay together, they rattle back and forth like a spring and you have the chatter of your teeth that is one of the signals of body chilling.

The message of chilling is carried to the blood stream and the cold blood hits the thermostat in the body, a little center in the brain. So the thermostat automatically steps up the heat of the body to counteract the chill. All of which happens real fast, of course, and your shivers, bumps, and toothchattering disappear.

The ability of the body to regulate its temperature is truly one of nature's wonders. But it usually requires a little help during this time of year, help in the way of suitable clothing. And that's where mama's hair turns grey.

How much clothing do children need when it's cold outside? That's a stickler. In the first place, a healthy youngster probably needs less clothing than a healthy adult. Mama would probably shiver if she went out in the same amount of clothing her child can wear with comfort. But, then, mama wouldn't be as active as that youngster of hers is.

The average child, playing outside, expends a great deal of energy. If the youngster is wearing too much clothing, the exertion may result in heavy perspiration which in turn chills the child. When the child comes in to shed his coats and sweaters and is sweating, he has had on EISENHOWER BIRTHPLACE—Texans center their attention on a "Texas for Eisenhower" sign at the birthplace of the general in Denison, Tex., after launching a non-partisan movement to get Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to announce for the presidential election. Robert L. Doss, Denison attorney (pointing to sign) made a radio speech starting the campaign.

19 YEARS OR UNDER — Little Nita Wilson (left), 4, and Tom Bouchier (right), 7, couldn't seem to convince three Junior Rodeo officials in Post, Texas, that they were old enough to enter the rodeo. too much clothing. But if he went outside for less active play, that same amount of clothing might have been all right. Which makes it a hit and miss deal, doesn't it? So you get into such general rules as that the clothing should be comfortable both as to fit and as to warmth according to the weather and to the activity of the child. Bedclothes are always a problem with small children, too. Even for sleeping, the needs of some children in the same family will vary greatly. One will

Waste from washing and blowing practically eliminated when you feed this New Granular Pay-U Mineral—for range animals

SCORES of stockmen who really know their business—both in sheep country and on cattle ranches—are discovering the new way of feeding the proper minerals. It's the improved granular form now put out by Pay-U Laboratories. Feeding this way has everywhere proven more satisfactory, and a good sight easier to handle.

Wind and water have little effect on this new granular form—it actually "stays put" right where you want it, and right where your animals can easily get it. Livestock consume this new granular form better, because it's more palatable than powder. And of course that means better results.

Try it. See for yourself how clean and easy it is to handle—economical and palatable in the feeding. Your Pay-U Dealer has it. Get some today.

Mrs. J. R. Stump

The traditional Thanksgiving turkey has taken on a glorious camouflage the past few days but all in all Thanksgiving day was enjoyed by everyone in the community with a dinner for relatives and friends, or a short trip over the holidays or just a quiet dinner at home.

The G. A. Burgers entertained with a Thanksgiving dinner in their home, Thursday. Places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Arlyn Huesinkveld and family of Ulysses, Kans., Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Gurley and family, I. S. Burger, Mrs. D. B. Stump and Maud Stump.

The Mart Wagner family spent Thanksgiving with his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wagner east of Perryton.

Mrs. Mae Newingham and Billie spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hines of Liberal, Kans.

Mr. and Mrs. David Burger and family enjoyed the holidays with her folks in Leeton, Mo.

Rev. and Mrs. Alvin Klotz had Thanksgiving dinner with her folks in Wiley, Colo. Jay and Jan returned home after spending a week with their grandparents while their parents attended a Regional Church meeting at McPherson, Kansas.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dunnihoo and family spent the holidays visiting relatives in Wichita and Piedmont, Kans.

Tommie Bishop was home from Canyon over the week end. On Thanksgiving day Tommie and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bishop enjoyed dinner in the home of

So the clothing needs of children do vary, radically. It takes a lot of a mother's time to figure out just what the needs of each of her children are. But when she realizes that each one may have different requirements at different times, the children will be happier and healthier in their winter clothing.

And there is need for a word of caution there, too. The child is not always by word a reliable gauge for his needs. Observation of the child is the best gauge because all youngsters have an inclination to follow the leader; if the "leader" is a robust, active youngster who can be carefully comfortable with very little clothing on even in the coldest weather, it can very easily have an effect upon your own less robust, less active youngster's idea of how much clothing he should wear.
